WORD OF THE DAY-(J. GORSUCH, dissenting): "Damnified" Thompson v. Clark, No. 20–659 (U.S. S. Ct 4/4/22)

HVFO: Improper sentencing as a habitual violent felony offender is cognizable under a rule 3.800(b) motion because the error affects the ultimate sanction imposed. When sentencing a defendant who qualifies as a habitual offender to a more lenient sentence than what the habitual offender statute requires, the judge has necessarily decided that a habitual offender sentence is not necessary. If the trial court does not impose a habitual violent offender sentence at the original sentencing, then a habitual violent offender sentence may not be imposed upon revocation of probation. Gloster v. State, 2D21-601 (4/1/22)

DUPLICATIVE JUDGMENT: A duplicative judgment of guilt entered upon revocation of probation for the same underlying crime is unauthorized when the defendant has previously been adjudicated guilty. Gloster v. State, 2D21-601 (4/1/22)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for not objecting to a photograph which had already been ruled inadmissible. The fact that the admission of the evidence was challenged on direct appeal does not preclude a 3.850 motion. The appellate opinion did not discuss the issue of the photograph, nor was ineffective assistance raised on appeal. Unless a direct appeal is affirmed with a written opinion that expressly addresses the issue of ineffective assistance of counsel, an affirmance on direct appeal should rarely, if ever, be treated as a procedural bar to a claim for ineffective assistance of counsel on a postconviction motion. Brown v. State, 2D21-2240 (4/1/22)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-SELF-REPRESENTATION: Where appellate counsel's brief failed to make any argument about whether the appellate court can review the denial of the right to self-representation following a guilty plea, the issue is waived. USA v. Williams, No. 18-13890 (11th Cir. 3/30/22)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201813890.pdf

SOVEREIGN CITIZEN: Sovereign citizens believe the United States Government is illegitimate and has drifted away from the true intent of the Constitution. These groups generally do not adhere to federal, state, or local laws and believe federal and state officials have no real authority. USA v. Williams, No. 18-13890 (11th Cir. 3/30/22)

self-representation under Faretta is structural error, and so requires reversal on direct appeal when the error is both preserved and not waived. A voluntary, subsequent guilty plea represents a break in the chain of events which has preceded it in the criminal process and operates as a waiver of claims of constitutional error that occurred prior to the plea. When a criminal defendant has solemnly admitted in open court that he is in fact guilty of the offense with which he is charged, he may not thereafter raise independent claims relating to the deprivation of constitutional rights that occurred prior to the entry of the guilty plea. A defendant's voluntary guilty plea waives a claim of structural error. USA v. Williams, No. 18-13890 (11th Cir. 3/30/22)

DEATH PENALTY-COMPETENCY: Hall v. Florida, establishing framework for analysis of intellectual competency to be executed, does not apply retroactively. The Florida Supreme Court's reversal of prior case law saying that it does has the effect of preventing the Defendant from having a hearing as to his competency, does not apply here because Defendant's death sentence had not been vacated. Thompson v. State, SC20-1847 (3/31/22)

LAW OF THE CASE DOCTRINE: The Law of the Case Doctrine requires that questions of law actually asserted on appeal must govern the case in the same course of the trial court through all subsequent stages of the proceedings. But the doctrine does not apply where there has been an intervening change of controlling law, such as here where the law regarding retroactivity of the standard for competency to be executed was changed. Thompson v. State, SC20-1847 (3/31/22)

COSTS: Court may not impose discretionary fines and costs without providing the statutory authority and an explanation as to what the costs represent. Mayhugh v. State, 1D21-825 (3/30/22)

POST-CONVICTION RELIEF: Court properly denied motion for postconviction relief upon finding the attorney's testimony that he had explained relevant offenses to the Defendant credible. A claim of ineffective assistance of counsel must establish both deficient performance and prejudice. Where Defendant had entered a plea, the prejudice prong requires showing a reasonable probability that, but for counsel's errors, the defendant would not have pleaded guilty and would have insisted on going to trial. A court should consider the totality of the circumstances surrounding the plea, including such factors as whether a particular defense was likely to succeed at trial, the colloquy between the defendant and the trial court at the time of the plea, and the difference between the sentence imposed under the plea and the maximum possible sentence the defendant faced at trial. Chambers v. State, 1D21-990 (3/30/22)

POST-CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claimant counsel was ineffective for failing to call a tire marks expert to support his claim that his vehicle hit the Victim's vehicle accidentally rather than intentionally. Motion must allege what testimony defense counsel could have elicited from witnesses and how defense counsel's failure to call, interview, or present the witnesses would have prejudiced the case. Identification of the specific expert is not necessary to establish a legally sufficient claim. Cooper v. State, 2D20-3721 (3/30/22)

FAILURE TO REGISTER-SEXUAL PREDATOR: §775.21(10)(a) (Register as a sexual predator) requires registration of one's phone number; §943.0435(4)(b) (Failure to register as a sexual offender) does not. Defendant who had never been designated a sexual predator is improperly convicted of failure to register as a sexual predator. "Patlan pleaded no contest to an offense he did not commit. He was not required to register as a sexual predator. . .because he is not and never has been designated as a sexual predator." Patlan v. State, 2D21-326 (3/30/22)

APPEAL-FUNDAMENTAL ERROR-FACTUAL BASIS: Defense counsel's stipulation to a factual basis without the State having articulated one and where factual basis does not exist, is fundamental error which may be raised on direct appeal. Where the record affirmatively demonstrates that a defendant has pleaded guilty or no contest to a crime he did not commit, fundamental error occurs. Patlan v. State, 2D21-326 (3/30/22)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE:

Defendant is entitled to an evidentiary hearing for postconviction relief based on recanted testimony, where a witness claimed that his trial testimony (that the Defendant was present with a "chopper" at the shooting) when in fact he wasn't there, and that the detectives had coerced him into testifying falsely. CONCESSION OF GUILT: Defendant who stabbed to death his girl friend/victim after she came home with an apparent hickey is not entitled to a new trial based on counsel's concession of guilt to manslaughter. For a structural Sixth Amendment violation to lie, a defendant must make his intention to maintain innocence clear to his counsel, and counsel must override that expressed objective by conceding guilt despite the client's intransigent and unambiguous objection to this strategy. Recalde v. State, 3D108-.1981 (3/30/22)

CONCESSION OF GUILT: In juvenile trial, counsel is ineffective on the face of the record for conceding that the battery counts could be enhanced to felony battery based on prior adjudications of delinquency for battery. For purposes of juvenile delinquency proceedings, an adjudication of delinquency is not deemed a conviction, so a prior adjudication of delinquency for battery cannot be used to enhance a new battery case to felony battery. Counsel was ineffective for stipulating that Child was guilty of felony battery because of his prior adjudication of delinquency for battery. T.E.B., a Child v. State, 4D20- 2699 (3/30/22)

BEST EVIDENCE RULE: The Best Evidence Rule requires that an original writing, recording, or photograph is required in order to prove the contents of the writing, recording, or photograph. Witnesses may not testify about the events they saw the video recording without the recording itself being admitted. A witness's in court description of actions depicted in the video recording is content based testimony that violates the best evidence rule when offered to prove the crime without introduction of the video itself. DEPORTATION-MARIJUANA: Defendant convicted of possession of marijuana is eligible for cancellation of removal. A petitioner is eligible for discretionary cancellation of removal if he has resided continuously in the United States for at least seven years after having been admitted for permanent residence for at least five years and has not been convicted of an aggravated felony. Possession of marijuana under Florida law is not an aggravated felony because it is broader than the federal statute; §893.02(3) which includes all parts of the marijuana plant) but the federal definition of marijuana does not include the mature stalks of the marijuana plant or fiber produced from them. This is a significant divergence, and on its own, is sufficient to establish a realistic probability of broader prosecution under Florida law. Said v. RULES-AMENDMENT-SCORESHEET: Scoresheet is modified to provide that the maximum sentence for each individual felony offense is up to the statutory maximum for the primary and any additional offenses as provided unless the lowest permissible sentence under the Code listed above exceeds the statutory maximum for that offense. If the lowest permissible sentence exceeds the statutory maximum for an individual felony offense, the lowest permissible sentence replaces the statutory maximum and must be imposed for that offense. Such sentences for multiple felony offenses may be imposed concurrently or consecutively. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.992 No. SC21-891 (3/24/22)

INCONSISTENT VERDICT: Defendant may be found guilty of aggravated assault and second-degree murder for his role in a robbery homicide where jury found that the Defendant did not possess a firearm. Factually inconsistent verdicts are permissible so long as acquittal on one count acquittal on one count would not negate a necessary element for conviction of another count. Defendant need not possess the firearm (which was pointed at the head of the surviving victim) to be guilty of aggravated assault as a principal. Hollings v. State, 1D20-128 (3/23/22)

PLEA AGREEMENT: Plea agreement which requires Defendant to serve 18 months in prison after probation, which is later terminated, is enforceable. ILLEGAL SENTENCE: Defendant may not challenge on a successive motion to correct illegal sentence where there is no manifest injustice. There is no manifest injustice for sentencing Defendant to in excess of one year after he completed Boot Camp (the version of the statute limited incarceration for a violation to one year for one who had completed Boot Camp) where he is sentenced with similar terms in a related case. ZOOM-TRIAL-CONFRONTATION: Court violated Child's right to confront witnesses by holding his adjudicatory hearing by Zoom without allowing the child a hearing on his objection and without making a case-specific finding of necessity to limit confrontation rights. T.H. v. State, 2D20-3217 (3/18/22)

DUE PROCESS (DISSENT): "[J]uveniles' rights can be limited or abrogated categorically as long as the proceeding is fundamentally fair and there is a sufficient necessity to justify the limitation. T.H. v. State, 2D20-3217 (3/18/22)

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Defendant is entitled to withdraw her plea due to manifest injustice where court failed to advise her of her right to appointed counsel before she pled at a virtual mass arraignment. A waiver of one's right to counsel must be a knowing, intelligent, and voluntary relinquishment of a known right. Court's admonishment to the group at the mass arraignment that they would have the ability to "speak with an attorney" if they pled not guilty could have incorrectly led Defendant to believe she was only entitled to counsel if she entered a not guilty plea. MANIFEST INJUSTICE: Requiring Defendant to admit or deny the pending charges without first appointing counsel or securing an informed waiver of her right to counsel it is fundamental error and manifest injustice. If the waiver of counsel is invalid as a matter of law, it follows that the guilty plea entered without advice of counsel should also be deemed involuntary as a matter of law. Robles v. State, 2D21-714 (3/18/22)

CONFLICT OF INTEREST: Court erred in denying public defender's motion to withdraw based on a conflict of interest where Defendant had joined a lawsuit in federal court (later dismissed) against the Public Defender for allowing sensitive personal information and compromised confidential case files to be breached via computer hack. An actual conflict of interest existed between the public defender's office and Defendant because they had become adversaries in the federal lawsuit. "A federal lawsuit pitting the defendant against his attorney certainly suggests divided loyalties." Gordineer v. State, 2D21-2844 (3/18/22)

SENTENCING-SPLIT SENTENCE-VOP: By imposing a true split sentence, the original sentencing judge predetermined the sanction that Defendant would incur upon violation of her community control. Where Defendant is given a true split sentence (5 years in prison suspended upon completion of 2 years of community control), violates, is committed to DOC for 5 years but under the Youthful Offender basic training program then released on probation, which she violates, the Court may not thereupon sentence her to 11 years in prison Dalton v. POST-CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on a claim that counsel's ineffective for allowing his recorded interview to law enforcement to be played without including the exculpatory portions of it. Howard v. State, 5D21-2118 (3/18/22)

BELATED APPEAL: Trial judge is appointed as commissioner of the Court to conduct an evidentiary hearing as to whether Defendant requested an appeal. Fact-finding is necessary where there is a good faith dispute as to whether Defendant requested her attorney to file an appeal. "This Court has not yet determined whether an assertion that counsel cannot recall a client requesting an appeal, without more, is sufficient to create a disputed issue of fact." Hastings v. State, 5D22-76 (3/18/22) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/832683/opinion/220076_NOND_03182022_083551_i.pdf

BELATED APPEAL (DISSENT): "In my view, counsel's response that he did not recall Hastings' request that he file an appeal is insufficient to specifically dispute her sworn affidavit to the contrary and, as such, the State has not met its burden." Hastings v. State, 5D22-76 (3/18/22) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/832683/opinion/220076_NOND_03182022_083551_i.pdf

DEPORTATION: Burglary of an unoccupied dwelling is not a CIMT (Crime involving moral turpitude). In determining whether a conviction is a CIMT, we Court must employ the categorical approach (if the statute of conviction is not divisible and sets out alternative means of committing a single offense) or the modified categorical approach (if the statute of conviction is divisible and creates separate offenses). The facts underlying the conviction are not considered. Florida's burglary statute is divisible because the different subsections of the statute carry different penalties. In determining whether an actual, historical offense is a CIMT, the BIA and IJ may consider the record of conviction—i.e., the charging document, plea, verdict, and sentence—but nothing more. BOND: Article I, §14 of the Florida Constitution does not prohibit the trial court the discretion at first appearance, upon a finding of probable cause that the defendant committed a crime punishable by capital punishment or life imprisonment, to defer ruling on bail and to detain the defendant for a reasonable time to conduct a full Arthur bond hearing Requiring a proof evident or presumption great finding at first appearance is likely to thwart judicial economy. Any language in Arthur to the contrary is dicta, not a holding. Thourtman v. Junior, SC19-1182 (3/17/22)

LOSA WITH INJURIES-UNIT OF PROSECUTION: The charge of Leaving Scene of an Accident involving injuries (§316.062(1)) permits multiple counts and convictions where there is a single crash involving multiple victims. The stature contemplates prosecution on a per-crash-victim basis, rather than on a per-crash basis. State v. Johnson, SC21-20 (3/17/22)
https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/832597/opinion/sc21-20.pdf

APPEAL-VOLUNTARINESS OF PLEA: Defendant may not challenge the voluntariness of his plea on appeal without having first moved to withdraw his plea in the trial court. Fletcher v. State, 1D20-3031 (3/16/22)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/832491/opinion/203031_DC05_03162022_140824_i.pdf

VOP-HEARSAY-CHANGING RESIDENCE: Officer testimony about Defendant not being home coupled with hearsay that he no longer lived there is insufficient to prove a violation for changing residence without permission. Southerland v. State, 1D21-1791 (3/16/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/832500/opinion/211791_DC05_03162022_142521_i.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to file a SYG motion where Defendant was found by jury beyond a reasonable doubt to not having acted in self-defense. When a jury rejects a claim of self-defense at trial beyond a reasonable doubt, there is no reasonable probability that a trial judge would have rendered a different judgment at a Stand-Your-Ground hearing with a lower standard of proof. Simmons v. State, 1D21-2359 (3/16/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/832504/opinion/212359_DC05_03162022_143052_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: An affidavit by the victim naming another person as the perpetrator does not constitute newly discovered evidence entitling Defendant to postconviction relief. Recanted testimony is inherently unreliable, particularly where, as here, the Defendant's act of cutting the Victim's throat in prisom was caught on tape. Buck v. State, 1D21-2897 (3/16/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/832507/opinion/212897_DC05_03162022_140622_i.pdf

JUVENILE OFFENDER: Juvenile offenders convicted of first-degree premeditated murder and attempted murder are subject to an enhanced penalty if they were found to have actually killed, intended to kill, or attempted to kill the victim. Alleyne requires that a defendant is entitled to have a jury determine whether he/she actually killed, intended to kill, or attempted to kill the victim, but a verdict finding that the juvenile offender, charged as a principal, guilty "as charged" is an inherent finding of intent to kill. Singletary v. State, 3D20-951 (20-951 (3/16/22)

BOND-PRETRIAL DETENTION: Defendant may be held without bond where he is charged as a principal to murder in which a bystander was shot by a codefendant. Roberson v. Daniel, 3D22-235 (3/16/22)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/832462/opinion/220235_DC02_03162022_104617_i.pdf

BATTERY-DOMESTIC VIOLENCE: Where the caption in the information says "domestic violence," but the jury was charged only on misdemeanor battery and was not asked to make findings regarding bodily harm or injury of the victim or the victim's status as a "family or household member," the Defendant is not subject to the domestic violence offender designation nor is he subject to the enhanced penalties. State may request the empaneling of a second jury to determine whether the offense is a crime of domestic violence. Narvaez v. State, 4D20-245 (3/16/22)

CONTEMPT-DIRECT: Defendant cannot be found in direct criminal contempt based of failure to complete BIP course. For direct contempt, the contemptuous act must occur in the presence of the judge. A criminal contempt may be punished summarily only if the court saw or heard the conduct constituting the contempt committed in the actual presence of the court. Indirect civil contempt proceedings have procedural requirements. Perez v State, 5D22-414 (3/14/22)

burden to show (1) that favorable evidence—either exculpatory or impeaching, (2) was willfully or inadvertently suppressed by the State, and (3) because the evidence was material, the defendant was prejudiced. To meet the materiality prong, the defendant must demonstrate a reasonable probability that had the suppressed evidence been disclosed the jury would have reached a different verdict. Green v. Secretary, DOC, No. 18-13524 (11th Cir. 3/14/22)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-HABEAS CORPUS: The AEDPA forbids a district court from entertaining a claim that is not the same claim the prisoner presented to and adjudicated by the state courts on the merits. District Court may not consider evidence that was not before the state court when it considered the prisoner's claim on the merits. Green v. Secretary, DOC, No. 18-13524 (11th Cir. 3/14/22)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201813524.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-HABEAS CORPUS: It is not the province of a federal habeas court to reexamine state-court determinations on state-law questions. Green v. Secretary, DOC, No. 18-13524 (11th Cir. 3/14/22)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201813524.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-FEDERAL HABEAS CORPUS: Defendant is not entitled to habeas corpus relief on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to excuse, in homicide case, juror whose niece had been murdered three years before. The post conviction trial court's presumption of correctness–that keeping the juror was strategic-precludes relief even where no evidence supports the belief that the retention of the juror was strategic. Implicit factual findings are entitled to deference. Green v. Secretary, DOC, No. 18-13524 (11th Cir. 3/14/22)

prisoner has not exhausted claims in state court–a requirement for seeking federal habeas relief–where he only nominally asserted a federal claim to the Florida Supreme Court, and made no argument under any federal constitutional provision, statute, or case for why his conviction should be vacated. The mere mention of a constitutional claim cannot, standing alone, provide a state appellate court with a sufficient opportunity to pass upon and correct a federal constitutional violation. Green v. Secretary, DOC, No. 18-13524 (11th Cir. 3/14/22)

VERBOSITY (J. JORDAN, dissenting in part): "The majority opinion, which is 158 pages long,. . .is too long and says too much about too many things unnecessarily. CONTEMPT: Court may not find Defendant in direct criminal contempt for failing to complete a Batterer's Intervention Program because the violation of the court order did not occur in the judge's presence. of guilt for contempt of court. Perez v. State, 5D22-414 (3/14/22) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/832292/opinion/220414_DC03_03142022_171235_i.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Search of Defendant's home pursuant to a warrant issued after he brought a tracked package of narcotics to his home was unlawful. The warrant failed to specify a particular object of the search precisely because law enforcement lacked probable cause and did not have any particular object in mind. Opening the mailed package of narcotics may have suggested some link between the home and Defendant's alleged trafficking, but that event, standing alone, did not create a probability that further narcotics or similar evidence of trafficking would be present at that location. SEARCH AND SEIZURE-SEARCH WARRANT-GOOD FAITH: Where the supporting affidavit fails to establish probable cause to justify a search, the good faith exception.does not apply. CHAIN OF CUSTODY: After evidence is admitted without objection, an alleged fault in the chain of custody does not affect the sufficiency of the evidence for the purposes of a motion for judgment of acquittal. Smitherman v. State, 2D19-3104 (3/11/22)

VOP: Court improperly found Defendant in violation of probation where Defendant did not object to or dispute P.O.'s testimony that he was "non-reporting" and that "none of his conditions were completed" but there was no testimony whatsoever regarding how, when, where, or why he failed to report to probation or to perform community service. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that Counsel was ineffective for failing to request that the jury be instructed on the justifiable use of deadly force, unless the trial court attaches records that conclusively refute this claim. DOUBLE JEOPARDY-RETROACTIVE APPLICATION: Question certified whether the reviewing court should consider only the charging document in

POST-CONVICTION RELIEF: An attorney's failure to inform a defendant of sentencing enhancements when discussing a plea offer constitutes deficient performance. But Defendant suffers no prejudice where he fails to expressly allege that he would have accepted the State's plea offer had he known he would be subject to these enhancements, that the State would not have withdrawn the offer, and that the trial court would have accepted the offer. Statham v. State, 1D21-3305 (3/9/22)

POST-CONVICTION RELIEF: Court errs in denying Defendant's motion for postconviction relief based on newly discovered evidence (an affidavit by the victim) without attaching records conclusively establishing no entitlement to relief. Wimblery v. State, 3D20-01593 (3/9/22)

ATTORNEY-CLIENT PRIVILEGE: Client is the holder of the attorney-client privilege, not the attorney. Disclosure of privileged material by counsel is relevant to determining the existence of waiver. It is not, however, dispositive. State's proffer that Attorney had disclosed the privileged communication to the prosecutor (that the Victim was dead) does not constitute a waiver of the privilege; Attorney does not have to give the deposition about how he learned from his client that the Victim had died. PROBATION-CONDITION-SEARCH: A condition of probation requiring a probationer to consent at any time to a warrantless search by a law enforcement officer is a violation of article I, section 12, of the Florida Constitution, and the fourth amendment to the United States Constitution. ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: Ten convictions arising from a single criminal episode (burglaring ten storage units in a storage facility, one after the other) consititute a single offense for the purposes of ACCA sentencing enhancement. "Occasion" does not mean a discrete moment in time. Multiple crimes may occur on one occasion even if not at the same moment. Wooden v. United States, No. 20–5279 (U.S. S. Ct, 3/7/22)

OCCASION: "Consider first how an ordinary person (a reporter; a police officer; yes, even a lawyer) might describe Wooden's ten burglaries—and how she would not. The observer might say: 'On one occasion, Wooden burglarized ten units in a storage facility.' By contrast, she would never say: 'On ten occasions, Wooden burglarized a unit in the facility.' Nor would she say anything like: 'On one occasion, Wooden burglarized a storage unit; on a second occasion, he burglarized another unit; on a third occasion, he burglarized yet another; and so on.' She would, using language in its normal way, group his entries into the storage units, even though not simultaneous, all together—as happening on a single occasion." Wooden v. United States, No. 20–5279 (U.S. S. Ct, 3/7/22)

DEFINITION-"OCCASION": "Occasion" commonly refers to an event, occurrence, happening, or episode. And such an event, occurrence, happening, or episode may itself encompass multiple, temporally distinct activities. "The occasion of a wedding, for example, often includes a ceremony, cocktail hour, dinner, and dancing. Those doings are proximate in time and place, and have a shared theme (celebrating the happy couple). . .But they do not occur at the same moment: The newlyweds would surely take offense if a guest organized a conga line in the middle of their vows. That is because an occasion may. . .encompass a number of non-simultaneous activities; . . The same is true (to shift gears from the felicitous to the felonious) when it comes to crime." Wooden v. United States, No. 20–5279 (U.S. S. Ct, 3/7/22)

RULE OF LENITY (CONCURRING J. KAVANAUGH): If a federal criminal statute is grievously ambiguous, then the statute should be interpreted in the criminal defendant's favor. The rule of lenity does not apply when a law merely contains some ambiguity or is difficult to decipher; it applies only when after seizing everything from which aid can be derived. Wooden v. United States, No. 20–5279 (U.S. S. Ct, 3/7/22)

QUOTE: "Of course, most ordinary people today don't spend their leisure time reading statutes—and they probably didn't in Justice Marshall's and Justice Story's time either." Wooden v. United States, No. 20–5279 (U.S. S. Ct, 3/7/22)

QUOTE: "Like bears to honey, white collar criminals are drawn to billion-dollar government programs." USA v. Bramwell, No. 18-12395 (11th Cir. 3/7/22)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811602.pdf

CONSPIRACY-CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Conspiracy convictions require proof that the defendant knew the essential unlawful object of the conspiracy and agreed to it. But that proof may be circumstantial, and we have made clear that, because the crime of conspiracy is predominantly mental in composition, it is frequently necessary to resort to circumstantial evidence to prove its elements. USA v. Bramwell, No. 18-12395 (11th Cir. 3/7/22)

APPEAL: Arguments raised for the first time in a reply brief are not properly before a reviewing court. USA v. Bramwell, No. 18-12395 (11th Cir. 3/7/22)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811602.pdf

SENTENCING: Although the sentencing guidelines are only advisory, a court must consider the extent of the deviation and ensure that the justification is sufficiently compelling to support the degree of the variance. The Court abused its discretion by sentencing the Defendant (who scored 78 to 97 months) to probation where she engaged in a scheme of issuing improper prescriptions in return for kickbacks. Defendant "did not receive so much as a slap on the wrist — it was more like a soft pat." USA v. Bramwell, No. 18-12395 (11th Cir. 3/7/22)

SENTENCING-DETERRENCE: In imposing probation for a doctor who received kickbacks for issuing improper prescriptions, the trial court is wrong in reasoning that general deterrence may be disregarded when the criminal is a doctor who will lose her license. "The court's reasoning would mean that not just doctors, but also pharmacists, and lawyers, and all other professionals who hold licenses, cannot be deterred by the threat of a prison sentence from committing a crime that will result in loss of their license anyway. . . .[I]t would mean . . .that . . .the need for general deterrence can be skipped where the defendant was a professional. . .[I]t would effectively blue pencil out of the United States Code for professionally licensed defendants an imperative that Congress wrote into it. . .That cannot be right, and it isn't right." USA v. Bramwell, No. 18-12395 (11th Cir. 3/7/22)

TEMPTATION: "Oscar Wilde advised that, 'The only way to get rid of a temptation is to yield to it.' [citation omitted]. That witticism may contain enough ironic truth to prompt a smile, but it is not a principle that has a home in the Sentencing Act or in binding precedent." USA v. Bramwell, No. 18-12395 (11th Cir. 3/7/22)

JURY SELECTION: Court is not required to give jurors a proposed questionnaire asking them to list all their knowledge of a case gained from media coverage (Boston Marathon bombing). USA v. Tsarnaev, No. 20-443 (U.S. S.Ct. 3/4/22)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/21pdf/20-443_new_2d8f.pdf

perpetrator, intended to show that Defendant acted under the domination of the former. USA v. Tsarnaev, No. 20-443 (U.S. S.Ct. 3/4/22)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/21pdf/20-443_new_2d8f.pdf

HMM: "The prosecution similarly told the jury that 'the bulk of [Dzhokhar's] mitigation case comes down to a single proposition: 'His brother made him do it.''. . .The prosecution also told the jury that it should reject this proposition because Dzhokhar's mitigation evidence merely showed that Tamerlan was 'loud,' 'bossy,' and 'sometimes lost his temper.'. . .Would the prosecution have made the same argument had the evidence required it to add, 'and perhaps slit the throats of three people'?" USA v. Tsarnaev, No. 20-443 (U.S. S.Ct. 3/4/22)

STATE SECRETS PRIVILEGE-FISA: The Government has a privilege against court-ordered disclosure of state and military secrets. FISA does not affect the availability or scope of that long established privilege. When the state secrets privilege is asserted, the central question is not whether the evidence in question was lawfully obtained but whether its disclosure would harm national-security interests. FBI v. Fazaga, No. 20-828 (U.S. S.Ct. 3/4/22)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/21pdf/20-828_5ie6.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for conceding that a firearm was used based on video when no gun was recovered. Conceding that a defendant is guilty of a charged offense may constitute ineffective assistance of counsel when counsel did not obtain the defendant's consent to make the concession. Hipley v. State, 5D20-2303 (3/4/22)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to point out that the flipping co-Defendant had been facing life in prison but for her testimony. Counsel elicited from the witness only that she received a plea deal for probation, without providing the jury with any information with which to evaluate the deal. Hipley v. YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: Defendant who is sentenced as a Youthful Offender, upon violation of supervision, may not be sentenced to a composite sentence of twenty-five years in DOC with a 25 year minimum mandatory while maintaining the youthful offender status. When a youthful offender commits a substantive violation of probation and the trial court elects to impose a sentence in excess of the six-year cap, the sentence necessarily becomes an adult CPC sentence such that the defendant does not retain his or her youthful offender status. STATE SECRETS PRIVILEGE: State Secret's Privilege prevents disclosure for the use in civil litigation of the location of the site in (probably) Poland where Al Queda detainee was tortured during interrogation. The state secrets privilege permits the Government to prevent disclosure of information when that disclosure would harm national security interests. Sometimes information that has entered the public domain may nonetheless fall within the scope of the state secrets privilege. USA v. Zubaydah, No. 20-827 (3/3/22)

EXTRAORDINARY WRIT: A decision on an extraordinary writ petition that clearly shows that the issue was considered by the court on the merits is deemed a decision which would later bar the litigant from presenting the issue under the doctrines of res judicata or collateral estoppel. STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant fails to allege a facially sufficient prima facie claim of justifiable self-defense where he has blood on his face and the victim, found shot to death, had a history of boorish and bullying behavior toward the Defendant, but the motion fails to allege that, or how, an altercation had occurred; who initiated it; what threats were actually made; whether and how any conduct by Victim placed Defendant in fear of imminent death or great bodily harm; or what forcible felony or other actions or conduct of Victim led Defendant to reasonably believe he had to shoot him. SENTENCING-ADULT ON MINOR MULTIPLIER: The adult-on-minor multiplier limits sentences to the statutory maximum. The phrase "the statutory maximum sentence," as used in the limiting language is literally the maximum sentence which Defendant faced under the Florida Criminal Punishment Code, not the Chapter 775 maximum. If applying the multiplier results in the lowest permissible sentence exceeding the statutory maximum sentence for the primary offense under chapter 775, the court may not apply the multiplier and must sentence the defendant to the LPS. The sentence on Count II also must be for the LPS. Millien v. State, 4D20-1940 (3/2/22)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION (CONCURRENCE): "It seems to me to be a distortion of the common understanding to construe 'statutory maximum sentence' as something other than what is set forth in a phrase immediately preceding it in the same sentence." Millien v. State, 4D20-1940 (3/2/22)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-CORRECTION: Where Court erroneously awarded duplicate credit for time served (an extra 300 days not actually served), Court may correct the error more than 60 days later. Miscalculation of jail credit can be a clerical error. Double jeopardy does not guarantee a defendant the benefit of a judge's good-faith mathematical or clerical errors. Blair v. FEBRUARY 2022

POST CONVICTION RELIEF - DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Re-sentencing Defendant after he completed his original sentences for four counts of aggravated assault violates the prohibition against double jeopardy. F.R.Cr.P 3.800(a) does not allow the State to seek correction of an illegal sentence after it has been served in full. Smith v. State, 5D21-993 (2/25/22) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/830327/opinion/210993_DC08_02252022_091454_i.pdf

MOTION TO CORRECT: A Fla.R.Crim.P. 3.800(b) motion to correct may be filed by the State only if the correction of the sentencing error would benefit the defendant or to correct a scrivener's error. Smith v. State, 5D21-993 (2/25/22)

COLLATERAL ESTOPPEL - ISSUE PRECLUSION: A defendant who raises an issue in a post conviction motion and is denied relief but fails to appeal, is collaterally estopped from raising the same issue in another R.3.800 motion, unless the manifest injustice exception applies. The manifest injustice exception applies here because violating a defendant's right against double jeopardy is a manifest injustice. Smith v. State, 5D21-993 (2/25/22)

COSTS-HUH?: Court may not impose a $3.00 cost for a non-driving offense. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-MAILBOX RULE: Where the prison date stamp reflects that the motion was placed in the hands of prison officials for mailing within the two-year time limitation of R. 3.850(b), it is timely regardless of when the Clerk of Court received it. Scott v. State, 5D21-2706 (2/25/22)

APPEAL-INMATE FILING RULE: A Notice of Appeal is timely delivered to prison officials within 30 days. The Inmate Filing Rule provides that a document placed in the hands of an official is deemed filed on that date. Prison mail logs are sufficient to establish timeliness. A prison date stamp is not required. Wade v. State, SC21-1094 (2/24/22) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/830112/opinion/sc21-1094.pdf

SENTENCING-HABITUAL VIOLENT FELONY: Armed kidnapping is reclassified to a life felony where Defendant used a weapon or firearm. Defendant is improperly sentenced as a Habitual Violent Felony Period where the amendment to the statute allowing HVFO had been ruled unconstitutional (for being promulgated in violation of the single subject) and Defendant's crime occurred during the window period in which the statute was unconstitutional (October 1, 1995, through May 24, 1997). COST: Defendant covicted of sexual battery may not be assessed the $151 cost for the "CAC/GAL Trust Fund (Crimes Against Minors)" where the the victim was not a minor. Bryant v. State, 2D20-3555 (2/23/22) https://www.2dca.org/content/download/829952/opinion/203555_DC05_02232022_082224_i.pdf

SECOND DEGREE MURDER: Defendant is properly convicted as a principal to second degree murder where Defendant abducted the victim, placed him in plastic handcuffs, and put him in the truck which took him to another site where he was beaten, stabbed and set on fire. Where the defendant was a willing participant in the underlying felony and the murder resulted from forces that they set in motion, the defendant is guilty as a principal for the acts physically committed by another. It does not matter if Defendant was the one who slit the victim's throat or whether he knew or intended for it to happen. Isaac v. ARREST OF JUDGMENT: A motion for arrest of judgment is a postverdict motion made to prevent an entry of judgment in a criminal case after a verdict of guilty has been rendered. A motion for arrest of judgment requires that the indictment or information be so defective that it will not support a judgment of conviction An information is fundamentally defective only where it totally omits an essential element of the crime or is so vague, indistinct or indefinite that the defendant is misled or exposed to double jeopardy. Isaac v. State, 3D19-2495 (2/23/22)

INFORMATION-ALTERNATIVE ALLEGATIONS: For an offense that may be committed by one or more of several acts, or by one or more of several means, or with one or more of several intents or results, it is permissible to allege in the disjunctive or alternative such acts, means, intents, or results. COMPETENCY: Defendant who had been adjudicated incompetent due to intellectual disability and had been released with conditions may not have his bond revoked upon commission of a new offense unless he qualifies for involuntary commitment. DEPORTATION-MORAL TURPITUDE: Under federal law, a conviction for a crime involving moral turpitude renders a person ineligible for the discretionary relief of cancellation of removal. Fraud is always moral turpitude. But falsely representing a social security number is not a CIMT.

Making a false statement or engaging in general deception is not necessarily the same thing as fraud. If the intent to deceive is not for the purpose of obtaining a benefit or causing a detriment, moral turpitude is not automatically involved. Zarate v. US Attorney General, No. 20-11654 (2/18/22)

DEPORTATION-MORAL TURPITUDE: Moral turpitude involves an act of baseness, vileness, or depravity in the private and social duties which a man owes to his fellow men, or to society in general, contrary to the accepted and customary rule of right and duty between man and man. A crime involving moral turpitude must involve conduct that not only violates a statute but also independently violates a moral norm. Fraud may be a sui generis category necessarily involving moral turpitude; non-fraud offenses must also satisfy the inherently base, vile, or depraved requirement to constitute CIMTs. Zarate v. US Attorney General, No. 20-11654 (2/18/22)

CATEGORICAL APPROACH (CONCURRING, J. TJOFLAT): "The case law in this Circuit and the Supreme Court's jurisprudence on how to analyze statutes under the categorical approach have left me scratching my head at times. To help future litigants avoid that fate, I provide a brief analysis of the categorical approach." Zarate v. US Attorney General, No. 20-11654 (2/18/22)

BOND-NO CONTACT: Court may not enter a sweeping no-contact order prohibiting codefendant spouses from contact with each other. Such a sweeping restriction infringes fundamental marital rights. Cossio v. Marceno, Sheriff, 2D21-2749 (2/18/22)

https://www.2dca.org/content/download/829369/opinion/212749_DC03_02182022_082209_i.pdf

SUBPOENA-MEDICAL RECORDS: A trial court departs from the essential requirements of law when it allows disclosure of medical records absent a showing of the requisite nexus. A general request for the issuance of a subpoena for medical records in a DUI investigation is insufficient. State must present evidence making it reasonable to believe that defendant's toxicology records would turn up evidence that he was under the influence of drugs or alcohol. McKnight v. State, 21-1280 (2/18/22)

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATION-ALLOCUTION: When a defendant voluntarily chooses to allocute at a sentencing hearing, the sentencing court is permitted to consider the defendant's freely offered statements, including those indicating a failure to accept responsibility. State v. Deforest Kelly, 5D21-3019 (2/18/22)

ATTORNEY-DISCIPLINE: Attorney who used altered photo line up exhibits in a deposition. Lawyer's intent to create what were deceptive exhibits in themselves leads to the inescapable conclusion that he violated Bar Rule 4-8.4(c) ("A lawyer shall not . . . engage in conduct involving dishonesty, fraud, deceit, or misrepresentation . . . ."). Three year suspension is imposed. The requirement to provide zealous representation does not excuse engaging in misconduct, irrespective of one's intent to benefit the client. SEARCH AND SEIZURE: A rapidly blinking turn signal creates a reasonable suspicion that a traffic violation has occurred, notwithstanding that the statute does not prescribe the rate of blinkage. USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201610128.enb.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROLONGED STOP: Even if the police have reasonable suspicion to make a traffic stop, they do not have unfettered authority to detain a person indefinitely. An officer questioning a detainee about matters unrelated to the purpose of the traffic stop, i.e., about counterfeit merchandise, drugs, and dead bodies, consuming twenty-five seconds, unconstitutionally prolongs the traffic stop. The mission of a traffic stop is to address the traffic violation that warranted the stop and attend to related safety concerns, and may last no longer than is necessary to complete its mission. USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201610128.enb.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROLONGED STOP-PERMISSIBLE QUESTIONS: If an officer unlawfully prolongs a stop, any evidence uncovered as a result may be suppressed. Officer may not prolong traffic stop to pursue unrelated tasks. Officer asking about one's gang affiliation and calling in a dog to search for contraband is not related to the purpose of a traffic stop. Related tasks are the ordinary inquiries incident to a traffic stop, while unrelated tasks are other measures aimed at detecting criminal activity more generally. Unrelated inquiries are permitted only so long as they do not add any time to the stop. USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROLONGED STOP: The appropriate standard to decide prolongation cases is not whether the length of the stop as a whole was reasonable (the overall reasonableness standard); "The proper standard for addressing an unlawfully prolonged stop. . . is this: a stop is unlawfully prolonged when an officer, without reasonable suspicion, diverts from the stop's purpose and adds time to the stop in order to investigate other crimes. A stop is unlawfully prolonged even if done expeditiously, (here, 25 seconds). Any case law to the contrary was improperly decided. USA v. Campbell, No. 16-10128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROLONGED STOP: Examples of permissible/impermissible questions on a traffic stop. The following are impermissible: "Any counterfeit or bootleg CDs or DVDs or anything like that? Any illegal alcohol? Any marijuana? Any cocaine? Methamphetamine? Any heroin? Any ecstasy? Nothing like that? You don't have any dead bodies in your car?" USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201610128.enb.pdf

EXCLUSIONARY RULE-GOOD FAITH EXCEPTION: The exclusionary rule does not apply when the police act in good-faith reliance on binding appellate precedent. USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201610128.enb.pdf

EXCLUSIONARY RULE-GOOD FAITH EXCEPTION: Although "good faith" is most often framed as an exception to the exclusionary rule, it is probably more accurately described as a reason for declining to invoke the exclusionary rule in the first place. USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201610128.enb.pdf

APPEAL-PARTY PRESENTATION PRINCIPLE: Typically, issues not raised in the initial brief on appeal are deemed abandoned. Under the party presentation principle, appellate courts rely on the parties to frame the issues for decision and assign to courts the role of neutral arbiter of matters the parties present. However, the party presentation principle is supple, not ironclad, and does not necessarily apply when an issue is forfeited, rather than waived. Forfeiture is the failure to make the timely assertion of a right; waiver is the intentional relinquishment or abandonment of a known right. Courts have the ability to resurrect forfeited issues sua sponte in extraordinary circumstances. "The degree to which we adhere to the prudential practice of forfeiture and the conditions under which we will excuse it are up to us as an appellate court." USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201610128.enb.pdf

APPEAL-PARTY PRESENTATION PRINCIPLE: The mere failure to raise an issue in an initial brief on direct appeal should be treated as a forfeiture of the issue, and therefore the issue may be raised by the court sua sponte in extraordinary circumstances after finding that one of the forfeiture exceptions applies. "We believe treating the mere failure to brief an issue as forfeiture strikes the appropriate balance between respecting the party presentation principle and retaining the discretion to address important issues in extraordinary circumstances." USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)

APPEAL-PARTY PRESENTATION PRINCIPLE: Appellate court may exercise its discretion to consider a forfeited issue in five situations: (1) the issue involves a pure question of law and refusal to consider it would result in a miscarriage of justice; (2) the party lacked an opportunity to raise the issue at the district court level; (3) the interest of substantial justice is at stake; (4) the proper resolution is beyond any doubt; or (5) the issue presents significant questions of general impact or of great public concern.

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201610128.enb.pdf

APPEAL-EXCLUSIONARY RULE-GOOD FAITH EXCEPTION: The Government's failure to invoke the good-faith exception in its brief to the appellate court does not preclude the Court from considering the exception on appeal. Appellate Court has discretion to consider the good-faith exception despite the Government's failure to brief it. Appellate Court is not limited to the particular legal theories advanced by the parties, but rather retains the independent power to identify and apply the proper construction of governing law. Here, had the District Court considered the Good Faith exception to the search, it would have denied the Motion to Suppress, so the evidence derived from the unduly prolonged stop is admissible. USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201610128.enb.pdf

APPEAL-ADVOCACY TACTICS-FORFEITED ISSUE: Although appellate lawyers are advised to focus their briefing on their strongest, most pertinent arguments, even if they have many colorable claims, lawyers cannot always know which issues or arguments an appellate court will find persuasive ahead of time. So an abandoned issue may still be considered by the appellate court in exceptional cases. USA v. Campbell, No. 16-10128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201610128.enb.pdf

EXCLUSIONARY RULE: Because the exclusionary rule is prudential rather than constitutionally mandated, it is applicable only where its deterrence benefits outweigh its substantial social costs. These costs—which include the require ent that courts ignore reliable, trustworthy evidence bearing on guilt or innocence—exact a "heavy toll on both the judicial system and society at large. An officer who relies on binding appellate precedent has no culpability whatsoever. Excluding evidence in these circumstances would only serve "to discourage the officer from doing his duty. Suppression of evidence is our last resort, not our first impulse." USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)

PRINCIPLE OF PRINCIPLES (DISSENT): 'We begin, as we feel we must, with first principles—indeed, with the first principle of first principles: In this country, we have an adversarial justice system." USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)

SCORPIONS IN A BOTTLE: "The dissent's antics would radically transform the nature of oral arguments in this Court, an ironic position for an opinion ostensibly aimed at limiting judicial Power.". . . "Of course, were this Court a trial court, we could choose to credit some portions of the Government's testimony and discredit others—but we are not a trial court. The dissent seems to have forgotten this simple fact." USA v. Campbell, No. 16-1-128 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)

SCORPIONS IN A BOTTLE (DISSENT): "Tellingly, the majority never really explains why it thinks the government's non-argument of the good-faith issue resulted from a 'mere failure.' It just repeatedly asserts that proposition as fact, as if hoping to speak it into existence. . . [E]ven if the majority's premise were correct. . .its conclusion that sua sponte consideration of the good-faith issue is proper would be wrong. . .In fact, though, its premise is wrong—dead wrong." SCORPIONS IN A BOTTLE (DISSENT): "First, aren't we slicing the bologna a little thin?. . .The logic of the majority. . .—which seems to rest on some sort of magic-words formalism—escapes us. . . Second, and to be absolutely clear, it wasn't just 'the dissenting judges' who joined in the so-called 'antics.' The oral-argument questioning was no sinister plot—no caballed gotcha game. . . With all its talk of 'antics,' 'inquisitions,' and faux 'evidentiary hearings,' the majority seems to want to complicate—and obscure—a very straightforward event, which surely resembles similar events that occur in courtrooms around this country every day." VOP-NOTICE: Notice that Defendant violated probation by by committing felony obstruction is sufficient to support revocation of probation where evidence showed only misdemeanor obstruction. The specific identification of lesser included offenses in charging instruments is not required if the greater offense is adequately identified and explained. USA v. Dennis, No. 21-10316 (11th Cir. 2/16/22)

FIRST STEP: Defendant convicted of distribution of crack cocaine within 1,000 of a school is ineligible for a First Step sentence reduction. Although district courts lack the inherent authority to modify a term of imprisonment, the First Step Act expressly permits them to reduce a previously imposed term of imprisonment. §841(b)(1)(C) offenses are not “covered offenses” under the First Step Act. USA v. Williams, No. 20-14187 (11th Cir. 2/15/22)

JURY INSTRUCTION-FORCIBLE FELONY: A forcible-felony instruction is erroneous where a defendant is not charged with a forcible felony separate from the felony he committed. Although it is error to give a forcible-felony instruction when a defendant is not charged with a forcible felony separate from actions taken in self-defense, any error here is not fundamental because the primary defense was not self-defense, and the self-defense claim was weak. Here, the self-defense theory is extremely weak and the primary defense was that the shooting was accidental. Berrane v. State, 1D18-4981 (2/16/22)

EVIDENCE-REPUTATION: Court did not err in excluding evidence about the Victim's reputation for robbing people where Defendant ambushed, caught, and shot Victim in response to learning about the Victim's plan to rob him. Berrane v. State, 1D18-4981 (2/16/22)

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court errs in imposing a downward departure sentence (ten months in jail and probation), rather than a 55 month sentence for stealing a pair of sunglasses based on COVID-19 and the de minimis nature of the theft. A generalized concern about COVID-19 is not a valid, non-statutory mitigating circumstance for departure. State v. Kahl, 1D21-490 (2/16/22)

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: A trial court's opinions that the lowest permissible sentence is too harsh, or that the severity of the sentence is not commensurate with the seriousness of the crime, are prohibited grounds upon which to depart. State v. Kahl, 1D21-490 (2/16/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/829117/opinion/210490_DC13_02162022_143441_i.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSENSUAL ENCOUNTER: Race Is not a relevant factor in determining whether a reasonable person would have felt free to leave or terminate the encounter. State v. K.F., 1D21-1108 (2/16/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/829119/opinion/211108_DC13_02162022_143849_i.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSENSUAL ENCOUNTER: Officer walking looking into car with a flashlight and asking the subject to roll down the window is a consensual encounter, not an investigatory stop. Motion to suppress should have been denied. State v. K.F., 1D21-1108 (2/16/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/829119/opinion/211108_DC13_02162022_143849_i.pdf

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE: Defendant does not obstruct officer for refusing to come out of house for officers investigating him from exposing his sexual organs to a neighbor from his doorway. Physical entry of the home is the chief evil against which the wording of the Fourth Amendment is directed. Defendant's failure to cooperate cannot itself be criminal. Even if officers had probable cause to arrest Defendant prior to removing him from the apartment, that would still not be enough to justify entering his home to conduct a warrantless arrest. Seiracki v. State, 2D21-63 (2/16/22) https://www.2dca.org/content/download/828983/opinion/210063_DC08_02162022_082629_i.pdf

EVIDENCE: Defendant, a police officer who shot at a mentally ill man who he wrongfully believed armed with a gun, is entitled to present evidence of his SWAT training to justify the shooting. The training undertaken by the professional is relevant for the jury to consider in determining how and why the professional assessed and responded to the situation, and whether, under the circumstances surrounding the particular case, such assessment and response was objectively reasonable. State v. Aledda, 3D19-1690 (2/16/22)

CULPABLE NEGLIGENCE: The degree of negligence required to sustain a conviction for the crime of culpable negligence is significantly higher than that necessary to sustain a recovery of compensatory damages in a tort case. To sustain a conviction for the crime of culpable negligence, the State must establish that the defendant acted with a gross and flagrant character, evincing reckless disregard for human life or an entire want of care which would raise the presumption of indifference to consequences; or such wantonness or recklessness or grossly careless disregard of the safety and welfare of the public, or that reckless indifference to the rights of others, which is equivalent to an intentional violation of them. State v. Aledda, 3D19-1690 (2/16/22)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/829019/opinion/210989_DC13_02162022_102247_i.pdf

VOP-VFOSC: On a VOP, a violent felony offender of special concern must remain in custody pending the resolution of the probation violation, and the Court may not dismiss the affidavit of probation violation without holding a recorded violation-of-probation hearing at which both the state and the offender are represented. State v. Gutierrez, 3D21-989 (2/16/22)

VOP-VFOSC: Except in cases of failure to pay costs, fines, or restitution, the court must make written findings as to whether or not the violent felony offender of special concern poses a danger to the community, and if so, must sentence the offender to the the statutory maximum, or longer if permitted by law. State v. Gutierrez, 3D21-989 (2/16/22)
https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/829019/opinion/210989_DC13_02162022_102247_i.pdf

VOP-VFOSC: In the absence of an agreement by the parties, a waiver by the State, or a legally sufficient motion, Court does not have the authority to sua sponte dismiss the affidavit of violation of probation without first conducting a probation violation hearing. State v. Gutierrez, 3D21-989 (2/16/22)
https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/829019/opinion/210989_DC13_02162022_102247_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claims that counsel was ineffective for failing to call a witness who would have undermined the credibility of a critical prosecutorial witness and for failing to order a competency evaluation; and that State withheld Brady evidence. Curry v. State, 3D21-1888 (2/16/22)
https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/829027/opinion/211888_DC08_02162022_103440_i.pdf

BAIL: Court must consider Defendant's financial resources in setting bail. Where Defendant asserts that he can pay no amount of bail, and Court finds that bail is appropriate, it does not matter how high or low the bail is set. "[W]e reject the proposition that where a defendant lacks sufficient financial resources to satisfy cash bail, a trial court is required to impose nonmonetary release conditions." Arslanian v. Junior, 3D22-249 (2/16/22) https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/829032/opinion/220249_DC02_02162022_103836_i.pdf

EVIDENCE-REFUSAL TO COOPERATE: In traveling to meet a minor case, evidence of Defendant's refusal to provide his cellphone PIN and his refusal to allow law enforcement to conduct a warrantless search of his entire cellphone is inadmissible. A defendant has a constitutional right to refuse a request for a warrantless search. New trial required. Comment on a defendant's denial of permission to search constitutes constitutional error of the same magnitude as as comment on a defendant's right to remain silent. McRoberts v. State, 4D19-2060 (2/16/22) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/829051/opinion/192060_DC13_02162022_100529_i.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-LPS: Under the sentencing guidelines, the lowest permissible sentence (LPS0) is an individual minimum sentence where there are multiple convictions subject to sentencing on a single scoresheet. Swift v. State, 4D20-654 (2/16/22) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/829054/opinion/200654_DC05_02162022_100630_i.pdf

FINE: Court may not impose a $500 discretionary fine for battery without stating the statutory authority for the fine. Authority for discretionary fines authorized by section 775.083 must be orally pronounced at sentencing.

COSTS-SUPERVISION: Court may not impose a monthly supervision charge in excess of $40.00 for misdemeanor probation without any accompanying oral pronouncement. See §948.09(1)(b). Paris v. State, 4D21-51 (2/16/22) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/829057/opinion/210051_DC08_02162022_101803_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's motion for post conviction relief claiming that counsel was ineffective for failing to advise him that he was eligible for youthful offender sentencing is legally insufficient un the absence of an allegation that but for his attorney's misadvice, Appellant would not have pled guilty and would have insisted on going to trial. Briggs v. State, 4D21-585 (2/16/22)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION: Court order improperly suppressing evidence of Field Sobriety Exercises is nonetheless upheld because State neither objected after the ruling nor filed a motion for rehearing. State v. Fox, 4D21-2181 (2/16/22)

APPEAL-JURISDICTION: Trial court retains jurisdiction to issue written orders conforming to oral pronouncements once the notice of appeal is filed if the written order is entered before the record on appeal is transmitted, but not after. Sandoval v. State, 4D21-2193 (2/16/22)

COSTS-SUPERVISION: Any person placed on misdemeanor probation by a county court must contribute not less than $40 per month. Any greater costs of supervision must be orally pronounced with their statutory basis. Sandoval v. State, 4D21-2193 (2/16/22)
https://www.4dca.org/content/download/829068/opinion/212193_DC08_02162022_104035_i.pdf

VOP: Court may not revoke probation based on Defendant's loss of GPS device absent proof that loss was unintentional (Defendant's theorized that the GPS unit may have fallen off him or that someone may have taken it off him during a dispute and thrown it into the woods). Douglas v. State, 2D20-3196 (2/11/22)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant pled to a specific sentences with an improper scoresheet, he is entitled to a hearing on his motion for re-sentencing unless attached records show that he would have agreed to the length of the sentence regardless. Hartshorn v. State, 2D21-333 (2/11/22)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SCORESHEET: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on motion for re-sentencing where the scoresheet was improperly calculated, notwithstanding that the sentence (64 months) was higher than the lowest permissible sentence under the incorrectly calculated scoresheet (63.9 months). VOP: Court may not find Defendant in violation of probation for missing a required BIP evaluation when his unrebutted testimony showed that he was in a hospital emergency room with a work-related injury on the date he was to attend the program evaluation, and he was later told not to come because of Covid. In the absence of evidence that Faulstick's failure to attend was willful, the trial court erred in finding the Defendant in violation. Faulstick v. State, 5D21-600 (2/11/22) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/828437/opinion/210600_DC08_02112022_083944_i.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INEVITABLE DISCOVERY-IMPOUNDMENT: The arrest of a defendant, standing alone, does not justify the impoundment of his or her legally parked car. Purse found in a legally parked vehicle after the arrest of the owner is unlawful absent evidence of guidelines for impoundment. Wall v. State, 5D21-984 (2/11/22) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/828440/opinion/210984_DC13_02112022_091413_i.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: In murder case, Defendant is not entitled to a new trial based on the disclosure of a firearm expert the day before trial absent a finding that defense strategy would change. Joseph v. State, SC20-1741 (2/10/22) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/828287/opinion/sc20-1741.pdf

EVIDENCE-IMPEACHMENT: A party may impeach a witness by introducing statements of the witness which are inconsistent with the witness's present testimony, provided that the prior statement is both (1) inconsistent with the witness's in-court testimony, and (2) the statement of the witness. A statement is inconsistent only it directly contradicts or is materially different from testimony during trial. Joseph v. State, SC20-1741 (2/10/22) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/828287/opinion/sc20-1741.pdf

EVIDENCE-IMPEACHMENT-PREDICATE: Prior to questioning a witness about the contents of a previous inconsistent statement, counsel must call to the witness's attention the time, place, and person to whom the statement was allegedly made. Joseph v. State, SC20-1741 (2/10/22) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/828287/opinion/sc20-1741.pdf

EVIDENCE-IMPEACHMENT: Out-of-court identifications are not hearsay and are admissible as statements of identifications pursuant to §90.801(2)(c), provided the declarant testifies at the trial or hearing and is subject to cross-examination. Joseph v. State, SC20-1741 (2/10/22) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/828287/opinion/sc20-1741.pdf

IMPEACHMENT: One may impeach one's witness without the necessity of showing that the witness has become adverse. §90.608 now permits a party to impeach its own witness by introducing prior inconsistent statements without regard to whether the witness's testimony is prejudicial. Joseph v. State, SC20-1741 (2/10/22) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/828287/opinion/sc20-1741.pdf

EVIDENCE: Testimony that Defendant yelled at victim a few days before the homicide is admissible to show motive. Joseph v. State, SC20-1741 (2/10/22) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/828287/opinion/sc20-1741.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-HAC: The HAC aggravator applies to murders that are both conscienceless or pitiless and unnecessarily torturous. Gunshot murders can qualify as HAC if the events preceding the death cause the victim fear, emotional strain, and terror, even if the victim's perception of imminent death need lasts only seconds. Where victim was heard begging for help, murder can be deemed heinous, atrocious, and cruel. A finding of HAC does not require the victim to undergo physical torture; mental torture is sufficient. Joseph v. State, SC20-1741 (2/10/22)

DEATH PENALTY: Jury need not specify the facts upon which it finds aggravating factors. The required jury finding for death eligibility is the unanimous finding of the existence of one or more aggravating factors proven beyond a reasonable doubt, not the individual facts on which the jury relied to find each aggravating factor. McKenzie v. State, SC20-243 (2/9/22)
https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/828286/opinion/sc20-243.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-VICTIM IMPACT: Court is neither required to exclude victim impact evidence nor to receive it outside of the jury's presence. McKenzie v. State, SC20-243 (2/9/22)
https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/828286/opinion/sc20-243.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Jury need not find beyond a reasonable doubt that the aggravating factors were sufficient to impose the death penalty and that the aggravating factors outweighed the mitigating circumstances. These jury determinations are not subject to the beyond a reasonable doubt standard of proof. Only the existence of a statutory aggravating factor must be found beyond a reasonable doubt. McKenzie v. State, SC20-243 (2/9/22)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Convictions for both grand theft and organized scheme to defraud violate double jeopardy when based on the same conduct. Grand theft is a lesser-included offense of organized scheme to defraud. Double-jeopardy analysis looks solely to the charging document, and cannot be based on evidence adduced at trial. If it is impossible to tell from the charging document whether the jury could have convicted the defendant of two crimes based on the same conduct, the judgments violate double jeopardy. Amison v. State, 1D18-1312 (2/9/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/828200/opinion/181312_DC08_02092022_141532_i.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Officer charged with battery based on him hitting a prone juvenile's face into the pavement is not entitled to SYG immunity on the basis of another officer having been found to qualify for said immunity. Pushing child to the ground is different from smashing the child's face into the pavement. Krickovich v. State, 4D21-842 (2/9/22) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/828116/opinion/210842_DC02_02092022_100930_i.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: §870.05 (an anti-rioting statute protecting officer's use of force) is not an immunity statute; rather, the statute creates a defense available at trial. Krickovich v. State, 4D21-842 (2/9/22) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/828116/opinion/210842_DC02_02092022_100930_i.pdf

RESTITUTION-FRAUD: The amount of restitution in charitable contribution fraud case should not include money actually received by the intended beneficiaries. "Ideally, the punitive aspect of restitution would also fall fully on the defendant, but the primary goal of restitution is to make the victim whole. . . .Giving back money previously stolen or withheld unlawfully is still giving back." Amison v. State, 1D18-1312 (2/9/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/828200/opinion/181312_DC08_02092022_141532_i.pdf

RICO: Two predicate incidents which violate Chapters 812 or 817 are required to establish a pattern of racketeering activity. Failure to apply charitable contributions under §496.415(16) is not a predicate offense. Amison v. State, 1D18-1312 (2/9/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/828200/opinion/181312_DC08_02092022_141532_i.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-NEED FOR RESTITUTION: The test for a downward departure is the victim's need, not the victim's desire or preference. Where no evidence was presented regarding the victim's need for restitution, a downward departure is unlawful. Kunkemoeller v. State, 1D20-2209 (2/9/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/828203/opinion/202209_DC13_02092022_142725_i.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-MINOR PARTICIPANT: Defendant may not be given a downward departure as a relatively minor participant where he in fact was a major, long-term participant without whom the scheme could not have been carried out. Kunkemoeller v. State, 1D20-2209 (2/9/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/828203/opinion/202209_DC13_02092022_142725_i.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-NON-STATUTORY GROUNDS: Relative culpability is a valid non-statutory basis to impose a downward departure in order to provide parity with the sentence of a co-defendant who was at least, if not more, culpable than the defendant, but only to the extent of departing downward to meet a codefendant's sentence. Kunkemoeller v. State, 1D20-2209 (2/9/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/828203/opinion/202209_DC13_02092022_142725_i.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-CONTRITION: Where Defendant's criminal activity was a complex financial scheme that took place over the span of nearly five years, he is not eligible for a downward departure under the isolated unsophisticated incident. "The legislature's requirements would be left hollow if a sentencing court could cherry-pick one part of a statutory mitigator and re-define it as non-statutory. A statutory ground's requirements cannot be avoided simply by renaming the basis a non-statutory ground." Kunkemoeller v. State, 1D20-2209 (2/9/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/828203/opinion/202209_DC13_02092022_142725_i.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: The consideration of past restitution under §921.185 cannot, by itself, serve as a legal basis for a downward departure sentence. Kunkemoeller v. State, 1D20-2209 (2/9/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/828203/opinion/202209_DC13_02092022_142725_i.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court may not downward depart on the ground that Defendant is an asset to the community based on charitable works, support of needy family members, or his business. The sentencing court "must be blind as to the color of a defendant's collar." Kunkemoeller v. State, 1D20-2209 (2/9/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/828203/opinion/202209_DC13_02092022_142725_i.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: That the Covid virus is so rampant in the county jail and in the prison cannot serve as a valid basis for departure, at least in the absence of competent substantial evidence that the defendant has an underlying medical or health condition which places him at increased risk of contracting it if incarcerated in a county jail or state prison. State v. Jones, 3D20-1220 (2/9/22)

VOP-SPLIT SENTENCE: Defendant who was sentenced to five years DOC as a condition of probation and later violated the probation has a true split sentence. The sanction for violation of supervision is limited to five years. Any subsequent modifications did not cause the Defendant to lose her right to receive the incarcerated portion of the true split sentence. Dalton v. State, 21-542 (2/4/22)

VOP-SPLIT SENTENCE: Defendant who was sentenced to five years DOC as a condition of probation and later violated the probation has a true split sentence. DEATH PENALTY-MITIGATION: Court does not err in imposing death sentence despite Defendant's mitigating evidence ("I've never been a good person, but I've always been an honest person"). Bell v. State, SC20-472 (2/3/22)

DEATH PENALTY-MITIGATION: Court does not err in imposing the death penalty where Defendant participated in stabbing a fellow inmate in both eyes and drowning him in his own blood, all as part of a practice run to attempt to murder a Correctional Officer. The fact that aside from Officer Newman, he had not assaulted any other officers is insufficient mitigation. Court did not consider in mitigation the fact that Defendant's 12-step murder plan included becoming Vegan (Step 1) and improving his spelling (Step 12). Bell v. State, SC20-472 (2/3/22)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant's motion to dismiss under Florida's Stand Your Ground law can establish a prima facie claim of self-defense immunity from criminal prosecution even though the motion to dismiss is not sworn to by someone with personal knowledge or supported by evidence or testimony establishing the facts in the motion to dismiss. RESTITUTION-HEARSAY: Victim is not entitled to restitution for attorney's fees for fraudulent real estate purchase (Defendant grabbed the warranty deed at closing but did not deliver the purchase money, and victim had to hire an attorney to quiet the title) where there was testimony that victim paid the attorney $300.00 per hour, but State failed to introduce any evidence relating to how many hours the attorney expended on matters for which restitution was proper. The owner's testimony, without further documentation or other evidence, was not enough to prove that the requested amount of $7,905.89 for attorney's fees was an accurate figure. Love v. SCORESHEET: Where Defendant challenges various prior convictions listed on his scoresheet, State is required to introduce competent evidence in support of its scoring of his prior record. A claim that a defendant's scoresheet erroneously includes as scored prior convictions crimes for which he or she had never been convicted requires an evidentiary hearing. Sanders v. PRINCIPAL-CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: The getaway driver who has prior knowledge of the criminal plan and is waiting to help the robbers escape is a principal. EX POST FACTO: The Ex Post Facto Clause prohibits the use of guidelines issued after the offense that create a higher applicable sentencing range. The two level substantial financial hardship enhancement added in 2015 resulted in a miscalculation of the Guidelines range, requiring resentencing. The application of an incorrect Guidelines range is almost always enough to show a reasonable probability of a different outcome absent the error. USA v. Maurya, No. 19-10746 (11th Cir. 2/1/22)

RESTITUTION: To enable meaningful appellate review, a district court's calculation of restitution must be supported by specific factual findings. Remand required. USA v. Maurya, No. 19-10746 (11th Cir. 2/1/22)

to inform the defendant of the charge against him with sufficient precision to allow him to prepare his defense, to minimize surprise at trial, and to enable him to plead double jeopardy in the event of a later prosecution for the same offense. But a bill of particulars cannot be used as a weapon to force the government into divulging its prosecution strategy, i.e., to compel the government to give a detailed exposition of its evidence or to explain the legal theories upon which it intends to rely at trial. JURY INSTRUCTION-DELIBERATE IGNORANCE: Although District courts should not instruct the jury on deliberate ignorance when the relevant evidence points only to actual knowledge, instructing the jury on deliberate ignorance is harmless error where the jury was also instructed and could have convicted on an alternative, sufficiently supported theory of actual knowledge. DEPORTATION: Foreign national convicted of an offense relating to a controlled substance is ineligible for cancellation of removal. Florida possession of cocaine renders one ineligible for cancellation of removal. The arguments that Florida's definition of cocaine extends to substances not prohibited under federal law, and that Florida's possession law does not require knowledge that the substance is illegal are nonavailing. COCAINE-STATE/FEDERAL DISTINCTION: "Positing the hypothetical existence of a form of cocaine that has slipped through the cracks of federal legislation is no more than 'legal imagination' conjuring up a 'theoretical possibility'—a practice forbidden by the Supreme Court. COCAINE-DEFINITION: Isomers are chemical compounds with the same formula but a different arrangement of atoms in the molecule and different properties. SUBJECT-MATTER JURISDICTION-RELATED OFFENSE: Circuit court lacks jurisdiction over a misdemeanor DUI discovered when the Defendant was arrested for violating a domestic violence injunction where the DUI was not related to the underlying felony domestic battery charge. Defendant's acquiescence to the circuit court's jurisdiction over the misdemeanor DUI charge did not provide the court with subject-matter jurisdiction. Subject matter cannot be created by waiver, acquiescence or agreement of the parties, by error in inadvertence of the parties or their counsel, or by the exercise of the power of the court. This outcome does not change where the misdemeanor charge was used to support Appellant's violation of probation because violations of probation are considered separate and distinct from the conviction of a new charge. LIMITATION OF ACTIONS-DILIGENT SEARCH: Where drug sale offenses occurred in June 2012 and informations were filed one year later, but the capiases were not served until July 2020, the Defendant is entitled to discharge. Where a person has not previously been arrested or served with a summons, prosecution commences when an indictment or information is filed provided that the capias is executed without unreasonable delay. NCIC database notation that Defendant had been arrested out of state during the relevant time period is inadmissible hearsay, and does not establish continuance absence anyways. TRANSPORTING MINOR: Defendant may be convicted of knowing transportation of a minor in interstate commerce with the intent that the minor engage in sexual activity notithstanding that he did not have sex with the child on that trip. SEARCH AND SEIZURE-EXCLUSIONARY RULE: Suppression is not a necessary consequence of a Fourth Amendment violation. MISTRIAL: When a defendant's motion arises out of the admission and later exclusion of evidence, an instruction to disregard the evidence is sufficient grounds for an appellate court to uphold a trial court's denial of a motion for mistrial unless the evidence is so highly prejudicial as to be incurable by the trial court's admonition. Evidence of six images discovered in the unallocated space of the camera recovered, showing the relationship of the Defendant with the victim, initially admitted then excluded, do not warrant a mistrial. CONFRONTATION-HEARSAY-OPENING THE DOOR: In murder prosecution where a different suspect was originally charged but during his trial was allowed to plea to illegal possession of a firearm not used in the murder, the Defendant's presentation of evidence that the original suspect had ammunition of the caliber used to kill the victim on his nightstand does not open the door to admission of the original suspect's plea colluquy in which he denied possession of the murder weapon. CERTIORARI: A departure from the essential requirements of the law that will justify issuance of the extraordinary writ of certiorari requires significantly more than a demonstration of legal error. A district court should exercise its discretion to grant certiorari review only when there has been a violation of a clearly established principle of law resulting in a miscarriage of justice. Bailey v. State, 3D21-2107 (1/19/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his motion for post-conviction relief where Court applied the wrong standard--whether there was a reasonable probability that, but for counsel's alleged errors, the result of the proceeding would have been different--instead of the correct standard: Whether there was a reasonable probability that, but for his counsel's misadvice and omissions, Defendant would have insisted on going forward with the revocation hearing. West v. State, 2D20-1818 (1/14/22)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to State's multiple references to the age difference between the Defendant and victim in sex battery case. The trial court's determination that the claim fails to present a valid basis for relief is incorrect. Macias v. State, 2D21-2534 (1/14/22)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-WILLIAMS RULE: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to object to Williams rule evidence. VOP: A revocation sentence can be used to extend a prisoner's total imprisonment beyond his combined statutory maximums. Defendant is lawfully sentenced to ten years in prison (the statutory maximum) followed by three years of supervised release, and a further three and a years upon violation of that supervised release. USA v. Moore, No. 20-11215 (11th Cir. 1/13/22)

VOP: Where Defendant had been sentenced to a total of 42 months' imprisonment for his prior revocations, in excess of the statutory maximum for supervised relase, Court may not impose any additional supervised release. The maximum allowable supervised release following multiple revocations must be reduced by the aggregate length of any terms of imprisonment that have already been imposed upon revocation. USA v. Moore, No. 20-11215 (11th Cir. 1/13/22)

VOP: When a term of supervised release is revoked and the defendant is required to serve a term of imprisonment, the court may include a requirement that the defendant be placed on a term of supervised release after imprisonment. The length of such a term of supervised release shall not exceed the term of supervised release authorized by statute for the offense that resulted in the original term of supervised release, less any term of imprisonment that was imposed upon revocation of supervised release.
USA v. Moore, No. 20-11215 (11th Cir. 1/13/22)

VOP: The court may revoke a term of supervised release, and require the defendant to serve in prison all or part of the term of supervised release authorized by statute for the offense that resulted in such term of supervised release without credit for time previously served on postrelease supervision.

§3583(e) permits the total time a defendant serves for his original conviction and revocations of supervised release to exceed the combined statutory maximum terms of imprisonment and supervised release for the original offense of conviction. Apprendi and Alleyne do not deal with revocation proceedings. USA v. Moore, No. 20-11215 (11th Cir. 1/13/22) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202011215.pdf

SENTENCING-SUBSTANTIVE UNREASONABLENESS: Court abuses its discretion when it (1) fails to afford consideration to relevant factors that were due significant weight, (2) gives significant weight to an improper or irrelevant factor, or (3) commits a clear error of judgment in considering the proper factors. Four month upward variance is not substantively unreasonable for repeat violations of supervision. USA v. Moore, No. 20-11215 (11th Cir. 1/13/22) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202011215.pdf

CONTEMPT-ALLOCUTION: A court may hold a defendant in summary contempt without notice or a prior opportunity to be heard. Notice and at least a brief opportunity to be heard should be afforded as a matter of course in criminal contempt proceedings, but case law so holding speaks of norms, not absolute rules. USA v. Moore, No. 20-11215 (11th Cir. 1/13/22) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202011215.pdf

CONTEMPT: Six month sentence for direct contempt by Defendant who in open court said "He's full of shit. . . I didn't do nothing to nobody." Defendant's disruptions were not a "single isolated use of street vernacular." USA v. Moore, No. 20-11215 (11th Cir. 1/13/22) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202011215.pdf

DISCOVERY-VIOLATION: Defendant is entitled to a new trial for ax murder where State failed to disclose that the Victim's son had been a confidential informant against another suspect (Both the son and the other suspect were possible perpetrators under the Defendant's theory of the case) Brady requires the State to disclose material information within its possession or control that is favorable to the defense. To establish a Brady violation, a defendant must demonstrate that (1) the evidence was either exculpatory or impeaching; (2) the evidence was willfully or inadvertently suppressed by the State; and (3) because the evidence was material, the defendant was prejudiced. CONFRONTATION CLAUSE: The Confrontation Clause requires that the reliability and veracity of the evidence against a criminal defendant be tested by cross-examination, not determined by a trial court. Avsenew v. State, SC18-1629 (1/13/22)

VENUE: Defendant may not be tried in a venue where he did not commit any of the conduct elements of the charged crimes. Defendant who lives in Alabama and illegally accessed the Victim's servers in Orlando (Middle District of Florida), may not be prosecuted in Pensacola (Northern District of Florida) for theft of trade secrets. The essential conduct element of the crime is that the defendant must steal, take without authorization, or obtain by fraud or deception trade-secret information. The effects of a crime are a not permissible basis for venue. USA v. Smith, No. 20-12667 (11th Cir. 1/12/22)

VENUE-COUNTS: Defendant's conviction for extortion in court where venue is proper is affirmed notwithstanding that the conviction for a separate count of theft of trade secrets is vacated for improper venue. Vacatur of a conviction on one count due to improper venue and affirmance of a conviction on another count is proper. USA v. Smith, No. 20-12667 (11th Cir. 1/12/22)

JURISDICTION: Defendant, who was traveling from Indiana to Florida, is properly convicted of murder in Florida when his emaciated three month old child is found dead of starvation when the family stops at a restaurant in Lakeland. Territorial jurisdiction is a jury question once the State proves that the victim died in Florida If the body of a homicide victim is found within the state, the death is presumed to have occurred within the state. If Defendant provides an unrefuted explanation that the offense occurred outside Florida, JOA is required; if the explanation is not conclusive it is not. Stephens v. State, 1D19-3429 (1/12/22)

HEARSAY-STATEMENTS AGAINST PENAL INTEREST: Defendant's

Wife's (a co-defendant) jailhouse letter taking blame for the starvation death of her three week old daughter and exonerating Defendant is not admissible as a statements against penal interest nor under Chambers v. Mississippi where court finds the letter not trustworthy enough to warrant admission. Stephens v. State, 1D19-3429 (1/12/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/821277/opinion/193427_DC05_01122022_133410_i.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-SINGLE HOMICIDE RULE: Convictions for both first-degree murder and aggravated manslaughter of a child do not violate the state and federal constitutional proscriptions against double jeopardy. The single homicide rule no longer exists. Under Blockburger, dual convictions are permitted. The offenses are not different degrees of the same offense, and thus do not fall under the degree-variant exception. Stephens v. State, 1D19-3429 (1/12/22) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/821277/opinion/193427_DC05_01122022_133410_i.pdf

DICTA: A purely gratuitous observation or remark made in pronouncing an opinion and which concerns some rule, principle, or application of law not necessarily involved in the case or essential to its determination is obiter dictum, pure and simple. DOUBLE JEOPARDY-DEGREE VARIANT EXCEPTION: Question Certified: Are first-degree murder and aggravated manslaughter of a child degrees of the same offense as contemplated by §775.021(4)(b)(2). APPEAL-PRESERVATION-CONTEMPORANEOUS OBJECTION RULE:

Under the contemporaneous objection rule, parties must object when an error occurs during trial to allow appellate review. The party must then make the same specific contention on appeal. Where Counsel had waited until the jury had retired to deliberate ("I don't believe in, in interrupting counsel in closing arguments."), the objection is not preserved. Smith v. State, 1D20-106 (1/12/22)

ARGUMENT: Prosecutor's statements to jury that if they believe the accusers the burden of proof shifts to the Defendant or improper but the Defendant has no right to relief because he invited the error because he refused a curative instruction. Smith v. State, 1D20-106 (1/12/22)

CHILD HEARSAY: Late notice of intent to admit child hearsay is not reversible error where the Defendant did not show prejudice and invited the error in order to bolster a possible appeal. Defendant cannot create an error by failing to try to set a hearing and then benefit from the error on appeal. Smith v. State, 1D20-106 (1/12/22)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-DOG SNIFF: A well-trained dog's alert establishes a fair probability—all that is required for probable cause—that either drugs or evidence of a drug crime will be found. Regardless of whether the smell of marijuana is indistinguishable from that of hemp, the smell from a vehicle continues to provide probable cause for a warrantless search of the vehicle. The possibility that a driver might be a medical-marijuana user would not automatically defeat probable cause. Collie v. State, 1D21-103 (1/12/22)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BAKER ACT: Warrantless search of wallet of Defendant who is being Baker Acted is unlawful. Deputy may not open her wallet and search its contents without a warrant. "Local law enforcement agency policies may be indicative of whether a search occasioned by a noncriminal seizure is reasonable, but they do not dictate ipso facto the parameters of the Fourth Amendment." S.P. v. State, 2D21-631 (1/7/22)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: In motion to suppress, Court must determine whether officers had sufficient basis to place Defendant under Baker Act custody; Court may not merely defer to the officer's judgment. "It appears the circuit court determined (at least implicitly) that the sheriff's deputies appropriately took S.P. into protective custody because the court felt it could not review a law enforcement officer's decision to do so under the Baker Act. We must correct that misconception at the outset." S.P. v. State, 2D21-631 (1/7/22)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BAKER ACT: Defendant--perhaps--is unlawfully taken into custody under Baker Act on a report that she was drunk, armed, and suicidal where she was not crying, was uninjured, and was able to communicate appropriately (issue is considered but not decided). SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BAKER ACT: Absent a recognized exception, a law enforcement officer must ordinarily obtain a warrant before searching the personal effects of a person. A Baker Act seizure is not a recognized exception. S.P. v. State, 2D21-631 (1/7/22)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BAKER ACT-OFFICER SAFETY: The necessity of ensuring safety when subject is Baker Acted does not create an inchoate warrant to bypass every protection of the Fourth Amendment. Police policy of searching people before transporting them in the cruiser is insufficient justification for the search of one's wallet. "The deputy went a step too far under the Fourth Amendment when he opened the wallet and searched its contents." "[S]earching the wallet of a person who was already handcuffed and in custody for a mental health assessment was unnecessary to ensure anyone's safety." S.P. v. State, 2D21-631 (1/7/22)

APPEAL-JURISDICTION: Supreme Court lacks jurisdiction to entertain an appeal based on conflict within the same district on the same legal issue. Discretionary jurisdiction under this clause only exists when a decision from one district court conflicts with a decision of another district court of appeal. COMPETENCY-: Court is not required to sua sponte order a new competency evaluation upon a violation of probation for a Defendant who had previously been diagnosed as having been restored to competency.

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A 15 year sentence imposed nunc pro tunc after probation was revoked is not illegal because it is within the statutory maximum. To be illegal within the meaning of rule 3.800(a) the sentence must impose a kind of punishment that no judge under the entire body of sentencing statutes could possibly inflict under any set of factual circumstances. If it is possible under all the sentencing statutes-given a specific set of facts-to impose a particular sentence, then the sentence will not be illegal within rule 3.800(a) even though the judge erred in imposing it. DEFINITION-NUNC PRO TUNC: Nunc pro tunc means 'now for then' and when applied to the entry of a legal order or judgment it normally does not refer to a new or fresh (de novo) decision, as when a decision is made after the death of a party, but relates to a ruling or action actually previously made or done but concerning which for some reason the record thereof is defective or omitted. The later record making does not itself have a retroactive effect but it constitutes the later evidence of a prior effectual act. Copeland v. State, 3D21-1913 (1/5/22)

APPEAL-RECONSTRUCTED RECORD: Where it was discovered that a portion of Defendant's direct testimony was not transcribed due to the notes having been stolen from the court reporter's car, the State may prepare a partial reconstruction of the record which may be deemed sufficient for appellate review for the Defendant provided no independent recollection in his objections were heard considered and rejected by the trial court. Carbaugh v. State, 4D18-3591 (1/5/22)

SENTENCING-ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT: Where the Court orally sentences the Defendant to 10 years, but the written judgment reflected a sentence of 15 years, the orally pronounced sentence stands. A court's oral pronouncement of sentence controls over the written document. Carey v. State, 4D19-3753 (1/5/22)

DOMESTIC BATTERY: For a battery to be considered under the domestic violence statute, it must result in the physical injury or death of one family or household member by another family or household member. Where the jury instruction failed to mention domestic violence in any way, Defendant may not be sentenced using that designation. Under Alleyne, the judge is precluded from making the domestic violence finding on her own, regardless whether the despite domestic battery the charge was submitted to the jury. Narvaez v. RESTITUTION: An award of restitution may not be based on speculation, but documentary evidence is not always a prerequisite to establishing an amount for an award of restitution.Victim's testimony about out-of-pocket losses actually paid, as opposed to estimates of loss, is sufficient to establish proof of the amount for restitution purposes. State v. P.C.L., 4D20-2002 (1/5/22)

RESTITUTION-ABILITY TO PAY: While a court may order a delinquent child pay restitution without a showing of present ability to pay, it nevertheless must determine what that child might reasonably be expected to earn upon finding suitable employment and base the amount of restitution on those anticipated earnings. SCORESHEET-SIMILAR OUT OF STATE CONVICTIONS: Georgia burglary convictions should have been scored as 3rd degree felonies because the Georgia statute did not distinguish between burglary of a structure and burglary of a dwelling. Sanchez v. State, 4D20-2476 (1/5/22)

COSTS-PER COUNT: Where county adopted by ordinance an additional court cost, not to exceed $65, the imposition of the $65 additional court cost is per count, not per case. Sanchez v. State, 4D20-2476 (1/5/22) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/818694/opinion/202476_DC08_01052022_101013_i.pdf

SCORESHEET: Where there are errors in the scoresheet, they are harmless if the record conclusively shows that the trial court would have imposed the same sentence using a correct scoresheet. Any error here is deemed harmless in this case. Jenkins v. State, 4D 20-2701 (1/5/22) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/818696/opinion/202701_DC08_01052022_101133_i.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTUION: Court may not impose $200 costs of prosecution upon State's request absent evidence to support these higher costs. State does not get a second bite of the apple. Jenkins v. APPEAL-PRESERVATION-DRUG COURT: Trial court's denial of the motion to participate in drug court is not a legally dispositive order to the extent necessary to confer jurisdiction. Review would have to be by petition for certiorari.Graves v. State, 4D20-2728 (1/5/22)

SCORESHEET: Out of state prior convictions for a sex offense are improperly scored as a second degree felony where the elements are different than Florida's L & L statute. Any uncertainty in the scoring of the offender's prior record must be resolved in favor of the offender and disagreement as to the propriety of scoring specific entries in the prior record must be resolved by the sentencing judge. UNANIMOUS VERDICT: Defendant convicted of violating injunction after jury was instructed that Defendant could be found guilty if he violated the injunction in any of the five alternate ways, including by "telephoning, contacting, or otherwise communicating with [the Petitioner], the family of [the Petitioner], or household guests of [the Petitioner] was deprived of his right to a unanimous jury. Court did not clarify that the jury was required to unanimously agree on at least one of the five specific acts. Where a single count embraces two or more separate offenses, albeit in violation of the same statute, the jury cannot convict unless its verdict is unanimous as to at least one specific act. By allowing the State to tell the jury it could convict Defendant based on any of the five distinct acts without clarifying that the jury was required to unanimously agree on at least one specific act, the trial court compromised the unanimity of the jury's verdict. BAKER ACT: Subject who was bipolar and experiencing a manic episode is improperly committed under the Baker Act absent any recent incidents of violence. Conclusory testimony, unsubstantiated by facts in evidence, is insufficient to satisfy the statutory criteria by the clear and convincing evidence standard. The need for treatment and medication and the refusal to take psychotropic medication despite a deteriorating mental condition, standing alone, do not justify involuntary commitment. Bess v. APPEAL-POST CONVICTION RELIEF-COUNSEL-FEDERAL APPOINTMENT: State lacks jurisdiction to appeal appointment of federal counsel (Capital Habeas Unit) for death row inmate in state postconviction proceedings. The State cannot establish standing based on a hypothetical conflict of interest that is not actual or imminent. Booker v. Secretary, DOC, No. 20-14539 (11th Cir. 1/3/22)

STANDING: There are three elements of Article III standing, each of which the State bears the burden of establishing. First, the State must show that it has suffered an injury in fact. Second, there must be a causal connection between the injury and the conduct complained of. Third, it must be likely, as opposed to merely speculative, that the injury will be redressed by a favorable decision. Booker v. Secretary, DOC, No. 20-14539 (11th Cir. 1/3/22)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202014539.pdf

APPEAL-POST CONVICTION RELIEF-COUNSEL-FEDERAL APPOINTMENT: [T]he State's asserted basis for standing is not the appointment of counsel nor the provision of federal funds to counsel. Indeed, the State concedes that it has no interest in how federal funds are spent. Rather, the alleged injury, as the State explains in its brief, is the appearance of CHU counsel in state court. What we have, then, is a mismatch between the effect of the order the State is challenging and the injury it claims to be asserting. The district court's order simply does not control which lawyers appear in state proceedings; such determinations remain the prerogative of state courts. And because state courts are empowered to reject appearances by CHU counsel, the district court's order appointing federal counsel cannot have inflicted an injury on Florida's sovereignty. Booker v. Secretary, DOC, No. 20-14539 (11th Cir. 1/3/22)

DECEMBER 2021

SENTENCING-DANGEROUSNESS-UPWARD DEPARTURE: Court improperly instructed the jury to determine whether Defendant himself could present a danger to the public, as opposed whether a nonstate prison sentence could present a danger to the public. Pine v. State, 5D20-2460 (12/30/21)

https://www.5dca.org/content/download/817850/opinion/202460_DC08_12302021_082507_i.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: Florida courts follow the supremacy-of-text principle—namely, the principle that the words of a governing text are of paramount concern, and what they convey, in their context, is what the text means. While the difference between the dangerousness of the Defendant and the dangerousness of a non-state prison sentence may seem negligible at first glance, there exist sentencing options other than state prison which could limit the danger a defendant might pose to the public. Pine v. State, 5D20-2460 (13/30/21)

PRR: The Prison Releasee Reoffender Act is not unconstitutional for allowing the judge, rather than the jury, to determine whether a defendant qualifies as a prison releasee reoffender for sentencing purposes. Williams v. State, 5D21-736 (12/30/21)

COSTS: Court may not impose a $50 investigative cost that was not requested by the State or agency and was not orally pronounced. Figueroa v. State, 5D21-1989 (12/30/21)

10/20/LIFE-CONSECUTIVE PROBATION: Florida's 10-20-Life statute does not separately create a new statutory maximum penalty of life imprisonment for crimes in which 10-20-Life sentencing applies. Defendant convicted of a second degree felony of aggravated battery with a firearm may be sentenced to years under the 10-20-life enhancement, but may not be given consecutive probation. Any portion of the defendant's sentence for the second-degree felony that exceeds the mandatory minimum sentence and the statutory maximum is illegal. Ray v. State, 5D21-2235 (12/30/21)

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Where the presiding judge commented that he believed the Defendant had traveled to Volusia County to "molest that little girl" before the State had offered evidence in the case, disqualification is appropriate. While a judge may form mental impressions and opinions during the course of hearing evidence, he or she may not prejudge the case.

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-WRIT OF CERTIORARI: A decision on an extraordinary writ petition that clearly shows that the issue was considered by the court on the merits is deemed a decision which would later bar the litigant from presenting the issue under the doctrines of rews judicata or collateral estoppel. LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR-RESENTENCING: Court order for a status conference on minor's motion for re-sentencing is not a dispositive order on the motion. Defendant is not entitled to resentencing based on Michel, which receded from Atwell. Jackson v. State, 1D20-2528 (12/29/21)

court has been later overruled, before a trial court's judicial labor is complete, the trial court has the authority to disregard that order and change its ruling to comply with the new legal standards. A trial court can disregard a mandate from an appellate court when it is undoubtedly certain that the basis for that mandate has been subsequently overruled before the trial court can comply with the mandate. JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: Defendant is not entitled to JOA for homicide where he shot unarmed man for parking in a disabled parking space, and where motion was "purely boilerplate." In moving for a judgment of acquittal, a defendant must identify the element, orelements, of a crime for which he or she contends the evidence is lacking. Drejka v. State, 2D19-4385 (12/29/21)

EVIDENCE-WILLIAMS RULE: In case of homicide provoked by Victim parking in a disabled parking space, Court does not err in allowing evidence of another incident where Defendant confronted and threatened someone for parking in a disabled parking space. Collateral crime evidence need not be absolutely identical to the crime charged. Similar fact evidence used to prove facts other than identity need not meet the rigid similarity requirement. Drejka v. State, 2D19-4385 (12/29/21)

JUROR-REMOVAL: Court did not err in failing to remove a juror who had hugged a spectator, an acquaintance, who was related to the NAACP where the juror did not know that the individual that approached him was observing the trial in an overflow courtroom and the two did not discuss the case at all. Drejka v. State, 2D19-4385 (12/29/21)

JUVENILE OFFENDER-RESENTENCING-ESTOPPEL: Once State admitted that Juvenile Offender is entitled to resentencing, it is estopped from arguing to the contrary. A party may not ordinarily take one position in proceedings at the trial level and then take an inconsistent position on appeal. Scott v. State, 20-998 (12/29/21)

PLEA OFFER: State may revoke a plea offer between the time it is extended and the Court decides whether the proposed sentence is lawful. State has wide discretion inextending and withdrawing plea offers; no plea offer or negotiation is binding until it is accepted bythe trial judge formally after making all the inquiries, advisements, and determinations required. Scott v. State, 20-998 (12/29/21)

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Where a resentencing hearing is ordered, the Defendant may withdraw his plea. Rule 3.170 allows a plea to be withdrawn in two circumstances: 1) Court may allow it, and must allow it for good cause, at any time before a sentence is imposed, and 2) within thirty days after rendition of the sentence on certain enumerated grounds. A resentencing hearing is by definition before sentencing, so Defendant may move to withdraw his plea. If the imposition of a new sentence following resentencing affords a defendant the same plea-withdrawal rights that he possessed following the rendition of his original sentence, the revocation of a defendant's original sentence should likewise grant the defendant the same presentencing plea-withdrawal rights he enjoyed before. Scott v. State, 20-998 (12/29/21)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Where Defendant spent different amounts of time on three different cases and the Court awarded the highest number of days on each case to run concurrently, and if fewer days had been awarded on some of the cases on those counts the sentence would have been below the Lowest Permissible Sentence, the sentences are not a downward departure. Court may not rescind credit for time served inappropriately awarded, even if clearly erroneous. "[H]owever, we caution the trial court that the imposition of jail credit should be limited to that due based on time spent in jail for each offense." A defendant who is arrested for different offenses on different dates is not entitled to have jail credit applied equally to all prison sentences even though the sentences are run concurrently. SENTENCING-HABITUAL VIOLENT FELONY OFFENDER: Defendant does not qualify as a HVFO notwithstanding that thirty days had not passed since his predicate robbery conviction, which accordingly was not yet final. ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT-SENTENCING: Georgia's terroristic threats statute is divisible, and a threat to commit any crime of violence qualifies as a predicate offense under the ACCA. Under the ACCA, a "violent felony" is defined as any crime punishable by a term of imprisonment exceeding one year that has as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person of another. A threat to commit any crime of violence qualifies as a violent felony under the ACCA's elements clause. USA v. Sharp, No. 20-12574 (11th Cir. 12/28/21)

SENTENCING-ACCA-CATEGORICAL APPROACH: To determine whether a prior conviction qualifies as a violent felony under the elements clause, when the statute in question is "indivisible," the "categorical approach," is applied, by which only the elements of the statute of conviction, not the specific conduct of a particular offender, are examined. When the statute is "divisible," i.e., it lists multiple, alternative elements which effectively creates several different crimes, the modified categorical approach is applied. Under the modified categorical approach, a limited class of documents, including the indictment, jury instructions, or plea agreements and colloquy are considered to determine which of the multiple crimes listed in the alternatively phrased statute the defendant was convicted of committing. Because the modified categorical approach plays no role when a statute of conviction is indivisible, a court must first determine whether a statute is divisible before proceeding with an analysis under either approach. USA v. Sharp, No. 20-12574 (11th Cir. 12/28/21)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-CHANGE OF LAW: Where an intervening change in the law occurs within the period of time allotted for filing a notice of appeal, issue need not be preserve by objection at the time of sentencing. APPEAL-PRESERVATION: Defendant's hearsay claim is not preserved for appeal because Castro-Mendez failed to make a contemporaneous objection to the lack of notice or factual findings on the reliability of the child hearsay statement. An objection to the legal sufficiency of the trial court's findings on the reliability of a child hearsay statement is necessary to preserve the issue for review A general hearsay objection is not sufficient to preserve the issue for appellate review. CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED; DOC is responsible for granting jail time credit when there is a delay between sentencing and transport from jail to prison. The trial court is not required to grant him forty additional days of credit in addition to the time he spent in jail awaiting resentencing on the theory that because the original forty days he spent in jail awaiting transport are now, in effect, presentence jail time as a result of his de novo resentencing. The nature of the credit for time spent in jail awaiting transport to the DOC after initial sentencing does not change its character upon subsequent resentencing. Rogers v. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SCORESHEET-VICTIM INJURY: Vctim injury points are only proper when the underlying offense caused the victim injury; Scoresheet improperly includes 120 victim injury points when there was no evidence that the victim died because Defendant fled the scene of the accident. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Claim that counsel was ineffective for misadvice about scoring victim injury points is facially insufficient where it does not include a request to withdraw the plea. JOA: The fact that the evidence is contradictory does not warrant a judgment of acquittal because the weight of the evidence and the witnesses' credibility are questions solely for the jury. In moving for a judgment of acquittal, a defendant admits not only the facts stated in the evidence adduced, but also admits every conclusion favorable to the adverse party that a jury might fairly and reasonably infer from the evidence. EVIDENCE-EXPERT: Expert from laboratory which tested Victim's blood and urine is permitted to give her opinion as to whether Victim had been drugged and the potential impact on her of combining three alcoholic drinks with a central nervous system depressant. Abdallah v. State, 3D19-1581 (12/22/21)

EVIDENCE-VIDEO SURVEILLANCE-AUTHENTICATION: There are two methods to authenticate evidence such as an apartment building's surveillance video: the pictorial method and the silent witness method. The pictorial method depends upon testimony of a witness, based on personalknowledge, that the video or photo is a fair and accurate portrayal. The silent witness method depends upon proof that the process that produced the video or photo was reliable. Abdallah v. State, 3D19-1581 (12/22/21)

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: Defendant's statements must be suppressed where he requested an attorney, then (four weeks later) initiated a conversation with a deputy (asking why he was at the hospital), and deputy asked questions which were reasonably likely to elicit, and did elicit, incriminating responses. "Despite the horrible facts underlying these convictions, we are compelled to reverse these convictions and remand for a new trial due to a violation of the defendant's Miranda rights." Thorough discussion. Penna v. State, 4D20-345 (12/22/21)

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: Defendant's spontaneous (i.e., unelicited) statements are admissible, but those statements which the deputy procured by expanding the conversation by asking questions designed to elicit incriminating responses without re-Mirandizing the defendant are not. Error not harmless, Penna v. State, 4D20-345 (12/22/21)

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: Police must remind the accused of their Miranda rights before interrogation is reinitiated. The initiation of a conversation by an accused after having invoked the right to counsel does not amount to a waiver of the right to counsel. Penna v. State, 4D20-345 (12/22/21)

HARMLESS ERROR: Overwhelming evidence of guilt does not negate the fact that an error that constituted a substantial part of the prosecution's case may have played a substantial part in the jury's deliberation and thus contributed to the actual verdict reached. The test is not a sufficiency-of-the-evidence, a correct result, a not clearly wrong, a substantial evidence, a more probable than not, a clear and convincing, or even an overwhelming evidence test...The question is whether there is a reasonable possibility that the error affected the verdict. The burden to show the error was harmless must remain on the state. If the appellate court cannot say beyond a reasonable doubt that the error did not affect the verdict, then the error is by definition harmful. Penna v. State, 4D20-345 (12/22/21)

VAMPIRISM: "The defendant then asked the deputy if drinking the victims' blood was a serious crime." "Once I stabbed the guys at the house and drank the blood, I knew I just gotta keep going." Penna v. State, 4D20-345 (12/22/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SCORESHEET: Sentencing scoresheet errors, including mistakes in offense-level scoring, are cognizable in a rule 3.800(a) motion. Zeno v. State, 2D20-2266 (12/17/21)

SCORESHEET-LPS: Where Defendant's lowest permissible sentence should have been 25.0625 years under a correctly calculated scoresheet, Court improperly imposed a 30 year sentence on one of the counts (a second-degree felony). VOP-JURISDICTION-MOOTNESS: Once a defendant has served an invalid or illegal sentence to completion, the trial court cannot set it aside because the issue has become moot. Lucas v. State, 5D21-2403 (12/17/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SEXUAL PREDATOR: Although a sexual predator designation is considered a status, and not a punishment or sentence, a defendant is neverthelesspermitted to seek correction of an allegedly erroneous sexual predator pursuant to R. 3.800(a), but only if it is apparent from the face of the record that the defendant does not meet the criteria. CYBERSTALKING: Defendant who sent taunting, threatening messages to families of Marjorie Stoneman Douglas massacre victims is properly convicted of cyberstalking. True threats are entitled to no First Amendment protection. True threats encompass those statements where the speaker means to communicate a serious expression of an intent to commit an act of unlawful violence to a particular individual or group of individuals. The speaker does not have to actually intend to carry out the threat for the statement to constitute a true threat. USA v. Fleury, No. 20[11307 (11th Cir. 12/16/21)

OVERBREADTH: Cyberstalking requires proof that (1) the defendant had the requisite intent; (2) the defendant engaged in a course of conduct; (3) the defendant used a facility of interstate commerce; and (4) the defendant's course of conduct caused, attempted to cause, or would be reasonably expected to cause substantial emotional distress. USA v. Fleury, No. 20[11307 (11th Cir. 12/16/21)

OVERBREADTH: A statute is impermissibly overbroad under the First Amendment—and facially unconstitutional—if it prohibits a substantial amount of protected speech. The mere fact that one can conceive of some impermissible applications of a statute is not sufficient to render it susceptible to an overbreadth challenge. USA v. Fleury, No. 20[11307 (11th Cir. 12/16/21)

EXPERT TESTIMONY: Testimony from Government's expert equating Defendant with Jeffrey Dahmer and Ted Kaczynski was not plain error. USA v. Fleury, No. 20[11307 (11th Cir. 12/16/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202011037.pdf

CYBERSTALKING: The scienter that required for cyberstalking is intent to harass and intent to intimidate. The government need not prove Defendant's subjective intent to communicate a true threat to convict him of cyberstalking. Because the plain language of §2261A(2) establishes a mens rea requirement sufficient to separate wrongful conduct from otherwise innocent conduct, Court need not impose an additional, subjective-intent requirement. When a statute contains an express mental state requirement, the district court should not read an additional mens rea requirement into the text; such a position make sense. USA v. Fleury, No. 20[11307 (11th Cir. 12/16/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Claims of vindictive sentencing and bias are not errors in the sentence itself, but errors in the sentencing process, and thus cannot be raised under R. 3.800. Dallas v. State, 1D21-680 (12/15/21)

INFORMATION-AMENDMENT: State may amend the information (changing the mode of sexual battery) during jury selection. The state may substantively amend an information during trial, even over the objection of the defendant unless there is a showing of prejudice to the substantial rights of the defendant. Defendant waived any error by rejecting the trial court's contemporaneous offer to immediately continue the trial to another date. Bankston v. State, 4D20-231 (12/15/21)

EVIDENCE-VICTIM'S CHARACTER: Court properly excluded evidence suggesting that victim had exploited an older man for money, in order to show that her accusation against Defendant was extortionary. The victim's prior relationship was too dissimilar to the facts at issue here and not probative of her alleged bias or improper motive for testifying against the defendan, but rather was improper character evidence. LIMITATION OF ACTIONS-DILIGENT SEARCH: Defendant is entitled to discharge when information, timely filed, was not served within the period of limitations (here, two years. JUDICIAL REVIEW (J. Gorsuch): The chilling effect associated with a potentially unconstitutional law being on the books is insufficient to justify federal intervention in a pre-enforcement suit. "[O]ne thing this Court may never do is disregard the traditional limits on the jurisdiction of federal courts just to see a favored result win the day." Whole Woman's Health v. Jackson, No. 21–463 (U.S. S. Ct. 2/10/2021)

JUDICIAL REVIEW-(J. Thomas, concurring/dissenting): A federal court's jurisdiction in equity extends no further than the jurisdiction in equity exercised by the High Court of Chancery in England at the time of the adoption of the Constitution and the enactment of the original Judiciary Act. SAY WHAT?--(J. Thomas, concurring/dissenting): Texas's anti-abortion law (S. B. 8) does not unduly burden abortion providers or patients. " Simply put, S. B. 8's supporters are under greater threat of litigation than its detractors." Whole Woman's Health v. Jackson, No. 21–463 (U.S. S. Ct. 2/10/2021)

ABORTION (C.J. ROBERTS, concurring/dissenting): Texas las banning abortion after six weeks of pregnancy is contrary to this Court's decisions in Roe v. Wade and Casey and "has had the effect of denying the exercise of what we have held is a right protected under the Federal Constitution.' Indeed, '[i]f the legislatures of the several states may, at will, annul the judgments of the courts of the United States, and destroy the rights acquired under those judgments, the constitution itself becomes a solemn mockery.'. . .The nature of the federal right infringed does not matter; it is the role of the Supreme Court in our constitutional system that is at stake." Whole Woman's Health v. Jackson, No. 21–463 (U.S. S. Ct. 2/10/2021)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/21pdf/21-463_new_8o6b.pdf

CONSTITUTION (J. SOTOMAYOR, dissenting): By foreclosing suit against state-court officials and the state attorney general, the Court effectively invites other States to refine S. B. 8's model for nullifying federal rights. The Court thus betrays not only the citizens of Texas, but also our constitutional system of government. Whole Woman's Health v. Jackson, No. 21–463 (U.S. S. Ct. 2/10/2021)

CONSTITUTION (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "My disagreement with the Court runs far deeper than a quibble over how many defendants these petitioners may sue. The dispute is over whether States may nullify federal constitutional rights by employing schemes like the one at hand. The Court indicates that they can, so long as they write their laws to more thoroughly disclaim all enforcement by state officials, including licensing officials. This choice to shrink from Texas' challenge to federal supremacy will have far-reaching repercussions. I doubt the Court, let alone the country, is prepared for them. . .[T]he Court clears the way for States to reprise and perfect Texas' scheme in the future to target the exercise of any right recognized by this Court with which they disagree." CONSTITUTION (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "[T]he point of a constitutional right is that its protection does not turn on the whims of a political majority or supermajority. . . .[T]he Court leaves all manner of constitutional rights more vulnerable than ever before, to the great detriment of our Constitution and our Republic." Whole Woman's Health v. Jackson, No. 21–463 (U.S. S. Ct. 2/10/2021)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A sentence reduction under section 404(b) of the First Step Act of 2018 does not qualify as a "new judgment" for purposes of the bar on second or successive §2255 motions under the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 ("AEDPA"), so that any subsequent habeas petition will be deemed "second or successive," and the defendant must first obtain authorization from the Court of Appeals before filing a second §2255 habeas petition. Without such authorization, a district court lacks jurisdiction and must dismiss the motion. Telcy v. USA, No. 19-13029 (11th Cir. 12/10/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant files a timely motion for voluntary dismissal of a rule 3.850 motion, and the state suffers no prejudice, such a motion should be granted without prejudice to the appellant's right to file a subsequent motion, notwithstanding that the court put forth a substantial amount of work clarifying the procedural history of the cases for Defendant and the potential consequences of withdrawing his negotiated pleas. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Deadline for filing a R. 3.850 motion is tolled where Defendant was in federal custody and did not have access to Florida legal materials similar to the access in a state correctional facility. An uncounseled prisoner held in an out-of-state jurisdiction who is not represented by counsel and who does not have access to Florida statutes, rules, and forms has been deprived of meaningful access to the Florida courts. JOA: Defendant may be convicted of murder for killing his girlfriend with a brick in a fit of jealous rage where the evidence was circumstantial, but the

HEARSAY: The statements of the victim's mother and aunt that her former boyfriend had threatened to kill her and "leave her dead body at the doorstep," implying a different perpertrator. is inadmissible as hearsay. "In fact, it was double hearsay." The statement is not admissible to show to show the declarant's state of mind (which is not relevant) nor to show that the police did a poor investigation, which was otherwise fully presented. COSTS OF INCARCERATION: If a defendant is convicted of a capital or life felony, a liquidated cost of incarceration of $250,000 applies. If the defendant is convicted of any other degree of crime, the applicable amount is $50 per day for each day of his incarcerative sentence. It is improper to impose costs of incarceration in both amounts. Slanker v. State, 5D20-2373 (12/3/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Recantation of a co-defendant's trial testimony does not warrant a new trial where, according to the codefendant's sworn affidavit, he only testified against Defendant because law enforcement coerced him to do so, but the trial court disbelieves him. The standard for reviewing recantation of testimony as grounds for a new trial is to deny relief unless the trial court is satisfied the recantation testimony is true. Borders v. State, 5D21-921 (12/3/21)

RESTITUTION: Court erred in ordering Defendant to pay $68,043.38, representing the $41,043.38 for a new GPS and an additional $25,000, for the unpaid portion of the missing GPS. While intended to make the victim whole, restitution is not intended to provide a victim with a windfall. While it may seem unfair that Victim owes money on a GPS unit that he no longer possesses, the balance is a product of his financial decision. Prior to his truck being stolen, Victim owed $25,000 and had a used GPS unit. As it stands, he now has his $25,000 loan paid off and a new GPS unit, thus resulting in an improper windfall. The proper restitution amount is reflected by the GPS unit's fair market value. Haynes v. State, 5D21-1010 (12/3/21)

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS-REMORSE: A trial court, when imposing a sentence on a defendant who has voluntarily chosen to allocute and maintain his innocence at the sentencing hearing, does not violate the defendant's due process rights by considering the defendant's failure to take responsibility for his actions. Lack of remorse and refusal to accept responsibility can be valid sentencing considerations when sentencing within the statutory range. Davis v. State, SC19-716 (12/2/21)

STARE DECISIS: Precedent that Court may not use Defendant's claim of innocence against a defendant at sentencing is a violation of due process "constitutes dicta that we expressly disapprove." Davis v. State, SC19-716 (12/2/21)

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: "The trial judge had numerous valid reasons for imposing the maximum sentence here, but. . .he did not need to articulate any reason. The judge was statutorily authorized to impose a sentence up to fifteen years based solely on the fact of the conviction, regardless of any sentencing considerations and whether or not Davis took responsibility for his actions. . .Whether a defendant says nothing at sentencing or takes full responsibility and is able to show that he is a pillar of the community, a judge retains the discretion to impose the maximum sentence." SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: "We hold that when a defendant voluntarily chooses to allocute at a sentencing hearing, the sentencing court is permitted to consider the defendant's freely offered statements, including those indicating a failure to accept responsibility." SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS (J. POLSTON, DISSENTING): "I dissent from the majority's decision holding that a trial court can punish a defendant for his lack of remorse during a sentencing proceeding. This result is inconsistent with our precedent interpreting article I, section 9 of the Florida Constitution, the consensus among the district courts of appeal, and has no basis in our statutory sentencing scheme. Showing remorse is admitting you did something wrong—an admission of guilt. And increasing a defendant's sentence based on the failure to show remorse is punishing a defendant for failing to admit guilt. Punishing someone unless they confess guilt of a crime is a violation of due process and the right against self-incrimination." Davis v. State, SC19-716 (12/2/21)

FIREARM PURCHASE: FDLE has an affirmative obligation to identify and get copies of the underlying records supporting the disqualification when a potential firearm buyer appeals a nonapproval based on those records. NICS results alone cannot take away a person's constitutional right to possess orpurchase a firearm. FDLE cannot make the determination that a person's constitutional right to purchase a firearm has been stripped away based solely on a hearsay document such as an NICS printout. Lynch v. FDLE, 1D19-4217 (12/1/21)

TOO MANY ACRONYMS: When some guy attempts to purchase a firearm from an FFL, which under federal law is required to contact NICS unless the FFL is located in a state that has a POC, which in Florida is FDLE, whereupon the POC takes care of contacting the NICS and conducting a check of the information contained in the FCIC and NCIC, and then informing the FFL whether the records indicate the person is prohibited from receiving a firearm, and if so, providing the FFL with a nonapproval number, or, if the person is not prohibited, then the POC/FDLE is required to give the FFL a unique approval number. If the records in question are held by the NYDCJS, the POC, not the guy, must obtain the potentially disqualifying document. Lynch v. FDLE, 1D19-4217 (12/1/21)

COSTS-VOP: The assessment of the minimum amounts for prosecution costs and legal assistance fees in each violation proceeding resulting in a determination of violation of probation or community control is required notwithstanding that they were previously imposed when Defendant was first adjudicated guilty and placed on probation. WRIT OF CERTIORARI: A decision on an extraordinary writ petition that clearly shows that the issue was considered by the court on the merits is deemed a decision which would later bar the litigant from presenting the issue under the doctrines of res judicata or collateral estoppel. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-JURY: A defendant who personally affirms his acceptance of the jury panel will not be heard to complain in a postconviction motion that his counsel was ineffective for allowing a biased juror to serve on his jury. Kitt v. State, 1D21-868 (12/1/21)

GOLDEN RULE: While golden rule arguments are prohibited, a prosecutor may argue a common-sense inference as to the victim's mental state so long as he or she does not cross the line into asking the jury to imagine the victim's final pain, terror and defenselessness. "You can imagine how the children were reacting" during home invasion robbery and "as you can imagine [the victim's fiancée] and the children are terrified" do not invite the jurors to place themselves in the position of the victim, the victim's fiancée, or the children and thus are not improper. INDEPENDENT ACT: Defendant is not entitled to an independent act instruction where the Victim's death was a foreseeable consequence when codefendant shot him after all codefendants participated in abducting him after a home invasion robbery. It is unquestionably foreseeable that someone could be shot or killed during the events set in motion by Defendant. Kitt v. State, 1D21-868 (12/1/21)

WRIT OF PROHIBITION: A decision on an extraordinary writ petition that clearly shows that the issue was considered by the court on the merits is deemed a decision which would later bar the litigant from presenting the issue under the doctrines of res judicata or collateral estoppel. INDEPENDENT ACT: An independent act of a codefendant occurs when a person other than the defendant commits a crime (1) which the defendant did not intend to occur, (2) in which the defendant did not participate, and (3) which was outside of, and not a reasonably foreseeable consequence of, the common design or unlawful act contemplated by the defendant. Homicide is a foreseeable outcome of an armed robbery. Counsel was not ineffective for advising Defendant against this defense. Bullard v. State, 1D21 2769 (12/1/21)

JUROR-CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE: Juror who said that a completely innocent person cannot be wrongfully accused of of a crime should be excused for cause. "We clarify today that courts and counsel are correct to engage prospective jurors in a dialogue addressing their partialities, biases, prejudices, and misconceptions when they are rooted in a lack of familiarity with the judicial system as part of an effort to rehabilitate in contrast to those immutable opinions and attitudes that arise from personal life experiences and firmly held beliefs. Florida law allows the rehabilitation of jurors whose responses in voir dire raise concerns about their impartiality."

But where a juror's response is not clarified or changed the juror must be stricken for cause. Wright v. State, 3D18-2430 (12/1/21)

JUROR-CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE-PRESERVATION: To preserve challenges for cause to prospective jurors, the defendant must object to the jurors, show that he or she has exhausted all peremptory challenges and requested more that were denied, and identify a specific juror that he or she would have excused if possible. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: When a defendant's initial rule 3.850 motion for post conviction relief is determined to be legally insufficient for failure to meet either the rule's or other pleading requirements, the trial court abuses its discretion when it fails to allow the defendant at least one opportunity to amend the motion. EVIDENCE-SIMILAR BAD ACTS: Obscene videos and images provided to the Child by Defendant are admissible in case of providing obscene material to Child as relevant evidence to corroborate the child's testimony. Such evidence need not be admitted as similar fact evidence under §90.404(2). "While the introduction of the child pornography evidence was certainly harmful to Henson's case, little is more probative to the charge of providing obscene material to a minor than the obscene material itself." SEARCH AND SEIZURE-MARCHMAN ACT: Where Defendant was highly intoxicated, belligerant, and non-compliant, he was properly seized within his house and searched under the Marchman Act. MANDATORY MINIMUM-FIREARM-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES: §775.087(2)(a) requires the imposition of a minimum mandatory period of imprisonment for certain enumerated offenses when the defendant possessed a firearm during the commission of the offense, which must run consecutively to any other term of imprisonment imposed for any other felony offense for a non-qualifying felony, but not to another qualifying felony sentence. In other words, the statute only mandates consecutive sentences if one of the offenses is a qualifying offense and the other offense is not. This is the only scenario under which consecutive sentences are required. If both offenses are qualifying offenses the statute does not require consecutive sentences. Pinkston v. State, 2D20-611 (11/24/21)

MANDATORY MINIMUM-FIREARM-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES: Consecutive sentences for use of a firearm is not required where the offenses occurred during separate criminal episodes. Generally, consecutive sentencing of mandatory minimum imprisonment and migration terms for multiple firearm offenses is impermissible if the offenses arose from the same criminal episode and a firearm was merely possessed but not discharged. It follows, therefore, that a trial court must impose the mandatory minimum sentences concurrently under such circumstances. Pinkston v. State, 2D20-611 (11/24/21)

MANDATORY MINIMUM-FIREARM-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES: If multiple firearm offenses are committed contemporaneously, during which time multiple victims are shot at, then consecutive sentencing is permissible but not mandatory. JUDGMENT: Snap out form for misdemeanor convictions is legally insufficient. Rule 3.986(a) requires a trial court to use a judgment and sentence form which should include an indication of whether the defendant was tried and found guilty by a jury or court, entered a plea of guilty, or entered a plea of no contest; and which should include details regarding the counts, crimes, statute numbers, and degree of the crimes, whether the defendant is adjudicated guilty or whether adjudication of guilt is being; and should be signed by the judge. The form for sentencing should include, at a minimum, the term of the sentence, whether the defendant is to be committed to the custody of the Department of Corrections or the sheriff of the appropriate county, whether the defendant is to complete probation or community control, and whether a sentence is to run consecutively to or concurrently with other counts or convictions. LEAVING SCENE OF ACCIDENT: Defendant is entitled to a judgment of acquittal on charge of leaving the scene of an accident with property damage where he never left the scene, but rather was standing in front of a parked vehicle when the officers arrived. COMPETENCY: Court errs in finding Defendant competent to proceed notwithstanding the uncontested expert testimony to the contrary. We agree

EVIDENCE: Pyschologist's testimony that Defendant is mildly intellectually deficient and had suffered a traumatic childhood is properly excluded in child pornography where she had lewdly posed and photographed her naked children "to please her pedophilic paramour" because the psychiatric evidence does not negate intent and merely presents a dangerously confusing theory of defense more akin to justification and excuse than a legally acceptable theory of lack of mens rea. Presentation of evidence of mental disease or defect, short of insanity, is inadmissible to excuse conduct. USA v. Litzky, No. 20-10709 (11/23/21)

SENTENCING-SUBSTANTIVE UNREASONABLENESS: A 30-year sentence, 600 months below the Guidelines' recommendation, for lewdly posing and photographing her naked children "to please her pedophilic paramour ("Ordinarily, we would spare you the graphic details, but, as it turns out, they're relevant to the sentencing issue we have to decide"), is not substantively unreasonable." MENS REA-EXPERT-CONCURRENCE: The Insanity Defense Reform Act (IDRA), which prohibits the presentation of evidence of mental disease or defect, short of insanity, to excuse conduct, is in tension with precedents holding that psychiatric evidence is still admissible where it negates the mens rea of a specific intent crime and Rule 704(b) which provides that in a criminal case, an expert witness must not state an opinion about whether the defendant did or did not have a mental state or condition that constitutes an element of the crime charged or of a defense. "So, what seems like a prohibition on certain psychiatric evidence (the IDRA) has an exception of sorts (evidence that negates the mens rea of a specific intent crime), but that exception faces an evidentiary rule of exclusion (Rule 704(b)). I'm not sure we've ever really reconciled our rulings on the IDRA, on psychiatric evidence to negate specific intent, and on Rule 704(b). . .[T]he way in which we have applied these legal principles has resulted in a nearly unworkable standard." USA v. Litzky, No. 20-10709 (11/23/21)

RELIGIOUS BELIEF DEFENSE: Anti-nuclear weapon vandals and trespassers at a nuclear naval facility are not entitled to a religious belief defense. To establish a prima facie RFRA claim, a defendant must first show (1) that he or she was exercising (or was seeking to exercise) his or her sincerely held religious belief, and (2) that the government substantially burdened the defendant's religious exercise. "Simply put, RFRA is not a 'get out of jail free card,' shielding from criminal liability individuals who break into secure naval installations and destroy government property, regardless of the sincerity of their religious beliefs. . .[N]othing in RFRA supports destructive, national-security-compromising conduct as a means of religious exercise." USA v. Grady, No. 20-14341 (11th Cir. 11/22/21)

RESTITUTION: In assessing restitution, court need not make findings as to the damage caused by the Defendant's respective individual actions. If the court finds that more than one defendant has contributed to the loss of a victim, the court may make each defendant liable for payment of the full amount of restitution or may apportion liability among the defendants to reflect the level of contribution to the victim's loss and economic circumstances of each defendant. A district court does not exceed its authority by ordering a defendant to pay restitution for losses which result from acts done in furtherance of the conspiracy of which the defendant is convicted. USA v. Grady, No. 20-14341 (11th Cir. 11/22/21)

SENTENCING-ACCEPTANCE OF RESPONSIBILITY: Defendant who went to trial while not denying the acts alleged but asserted an RFRA (religious) defense is not entitled to a reduction for acceptance of responsibility. and continues to deny the illegality of his actions. "Faced with the stark reality of injustice, men of sensitive conscience and great intellect have sometimes found only one morally justified path, and that path led them inevitably into conflict with established authority and its laws. . .However, . . .while in restricted circumstances a morally motivated act contrary to law may be ethically justified, the action must be non-violent and the actor must accept the penalty for his action." JURY INSTRUCTION-INDEPENDENT ACT: The Independent Act Doctrine applies when, after participating in a common plan or design to commit a crime, one of the codefendants embarks on acts not contemplated by the other defendants or participants in the crime, and commits additional criminal acts beyond the scope of the original collaboration. Defendant is entitled to an independent act jury instruction where codefendant committed a robbery during an underlying marijuana buy. Gary v. State, 2D20-740 (9/22/21)

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: The reasonable hypothesis of innocence standard for circumstantial has been abolished. The general standard for review of motions for judgment of acquittal to circumstantial cases is now whether there is competent, substantial evidence to support the verdict. Evidence that Defendant rented the vehicle in question and was the only authorized driver of the vehicle, was seen getting out the driver's side of the vehicle on surveillance footage when he was buying window tint a short time before the accident is sufficient to prove his identity. COMPETENCY EVALUATION-COSTS: Court must appoint an expert to conduct a competency evaluation after finding reasonable grounds existed to question Defendant's competency. The court system Is required to pay for the expert, not the defense. "No authority supports the proposition that cost concerns can justify dispensing with Petitioner's due process right to examination by at least one-court-appointed expert." JIMMY RYCE: Court shall hold a nonjury trial for a person committed as a Sexually Violent predator if the committed person shows at a limited hearing that there is probable cause to believe that his condition has so changed that it is safe for him to be at large and that he will not engage in acts of sexual violence if discharged. Petitioner has only had to show that there is probable cause to believe that his condition has changed. Different expert opinions need to be resolved in the evidentiary hearing nonjury hearing. DUI-BREATHALYZER: Court improperly excluded a breathalyzer reading showing the Defendant's breath alcohol level (.04) below the legal limit. Evidence should not have been excluded because there were not two separate results from the breath test. STAND YOUR GROUND: Once a defendant raises a prima facie claim of self-defense immunity under section 776.032(4), the State bears the burden at the pretrial immunity or Stand Your Ground hearing of proving, by clear and convincing evidence, why the defendant is not entitled to immunity from further prosecution. When a jury determines that the defendant is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, notwithstanding a claim of self-defense, that determination cures the trial court's erroneous failure to hold a pretrial immunity hearing or a trial court's erroneous application of an incorrect burden and standard of proof at an immunity hearing. JUDGE-BIAS: "We have previously recognized the distinction between personal bias and judicial bias when evaluating motions for disqualification that stem from a trial judge's in-court comments. . . Personal bias must come from an extrajudicial source, such as a bias directed at a defendant simply because of the category of their case. . .On the other hand, judicial bias is bias that is based upon the judge's feelings regarding a certain legal principle or a court opinion. . .Unlike personal bias, judicial bias is almost never legally sufficient for disqualification. Judge's criticism of a court opinion is judicial bias and legally insufficient to disqualify him. Judges have a duty to follow the law and must conform their court rulings—and any comments expressed in the discharge of their official duty—to the opinions of higher courts, whose decisions they are bound to follow." But disqualification here is not required. Dabbs v. State, 4D20-607 (11/17/20)

POST-CONVICTION RELIEF: Court must make factual findings in its written order for post conviction relief entered without a hearing. The Court's statement that "[t]he Defendant did not receive a fair trial and is entitled to relief" is legally insufficient. The case is remanded for the lower court to make necessary findings and conclusions in accordance with the two-pronged analysis of whether counsel provided ineffective assistance under Strickland. State v. Downs, 2D21-1196 (11/12/21)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Following denial of Defendant's motion for post conviction relief, which the Court deemed "completely unsupported" and "ridiculous," Court erred in directing that Defendant "not. . .receive credit for time out of facility awaiting this hearing." Only DOC is responsible for calculating and awarding credit for time served after imposition of a sentence, not a trial court. The post-conviction court lacked authority to direct DOC to discipline Defendant by forfeiting his gain time or denying him credit for time served in jail awaiting the hearing; this violated the doctrine of separation of powers. Dickerson v. State, 5D21-2062 (11/12/21)

APPEAL-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE: Based on the plain text of section 924.051(3), absent a showing of fundamental error, an unpreserved claim of ineffective assistance of trial counsel may not be raised on direct appeal. Considering a claim of ineffective assistance of trial counsel on direct appeal—where trial counsel's deficient performance is obvious on its face, lacks a strategic explanation, and resulted in prejudice to the defendant—may be a more efficient and judicious use of the limited resources in Florida's state courts, but "Section 924.051(3) does not contain a waste of-judicial-resources exception, and we cannot rewrite the statute." Steiger v. State, No. SC20-1404 (11/10/21)

SELF-REPRESENTATION: Absent a substantial change in circumstances that would cause the trial court to question its original ruling on the defendant's request for self-representation, there is no concomitant requirement to revisit Faretta every time the offer of counsel is subsequently renewed and rejected. Case law suggesting that failure to renew the offer of counsel at a critical stage and conduct a Faretta inquiry if the defendant rejects the renewed offer constitutes per se reversible error is disapproved. DOUBLE JEOPARDY-MISTRIAL: Where, for reasons deemed compelling by the trial judge, the ends of substantial justice cannot be attained without discontinuing the trial, a mistrial may be declared without the defendant's consent and even over his objection, and he may be retried consistently with the Fifth Amendment. Where a discovery violation by the State (late disclosure of a compelling rebuttal witness who would force a conflict) is found to be inadvertent, and excluding a witness or evidence is too severe, Court may order a mistrial over defense objection. CONCEALED FIREARM: In determining whether a weapon is concealed as a matter of law, courts may consider: (1) the location of the weapon within the vehicle; (2) whether, and to what extent, the weapon was covered by another object; and (3) testimony that the defendant utilized his body in such a way as to conceal a weapon that would have otherwise been detectable by ordinary observation. Whether a firearm wedged between the seat and the console and obscured from the officer's view by Defendant's right thigh

FRAUDULENT USE OF PIN-MANDATORY MINIMUMUM: Where the information charged and the jury, by special verdict, specifically found that Defendant used a personal identification number to commit fraud with a pecuniary benefit of $5,000 or more, Court must impose the the three-year mandatory minimum sentence required by §817.568(2)(b), Roodbergen v. PRETRIAL RELEASE-REVOCATION: Court's practice of refusing to grant a five-day hearing for Defendant's accused of violating a pretrial release condition contravenes controlling legal authority (a pretrial detention hearing shall be held within 5 days of the filing by the state attorney of a complaint to seek pretrial detention). Court lacks the inherent authority to deny a subsequent application for bond based solely on a defendant's violation of a bond condition. Roodbergen v. State, 2D19-3250 (11/5/21)

RIGHT TO COUNSEL-SUPPRESSION-DUI: Officers are not required stop DUI investigation, interrogation, sobriety exercises, nor to inform Defendant that this attorney is on the phone. Police need not inform a suspect of an attorney's efforts to reach him. "While such rule might add marginally to Miranda's goal of dispelling the compulsion inherent in custodial interrogation, overriding practical considerations counsel against its adoption." State v. AMENDMENT-JUV.R.CR.P.-RIGHT TO COUNSEL: Age appropriate language explaining the right to counsel in delinquency proceedings is prescribed. A section titled "Statement of Attorney Assigned to Discuss the Waiver with the Child" is added to the end of the form that requires a lawyer to acknowledge that he or she has read the waiver to the juvenile, explained it fully, and is of the belief that the juvenile has knowingly, intelligently, and voluntarily waived the right to counsel. QUOTATION-FAIR TRIAL: "Laws are designed to ensure fair trials, and allowing convictions based on unfair trials to stand harms this system." Schluck v. State, No. 1D19-3724 (11/3/21)

HEARSAY: Non-testifying victim's statement "I think that I was . . . raped last night" is inadmissible as an excited utterance. Schluck v. State, No. 1D19-3724 (11/3/21)

APPEAL-PRESERVATON: Defendant's hearsay objection sufficiently preserved for appeal the issue of the Victim's statement to police that she thinks she was raped, notwithstanding that Defendant never argued that the statement did not constitute an excited utterance until replying to the State's claim that it was. A 'hearsay' objection need not specify the hearsay exception the objecting party will address on appeal. A general hearsay objection preserves the issue of whether a statement qualifies as a hearsay exception because when a party makes a hearsay objection, a trial court must consider all possible hearsay violations, exceptions, and exclusions." Schluck v. State, No. 1D19-3724 (11/3/21)

HEARSAY-PUBLIC-RECORD EXCEPTION: The public-record exception to the hearsay rule plainly does not apply where the records rely on information supplied by an outside source. Rather than offering this type of record, a witness must be called who has personal knowledge of the facts. "We are unaware of any case where a recording of a call to police was admitted under the public-record exception to the hearsay rule." Schluck v. State, No. 1D19-3724 (11/3/21)

HEARSAY-EXCITED UTTERANCE: An excited utterance for hearsay-exception purposes is not merely an utterance made while excited. If a statement is made well after the startling event, the proponent must offer some proof that the declarant did not engage in a reflective thought process. Victim's statement in the morning that she had been raped last night is not an excited utterance; the intervening time was clearly enough to distinguish between night and morning. Schluck v. State, No. 1D19-3724 (11/3/21)

HEARSAY-EXCITED UTTERANCE-DAY/NIGHT (DISSENT): "Not so fast. . .[T]he hazy divide between night and day—given the victim's then emerging consciousness—could easily explain why she said she was raped 'last night.' Schluck's crimes were entirely under cover of darkness, i.e., at night. As such, the victim's break-of-dawn statement can easily be understood to mean she had been raped during the darkness of the wee hours." Schluck v. State, No. 1D19-3724 (11/3/21)

APPEAL: Appellate court man not engage in a weight-of-the-evidence review in the interest of justice. The interest of justice, standing alone, is not a viable and independent ground for appellate reversal in the absent of an initial legal entitlement to relief. "[Defendant's] real request is for us, as appellate judges, to substitute our verdict for the jury's. We cannot. Opposing theories must be weighed by the jury. We do not try the case again on appeal." Segura v. State, 1D19-4266 (11/3/21)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Claims for out-of-state jail credit may be raised pursuant to R. 3.850. Defendant must be allowed a chance to amend the pleading to file a facially sufficient motion under rule 3.850. Moore v. State, 1D20-1414 (11/3/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SCORESHEET: When a movant raises a claim of scoresheet error within two years of the judgment and sentence, a trial court is required to determine whether or not the same sentence would have been imposed with a corrected scoresheet. Moore v. State, 1D20-1414 (11/3/21)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/801249/opinion/201414_DC08_11032021_141157_i.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: The two-part test for evaluating motions for a downward departure is whether a trial court can impose a downward departure sentence based on a valid legal ground proven by a preponderance of the evidence and whether it should impose a downward departure sentence based on the totality of the circumstances. State v. Koenkemoeller, 1D20-2209 (11/3/21)

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-NON-STATUTORY REASONS: "The legislature's requirements would be left hollow if a sentencing court could cherry-pick one part of a statutory mitigator and re-define it as non-statutory. A statutory ground's requirements cannot be avoided simply by renaming the basis a non-statutory ground." State v. Koenkemoeller, 1D20-2209 (11/3/21)

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: When weighing the need for restitution against the need for incarceration, the trial court must consider the nature of the victim's loss and the efficacy of restitution, and the consequences of imprisonment The test is the victim's need, not the victim's desire or preference. Court erred in imposing a downward departure where no evidence was presented regarding the victim's need for restitution. State v. Koenkemoeller, 1D20-2209 (11/3/21)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/801254/opinion/202209_DC13_11032021_141945_i.pdf

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-NON-STATUTORY GROUNDS: Relative culpability is a valid non-statutory basis to impose a downward departure in order to provide parity with the sentence of a co-defendant who was at least, if not more, culpable than the defendant, but using relative culpability to achieve sentence parity is only an appropriate mitigating factor in departing downward to meet a codefendant's sentence. Downward departure creating an even greater disparity than the fifteen-year difference between codefendant's sentence (20 years and Defendant's (55.5 months) is not warranted. A trial court's perception of justice leading it to conclude that leniency is appropriate, and grounds do not exist for a departure sentence, the leniency must come from the exercise of the court's discretion to impose the minimum guidelines sentence. State v. Koenkemoeller, 1D20-2209 (11/3/21)

DOWNWARD-DEPARTURE-NON-STATUTORY FACTOR: Defendant's status as an asset to his community based on employment of numerous people, distribution of COVID-19 PPE supplies, support for his elderly mother, medically challenged wife and brain-damaged daughter is legally insufficient for a downward departure. State v. Koenkemoeller, 1D20-2209 (11/3/21)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/801254/opinion/202209_DC13_11032021_141945_i.pdf

TRANSCRIPTS-MANDAMUS: A public defender is a "public officer" who is required to provide transcripts or record documents that were prepared at public expense on behalf of an indigent defendant to the defendant for copying at no charge. Floyd v. Laramore, Public Defender, 1D20-3558 (11/3/21)

DISPOSITION-JUVENILE: Court's rejection of DJJ's probation recommendation is not a determination of restrictiveness level and requires no special reasoning pursuant to E.A.R., but Court may not order commit without first requesting a multidisciplinary assessment and follow-up predisposition report. A.B., a Child v. State, 1D21-136 (11/3/21)

EVIDENCE-IMPEACHMENT: A party may attack the credibility of any witness by evidence of prior conviction, and this inquiry is generally restricted to the existence of prior convictions and the number of convictions. However, when a defendant attempts to mislead or delude the jury about his prior convictions, the State is entitled to further question the defendant concerning the convictions in order to negate any false impression. Lucas v. State, 3D19-1941 (11/3/21)

EVIDENCE-OPINION: A lay witness's testimony about what he or she perceived may be in the form of inference and opinion when the witness cannot readily, and with equal accuracy and adequacy, communicate what he or she has perceived to the trier of fact without testifying in terms of inferences or opinions and the witness's use of inferences or opinions will not mislead the trier of fact to the prejudice of the objecting party; and the opinions and inferences do not require a special knowledge, skill, experience, or training. SENTENCING HEARING: Court did not deny Defendant his fundamental right to a sentencing hearing where sentencing happened right after the verdict was returned at near midnight. INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: Rule 3.800(b)(2) is available to a defendant to seek correction of a sentence imposing costs. Appellate counsel can be ineffective for failing to file a rule 3.800(b)(2) motion to correct unlawful imposition of costs. Walding v. State, 21-820 (11/3/21)

intended) to influence, affect, or retaliate against government conduct is a highly fact specific inquiry that requires examining the record as a whole. Given the terrorism enhancement's large impact on both the offense level and criminal history category, the district court should make an express fact finding as to the "calculated" requirement. USA v. Arcila Ramirez, No. 20-10564 (11/1/21)

TERRORISM: The term "federal crime of terrorism" is an offense that: (1) is calculated to influence or affect the conduct of government by intimidation or coercion, or to retaliate against government conduct. USA v. Arcila Ramirez, No. 20-10564 (11/1/21)

DEFINITION-"CALCULATED": The ordinary and plain meaning of "calculated" is planned to accomplish a purpose or intended; to plan or devise with forethought; to think out; to frame. The phrase "calculated to" has been interpreted as creating something akin to, or closely resembling, a specific intent" requirement. USA v. Arcila Ramirez, No. 20-10564 (11/1/21)

EXPERT: A qualified biomechanical expert may offer an opinion about injury causation if the mechanism of injury falls within the field of biomechanics. Lepara v. State, 5D19-1965 (10/29/21)

https://www.5dca.org/content/download/799046/opinion/191965_DC08_10292021_150240_i.pdf

EVIDENCE-CUMULATIVE: There is a difference between cumulative testimony, which courts have discretion to exclude, and relevant confirmatory testimony, which they do not. Court erred in excluding an expert biomechanics expert as cumulative in BUI manslsughter case. Testimony that relies in part on different facts and evidence is not cumulative as a matter of law, even if the same conclusion is reached by both witnesses. Court improperly excluded Defendant's two experts who offered complementary conclusions but based their conclusions on different scientific methods recognized within their separate fields of expertise. Lepara v. State, 5D19-1965 (10/29/21)

JUROR-CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE: Juror with serious self-disclosed memory problems may be challenged for cause. When a juror has a bodily defect that renders him or her incapable of performing the duties of a juror he or she may be removed for cause. Craven v. State, 1D 20-1184 (10/27/21)

MANDAMUS: Mandamus relief is inappropriate where Court struck Defendant's motion for postconviction relief as facially insufficient. Because the circuit court complied with its ministerial duty to take action on the motion for postconviction relief, the circuit court's order is not a final, appealable order. Shakespeare v. State, 1D21-2682 (10/27/21)

RE-SENTENCING: On appellate remand, once Court orders re-sentencing, the Court cannot rescind its order, notwithstanding intervening case law. Once a mandate ordering resentencing issues, the original sentence is now a nullity and cannot be recalled after 120 days have lapsed. But Defendant's victory may be pyrrhic because the decisional law effective at the time of the resentencing applies. Morris v. State, 2D20-2796 (10/27/21)

APPEAL-TIMELINESS: An amendment or modification of an order or judgment in an immaterial, insubstantial way does not restart the clock to file an appeal. Jacobs v. State, 2D20-3619 (10/27/21)

APPEAL: Any order entered after trial court lost jurisdiction is a nullity. Once a notice of appeal is filed, the trial court is divested of jurisdiction to amend the sentence. Appellate Court's order holding the appeal in abeyance does not to revest the postconviction court with jurisdiction that it no longer had, nor could court recapture jurisdiction simply by sua sponte rescinding an order. SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-REMORSE: Defendant who said at sentencing "I'm not willing to sacrifice my freedom of a great mind that will never get put to use,"For someone just to say and run to the police station and say that I hit her and pulled my firearm and risked my freedom, that's incredible," and "The most thing I regret is wasting our time," is not entitled to a downward departure based on remorse. WITHHOLD OF ADJUDICATION: "A little bit of statutory construction and the rule of lenity are at issue." Section 948.20(1), which allows the court to withhold adjudication and place a defendant on drug offender probation if "the defendant is a chronic substance abuser whose criminal onduct is a violation of certain drug laws or another nonviolent felony trumps section 775.08435, which prohibits of withhold adjudication is the Defendant has two or more prior withholds not arising from the same transaction. RESENTENCING-JUDGE: Upon re-sentencing, Defendant is entitled to have the case heard by a judge other than the original one who previously had commented on Defendant's decision not to enter a plea in imposing the original life sentence. Washington v. State, 2D19-1671 (10/22/21)

RE-SENTENCING: Upon re-sentencing, Court must conduct a de novo sentencing hearing rather than merely amending the sentence to reflect that the Defendant may seek a review of sentence after 15 years. A ministerial correction of the sentence fall short of the remedy of resentencing required. Washington v. State, 2D19-1671 (10/22/21)

COSTS: Reversal of a cost of prosecution above the statutory minimum ($100) is warranted where the State never provided notice of intent to seek a higher amount, and no separate hearing was convened to provide the State with an opportunity to submit sufficient proof of higher costs. State is entitled to a "second bite at the apple," and to me present evidence of higher costs. Washington v. State, 2D19-1671 (10/22/21)

DISCRETIONARY COSTS: Court must make an oral pronouncement of discretionary costs under statutory basis. If this does not occur, they are to be stricken, and cannot be re-imposed. Washington v. State, 2D19-1671 (10/22/21)

INCOMPETENCE-DISMISSAL: Defendant is entitled to dismissal after two years where a 2017 order failed to incompetent due to intellectual disability in the later 2019 order found him incompetent due to mental illness. The 2019 order does not supersede 2017 order. Anthony v. State, 5D21-1536 (10/22/21)

FRAUD: Deceiving does not always involve harming another person; defrauding does. Mere "puffing" or "seller's talk" is insufficient to establish fraud. USA v. Wheeler, No. 17-15003 (10/21/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201715003.pdf

FRAUD: To prove that a defendant had the intent to defraud, the Government has to prove not only that the defendant had the intent to deceive, but also that he intended to harm the victim, meaning that he intended to deceive the victim about something that affected the value of the bargain. Misleading investors to believe that he had made millions of dollars in profit and was closely associated with high profile companies and is sufficient evidence of intent to defraud to sustain a conviction. USA v. Wheeler, No. 17-15003 (10/21/21)

CONSPIRACY: To prove that a defendant was part of a conspiracy, there must be some evidence that the defendant knew the objective of the conspiracy charged in the indictment and decided to join it. USA v. Wheeler, No. 17-15003 (10/21/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201715003.pdf

AIDING AND ABETTING: Discouraging a victim from going to the authorities amounts to aiding and abetting the crime. USA v. Wheeler, No. 17-15003 (10/21/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201715003.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT: Prosecutorial misconduct by improper argument occurs where (1) the remarks are improper and (2) prejudicially affect the substantial rights of the defendant.The prosecutor did not make improper remarks by disparaging that portion of the jury instructions about the Defendant's theory of defense (a false statement is not fraud, per se) as not the law ("It's a theory of defense. Okay?. . .But ladies and gentlemen, this is not the law."). USA v. Wheeler, No. 17-15003 (10/21/21)

IMPEACHMENT: Although a close question, Court did not abused its discretion in admitting extrinsic evidence that witness had engaged in a drug deal with Defendant. The Government cannot begin a line of questioning that is irrelevant, only to impeach the witness with a prior inconsistent statement, but here the district court, in its discretion, found that the prosecution's inquiry was relevant to illustrate the witness's bias, rather than simply to portray Defendant as a drug dealer. USA v. Wheeler, No. 17-15003 (10/21/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201715003.pdf

SENTENCING-SOPHISTICATED MEANS: An offense is sophisticated if it involves especially complex or especially intricate offense conduct pertaining to the execution or concealment of an offense A sophisticated means enhancement can be applied when some—but not all—aspects of a scheme are sophisticated. Where Defendant in a fraud case paid her salespeople through a second business, the scheme may be considered to be sophisticated. USA v. Wheeler, No. 17-15003 (10/21/21)

SENTENCING-MANAGERIAL-ROLE: Even if a defendant could not force others to engage in criminal conduct, he can still be sentenced as a manager or supervisor if he hires and trains others to participate in the criminal operation. Defendant who led sales meetings and trained new salespeople in fraudulent investment scheme may be subject to a managerial role sentencing enhancement. USA v. Wheeler, No. 17-15003 (10/21/21)

LOSS: A defendant is liable for the total loss amount of the conspiracy when she is actively involved in furthering the conspiracy's overall objective. USA v. Wheeler, No. 17-15003 (10/21/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201715003.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT (CONCURRING): The prosecutor should have known better than to argue that an instruction from the court was "not the law." More broadly, the prosecution's conduct and the tactics it employed throughout the fell short of the high level of professionalism that we expect prosecutors to embody, even if their actions did not rise to the level of misconduct. "I expect far better from prosecutors in future cases." USA v. Wheeler, No. 17-15003 (10/21/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: The introduction of those portions of the Defendant's videotaped statement in which the detectives' talk about the Defendant's lack of remorse is not prejudicial where his defense was that he did not commit the murder and was not present when it occurred. Smith v. State, SC19-680 (10/21/21)

HEARSAY-PRIOR CONSISTENT STATEMENT: Prior consistent statements, or bolstering testimony, is generally inadmissible absent impeachment based on an attempt to show a recent fabrication or other reason for the witness's lack of credibility. But counsel was not ineffective impeaching witness's credibility for bias based on the witness's plea agreement knowing the prior implication of the Defendant would be admitted. Strategic decisions are not ineffectiveness. Smith v. State, SC19-680 (10/21/21)

HEARSAY-PRIOR CONSISTENT STATEMENT: A statement is not hearsay if the declarant testifies at the trial or hearing and is subject to cross-examination concerning the statement and the statement is consistent with the declarant's testimony and is offered to rebut an express or implied charge against the declarant of improper influence, motive, or recent fabrication. Smith v. State, SC19-680 (10/21/21)

EXPERT: Counsel was not ineffective for not retaining firearms expert where Defendant confessed to shooting all three victims with a ten-millimeter handgun. Counsel cannot be faulted for failing to investigate a theory that he had no reason to suspect would be valid and supported by the evidence. The duty to investigate does not force defense lawyers to scour the globe on the off chance something will turn up; reasonably diligent counsel may draw a line when they have good reason to think further investigation would be a waste. Smith v. State, SC19-680 (10/21/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: There is no merit to a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel if the defendant consents to counsel's strategy.

OBJECTION-PRESERVED ERROR: To be preserved for appeal, the specific legal ground upon which a claim is based must be raised at trial and a claim different than that will not be heard on appeal. Defendant's objection to the question whether the witness believed the Defendant was speculation, rather than improper opinion testimony. "The question to Haney was whether he believed Johnson; the answer to that question did not require Haney to speculate. . .Smith argues.. .that Haney's response was an improper opinion, but that is a different legal ground for an objection. Thus, an objection to improper opinion was not properly preserved." Smith v. State, SC19-680 (10/21/21)

EVIDENCE: Witness may testify that he had seen the Defendant with a 10 m.m. pistol on earlier occasions before the murders at issue. The prerequisite to the admissibility of evidence is relevancy. The concept of 'relevancy' has historically referred to whether the evidence has any logical tendency to prove or disprove a fact. If the evidence is logically probative, it is relevant and admissible unless there is a reason for not allowing the jury to consider it. All evidence tending to prove or disprove a material fact is admissible, unless precluded by law. Smith v. State, SC19-680 (10/21/21) and prohibiting Defendant from filing any further pro se motions without affording Defendant an opportunity to file a response. Procedural due process requires that litigants be given proper notice and a full and fair opportunity to be heard. Walker v. State, 3D21-1592 (10/20/21)

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Where contraband is discovered in jointly occupied premises, the State cannot infer such knowledge and control through the defendant's control over the premises, but it must introduce independent proof that the defendant had knowledge of and ability to control the contraband to support the inference of a conscious and substantial possession by the accused, as distinguished from a mere involuntary or superficial possession. Defendant's fingerprints on various items throughout the house (including a box of paraphernalia, a grinder used to grind cannabis into smaller pieces, five separate THC vape cartridges, and a trash bag containing vacuum sealed baggies of cannabis residue) an his possession of the key to the residence is sufficient to establish Defendant's constructive possession of narcotics in the house. VOTING-EQUAL PROTECTION: Plaintiff's cannot challenge under the Equal Protection clause or the 19th Amendment Florida's "pay to vote" restriction on felons' right to vote absent proof of racially discriminatory intent. Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12304 (10/18/21)

DEFINITION-"ON ACCOUNT OF": The phrase “on account of” has been understood to mean “because of” since the late 1700s. Its first recorded use was in 1792. Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12304 (10/18/21)

COSTS: Court may not impose a $400 public defender fee without giving Defendant notice and an opportunity to challenge it. If the court exercises its discretion under the statute to impose a fee amount higher than the $100 statutory minimum for felonies, there must be sufficient proof of higher fees or costs incurred and it must notify the defendant of the fee as well as the right to contest it. RACKETEERING-PREDICATE-THEFT-ALIGATOR EGGS: "Pickle argued that the illegal taking of alligator eggs could not constitute theft as a predicate act for racketeering, because 'the only entity that owns wildlife is a higher power . . . not the State of Florida.' While remaining duly agnostic on counsel's theological premise, this court finds the gist of the argument persuasive and dispositive". Pickle v. State, 2D19-4237 (10/15/21)

THEFT: Unlawful taking of alligator eggs ordinarily is not theft because they are not the property another. With respect to wild game, a landowner only owns the right to pursue the game on his or her own lands, but he does not own the game. The State's authority to regulate something does not necessarily confer ownership of that thing on the State. Pickle v. State, 2D19-4237 (10/15/21)

UNANIMOUS VERDICT: Standard Jury instruction 3.12 does not invite a non-unanimous verdict by allowing the Defendant to be convicted of first-degree murder without unanimous agreement as to whether he committed premeditated or felony first degree murder. A jury need not come to a unanimous decision on the theory of first-degree murder and separate verdict forms for felony and premeditated murder are not required. Ramos clarified or distinguished. There is no general requirement that the jury reach agreement on the preliminary factual issues which underlie the verdict. Dillard v. State, 20-2274 (10/15/21)

FOOTNOTES: "Edwards' only reference to Schad comes by way of footnote 4, which, in a string citation, mentions a parenthetical reference of footnote 5 in Schad, which was part of Schad's plurality opinion. We have no cause to question that the gist of the Schad plurality's footnote 5 (concerning the Sixth Amendment and the right to a unanimous jury verdict) is now no longer the law. But that does not mean Schad's holding was abrogated--unless a footnote in one opinion somehow 'recognizes' an implicit abrogation of a parenthetical in a footnote of a prior plurality opinion." POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for advising him not to testify at his trial in which he presented a self-defense case. The impact of a defendant's own testimony is qualitatively different from the testimony of any other witness. The fact that Defendant's claim of self-defense was introduced to the jury through his statement to police does not conclusively refute his claim that he was prejudiced by counsel's advice not to testify. COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: A district court may grant a prisoner's motion for compassionate release after determining that (1) extraordinary and compelling reasons warrant such a reduction, (2) such a reduction is consistent with applicable policy statements issued by the Sentencing Commission, and (3) §3553(a) sentencing factors weigh in favor of a reduction. Court must also determine that the defendant is not a danger to the safety of any other person or to the community before granting compassionate release. USA v. Mondrago Giron, No. 20-14018 (11th Cir. 10/13/21)

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: The only circumstances that can rise to the level of extraordinary and compelling reasons for compassionate release are limited to those named in §1B1.13 (terminal illness or substantial diminution of the ability to provide self-care within prison). The confluence of prisoner's medical conditions (high cholesterol, high blood pressure, and coronary artery disease) and COVID-19 does not create an extraordinary and compelling reason warranting compassionate release. Court does not err by relying upon U.S.S.G. §1B1.13, the Sentencing Commission's policy statement, in denying Prisoner's request for compassionate release. USA v. UNAUTHORIZED PRACTICE OF LAW: A service which solicits clients for traffic ticket defenses, screens the cases, and contracts with private attorneys to represent the clients unlawfully practices law. An inherent conflict and corresponding risk to the public arises whenever a nonlawyer controls and derives its income from the provision of legal services. The inherent conflict that arises when a nonlawyer either derives income from or exercises a degree of control over the provision of legal services presents a substantial risk that the public will be exposed to and harmed by incompetent, unethical, or irresponsible representation. UNDER THE INFLUENCE: Evidence that Defendant had slurred speech, reeked of alcohol, was unable to walk or stand in a normal manner, and was found in a home strewn with empty and open liquor bottles—strongly suggests that he was under the influence just a few hours earlier when he shot at his neighbor across the open field. "[T]he shooting spree was not [that] of a clear-minded and sober 66-year-old, but of a violent and aggressive drunkard on a bender." Conviction for use of firearm while

PRIVILEGE AGAINST SELF-INCRIMINATION: The privilege against self-incrimination guaranteed by article I, section 9 of the Florida Constitution offers more protection than the right provided in the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution. Evidence of a defendant's prearrest, pre-Miranda silence is inadmissible as substantive evidence of guilt or when the Defendant fails to testify. CROSS-EXAMINATION: Where Child, in her CPT interview said that no one else had molested her, the door is open to cross-examine her about other statements that on a different occasion someone else had molested her. Defendant was entitled to use those statements to test the Child's credibility. It is axiomatic and fundamental to our system of justice that a party may impeach a witness by introducing statements of the witness which are inconsistent with the witness's present testimony. MINOR-JUDICIAL REVIEW: Defendant, who was a minor at the time of his burglary with an assault, is entitled to a judicial review of his sentences under sections 775.082 and 921.1402. Burglary with an assault or battery is a Felony PBL, a qualifying offense for judicial review after twenty years. Agenor v. State, 2D20-3052 (10/13/21)

DRUG COURT: Court errs in denying Defendant's participation in Drug Court base on Victim's objection. A defendant is eligible for voluntary admission if he or she is identified as having a substance abuse problem and is amenable to treatment, is charged with a nonviolent felony, has never been charged with a crime involving violence. If Defendant meets the eligibility requirements of section 948.08(6)(b), the trial court must admit him into the program, regardless of the inclinations of either the purported victim or the trial court. JURISDICTION: Florida has jurisdiction over Defendant who was in the Dominican Republic or Africa at the time he sent text messages to an undercover officer posing as a 13 year old girl in Florida. Florida's criminal jurisdiction extends to acts committed by a person in another country when part of the offense is also committed in Florida. Rodriguez v. State, 4D21-2411 (10/13/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was ineffective for failing to: available expert witness to challenge that State's otherwise unrefuted medical testimony concerning the victim's injuries, failing to object to improper bolstering of the states medical expert (that her abuse report have been peer reviewed). POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to advise him that the State had extracted information from his cell phone that would severely contradict his alibi defense, and that had counsel provided this information, he would have accepted the State's pretrial plea offer. Trial counsel is responsible for reviewing all discovery provided, including the extraction report of Defendant's cell phone. Sullins v. State, 5D20-2112 (10/8/21)

STAND YOUR GROUND: A defendant convicted by jury verdict after raising a self-defense claim is not entitled to a new immunity hearing if the trial court applied the incorrect burden of proof standard at the immunity hearing under the Stand Your Ground law. When a jury determines that the defendant is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, notwithstanding a claim of self-defense, that determination cures the trial court's erroneous failure to hold a pretrial immunity hearing. Defendant who voluntarily chooses to have his motion to dismiss her during the trial itself waive his right to a pretrial immunity hearing. Boston v. State, No. SC20-1164 (10/7/21)

10-20-LIFE-ATTEMPTED ARMED ROBBERY: Court may not impose a life sentence with a 25-year minimum mandatory sentence for attempted armed robbery. Once a trial court orders a minimum mandatory sentence under the 10-20-life statute, it exhausts its discretion and must have additional authority to impose any additional sentence. The life sentence was not minimum mandatory and no additional statutory authority existed to go beyond the 25-year minimum mandatory, so the sentence is unlawful. Harris v. RESTITUTION: The victim's civil settlement should have been set off against the amount of restitution. Restitution does not prevent any later civil recovery, but the amount of such restitution shall be set off against any subsequent or prior independent civil recovery. APPEAL-COMPETENCY-PRESERVATION: Defendant appealing a conviction based on his alleged incompetency at the time of his guilty plea must first move to withdraw his plea in the trial court. APPEAL-COMPETENCY-PRESERVATION (CONCURRENCE): "Dortch reflects the type of judicial policy choice that our supreme court makes whenever it adopts, revises, or (as here) interprets its own rules. . . As a judicial policy matter, by close vote, the majority placed primacy in [the rule governing appellate procedure over]. . .the due process and fair trial rights of a defendant to not be subject to criminal sanction while legally incompetent." Potentially valid but unpreserved claims of incompetency that previously were resolved in direct appeals will not be considered on appeal and, instead, are shifted to post-conviction/collateral proceedings, if they are considered at all. Time will tell whether Florida's judicial procedures are adequate to protect these constitutional rights. Bowie v. State, 1D19-2562 (10/6/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to file a Motion to Suppress Defendant's statement based on the allegedly coercive nature of the discussion that her son (codefendant in a convenience store murder) was subject to the death penalty. The possible death penalty was simply part of the conversation and a real possibility.penalty. Further, the possibility of the death penalty for her son did not lead to the Defendant's confession that she had planned the crime. "Instead, the record shows that, when faced with the DNA evidence tying herself to the crime. . .instead of being overwhelmed by motherly love, Thornton [initially] blamed her son, admitted only to helping cover up his crime, and asked for the State Attorney to work out an immunity deal for her. IMPEACHMENT: A party may attack the credibility of any witness by evidence of prior conviction, generally restricted to the existence of prior convictions and the number of convictions, but when a defendant attempts to mislead the jury about his prior convictions, the State is entitled to further question the defendant concerning the convictions in order to negate any false impression. EVIDENCE-OPINION: A lay witness may testify about what he or she perceived in the form of inference and opinion when: (1) The witness cannot readily, and with equal accuracy and adequacy, communicate what he or she has perceived to the trier of fact without testifying in terms of inferences or opinions and the witness's use of inferences or opinions will not mislead the trier of fact to the prejudice of the objecting party; and (2) The opinions and inferences do not require a special knowledge, skill, experience, or training. SENTENCING HEARING: Under the circumstances, Court did not err in sentencing Defendant immediately after the trial close to midnight. "We caution that best practices would generally militate against proceeding to a sentencing hearing at the midnight hour. . . .[C]ourts must. . .bear in mind that embarking upon a critical stage at such a late hour imposes a hardship not only upon those actively participating in the sentencing proceeding (the judge, defendant, defense counsel and prosecutor) but upon many others who must be present or who are otherwise involved in the process (the victim and next of kin, family members of the defendant, court reporter, bailiff, courtroom deputy, courtroom clerk, corrections officer (for an in-custody defendant), courthouse security and other personnel)." BEST EVIDENCE RULE-SNAPPERS: The best evidence rule, which requires that when the contents of a writing, recording or photograph are being proved, the original must be offered unless a statutory excuse for the lack of an original exists, does not require the introduction of written or physical evidence whenever it is available in preference to oral testimony. The Best Evidence Rule only applies to writings, recordings and photographs. Although the spirit of the Best Evidence Role requires that when a defendant is charged with possession of a controlled substance that substance, if available, must be introduced in evidence, the rule has not been extended beyond controlled substances and does not apply to fish him (snappers). JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE: The Forcible Felony juryinstruction precludes an assertion of self-defense where defendant is attempting to commit, committing, or escaping after the commission of a forcible felony.

Court should only give the instruction when the State charges an independent forcible felony other than the one which the defendant claims to have committed in self-defense. Counsel was ineffective for consenting to the forcible felony jury instruction because it legally negated his client's sole defense. McCullough v. State, 5D20-2650 (10/1/21)

SEPTEMBER 2021

EVIDENCE-CODE WORDS: Expert testimony by law enforcement officers interpreting drug codes and jargon is admissible, even if most of the code words were learned from the current investigation. Deciphering of coded language is helpful to the jury and therefore permissible. The government and the court must take some special precautions to make clear for the jury when the witness is relying on his expertise and when he is relying only on his personal knowledge of the case. Although the witness crossed the line at times, the error was harmless. USA v. Perry, No. 16-11358 (11th Cir. 9/29/21)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-HARMLESS ERROR: "Perry easily could have avoided his current predicament by making specific objections to put the trial court on notice of any problematic testimony. . .and thereby afford the court an opportunity to correct any error in a timely fashion. Instead, we find ourselves in a situation where there was more than enough evidence to convict the defendant. . .yet the defendant asks us now -- at the tail end of a long day -- to overturn his verdict by challenging some of the very evidence that he passively listened to. . .We underscore. . .that it remains the duty of litigators to object contemporaneously when offending testimony is offered so that the trial court will have the opportunity to exercise its critical gatekeeping function when it matters most." USA v. Perry, No. 16-11358 (11th Cir. 9/29/21)

EXPERT: Foundation for expert testimony is whether (1) the expert is qualified to testify competently regarding the matters he intends to address; (2) the methodology by which the expert reaches his conclusions is sufficiently reliable as determined by the sort of inquiry mandated in Daubert; and (3) the testimony assists the trier of fact, through the application of scientific, technical, or specialized expertise, to understand the evidence or to determine a fact in issue. USA v. Perry, No. 16-11358 (11th Cir. 9/29/21)

HEARSAY: The hearsay rule does not operate to exclude, wholesale, remarks made by another participant to the conversation, merely because those remarks occurred outside the courtroom. If it did, it would mean that the voice of any other participant to the taped conversation would have to be removed and the jury would hear only a soliloquy by the defendant, with no context. Without both sides of the conversation, Defendant's statements would have been rendered meaningless. USA v. Perry, No. 16-11358 (11th Cir. 9/29/21)

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS: A not guilty plea in a drug conspiracy case makes intent a material issue and opens the door to admission of prior drug related offenses as highly probative, and not overly prejudicial, evidence of a defendant's intent. USA v. Perry, No. 16-11358 (11th Cir. 9/29/21)

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-MINOR PARTICIPANT: Where Court determines the sentence by zeroing in on the Defendant's actual conduct alone, the fact that there is a broader criminal scheme does not justify a downward adjustment as a minor role participant. Being at courier of drugs and money does not necessarily qualify one as a minor participant. USA v. Perry, No. 16-11358 (11th Cir. 9/29/21)

LAW OF THE CASE: The Law of the Case Doctrine, that the questions of law decided on appeal to a court of ultimate resort must govern the case in the same court and the trial court, through all subsequent stages of the proceedings is prudential and it has exceptions. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-INEFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL: A defendant has no constitutional right to effective collateral counsel, but the general prohibition on claims of ineffective assistance of postconviction counsel is not applicable to resentencing following a successful postconviction motion. Court erred in dismissing claim that counsel at resentencing hearing was ineffective without a hearing. Hanna v. State, 2D20-2945 (9/29/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-TIMELINESS: Defendant has two years from the date of resentencing to raise the issue of ineffectiveness of counse at that hearing, not two years from to date of the original sentence. The calculation of time for the 3.850 motion should begin with the resentencing hearing—the source of the allegedly ineffective assistance. Hanna v. State, 2D20-2945 (9/29/21)

CONTEMPT: Court erred in holding in contempt Defendant who called him an array of colorful names amid a series of threats ("I hope you die b*tch," "you're a f*cking dead man," and "I hope you break hell wide open mother

f*cker.") without issuing a judgment and without providing the Defendant with a meaningful opportunity to present mitigating evidence. Court asking if Defendant had anything he wished to say in mitigation is insufficient, mere "lip service to rule 3.830." Hall v. State, 2D21-262 (9/29/21)

PRETRIAL DETENTION-BAIL: When the State files a motion for pretrial detention after the trial court has set bond, the motion must present evidence of a change in circumstances or information not made known to the first appearance judge. Evidence that was available to the state at the time of the first appearance hearing does not qualify as new information and therefore does not justify a subsequent denial of bail or increase in the amount of bail. Transfer of other juvenile charges to adult court does constitute a change in circumstances that would provide good cause to revoke bond and warrant a pretrial detention order. Question Certified: When the state direct files charges against a juvenile under §985.557(1), and bond is set on the charges, does the state's Subsequent transfer under §985.557(2) of additional allegations against the juvenile filed in a separate juvenile case, potentially exposing the juvenile to adult sanctions in that case constitute a change in circumstances sufficient to establish good cause for modification of bond or the conditions of release? HABEAS CORPUS: The circuit court of the county in which a defendant is incarcerated has jurisdiction to consider a petition for writ of habeas corpus when the claims raised in the petition concern issues regarding his incarceration. Irizarry v. State, 3D21-1191 (9/29/21)

DISQUALIFICATION: The laws governing judicial disqualification were never intended 'to enable a discontented litigant to oust a judge because of adverse rulings made, but instead serve to prevent his or her future action in the pending case. Hodges v. State, 3D21-1725 (9/29/21)

PRETRIAL DETENTION: Defendant may be held without bond on BUI Manslaughter charge where he had been previously convicted of DUI in another state and committed several offenses while out on felony bond, one of which resulted in a death (notwithstanding that he was acquitted). BUI manslaughter falls under the broad umbrella of "manslaughter," a dangerous crime. Hodges v. State, 3D21-1725 (9/29/21)

crimes. The elements clause requires both the general intent to volitionally take the action of using, attempting to use, or threating to use force and something more: that the defendant direct the action at a target, namely another person. Specific intent to direct action at another satisfies this latter requirement, as does knowing conduct. It is unclear whether Florida's aggravated assault is a specific-intent crime. Question certified to the Florida Supreme Court. Somers v. USA, No. 19-11484 (9/28/21)

DEFINITION-SPECIFIC INTENT: Specific intent is most commonly understood as designating a special mental element which is required above and beyond any mental state required with respect to the actus reus of the crime. Somers v. USA, No. 19-11484 (9/28/21)

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: Court need not rule on whether medical conditions which may increase Defendant's risk of developing severe illness from Covid-19, are extraordinary circumstances rendering one eligible for compassionate relief. A district court doesn't procedurally err when it denies a request for compassionate release based on the §3553(a) sentencing factors without first explicitly determining whether the defendant could present "extraordinary and compelling reasons. Skipping over a necessary condition isn't per se reversible. USA v. Tinker, No. 20-14474 (11th Cir. 9/28/21)

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: A district court may reduce a term of imprisonment if (1) the §3553(a) sentencing factors favor doing so, (2) there are extraordinary and compelling reasons for doing so, and (3) doing so wouldn't endanger any person or the community. A court is not required to conduct the compassionate-release analysis in any particular order. USA v. Tinker, No. 20-14474 (11th Cir. 9/28/21)

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: In situations where consideration of the §3553(a) factors is mandatory, the Court need not address each the factors or all of the mitigating evidence if it acknowledges that it considered them. USA v. Tinker, No. 20-14474 (11th Cir. 9/28/21)

SEXUAL PREDATOR: Court has jurisdiction to impose a sexual predator designation on an offender who qualifies under the Florida Sexual Predators Act when the sentencing court did not impose the designation at sentencing and the offender's sentence has been completed. "The statutory scheme provides no basis for concluding that a fumble by the sentencing court should immunize a sexual predator from the legally required designation and registration." State v. McKenzie, SC19-912 (9/23/21)

are of paramount concern, and what they convey, in their context, is what the text means. State v. McKenzie, SC19-912 (9/23/21) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/789413/opinion/sc19-912.pdf

FALSE TESTIMONY-GIGLIO: A Giglio violation is demonstrated when (1) the prosecutor presented or failed to correct false testimony; (2) the prosecutor knew the testimony was false; and (3) the false evidence was material. Witness's testimony that the charges against him were "not murder, not rape, no physical violence in my life," omitting his arrest on charge (later dropped) for L & L is not material under Giglio because there is no reasonable possibility that information regarding the witness's L & L case would have affected the jury's verdict. NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Written statement by co-Defendant exonerating Defendant ("James Dailey was not present when Shelly Boggio was killed. DEATH PENALTY-(J. LABARGA, DISSENT): "While finality in judicial proceedings is important to the function of the judicial branch, that interest can never overwhelm the imperative that the death penalty not be wrongly imposed." CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Joint occupancy, with or without ownership of the premises, where contraband is discovered in plain view in the presence of the owner or occupant is sufficient to support a conviction for constructive possession. A mere temporary visitor to a space occupied by others cannot be deemed in constructive possession of firearms or contraband in such a space, but where the contraband items were in plain view within the bedroom that Defendant and his friend exclusively occupied for the night is sufficient for conviction. The possibility that others occupied the room on other nights is irrelevant. Robinson v. State, 1D20-17 (9/22/21) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/789263/opinion/200017_DC05_09222021_141215_i.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Court is required to grant the motion to withdraw a plea before sentencing only where there is good cause. Defendant may not withdraw plea on the basis of evidence of which the Defendant was aware before pleading. Harris v. State, 1D20-589 (9/22/21) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/789264/opinion/200589_DC05_09222021_141345_i.pdf

SENTENCING-EVIDENCE: Court must hear evidence relevant to the issues at sentencing, but does not abuse its discretion by declining to hear evidence that the Defendant had not fired the fatal shot where the Court had no discretion to vary from the agreed disposition, and the plea to 3rd° murder avoided a felony murder charge. Harris v. State, 1D20-589 (9/22/21) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/789264/opinion/200589_DC05_09222021_141345_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Rule 3.800(a) motion to correct illegal sentence. A claim that the Court deprived him of due process by considering an improper factor at sentencing (a separate pending sex offense) does not make the sentence illegal under R. 3.800(a); the claim should have been raised under R. 3.850 but is now time barred. STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: In construing the meaning of a statute, Court first looks at its plain language. INSURANCE FRAUD: The crime of insurance fraud requires that a person make a material false statement, not that it be relied upon. Justifiable reliance is not an element of a section 817.234 violation. The fact that the insurance company never paid any money on the claim-- Defendant initially falsely claimed the car had been stolen – the Defendant is properly convicted of making a false and fraudulent insurance claim. QUALIFIED IMMUNITY-FALSE ARREST: Officers have qualified immunity for repeatedly arresting the Defendant on a warrant for a different person with the same name. The fact that Defendant weighed differently, had a different date of birth, and was tattoo-less are immaterial. Qualified immunity shields from liability all but the plainly incompetent or one who is knowingly violating the federal law. Sosa v. Martin County, No. 20-12781 (11th Cir 9/20/21)

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY-OVER DETENTION: Officers do not have qualified immunity for repeatedly arresting the Defendant on a warrant for a different person with the same name. Overdetention means continued detention after entitlement to release, even though probable cause supported the charge underlying the original detention. Proving a violation requires a plaintiff to establish that the defendant was deliberately indifferent to his due-process rights, that is (1) the defendant had subjective knowledge of a risk of serious harm in the form of continued detention even after the plaintiff had a right to be released; (2) disregarded that risk; and (3) disregarded by conduct that is more than mere negligence.ave compiled lists of such technology. SEARCH WARRANT-GOOD FAITH RELIANCE: A search pursuant to a search warrant not supported by probable cause is unlawful. Where the affidavit in support of the search warrant failed to establish that the affiant had personal knowledge of the informant's reliability and veracity and because the affidavit lacked any corroboration of the informant's claims, the search warrant was issued in error. Good faith reliance is not objectionable he reasonable, so the good faith exception does not apply. The good faith exception is inapplicable where an objectively reasonable officer would have known that the affidavit was insufficient to establish probable cause for the search. Chery v. COMPETENCY: The failure to observe procedures adequate to protect a defendant's right not to be tried or convicted while incompetent to stand trial deprives him of his due process right to a fair trial. MAGISTRATE JUDGE: A district judge abuses its discretion when it squarely rejects the magistrate judge's findings of fact and credibility determinations and substitutes its own. SEARCH AND SEIZURE-EXCLUSIONARY RULE-INEVITABLE DISCOVERY: The standard of predictive proof the government must satisfy in order to establish the proper application of the inevitable discovery exception to the exclusionary rule is preponderance of the evidence.

Illegally obtained evidence is admissible under the ultimate discovery exception if the government can make two showings: 1) a showing by a preponderance of the evidence that if there had been no constitutional violation, the evidence in question would have been discovered by lawful means and 2) that the lawful means which made discovery inevitable were being actively pursued prior to the occurrence of the illegal conduct. CERTIORARI: Defendant may not challenge a trial court's order compelling him to provide the passcode to his cell phone by Petition of Writ of Certiorari. Compelling petitioner to provide a passcode is not a final order nor a non-final order subject to interlaboratory review. Certiorari jurisdiction thus requires a petitioner to demonstrate(1) a departure from the essential requirements of the law, (2) resulting in material injury for the remainder of the case, (3) that cannot be corrected on post judgment appeal. APPEAL-JURISDICTION: Court loses jurisdiction to grant R. 3.800(b)(2) motion if not ruled upon within sixty-day period provided in rule. Judon v. State, 4D20-2469 (9/15/21)

DWLS: By statute, Defendant must be sentenced to at least 10 days in jail for third or subsequent conviction for DWLS. S. 322.34(2)(b)2. State v. Lebrun, 4D21-330 (9/15/20)

EX POST FACTO-DWLS: Amendment to the DWLS statute requiring a minimum of 10 days in jail for recidivist drivers with a suspended license is not an improper ex post facto law. Enhanced sentencing for recidivism does not violate ex post facto principles despite the fact that the prior offenses forming a basis for enhancement occurred prior to enactment of the enhancement provision. Moss v. State, 4D21-347 (9/15/21)

INFORMATION-DWLS: A listing of the prior convictions necessary to enhance a charge of DWLS is not necessary Priors are not an essential element of the crime because they affect only the penalty and not the degree or level of the crime. The prior conviction(s) relate only to sentencing, not to the crime itself. Moss v. State, 4D21-347 (9/15/21)

DWLS-MANDATORY MINIMUM: Court must impose the mandatory ten-day jail sentence required under section 322.34(2)(b)2. as the statute is clear and unambiguous. State v. Williams, 4D21-302 (9/15/21)

DWLS-MANDATORY MINIMUM: Court must impose the mandatory ten-

COSTS: Imposition of $20,000 in costs for FDLE investigative costs in child pornography case, based on State's assertion alone, is improper, but a contemporaneous objection is required. Imposition of such a cost is not a "sentencing error" pursuant to rule 3.800(b). Simpson v. State, 5D20-119 (9/10/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: The appellate court shall reverse summary denial of relief on a postconviction motion, including those filed pursuant to Rule 3.802, unless the record shows conclusively that the appellant is entitled to no relief and the cause will be "remanded for an evidentiary hearing or other appropriate relief. Court must attach records conclusively showing proof that Defendant is not entitled to relief or hold a judicial review hearing. Katwaroo v. State, 5D21-1034 (9/10/21)

DEPORTATION: Any alien who is convicted of an aggravated felony at any time after admission can be removed and any alien who has been convicted of an aggravated felony is ineligible for cancellation of removal. Georgia misdemeanor battery convictions are aggravated felonies under INA, rendering alien ineligible for cancellation of removal because each was a crime of violence. Georgia's battery is an aggravated felony because it involves "physical force," which means "violent force — that is, force capable of causing physical pain or injury to another person." Talamantes-Enriquez v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 19-15080 (11th Cir. 9/9/21)

CATEGORICAL APPROACH: Under the categorical approach, Court does not consider the underlying facts of the particular crime, but only considers whether the state statute defining the crime of conviction categorically fits within the generic federal definition of a corresponding aggravated felony. The required approach is an elements-to-elements comparison, not a facts-to-elements comparison. Talamantes-Enriquez v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 19-15080 (11th Cir. 9/9/21)

DEPORTATION: A sentence of one year incarceration, even if not served pending completion of probation, is a term of imprisonment even if the court itself follows state-law usage and describes the excuse with a word other than "suspend." Defendant was sentenced to a term of imprisonment for at least one year for purposes of INA, even if he was permitted to serve part or all of that sentence on probation. Alien is ineligible for cancellation of removal. "No escape. . .is possible." Talamantes-Enriquez v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 19-15080 (11th Cir. 9/9/21)

METAPHOR OF THE DAY: "There is no reason we should follow an agency decision that says it is interpreting and applying our precedent, instead of just interpreting and applying our own precedent our own selves. That is, after all, what we do day in and day out. And even if we were inclined to have the BIA pinch hit for us, invoking its decision in Estrada is a swing and a miss for Talamantes." Talamantes-Enriquez v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 19-15080 (11th Cir. 9/9/21)

ARGUMENT-FACTS NOT IN EVIDENCE: Characterization of what was said in a conversation, even though there was no testimony about the exact words exchanged, is a fair comment on the evidence. Alcegaire v. State, SC19-428 (9/9/21)

ARGUMENT-BOLSTERING: Prosecutor did not improperly bolster witness by saying the witness feared for his life, nor that the witness "worked hard not to pick the wrong people" and "does not want the wrong people convicted." Alcegaire v. State, SC19-428 (9/9/21)

https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/782616/opinion/sc19-428.pdf

ARGUMENT-EXPRESSIONS OF PERSONAL BELIEF: Prosecutor's arguments sprinkled with "I think" ("I think Johnathan Alcegaire was there because, again, I believe him to be a soldier for his brother," etc.) is a fair comment on the evidence, not an improper expression of personal belief. Alcegaire v. State, SC19-428 (9/9/21)

ARGUMENT: When the State instead uses closing argument to appeal to the jury's sense of outrage at what happened to the victim and asks the jurors to return a verdict that brings "justice" to the victim, the State perverts the purpose of closing argument. Prosecutor's argument that "These victims deserve justice. That's why you're here," is improper but not reversible because the comments did not become the theme of, nor pervade the closing argument. Alcegaire v. State, SC19-428 (9/9/21)

ENTRAPMENT: The defense of subjective entrapment requires a defendant prove by a preponderance of the evidence that his or her criminal conduct occurred as a result of an entrapment. Unlike objective entrapment and its focus on law enforcement's conduct, subjective entrapment focuses on inducement of the accused based on an apparent lack of predisposition to commit the offense. Objective entrapment requires, first, that an agent of the government induced the defendant to commit the offense charged; second, that the defendant was not predisposed to commit the offense; and third, that the prosecution rebut this evidence beyond a reasonable doubt. Hall v. State, 1D19-1920 (9/9/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Inconclusive evidence about a thermometer and the temperature in the house does not establish ineffective assistance of counsel in murder case. DEPORTATION: Alien convicted of any drug offense other than possession of 30 grams or less of marijuana for personal use is subject to removal. Possession of oxycodone hydrochloride is a deportable offense. Farah v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 19-12462 (11th Cir. 9/8/21)

DEPORTATION: An "aggravated felony," which includes a a crime of violence for which the term of imprisonment is at least one year, is a deportable offense. A "crime of violence" is any offense that has as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person or property of another. Assault is a crime of violence. HABEAS CORPUS: Petitioner cannot seek relief on an issue previously

KIDNAPPING: The confinement necessary to support a kidnapping alleged to have facilitated the commission of another felony (a) Must not be slight, inconsequential and merely incidental to the other crime [prong 1]; (b) must not be of the kind inherent in the nature of the other crime [prong 2]; and (c) must have some significance independent of the other crime in that it makes the other crime substantially easier of commission or substantially lessens the risk of detection [prong 3]. Forcing the victim into the backroom, and then into the bathroom, was not inherent in the nature of the completed robbery. Barricading the victim in the room, even for a brief time, was intended to, and did, facilitate the defendant's escape and lessen the risk of his detection. Defendant is properly convicted of kidnapping. Parrish v . State, 4D19-1991 (9/8/21)

HUH WHAT HUH?: The January 1, 2015 amendment to Fl.R.App.P. does not have retroactive effect so as to undo the abandonment of a motion for new trial which resulted under the prior version of the rule when the notice of appeal was filed before the filing of a signed, written order disposing of the motion for new trial filed by the appealing party. LESSER INCLUDED-SEXUAL BATTERY: A lesser included offense is one whose elements are entirely contained within the elements of another, greater, offense. APPEAL-PRESERVATION: Defendant may not raise on appeal tha argument that State denigrated his defense in opening argument where that specific argument was not raised before the the trial court. CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: The special standard for circumstantial evidence in reviewing motions for judgment of acquittal has been abandoned. PLEA-DEPORTATION: An equivocal warning about deportation consequences is not on its own sufficient to refute a claim that counsel was ineffective in failing to advise a defendant about truly clear deportation consequences. The warning in R. 3.172(c)(8)(A) is equivocal. Defendant is entitled to relief when he can establish (1) that the movant was present in the country lawfully at the time of the plea; (2) that the plea at issue is the sole basis for the movant's deportation; (3) that the law, as it existed at the time of the plea, subjected the movant to virtually automatic deportation; (4) that the presumptively mandatory consequence of deportation is clear from the face of the immigration statute; (5) that counsel failed to accurately advise the movant about the deportation consequences of the plea; and (6) that, if the movant had been accurately advised, he or she would not have entered the plea. Nunez v. State, 2D20-2680 (9/1/21)

IDENTIFICATION-SHOW UP: An out-of-court identification may be admitted if, first, police used an unnecessarily suggestive procedure to obtain an out-ofcourt identification, and, second, if so, considering all the circumstances, if the suggestive procedure gave rise to a substantial likelihood of irreparable misidentification. SEARCH AND SEIZURE-OBSCURED TAG: Bicycles on back of vehicle partially obscuring the view of the numbers on the license plate justifies the traffic stop. SEARCH AND SEIZURE-AUTOMOBILE-PROLONGED STOP: Extreme nervousness is reasonable suspicion to prolong stop. SENTENCING-(CONCURRING): No federal constitutional requirement exists for trial judges (or appellate judges) to explain the manner in which they exercised their sentencing discretion (or applied the abuse of discretion standard on appeal). Judges need not make a factual finding or an on the record explanation that a murderer under the age of 18 is permanently incorrigible before a sentencing of life without parole may be imposed. CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Upon sentencing Defendant for VOP, Court must give credit for time spent in another jail (Sumter County) before being transferred to the county of disposition (Citrus County) once the charges in the first county have been resolved. If Defendant's Sumter County charges were resolved before her transfer to Citrus County, and her Citrus County detainer was the only reason Sumter County held her, she is entitled to credit for time served. SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Officers may pursue and tase passenger who flees (and when tased falls off wall, breaks neck, and dies), notwithstanding that he had been non-threatening and had not engaged in evident criminal conduct before fleeing. Headlong flight—wherever it occurs—is the consummate act of evasion and though it is not necessarily indicative of wrongdoing, it is certainly suggestive of such. Bradley v. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-HABEAS CORPUS: Trial counsel was ineffective for abandoning the Defendant's only viable defense (insanity) on the eve of trial, particularly where he had neglected to obtain any mental health evaluation. Nonetheless, Defendant is not entitled to relief because he could not show prejudice. The test for prejudice is whether there was a reasonable probability of success on the insanity defense. Evidence that Defendant engaged in disturbed behavior such as putting holes in walls, speaking with himself, using a baseball bat to destroy a TV, hearing voices so much that he had to cover his ears to refrain from hearing them, wearing headphones while sleeping to drown out those voices, digging holes in the ground for no reason, cutting holes in a wire fence, wanting to see a dead person, sitting in the dark and isolating himself, and crying spontaneously is insufficient. Hayes v. Secretary, Florida DOC, No. 19-10856 (11th Cir. 8/25/21)

CLEAR AND CONVINCING EVIDENCE: Clear and Convincing evidence is evidence that is precise, explicit, lacking in confusion, and of such weight that it produces a firm belief, without hesitation, about the matter in issue. Hayes v. Secretary, Florida DOC, No. 19-10856 (11th Cir. 8/25/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: In death penalty case, Defendant is not entitled to relief on claim of ineffective assistance of counsel where the evidence of aggravation is overwhelming and there is not a reasonable probability that on presented additional evidence of mitigation would have resulted in a life sentence recommendation. DEATH PENALTY-UNANIMOUS RECOMMENDATION: Hurst's

JUROR-CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE-PRESERVATION: The preservation of the challenge to a potential juror requires two objections: (1) a contemporaneous objection that puts the trial court on notice; and (2) a second objection before the jury is sworn. Failure to lodge the second objection indicates abandonment of the initial objection. "I will have the prior objections put on the record, Judge," does not preserve the issue. Hilton v. EVIDENCE: In murder case, charred human bones found at the Defendant's campsite are admissible because a reasonable juror could fairly infer from them that Defendant murdered the victim, notwithstanding that the State did not establish that the bones came from the victim's body. EXPERT: Court properly excluded Defendant's accounting expert because his testimony failed to satisfy Daubert because it may not have rested on sufficient facts, the expert did not use a reliable method, and the expert did not apply the method reliably to the facts.Expert testimony is allowed if it will help the factfinder understand evidence or determine a fact in issue, but only if (1) The testimony is based upon sufficient facts or data; (2) the testimony is the product of reliable principles and methods; and (3) the witness has applied the principles and methods reliably to the facts of the case. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: One may file a belated motion for post conviction relief where counsel was retained for that purpose but never filed the motion, but one must do so within two years of the original deadline. Seme v. State, 3D21-870 (8/25/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court may not deny a motion for post-conviction relief as legally insufficient without permitting amendment. EXCLUSIONARY RULE-INEVITABLE DISCOVERY: The standard of proof for the inevitable discovery exception to the exclusionary rule is preponderance of evidence, not a reasonable probability, of ultimate discovery. "[W]e hold that the standard of predictive proof the government must satisfy in order to establish the proper application of the ultimate discovery exception is preponderance of the evidence, not reasonable probability. All of our decisions holding to the contrary are overruled." USA v. Watkins, No. 18-14336 (11th Cir. 8/20/21)

REASONABLE PROBABILITY: "The primary problem. . .is that no one knows exactly what reasonable probability means. . .The words are plain enough separately, but their combined meaning is anything but plain. The term 'reasonable probability' implies there must be an unreasonable probability, just as darkness must exist for light to have meaning. Otherwise, why put the limiting adjective 'reasonable' in front of the noun 'probability' — what work does 'reasonable' do? But how can a probability be unreasonable? How does a reasonable probability differ from an unreasonable one?" USA v. Watkins, No. 18-14336 (11th Cir. 8/20/21)

EXCLUSIONARY RULE: The purpose of the Fourth Amendment and the exclusionary rule is not to increase the reliability of criminal proceedings or bolster our confidence in their outcome. Nor is that their effect. Just the opposite. The primary effect of using the exclusionary rule to enforce the Fourth Amendment is to exclude from the trier of fact some relevant and probative evidence, which could decrease the reliability of the outcome of a criminal proceeding. USA v. Watkins, No. 18-14336 (11th Cir. 8/20/21)

DEFINITION-PREPONDERANCE OF EVIDENCE: "Preponderance of the evidence's" meaning is "simple, straightforward, and clear." A preponderance of the evidence is evidence which is more convincing than the evidence offered in opposition to it and simply requires the trier of fact to believe that the existence of a fact is more probable than its nonexistence. "Or phrased in a slightly different fashion, it is proof that persuades the trier of fact that a proposition 'is more likely true than not true.'" USA v. Watkins, No. 18-14336 (11th Cir. 8/20/21)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-RETROACTIVITY: The holding in Lee (that to determine whether multiple convictions of solicitation of a minor, unlawful use of a two-way communications device, and traveling after solicitation of a minor are based upon the same conduct for purposes of double jeopardy, the reviewing court may consider only the charging document) does not apply retroactively to cases which were already final when Lee v. VOP-CURFEW: Probation properly revoked where Defendant is found with friends on the beach after curfew. "[Defendant]'s lack of effort to ever discern the time suggests willful ignorance rather than negligent forgetfulness. While [he] had every right to be away from his residence until 10PM, his actions before and during his violation of curfew do not portray some inept attempt to comply." Williams v. DISCOVERY-CONFIDENTIAL INFORMANT: The disclosure of a CI's identity when he will not be called as a witness is required only if the failure to do so infringes on Defendant's constitutional rights. A defendant's knowledge of an informant's name does not necessarily extinguish the need for maintaining an informant's confidentiality. An in camera hearing is required to determine whether, among other factors, the CI would be relevant and helpful to show entrapment. State v. Sullivan, 5D20-1482 (8/20/21)

FIRST STEP: Because a period of supervised release is simply a part of the sentence for the underlying conviction, a sentence imposed upon the revocation of supervised release qualifies for a reduction under §404(b) of the First Step Act when the underlying crime is a covered offense under the Act. Post-revocation penalties relate to the original offense. Court does not abuse its discretion in denying sentence reduction. USA v. Gonzalez, No. 19-14381 (8/19/21)

DEPORTATION-AGGRAVATED FELONY: Any alien who is convicted of an aggravated felony at any time after admission is deportable. Further, that alien is ineligible for cancellation of removal. An "aggravated felony" includes an offense (i) which either is falsely making, forging, counterfeiting, mutilating, or altering a passport or instrument (relating to document fraud) and (ii) for which the term of imprisonment is at least 12 months. The parenthetical "(relating to document fraud)" in 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(43)(P) is descriptive, not limiting. Germaine v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 20-11419 (8/18/21)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Convictions for both grand theft and organized scheme to defraud based on the same conduct violate double jeopardy. Grand theft is a lesser-included offense of organized scheme to defraud. Where there are two separate thefts charged, both of which could be subsumed in the fraud count, Double Jeopardy disallows dual convictions. Amison v. State, 1D18-1312 (8/18/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-VOIR DIRE: A claim of ineffective assistance of counsel based upon counsel's failure to object to the State's use of peremptory challenges is not cognizable in a postconviction motion. Reed v. State, 1D21-335 (8/18/21)

INFORMATION: Where a defendant waits until after the State rests its case to challenge the propriety of an indictment or information, the defendant is required to show not only that the indictment is technically defective but that it is so fundamentally defective that it cannot support a judgment of conviction. WRIT: A decision on an extraordinary writ petition that clearly shows that the issue was considered by the court on the merits is deemed a decision which would later bar the litigant from presenting the issue under the doctrines of res judicata or collateral estoppel. Holland v. State, 1D21-11563 (8/18.21)

RE-SENTENCING-LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR-HOMICIDE: Once a trial court has rendered an order granting relief under rule 3.850, it may not revisit its ruling absent a motion for rehearing or appeal, but an order appointing counsel is not an order requiring a resentencing order. Court properly denies a hearing for resentencing based where Defendant's two consecutive life sentences allowed for parole review. Malone v. State, 1D20-2482 (8/17/21)

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Defendant is entitled to hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to move to disqualify judge. Court departed from its role of impartiality by excusing the jury and asking the State whether it intended to present evidence of other sexual molestations after Defendant testified that he was "not that type of person." Disqualification is required where judge suggests to counsel alternatives on how to proceed strategically. Capriano v. State, 4D19-3608 (8/18/21)

HEARSAY-DIARY: Victim's journal is improperly admitted over hearsay objection. It does not qualify as a a prior consistent statement because it did not predate victim's motive to fabricate. But error here is harmless. Gilbert

ARGUMENT: State's argument regarding the Victim's troubled past was not improper where Defendant argued that she had a pattern of breaking the rules, lying, and acting out. State's argument, turning an allegedly vindictive past into a vulnerable childhood, is well within bounds. Gilbert v. State, 2D19-1622 (8/13/21)

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS: Defendant's prosecution for a second degree felony (attempted robbery with a firearm, with a 10-20-life enhancement, is time barred. The three-year statute of limitations, tolled for an additional three years during the Defendant's absence from the state, renders untimely an amended information filed ten years after the crime. Counsel was ineffective for not raising the issue. The State may only amend a charging document outside of the limitations period when necessary to correct a clerical error. The filing of an amended information purporting to be a complete restatement of the charges supersedes and vitiates an earlier information. Marcario v. State, 2D19-4743 (8/13/21)

REMOTE HEARING-NOTICE-RISK PROTECTION: Risk protection order is vacated where Respondent was not given proper notice that the hearing would be conducted virtually, and he showed up in person but was denied entrance. Procedural due process requires both fair notice and a real opportunity to be heard at a meaningful time and in a meaningful manner. E.P. v. Lakeland Police, 2D20-2121 (8/13/21)

COMPETENCY: Even if the evaluations unanimously agree that the defendant is competent, the court still must conduct a hearing. Knight v. State, 5D20-2435 (8/13/21)

CHILD HEARSAY: Although Court should generally exclude multiple child hearsay witnesses as unduly prejudicial and/or needlessly cumulative ("[W]e can envision the prosecution parading an endless stream of hearsay witnesses before the jury, smothering the defendant in an avalanche of consistent statements."), but Defendant here failed to preserve his cumulative evidence argument for appellate review, as he did not raise it at the child hearsay hearing nor object on that basis at trial. POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON-KNOWLEDGE: When a defendant is charged with being a felon in possession of a firearm under §922(g)(1), the knowledge-of-status element requires proof that at the time he possessed the firearm he was aware he had a prior conviction for a crime punishable by imprisonment for a term exceeding one year. Defendant's plea was involuntary because Defendant was not advised of knowledge element (Rehaif had not yet been decided). A Rehaif error affecting the knowing and voluntary nature of a guilty plea is not structural, so that plea need only be vacated if Defendant showed prejudice, i.e., that he would not have pled or did not know his status. ACCA-BURGLARY: Georgia's burglary statute is a valid predicate offense for the Armed Career Criminal Act, and encompasses Defendant's conviction as an aider and abettor. An ostensible predicate crime is not deprived of that status merely because the conviction may have been based on conduct that aided and abetted the crime. USA v. Coats, No. 18-13113 (8/12/21)

SENTENCING-ACCEPTANCE OF RESPONSIBILITY: Defendant can be denied an adjustment for acceptance of responsibility where he punched out the CI in jail prior to his indictment. Obstruction of justice precludes a reduction for acceptance of responsibility absent extraordinary circumstances. USA v. Coats, No. 18-13113 (8/12/21)

PRINCIPAL: Mother is properly convicted as a principal to attempted murder for inducing her daughter, by threatening to ground her, to attack the mother's ex-boy friend's girl friend with a machete. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-TIME LIMIT: Two-year time limit for filing R.3.850 motion may be not tolled while he is incarcerated out of state, if he lacked access to Florida legal materials.Court must make a factual determination whether he could have accessed the necessary materials, in light of improved internet access to those materials. DUI REVIEW: Defendant is not entitled to invalidation of her DL suspension based on breath technicians failure to appear at administrative hearing where Defendant had refused the breth test. "Muchhala makes several reasonable arguments [why]. . .the department is required to invalidate the license suspension if a subpoenaed breath technician fails to appear, even if the driver had refused the test. But our task is not to determine de novo what the statute requires; it is to determine whether the circuit court afforded procedural due process, whether it applied the correct law, and whether there has been a violation of a clearly established principle of law resulting in a miscarriage of justice. Muchhala has failed to demonstrate that his interpretation of the statute was '"clearly established,' or that the circuit court violated any other 'clearly established' principle of law. Muchhala v. Florida DHSMV, 1D20-2365 (8/12/21)

UNLAWFUL PRESCRIPTION: Government need not prove by expert testimony that the patients did not need the pills unlawfully prescribed in pill mill prosecution. USA v. Akwuba, No. 19-12230 (11th Cir. 8/11/21)

CONSPIRACY-PILL MILL: Testimony that Defendant (Nurse Practitoner and Doctor worked together to distribute controlled substances and that they directed patients to return monthly to keep up billing is sufficient to establish conspiracy. A defendant can be convicted of conspiracy even if his or her participation in the scheme is slight by comparison to the actions of other co-conspirators. USA v. HEALTH CARE FRAUD: A person is guilty of committing health care fraud if, in connection with the delivery of or payment for health care benefits, items, or services, she knowingly and willfully executes a scheme (1) to defraud any health care benefit program; or (2) to obtain, by means of false or fraudulent pretenses, representations, or promises, any of the money or property owned by, or under the custody or control of, any health care benefit program. JURY INSTRUCTION: Court errs in instructing the jury that the parties stipulated to something that they did not stipulate to but the error is not revrble where Defendant was able to present her defense. JOA-SALE WITH 1000 FEET: Defendant cannot be convicted of sale of narcotics within 1,000 feet of a child care facility which did not have a statutorily-required sign identifying it as a "licensed" child care facility, or words to that effect. STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION: An elementary principle of statutory construction is that significance and effect must be given to every word, phrase, sentence, and part of the statute if possible, and words in a statute should not be construed as mere surplusage. Brevil v. State, 4D19-3010 (8/11/21)

DISTRIBUTION OF CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE: Corrupt cops who provided protection to purporteed drug dealers in a sting operation are properly convicted of possession with intent to distribute a controlled substance and conspiracy. USA v. Harris, No. 19-13692 (11th Cir. 8/9/21)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM IN FURTHERANCE OF DRUG TRAFFICKING: Defendant's claim that the firearm played no role in protecting the drugs or the drug dealer because he did not display it falls flat. The very purpose of possessing a weapon was to protect the drug couriers. USA v. Harris, No. 19-13692 (8/9/21)

ENTRAPMENT: There is no entrapment when a defendant is willing to break the law and Government merely provides what appears to be a favorable opportunity for the defendant to commit a crime. Predisposition focuses upon whether the defendant was an unwary innocent or, instead, an unwary criminal who readily availed himself of the opportunity to perpetrate the crime. Predisposition may be demonstrated simply by a defendant's ready commission of the charged crime. USA v. Harris, No. 19-13692 (8/9/21)

DURESS: A general concern that a coconspirator might retaliate does not establish the duress defense, particularly where the Defendant had opportunities to withdraw. USA v. Harris, No. 19-13692 (8/9/21)

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-RACE: To determine whether a prosecutor has discriminated on the basis of race in exercising a peremptory challenge, first, the district court must determine whether the party challenging the strike has established a prima facie case by showing facts sufficient to support an inference of discriminatory motive. If a prima facie showing is made, the burden of production shifts to the proponent of the strike to come forward with a race-neutral explanation (step two). The reason given for the peremptory strike need not be a good reason. In the third and final stage, the district court must evaluate the persuasiveness of the proffered reason and determine whether, considering all relevant circumstances, the objector has carried the burden of proving discrimination. A "gut feeling" about the juror and avoidance of eye contact during voir dire may be sufficient. USA v. Harris, No. 19-13692 (8/9/21)

KIDNAPPING: Defendant is properly convicted of kidnapping for picking up a child in a van then taking her to a house to sexually molest her. Kidnapping occurs when the movement or confinement employed by the defendant is 1) not slight, inconsequential, or merely incidental to the other crime; 2) not inherent in the nature of the other crime; and 3) has some significance independent of the other crime charged so as to lessen the risk of detection or make the other crime easier to commit. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court erred by summarily denying motion for post conviction relief without attaching records on the grounds that claim of ineffective assistance should have been rqised on direct appeal. DEPORTATION: Possession of a firearm by a felon does not constitutes a "firearm offense" within the meaning of the INA, which would render him removable. Simpson v. U.S. Attorney General, No.19-11156 (11th Cir. 8/4/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911156.pdf

CARRYING CONCEALED FIREARM BY FELON: §790.23(1)(a) is categorically overbroad because the statute prohibits a felon's possession of ammunition, and ammunition does not constitute a firearm under §921(a)(3) because ammunition is not a weapon which can expel a projectile. Nor does ammunition fit within the other definitions of a firearm in §921(a)(3). Stated differently, the least culpable conduct for the possession offense is the possession by a felon of ammunition, and the least culpable conduct for the concealed carrying offense is the concealed carrying of a dirk or billie, and both of these scenarios are broader than the firearm offense described by §1227(a)(2)(C) of the INA through its cross-reference to the definition of a firearm in § 921(a)(3). "So both of the Florida offenses in §790.23(1)(a) are broader than what the applicable federal law provides. And that, for purposes of the categorical approach, is the end of the matter." Simpson v. U.S. Attorney General, No.19-11156 (11th Cir. 8/4/21)

HUH?: If the two offenses prescribed by §790.23(1)(a) are themselves divisible, then the statute sets out seven or more separate possession crimes (one crime for possession of each of the five definitions of a firearm, plus one crime for possession of ammunition, plus one crime for possession of an electric weapon or device). And if the offenses are divisible, §790.23(1)(a) would also set out six or more separate concealed carrying crimes (one crime for carrying in a concealed manner each of the four definitions of a concealed weapon, plus one crime for carrying in a concealed manner a tear gas gun, plus one crime for carrying in a concealed manner a chemical weapon or device). VOP-JURISDICTION: Court lacks jurisdiction to revoke probation on third degree felonies where jail, prison, and probation had exceeded five years.

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-COUNSEL: Court erred in denying appointment of counsel before post conviction motion hearing where Defendant reads at a fourth grade level. Counsel must be appointed where Defendant is unable to go forward because of his lack of sophistication or education, even where the issues are not complex, novel or meritorious. Although there is no absolute right to counsel in post-conviction relief proceedings, the court must determine the need for counsel and resolve any doubts in favor of the appointment of counsel for the defendant. The question is whether the assistance of counsel is essential to accomplish a fair and thorough presentation of the petitioner's claims, considering the adversary nature of the proceeding, its complexity, the need for an evidentiary hearing, or the need for substantial legal research. SEXUAL PREDATOR: Defendant is improperly designated a Sexual Offender for second degree felonies without a prior predicate offense, but the Sexual Offender designation survives on the basis of his contemporaneous conviction for a first degree felony sex offense (Kidnapping with the Intent to Commit a Felony). DWLS: A certified computerized copy of Defendant's driver's record is legally insufficient to prove the historical fact of his two prior convictions to show enhancement of DLWS. Prior DUI convictons are treated differently. The rebuttable presumption that the knowledge requirement is satisfied if a judgmentor order appears in the Department's records is restricted to the element that the defendant had knowledge of the suspension or revocation, not to the prior convictions element. INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL: Trial counsel was ineffective on the face of the record by agreeing to a jury instruction on the justifiable use of deadly force, but not on nondeadly force, where Defendant joined a screwdriver/broomstick fight which ended with broomstick guy being stabbed. Claudio-Martinez v. State, 2D19-3639 (7/30/21)

SELF DEFENSE/DEFENSE OF OTHERS: The use of a deadly weapon in self defense does not summarily equate to the use of deadly force. The only act that has been deemed deadly as a matter of law is that of firing a firearm. Where the evidence at trial does not establish that the force used by the defendant was deadly or nondeadly as a matter of law, the question is a factual one to be decided by the jury, and the defendant is entitled to jury instructions on the justifiable use of both types of force. SELF DEFENSE: Stabbing the victim in the back near the shoulder blade does not, as a matter of law, constitute deadly force, and the question of whether the force used was deadly or nondeadly is a question for the jury. Claudio-Martinez v. State, 2D19-3639 (7/30/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim that counsel is ineffective in sex battery case to call expert to counter nurse's testimony regarding the conclusions to be drawn from the lack of physical evidence of intercourse. PROHIBITION: Fla.Stat. §26.012, which removed a circuit court's jurisdiction to hear most appeals from the county courts, also removed circuit courts jurisdiction to issue extraordinary writs. PROHIBITION: The common law writ of prohibition traces its origins to the Courts of the King's Bench, Chancery, Common Pleas, and Exchequer, all of which issued writs of prohibition to restrict the powers of ecclesiastical courts over temporal matters. Prohibition was a device for locating and fixing the boundaries between spiritual and temporal jurisdictions. Today, Prohibition lies to prevent an inferior tribunal from acting in excess of jurisdiction but not to prevent an erroneous exercise of jurisdiction. Hitchman v. State, 3D21-1154 (7/28/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DRUG COURT-DEPORTATION: Court lacks jurisdiction to vacate the proceedings by whick Defendant entered and completed Drug Court, resulting in dismissal of charges, on the the grounds that counsel failed to advise him that the participation in drug court would still result in his deportation. R.3.850 provides for relief from a judgment which requires an adjudication by the court. Vacation of a plea cannot meet the definition of a judgment for purposes of relief pursuant to the rule. HABEAS CORPUS: Defendant is entitled to federal habeas relief from a state court denial of post-conviction relief only where the state court's ruling resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States. "As difficult as it is to prevail on an ineffective assistance prejudice issue in the first court to decide it, the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 makes it even harder to succeed on that issue in a federal habeas proceeding after a state court has ruled that the petitioner failed to show prejudice. Tarleton v. Secretary, Florida DOC, No. 18-10621 (11th Cir. 7/23/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: Defendant is not entitled to habeas corpus relief from his state bank robbery conviction notwithstanding that no physical evidence tied him to the scene, family members gave ambivalent testimony that the Defendant looked like the perpetrator, and the teller said she could not be positive about her identification and there were differences, but "her confidence about the eyes came through in the testimony." Tarleton v. Secretary, Florida DOC, No. 18-10621 (11th Cir. 7/23/21)

INJUSTICE (DISSENT): "Marvin Tarleton is spending 30 years in prison after a jury found he stole $3,429 from a Bank of America branch. But the admissible evidence against him was so underwhelming that the State apparently felt it had to rely on inadmissible hearsay evidence from three witnesses it could have chosen to subpoena (but didn't) to convict him. And Tarleton's lawyer did not object to a lick of it." Tarleton v. Secretary, Florida DOC, No. 18-10621 (11th Cir. 7/23/21)

SEX TRAFFICKING: A defendant can now be convicted of sex trafficking a minor if he knows or recklessly disregards the fact that the victim is not yet 18 years old. USA v. Williams, No. 19-11972 97/23/21)

trafficker of a minor is lawful and reasonable. USA v. Williams, No. 19-11972 (7/23/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911972.pdf

RESTITUTION: Amount of restitution assessed (multiplying each victim's estimated average daily earnings by the number of days she prostituted) is proper when the government estimated the restitution award, rather than producing precise records to establish the exact amount. Estimates are permitted, so long as the basis for reasonable approximation is at hand. "Poor recordkeeping cannot foreclose restitution." USA v. Williams, No. 19-11972 (7/23/21)

RESTITUTION: Defendant who coerced children into sex and for years confiscated his victims' prostitution earnings is not entitled to offset food, housing, and clothing for the victims from the restitution award. Defendant's argument that to allow them to recoup the full amount of their prostitution earnings without deducting their living expenses results in a windfalL is rejected. USA v. Williams, No. 19-11972 (7/23/21)

RESTITUTION: A victim may at any time assign the victim's interest in restitution payments to the Crime Victims Fund in the Treasury without in any way impairing the obligation of the defendant to make such payments. USA v. Williams, No. 19-11972 (7/23/21)

SENTENCING-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: Defendant's objection to five consecutive life sentences as substantively unreasonable "does not come close. Though he was convicted of sex trafficking three young women—after years of brutally torturing, beating, and threatening them into submission—he now tries to minimize his crimes, saying that the 15-year mandatory minimum should have been more than enough because he 'did not murder anyone.'" Whether or not [Defendant's] contention [that the sex trafficking guidelines are structurally flawed] is true, this is far from the right case to prove the point." USA v. Williams, No. 19-11972 (7/23/21)

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: Government can establish that the Defendant's prior qualifying offenses for ACCA enhancement occurred on different dates by considering the relevant state court change of plea transcript, notwithstanding that the Defendant never clearing agreed to the date of the offense on the record. Shepard does not limit allowable records to support the ACCA enhancement to the charging instruments, terms of a plea agreement, or transcript of a plea colloquy. USA v. Dudley, No. 18-10621 (7/23/21)

IMPEACHMENT: To be used as impeachment, a pretrial statement must either directly contradict or be materially different from the testimony offered by the victim at trial. The victim not knowing how Defendant acquired the hammer does not directly contradict her trial testimony that he used the hammer on her head.

BURGLARY: Permission to remain in a dwelling can be deemed to be revoked if the invitee commits a subsequent criminal act against the owner (here, hitting her on the head with a hammer). Turner v. State, 5D21-758 (7/23/21)

APPEAL-PERMISSIBLE RECORD: Court may not deny without a hearing a motion to correct credit for time served on the ground that the motion was successive without attaching the earlier motion and denial of it. State may not supplement the appeal record with the court's earlier order because it is not authorized as the allowable record contents. Although it may be a waste of judicial resources to reverse and remand for the trial court to enter a new order with the earlier order actually attached to it when the contents of the earlier order and its legal effect are undisputed, the rules must be strictly construed and followed. "[T]hat's what's required. . . ; a remand is not wholly wasteful if it serves as a reminder to trial judges to include attachments in the record on appeal in the first instance. Harley v. RESENTENCING: Court erred by resentencing Defendant without conducting a sentencing hearing. A prisoner is entitled to be present at the time a corrected sentence is imposed to the same degree they were entitled to be present when initially sentenced and he may submit evidence relevant to the sentence. STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: Defendant's recorded exit interview from his job as a prison correctional officer is admissible, notwithstanding that he was unaware that it was being recorded. Defendant had no expectation of privacy the parties did not demonstrate externally any sort of expectation that the meeting was private or confidential, and all attendees at the exit interview were MCI employees, on MCI property, acting in furtherance of their public duties. INCOMPETENCE-DISCHARGE: Defendant is not entitled to discharge based on his remaining incompetent for one year (a misdemeanor) where he never submitted to the psychological re-evaluation after the initial finding on incompetency. Nerette v. State, 4D21-630 (7/21/21)

SENTENCING-LOWEST PERMISSIBLE SENTENCE: Where Defendant's LPS is 19.8 years, he may not be sentenced to ten and eleven years consecutively on 2nd degree felonies. The lowest permissible sentence applies to each count under when the lowest permissible sentence exceeds the statutory maximum for each individual count. The lowest permissible sentence is an individual minimum sentence which applies to each felony at sentencing for which the LPS exceeds that felony's statutory maximum sentence, regardless of whether the felony is the primary or an additional offense. Court must impose 19.8 years for both counts of vehicular homicide where the scoresheet prescribed a lowest permissible sentence of 19.8 years. Pierce v. State, 1D19-2829 (7/20/21)

COLLATERAL CRIMES: Evidence that Defendant had engaged in sexual activity with a mentally challenged adult is admissible in trial for Lewd and Lascivious Molestation of a ten year old. In a criminal case in which the defendant is charged with a sexual offense, collateral-crime evidence may be introduced to corroborate the victim's testimony by showing that the defendant has a propensity for committing sexual offenses. DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy affords three basic protections: against a second prosecution for the same offense following an acquittal, against a second prosecution for the same offense after a conviction, and against multiple punishments for the same offense. Rodriguez v. State, 2D19-1106 (7/16/21)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for second-degree murder and third-degree murder violate double jeopardy because they are degree variants of each other as they are in the same statute and are degree variants of the same offense, murder. Rodriguez v. State, 2D19-1106 (7/16/21)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy protections do not extend to the information or jury selection phase. Despite the clear rule saying that a defendant cannot be convicted of both, there is no such rule saying that he cannot be charged with both crimes. Double jeopardy concerns arise once the jury returned guilty verdicts on the dual murder offenses. To cure the double jeopardy violation, the trial court must vacate the conviction that placed Defendant in double jeopardy, not to enter an adjudication of not guilty. Rodriguez v. State, 2D19-1106 (7/16/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-WELFARE CHECK: Officer exceeded permissible scope of a welfare check by hauling sleeping man with a knife on his lap from a parked car. A warrantless intrusion into Defendant's vehicle as he was sleeping is unreasonable under the Fourth Amendment as part of a permissible welfare check. Searches and seizures conducted in connection with welfare checks are solely for safety reasons. and is limited to prevent the exception from becoming an investigative tool that circumvents the Fourth Amendment. Even if Defendant's wellbeing were objectively in doubt, the officer never sought to inquire into his wellbeing before pulling him out of his vehicle. Taylor v. State, 1D19-3522 (7/15/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-STANDING: As a basic principle of Fourth Amendment law, an unconstitutional seizure or arrest which prompts a disclaimer of property vitiates the disclaimer. Where Defendant disclaims the illegal items as a result of the unconstitutional search and seizure, he retains standing to challenge the search and seizure. Taylor v. State, 1D19-3522 (7/15/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-IAC-FAILURE TO IMPEACH: Counsel was ineffective for failing to impeach detective who testified at trial that Defendant never provided any specific witnesses by name, address, or phone number, when in fact during the videotaped interrogation, Defendant repeatedly asked him to contact his employer and gave him the employer's business card. Counsel's explanation that he did not impeach the Detective because of Defendant's repeated use of profanity was not reasonable under the norms of professional conduct. Duty v. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-IAC-IDENTIFICATION: Counsel was ineffective for failing to move to suppress the show-up identification where officers had Defendant change his clothes to match the initial description, surrounded him with officers, and then brought the Victim to see him (she said he was "pretty close" to the person who robbed her, but that she couldn't be sure until after the officer instructed her that she needed to be sure). COSTS: Court erred in imposing a $700 fine and a $35 surcharge on that fine pursuant to sections 775.083(1) and 938.04 when neither the fine nor the surcharge was specifically pronounced during Appellant's sentencing hearing. SENTENCING GUIDELINES-WEAPON ENHANCEMENT: §2D1.1(b)(1) enhancement for a firearm applies if the weapon was present, unless it is clearly improbable that it was connected with the offense. The government benefits from a rebuttable presumption that a firearm, if present—just present, not present in proximity to drugs—is connected with the offense. USA v. Sanchez Cara.squillo, No. 19-14143 (11th Cir. 7/14/21)

SAFETY VALVE-FIREARM: Although the §2D1.1(b)(1) firearm enhancement does not preclude satisfaction of §5C1.2(a)(2)safety valve in rare cases, a factual finding that there is a connection between the firearm and the offense means that the defendant cannot satisfy the safety valve requirements. USA v. Sanchez Carasquillo, No. 19-14143 (11th Cir. 7/14/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Defendant's motion for credit for time served for time spent in another state awaiting extradition is subject to the two-year time limit of R. 3.850, not the one year time limit of R. 3.801, which governs motions for jail credit but only applies to in-state jail credit. DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Possession of child pornography is a lesser-included offense of receiving child pornography; Defendant cannot be convicted of both. USA v. Phillips, No. 18-11737 (11th Cir. 7/13/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811737.pdf

INDICTMENT: Where the indictment charges the Defendant with "knowingly and intentionally" causing a minor to engage in sexually explicit conduct for the purpose of producing a video, , but the statute does not require that the Defendant know the victim's age, Court need not instruct the jury that the Defendant's knowledge of the age of the victim is required. Language in an indictment that goes beyond what the statute requires ordinarily does not become part of the charged crime. An extra mens rea term in an indictment ordinarily does not become part of the charged crime, and can be ignored without error. USA v. Phillips, No. 18-11737 (11th Cir. 7/13/21)

ACCA: Possession of cocaine with intent to distribute and manufacture, sale, distribution, or possession with intent to distribute cocaine and heroin qualify as serious drug offenses under the Armed Career Criminal Act, even if the distribution was merely giving away the drugs rather than selling them. Defendant is subject to a minimum sentence of 15 years. A conviction for narcotics for other than personal use qualifies as a serious drug offense under ACCA. Possession for "social sharing" is possession "for other than personal use." USA v. Stancil, No. 19-12001 (11th Cir. 7/13/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201912001.pdf

POSSESSION-KNOWLEDGE: Knowledge of the specific substance in a package is not required in order for one to be convicted of possession of cocaine. When the government charges violations of §841(a)(1) and §846, and mentions the specific drug involved to seek enhanced penalties under §841(b)(1), it needs to prove the defendant's mens rea only for the substantive violation, not for the specific drug charged. USA v. Colston,

No. 19-13518 (11th Cir 7/13/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201913518.pdf

METAPHOR: In Narog, we reasoned that [when] the government. . .included the identity of the controlled substance in the indictment [it]. . .needed to prove that the defendants knew the specific drug involved. . .Defendants have since relied on it to argue that if an indictment is worded just so, we must read it to charge a mens rea for the specific type of drug. Though Narog rarely got defendants where they wanted to go. . .the twists and turns it required were a detour in the analysis, and misled defendants about what might be required. That road has come to a dead end." USA v. Colston, No. 19-13518 (11th Cir 7/13/21)

EVIDENCE: Court acted within its discretion when it admitted evidence of Defendant's prior drug deals to show that her involvement in a different drug-related crime was not a mistake. Evidence of prior drug dealings is highly probative of intent to distribute a controlled substance, as well as involvement in a conspiracy. Any prior drug offense as probative of the intent to engage in a drug conspiracy—even if the prior crime involves a different type and amount of drug. USA v. Colston, No. 19-13518 (11th Cir 7/13/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Evidence that a jailhouse snitch who testified against the defendant had gone through Defendant's legal papers in their shared jail cell is newly discovered evidence, but is not sufficiently probative to raise reasonable doubt of his guilt. POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Indictment is not fatally defective for failure to allege that Defendant must know that he is a felon in order to be convicted as a felon in possession of a firearm. Indictment omissions do not deprive a court of jurisdiction. USA v. Leonard, No. 19-14142 (11th Cir. 7/8/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: A defendant is only entitled to challenge the veracity of a search warrant affidavit at a hearing if he makes a substantial preliminary showing that (1) the author of the affidavit made false statements or omissions either intentionally or with reckless disregard for the truth, and (2) the allegedly false statement or omission was necessary to the finding of probable cause. ARGUMENT: Government's statement that "this was a case about protecting our communities from guns and from drugs," objected to and for

ACCA: Under the Armed Career Criminal Act, a felon in possession of a firearm is subject to a mandatory minimum sentence of 15 years' imprisonment if he has three prior convictions for serious drug offenses committed on occasions different from one another, regardless of him being sentenced for all three on the same day. It is the crimes that must be temporally distinct, not the convictions for those crimes. Even small distinctions in time and place are usually enough. USA v. Leonard, No. 19-14142 (11th Cir. 7/8/21)

DEATH PENALTY: Findings of aggravating circumstances for imposition of the death penalty need not be found beyond a reasonable doubt. SENTENCING-GUIDELINES: A firearm capable of accepting a large capacity magazine because, even if not loaded with a magazine, qualifies for a guidelines sentencing enhancement under U.S.S.G. §2K2.1(a)(3). The phrase "capable of accepting a large capacity magazine" are words of possibility, not actuality. A firearm and magazine can be in "close proximity" even if they are stored separately. Pitts v. GRAND JURY TESTIMONY: There is no pretrial right to inspect grand jury testimony as an aid in preparing one's defense. Inconsistencies in various statements of state witnesses is insufficient to require disclosure of the witnesses' grand jury testimony where the defense is able during cross-examination to direct the jury's attention to any purported inconsistencies. DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for second-degree murder with a firearm and use of a firearm during the course of that offense violates double jeopardy. Where the use of a weapon is the basis for enhancing the charge of second-degree murder to a life felony, double jeopardy bars a separate conviction and sentence for misuse of the same firearm. Lee v. State, 3D20-256 (7/7/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-EXPERT: Strategic decisions—including whether to hire an expert—are entitled to a strong presumption of reasonableness. Defendant's failure to call his attorneys to testify is not fatal to his ineffective assistance of counsel claim (but here, trial court did not apply such a rule). Dunn v. Reeves, 20-1084 (U.S. S.Ct. 7/2/21)

APPEALS-DISSENT (J. SOTOMAYOR): "State courts cannot insulate their decisions from scrutiny by quoting the proper standard and then ignoring it. " "If the state court had meant to weigh the evidence in the record, it would have. It did not. This Court is putting words in the state court's mouth that the state court never uttered, and which are flatly inconsistent with what the state court did say." Dunn v. DEATH PENALTY-DISSENT (J. SOTOMAYOR): "Today's decision continues a troubling trend in which this Court strains to reverse summarily any grants of relief to those facing execution. . .In essence, the Court turns 'deference' . . . into a rule that federal habeas relief is never available to those facing execution." Dunn v. Reeves, 20-1084 (U.S. S.Ct. 7/2/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant who had filed various postconviction motions over the years, should not be barred from filing further motions on the basis of his good faith motion that the victim injury and death points were improperly scored. Actual successiveness within the confines of rule 3.800(a) motions requires not just the filing of a successive number of rule 3.800(a) motions but also that the issues raised within them be the same as well. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that his attorney was ineffective for failing to object to a standard jury instruction (that Defendant had a duty to retreat) based on his misunderstanding of the Stand Your Ground statute. Robinson v. State, 2D20-3239 (7/2/21)

VOP-HABITUAL OFFENDER: On revocation of probation after the Defendant had originally been sentenced as a Habitual Felony Offender, court does not have to follow all the procedural requirements for HFO resentencing. There is no requirement for a de novo HFO analysis to be conducted at each revocation, only that the court clearly communicate an intent to reimpose that HFO status. Vaughn v. State, 5D21-543 (7/2/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his claim that the State used, and the trial court relied upon, an out-of-state, nonqualifying predicate offense to designate him as a PRR (a nonqualifying Kansas conviction for attempted tampering with an electronic monitoring device, a first-degree misdemeanor in Florida). Miller v. State, 5D21-676 (7/2/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: Defendant spying around the corner and acting nervous when approached, the high crime area at night, the smell of cannabis, and running from the officers after another person with Defendant is searched is reasonable suspicion. Unprovoked flight upon and nervous, evasive behavior are pertinent factors in determining reasonable suspicion. Cruz v. State, S20-60 (7/1/21) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/753955/opinion/sc20-60.pdf

EVIDENCE: Defendant's statements "why don't you just kill me now," and "I'm as good as dead" when he is arrested in an unrelated incident may be admissible to show consciousness of guilt for murder. Cruz v. State, S20-60 (7/1/21) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/753955/opinion/sc20-60.pdf

JUROR QUESTIONS: Court did not err in telling jury during voir dire, in response to a question, that it would generally not allow jurors to question witnesses. Cruz v. State, S20-60 (7/1/21) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/753955/opinion/sc20-60.pdf

ARGUMENT: Prosecutor's use of the phrase "particularly upsetting" when characterizing the murder, calling the Defendant's actions "unspeakable acts" and "violent and senseless," calling the Defendant "brutal" were fairly connected to the evidence. Error, if any, was not fundamental. Cruz v. State, S20-60 (7/1/21) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/753955/opinion/sc20-60.pdf

where evidence did not support the special verdict that Defendant actually possessed the firearm where the entire episode was a joint operation by Defendant and his accomplice. Cruz v. State, S20-60 (7/1/21) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/753955/opinion/sc20-60.pdf

ARGUMENT-PENALTY PHASE: State's penalty phase arguments that "this is not something that we take lightly" and “This. . [is] the kind of crime that frightens you to your core. It’s the reason that children fear the darkness" do not amount to fundamental error. Cruz v. State, S20-60 (7/1/21) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/753955/opinion/sc20-60.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-JURY INSTRUCTION: Failure to instruct jury that the death penalty may be proportional punishment if the evidence shows both that the defendant was a major participant in the crime, and that the defendant’s state of mind amounted to reckless indifference to human life is not fundamental error. Cruz v. State, S20-60 (7/1/21) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/753955/opinion/sc20-60.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-CONSIDERATIONS: Court may not sentence Defendant to death based in part on facts that were admitted in the Co-Defendant's trial but not the Defendant's. Cruz v. State, S20-60 (7/1/21) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/753955/opinion/sc20-60.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Defendant's argument that Florida’s capital sentencing scheme is unconstitutional because there are so many aggravators that almost every murder is death eligible is rejected. Cruz v. DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Defendant cannot be convicted of two counts of robbery for one taking (a single wad of money from a desk in the back of the office) from two people. INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANT-APPELLATE COUNSEL: To establish ineffective assistance of appellate counsel, a defendant must show that counsel's alleged error or omission was of such magnitude that it can be said that they deviated from the norm or fell outside the range of professionally acceptable performance and the deficiency caused prejudicial impact on the appellant by compromising the appellate process so as undermine confidence in the fairness and correctness of the outcome. SEARCH AND SEIZURE-HOME: The pursuit of a fleeing misdemeanor suspect does not categorically qualify as an exigent circumstance authorizing a warrantless home entry. An officer may make a warrantless entry into a home when pursuing a fleeing misdemeanant only if an exigent circumstance is also present—for example, when there is a risk of escape, destruction of evidence, or harm to others. The fact of flight from an officer is itself not enough to justify a warrantless entry into a home. "[W]e are not eager. . .to print a new permission slip for entering the home without a warrant." SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROBABLE CAUSE: Lady seeing kids on bikes outside her house after a window screen alarm went off does not provide reasonable suspicion of illegal activity to detain a nearby child with a bike. ARGUMENT-BOLSTERING: "An eight-year-old is not going to be able to lay out two years of constant normalizing of sexual behavior. . .This is not from the imagination of an eight-year-old," is improper bolstering. State may not argue that the victim did not have the ability to fabricate her allegations of sexual abuse due to her age, where no evidence supported the argument. Almarales v. SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-UNDISCHARGED SENTENCE: §5G1.1(a) instructs that if the defendant is still serving time in state prison for conduct that was also part of the federal offense, the time already served on that state charge should be credited against the federal sentence. Under Booker, this provision is not binding on the court. "It does not matter whether § 5G1.3(b) affects the kind of sentence or the guideline range; Booker told us that all guidelines are advisory." SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INVENTORY SEARCH-IMPOUNDMENT: Inventory search is invalid where the Stapler for no evidence of any standard or criteria for when to impound a vehicle parked in a public parking lot. JURISDICTION-DRUG TRAFFICKING-MARITIME: A vessel is subject to the jurisdiction of the United States if it is in the customs waters of the United States or the territorial waters of a foreign nation that consents to the enforcement of United States law or if it is a vessel without nationality. A vessel carrying no documents, flying no flag, bearing no name or identifying numbers that would permit entry into a national registry, nor having anyone on board claiming a nationality for the vessel is a vessel without nationality and thereby subject to the jurisdiction of the United States. An evidentiary hearing on jurisdiction is not required. USA v. Cedado Nunez, No. 19-14181 (11th Cir. 6/17/21)

COURT QUESTIONING DEFENDANT: Dictum expressing disapproval of excessive court involvement in the decision whether to testify says nothing about the propriety of a court engaging in a limited, neutral colloquy intended to make a record of the defendant's personal choice. JURY INSTRUCTION-CORRECTION: Where the agreed upon jury instruction omitted that mail fraud could be committed when items were set by a private carrier, and defense counsel pointed out that the items in question were sent by UPS, Court did not err by amending the instruction to include the possibility that the fraud can be committed by sending something through a private carrier. Jury instruction may be changed to counter defense counsel's misleading statement of law ("there can't be any mail fraud here because you see right here, this was sent by UPS."). USA v. VOP-HEARSAY: Child's probation may not be revoked based on PO's testimony that computer-generated GPS records maintained by an outside company showed the defendant left his home. State's argument that the records are not hearsay because of the statement was made by a machine and was automatically generated without manual input from any person is not availing because the argument is essentially a raw guess as to what extent the information was automatically generated. Consideration of whether and when out-of-court "statements by machines" are not hearsay must await a case with a record supporting that argument. R.L.G. v. State, 3D21-675 (6/16/21)

EVIDENCE-STANDARD OF REVIEW: "While it is often said that a trial court's decision whetherto admit evidence is reviewed for an abuse of discretion, this is true only when the decision actually involves an exercise of discretion; a trial court's decision whether to admit evidence based upon a purely legal ruling is reviewed de novo." FIREARM-MENS REA: In felon-in possession cases, the Government must prove not only that the defendant knew he possessed a firearm, but also that he knew he was a felon when he possessed It. Defendants who pled or were convicted pre-Rehaif are not entitled to plain-error relief for their unpreserved Rehaif claims that they/jury were not told that the Government must prove that the defendant(s) knew they were felons. If a person is a felon, he ordinarily knows he is a felon. Felony status is simply not the kind of thing that one forgets. Greer v. United States, No. 19-8709 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/14/20)

APPEAL-PLAIN ERROR RELIEF: To establish eligibility for plain-error relief, a defendant must satisfy three threshold requirements. First, there must be an error. Second, the error must be plain. Third, the error must affect substantial rights" which generally means that there must be a reasonable probability that, but for the error, the outcome of the proceeding would have been different. Greer v. United States, No. 19-8709 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/14/20)

FIRST STEP ACT: §2(a) of the Fair Sentencing Act modified the statutory penalties only for §841(b)(1)(A) and (B) crack offenses—that is, the offenses that triggered mandatory-minimum penalties. An offender is eligible for a sentence reduction under the First Step Act only if he previously received a sentence for a covered offense. §841(b)(1)(C), possession with intent to distribute an unspecified amount of a schedule I or II drug (which does not treat crack and powder offenses differently) is not a covered offense. Terry v. United States, No. 20-5904 (U.S. S.Ct 6/14/20)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/20-5904_i4dk.pdf

FIRST STEP ACT (SOTOMAYOR, CONCURRING): Defendant, who possessed just 3.9 grams of crack (the equivalent weight of four paper clips), and who had two prior drug convictions committed when he was a teenager for which he spent a total of only 120 days in jail, suffered a guidelines enhancement as a career criminal that caused the range (three to four years) to "skyrocket to about 15 to 20 years." "[B]ecause Terry was both convicted under subparagraph (C) and sentenced as a career offender, he has never had a chance to ask for a sentence that reflects today's understanding of the lesser severity of his crime." DEFINITION-"MODIFY": To "modify" means "to change moderately." Terry v. United States, No. 20-5904 (U.S. S.Ct 6/14/20)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/20-5904_i4dk.pdf

FIREARMS ENHANCEMENT: 2 level firearm enhancement is appropriate where a rifle was in the trailer from which Defendant sold narcotics, notwithstanding that Government argued against the enhancement. Firearm enhancement should be applied if the weapon was present, unless it is clearly improbable that the weapon was connected with the offense. USA v. Montenegro, No. 19-13542 (11th Cir. 6/11/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201913542.pdf

SAFETY VALVE: Firearms enhancement does not necessarily mean that safety-valve relief is unavailable. To justify a firearms enhancement, the government must establish by a preponderance of the evidence either (1) that a firearm was present at the site of the charged conduct, or (2) that the defendant possessed a firearm during conduct associated with the offense of conviction. The government is not required to prove that the firearm was used to facilitate the distribution of drugs for the firearms enhancement to apply. USA v. Montenegro, No. 19-13542 (11th Cir. 6/11/21)

APPEAL: Appellant who simply states that an issue exists, without further argument or discussion, abandons that issue and precludes the appellate court from considering the issue on appeal. Appellant waives any argument where he fails to plainly and prominently raise an issue by "devoting a discrete section of his argument to the claim. USA v. PRIVACY-MASK MANDATE: COVID Mask mandate ("the yoke of a mask mandate" imposed by "fiats" and "diktats," enforced by "whispering informants") may violate Florida's right to privacy. Green v. Alachua County, 1D20-1661 (6/11/21)

MASK MANDATE (DISSENT): "The majority's conclusion that 'a person reasonably can expect not to be forced by the government to put something on his own face against his will' completely fails to consider the circumstances in which the right is asserted, i.e., that the mask mandate was Alachua County's response to 'a clear and present threat to the lives, health, welfare, and safety' of its people posed by a contagious, airborne virus during a global pandemic. The majority's decision to ignore the circumstances in which Appellant asserts the right of privacy renders its analysis fatally flawed." Green v. Alachua County, 1D20-1661 (6/11/21)

EVIDENCE-AUTHENTICATION: Screenshots of Facebook messages are admissible. Authentication for the purpose of admission is a relatively low threshold that only requires a prima facie showing that the proffered evidence is authentic. Communications can be authenticated by appearance, contents, substance, internal patterns, or other distinctive characteristics taken in conjunction with the circumstances. Gilbert v. State, 2D19-1622 (6/11/21)

PRESERVED ISSUE: Failure to obtain a ruling on a motion or objection fails to preserve an issue for appeal. Where Court never rules on the hearsay objection, the issue is not preserved. Gilbert v. State, 2D19-1622 (6/11/21)

HEARSAY-OBJECTION-PRESERVATION: A general hearsay objection is sufficient to preserve the issue. The proponent of the evidence must assert an applicable exception to the hearsy rule and the Court must consider the possible exceptions. Gilbert v. State, 2D19-1622 (6/11/21)

HEARSAY: Journal in which victim writes about abuse, composed after her motivation to fabricate first existed (she wanted to move out of the Defendant's home), is not admissible as a prior consistent statement to rebut an inference of recent fabrication. A prior consistent statement is admissible only if the statement is made before the recent fabrication by the declarant or before the improper influence or motive arose. But error is harmless. Gilbert v. State, 2D19-1622 (6/11/21)

ARGUMENT: State's argument emphasizing victim's vulnerability to exploitation, supported by the evidence, is proper. Because an attorney is allowed to assist the jury in analyzing, evaluating, and applying the evidence and may even suggest what conclusions can be drawn from the evidence, the comments are well within bounds. ARGUMENT: Closing argument that the victim was "victimized again by having to testify" and telling the jury "that they were the only ones that could give the victim back his dignity" is improper. Gilbert v. State, 2D19-1622 (6/11/21)

ARGUMENT-BOLSTERING: Prosecutor improperly vouched for the victim's credibility by telling the jury that "[s]he's credible" and "she's telling you what happened to her," but error is not fundamental. Gilbert v. State, 2D19-1622 (6/11/21)

TRESPASS-LESSER INCLUDED-JOA: Where juvenile was charged with burglary after being found inside a fenced area and having admitted that he intended to steal a beach cruiser, the Court improperly finds him guilty of the lesser trespass in absence of any evidence that the fence was at least three feet tall. A conviction for a permissive lesser included offense is only appropriate where the elements are included in the accusatory pleading and sustained by the evidence. S.S. v. State, 2D19-2464 (6/11/21)

Borden v. United State, No. 19–5410 (US S.Ct. 6/10/21)

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: Offenses with a mens rea of recklessness do not qualify as violent felonies under the ACCA violent felony enhancement. An offense qualifies as a violent felony under the elements clause only if it has as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person of another. If any—even the least culpable—of the acts criminalized do not entail that kind of force, the statute of conviction does not categorically match the federal standard, and so cannot serve as an ACCA predicate. Tennessee's reckless aggravated assault is not a predicate offense. Borden v. United State, No. 19–5410 (US S.Ct. 6/10/21)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/19-5410_8nj9.pdf

MENS REA: The four mens rea states of mind under criminal law, in descending order of culpability, are: purpose, knowledge, recklessness, and negligence. A person acts purpose fully when he consciously desires a particular result. He acts knowingly when he is aware that a result is practically certain to follow from his conduct, whatever his affirmative desire. A person acts recklessly, in the most common formulation, when he consciously disregards a substantial and unjustifiable risk attached to his conduct, in gross deviation from accepted standards. A person acts negligently if he is not but should be aware of such a substantial and unjustifiable risk, again in gross deviation from the norm. Borden v. COSTS: Court may not impose public defender fees over the statutory minimum. Defendant's statement, "Uh, I – I could try to pay it, as much as I can I guess. Man, I don't know. . .I get social security, so I don't know how I'm gonna pay that. Man, I ain't got . . . nothing to pay with it, sir. APPELLATE COUNSEL-INEFFECTIVENESS: Appellate counsel is not ineffective for failing to add federal citations to his sufficiency of his arguments. The gloss of adding federal citations to the arguments would not have improved them, affected the outcome of his direct appeal, or advanced his case. Earven v. State, 1D19-3927 (6/4/21)

INEFFECTIVE APPELLATE COUNSEL: Appellate counsel was not ineffective for failing to argue fundamental error related to how the aggravated assault jury instruction, which included an objective standard instruction, addressed the victim's fear. Although the appropriateness of instructing the jury on an objective standard in circumstances where the victim of aggravated assault testifies of having not been afraid doesn't appear to have been directly litigated before in Florida, failing to raise a novel fundamental error argument on appeal is not ineffectiveness. Earven v. State, 1D19-3927 (6/4/21)

ASSAULT-FEAR-OBJECTIVE STANDARD (CONCURRENCE): Allowing proof of only objective fear appears to be contrary to the statutory definition of assault which requires both that the fear be objectively reasonable and the act of the defendant creates a well-founded fear in such other person. If the victim does not testify, circumstantial evidence can prove the subjective fear. But if the victim testifies that he or she was not afraid, and there is no evidence to the contrary, there is a good argument that the assault charge should not go to the jury. Earven v. State, 1D19-3927 (6/4/21)

VOP-JURISDICTION-TOLLING: When a term of supervision expires before an affidavit of violation is filed, the trial court lacks jurisdiction to revoke supervision. The tolling periods that occur between the filing of earlier affidavits and the court's rulings on them do not automatically operate to extend probation term past the original term. Where Court did not extend the end date of supervision when reinstating probation, tolling does not come into play. Vop dismissed. Medina v. State, 2D18-4719 (6/4/21)

inability to find a meritorious argument that the trial court committed significant reversible error. Appellate counsel must master the trial record, thoroughly research the law, and exercise judgment in identifying the arguments that may be advanced on appeal, and then may file an Anders Brief only after such an evaluation has led counsel to the conclusion that the appeal is wholly frivolous. "This is not the first time I have seen this misstatement of the Anders standard. . . Hopefully, it will be the last. If it isn't, perhaps the next time a lawyer repeats this erroneous notion in a representation to our court, our court should request that lawyer's appearance—in court—to explain why that misapprehension persists." ANDERS BRIEF: "I would also respectfully suggest that when, as here, it takes a lawyer forty-nine pages to explain why there are no issues of arguable merit in his or her case, the case is probably not 'wholly frivolous.'" Mateo v. State, 19-3768 (6/4/21)

RESTITUTION-JUVENILE: Court may retain jurisdiction beyond a Child's 19th birthday to enforce restitution, but the amount of jurisdiction must be established before the 19th birthday. Reserving jurisdiction without setting the amount is insufficient. E.H.W. v. State, 2D20-386 (6/4/21)

RESTITUTION: Absent waiver, expressed or implied, Defendant has the right to notice and to be present at a restitution hearing. Unsworn statements from a clerk and a DJJ representative together with the unsworn statements and legal arguments of the prosecutor do not constitute competent, substantial evidence to support a finding of a voluntary waiver of presence. E.H.W. v. State, 2D20-386 (6/4/21)

FIREARMS-TEMPORARY INJUNCTION FOR STALKING: A court has no authority to prohibit a person from possessing firearms or ammunition upon the issuance of a temporary injunction for protection against stalking. COMPUTER FRAUD: Former police sergeant who ran a license-plate search in a law enforcement computer database in exchange for money did not violated the Computer Fraud and Abuse Act of 1986 (CFAA). DOUBLE JEOPARDY-MISTRIAL: Where Defendant asks for a continuance after the jury is thrown based on a discovery violation (newly disclosed 911 calls) and court dismisses the jury, a new trial violates double jeopardy. Absent the defendant's motion for a mistrial or express consent, the court may only declare a mistrial on its own or a prosecution motion if, after an assiduous inquiry, there is a manifest necessity to do so. Defendant's failure to object to the mistrial is not an implicit waiver of the defendant's constitutional rights. "Defense counsel's duty. . .is to represent the interests of his client within the bounds of the law—not to safeguard the State's right of prosecution." State v. Jones, 3D19-1939 (6/2/21)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: The policy importance of double jeopardy protection includes considerations that "[e]ven if the first trial is not completed, a second prosecution may be grossly unfair. It increases the financial and emotional burden on the accused, prolongs the period in which he is stigmatized by an unresolved accusation of wrongdoing, and may even enhance the risk that an innocent defendant may be convicted. . .Consequently, as a general rule, the prosecutor is entitled to one, and only one, opportunity to require an accused to stand trial." DOMESTIC BATTERY: Defendant's conviction on charge of battery (domestic) must not be converted from simple battery where the jury instruction did not include an instruction regarding whether the victim was a "family or household member" of Appellant. Alleyne precludes the judge from making the domestic violence finding on her own. Bethea v. State, 4D21-98 (6/2/21)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Court's erroneous ruling that Defendant must present evidence at SYG hearing is cured by the jury verdict. There is no evidentiary burden upon the person seeking Stand Your Ground immunity. Instead, a defendant must 'simply allege a facially sufficient prima facie claim of justifiable use of force under chapter 776 in a motion to dismiss filed under rule 3.190(b) and present argument in support of that motion at a pretrial immunity hearing. Bethea v. State, 4D21-98 (6/2/21)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/19-1155_new_197d.pdf

IMMIGRATION-HEARING-CREDIBILITY: A reviewing court need not treat a petitioning alien's testimony as credible and true in the absence of an explicit adverse credibility determination by an immigration judge or the Board of Immigration Appeals. It does not matter whether the agency accepts all, none, or some of the alien's testimony, its reasonable findings may not be disturbed. The statutory rebuttable presumption of credibility on appeal does not apply to appeals to Article III courts, only to appeals from the Immigration Judge to the Bureau of Immigration Appeals. A presumption of credibility may arise in some appeals before the BIA, but no such presumption applies in antecedent proceedings. Garland v. Ming Dai, No. 19–1155 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/1/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-NATIVE AMERICAN: Tribal police officer has authority to detain temporarily and to search non-Indian persons traveling on public rights-of-way running through a reservation for potential violations of state or federal law. A tribe retains inherent sovereign authority to address conduct that threatens or has some direct effect on the health or welfare of the tribe, notwithstanding that Indians generally lack inherent sovereign power to exercise criminal jurisdiction over non-Indians. MAY 2021

APPEAL: A certificate of appealability is required when a federal prisoner obtains relief through a postconviction motion and appeals the decision to correct only the illegal sentence instead of performing a full resentencing. The sentencing-package doctrine does not require resentencing on all counts when only the Armed Career criminal enhancement is vacated. Unless a circuit justice or judge issues a certificate of appealability, an appeal may not be taken to the court of appeals from the final order in a proceeding under 28 U.S.C. §2253. USA v. Cody, No. 19-11915 (11th Cir. 5/28/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court must allow a defendant one opportunity to amend a facially insufficient motion or claim within sixty days. By ordering the State to respond at the same time as it granted Defendant an opportunity to amend, and not advising him of the insufficiencies of the original motion, the Court failed to give Defendant the required opportunity to amend. 10-20-LIFE STATUTE: 10-20-Life statute (§775.087(2)(d)) permits, but does not require consecutive sentences to multiple applicable counts. Resentencing is required where Court wrongly thought that consecutive sentences are required. Marquez-Gonzalez v. State, 5D19-3427 (5/28/21)

BRIBERY: Bribery under 18 U.S.C. §666 does not have an "official act" element, unlike bribery under 18 U.S.C. §201. Lobbyists who hire a state congressman to use his position to influence other lawakers to thwart an EPA clean up project commit the crime of bribery. The nature and timing of the payments, the secret recording of meetings, the routing of these payments through a charitable foundation, the nondisclosure of the payments, and the failure of the parties to inform the EPA or other agencies of their financial relationship support the inference that the payments were made with a corrupt state of mind. USA v. Roberson, No 18-14654 (11th Cir. 5/27/21)

BRIBERY: The "retainer," "as opportunities arise," or "stream of benefits" theory of bribery, occurs when a person bribes an individual or entity in exchange for a continuing course of conduct. USA v. Roberson, No 18-14654 (11th Cir. 5/27/21)

BRIBERY: There is not be an express quid pro quo requirement to all convictions under §666. Although the question or matter to be influenced must be identified, the retainer theory of liability is still a valid basis of

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: Court abused its discretion in denying Defendant's motion for compassionate release based on this prisoners' high risk for COVID-19; his obesity, high blood pressure, and latent tuberculosis which put him at a high risk of death from COVID; and intervening court decisions which would have exempted him from career offender enhancement. Court abuses its discretion if it fails to consider §3553(a) factors on a motion for compassionate release. "If we cannot tell whether a district court weighed the relevant factors, then we cannot tell whether it abused its discretion." USA v. Cook, No. 20-13293 (11th Cir. 5/27/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: The remedy of habeas corpus is not available in Florida to obtain the kind of collateral postconviction relief available by motion in the sentencing court pursuant to rule 3.850. Simpkins v. State, 20-3213 (5/27/21)

RE-SENTENCING-MANDATE: Defendant is entitled to a resentencing upon issuance of a mandate from the appellate court, notwithstanding that the case law requiring resentencing has been changed subsequent to the order to re-sentence. The order reversing Defendant's sentence and directing resentencing is final, and the post conviction court lacks jurisdiction to rescind it. Howard v. State, 2D19-3299 (5/26/21)

HEARSAY-EXCITED UTTERANCE: In the context of domestic violence, a declarant's initial false statement do not automatically remove subsequent statements from the scope of the excited utterance exception. Where victim had time to engage in reflective thought, but did not do so, statements may be admissible. Victim's statements to friends at a bar while the victim was in her pajamas, crying hysterically, made within 30 to 40 minutes after the police originally arrived at her home to investigate the domestic disturbance, are admissible. WILLIAMS RULE: Evidence of a volatile relationship between the

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Defendant is properly convicted of possession of THC where he did not have sole possession of the house, but left fingerprints on various items, including a box of paraphernalia, a grinder, various THC vape cartridges, and a trash bag containing vacuum sealed baggies of cannabis residue. Bartolone v. State, 4D19-3920 (5/26/21)

INVESTIGATIVE COSTS: Courts cannot impose investigative costs where State did not request reimbursement for these costs. If these costs are not requested by the State, they must be stricken and cannot be imposed on remand. Bartolone v. State, 4D19-3920 (5/26/21)

INVESTIGATORY SUBPOENA-MEDICAL RECORDS: State is entitled to medical/toxicology records by subpoena where Defendant crashed into a car and admitted to drinking, demonstrated signs of intoxication, and required assistance to walk to the ambulance. EVIDENCE-CIRCUMSTANTIAL: The evidence need not be inconsistent with every reasonable hypothesis except guilt, and the jury is free to choose between or among the reasonable conclusions to be drawn from the MENS REA: Defendants who engaged in a pervasive pattern of deceit possess the requisite mens rea for wire fraud and conspiracy to commit wire fraud. USA v. Estapa, No. 19-12272 (5/25/21)

UNLAWFUL REENTRY: Defendant is properly convicted of unlawful reentry notwithstanding that he had been deported based on a felony DUI conviction which was erroneously considered to be an aggravated felony. An alien may not challenge the validity of the deportation order unless the alien demonstrates that (1) he exhausted any administrative remedies, (2) the deportation proceedings has improperly deprived the alien of the opportunity for judicial review; and (3) the entry of the order was fundamentally unfair.to Mexico the next day. Defendants charged with unlawful reentry may not challenge their underlying removal orders unless they demonstrate that all three conditions are met. United States v. Palomar-Santiago, No. 20-437 (U.S. S.Ct. 4/24/21)

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: A defendant may not appeal from an order denying a downward departure motion unless the defendant alleges that the trial court misunderstood its discretion or that the court had a blanket policy to refuse to exercise that discretion. Holton v. State, 1D19-2809 (5/24/21)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION: Defendant may not appeal a sentencing error (here, failure to make written finding to explain why he posed a danger to the community under the violent felony offender of special concern statute) absent a contemporary objection or motion to correct. PROBATION-CONDITIONS: Electronic search conditions may be imposed on those non-sex offenders, such as those who frequently recidivate, or habitually violate their conditions of supervised release, in a manner that poses a danger to others, regardless whether it relates directly to the offense of conviction (here, possession of firearm by a felon). USA v. Taylor, No. 20-10742 (11th Cir. 5/21/21)

SENTENCING-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: A district court imposes a substantively unreasonable sentence only when it (1) fails to afford consideration to relevant factors that were due significant weight, (2) gives significant weight to an improper or irrelevant factor, or (3) commits a clear error of judgment in considering the proper factors. Although there is no proportionality principle in sentencing, a major variance from the advisory guideline range requires a more significant justification than a minor one, and the justification must be sufficiently compelling to support the degree of the variance. A three month upward variance for Defendant with six prior illegal possession of firearm offenses is not substantively unreasonable. USA v. Taylor, No. 20-10742 (11th Cir. 5/21/21)

APPEAL-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Appellate court may not review Court's denial of a request for downward departure where the Court engaged

PRETRIAL RELEASE-GPS MONITOR: Court properly exercised its discretion in denying Defendant's Motion to delete the GPS condition of pretrial release based on its excessive costs. Frederick v. State, 2D20-2768 (5/21/21)

PLEA-DEPORTATION CONSEQUENCES: The equivocal immigration

warning given to Defendant by the trial court at the change of plea hearing that Defendant (a DACA resident) "could" be deported or denied citizenship if he was not a United States citizen, when coupled with Defendant's acknowledgement of the potential adverse immigration consequences from his plea, was sufficient, under the circumstances of the case, to refute his claim of prejudice because any adverse immigration or deportation consequences to Defendant resulting from his plea were not truly clear at the time of the plea. It is unclear that tampering with a witness is a crime of moral turpitude requiring mandatory deportation. Ramirez v. State, 5D20-1824 (5/21/21)

PLEA-DEPORTATION CONSEQUENCES-COUNSEL: Defense counsel has a duty to inquire of Defendant's immigration or citizenship status prior to tendering a plea. Counsel who testified that, as a common practice, he no longer asks his clients about their citizenship because of a 'bad experience" he had years earlier provides ineffective assistance of counsel. A criminal defense attorney representing a client charged with a felony should make a reasonable inquiry as to the immigration or citizenship status of his or her client. Otherwise, counsel will not be in an adequate position to provide effective guidance or advice to the client regarding the potential immigration consequences of his or her guilty or no contest plea. But, on the facts, no prejudice shown here. Ramirez v. State, 5D20-1824 (5/21/21)

PLEA-DEPORTATION CONSEQUENCES: When the law is not succinct and straightforward, a criminal defense attorney need do no more than advise a noncitizen client that pending criminal charges may carry adverse immigration consequences. But when the deportation consequence is truly clear, the duty to give correct advice is equally clear. Ramirez v. State, 5D20-1824 (5/21/21)

https://www.5dca.org/content/download/743749/opinion/201824_DC05_05212021_083043_i.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: There exists no fundamental error exception to the requirement that Defendant to file a motion to withdraw the plea in the trial court before appealing an involuntary plea. Defendant cannot appeal the voluntariness of his plea based on the Court having failed to hold competency hearing without first moving to withdraw the plea. State v. Dortch, SC18-681 (5/20/21)

COMPETENCY: While defense counsel's views about a defendant's competence are important, courts need not accept without question a lawyer's representation concerning the competence of his client. Mere assertions of defense counsel, without more, do not trigger a defendant's constitutional right to competency proceedings. Counsel's unelaborated representation that Defendant may be incompetent, undercut by other facts, A trial court's decision to order a psychological evaluation may not create a constitutional entitlement to a competency hearing. State v. Dortch, SC18-681 (5/20/21)

FIRST STEP ACT: A motion for sentence reduction brought under the First Step Act need not be paired with a request for relief under §3582(c)(1)(B) because the First Step Act is self-contained and self-executing. A district court may, but is not required to, consider the §3553(a) factors in deciding whether to exercise its discretion and reduce a sentence under the First Step Act. Court is not required to reduce probationary term provided it gives some basis, even if cursory for its decision. USA v. Potts, No. 19-12061 (5/19/21)

FIRST STEP-SENTENCE REDUCTION: The First Step Act does not require that the district court consider the §3553(a) sentencing factors when exercising its discretion to reduce a sentence under section 404(b) of the First Step Act, but the district court's decision, however must allow for meaningful by providing a sufficient explanation for its ruling denying a reduction. A bare bones order that solely denies or grants a sentence reduction without more is insufficient to allow for meaningful appellate review. Here, explanation was inadequate. Remanded.

USA v. Stevens, No. 19-12858 (11th Cir. 5/19/21)

FIRST STEP ACT: Eligibility for a sentence reduction under the First Step Act is based on the statute of conviction, not on the defendant's actual conduct. The district court should consider only whether the quantity of crack cocaine satisfied the specific drug quantity elements in §841. Any actual amount of drugs involved in the defendant's offense beyond the amount related to his statutory penalty is not relevant to his eligibility. USA v. Stevens, No. 19-12858 (11th Cir. 5/19/21)

SASQUATCH DEFENSE: The theory behind the outrageous government conduct defense is that if a defendant can show that the law enforcement techniques used violate fundamental fairness shocking to the universal sense of justice, prosecution should be barred. Outrageous conduct is only a potential defense because neither the Supreme Court nor this Court has ever found it to actually apply. "Like the fabled creature Sasquatch, this defense has entered the common consciousness and is mentioned from time to time. Some claim to have caught fleeting glimpses of it in the remote backwoods of the law, but its actual existence has never been confirmed." USA v. Castaneda, No. 19-12623 (11th Cir. 5/19/21)

OUTRAGEOUS GOVERNMENT CONDUCT: In solicitation of sex with minor sting, in response to the Defendant's request for a picture of the fictional child, undercover cop's referral to an email account which he hacked to find child porn is not the sort of outrageous government conduct warranting dismissal. Law enforcement's generic sting operation of posting a Craigslist ad and communicating with Defendant about his desire to abuse a child are commonplace, common sense tactics. "The hunt for Sasquatch will have to continue in another case." USA v. Castaneda, No. 19-12623 (11th Cir. 5/19/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Evidence of child pornography on Defendant's computer, found by third parties who turned computers over to the FBI, is not suppressible. The Fourth Amendment is wholly inapplicable to a search or seizure, even an unreasonable one, effected by a private individual not acting as an agent of the Government or with the participation or knowledge of any governmental official. Law enforcement agents may use in an application for a search warrant information that is given to them by a private party even if that private party unlawfully obtained the information. USA v. Castaneda, No. 19-12623 (11th Cir. 5/19/21)

EVIDENCE: Defendant charged with attempted enticement of a minor to engage in unlawful sexual activity who testified at trial that he just role playing an online fantasy and that, once he came to believe that there was a real child in danger, his intent in traveling cross country was to rescue the child, may not invoke the Fifth Amendment when asked about the child porn on his computer. A defendant who takes the stand in his own behalf cannot then claim the privilege against cross-examination on matters reasonably related to the subject matter of his direct examination. USA v. Castaneda, No. 19-12623 (11th Cir. 5/19/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201912623.pdf

EVIDENCE-EXPERT: Court properly excluded as irrelevant a defense expert prepared to testify that statements made over the internet cannot be reliably taken at face value. USA v. Castaneda, No. 19-12623 (11th Cir. 5/19/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201912623.pdf

SENTENCE-SUBSTANTIVE UNREASONABLENESS: 35 year sentence is not substantively unreasonable for Defendant who had claimed experience in incest, pedophilia and grooming, starting with a four year old child, "[A]lthough we do not automatically presume that a sentence within the guidelines range is reasonable, we ordinarily expect it to be." The fact that the average person would likely say a reasonable sentence for Defendant would be torture, disembowelment, then hanging and that life behind bars would be a living hell does not render the sentence substantively unreasonable. "The low esteem in which pedophiles are held inside and outside prison walls results from their having sexually abused children. There is no requirement that a sex predator be given dispensation in sentencing because of what he brings on himself by choosing to prey on children." USA v. Castaneda, No. 19-12623 (11th Cir. 5/19/21)

FIREARM ENHANCEMENT: Defendant is subject to the four-level enhancement for using or possessing a firearm or ammunition in connection with another felony for agreeing to sell heroin and a firearm to a CI, but not actually delivering the firearm until a later date. USA v. Jackson, No. 19-14883 (11th Cir. 5/18/21)

SENTENCING-PROCEDURAL UNREASONABLENESS: Miscalculating the guidelines range is procedural unreasonableness. USA v. Jackson, No. 19-14883 (11th Cir. 5/18/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201914883.pdf

DEFINITION-"AND": "[T]he word 'and' is not a word with a single meaning, for chameleonlike, it takes its color from its surroundings." USA v. Garcon, No. 19-14650 (11th Cir. 5/18/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201914650.pdf

SAFETY VALVE: The "and" in the Safety Valve provision is disjunctive, not conjunctive. A Defendant is disqualified from safety valve relief if he meets any one of the three subsections of §3553(f)(1) or, in other words, if he had any of (1) more than four criminal history points, excluding any points resulting from one-point offenses; (2) a prior three-point offense; and (3) a prior two-point violent offense. Defendant is disqualified from safety valve relief because he had a prior three-point offense. USA v. Garcon, No. 19-14650 (11th Cir. 5/18/21)

CANON AGAINST SURPLUSAGE: A statute ought, upon the whole, to be so construed that, if it can be prevented, no clause, sentence, or word shall be superfluous, void, or insignificant. USA v. Garcon, No. 19-14650 (11th Cir. 5/18/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201914650.pdf

APPELLATE COUNSEL-CRITICISM: Appellate counsel criticized. "Importantly, however, Garcon does not address the canon against surplusage, which carries the day in our analysis." USA v. Garcon, No. 19-14650 (11th Cir. 5/18/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201914650.pdf

CONJUNCTIVE NEGATIVE PROOF CANON: With the conjunctive negative proof, you must prove that you did not do all of the listed things. "The fact that the conjunctive negative proof canon has only been considered by courts twice does not invalidate it, but it does mean that we must ensure that our application of the canon is consistent with common English usage." USA v. Garcon, No. 19-14650 (11th Cir. 5/18/21)

RETROACTIVITY: The Ramos jury-unanimity rule does not apply retroactively on federal collateral review. A decision announcing a new rule of criminal procedure does not apply retroactively on federal collateral review. The exception to this non-retroactive principle--that the new rule be a watershed change of law–no longer exists. "In practice, the exception has been theoretical, not real." "[H]ow can any additional new rules of criminal procedure apply retroactively on federal collateral review? At this point. . .we think the only candid answer is that none can—that is, no new rules of criminal procedure can satisfy the watershed exception. . .Continuing to articulate a theoretical exception that never actually applies in practice offers false hope to defendants, distorts the law, misleads judges, and wastes the resources of defense counsel, prosecutors, and courts. . .The watershed exception is moribund." Edwards v. Vannoy, No. 19-5807 (US S.Ct. 5/17/21)

QUOTATION (J. Gorsuch): "Sometimes this Court leaves a door ajar and holds out the possibility that someone, someday might walk through it—though no one ever has or, in truth, ever will. . .Today, the Court candidly admits what has been long apparent: Teague held out a 'false hope' and the time has come to close its door." Edwards v. Vannoy, No. 19-5807 (US S.Ct. 5/17/21)

HABEAS CORPUS-HISTORY: "Though we often refer to the writ of habeas corpus, the common law knew several. . .Among them all, however, only one came to be known as 'the Great Writ.' The writ of habeas corpus ad subjiciendum was a mechanism for asking 'why the liberty of [a] subject[] is restrained.'" Discussion of writ of habeas corpus. Edwards v. Vannoy, No. 19-5807 (US S.Ct. 5/17/21)

STARE DECISIS-WATERSHED (J. KAGAN, DISSENTING): "Now that Ramos is the law, stare decisis is on its side. I take the decision on its own terms, and give it all the consequence it deserves. Put all that together, and it is easy to see why the opinions in Ramos read as historic. Rarely does this Court make such a fundamental change in the rules thought necessary to ensure fair criminal process. If you were scanning a thesaurus for a single word to describe the decision, you would stop when you came to 'watershed.'" Edwards v. Vannoy, No. 19-5807 (US S.Ct. 5/17/21)

STATE DECISIS-WATERSHED (J. KAGAN, DISSENTING): "Search high and low the settled law of retroactivity, and the majority still has no reason to deny Ramos watershed status. So everything rests on the majority's last move—the overturning of Teague's watershed exception. If there can never be any watershed rules—as the majority here asserts out of the blue—then, yes, jury unanimity cannot be one. The result follows trippingly from the premise. But adopting the premise requires departing from judicial practice and principle. In overruling a critical aspect of Teague, the majority follows none of the usual rules of stare decisis.". . .It prevents any procedural rule ever—no matter how integral to adjudicative fairness—from benefiting a defendant on habeas review. Thus does a settled principle of retroactivity law die, in an effort to support an insupportable ruling." Edwards v. Vannoy,

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/19-5807_new2_jhek.pdf

STARE DECISIS-(J. KAGAN, DISSENTING): "[T]he majority breaks a core judicial rule: respect for precedent. Stare decisis is a foundation stone of the rule of law. . .To reverse course, we insist on compelling reasons, thorough explanation, and careful attention to competing interests. But not here. The majority crawls under, rather than leaps over, the stare decisis bar. . . Seldom has this Court so casually, so off-handedly, tossed aside precedent. Edwards v. Vannoy, No. 19-5807 (US S.Ct. 5/17/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Officer's "caretaking" duties do not create a standalone doctrine that justifies warrantless searches and seizures of a home. Officers unlawfully entered the home of the subject who had been taken from his porch to go to the hospital for a psychiatric evaluation after threatening suicide and violence. Caniglia v. Strom, No. 20-157 (U.S. S.Ct, 5/17/21)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/20-157_8mjp.pdf

CHILD HEARSAY: Child hearsay, where the Child did not testify at trial nor recant her statement, is sufficient to sustain the Defendant's conviction for child molestation. Godbold v. State, 1D20-1127 (5/18/21)

PRETRIAL DETENTION: Defendant may not be held without bond for making a written threat to kill or cause bodily harm on the ground that law enforcement officers (against whom the threat was made) can qualify as a "judicial officer" for the purpose of the pretrial detention statute (§907.041(4)(c)2). "Judicial officer" does not include a law enforcement officers acting outside of the confines of a courthouse and direction of a judge. Daniel v. State, 5D21-237 (5/19/21)

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: A pillowcase filled with synthetic marijuana on the passenger seat is not within Defendant's ready reach where Defendant is outside the car leaning in under the hood with the car radio playing and thus was not in actual or constructive possession of it. Defendant did not have exclusive possession of the car. "Someone who owned the car may have given Melton the key so he could open the car and work on it. Even if Melton had been in possession of the key, with the key in the ignition and the door open, anyone on the premises could have had access to the car." Melton v. State, 2D20-734 (5/14/21)

SENTENCING-CLARIFICATION: Where County has program allowing jail to place inmates on electronic monitoring in lieu of keeping them in jail, provided court does not prohibit it, and the jail so places the Defendant, Court may not clarify the earlier sentence by remanding the Defendant to the jail. Operation of the county jail is within the province of the executive and legislative branches of government, not the judicial branch. Sentencing courts wholly lack authority to direct the treatment and placement of prisoners serving sentences. The trial court. . . simply was not empowered to interfere with or countermand [Defendant]'s assignment to the electronic monitoring program." Alqawasmeh v. State, 2D20-1979 (5/14/21) https://www.2dca.org/content/download/741977/opinion/201979_DC13_05142021_083534_i.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BLOOD DRAW: Blood draw in DUI manslaughter case is illegally obtained where Defendant refused voluntary blood draw and Officers did not try to obtain a warrant. Drunk driving investigations are not per se exigencies excusing the warrant requirement because the body's natural metabolization of alcohol results in the loss of critical evidence simply with the passage of time. No good faith exception to the warrant requirement exists. Dusan v. State, 5D19-2987 (5/14/21) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/741930/opinion/192987_DC13_05142021_080423_i.pdf

GUIDELINES-"SEXUAL ACTIVITY": Sexual activity for the purposes of guideline enhancement does not require actual or attempted physical contact between two persons. Neither does"sexual abuse or exploitation" under §2G2.2(b)(5) of the Sentencing Guidelines. Five-level enhancement under U.S.S.G. §§2252(a)(2) & 2252(a)(4)(B) for distribution and possession of child pornography is lawful if the activity would support a criminal charge. USA v. Dominguez, No. 19-11378 (5/13/21) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911378.pdf

year-old girl a photo of one's penis and asking her for naked pictures subject one to the §2422(b) five-level enhancement only if the acts constitute"sexual activity for which any person can be charged with a criminal offense." Because Court did not make a finding that the act of asking a minor to send him naked pictures would subject him to criminal prosecution, the case is remanded for the Court to make the required finding. USA v. Dominguez, No. 19-11378 (5/13/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911378.pdf

DEFINITION-"SEXUAL ACTIVITY": Thorough discussion on the meaning of "sexual activity," including citations to Black's Law Dictionary, Webster's Third New International Dictionary, Shorter Oxford English Dictionary, The American Heritage Steadman's Medical Dictionary, The New Encyclopedia Britannica, II Bouvier Law Dictionary, The American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language, Garner's Modern American Usage, and Webster's New World College Dictionary. Includes a suggestion that the term implies brisk or vigorous action. Concern that a broad definition would criminalize pole dancing is discounted. USA v. Dominguez, No. 19-11378 (5/13/21)

DEFINITION-"INCLUDING": The term "including" introduces a participial phrase of inclusion, not one of exclusion. USA v. Dominguez, No. 19-11378 (5/13/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911378.pdf

FIRST STEP ACT: The First Step Act is self-contained and self-executing, such that a defendant can proceed under it directly rather than pursuant to §3582(c)(1)(B). USA v. Edwards, No. 19-13366 (11th Cir. 5/13/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201913366.pdf

FIRST STEP ACT: A district court has the authority under the First Step Act to impose a new term of supervised release on a First Step Act movant, provided that it reduces the movant's overall sentence. Defendant whose life sentence is reduced under the First Step Act to 262 months may have imposed upon him eight years of supervised release not previously ordered. USA v. Edwards, No. 19-13366 (11th Cir. 5/13/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel presented testimony from forty four witnesses at the penalty phase hearing, leading to a finding of nearly two dozen mitigating circumstances was not unprepared for sentencing. Sanchez-Torres v. State, SC19-211 (5/13/21)

DEATH PENALTY: A charging instrument need not list aggravators that render eligibility for death. Sanchez-Torres v. State, SC19-211 (5/13/21)
https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/741758/opinion/sc19-211_CORRECTED%20OPINION.pdf

of juror misconduct for failing to provide information during voir dire, the defendant must establish two prongs: first, that the juror failed"to answer honestly a material question on voir dire, and second, that the juror was actually biased against the defendant. A mistaken but honest answer to a question—either because the juror mistakenly believed his answer was correct or because the question was unclear—will not warrant postconviction relief. Juror's familial connection to Defendant-brought to her attention by family members during break in voir dire–do not show dishonesty. Boyd v. State, SC20-108 (5/13/21)

JUROR-BIAS: A preconceived notion does not necessarily remove a juror's ability to be impartial, particularly where the juror declares that she can lay aside her impression or opinion and render a verdict based on the evidence. Boyd v. State, SC20-108 (5/13/21)
https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/741760/opinion/sc20-108.pdf

WRIT OF PROHIBITION: Only actions which are judicial or quasi judicial in nature, not legislative, executive or administerial actions, may be restrained by writ of prohibition. Burns v. State, 1D20-3531 (5/13/21)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/741794/opinion/203531_DC02_05132021_140831_i.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Convictions for capital sexual battery by a person in familial or custodial authority and lewd or lascivious molestation, based on a single act, do not violate double jeopardy. Warren v. State, 1D19-2706 (5/12/21)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/741589/opinion/192706_DC08_05122021_135033_i.pdf

PRIOR CONSISTENT STATEMENT: Witness's earlier statement to a friend that Defendant admitted having just killed someone in a robbery is admissible where the defense's questions suggested that law enforcement improperly influenced the witness's testimony through implied threats and improper coaching. Prior consistent statements are admissible as non-hearsay when the person who made the statement testifies at trial, is subject to cross-examination, and the statement is offered to rebut an express or implied charge of improper influence, motive, or recent fabrication, and was made before the existence of a fact said to indicate bias, interest, corruption, or other motive to falsify. Bagley v. State, 1D19-2706 (5/12/21)

EVIDENCE: Evidence that a law enforcement officer had contact with Defendant during a traffic stop before the burglary is admissible where the video of the burglary showed a red Dodge Charger and an officer had stopped Defendant driving that red Dodge Charger a few weeks earlier. Relevant evidence will not be excluded merely because it relates to similar facts which point to the commission of a separate crime. The balancing of probative value and prejudice is generally struck in favor of admissibility. Pendergrass v. State, 1D20-645 (5/12/21)

PRETRIAL RELEASE-FILED CHARGE: If between the filing of the motion for release and the hearing the state files an information or an indictment, the Defendant is not entitled to release on recognizance. Jones v. Harrison, Sheriff, 1D21-485 (5/12/21)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/741593/opinion/210485_DC02_05122021_140417_i.pdf

RECKLESS DRIVING: Driving 94 MPH on a 40 MPH road (four lanes, divided median) is not reckless driving. Reckless driving occurs when a person drives any vehicle in willful or wanton disregard for the safety of persons or property. When the State proves only that a defendant drove carelessly, it is insufficient to prove reckless driving under the statute. To be considered reckless driving, the defendant must have engaged in intentional conduct demonstrating a conscious disregard of a likelihood of death or injury. Speeding by itself is insufficient to prove recklessness. Harris v. State, 2D19-4266 (5/12/21)

JUROR-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE: Court improperly disallowed Defendant's peremptory strike on the basis of the explanation that the juror's payment of a traffic ticket suggested that he wanted to curry favor with the police. While the stated rationale may have been feeble, it was facially race-neutral. The court must focus not on the reasonableness of the explanation but rather its genuineness. New trial required where the record does not support the trial court's determination that the proffered reason for exercising its peremptory strike was not genuine. Steps for asserting and justifying a potentially race-based peremptory challenge laid out. Brannon v. State, 3D20-175 (5/12/21)

SPEEDY TRIAL: COVID suspension of speedy trial rights extends to the filing of formal charges. Suspending all speedy trial procedures, including investigatory time periods, advances the specified goal of ensuring compliance with mitigation measures. Francois v. State, 3D21-649 (5/12/21)

DEFINITION-"ALL": "It is axiomatic that all means all, every single one." Francois v. State, 3D21-649 (5/12/21)

JUVENILE-DISPOSITION ORDER: Disposition orders must note the time Child spent in secure detention before disposition and list the statutory maximum for each offense. Disposition Order saying that Child would be committed for an indeterminate period no longer than his twenty-first birthday or the maximum term of imprisonment is legally insufficient. N.J.P. v. State, 4D20-1645 (5/12/21)
https://www.4dca.org/content/download/741509/opinion/201645_DC08_05122021_095621_i.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose heightened prosecution costs and public defender fees without making factual findings to justify those costs. Juveniles are assessed prosecution costs under the same statute as adult defendants. N.J.P. v. State, 4D20-1645 (5/12/21)

https://www.4dca.org/content/download/741509/opinion/201645_DC08_05122021_095621_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim that Counsel was ineffective for misadvising him that if he rejected the offer, he would get a better one later (he did not). Maldonado v. State, 20-1893 (5/12/21)

PUBLIC DEFENDER-WITHDRAWAL: Court departed from the essential requirements of law in denying the Public Defender's motion to withdraw. Defendant's potential incompetency to proceed in this criminal case does not equated to a lack of capacity to consent to the substitution of counsel. "[W]e are not aware of any authority holding that private counsel may not be substituted for the Public Defender on behalf of a potentially incompetent, yet not indigent, defendant. Thus, the only issue for the circuit court to decide is whether the defendant is competent to proceed with counsel, whomever that counsel may be." Law Office of the Public Defender v. State, 4D21-1233 (5/22/21)

DISCOVERY: State commits a discovery violation by announcing mid-trial that it was redesignating the defendant's wife from a Category "C" witness to a Category "A" witness, but any error in failing to conduct a Richardson hearing is harmless where the witness was not called. State claimed that the re-designation was not a ploy to force her removal from the courtroom. Moon v. State, 4D19-3002 (5/12/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-HEARSAY: Defendant is not deprived of Due Process by application of state hearsay rules in post-conviction hearings where he could have called the witnesses to testify directly. Broadnax v. Commissioner, Alabama DOC, No. 20-12600 (11th Cir. 5/7/21)

SENTENCE REDUCTION: Defendant may request a sentence reduction only for "extraordinary and compelling reasons," as defined by the Sentencing Guideline policies of 1B1.13. The Sentencing Commission's definition of "extraordinary and compelling reasons" binds district courts. To apply 1B1.13, a court simply considers a defendant's specific circumstances, decides if he is dangerous, and determines if his circumstances meet any of the four reasons that could make him eligible for a reduction. USA v. Bryant, No. 19-14267 (11th Cir. 5/7/21)

SENTENCE REDUCTION: "In other words, determining whether something is an 'applicable guideline' under the Sentencing Guidelines is resolved based on the statutory provision at issue and nothing else." The phrase "[u]pon motion of the Director of the Bureau of Prisons" is prefatory, not operative. Defendant may apply for a sentence reduction himself, but only for reasons listed in 1B1.13. USA v. Bryant, No. 19-14267 (11th Cir. 5/7/21)

DEFINITION-"APPLICABLE": "Applicable means "capable of being applied" or "relating to." USA v. Bryant, No. 19-14267 (11th Cir. 5/7/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201914267.pdf

SENTENCE REDUCTION: The unfairness of one's sentence is not an extraordinary and compelling reason warranting a reduction. USA v. Bryant, No. 19-14267 (11th Cir. 5/7/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201914267.pdf

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF: Child's fingerprints on a damaged door is insufficient evidence of criminal mischief to survive a motion for judgment of dismissal. Where fingerprints are found on an item or property that is available to the public and the defendant presents a reasonable hypothesis of innocence, fingerprint evidence alone is insufficient to sustain a conviction. A fingerprint left in a location accessible by the public, without more, is insufficient to establish the identity of the culprit. S.S. v. State, 219-2572 (5/7/21)

JURY INSTRUCTION-JUSTIFIABLE USE OF DEADLY FORCE: Court committed fundamental error by instructing jury that Defendant is not entitled to use deadly force after attempting to purchase cocaine, or unlawfully carrying a concealed weapon. Only forcible felonies–which these are not–precludes Defendant from assertng justifiable use of deadly force. Peruchi v. State, 2D19-3535 (5/7/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: A police officer may arrest and then search a person violating a criminal municipal ordinance in front of him, but not for a non-criminal violation of ordinance. The offense is criminal if jail is a possible sentence. State v. Coleman, 2D19-4481 (5/7/21)

APPELLATE COUNSEL-INEFFECTIVENESS: Appellate counsel was ineffective for not preserving the issue that Defendant (with 18 points on his scoresheet) was illegally sentenced to prison because Court made no dangerousness findings. Appellate counsel should have filed a R.3.800(b)(2) motion to correct sentence that under R.9.141(d). Lamberson v. State, 2D20-2085 (5/7/21)

BOND: Where Defendant violated conditions of pretrial release (leaving home twice while on electronically monitored house arrest), defendant forfeits his right to continued release under the original bond, but does not forfeit altogether his constitutional right to pretrial release. A trial court's authority to hold the defendant without any bond is circumscribed by the provisions of section §907.041, which includes the right to a written motion for detention, a hearing and findings of fact and conclusions of law. Orfelia v. Junior, 3D21-1052 (5/7/21)

HABITUAL OFFENDER: To qualify as a habitual offender, one must have two sequential convictions. Defendant has three, one of which Defendant was sentenced on earlier and separately and two others for which he was sentenced simultaneously. Defendant's belief that neither of the two simultaneous convictions can serve as predicates for his habitualization is wrong. Of the two simultaneous convictions, one of them counts and the other does not. Jerry v. State, 5D20-1447 (5/7/21)

JUROR-REMOVAL: Judge abused discretion by removing a juror who expressed, after the start of deliberations, that the Holy Spirit told him that Defendant was not guilty but who repeatedly assured the judge that he was following the jury instructions and basing his decision on the evidence admitted at trial. Juror's statements about receiving divine guidance are not categorically disqualifying. A juror may be excused only when the Court determines to the utmost certainty that a juror has refused to base his verdict on the law as instructed and the evidence admitted at trial. USA v. JUROR-CHALLENGE-CAUSE: Juror who initially expressed a disposition to automatically impose the death penalty where the first-degree murder was premeditated, but later said he could follow the law need not necessarily be removed for cause. Deviney v. State, SC17-2231 (5/6/21)

CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE: Trotter should be receded from and the harmless error standard used henceforth when considering an erroneously denied cause challenge. It should not be presumed that the error injuriously affected the substantial rights of the Defendant. The loss of a peremptory challenge because of an erroneously denied cause challenge to a prospective juror is not per se reversible error. Deviney v. State, SC17-2231 (5/6/21)

JUROR-MISCONDUCT-NON-DISCLOSURE: The fact that Juror failed to disclose in voir dire that the he had a juvenile delinquency adjudication for sexual battery and that his grandmother and uncle had murdered his grandfather does not entitle Defendant to a new trial. To establish the requisite prejudice in the postconviction context for juror's non-disclosure, the challenger must establish that the juror's misconduct resulted in the defendant being denied his constitutional right to an impartial jury by proving actual juror bias against the defendant. JUROR-MISCONDUCT-NON-DISCLOSURE: In postconviction cases raising stand alone juror misconduct claims, an evidentiary hearing will sometimes be needed to determine whether a juror was intentionally dishonest and, if so, whether the defendant can prove actual bias. CONFRONTATION: Defendant is not deprived of his right to confront the victim by exclusion of evidence of an earlier purportedly false report of sexual assault by the victim, allegedly invented to deflect from the crime at issue, where it is not clear that the earlier false report was indeed false and there were marked dissimilarities and lack of logical connection Evidence properly excluded when the only value in admitting the proffered evidence would have been to establish that because the victim lied previously, she was more likely to have lied in the instant case. JAIL CLOTHES: Defendant is not entitled to a mistrial based on the jury seeing him in jail clothes during the witness's in-court identification of him where uncooperative Defendant declined to wear civilian clothes or accept alternatives. Greene v. State, 4D19-2856 (5/5/21)

COMPETENCY: Court's order finding the Defendant competent to proceed, entered before the expert's evaluation was filed, is improper because the Order could not have been based on the report itself but rather must have been based on counsel's representation about it. A requirement of a proper competency hearing is that the trial court actually review the expert's report. McNeill v. State, 5D19-1528 (5/6/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: Officers had reasonable suspicion to stop Defendant's car and conduct an investigatory

Terry stop where they knew that a social security number associated with a different fugitive had been used to connect a utility service at the house Defendant had just left. Given that the stop was in the pre-dawn hours, the officers possessed an objective, reasonable suspicion that any man leaving the house was either the fugitive, or as a resident of the house, may have known the fugitive and his whereabouts. An investigatory stop of a vehicle does not require a traffic violation. USA v. Gonzalez-Zea, No. 19-11131 (11th Cir. 4/30/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROLONGED STOP: ICE officers may continue to detain person leaving a house associated with an alien fugitive after ascertaining that the detainee is not the guy they were looking for, but after learning facts suggesting that the detainee was an undocumented alien. SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSENT: There is no requirement of proof of knowledge of a right to refuse as the sine qua non of an effective consent to search. USA v. Gonzalez-Zea, No. 19-11131 (11th Cir. 4/30/21)

HEARSAY-STATEMENT OF IDENTIFICATION: Child's statement that he saw his father hurt or harm his mother (who disappeared and whose body was found by the now-grown child buried in the back yard two decades later) is not hearsay if the declarant testifies at trial and is subject to cross-examination and is admissible as an identification of person made after perceiving the person. Argument that the statement was not admissible as a statement of identification because it was an accusatory narrative was not challenged on this ground in the trial court and therefore was not preserved. Haim v. State, 1D19-2094 (4/30/21)

EVIDENCE: Shell casing found near the Victim's body (found buried in the back yard 21 years later) is admissible notwithstanding that the medical examiner could not determine the cause of death. Haim v. State, 1D19-2094 (4/30/21)

LESSER INCLUDED-FIREARM: The use of a firearm is an element of burglary of a dwelling armed with a dangerous weapon, and is not simply added to enhance the available sentence. An offense without an element of a greater offense, but containing elements that are all subsumed by the greater offense, is a necessarily lesser included offense. Under this definition, "armed with a dangerous weapon" is an element of burglary of a dwelling armed with a dangerous weapon, and burglary of a dwelling is a lesser included offense. Louis v. State, 1D19-3958 (4/30/21)

RECLASSIFICATION: It is not clear that reclassification under §775.087(1) is permitted for burglary of a dwelling armed with a dangerous weapon/armed robbery because the reclassification statute may not be applied to an offense in which the use of a weapon or firearm is an essential element. As such, use of firearm does not enhance the offense. Louis v. State, 1D19-3958 (4/30/21)

KIDNAPPING: Unlike burglary of a dwelling armed with a dangerous weapon, kidnapping to facilitate commission of a felony does not contain an element regarding the use of a firearm or other weapon. Accordingly, the only reason the jury may be instructed to find whether Defendant "actually possessed" a firearm during the kidnapping, or whether he "carried, displayed, used, threatened to use, or attempted to use" a firearm during the kidnapping, was to permit enhanced sentencing under sections §§775.087(1) and (2)(a)1. Louis v. State, 1D19-3958 (4/30/21)

RETURN OF PROPERTY: Defendant must request return of property within 60 days of the "conclusion of the proceeding," defined as the date the judgment and sentence became final without regard to subsequent postconviction proceedings. Bracht v. State, 1D20-147 (4/30/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel's decision not to seek a mistrial

after jury saw Defendant's shackles was a strategic decision. Simply because Defendant's appearance before the jury in shackles was inherently prejudicial does not mean that his counsel's decision not to seek a mistrial was deficient performance per se. Ferguson v. State, 1D20-1726 (4/30/21)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/735168/opinion/201726_DC05_04302021_142943_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Even if a witness was available to testify and counsel was deficient in not presenting his or her testimony during trial, counsel is not ineffective if that testimony would have been cumulative to other evidence presented, because such cumulative evidence removes a defendant's ability to establish prejudice. Abney v. State, 1D20-2837 (4/30/21)

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court erred in sentencing the Defendant to a below guidelines sentence for failure to register on the ground that "essentially, I'm saying this case isn't worth eight years." The trial court may consider nonstatutory mitigating factors only when the reason for such departure is consistent with the legislative sentencing policy. Carnes v. State, 2D20-201 (4/30/21)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Claims for out-of-state jail credit are not cognizable under rule 3.801; rather, they must be raised in a timely motion for postconviction relief under rule 3.850. Terrell v. State, 2D20-1407 (4/30/21)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: The term "county jail" applies only to Florida jails, not to various places of incarceration in other jurisdictions. When a prisoner is incarcerated in another state on charges unrelated to a Florida charge, that prisoner is not entitled to credit for time served in the other state. While R. 3.801 can be used only to seek jail credit for time spent in Florida jails before sentencing, a claim of entitlement to jail credit for time spent incarcerated in another state is cognizable in a rule 3.850 motion. Hastings v. State, 2D20-2996 (4/30/21)

IMMIGRATION-STOP-TIME RULE: The notice to appear under the immigration stop-time rule–any period of continuous presence in the United States shall be deemed to end when the alien is served a notice to appear–refers to a single document containing all the required information, not a mishmash of pieces with some assembly required. The government must issue a single statutorily compliant document to trigger the stop-time rule. Niz-Chavez v. Garland, Attorney General, No. 19–863 (U.S. S. Ct,

DEFINITION- "A": Normally, indefinite articles (like "a" or "an") precede countable nouns. By contrast, noncountable nouns—including abstractions like "cowardice" or "fun"—almost never take indefinite articles. "After all, few would speak of 'a cowardice' or 'three funs.'" Niz-Chavez v. QUOTE (J. GORSUCH): "At one level, today's dispute may seem semantic, focused on a single word, a small one at that. But words are how the law constrains power. . .If men must turn square corners when they deal with the government, it cannot be too much to expect the government to turn square corners when it deals with them." Niz-Chavez v. Garland, Attorney General, No. 19–863 (U.S. S. Ct, 4/29/21)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: "Sometimes Congress's statutes stray a good way from ordinary English. Sometimes, too, Congress chooses to endow seemingly familiar words with specialized definitions. But until and unless someone points to evidence suggesting otherwise, affected individuals and courts alike are entitled to assume statutory terms bear their ordinary meaning." Niz-Chavez v. STATUTORY INTERPRETATION (DISSENT): "Ordinary meaning and literal meaning are two different things. And judges interpreting statutes should follow ordinary meaning, not literal meaning. . . As a matter of ordinary parlance. . ., the word 'a' is not a one-size-fits-all word." Niz-Chavez v. Garland, Attorney General, No. 19–863 (U.S. S. Ct, 4/29/21)

PRR-L&L: §800.04(5)(b) (Lewd or Lascivious Molestation) no longer permits sentencing under any of the provisions in §775.082, except under subparagraph (3)(a)4., including the PRR subsection. Davenport v. State,

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-ANIMAL CRUELTY: Dual convictions for animal cruelty and aggravated animal cruelty are barred by Double Jeopardy because they are degree variants of the same crime. The offenses are not based on entirely different conduct, both subsections criminalize the same underlying conduct of animal cruelty, and subsection (2) increases the sanction as the harm to the animal intensifies. Houk v. State, 1D20-1816 (4/29/21)

CONFLICT-ATTORNEY'S FEES: Where six co-defendants retain one law firm, but Court disqualified the law firm from representing any of them because of conflicts, the Court may require the law firm to deposit the unearned fees into the CJA repository pursuant to the CJA. USA v. Pacheco-Romero, No. 19-14446 (11th Cir. 4/28/21)

SENTENCING-UPWARD VARIANCE-SUBSTANTIVE

UNREASONABLENESS: 70 month sentence for Defendant with who scores 12-18 months is not substantively unreasonable. That an upward variance sentence is well below the statutory maximum indicates that it is reasonable. How bad a repeat offender a defendant is matters greatly for purposes of sentencing. "Violent crime may not be his vocation, but it is at least his avocation." USA v. Riley, No. 19-14013 (11th Cir. 4/28/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201914013.pdf

IMPEACHMENT-SUBSTANTIVE EVIDENCE: Defendant is entitled to JOA where Count IV of the information alleged that Defendant's penis penetrated or had union with[the victim's mouth, but the victim at trial testified unequivocally that his penis never penetrated her mouth. Defendant's contradictory statement to detective as impeachment was not substantive evidence and her concession that his penis "was around my face, like around my mouth around stuff like that" is not union." Victim's use of the word "union," without describing contact, is not union. Even where a prior inconsistent statement is admissible, a prior inconsistent statement standing alone is insufficient to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. Fountain v. State, 2D20-289 (4/28/21)

JOA: Renewing a motion for judgment of acquittal at the close of all the evidence is no longer necessary to preserve a sufficiency of the evidence claim for appellate review.Once the JOA motion has been made at the close of the State's case and brought to the trial court's attention, the trial court has been given an opportunity to rule on the precise issue. The issue should then be considered preserved for appellate review." A perfunctory objection-for-objection's sake does not serve the purposes underlying the contemporaneous objection rule. SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Appellate court lacks the authority to consider the trial court's failure to downward depart. Supreme Court has recently accepted conflict jurisdiction to resolve a dispute between the district courts on this point. Rubio v. State, 3D20-534 (4/28/21)

PLEA-WITHDRAWAL: Motions to withdraw appeal should be liberally construed in favor of a defendant. Failure to advise Defendant regarding the collateral consequences of a plea (designation as a sex offender) to a sex offense entitles Defendant to withdraw his plea prior to sentencing. Failure to inform a defendant of collateral consequences meets the "good cause" test for pre-sentence withdrawal. Stewart v. State, 4D18-3526 (4/28/21)

MERGER DOCTRINE: The merger doctrine is a principle of statutory construction designed to generally prevent the government from charging felony murder when the underlying felony was assault. JOA-RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE: Defendant cannot be convicted of resisting without violence by obstructing her detention for trespassing at Mar-A-Lago when the alleged trespass was reported to, but not observed by, law enforcement officer. Misdemeanor offenses, with exceptions, must be observed by officers to justify an arrest. A person retains a right at common law to resist an unlawful arrest without force. After-the-fact observations of video are not sufficient to satisfy the statute's requirement that an arresting officer be present to observe the commission of a misdemeanor as it happens. Jing v. State, 4D21-147 (4/28/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: A federal court may entertain an application for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court, but a habeas petitioner does not remain "in custody" under a conviction after the sentence imposed for it has fully expired, merely because of the possibility that the prior conviction will be used to enhance the sentences imposed for any subsequent crimes of which he is convicted.

Defendant's state court conviction for a sex offense does not mean he is in custody for it when that offense is the predicate for a subsequent federal failure to register case. Alaska v. Wright, No. 20–940 (US S.Ct. 4/26/21)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/20-940_c0ne.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Under AEDPA, appellate court must extend deference both to the trial counsel's choices and to the state court's assessment of their reasonableness. The pivotal question is whether the state court's application of the Strickland standard was unreasonable, which is different from asking whether defense counsel's performance fell below Strickland's standard. Defendant is not entitled to relief from death penalty where counsel investigated Defendant's past and mental health. Raheem v. GDCP Warden, No. 16-12866 (11th Cir 4/26/21)

STUN BELT: Requiring a particularly violent Defendant to wear an invisible stun belt at trial is lawful; Defendant is not entitled to relief if it becomes perceptible because of Defendant's action. Raheem v. GDCP Warden, No. 16-12866 (11th Cir. 4/26/21)

ARGUMENT: State's argument, "This man is just mean, ladies and gentlemen, in just plain, old country English, he's mean. He's cold-hearted. He's cold-blooded. And let me tell you something, he'll kill you. And I'm not having to guess," applying the double deference mandated by AEDPA, , although clearly improper, is not prejudicial given the overwhelming evidence of guilt. Raheem v. GDCP Warden, No. 16-12866 (11th Cir. 4/26/21)

MINOR-LENGTHY SENTENCE: 40 years' incarceration for a 16-year old Defendant is not the functional equivalent of a life sentence. Defendant is not entitled to be resentenced. Brown v. State, 1D18-4888 (4/5/21)

CONFRONTATION: Admission of Child Protection Interview where the Defendant was never given the opportunity to confront the Declarant/Child violates the confrontation clause. Not all hearsay implicates the concerns of the Confrontation Clause, but where a piece of hearsay evidence bears a testimonial character, it is covered by the Confrontation Clause. Statements are testimonial when the circumstances objectively indicate that there is no ongoing emergency, and that the primary purpose of the interrogation is to establish or prove past events potentially relevant to later criminal prosecution. Child Protection Interview is testimonial. New trial required. Phillips v. State, 1D19-470 (4/23/21)

12 PERSON JURY: Even though sexual battery of a child under twelve is labelled a "capital felony," it is not a "capital case" under §913.10 because it cannot result in the death penalty, so a six-person jury is required. Phillips v. State, 1D19-470 (4/23/21)

FIREARMS: Because §790.33 preempts the field of firearm regulation and authorizes individuals adversely affected by a local policy to bring a civil action, a high school teacher may sue to be allowed to bring his gun to school as far as the parking lot. Forrester v. School Board of Sumter County, 5D20-43 (4/23/21)

DEGREE OF OFFENSE: Where at the time Defendant was originally sentenced for trafficking, the amount of oxycodone made the crime a first-degree felony. Later amendment of the statute, which would have made the crime a 3rd degree felony, does not reduce the offense, so that a sentence in excess of fie years upon violating probation is lawful. Robinson v. State, 5D20-2337 (4/23/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: The determination of whether Defendant's prior out-of-state convictions of taking indecent liberties with a child were improperly scored as analogous to Florida's lewd or lascivious battery requires an evidentiary hearing, and thus cannot be raised under R. 3.800(a) at any time, but only under R. 3.850, within two years. LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR-HOMICIDE: Court may sentence a person who committed murder as a minor to life without parole, provided that the sentence is not mandatory and the sentencer has discretion to impose a lesser punishment. A separate factual finding of permanent incorrigibility is not required before a sentencer imposes a life-without-parole sentence on a murderer under 18. Jones v. HEARSAY: Statements by out-of-court witnesses to law enforcement may be admitted as non-hearsay if they help explain the course of a complex investigation, and the danger of unfair prejudice caused by the use of the statements does not substantially outweigh the probative value of the evidence. APPEAL-PRESERVATION-CHANGE OF VENUE: Issue of whether venue should be changed is not preserved where the trial court never ruled upon Defendant's motion for change of venue and Defendant did not renew his

ARGUMENT: Prosecutor's description of Defendant as "every mother's darkest nightmare" and claim that juvenile victim was crying out to the jury from the grave that the Defendant had raped her is not error in the first case ("dramatic, but not untrue") and in the latter "did more purposefully to elicit an emotional reaction than is advisable, but they were moving in substantial measure because of how they characterized the disturbing facts in evidence." No fundamental error. Smith v. State, No. SC18-822 (FLA 4/22/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus may not be used as a substitute for an appropriate motion seeking postconviction relief, nor can habeas corpus be used as a means to seek a second appeal or to litigate issues that could have been or were raised in a motion under rule 3.850. The mere incantation of the words "manifest injustice" does not make it so. Roberts v. Inch, 3D21-867 (4/20/21)

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES: Where certain offenses on scoresheet are erroneously listed as "additional offenses" instead of prior record, Defendant is entitled to resentencing unless the record conclusively shows that the trial court would have imposed the same sentence. Perry v. State, 4D20-278 (2/12/21)

EVIDENCE-MOTIVE TO FABRICATE: Court erred in disallowing testimony about the Victim's divorce being related to her drug use, which was behind her purported false testimony, i.e. that the Victim claimed to be a victim of unauthorized credit card charges when in fact she authorized them to cover up drug purchases. "[T]he State first argued to the trial court that Appellant's testimony that drug use caused the divorce should be excluded because it was not relevant, and then during closing it argued to the jury that this defense theory was not relevant because it was excluded." Allen v. State, 4D20-1553 (4/21/21)

ARGUMENT: ""Comments such as: '[w]ell, that's a hot one, right?,' and 'I think this case is obvious, I hope you think it is, too,' are inappropriate and do not assist the jury in analyzing, evaluating, or applying the evidence to the facts of the case. . . Rather, the first comment injected unnecessary sarcasm into the argument and the latter comment improperly apprised the jury of the prosecutor's personal opinion." Allen v. State, 4D20-1553 (4/21/21)

DUPLICATIVE JUDGMENT: Court may not enter a duplicative judgment for the same offense after revoking probation. Scofield v. State, 20-1678 (4/21/21)

COSTS: Court improperly imposed a $200 fee for the cost of prosecution when the evidence only supported a $100 fee. By law,]osts for the state attorney must be set in all cases at . . . no less than $100 per case when a felony offense is charged. To set a higher amount, the state attorney must demonstrate the amount spent on prosecuting the defendant and the trial court must consider the defendant's financial resources. Scofield v. State, 20-1678 (4/21/21)

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Plaintiff witnessed a fatal car accident and stood in the median of I-95 photographing the scene. Officer approached him, seized his phone, arrested him, and locked him in the back of a hot patrol car without AC for almost a half hour. Officer is entitled to qualified immunity from suit for 1st, 4th and 14th Amendment violations. An officer is entitled to qualified immunity unless he violates a clearly established constitutional rights, defined as a right which exists only if a decision of the United States Supreme Court, the 11th Circuit Court, or the highest court in a state has said it exists. The First Amendment right to record a crime scene from a distance is not clearly established. The Fourth Amendment claim fails because Plaintiff broke the law by stopping his car (and the Good Samaritan exception to the no-stopping statute doesn't apply to people who step back when police arrive). Plaintiff's 14th Amendment claim about being locked in a hot car with no A/C fails because "exposure to uncomfortable heat is part and parcel of life in the South." There is no generic right to be free from excessive force. Crocker v. Beatty, No. 18-14682 (11th Cir. 4/20/21)

IRONY-GEORGE FLOYD VERDICT DAY: "In Garrett v. Athens-Clarke County, we analyzed a Fourth Amendment excessive-force claim and explained Cottrell as having 'conclude[d] officers did not use excessive force, although [the] arrestee died of positional asphyxia, where officers placed [the] arrestee in handcuffs and leg restraints after a 20-minute struggle and put him in a prone position in the back of a police car.'" https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814682.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-ILLEGAL REENTRY: The Sentencing Guidelines' enhancements under subsections 2L1.2(b)(2) and (3), for criminal convictions received before and after the defendant's previous deportation or removal, do not violate the Constitution's guarantee of equal protection. Nor do they cause unlawful double-counting in violation of due process or otherwise. USA v. Osorio, No. 19-11408 (11th Cir. 4/20/21)

CONSTITUTION: "Unlike the Fourteenth Amendment, the Fifth Amendment contains no express equal protection clause. But the Fifth Amendment's guarantee of due process embodies within it the concept of equal justice under the law." USA v. Osorio, No. 19-11408 (11th Cir. 4/20/21)

SENTENCING-DOUBLE COUNTING: Impermissible double counting occurs only when one part of the Guidelines is applied to increase a defendant's punishment on account of a kind of harm that has already been fully accounted for by application of another part of the Guidelines. Double counting is allowable if the Sentencing Commission intended the result, and each section applied concerns conceptually separate notions relating to sentencing., i.e., deterrence and recidivism. A harsher sentence for an alien who reenters with after earlier convictions for serious crimes is appropriately enhanced both in his offense conduct and in his criminal history. USA v. Osorio, No. 19-11408 (11th Cir. 4/20/21)

FIRST-DEGREE MURDER-PREMEDITATION: A snap decision may still constitute premeditation, which may be inferred based on the nature of the weapon used, the presence or absence of adequate provocation, previous difficulties between the parties, the manner in which the homicide was committed and the nature and manner of the wounds inflicted. Where Defendant shot victim one, she said, "just kill me," and he shot her several more times, premeditation is shown. Taylor v. State, 1D18-5294 (4/20/21)

JURY INSTRUCTION-HEAT OF PASSION: The "heat of passion" defense is (1) a complete defense if the killing occurs by accident and misfortune in the heat of passion, upon any sudden sufficient provocation; or (2) a partial defense, to negate the element of premeditation in first-degree murder or the element of depravity in second-degree murder. For that passion to constitute mitigation of the crime, it must arise from legal provocation. Defendant is not entitled to a heat of passion instruction when he testified that the shooting was accidental and done in self-defense. Taylor v. State, 1D18-5294 (4/20/21)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/732998/opinion/185294_DC05_04202021_135600_i.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: Defendant is not entitled to suppression of statement. Generally, intoxicants such as narcotics and alcohol affect the credibility of the confession, not the voluntariness. Intoxication at the time of confessing will not bar admitting a confession into evidence unless the defendant is intoxicated to the degree that he is unaware or unable to comprehend what he is doing and to communicate with coherence and rationality. Taylor v. State, 1D18-5294 (4/20/21)

MINOR-SENTENCE REVIEW: Defendant, a minor at the time who was sentenced to life (murder) and 30 years (kidnapping), to be served consecutively, who at resentencing on Count I was given the right to a sentence review puruant to §921.1401 is also entitled to a sentence review for the same count pursuant to §921.1402 sentence review at a later date. Court improperly conflated the §921.1401 and §921.1402 reviews because the Defendant had not initiated the review via an application to the court of original jurisdiction. Defendant has a right to an independent sentence review under §921.1402; Court deprived her of such by deeming the section §921.1401 resentencing hearing sufficient. Maestas v. State, 1D19-1767 (4/20/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: Generally, a defendant has no right to represent himself in an extraordinary writ petition in the appellate court while he is represented by counsel in the criminal case pending in the lower tribunal. McCray v. State, 1D19-4679 (2/20/21)

EVIDENCE-LIMITED ADMISSIBILITY: When evidence that is admissible for one purpose, but inadmissible as for another purpose, is admitted, the court, upon request, shall restrict such evidence to its proper scope. Medical/disability records admitted as impeachment may not be used as substantive evidence of party's mental health. Brooks v. Brooks, 1D20-2346 (4/20/21)

MISTRIAL: Defendant, charged with murder, is not entitled to a mistrial because a photo of her crouching in hunting gear and pointing a shotgun (not the murder weapon) accidentally flashed on the screen during trial and was before the jury for a second or two. McArthur v. State, 1D19-3491

HEARSAY: PRIOR CONSISTENT STATEMENT: A prior consistent statement offered to rebut a charge of recent fabrication, where the declarant is subject to cross-examination regarding the statement at trial, is not hearsay. Victim's statement accusing Defendant is admissible where Defendant claimed the Victim fabricated the allegation for revenge from another incident, but that incident happened after the alleged accusatory hearsay statement. A prior consistent statement offered to rebut a charge of recent fabrication is admissible if it was made prior to the existence of the improper motive. "This was a classic prior consistent statement. It was not hearsay. And the trial court did not err in admitting it." Gibson v. State, 1D19-4294 (4/16/21)

VICTIM'S RIGHTS: Crime Victims' Rights Act does not authorize a victim to seek judicial enforcement of her CVRA rights in a freestanding civil action. Absent a clear expression of congressional intent to authorize a would-be plaintiff to sue, a cause of action does not exist and courts may not create one, no matter how desirable that might be as a policy matter, or how compatible with the statute. In Re: Courtney Wild, No. 19-13843 (11th Cir. 4/15/21)

FIRST STEP ACT: Where the District Court has authority to reduce Defendant's sentence under the First Step Act, declines to do so, and it is unclear that the court recognized that it had the authority to reduce the sentence, the order denying motion to reduce must be vacated and the case remanded for further proceedings. USA v. Russell, No. 19-12717 (11th Cir. 4/15/21)

SELF REPRESENTATION: Side effects of psychotropic medication (sleepiness, nervousness, blurry vision, and trouble urinating) do not render

one incapable of self-representation. "Given that certain people with bipolar disorder function well and act rationally, we see no logic in creating a per se rule or presumption that all individuals with bipolar disorder suffer so severely from mental illness that they are unable to carry out basic trial tasks without assistance." APPEAL-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF APPELLATE COUNSEL: "As Florida Rule of Appellate Procedure 9.141(d) does not provide a vehicle to challenge postconviction appellate counsel's effectiveness, the petition is dismissed." Gilbert v. State, 1D20-3606 (4/14/21)

STAND YOUR GROUND: After losing a self-defense immunity hearing, a defendant may vindicate his right to self-defense in two ways, i.e., by filing a petition for writ of prohibition or present his self-defense immunity claim to the jury. Because at trial, the state is required to overcome the defendant's claim of self-defense by meeting the burden of proof beyond a reasonable doubt, which is a higher burden than the clear and convincing evidence standard the state was required to satisfy at the pretrial hearing, the trial court's error with regard to the burden of proof at the SYG hearing is cured by a subsequent guilty verdict. Valdez v. State, 3D19-570 (4/14/21)

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE-EXPERT-SEXUAL HOMICIDE: Where Defendant filed a pretrial motion to exclude State's sexual homicide expert as not being based on recognized literature, nver obtained a ruling, and at trial objected on different grounds (speculation and hearsay), the issue is not preserved for appeal. Herman v. State, 4D19-1636 (4/14/21)

SPECIAL JURY INSTRUCTION: Defendant is not entitled to a special jury instruction that out of court statements of the defendant are inadmissible unless the opposing party seeks to have them admitted. Herman v. State, 4D19-1636 (4/14/21)

JURY INSTRUCTION-BURGLARY WITH BATTERY: In jury instruction for Burglary with Battery, Court must define "battery." Error is fundamental. Fundamental error is waived where defense counsel affirmatively agrees to an improper instruction, but a difference exists between affirmatively agreeing to an improper instruction and unknowingly acquiescing to an improper instruction. Cannon v. State, 4D19-2082 (4/14/21)

COMMENT ON SILENCE: Defendant waived any violation of motion in limine about silence of Defendant by failing to object to testimony about Defendant leaving hospital to avoid interview. Defense counsel must renew the motion in limine or otherwise object to preserve the issue for appeal. Cannon v. State, 4D19-2082 (4/14/21)

HEARSAY: Responding officer's testimony about the BOLO which he received from dispatch and the defendant's driving record which he obtained through the NCIC is inadmissible hearsay, but harmless error. The contents of a BOLO are generally inadmissible in that they contain incriminating hearsay details unnecessary to establish a logical sequence of events. Cannon v. State, 4D19-2082 (4/14/21)

interrogated, but initiates a second interrogation two months later, the second statement is admissible. Earlier failure to honor Defendant's invocation of his right to silence does not carry over to a later interrogation initiated by Defendant following a significant passage of time and a break in custody between the two statements. Where the suspect reinitiated the dialogue, the Court must consider whether the suspect's decision to change his or her mind and to waive his or her rights by speaking with the authorities was voluntary, knowing, and intelligent. Two months is enough time to shake off any residual coercive effects of the prior interrogation. Sinclair v. State, 4D19-2815 (4/14/21)

SENTENCING-DUI MANSLAUGHTER: The total for DUI Manslaughter may not exceed fifteen years, and shall include a probationary period that, at a minimum, is of sufficient length to permit Appellant to complete a substance abuse course. Trial court may not sentencing a defendant to the maximum fifteen-year prison term because he must be placed on probation for a sufficient length of time to complete a substance abuse course at the end of the defendant's prison term. LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR: Jury, not judge, must make the factual finding that the Defendant intended to kill or attempted to kill the victim, thus triggering the statutory 40-year mandatory minimum and 25-year period for sentence review. The verdict form did not provide interrogatories or specify whether the jury had found Romero guilty of premeditated or felony murder. Under Alleyne, a jury must make the factual finding as to whether a juvenile offender actually killed, intended to kill, or attempted to kill the victim. Romero v. State, 1D19-624 (4/12/21)

PRISONER LAWSUIT: Prisoner may sue for punitive damages against correctional officers for threats. Prison Litigation Reform Act does not bar punitive damages for a prisoner's civil action where no physical injury is shown. Hoever v. Marks, No. 17-10792 (11th Cir. 4/9/21)

DEFINITION-"FOR": "For" indicates purpose or aim. "Our understanding of the word 'for,' of course, depends on its context. . .The subject before the word 'for' informs the preposition's meaning. . . DEFINITION-"FOR" (DISSENT): "I'm not convinced that 'for' is best understood here, as the Court says, to 'indicate[] purpose or aim.' To be sure, the word 'for' certainly can connote purpose. But according to the OED—one of the dictionaries on which the Court relies—"for" can also mean any of (if I'm counting correctly) 76 other things. . .If ever there were 'a word of many, too many, meanings,' it is 'for.'" FIREARMS: Statute imposing penalties on local government entities passing firearms regulations and eliminating the defenses of good faith and advice of counsel in such cases is valid and enforceable. APPEAL-SELF REPRESENTATION: A defendant has no right to represent himself in an extraordinary writ petition in the appellate court while he is represented by counsel in the criminal case pending in the lower tribunal. Ward v. Franklin County Jail, 1D21-655 (4/9/21)

HEARSAY: Out of court statement by a third party claiming possession of the gun is inadmissible hearsay. Defense's assertion that the statement was not offered for its truth, "[p]ut gently, . . this is a disingenuous post hoc explanation. Even the most charitable read of the trial transcript makes abundantly clear that defense counsel sought to use Deen's confession to show that Deen was guilty, and Elysee was innocent." The proffered justification–that it was offered to suggest that the officer's conduct in responding to the confession fell below the reasonable officer standard of performance—was not relevant." USA v. Elysee, Case No. 18-14214 (11th Cir. 4/8/2021)

DEFENSE: "Because nothing in our caselaw indicates the existence of an affirmative defense based on the failure of police to conduct an investigation as reasonably diligent officers, we conclude that no such defense exists." Defendant's "distinct and novel principle of law that the defendant in a criminal case may use out-of-court statements to mount an attack on the quality of the investigation that led to his indictment" fails. USA v. Elysee,

defendant must have known of his prohibited status—such as being a felon—at the time he possessed the firearm or ammunition at issue. Failure of indictment to plead knowledge is harmless absent a showing of a reasonable probability of a different outcome at trial but for the error in the indictment. USA v. Elysee, Case No. 18-14214 (11th Cir. 4/8/2021)

ILLEGAL SENTENCE: Defendant may not challenge the failure of the Court to include the ten-year minimum mandatory portion of his life sentence. Although the plain language of R. 3.800(a) does not expressly prohibit defendants from seeking to correct unlawfully lenient sentences, defendants are not entitled to such relief absent a showing of prejudice. Earl v. State, SC19-1506 (4/8/21)

LOWEST PERMISSIBLE SENTENCE: Where there are multiple convictions subject to sentencing on a single scoresheet, the lowest permissible sentence under §921.0024(2) is an individual minimum sentence and not a collective minimum sentence. Where Defendant's lowest permissible sentence (here, 107.25 months) exceeds the statutory maximum for some of the counts, Court must impose the LPS on each count. Court may impose sentences consecutively, even where the result (as here) is a sentence in excess of the statutory maximums. A total sentence of approximately 33 years where the statutory maximum is 25 years is lawful. State v. Gabriel, SC19-2155 (FLA 4/8/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to object to the presentation of two minutes of dashcam footage showingother officers

SENTENCING-MINOR-HOMICIDE: Court did not err in sentencing juvenile convicted of rape/murder to life in prison where his family could not point to any positive accomplishments the Defendant achieved in the last several years, and instead they focused on hobbies that the Defendant gave up years before the murder. Defendant's argument that Court must explicitly make a finding of incorrigibility before imposing a sentence of life without parole was not preserved.

SENTENCING: Court did not err in allowing the victim's daughters to recommend an appropriate sentence. There is no prohibition on the trial court's receiving sentencing recommendations from the victim's family in the context of sentencing a juvenile. Sanders v. State, 1D19-4461 (4/8/21)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-LESSER INCLUDED: Defendant convicted of Lewd and Lascivious Molestation as a lesser included of Capital Sexual Battery is not preserved where there was discussion of the issue ("I don't think that the lewd and lascivious molestation, victim under twelve, is a lesser included offense.") defense counsel agreed that the facts would constitute a Lewd and Lascivious Molestation, and no objection was made to the jury being instructed that it was a lesser. Counsel's general thoughts failed to clearly convey an objection to the inclusion of the Lewd and Lascivious Molestation charge in place of the Sexual Battery charge, and counsel's musings were immediately followed by his agreeing with the court that the evidence supported the charge. APPEAL-PRESERVATION-RULE OF COMPLETENESS: No error in Court not requiring the State to present the full video of the car chase pursuant to the rule of completeness, where Court made a tentative ruling on the admissibility of the omitted portion of the video but invited Defendant to proffer it to establish admissibility, and Defendant did not do so. Where a judge has tentatively granted a motion in limine concerning an area of evidence, but has indicated a willingness to reconsider the ruling after hearing a proffer of the actual testimony, it is necessary to proffer the testimony sought to be introduced in order to preserve the issue for appeal. Mims v. State, 1D20-1673 (4/8/21)

VOP: Probation cannot be revoked absent a specific finding of willfulness. An automatic revocation of probation without such a finding would be unconstitutional. The requirement that a willful and substantial violation of probation be found before probation can be revoked is rooted in the fundamental fairness notion required by due process. Rogers v. State, 3D20-1083 (4/7/21)

EVIDENCE: Testimony from the driver of the other car in a collision that he was impaired by alcohol, notwithstanding his lack of memory of the crash itself, is admissible. A criminal defendant has a constitutional right to present a defense. Exclusion of relevant evidence that another's negligence might have caused or contributed to an accident violates the defendant's Sixth Amendment right to present a defense. Because it is possible the jury could reasonably have concluded that the van driver's intoxicated driving was the sole proximate cause of the accident, the evidence should not have been excluded. SPOLIATION: Where lost or unpreserved evidence is material exculpatory evidence, the loss of such evidence is a violation of the defendant's due process rights and the good or bad faith of the State is irrelevant. But claim that police mishandled the gun is unsupported by the evidence and irrelevant even if true in case where wife died after Husband used the gun (missed), a knife (several stabs), and a hammer (several blows), and where Defendant admitted he had handled the gun. DUI MANSLAUGHTER: DUI manslaughter requires proof that the appellant was operating a vehicle while legally impaired and that his operation of the vehicle caused or contributed to Victim's death. Defendant properly convicted of DUI manslaughter of his son when he had flipped onto the road the ATV he was driving and on which his son was riding, and a truck shortly thereafter hit it, killing the son. AMENDMENT-RULES-DEATH PENALTY COUNSEL: The chief judge for each circuit shall maintain a list of counsel who are disqualified to provide

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: When textualism is properly understood, it calls for an examination of the social context in which a statute was enacted. Williams v. State, 1D19-0498 (4/1/21)

PRINCIPAL: A principal in the first degree historically was the absolute perpetrator of the crime, the one we typically would consider as having committed the crime. A principal in the second degree historically was at a remove from the absolute perpetrator, actually or constructively at the scene of the crime and aided or abetted in its commission. At common law, if a person was not at the scene, or at least nearby, then she could not be punished as a principal. Accessory before the fact was at yet another remove from the absolute perpetrator, i.e., someone who was absent at the time of the commission of a felony, but beforehand counseled, hired, or otherwise procured the perpetrator to commit it. Williams v. State, 1D19-0498 (4/1/21)

PRINCIPAL: A defendant may be found guilty as a principal based solely on communications, but considering 17 ways to kill one's husband, developing an alibi, and agreeing to encourage him to go hunting with one's boyfriend so that the latter could drown him does not constitute commanding or impelling the boyfriend to commit the murder or the assisting or encouraging of it. Proof of the conspiracy alone is not enough to make one a principal. Williams v. State, 1D19-0498 (4/1/21)

ELECTION OF CHARGES: The rule that the State may be compelled to elect between charges repugnant or inconsistent with each other, applicable in cases involving theft-related crimes, does not exist in cases involving murder and accessory after the fact or, for that matter, to any non-theft-related crimes. The failure to make the State pick a theory is not a structural defect that will always be presumed to be harmful. Williams v. State, 1D19-0498 (4/1/21)

DEPORTATION: Subject who had robbed a bank six days before his naturalization ceremony, but who was not arrested or convicted until later, is not removable. A denaturalized alien is not removable as an aggravated felon based on convictions entered while he was an American citizen. Immigration statute providing that "[a]ny alien who is convicted of an aggravated felony at any time after admission is deportable" does not apply to aliens who were citizens at the time of their predicate convictions. "[W]e are concerned with the alien's citizenship status at the time of conviction, not the time of the crime." Denaturalization is not treated as retroactive for removal purposes. "We may not pretend that Hylton was an alien all along." Hylton v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 19-14825 (11th Cir. 3/31/21)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: "It would be odd if, in two consecutive subsections of the Code, which use materially identical language, the same words were read to mean one thing in the first subsection but another in the second. All else being equal, we prefer a reading of the second that coheres with binding precedent as to the first." Hylton v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 19-14825 (11th Cir. 3/31/21)

HABEAS CORPUS-EQUITABLE TOLLING: AEDPA's statutory limitations period may be tolled for equitable reasons in rare and exceptional circumstances, i.e., only if he shows (1) that he has been pursuing his rights diligently, and (2) that some extraordinary circumstance stood in his way and prevented timely filing. Defendant is entitled to equitable tolling of the deadline for filing a petition for habeas corpus where his counsel deliberately missed the deadline in order to create a test case to challenge the constitutionality of AEDPA's one year statute of limitations. Counsel abdicated her duty of loyalty to her client to promote her own interests, effectively abandoning him. Thomas v. Attorney General, State of Florida, No. 13-14635 (11th Cir. 3/31/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201314635_2.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Neither recantation by the Defendant's mother claiming that it was actually her other (now deceased) son who committed the crimes nor the Defendant's claim that he committed only some of them, but he could not remember which, entitle Defendant to vacate his plea and convictions years later. Lowery v. State, 1D19-174 (3/31/21)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/727892/opinion/194174_DC05_03312021_134632_i.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: The reasonable hypothesis of innocence standard for a judgment of acquittal has been discontinued. The reviewing standard in all cases, whether they are based on circumstantial evidence or not, is now whether a rational trier of fact could have found the existence of the elements of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt. Dorsey v. State, 1D20-378 (3/31/21)

IMPEACHMENT: Court properly excluded Defendant's mother from testifying that the victim had told her that the state attorney's office threatened to have the victim's children taken away if the victim did not testify against Appellant, which was inconsistent with the victim's cross-examination testimony that she had not been threatened and never had any conversation with Defendant's mother. To be inconsistent, a prior statement must either directly contradict or be materially different from the expected

HABEAS CORPUS: Dismissal of habeas corpus petitions, rather than transfer, is appropriate where the petitioner is seeking relief that (1) would be untimely if considered as a motion for postconviction relief under rule 3.850, (2) raise claims that could have been raised at trial or, if properly preserved, on direct appeal of the judgment and sentence, or (3) would be considered a second or successive motion under rule 3.850 that either fails to allege new or different grounds for relief that were known or should have been known at the time the first motion was filed. Smith v. Fla. DOC, 1D20-1290 (3/31/21)

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: The standard of review applicable to claims of ineffective assistance of appellate counsel mirrors the Strickland standard. Appellate counsel was not ineffective for failing to argue that the issues raised in his direct appeal under state law also violated federal law (which would have preserved the possibility for federal habeas corpus review). Anderson v. State, 1D20-2055 (3/31/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-MARIJUANA: An officer smelling the odor of marijuana has probable cause to believe that the odor indicates the illegal use of marijuana. Even if marijuana was legalized for recreational use, such use while driving would still support the offense of driving while intoxicated; thus, regardless of whether marijuana becomes decriminalized for recreational use, the smell of the burning substance will continue to provide probable cause for a search of a vehicle. "[W]e can think of no circumstance where an affirmative defense might lie where the impetus for the search arose from the smell of burnt marijuana in a vehicle." Owens v. State, 2D20-537 (3/31/21)

PROBABLE CAUSE: The probable cause standard is a practical and common sensical standard. It is enough if there is the the kind of fair probability on which reasonable and prudent people, not legal technicians, act. Owens v. State, 2D20-537 (3/31/21)

MINOR-LENGTHY SENTENCE: A fifty-year sentence is not the functional equivalent of life. Hall v. State, 3D17-2058 (3/31/21)

MINOR-LENGTHY SENTENCE: Minimum mandatory term of forty years reviewable after twenty-five years for juveniles convicted of murder is constitutional under Miller and Graham. Minor's fifty year sentence with review for murder is lawful. Thorough discussion. Hall v. State, 3D17-2058 (3/31/21)

CONSTITUTIONALITY: An as-applied challenge is an argument that a law which is constitutional on its face is nonetheless unconstitutional as applied to a particular case or party, because of its discriminatory effects; a facial challenge asserts that a statute always operates unconstitutionally. The forty-year term mandatory minimum term for murder by a juvenile is constitutional as is and facially. Hall v. State, 3D17-2058 (3/31/21)

FARETTA: Defendant (college graduate who completed a year and a half of law school) and in the end represented himself at trial is not entitled to a new trial when Court failed to re-advise him on the dangers of self-representation when he had earlier been so advised in the same case and counsel had been appointed then discharged. Maps v. State, 3D18-1979 (3/31/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus may not be used as a substitute for an appropriate motion seeking postconviction relief, nor can habeas corpus be used as a means to seek a second appeal or to litigate issues that could have been or were raised in a motion under rule 3.850. Evans v. State, 3D20-1820 (3/31/21)

EVIDENCE-VIDEO-AUTHENTICATION: Authentication for the purpose of admission is a relatively low threshold that only requires a prima facie showing that the proffered evidence is authentic. Evidence may be authenticated based on circumstantial evidence, extrinsic evidence, or by showing that it meets the requirements for self-authentication. Testimony of store manager that the surveillance video was a fair and accurate representation of what happened that day is sufficient. Willingham v. State, 4D19-1883 (3/31/21)

PRR-PREDICATE OFFENSE: Mandatory life sentence for armed robbery under the Prison Releasee Reoffender statute is constitutional, including where the predicate offense was committed when the Defendant was a minor. "[P]erhaps the Florida Legislature will in the future consider exclusion of sentences served for underage crimes from qualifying under recidivist statutes, or at least grant sentencing judges the discretion to decline to apply such statutes where a predicate offense was committed by a juvenile. . .Until then, there is no judicial discretion to impose a different sentence." JURY QUESTION: Court has discretion in answering a jury question, and it may answer a question directly or refer jurors to standard instructions. Hernandez-Perez v. State, 4D19-3309 (3/31/21)

MARSY'S LAW-NEXT OF KIN'S PRESENCE: Court did not err in barring the Defendant's father (who was a witness for the Defendant and also the victim's uncle) from sitting in the courtroom at the Defendant's request. Defendant suffered no prejudice. Butler v. State, 4D19-3394 (3/31/21)

INFORMATION-DEFECT: A fundamental defect in an information must be timely raised. A challenge to an information on the ground that it was not supported by probable cause or sworn testimony from a material witness does not raise a fundamental defect. The prosecutor who signs a charging document need not personally take an oath or take testimony from a material witness before filing the charging document. Johnson v. State, 1D19-4535 (3/30/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: Dismissal of a habeas petition is proper when the petitioner is seeking the kind of collateral postconviction relief available through a motion filed in the sentencing court. McPherson v. Florida DOC, 1D20-1904 (3/30/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for acquiescing to exclusion of evidence under the rape shield law that Victim/girlfriend was pregnant by a different man and had an STD at the time of the crimes. No prejudice is shown since it was undisputed the two had engaged in consensual sex days before. Givens v. State, 1D20-3041 (3/30/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-FEDERAL REVIEW: Federal court may not grant a writ of habeas corpus unless the earlier decision upholding the murder conviction took an unreasonable view of the facts or law. "Unreasonable" refers only to extreme malfunctions in the state criminal justice system. A federal court may not overturn a state court finding that Defendant is not entitled to a new trial where trial counsel did not try to implicate the person who discovered the body at the hotel, where that person's squirrely-ness was due to his covering up of his ongoing illicit liaisons at the hotel, not covering up the murder of the hotel maid whose body he found, particularly where there is strong evidence of the Defendant's guilt. Mays v. Hines, No. 20-507 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/29/21)

JOA: The standard for a JOA–that there be proof of each and every necessary element of the offense charged beyond a reasonable doubt before an offense can be submitted to a jury--is not the current standard. Perry v. State, 1D20-891 (3/26/21)

PRR: A 30 year sentence as a PRR is mandatory for an Aggravated Battery of a deadly weapon with a deadly weapon. The jury's finding that Perry used a deadly

INCARCERATION-PROBATION: A court cannot sentence a defendant to serve probation while that defendant would still be serving a separate sentence in prison. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: An evidentiary hearing is typically warranted when a defendant brings an ineffective assistance claim arguing that trial counsel should have called a witness or alibi witness for trial. Washington v. State, 5D20-725 (3/26/21)

https://www.5dca.org/content/download/727043/opinion/200725_DC08_03262021_082054_i.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Significant injuries to the frontal and temporal lobes of his brain adversely affecting Defendant's language skills and his ability to plan, reason, inhibit impulses, and make rational decisions do not require the Court to impose a downward departure. Broy v. State, 5D20-943 (3/26/21)

APPEAL-ANDERS BRIEF: "An Anders brief is unnecessary in postconviction appeals, and neither we nor appellate counsel need to follow Anders' procedures or requirements. . .Indeed, there is no right to counsel in postconviction proceedings. . .We will. . .strike postconviction Anders briefs going forward." Hunter v. State, 5D20-1609 (3/26/21)

ARREST: The application of physical force to the body of a person with intent to restrain is a seizure, even if the force does not succeed in subduing the person. A seizure occurs when an officer shoots someone who temporarily eludes capture after the shooting. A suspect's continued flight after being shot by police does not negate a Fourth Amendment excessive-force claim. Torres v. Madrid, No. 19–292 (US S.Ct. 3/25/21)

MERE TOUCH RULE: "[T]he court explained that the bailiff would have made an arrest if he 'had but touched the defendant even with the end of his finger.'. . . The touching of the person—frequently called a laying of hands—was enough." Torres v. Madrid, No. 19–292 (US S.Ct. 3/25/21)

COUNTESS OF RUTLAND: "[In the] Countess of Rutland's Case,. . . serjeants-at-mace tracked down Isabel Holcroft, Countess of Rutland, to execute a writ for a judgment of debt. They 'shewed her their mace, and touching her body with it, said to her, we arrest you, madam.'" Torres v. Madrid, No. 19–292 (US S.Ct. 3/25/21)

COUNTESS OF RUTLAND (GORSUCH, DISSENT): "Ultimately, the majority asks us to dwell at length on the Countess of Rutland's case. In at least that lone instance, the majority promises, we will find bailiffs who arrested a debtor by touching her with an object (a mace) rather than a laying on of hands. . . But it turns out the dispute concerned whether a countess could be civilly arrested at all, not when or how the arrest was completed. . .Not even minor royalty can rescue the majority." Torres v. Madrid, No. 19–292 (US S.Ct. 3/25/21)

DISTINCTION WITHOUT A DIFFERENCE: "The dissent. . .argues that the common law limited arrests by force to the literal placement of hands on the suspect, because no court published an opinion discussing a suspect who continued to flee after being hit with a bullet. . .This objection calls to mind the unavailing defense of the person who 'persistently denied that he had laid hands upon a priest, for he had only cudgelled and kicked him.'" Torres v. Madrid, No. 19–292 (US S.Ct. 3/25/21)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/19-292_21p3.pdf

ARREST-FUGITIVITY: "The rule we announce today is narrow. In addition to the requirement of intent to restrain, a seizure by force—absent submission—lasts only as long as the application of force. That is to say that the Fourth Amendment does not recognize any 'continuing arrest during the period of fugitivity.'" Torres v. Madrid, No. 19–292 (US S.Ct. 3/25/21)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/19-292_21p3.pdf

SEIZURE OF PERSON: "All we decide today is that the officers seized Torres by shooting her." Torres v. Madrid, No. 19–292 (US S.Ct. 3/25/21)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/19-292_21p3.pdf

SEIZURE OF PERSON (GORSUCH, DISSENT): "The majority holds that a criminal suspect can be simultaneously seized and roaming at large. . . It's a seizure even if the suspect refuses to stop, evades capture, and rides off into the sunset never to be seen again. That view is as mistaken as it is novel." Torres v. Madrid, No. 19–292 (US S.Ct. 3/25/21)

DICTA (GORSUCH, DISSENT): [W]hatever utility it may have, dicta cannot bind future courts. . . If the respect we afford past holdings under the doctrine of stare decisis may be justified in part as an act of judicial humility, respecting that doctrine's limits must be too. Fewer things could be less humble than insisting our every passing surmise constitutes a rule forever binding a Nation of over 300 million people." Torres v. Madrid, No. 19–292 (US S.Ct. 3/25/21)

QUOTATION (GORSUCH, DISSENT): "The common law offers a vast legal library. Like any other, it must be used thoughtfully. We have no business wandering about and randomly grabbing volumes off the shelf, plucking out passages we like, scratching out bits we don't, all before pasting our own new pastiche into the U. S. Reports. That does not respect legal history; it rewrites it." Torres v. Madrid, No. 19–292 (US S.Ct. 3/25/21)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/19-292_21p3.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-FEDERAL REVIEW: Under the AEDPA, even a summary opinion by the state appellate court overturning Defendant's granted motion for post relief must be sustained as not unreasonable. McKiver v. Secretary, DOC, No. 18-14857 (11th Cir. 3/25/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814857.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DISSENT: "This appeal arises from [Defendant]'s attempt to get a new trial on the ground that [his attorney] gave ineffective assistance of counsel to him on this important issue of the weight of the drugs he consumed. The state postconviction court that heard [Defendant]'s claims in this regard agreed with him. Nevertheless, and in a one sentence order, containing no analysis or any reference to the facts, the Florida appellate court vacated the state postconviction court's decision. Upon review here, the majority opinion says this one sentence order from the Florida appellate court is a reasonable application of Strickland v. Washington, [cite omitted]. I say it is not." McKiver v. Secretary, DOC, No.

18-14857 (11th Cir. 3/25/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to impeach Victim by 26 year old convictions which, under Florida law, would have been inadmissible because of remoteness. McKiver v. Secretary, DOC, No. 18-14857 (11th Cir. 3/25/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814857.pdf

TRAFFICKING: In Florida, a person does not actually have to traffic drugs in order to be guilty of trafficking. A person's guilt or innocence of Florida's drug trafficking crime is determined strictly by the weight of the drug attributed to them. McKiver v. Secretary, DOC, No. 18-14857 (11th Cir. 3/25/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814857.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-AEDPA-TIME LIMIT: The federal habeas statute establishes a 1–year period of limitation for an application for a writ of habeas corpus by a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court. The time during which a properly filed application for State post-conviction review shall not be counted toward any period of limitation. Defendant's amended R. 3.850 motion relates back to his initial motion, tolling the AEDPA limitations period for the time in between. The current 60 day default deadline for amending a motion for post conviction relief did not exist at the time in this case. Morris v. Secretary, DOC, No. 18-14802 (11th Cir. 3/25/21)

for post conviction relief filed 13 years after case became final in state court is beyond the one year time limitation. Defendant "does not contest the correctness of the dates that he provided or the dates that the court relied on. What he does contest is the district court's authority to corroborate the dates he provided by reviewing online state court dockets. . .We decline to find error because the district court double-checked the dates that Turner had already offered. CONTINUANCE: Defendant is not entitled to continuance on ground that he personally was not able to review all his discovery, so he did not fully realize the evidence against him where he had roughly two years to prepare for his trial and did not point to any evidence that would have been presented if the continuance had been granted. USA v. Pendergrass, No. 19-13681 (3/24/21)

JURORS: By statute, members of the fire or police departments are barred from jury service on the ground that they are exempt. To be excluded from jury service under §1863, a person must in function be a police officer, not a member of any organization that could fall under the broad umbrella of law enforcement, i.e., a probation officer. EVIDENCE-MODUS OPERANDI: When modus operandi evidence supports an inference that the same person committed multiple crimes, a jury can consider identity evidence from other robberies. USA v. Pendergrass, No. 19-13681 (3/24/21)

HEARSAY: Statements by out-of-court witnesses to law enforcement may be admitted as non-hearsay if they help explain the later investigative actions, and the danger of unfair prejudice caused by the impermissible hearsay use of the statement does not substantially outweigh the probative value of the evidence. USA v. Pendergrass, No. 19-13681 (3/24/21)

CONFRONTATION CLAUSE: Confrontation Clause prohibits only statements that constitute impermissible hearsay. The Clause does not bar the use of testimonial statements for purposes other than establishing the truth of the matter asserted. USA v. Pendergrass, No. 19-13681 (3/24/21)

EVIDENCE: Testimony which "involves the synthesis of a large volume of already-admitted evidence" is not improper interpretation of evidence that impeded or invaded the function of the jury." USA v. Pendergrass, No. 19-13681 (3/24/21)

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-CONCURRENT SENTENCES: The lowest permissible sentence is an individual minimum sentence that applies to each felony at sentencing for which the lowest permissible sentence exceeds that felony's statutory maximum sentence, regardless of whether the felony is the primary or an additional offense. Where the minimum guidelines is 19.8 years and the statutory maximum is 15 years, the trial court should have imposed concurrent sentences of 19.8 years for both counts. Conflict Certified. Pierce v. State, 1D19-2829 (3/24/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROLONGED STOP: Stop is not unlawfully prolonged where officers had reasonable suspicion of criminal activity. PYRRHIC VICTORY: "Christopher Ray Queen appeals his convictions and sentences for three hundred counts of possession of child pornography. It is that statement, the initial determination that the original image depicted a child, that was made out of court and was admitted for the truth of the matter asserted. . .Contrary to the State's assertions, a hearsay statement is not admissible simply because it is "extremely accurate" and comes from a "trustworthy source." VINDICTIVE SENTENCE: Where judge extended an in a neutral, non-advocating manner, merely advising the defendant this would be the last plea offer extended to him and that if he rejected it, the case would proceed to trial, and the ultimate sentence is much harsher, sentence is not necessarily vindictive. JURY INSTRUCTION-STANDARD OF REVIEW: The proper standard of review for failure to give an entrapment instruction is de novo. USA v. Mayweather, No 17-13547 (11th Cir. 3/17/21) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201713547.pdf

ENTRAPMENT: Entrapment is an affirmative defense that consists of two related elements: government inducement of the crime, and a lack of predisposition on the part of the defendant to engage in the criminal conduct. If the defendant meets his initial burden (to come forward with some evidence, more than a scintilla, that government agents induced him to commit the offense), he is entitled to have his defensive theory of the case put before the jury, with the burden of proof shifting to the government to prove the defendant's predisposition to commit the crime beyond a reasonable doubt. If there is any evidence in the record that, if believed by the jury, would show that the government's conduct created a substantial risk that the offense would be committed by a person other than one ready to commit it, the jury must be permitted to resolve the matter. USA v. Mayweather, No 17-13547 (11th Cir. 3/17/21) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201713547.pdf

ENTRAPMENT: CI'S relentless pursuit of Defendant (a Correctional Officer) to smuggle contraband into prison Fluellen's participation and manipulation of his hesitation are sufficient to raise the question of whether he pressured Defendant to participate, which is sufficient to meet his light burden of production as to government inducement. USA v. Mayweather, No 17-13547 (11th Cir. 3/17/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201713547.pdf

ENTRAPMENT: Sales pitch ("no gun play… no meeting in dark alleys," just "picking up, drive it, drop it off. That's it.") to convince Correctional Officers to join prison smuggling conspiracy is sufficient evidence of inducement to warrant an entrapment jury instruction. Offering a job, explaining how easy the job is, and attempting to persuade the listeners that a federal crime is the same as simply riding along in a car goes beyond not merely providing an opportunity. USA v. Mayweather, No 17-13547 (11th Cir. 3/17/21)

ENTRAPMENT: Defendant who is afforded that opportunity to join smuggling conspiracy but who was not pressured or manipulated ([i]n other words, [where] there was simply no 'plus' that the government presented to [Defendant] beyond the 'opportunity' to commit a crime") is not entitled to an entrapment instruction. USA v. Mayweather, No 17-13547 (11th Cir. 3/17/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201713547.pdf

ENTRAPMENT-DERIVATIVE ENTRAPMENT: Derivative entrapment, which is where the the initiator of his criminal activity is not acting as an agent of the Government, is not a recognized defense, but it is not derivative entrapment where co-defendants brought defendants into the government agent's scheme, and the government agent was aware of the participation of each defendant, had direct contact and communication with all of the defendants, presented the criminal opportunity to them directly, and was directly involved with each defendants' fake drug transports. USA v. Mayweather, No 17-13547 (11th Cir. 3/17/21)

USA v. Mayweather, No 17-13547 (11th Cir. 3/17/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201713547.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-OFFICIAL ACT: In entrapment case, Court must define "official act," although the pattern jury instruction of official act (designed with government policy makers in mind) is misleading on the facts of this case. Simply wearing a Department of Corrections uniform is not an official act per se. USA v. Mayweather, No 17-13547 (11th Cir. 3/17/21)

MINOR-LENGTHY SENTENCE: A juvenile offender's sentence does not implicate Graham or Miller unless it meets the threshold requirement of being a life sentence or its functional equivalent of a life sentence. SPEEDY TRIAL: Formal arrest and booking is not required for Speedy Trial rights to vest. Where Defendant is placed in custody on an out-of-county warrant (although never booked on the warrant) but arrested for drugs found in his car, and an information is not filed within 175 days, he is entitled to discharge without the recapture. A formal arrest, complete with fingerprinting and formal charges, is not always necessary to start the running of the speedy trial time. In fact, only four elements are necessary for a custodial detention to constitute an arrest and trigger the speedy trial rule: (1) A purpose or intention to effect an arrest under a real or pretended authority; (2) An actual or constructive seizure or detention of the person to be arrested by a person having present power to control the person arrested; (3) A communication by the arresting officer to the person whose arrest is sought, of an intention or purpose then and there to effect an arrest; and (4) An understanding by the person whose arrest is sought that it is the intention of the arresting officer then and there to arrest and detain him. Gilliam v. State, 1D20-926 (3/17/21)

SPEEDY TRIAL-RECAPTURE: Defendant is not required to file notice of expiration of speedy trial (triggering the recapture window) when an information is not filed within 175 days. Gilliam v. State, 1D20-926 (3/17/21)

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS-LOGICAL SEQUENCE OF EVENTS: If the purpose of admitting testimony regarding uncharged collateral crimes is to show a logical sequence of events leading up to an arrest, the need for the evidence is slight, and the likelihood of misuse is great. The reason the police stopped Defendant (firing shots from his car) is irrelevant to the charge of fleeing or attempting to elude. "[T]he context and sequence of events were not material issues at trial because [Defendant] was not being tried for the shooting or any firearm offense. . .a limited statement that the officers were investigating a recent incident and [Defendant] was a person of interest would have provided sufficient context for the charged crimes." New trial required. Edwards v. State, 2D18-4590 (3/17/21)

RESISTING WITH VIOLENCE-BATTERY ON LEO: Officers were not in lawful performance of a legal duty, and thus convictions on plea were invalid for lack of a legally sufficient factual basis, where the proffered basis for the Defendant's detention was evaluation for a Baker Act, but the Probable Cause affidavit did not lay out a sufficient basis for such an involuntary evaluation. Effectuating a Baker Act hold cannot serve as the officer's legal duty if the concern for J.W.'s well-being did not arise until after J.W. resisted the officer's attempts to physically restrain him. Error is fundamental. J.W. v. State, 2D19-262 (3/17/21)

FACTUAL BASIS: Defense counsel's stipulation to the PC Affidavit as a sufficient factual basis does not make it so. A stipulation with no factual basis in the record is insufficient. "[W]e would caution that stipulating to and relying solely on a police report affidavit to provide a factual basis for a plea may not be the best practice for either the trial court, the State, or the defendant." J.W. v. State, 2D19-262 (3/17/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: While a defendant is required to file a petition for writ of habeas corpus in the circuit where the defendant is incarcerated when the petition involves an issue regarding the prisoner's incarceration, the converse is true when the petition is based upon the legality of the conviction imposed in another circuit." INVOLUNTARY INTOXICATION: Evidence of a defendant's involuntary intoxication is admissible to show that he could not form the specific intent to commit a crime. The defendant must show that he unexpectedly became intoxicated by prescribed medication that was taken in a lawful manner. Evidence of involuntary intoxication is admissible only to negate the intent required for specific intent crimes. Attempted second-degree murder and attempted manslaughter by act are not specific intent crimes. Daniels v. State, 1D20-715 (3/16/21)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: The ordinary-meaning rule is the most fundamental semantic rule of interpretation. EVIDENCE: A party introducing evidence generally cannot complain on appeal that the evidence was erroneously admitted, even when a party preemptively introduces evidence that the party sought to exclude in a motion in limine. It would be unfair to allow a party to preemptively introduce evidence to remove the sting while preserving an objection to its admissibility for appellate review. Ruiz v. SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Reasons for downward departure must be articulated either orally or in writing, and they must be supported by competent, substantial evidence. While a trial court may depart for a reason other than those set forth in §921.0026(2), it may do so only if the articulated reason for departure is consistent with legislative sentencing policies and is not otherwise prohibited. GUIDELINES-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-WILLING PARTICIPANT: Trial judges are not prohibited as a matter of law from imposing a downward departure based on a finding that the victim was a willing participant in sex offense on minor. In determining the appropriateness of a downward departure, the trial court must determine whether there is a valid legal and factual basis for a downward departure, and second, whether the case is appropriate for a departure sentence. "For purposes of appellate review, it is helpful if trial courts make findings as to each of the two prongs. Reversal not required when the Court finds that Defendant's taking advantage of the victim's consent was not appropriate. "[E]ven if the court did not recognize its authority to depart, the court's remarks make it clear that it would have not exercised its discretion to depart under the facts of this case." Watson v. APPEAL-JURISDICTION; State may not appeal order of the postconviction court vacating Defendant's second judgment and the resultant shortened prison sentence. The State's right to appeal in a criminal case must be expressly conferred by statute. State v. Kemp, 5D20-2017 (3/12/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-CONSPIRACY: Although conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act robbery is not a valid potential predicate for a conviction for conspiracy to commit a firearm in furtherance of a crime of violence or a federal drug trafficking crime, conviction is sustained where other predicates applied. It is not enough for Defendant to show that the jury may have relied on the Hobbs Act conspiracy conviction as the predicate for his conviction; he must show at least a substantial likelihood that they relied on that rather than on any of the other available predicates. Granda v. USA, No. 17-15194 (11th Cir. 3/11/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Procedural default precludes a §2255 petitioner's claim that the jury relied upon a prior conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act robbery as a predicate offense where the tools for a legal argument were available, even if case law was not yet established, and where Defendant cannot show actual innocence. CIRCUMSTANIAL EVIDENCE: Defendant is not entitled to a JOA for murder based on circumstantial evidence where his phone was in the same area as victim's phone on the last day she was seen alive, jail witnesses said he confessed to stabbing her, putting her in the trunk, burning her body in his back yard and dumping the remains in the swamp, and another witness testified that he contacted him to help dispose of her car. DWLS-FARM TRACTOR: Farm tractors may temporarily enter highways without the driver being licensed, but may not be driven from driver's home to headquarters for refueling. "We note how easy it might be to read the exemption statute in isolation and believe that temporarily driving a farm tractor on a Florida roadway is lawful. . .[but [t]he statutory definition of 'farm tractor' is narrow and makes no accommodation for trips to refuel a farm owner's fleet, perhaps because gas stations or fuel oil facilities are generally few and far between in rural Florida." SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INVESTIGATORY STOP-RACE: It is a consensual encounter, not an investigatory stop, when police pull up on you and tap on your window with a flashlight after you close the door, all because they thought you might be stealing the car or something in it since you had opened the car door, sat inside, and tried to start it (it's your wife's car). Defendant could have either driven away "with skilled driving" or walked away. Court may not take into account that black suspects might feel less free to ignore the officer. "[W]e may not consider race in deciding whether a seizure has occurred," "[E]ven if empirical research can provide evidence of how individuals of different demographics have interacted with or perceive the police, this research also reinforces that perceptions vary within groups. . . CONSENSUAL ENCOUNTER (CONCURRING): "Perhaps the most troubling aspect of this hybrid "free-to-leave"/affirmative acts-of-coercion standard is the Russian Roulette nature of it. The hybrid test foists on the citizen the complete responsibility for ascertaining whether the officer is detaining him. And the citizen must draw his conclusion based on only his best guess—a conjecture that can carry with it great risk to both the citizen and the officer.". . .A citizen should not have to bet his and the officer's well-being on guessing correctly that he is free to leave." https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910083.reh.pdf

QUOTATION-CONCURRING: "The outcome in Knights's case and others like it can be unsatisfying: when we hold that a defendant was not 'seized' for Fourth Amendment purposes, even though—if we are being realistic—we know that a reasonable person in his place likely would not have felt free to leave, the Fourth Amendment's protections do not feel entirely real." QUOTATION-CONCURRING: "But as a matter of the commonsense reality of police-citizen interactions, Black individuals from every background have long expressed that race can and does affect whether a citizen feels "free to

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: For a motion filed under R. 3.800(a) more than two years after the conviction became final, any scoresheet error is harmless if the trial court could have imposed the same sentence using a corrected scoresheet, even if an upward departure would have been necessary. Kelly v. State, 1D20-2551 (3/10/21)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Defendant may not be sentenced to a ten year minimum mandatory for a second possession of firearm by a felon where his prior (also possession of firearm by felon) is not a statutorily enumerated offense triggering the enhancement, but the issue was unpreserved. Defendant must seek correction of the error by post conviction motion to the trial court. Vidana v. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: An evidentiary hearing is generally required to evaluate the veracity of the recanting witness. Newly discovered impeachment evidence is sufficient to grant a new trial in certain limited circumstances. Court must hold hearing on claim that victim admitted that he had not been robbed, but rather had given up his jewelry as part of a drug deal. Trevelyn v. State, 2D20-1125 (3/10/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Claim that the testifying serologist exaggerated her educational qualifications, if true, could have been discovered long ago through a diligent request for available records from the relevant educational institution, and therefore must have been raised within two years. Even so, the discrepancies between the level of education, training, and experience Bunker she testified to and the asserted level of education, training, and experience she actually had were not so great as to make any difference in the outcome of the case. Ramirez v. State, 3D20-1136 (3/10/21) https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/724175/opinion/201136_DC05_03102021_102229_i.pdf

SUPERSEDEAS BOND: Post-trial release is a discretionary matter. Court may deny post conviction bail provided it considers the factors (that the appeal was taken in good faith, on grounds fairly debatable, and not frivolous) in non-boilerplate fashion. Mays v. STAND YOUR GROUND: Mere filing of a SYG motion to dismiss makes a prima facie claim of self-defense immunity from criminal prosecution. There is no evidentiary burden upon the person seeking Stand Your Ground immunity. Instead, a defendant must simply allege a facially sufficient prima facie claim of justifiable use of force under chapter 776 in a motion to dismiss filed under rule 3.190(b) and present argument in support of that motion at a pretrial immunity hearing. SENTENCING-SADO-MASOCHISM ENHANCEMENT: Because only one image that meets the requirements of sado-masochism enhancement is necessary to support the enhancement, the photograph showing Defendant's hand around the minor's throat is sufficient. USA v. Rogers, No. 18-13532 (3/9/21)

SENTENCING-DOUBLE COUNTING: Applicaton of §2G2.2(b)(5) (five-level increase for pattern of sexual abuse of minor) and §4B1.5 (pattern of activity involving prohibited sexual conduct) do not constitute impermissible double counting The Sentencing Commission intended for the enhancements provided for in Chapter 4 to apply cumulatively to any other enhancements from Chapters 2 and 3. SENTENCING-DOUBLE COUNTING: The application of §2G2.2(b)(6) for use of a computer is proper and is not double counting because the use of a computer is not required for the transmission or distribution of child pornography. USA v. Rogers, No. 18-13532 (3/9/21)

SENTENCING HEARING: Court did not err in prohibiting the Defendant from cross-examining the officer on other pending cases of the minor engaging in sex with older males to rebut the implication that she was an innocent child. Even though some testimony may be received, the sentencing process is not a trial. Its purpose is to ensure that the district court is sufficiently informed to enable it to exercise its sentencing discretion in an enlightened manner. Having been presented with some contradictory facts, the district court may within its discretion, determine that it has adequate undisputed information to properly sentence the defendant. USA v. Rogers, No. 18-13532 (3/9/21)

HEARSAY-CHILD HEARSAY: The standard of review applied to a trial court's finding that the hearsay statements of a child victim are reliable and come from a trustworthy source, making them admissible is abuse of discretion. Evidence that deals only with similar sex acts against the minor victim in the case being tried is far less subject to objection than evidence of similar acts against other victims. Saladeen v. State, 5D20-584 (3/9/21)

EXPERT: Expert may not testify as to his interpretation of the events in a surveillance video where the video did not really show much of anything, was just "blobs, basically," and the expert's experience and knowledge is simply not helpful. A blurry video that does not depict much of anything cannot give rise to issues of fact about what did or did not happen on a particular occasion. Prosper v. Martin, Case: 19-12857 (11th Cir. 3/5/21)

IMMIGRATION-MORAL TURPITUDE: Alien cannot carry his burden to show that he is eligible for cancellation of removal on the ground that he has not been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude where the record does not clearly show whether he was convicted of the subsection of the state statute which involved fraud or that subsection which did not. Fraud is moral turpitude. "[Defendant] bore the burden of proving his eligibility for relief, so it was up to him to show that his crime of conviction did not involve moral turpitude." Pereida v. QUOTATION (J. Gorsuch): "No amount of staring at a State's criminal code will answer whether a particular person was convicted of any particular offense at any particular time." Pereida v. Wilkinson, No. 19-348 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/4/21)

QUOTATON (J. Gorsuch): "It is hardly this Court's place to pick and choose among competing policy arguments. . .along the way to selecting whatever outcome seems to us most congenial, efficient, or fair. HABEAS CORPUS: The remedy of habeas corpus is not available in Florida to obtain the kind of collateral postconviction relief available by motion in the sentencing court pursuant to rule 3.850. Habeas corpus is not to be used for obtaining additional appeals of issues which were raised, or should have been raised, on direct appeal or which were waived at trial or which could have, should have, or have been, raised in prior postconviction filings. JIMMY RYCE: Regardless of whether he continues to be a sexual sadist, Prisoner detained under Jimmy Ryce who is now physically unable to commit acts of sexual violence and thus cannot be deemed likely to engage in acts of sexual violence is entitled to a trial. Drake v. State, 2D19-2285 (3/3/21)

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIMES: Evidence of other crimes where the same weapon was used according to ballistics tests is admissible in robbery case. When the same firearm is used in multiple robberies, the only inquiry for the trial court to make is whether such evidence of collateral crimes was relevant to the issue of the perpetrator's identity–not whether the evidence revealed uniquely similar factual situations. PUBLIC DEFENDER'S FEE: Court may not assess a public defender's fee in excess of $100 for a felony offense without receiving evidence supporting the increased fee or nor having advised Defendant of his right to challenge the higher fee. Roebuck v. State, 4D19-3628 (3/3/21)

COSTS: Defendant may not challenge the legality of the $200 costs of prosecution by 3.800(b)(2) where he did not object at the imposition of the cost at the sentencing hearing. An objection to the sufficiency of the proof of costs must be made contemporaneously with the assessment of costs. Because the proper documentation of the costs of prosecution is an evidentiary error in the sentencing process, it cannot be preserved through a rule 3.800(b)(2) motion. State v. EXHAUSTION OF REMEDIES-COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: The exhaustion requirement (that Defendant exhaust all administrative remedies before filing in District Court for compassionate relief) is not jurisdictional. It

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: Court did not abuse its discretion in denying motion for compassionate release based on medical conditions (lupus, scleroderma, hypertension, glaucoma, and past cases of bronchitis and sinus infections) which might make one more susceptible to COVID-19. [Revised Opinion] USA v. Harris, No 20-12023 (11th Cir. 3/2/21)

FEBRUARY 2021

SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY: Federal Tort Claims Act does not authorize inmate of federal prison to sue corrections officers for restraining him, removing his clothes, and fondling his genitals; the acts do not constitute a "physical injury." Sexual assault and battery do not ipso facto qualify as "physical injury." Johnson v. White, No. 19-14436 (11th Cir. 2/26/21)

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE-EXHAUSTION OF ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES: The requirement of exhaustion of administrative remedies before seeking judicial relief is not jurisdictional. The exhaustion requirement for compassionate relief is a claim processing rule. USA v. Harris, No. 20-12024 (11th Cir. 2/26/21)

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE-COVID-19: Court did not abuse its discretion in deciding that lupus, scleroderma, hypertension, glaucoma, and past cases of bronchitis and sinus infections, rendering her more susceptible to COVID-19, were not extraordinary and compelling reasons to grant compassionate release. USA v. Harris, No. 20-12024 (11th Cir. 2/26/21)

WIRETAP-STALENESS: The Government can establish probable cause for a wiretap with facts showing that (1) a crime is being, has been, or is about to be committed and (2) communications about the crime will be intercepted by the requested wiretap. Defendant's implicit agreement as late as one month before the wiretap affidavit application that he was responsible for the illicit activity is fresh probable cause to believe that evidence of the earlier market manipulations would be obtained by wiretapping Defendant's phone despite the remoteness in time from the stock manipulations themselves. USA v. Goldstein, No. 18-13321 (11th Cir. 2/26/21)

WIRETAP-NECESSITY: Necessity for a wiretap can be shown notwithstanding that other techniques had uncovered useful historical information, where a wiretap was needed to identify all the co-conspirators and reveal the full scope of the conspiracy. Government's showing of necessity was not defeated based on the mere possibility that the Government might have otherwise had enough evidence to sustain a conviction against Defendants. Argument that "the wiretap was unnecessary because the Government had already obtained enough information. . .is a somewhat odd position for Defendants to take, given that they aggressively challenged the sufficiency of the Government's evidence at trial." USA v. Goldstein, No. 18-13321 (11th Cir. 2/26/21)

WIRETAP-GOOD FAITH EXCEPTION: The good-faith exception applies when an officer has in good faith obtained a search warrant from a judge or magistrate and acted within its scope. USA v. Goldstein, No. 18-13321 (11th Cir. 2/26/21)

WIRETAP-FRANKS HEARING: An evidentiary hearing is required when a defendant makes a substantial preliminary showing that statements or omissions made in an affidavit supporting a wiretap are deliberately false or made with reckless disregard for the truth. Neither negligent mistakes nor immaterial omissions implicate Franks. Defendants' decision to divest interest in the company's stocks six months does not negate the possibility that they were conspiring to manipulate the stock later, given that their modus operandi was to manipulate stocks held in others' names. USA v. Goldstein, No. 18-13321 (11th Cir. 2/26/21)

INDICTMENT-MATERIAL VARIANCE: A fatal variance exists only where the evidence at trial proves facts different from those alleged in the indictment, as opposed to facts which, although not specifically mentioned in the indictment, are entirely consistent with its allegations. That the evidence at trial proves additional misrepresentations consistent with the categories of misrepresentations charged in the indictment does not cause a material variance. USA v. Goldstein, No. 18-13321 (11th Cir. 2/26/21)

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: A statement to SEC agent, pursuant to a letter which calls the statement "nonpublic and confidential" and which advises the subject of his basic rights and how his statements could be shared, may be used at trial against the Defendant. USA v. Goldstein, No. 18-13321 (11th Cir. 2/26/21)

FORFEITURE: Forfeiture is limited to property the defendant himself actually acquired as a result of the crime. Defendant may not be jointly and severally liable for property that his co-conspirator derived from the crime but that the defendant himself did not acquire, but may be for the total amount of the fraud proceeds deposited into co-defendants' jointly controlled accounts. USA v. Goldstein, No. 18-13321 (11th Cir. 2/26/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-PROCEDURAL DEFAULT: When a state prisoner fails to present a claim to the state court in a timely and proper manner, and the state court refuses to address the merits of that claim based on state law, that claim is procedurally defaulted. The claim that trial counsel was ineffective for not moving for a mistrial after jurors saw him shackled and that claim was abandoned at the evidentiary hearing is procedurally defaulted and did not otherwise present a substantial claim that counsel was ineffective. Clark v. Commissioner, Alabama DOC, No. 19-11443 (11th Cir. 2/25/21)

RAPE SHIELD STATUTE: Court must weigh and balance the protection of the Rape Shield Statute with the defendant's constitutional right to be afforded with an adequate and fair opportunity to show bias and motive of the victim without delving into the sexual nature of her relationship with another. Where defendant was able to present other evidence suggesting that the Victim fabricated the allegations to cover up her relationship with another Court did not err in otherwise excluding evidence of Victim's sexual relationship with another. COLLATERAL BAD ACTS: Under the relaxed standard of admissibility in sex cases, relevance of Williams rule evidence will not primarily turn on an analysis of the similarity of the offenses, but may.assist in deciding the relevancy of the evidence and any analysis under section 90.403. Other sexual molestations by different children of the Defendant are admissible notwithstanding that those did not involve penile penetration. Moore v. State, 1D19-2209 (2/26/21)

SENTENCING: When the trial judge's oral pronouncement of a sentence is ambiguous, but the judge's intention is discernible from the record, the proper sentence is what the judge intended the sentence to be. PRR sentence upheld. Mack v. State, 1D 20-2078 (2/26/21)

INVESTIGATORY STOP: Passenger is seized when detective blocks the SUV from leaving. A significant identifying characteristic of a consensual encounter is that the officer cannot hinder or restrict the person's freedom to leave. A person is seized if, under the circumstances, a reasonable person would conclude that he or she is not free to end the encounter and depart. Vonlydick v. State, 2D18-4227 (2/26/21)

apparently discarded furniture in the light of the headlights while Defendant sat inside the SUV had only a mere suspicion of criminal activity lacked a reasonable, articulable suspicion of loitering and prowling, or of any other criminal activity, so as to support the investigatory stop. Any statements that Defendant made during the course of that unlawful stop and ensuing unlawful arrest should have been suppressed, and his convictions for giving a false name and for resisting an officer must be reversed. CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: In a constructive possession case, the State must establish that the defendant knew of the presence of the contraband and had the ability to maintain dominion and control over it. If the place where contraband is located is jointly occupied, the State must establish the control element of possession through independent proof, such as fingerprints, an admission, or evidence of other incriminating statements or circumstances; a defendant's mere proximity to the contraband is not sufficient. Defendant's flight and suspicious jail call may show knowledge, but not dominion and control of the cocaine. Roberts v. State, 1D194137 (2/25/21)

VOP-SENTENCE (J. TANENBAUM, CONCURRING): 948.06(2)(f)1 limits a trial court to modifying or continuing probation or imposing a sentence of up to 90 days in county jail only when a defendant meets all four of the conditions listed in that subparagraph. "However, the authority of this court to read a statute that way (interpreting a statutory term to have an opposite meaning) is very narrow indeed. . .That authority should be exercised only when absolutely necessary, with reluctance and caution." VOP: Defendant properly sentenced to 45 months in prison for having violated his probation by riding a bike in a group of more than two people, notwithstanding that the wrongly enumerated special condition of probation was charged. Aldamas-Gonzalez v. State, 2D20-294 (2/24/21)

EVIDENCE-AUTHENTICATION: Court properly excluded pro se Defendant's proffered documents (a purported Texas driver's license, a W-2 form, bank statements, and home security system billing records) in support of his alibi (he was in Texas at the time of the crime) where Defendant had no witnesses and did not testify. INAUDIBLE RECORDING: Court abused its discretion in excluding the recording in its entirety because it contains audible portions discussing the crimes charged. Partially inaudible recordingsare admissible unless the inaudible and unintelligible portions are so substantial as to deprive the EVIDENCE-DNA: Expert evidence about TrueAllele, a computer software designed to analyze complex data to determine the individual profiles of genetic material in DNA mixtures (a probabilistic genotyping system that relies on Bayesian probability modeling and "Markov Chain" and "Monte Carlo" statistical sampling is admissible. Failure to internally validate the TrueAllele software using a test sample of PBSO generated DNA data prior to using the program for case work does not render the TrueAllele analysis results unreliable under Daubert. KIDNAPPING: The confinement necessary to support a kidnapping to have facilitate the commission of another felony (a) must not be slight, inconsequential and merely incidental to the other crime, (b) must not be of the kind inherent in the nature of the other crime; and (c) must have some significance independent of the other crime in that it makes the other crime substantially easier of commission or substantially lessens the risk of detection. The duration of the confinement is not an integral part of the test even though it may bear on whether the confinement was slight or inconsequential. Compelling the victims to crawl at gunpoint and under threat of being violently dragged to their captivity in the back room for the entirety of the ordeal is kidnapping. Confining and moving the manager to the back of the store to open the safe is not. Parrish v. State, 4D19-1991 (2/24/21)

VOP: Probation is improperly revoked and Defendant sentenced to prison where Court improperly considers her failure to pay costs and restitution where the order of probation did not specify that either of these amounts were to be paid by a date certain, notwithstanding that the Order of Revocation did not find that she violated for those reasons. "Because the court considered impermissible factors in sentencing, which is a violation of due process, we reverse and remand for resentencing before a different judge." Lacey v. CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Doctor properly convicted of healthcare fraud conspiracy where he agreed to submit false claims to an insurance plan. The government need not present direct evidence that doctor agreed to join the conspiracy; circumstantial evidence and inferences from the JURY INSTRUCTION: Court's failure to expressly instruct the jury as to the elements of a healthcare fraud offense does not bar Defendant's conviction for conspiracy where the jury had a redacted copy of the superseding indictment, which incorporated the statutory elements of healthcare fraud into the conspiracy charge. LIFE SENTENCE-JUVENILE-HOMICIDE: Reimposition of life sentences is within the Court's discretion where the minor Defendant attacked the victim in his apartment, choked him to unconsciousness, bound him with rope, took him in the trunk of a car to a wooded area, joked that he was Babe Ruth as he struck the victim's head with a bat, chained him to a tree, doused him in lighter fluid, and set him on fire, and, the following morning, returned to the woods and, finding the victim still alive, tried to break his neck then drove to Target to buy a meat cleaver, which he used to cut the victim's throat twice before going back to Target to get a refund on the meat cleaver. SENTENCE REVIEW: The only method contemplated for a juvenile sentence review under section 921.1402 is by application from a defendant to the court of original jurisdiction, which did not occur here. Because the plain language of section 1402 requires a defendant-initiated proceeding, the sua sponte nature of the action here requires reversal. Bell v. State, 1D19-1542 (2/22/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: A petition for a writ of habeas corpus should normally be filed in the county of the petitioner's detention, but if the petition attacks the validity of a judgment or sentence, the court that entered the judgment and imposed the sentence has jurisdiction. Dismissal, rather than transfer, of petitions is proper if they seek the kind of collateral postconviction relief available through a motion filed in the sentencing court. D'Amico v. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-MISADVICE; Misadvice by counsel (that he was ineligible for Youthful Offender sentencing for a 1st PBL) can be corrected by the trial court giving the defendant correct advice. Because the trial court explained that Defendant had the possibility of youthful offender sentencing, he should have spoken up to seek clarification regarding any confusion he may have had. Malone v. State, 1D20-3064 (2/22/21)

JURY INSTRUCTIONS: Court's decision to include the Administrative Code provisions about harvesting alligators in the jury instructions but also to deny Defendant's request to include the "unless authorized" language from th Code resulted in the court providing an incomplete, misleading, and manifestly confusing explanation of the law to the jurors, making it appear that any killing, injuring, possessing, or capturing of an alligator was illegal regardless of a license holder's compliance with the Administrative Code provisions. JURY INSTRUCTIONS: Allowing defense counsel to argue a theory of defense to the jury while also refusing to instruct the jury on that defense does not solve the problem of improper instructions. The burden is on the trial court—not defense counsel—to provide clear, correct, and complete instructions to the jury on what the law is and how it is to be applied. Nichols v. COLLATERAL ESTOPPEL: A defendant is barred by collateral estoppel from raising a claim in a subsequent 3.800 motion that has already been raised and decided on the merits, here, that Defendant does not qualify for drug offender probation (Defendant had agreed to probation to get a downward departure). It is not illegal to allow a defendant to agree to serve a special type of probation, even though the trial court could not have imposed such a condition on an unwilling defendant convicted at trial. JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: Generally, a conviction that is supported by competent, substantial evidence will be affirmed. Where a rational trier of fact could lawfully find that the evidence proved the existence of all the elements of the crime of second-degree murder beyond a reasonable doubt, the appellate court should defer to the trial court's denial of a motion for judgment of acquittal. HABEAS CORPUS: The circuit court of the county in which a defendant is incarcerated has jurisdiction to consider a petition for writ of habeas corpus when the claims raised in the petition concern issues regarding incarceration, but not when the claims attack the validity of the judgment or sentence. Only the court in which the defendant was convicted and sentenced has jurisdiction to consider collateral attacks on a judgment or sentence, and such an attack must be brought pursuant to Rule 3.800 or 3.850, not by petition for writ of habeas corpus. Thorson v. State, 3D20-1581 (2/17/21)

JUVENILE-COMMITMENT: Upon a violation of probation, Court may not order commitment on the basis of a prior predisposition report when that report recommended probation and did not identify an alternative recommendation as to the restrictiveness level if the trial court should decide to commit the Child in the future. COSTS: Court erred in imposing a public defender fee for transcription costs without giving Defendant notice of the right to object. Prentice v. State, 4D19-3498 (2/17/21)

NECESSITY: Court correctly denied Defendant's request for a jury instruction on the defense of necessity as it related to the charge of possession of a firearm by a felon where he failed to present evidence that he did not have any reasonable, legal alternative to possessing the firearm or that the firearm was made available to him without a preconceived design. Watson v. State,

FRAUDULENT IMMIGRATION DOCUMENT: Defendant properly convicted of obtaining a fraudulent immigration document in order to get a driver's license. One of the documents Florida accepts as proof of lawful presence is an order of supervision from DHS and ICE. An order of supervision is a document prescribed by statute or regulation as evidence of authorized stay in the United States. USA v. Contreras v. Maradiaga, No. 19-11889 (11th Cir. 2/12/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911889.pdf

INDICTMENT-CONSTRUCTIVE AMENDMENT-INVITED ERROR: Defendant invites error, and thus is not entitled to a new trial, where indictment charged possessing a fruadulent immigration document to stay in the US, and jury instruction added "or employment," where Defendant proposed the "very instruction that he now challenges on appeal. This is a textbook case of invited error." When a party agrees with a court's proposed instructions, the doctrine of invited error applies" and review is waived even if plain error would result. USA v. Contreras v. Maradiaga, No. 19-11889 (11th Cir. 2/12/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911889.pdf

ARGUMENT: Government's argument suggesting that Defendant fabricated the existence of a lawyer who helped generate the fraudulent document ("That is a story that was made up. . . . Do we have anything from the mystery lawyer Val with no last name?. . .This is not a real lawyer. . . No evidence that that person even exists in this case.") was improper but not preserved nor prejudicial. "[W]e agree with the district court that the government's statements, while some may be characterized as misleading, as a whole did not rise to the level of prosecutorial misconduct." USA v. Contreras v. Maradiaga, No. 19-11889 (11th Cir. 2/12/21)

CHILD PORN-TRANSMITTAL: Defendant is not entitled to JOA where evidence showed that he had a peer-to-peer file sharing program on his computer which could move any files moved to the videos location on his computer, without the Defendant actively transmitting the files. The use of a file-sharing program, where the originator affirmatively grants the receiver access to the originator's child pornography files, constitutes the transmission of child pornography. Defendant should have known that this child porn files would be shared. Jeror v. State, 2D19-3308 (2/12/21) https://www.2dca.org/content/download/718471/opinion/193308_DC05_02122021_081502_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-(CONCURRING): Defendant's five year sentence where he only had eighteen scoresheet points (precluding prison absent a jury finding of dangerousness) upheld because the case law requiring a jury finding was made after the sentence became final. "[M]y review of our limited record leaves me unsettled. Mr. Lamberson may, indeed, be serving an illegal sentence, despite his unsuccessful attempt to convince the postconviction court or this court otherwise." Lamberson v. State, 2D20-293 (2/12/21) https://www.2dca.org/content/download/718483/opinion/200293_DC05_02122021_082100_i.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PRETEXT: The constitutional reasonableness of a traffic stop is not dependent on the subjective motivations of the individual officers involved. A traffic stop is considered reasonable under the Fourth Amendment where the police have probable cause to believe that a traffic violation has occurred. When addressing the constitutional validity of a traffic stop, a trial court is tasked with applying a strict objective test which asks only whether any probable cause for the traffic stop existed. Parker v. State, 5D20-673 (2/12/21) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/718453/opinion/200673_DC13_02122021_090532_i.pdf

officer's incorrect but reasonable assessment of the facts, i.e., that the window tint was illegal, does not violate the Fourth Amendment. Parker v. State, 5D20-673 (2/12/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-HABEAS CORPUS-DEATH PENALTY: Defendant is not entitled to federal habeas corpus relief from death penalty where State Court found that the failure to fully develop substantial mitigation did not establish prejudice. Federal courts may grant habeas corpus relief on a claim that was denied on the merits by a state court only where the state court's decision was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law or was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts. State court's decision must be objectively unreasonable, not merely wrong. "Even a strong case for relief does not mean the state court's contrary conclusion was unreasonable." Lee v. GDCP Warden, No. 19-11466 (11th Cir. 2/11/21)

IMMIGRATION: Court erred in dismissing charge of possession of forged document as evidence of authorized stay or employment in US. An order of supervision issued by ICE, authorizing an unlawful alien to be released from custody into the community and to remain living in the United States for an indefinite period of time (often many years) pending removal, constitutes a document showing authorized stay in the United States. USA v. Chinchilla, No. 19-10987 (11th Cir 2/11/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910987.pdf

IMMIGRATION-DRIVER'S LICENSE: An order of supervision issued by ICE enables applicants to show proof of legal presence in the United States to obtain a Florida driver's license. To obtain a Florida driver's license, an applicant must provide the Florida DHSMV documents meeting certain federally-mandated minimum issuance standards that verify his identity and legal presence in the United States, including an order of supervision. USA v. Chinchilla, No. 19-10987 (11th Cir 2/11/21)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: "[T]the use of similar—or even identical—phrases in different statutes does not mean that the phrases are synonymous." USA v. Chinchilla, No. 19-10987 (11th Cir 2/11/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910987.pdf

HEARSAY-PAST RECOLLECTION RECORDED: Nurse with no memory of her examination of a child victim of sexual abuse may testify from her report as a recorded recollection, if the report concerns a matter about which a witness once had knowledge, but now has insufficient recollection to enable the witness to testify fully and accurately, and if the witness made the report when the matter was fresh in the witness's memory. Whether the nurse read her report into evidence in narrative form, or instead testified from it in response to questions designed to extract the information contained in the report, the result would be the same: the evidence presented through the nurse's testimony is the admissible content of the report. McClusky v. State, 1D19-2263 (2/11/21)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/718325/opinion/191768_DC05_02112021_132515_i.pdf

EXPERT OPINION: The question "So does the fact there's no vaginal injury mean a sexual assault did not occur?" does not elicit expert opinion testimony. "At best, the question seems to have elicited testimony from the nurse about a fact that she may or may not have had personal knowledge of based on her extensive experience conducting sexual assault examinations. That would be a different objection, though: one going to foundation." McClusky v. State, 1D19-2263 (2/11/21)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/718325/opinion/191768_DC05_02112021_132515_i.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-GOOD FAITH: Court errs in suppressing evidence seized pursuant to a warrant which the judge later finds was improvidently issued, based on the fact that it was based on the statements of a scorned ex-girlfriend charged with battering the Defendant. Search was lawful under the good-faith exception to the exclusionary rule because the search warrant affidavit was not so deficient that it does not support even a colorable argument that probable cause exists. State v. Smith, 1D19-2263 (2/11/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant may not relitigate procedurally barred claims by couching them in terms of ineffective assistance of counsel." Mattox v. State, 1D20-1863 (2/11/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: The remedy of habeas corpus is not available in Florida to obtain the kind of collateral postconviction relief available by motion in the sentencing court pursuant to rule 3.850. Thomas v. State, 1D20-2799 (2/11/21)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/718329/opinion/202799_DA08_02112021_134115_i.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy does not bar two convictions for Battery on LEO for the separate acts of shoving an officer and then "siccing" his pit bull on the same officer. Trappman v. State, 1D19-1883 (2/10/21)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/718168/opinion/191883_DC05_02102021_141848_i.pdf

PROBATION-CONDITIONS: Court may not impose special conditions that Defendant convicted of sexual battery not reside within 1,000 feet of any school, daycare center, park, playground, or other places where children regularly congregate where the crime did not involve a minor child as the special condition was not reasonably related to rehabilitation. Rodriguez-Carmona v. State, 1D19-3670 (2/10/21)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/718170/opinion/193670_DC13_02102021_142727_i.pdf

RECORDS-EXECUTIVE CLEMENCY: Where Applicant attests that he is applying for executive clemency, the Clerk has a duty to provide the requested records free of charge and without delay. Applicant does not have to furnish the Clerk with a completed, signed copy of the clemency form provided to him by the Office of Executive Clemency before that duty is triggered. Conflict certified. Mobley v. Fussell, 1D19-4286 (2/10/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INVESTIGATORY STOP: Officers may not handcuff nervous driver after a traffic stop where he had photos of methamphetamine visible on his cell phone where there is no indication that the officers feared for their safety under the circumstances and the Defendant obeyed the officers' commands and did not indicate an intent to flee and had no weapons. But narcotics found after a canine alert would have been inevitably discovered, so the search is lawful. Key v. State, 1D20-152 (2/10/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: Because Appellant would not be immediately released, he is not entitled to habeas corpus relief where his five-year sentence was meant to run concurrently with his hundred-year sentence, and the composite term of both these sentences were to run concurrently with his ninety-nine-year sentence previously. Appellant's only remedy at this time is to seek administrative relief from DOC. Canty v. State, 1D20-380 (2/10/21)

VOP: Regardless of whether §948.06(2) applies to a defendant who committed an offense before the statute was amended, Court is limited under the statute to imposing a sentence of up to 90 days in county jail only when a defendant complies with all four conditions of the statute. Howard v. State, 1D20-992 (2/10/21)

APPEAL-STAND YOUR GROUND-STANDARD OF REVIEW: Appellate court conducts de novo review of a trial court's ultimate conclusion that the defendant did not reasonably believe that the use of force was necessary to prevent imminent death or great bodily harm. Huckelby v. State, 2D20-766 (2/10/21)
https://www.2dca.org/content/download/718006/opinion/200766_DC03_02102021_081504_i.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND-BURDEN OF PROOF: Defendant bears no burden of proof in SYG hearing. Once the defendant raises a prima facie claim of immunity, the defendant has no further evidentiary burden. Huckelby v. State, 2D20-766 (2/10/21)
https://www.2dca.org/content/download/718006/opinion/200766_DC03_02102021_081504_i.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND-WEAPON: Court erred in finding that Defendant's us of nondeadly force was not justified because he did not see the victim with a weapon or anything that looked like a weapon. Defendant's right of non-deadly self-defense did not depend upon whether the victim was armed. Huckelby v. State, 2D20-766 (2/10/21)

SINGLE HOMICIDE RULE: Defendant may be convicted of both vehicular homicide and fleeing or attempting to elude an officer causing serious bodily injury or death. Single homicide rule no longer exists. Lugard v. State, 4D19-992 (2/10/21)

SENTENCING-UPWARD DEPARTURE-DANGEROUSNESS: Fifteen year sentence for defrauding home buyers is unlawful absent a jury finding of dangerousness for Defendant with 14.5 points on his scoresheet. Only jury may find dangerousness authorizing a sentence to prison for Defendant who scores under 22 points. Donald v. State, 4D19-3461 (2/10/21)

SENTENCING-JUVENILE: Court may not commit a juvenile to a non-secure residential program without making written findings. Oral pronouncement is legally insufficient. A.B. v. State, 4D19-3873 (2/10/10)

RESENTENCING: Where Defendant's case is remanded for resentencing due to improper imposition of a Violent Career designation, Court errs by reimposing a PRR sentence without requiring the State to present evidence proving Defendant was PRR, or entertaining arguments against his PRR status. Where a sentence has been reversed or vacated, the resentencings in all criminal proceedings are de novo in nature, i.e. must proceed as an entirely new proceeding and Defendant is entitled to the full array of due process rights. Defense counsel's stipulation that Defendant qualified as PRR did not alleviate the trial court of its obligation to conduct a de novo resentencing hearing. Bruce v. State, 4D19-3877 (2/10/21)

INJUNCTION: Court may not grant an injunction for protection based on incidents that occurred before separation. Petitioner's testimony about an isolated incident from before the parties separated, absent additional evidence, is insufficient to warrant a permanent domestic violence injunction. Chiscul v. Gomez Hernandez, 4D20-287 (2/10/21)

SCORESHEET ERROR: Improper calculation on scoresheet is considered harmless if the record conclusively shows that the trial court would have imposed the same sentence using a correct scoresheet. Napper v. State, 4D20-846 (2/10/21)

ILLEGAL SENTENCE: Defendant may not challenge by R.3.800 illegal sentence in his benefit (failure to impose three year mandatory minimum). Conflict certified. Durand v. State, 4D20-1948 (2/10/21)

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT-CUSTODIAL INTERROGATION: In determining whether a person is in custody, the Court must determine whether a reasonable person would have felt he was not at liberty to end the interrogation and leave. Relevant factors include the location of the questioning, statements made during the interview, the presence or absence of physical restraints during the questioning, and the release of the interviewee at the end of the questioning. Interrogation was not custodial where the detective told Defendant, "you understand you are not under arrest, you can come and go as you want," and asked, "you're here under your own free will?" Thomas v. State, 1D20-87 (2/9/21) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/717731/opinion/200087_DC05_02092021_142324_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to call Defendant's mother as a witness during the suppression hearing. A request for one's mother to be present during questioning is not an invocation of counsel. Thomas v. State, 1D20-87 (2/9/21) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/717731/opinion/200087_DC05_02092021_142324_i.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: "As we have stated numerous times, habeas corpus is not to be used for obtaining additional appeals of issues which were raised, or should have been raised, on direct appeal or which were waived at trial or which could have, should have, or have been, raised in prior postconviction filings." Merritt v. State, 1D20-974 (2/9/21) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/717732/opinion/200974_DA08_02092021_142510_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A sentence reduction under 18 U.S.C.

§3582(c) does not constitutes a new, intervening judgment for purposes of the bar on second or successive § 2255 motions under the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act (AEDPA). A resentencing and a §3582(c)(2) sentence modification are different. Armstrong v. USA, No. 18-13041 (11th Cir. 2/5/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201813041.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-GOOD FAITH EXCEPTION: Searching officers relied in good faith on the search warrant notwithstanding that a trash-pull yielding small amounts of narcotics and no corroborating illegal activity may or may not constitute probable cause. The exclusionary rule is not a personal right but rather a prudential doctrine whose sole purpose is to deter future Fourth Amendment violations. Even if magistrate erred in finding probable cause, suppressing the evidence found during the search would do nothing to deter future police misconduct. USA v. Morales, No. 19-11934 (11th Cir. 2/5/21)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON-KNOWLEDGE: The omission of the knowledge-of-status element in the indictment for Possession of Firearm by a Felon does not invalidate the indictment. The omission of an element in an indictment does not deprive the district court of subject matter jurisdiction. A defective indictment only affects jurisdiction when it fails to allege an offense against the United States. USA v. Morales, No. 19-11934 (11th Cir. 2/5/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911934.pdf

ALLEGED: "Isaac's brief to this Court refers to D.J. as his 'alleged victim.' It is not merely an allegation. . .His sexual abuse of D.J. is not an allegation.

It is a fact." Isaac v. State, No. 19-11239 (11th Cir. 2/5/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911239.pdf

INVENTORY SEARCH: Police do not need a warrant to search an impounded car if they (1) had the authority to impound the car, and (2) followed department procedures governing inventory searches. Officer may impound a car if all reasonable efforts to provide the vehicle driver with alternatives to impoundment have been unsuccessful or impractical due to time or staffing constraint. Failure to advise the owner that he could have the vehicle towed does not invalidate the impound where it was blocking another vehicle and owner never asked about getting a tow truck. Isaac v. State, No. 19-11239 (11th Cir. 2/5/21)

SENTENCE-UNREASONABLENESS: Enhancement when the victim was in the defendant's custody, care, or supervisory control applies where defendants are temporarily entrusted with the victim even if there is no long-term relationship. Victim was in the Defendant's care when he was alone with her and was providing for her and her mother's necessities. Isaac v. State, No. 19-11239 (11th Cir. 2/5/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911239.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-ENHANCEMENT: Two separate occasions may constitute a pattern under the sentencing guidelines. Isaac v. State, No. 19-11239 (11th Cir. 2/5/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911239.pdf

SENTENCE-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: 80-year sentence was substantively reasonable where Court rejected Defendant's characterization of his sex offenses on a minor as "just a bad judgment." "Given the calculated way in which Isaac gave a hope of security to a homeless family only to rip that hope away by sexually abusing a 13-year-old girl, we can't say the district court clearly erred in finding that it does not 'get[] much worse than this.'" Isaac v. State, No. 19-11239 (11th Cir. 2/5/21)

SELF-REPRESENTATION: The likelihood that a defendant would inadequately represent himself is not a valid reason to deny an unequivocal request for self-representation. The test for permitting a defendant to represent himself is not whether the defendant is competent to represent himself effectively but whether he is competent to make a knowing and intelligent wavier. New trial is required where Court's Faretta inquiry focused on the merit of Appellant's proposed trial strategy, rather than his competence to make a knowing and intelligent waiver of his right to counsel, and where Court explicitly stated that the reason for denying Appellant's request was its perception that Defendant's trial strategy would be fatal to his case. Bova v. State, 5D19-3199 (2/5/21)

MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE-RESENTENCING: Minor convicted of murder, where verdict does not show whether he was the actual shooter, is entitled to resentencing under §775.082(1)(b)2 (review after 15 years) rather than §775.082(1)(b)1 (review after 25 years). The resentencing court violates Alleyne by conducting its own analysis to determine if it could make the requisite finding of fact (intent to kill of actually killed) required under (b)1. Resentencing pursuant to §775.082(1)(b)2 is the sole remedy on remand. Question certified as to remedy. Manago v. State, 5D632 (2/5/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: Jury sentencing determinations are not elements of a new offense of capital first-degree murder, and therefore the Defendant is not entitled to a new sentencing hearing because the jury never made findings on aggravating factors. Randolph v. State, No. 20-287 (2/5/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to postconviction relief on grounds that trial counsel conceded guilt to a lesser offense only if Defendant expressly objected. An allegation that trial counsel failed to consult with him in advance is insufficient to warrant relief. Harvey v. State, SC19-1275 (2/4/21)

CONFRONTATION CLAUSE-HEARSAY: Wounded victim's statement "The guy said I told another lady that he was screwing a girl, her daughter. I didn't," and his description of the perpetrator, made to first responders, is inadmissible under the Confrontation Clause (Crawford) Evidence that constitutes a hearsay exception is still inadmissible (here, excited utterance) if it violates the Confrontation Clause. But error is harmless. Boldridge v. State, 1D19-3153 (2/4/21)

SELECTIVE PROSECUTION: Defendant is not entitled to records related to racial breakdown of stash house robbery stings in order to try to establish a claim of racially motivated selective prosecution. USA v. Cannon, No. 16-16194 (11th Cir. 2/3/21)

MULTIPLICITOUS INDICTMENT: A multiplicitous indictment, which charges a single offense in more than one count, violates double jeopardy principles because it gives the jury numerous opportunities to convict the defendant for the same offense. Separate counts of conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act robbery and conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute cocaine is not an multiplicitous indictment under Blockberger. USA v. Cannon, No. 16-16194 (11th Cir. 2/3/21)

OUTRAGEOUS CONDUCT: The creation of a stash house robbery scheme, suggested by the CI, did not constitute outrageous government conduct in violation of the Due Process Clause. Court declines to decide whether an outrageous conduct defense exists. Merely presenting defendants with a non-unique opportunity to commit a crime, of which they are more than willing to take advantage, does not amount to outrageous government conduct. USA v. Cannon, No. 16-16194 (11th Cir. 2/3/21)

ENTRAPMENT INSTRUCTION: Entrapment has two elements: (1) government inducement of the crime and (2) the defendant's lack of predisposition to commit the crime before the inducement. Defendant must show an element of persuasion or mild coercion, i.e. in other words, opportunity plus something like excessive pressure or manipulation. Court did not err in denying Defendant's request for an entrapment instruction where he agreed without hesitation to rob the stash house and declined multiple opportunities to withdraw. USA v. Cannon, No. 16-16194 (11th Cir. 2/3/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201616194.pdf

SENTENCING ENTRAPMENT: Sentencing entrapment is the claim that a defendant, although predisposed to commit a minor or lesser offense, is entrapped into committing a greater offense subject to greater punishment. Sentencing entrapment is not a valid defense. USA v. Cannon, No. 16-16194 (11th Cir. 2/3/21)

JUROR: Court did not err is dismissing a juror who was the hairdresser of a Defendant's wife due to their business relationship. Juror saying that the relationship would not impact her ability to perform her duties does not compel a different conclusion. Despite her statement of no actual bias, the court was still required to determine if there would be implied bias due to the relationship. USA v. Cannon, No. 16-16194 (11th Cir. 2/3/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201616194.pdf

COURT REPORTER ACT: Nothing in the Court Reporter Act requires that the audio or video recordings, which are not testimony but are themselves admitted into evidence as exhibits, be transcribed by the court reporter. USA v. Cannon, No. 16-16194 (11th Cir. 2/3/21)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201616194.pdf

FIREARM DURING FELONY: Court erred by submitting to the jury the charge of use of a firearm duing comission of a crime of violence where the predicate offence--conspiracy to commit robbery--is not a crime of violence, and further erred by not instructing the jury that it could convict on alternative predicates (the cocaine conspiracy predicate was valid). But error is harmless because the two conspiracies were intertwined and coextensive. USA v. Cannon, No. 16-16194 (11th Cir. 2/3/21)

HEARSAY: Witness's statement that drug dealer told Witness to stay away from Defendant because Defendant had stolen $40,000 from the drug dealer, admitted over objection as a statement in furtherance of a conspiracy, was not hearsay because not offered to for the truth of the matter asserted but, rather, was offered to explain why witness never dealt with Defendant directly. Even if error, any error was harmless given the weight of the evidence (eight testifying co-defendants/coconspirators, abundant physical evidence, etc.). USA v. Hart, No. 20-11096 (11th Cir. 2/3/21)

RESTITUTION-ATTORNEY'S FEES: Defendant, who at the closing on a house, as the notary's back was turned, abruptly grabbed the original deed and promissory note, sprinted out the front door, drove away, and later recorded the stolen deed is liable for restitution of $18,666.50 in restitution, representing the attorney's fees actually expended in clearing the title on the real property. Rowe, adopting the federal lodestar approach for computing reasonable attorney fees does not apply to a criminal restitution award. Livingston v. State, 2D20-65 (2/3/21)

COERCION-DEFINITION: Florida case law reveals no definition for coercion. "While similar, the terms 'duress' and 'coercion' are certainly not synonymous in all respects. Otherwise, the use of both words by the Florida Supreme Court and the Florida Legislature would be redundant. While "duress" generally occurs by means of actual physical force or threatened physical force to one's person or by threats to one's property or reputation, "coercion" is "generally defined more broadly to include undue influence and other lesser forms of compulsion." Bates v. Bates, 3D19-1884 (2/3/21)

ANTI-SHOPLIFTING DEVICE: A metal hook, appended to a key ring, and a weighty magnetic device, apparently used to removeanti-theft security tag sensors, found in the possession of the shoplifter constitute a antishoplifting device countermeasure supporting a coviction for possession of an anti-shoplifting device. Martinez-Rivero v. State, 3D20-149 (2/3/21)

CONTEMPT: Court errs in finding in indirect criminal contempt attorney who ignored trial court orders, failed to attend a case management conference, conducted no discovery, and failed to comply with two mediation orders where order to show cause recited the titles of four violated court orders without setting forth any essential facts constituting the contempt. Levine v. State, 4D20-118 (2/3/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Appellate court's finding that the Defendant's Motion for Post Conviction Relief appeared to be facially valid does not preclude the trial court, upon remand, from finding that it wasn't. Himes v. State, 1D19-2432 (1/29/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED RELIEF: A newly discovered evidence claim must be supported by a properly sworn affidavit from the witness whose testimony provides the basis for the claim. Written statement by an original suspect that he, not the Defendant, was the getaway driver and the Defendant was not involved, is not admissible to support newly discovered evidence claim where the statement was notarized but not sworn, and the notary did not establish how she identified that declarant. Himes v. State, 1D19-2432 (1/29/21)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: R. 3.850(f)(2) allows a defendant a single chance to amend a facially insufficient motion, including an insufficient affidavit, if he or she can do so in good faith. Himes v. State, 1D19-2432 (1/29/21)

CONSECUTIVE SENTENCE-VIOLATION: Where Defendant was sentenced to 30 years imprisonment with ten years suspended upon completion of ten years' probation (true split sentence), the probation ran concurrently with conditional release, and where Defendant violated the probation and was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment, the sentence was not unlawful on the ground that the trial court did not designate whether those sentences would be served concurrently with or consecutively to any incarceration that would result if the DOC chose to forfeit the previously earned gain time. DOC lawfully determined that the forfeited gain time should be served consecutively. Peters v. State, 2D19-3550 (1/29/21)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Reasonable suspicion for the stop alone does not justify an arrest or search. Where the State did not present any evidence regarding what happened during the stop, did not argue that there was probable cause to arrest and search, and did not otherwise address the search that resulted in the discovery of the drugs, it failed to demonstrate that the police had probable cause to arrest Defendant or any other basis to justify a search of Brown or his personal belongings. APPEAL-MOOTNESS-PRR: A defendant's potential designation as a prison releasee reoffender is not a sufficient collateral legal consequence to preclude dismissal of the appeal as moot. Casiano v. State, No. SC19-1622 (1/28/21)

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: "Appellant improperly analyzes the State's evidence in the light most favorable to himself and asks that we do the same. However, analyzing the evidence in the light most favorable to the State, as we must, leads us to conclude that the trial court was correct in denying Appellant's motion for judgment of acquittal." JOA-INTENT: Direct evidence of intent is rare, and intent is usually proven through inference. A trial court should rarely, if ever, grant a motion for judgment of acquittal on the issue of intent. Powell v. State, 1D20-820 (1/27/21)

APPEAL: Where the postconviction court's factual findings and credibility determinations are supported by competent, substantial evidence, appellate court will defer to its findings because the postconviction court has a superior vantage point in assessing the credibility of witnesses and in making findings of fact. HEARSAY-EXPERT: While an expert may undoubtedly rely on hearsay in rendering opinions, an expert's testimony may not merely be used as a conduit for the introduction of the otherwise inadmissible evidence. Dayes v. Werner Enterprise, 3D19-920 (1/27/20)

SENTENCING: Court may not rely upon its own opinion of Defendant's mental state and the likelihood of recidivism (that Defendant has an ingrained, immutable propensity to commit pedophiliac crimes) in the face of contradictory expert opinion evidence. Court can only reject undisputed testimony from an expert when it either concerns technical evidence and is so palpably incredible, illogical, and unreasonable as to be unworthy of belief or otherwise open to doubt or when it concerns non-expert matters and is disputed by lay testimony. Court's opinion that Defendant had an "immutable" sexual disorder, absent a diagnosis by any testifying expert, cannot stand. Tindall v. State, 19-2215 (1/27/21)

APPEAL-JURISDICTION: Trial court lacks jurisdiction to enter a written order revoking probation, consistent with the oral pronouncement, after the record on appeal was transferred to the appellate court. Witham v. State, 4D20-765 (1/27/21)

COVID-MASKS: Ordinance requiring Covid masks is lawful. Requiring the general population to use face coverings does not abridge the constitutional rightto refuse medical treatment. "Plaintiffs' minimal inconvenience caused by the Mask Ordinance must be balanced against the general public's right to not be further infected with a deadly virus. It is beyond dispute that the potential injury to the public that would result from enjoining the government's ability to prevent the spread of a presently incurable, deadly, and highly communicable virus far outweighs any individual's right to simply do as they please." Machovec v. Palm Beach County, 4D20-1765 (1/27/21) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/715719/opinion/201765_DC05_01272021_102427_i.pdf

CERTIFICATE OF APPEALABILITY: Garcia v. BAIL: Defendant may not be held without bond on a new offense committed while out on bond for an earlier offense. "We are confident that if the State, on remand, asks the trial court to consider Petitioner's prior criminal record or his track record for attending court in setting reasonable conditions for pretrial release, it will offer admissible evidence regarding same." POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Case remanded for hearing where Court failed to rule on whether counsel was ineffective for failing to object to testimony about general criminal behavior testimony based upon a law enforcement officer's observations and experience in the investigation of other cases. COSTS: Before the statutory minimum public defender fee of $100 for felony cases can be imposed, the defendant must be notified of his or her right to a hearing to contest the fee. Conflict certified. Wilson v. State, 2D19-4461 (1/22/21)

STAND YOUR GROUND-FORCIBLE FELONY: Because burglary of a residence is a forcible felony, Defendant is immune from prosecution for shooting the guest who refused to leave and physically fought with the Defendant's boy friend, notwithstanding that no one was threatened with imminent death or great bodily injury. Burglary includes remaining in. Victim who batters and continues to batter Defendant's boyfriend for some appreciable length of time after the invitation into the home was withdrawn was thus commits forcible felony for purposes of SYG immunity. "We would caution trial courts. . . to remain mindful that the legislature has placed a heightened burden of proof on the State, not the defendant, for Stand Your Ground proceedings." Cummings v. JOA: To preserve an argument of the insufficiency of the evidence at trial the precise legal argument as to why the evidence is insufficient to sustain a conviction must be presented to the trial court. Harvey v. State, 5D20-166 (2/22/21)

CONTINUANCE: Court need not grant motion for continuance requested during trial because defense counsel had not met with a person whose identity had just been disclosed to counsel by a member of Appellant's family as a possible witness. To prevail on a motion for continuance to permit presentation of an additional witness, a party is required to show 1) prior due diligence in securing the witness's presence, 2) substantially favorable testimony would have been forthcoming, 3) the witness is available and willing to testify, and 4) the denial of the continuance caused material prejudice. Harvey v. State, 5D20-166 (2/22/21) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/714985/opinion/200166_DC05_01222021_084230_i.pdf

BELATED APPEAL: Defendant is entitled to a belated appeal where the order denying his motion for postconviction relief failed to include a statement that the defendant has the right to appeal within 30 days of the rendition of the order. Jackson v. State, 5D20-2487 (1/22/21)

HABEAS CORPUS: The remedy of habeas corpus is not available in Florida to obtain the kind of collateral postconviction relief available by motion in the sentencing court pursuant to rule 3.850. Habeas corpus is not to be used for obtaining additional appeals of issues which were raised, or should have been raised, on direct appeal or which were waived at trial or which could have, should have, or have been, raised in prior postconviction filings. SECOND DEGREE MURDER: Defendant who had beaten up victim before and who, on the day of the homicide had acted threateningly toward the victim (who, cornered, stabbed Defendant with something) and then retrieved a gun and shot the victim ten times in the back, is properly convicted of second degree murder. THREATENING LEO: Symbolic gestures mimicking violence and suggestions of future violence toward officers supports conviction for threatening a law enforcement officer. Statute is not overbroad. Romero v. State, 3D20-32 (1/20/21)

OVERBREADTH-FIRST AMENDMENT: In order to succeed in an overbreadth challenge, the litigant must demonstrate from the text of the statute and from actual fact that a substantial number of instances exist in which the statute cannot be applied constitutionally. Romero v. State, 3D20-32 (1/20/21)

TRUE THREATS DOCTRINE: States are free to ban speech amounting to a true threat without running afoul of the First Amendment. A statement is a true threat when a defendant intentionally makes a statement in a context or under such circumstances wherein a reasonable person would foresee that the statement would be interpreted by those to whom the maker communicates the statement as a serious expression of an intention to inflict bodily injury or take the life of an individual. Romero v. State, 3D20-32

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/714429/opinion/200032_DC02_01202021_104806_i.pdf

SCIENTER: In the context of a statute proscribing threats, proof of scienter is necessary to guard against the impermissible regulation of the lawful exercise of constitutionally protected speech. Without such proof, remarks made in jest or mere puffery, political hyperbole, or involuntary communications could conceivably subject an accused to prosecution. Romero v. State, 3D20-32 (1/20/21)

SCIENTER: It is presumed that the legislature also intends to include a guilty knowledge element in its criminal statutes, absent an express statement to the contrary. Criminal statutes are construed to include broadly applicable scienter requirements, even where the statute does not contain them. Romero v. State, 3D20-32 (1/20/21)

DEFINITION-"THREATEN": "Although 'threaten' is arguably subject to a myriad of varied and nuanced definitions. . .woven through the fabric of all. . definitions is a common thread of some element of volition, namely a communicated intent to 'inflict harm,' consistent with the body of law governing true threats. Romero v. State, 3D20-32 (1/20/21)

ACTUAL POSSESSION-MANDATORY MINIMUM-VOP: The unadorned word "possession" in the charging document is sufficient to afford Defendant notice of the potential imposition of the minimum mandatory for actual possession of a firearm. The Defendant is subject to the mandatory minimum upon violating probation, notwithstanding that at the original sentencing hearing the State waived its imposition. The word "possession," when unaccompanied by any qualifying adjective, encompasses both actual and constructive possession. Because the defendant did not specifically and timely object to reclassification based on a defect in the information, and the defect was not the omission of an essential element, he has waived the defect. Woods v. State, 3D20-254 (1/20/20)

10-20-LIFE-MANDATORY LIFE SENTENCE: Second-degree murder, punishable by imprisonment not exceeding life, is enhanced to a life felony under 10-20-life statute if Defendant uses a firearm. The statute permits but does not mandate a life sentence. Sols v. State, 19-763 (1/20/21)

NAME CHANGE: Court may not deny name change (to "Raoul Medina Sir Bey" on ground that he had multiple convictions for 1st degree felonies and it would be against public policy to permit the name change. Merely indicating that Applicant had a criminal history is not a proper basis for denying the petition. Medina v. State, 4D19-3891 (1/20/21)

SCORESHEET ERROR: Defendant is entitled to a new sentencing hearing where scoresheet showed that he was charged with aggravated white-collar crime, an offense separate and distinct from that to which he pled, resulting in his primary offense at sentencing being scored incorrectly where the record does not conclusively show that the same sentence would have been imposed using a correctly computed scoresheet. Burkeen v. State, 4D20-1646 (1/20/21)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-COMPETENCY: Where Court made oral finding of competency based on two year old reports but entered no written order, and Defendant made no objection, any error is not preserved nor fundamental. Arguments challenging a trial court's failure to enter a written order of competency must be preserved or constitute fundamental error. Parker v. State, 1D19-4028 (1/15/21)

JUVENILE SANCTION: Where the record is insufficient to support a finding that Defendant had a previous adjudication or withhold of adjudication of a forcible felony or offense involving a firearm, or had been previously placed in a residential program, Court does not violate §985.557(2) in imposing a juvenile sentence of Defendant charged as an adult. The burden is on the State as appellant to produce a sufficient record to demonstrate reversible error. State v. B.T.G., 1D20-330 (1/15/21)

CONTINUANCE: Defendant is entitled to a continuance when State amends the information to add a new charge (delivery of marijuana to a minor) which Defense was unprepared for on the day of jury selection, notwithstanding that the facts were known before. Defense counsel must be afforded an adequate opportunity to investigate and prepare any applicable defense. Davis v. State, 2D18-2613 91/15/21)

ARGUMENT: Prosecutor's closing argument alluding to gestures Defendant made at witness during her testimony and Defendant snoozing during the trial was improper but harmless given that the Defendant had been admonished, and the juror was well aware of his behavior. VOP-WILLFULNESS: Defendant did not willfully violate probation where he missed re-scheduled anger management class because he had no time to arrange child care, and where that attendance at that particular session was not required. Bell v. State, 2D19-1591 (1/15/21)

PROBATION-MODIFICATION: Court's power to modify probation does not exted to enhancing punishment by adding more community service hours. Bell v. State, 2D19-1591 (1/15/21)

JURY INSTRUCTION-KILLING ALLIGATORS: Jury instruction on killing alligators which failed to include the language"unless authorized by rules of the Fish and Wildlife Conservation" were incomplete, misleading, and confusing. Jury instructions which omit statutory phrase that was critical to the jury's understanding of the law applicable to the charges before it are improper. Allowing defense counsel to argue a theory of defense to the jury while also refusing to instruct the jury on that defense does not solve the problem of improper instructions. Court's decision to include the Administrative Code provisions in the jury instructions but also to deny Defendant's request to include the "unless authorized" language resulted in the court providing an incomplete, misleading, and manifestly confusing explanation of the law to the jurors. Nichols v. State, 2D19-1721 (1/15/20)

APPEAL-COMPETENCY: Defendant must move to withdraw plea before appealing the Court's acceptance of counsel's stipulation of competency after an evaluation had been conducted without having made an independent determination that the Defendant was competent. Ball v. State, 5D19-3536 (1/15/21)

VOP: Regardless of whether §948.06(2) applies to a defendant who committed an offense before the statute was amended, when imposing sentence for a violation of probation, a trial court is limited to modifying or continuing probation or imposing a sentence of up to ninety days in county jail only when a defendant complies with all four conditions. TEXTUALISM: "[T]here can be no doubt that 'any' was a scrivener's error and should have been "all," so we as a court have the very narrow authority to apply the statute with this correction in order to fully effectuate all of its terms." Massey v. State, 1D19-4281 (1/14/21)

ACCA-RESIDUAL CLAUSE: Defendant bears the burden that sentencing court relied on the residual clause in interpreting his kidnapping conviction as a violent felony and thus the basis for ACCA enhancement. The fact that kidnapping by inveiglement may not be violent does not remove it from the elements clause of the ACCA. Even if the residual clause were the most obvious clause under which the convictions qualified, it does not necessarily mean even by implication that the elements clause could not also have been relied on. Williams v. USA, No. 19-10308 (11th Cir. 1/13/21)

APPEAL-STANDARD OF REVIEW: Mixed questions of law and fact are questions in which the historical facts are admitted or established, the rule of law is undisputed, and the issue is whether the facts satisfy the statutory standard, or to put it another way, whether the rule of law as applied to the established facts is or is not violated. Review of a mixed question of law and fact depends on whether answering it entails primarily legal or factual work. Review is de novo.
Williams v. USA, No. 19-10308 (11th Cir. 1/13/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910308.pdf

ACCA: ACCA defines the kind of crimes that count as a "violent felony" in three ways. First, a felony may qualify as violent under the elements clause of the ACCA because it has as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person of another. Second, a felony may qualify as violent under the enumerated-offenses clause of the ACCA because it is for burglary, arson, or extortion, or involves use of explosives. Third, a felony may qualify as violent under the residual clause of the ACCA because it otherwise involves conduct that presents a serious potential risk of physical injury to another, but the residual clause is unconstitutionally vague. Williams v. USA, No. 19-10308 (11th Cir. 1/13/21)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910308.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that he declined 36 month plea offer because counsel failed to advise him that he could be convicted on the basis of the ammunition alone. Mills v. State, 1D20-798 (1/13/21)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/700608/opinion/200798_DC08_01132021_125304_i.pdf

JUROR-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATION: Jurors statement that she could understand why a defendant might not want to testify is not a race neutral reason to strike her. Alleged disinterest in voir dire, based on nonverbal conduct cannot justify a strike when it is disputed and the Court did not observe the behavior. A strike founded on nonverbal behavior cannot rest solely on a party's assertion of a good-faith basis. Rather, it must be supported by the record in a manner that allows for meaningful appellate review. Gibson v. State, 2D18-4349 (1/13/20)

COSTS: Court may not impose $50 fee for the Legal Assistance Lien for payment of attorney's fees or costs without giving notice of Defendant's right to contest the fee. Conflict certified. D.S. v. State, 2D19-800 (1/13/20)

VOP-REVOCATION: Court improperly found Defendant in violation of probation when PO testified that Defendant failed to answer door or phone at his townhouse around 5:30 a.m. in violation of probation, but Defendant's wife testified that he was walking her to the car so that she could go to work, which he always deos because of snakes. Evidence that gives rise to multiple reasonable inferences, only one of which establishes a violation, does not support a violation. Kegler v. State, 2D19-3479 (1/13/21)

APPEAL-JURISDICTION: State may not appeal Court's decision to vacate a sentence and order a new sentencing hearing based on a prior mandate, which has since been clearly overruled by intervening authority. "We decline the State's invitation to assert our appellate jurisdiction when none exists. The Florida Legislature has expressly and clearly delineated the parameters of this Court's jurisdiction to hear appeals brought by the State; we have jurisdiction to review only those orders enumerated in section 924.07(1) and rule 9.140(c)(1)." REVERSE WILLIAMS RULE: Defendant as the right to offer similar-crime evidence to show his innocence by proof of the guilt of another ("reverse Williams rule"). POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failure to procure a jury of Defendant's"contemporaries," i.e."an eclectic group of males ages 40 to 65 years old and democrats (liberals)." Defendants are not entitled to a particular jury composition. McFarlane v. State, 3D19-1855 (1/13/21)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION: Defendant may not raise on appeal claim that prosecutor's mischaracterization of DNA evidence as "ten plus non-motile sperm cells" constituted a "misguided, Machiavellian attempt [of] misdirection" where the alleged misconduct was not raised in the 3.850 motion. McFarlane v. State, 3D19-1855 (1/13/21)

EXPERT: Defendant was not entitled to receive funds from the Justice Administrative Commission to retain an expert to testify regarding the DNA evidence where Defendant asserted that the denial "was predicated on prosecutor's disingenuous allegation of 10 plus fabrication sperm cells" but Court found that the defendant's position would not be supported by any expert anywhere. VOP-VIDEO HEARINGS: Motion to certify the question whether the United States and Florida constitutions permit trial courts to conduct probation violation hearings over Zoom where Defendant and his attorney are separated, all because of COVID, is denied. Clarington v. State, 3D20-1461 (1/13/21)

DRUG TESTING-PAYMENT: Requirement that Defendant pay for drug testing is not a general condition of probation. If imposed it must be orally pronounced and if not, may not be included in the written order of probation. Metellus v. State, 4D19-1107 (1/13/21)

JUVENILE-SENTENCING: If DJJ recommends probation with an alternative recommendation for commitment to a non-secure residential program, Court is not required to make E.A.R. findings. O.L. v. State, 4D19-3411 (1/13/21)

MANDAMUS-GAIN TIME: A mandamus petition filed more than 30 days after the final disposition of a disciplinary proceeding must be dismissed. Milne v. Inch, 1D20-1201 (1/12/21)

APPEAL-FALSE REPRESENTATIONS: Sanctions may be imposed when Defendant files a petition for belated appeal including falsehoods to avoid procedural bar. That a jailhouse lawyer prepared the pleadings is an unacceptable excuse. "Petitioners should not be allowed to cavalierly lie to this court." Baca v. State, 1D19-3429 (1/11/21)

JURY INSTRUCTION-FORCIBLE FELONY: Counsel was not ineffective for failing request a jury instruction that if the jury acquits on the underlying forcible felonies, the forcible felony exception to self-defense law does not apply. Because there is no authority requiring the giving of the proposed special instruction and no evidence that the jury was confused by the standard instruction, counse;s performance was neither deficient performance or was the Defendant prejudiced.

HABEAS CORPUS: Before a petition for writ of habeas corpus may be granted, the petitioner must show by affidavit or evidence probable cause to believe that he or she is detained without lawful authority. When the petitioner provides no record or affidavits to support his allegations, he fails to set out a prima facie basis for relief. Morales v. Inch, 1D20-760 (1/11/21)

CERTIFICATE OF APPEALABILITY: To obtain a COA, Defendant must make a substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right. Where a district court has rejected the constitutional claims on the merits, the petitioner must demonstrate that reasonable jurists would find the district court's assessment of the constitutional claims debatable or wrong. A claim that is foreclosed by binding circuit precedent is not debatable. Garcia v. USA, No. 19-14374 (11th Cir. 1/8/21)

ACCA: Conspiring to possess with intent to distribute five kilograms or more of cocaine and attempting to possess with intent to distribute that amount of cocaine are unquestionably drug trafficking crimes because they are felonies punishable under the Controlled Substances Act. Garcia v. USA, No. 19-14374 (11th Cir. 1/8/21)

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: Defendant's statement during post-Miranda interrogation, "I don't got nothing to say to y'all. I don't--I don't know what's going on. I'm fucking freezing," requires interrogation to end. Defendant articulated his desire to terminate the questioning with sufficient clarity that a reasonable police officer would understand his statements to be an assertion of the right to remain silent. The fact that Tanner indicated six times that he did not want to talk is sufficient to end interrogation.

EVIDENCE: Court erred in allowing the State to call Detective for the sole purpose of creating an inference that Defendant had hidden incriminating evidence from law enforcement by failing to give them the correct code to unlock his phone where State failed to show it was the Defendant's phone. LIFE SENTENCE-JUVENILE: Resentencing court properly imposed a life sentece with review after 25 years for minor convicted in murder/robbery case. SENTENCING-CHILD PORN-ENHANCEMENT: Florida's child porn statute is a predicate offense for enhancement of federal child porn. To determine whether a defendant's prior conviction qualifies as a predicate offense for a sentencing enhancement, federal courts generally apply the "categorical approach," meaning it looks only to the elements of the statute under which the defendant was convicted and not at the facts. Court presumes that the prior conviction rested upon nothing more than the least of the acts criminalized under Florida law. USA v. Kushmaul, No. 20-10924 (11th Cir. 1/6/21)

SELF-REPRESENTATION: Defendant abandoned his request to represent himself when he expressly agreed to allow his court appointed counsel to continue to represent him,"even after he

HABITUAL OFFENDER-PRR: A trial court may impose a single sentence pursuant to both the PRR and habitual felony offender (HFO) statutes but the HFO portion of the sentence must be longer than the PRR portion of the sentence. Court may not impose a five-year PRR sentence consecutive to a seven year HFO sentence for a third degree felony, resulting in a term of twelve years for one count. The cumulative total may not exceed ten years. Flint v. State, 2D18-2742 (1/6/21)

VOP: When a defendant's probation is revoked based on an affidavit which alleges a violation with less-than-exacting precision but which nonetheless puts the defendant on notice of the misconduct of which he is accused, the deficiency is considered harmless so long as the State offers sufficient evidence that the defendant is guilty of the conduct (although not necessarily the condition) actually alleged in the affidavit. APPEAL-CERTIORARI: Certiorari review from county court cases denying motion to disqualify judge is permitted when the circuit court violated some clearly established principle of law when it denied the petitioners a writ of prohibition to the county court; and if so, whether that violation was so serious as to constitute a miscarriage of justice. The merits of the denial, when not meeting the requirements for cert, is not subject to second tier review. Certiorari is not to operate as a second appeal. Mills v. State, 1D20-18 (12/31/20)

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-OPENING THE DOOR: By introducing the 911 call in which Defendant claimed that the homicide victim had stabbed her, counsel opened the door to Defendant's otherwise suppressed admission that she had self-inflicted the knife wounds to claim self-defense. Ineffective assistance of counsel shown. New trial required. Smithey v. State, 5D19-880 (12/31/20)

CHILD PORN-JOA: Defendant is entitled to Judgment of Acquittal where State failed to present any evidence proving that Defendant had viewed child porn found on CDs which he claimed to have inherited from his father and to have never viewed. Elias v. State, 5D19-2370 (12/31/20)

HEARSAY: Testimony that the sheriff's office had received a cybertip from the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children stating that an individual with Defendant's phone number and e-mail had uploaded several images of suspected child porn is inadmissible hearsay. Where the implication from in-court testimony is that a non-testifying witness has made an out-of-court statement indicating a defendant's guilt offered to prove the defendant's guilt, the testimony is not admissible. DISCOVERY-BRADY: State commits discovery violation for failing to disclose detective's additional investigation subsequent to, and as a result of, questions asked at deposition. VOP: Defendant is entitled to a new hearing where Court proceeded on an amended affidavit which included an absconding allegation which removed Defendant from the 90 day sentencing cap for low-risk offenders. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-RECANTED TESTIMONY: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that co-defendant who testified against him had recanted and claimed that his earlier testimony was coerced. Court's conclusion that, with the exercise of due diligence, Defendant could have learned at an earlier date of the witness's intent to recant his trial testimony ois unsupported by evidence. DEPORTATION: Money laundering and workers' compensation fraud are aggravated felonies because each conviction involves fraud or deceit in which the amount of loss to the victim exceeded $10,000. ACCA-COLLATERAL CLAIM DOCTRINE: Defendant's argument, that because attempted robbery is not a crime under Alabama law and thus has no elements, and that, without any elements, his attempted robbery conviction did not meet either of the definitions of a violent felony (which requires the element of the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against a person), is nonavailing because Defendant may not collaterally attack a state conviction in federal court. The collateral attack doctrine bars claims that imply the invalidity of a state conviction. Senter v. USA, No. 18-11627 (11th Cir. 12/30/20)

FARETTA: Defendant is not entitled to a new sentencing hearing on claim that Court should have conducted a new Faretta hearing where several Faretta hearings had been conducted already. SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Stop was justified where multiple seemingly innocent factors provided the deputies with reasonable suspicion, i.e. a convenience store clerk called 911 to report what he believed was a drug deal taking place behind his building at 5:30 in the morning, it was an area known for criminal activity, an SUV was parked by the car wash but no one was washing it and the ground was dry, and the Defendant, with a bulge in his pocket, appeared nervous and seemed to be looking for a way out. Calhoun v. State, 1D19-524 (12/30/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INVESTIGATIVE STOP: For reasonable suspicion, the relevant inquiry is not whether particular conduct is innocent or guilty, but the degree of suspicion that attaches to particular types of noncriminal acts. The whole is often greater than the sum of its parts—especially when the parts are viewed in isolation and the totality-of-the-circumstances test precludes this sort of divide-and-conquer analysis. Calhoun v. State, 1D19-524 (12/30/20)

CONSENSUAL ENCOUNTER: Defendant was seized, and the events were not a consensual encounter as a matter of Fourth Amendment law at the moment the uniformed deputies confronted him in the car wash stall, with one deputy to Defendant's right, one deputy walking around behind him then standing to his left, a wall behind him , an SUV in front of him, and the deputies immediately asking what was going on and if he had any weapons. No reasonable person would feel free to ignore the deputies' questions or leave. Calhoun v. State, 1D19-524 (12/30/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-DISSENT: No generalized "bulge" exception exists in Fourth Amendment jurisprudence. "As one court has noted, 'most men do not carry purses, they, of necessity, carry innocent personal objects in their pants pockets—wallets, money clips, keys, change, credit cards, cell phones, cigarettes, and the like—objects that, given the immutable law of physics that matter occupies space, will create some sort of bulge.'" VOP: §948.06(2)(f), limiting punishment for violation of probation, excludes from its applications probationers who have more than one low-risk technical violation (here, failing to report, changing his residence without consent, and failing to successfully complete a rehabilitation program). §948.06(2)(f)1.c. applies only to probationers with a single violation of probation. "The use of the noun 'violation' along with the indefinite article 'a' before the second mention of the word 'violation' requires a reading of 'violation' as a singular noun." Schmidt v. SPEEDY TRIAL-COVID: COVID-19 suspension of speedy trial applies to the time within which State must file an amended charge, not merely the time to bring a case to trial. SEXUAL BATTERY-CONSENT: The crime of sexual battery does not include a mens rea requirement that the Defendant did not know or should not have known that the victim did not consent to sexual intercourse. Statler v. State, 1D19-264 (12/28/20)

GRAND THEFT-VALUE: A receipt showing that a stolen TVs had been purchased for $532.86 and $699.99 the year before Defendant stole them, absent testimony regarding the condition of the items at the time they were stolen, or how much they may have depreciated in value since they were purchased, is insufficient to show that they are worth more than $300. DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Mistakingly pleading twice to different terms pursuant to different plea offers does not violate double jeopardy because Defendant was not subject to multiple prosecutions, convictions, or sentences for the same offense. Kelley v. State, 2D18-525 (12/30/20)

APPEAL-CERTIORARI-LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR: State may not Court's erroneous granting of sentence review for a minor sentenced to life for murder who is eligible for parole, but may seek review by certiorari. A party seeking review through a petition for writ of certiorari must demonstrate: (1) a material injury in the proceedings that cannot be corrected on appeal (sometimes referred to as irreparable harm); and (2) a departure from the essential requirements of the law.' LIFE SENTENCE-HOMICIDE-MINOR-JURY FINDINGS: A jury must make the factual finding that he actually killed or intended to kill the victim. VOP: In appeal from order revoking probation, appellate court may not review the validity of a condition originally imposed (banishment from the county of his offense). Appellate review is limited to proceedings occurring after the entry of the probation order. For a defendant to obtain appellate review of the validity of a special condition of probation, the defendant must appeal the probation order that contains it. Wuerzel v. State, 3D20-1348 (12/23/20)

ACCA-QUALIFYING OFFENSES-SALE OF COCAINE: Pursuant to the ACCA, a defendant convicted under 18 U.S.C. § 922(g) is subject to a mandatory minimum 15-year prison term if he has three prior convictions for a "violent felony" or a "serious drug offense." Three sale of cocaine convictions qualify as "controlled substance offense[s]" under U.S.S.G. § 4B1.2(b) A prior conviction for sale of cocaine under Fla. Stat. § 893.13 qualifies as a serious drug offense under § 924(e)(2)(A)(ii) of the ACCA. USA v. Smith, No. 19-12686 (11th Cir. 12/21/21)

DEPORTATION-VEHICULAR HOMICIDE: Vehicular homicide in Florida is a crime of moral turpitude, requiring removal for lawful permanent resident alien (Jamaican) who had had another crime of moral turpitude before. Moral turpitude may inhere in criminally reckless conduct which includes when a defendant consciously disregards a substantial risk of serious harm or death to another. The mens rea required to sustain a conviction for vehicular homicide-- recklessness--amounts to more than simple negligence, but less than culpable negligence, which is required to sustain a conviction for manslaughter. Smith v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 19-12622 (11th Cir. 12/18/20 MORAL TURPITUDE: "Moral turpitude" involves an act of baseness, vileness, or depravity in the private and social duties which a man owes to his fellow men, or to society in general, contrary to the accepted and customary rule of right and duty between man and man. Smith v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 19-12622 (11th Cir. 12/18/20

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for not calling an alibi witness. Defendant's response during trial to Judge's question that he agreed with his attorney that he would call no witness does not defeat the claim. Even if his claim of failure to call the alibi witness at trial was refuted by the colloquy on the record, his claim of failure to investigate is not. Morales v. State, 1D19-4016 (12/18/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A court hearing a post conviction motion is not required to accept a movant's self-serving testimony about a matter simply because trial counsel cannot specifically recall the transaction and testifies about a standard practice. Court may disbelieve the defendant's testimony and may consider a trial attorney's general practice as evidence when making a factual finding about specific conversations between the attorney and client. APPEAL-JURISDICTION: Appellate Court lacks jurisdiction to appeal the voluntariness of his plea where Defendant failed to file a motion to withdraw his plea in the trial court. Sanchez v. State, 5D19-3774 (12/18/20)

SCORESHEET-COULD HAVE/WOULD HAVE BEEN TEST: Where Defendant's case was remanded for resentencing based on the vacation of the convictions in one of the Defendant's cases, with a resulting lower scoresheet, the Defendant is not entitled to re-sentencing based on scoresheet error. In general, when the vacation of a conviction would result in changes to the defendant's scoresheet, the defendant is entitled to be resentenced using a corrected scoresheet and applied the would-have-been-imposed standard, but the could-have-been imposed standard applies when vacated convictions were in a separate case. "The critical distinction in this case. . . is that [Defendant's] vacated convictions occurred in a separate case and did not become part of the same postconviction record. Thus, there is no error on the face of the record demonstrating an entitlement to resentencing. See Fla. R. Crim. P. 3.800(a)(1)." Joseph v. State, 5D20-1627 (12/18/20)

MANSLAUGHTER BY CULPABLE NEGLIGENCE-EVIDENCE: Medical expert may testify that "blows" caused the death of a 19-month old child who suffered blunt head trauma during a 40 minute ride in a car driven by the Defendant, notwithstanding that Defendant was not charged with murder. The standard to be used in all cases where the sufficiency of the evidence is analyzed is whether, after all conflicts in the evidence and all reasonable inferences therefrom have been resolved in favor of the verdict on appeal, there is substantial, competent evidence to support the verdict and the judgment. STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is not entitled to a new immunity hearing where his immunity hearing took place before the effective date of the amendment to section 776.032. Drossos v. State, 2D17-280 (12/16/20)

WITHHOLD OF ADJUDICATION: Court may not withhold adjudication where Defendant had a prior withholding of adjudication for a felony offense, but not where the Defendant had prior convictions. The question of whether the court is prohibited from withholding adjudication hinges on the number of the defendant's prior withholdings of adjudication, not the defendant's prior charges or convictions. Justice v. State, 2D19-4874 (12/16/20)

MOTION TO MITIGATE: Motion to mitigate is untimely if filed more than sixty days after the sentencing but fewer than sixty days from the mandate from his unsuccessful motion for post-conviction release, rather than from a direct appeal following entry of his plea. Walker v. State, 3D20-1562 (12/16/20)

APPEAL: "We again remind the trial courts, 'that the routine language in its order[s] that the defendant has the right to appeal th[e] denial of a rule 3.800(c) motion is incorrect and should be eliminated. There is no right of appeal of those orders.'" Walker v. State, 3D20-1562 (12/16/20)

NELSON HEARING: A Nelson hearing is not required at a sentencing hearing where a defendant's complaints about his attorney occurred before sentencing and related to past ineffectiveness. Because Nelson was designed as a prophylactic measure and because the alleged ineffectiveness did not arise from defense counsel's current representation, Defendant's statements at sentencing were untimely and warranted neither a Nelson inquiry nor a full hearing. Holland v. State, 4D19-1365 (12/16/20)

BENCH CONFERENCE: Defendant is not entitled to be present at a bench conference dealing with purely legal matters, including whether defense counsel should be allowed to allow the Defendant to testify by pure narrative rather than by specific questions. Sanders v. State, 4D19-1974 (12/16/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is not entitled to a new SYG hearing because his renewed motion to dismiss was pending after the effective date of the statutory burden of proof. Hart v. State, 4D19-2483 (12/16/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Although the trial court erroneously placed the burden on the defendant in the SYG hearing, the fact that the jury found the Defendant guilty beyond all reasonable doubt, conclusively defeats any self-defense claim. Conflict certified. Hart v. State, 4D19-2483 (12/16/20)

SPOLIATION OF EVIDENCE: Officer did not cause spoliation of evidence depriving Defendant of a fair trial by mishandled the gun by using the same pair of gloves to handle both the exterior of the gun and the magazine and bullets, allowing the State to claim that this transferred the victim's DNA from the outside of the gun to the inside, providing an explanation for the presence of the victim's DNA on the magazine and bullet, which would somehow be exculpatory (Defendant's argument was that he killed his wife with a sledgehammer after she first attacked him with the gun and then a kitchen knife. Lopez Barrios v. State, 4D19-2569 (12/16/20)

WITHHOLD OF ADJUDICATION: No adjudication of guilt shall be withheld for a third degree felony offense if the defendant two or more prior withholdings of adjudication for a felony that did not arise from the same transaction as the current felony offense. If Defendant had two withholds from one previous case, he is not eligible for a third. In sum, the statute prescribes a limit of two withholds in the aggregate unless those withholds are a part of the first and only transaction. State v. Charlton, 4D20-276 (12/16/20)

TEXTUALISM: "Though we might loathe a formulation which limits our ability to judge and reward the desire for rehabilitation in those who have regrettably committed crimes, our lodestar is the text enacted by the Florida Legislature, and our true task is to interpret such text, not to find it wanting, but to make it clear." HABEAS CORPUS-AEDPA: The Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act (AEDPA) restricts the power of federal courts to grant writs of habeas corpus based on claims that were adjudicated on the merits by a state court. A prisoner must show far more than that the state court's decision was merely wrong or even clear error. The prisoner must show that the state court's decision is so obviously wrong that its error lies beyond any possibility for fairminded disagreement. Where Defendant claimed that trial counsel was ineffective for failing to investigate mitigating circumstances for death penalty phase (Defendant had been highly uncooperative) and trial counsel after a post-conviction hearing found that counsel was neither ineffective nor would additional mitigating evidence have influenced the sentencing decision, the Court's decision was not contrary to, nor involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law. VOP: Stopping for three-and-a-half minutes in the parking lot of a strip mall near a small private elementary school does not constitute a violation of probation condition that Defendant not visit a school. Further, "Condition 32 does not prohibit a probationer from knowingly being in the vicinity of a school or even being in a location from which the probationer can see children while they are attending school (or are in a park or a playground). . .there was no outside area (such as a playground) adjacent to the school where children might go. VOP: Probation may not be revoked based on a violation of a condition that is ambiguous or vague. Any ambiguity in a condition imposed at sentencing will affect the state's ability at a later date to establish a willful violation of that condition. Garcia-Rodriguez v. State, 2D19-2962 (12/11/20)

PROBATION-CONDITION-DRIVING LOG: Defendant with diminished cognitive capacity is not in violation for failing to completely fill out driving log. RETURN OF PROPERTY-JURISDICTION: Once petition for injunction has been dismissed, Court has no lawful authority to decide any further substantive matters. Court had no authority to order person who sought return of guns seized ex parte pursuant to a petition for protection against stalking, later dismissed, to appear for a hearing on his motion. "All of which leads us to the inescapable deduction that the court was ordering this evidentiary hearing not to facilitate the return of Mr. Wolfe's seized firearms, but to decide whether there was some independent reason Mr. Wolfe's firearms ought not to be returned to him. That was not a decision the circuit court could make." Wolfe v. Newton, 2D20-1994 (12/11/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-EXCUSABLE/JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE: Excusable/justifiable homicide instruction does not describe and element of the offense, but is instead in the nature of a defense for purposes of an attempted second degree murder charge. Failure to give the instruction is not fundamental error, notwithstanding that the Defendant's defense–shooting was accidental–fits the omitted instruction. Mohammed v. State, 5D19-1341 (12/11/20)

LIFE FELONY: Fifty-year prison sentence for attempted first-degree murder with a firearm is illegal, even if Defendant agreed to it as part of her plea because it exceeds the statutory maximum for a life felony. Due to a statutory anomaly, a person convicted of a life felony on or after October 1, 1983, but before July 1, 1995, was punishable "by a term of imprisonment for life or by a term of imprisonment not exceeding 40 years," even though a defendant convicted of a first-degree felony punishable by life could receive a sentence exceeding forty years. LIMITATION OF ACTIONS: A prosecution for a rape (US Code of Military Justice), as a crime punishable by death, may be commenced at any time, notwithstanding that the death penalty for rape is unconstitutional. "Punishable by death" is a term of art. USA v. Briggs, No. 19–108 (11th Cir. 12/10/20)

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: In order to mount a successful collateral attack on his sentence, Defendant must prove (1) that the sentencing court relied solely on the ACCA's residual clause to apply the ACCA enhancement to his sentence, and (2) that absent the residual clause, his sentence cannot stand. It is not enough to establish that the district court could have relied on either the residual clause or another clause; rather, the movant must show that the district court relied only on the residual clause. Santos v. USA, No. 17-14291 (11th Cir 12/10/20)

ACCA-BATTERY: Simple battery in Florida does not categorically qualify under the elements clause of ACCA as a "crime of violence" because it can be accomplished by mere touching. Santos v. USA, No. 17-14291 (11th Cir 12/10/20)

BATTERY: Court declines to decide whether battery in Florida is divisible two ways (touch or strike/cause bodily harm) or three ways (touch/strike/cause bodily harm). Santos v. USA, No. 17-14291 (11th Cir 12/10/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201714291.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Because the same-elements test controls whether dual convictions violate the prohibition against double jeopardy, dual convictions for driving under the influence causing serious bodily injury and driving with license suspended causing serious bodily injury are not prohibited. Dual convictions for DUI with serious injury and DWLS with serious injury are not prohibited under the Blockburger same-elements test or any statutory exceptions. Dual convictions for these offenses do not violate the constitutional prohibition against double jeopardy. State v. Marsh, SC18-1108 (12/10/20)

SINGLE HOMICIDE RULE: The single homicide rule is no longer applicable under Florida law. The Single Homicide Rule does not preclude separate convictions of vehicular homicide and fleeing and eluding causing serious injury or death that involve the same victim. State v. Maisonet-Maldonado, SC19-1947 (12/10/20)

EVIDENCE-STATE OF MIND: Witness who overheard Defendant and victim of sexual discussing "having intercourse and oral" in a phone conversation is not admissible to the victim's state of mind at the time of the relevant sexual encounter. Holloway v. State, 1D19-2865 (12/10/20)

SOVEREIGN CITIZEN: Defendant's sovereign citizen argument, that he had trademarked and incorporated his name, thereby separating himself from the "the living breathing human being" being prosecuted and thus depriving the court of personal jurisdiction over him, has no basis in the law, and parties that make it are in danger of court sanctions. Barber v. Bay County Sheriff, 1D19-3952 (12/10/20)

FIRST STEP ACT: A federal drug crime involving both crack cocaine and another controlled substance (here, powder cocaine) can be a "covered offense" as that term is defined in the First Step Act, authorizing a sentence reduction. Where Defendant, convicted of offenses involving more than 1.5 kilograms of crack cocaine or 150 kilograms of powder cocaine, is properly sentenced to 30 years imprisonment. Trafficking in crack is a covered offense and trafficking in powder cocaine is not, but the First Step Act's definition of a "covered offense covers a multidrug conspiracy offense that includes both a crack-cocaine element and another drug-quantity element. USA v. Taylor, No. 19-12872 (11th Cir 12/9/20)

FIRST STEP ACT-HEARING: The First Step Act does not authorize the district court to conduct a plenary or de novo resentencing, or even require the district court to hold a hearing at all before deciding whether and to what extent to reduce Defendant's sentence. DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Question Certified: Given the requirements of §316.062(1), florida statutes, does conviction on multiple counts under §316.027(2) stemming from a single crash involving multiple victims, expose a defendant to multiple punishments for one offense in violation of the Double-Jeopardy protections of the U.S. constitution? STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is not entitled to a new immunity hearing on the ground that the Court applied the wrong burden of proof because his immunity hearing occurred before the amended statute's effective date. Martin v. State, 2D16-4468 (12/9/20) https://www.2dca.org/content/download/693709/opinion/164468_DC05_12092020_090623_i.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-POSSESSION-FIREARM: Defendant is entitled to a special jury instruction defining the terms actual and constructive possession where the jury was required to find that actual possession of the firearm in order for the mandatory minimum to apply. EVIDENCE-INAUDIBLE RECORDING: Court may not exclude entire controlled call with the victim on the ground that parts of it are inaudible. Partial inaudibility or unintelligibility is not a ground for excluding a recording if the audible parts are relevant, authenticated, and otherwise properly admissible. State v. Marin, 3D19-2179 (12/9/20) https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/693729/opinion/192179_DC13_12092020_101803_i.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-VOP: A defendant who, pursuant to a probationary split sentence, serves time in state prison, is released on probation, violates that probation, and is thereafter resentenced to prison, is entitled to credit for the time he previously served in state prison. Court must determine 1) whether defendant is entitled to credit for time previously served in State prison; 2) if so, the number of days defendant served in State prison as part of the incarcerative portion of his probationary split sentence prior to being placed on probation; 3) whether the trial court, at the time of his sentencing following his probation violation hearing, properly directed the Department of Corrections to calculate and credit defendant for time previously served in State prison; and 4) whether defendant waived his right to any or all of the credit for time previously served in State prison. Brady v. State, 3D20-1431 (12/9/20)

MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE-RESENTENCING: Court may resentence minor to life in prison with review under §921.1401 for a crime committed in 1977 because Defendant affirmatively requested sentencing under the new review statute. Morgan v. State, 4D18-1866 (12/9/20)

ARGUMENT: Prosecutor's immoderate criticism of various appellate rulings is improper but not reversible. Judges are well able to disregard such remarks and adhere to the requirements of law. Morgan v. State, 4D18-1866 (12/9/20)

JURY-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-PRESERVATION: Conviction affirmed where record leaves the reviewing court unable to conclusively identify the racial make-up of the venire, prior strikes exercised against the racial group of the challenged juror, or whether the reason proffered for the strike—the juror's purported belief that marijuana should be legalized—was equally applicable to unchallenged jurors. The record is inscrutable in part because the two-member defense team talked over one another and the failed to identify how many and which venirepersons shared or opposed the challenged juror's belief in legalization. "In the end, this case serves as a good reminder that the. . .attorneys must always keep a keen eye on and an appreciation for the record that is being made in real time. . .[T]he preparation of a 'clean' and understandable record is essential as it is the backbone of the appellate process." El v State, 4D19-938 (12/9/20) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/693738/opinion/190938_DC05_12092020_100025_i.pdf

MINOR-HOMICIDE-RESENTENCING: Minor sentenced to three consecutive sentences for murder (Wendy's restaurant robbery and murders) is entitled to a judicial review after 25 years not after 75 years. SCORESHEET-PRIOR RECORD: Where Defendant is sentenced under the the habitual felony offender statute, and not the Criminal Punishment Code, any errors in the prior record section of the scoresheet are legally irrelevant and harmless as a matter of law. Garcia v. State, 4D19-2208 (12/9/20) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/693740/opinion/192208_DC05_12092020_100339_i.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR-HOMICIDE: In Graham/Miller resentencing, Court must consider scoresheet in deciding sentence. Regardless of whether the sentence is being imposed following a trial, entry of a plea, or pursuant to a resentencing proceeding, an accurate scoresheet must be prepared to inform and guide the court in making its sentencing decision. Sentencing a defendant without the consideration of a scoresheet is fundamental error.

SENTENCE REVIEW-MINOR: A juvenile who commits a nonhomicide offense that is a life felony or is punishable by a term of imprisonment for life or by a term of years not exceeding life imprisonment (here, masked armed robbery with a firearm) is entitled to review after 20 years, not after 25 years. VOP: Stopping for three-and-a-half minutes in the parking lot of a strip mall near a small private elementary school does not constitute a violation of probation condition that Defendant not visit a school. Further, "Condition 32 does not prohibit a probationer from knowingly being in the vicinity of a school or even being in a location from which the probationer can see children while they are attending school (or are in a park or a playground). . .there was no outside area (such as a playground) adjacent to the school where children might go. is not in violation for failing to completely fill out driving log. It is not necessary to have Garcia

INJUNCTION-DOMESTIC VIOLENCE: Incident of domestic violence over one year ago and ongoing paternity litigation do not warrant an injunction for protection. Merely being involved in court proceedings, even if contentious, is not sufficient to establish a reasonable fear of imminent harm. Incidents remote in time by as little as a year are insufficient to support entry of a new injunction, absent allegations of current violence or imminent danger. Magloire v. Obrenovic, 2D20-145 (12/11/20)

INJUNCTION-DOMESTIC VIOLENCE: Paramours who never resided together do not qualify for a domestic violence injunction under §741.28(3). Magloire v. Obrenovic, 2D20-145 (12/11/20)

https://www.2dca.org/content/download/694189/opinion/200145_DC13_12112020_091928_i.pdf

RETURN OF PROPERTY-JURISDICTION: Once petition for injunction has been dismissed, Court has no lawful authority to decide any further substantive matters. Court had no authority to order person who sought return of guns seized ex parte pursuant to a petition for protection against stalking, later dismissed, to appear for a hearing on his motion. "All of which leads us to the inescapable deduction that the court was ordering this evidentiary hearing not to facilitate the return of Mr. Wolfe's seized firearms, but to decide whether there was some independent reason Mr. Wolfe's firearms ought not to be returned to him. That was not a decision the circuit court could make."

INJUNCTION-STALKING: Court lacks legal authority to require Respondent to a petition for injunction against stalking to surrender firearms on an ex parte basis, but only upon a final stalking injunction. Wolfe v. Newton, 2D20-1994 (12/11/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-EXCUSABLE/JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE: Excusable/justifiable homicide instruction does not describe and element of the offense, but is instead in the nature of a defense for purposes of an attempted second degree murder charge. Failure to give the instruction is not fundamental error, notwithstanding that the Defendant's defense–shooting was accidental–fits the omitted instruction. Mohammed v. State, 5D19-1341 (12/11/20)

LIFE FELONY: Fifty-year prison sentence for attempted first-degree murder with a firearm is illegal, even if Defendant agreed to it as part of her plea because it exceeds the statutory maximum for a life felony. Due to a statutory anomaly, a person convicted of a life felony on or after October 1, 1983, but before July 1, 1995, was punishable "by a term of imprisonment for life or by a term of imprisonment not exceeding 40 years," even though a defendant convicted of a first-degree felony punishable by life could receive a sentence exceeding forty years. Grosvenor v. State, 5D20-1913 (12/11/20)

LIMITATION OF ACTIONS: A prosecution for a rape (US Code of Military Justice), as a crime punishable by death, may be commenced at any time, notwithstanding that the death penalty for rape is unconstitutional. "Punishable by death" is a term of art. USA v. Briggs, No. 19–108 (11th Cir. 12/10/20)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/20pdf/19-108_8njq.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: In order to mount a successful collateral attack on his sentence, Defendant must prove (1) that the sentencing court relied solely on the ACCA's residual clause to apply the ACCA enhancement to his sentence, and (2) that absent the residual clause, his sentence cannot stand. It is not enough to establish that the district court could have relied on either the residual clause or another clause; rather, the movant must show that the district court relied only on the residual clause. Santos v. USA, No. 17-14291 (11th Cir 12/10/20)

ACCA-BATTERY: Simple battery in Florida does not categorically qualify under the elements clause of ACCA as a "crime of violence" because it can be accomplished by mere touching. Santos v. USA, No. 17-14291 (11th Cir 12/10/20)

BATTERY: Court declines to decide whether battery in Florida is divisible two ways (touch or strike/cause bodily harm) or three ways (touch/strike/cause bodily harm). Santos v. USA, No. 17-14291 (11th Cir 12/10/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201714291.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Because the same-elements test controls whether dual convictions violate the prohibition against double jeopardy, dual convictions for driving under the influence causing serious bodily injury and driving with license suspended causing serious bodily injury are not prohibited. Dual convictions for DUI with serious injury and DWLS with serious injury are not prohibited under the Blockburger same-elements test or any statutory exceptions. Dual convictions for these offenses do not violate the constitutional prohibition against double jeopardy. State v. Marsh, SC18-1108 (12/10/20)

SINGLE HOMICIDE RULE: The single homicide rule is no longer applicable

under Florida law. The Single Homicide Rule does not preclude separate convictions of vehicular homicide and fleeing and eluding causing serious injury or death that involve the same victim.

STARE DECISIS: "We conclude that section 775.021 supersedes our decisions establishing the single homicide rule and that our decision holding otherwise. . .was wrongly decided." State v. Maisonet-Maldonado, SC19-1947 (12/10/20)

EVIDENCE-STATE OF MIND: Witness who overheard Defendant and victim of sexual discussing "having intercourse and oral" in a phone conversation is not admissible to the victim's state of mind at the time of the relevant sexual encounter. Holloway v. State, 1D19-2865 (12/10/20)

SOVEREIGN CITIZEN: Defendant's sovereign citizen argument, that he had trademarked and incorporated his name, thereby separating himself from the "the living breathing human being" being prosecuted and thus depriving the court of personal jurisdiction over him, has no basis in the law, and parties that make it are in danger of court sanctions. Barber v. Bay County Sheriff, 1D19-3952 (12/10/20)

TIMESHARING: Court may not give the mother 60% of timesharing, to automatically change to 50/50 when the child enters kindergarten two years later. Courts may not engage in a prospective based analysis' when modifying a time-sharing schedule that attempts to anticipate what the future best interests of a child will be.

CHILD SUPPORT: A court calculating child support can first deduct from the parent's gross income the amount of court-ordered support actually spent on other children, but may not reduce the father's gross income for hypothetical child support of other children living with him. However, Court had discretion to make any other adjustment that is needed to achieve an equitable result.
Robbins v. Kern, 1D20-1310 (12/10/20)

FIRST STEP ACT: A federal drug crime involving both crack cocaine and another controlled substance (here, powder cocaine) can be a "covered offense" as that term is defined in the First Step Act, authorizing a sentence reduction. Where Defendant, convicted of offenses involving more than 1.5 kilograms of crack cocaine or 150 kilograms of powder cocaine, is properly sentenced to 30 years imprisonment. Trafficking in crack is a covered offense and trafficking in powder cocaine is not, but the First Step Act's definition of a "covered offense covers a multidrug conspiracy offense that includes both a crack-cocaine element and another drug-quantity element.

FIRST STEP ACT-HEARING: The First Step Act does not authorize the district court to conduct a plenary or de novo resentencing, or even require the district court to hold a hearing at all before deciding whether and to what extent to reduce Defednant's sentence. DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Question Certified: Given the requirements of §316.062(1), florida statutes, does conviction on multiple counts under §316.027(2) stemming from a single crash involving multiple victims, expose a defendant to multiple punishments for one offense in violation of the Double-Jeopardy protections of the U.S. constitution? Johnson v. State, 1D19-1374 (12/9/20)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-VOP: A defendant who, pursuant to a probationary split sentence, serves time in state prison, is released on probation, violates that probation, and is thereafter resentenced to prison, is entitled to credit for the time he previously served in state prison. Court must determine 1) whether defendant is entitled to credit for time previously served in State prison; 2) if so, the number of days defendant served in State prison as part of the incarcerative portion of his probationary split sentence prior to being placed on probation; 3) whether the trial court, at the time of his sentencing following his probation violation hearing, properly directed the Department of Corrections to calculate and credit defendant for time previously served in State prison; and 4) whether defendant waived his right to any or all of the credit for time previously served in State prison. MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE-RESENTENCING: Court may resentence minor to life in prison with review under §921.1401 for a crime committed in 1977 because Defendant affirmatively requested sentencing under the new review statute. Morgan v. State, 4D18-1866 (12/9/20)

JURY-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-PRESERVATION: Conviction affirmed where record leaves the reviewing court unable to conclusively identify the racial make-up of the venire, prior strikes exercised against the racial group of the challenged juror, or whether the reason proffered for the strike—the juror's purported belief that marijuana should be legalized—was equally applicable to unchallenged jurors. The record is inscrutable in part because the two-member defense team talked over one another and the failed to identify how many and which venirepersons shared or opposed the challenged juror's belief in legalization. "In the end, this case serves as a good reminder that the. . .attorneys must always keep a keen eye on and an appreciation for the record that is being made in real time. . .[T]he preparation of a 'clean' and understandable record is essential as it is the backbone of the appellate process." SCORESHEET-PRIOR RECORD: Where Defendant is sentenced under the the habitual felony offender statute, and not the Criminal Punishment Code, any errors in the prior record section of the scoresheet are legally irrelevant and harmless as a matter of law. Garcia v. State, 4D19-2208 (12/9/20)

EQUITABLE DISTRIBUTION-RE-FINANCING: Court has the authority to order a party to refinance a home and remove the other party from the mortgage, but the final judgment must direct a result if that party is unable, or simply fails, to refinance the home. Failure to include such a directive is reversible error.

PARENTING COORDINATOR: Court may not refer the parties to a parenting coordinator, without the consent of both parties, if there has been a history of domestic violence. Former Husband had history of domestic violence. Court was required to obtain the Former Wife's consent before granting Former Husband's request for a parenting coordinator. Karkhoff v. LIFE INSURANCE: Court may order life insurance to protect an award of alimony, but must make specific evidentiary findings regarding the availability and cost of insurance, the obligor's ability to pay, and the special circumstances that so warrant. Karkhoff v. Robilotta, 4D19-2947 (12/9/20)

LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR-HOMICIDE: In Graham/Miller resentencing, Court must consider scoresheet in deciding sentence. Regardless of whether the sentence is being imposed following a trial, entry of a plea, or pursuant to a resentencing proceeding, an accurate scoresheet must be prepared to inform and guide the court in making its sentencing decision. Sentencing a defendant without the consideration of a scoresheet is fundamental error. Fain v. State, 4D19-3138 (12/9/20)

CORRUPTLY ENDEAVORING TO OBSTRUCT: The IRS's collection activity qualifies as a "particular administrative proceeding" such that Defendant is properly convicted of corruptly endeavoring to obstruct the administration of the internal revenue laws upon using a fraudulent international bill of exchange to pay off his back taxes. USA v. Graham, 18-15299 (11th Cir. 12/4/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201815299.pdf

HEARSAY-PRESERVATION: Any objection to Court's ruling that a witness who had helped Defendant obtain fake international bills of exchange believed that the international bills of exchange were valid forms of payment is inadmissible is not properly preserved. What witness knew and thought had no bearing on Defendant's own intent, particularly given that no evidence was ever offered to show that the witness expressed these thoughts to Defendant. "Had Graham drawn any connection between how Walker's subjective belief impacted him, the result may have been different. But absent that, we cannot say that the district court erred here." USA v. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-OTHER BAD ACTS: Defendant is entitled to a new trial based on ineffective assistance of counsel for Lewd and Lascivious molestation where the information charged fondling and the State, without objection, admitted a video-recording of the Victim talking about an act of oral sex as well. Botto v. State, 5D19-2790 (12/4/20)

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-APPEAL: In order to be preserved for further review by a higher court, the grounds for JOA must be presented to the lower court and the specific legal argument or ground to be argued on appeal must be part of that presentation if it is to be considered preserved. Hughley v. State, 5D19-3330 (12/4/20)

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Defendant properly found to be in constructive possession of methamphetamine found directly beneath his wallet in a dresser drawer at his girl friend's home where he had been staying, when in a jail call he said he he had thrown out or buried some of her meth in the backyard. An inference of knowledge and dominion and control may arise where the contraband located in jointly occupied premises is found in or about other personal property which is shown to be owned or controlled by the defendant. Shawl v. State, 5D20-619 (12/4/20)

SPEEDY TRIAL: The issue of whether the Court may require Defendant to withdraw his Speedy Trial Demand or having a late-disclosed witness excluded is not preserved without appropriate objection or proffered testimony of the witness. Shawl v. State, 5D20-619 (12/4/20)

PLEA AGREEMENT: Defendant is entitled to an evidentiary hearing on claim that his plea agreement was violated where Defendant admitted

SCORPIONS IN A BOTTLE: While the dissental's spicy rhetoric doesn't enhance its argument—but rather pretty severely diminishes it, to my mind—it does, I fear, corrode the collegiality that has historically characterized this great Court. SCORPIONS IN A BOTTLE: "I am truly sorry that Chief Judge Pryor and Judge Newsom seem to have taken my concerns personally. I do not believe this dissent to be personal. GREAT INTRO: "The Postal Service is as old as the United States, and during the past two and-a-half centuries more than a million Americans have honorably served this country through it. Among the more notable ones are Benjamin Franklin who was the first Postmaster General, and Abraham Lincoln who as a young man was postmaster in the village of New Salem, Illinois. Franklin and Lincoln did not betray the trust placed in them. The same cannot be said of Latecia Watkins." USA v. Watkins, No. 18-14336 (11th Cir. 12/3/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE--INEVITABLE DISCOVERY: Where officers would have conducted a knock and talk ending in consent, regardless of whether tracking package in the Defendant's home was lawful, entry into the home was lawful. When there is a reasonable probability that the evidence discovered by a violation of the Fourth Amendment would have turned up anyway, the violation is harmless and in that circumstance the public interest in having juries receive all probative evidence of a crime outweighs the need to discourage police misconduct. USA v. Watkins, No. 18-14336 (11th Cir. 12/3/20)

VOIR DIRE-HYPOTHETICAL QUESTION: Trial court did not err in barring defense counsel from posing hypothetical question whether the death penalty is always appropriate for premeditated murder abuse of discretion where counsel was afforded other ways to get to the point. DEATH PENALTY-EXECUTION: Challenge to the mode of imposition of the death penalty (Petitioner wants a firing squad) may not be raised under 42 U.S.C. §1983. Because Defendant's requested relief would prevent the State from executing him, implying the invalidity of his death sentence, it is not cognizable under §1983 and must be brought in a habeas petition. POSSESSION OF FIREARM-DOMESTIC VIOLENCE: A Defendant who does not know he is a domestic-violence misdemeanant cannot be guilty of unlawful possession of a firearm for that cause. A person knows he is a domestic-violence misdemeanant, for Rehaif purposes, if he knows: (1) that he was convicted of a misdemeanor crime, (2) that to be convicted of that crime, he must have engaged in at least the slightest offensive touching, and (3) that the victim was a former spouse, parent, or guardian of the victim. INDICTMENT: Indictments must contain all the elements of the offense charged. Indictment which failed to allege that he knew he was a domestic-violence misdemeanant when he possessed the firearm is fatally defective and plain error, notithstanding that it tracked the statutory language and did include an allegation that he had been convicted of domestic violence. But no plain error, so conviction stands. USA v. Johnson, No. 19-10915 (11th Cir. 12/2/20)

EVIDENCE-BIAS: In sexual battery case, Court improperly excluded the testimony of the Victim's sister/Defendant's girl friend that the victim's false accusation against the Defendant was revenge for the witness having caused the victim's former husband to be deported. Defendant is entitled to introduce evidence intended to prove the victim had a reason to be biased against her sister and, by proxy, against him—in other words, the admission of otherwise extraneous facts suggesting a motive to testify falsely as opposed to the admission of specific acts committed by the witness suggesting that she lacks credibility. "The State's contention that the testimony of the victim's sister would have been too speculative to be admissible is not persuasive. Objective certitude cannot logically be required for a jury to perceive an accuser's potential bias as cause for reasonable doubt." Alvarado v. Contreras, 2D18-2283 (12/2/20)

RE-SENTENCING: On appellate remand, the resentencing court may not relying on evidence admitted at the original sentencing hearing to support its finding that Defendant qualifies as an HFO. Once a defendant successfully challenges his sentence on appeal and the cause is remanded for resentencing, the resentencing is a de novo proceeding, at which either side may present evidence anew. HABEAS CORPUS: The circuit court of the county in which a defendant is incarcerated has jurisdiction to consider a petition for writ of habeas corpus when the claims raised in the petition concern issues regarding incarceration, but not when the claims attack the validity of the judgment or sentence. Only the court in which the defendant was convicted and sentenced has jurisdiction to consider collateral attacks on a judgment or sentence, and such an attack must be brought pursuant to Rule 3.800 or 3.850, not by petition for writ of habeas corpus. DNA: Combined Probability of Inclusion (CPI) to calculate statistical probabilities in complex mixture DNA cases is improper. Where CPI was not used in Defendant's case (DNA paternity test showed he was the father of a child born to an underage mother), he is not entitled to relief from the judgment. Cabellero v. MEDICAL RECORDS-SUBPOENA: State may not subpoena medical records after a high speed fatal crash where police reports show no alcohol or drug impairment. Not every reckless driving incident creates a compelling state interest to obtain toxicology records. There must be some reasonable founded suspicion that alcohol or drugs were involved, such as someone smelling alcohol, drug or alcohol containers in the vehicle, or statements or evidence which might suggest drug use or alcohol intoxication. COMPUTER ACCESS-CONDITION OF SUPERVISION: Defendant convicted of attempting to persuade a minor to engage in sexual activity may be prohibited from using a computer except for work and with the permission of the district court. Court may impose a computer restriction as a special condition of supervised release, even if the term of supervised release is life. Packingham is distinguishable because it restricted sex offenders even after they had completed their sentences; applied to all registered sex offenders, not only those who had used a computer or some other means of electronic communication to commit their offenses; and is not a complete bar to the exercise of his First Amendment rights because it allows Defendant to obtain court permission to use a computer in connection with employment. JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: Defendant may not argue circumstantial evidence/reasonable hypothesis of innocence argument for JOA on appeal where his argument below was that evidence did not show his active participation in drive by shooting. FACTUALLY INCONSISTENT VERDICT: Two Defendants can be convicted for the same murder in a drive-by shooting. Factually inconsistent are permitted in Florida. Also, Defendant can be convicted as principal, even though not so charged in the information. A defendant need not be

USE IMMUNITY: Defendant's compelled (subpoenaed) testimony entitled him only to use and derivative use immunity, not absolute or equitable immunity from prosecution. State's promise that he would not get in trouble as long as he told the truth did not confer equitable, absolute, or transactional immunity from prosecution. State may proceed with murder prosecution because it showed that it had evidence independently procured implicating Defendant. Palazzi v. State, 1D20-1164 (11/30/20)

IMMUNITY: A witness granted transactional immunity may have absolute immunity from prosecution for the matter about which the testimony was elicited, but use immunity is more limited and prevents only the compelled testimony from the witness from being used against the witness in a criminal prosecution. COVID-RELIGION: State executive order which limits church services to 10/25 people in COVID red zones is enjoined pending full appellate review, as it infringes on the free exercise of religion and arbitrarily distinguishes between religious organizations and certain businesses considered essential, such as acupuncturists, liquor stores, bicycle repair shops, and lawyers. RICO CONSPIRACY: RICO conspiracy does not qualify as a crime of violence under §924(c) (enhancement for use of firearm dui]ring a crime of violence). "So as with a conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act robbery, the elements of a RICO conspiracy focus on the agreement to commit a crime, which does not 'necessitate[] the existence of a threat or attempt to use force.'" https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201710346.op2.pdf

SENTENCE-SUBSTANTIVELY UNREASONABLE: 120-year sentence is substantively unreasonable where the top of the recommended guidelines range was 262 months and was based on the Court's erroneous inference, contradicted by cell phone pinging evidence, that the Defendant had participated in a homicide in the course of his RICO crime. USA v. Green, No. 17-10346 (11th Cir. 11/25/20)

SENTENCE-PROCEDURALLY UNREASONABLE: A sentence can be procedurally unreasonable if the district court improperly calculated the guideline range, failed to consider the 18 U.S.C. §3553(a) factors, failed to adequately explain the sentence, or selected a sentence based on clearly erroneous facts. USA v. Green, No. 17-10346 (11th Cir. 11/25/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ABANDONED PROPERTY: Cell phone seized in an unrelated traffic stop and held for four years is abandoned because Defendant never tried to get the phone returned to him. Because Defendant abandoned his interest in the phone, there was no Fourth Amendment violation. Acquisition of historical cell-site records is a search under the Fourth Amendment, but evidence obtained in violation of the Fourth Amendment is not always subject to exclusion. The good-faith exception to the exclusionary rule applies. USA v. Green, No. 17-10346 (11th Cir. 11/25/20)

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE: Court properly denied Defendant's attempt to peremptorily strike a juror after the jury was empaneled following the defendants' agreement for one of the attorneys to jointly exercise the challenges for all of them and that attorney had accepted the panel. USA v. Green, No. 17-10346 (11th Cir. 11/25/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-WARRANT-BUSINESS RECORDS: A person lacks a reasonable expectation of privacy in information he has voluntarily disclosed to a third party (the third party doctrine). The third-party doctrine applies, so the government does not need a warrant to obtain a third party's business records (identity, internet protocol address, and E-mail address of child porn distributor who used Kik and Comcast). USA v. Trader, No. 17-15611 (11th Cir. 11/25/20)

SENTENCING-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: Life sentence for enticing a minor to engage in sexual activity, along with concurrent sentences of 240 and 360 months producing and distributing child porn (numerous images of Defendant sexually abusing his preteen/toddler daughters and over 100 other victims), where recommended guidelines sentence is life imprisonment, is substantively reasonable. Defendant's family ties and unspecified contributions to the community do not render the sentence unreasonable. Defendant's argument that the child pornography guidelines are excessive compared to those for first-degree murder is an "apples-to-oranges comparison [that] makes no sense." USA v. Trader, No.

DEATH PENALTY: Legislative expansion of grounds for imposition of the death penalty does not render it unconstitutional. Florida's capital felony sentencing statute is not unconstitutional merely because every person who is convicted of first-degree felony murder automatically qualifies for the aggravating circumstance of commission during the course of an enumerated felony. Colley v. State, SC18-2014 (11/25/20)

APPEAL-ALL WRITS: A death sentence that was vacated by the postconviction court cannot be retroactively reinstated if the State never appealed the final order granting relief, the resentencing has not yet taken place, and this Court has since receded from the decisional law on which the sentence was vacated (Hurst). State may not prevail on an "all writs" petition when an appeal was not filed. "[T]he State erroneously assumes that a postconviction proceeding is a step in the criminal prosecution and that a resentencing proceeding is a continuation of a postconviction proceeding. Our caselaw says otherwise." Jackson v. State, SC20-257 (11/25/20) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/691145/opinion/sc20-257.pdf

ALL WRITS: Art. CHANGE IN LAW: Intervening decisional law cannot be used to reinstate a vacated sentence, even when the change in decisional law invalidates the very ground on which the sentence was vacated. DEATH PENALTY-CHANGE IN LAW: Vacated death sentence may not be reinstated on ground that subsequent case law (Poole) took away the legal basis for the vacatur of that sentence and because the sentence would have been constitutional under the correct rule later announced. "What matters is the finality of our judgment vacating Okafor's death sentence. . .[T]hat judgment became final when our mandate issued, and we have no authority to revisit that judgment now." State v. Okafor, SC20-323 (11/25/20)

PRINCIPAL: Defendant cannot be found guilty as a principal to the murder of her husband when she conspired with her boyfriend to drown him in a lake while fishing but was not present when the botched drowning that turned into a shooting took place. Conspiracy conviction, unlike her husband, survived. The key components of a second-degree principal are presence and contemporaneity. Accessory and principal distinguished. Consideration of ways to kill Victim, development of an alibi, and agreeing to encourage Victim to go hunting with the killer do not constitute commanding or impelling the killer to commit the murder or assisting at the time the killing happened. Williams v. State, 1D19-498 (11/25/20)

ELECTION BETWEEN CHARGES: State is not required to choose between mutually exclusive counts of the indictment (principal to first-degree murder or accessory after the fact to first-degree murder) It is error to deny a timely motion to require the State to elect between two counts generally, but "we have found no cases applying this rule to cases involving murder and accessory after the fact or, for that matter, to any non-theft-related crimes." Error, if any, would be harmless where Defendant was only convicted of the former. Williams v. State, 1D19-498 (11/25/20)

HABEAS PETITION-REPRESENTED APPELLANT: A habeas petition will be dismissed as unauthorized when it is clear that the petitioner is represented by counsel in the proceeding below and is not seeking to discharge counsel in that proceeding. Wainwright v. State, 1D20-1119

JUROR: Court erred in failing to remove a juror during the trial, after that juror belatedly disclosed his relationship with one of the victims (a "good friend," "[w]e talk, like when I see him we talk a lot. We joke around. We're more than just a little bit of friends but we're not like real close friends." New trial required."Defendant's failure to move for a mistrial does not preclude him from seeking review of the trial court's refusal to remove the alternate juror. Feagin v. State, 2D18-3002 (11/25/20)

WITNESS-INVOKING FIFTH AMENDMENT: It is improper for the State to call a witness who is closely identified with the defendant (here, his mother), to testify before the jury when the State knows that the witness will invoke her Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination and refuse to testify. State's argument that witness had no legitimate right to invoke the Fifth Amendment because she had no reasonable apprehension that she would incriminate herself misses the mark. Whether or not the witness properly invoked her Fifth Amendment right does not control whether the trial court errs in requiring the witness to invoke that right in front of the jury. "State had to know that forcing the mother to invoke her Fifth Amendment right in front of the jury would lead the jury to the inescapable conclusion that she had evidence that incriminated her son. . .Thus, the State was able to 'incriminate' the defendant. . .not with evidence, but with inferences drawn from a refusal to provide evidence." Ashley v. State, 3D19-628 (11/25/20)

CONTEMPT: Court erred in holding witness who refused to testify in direct criminal contempt; the proper procedure is one for direct civil contempt.

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Judge's questioning of mental health experts during competency hearing does not constitute a departure from its neutral position. Trial judges are permitted to question expert witnesses in competency proceedings. Bodden v. State, 3D20-1139 (11/25/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION: Failure to give a heat of passion jury instruction in attempted second degree murder case is not fundamental error. Jackson v. State, 4D19-3241 (11/25/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-HEALTH CARE FRAUD: Statute prohibiting kickbacks for pushing prescriptions does not require proof of the defendant's motivation for accepting the payment. Neither the instruction given (that Defendant/Doctor violated the statute prohibiting kickbacks for pushing expensive and unnecessary compound prescriptions if one reason he accepted the kickbacks was in return for writing the prescriptions, nor Defendant's proposed instruction (the government was required to prove that his main or only reason for accepting the payment was in return for writing prescriptions) is correct. Error is harmless. USA v. Shah, No. 19-12319 (11th Cir. 11/24/20)

GRAMMAR: The words "in return for" are an adjectival prepositional phrase. USA v. Shah, No. 19-12319 (11th Cir. 11/24/20) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201912319.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Intercepted drug shipments mailed to Defendant's home establish probable cause for warrant to look for records of drug dealing. USA v. Delgado, No. 19-11997 (11th Cir. 11/23/20) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911997.pdf

SENTENCING-RELEVANT CONDUCT: Defendant who received two drug packages, one of which was charged in the indictment, is responsible for the combined weight in both packages as relevant conduct in calculating the guidelines. Since the district court did not convict Defendant of importing the analogue substance in the first package but only considered the package's contents during sentencing, the Government need not prove that Defendant knew that the substance was illegal. USA v. Delgado, No. 19-11997 (11th Cir. 11/23/20) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911997.pdf

FIREARM ENHANCEMENT: Where Defendant imported narcotics, and firearms and silencers are recovered from his home, the §2D1.1(b)(1) enhancement applies, notwithstanding Defendant's argument that he is a gun collector. Defendant is subject to enhancement and ineligible for safety valve. USA v. Delgado, No. 19-11997 (11th Cir. 11/23/20) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911997.pdf

REMOVAL: Defendant convicted of attempted alien smuggling (a misdemeanor) is subject to removal because the offense is an aggravated felony, notwithstanding that is it a misdemeanor. As of January 12, 2017, Cuban nationals are subject to removal. Gonzalez v. USA, No. 19-11182 (11th Cir. 11/20/20) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911182.pdf

REMOVAL: Defendant who claims that counsel was ineffective for misadvising him that he was not subject to deportation must raise the claim promptly after the possibility of immigration consequences became imminent, or at least when he learns he had been misadvised, not when removal proceedings begin. A defendant seeking to avoid the collateral consequences of a conviction cannot postpone seeking relief until it appears that a collateral consequence is imminent. The fact that the policy change to remove Cubans did not take place until January 2017 does not justify the delay. Gonzalez v. USA, No. 19-11182 (11th Cir. 11/20/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911182.pdf

WRIT OF ERROR CORAM NOBIS: The writ of error coram nobis is an extraordinary remedy of last resort available only in compelling circumstances where necessary to achieve justice. The writ makes relief available to a petitioner who has served his sentence and is no longer in custody. To obtain coram nobis relief, a petitioner must present sound reasons for failing to seek relief earlier. A coram nobis petitioner need not challenge his conviction at the earliest opportunity, but he must have sound reasons for not doing so. Gonzalez v. USA, No. 19-11182 (11th Cir. 11/20/20)

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court may use its discretion to deny a downward departure from the sentencing guideline due to the need for under §21.0026(2)(d) (specialized treatment for a mental disorder and/or unsophisticated manner/isolated incident/remorse). A Defendant may appeal an order denying a motion for a downward departure sentence, including sentences that are unlawful but not completely illegal. Wilson v. State, 1D19-2363 (11/20/20)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/690275/opinion/192363_DA08_11202020_142958_i.pdf

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: First, the trial court must determine whether there is a valid, statutory, legal ground to depart, and whether the defendant has proven that ground by a preponderance of the evidence. If so, the court must then make a discretionary decision under the totality of circumstances on whether it should depart. Wilson v. State, 1D19-2363 (11/20/20) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/690275/opinion/192363_DA08_11202020_142958_i.pdf

APPEAL: Appellate review for orders denying downward departure sentences is not available where Court understood it had discretion. Conflict certified with Second, Fourth, and Fifth District Courts. Wilson v. State, 1D19-2363 (11/20/20) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/690275/opinion/192363_DA08_11202020_142958_i.pdf

SENTENCE REDUCTION: Court erred reducing the sentence imposed on Defendant after viciously attacking the victim in his home after the victim had misled the Defendant on Tinder that he was a woman and the Court concluded that the Victim thereby provoked the attack. The grounds were neither legally valid nor supported by competent substantial evidence. The victim was entirely peaceful and engaged in no aggressive or willful acts whatsoever. Rush v. State, 1D19-3577 (11/20/20) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/690278/opinion/193577_DC13_11202020_143700_i.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT: Where it is a magistrate who is first presented with an affidavit requesting the issuance of a search warrant, the magistrate's duty is to examine solely the "four corners" of the affidavit—and, from there, simply to make a practical, common sense decision whether, given all the circumstances before him, there is a fair probability that contraband or evidence of a crime will be found in a particular place. Affidavits for search warrants are not to be scrutinized for technical niceties. Once a magistrate specifically finds probable cause and thereafter issues a search warrant, that finding is accorded a presumption of correctness and is not to be disturbed by the later-reviewing trial court absent a clear determination that the issuing magistrate abused his or her discretion. The trial court does not conduct a de novo review. Court misapplied the law by not giving the requisite great deference to each magistrate's original finding of probable cause. State v. Hart, 5D19-3390 (11/20/20)

https://www.5dca.org/content/download/690102/opinion/193390_DC13_11202020_080714_i.pdf

APPEAL-HABEAS CORPUS: Defendant is not entitled to appeal by habeas corpus where he was convicted by a plea to sexual battery involving a defendant over the age of eighteen, although he was clearly under the age of eighteen at the time of the offense. Defendant must raise the issue under R. 3.850. Collito v. State, 5D20-1766 (11/20/20)
https://www.5dca.org/content/download/690104/opinion/201766_DC02_11202020_081054_i.pdf

PSR-DRUG QUANTITY: Defendant may be held responsibility for quantities of drugs based on hearsay by a co-defendant which the court deems reliable. Hearsay evidence can support a sentencing decision provided that the information has sufficient indicia of reliability to support its probable accuracy. USA v. Johnson, No. 17-15259 (11th Cir. 11/19/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201715259.pdf

OBSTRUCTION: Defendant who said, "When I get discovery and find out who snitched on me, I'm going to bash their heads in," transmitted discovery in violation of the court's order and threatened a co-defendant supports a finding of obstruction. The fact that his threat was not communicated directly to its target is not dispositive. USA v. Johnson, No. 17-15259 (11th Cir. 11/19/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201715259.pdf

ACCEPTANCE OF RESPONSIBILITY: Defendant who gets a two-level enhancement for obstruction of justice may be denied a third level reduction for acceptance of responsibility despite having pled guilty, or at least failure to award it is not plain error. History of acceptance of responsibility sentence reduction discussed. The Government may decline to make a §3E1.1(b) motion based on any interest identified in §3E1.1, regardless of whether that interest is identified. USA v. Johnson, No. 17-15259 (11th Cir. 11/19/20)

SUBSTANTIVELY UNREASONABLE SENTENCE: Sentence of 51-months is not substantively unreasonable when near the bottom of the recommended range, notwithstanding being harsher than those of co-defendants with dissimilar circumstances. USA v. Johnson, No. 17-15259 (11th Cir. 11/19/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201715259.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-PROPORTIONALITY REVIEW: Comparative proportionality of death sentences no longer exists because it is contrary to the conformity clause of the Florida Constitution. Craft v. State, No. SC19-953 (FLA 11/19/20)

https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/689525/opinion/sc19-953.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-MITIGATION: The fact that the Court failed to consider in mitigation that the Defendant had saved a fellow inmate's life does not create a reasonable possibility that sentence would not still be imposed.

HEARSAY: Court properly excluded the third-party confession to the murder by a now deceased suspect under the statement against penal interest exception to the hearsay rule because there was no evidence to corroborated it nor its trustworthiness. Nor does Chambers v. Mississippi warrants its admission because the supposed confession was made in private and more than a month after the murder. Smith v. State, 1D 19-2817 (11/18/20)

LIFE SENTENCE-HOMICIDE-JUVENILE: Where Court stated on the record that it reviewed and considered §921.1401(2)'s factors, the appellate court will take the court at its word on this point, notwithstanding that it failed to articulate all the factors. Smith v. State, 1D 19-2817 (11/18/20)

ARGUMENT: "Well, the defendant cannot run today, and he cannot hide today from what he did. . . That cloak of innocence that he came in here wearing piece by piece, rip by rip has been ripped away from him," is not improper where, at least as here, where the prosecutor linked the comment to specific evidence. Smith v. State, 1D 19-2817 (11/18/20)

BAIL: Court properly denied bail to a Defendant charged with second-degree murder with a weapon upon finding that the proof of guilt is evident or the presumption is great, i.e. the evidence is manifest, plain, clear, obvious, and conclusive, based on the arrest report affidavit in the recording of the killing. Williamson v. State, 1D20-2849 (11/18/20)

SPEEDY TRIAL: Where Defendant is arrested on an out of county warrant, held there until his local VOP was resolved, then brought to the county of the substantive offence, all without an information having been filed, Defendant is entitled to discharge without the necessity of filing a Notice of Expiration. State is not entitled to recapture period. The speedy trial time begins to run when an accused is taken into custody and continues to run even if the State does not act until after the expiration of that speedy trial period. The State may not file charges based on the same conduct after the speedy trial period has expired. and is not entitled to any recapture period. Ortiz-Lopez v. State, 2D18-4910 (11/18/20)

SPECIAL CONDITION OF PROBATION-ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT: Court erred in imposing a special condition of probation requiring him to pay for urinalysis testing with the condition was not orally pronounced. Imposed a special probation condition requiring him to pay for urinalysis testing. Metellus v. State, 4D19-1107 (11/18/20)

VOP: Court improperly found Defendant to have violated probation for committing criminal mischief where Victim did not discover that her vase had been broken until after the Defendant chased her into the house and beat her with a door stopper. Malice cnnot be inferred. The doctrine of transferred intent cannot support a conviction for criminal mischief. Maximum sentence based on the other offenses is lawful. Quinn v. PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: PRR sentences may be run consecutively or concurrently. Moore v. State, 4D19-2941 (11/18/20)

ARGUMENT: "[Defense counsel] told [you] that the State had to prove that the defendant intentionally committed this act. I would say to you that that is a deliberate misstatement of the law. . .Intent is not an element of this crime." Although sexual battery is not a specific intent crime, it is a general intent crime. Thus, the state's rebuttal argument that "[i]ntent is not an element of this crime" was a misstatement of the law. Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that defense counsel was ineffective for failing to object. Olenchak v. State, 4D19-3007 (11/18/20)

CELL PHONE TRACKING-RETROACTIVITY: Carpenter (warrant required for cell phone tracking data) does not apply retroactively in postconviction relief proceedings. Johnson v. State, 4D20-792 (11/18/20)

SEARCH WARRANT-GPS DATA: Individuals lack a reasonable expectation of privacy in the records of their movements recorded by their vehicle's GPS system. Defendant has no expectation of privacy on a GPS device that on a car which was owned by a finance company, and therefore law enforcement was not required to obtain a search warrant or subpoena for the GPS/tracking tower information. Bailey v. State, 1D18-4514 (11/16/20)

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIMES: When a child victim cannot specify the dates on which the abuse occurred, it is permissible for the State to charge in a single count that a specific type of sexual abuse occurred on multiple occasions during a range of dates. State did not violate order in limine excluding uncharged crimes against the victim where the sexual abuse of the child occurred over a specified period of time, was committed in different ways and when the victim was of different ages particularly where the Defendant did not challenge the information via a proper motion, as contemplated by Dell'Orfano. Evidence was inextricably intertwined with the crime charged, so it was not Williams rule evidence. McMillian v. State, 1D 19-291 (11/16/20)

WITNESS NOT TESTIFYING: References made during opening statements to Williams Rule witness who subsequently does not appear at trial constitutes harmless error where there was no indication that the prosecutor acted in bad faith and the witness's statements were introduced through other witnesses and were tangential or irrelevant. Riley v. State, 1D19-804 (11/16/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to resentencing after it is discovered that an inaccurate scoresheet (stale convictions included his prior offenses from more than 10 years before) was used initially. The would-havebeen-imposed standard, which requires an examination of the record for conclusive proof that the scoresheet error did not affect or contribute to the sentencing decision, applies. Blackwell v. State, 1D19-3575 (11/16/20)

WITHDRAWAL OF PLEA: Defendant is not entitled to withdraw his plea on the ground that he did not realize that he could fire his attorney. Nelson does not apply to privately retain counsel. Studemire v. State, 1D20-947 (11/16/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-FARETTA: While a pretrial hearing is preferred, it is merely a means to the end, and the failure to hold a Faretta hearing is not error as a matter of law. If the trial record shows that a defendant knowingly and voluntarily elected to represent himself, the Faretta standard will be satisfied. Tuomi v. State, No. 17-14373 (11th Cir. 11/13/20) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201714373.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-ACCA: Court erred in failing to address Defendant's argument that his attempted robbery conviction does not count as a violent felony for Armed Career Criminal Act enhancement because attempted robbery is not a crime under Alabama law and thus has no elements, and misconstruing his argument as an attack on the underlying conviction. When a habeas petitioner presents a claim in clear and simple language such that the district court may not misunderstand it, it must address and resolve the claim. Remanded for reconsideration.

JOA-VENUE-TWO WAY COMMUNICATIONS DEVICE: Venue is improper for use of a two-way communications device where Defendant made a call from parts unknown to an insurance company claiming injuries from an accident in DeSoto County. Venue need not be raised pretrial. The fact that the car accident occurred in DeSoto County and that he sought medical care at a hospital in DeSoto County in no way proves by a preponderance of the evidence that he used a cell phone while in DeSoto County to facilitate insurance fraud. Berry v. State, 2D19-2340 (11/13/20) https://www.2dca.org/content/download/688208/opinion/192340_DC08_11132020_075127_i.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Because Defendant's pretrial Stand Your Ground hearing took place on March 1, 2016, prior to the 2017 effective date of the modified Stand Your Ground statute, he is not entitled to another such hearing. Fuller v. State, 5D16-2646 (11/13/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court erred in entering an order denying the Defendant's motion for post conviction relief attaching various records, but none which refute the Defendant's allegations, i.e., the transcript of Defendant's plea hearing.

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: In order to allege a facially sufficient claim of ineffective assistance of counsel for failing to depose witnesses, a defendant must state with particularity the identity of the witnesses, the substance of the expected testimony, and explain how the omission of this evidence prejudiced the outcome of the case. Thomas v. State, 5D20-209 (11/13/20)

PHOTO LINE UP: An out-of-court identification violates due process if the police employed an unnecessarily suggestive procedure in obtaining an out-ofcourt identification and if the totality of the circumstances show that the suggestive procedure gives rise to a substantial likelihood of irreparable misidentification. Defendant's suggestion that the test should be modified to account for the array of factors outside the criminal justice system's control that studies have shown contribute to misidentifications. The photo line up was not unduly suggestive because of the solid black bar over his and one other photo. A lineup of clones is not required. Valentine v. State, 4D19-1448 (11/12/20)

PHOTO LINE UP: Florida law does not require double-blind administration of lineups, but only that there be an independent administrator, i.e. a person who is not participating in the investigation of a criminal offense and is unaware of which person in the lineup is the suspect. Valentine v. State, 4D19-1448 (11/12/20)

EVIDENCE-PRIOR CONSISTENT STATEMENT: Where defense counsel cross-examined witness on his failure to include the defendant's facial tattoos in his description to law enforcement, then asked whether he had seen anything about the case in the news since then, the questions imply recent fabrication, opening the door to rehabilitative testimony about his deposition testimony. ESCAPE: A juvenile, who after being ordered into secure detention during a court hearing, and while waiting to be removed from the courtroom while other cases proceed, says "F this s" and absconds from the courtroom, can be found guilty of escape from a juvenile facility. V.R.J. v. State, 4D29-414 (11/12/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-DOG SNIFF: Using a drug dog to sniff the passenger of a vehicle during a traffic stop based on a reasonable and articulable suspicion the passenger possesses drugs, where the sniff itself is not based on a warrant or probable cause is lawful. Defendant's argument fails that after the search of the car revealed no contraband, probable cause to search further was dispelled. "The mere chance that the substance might no longer be at the location does not matter; a well-trained dog's alert establishes a fair probability—all that is required for probable cause—that either drugs or evidence of a drug crime. . .will be found." Tedford v. State, 4D19-2184 (11/12/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: A single touch of a dog's nose on Defendant's pocket does not unlawfully infringe his Fourth Amendment interests (freedom not to be touched) and is reasonable and not intrusive. Tedford v. State, 4D19-2184 (11/12/20)

JUROR: Court properly dismissed juror who adamantly and repeatedly insisted that the entire system was flawed and prejudiced against all people of any color ("But for the last three years, I feel that this country discriminate [sic] a lot against Hispanics, Blacks, anybody who's brown. I don't feel good about the law in this country, not right now. . . That with the American in the White House, we feel very –. . .I used to be very proud to be here, but not anymore."), notwithstanding that she never directly said she could not be fair and impartial, and without permitting counsel to inquire. Sears v. State, 4D19-1977 (11/12/20)

COMMENT ON SILENCE: State did not improperly comment on the Defendant's right to remain silent where upon arrest he said he had been home all day and at trial, testified that the sexual battery was consensual, because he gave a statement after his arrest. "While the State cannot use a defendant's post-arrest silence, the defendant did not exercise that right." Walding v. State, 4D19-1900 (11/12/20)

EVIDENCE: Evidence that the Defendant had a gun and suicide note at his home is admissible as conscientiousness of guilt, notwithstanding that questioning about firearms during voir dire was omitted based on the assumption and discussion that guns were irrelevant. DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Where Minor/Defendant is re-sentenced on multiple counts pursuant to Graham, Court violates Double Jeopardy by re-sentencing him on those counts for which he had already fully served the sentences originally imposed. Where a sentence has already been served, even if it is an illegal sentence, the court lacks jurisdiction violates the Double Jeopardy Clause by resentencing the defendant to an increased sentence. Taylor v. State, 4D19-950 (11/12/20)

COMPETENCY: Upon a violation of probation, Defendant cannot assert that the original sentence was improper because Defendant said that he had a history of mental illness but said that, and the Court found, he was competent as the time of the plea. Bailey v. State, 4D18-1668 (11/12/20)

RESTITUTION: Court may not order restitution in an amount that exceeds what the child and the parent or guardian can reasonably be expected to pay. Although a child need not have a present ability to pay restitution, the court must make a finding as to the juvenile's expected earning capacityprior to setting an amount for restitution. B.W. v. State, 19-1524 (11/12/20) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/687937/opinion/191524_DC13_11122020_094735_i.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Court may not impose $200 costs of prosecution. B.W. v. State, 19-1524 (11/12/20) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/687937/opinion/191524_DC13_11122020_094735_i.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Court's error in applying the correct burden at the immunity hearing can be cured if the State establishes the defendant's guilt at trial by proof beyond a reasonable doubt. Scheel v. State, 1D19-4131 (11/6/20)

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE-INVITED ERROR: Flight is not a crime, so a defendant's flight in itself is insufficient to support a charge of resisting without violence. Because counsel for Defendant conceded Defendant's guilt as to the resisting charge in closing argument and did not move for a JOA, he invited error and is not entitled to vacate the resisting charge on appeal. Lachman v. State, 2D19-685 (11/6/20)

TERMINATION/MODIFICATION OF PROBATION: §948.03 permits a trial court to rescind or modify at any time the terms and conditions of probation. Fla.R.Cr.P. 3.800 does not limit the time period for modification. Ballow v. State, 5D20-267 (11/6/20)

MANIFEST INJUSTICE: Where Defendant was sentenced as a PRR without ever having been physically sent to prison, and whose request for conflict with Lewars was denied, it is a manifest injustice for PRR sentence to be imposed once Supreme Court ruled that such a sentence was unlawful. "Because Petitioner asked for certification of conflict with Lewars, it would be manifestly unjust under the circumstances to deny Petitioner the same relief as was afforded the defendant in Lewars." Williams v. State, 1D19-783 (11/4/20)

REPUTATION FOR DISHONESTY: Defendant is not entitled to impeach witness on her reputation for dishonesty based only on her deposition testimony without any other predicate, including testimony that the reputation represented a sufficiently broad segment of the community. PRESERVATION-EVIDENCE-PRIOR CONVICTIONS: A defendant may engage in anticipatory rehabilitation of his character and present impeaching evidence on direct examination. Whether the Defendant is permitted to bring out the nature of his prior convictions was not preserved because he did not obtain a clear ruling on his objection to the exclusion of testimony about the prior convictions, nor did he proffer evidence. VERDICT-UNANIMITY: Verdict is unanimous notwithstanding that State argued that any of three acts constituted a battery where the prosecutor in this case did not affirmatively tell the jury that it may convict Defendant of any of three separate acts of battery and explained the event as one continuous episode where three acts of touching occurred. Charles v. State, 2D18-517 (11/4/20)

SINGLE HOMICIDE RULE: Defendant may not be convicted of both first degree murder and vehicular homicide for killing victim in a car crash while fleeing from police after committing a crime. INCONSISTENT VERDICT: True inconsistent verdicts are those in which an acquittal on one count negates a necessary element for conviction on another count. Where jury found the Defendant guilty of aggravated battery and made the factual finding that appellant did not have possession of a firearm or discharge a firearm, and the State's case, the charging document, the trial testimony, and the jury instructions proceeded only on the theory that appellant injured the victim using a firearm, verdict is truly inconsistent. OCTOBER 2020

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-COMMON LAW DEFENSE: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to request a common law defense instruction (that a defendant who admits being engaged in unlawful activity may nonetheless act in self-defense without retreating) because the facts do not establish self-defense during the living room drug deal shooting. Woods v. State, 1D19-3787 (10/30/20)

SENTENCING-VINDICTIVENESS: Where there is a reasonable likelihood that the harsher sentence resulted from the sentencing judge's actual vindictiveness, a presumption that the sentence is vindictive arises. The trial court must not initiate a plea dialogue. Court's comments that if Defendant "play[ed] with" him, he would get a harsher sentence establishes vindictiveness. Ryan v. State, 2D18-1338 (10/30/20)

PRESCRIPTION DEFENSE: Counsel was ineffective for failing to request a jury instruction on the prescription defense where Defendant told the officer that the pills belonged to her grandmother. Holding a controlled substance as an agent for a person who had a prescription is an affirmative defense to the possession charges. A prescription defense instruction is necessary where there is evidence that the defendant was holding a controlled substance as the]agent of another individual to whom it was prescribed. SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Search warrant including"[y]our Affiant viewed the photo and it was determined that it did in fact depict child pornography" failed to establish probable cause. First, it contained nothing to support the detective's conclusory assertion that the photo at issue qualified as child pornography. Second, it did not establish that the Detective had any training or expertise in identifying child pornography. Goesel v. State, 2D19-2730 (10/23/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Failure to attach a copy of the transcript from the plea colloquy is insufficient to establish voluntariness of plea. Henry v. State, 5D20-794 (10/30/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was ineffective for failing to object to court instructing the jury on attempted felony murder and not attempted first-degree murder, notwithstanding that he the State proceeded to trial on the latter theory of attempted felony murder. Because Counsel did not object to the State's change in theory or the jury instructions, appellate counsel could be deemed ineffective for failing to challenge these issues in the direct appeal only if they constituted fundamental error. When the jury is instructed on an alternate theory of the charged crime, but that alternate theory was not charged in the information, it is fundamental error if it is clear that the jury returned a verdict on that uncharged theory. DEATH PENALTY-PROPORTIONALITY REVIEW: The conformity clause of article I, section 17 of the Florida Constitution forbids analyzing death sentences for comparative proportionality in the absence of a statute establishing that review. Florida's Due Process Clause does not require comparative proportionality review. The conformity clause expressly limits the authority of the Florida Supreme Court to apply principles of due process. DEATH PENALTY-DISSENT: "I cannot overstate how quickly and consequentially the majority's decisions have impacted death penalty law in Florida. . . In each of these cases, I dissented, and I lamented the erosion of our death penalty jurisprudence. Now today, the majority jettisons a nearly fifty-year-old pillar of our mandatory review in direct appeal cases. . . I could not dissent more strongly to this decision, one that severely undermines the reliability of this Court's decisions on direct appeal, and more broadly, Florida's death penalty jurisprudence." HEARSAY: Out of Court statement by a non-witness who did not testify named Muff giving the Defendant's name based on knowing him is not hearsay because it was not offered to prove that Muff identified appellant by name, but rather was offered to show how the victim learned the name of the person he had seen with Muff the previous day at the market and how the police came to learn Defendant's name. ARGUMENT: Out of court comment by prosecutor that "the defense needs to go back to law school" is unprofessional but not cause for a mistrial because not made in front of the jury. "[C]omments that disparage the integrity of counsel are improper and highly inappropriate. ADMIRALTY CLAUSE: The Admiralty Clause of Article III of the U.S.

Constitution does not preclude prosecution for possession of an unregistered firearm on dry land; the statute is not limited to offences only when performed on the high seas or any other navigable waterways. §5861(d) makes no mention of maritime or admiralty jurisdiction, the high seas, or navigable waterways. USA v. Wilson, No. 17-12379 (11th Cir. 10/27/20)

SECOND AMENDMENT: The National Firearms Act does not violates the Tenth and Second Amendments' protection of citizens' and states' rights and Florida's privilege to control its citizens' possession of weapons. The Tenth Amendment objection that the National Firearms Act usurps police power reserved to the States is plainly untenable. The Second Amendment does not guarantee the right to keep and bear an unregistered sawed-off shotgun having a barrel of less than eighteen inches in length. USA v. Wilson, No. 17-12379 (11th Cir. 10/27/20)

FIREARM-KNOWLEDGE: Although the requisite mens rea to prove a violation of §5861(d) is "knowledge," that mens rea does not attach to each element of that offense. The government need not prove that the defendant knew the weapon was unregistered. The government also need not prove that the defendant knew his possession of the weapon was unlawful or that he knew what features define a firearm. Rather, the knowledge requirement for a §5861(d) offense comes into play only as to the second element—the government must prove that the defendant was aware that his weapon possessed any of the features detailed in §5845(a), i.e. that the shotgun was less than 26 inches in overall length or had a barrel of less than 18 inches in length. USA v. Wilson, No. 17-12379 (11th Cir. 10/27/20)

SELF-REPRESENTATION: Defendant's argument that self-representation was effectively involuntary because the Criminal Justice Act Plan's attorneys are so under-resourced that the Plan inherently violates the Sixth Amendment's right to effective counsel lacks merit. The "advocate witness" rule—Defendant may not be forced to appear as both an advocate and a witness— is inapplicable to him as a non-lawyer criminal defendant who decided to represent himself. The "advocate-witness" rule is an ethical prohibition against lawyers acting as both advocate and witness. USA v. Wilson, No. 17-12379 (11th Cir. 10/27/20)

JAIL CLOTHES-SHACKLES: A defendant may not create his own problem by wearing jail clothes for strategic advantage and then seek reversal because he chose to wear those clothes. USA v. Wilson, No. 17-12379 (11th Cir. 10/27/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201712379.pdf

SENTENCING-PROHIBITED PERSON: A "prohibited person" includes any person who is an unlawful user of or addicted to any controlled substance, like marijuana. A defendant is an "unlawful user" of a controlled substance so long as his use is ongoing and need not show that Defendant was under the influence of an illegal drug at the exact same time he possessed the firearm or at the time of his arrest. USA v. Wilson, No. 17-12379 (11th Cir. 10/27/20)

MISTRIAL: Defendant is not entitled to mistrial based on evidence that Defendant used a false name in renting the apartment in which drugs were found. Evidence was inextricably intertwined with the narcotics offenses and was not inadmissible under Rule 404(b). The use of a false identity was also (1) relevant as a step Defendant took to conceal the criminal activity, and (2) necessary to complete the story of how officers discovered Joseph was renting the apartment and garage. USA v. Joseph, No. 19-11198 (11th Cir. 10/27/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911198.pdf

MISTRIAL-EFFECT OF DRUGS: Defedendant is not entitled to a mistrial based on Detective's testimony about the high mortality rate for fentanyl. USA v. Joseph, No. 19-11198 (11th Cir. 10/27/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911198.pdf

MISTRIAL-BROTHER'S OUTBURST: Defendant is not entitled to a mistrial based on Defendant's brother's outburst which made five jurors"nervous" or "a little shook up." USA v. Joseph, No. 19-11198 (11th Cir. 10/27/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911198.pdf

SENTENCING-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: Defendant's 262-month sentences (top of the recommended range but below the statutory maximum) are substantively reasonable under the factors of 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a). USA v. Joseph, No. 19-11198 (11th Cir. 10/27/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911198.pdf

FALSE STATEMENTS ACT: Motive is not an element of a False Statements Act crime. Defendants are guilty of violating the False Statements Act act by disguising that they were improperly treating workers as independent contractors by designating worker as "W2.REAL" for each real employee or a "W2.F" for each fake employee. "Telling the IRS one thing and the CDC another is asking for trouble, and trouble is what they got." USA v. Bazantes, No. 17-15721 (11th Cir. 10/26/20)

MATERIALITY: Indictment which alleged that Defendants willfully and knowingly make and use false writings and documents (certified payroll forms) to the CDC, that is, knowing the same to contain materially false, fictitious, and fraudulent statements and entries is legally sufficient. "That is enough." Argument that because the indictment does not allege that the forms containing the false payroll statements or records were directly addressed to the CDC, the false statements were, as a matter of law, not material is rejected. A false statement can be material regardless whether the defendant submits it directly to a federal agency. A statement can be material even if it is ignored or never read by the agency receiving the misstatement. USA v. Bazantes, No. 17-15721 (11th Cir. 10/26/20)

SENTENCING-LOSS ENHANCEMENT: The amount of loss enhancement should not include the $550,000 in profits in government contracts in which Arbelaez and Bazantes had submitted falsified payroll records in all of the federal projects. "At sentencing and in its brief to this Court, the government focused on the loss to the CDC. Which is fine, except there is not a speck of evidence that the CDC suffered any 'pecuniary harm.'. . .Every serious crime compromises the integrity of something or someone, but not every crime causes pecuniary loss." USA v. Bazantes, No. 17-15721 (11th Cir. 10/26/20)

ARGUMENT: Prosecutor's comments—that it was difficult for a twelve-year-old girl to keep this dark secret, that the victim remembered Appellant as the first person who kissed and touched her, and that Appellant was an authority figure who broke the victim and the victim's trust—evoked sympathy for the victim and encouraged hostile emotions toward Defendant were not improper appeals to the prejudice and passions of the jury. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-STATEMENT OF PARTICULARS: Counsel was not ineffective for getting a ruling on motion for statement of particulars in sex case where neither party could specify the exact date on which the crimes occurred. Sutherland v. State, 1D19-3263 (10/23/20)

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-ALIBI: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to present an alibi defense when he resided in the home for four of the 12 months alleged in the information and where he could not have accounted for his whereabouts at all times during those four months. Sutherland v. State, 1D19-3263 (10/23/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-ARGUMENT-BOLSTERING: Prosecutor's argument that victim told the truth is not improper bolstering where statements were based on the testimony of the victim. Sutherland v. State, 1D19-3263 (10/23/20)

YOUTHFUL OFFFENDER: Defendant charged with burglary enhanced to a life felony based on use of firearm to shoot victim in the face is ineligible for Youthful Offender. State v. Watlington, 2D19-3366 (10/23/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-COLLATERAL ESTOPPEL-POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Defendant's consent to separate trials on possession of firearm by felon and a substantive offense obviated any double jeopardy or collateral estoppel concerns. State v. Brown, 5D19-792 (10/23/20)

COSTS: Court may not impose a $100 investigative cost absent a request by the State or the agency. Turner v. State, 5D20-357 (10/23/20)

RESENTENCING: When the vacation of a conviction would result in changes to the defendant's scoresheet, the defendant is entitled to be resentenced using a corrected scoresheet. Court's argument that resentencing is not required becase of the mandatory minimum sentence was imposed fails because the Defendant is entitled to Youthful Offender consideration. Burton v. State, 5D20-1500 (10/23/20)

COUNSEL: Defendant is not deprived of his right to a fair trial when he was allowed to continue to represent himself, even after he vacillated about self representation. While a court may terminate a defendant's self-representation, that action is discretionary. "Put simply, the trial court's failure to override sua sponte the defendant's waiver of his right to counsel—where, as here, the waiver's validity was clear, uncontested on appeal, and repeatedly reaffirmed after signs of uncertainty—is due to be affirmed." USA v. Muho, No. 18-11248 (10/22/20)

SENTENCING-ENHANCEMENT-GROSS RECEIPTS: To trigger the §2B1.1(b)(16)(A) enhancement, at least in a case involving property held by a financial institution for a depositor, the financial institution (1) must be the source of the property, which we interpret as having property rights in the property, and (2) must have been victimized by the offense conduct. USA v. Muho, No. 18-11248 (10/22/20)

MIXED METAPHOR: "Muho used fraudulent documents to convince the bank that he had control over the account of another, thereby inducing the bank to wire the funds of another to Muho's account without even looking at the third base coach to see if it should swing or not. The bank swung away and made contact. Muho caught the funds and made out of the stadium gates like a bat out of Boston." ("7. We do not intend to implicate the Red Sox in this fraud.") USA v. SENTENCING-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: Though the Guidelines are not themselves dispositive, sentences that fall within the Guidelines range or that are below the statutory maximum are generally reasonable. A small downward variance far below the applicable statutory maximum is substantively reasonable. USA v. Muho, No. 18-11248 (10/22/20)

DEATH PENALTY: White supremacist serving a life sentence for murder is properly sentenced to death after stabbing his black cellmate thirty times to death after watching the movie "Selma" and moving his cards as not to get blood on them. Craven v. State, SC18-1643 (10/22/20)

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE: The following three-step test applies in determining whether a proposed peremptory challenge is race-neutral: A party objecting to the other side's use of a peremptory challenge on racial grounds must: a) make a timely objection on that basis, b) show that the venireperson is a member of a distinct racial group, and c) request that the court ask the striking party its reason for the strike. If these initial requirements are met (step 1), the court must ask the proponent of the strike to explain the reason for the strike. At this point, the burden of production shifts to the proponent of the strike to come forward with a race-neutral explanation (step 2). If the explanation is facially race-neutral and the court believes that, given all the circumstances surrounding the strike, the explanation is not a pretext, the strike will be sustained (step 3). The court's focus in step 3 is not on the reasonableness of the explanation but rather its genuineness. Throughout this process, the burden of persuasion never leaves the opponent of the strike to prove purposeful racial discrimination. Here, the Court properly found that the Defendant's proffered reason (the juror was predisposed to the death penalty) was not genuine. Juror's belief that the death penalty is an appropriate punishment for first-degree premeditated murder is not tantamount to being predisposed to the death penalty. Craven v. State, SC18-1643 (10/22/20)

DEATH PENALTY: In a capital sentencing proceeding, a jury (as opposed to a judge) is not constitutionally required to weigh the aggravating and mitigating circumstances or to make the ultimate decision within the relevant sentencing range. Craven v. State, SC18-1643 (10/22/20)

https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/682756/opinion/sc18-1643.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: During penalty, prosecutor properly testified that, during Defendant's murder of his prior victim, the prior victim begged Craven to let him go, told Craven that he would leave, and asked Craven to remember that the victim had two children. It is appropriate in the penalty phase of a capital trial to introduce testimony concerning the details of any prior felony conviction involving the use or threat of violence to the person rather than the bare admission of the conviction. Craven v. State, SC18-1643 (10/22/20)

HEALTHCARE FRAUD: Defendant properly convicted of healthcare fraud for kickbacks on sales of unneeded medical creams and vitamins regardless whether the claims about the products were true or false. "It is no answer to say. . .that the creams and vitamins were 'provided pursuant to valid prescriptions issued by doctors who lawfully consulted with the patients telephonically.' A doctor's prescription is not a get-out-of-jail-free card." USA v. Grow, No. 18-11809 (11th Cir. 10/21/20)

JURY DELIBERATIONS: Court's invitation to jury to reach partial verdicts before breaking for the day is not coercive where judge clarified that the jury was not required to do so. USA v. Grow, No. 18-11809 (11th Cir. 10/21/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811809.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-CONSPIRACY-WIRE FRAUD: Court's failure to instruct on wire fraud, one of the dual objects of a conspiracy count, is not cognizable on appeal because the error was invited. When a party agrees with a court's proposed instructions, review is waived even if plain error would result. USA v. Grow, No. 18-11809 (11th Cir. 10/21/20)

SENTENCING: Where Defendant is convicted of the dual-object conspiracy to commit healthcare fraud and wire fraud, and the jury returned only a general verdict, and the statutory maximum for the latter was ten years, Court erred in imposing a twenty years sentence. In the absence of a special verdict, a district court may not sentence a defendant beyond the maximum sentence for the least serious offense in a multi-object conspiracy. USA v. Grow, No. 18-11809 (11th Cir. 10/21/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811809.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Where a challenged jury instruction involved an affirmative defense, fundamental error only occurs if the instruction is so flawed as to deprive the defendant of a fair trial. Ross v. State, 1D18-4092 (10/21/20)

RESENTENCING-MINOR: Court lacks jurisdiction to withdraw order setting a resentencing hearing for a minor, but may re-impose the previous sentence. Garner v. State, 2D19-176 (10/21/20)

RESENTENCING: Where case is remanded for resentencing upon vacation of some convictions requiring a new scoresheet, Court errs in re-imposing the same aggregate sentence without affording the defendant an opportunity to present evidence in mitigation, instead only allowing him to offer legal argument concerning mitigating factors. Gomez v. State, 3D18-1193 (10/21/20)

SEXUAL PREDATOR: Defendant is appropriately designated a sexual predator even though the Court entered the subject order after Defendant had served his sentence for the qualifying offense and was released from custody. Johnson v. State, 3D19-2357 (10/21/20)

CORRECTED SENTENCE: Court is not required to impose a harsher mandatory minimum sentence upon Defendant's motion where he had already served more time than the mandatory minimum. Although a sentence is technically illegal when a court fails to impose the applicable mandatory minimum, the illegality is in the defendant's favor and may not be challenged on appeal because not adverse to the Defendant. A party to the cause may appeal only from a decision in some respect adverse to that party. Conflict certified. Mitchell v. State, 4D20-860 (10/21/20)

MINOR-DE FACTO LIFE SENTENCE: A 30 year sentence is not the functional equivalent of a life sentence. The Eighth Amendment is implicated only when a juvenile nonhomicide offender's sentence approaches or envelops the entirety of a defendant's 'natural life and does not afford any meaningful opportunity to obtain release based on demonstrated maturity and rehabilitation. APPEAL-FUNDAMENTAL ERROR (CONCURRENCE): The mere fact that an error is characterized as fundamental does not mean that it may always be raised on direct appeal, regardless of applicable procedural rules. VOP: Defendant must comply with all four conditions set forth in § 948.06(2)(f)1. in order to receive the benefit of the statute. Bradley v. State, 1D20-846 (10/13/20)

BRIEFS: To enhance the clarity of the brief, the court strongly urges parties to limit the use of acronyms. While acronyms may be used for entities and statutes with widely recognized initials, such as FERC and FOIA, parties should avoid using acronyms that are not widely known. USA v. Iriele, No. 17-13455 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

NEWFANGLED ACRONYMS: Legal writers should shun "newfangled acronyms." but [w]e use AMARC and MCP in this opinion because doing so nets out on the side of clarity and helps keep the opinion flowing. Besides, the acronym AMARC 'does have a nice ring to it.'" USA v. Iriele, No. 17-13455 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

APPELLATE ADVOCACY: "We will not discuss why those scattershot contentions lack merit. . .But we remind counsel that raising a plethora of issues is not good advocacy." USA v. Iriele, No. 17-13455 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

EVIDENCE-HANDWRITING-OPINION: Under F.R.E. 901(b)(2), a nonexpert can testify that handwriting is genuine, based on a familiarity with it that was not acquired for the current litigation." An investigator who becomes familiar with a defendant's handwriting in the course of investigating a crime may testify that at document is in the Defendant's handwriting. An investigator who becomes familiar with the defendant's handwriting for the purpose of solving a crime is different from a lay witness who makes a handwriting comparison so he can testify about it at trial. USA v. Iriele, No. 17-13455 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

JOA-CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: A guilty verdict cannot be overturned if any reasonable construction of the evidence would have allowed the jury to find the defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. Because a jury is free to choose among the reasonable constructions of the evidence, it is not necessary that the evidence exclude every reasonable hypothesis of innocence or be wholly inconsistent with every conclusion except that of guilt. USA v. Iriele, No. 17-13455 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201713455.pdf

UNLAWFUL DISTRIBUTION OF CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE-PHARMACIST: To convict a pharmacist under section 841(a)(1), the government must prove that the pharmacist filled a prescription knowing that a physician issued the prescription without a legitimate medical purpose or outside the usual course of professional practice. USA v. Iriele, No. 17-13455 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201713455.pdf

CONSPIRACY-CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: The government can prove a §846 conspiracy with circumstantial evidence, and when it comes to knowledge of a conspiracy the government does enough when it shows that the circumstances surrounding a person's presence at the scene of conspiratorial activity are so obvious that knowledge of its character can fairly be attributed to him. USA v. Iriele, No. 17-13455 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201713455.pdf

MONEY LAUNDERING: Promotional money laundering is the use of illegally-obtained money to fund more illegal activity. Financial transaction money laundering is the use of a financial institution to conduct a monetary transaction involving more than $10,000 of illegally obtained funds. Concealment money laundering is any transaction designed to conceal or disguise the true nature or location of illegally obtained funds. Structuring money laundering is the use of illegally obtained funds to carry out a financial transaction that is designed to avoid a state or federal reporting requirement. USA v. Iriele, No. 17-13455 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

MONEY LAUNDERING-CONSPIRACY: To convict for conspiracy to commit money laundering, the government must prove (1) an agreement between two or more persons to commit a money-laundering offense; and (2) knowing and voluntary participation in that agreement by the defendant. The government can do that by using circumstantial evidence, including inferences from the conduct of the alleged participants or from circumstantial evidence of a scheme. When the indictment lists more than one object of the conspiracy, the evidence need only be sufficient for any one of the charged objects. So long as the jury could reasonably have concluded that participants made an agreement to commit promotional money laundering, concealment money laundering, financial transaction money laundering, or structuring money laundering, the evidence was sufficient to convict. USA v. Iriele, No. 17-13455 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-PRESERVATION: In order to preserve an issue of the Court's failure to give a proposed jury instruction, the request is not enough; Defendant must object to its exclusion, unless it is plain error. Defendant is not entitled to a new trial considering the totality of the jury instructions. USA v. Iriele, No. 17-13455 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

PLAIN ERROR REVIEW: To prevail under plain error review, Defendant must show that the district court made an error, that the error was plain, and that it affected his substantial rights. If he carries that burden, appellate court has discretion to reverse only if the error seriously affects the fairness, integrity, or public reputation of judicial proceedings. The substantial rights analysis is like harmless error review but with a twist: the defendant, not the government, bears the burden of persuasion with respect to prejudice. USA v. Iriele, No. 17-13455 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

DISMISSAL-PRE-INDICTMENT DELAY: Pill mill Doctor is not entitled to dismissal for pre-indictment delay based on deaths of potential witnesses where he fails to show a deliberate intent by the government to obtain an advantage by the delay. To establish a violation of a defendant's Fifth Amendment rights by pre-indictment delay, the defendant must show that pre-indictment delay caused him actual substantial prejudice and that the delay was the product of a deliberate act by the government designed to gain a tactical advantage. USA v. Gayden, No. 18-14182 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-THIRD PARTY DOCTRINE: Search warrant based on information derived from Florida's Prescription Drug Monitoring database is lawful. Under the third-party doctrine, an individual lacks a reasonable expectation of privacy in information revealed to a third party and conveyed by that third party to Government authorities, even if the information is revealed on the assumption that it will be used only for a limited purpose and that confidence placed in the third party will not be betrayed. Because doctor did not have a reasonable expectation of privacy in the prescriptions he wrote for his patients, and because he voluntarily disclosed those prescription records to others through his participation in the computerized tracking system, he fails to establish protected privacy. USA v. Gayden, No. 18-14182 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

DAUBERT-EXPERT: Denial of a Daubert motion is reviewed for an abuse of discretion, which places a thumb and a finger or two on the district court's side of the scale. The potential for confirmation bias does not establish that the district court abused its discretion in allowing government witness to testify. USA v. Gayden, No. 18-14182 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814182.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES-CALCULATION-OBSTRUCTION: Court properly applied an obstruction of justice enhancement to the guidelines based on Defendant's alteration to patient records after the state search warrant for some of his files was executed, but before the federal search warrant for all of his remaining files was served. MISTRIAL: Defendant is not entitled to a mistrial based on agent's false rebuttal testimony that the photos of the CS's car on Gallardo's cellphone were taken by Gallardo's phone or had been manipulated where Court specified that the jury could not use the agent's testimony on that point. USA v. Gallardo, No. 18-11812 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

BRADY: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial for a Brady violation where Government failed to disclose until the third day of trial that the CS was deactivated upon admitting to self-dealing during the same time period as the instant cocaine deal. SENTENCING ENTRAPMENT: Sentencing entrapment–claim that Defendant was predisposed to commit a lesser offense (1 kilo), but the government entrapped him into committing a greater offense (5 kilos) subject to greater punishment—is not recognized as a viable defense. Relief is warranted only when the defendant proves that the government engaged in extraordinary misconduct that was sufficiently reprehensible. USA v. Gallardo, No. 18-11812 (11th Cir. 10/9/20)

JOA: Defendant properly convicted of attempted murder of three officers after firing seven shots at them. Where competent substantial evidence of premeditation was presented from which a reasonable factfinder could find guilt beyond all reasonable doubt as to each element, the motion for judgment of acquittal must be denied. RETURN OF PROPERTY: A facially sufficient motion for return of property must allege: (1) that the property is the movant's personal property; (2) that the property was not the fruit of criminal activity; (3) that the property was not being held as evidence; and (4) specifically identify the property. STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant establishes prima facie case of SYG immunity where witnesses testify that the victim was the aggressor, grabbed Defendant's girl friend by the arm from behind as she walked with him, then punched him two or three times before Defendant hit victim in the eye. A defendant's sole burden at the pretrial immunity hearing is simply to raise a prima facie claim of self-defense immunity and that he is not required to prove his immunity claim at the Stand Your Ground hearing. CONDITION OF PROBATION-NO CONTACT WITH CHILDREN: Probation conditions forbidding any contact with minors are overly broad because they subject offenders to possible punishment for innocent or inadvertent conduct. INDICTMENT-POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Although indictment is defective where it does not allege that Defendant knew he was a felon when he possessed the firearm or cite the statute for that element, Defendant is not entiled to relief under the plain-error test because the error did not affect his substantial rights; there is no reasonable probability that he would have obtained a different result but for the error because circumstantial evidence establishes that he knew of his felon status. Someone who has been convicted of felonies repeatedly is especially likely to know he is a felon. USA v. Innocent, No. 19-10112 (11th Cir. 10/8/20)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: Florida aggravated assault is a crime of violence under ACCA. Even if it weren't, Defendant waived that argument by not raising it before the trial court. USA v. Innocent, No. 19-10112 (11th Cir. 10/8/20)

ACCA: A "violent felony" for the purpose of the Armed Career Criminal Act is "any crime punishable by imprisonment for a term exceeding one year . . . that[] has as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person of another." Whether a defendant's crime is a violent felony is determined by the categorical approach, which asks whether the least culpable conduct encompassed by a criminal statute necessarily involves the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against a person. USA v. Innocent, No. 19-10112 (11th Cir. 10/8/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-WILLFULNESS: Willfulness is not an element of intent to distribute. The mens rea required for a conviction is knowledge, not willfulness. Failure to instruct on willfulness is not error. USA v. Amede, No. 18-11172 (10/8/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/2

DURESS: Defendant is not entitled to a duress defense where he presented no evidence that he had no reasonable opportunity to inform the police that drug dealers were threatening him and his family and coercing him to consummate the drug deal. USA v. Amede, No. 18-11172 (10/8/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/2

COUNSEL: When the district court has appointed counsel for an indigent criminal defendant, the defendant does not have the right to demand different appointed counsel unless he can show good cause, such as a conflict of interest, a complete breakdown in communication or an irreconcilable conflict which leads to an apparently unjust verdict. Neither the Defendant's refusal to consult with counsel not counsel's failure to advance Defendant's frivolous or harmful arguments constitutes good cause. USA v. Amede, No. 18-11172 (10/8/20)

COUNSEL-DISCHARGE: Court did not err in allowing Defendant to discharge retained counsel at the sentencing hearing without appointing a new attorney. "[Defendant's] uncooperative conduct throughout the case and especially at sentencing evinced a knowing and voluntary waiver." USA v. Amede, No. 18-11172 (10/8/20)

INVESTIGATORY STOP-REASONABLE SUSPICION: Police may stop Defendant on the basis of a 911 call after 3:00 a.m. that someone saw a disturbance in the front yard of a drug house, that one of the men involved had a gun, and that the police should use caution because there might be shooting any minute. An anonymous tip can demonstrate sufficient indicia of reliability to provide reasonable suspicion to make an investigatory stop, notwithstanding that the officers did not see the Defendant acting unlawfully. "Officers need not—and should not—turn a blind eye to commonsense concerns of danger when responding to an emergency 911 call." USA v.

Bruce, No. 18-10969 (11th Cir. 10/8/20)

COSTS: Court may not impose a $50.00 cost for "Investigative Fees-County" under §938.27(8) without a request from the investigating agency. Even if this fee had been requested by the investigating agency, the authority for such fee is §938.27(1), not (8). Warren v. State, 1D19-2694 (10/7/20)

MAILBOX RULE: The important date for purposes of the mailbox rule is the date when the inmate hands over his or her documents to prison officials for mailing. This time limit is jurisdictional, and the inmate filed too late. Jackson v. DOC, 1D19-4342 (10/7/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim that counsel was ineffective in failing to introduce evidence of the victim's reputation for violence and specific prior acts of violence other than domestic violence. DUE PROCESS: Juvenile was improperly convicted of making a false report concerning the use of firearms in a violent manner based on him saying "F--- you. . . I'll shoot you and shoot up your house." (Juvenile later apologized and did not shoot him or his house). Saying "I'll shoot you and shoot up your house," and not doing so, is not a "false report." "In our constitutional system, it is difficult to conceive of a more egregious violation of due process than convicting a defendant for conduct that does not constitute the charged crime." J.B. v. APPEAL-FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: An appellate court may address a fundamental error, even though the issue is not raised in the initial brief. Florida's appellate courts have long recognized judicial authority—and a "unrenunciable" duty—to correct fundamental errors, meaning those of such gravity that ignoring and not correcting them would diminish public respect for the judicial process, even if those errors were not preserved at trial, not raised on appeal in the briefing process, or raised by the appellate court on its own. "Where fundamental error is at issue, it defies all notion of fairness to elevate procedure over justice and send this juvenile, without an attorney, to pursue the remedy of ineffective assistance of appellate counsel. .

.Turning a blind eye to this fundamental error would undermine the public's confidence in our system of justice." J.B. v. State, 4D19-2634 (10/7/20)

EVIDENCE-TEXT MESSAGES-AUTHENTICATION: Screenshots of text messages received by a sexual assault victim based on are sufficiently authenticated where the sender's profile picture did not show the Defendant, but the witness testified she could tell that the Defendant was the sender because of the messages' content (screen name, allusions to information known only to the victim and the Defendant, etc.). An e-mail or text may be circumstantially authenticated by its contents. The requirements of authentication are satisfied by evidence sufficient to support a finding that the matter in question is what its proponent claims. Authentication for the purpose of admission is a relatively low threshold that only requires a prima facie showing that the proffered evidence is authentic. State v. Torres, 4D20-225 (10/7/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy bars a retrial on the attempted first-degree murder charge where the jury convicted Defendant of the lesser-included offense of attempted second-degree murder, which was later, on appeal, remanded for a new trial on the lesser offense. The original jury's verdict on the lesser included offense of attempted second-degree murder was an acquittal on the charge of attempted first-degree murder. Coleman v. State, 2D18-2143 (10/2/20)

RESTITUTION: Defendant may be required to pay restitution for an item alleged to have been stolen and alluded to in the police report (here, a tennis bracelet) notwithstanding that they are not mentioned in the information. "[W]e are unconvinced that the State's decision not to charge Ferri with the theft of the tennis bracelet precludes restitution for that item when the arrest affidavit clearly noted Ferri's admission to stealing and then selling that item." CERTIFICATE OF INNOCENCE: A person who obtains a certificate of innocence can seek damages up to $50,000 for every 12 months of incarceration. A JOA (ordered on appeal) does not by itself establish innocence under §2315. A reversal of a conviction due to insufficient evidence does not automatically entitle a petitioner to a certificate of innocence. "The absence of evidence of a criminal defendant's guilt does not equate to the presence of evidence of that same defendant's innocence.

ACCA-TRAFFICKING-PURCHASE: A §893.135(1) conviction can qualify as a serious drug offense under the ACCA only if each one of the six alternatives for trafficking (selling, purchasing, manufacturing, delivering, bringing into the state, or knowingly possessing cocaine in an amount of 28 grams or more of cocaine. If "purchasing" of a trafficking quantity of a controlled substance does not involve possession with intent to distribute that substance, then no Florida drug trafficking conviction under § 893.135(1) can ever qualify as an ACCA predicate offense. Certified Question to Florida Supreme Court: How does Florida law define the term "purchase" for purposes of Florida Statutes §893.135(1)? More specifically, does a completed purchase for purposes of conviction under § 893.135(1) require some form of possession—either actual or constructive—of the drug being purchased? USA v. Conage, No. 17-13975 (11th Cir. 9/30/20)

DEFINITION-PURCHASE: The dictionary definition of "purchase" means "to obtain by paying money or its equivalent," but the dictionary definition of "purchase" is not necessarily synonymous with the meaning that Florida law ascribes to the term. All of which means that, absent some definitive guidance from Florida case law, the meaning of the term "purchase" in the Florida trafficking statute remains unclear. USA v. Conage, No. 17-13975 (11th Cir. 9/30/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: The remedy of habeas corpus is not available in Florida to obtain the kind of collateral postconviction relief available by motion in the sentencing court pursuant to rule 3.850. Martin v. State, 1D20-890 (9/30/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: General allegations or mere conclusions are insufficient to demonstrate entitlement to relief. Where Defendant's Motion for Post Conviction Relief alleges that his attorney did not use witnesses who could have provided an alibi, was totally unprepared, was disloyal, had a total lack of communication, and that he was tried in a kangaroo court, it is legally insufficient. Moore v. State, 3D20-1094 (9/30/20)

VOP-APPEAL-PRESERVATION: Defendant cannot appeal issue that the written order of probation revocation did not conform to the court's oral pronouncement of the grounds for revocation where he did not preserve this argument with either a contemporaneous objection or a 3.800 motion. EYE WITNESS IDENTIFICATION: An out-of-court identification violates due process if the police employ an unnecessarily suggestive procedure in obtaining an out-ofcourt identification and under the totality of the circumstances, the suggestive procedure gives rise to a substantial likelihood of irreparable misidentification. Defendant's argument that Florida's law on eyewitness identification should be updated based on recent research is declined. "This sea change must come from our supreme court." Valentine v. PHOTO LINE UP: A black bar across the top of Defendant's photo in lineup does not render it unduly suggestive. Valentine v. State, 4D19-1448 (9/30/20)

PHOTO LINE UP: The administration of the photo lineup was not unnecessarily suggestive because where the photographs were administered simultaneously, rather than sequentially; the lineup was not double blind; and the detective told the witness "very good" after he selected the defendant. Double-blind administration of lineups is not required by §92.70. Valentine v. State, 4D19-1448 (9/30/20)

EVIDENCE-PRIOR CONSISTENT STATEMENT: Witness's statement in deposition that Defendant had tattoos on his face, elicited on redirect, is admissible to rebut an implication of recent fabrication (witness had not told the police about the tattoos but had seen them on the news). FIREARMS REGULATION-CONSTITUTIONALITY: The National Firearms Act is constitutional under Congress' power to tax. Congress under the taxing power may reasonably impose a penalty on possession of unregistered weapons. USA v. Bolatete, No. 18-14184 (11th Cir. 9/29/20)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-SECOND AMENDMENT: Defendant's argument on appeal that the Fee Jurisprudence doctrine (which holds that the government may not impose a charge for the enjoyment of a right granted by the federal constitution) applies to the Second Amendment is not preserved when not raised before the trial court. USA v. Bolatete, No. 18-14184 (11th Cir. 9/29/20)

SECOND AMENDMENT-SILENCER: The National Firearms Act's application to silencers does not violate the Second Amendment. The Second Amendment does not protect those weapons not typically possessed by law-abiding citizens for lawful purposes. USA v. Bolatete, No. 18-14184 (11th Cir. 9/29/20)

PRETRIAL RELEASE-INCOMPETENT DEFENDANT: Where a defendant has been found incompetent to proceed and is then released upon conditions and commits a new offense, Court has only two options: modify the conditions of release or involuntarily commit the defendant to DCFS for treatment. When the evidence is insufficient to commit a defendant involuntarily, the trial court's only option is to release the defendant with the necessary conditions. Dodd v. State, 5D20-1922 (9/29/20)

DUE PROCESS-PRIVATE PROBATION OFFICE: Due Process is violated when a private probation office has authority to increase fines or extend the period of probation. The Due Process Clause prohibits a financial interest in the outcome of any decisions—personal or otherwise—by a private probation company, regardless whether it had judicial pre-authorization. "Taken to its logical conclusion, PPS's theory implies that when a court delegates (abdicates?) its judicial function to an entity with a personal financial stake in how that function is performed, neither actor violates the Due Process Clause—the court skates because it's not partial, and the delegate gets off because it's not judicial. That can't be the law." Harper v. Professional Probation Services, Inc. No. 19-13368 (11th Cir. 9/25/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A double jeopardy claim cannot be raised in a Rule 3.800 motion, but rather in a Rule 3.850 motion. Motion should be treated as a Rule 3.850 motion. Shuler v. State, 2D20-610 (9/25/20)

UNSEALING SEARCH WARRANT AFFIDAVIT: State need not disclose the affidavit for the search warrant when it could reveal the identity of the confidential informant where Defendant's proffered reason for disclosure was to show that the warrant was stale, when that reason was not articulated in the motion to compel disclosure, and where Defendant never asked the trial court to review the sealed affidavit in camera nor did he take any steps to make a record. Hill v. State, 1D18-3273 (9/24/20)

FINE-COST: Court may not impose a discretionary fine under §775.083 and surcharge under §938.04 without giving him adequate notice and an opportunity to be heard. Dooly v. State, 1D19-0263 (9/23/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective to failing to investigate the hours of operation of a liquor store to challenge the time line. "Whether the victim was robbed at the Travel Inn or after he left a liquor store near the Travel Inn does not have anything to do with whether he was robbed by Appellant." The benchmark for judging an ineffective assistance of counsel claim is whether counsel's conduct so undermined the proper functioning of the adversarial process that the trial cannot be relied on as producing a just result. Black v. State, 1D19-590 (9/24/20)

DEADLY WEAPON: A BB gun is considered an "other deadly weapon" when it is used in such a manner that it could have caused great bodily harm or death, such as holding it to the victim's head. Black v. State, 1D19-590 (9/24/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: A signed written statement from the victim recanting his trial testimony, which the Court hed to be untrue (base on the witness's testimony that he was threatened), does not entitle Defendant to a new trial. Recanted testimony is exceedingly unreliable. Black v. State, 1D19-590 (9/24/20)

COMPETENCY: Once the court has reasonable grounds to question the defendant's competency, the court has no choice but to conduct a hearing to resolve the question. Failure to hold a competency hearing and enter a written order is fundamental error and requires reversal. Anderson v. State, 1D19-677 (9/24/20)

INFORMATION-AMENDMENT DURING TRIAL: Amendment during trial of four counts from sexual battery to lewd or lascivious molestation did not prejudice Appellant's substantial rights where the manner of the acts were such that the amended lewd or lascivious molestation charges could not help but have been proven if the greater offense allegations were proven. State may substantively amend an information during trial, even over the objection of the defendant, unless there is a showing of prejudice to the substantial rights of the defendant. Thach v. State, 19-3660 (9/24/20)

EVIDENCE-MOTION IN LIMINE: Evidence of uncharged crimes is inadmissible to prove an accused's bad character or criminal propensity. Defendant is entitled to a new trial where, in violation of motion in limine, State elicited from victim that someone matching the Defendant's description had committed previous burglaries of his car, and implied on closing that Defendant had been the burglar from earlier incidents. "[T]he State's argument conflates two very distinct propositions: that there had been prior burglaries to Garcia's car; and that Hudson was the person who committed those prior burglaries to Garcia's car. The first proposition was not disputed. . .[but] any evidence or argument that Hudson was the person who committed the prior burglaries of Garcia's car was not an issue raised or invited by the defense, was not material, and was not inextricably intertwined." Hudson v. State, 3D19-664 (9/23/20)

CONTEMPT: Court properly held Defendant in contempt for saying "So fuck me basically," then attempted to leave the courtroom without permission. A defendant's use of profanity in open court may constitute a valid ground for direct criminal contempt when the profanity is uttered in the presence of the trial judge and the utterance disrupts the trial court's business. Jones v. State, 3D20-287 (9/23/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: Officers had reasonable suspicion to stop bicyclist who they believed matched the BOLO for a burglary suspect (he wore a sweatshirt) and who had no headlight on his bike. State v. Daley, 4D19-3590 (9/23/20)

DISSENT-SCOPE OF REVIEW: "[T]he majority correctly states the law that an appellate court is required to accept the trial court's determination of historical facts and the inferences drawn therefrom, but it reviews de novo the application of the law to those facts. MOTION TO WITHDRAW PLEA: Where Defendant moved to withdraw his plea, then moved to withdraw his motion to withdraw his plea, Defendant is not entitled to withdraw his plea more than 30 days later on the basis that the Court had never entered any written orders. There is no requirement that the court enter a written order on the motion to withdraw the motion to withdraw plea. Johnson v. State, 1D18-4640 (9/21/20)

MINOR-LENGTHY SENTENCE: Defendant who received a 35-year incarcerative sentence for felonies committed when he was 13 is not entitled to resentencing and retroactive application of the sentence review procedures under §921.1402. Johnson v. State, 1D18-4640 (9/21/20)

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF APPELLATE COUNSEL: Appellate counsel is not ineffective for failing to argue that Court improperly considered his lack of remorse and protestation of innocence where Defendant's claim is refuted by the record. Wright v. State, 1D19-304 (9/21/20)

COUNSEL/PRO SE DEFENDANT: Defendant may not file a pro se Petition for Writ of Prohibition under SYG when his counsel already had done so. CERTIORARI: District courts must exercise caution not to expand certiorari jurisdiction to review the correctness of the circuit court's decision; second-tier certiorari should not be used simply to grant a second appeal and should be reserved for those situations when there has been a violation of a clearly established principle of law resulting in a miscarriage of justice.

VOP-SENTENCING: All the conditions of §948.06(2)(f) must be met for the Court to be limited to 90 days in jail for a violation of probation. The doctrines of in pari materia and the absurdity doctrine trump the plain language of the statute. Lawson v. State, 5D19-3386 (9/18/20)

STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION-ABSURDITY DOCTRINE: The absurdity doctrine provides that a literal interpretation of the language of a statute need not be given when to do so would lead to an unreasonable or ridiculous conclusion. Lawson v. State, 5D19-3386 (9/18/20)

"ANY": "Any" is not ambiguous, but it is absurd. "Where we diverge from the court in Owens is in its finding that 'the use of 'any' rather than 'all'. . . creates an ambiguity . . . It appears that finding is used to justify the application of the absurdity doctrine. While in complete agreement with Owens that the use of any" creates an absurd result, there is nothing ambiguous about it." Lawson v. State, 5D19-3386 (9/18/20)

JURY SIZE: Defendant may not have a 12-person jury for capital sex battery, For purposes of determining jury size, a "capital case" specifically and only means that the defendant possibly faces capital punishment, i.e., the death penalty. Where Defendant cannot be sentenced to death for any of the crimes for which he is being tried, a six-person jury is mandatory. State v. Dagostino, 5D20-658 (9/18/20)

COVID-19-DEATH PENALTY: Defendant is not entitled to postponement of execution because his attorneys cannot meet with him due to Covid-19. Courts do not have a "free-floating, standardless reservoir of authority to postpone an already-scheduled execution, free and clear of the traditional stay standard. If they did, no death-sentenced inmate would ever again go to the trouble of trying to satisfy the stay factors. That cannot be the law." Lecroy v. USA, No. 20-13353 (11th Cir. 9/16/20)

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: Appellate counsel is not ineffective for failing to raise on appeal trial counsel's death penalty mitigation strategy when trial counsel was not ineffective. It is not constitutionally deficient for counsel to rely on residual doubt at sentencing, despite the overwhelming evidence of guilt. Franks v. GDCP Warden, No. 16-17478 (11th Cir. 9/16/2020)

APPEAL WAIVER: Where Defendant's plea agreement waives the right to appeal unless the Court imposes a sentence that exceeds the advisory guideline range. Only the district court determines the guideline range. The guideline range does not exist until it is calculated by the district court during the sentencing proceedings. The phrase “the advisory guideline range” unambiguously refers to the guideline range as determined by the district court. USA v. Boyd, No. 18-11063 (11th Cir. 9/16/2020)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A federal court may not grant a habeas corpus application with respect to any claim that was adjudicated on the merits in state court proceedings unless the state court's decision was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court. Defendant is not entitled to a new penalty phase where evidence does not support conclusion that Defendant suffered from Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Disorder, and even if it had, no prejudice is shown. SELF-DEFENSE-JURY INSTRUCTION: Defendant is entitled to the nondeadly force instruction where he testified that he retrieved a gun from the back of his truck because he thought the victim was armed, but did not threaten the victim with it. Lopez v. State, 3D18-2217 (9/16/20)

EVIDENCE-PRICE TAG: No foundation must be laid before a witness is permitted to testify to his or her contemporaneous observation of the contents of the price tag affixed to the stolen item of retail merchandise. Washington v. State, 3D19-1857 (9/16/20)

VOIR DIRE-REASONABLE DOUBT: No fundamental error in Court giving "prosecution-friendly" hypotheticals about reasonable doubt during voir dire (involving a cat eating a mouse in a box, a Star Trek transporter, and a Harry Potter spell). "We hasten to add, however, that. . .the trial judge should rely upon, and seldom stray from, Florida's Standard Jury Instructions." Warren v. State, 3D19-2075 (9/16/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel misadvised him that the State could not convict him on all five counts of attempted murder, thereby precipitating his rejection of a favorable plea offer; and informing him that, in the event he testified, the State would be entitled to explore the nature and circumstances of his prior convictions. Cobb v. State, 3D19-2423 (9/16/20)

SENTENCING-MINORS: Graham and Miller do not apply to young adults. Carrero v. State, 3D20-1030 (9/16/20)

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: Without a custodial interrogation, Defendant is not entitled to Miranda warnings or an attorney. Interrogation of suspect about her boy friend's murder was non-custodial; officer's statements about a lawyer ("why would you need an attorney? Don't you need to explain what happened?. . This is your opportunity cause you're not gonna get another opportunity most likely . . . you know what an attorney would tell you to do.") do not warrant suppression. During a non-custodial interrogation, the officer is not required to provide a lawyer on the individual's request nor to stop questioning. Eam v. State, 4D19-1035 (9/16/20)

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION: The standard for malicious prosecution has two elements: the plaintiff must prove (1) that the defendant violated his Fourth Amendment right to be free from seizures pursuant to legal process and (2) that the criminal proceedings against him terminated in his favor. Dismissal of a charge of murder against the Plaintiff after he provides testimony against co-defendants constitutes the termination of criminal proceedings in his favor. Suit for malicious prosecution may proceed. Luke v. Gulley, No. 20-11076 (11th Cir. 9/15/20).

JUROR MISCONDUCT: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial where juror's online postings showed he would only consider recommending the death penalty, notwithstanding his statements during voir dire. "The posts clearly showed that Ridarick had expressed the belief that only the death penalty was appropriate for Ledford, but they did not make clear when he came to that conclusion." Ledford v. Warden, No. 19-11090 (9/15/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911090.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-WOMEN: Defendant fails to make out a prima facie case of discrimination in jury selection based solely on statistical disparities. The Equal Protection Clause prohibits discrimination in jury selection on the basis of gender, or on the assumption that an individual will be biased in a particular case for no reason other than the fact that the person happens to be a woman or happens to be a man." First, the defendant must make out a prima facie case by showing that the totality of the relevant facts give rise to an inference of discriminatory purpose. Second, once the defendant has made out a prima facie case, the burden shifts to the State to explain adequately the exclusion by offering permissible gender-neutral justifications for the strikes. Third, if a gender-neutral explanation is tendered, the trial court must then decide whether the opponent of the strike has proved purposeful discrimination. Ledford v. Warden, No. 19-11090 (9/15/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Lawyer's presentation of evidence of Defendant's antisocial personality disorder for purposes of mitigation is not per se ineffective assistance. Ledford v. Warden, No. 19-11090 (9/15/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911090.pdf

SENTENCING-SUCCESSOR JUDGE: The rule that a judge other than the original presiding trial judge should not pronounce a sentence absent necessity applies only in the context of a trial judge exercising discretion to determine and impose an appropriate sentence. Where there is no discretionary resentencing, the rule does not impact a trial court's resolution of post-conviction matters just because they address or relate to underlying sentencing issues. Kartsonis v. State, 1D19-1172 (9/14/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-LEAVING SCENE OF ACCIDENT: One cannot be convicted of multiple counts of leaving the scene of a crash stemming from a single crash. Johnson v. State, 1D19-1474 (9/14/20)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/669544/opinion/191474_DC06_09142020_131447_i.pdf

COLLATERAL ESTOPPEL: Collateral estoppel prevents identical parties from relitigating the same issues that have already been decided. Collateral estoppel applies in postconviction proceedings and precludes a party from rearguing the same issue argued in a prior motion unless a manifest injustice would occur. Johnson v. State, 1D19-1973 (9/14/20)

VOP-SENTENCING: When imposing sentence for a violation of probation, a trial court is limited under subsection 948.06(2)(f)1 to modifying or continuing probation or imposing a sentence of up to 90 days in county jail only when a defendant meets all four conditions of subsection 948.06(2)(f)1. Bell v. State, 1D19-4270 (9/14/20)

CONFLICT OF INTEREST-JOINT REPRESENTATION: Where co-

defendants are jointly represented by the same attorney, for a new trial, Defendant must show not only that a conflict existed, but that the conflict adversely affected his counsel's performance. Holcombe v. State, 5D18-3338 (9/14/20)

https://www.5dca.org/content/download/669623/opinion/183338_DC05_09142020_141342_i.pdf

CONSPIRACY: Agreement with an unknown caller and the Defendant to buy MDMA along with other drugs is not sufficient to prove a conspiracy. There was no evidence in the record of the two parties agreeing to perform the same crime, i.e., either the purchase or the sale of MDMA; and thus, no conspiracy was proven. Hall v. State, 5D18-3505 (9/14/20)

COSTS: Court may not impose a $3 cost pursuant to §318.18 where Defendant is not convicted of a driving offense. Waters v. State, 5D19-3060 (9/14/20)

COSTS: Defendant convicted of robbery cannot be assessed the $15 cost pursuant to s.318.18(11)(b) because he is convicted of a traffic infraction or an applicable criminal offense listed in s.318.17. Bradley v. State, 5D20-18 (9/14/20)

MANDAMUS-WAIVER OF APPEARANCE: Defendant is not entitled to a writ of mandamus to force the Court to accept his written waiver of appearance for a case management conference where its issuance would provide no relief. A writ of mandamus will not be issued to direct an officer to perform a futile act. Silverain v. State, 5D20-11347 (9/14/20)

VOTING RIGHTS: Amendment 4, re-enfranchising felons who have completed their sentences, does not extend to felons who cannot prove they have no unpaid fines, fees, costs, or restitution. Neither Equal Protection nor Due Process protect felon's voting rights under Amendment 4. Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12003 (11th Cir. 9/11/20)

RIGHT TO VOTE-EQUAL PROTECTION: "Florida withholds the franchise from any felon, regardless of wealth, who has failed to complete any term of his criminal sentence—financial or otherwise. It does not single out the failure to complete financial terms for special treatment. And in any event, wealth is not a suspect classification." Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12003 (11th Cir. 9/11/20)

QUOTATION: "The law, in its majestic equality, forbids the rich as well as the poor to sleep under bridges." Anatole France

QUOTATION-DISSENT (J. JORDAN): "Incredibly, and sadly, the majority says that Florida has complied with the Constitution. So much is profoundly wrong with the majority opinion that it is difficult to know where to begin. But one must start somewhere, so I will first turn to the facts, those 'stubborn things,'. . .which though proven at trial and unchallenged on appeal, are generally relegated to the dustbin in the majority opinion." Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12003 (11th Cir. 9/11/20)

VOTING RIGHTS-DISSENT (J. JORDAN): "[S]ince the passage of Amendment 4 Florida has demonstrated a 'staggering inability to administer' its LFO [Legal Financial Obligation] requirement. . .Florida cannot tell felons—the great majority of whom are indigent—how much they owe, has not completed screening a single felon registrant for unpaid LFOs, has processed 0 out of 85,000 pending registrations of felons (that's not a misprint—it really is 0), and has come up with conflicting (and uncodified) methods for determining how LFO payments by felons should be credited. . .So felons who want to satisfy the LFO requirement are unable to do so, and will be prevented from voting in the 2020 elections and far beyond. Had Florida wanted to create a system to obstruct, impede, and impair the ability of felons to vote under Amendment 4, it could not have come up with a better one." Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12003 (11th Cir. 9/11/20)

VOTING RIGHTS-DISSENT (J. MARTIN): "I cannot. . .condone a system that is projected to take upwards of six years simply to tell citizens whether they are eligible to vote; that demands of those citizens information based on a legal fiction (of its own making) known as the "every-dollar" method; and which ultimately throws up its hands and denies citizens their ability to vote because the State can't figure out the outstanding balances it is requiring those citizens to pay. This system does not comport with due process of law." Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12003 (11th Cir. 9/11/20)

VOTING RIGHTS-DISSENT (J. MARTIN): "[B]ecause no formal policy, rule, or statute in Florida provides for the tracking of 'every dollar' paid, for many, this 'fact' the State demands to know is simply unknowable. This result cannot comport with due process. . . This process has all the certainty of counting jellybeans in a jar." Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12003 (11th Cir. 9/11/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202012003.enb.pdf

VOTING RIGHTS-DISSENT (J. MARTIN): "Sixty-five percent of Florida voters conferred the right to reenfranchisement upon returning citizens once they completed all terms of their sentence. With its Constitution amended in this way, Florida gained an obligation to establish procedures sufficient to determine the eligibility of returning citizens to vote, and to notify them of their eligibility in a prompt and reliable manner. The majority's decision. . .relieves the State of Florida of this obligation expected of it by its people." Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12003 (11th Cir. 9/11/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202012003.enb.pdf

VOTING RIGHTS-DISSENT (J. JORDAN): "Critically, the fact that Florida had restored voting rights to 0 felons as of the time of trial indicates that this scheme does not 'rationally' further the goal of reenfranchising felons. Instead, it shows that Florida's organs of government are doing their best to slowly but surely suffocate Amendment 4." Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12003 (11th Cir. 9/11/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202012003.enb.pdf

VOTING RIGHTS-DISSENT (J. JORDAN): "Florida's lack of good faith in the 18 months since the passage of Amendment 4 is undeniable and palpable. What Florida is really unhappy about is that the district court's advisory opinion process will actually require it to work, to do its job, within a specified time-frame. . .How can Florida make eligibility determinations without figuring out the amount of LFOs that a felon has outstanding? Florida cannot choose to condition the right to vote on payment of LFOs and then throw up its hands and refuse to tell potential voters how to fulfill that condition." Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12003 (11th Cir. 9/11/20)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202012003.enb.pdf

VOTING RIGHTS-DISSENT (J. PRYOR): "Nearly a century has passed since Langston Hughes pined for an America where 'opportunity is real' and '[e]quality is in the air we breathe.' In Florida, people convicted of felonies who have paid all the societal debts they can possibly pay were on the threshold of that America, welcomed home by Florida's electorate. Florida's voters had decided on their own initiative that the franchise should be restored to their fellow citizens. But Florida's legislature slammed the door shut, barring perhaps a million would-be voters from any real and equal opportunity to rejoin their fellow Floridians and denying the electorate their choice to grant that opportunity. . . I write separately only to add context and echo the outrage of my fellow dissenting colleagues. Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12003 (11th Cir. 9/11/20)

TEXTUALISM: "A straightforward textual analysis shows that 'by reason of' has the same meaning as 'on account of.' . . .But rather than confront the inevitable conclusion—that the two phrases are synonymous—our colleagues instead say that this means the dictionary definitions 'are of limited value.'. . .What they are saying, I think, is that they do not like the result of a simple textual analysis, and therefore feel free to go beyond the text's common understanding because that understanding is not helpful to their position. If that is textualism, textualism is a mirage." Jones v. Governor of Florida, No. 20-12003 (11th Cir. 9/11/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SUCCESSIVE: Defendant's motion for post conviction relief, based on allegation that counsel was ineffective for not investigating whether Defendant was incompetent based on amnesia causedby a jailhouse beating is dismissed as successive. Defendant's claim that his amnesia made him forget his earlier motion for post conviction relief is rejected. Further, the trial record, including the Defendant's thorough and highly detailed testimony, showed that the Defendant was not amnesiac. Roberts v. State, 1D19-4086 (9/11/20)

STUN BELT/RESTRAINTS: Defendant is entitled to a new trial where Court ordered him to wear a stun belt or to listen to the trial while outside the courtroom. A defendant has the right to be free of physical restraints, such as shackles and so forth, when in the presence of the jury, absent findings so justifying. Shaw v. State, 2D17-4664 (9/11/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: In death penalty case, Court may not consider a motion for new trial prior to sentencing Defendant. Court erred in granting a new death penalty phase based on argument that lead counsel was not qualified to handle death penalty cases without making a finding that Defendant did not receive a fair trial as a result. State v. Rosario, D19-1592 (9/11/20)

EVIDENCE: Unscientific experiment conducted by a police detective (shooting into a t-shirt from various distances) that was intended to prove that the victim was shot at close range was improperly admitted because it was not shown to be substantially similar to the actual event. EXPERT: "The State asserted that it was not offering Detective Hurst as any kind of expert, yet the State asked him to offer his opinion of which of the test-fired bullet holes in the test t-shirt most closely resembled the hole in Rhem's t-shirt. This was an end-run at offering the detective's opinion of the distance from which Rhem was shot." Witnesses may testify to their own observations of an event or an experiment, but they usually may not make comparisons between demonstrative aids and actual evidence. New trial required. Caro v. State, 5D19-1818 (11/20/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's sentence of life with a twenty-five-year mandatory minimum sentence as to Count III could have been imposed even in the absence of the scoresheet errors. Motion to Vacate an unlawful sentence filed outside the two-year time limit of R. 3.850, must be analyzed under R. 3.800(a). No relief may me granted under the"could-have-been-imposed" test. MISTRIAL: When a witness gives improper testimony (here, hearsay that a radiologist found that the victim's x-ray revealed no bone abnormalities), the proper procedure is for the defendant to request the court to instruct the jury to disregard such objectionable remarks, and not that a mistrial be entered by the court, unless the remarks are such that instructing the jury to disregard them would not cure the error. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Defendant should be allowed to amend motion to demonstrate that the evidence was not known to him or his counsel and could not have been discovered with due diligence by the time of trial, such as how and when he became aware of the affiant who claimed another had confessed to the robbery. APPEALS: Review of the transfer of a habeas corpus petition to another county should be treated as an appeal rather than a petition for certiorari. Reviewing such rulings as nonfinal, appealable venue orders is preferable to "navigating the jurisprudential shoals that extraordinary writs sometimes hold." Myrick v. Inch, 2D20-1772 (9/9/20)

EVIDENCE-TEXT MESSAGES-AUTHENTICATION: Text messages from a phone not identified as the appellant's and with inconclusive contextual clues are not properly authenticated. There is no specific list of requirements for authentication. Evidence may be authenticated by appearance, content, substance, internal patterns, or other distinctive characteristics taken in conjunction with the circumstances. Testimony that a person received a text or email from another is not sufficient, by itself, to authenticate the identity of the sender, but other factors can circumstantially authenticate the text. POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Evidence that Defendant's girl friend (mother of the victim in L & L case) threatened to put him away like she did her husband and that she would have her children lie about being sexually abused to ensure Defendant went to prison for the rest of his life is newly discovered evidence. Defendant is entitled to a hearing. Lamore v. State, 2D20-37 (9/4/20)

RETROACTIVITY: Amendment to s. 812.014 (changing threshold amounts for theft) applies retroactively. Theft of just over $400, committed before the threshold for grand theft changed from $300 to $750, must be charged as a misdemeanor. Dean v. State, 5D20-1097 (9/4/20)

RETROACTIVITY-SAVINGS CLAUSE: Savings Clause of the Florida Constitution provides that repeal of a criminal statute shall not affect prosecution for any crime committed before such repeal and means that there is no longer any provision in the Florida Constitution that would prohibit the Legislature from applying an amended criminal statute retroactively to pending prosecutions or sentences. Although criminal statutes generally apply prospectively, amendments to sentencing laws apply retroactively to cases in which the defendant has not yet been sentenced. Dean v. MEDICAL TREATMENT: The Eighth Amendment does not requires Florida prison officials to treat all inmates with chronic Hepatitis C—including those who have only mild (or no) liver fibrosis—with expensive, state-of-the-art direct acting antiviral (DAA) drugs. Medical treatment violates the Eighth Amendment only when it is so grossly incompetent, inadequate, or excessive as to shock the conscience or to be intolerable to fundamental fairness. Hoffer v. VOP-PERMISSIBLE SENTENCE: Fla. Stat. 948.06(2), limiting Court to imposing a sentence only up to 90 days, applies only when a defendant

PRR-VOP: When the State seeks to impose the PRR sentence and proves the PRR designation by a preponderance of the evidence before resentencing an offender that was originally facing a PRR sentence, the Court is required to impose the minimum mandatory sentence. State's initial waiver of the PRR sentence, pursuant to a negotiated plea, does not statutorily preclude the imposition of the PRR sentence upon violation of probation. There is no basis in Florida law for a permanent PRR waiver, and Defendant's violation of probation would have nullified the State's waiver under traditional contract principles. Foulks v. PROSECUTORIAL IMMUNITY: Prosecutor is immune from suit for malicious prosecution and false arrest based on prosecutor's application for a material witness warrant. Absolute prosecutorial immunity extends to both individual prosecutors assigned to the State Attorney's Office, as well as the State Attorney's Office itself. As quasi-judicial officers, prosecutors enjoy absolute immunity from lawsuits for damages resulting from the performance of their quasi-judicial functions of initiating or maintaining a prosecution. This is true regardless of whether the prosecutor acted maliciously or corruptly. Qadri v. Rivera-Mercado, 5D20-427 (8/31/20)

VOP-COLLUQUY: Rule 3.172 does not apply in probation revocation proceedings, but the minimum colloquy in VOP proceedings must inform the defendant of the allegations against him, his right to counsel, and the consequences of an admission or the right to a hearing and it shall afford him an opportunity to be heard. Colley v. State, 1D19-2831 (8/28/20)

INVERSE FALLACY: "In logic, the mere negation of an antecedent, by itself, is not a valid form of proof, because while the inverse of a true proposition might also be true, it does not have to be, and so it proves nothing on its own. . .[I]t is a well known principle of logic that a statement need not be true merely because its inverse is true." CELL PHONE-PASSCODE-FIFTH AMENDMENT: The Fifth Amendment protects a person from the compelled disclosure of a passcode to a passcode-protected smartphone. Compelling a defendant to provide orally the passcode to his smartphone is a testimonial communication protected under the Fifth Amendment and the foregone conclusion exception or doctrine does not apply to compelled oral testimony. The Fifth Amendment's protection also encompasses compelled statements that lead to the discovery of incriminating evidence. "Distilled to its essence, the revealing of the pass code is a verbal communication of the contents of one's mind." Conflict and question of great public importance certified. Garcia v. State, 5D19-590 (8/28/20)

FOREGONE CONCLUSION DOCTRINE: The "foregone conclusion" exception to the Fifth Amendment provides that an act of production does not violate the Fifth Amendment—even if it conveys a fact—if the State can demonstrate with reasonable particularity that, at the time it sought to compel the act of production, it already knew of the material sought, thereby making any testimonial aspect of the production a foregone conclusion. The foregone conclusion exception to the Fifth Amendment does not apply to compelled revelation of one's cell phone passcode. To apply the foregone conclusion rationale in these circumstances would allow the exception to swallow the constitutional privilege. Garcia v. State, 5D19-590 (8/28/20)

COSTS: Court errs in imposing $200 for the cost of prosecution and a separate $200 charge for "Indigency Defense Cost," rather than the statutory $100 assessment. Court must give notice of its intent to impose more than the statutory minimum amounts. Dennis v. State, 5D19-3499 (8/28/20)

VOP: 15 year sentence for VOP based on allegations that the Defendant failed to complete sex offender treatment and pay court costs is vacated. Findings in VOP hearing cannot be based solely on hearsay (including the amounts of unpaid court costs) that could not be admitted as substantive evidence in other proceedings. Defendant restored to probation. Mangini v. State, 5D19-3643 (8/28/20)

EXPUNCTION-JUVENILE: Discretion to deny expunction is not unfettered. Expunction may not be arbitrarily denied. Remanded for reconsideration of Denial of Expunction in juvenile case. J.F.T. v. State, 5D20-907 (8/28/20)

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF APPELLATE COUNSEL: In second-degree murder prosecution, where either the Defendant or his twin brother shot the victim, appellate counsel was ineffective for failing to argue that the Defendant's crime was improperly elevated from a first-degree to a life felony based on the Defendant's possession of a gun where the Jury made no finding that he had personal possession of the gun. When a defendant is charged with a felony involving the use of a weapon, his or her sentence cannot be enhanced under section 775.087(1) without evidence establishing that the defendant had personal possession of the weapon during the commission of the felony. The reclassification provision cannot be applied using the principal theory. Julian v. State, 5D20-1022 (8/28/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Where evidence that Defendant had raped and killed two year old victim is strong, any Giglio or Brady claim regarding whether neighbor had heard sounds consistent with the crime, if valid, is harmless. Davis v. State, SC19-1207 (8/27/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was deficient in not calling witnesses who would have shifted primary blame for a gruesome murder to a co-defendant, but there was no prejudice given the overwhelming evidence. Brown v. State, SC19-704 (8/27/20)

NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Inconsistent statements discovered after the trial showing a witness's relationship with the victim and her role in the events is material, but given that the victim was dragged her out of the house, repeatedly tased, beaten in the head with a crowbar, and then set her on fire but are not of such a nature that they would probably produce an acquittal on retrial. "[W]e believe the additional impeachment of Lee might result in a lesser sentence at a retrial. However, it cannot be said that it would probably result in a lesser sentence. . .The subjective assessment of the jurors, and perhaps the trial court, as to whether Brown should receive a death sentence might change, but the possibility that it would change does not meet the standard required for a new trial, which is a showing that it would probably change." Brown v. State, SC19-704 (8/27/20)

QUO WARRANTO-SUPREME COURT: Governor exceeded his authority in appointing Renatha Francis as Supreme Court Justice because she was constitutionally ineligIble since she had not been a member of the Bar for ten years at the time of the appointment, but because the proposed remedy--that the nominating commission submit to the Governor a new list--is not a permissible remedy, and because the Court will not require a remedy not requested, there is no remedy. DEPORTATION-STOP-TIME RULE: Applying the stop-time rule to a conviction from before the rule was enacted is impermissibly retroactive. Defendant is not subject to removal based on a crime (Resisting LEO with Violence) which occurred before Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act ("IIRIRA") took effect (April 1, 1997). Under the "stop-time rule," people convicted of certain crimes are no longer eligible for a discretionary cancellation of removal. Resisting a police officer with violence is a crime involving moral turpitude ("CIMT"). Rendon v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 19-10197 (11th Cir. 8/26/20)

JURISDICTION-MARITIME DRUG LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT: Congress lacks the authority constitutional authority under the Define and Punish Clause of the Constitution to criminalize acts committed in the territorial waters of foreign nations. Defendants cannot be prosecuted for marijuana seized from a boat in Jamaica's territorial waters, notwithstanding Jamaica's consent. A drug boat in Jamaican waters does not affect interstate commerce. "Congress's power to regulate commerce 'among the states,'. . . undoubtedly presents a different question than Congress's power to regulate commerce 'with foreign nations.' . . .[T]he question in this case. . .is whether there is a rational basis for concluding that the drug-trafficking conduct here in the territorial waters of a foreign nation, by foreign nationals using a foreign-registered vessel, of drugs not bound for the United States, substantially affects United States commerce with foreign nations. The record contains no evidence to support this conclusion." The MDLEA is unconstitutional and exceeded Congress's authority under the Foreign Commerce Clause. USA v. Davila-Mendoza, No. 17-12038 (11th Cir. 8/26/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: An arrest warrant founded on probable cause implicitly carries with it the limited authority to enter a dwelling in which the suspect lives when there is reason to believe the suspect is within. An officer's mistaken belief that a suspect was there at a particular time does not necessarily render a search unreasonable or prevent the admission of evidence obtained while attempting to arrest the suspect at that location so long as the officer's belief was reasonable in the first place. USA v. Mastin, No. 18-14241 (11th Cir. 8/26/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Police can detain the occupants of a dwelling, including bystanders, while they execute a search or arrest warrant. The permissible detention includes ordering occupants to crawl out of a hotel room. USA v. Mastin, No. 18-14241 (11th Cir. 8/26/20)

CROSS-EXAMINATION-SCOPE: Defendant was not deprived of his 6th Amendment Right of Confrontation by Order in Limine limiting questions about how the arrest warrants were obtained and served. Questions such as whether the officers had a search warrant would have had little bearing on the main testifying officer's credibility or supposed biases, prejudices or ulterior motives. USA v. Mastin, No. 18-14241 (11th Cir. 8/26/20)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE: Defendant may not raise on direct appeal ineffective assistance of counsel for failure to adequately cross-examine witnesses without claiming fundamental error. An appellate court should not allow an appellant to avoid application of the fundamental error standard by asserting that his trial counsel's failure to raise issues constitutes ineffective assistance. USA v. Mastin, No. 18-14241 (11th Cir. 8/26/20)

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Defendant is not entitled to a downward departure absent evidence that he is amenable to treatment and that there exists an acceptable treatment program to which he is accepted. Warianek v. State, 2D19-539 (8/26/20)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Court may not enter a judgment of conviction on the bifurcated count of possession of a firearm by a felon without a separate jury trial and verdict where Defendant had stipulated that he was a felon and he had been found guilty of armed kidnapping on the bifurcated count. The jury must reconvene for the second phase of the trial on the charge of possession of a firearm by a felon. Error is fundamental (State objected; Defense did not). Gonzalez v. State, 3D18-980 (8/26/20)

SENTENCING-REMORSE: At sentencing hearing, State may not argue Defendant's lack of remorse except in response to defense arguments based on remorse. Lack of remorse, the failure to accept responsibility, or the exercise of one's right to remain silent at sentencing may not be considered by the trial court in fashioning the appropriate sentence. New trial is required with a different judge. Gonzalez v. State, 3D18-980 (8/26/20)

EVIDENCE: Gloves found in a van are inadmissible absent a showing that they were used in the crime (State: "This glove just makes it more likely that these people were up to no good."). Evidence requiring an extended chain of inferences to be relevant or that suggests an improper basis for the jury's verdict should be excluded. The probative value, if any, of such evidence was far outweighed by its prejudicial effect. Gonzalez v. State, 3D18-980 (8/26/20)

BAIL: In setting bond, Court must take evidence and make findings on the statutory factors. A non-evidentiary hearing is insufficient. Remanded for hearing. Whether bond of $1,010,000 for racketeering/RICO, conspiracy to traffic in Oxycodone and conspiracy to traffic illegal drugs, where Defendant has approximately forty-six prior criminal and two of the underlying charges occurred while Defendant was on probation, depends on facts adduced at an evidentiary hearing. Yearby v. State, 3D20-1051 (8/26/20)

VOP-VFOSC: Court must make written findings that Defendant poses a danger to the community. The written findings requirement of section 948.06(8)(e) is mandatory, not discretionary. Smith v. State, 3D19-1029 (8/26/20)

VOP-APPEAL-PRESERVATION: Courts failure to make written findings as to which conditions of probation have been violated is not cognizable on appeal unless Defendant objected or moved to correct. Smith v. State, 3D19-1029 (8/26/20)

SENTENCING-SCORESHEET: Federal offense of distribution of a kilogram of cocaine (21 U.S.C. 841(a)(1) and 841(b)(1)(B)(ii)) is analogous or parallel to Fla.Stat. 893.135(1)(b)1.c. and are properly scored as priors. Smith v. State, 3D19-1004 (8/26/20)

MISTRIAL: The victim's singular comment describing Defendant's co-defendant as "the one in jail" was unsolicited; brief, isolated and inadvertent; not referenced during the remainder of the trial; and followed by the trial court's curative instruction does not warrant a mistrial. Cherisme v. State, 3D19-1551 (8/26/20)

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIME: In sexual assault case (unwanted fondling and penetration of a house guest) Court erred in admitting evidence of a separate incident of unwanted fondling of and sexual assertiveness on a different woman. For collateral sex crimes not involving minors to be admissible, significant similarity between the collateral evidence and the charged crime, evidence so similar and specific that it resembles a clear pattern of conduct, is required. The attack on the Williams rule witness on a bench in a public place is only minimally probative of the charged crime—repeated sexual batteries against a passed-out woman on a couch in a residential living room. Reyna v. State, 4D19-2306 (8/26/20)

VOP-PRISON SENTENCE: For Defendant to benefit from Section 948.06(2)(f)1. (limiting the sentence for VOP), he must meet all four conditions in the subsection (that the term of supervision is probation, the probationer does not qualify as a violent felony offender of special concern, the violation is a low-risk technical violation, and the Defendant has not previously been found in violation during the current term of supervision), notwithstanding the use of "any" rather than "all" before the list of the four conditions. Owens v. State, 1D20-540 (8/25/20)

ABSURDITY DOCTRINE: A literal interpretation of the language of a statute need not be given when to do so would lead to an unreasonable or ridiculous conclusion. The absurdity doctrine, in context, precludes interpreting the term “any” as anything other than “all” as used in s. 948.06(2)(f)1.a. Owens v. State, 1D20-540 (8/25/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: An evidentiary hearing is required for the trial court to properly determine whether newly discovered evidence (a confession by a third party) is of such nature that it would probably produce an acquittal on retrial. DeJesus v. State, 2D19-1747 (8/24/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is not entitled to a new immunity hearing where his hearing had occurred before the amended statute's effective date. Feaster v. State, 2D17-3612 (8/21/20)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Defendant is entitled to credit for the time he spent in prison from the date of the original sentencing to the date of resentencing. Chipman v. State, 2D18-1067 (8/21/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR-JURISDICTION: Court lacks jurisdiction to rescind its order granting resentencing for minor who had been sentenced to life in prison for murder with the possibilty of parole after 25 years because the motion for resentencing had been filed under R. 3.850 rather than 3.800. Resentencing hearing required but the same sentence may be imposed. Witteman v. State, 2D19-292 (8/21/20)

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court errs in imposing a downward departure on ground that Defendant was too young to appreciate the consequences of the offense where the Defendant was 22 years old. Court's reliance on its familiarity "with all of the scientific research that says that males, in particular, don't have their brains fully developed until they're aged 25," does not constitute competent, substantial evidence where there was no actual evidence presented by either party as to this "scientific research." Hunt v. State, 2D19-1583 (8/21/20)

failed to advise him of maximum sentence and mandatory minimum, the remedy is to order the State to reoffer the previously rejected offer. The remedy of only allowing a new trial would not only needlessly squander resources, but would also place Defedant in a worse position without neutralizing the taint of the constitutional violation. Elma v. State, 5D19-2409 (8/21/20)

COMPETENCY: Once Defendant's comptence is raised, Court may not resolve the case without making a competency determination. Appellate counsel was ineffective for failing to raise the issue. Schultz v. State, 5D20-1052 (8/21/20)

BAIL: Court may not give bond to a registered sexual offender arrested for violation of probation without first holding a hearing and determining that the Defendant would not pose a danger to the community. Certiorari relief is appropriate when a trial court grants a defendant post-arrest release from custody in violation of the plain language contained in a statute. State v. IMMIGRATION-JUDICIAL REVIEW: Appellate court may not review misrepresented that he was a citizen. Appellate court is precluded from reviewing any adjustment regarding the granting of relief from deportation except to the extent that such review involves constitutional claims or questions of law. DEFINITION-"JUDGMENT": "Judgment" is a broad term, encompassing both the process of forming an opinion as well the pronouncement. "Judgment" encompasses all decisions made by the BIA. STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: Where Defendant was lured to a meeting under false pretenses with three law enforcement officers in a small room, questioned aggressively, and required to remove his shirt, he reasonably believed he was in custody and was thus entitled to Miranda warnings. SENTENCING-MINOR-LENGTHY SENTENCE: Defendant is not entitled to a resentencing hearing when he is sentenced to 50 years in prison for a homicide committed while a minor.. Resentencing is not required where homicide defendant's sentence is not a life sentence, a mandatory life sentence or a de facto life sentence. A 50 year sentence is not a de facto life sentence. MANDAMUS: Defendant does not have a clear legal right to a ruling on a habeas corpus petition within 30 days of it being filed. Simpkins v. State, 1D20-2103 (8/17/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Where Court applied the wrong BOP at SYG hearing, at trial State overcame Defendant's self-defense claim by meeting the heavier trial burden of proof beyond a reasonable doubt, the Court's failure to require the State to overcome Defendant's immunity claim with clear and convincing evidence was cured. Little v. State, 4D18-3128 (8/19/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Attempted car burglary (jiggling a car door handle) is not a forcible felony justifying SYG immunity for Defendant who detained suspect at gunpoint. Display of a deadly weapon, without more, is not deadly force. Little v. State, 4D18-3128 (8/19/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Where the defendant did not discharge his loaded firearm but pointed it at another individual while vocally ordering that person to do something (get down on the ground), he threatened to use force, and ordinarily would not be entitled to SYG immunity. When a person points a loaded firearm at another person and issues a command to do something, this is generally an implied declaration that the failure to abide by the command will result in the discharge of the firearm, i.e., deadly force. Little v. State, 4D18-3128 (8/19/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-NON-DEADLY FORCE: Failure to give a non-deadly force instruction where Defendant pulled a gun on person jiggling the door handle of a parked car is not fundamental error. Little v. State, 4D18-3128 (8/19/20)

DEADLY FORCE: Pointing a firearm at another individual without discharging it is not use of deadly force, but is "threatened use of" deadly force, not permitted under SYG law. Little v. State, 4D18-3128 (8/19/20)

SENTENCING: Where a trial court's written sentencing order conflicts with the oral pronouncement, the oral pronouncement controls." Defendant's designation as a violent career criminal, because not orally pronounced, is vacated. Smith v. State, 4D19-1036 (8/19/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PRIVACY-MASSAGE PARLOR-STANDING: Defendant has a legitimate expectation of privacy in massage rooms where female employees offer a sexual act involving manual manipulation of the male genitals for money, and thus has standing to challenge the surveillance warrant. The spa-client defendants in all of these cases had a subjective and objectively reasonable expectation of privacy in the massage parlor rooms where clients are expected to partially or fully disrobe. "As soon as the door to the massage room was closed, they had a reasonable expectation of privacy." "[T]he state's circular argument that the defendants lacked a privacy interest because they were engaging in criminal behavior is uncompelling." State v. Kraft, 4D19-1499 (8/19/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PRIVACY-MASSAGE PARLOR-MINIMIZATION: Video surveillance requires minimization. The warrants, which did not set forth any specific written parameters to minimize the recording of innocent massage seekers, failed to contain sufficient minimization guidelines and the police did not sufficiently minimize the video recording of innocent spa goers receiving lawful massages. State v. Kraft, 4D19-1499 (8/19/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PRIVACY-MASSAGE PARLOR-MINIMIZATION: An order permitting video surveillance shall not be issued unless: (1) there has been a showing that probable cause exists that a particular person is committing, has committed, or is about to commit a crime; (2) the order particularly describes the place to be searched and the things to be seized; (3) the order is sufficiently precise so as to minimize the recording of activities not related to the crimes under investigation; (4) the judge issuing the order finds that normal investigative procedures have been tried and have failed or reasonably appear to be unlikely to succeed if tried or appear to be too dangerous; and (5) the order does not allow the period of interception to be longer than necessary to achieve the objective of the authorization, or in any event no longer than thirty days. State v. Kraft, 4D19-1499 (8/19/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-MINIMIZATION: "Should there be any doubt, as the state respectfully urges, that minimization procedures 'are not constitutionally required by the Fourth Amendment' . . ., we hereby find they are and caution that to hold otherwise would be directly counter to the Constitution, civil liberties, and the rule of law." State v. Kraft, 4D19-1499 (8/19/20)

EXCLUSIONARY RULE: Exclusionary rule applies to improperly minimized massage room surveillance. "We cannot conclude here that the law enforcement agencies acted in good faith with respect to minimization due to the lack of Florida law on point." State v. Kraft, 4D19-1499 (8/19/20)

EXCLUSIONARY RULE: Argument that exclusionary rule should not apply because the the victims could civilly sue is non-availing. "A costly, time-consuming civil remedy by unlawfully recorded persons is impractical and would not serve to meaningfully deter future violations. Were we to accept this argument, police in future cases could blatantly violate the privacy rights and Fourth Amendment protections of citizens and the only consequence would be the risk of future civil lawsuits that most citizens would not have the wherewithal to pursue." State v. Kraft, 4D19-1499 (8/19/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: "[T]he strict Fourth Amendment safeguards developed over the past few decades must be observed. . . .To permit otherwise would yield unbridled discretion to agents of law enforcement and the government, the antithesis of the constitutional liberty of people to be secure against unreasonable searches and seizures." State v. Kraft, 4D19-1499 (8/19/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-TRAFFIC STOP: Search is unlawful where officer unlawfully prolonged car stop by asking Defendant questions unrelated to the purpose of the stop (when his last traffic ticket was, if he had ever been arrested, how old his car was, whether he had drugs or a dead body in the car). An officer may conduct certain unrelated checks during an otherwise lawful traffic stop, but he may not do so in a way that prolongs the stop. A stop is unlawfully prolonged when an officer, without reasonable suspicion, diverts from the stop's purpose and adds time to the stop in order to investigate other crimes. But here the Good Faith exception applies because the officer relied on then binding but now overturned case law. USA v. Campbell, No. 16-10128 (8/14/20)

APPEALS: Government is not authorized to raise the Good Faith exception to an appeal of a search if not raised below, but appellate court may do so sua sponte. "Without announcing a bright-line rule, we hold that we can review the applicability of the waived good-faith issue here because of the narrow posture of this case and because the waived issue is resolved, as a matter of law, by our analysis of the constitutionality of [officer]'s search in this case. . .[W]e remain passive and neutral, without becoming a self-directed board of legal inquiry, even though we dispose of the case on an issue that was technically waived on appeal."

JIMMY RYCE: The report of Doctor who had evaluated the Detainee nine times which said that he was not a danger establishes probable cause that Detainee will not reoffend entitling him to a review trial. Higdon v. Secretary, DCF, 2D18-2620 (8/14/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy bars convictions for both home invasion robbery with a weapon (1st degree felony) and burglary of a dwelling with an assault with a weapon (1st PBL). The lesser crime should be (that which is the offense that has elements wholly subsumed by the other) should be vacated, even though, as here, the lesser offence (armed burglary) carries a more severe sanction. BASEBALL PLAYER SMUGGLING: CUBAN ADJUSTMENT ACT (CAA) and the Wet-Foot/Dry-Foor policy does not constitute "prior official authorization" to enter the United States, such that Defendants could not be convicted of smuggling baseball players from Cuba into the United Sttes to play baseball. USA v. Estrada, No. 17-15405 (11th Cir. 8/13/20)

EVIDENCE-LAY OPINION: Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) employee may testify about policy on unlocking immigration visa applications. A lay witness may base his opinion testimony on his examination of documents even when the witness was not involved in the activity because of the particularized knowledge that the witness has by virtue of his or her position in the business. USA v. Estrada, No. 17-15405 (11th Cir. 8/13/20)

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIMES: Evidence of violence and extortion third parties committed toward non-players or their families is admissible in case of smuggling baseball players from Cuba to USA as intrinsic evidence necessary to complete the story of the crimes and integral to the charged conspiracy. USA v. Estrada, No. 17-15405 (11th Cir. 8/13/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-CONCEDING GUILT: There is no blanket rule demanding the Defendant's explicit consent to a trial strategy of conceding guilt to a lesser offense. Only if the Defendant expressed to counsel that his objective was to maintain his innocence or that he expressly objected to any admission of guilt is his attorney necessarily ineffective in conceding guilt. Atwater v. State, SC19-1709 (8/13/20)

SCYLLA AND CHARYBDIS: "Darned if you do and darned if you don't. That dilemma is nothing new. Indeed, around 800 B.C.E., Homer wrote of the problem in his epic poem The Odyssey. There, the conundrum appeared when Odysseus found himself 'caught between the Scylla and Charybdis,' a phrase we continue to use today to refer to the darned-if-you-and-darned-if-you-don't scenario." See footnote citing to "Wrapped Around Your Finger" by The Police. STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-PROBATION: Statements made by Defendant (yes, I looked at child porn), because of condition of probation that Defendant must answer truthfully all inquiries by the probation officer, is compelled under the Fifth Amendment and neither the statement nor evidence derived from it may be used in a subsequent criminal prosecution "What is not permissible is giving a probationer a reasonable belief that if he refuses to answer his probation officer's incriminating questions, his probation will be revoked and then using statements derived as a result of that 'classic penalty situation' in a criminal prosecution." SENTENCING-ENHANCEMENT FOR PRIORS: Court may consider the "factual basis for the plea" to a prior offense only when it was confirmed by the Defendant, but inferences from the records support the conclusion that the Defendant had pled to two separate offenses, subjecting him to the ACCA enhancement. USA v. Carter, No. 18-148806 (11th Cir. 8/12/20)

HEARSAY-SELF-AUTHENTICATING DOCUMENTS: Only documents bearing a seal, not supporting documents accompanying the document with a seal, are admissible as a self-authenticating document under §90.902, but the custodian's business record certification nonetheless makes the letter admissible. PRR sentence is upheld. Locklear v. State, 1D19-1236 (8/12/20)

EXCESSIVE FORCE-QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Leaving a detainee in a hot, unventilated, un-air-conditioned van for transport between jails can be understood as excessive force. "[T]he need for detention in relatively harsh conditions depends both on the threat that the Detainee poses and on the feasibility of alternative means of holding him. Again, a sliding scale: Detention in harsher conditions may be justified where alternative modes of detention are not readily available, especially if the detainee poses a heightened risk of danger to police or the public; by contrast, where the detainee poses no particular risk or where an alternative is at hand, the "need" for harsher modes of detention dissipates." Officer is entitled to qualified immunity on excessive-force claim, but not on the deliberate-indifference claim. Patel v. Smith, No. 19-11253 (11th Cir. 8/11/20)

CRIME OF VIOLENCE-RICO CONSPIRACY: RICO conspiracy does not qualify as a crime of violence under §924(c). USA v. Green, No. 17-10346 (8/11/20)

EXCESSIVE SENTENCE: 120-year sentence (five-fold upward variance) is procedurally unreasonable in RICO drug conspiracy involving murder (for which the Defendant was acquitted) where the Court failed to adequately explain Defendant's sentence and relied on a clearly erroneous fact. USA v. Green, No. 17-10346 (8/11/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201710346.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ABANDONMENT: Fourth Amendment protection does not extend to abandoned property. Defendant abandoned his cell phone which had been seized incident to an arrest forDWLS four years before where he never sought to recover the phone. USA v. Green, No. 17-10346 (8/11/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201710346.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE: Court did not abuse its discretion in denying Defendant's requested strike made in contravention to the agreed voir dire procedure and after his counsel had accepted the panel on the defendants' behalf. USA v. Green, No. 17-10346 (8/11/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201710346.pdf

HEARSAY-CO-CONSPIRATOR STATEMENT: Testimony concerning street rumors that witness had heard that Defendant's murdered a named person is not admissible under co-conspirator exception to the hearsay rule where witness repeatedly clarified that she never overheard any of the co-conspirators say so. Error is harmless. USA v. Green, No. 17-10346 (8/11/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201710346.pdf

INCONSISTENT VERDICTS: Inconsistent jury verdicts are generally insulated from review because a jury may reach conflicting verdicts through mistake, compromise, or lenity. USA v. Green, No. 17-10346 (8/11/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201710346.pdf

FORFEITURE: Forfeiture is mandatory even where Defendant is convicted of a money laundering scheme that caused no financial harm to an innocently involved bank. Laundered money that winds up back with a victim of the scheme is still property "involved in" the offense for forfeiture purposes. USA v. Hatum, No. 18-11951 (8/11/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811951.pdf

EIGHTH AMENDMENT-EXCESSIVE FINE: Forfeiture order of $20,852,0006 is not excessively punitive, notwithstanding that money had already been returned to the bank with interest. Any forfeiture amount below the maximum fine will be presumptively constitutional. USA v. Hatum, No. 18-11951 (8/11/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811951.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PARKED CAR: Defendant who parked his car with its driver's-side tires resting along the fog line at the edge of a two-lane

road was unlawfully stopped. "[N]o one in this case—not the deputy, the prosecutor, the circuit court, or the State in this appeal—has ever identified a provision of law that forbids parking a vehicle in the manner that the deputy found objectionable." Bent v. State, 2D19-1920 (8/12/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for advising him to reject a plea offer because she wrongly believed that he could only be convicted of the lesser offense of burglary of a structure because the building he entered was uninhabitable. Rubino v. State, 2D19-2514 (8/12/20)

EVIDENCE-RELEVANCE-PREJUDICE: "The Punisher" logo on the grip of Defender's gun is admissible to show the distinctiveness of the firearm. Even if it should have been excluded, any error is harmless where Defendant killed two people (one run over, one run over and shot) and hit, shot or crashed his car into three more. Wong v. State, 3D19-1291 (8/12/20)

ATTEMPTED SECOND DEGREE MURDER: Attempted Second Degree Murder with a Firearm is a first degree felony, not a life felony. Lagandeur v. State, 3D19-1157 (8/12/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: In order to obtain a new trial based on newly discovered evidence, a defendant must show that the evidence must not have been known by the trial court, the party, or counsel at unknown and unknowable with due diligence and must be of such nature that it would probably produce an acquittal on retrial. A recantation will not be considered newly discovered evidence where the recantation offers nothing new or where the recantation is offered by an untrustworthy individual who gave inconsistent statements all along. Lightner v. State, 3D19-1681 (8/12/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BLOOD DRAW-SEARCH WARRANT: Search is lawful where the search warrant specified that two samples must be seized but only one was. While an officer does not have the power to seize anything not specified in the warrant, he can exercise discretion to leave items that may arguably come within the literal terms of the search warrant. State v. Aaron, 3D19-8 (8/12/20)

JUVENILE-JURISDICTION: Court lacks jurisdiction beyond the age of 19 over a Child in cases for which he is not a sex offender, notwithstanding that in a different case he is on supervision as a juvenile sex offender. K.D. v. State, 4D19-2196 (8/12/20)

SENTENCING-CTS-STATE CHARGE: Where Defendant is sentenced to twenty years on a state charge of burglary and is later prosecuted on a federal charge of possession of firearm by a felon based on the same acts, the Court must adjust its guideline sentence to account for the time already served on the state case. 5G1.3(b)(1) of the Sentencing Guidelines requires that a district court shall adjust a defendant's sentence for time served on a related sentence if the court determines that such period of imprisonment will not be credited to the federal sentence by the Bureau of Prisons. Adjustment is mandatory. USA v. Henry, No. 18-15251 (11th Cir. 8/7/20)

instructions in the Guidelines. USA v. Henry, No. 18-15251 (11th Cir. 8/7/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201815251.pdf

EVIDENCE-INTERROGATION-REDACTION: Court did not err in allowing various statements by officers during the interrogation where Defendant's story evolved from from complete denial to consensual intercourse and striking the homicide victim in the head. A jury may hear an interrogating detective's statements about a crime when the statements provoke a relevant response from the defendant being questioned. Whitfield v. State, 1D18-4280 (8/7/20)

ARGUMENT: State may argue its interpretation of a partially inaudible recording which has been admitted in evidence. Wilson v. State, 1D19-3764 (8/7/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus is not available to obtain the kind of collateral postconviction relief available by motion in the sentencing court pursuant to rule 3.850. Habeas corpus may not be used for obtaining additional appeals of issues which were or should have been raised, on direct appeal or prior postconviction filings. Ferguson v. Inch, 1D20-1642 (8/7/20)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/642305/7295531/file/201642_DA08_08072020_132840_i.pdf

CONTINUANCE: Court abused its discretion in denying continuance when State materially amended its information and added, on the eve of trial, three additional law enforcement witnesses. Turner v. State, 2D18-4281 (8/7/20)

https://www.2dca.org/content/download/642261/7295031/file/184281_DC13_08072020_083635_i.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-SUCCESSIVE PETITION: Where Court amended its original judgment nunc pro tunc, the amended sentence is not a new judgment, so a §2244(b) habeas corpus action would be an unauthorized second or successive petition, beyond the Court's jurisdiction. Osborne v. Secretary, DOC, No. 18-11004 (11th Cir. 8/6/20)

HABEAS CORPUS: Before a petitioner may file a second or successive §2254 habeas petition, the petitioner first must obtain an order from this Court authorizing the district court to consider the petition. Without it, the district court lacks jurisdiction to consider a second or successive habeas petition. Osborne v. Secretary, DOC, No. 18-11004 (11th Cir. 8/6/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811004.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEFECTIVE INFORMATION: Counsel is not ineffective for failing to dismiss an information with does not cite an applicable subsection of the armed robbery statute. An information is fundamentally defective only where it totally omits an essential element of the crime or is so vague, indistinct or indefinite that the defendant is misled or exposed to double jeopardy. Boone v. State, 1D19-3282 (8/6/20)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/642221/7294564/file/193282_DC05_08062020_141900_i.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Defendant can be found guilty of both Aggravated Battery with a Firearm and Robbery with a firearm. Each requires proof of a fact that the other does not. Robbery requires proof of a taking or depriving of property, an element that battery does not require. Battery requires an actual and intentional touching of the victim, which is not necessarily an element of robbery. Boone v. State, 1D19-3282 (8/6/20)

INCONSISTENT VERDICTS: Factually inconsistent verdicts that do not negate a necessary element for another count are lawul. Defendant may be found guilty of armed robbery with a firearm and aggravated battery despite the jury finding that he did not actually possess the firearm. Boone v. State, 1D19-3282 (8/6/20)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/642221/7294564/file/193282_DC05_08062020_141900_i.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-INDEPENDENT ACT: Defendant was not entitled to an independent act instruction in robbery case where evidence showed that the Defendant actively participated in the robbery (hitting victim in the head and either struggling with or shooting the victim). Boone v. State, 1D19-3282 (8/6/20)

HEARSAY: Rebuttal witness is allowed to testify that an officer told him that Defendant's clothes were not found at the burglarized home (contradicting Defendant's defense that he went in the home by invitation to retrieve his clothes). The statement of the non-testifying witness was not used in the State's case-in-chief to establish Defendant's guilt; rather, it was introduced in rebuttal solely to impeach his testimony that he had been invited to Victim's home to retrieve clothing. The testimony was hearsay, but was nevertheless admissible to impeach Defendant's narrative. Butler v. State, 3D19-1172 (8/5/20)

NON-UNANIMOUS VERDICT: Multiple acts of penetration involving the same victim occurring over the course of a few hours as part of an ongoing criminal episode can support one conviction without violating the rule prohibiting the possibility of a non-unanimous verdict. Pestano v. State, 3D19-180 (8/5/20)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/642147/7293681/file/200880_DA08_08052020_105432_i.pdf

MANIFEST INJUSTICE: Appellate courts have the authority to correct a manifest injustice by way of habeas corpus, but the mere incantation of the words "manifest injustice" does not make it so. Missing charge conference transcript does not thwart meaningful appellate review rising to manifest injustice. Lightner v. State, 3D20-880 (8/5/20)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/642147/7293681/file/200880_DA08_08052020_105432_i.pdf

COLLATERAL CRIME EVIDENCE-SEX CASES: Collateral crime evidence of Defendant fondling a previous girl friend's prepubesent daughter is admissible in lewd and lascivious molestation of a new girl friend's daugher. Collateral crime evidence in sex case is admissible to corroborate a victim's testimony regardless of whether the charged and collateral offenses occurred in the familial context or whether they share any similarity, but the probative value of relevant evidence be weighed against its potential for unfair prejudice. The similarity of the collateral act and charged offense is a critical consideration. Good discussion. Pridemore v. State, 4D19-1555 (8/5/20)

HEARSAY-SUICIDE NOTE: Child victim's suicide note, in which she wrote about being molested, is admissible. Pridemore v. State, 4D19-1555 (8/5/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court must address only those claims of ineffective assistance of counsel which are clearly articulated in a motion for post conviction relief. A vague coercion claim need not be specifically addressed by the Court when it was subsumed in other claims. Barritt v. Secretary, DOC, No. 16-17789 (11th Cir. 8/4/20)

VINDICTIVENESS: Filing of additional charges in the context of plea negotiations is not necessarily retaliatory. Barritt v. Secretary, DOC, No. 16-17789 (11th Cir. 8/4/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201617789.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-CHILD PORN: One videotape containing four separate incidents of Defendant molesting his stepdaughter can constitute four separate offenses of possession of child pornography. "[Defendant's] argument would effectively mean that the defendant's chosen manner of storage dictates how many offenses he has committed—rather than the number of offending representations he actually created or possessed. His argument is especially unpersuasive considering that, for example, both the films Casablanca and Godzilla could be stored on the same videotape yet obviously would not constitute a single 'motion picture.'" SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSENSUAL ENCOUNTER: Officers may approach a car parked in grassy area between fence around home and the street, tap on the window with flashlight and question the occupants. USA v. Knights, No. 19-10083 (11th Cir. 8/3/20)

COMPETENCY: Court is not required to conduct a competency hearing where Defendant demonstrated a continued understanding of the proceedings, ability to consult with his counsel, and ability to assist with his defense, notwithstanding Defendant's description of himself as "discombobulated." USA v. Cometa, No. 19-11282 (11th Cir. 8/3/20)

EVIDENCE-SUMMARY CHARTS: Where the underlying evidence is made up of voluminous Medicare claims, summary charts are permitted under F.E.R. 1006. The essential requirement is not that the charts be free from reliance on any assumptions, but rather that these assumptions be supported by evidence in the record. A sufficiently qualified expert is not required as a basis for entering the comparison charts. USA v. Melgen, No. 18-10991 (11th Cir. 7/31/20)

NEW EVIDENCE: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial under R. 33 for evidence which is merely impeaching. USA v. Melgen, No. 18-10991 (11th Cir. 7/31/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201810991.pdf

SENTENCING-REASONABLENESS: In reviewing a sentence for reasonableness, the appellate court must first consider whether the district court committed any significant procedural error, and next whether the sentence was substantively reasonable. 204 months for extensive Mericare fraud by opthalmologist is not unreasonable. USA v. Melgen, No. 18-10991 (11th Cir. 7/31/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is not entitled to a new SYG hearing where the immunity hearing was held before the effective date of the 2017

amendment, which shifted the burden of proof to the State. Whitham v. State, 2D16-3388 (7/31/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE-EVIL TWIN DEFENSE: Defendant who was convicted at trial after a failed identity defense is entitled to a hearing on claim that his brother was the real perpetrator who confessed after the trial. Evidence can be treated as newly discovered where it is based on newly available testimony of defendants who were previously unwilling to testify. Baker v. State, 2D19-2944 (7/31/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Case remanded a second time for Court to determine whether counsel was ineffective for failing to object to trial court's comments at sentencing. Court may not base its ruling on trial counsel's subjective perception that the court's comments were not a basis for Johns's sentence. Trial counsel's performance is measured by an objective standard. New judge required. Johns v. State, 5D19-2883 (7/31/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's claim that he was overdosed on psycotropic medication the extent that he was hallucinating at the time of his plea, rendering it involuntary, is refuted by the record. Being prescribed psychotropic medications while incarcerated does not equate to involuntary intoxication. Annicchiarico v. State, 5D19-3033 (7/31/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's assertion that he was not afforded the benefit of the negotiated range of sentences for leading the police to the location of the victim's body, which he did, although they did not find it until years later exactly where he had indicated, while concerning, does not warrant relief on appeal because it was not raised at the evidentiary hearing. CRIME OF VIOLENCE: Hobbs Act robbery and carjacking are crimes of violence. USA v. Smith, No. 18-13969 (11th Cir. 7/30/20)

PHOTO LINEUP: Photo line-up in which Defendant is the only one with two-toned dreadlocks is not unduly suggestive. USA v. Smith, No. 18-13969 (11th Cir. 7/30/20)

EVIDENCE: In armed robbery case, music video which shows the Defendant acting out a robbery, comparing himself to El Chapo, and promoting himself as a gangster ("If I pull up on you, you'll get buried") is admissible to show identity and to corroborate victim's testimony that the Defendant was a rapper and videographer who had shown her that video. The video's potential for unfair prejudice did not substantially outweigh its probative value. USA v. Smith, No. 18-13969 (11th Cir. 7/30/20)

HOBBS ACT-INTERSTATE COMMERCE: Robbery of victim by taking video editing software (Pro Tools software) used by the victim's business satisfies the affecting-interstate-commerce element. The effect on interstate commerce may be minimal. There is no requirement that the criminal and victim have a commercial relationship. The element of effect on interstate commerce can apply to the robbery of an individual when (1) the crime depletes the assets of an individual who is directly engaged in interstate commerce; (2) the crime causes the individual to deplete the assets of an entity engaged in interstate commerce; or (3) the number of individuals victimized or the sums involved are so large that there will be a cumulative impact on interstate commerce. USA v. Smith, No. 18-13969 (11th Cir. 7/30/20)

FIRST STEP ACT: Under the First Step Act, the 25-year mandatory minimum consecutive sentence required by that statute does not apply to multiple §924(c) convictions resulting from a single prosecution. Instead, the mandatory minimum consecutive sentences for second or subsequent §924(c) convictions apply only where the later conviction is for a §924(c) violation that occurs after a previous one has become final. USA v. Smith, No. 18-13969 (11th Cir. 7/30/20)

RETROACTIVITY-FIRST STEP ACT: First Step amendment to §924(c) limiting its consecutive application does not apply retroactively to before the sentences are imposed. USA v. Smith, No. 18-13969 (11th Cir. 7/30/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201813969.pdf

RETROACTIVITY: The general rule is that when an amendment clarifies prior law rather than changing it, no concerns about retroactive application arise and the amendment is applied to the present proceeding as an accurate restatement of prior law. USA v. Smith, No. 18-13969 (11th Cir. 7/30/20)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: The title of a statute and the heading of a section cannot limit the plain meaning of the text. The heading or title of a statute cannot trump the plain meaning of the text. USA v. Smith, No. 18-13969 (11th Cir. 7/30/20)

EQUITABLE TOLLING: Attorney negligence (failure to pay filing fee or apply for indigency waiver), even gross or egregious negligence, does not qualify as an extraordinary circumstance for purposes of equitable tolling. Clemons v. Commissioner, No. 16-13020 (11th Cir. 7/30/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Probable cause to search a lawfully stopped vehicle justifies the search of every part of the vehicle and its contents that may conceal the object of the search. Charley v. State, 1D19-732 (7/27/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-MARIJUANA: The odor of burnt cannabis emanating from a vehicle constitutes probable cause to search all occupants of that vehicle. Charley v. State, 1D19-732 (7/27/20)

CRUEL OR UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT: Rule 3.800(a) cannot be used as a vehicle for challenging the constitutionality of a sentencing statute. Wilson v. State, 1D19-4585 (7/27/29)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to advise him of a possible coerced consent defense to the search of his cell phone. Patterson v. State, 2D19-2495 (7/29/20)

APPEAL-JURISDICTION: Defendant cannot appeal an order granting his Rule 3.800(a) motion. Cason v. State, 3D20-280 (7/29/20)

VOP: Court must reduce its oral pronouncements to a written order during Defendant's probation revocation hearing. Ward v. State, 3D18-2530 (7/29/20)

MISTRIAL: Defendant is not entitled to a mistrial when witness referred to the gun used in the shooting as an AK-47 ("KKK47") in violation of the Order in Limine. An isolated inadvertent remark which does not become the focus of the trial does not warrant a mistrial. Ward v. State, 3D18-2534 (7/29/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Defendant is not entitled to a new probation hearing based on recanted testimony (child of victim later said victim shot herself in the leg) where Court is not satisfied that the recantation is true and the witness' testimony will not change to such an extent as to render probable a different verdict. Recanting testimony is exceedingly unreliable. Ferguson v. State, 3D19-2286 (7/29/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Where Child is found seated with two others next to a stove being used to cook crack cocaine in the small kitchen of a private house, officers have probable cause of joint, constructive possession, justifying the arrest and search of the Child. A suspect's location in a private residence with others where drugs are openly being processed establishes joint constructive possession sufficient to search. J.J. v. State, 3D18-398 (7/29/20)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/641733/7289145/file/180398_NOND_07292020_111744_i.pdf

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Proximity alone is not enough to establish constructive possession, but proximity plus evidence of drug dealing may show joint constructive possession sufficient to search, although perhaps not sufficient to convict. J.J. v. State, 3D18-398 (7/29/20)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/641733/7289145/file/180398_NOND_07292020_111744_i.pdf

PROBABLE CAUSE: Probable cause requires only a probability or substantial chance of criminal activity, not an actual showing of such activity. It is not a high bar. The probable cause standard merely requires that the facts available to the officer would warrant a man of reasonable caution in the belief that evidence of a crime may be found. It does not demand any showing that such a belief be correct or more likely true than false. Probable cause is more than bare suspicion but is less than beyond a reasonable doubt and, indeed, is less than a preponderance of the evidence.

Probable cause doesn't require proof that something is more likely true than false. J.J. v. State, 3D18-398 (7/29/20)

VOP: Arrest report and Defendant's testimony that she was arrested is insufficient to establish a violation of probation. Brown v. State, 3D19-542 (7/29/20)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/641734/7289157/file/190542_DC08_07292020_112430_i.pdf

VIOLENT FELONY OFFENDER OF SPECIAL CONCERN: VFOSC applies only to individuals who were on adult felony probation or community control before a violation of supervision occurred, and it does not apply to juveniles sentenced in adult court to juvenile sanctions. Evans v. State, 4D18-3111 (7/29/20)

https://www.4dca.org/content/download/641674/7288405/file/183111_DC08_07292020_085205_i.pdf

JUVENILE SANCTION REVOCATION: Revoking Defendant's juvenile sanctions on the basis of prior adjudications and supervision history violates Due Process. Court violates Due Process when it was equally, if not more, concerned about Appellant's escalating criminal record and use of weapons during the prior offenses rather than the new offense. Evans v. State, 4D18-3111 (7/29/20)

JUVENILE SANCTION REVOCATION: Defendant charged as an adult but sentenced to juvenile sanctions who violated conditional relief with a new crime. Court may not revoke juvenile sanctions for reasons not listed in the DJJ's affidavit of unsuitability, i.e. prior supervision hearing. Evans v. State, 4D18-3111 (7/29/20)

JUVENILE SANCTION REVOCATION: Revocation of juvenile sanctions is a sequential three step process, where the trial court has to decide: (1) did Appellant willfully commit a substantive violation of supervision conditions; (2) if so, should probation supervision be revoked; and (3) if probation supervision is revoked, what is the appropriate sentence. Where Court blurs the process by mixing evidence for the different determinations, the trial court's analysis becomes flawed. Evans v. State, 4D18-3111 (7/29/20)

APPEAL-COMPETENCY: An order determining competency is not independently reviewable. Defendant may not appeal nunc pro tunc determination of competency until final judgment is entered. Pittman v. State, 4D19-995 (7/29/20)

JUVENILE-SECURE DETENTION-FTA: A juvenile who FTA's and has previously willfully FTA'ed may not be placed in detention for more than 72 hours when the child scores a zero on his risk assessment instrument. N.W. v. State, 1D20-2058 (7/24/20)

SENTENCING-MINOR-LENGTHY SENTENCE: Minor who receives a lengthy sentence short of life is not entitled to a resentencing hearing. Gilchrist v. State, 5D18-3545 (7/24/20)

SENTENCING: In sentencing Defendant for his role in selling marijuana, Court did not err in considering that Defendant had shot (in self defense) the buyer, who tried to violently rob his group. ("I cannot. . lose sight of the fact that somebody's dead. . .as a result of a drug deal that you participated in. Wasn't your weed, you weren't going to get the money, but you knew a drug deal was going to happen. . . you took a gun there. . .there's somebody dead.") In sentencing, Court may consider conduct that was uncharged but substantiated. Constantin v. State, 5D19-328 (7/24/20)

VOP: Homeless Defendant is properly convicted on violation of probation for trespassing notwithstanding that evidence was unclear as to whether he knew where the property lines were. Romero v. State, 5D19-2570 (7/24/20)

TOO MANY COOKS: Defendant's 12 attorneys' performances were deficient due to their failure to communicate to Defendant his potential total sentence and the application of the sentencing guidelines; to seek a negotiated plea and to relay to him the plea offers, but Defendant (sentenced to forty years after trial) suffered no prejudice because it is not clear that he would have provided substantial assistance. Carmichael v. USA, No. 17-13822 (11th Cir. (7/22/20)

PLEA BARGAINING: "Carmichael's position that he would not proffer unless and until he was promised a guaranteed sentence simply ignores the realisms of how pleas and cooperation work in the real world. . .[A] defendant cannot just volunteer to cooperate. . .He must first (among other things) disclose to the prosecution what information he actually has. That disclosure is typically done in a proffer session. . .The point is as tautological as it is true: before a defendant proffers, the government cannot possibly determine whether it will offer a plea deal, much less what sentence it will recommend to the sentencing court based upon his cooperation. . .To be clear, the proffer session is a gateway into (not the capstone of) the parties' cooperation discussions." Carmichael v. USA, No. 17-13822 (11th Cir. (7/22/20)

SAD LOVE STORY: "The defendant bought a one-way airline ticket to Miami from Oklahoma to 'surprise' her, originally with the intent to win back her affection. But, when the defendant went to a Miami-area Walmart to buy her flowers, the defendant ended up buying a set of knives. . .When he arrived at the wife's apartment, the defendant told his wife that they 'needed some time apart' and then 'he stabbed her.'" Sosataquechel v. State, 3D19-1095 (7/22/20)

INTERPRETER: A non-English speaking defendant has the right to an interpreter, a right grounded on due process and confrontation considerations of the Constitution. But court does not err in not requiring an interpreter when Defendant had appeared before this same trial court judge on many prior occasions, and had engaged the court in English without any difficulty and without asking for an interpreter. Calana-Reinoso v. State, 3D18-2114 (7/22/20)

HFO-PRR: An Indiana DUI conviction (a felony because a second offense) is not a similar offense to a Florida felony DUI (a felony because a third offense). The statutes must be substantially similar, and the out-of-state statute cannot be broader than Florida's statute. The non-similar out-of-state conviction cannot support an HFO or PRR enhancement. Long v. State, 4D17-3261 (7/22/20)

IMPEACHMENT-NEGATIVE IMPEACHMENT: Omission of significant facts by child to the first person to whom she reported molestation is admissible as negative impeachment. The theory of admissibility is not that the prior statement is true and the in-court testimony is false, but that because the witness has not told the truth in one of the statements, the jury should disbelieve both statements. Hawn v. State, 4D19-647 (7/22/20)

IMPEACHMENT-PRIOR INCONSISTENT STATEMENT: A foundation must be laid before impeaching with an inconsistent statement by calling to the witness's attention the time, place, and person to whom the statement was allegedly made. If the witness denies making or does not distinctly admit making the prior inconsistent statement, extrinsic evidence of such statement is admissible. If the witness cannot recall making the prior inconsistent statement, the fact that the statement was made may be proved by another witness. Hawn v. State, 4D19-647 (7/22/20)

IMPEACHMENT-NEGATIVE IMPEACHMENT: An omission in a previous out-of-court statement about which the witness testifies at trial can be considered an inconsistent statement for impeachment purposes, if the omission is a material, significant fact rather than mere details and would naturally have been mentioned. Such an omission is referred to as "negative impeachment." Hawn v. State, 4D19-647 (7/22/20)

HEARSAY-STATEMENT AGAINST INTEREST: Defendant's testimony that his brother had confessed to the murder to him is hearsay, not admissible as a statement against interest because the brother was not unavailable as a witness. Chambers v. Mississippi argument is not preserved because not raised at trial. Gentry v. State, 4D19-787 (7/22/20)

WAIVER OF APPEARANCE: Court must accept Defendant's written waiver of appearance at a sounding scheduled by the court, absent good cause. Scott v. State, 3D20-417 (7/22/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SELF-DEFENSE: Counsel is not ineffective for failing to discuss a self-defense claim before entering a plea of guilty where the facts, according to the Defendant's version, do not support self-defense. Sosataquechel v. State, 3D19-1095 (7/22/20)

SENTENCING-DEPARTURE-VARIANCE: 480-month sentence where guidelines recommend 18 months is a valid variance for possession of child pornography committed by a serial child molester. USA v. Hall, No. 18-14145 (7/21/20)

SENTENCING-DEPARTURE-VARIANCE: A variance is a sentence imposed outside the guidelines range when the court determines that a guidelines sentence will not adequately further the purposes of §3553(a). A departure refers only to non-Guidelines sentences imposed under the framework set out in the Guidelines. A court must give the parties advance notice if it is considering departing from the guidelines range calculated in the PSR, but it need not give advance notice if it is considering varying from that range. USA v. Hall, No. 18-14145 (11th Cir. 7/21/20)

SENTENCING-DEPARTURE-VARIANCE: Whether a sentence is a departure or variance depends on the Court cited a specific guidelines departure provision or whether its rationale was based on the §3553(a) factors and a determination that the guidelines range was inadequate. SENTENCING-HEARSAY: Court may rely on hearsay in PSR in imposing a significant upward variance where Defendant has an opportunity to refute it and it bears a minimal indicia of reliability. USA v. Hall, No. 18-14145 (7/21/20)

RULE OF SEQUESTRATION: Prosecutor does not violate the rule of sequestration when he met with a detective during a break and discussed his potential testimony on recall, while the detective was still under oath. Gorman v. State, 1D19-4470 (7/21/20)

ILLEGAL SENTENCE-MANDATORY MINIMUM: Defendant may not move to correct an illegal sentence for failure to impose a mandatory minimum because the sentence was not adverse to him. Joiner v. State, 1D19-4542 (7/21/20)

APPEAL-JURISDICTION: A trial court is without jurisdiction to consider the merits of a successive motion while a related appeal is pending but may determine that the motion is procedurally barred and may dismiss the motion as successive or untimely. Sapeg v. State, 20-1104 (7/21/20)

SENTENCING-MANDATORY MINIMUM: Consecutive mandatory minimum imprisonment terms for multiple firearm offenses is impermissible if the offenses arose from the same criminal episode and a firearm was merely possessed but not discharged. Powell v. State, 1D19-1819 (7/20/20)

MOTION TO MITIGATE: Motion for modification or reduction of sentence is untimely when filed more than sixty days after the defendant's sentence became final. Whiting v. State, 1D19-4373 (7/20/20)

OLD BALD MAN: "On February 1, he sent her three links to sexually explicit videos. The first video depicted 'an older bald gentleman' and a female engaging in various sexual acts including sexual intercourse. The second video depicted a female engaging in various sex acts with 'an older, bald, white male.' While it is debatable that Deason's 39 years made him 'old' or 'older, there is no debate that he was a 'bald white male.' The third video Deason sent a link to was an instructional video about masturbation for women. It, at least, did not feature an old bald man." USA v. Deason, No. 17-12218 (11th Cir. 7/17/20)

SEX CASE-PLEASE RESTATE THAT: ". . .they flesh out an issue in a way the parties' briefs may not." USA v. Deason, No. 17-12218 (11th Cir. 7/17/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201712218.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA-CUSTODIAL INTERROGATION: Defendant's confession to soliciting a minor on his front porch is not a custodial interrogation and thus does not require Miranda warnings. "The only question is whether he was 'in custody' at some point during the interview, which would have required a Miranda warning. [citation omitted] The only correct answer is 'no.'" A defendant is in custody for the purposes of Miranda when there has been a formal arrest or restraint on freedom of movement of the degree associated with a formal arrest. The test is objective: the actual, subjective beliefs of the defendant and the interviewing officer on whether the defendant was free to leave are irrelevant. USA v. Deason, No. 17-12218 (11th Cir. 7/17/20)

CHILD PORN-SUFFICIENCY: Government need not submit the entire child porn videos. Parts of the videos, screenshots and testimony about the contents of the video are sufficient to prove that the videos were obscene. USA v. Deason, No. 17-12218 (11th Cir. 7/17/20)

EVIDENCE-SPECIFICITY: Defendant is properly convicted of attempting to transfer obscene matter to a minor notwithstanding that indictment and verdict did not specify which of the 67 images and which of the three videos that he sent were alleged to be obscene where issue was not preserved and at least two videos are clearly pornographic. "[I]f there were any problems with the specificity of the superseding indictment, Deason waived or invited the error, or he at least consented to it." USA v. Deason, No. 17-12218 (11th Cir. 7/17/20)

EVIDENCE-SCREENSHOTS: Screenshots and testimony about child porn videos is admissible and sufficient. "Even if [Defendant] is correct that admitting the screenshots and allowing [Detective] to testify about the content of the videos was error under the best evidence rule, or was error under Rule 1006, or was improper lay opinion testimony, he still cannot establish the third element of plain error review: that the error affected his substantial rights." BURGLARY: An indictment or information charging burglary is not required to specify the offense which the accused is alleged to have intended to commit. Grant v. State, 2D18-2874 (7/17/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-BURGLARY: In burglary case, where crime to be committed is not specified, jury instruction must explain that at the time of entering the structure, Defendant had the intent to commit an offense other than burglary or trespass in that structure. Court "specifically refused to instruct the jury using the standard instruction because the court did not understand the instruction and was not interested in giving it 'just for grins.' This was error." Grant v. State, 2D18-2874 (7/17/20)

MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE-8TH AMENDMENT: Consecutive life sentences with possibility of release after 25 and 20 years respectively (45 years) for a minor is cruel and unusual punishment. The mandated opportunity for release would be wholly illusory. When continued incarceration advances no penological purpose, the punishment runs afoul of the Eighth Amendment's prohibition of cruel and unusual punishment. Sentences must be concurrent. Mack v. State, 2D18-3113 (7/17/20)

SENTENCING-CHILD PORNOGRAPHY: 636.45 months in prison on each count (bottom to the guidelines for multiple counts of possesson of pornography) is lawful, notwithstanding that the term exceeds the statutory maximum. Emke v. State, 2D18-3943 (7/17/20)

VOP: Court must enter a revocation order that details the conditions which Defendant willfully and substantially violated and may not find that a probationer violated a condition not charged in the affidavit of probation violation. Blair v. State, 2D18-45 (7/17/20)

JOA-ROBBERY BY SUDDEN SNATCHING: Defendant who attacked Victim in her apartment, beat her up, threatened to kill her, and stole approximately $800 from her cannot be found guilty of robbery by sudden snatching where victim testified that he took her money but never clarified where the money was located when he stole it. For the crime of robbery by sudden snatching the property must be on the person of the victim. Rettley v. State, 5D18-4002 (7/17/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-RESTITUTION: A claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to challenge the amount of restitution can be raised in a postconviction motion. Weiker v. State, 5D19-2478 (7/17/20)

VOP: Defendant cannot be found to have violated probation when affidavit only charged Condition 30 (that she return for her next appearance in drug court) but the evidence related to Condition 29 (that she successfully complete drug court). Defendant admitted to testing positive, but not to being discharged from drug court, nor did she admit to failing to appear at drug court. Brockhaus v. State, 5D19-2918 (7/17/20)

INVESTIGATIVE COSTS: Court may not impose $100 investigative cost which was not requested. Hilbert v. State, 5D19-3111 (7/17/20)

JIMMY RYCE: Court must release Defendant when the only witness at the Jimmy Ryce review hearing testified that his mental condition had so changed that it was safe to release him and that he was not likely to engage in acts of sexual violence. A trial court cannot arbitrarily reject unrebutted expert testimony. Court can only reject undisputed testimony from an expert when it either concerns technical evidence and is so palpably incredible, illogical, and unreasonable as to be unworthy of belief or otherwise open to doubt or when it concerns non-expert matters and is disputed by lay testimony. Freeman v. State, 5D19-3407 (7/17/20)

https://www.5dca.org/content/download/640476/7278149/file/193407_DC13_07172020_082842_i.pdf

JUROR-CHALLENGE-PEREMPTORY-RACE NEUTRAL REASON: The party opposing a peremptory strike must make a specific objection to the proponent's proffered race-neutral reason for the strike, if contested, to preserve the claim that the trial court erred in concluding that the proffered reason was genuine. Johnson v. State, 4D15-4452 (7/16/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-"FORCIBLY": In case where Defendant's vehicle hit officers while he was driving away from an attempt to arrest him, Court did not err in declining to give Defendant's proposed definition of "forcibly" because its subject matter was substantially covered by other instructions and the language has a generally understood meaning. USA v. Gumbs, No. 18-13182 (11th Cir. 7/15/20)

GRAMMAR: "The district court did not need to tell the jury that 'forcibly' modified 'assaulted, resisted, opposed, impeded or interfered.' As a matter of grade-school grammar, the adverb 'forcibly' necessarily modifies each of the listed verbs that follows it. . .Assuming that jurors understand the rules of grammar is not an abuse of discretion." USA v. Gumbs, No. 18-13182 (11th Cir. 7/15/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201813182.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-USE OF A DEADLY WEAPON: In case where Defendant's vehicle hit officers while he was driving away from an attempt to arrest him, Court did not err in declining to give Defendant's proposed definition of “use of a deadly weapon” ("[f]or a car to qualify as a deadly or dangerous weapon, the defendant must use it as a deadly or dangerous weapon and not simply as a mode of transportation.”) because its subject matter was substantially covered by other instructions and the language has a generally understood meaning. USA v. Gumbs, No. 18-13182 (11th Cir. 7/15/20)

ASSAULT WITH A DEADLY WEAPON: Where Defendant strikes officers with a car, Government need not prove that the Defendant intended to use the car as a weapon. "To the extent that Gumbs believes . . .that the jury could not convict unless he intended to use the car as a weapon, that would be a misstatement of the law. . .[Defendant] needed only to intend to use the car. . . He did not need to intend to use the car as a weapon." USA v. Gumbs, No. 18-13182 (11th Cir. 7/15/20)

LESSER INCLUDED: Where Defendant strikes officers with a car, need not give a lesser included instruction of simple assault. "[I]f the jury were to find the elements of simple assault, then it would also have to find the elements of forcible assault with a deadly weapon. There is no way a rational jury could find [Defendant] guilty of simple assault but not forcible assault with a deadly weapon, because the only action that could form the basis of an assault was [Defendant]’s gunning his car. The jury could not give [Defendant] half a loaf under these facts; either he was guilty of the charged offense or not guilty at all." USA v. Gumbs, No. 18-13182 (11th Cir. 7/15/20)

MINOR-RESENTENCING: Where Court enters an oral, but not a written, order requiring a resentencing hearing for a minor sentenced to life with possibility of parole after 25 years, but fails to set resentencing hearing, and law pertaining to life sentences for juveniles had been changed, Court may rescind the order. A trial court's verbal grant of a motion for resentencing, if not reduced to writing, is not the functional equivalent of a final order. An order is rendered when a signed, written order is filed with the clerk of the lower tribunal. Cotton v. State, 1D19-153 (7/15/20)

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE: Child/passenger is properly adjudicated delinquent of resisting without violence when he bailed out of and ran from a stolen vehicle after a car chase. Officer was engaged in the lawful execution of a legal duty when he commanded Child to stop. B.B. v. State, 3D20-93 (7/15/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Section 776.032(4) applies to hearings on a defendant's motion for stand your ground immunity, which are held subsequent to the effective date of the statute, notwithstanding the date of the alleged crime. Lopez v. State, 3D17-2362 (7/15/20)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/640307/7276162/file/172362_NOND_07152020_103741_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to resentencing for a thirty-five year sentence for second-degree murder, even if not a de facto life sentence, which was imposed without consideration of his diminished culpability as a juvenile (17 yoa). 35 year sentence is not a de facto life sentence. Ferguson v. State, 3D18-758 (7/15/20)

DEMONSTRATIVE AID: During closing argument, prosecutor may not put on sunglasses and a sweatshirt which are dissimilar from those of the convenience store shooter to bolster the reliability of the victim's identification. It is essential, in every case where demonstrative evidence is offered, that the object or thing offered for the jury to see be first shown to be the object in issue and that it is in substantially the same condition as at the pertinent time, or that it is such a reasonably exact reproduction or replica of the object involved that when viewed by the jury it causes them to see substantially the same object as the original. Williams v. State, 4D19-1504 (7/15/20)

OPINION-EXPERT-PHOTOGRAMMETRY: Detective may not testify to his estimate of the Defendant's height based on photo of Defendant leaving the convenience store after shooting the clerk. The process of discerning the size of the objects in the photograph and/or surveillance video is a science called "photogrammetry,"which requires expertise and precise methodology to be reliable. (See "Fear Itself," Buffy the Vampire Slayer, Season 4, Episode 4 or--spoiler alert--see link: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Gtl1X-CDBzI). Williams v. State, 4D19-1504 (7/15/20)

OPINION-EXPERT-PHOTOGRAMMETRY: "[O]fficer's] opinions of his perceptions that the shooter was five feet ten inches tall and that the photos show that the defendant and the shooter were the same height were not based on being an eyewitness, having prior knowledge of the defendant, or using some knowledge or skill developed from on the job training. Without being an eyewitness, having prior knowledge of the defendant, or having some practical on the job experience that a juror may not be familiar with, the detective was in no better position to estimate or compare heights from the photographs than the jury. Putting the arrows on the still photos did not cloak the opinions with admissibility." Williams v. State, 4D19-1504 (7/15/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Although trial counsel's performance, by allowing evidence of Defendant's request for counsel to be admitted at trial, may have been unreasonable there was no prejudice where evidence was strong (Defendant had purchased a sledgehammer in advance, had attempted to attack the victim a week before, and sent texts explaining why he had hit his girlfriend over the head repeatedly). State v. Bishop, 4D19-4443 (7/15/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Motion to correct an illegal sentence which has been served is moot. Mitchell v. State, 4D20-860 (7/15/20)

DEATH PENALTY: Defendant subject to federal death penalty is not entitled to a stay of execution on claim that pentobarbital causes prisoners to experience "flash pulmonary edema," a form of respiratory distress that temporarily produces the sensation of drowning or asphyxiation. Barr v. Lee, No. 20A8 (US S.Ct. 7/14/20)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/20a8_970e.pdf

DEPORTATION-STOP-TIME RULE-RETROACTIVITY: Resisting an officer with violence qualifies as a crime involving moral turpitude ("CIMT"), rendering him deportable under the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act ("IIRIRA"), which created the "stop-time rule," which rendered him ineligible for discretionary cancellation of removal. The stop-time rule enacted after the Defendant's conviction does not apply retroactively to crimes committed before April 1, 1997. Rendon v. United States Attorney General, 19-10197 (11th Cir. 7/14/20)

HABEAS CORPUS-TIME LIMIT: Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996 permits a state prisoner to petition for a writ of habeas corpus once he exhausts all state court remedies. One-year limitations period which begins to run from the date on which the judgment became final by the conclusion of direct review, not including the time during which a properly filed application for State post-conviction or other collateral review with respect to the pertinent judgment or claim is pending. The one-year limitations period tolled the day a petitioner filed a procedurally noncompliant Rule 3.850 motion if he was permitted to and did later file a compliant motion. A compliant Rule 3.850 motion relates back to the date of filing of a noncompliant motion. Dismissal of petition reversed. Bates v. Secretary, Department of Corrections, No. 8:17-cv-01695-VMC-AEP (11th Cir. 7/14/20)

FIREARM-GUIDELINES-ENHANCEMENT: Guidelines enhancement for a firearm applies if the government proves by a preponderance of the evidence that the defendant knew, intended, or had reason to believe (rather than hoped, wished, or dreamed) the gun was going to be used to buy drugs, and the sale would have (rather than may or might have) happened but for the defendant's arrest or something else getting in the way. Enhancement applies to Defendant who admitted to offier that he was going to sell the gun for drugs and thereafter sell the drugs. USA v. Martinez, 18-12950 (7/14/20)

FIREARM-GUIDELINES-ENHANCEMENT: Sale of a firearm in exchange for drugs facilitates a drug offense. USA v. Martinez, 18-12950 (7/14/20)

FIREARM-GUIDELINES-ENHANCEMENT: A disassembled shotgun is just as much of a firearm as an assembled one under the sentencing guidelines. USA v. Martinez, 18-12950 (7/14/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201812950.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Officer who shot Petitioner and falsely claimed he had pointed a a gun at is not entitled to qualified immunity. Officers that act within their discretionary authority are entitled to qualified immunity under § 1983 unless (1) they violated a federal statutory or constitutional right, and (2) the unlawfulness of their conduct was clearly established at the time. Williams v. Aguirre, 19-11941 (7/13/20)

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY-ANY-CRIME RULE: "The "any-crime rule" insulates officers from false arrest claims so long as probable cause existed to arrest the suspect for some crime, even if it was not the crime the officer thought or said had occurred. The Any-Crime Rule does not apply to malicious prosecution. Williams v. Aguirre, 19-11941 (7/13/20)

PRECEDENTS-CONFLICT: "This Circuit has a well-established approach to resolving conflicts in our precedent." Appellate court is obligated, if at all possible, to distill from apparently conflicting prior panel decisions a basis of reconciliation and to apply that reconciled rule. Only the holdings of prior decisions are binding. If Court cannot reconcile caselaw, it must follow the earliest precedent that reached a binding decision on the issue, and not later decisions that conflict with them. Williams v. Aguirre, 19-11941 (7/13/20)

STATE AGENT IMMUNITY: State-agent immunity shields government officials acting within their discretionary authority from liability unless federal or state laws enacted or promulgated for the purpose of regulating the activities of a governmental agency require otherwise or the officer acted willfully, maliciously, fraudulently, in bad faith, beyond his or her authority, or under a mistaken interpretation of the law. Officers are not entitled to summary judgment based on state-agent immunity where a genuine dispute of fact exists about whether the officers acted maliciously. Williams v. Aguirre, 19-11941 (7/13/20)

ATTORNEY-CONFLICT: Counsel for Defendant did not have a disqualifying conflict of interest in representing murder Defendant while serving as deputy attorney general representing the Alabama Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation in an unrelated civil case. In the absence of the joint representation of co-defendants, counsel is disqualified only where an actual conflict of interest adversely affected defense counsel's performance. Dallas v. Warden, No. 17-14570 (11th Cir. 7/13/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: Defendant suffers no prejudice justifying a new sentencing hearing on claim that attorney failed to adequately present mitigating evidence when the additional evidence would not have supporting additional grounds of mitigation. Prejudice is shown when the disparity between what was presented at trial and what was offered collaterally was vast, so as to profoundly alter each of the defendants' sentencing profiles. Dallas v. Warden, No. 17-14570 (11th Cir. 7/13/20)

RESTITUTION: Restitution in stock manipulation fraud may be based on specific circumstantial evidence from which the district court may reasonably conclude that all of the investors relied on the defendant's fraudulent information. USA v. Stein, No. 18-13762 (11th Cir. 7/13/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201813762.pdf

CONSPIRACY: Once the government establishes that the defendant is a knowing member of a conspiracy, Defendant may be liable for substantive offenses committed by fellow conspirators even if he lacked knowledge thereof. USA v. Chalker, No. 18-15102 (11th Cir. 7/3/20)

INDICTMENT: Indictment which tracks the language of the statute is legally sufficient. It is generally sufficient that an indictment set forth the offense in the words of the statute itself, as long as those words of themselves fully, directly, and expressly, without any uncertainty or ambiguity, set forth all the elements necessary to constitute the offense intended to be punished. USA v. Chalker, No. 18-15102 (11th Cir. 7/3/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201815102.pdf

EVIDENCE-EXPERT: Government witness/forensic accountant who testified to a summary of the Defendant's bank and wage records never opined as an expert, and was therefore allowed to testify as a lay witness. USA v. Chalker, No. 18-15102 (11th Cir. 7/3/20)

SENTENCING: General sentence (20 years as habitual felony for a second-degree felony and a third-degree felony is unlawful. Bradford v. State, 1D19-230 (7/13/20)

SEVERANCE-CONFRONTATION: Defendant is not entitled to severance based on co-Defendant's statement during the rape of one of the victims ("No, man, don't do it to her, man, don't do it to her."). Confrontation Clause only applies to testimonial statements (statements made with the expectation of being used in an investigation or prosecution), which this is not. Goss v. State, 1D19-2210 (7/13/20)

REMAND-MANDATE-MINOR-RESENTENCING: Court is not required to obey mandate to resentence minor who was was sentenced to life with the possibility of parole after 25 years, without being afforded an individualized sentencing hearing where the mandate was superseded by an intervening decision by a higher court contrary to the decision reached on the former appeal. Rembert v. State, 1D19-2499 (7/13/20)

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIMES: Evidence that Defendant had crawled into bed and molested one daughter is admissible in a similar molestation of her younger sister where he was the adoptive father of both girls and they considered him their dad; he molested both girls at night, while other family members were sleeping in close proximity; he touched the girls' vaginas with his fingers; and the molestation of each girl was repeated over the course of a few days and then never again. In child molestation case, a relaxed standard of admissibility applies when the charged and collateral offenses occurred in a familial context, but there must be some similarity other than the fact that both offenses occurred in the family. Newman v. State, 1D19-2855 (7/13/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-HABEAS CORPUS: The remedy of habeas corpus is not available in Florida to obtain the kind of collateral post conviction relief available by R.3.850. Williams v. Hicks, 1D19-3237 (7/13/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant was resentenced a decade after his motion to correct illegal sentence under R.3.800 is granted, Defendant may not thereafter file a R.3.850 motion. That he was resentenced after obtaining collateral relief did not restart the clock for him to raise a postconviction challenge to his underlying convictions. Hampton v. State, 1D19-4022 (7/13/20)

NELSON HEARING: Strategic decisions do not constitute ineffective assistance of counsel if alternative courses have been considered and rejected and counsel's decision was reasonable under the norms of professional conduct. Johnson v. State, 1D18-4914 (7/13/20)

SENTENCING CONSIDERATIONS: The simple fact that a sentencing court is presented with impermissible information is alone insufficient to merit reversal of a sentence. The convergence of improper arguments during sentencing and imposition of the maximum possible sentence does not establish that the Court considered improper factors in imposint sentence. Johnson v. State, 1D18-4914 (7/13/20)

MONEY LAUNDERING: Buying a Lamborghini with profits from a pill mill can be money laundering, notwithstanding that there was no intent to conceal the money. Money laundering statute prohibits a wider range of activity than is traditionally understood. All that is required is to prove two elements: (1) Defendant knowingly engaged in a financial transaction greater than $10,000 and (2) at least $10,000 of that money came from a specified unlawful activity. USA v. Ruan, No. 17-12653 (11th Cir. 7/10/20)

HEARSAY: State run database of prescriptions is admissible as a business record of the reporting pharmacies. Business record includes a "data compilation," even though the term "data compilation" was removed during a recent stylistic update to the Rules of Evidence. Compilation is not testimonial, and therefore does not violate the Confrontation Clause (Crawford). USA v. Ruan, No. 17-12653 (11th Cir. 7/10/20)

ARGUMENT: Government improperly argued that they called 14 patients and the defense only a few, when it knew that the defense had been prohibited from calling more, but error is harmless. USA v. Ruan, No. 17-12653 (11th Cir. 7/10/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION: Good Faith instruction for improper medical prescription is improper where it fails to include the objective standard by which to judge the physician's conduct, but rather says that the doctor's subjective belief that the treatment was appropriate is sufficient. USA v. Ruan, No. 17-12653 (11th Cir. 7/10/20)

GUIDELINES CALCULATIONS-DRUG QUANTITY: When the drug amount that is seized does not reflect the scale of the offense, the district court must approximate the drug quantity. In estimating the drug quantity attributable to the defendant, the court may rely on evidence demonstrating the average frequency and amount of a defendant's drug sales over a given period. Court did not clearly err in concluding that at least 10.6% of the prescriptions were illegal. USA v. Ruan, No. 17-12653 (11th Cir. 7/10/20)

RESTITUTION: As the determination of the restitution amount is an inexact science, the government need not calculate the victim's actual loss with laser-like precision, but may instead provide a reasonable estimate of that amount. USA v. Ruan, No. 17-12653 (11th Cir. 7/10/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was ineffective for eliciting the specific nature of Defendant's prior felony and for misadvising him that the State would not be able to impeach him with his prior conviction for armed sexual battery of the State's witness because the conviction was the subject of a pending appeal. Floyd v. State, 2D19-1234 (7/10/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was ineffective for failure to call available experts to rebut State's argument that the child victim's fatal cerebral edema was not caused by soft impact trauma, particularly since there were no external signs of trauma or injuries to victim's neck, spine, or ribs. Counsel performed deficiently in failing to present potentially exculpatory testimony at trial. Spurgeon v. State, 2D19-1278 (7/10/20)

COMPETENCY: Court must hold a competency hearing and make an independent determination of the defendant's competency after appointing an expert to determine a defendant's competency to proceed. Court may not proceed on stipulation of competency by counsel. Cookston v. State, 5D19-2523 (7/10/20)

INDIANS-STATE JURISDICTION: "On the far end of the Trail of Tears was a promise." State courts generally have no jurisdiction to try Indians for crimes committed in Indian Country. The reservation system in Oklahoma has not been disestablished by occupation by non-Indians or the establishment of the city of Tulsa on the land. McGirt v. Oklahoma, No. 18–9526 (US S.Ct. 7/9/20)

INDIANS-RESERVATION: "Congress sometimes might wish an inconvenient reservation would simply disappear. . . But wishes don't make for laws, and saving the political branches the embarrassment of disestablishing a reservation is not one of our constitutionally assigned prerogatives. . .So it's no matter how many other promises to a tribe the federal government has already broken. If Congress wishes to break the promise of a reservation, it must say so." McGirt v. Oklahoma, No. 18–9526 (US S.Ct. 7/9/20)

TEXTUALISM: "There is no need to consult extratextual sources when the meaning of a statute's terms is clear. Nor may extratextual sources overcome those terms. The only role such materials can properly play is to help 'clear up . . . not create' ambiguity about a statute's original meaning. . . And, as we have said time and again, once a reservation is established, it retains that status 'until Congress explicitly indicates otherwise.'" McGirt v. Oklahoma, No. 18–9526 (US S.Ct. 7/9/20)

QUOTATION: "[T]he persistent if unspoken message here seems to be that we should be taken by the 'practical advantages' of ignoring the written law. . . .A State exercises jurisdiction over Native Americans with such persistence that the practice seems normal. . . All this continues for long enough that a reservation that was once beyond doubt becomes questionable, and then even farfetched. Sprinkle in a few predictions here, some contestable commentary there, and the job is done, a reservation is disestablished. None of these moves would be permitted in any other area of statutory interpretation, and there is no reason why they should be permitted here. That would be the rule of the strong, not the rule of law." McGirt v. Oklahoma, No. 18–9526 (US S.Ct. 7/9/20)

YIKES!: "Oklahoma replies that . . the affected population here is large and many of its residents will be surprised to find out they have been living in Indian country this whole time. QUOTATION: "[M]any of the arguments before us today follow a sadly familiar pattern. Yes, promises were made, but the price of keeping them has become too great, so now we should just cast a blind eye. We reject that thinking. . .Unlawful acts, performed long enough and with sufficient vigor, are never enough to amend the law. To hold otherwise would be to elevate the most brazen and longstanding injustices over the law, both rewarding wrong and failing those in the right." McGirt v. https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/18-9526_9okb.pdf

SUBPOENA-PRESIDENT: The Supremacy Clause does not give a sitting President absolute immunity from state criminal subpoenas. "Two hundred years ago, a great jurist of our Court established that no citizen, not even the President, is categorically above the common duty to produce evidence when called upon in a criminal proceeding. We reaffirm that principle today and hold that the President is neither absolutely immune from state criminal subpoenas seeking his private papers nor entitled to a heightened standard of need. Neither concerns about distraction, stigmatization, nor harassment justify ignoring state prosecutorial subpoenas." Trump v. Vance, No. 19–635 (US S. Ct. 7/9/20)

HUH?-POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to relief on grounds that counsel's assertion of voluntary intoxication abandoned his claim of actual innocence where trial counsel "never admitted Merck's guilt in advancing the intoxication theory." Merck v. State, SC19-1864 (7/9/20)

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS: In lewd and lascivious case involving a school janitor, evidence that the Defendant had been warned about not touching children is inadmissible. Evidence is not relevant and material to Defendant's intent, state of mind, nor to rebut his theory of defense that the touching of the victim was innocent or accidental. The State's sole purpose was to improperly influence the jury by painting Defendant as a repeat offender. Baez v. State, 2D19-379 (7/8/20)

INTERPRETER: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial because he did not have an interpreter, where he indicated throughout that he did not need one. Court is not required to inquire of every defendant whether they need an interpreter. Santisteban v. State, 3D19-845 (7/8/20)

RESENTENCING-SCORESHEET: Where a defendant was originally sentenced for multiple crimes, a de novo resentencing on one of the crimes necessarily involves sentencing under the same conditions that existed at the original sentencing. SEARCH AND SEIZURE-STANDING--ABANDONMENT: Government may not argue for the first time in appeal that Defendant abandoned his hotel room and any privacy therein when he fled on foot. The government waived its abandonment argument by failing to raise it before the district court. A suspect's alleged abandonment of his privacy or possessory interest in the object of a search or seizure implicates only the merits of his Fourth Amendment challenge—not his Article III standing—and, accordingly, if the government fails to argue abandonment, it waives the issue. USA v. Ross, No. 18-11679 (11th Cir. 7/7/9)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-HOTEL ROOM: Defendant who flees from a hotel room loses any reasonable expectation of privacy in the room at checkout time (11:00 AM). A short-term hotel guest has no reasonable expectation of privacy in his room after checkout time. USA v. Ross, No. 18-11679 (11th Cir. 7/7/9)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SUCCESSIVE: Where Defendant is convicted of possession of the firearm in furtherance of a crime of violence, bank robbery and conspiracy to commit bank robbery, and conspiracy was subsequently found not to be a crime of violence, Defendant is not entitled to relief because the Court specifically told the jury he could not be found guilty of the possession firearm in furtherance of the crime of violence only if it found him guilty of the corresponding bank robbery charge. SECOND DEGREE MURDER: Becoming angry and shooting the victim in the back after losing money and a gun to him during a dice game establishes ill will, hatred, spite or an evil intent, and it is of such nature that it indicates an indifference to human life, warranting a conviction for second degree murder. Finch v. State, 1D18-3993 (7/6/20)

EVIDENCE: Court did not err in excluding Victim's certified judgment for murder to support Defendant's claim of self-defense to corroborate his fear of victim. Defendant was permitted to testify about his knowledge that the Victim had been convicted of murder. Brown v. State, 1D18-5205 (7/6/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-DEADLY WEAPON: A flare gun is not a deadly weapon per se because it is designed as an instrument of safety. PLEA AGREEMENT-SPECIFIC ENFORCEMENT: The co-Defendant's plea agreement and re-sentencing is not newly discovered evidence warranting a reduction in Defendant's sentence for murder. The fact that co-Defendant's agreement made him the designated loser (his sentence would exceed that of Defendant) did not entitle Defendant to relief when Co-Defendant's sentence was later reduced pursuant to Graham. "There was no contract that provided for Midkiff to serve less time than Swett. Swett's designated loser status did not alter Midkiff's sentence. Thus, the postconviction court specifically enforced a non-existent contract when it granted Midkiff's motion. . .[C]learly, the court had no authority to do that. State v. JURY SELECTION: Defendant is not entitled to a mistrial based on prospective juror recognizing his counsel as a Public Defender. The issue was not preserved because not renewed prior to jury being sworn and lacks merit regardless. Cruz v. State, 4D19-1955 (7/1/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: The State's court's application of clearly established federal law must be objectively unreasonable, not merely wrong. Jenkins v. Commissioner, Alabama DOC, No. 17-12524 (11th Cir. 6/29/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201712524.opn2.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-DEATH PENALTY: Defendant failed to establish that the penalty phase counsel who failed to investigate mentally challenged defendant's abused childhood was ineffective because he did not present the testimony or affidavit of the attorney. "Because we simply do not know why Downey chose not to investigate Jenkins's childhood more thoroughly, Downey is entitled to the presumption that this strategic decision was reasonable." Jenkins v. Commissioner, Alabama DOC, No. 17-12524 (11th Cir. 6/29/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201712524.opn2.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-DEATH PENALTY (DISSENT): "The majority suggests (if not holds) that the absence of testimony from an allegedly deficient attorney per se means that the attorney's actions were reasonable." Jenkins v. Commissioner, Alabama DOC, No. 17-12524 (11th Cir. 6/29/20) http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201712524.opn2.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-DEATH PENALTY (DISSENT): "In short, Jenkins presented an abundance of compelling mitigating evidence. But the jury never heard any of that evidence. Downey failed to introduce it at the penalty phase. In fact, Downey failed to investigate any mitigating evidence whatsoever. Downey's failures cannot be attributed to strategic decisions. Nor can they be called reasonable. His performance can only be described as deficient. And that deficient performance was surely prejudicial—there is more than a reasonable probability that the horrifying and detailed Rule 32 testimony would have persuaded one juror to vote against sentencing Jenkins to death." Jenkins v. Commissioner, Alabama DOC, No. 17-12524 (11th Cir. 6/29/20)

DAUBERT: Court did not abuse it's discretion in excluding Defendant/Ophthalmologist's expert testimony about "subthreshold micropulse laser photostimulation" in trial where Defendant was charged with administering low dose laser surgery which would have been ineffectual if his patients needed it, which they did not, all to bill Medicare. USA v. Pon, 17-11455 (6/29/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201711455.pdf

DAUBERT: A reliability determination involves four main inquiries about the expert's theory or technique: "(1) whether it can be (and has been) tested; (2) whether it has been subjected to peer review and publication; (3) what its known or potential rate of error is, and whether standards controlling its operation exist; and (4) whether it is generally accepted in the field." Also, Court must consider whether there is an analytical gap between the data and the opinion proffered. If the analytical distance between the data and the opinion proffered is simply too great, a court may conclude that the opinion is unreliable. USA v. Pon, 17-11455 (6/29/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201711455.pdf

GRAMMAR: "Ipse dixit" used as a verb. "Instead of properly bridging that gap, Dorin tried to ipse dixit over it; but a bald assertion cannot carry the Daubert burden." USA v. Pon, 17-11455 (6/29/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201711455.pdf

EVIDENCE-REBUTTAL: Government may present, in rebuttal of patient who testified that Defendant/Ophthalmologist was a good guy and a good doctor, evidence that Defendant had submitted fraudulent Medicare claims on this patient, too. "Pon presented J.L.'s testimony as an example of how he had treated a patient out of the goodness of his heart and not for a profit motive. In light of that, the district court did not abuse its discretion in admitting billings Pon had generated for services he [falsely] claimed to have rendered on that patient's blind eye." USA v. Pon, 17-11455 (6/29/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201711455.pdf

APPEAL-EVIDENCE-SURREBUTTAL: Defendant may not raise on appeal that Court violated the Sixth Amendment for failing to allow him surrebuttal of testimony that he had fraudulently billed for his patient/character witness when he agued for surrebuttal without mentioning the Sixth Amendment. Error, if any, was harmless. "[W]e have no doubt, much less a reasonable doubt, that if the district court had not partially limited Pon's surrebuttal evidence about J.L., the jury would still have found Pon guilty as charged." USA v. Pon, 17-11455 (6/29/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201711455.pdf

HARMLESS ERROR: "We are not saying, of course, that courts shouldn't be careful with the harmless error rule. Courts should be careful in the application of all rules. Carelessness is not desirable in any field. But it is not careless to rely on overwhelming evidence of guilt to find an error harmless." USA v. Pon, 17-11455 (6/29/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201711455.pdf

SENTENCING: Court erred in imposing concurrent 121-month terms of imprisonment on twenty counts when the statutory maximum penalty for each count is only 120 months. On remand, court may either reduce sentences to 120 months or impose one or more counts consecutively without exceeding 121 months total. USA v. Pon, 17-11455 (6/29/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201711455.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-LOSS: The determination of loss for guidelines calculation is based on the preponderance of the evidence standard, not on the beyond a reasonable doubt standard. USA v. Pon, 17-11455 (6/29/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201711455.pdf

DNA-DATABASE: DNA obtained and entered into FDLE database pursuant to the Defendant's conviction for a crime, later vacated and expunged, can be used to match DNA found at a new crime scene (rape and murder) with Defendant. "Regardless of whether FDLE was obliged to remove his DNA record upon receipt of the. . .order to expunge,. . .any error by FDLE's CODIS unit did not result in a search or seizure violative of the Fourth Amendment. . . Indeed, neither the procurement of the DNA sample from the crime scene nor the collection of Porter's DNA during his prior incarceration was a search or seizure at all." Porter v. State, 1D18-5024 (6/29/20)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/638727/7260889/file/185024_DC05_06292020_143910_i.pdf

EXCLUSIONARY RULE: "The exclusionary rule is intended to deter police misconduct, not to remedy prior wrongs." Porter v. State, 1D18-5024 (6/29/20)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/638727/7260889/file/185024_DC05_06292020_143910_i.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: A sentencing judge may not consider or rely on acquitted conduct when imposing a sentence. State has the burden to demonstrate that those considerations played no part in the sentence imposed. Davis v. State, 1D18-5253 (6/29/20)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/638728/7260901/file/185253_DC05_06292020_140050_i.pdf

SUCCESSOR JUDGE: Prior factual or legal rulings by a disqualified judge may be reconsidered and vacated or amended by a successor judge based upon a motion for reconsideration, which must be filed within 20 days of the order of disqualification. Davis v. State, 1D18-5253 (6/29/20)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/638728/7260901/file/185253_DC05_06292020_140050_i.pdf

DEADLY WEAPON-RECLASSIFICATION: Court erred in reclassifying aggravated battery conviction (pistol-whipping the victim) to a first-degree felony. Where the use of a weapon or firearm is an essential element of the offense, it is improper for the trial court to reclassify the second degree felony to a first-degree felony. When a defendant is convicted of aggravated battery based on the use of a deadly weapon, this crime cannot be enhanced based on this same use of a weapon. Dyett v. State, 1D19-256 (6/29/20)

ALLEN CHARGE: Where one juror, during deliberations, sent a note asking to be replaced by the alternate because she could not decide, Court did not err in giving Allen charge instead. Blanding v. State, 1D19-665 (6/29/20)
https://www.1dca.org/content/download/638730/7260925/file/190665_DC05_06292020_140623_i.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED-JURY INSTRUCTION: Defendant is not entitled to an instruction of sexual battery as a lesser of capital sexual battery where it is undisputed that the victim was under 12 yoa. Sexual battery cannot constitute a necessarily lesser included offense of capital sexual battery. Sexual battery requires the victim be between twelve and eighteen years of age whereas capital sexual battery requires the victim be less than twelve years of age. Question certified. Allen v. State, 1D19-1315 (6/29/20)

ATTEMPTED SMUGGLING-SCIENTER: When it comes to statutes that criminalize violations that regulate what can otherwise be innocent conduct, it is not enough that the defendant engaged in actions that the law prohibits. Rather, a defendant must possess a culpable mental state regarding each of the statutory elements that criminalize otherwise innocent conduct. Government may prove knowledge of illegality by circumstantial evidence. Defendant properly convicted of attempted smugglng of devices used for computer encryption on the basis of hidden NanoStations in a hidden compartment under the bed on his boat. USA v. Singer, No. 18-14294 (11th Cir. 6/26/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814294.pdf

ATTEMPTED SMUGGLING: For a criminal attempt, Defendant must take a substantial step, i.e. engage in objectively culpable and unequivocal acts toward accomplishing the crime beyond simply preparing. Hiding items to be smuggled to Cuba is a substantial step, notwithstanding that Defendant never left the dock until after the contraband NanoStations were seized. USA v. Singer, No. 18-14294 (6/26/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814294.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-IGNORANCE OF LAW: Court did not err in declining to give an ignorance-of-law instruction when it instructed jury that Defendant to be proven to know that his actions violated federal law or regulations. USA v. Singer, No. 18-14294 (6/26/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814294.pdf

SENTENCING-ENHANCEMENT-OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE: Court may apply the two-level obstruction enhancement applied based on it finding that Defendant committed perjury during trial. USA v. Singer, No. 18-14294 (6/26/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814294.pdf

FIRST STEP-SAFETY VALVE: Section 402(b) of the First Step Act, which made maritime drug traffickers eligible for safety valve, does not apply to Defendant whose pleas were accepted before the effective date of the Act (December 21, 2018). The date "conviction entered" is the date the plea is entered, not the date the date the judgment is entered. "Conviction" is not "Judgment of Conviction." USA v. Yoza Tigua, No. 19-10177 (6/26/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910177.scr.pdf

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Defendant properly convicted of possession of narcotics found in a locked safe in the back seat of a jointly occupied car, owned and driven by Defendant, where some of Defendant's papers were found insides. An inference of knowledge and control may arise where the contraband in a jointly occupied area is found in or about other personal property that is shown to be owned or controlled by the defendant. Bradwell v. State, 1D18-5083 (6/26/20) https://www.1dca.org/content/download/638530/7259373/file/185083_DC05_06262020_141005_i.pdf

JOA-ROBBERY BY SUDDEN SNATCHING: Defendant who grabs cell phones off the dashboard in the presence of the victim is not guilty of robbery by sudden snatching. Robbery by sudden snatching statute does not applies to property taken from a victim's person, but not when taken from the victim's reach, proximity, or control. Making physical contact with the victim while lunging for the phones does not convert the act into robbery by sudden snatching. Brown v. State, 1D19-2602 (6/26/20)

THEFT-VALUE: Defendant cannot be found guilty of grand theft for stealing two cell phones which Victim had offered to sell to Defendant for $1600 (before backing out because he thought the money counterfeit) where made no specific finding as to the value of the two phones. Conviction reduced to petit theft. Brown v. State, 1D19-2602 (6/26/20)

INCOMPETENT DEFENDANT-INVOLUNTARY MEDICATION: Court may order involuntary medication of incompetent Defendant where refusal to take medication put his own health gravely at risk. Burke v. State, 1D19-3322 (6/26/20)

WITHDRAWAL OF PLEA-COUNSEL: Court must appoint conflict-free counsel on motion to withdraw plea when Defendant alleges erroneous advice or misconduct on the part of his current lawyer. Thelus v. State, 2D18-4357 (6/26/20)

VOP-CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Court errs in finding Defendant in constructive possession of fierarms carried by other men in the vehicle he was driving. Proximity alone does not establish the control element of constructive possession. Cusamano v. State, 2D18-5113 (6/26/20)

HABEAS CORPUS-IMMIGRATION-ASYLUM: Undocumented alien facing expedited removal may not seek habeas corpus relief from adverse ruling on asylum claim. Neither the Suspension Clause ("the Writ of Habeas Corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in Cases of Rebellion or Invasion") nor Due Process Clause protect the alien. Petitioner has not "shown that the writ of habeas corpus was understood at the time of the adoption of the Constitution to permit a petitioner to claim the right to enter or remain in a country or to obtain administrative review potentially leading to that result." DHS v. Thuraissigiam, No. 19–161 (US S.Ct. 6/25/20) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/19-161_g314.pdf

SNARKINESS: "While respondent does not claim an entitlement to release, the Government is happy to release him—provided the release occurs in the cabin of a plane bound for Sri Lanka." DHS v. Thuraissigiam, No. 19–161 (US S.Ct. 6/25/20) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/19-161_g314.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Death penalty upheld for Defendant with an IQ of 74 who had been repeatedly abused as a child, including sexual abuse, and who murdered his pedophile cellmate. Court's finding as a mitigating circumstance (given little weight) that Defendant was sexually abused as a child does not render his death sentence disproportionate. Santiago-Gonzalez v. State, No. SC18-806 (6/25/20) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/638442/7258413/file/sc18-806.pdf

COMPETENCY: Failure to enter a written order finding the Defendant competent is remediable on appeal only if the failure constitutes fundamental error. No fundamental error when court made an oral competency finding. Santiago-Gonzalez v. State, No. SC18-806 (6/25/20) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/638442/7258413/file/sc18-806.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Aggravating circumstances are not elements which must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt. Santiago-Gonzalez v. State, No. SC18-806 (6/25/20) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/638442/7258413/file/sc18-806.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: To impose the death penalty, the jury need not unanimously find that all the aggravating factors that were proven beyond a reasonable doubt, that the aggravating factors are sufficient to impose death, that the aggravating factors outweigh the mitigating factors, nor unanimously recommend a sentence of death. Rather, the jury need only unamnimously find the existence of a some statutory aggravating circumstance beyond a reasonable doubt. Death sentence of rapist/murderer of babysitter upheld. Owen v. State, SC18-810 (6/25/20) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/638443/7258425/file/sc18-810.pdf

DEPORTATION: Possession with Intent to Distribute Ecstasy is an aggravated felony requiring removal, not eligible for cancellation of removal. Gordon v. United States Attorney General, No. 18-14513 (11th Cir. 6/24/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814513.pdf

MODIFIED CATEGORICAL APPROACH: If the state statute does not fit entirely within the generic federal definition of a corresponding aggravated felony, a court may look to whether the state statute is "divisible." A statute is divisible if it lists a number of alternative elements that effectively create several different crimes. A divisible statute permits the use of the modified categorical approach to uncover whether a person's convictions relate to a federally controlled substance. Under the modified categorical approach, a court may look to the charging document, jury instructions, or a comparable judicial record to determine the elements of the defendant's offense of conviction. Gordon v. United States Attorney General, No. 18-14513 (11th Cir. 6/24/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814513.pdf

SHOW UP IDENTIFICATION: Show up identification 30 minutes after the robbery was not unduly suggestive where bank teller had close visual contact with the robber, who was only two feet away and separated by only the counter. USA v. Caldwell, No. 18-13426 (11th Cir. 6/24/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814513.pdf

JOA-BANK ROBBERY: Federal jurisdiction in bank robbery case is established by evidence thqt the bank was insured by the FDIC at the time of the robbery. Sparse evidence can be enough. FDIC certificate issued 17 years before is sufficient. USA v. Caldwell, No. 18-13426 (11th Cir. 6/24/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814513.pdf

COUNSEL-ATTORNEYS FEES: Court may order Defendant to reimburse Treasury for reimbursement of fees and expenses of appointed counsel. USA v. Owen, No. 15-12744 (11th Cir. 6/24/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201512744.pdf

FIRST STEP-RESENTENCING: The First Step Act does not require district courts to hold a hearing with the defendant present before ruling on a defendant's motion for a reduced sentence under the Act. USA v. Denson, No. 19-11696 (11th 6/24/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201911696.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE NOT RAISED BY GOVERNMENT: If the government fails to argue abandonment in the suppression hearing, it waives the issue of abandonment on appeal. USA v. Ross, No. 18-11679 (11th Cir. 06/24/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811679.enb.pdf

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811679.enb.pdf

STANDING: A suspect's alleged abandonment runs only to the merits of his constitutional claim, and not his Article III standing to challenge the search. USA v. Ross, No. 18-11679 (11th Cir. 06/24/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811679.enb.pdf

STANDING: "[T]he Supreme Court has clearly and consistently distinguished between Fourth Amendment 'standing' (scare quotes intended) and Article III standing." USA v. Ross, No. 18-11679 (11th Cir. 06/24/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811679.enb.pdf

STANDING: "Our Sparks decision, we now recognize, inadvertently 'confused' so-called Fourth Amendment 'standing' and true-blue Article III standing." USA v. Ross, No. 18-11679 (11th Cir. 06/24/20)
http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811679.enb.pdf

HUH?: "In any event, applying different standing rules depending on how and when a suspect lost his reasonable expectation of privacy—Fourth Amendment 'standing' if he never had it, Article III standing if he had but then lost it—makes little sense. . . This case is a good (which is to say bad) example." USA v. Ross, No. 18-11679 (11th Cir. 06/24/20)

JUDGMENT: Upon revocation of probation, Court may not enter a second written Judgment of Conviction. Calhoun v. State, 2D19-1251 (6/24/20)

MAILBOX RULE: Under the mailbox rule, a notice is deemed filed when it is delivered to prison authorities for mailing. Court improperly dismissed motion for post conviction relief when a response due within 30 days was placed in the hands of the correctional facility employee for mailing on Day 19. White v. State, 2D19-2009 (6/24/20)

SELF DEFENSE-ARGUMENT: State's argument that Defendant was the initial aggressor does not improperly shift burden of proof. Tillman v. State, 3D19-794 (6/24/20)

JURY DEADLOCK: After an earlier Allen charge, Court erred by instructing the jury that "If you have a unanimous verdict, please fill out the verdict accordingly. If you do not have a unanimous verdict, please knock on the door . . . and we'll bring you back out here." But, because Defendant failed to move for mistrial or object to the subsequent, modified Allen charge, he waived the error in the court's instruction. Fundamental error is waived where defense counsel affirmatively agrees to an improper instruction. Baptiste v. State, 3D18-2403 (6/24/20)

YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: Court has discretion to decline to impose Youthful Offender status to a qualifying Defendant. Court need not explain its reasoning. Ceus v. State, 3D18-1918 (6/24/20)

NOTICE-TREATMENT OF INCOMPETENT: Court may not order DCF to provide mental health treatment in jail to an inmate adjudicated incompetent to proceed without notice and hearing. Due process protections prevent a trial court from deciding matters not noticed for hearing and not the subject of appropriate pleadings. DCF v. State and A.L., 3D20-745 (6/24/20)

SILENCE OF DEFENDANT: That portion of Defendant's statement in which she she refused to say what items she took and requested a lawyer were improperly admitted as a comment on her right to remain silent. New trial required. Kalivretenos v. State, 4D18-2920 (6/24/20)

PETITION FOR REMOVAL OF REGISTRATION: Defendant convicted of traveling to meet a minor and unlawful use of a computer service is ineligible for removal of requirement to register. STAND YOUR GROUND: Change in SYG burden of proof does not entitle Defendant to a new immunity hearing where the original hearing occurred before the amended statute's effective date. Catalano v. State, 2D16-3307 (6/19/20)

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: 52 year old uncle's long term seduction of his 17 year old niece, evolving into progressively more aggressive and violent acts and sexual abuse does not warrant a downward departure on ground that the victim was a willing participant. The fact that a young victim does not resist is not the same as willing participation. Any consent given by the victim was coerced. Grooming is inconsistent with the victim being a willing participant. Florida v. Brown, 5D19-153 (6/19/20)

CONTINUANCE: Court did not abuse its discretion in denying motion for a continuance without a hearing because it was putting its “need to move a court docket" before his genuine need to prepare for trial where it had already granted five continuances. Carlson v. State, 5D19-2625 (6/19/20) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/638108/7254614/file/192625_DC05_06192020_093557_i.pdf

DACA: DHS violated the Administrative Procedure Act by ending the DACA program for aliens brought to the USA as minors failing to engage in reasoned decisionmaking. "The agency failed to consider the conspicuous issues of whether to retain forbearance and what if anything to do about the hardship to DACA recipients. That dual failure raises doubts about whether the agency appreciated the scope of its discretion or exercised that discretion in a reasonable manner." Department of Homeland Security v. Regents, No. 18–587 (US S.Ct. 6/18/20) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/18-587_5ifl.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Trial counsel's minimal presentation of mitigating evidence in penalty phase, although abundant evidence of Defendant's traumatic upbringing existed, is ineffective assistance of counsel. Defendant's counsel performed almost no mitigation investigation, overlooked vast tranches of mitigating evidence, failed to adequately investigate the State's aggravating evidence, effecting an unconstitutional abnegation of prevailing professional norms. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A claim that habitual offender sentences were improperly imposed consecutively may be raised under R. r3.800 at any time. A claim that a trial court imposed consecutive habitual offender sentences in violation of Hale is a cognizable Rule 3.800(a) claim if the determination of whether the offenses were part of the same criminal episode can be made without resorting to extra-record facts, but him Defendant must allege that the claim may be determined from the face of the record and must identify with particularity the record documents upon which he relies in seeking a determination of the claim. A postconviction court may not rely upon hearsay, such as a police report contained within the court file or the recitation of the factual basis at the time of the plea, to evaluate a rule 3.800(a) Hale claim. JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: The fact that the judge, during a competency hearing, asked whether a waiting witness would be second chair for the upcoming trial, is not evidence that Judge had prejudged the question of Defendant's competency. A movant cannot simply pluck one word from a full sentence made by the trial judge to make a motion to disqualify legally sufficient. Barber v. State, 3D19-1081 (6/17/20)

VOP-STALKING: "Determining whether an individual's behavior is merely boorish or juvenile as opposed to illegal stalking. . .require the drawing of fine lines." Defendant violates probation by removing tree limbs, which gave him a direct view of his neighbors' backyard; placing weeds, rocks, chunks of concrete and tree limbs onto the neighbors' driveway; placing empty paper bags on the fence posts, some of which would blow onto the neighbors' property; painting the fence that faced the neighbors' property with obscenities and a picture of a clown and signs saying "stupid people beyond this point"; bathing himself outside wearing "whitey tighties" whenever the neighbors grade school daughter was around; and similar behavior is stalking justifying revocation of probation. MINOR-LENGTHY SENTENCE-JURY FINDING: Court errs in resentencing juvenile convicted of first degree murder for the robbery/shooting committed by two people, one of whom shot the victim, to 40 years in prison as a mandatory minimum absent a jury finding that he killed, attempted to kill, or intended to kill the victim. Alleyne requires a jury to make the factual finding that a defendant "actually killed, intended to kill, or attempted to kill the victim" under section 775.082(1). O'Neal v. State, 4D19-472 (6/17/20)

FIRST STEP ACT-SENTENCE REDUCTION: History of First Step Act discussed. Defendant's sentence may not be reduced under the First Step Act if he received the lowest statutory penalty available. STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-NEAREST-REASONABLE REFERENT CANON: A modifier normally applies only to the nearest reasonable referent, but Court declines to apply the nearest-reasonable reference canon to its interpretation of the First Step Act. USA v. Allen, No. 19-11505 (11th Cir. 6/16/20)

GAY RIGHTS: An employer cannot fire someone simply for being homosexual or transgender. An employer who intentionally penalizes an employee for being homosexual or transgender violates Title VII of the Civil

QUOTATION: "Sometimes small gestures can have unexpected consequences." "Those who adopted the Civil Rights Act might not have anticipated their work would lead to this particular result. . .But the limits of the drafters' imagination supply no reason to ignore the law's demands." QUOTATION: "The statute's message for our cases is equally simple and momentous: An individual's homosexuality or transgender status is not relevant to employment decisions." Bostick v. Clayton County, No. 17–1618 (US S.Ct. 6/15/20)

QUOTATION (J. Alito, dissenting): "We can't deny that today's holding—that employers are prohibited from firing employees on the basis of homosexuality or transgender status—is an elephant. But where's the mousehole?. . .This elephant has never hidden in a mousehole; it has been standing before us all along." Bostick v. Clayton County, No. 17–1618 (US S.Ct. 6/15/20)

QUOTATION (J. Alito, dissenting): "With that, the employers are left to abandon their concern for expected applications and fall back to the last line of defense for all failing statutory Interpretation arguments: naked policy appeals. . .Gone here is any pretense of statutory interpretation; all that's left is a suggestion we should proceed without the law's guidance to do as we think best. QUOTATION (J. Alito, dissenting): "[N]o one should be fooled. The Court's opinion is like a pirate ship. It sails under a textualist flag, but what it actually represents is a theory of statutory interpretation that Justice Scalia excoriated—the theory that courts should 'update' old statutes so that they

SEX (Alito, dissenting): "Sex is manifested in the conjugating cells by the larger size, abundant food material, and immobility of the female gamete (egg, egg cell, or ovum), and the small size and the locomotive power of the male gamete (spermatozoon or spermatozoid), and in the adult organisms often by many structural, physiological, and (in higher forms) psychological characters, aside from the necessary modification of the reproductive apparatus." COVID-19-PRISONERS: Court may not enter a Temporary Restraining Order (TRO) requiring certain measures to deal with the COVID-19 epidemic in the jail because it erred in finding that the Sheriff was deliberately indifferent. The increase in the rate of infections and the inability to impose social distancing at Metro West does not support a finding of deliberate indifference. "[D]eliberate indifference is not a constitutionalized version of common-law negligence." Swain v. Junior, (11th Cir. 6/15/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy precludes the Defendant from being convicted of both traveling to meet a minor and unlawfully using a two ways communication device. The reviewing court must consider only the charging document, and not the entire evidentiary record, in determining whether multiple convictions are based on the same conduct for purposes of double jeopardy. Where the information does not make clear that the state relied on separate conduct, double jeopardy applies. Hooks v. State, 1D19-1338 (6/12/20)

CHILD CUSTODY: Children born before the same sex marriage and never adopted are the children of both and subject to the jurisdiction of the divorce court pursuant to §742.091 (providing that if "mother of any child born out of wedlock and the reputed father shall at any time after its birth intermarry, the child shall in all respects be deemed and held to be the child of the husband and wife, as though born within wedlock").

§742.091 does not require that the individual be the biological father, only that the person held out as the reputed father willingly assumed the responsibilities of parenthood McGovern v. Clark, 5D19-1525 (6/12/20)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON-MANDATORY MINIMUM: Court must impose the three year minimum mandatory for possession of a firearm by a felon notwithstanding the Drug Offender Probation statute which would otherwise allow probation. State v. Ingram, 5D19-1804 (6/12/20)

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Court may not grant a (c)(4) motion to dismiss in a constructive possession case (drugs found in the backpack in a jointly occupied car). Because knowledge in a possession case is a question of fact, that element is generally not a proper consideration on a motion to dismiss. State v. Paul, 5D19-2382 (6/12/20)

APPEAL: Supreme Court lacks jurisdiction to hear an appeal where the DCA enters an unelaborated order or opinion which does not expressly address a question of law. The Supreme Court lacks jurisdiction where the decision of a district court does not expressly address a question of law within the four corners of the opinion itself. The Office of the Clerk is authorized to administratively dismiss petitions such cases. Wheeler v. State, SC19-1916 (6/11/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROTECTIVE SWEEP: Officers who had executed valid arrest warrants on Defendant in his yard and his girlfriend in his house may re-enter the house for a protective sweep where the house was was a source of possible drug activity, there were other people around, and the girlfriend had tried to hide in a bathroom, all giving rise to a belief that there might be armed individuals inside. SCORESHEET-INJURY: Court declines to rule on whether assessing injury as "severe" on scoresheet without a jury finding (Alleyne) because error, if any, is harmless. JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF DEFENSE-TRANSFERRED INTENT: If the killing of the party intended to be killed would, under all the circumstances, have been excusable or justifiable homicide upon the theory of self-defense, then the unintended killing of a bystander, by a random shot fired in the proper and prudent exercise of such self-defense, is also excusable or justifiable. The inadvertent failure to so instruct the jury is fundamental error. "As the effect of the erroneous instruction was to inform the jury that transferred justification only applied to self-defense, not defense of others, it divested the jury of the ability to find that, if [Defendant] was lawfully protecting his wife, the shooting of any unintended victims was insulated. David v. State, 3D18-1143 (6/10/20)

ARGUMENT: State improperly highlighted the enduring psychological impact of the crimes on the unintended victims (tourists caught in the crossfire), equating their bullet wounds as souvenirs given by the Defendant, and improperly made repeated calls for justice for the victims. David v. State, 3D18-1143 (6/10/20)

APPEAL-TOO COMPLICATED: "These five consolidated cases. . .present intricate procedural and jurisdictional questions that will interest a narrow group of practitioners. . .Readers unfamiliar with, or uninterested in, the interrelationships among the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure, Judicial Administration, Criminal Procedure, and Appellate Procedure may read on at their peril." Garcia v. State, 3D19-1510 (6/10/20)

APPEAL-TOO COMPLICATED: What happens when Defendant filed a writ of prohibition for failure to grant a speedy trial discharge in misdemeanor cases, which was denied, and where Defendant, alleging he did not receive the denial of the writ, filed a motion to vacate the denial more than 60 days later, which was also denied? "[C]onfronted with a record which demonstrates that the wrong remedy was pursued in the wrong court by the appellants, what is the proper course for disposition of the five cases ultimately filed as appeals here?" The Circuit Court appellate division should have transferred the case to the DCA for treatment as a petition for belated (further, second-tier) discretionary review. Garcia v. State, 3D19-1510 (6/10/20)

COMPETENCY: Defendant, sentenced to prison upon his third violation of probation, waived any failure of the Court to conduct a competency evaluation before his first plea of guilty for the underlying offense. "Apellant accepted the benefits of the plea bargain and had his probation reinstated twice after he admitted to probation violations. It was not until he violated probation a third time, and the trial court revoked his probation and sentenced him to prison, that appellant first sought to raise a Dortch issue, approximately threeand-a-half years after originally entering the plea. IN FORMA PAUPERIS: Prisoner may not bring a civil action in forma pauperis if he is had three or more prior actions (three strikes) dismissed as non-meritorious. A suit dismissed for failure to state a claim counts as a strike when the dismissal was with or without prejudice. Lomax v. Ortiz-Marquez, No. 18-8369 (US S.Ct. 6/8/20)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/18-8369_3dq3.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE-DUI MANSLAUGHTER-JOA: Defendant is not entitled to Judgment of Acquittal in DUI manslaughter based on his assertion that the intoxicated passenger grabbed the steering wheel because the circumstantial evidence/reasonable hypothesis of innocence standard of review no longer exists, and because the driver's conduct need not be the sole cause of the victim's death. The State need only present evidence to show that the driver was legally impaired, the driver was operating the vehicle, and that the conduct of the driver contributed to the victim's death. Jones v. State, 1D18-4885 (6/8/29)

CHILD ABUSE-JOA: Teacher who on three separate occasions kneed a three-year-old autistic child in the torso, intentionally tripped the child, and pushed the child to the ground is properly convicted of child abuse, notwithstanding that the child suffered no significant injury. Actual injury is not required. Stillions v. State, 1D18-5308 (6/8/20)

IMPEACHMENT-CONVICTIONS: Defendant may not impeach the non-testifying (and deceased) CI by prior convictions when the only statements by the CI were those made during the wired-up successful attempt to elicit a confession to the homicide. The recorded statements of the CI were not hearsay because the State did not offer them for their veracity or truth, but only to provide context for Defendant's responses. Because there were no hearsay statements that would allow an attack on CI's credibility, the Court did not err in prohibiting evidence of his prior convictions. Woods v. State, 1D18-5319 (6/8/20)

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT-FEAR: Defendant may be found guilty of aggravated assault notwithstanding that the Victim (girlfriend) denied remembering seeing the gun and testified that she was never in fear. Whether the victim actually testifies that she was in fear is not conclusive of the fear element, as long as a reasonable person would experience a well-founded fear of imminent harm. Daniels v. JIMMY RYCE: A committed sixty-seven-year-old with COPD who asserts that he will be physically incapable of committing improper sexual acts, regardless whether he remains a sexual sadist, has shown probable cause that he will not reoffend, entitling him to a Jimmy Ryce trial. In order to continue to detain patient, the State must demonstrate not only that his mental condition remains unchanged, but also that if released he is likely to engage in acts of sexual violence. In re Commitment of Raymond Drake, 2D17-5083 (6/5/20)

RISK PROTECTION ORDER: Risk Protection Order statute (§790.401), which authorizes seizure of firearms from dangerous individuals, is not void for vagueness nor does it unlawfully designate legislative authority and/or prosecutorial authority to law enforcement agencies. MANDAMUS-VENUE: Defendant's mandamus petition arguing that second-degree murder is not a capital or life felony, and thus that he is eligible for parole, must be filed in Leon County, where the Florida Commission on Offender Review has its principal headquarters. Orcutt v. State, 2D19-952 (6/5/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Due process does not require the postconviction court to give Defendant notice of its intention to treat his habeas petition (filed as a civil case) as a motion for postconviction relief and to afford him an opportunity to amend or withdraw his petition. VOP: Defendant's failure to come to the open door at 5:30 a.m. does not establish that he was away from the house at that time. Failure to answer the door at a time when the average person is typically sleeping does not establish the person's absence. "[T]he approach of simply knocking on the door and then declaring a violation when no one answers provides strong potential defenses to the person being supervised. If the supervising officer truly believes that a person under supervision is not home, it would behoove that officer to acquire evidence that corroborates the alleged absence from the residence." Edwards v. State, 2D19-2734 (6/5/20)

JUDGMENT-CORRECTION: Where the judgment incorrectly recited that the Defendant was convicted of "1st Degree Premediated Murder" but the jury had been instructed that the State could prove first-degree murder by either a theory of premeditated murder or a theory of felony murder and returned a general verdict of "murder in the 1st degree," the Court must correct the judgment. A judgment should conform to the verdict of the jury. Court may, even after expiration of term, correct clerical errors in its judgments. Palmer v. State, 5D 19-3030 (6/5/20)

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT-ASSAULT WEAPONS: Proposed initiative, entitled "Prohibits possession of defined assault weapons" should not be placed on the ballot. The ballot summary misleads voters by providing that the Initiative exempts and requires registration of assault weapons lawfully possessed prior to this provision's effective date, when in fact the text exempts only current owner's possession of that assault weapon. The Initiative does not categorically exempt the assault weapon, only the current owner's possession of that assault weapon. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel is not ineffective for failing to strike a juror who believed that a homosexual "is morally depraved enough that he might lie, might steal, might kill" and he would have a bias that might affect his deliberations if he knew the perpetrator was homosexual where counsel believed the juror would be favorable during the penalty phase. Trial counsel's testimony that he did not have a specific recollection of the juror or his own thought process does not preclude a finding that the decision to keep the juror was strategic. Counsel's testimony that he did not remember is competent, substantial evidence to support a finding that his choices were strategic. Patrick v. State, SC19-140 (6/4/20)

EVIDENCE-FIREARM: Evidence about a firearm is admissible where Defendant is charged with fraud based in part on PII (Personal Identification Information) documents, because the firearm was found in a small closet with a sheet of paper containing PII, and because the firearm belonged to Defendant, as shown through the Snapchat photographs, it was far more likely that the PII too belonged to Defendant. Prejudice does not outweigh probative value. The possession of a firearm today is not so inherently prejudicial as to necessarily outweigh its probative value. USA v. McGregor, No. 19-10163 (11th Cir. 6/3/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910163.pdf

MOTION TO SUPPRESS-TIMELINESS: A tactical decision is not good cause for knowingly defying a scheduling order requiring the filing of any Motion to Suppress by a certain date. No good cause exists if 'the defendant had all the information necessary to bring a Rule 12(b) motion before the date set for pretrial motions, but failed to file it by that date. Neither a strategic decision nor inadvertence constitutes good cause. USA v. Andres, No. 19-10163 (11th Cir. 6/3/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PRETEXT STOP: A law enforcement officer's subjective motive in making a stop does not invalidate objectively justifiable grounds for making the stop. Officer was justified in stopping the Defendant's Cadillac for an alleged traffic violation (following too closely) and based on law enforcement officials' collective knowledge that the Defendant was going to a drug deal. USA v. Andres, No. 19-10163 (11th Cir. 6/3/20)

SENTENCING-ACCEPTANCE OF RESPONSIBILITY: Defendant who went to trial because he faced a mandatory life sentence under the law and wanted to preserve a constitutional challenge to such a sentence is not entitled to an acceptance of responsibility adjustment with the record does not reflect Defendant's asserted motive. A defendant's decision to stand trial does not automatically preclude a defendant from consideration for such a reduction. USA v. Andres, No. 19-10163 (11th Cir. 6/3/20)

RESENTENCING-MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE: Order appointing counsel on Defendant's motion for resentencing is not an order allowing resentencing for minor sentenced to life with a twenty-five year minimum mandatory. Smith v. State, 1D19-1908 (6/3/20)

RESENTENCING-MINOR-LENGTHY TERM OF YEARS: Consecutive 25 and 40 year sentences for a minor is not a de facto life sentence. Court may rescing resentencing order. Conflict certified. Baldwin v. State, 1D19-1953 (6/3/20)

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Where Defendant raises on direct appeal the erroneous denial of a legally sufficient motion to disqualify a trial judge when he did not file a petition for a writ of prohibition, review is for harmless error, with the question being whether there is a reasonable possibility that the error denied the defendant a fair trial before a neutral judge. Error here was harmless. Question certified as a matter of great public importance. Davis v. State, 2D17-517 (6/3/20)

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Defendant cannot be found to be in constructive possession of drugs found in the safe in a jointly possessed home. Where possession is constructive, State must prove that Defendant (1) had knowledge that the contraband was within his presence and (2) had the ability to exercise dominion and control over the contraband. If the premises where the officers found the contraband were in joint, rather than exclusive, possession, one cannot infer either the knowledge or ability to maintain dominion and control element from mere ownership of the residence or proximity to the contraband. Wiley v. State, 2D18-878 (6/3/20)

POSSESSION: A fingerprint on an item containing contraband does not in itself prove the defendant's knowledge of the container's contents, because the fingerprint just as likely could have predated the introduction of the contraband into the container. Wiley v. State, 2D18-878 (6/3/20)

POSSESSION OF RECENTLY STOLEN PROPERTY: Instruction that possession of recently stolen property gives rise to an inference that the Defendant knew was stolen applies only when the property is undisputedly stolen and the question is who stole it. The Court erred by giving the instruction where it was disputed whether the car was stolen or given to the Defendant because it allowed the jury to presume Defendant was guilty because he was in possession of it. Moore v. State, 2D18-1842 (6/3/20)

PARAPHERNALIA: Evidence is sufficient to convict for possession of a crack pipe (glass pipe)notwithstanding that there was no residue on it nor drugs at the scene. State does not need to prove that the Defendant had an intent to use the item to ingest drugs at the time of possession. When an object is shown to have an exclusive or predominant use, that purpose is highly probative evidence that the item is intended to be used for that purpose. Moore v. State, 2D18-1842 (6/3/20)

EVIDENCE-EXCULPATORY EVIDENCE-THIRD PARTY CONFESSION: Court erred by excluding the previously sworn testimony of a witness who refused to appear at the trial that the twin brother of the Defendant's alleged accomplice (who testified against him at trial) confessed to being the actual murderer. If a confession by a third party is critical evidence that should have been admitted in evidence to protect the constitutional rights of the accused, the particular reason for excluding it under state law will make little difference. Deendant's right to present proof of third party guilt to the trier of fact implicates federal constitutional rights to a fair trial, which may require admissibility, though contrary to a state procedural predicate. "We are constrained, under Chambers, the due process clause, and Macauley's right to a fair trial, to reverse his convictions and vacate his sentences, and to remand the case for a new trial." Macauley v. State, 3D18-13 (6/3/20)

substance of the excluded evidence was made known. Macauley v. State, 3D18-13 (6/3/20)

VOP-SENTENCING CONSIDERATIONS: The Court improperly reviewed Defendant's prior probation record and significantly relied on what the court apparently believed were prior violations of curfew offenses to determine that the present violation of curfew was willful and substantial. "The defense had no opportunity to defend against these charges. In fact, the trial court's factual recitations appear to be completely unsubstantiated or wrong." Whether to revoke probation involves a two-step process. First, the trial court must find by a preponderance of the evidence that the probationer willfully and substantially violated probation. Second, the court must then determine whether to revoke probation. Milanes v. State, 4D19-2435 (6/3/20)

COMPETENCY: Incompetence is presumed to continue until the court adjudicates Defendant competent. Information properly dismissed where Defendant remained incompetent for five continuous years. Time was not tolled during Defendant's unapproved and unsupervised absence from the state for over two years. "We cannot overlook the rulings of the supreme court and are required by the rule of law to abide by its holdings. Nor do we believe that we have the authority to create a tolling provision in the statute where the Legislature failed to do so." State v. Morris, 4D19-1729 (6/3/20)

SCORESHEET-LEVEL: Possession of heroin is a level 3 offense rather than a level 1 offense, notwithstanding that possession of a controlled substance is listed under both level 1 and 3 in the Criminal Punishment

Code offense severity ranking chart. The Criminal Punishment Code description section explains that the level 1 ranking is limited to possession of cannabis, while the level 3 ranking is intended for all other possession offenses, including possession of heroin. Morgan v. State, 4D20-720 (6/3/20)

ENHANCEMENT-FORCIBLE ASSAULT: Assaulting a federal officer with a dangerous weapon qualifies as a crime of violence for purposes of § 924(c) under the elements clause. The threat of force in "forcible assault" is sufficient violence to trigger the enhancement statute. The use of a deadly weapon under § 111(b) transforms a § 111(a) act into a crime of violence. PSYCHIATRIC EVIDENCE: In rare circumstances, where the government will be required to prove a heightened mens rea element to secure a conviction, the mens rea element of a general-intent crime may be negated by psychiatric evidence. Psychiatric evidence to excuse or otherwise justify conduct is admissible where it negates the mens rea of a specific intent crime. USA v. Bates, No. 18-12533 (11th Cir. 5/28/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-SEALED RECORD-DNA: Neither the procurement of the DNA sample from the crime scene nor the collection of Porter's DNA during his prior incarceration was a search or seizure. Whether the DNA sample from an arrest and conviction, later vacated and sealed, should have been sealed does not matter. Absent evidence of an illegal search or seizure, the exclusionary rule does not apply. The retention of a lawfully obtained DNA record on CODIS for future use does not constitute a separate search or implicate the Fourth Amendment. Porter v. State, 1D18-5024 (5/26/20)

MISTRIAL-INATTENTIVE JUROR: Defendant is not entitled to a mistrial when two jurors said they could not hear 1/5 of witness's testimony but were later given a read back. Williams v. State, 1D19-58 (5/26/20)

RECENTLY POSSESSED STOLEN PROPERTY: Court erred in giving the standard instruction that proof of the unexplained possession of recently stolen property gives rise to an inference that the person in possession knew or should have known that the property had been stolen where the issue was whether the car was stolen or left with the Defendant designated driver Defendant by the victim. The standard instruction of presumption applies only where the property is undisputedly stolen and the question is who stole it. "The only possible effect of the instruction here was to allow the jury to presume Jones was guilty because he was in possession of the car." Error is fundamental. Moore v. State, 2D18-1842 (5/27/20)

PARAPHERNALIA: Where there is no indication that the glass pipe had any use other than smoking crack cocaine, Defendant is properly convicted of possession of paraphernalia. Other common items require residue or proximity to drugs to support an inference that they are paraphernalia, but not glass pipes. Moore v. State, 2D18-1842 (5/27/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Evidence that another person's fingerprints were found in the murder victim's abandoned car, where the judge believed the person's testimony that he often entered abandoned cars to steal stereos, and disbelieved his admission that he committed the murder, is sufficient to deny the Defendant

's motion to vacate his conviction for murdering his wife, notwithstanding that the thief's testimony "was, to put it mildly, bizarre." "Mr. Scott did ultimately confess to the murder of Ms. Schofield. But then he also confessed to murdering every other person who was murdered in Polk County between 1987 and 1988." Schofield v. MINOR-RESENTENCING-JUVENILE: 30 year sentence is not a de facto life sentence. Defendant is not entitled to resentencing based on Supreme Court's change in the law. State v. Morales, 2D18-3428 (5/27/20)

JURY INSTRUCTIONS: Court erred by denying Defendant's request for the standard jury instruction on the presumption of reasonable fear. A trial court's failure to give a requested instruction constitutes reversible error if: (1) the requested instruction accurately states the law; (2) the facts of the case support the instruction; and (3) the instruction is necessary to allow the jury to properly resolve all issues in the case. JURY INSTRUCTIONS-LOST EVIDENCE: Defendant is not entitled to a jury instruction on lost evidence where there was a glitch when switching from one body cam to another whereby the body cam footage was not preserved. PROBATION-TOLLING-PRISON: Where the defendant was sentenced to serve three years prison followed by two years probation (case #2) while serving an eight year prison sentence on a different case (case #1), the two year probation term on case # is tolled until the Defendant is released from prison. JURY INSTRUCTION-EXCUSABLE HOMICIDE-JURY PARDON: The former rule that the failure to instruct on justifiable or excusable homicide as part of the jury instruction on manslaughter constitutes fundamental error where the conviction is for manslaughter or a greater offense not more than one step removed no longer applies because Florida no longer recognizes the jury pardon doctrine. DEATH PENALTY-INTELLECTUAL DISABILTY: To establish intellectual disability as a bar to execution, a defendant must demonstrate (1) significantly subaverage general intellectual functioning (an IQ under 70); (2) concurrent deficits in adaptive behavior; and (3) manifestation of the condition before age eighteen. Hall, requiring courts to consider the standard error of measurement of IQ tests (five points) in deciding whether Defendant may present additional evidence of intellectual disability, does not apply retroactively. Previous case law receded from. "Upon further consideration, we have determined that this Court clearly erred. . .and we now recede from our decision in Walls." Phillips v. State, SC18-1149 (5/21/20)

RETROACTIVITY: Evolutionary refinements to law do not apply retroactively. Changing the standard for executing intellectually disabled is not of sufficient magnitude to warrant retroactive application to cases on collateral review. "Although the federal standard for determining retroactivity [requires] that courts must give retroactive effect to (1) new substantive rules of federal constitutional law and (2) new watershed rules of criminal procedure implicating the fundamental fairness and accuracy of the criminal proceeding,. . .only . . .substantive rules of federal constitutional law must be applied retroactively by state courts." Phillips v. State, SC18-1149 (5/21/20)

STARE DECISIS (LABARGA, DISSENT): "Yet again, this Court has removed an important safeguard in maintaining the integrity of Florida's death penalty jurisprudence. . .I write to underscore the unraveling of sound legal holdings in this most consequential area of the law. . .I reject the majority's conclusion that Hall was a mere procedural evolution in the law. When the law develops in such a manner as to clarify the criteria for intellectual disability—a status which poses an absolute bar to execution—this cannot simply be deemed 'an evolutionary refinement.'" Phillips v. State, SC18-1149 (5/21/20)

LAWYERS-MILITARY SPOUSE: Under new subdivision, the spouse of a service member who has applied for certification to engage in the practice of law in Florida may be certified by the Court to act as a certified legal intern while his or her application is pending. PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-RACIAL DISCRIMINATION-PRESERVED ISSUE: The party opposing a peremptory strike must make a specific objection to the proponent's proffered race-neutral reason for the strike, if contested, to preserve the claim that the trial court erred in concluding that the proffered reason was genuine. Where Defendant's counsel renewed his objection to the State's peremptory strike but never argued that the State's proffered explanation lacked record support noradvanced any argument as to why that explanation was not genuine failed to preserve the issue. State v. Johnson, SC19-96 (5/21/20)

STARE DECISIS-DICTA: Supreme Court says it does not violate principles of stare decisis here: "[L]anguage in this Court's decision in Hayes. . .which a plurality of this Court relied upon in its nonprecedential opinion. . .wrongly suggests that the trial court is required to create a record for appellate review of otherwise unpreserved error by 'undertak[ing] an on-the-record genuineness inquiry' every time a party opposes a peremptory strike. . .This language is dicta, however, because Hayes was not a preservation case." VOIR DIRE: Juror's comment during voir dire that the Defendant looked familiar and she may have seen him during her work in jails and prisons does not warrant the entire jury panel being stricken. STAND YOUR GROUND: Once a defendant makes a prima facie claim of immunity, the State must prove by clear and convincing evidence that the defendant is not entitled to immunity, but this change in law only applies retroactively to immunity hearings conducted on or after the statute's effective date. JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE: Defendant is not entitled to a special jury instruction that she may use deadly force where resisting a felony in her conveyance; The standard jury instruction adequately covers the defense that the Defendant was defending herself from the victim who jumped halfway in the car to avoid being run over. Mordica v. State, 3D19-51 (5/20/20)

SELF DEFENSE: Court did not err in not instructed jury that victim, who had been tussling with the Defendant and tried to jump in the car to avoid being run over, was committing a felony. There was no testimony to support a finding that victim committed the specific felony of burglary of an occupied conveyance. Mordica v. State, 3D19-51 (5/20/20)

OPENING THE DOOR-CROSS EXAMINATION: When Defendant is allowed to present evidence about a specific text threat made by the Victim, the State is allowed to present evidence about a specific text threat made by the Defendant. The concept f opening the door applies when one party's evidence presents an incomplete picture and fairness demands the opposing party be allowed to complete it. Mordica v. State, 3D19-51 (5/20/20)

SHOW UP: Florida courts apply a two-step test to determine the admissibility of an out-of-court identification: (1) did the police employ any unnecessarily suggestive procedure and (2) if so, did the suggestive procedure give rise to a substantial likelihood of irreparable isidentification. Showing the victim a single suspect matching the physical description of the perpetrator three days after the attack was inherently suggestive, but did not violate due process because use of the procedure was imperative and did not create a substantial likelihood of misidentification. McWilliams v. State, 3D19-293 (5/20/20)

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court properly entered a downward departure on the basis that the victim of the felony battery was an initiator, willing participant, aggressor, or provoker of the incident. State v. Quero, 3D18-1820 (5/20/20)

MITIGATION: Court has no authority to grant the motion to mitigate filed more than 60 days after imposition. The failure of the State apprise the ourt of the untimeliness of the mitigation motion does not confer jurisdiction on the trial court by waiver, acquiescence, estoppel, or consent. State v. Garcia, 3D18-1984 (5/20/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Conviction on mltiple counts of driving with a suspended license causing death or serious injuries violates the Double Jeopardy. There can only be one penalty for driving with a suspended license regardless of the number of injuries or death. Coto v. State, 4D18-2602 (5/20/20)

ASSAULT: Intent to do violence to the victim is not an element of assault. Burglar who throws a bottle at an 80-year-old woman which shatters against the wall behind her is guilty of burglary with an assault. Whether he threw the bottle with the intent to distract her is irrelevant. Thomas v. State, 4D19-935 (5/20/20)

DRUG COURT-VIOLATION: Defendant in drug court is entitled to the same due process requirements afforded defendants in probation revocation proceedings before being terminated from the program and sentenced to prison. The drug court coordinator's letter and its attachments, considered without establishing foundation or reliability and containing statements made without personal knowledge, are insufficient to sustain the State's burden of proof. CERTIORARI: State is not entitled to Writ of Certiorai to quash a non-final order compelling it to produce certain limited discovery prior to an evidentiary hearing on Defendant 's motion for postconviction relief where it would not suffer irreparable harm in complying with the court order. Remedy is dismissal, not denial, of a petition for writ of certiorari when there has been an insufficient showing of irreparable harm. State v. Glenn, 5D19-1774 (5/15/2O)

COSTS: Court may not impose $100 cost of investigation where agency made no request. "The Legislature did not intend for the imposition of an arbitrary amount of costs." Ours v. State, 5D19-2904 (5/15/20) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/635560/7221264/file/192904_DC05_05152020_090224_i.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose a $3 cost assessed pursuant to section 318.18 where Defendant was not charged with a traffic infraction. Thomas v. State, 5D19-3395 (5/15/20) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/635561/7221276/file/193395_DC05_05152020_090439_i.pdf

RESENTENCING-ACCA: Upon resentencing, because one of the predicate offenses for the Defendant's ACCA sentence was invalid because it fell under the invalid residual clause, Court may again impose the ACCA mandatory minimum on the basis of another qualifying offense not previously relied upon. Tribue v. USA, No. 18-10579 (11th Cir. 5/14/20) http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201810579.1.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Special standard for evaluating circumstantial evidence abandoned. "Because this special standard [previously applied to wholly circumstantial cases] is unwarranted, confusing, and out of sync with both the jury instructions currently used in this state and the approach to appellate review used by the vast majority of the courts in this country, we discontinue its use." The standard of review applied to a determination of the legal sufficiency of evidence to support a criminal conviction is simply whether the State presented competent, substantial evidence to support the verdict. To apply this standard to a criminal case, an appellate court must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the State and ask whether a rational trier of fact could have found the existence of the elements of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt. Bush v. State, SC18-227 (S. Ct. 6/14/20) https://www.floridasupremecourt.org/content/download/635474/7220382/file/sc18-227.pdf

HEARSAY-DYING DECLARATION: Dying declarations not relating to the cause of death are not admissible under the dying declaration exception to the hearsay rule. Victim's declaration the the children were with their father (the Defendant), implying he was not the killer, is not admissible. Bush v. State, SC18-227 (6/14/20)

INTERROGATION: False statements by officer to Defendant, referencing non-existant evidence, during interrogation to prompt a response need not be excluded. Bush v. State, SC18-227 (S. Ct. 6/14/20)

DEATH PENALTY-JURY INSTRUCTION: Jury instructions given in capital cases that refer to the jury's advisory role and to their sentencing verdict as a recommendation are lawful. Bush v. State, SC18-227 (S. Ct. 6/14/20)

AUTHENTICATION-FACEBOOK PHOTO: Any witness with knowledge that it is a fair and accurate representation may testify to the foundational facts; the photographer need not testify. Authentication for the purpose of admission is a relatively low threshold that requires evidence sufficient to support a finding that the photograph in question is what the proponent claims. Officer may authenticate a Facebook photo without testifying about the date of the photograph, the identity of the photographer, or the circumstances under which the photo was taken. Smiley v. State, SC18-385 (5/14/20)

MISTRIAL: Accomplice's testimony that the wear gloves "when we normally operate like that" lacked any detail about other crimes and does not come close to meeting the high standard that justifies a mistrial. Smiley v. State, SC18-385 (5/14/20)

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE-PRESERVATION OF ISSUE: Counsel's failure to argue for a Judgment of Acquittal based on the special standard for circumstantial applied fails to preserve the issue. In moving for a judgment of acquittal, defendant must argue that it was a wholly, outline a theory of defense, and explain why it was not inconsistent with the circumstantial evidence. Jackson v. State, 1D17-5087 (5/13/20)

COSTS-PRESENCE OF DEFENDANT: Any error related to the acceptance of counsel's waiver of Appellant's presence at the hearing for correction of sentence where the court orally pronounced the discretionary fine is harmless. Jackson v. State, 1D17-5087 (5/13/20)

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-CUSTODY: Under facts, Defendant was not unlawfully interrogated in his home about sex crimes. The Ramirez factors to determine whether an interrogation is custodial do not allow for consideration of the particularities of the individual defendant, but rather use "an objective, reasonable person" standard. Defendant's limitations and mental health issues are immaterial. Vazquez v. State, 2D18-5028 (5/13/20)

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION-POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to a hearing on his motion for postconviction relief claiming ineffective assistance of counsel where counsel did not move to disqualify the judge who asked "Do you want a denial now?" before the suppression hearing began in the Defendant arrived because the motion did not explain why the motion to suppress should have been granted and where a different judge presided over the trial. Williams v. State, 5D19-128 (5/13/20)

MINOR-LENGTHY SENTENCE: Minor sentenced to 40 years in prison is not subject to a cruel and unusual sentence because a 40 year sentence is not a de facto life sentence. Moss v. State,

JURY INSTRUCTIONS: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial when the definition of "weapon" was omitted from the written jury instructions but was orally given to the jury. A defective instruction in a criminal case can only constitute fundamental error if the error pertains to a material element that is disputed at trial. Duckworth v. State, 3D20-272 (5/13/20)

SPEEDY TRIAL: Defendant is not entitled to Speedy Trial discharge where he is arrested, State files a No Info, then refiles the case and sends notice to Defendant and counsel, the case is set for trial outside the 175 day Speedy Trial time period and the Defendant failed to file a Notice of Expiration. When the State terminates a prosecution during the speedy trial period, the State may re-file the same charge prior to the expiration of the speedy trial period and proceed to trial on the reinstated charge, so long as the defendant has notice of the reinstated charge within the speedy trial period. Tamayo v. State, 3D20-490 (5/13/20) https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/635398/7219481/file/200490_DC02_05132020_110420_i.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-OBSCURED TAG: The county name on a license tag need not be plainly visible because it is not an essential identification mark "We question whether. . .the county name [on any] tags. . .is visible and legible to a person with normal vision at 100 feet. . .By suggesting that common words that everyone knows exist on the top and bottom of a license provide a basis for a traffic stop when the frame covers part of their lettering leads to an absurd result." GAIN TIME: "The award of gain time is solely a function of the Department of Corrections. Gibson v. State, 4D20-728 (5/13/20) https://www.4dca.org/content/download/635366/7219095/file/200728_DC05_05132020_102406_i.pdf

CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE ANALOGUE: Defendant/doctor is properly convicted of distribution of furanyl fentanyl causing death where furanyl fentanyl was a controlled substance analogue, not a controlled substance per se, at the time of the offense. By statute, controlled substance analogues are treated as Schedule I controlled substances. The death enhancement is but-for causation. USA v. Benjamin, No. 18-13091 (11th Cir. 5/8/20)

SCIENTER: Jury need not be instructed that Defendant knew furanyl fentanyl was a controlled substance analogue. The government can prove scienter with evidence that the defendant knew the specific controlled substance analogue he was dealing with, even if he did not know its legal status as an analogue. USA v. Benjamin, No. 18-13091 (11th Cir. 5/8/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSENT: Consensual search of Defendant's bag after landing at airport is not rendered unlawful by the misrepresentation of law enforcement (that TSA may have found ammunition in the luggage) as to why they wanted to conduct the search. The Fourth Amendment allows some police deception so long as the suspect's will is not overborne. USA v. Benjamin, No. 18-13091 (11th Cir. 5/8/20)

POSSESSION WITH INTENT TO SELL-JOA: Defendant may not be convicted of possession with intent to sell based on him being in the rear of the vehicle in close proximity to, or an actual possession of, 3.8 grams of cannabis, 2.7 grams of powder cocaine in a plastic baggie, crack cocaine in several different pieces in a small plastic container, a cigarillo and a razor blade, notwithstanding officer's testimony thatsomeone having multiple drugs is generally indicative of sale and is not typically seen on the user. COSTS: $3 cost assessed pursuant to section 318.18(11) stricken where Defendant was not charged with a traffic infraction. Sharp v. State, 5D19-1632 (5/8/20) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/635168/7216797/file/191632_DC05_05082020_091122_i.pdf

ARGUMENT: "Talking about illusions, smoke screens, distractions, things that aren't relevant, because throughout opening statement and the questions of witnesses there were a number of illusions made by the defense," is improper argument. Comments suggesting that opposing counsel is blowing smoke or using smoke and mirrors in an effort to distract improperly denigrate counsel and the theory of defense. Here, error is harmless. Bugg v. State, 5D19-2108 (5/8/20)

HEARSAY: Officer's testimony relating description of the suspect by a witness is hearsay and not subject to the witness identification exception to the hearsay rule (90.801(2)(c)). A description is not an identification. Here, error is harmless. Bugg v. State, 5D19-2108 (5/8/20)

IMPEACHMENT-INCONSISTENT STATEMENT: Court erred in prohibiting defense counsel from confronting witness with his written prior inconsistent statement. In order for one to impeach a witness with a prior inconsistent statement, a predicate must first be established by calling the attention of the witness to be impeached to the allegedly contradictory statements and to the occasion when it is alleged said statements were made. "Improper impeachment" objection improperly sustained. Bugg v. State, 5D19-2108 (5/8/20)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION: Where court improperly sustains State's "improper impeachment" objection, Defense must proffer the testimony which he sought to elicit in order to adequately preserve this issue for appellate review. Bugg v. State, 5D19-2108 (5/8/20)

ILLEGAL SENTENCE-ATTEMPTED SEXUAL BATTERY ON MINOR: Attempted Sexual Battery on a Person Less than Twelve is neither a life felony, as judge believed, nor a second degree felony, as Defendant believed. It is a first-degree felony with a 30 year maximum, unless the sexual organs of the victim are injured. Twenty years' imprisonment followed by life probation exceeds the thirty-year statutory maximum. Echevarria v. State, 5D19-3074 (5/8/20)

FRAUD: Government Officials who close lanes to George Washington Bridge as political retribution against a mayor cannot be conficted of property fraud because the actions were a corrupt abuse of power, but not taken for financial gain. Officials violate federal fraud laws only if an object of their dishonesty is to obtain money or property. Federal fraud laws do not proscribe schemes to defraud citizens of their intangible rights to honest and impartial government. "Save for bribes or kickbacks. . ., a state or local official's fraudulent schemes violate that law only when. . .they are 'for obtaining money or property.'" Kelly v. USA, No. 18–1059 (US S. Ct. 5/7/20)

ACCA: Florida robbery convictions are "violent felonies," subjecting Defendant to ACCA mandatory minimum under both the elements and residual clauses. The degree of force required to commit robbery is not too slight to constitute a violent felony under the ACCA. Sudden snatching robbery is a crime of violence. Welch v. USA, No. 14-15733 (11th Cir. 5/6/20)

ACCA: "Serious drug offense" includes an offense involving distribution, which need not involve an exchange for value. For a state drug offense to qualify as a predicate offense under the career-offender guideline, the language of the statute need not match the Guidelines definition exactly. Serious drug offenses include state offenses that use possession of a specified amount of a drug to infer intent. Hollis v. USA, No. 19-11323 (11th Cir. 5/6/20)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: The connection between drug-dealing and firearm possession is an appropriate one to be drawn during a felon-in-possession case. USA v. McLellan, No. 18-13289 (11th Cir. 5/6/20)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Failure of the jury instructions to include the knowledge-of-status element did not affect Defendant's substantial rights or the fairness of the judicial proceedings where it is inconceivable that he did not know that he was a felon, having served approximately ten years in prison, on and off. USA v. McLellan, No. 18-13289 (11th Cir. 5/6/20)

EXPERT: Officers testimony that it is "very common" for individuals involved in narcotic activity "to possess handguns, a lot of times for protection" because of the threat of "robbery of their narcotics" is not improper expert opinion. Such testimony does not require any scientific, technical, or specialized knowledge, but rather is rationally based on witness's perception of the relationship between guns and drug activity that he acquired during his time as a police officer in the narcotics division. A witness is permitted to deliver a lay opinion testimony based on his professional experiences. USA v. McLellan, No. 18-13289 (5/6/20)

SPECIOUS ARGUMENT: Defendant fails in his argument that because the magazine found near his gun was unloaded, the gun itself was not—at that time—capable of accepting a large magazine. "We reject his invitation to grammatical innovation." USA v. Evans, No. 17-15323 (11th Cir. 5/6/20)

SENTENCING-UPWARD DEPARTURE: The remedy when court, not the jury, found dangerousness under section 775.082(10) is to remand for resentencing with instructions to either impose a nonstate sanction of up to one year in county jail or empanel a jury to make the determination of dangerousness, if requested by the State. JOA: Counsel was ineffective for making no more than a boilerplate motion for judgment of acquittal (defense counsel said he was not going to "insult anybody" or "waste any time" by making it anything more than pro forma). Counsel's ineffectiveness may be resolved on direct appeal without wasting

CRUEL OR UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT: Cumulative 150 year sentence (after Defendant declined probation) for possession of child porn is not cruel or unusual. "Although defendant and his attorneys may find the sentencing range to be overly broad, it is completely within the discretion of the trial court and 100 percent legal." For a prison sentence to constitute cruel and unusual punishment solely because of its length, at a minimum the sentence be must be grossly disproportionate to the crime. Stephens v. State, 3D18-247 (5/6/20)

COMPETENCY: Defense counsel's post-trial characterization Defendant's "bizarre" behavior exhibiting a "lack of emotional maturity and lack of ordinary intelligence" did not put Defendant's competency in question. BURGLARY: Intent to steal can be inferred from Defendant's presence in a looted store during a hurricane emergency. Williams v. State, 3D19-793 (5/6/20)

STEALTHY ENTRY: "Stealth" normally implies activity that is surreptitious, furtive, or sly, but can include entering a closed and shuttered store in the early evening, during a county-wide emergency brought on by a Category 4 hurricane, when few people were out on the street, curfew orders had been issued, and electrical power was out. Williams v. State, 3D19-793 (5/6/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim counsel was ineffective for not interviewing or calling cellmates of the sole witness against him who had admitted to them that he had told that that Defendant was innocent and he did not know about the planned robbery beforehand. Casanas v. State, 4D19-1895 (5/6/20)

APPEAL-PRINCIPLE OF PARTY PRESENTATION: Defendant may not argue on appeal that the statute under which she was convicted for collected more than $3.3 million from Phillipine clients to process immigration applications for which she knew they were ineligible was overbroad when she raised different factual and First Amendment issues below. The Principle of Party Presentation prohibits an appellate court from pursuing a legal theory not presented below. "Understandably, she rode with an argument suggested by the panel. In the panel's adjudication, her own arguments, differently directed, fell by the wayside, for they did not mesh with the panel's overbreadth theory of the case." USA v. Sineneng-Smith, No. 19–67 (US S.Ct. 5/6/20)

OVERBREADTH (J. Thomas, concurring): "It appears that the overbreadth doctrine lacks any basis in the Constitution's text, violates the usual standard for facial challenges, and contravenes traditional standing principles. I would therefore consider revisiting this doctrine in an appropriate case." USA v. Sineneng-Smith, No. 19–67 (US S.Ct. 5/6/20)

POSSESSING FIREARM AS ILLEGAL ALIEN: The crime of possessing a firearm as an illegal alien includes the elements that the Defendant knew that his status as an illegal alien barred him from possessing a firearm and that he knew he was an illegal alien. USA v. Russell, No. 18-11202 (11th Cir. 5/5/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811202.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant fails to show prejudice in the sentencing phase of Defendant's death penalty case where the new evidence presented in the post conviction hearing merely strengthens, corroborates, and confirms the mitigating circumstances presented at sentencing and establishes no new mitigating factors. Knight v. Florida Dept of Corrections, No.18-12488 (11th Cir. 5/1/20)

MINOR-DE FACTO LIFE SENTENCE: Orders granting new sentencing hearings for lengthy sentences imposed on juveniles under rule 3.800(a) are not final or appealable, and so the trial court retains its inherent authority to reconsider such orders in light of Poole. Prior to final judgment, the trial court can and should correct its own previous incorrect appealable rulings which a party has not appealed. Simmons and progeny receded from. Conflict certified. Rogers v. State, 1D19-878 (5/1/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND-HEARING: Defendant is not entitled to a new SYG hearing because his immunity hearing occurred before the amended statute's effective date and thus it was not error to have conducted it under the earlier standard. Rivera v. State, 2D17-496 (5/1/20)

HEARSAY: Court improperly admitted child sex abuse victim's prior consistent statements to nurse practitioner to corroborate her in-court testimony. Prior consistent statements are usually inadmissible hearsay and cannot be used for this purpose unless offered to rebut an express or implied charge against the declarant of improper influence, motive, or recent fabrication, then only when the prior consistent statement is made after the existence of a reason to falsify arises. But here error is harmless. Bullington v. State, 2D18-2197 (5/1/20)

EVIDENCE-CROSS-EXAMINATION: A defendant should be afforded wide latitude in demonstrating bias. It was improper for the trial court to exclude evidence that Victim continued to live with Defendant for months after he broke her arm by running over it with car, only cooperating with prosecutors after he evicted her. Peret v. State, 2D19-215 (5/1/20)

VOP-ABSENCE FROM RESIDENCE: PO's testimony that all the lights were off and the blinds were drawn at the residence and that Gorman did not appear to be home is insufficient to establish violation. The fact that the lights were off and the blinds drawn does not negate the possibility that he was asleep. Gorman v. State, 2D19-1076 (5/1/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to hearing on Defendant's claim of ineffective assistance of counsel for failing to file a motion to suppress. To prevail, Defendant must prove that Fourth Amendment claim was meritorious. Schwebel v. State, 2D19-1092 (5/1/20)

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: "[I]t is impossible to conjure up what more counsel could have legitimately argued to the trial court in support of a motion for judgment of acquittal. However, Appellant's counsel for this appeal. . .has chosen to ignore the legal standard which governs whether or not a judgment of acquittal should be granted, and instead has treated the Court to what amounts to a jury trial closing argument." Wilkins v. State, 5D19-970 (5/1/20)

MISTRIAL: Defendant is not entitled a mistrial where witness was allowed to testify that he was threatened when he was identified as a jailhouse snitch where the isolated comment did not deny the Defendant with a fair trial. Wilkins v. State, 5D19-970 (5/1/20)

COMMITMENT-INCOMPETENCY: Defendant with cognitive decline caused by Korsakoff's Syndrome should not be committed for restoration of competency where psychologist opined that it was doubtful she would be restored to competency in the foreseeable future. APRIL 2020

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his claim that counsel was ineffective for misadvising him that he would likely receive a withhold the adjudication, which was important to him, when he was prohibited from a withhold based on having had a prior withhold of adjudication. Harris v. State, 1D19-135 (4/29/20)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/634595/7210442/file/191799_DC08_04292020_130852_i.pdf

APPEAL: Defendant may raise on direct appeal trial counsel's ineffectiveness in failing to file motion to suppress where the ineffectiveness is obvious on the face of the appellate record, the prejudice caused by the conduct is indisputable, and a tactical explanation for the conduct is inconceivable. An attorney's ignorance of a point of law that is fundamental to his case combined with his failure to perform basic research on that point is a quintessential example of unreasonable performance under Strickland. Booker v. State, 2D18-3063 (4/29/20)

ATTEMPTED MURDER OF LEO-JURY INSTRUCTION: Court erred by not reading jury instruction that the Defendant knew the victims were law enforcement officers. State is required to prove, and the jury must find, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the defendant knew that the victim was a law enforcement officer. Schminky v. State, 3D18-959 (4/29/20)

APPEAL: Ineffective assistance of counsel cannot be raised on direct appeal without being being first raised in the trial court. Jackson v. State, 3D19-1000 (4/29/20)

STATE ATTORNEY-DISQUALIFICATION: Office of the State Attorney is not disqualified where the elected State Attorney had consulted with the Defendant about his case while in private practice before taking office and observed the trial after taking office. Imputed disqualification of the entire state attorney's office is unnecessary when the record establishes that the disqualified attorney has neither (1) the business insider six years and years later confirmed by the story from a neighbor provided prejudicial information relating to the pending criminal charge nor (2) has personally assisted, in any capacity, in the prosecution of the charge." There is no per se rule requiring the disqualification of the entire State Attorney's Office based solely on the fact that the attorney later became the elected State Attorney. Knespler v. State, 3D18-1592 (4/29/20)

VALUE: Value of the stolen property is the market value of the property at the time and place of the offense or, if such cannot be satisfactorily ascertained, the cost of replacement of the property within a reasonable time after the offense. Court erred in allowing an expert to testify as to the insurance replacement cost values. Knespler v. State, 3D18-1592 (4/29/20)

SENTENCING: 30 year prison sentence for sale of heroin as a habitual offender is neither a cruel and unusual punishment nor violation of principles of ex post facto. Only in rare circumstances does the length of a criminal sentence constitute a cruel and unusual punishment. Small v. State, 3D19-1667 (4/29/20)

RISK PROTECTION ORDER: The RPO statute allows law enforcement to petition for an RPO to temporarily remove firearms from a person who poses a significant danger to themselves or others. Entry of an RPO does not require a showing of imminent fear or immediate and present danger. The RPO statute does not limit the evidence to events that occurred within the past 12 months of the filing of the RPO petition. Blinston v. Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office, 4D 19-768 (4/29/20)

JUVENILE-COMMITMENT: Court may not commit a child to a restrictiveness level different from that recommended by DJJ unless it states for the record the reasons that establish by a preponderance of the evidence why the court is disregarding the recommendation. Simply listing reasons that are totally unconnected to this analysis does not explain why one restrictiveness level is better suited for providing the juvenile offender with the most appropriate dispositional services in the least restrictive available setting. "We remind delinquency court judges that deviating from a DJJ's recommendation is a difficult matter. . .In order to deviate lawfully, a trial court must do more than place generalized reasons on the record; it must engage in a well-reasoned and complete analysis of the PDR and the type of facility to which the trial court intends to send the child. This is no easy task and will take time and consideration." R.B. v. State, 4D19-817 (4/29/20)

UPWARD DEPARTURE-STATUTORY REVIVAL: Defendant who scores under 22 points may not be sentenced to prison unless the jury makes findings of danger to the public. Court may not use the principle of statutory revival to avoid the requirement of the jury finding. Buchman v. State, 4D19-2904 (4/29/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Federal habeas corpus relief for ineffective assistance of counsel in state court is only cognizable when the relevant state court decision was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law or was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented in the state court proceeding. James v. Warden, Holman Correctional, No. 17-11855 (11th Cir. 4/28/90)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to habeas corpus relief based on counsel's failure to investigate and present mitigating evidence in the penalty phase of capital murder where prejudice cannot be shown, particularly where the Defendant did not cooperate in developing mitigation evidence and preferred being on death row-where he has his own television-than being in general population. Proof of prejudice requires some evidence that if counsel had discovered the evidence Defendant would have permitted them to present it during the penalty phase proceedings. James v. Warden, Holman Correctional, No. 17-11855 (11th Cir. 4/28/90)

JURY INSTRUCTIONS: Failure to give standard jury instruction on reasonable doubt is fundamental error. Williams v. State, 1D19-2099 (4/27/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-AUTOMOBILE-TAIL LIGHT: One broken tail light does not justify a stop where there are two other fully operational tail lights. Green v. State, 2D18-3587 (4/24/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-AUTOMOBILE: Driving an unregistered vehicle is a criminal offense justifying the stop of Defendant's car. The existence of a tag on a vehicle may indicate that the vehicle was registered at some point, but it is not, in and of itself, proof that the vehicle has been registered. The expired temporary tag did not constitute proof that the car was actually registered since there was no evidence to show that the expired temporary tag actually belonged to that car. Brooks v. State, 2D18-4300 (4/24/20) https://www.2dca.org/content/download/634288/7206995/file/184300_DC13_04242020_081119_i.pdf

READ-BACK: Court erred by responding to jury's request for transcript by not informing it that a read-back is possible, but error is not fundamental. Tate v. State, 2D19-2248 (4/24/20) https://www.2dca.org/content/download/634292/7207050/file/192248_DC08_04242020_081348_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel's failure to object to Court's failure to offer jury a read-back of testimony when it requested a transcript fails because prejudice is not shown. Argument that the prejudice was the failure to preserve the issue for appeal fails because "the question of prejudice in the postconviction setting turns on whether the defendant was prejudiced at trial—not on appeal." Tate v. State, 2D19-2248 (4/24/20) https://www.2dca.org/content/download/634292/7207050/file/192248_DC08_04242020_081348_i.pdf

COMPETENCY HEARING: Due process requires Defendant to be present at his competency hearing, but error here is harmless. Smith v. State, 5D19-389 (4/24/20) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/634319/7207388/file/190389_DC05_04242020_093516_i.pdf

PLEA NEGOTIATIONS: In a pretrial setting, Due Process does not prohibit a prosecutor from carrying out a threat, made during plea negotiations, to bring additional, more serious charges against an accused who refused to plead guilty to the originally-charged offense when it is undisputed that the additional charge is justified by the evidence, the prosecutor was in possession of this evidence when the original charge was filed, and the additional charge was filed solely because of the accused's failure to plead to the original charge. Senko v. State, 5D19-2328 (4/24/20) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/634323/7207436/file/192328_DC05_04242020_100251_i.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Claim of Double Jeopardy violation cannot be raised under R.3.800(a). A double jeopardy argument is a challenge to the judgment, not the sentence, and raises factual issues underlying the judgment which cannot be determined on the face of the judgment. Rodriguez v. State, 5D20-185 (4/24/20) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/634326/7207472/file/200185_DC08_04242020_101151_i.pdf

MANDATORY MINIMUM: Aggravated assault with a deadly weapon (other than a firearm) does not carry a minimum mandatory sentence. Rodriguez v. State, 5D20-185 (4/24/20) https://www.5dca.org/content/download/634326/7207472/file/200185_DC08_04242020_101151_i.pdf

DEPORTATION: Lawful permanent resident who commits aggravated assault duing his initial seven years of residence is ineligible for cancellation of removal. DEATH PENALTY: Defendant is eligible for death if jury unanimously finds the existence of a statutory aggravating circumstance beyond a reasonable doubt, as here where that jury found the Defendant guilty of a contemporaneous armed robbery. STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is not entitled to SYG immunity where competent, substantial evidence establishes clear and convincing evidence that a reasonable person would not have used the same force as Defendant. Gainey v. State, 1D19-4587 (4/23/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is not entitled to SYG immunity for fatally punching the Victim where the Court appropriately ruled that clear and convincing evidence supported the legal conclusion that pre-trial immunity was inapplicable to the facts. Lyle v. State, 3D19-2010 (4/22/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Convictions for both assault and attempted robbery violate the double jeopardy clauses of the United States and Florida Constitutions. To determine whether two crimes are based upon the same conduct for purposes of double jeopardy, the reviewing court may consider only the charging document. Williams v. State, 4D18-1129 (4/22/20)

EVIDENCE-CADAVER DOG: Cadaver dog evidence is admissible if (1) the handler was qualified to use the dog; (2) the dog was trained and accurate in identifying human remains; (3) circumstantial evidence corroborates the dog's identification; and (4) the evidence was not so stale or contaminated as to make it beyond the dog's competency to identify it. Evidence that dog alerted to the scent of human remains in a car trunk (notwithstanding that a body was not found) is admissible. Torrez v. State, 4D18-1277 (4/22/20)

CADAVER DOG EVIDENCE: To be admissible, the scientific basis for dog scent evidence need not be explained before it can be admitted; rather, it must be shown to be reliable from experience. Torrez v. State, 4D18-1277 (4/22/20)

CADAVER DOG EVIDENCE: For cadaver dog evidence to be admissible, each dog's ability and reliability should be shown on a case-by-case basis. Courts should not merely assume that any well-trained dog can detect specific odors, but instead should understand that a dog's abilities, whether innate or acquired, is a fact which may be proven by evidence like any other fact. Torrez v. State, 4D18-1277 (4/22/20)

QUOTATION: "The evidence of the reliability of a dog's alert is 'readily understood by a jury.' Or as Bob Dylan once said, 'you don't need a weatherman to know which way the wind blows.'" Torrez v. State, 4D18-1277 (4/22/20)

COMPETENCY: Defendant who, at sentencing, requested to speak to President Trump and stated: "Commander-in-chief, the witch hunt ends here, " and also wanted to speak to "the First Lady," and "a monster" called "the Madi Arella," is competent. Torrez v. State, 4D18-1277 (4/22/20)

EVIDENCE-RELEVANCE: Photographs of Defendant in Honduras months before the murder are properly excluded as not being corraborative of this alibi. At best, the photographs' limited probative value was to corroborate minor, tangential details of the alibi witnesses' testimony. Dubon v. State, 4D18-1867 (4/22/20)

ARGUMENT-CREDIBILITY OF ALIBI WITNESSES: Prosecutor's argument that Defendant's cousin had an interest in how the case was decided because he was family is proper where he did not state that the story was concocted or suborned. Dubon v. State, 4D18-1867 (4/22/20)

OPINION: Officer's testimony that Defendant can "still be a principal to murder by what he did," is improper but not fundamental error. Officer may not opine that Defendant is guilty under the principal theory. Dubon v. State, 4D18-1867 (4/22/20)

https://www.4dca.org/content/download/634127/7205254/file/181867_DC05_04222020_090722_i.pdf

OPINION-PLANTED PREMISE: "Because the prosecutor's question presupposed that appellant actually committed the acts he confessed to, the officer's affirmative answer essentially told the jury that he believed appellant's actions made him a principal to murder." Dubon v. State, 4D18-1867 (4/22/20)

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: The doctrine of fundamental error should be applied only in rare cases. To constitute fundamental error, the error must reach down into the validity of the trial itself to the extent that a verdict of guilty could not have been obtained without the assistance of the alleged error. Dubon v. State, 4D18-1867 (4/22/20)

COMPETENCY: Court may not find Defendant competent upon stipulation ("All right. Based upon the stipulation to the evaluation I do find the defendant to be competent at this time.") A defendant cannot stipulate to the ultimate issue of competency. Remanded for a nunc pro tunc evaluation of competency if possible. Dubon v. State, 4D18-1867 (4/22/20)

ARMED KIDNAPPING-WEAPON: A defendant may properly be convicted as a principal to the crime of armed kidnapping, even if he did not personally possess a weapon during the commission of the crime, but the charge is not reclassified to a life felony absent a jury finding that he personally carried a weapon. Dubon v. State, 4D18-1867 (4/22/20)

LIFE SENTENCING-MINOR-HOMICIDE: Life sentence minor convicted of homicide is lawful where Court made specific findings as to most, but not all, of section 921.1401(2)'s statutory factors where it is reasonably inferred that the Court made the appropriate analysis. Dubon v. State, 4D18-1867 (4/22/20)

HVOSV: New sentencing hearing is required where Court failed to make any findings of dangerousness. A judicial finding of dangerousness does not violate Apprendi. Borrero v. State, 4D18-2118 (4/22/20)

https://www.4dca.org/content/download/634128/7205266/file/182118_DC13_04222020_091057_i.pdf

VOP: Defendant may not be found in violation of probation on the basis of grounds not alleged. Court improperly found Defendant guilty of possessing a home used for trafficking or sale of controlled substances where affidavit charged him with "owning, leasing, or renting" the home, which is a different criminal offense. Jenkins v. State, 4D19-392 (4/22/20)

PUBLIC ASSISTANCE FRAUD: Public Assistance Fraud only requires the state to prove that the public assistance wrongfully received be of an aggregate value of $200 or more during a twelve consecutive month period, but not necessarily committed in each of twelve consecutive months. State v. Lauriston, 4D19-1573 (4/22/20)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: Under the nearest-reasonable-referent doctrine, whether coming before or after what is modified, modifiers (adjectives, adverbs, prepositional phrases, restrictive clauses) should be read as modifying the nearest noun, verb, or other sentence element to which they can reasonably be said to pertain. State v. Lauriston, 4D19-1573 (4/22/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A court need not determine whether counsel's performance was deficient before examining the prejudice suffered by the defendant as a result of the alleged deficiencies. The object of an ineffectiveness claim is not to grade counsel's performance. If it is easier to dispose of an ineffectiveness claim on the ground of lack of sufficient prejudice, that course should be followed. Giniebra v. State, 4D19-3501 (4/22/20)

HEARSAY: In a homicide case alleging the Victim's overdose death was caused by heroin sold by Defendant, text message saying: "Damn, my boy got some fire, boy," which the Defendant tried to admit to show that Victim had used heroin earlier, is inadmissible hearsay. Jackson v. State, 1D18-1603 (4/21/20)

EVIDENCE: Officer's testimony about his work aprehending violent offenders ("Most of them are - - if not all them are violent felons") is not impermissible evidence of Defendant's bad character. Cruz-Cedeno v. State, 1D19-2170 (4/21/20)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/634076/7204629/file/192170_DC05_04212020_124311_i.pdf

SENTENCE-ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT: Defendant's claim that he is not subject to fifteen year mandatory minimum because it was not pronounced fails. Where the oral pronouncement is ambiguous but the record clearly shows the trial court's intent, the proper sentence is what the judge intended it to be. Johnson v. State, 1D19-2792 (4/21/20)

UNANIMOUS VERDICT: Sixth Amendment's right to a jury trial requires a unanimous verdict. The Sixth Amendment's unanimity requirement applies to state and federal criminal trials equally. "Wherever we might look to determine what the term 'trial by an impartial jury trial' meant at the time of the Sixth Amendment's adoption—whether it's the common law, state practices in the founding era, or opinions and treatises written soon afterward—the answer is unmistakable. A jury must reach a unanimous verdict in order to convict." Ramos v. Louisiana, No. 18–5924 (4/20/20)

QUOTATION: "[I]t's notable that neither Louisiana nor Oregon claims anything like the prospective economic, regulatory, or social disruption litigants seeking to preserve precedent usually invoke. No one, it seems, has signed a contract, entered a marriage, purchased a home, or opened a business based on the expectation that, should a crime occur, at least the accused may be sent away by a 10-to-2 verdict."

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/18-5924_n6io.pdf

QUOTATION: "[T]he dissent would have us discard a Sixth Amendment right in perpetuity rather than ask two States to retry a slice of their prior criminal cases. Whether that slice turns out to be large or small, it cannot outweigh the interest we all share in the preservation of our constitutionally promised liberties. Indeed, the dissent can cite no case in which the one-time need to retry defendants has ever been sufficient to inter a constitutional right forever." Ramos v. Louisiana, No. 18–5924 (4/20/20)

QUOTATION: "In the final accounting, the dissent's stare decisis arguments round to zero. We have an admittedly mistaken decision, on a constitutional issue, an outlier on the day it was decided, one that's become lonelier with time. In arguing otherwise, the dissent must elide the reliance the American people place in their constitutionally protected liberties, overplay the competing interests of two States, count some of those interests twice, and make no small amount of new precedent all its own." Ramos v. Louisiana, No. 18–5924 (4/20/20)

QUOTATION: "On what ground would anyone have us leave Mr. Ramos in prison for the rest of his life? Not a single Member of this Court is prepared to say Louisiana secured his conviction constitutionally under the Sixth Amendment. No one before us suggests that the error was harmless. . . In the end, the best anyone can seem to muster against Mr. Ramos is that, if we dared to admit in his case what we all know to be true about the Sixth Amendment, we might have to say the same in some others. But where is the justice in that? Every judge must learn to live with the fact he or she will make some mistakes; it comes with the territory. But it is something else entirely to perpetuate something we all know to be wrong only because we fear the consequences of being right." Ramos v. Louisiana, No. 18–5924 (4/20/20)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/18-5924_n6io.pdf

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/18-5924_n6io.pdf

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/18-5924_n6io.pdf

STARE DECISIS: "The legal doctrine of stare decisis derives from the Latin maxim 'stare decisis et non quieta movere,' which means to stand by the thing decided and not disturb the calm. Ramos v. Louisiana, No. 18–5924 (4/20/20)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/18-5924_n6io.pdf

MARSY'S LAW: Establishing a victim's legally cognizable interest in a criminal proceeding does not entitle a victim to party of record status. Court properly struck the Victim's counsel's Notice of Appearance, by which she sought full access to the Child's juvenile court file, in contravention of statute. "This opinion should not be misconstrued as declaring that Marsy's Law does not support a victim's filing of some form of notice of election to exercise rights or of legal representation in a criminal proceeding. . ." L. T. v. State, 1D19-3032 (4/17/20)

MARSY'S LAW: "To accept L.T.'s arguments requires this Court to interpret Marsy's Law as fundamentally altering the criminal proceedings by implication. Such an application is a vast departure from the traditional common law approach to criminal justice and without explicit text directing such a departure, we decline to do so." L. T. v. State, 1D19-3032 (4/17/20)

WRIT OF PROHIBITION: Prohibition is not a corrective writ and cannot be used to reverse an order already entered. Prohibition may be invoked only in emergency cases to forestall an impending present injury where person seeking writ has no other appropriate and adequate legal remedy. L. T. v. State, 1D19-3032 (4/17/20)

CERTIORARI: For a petition for writ of certiorari to be granted, Petitioner must show: 1) the trial court departed from the essential requirements of law; 2) resulting in a material injury that will affect the remainder of the proceeding; 3) which cannot be corrected by any other means. L. T. v. State, 1D19-3032 (4/17/20)

MANDATORY MINIMUM-TRAFFICKING: Defendant is subject to fifteen year mandatory minimum for trafficking in cocaine even though the information does not allege any amount of cocaine qualifying him for a mandatory minimum sentence. The amount of trafficked cocaine is an element. The omission of the amount of drugs from an information charging an offense under section 893.135(1)(b)(1), (5) still leaves a defendant on notice that he faces some mandatory minimum penalty, so Defendant suffers no prejudice. Valera-Rodriguez v. State, 2D18-1794 (4/17/20)

VEHICULAR HOMICIDE-RECKLESS DRIVING: Testimony that Defendant's red mustang was "flying," "zooming," driving "like the Indiana Speedway," "driving in and out of traffic," and driving "too recklessly" while using turn lanes and bicycle lanes to pass traffic and side swiping a car before contributing to a fatal crash is reckless driving supporting a vehicular homicide conviction. HUH?: "[I]f the trial court intended to err, it failed to accomplish the error, and reached the correct result in spite of its errant intent. I would not require correction of a scrivener's error when doing so would result in substantive error." Haar v. State, 5D19-942 (4/17/20)

CREDIT TIME SERVED-DOUBLE JEOPARDY: A trial court, on its own motion, may, at any time after a judgment and sentence becomes final, correct a ministerial error in sentencing documents that overreport the amount of jail credit and prison credit awarded to a defendant. Double Jeopardy principles do not bar a trial court from sua sponte correcting a defendant's jail credit to accurately reflect the amount of time previously served on a charge. Conflict Certified. Question Certified. Spear v. State, 5D19-1747 (4/17/20)

STARE DECISIS: "We believe that the proper approach to stare decisis is. . .straightforward. In a case where we are bound by a higher legal authority -- whether it be a constitutional provision, a statute, or a decision of the Supreme Court -- our job is to apply that law correctly to the case before us. When we are convinced that a precedent clearly conflicts with the law we are sworn to uphold, precedent normally must yield." Spear v. State, 5D19-1747 (4/17/20)

VOP-RESIDENCE: Defendant's father's statement to PO that the Defendant did not live in the house and that he had not seen him for 3 weeks does not establish that the Defendant had moved without permission (in fact, Defendant lived in a trailer on the property). POST CONVICTION RELIEF-JURISDICTION: THere is no concurrent jurisdiction for the lower court to rule on a motion for post conviction relief if the claims in a pending appeal and in a motion before the postconviction court are clearly related, such as here, where both motions allege that the victim of the crimes had either recanted or expressed serious misgivings about identifying Defendant as the perpetrator. DUI-UNLAWFUL DETENTION: Plaintiff who blew a .000 with no indication of being impaired by drugs but who is not released from jail because of the Sheriff's eight hour hold policy has a §1983 civil rights claim for unlawful imprisonment and violation of Fourth Amendment. The continuation of even a lawful arrest violates the Fourth Amendment when the police discover additional facts dissipating their earlier probable cause. The fact that §316.193 permits holding a DUI arrestee for up to eight hours does not immunize the Sheriff's hold policy from constitutional scrutiny. Barnett v. MacArthur, No. 18-12238 (11th Cir. 4/15/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-PLEA AGREEMENT: Double Jeopardy does not preclude dual convictions for solicitation and traveling after solicitation not based on separate and distinct counts of solicitation when Defendant had entered a plea agreement when the charging document could have been drafted more broadly to include two or more solicitation counts. Newcombe v. State, 1D16-4769 (4/15/20)

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIME: Evidence is admissible that a few months before the murder the Defendant had put a gun to the Victim's head. Hetherington v. State, 1D18-3747 (4/15/20)

ATTORNEY-WITHDRAWAL: Defense counsel is not inevitably ineffective when a rift forms in the attorney-client relationship, particularly when the rift is caused by the defendant's own behavior. Court acted within its broad discretion in denying counsel's motion to withdraw after Defendant grieved and threatened him. A finding that a defendant's behavior was knowingly obstructive should weigh heavily against any claim that the attorney-client relationship has diminished to such an extent that counsel is no longer effective. Beall v. State, 1D19-57 (4/15/20)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-FOREIGN JAIL: The trial court has discretion to award, and should consider awarding credit to defendants for time served in foreign jails while awaiting transfer to Florida, including foreign countries (here, Argentina). Chimale v. State, 1D19-1205 (4/15/20)

NECESSITY DEFENSE-POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Defendant is not entitled to JOA for Possession of Firearm by Felon where evidence is disputed as to whether the person upon whom the Defendant pulled a gun was coming toward him or walking away. An affirmative defense should not be resolved by a judgment of acquittal where the facts are disputed. Oliver v. State, 1D19-1206 (4/15/20)

SEXUAL OFFENDERS-FAILURE TO REGISTER: Defendant does not qualify as a "sexual offender" under section 943.0435 where he has not yet been released from the sanction imposed in his underlying case, and therefore is not required to report and register. Defendant was not been released from the sanction because he had not yet paid the fine. Absurdity Doctrine does not apply. "We are mindful of the State's legislative complaint, arguing a defendant could take advantage of this provision by simply failing to ever pay a fine in order to delay having to comply with the reporting requirements, but this is an issue for the legislature to address, and not the courts." State v. James, 2D18-2552 (4/15/20)

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-NELSON HEARING: Defendant is entitled to a Nelson hearing on claim that attorney for Defendant who had been committed under Jimmy Ryce Act had not contacted him for two years nor done anything on his case. Yzaquirre v. State, 2D19-1180 (4/15/20)

MAILBOX RULE: Under the Mailbox Rule, a document filed by a pro se inmate is deemed filed at the moment in time when the inmate loses control over the document by entrusting its further delivery or processing to agents of the state. Court improperly dismissed Defendant's Motion for Post-Conviction relief as untimely where time stamp showed that Defendant's additional grounds for relief were mailed before the Court ruled on his original motion. DISCOVERY VIOLATION: Five day continuance of VOP hearing due to State's late disclosure of a witness cures any discovery violation, particularly

HEARSAY: Detective's testimony reciting non-testifying physical description of the person whom she saw running from the alley and whom she believed to be the shooter was hearsay. Brown v. State, 4D18-3031 (4/15/20)

OPENING THE DOOR: Defendant's cross-examination of witness as to whether he knew he had been identified as running from the crime scene does not open the door to hearsay that a different witness had identified the Defendant. The mere fact that testimony may be characterized as incomplete or misleading does not automatically trigger the admission of otherwise inadmissible evidence under the opening the door principle. Rather, the State must show a legitimate need to correct a false impression before resorting to inadmissible evidence, otherwise the principle becomes a mere pretext for the illegitimate use of inadmissible evidence. Brown v. State, 4D18-3031 (4/15/20)

CHILD HEARSAY: Child touching himself while watching television is not corroborating evidence of sexual abuse. Child's pantomime of the alleged abuse in response to the mother's direction to show her what happened is hearsay and not corroboration. The interviewer's testimony that she found the child reliable and trustworthy is not corroborating evidence. Perrault v. Engle, 4D18-3458 (4/15/20)

VOIR DIRE-COURT'S COMMENT: During voir dire, Judge may not comment that the rules "will only allow the most reliable type of evidence to be considered by jurors." "[A]lthough this trial court remarked that it has made the objected-to statement within this introductory explanation for many years, that does not necessarily mean the statement was proper. Once a good faith objection has been raised, it is time to reconsider the statement from the objector's perspective to avoid the possibility of error." Jennings v. State, 4D18-3695 (4/15/20)

SPEEDY TRIAL: When a defendant files a motion for discharge, the Rule requires a court to conduct an inquiry under subsection 3.191(j), even if the 15-day recapture period has expired. Defendant is not entitled to discharge if he was unavailable for trial. "This interpretation of the rule prevents a defendant from having the benefit of a non-merits termination of the case where the defendant is a significant part of the reason that a case has not advanced to trial."No presumption of nonavailability attaches, but if the state objects to discharge and presents any evidence tending to show nonavailability, the accused must establish, by competent proof, availability during the term. THREAT COMMUNICATION: Social media post of Defendant's picture with the caption "On my way! School shooter." is sufficient evidence of electronic threat to survive motion to dismiss. Threat need not be aimed at any particular person. Whether a written communication constitutes a threat depends on whether the message was sufficient to cause alarm in reasonable persons. Puy v. SPEEDY TRIAL: Defendant detained and taken to police department for interrogation for sexual battery was not arrested for speedy trial purposes, and thus was not entitled to speedy trial discharge six months later. The four factors for an arrest for speedy trial purposes are 1) whether the purpose or intent of the authority is to effect an arrest; 2) seizure of the person; 3) a communication by the arresting officer of an intention to effect an arrest; and 4) whether the person believes the arresting officer is there to arrest and detain him. The subjective intent of the officers, not the perception of the detainee controls. Actual communication of the intent to arrest is necessary. State v. Cheeks, 4D19-1408 (4/15/20)

VICTIM'S RIGHTS: Victim has no rights under the CVRA (Crime Victim's Rights Act) where charges are not filed against suspect under a non-prosecution agreement (here, Jeffrey Epstein). Rights under the Act do not attach until criminal proceedings have been initiated against a defendant, either by complaint, information, or indictment. "It's not a result we like, but it's the result we think the law requires." In Re: Courtney Wild, No. 19-13843 (11th Cir. 4/14/20)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: "If any section [of a law] be intricate, obscure or doubtful, the proper mode of discovering its true meaning is by comparing it with the other sections, and finding out the sense of one clause

JUDICIAL SQUABBLING: "[W]ith respect to the dissent's charge. . . that we have 'dresse[d] up' what it calls a 'flawed statutory analysis' with 'rhetorical flourish'—well, readers can judge for themselves whose rhetoric is in fact more florid." In Re: Courtney Wild, No. 19-13843 (11th Cir. 4/14/20)

APPEAL-SENTENCING CONSIDERATIONS: The standard of review for determining the substantive reasonableness of a sentence is abuse of discretion. Consecutive sentences of 21 months (VOP) and 46 months (Illegal Reentry), consecutive to 8 year sentence for sexual battery (state case) are substantively reasonable. USA v. Gomez, No. 19-10609 (11th Cir. 4/14/20)

NOTICE TO RECEIVE CHILD PORNOGRAPHY: Defendant's private, person-to-person text messages asking an individual he thought was a minor to send him sexually explicit pictures of herself cannot support a conviction for "mak[ing]" a "notice" to receive child pornography in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 2251(d)(1). USA v. Caniff, No. 17-12410 (11th Cir. (4/9/20)

DEFINITION-"NOTICE": "Notice," as used in § 2251(d)(1) refers only to public communications, not to private, person-to-person text messages between two individuals, based on the doctrine of noscitur a sociis (words grouped in a list should be given related meanings.). USA v. Caniff, No. 17-12410 (11th Cir. (4/9/20)

DEFINITION-"MAKE": "Make" means causing something to exist. When "make" is paired with a noun expressing the action of a verb, the resulting phrase is 'approximately equivalent in sense to that verb. USA v. Caniff, No. 17-12410 (11th Cir. (4/9/20)

CATCHY METAPHORS: "As our back-and-forth, tennis-match-ish analysis indicates, neither dictionary definitions nor the traditional canons of statutory interpretation neatly resolve the question we face here. . .To resolve this seemingly intractable ambiguity, therefore, we turn to a traditional interpretive tiebreaker: the rule of lenity." USA v. Caniff, No. 17-12410 (11th Cir. (4/9/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201712410.op2.pdf

RULE OF LENITY: "The rule of lenity holds that if at the end of the interpretive road—having exhausted the applicable semantic and contextual canons of interpretation, and thus 'seiz[ed] everything from which aid can be derived,' [citation omitted] meaningful doubt remains about the application of a criminal statute to a defendant's conduct, then the doubt should be resolved in the defendant's favor. USA v. Caniff, No. 17-12410 (11th Cir. 4/9/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201712410.op2.pdf

RULE OF LENITY: The rule of lenity is born of the principle that the law "must speak in language that is clear and definite if it is to render something a crime." USA v. Caniff, No. 17-12410 (11th Cir. 4/9/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201712410.op2.pdf

HARASSING A VICTIM: The crime of harassing a victim does not require a finding of substantial emotional distress. The definition of "harass" in the crime of harassing a victim of a crime is different from the definition of "harass" in the stalking statute. Numerous calls to the victim to get her to change her story and to have the charges dropped is harassment. Risech v. State, 1D18-2415 (4/9/20)

HARASS-DEFINITION: In the absence of an internal definition in a statute, a court may consider the dictionary definition of a word to ascertain its meaning in everyday usage. The dictionary meaning of the term "harass" is to "exhaust, fatigue," "to annoy persistently," or "to create an unpleasant or hostile situation by uninvited and unwelcome verbal or physical conduct." Risech v. State, 1D18-2415 (4/9/20)

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-JUROR: Where counsel announces that "this is an acceptable jury to the defense," he waives any objection to the seating of the juror he had unsuccessfully sought to strike. Risech v. State, 1D18-2415 (4/9/20)

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-JUROR-RACE: A white male is a member of the distinct racial group for purposes of a Melbourne inquiry. Defense counsel's explanation for striking a juror that he "simply did not like him from the responses that he provided" is not a race-neutral reason for a peremptory strike. Risech v. State, 1D18-2415 (4/9/20)

FIRST DEGREE MURDER: Premeditation is a fully formed conscious purpose to kill that may be formed in a moment and need only exist for such time as will allow the accused to be conscious of the nature of the act he is about to commit and the probable result of that act. Hudson v. State, 1D18-2604 (4/9/20)

VEHICULAR HOMICIDE: Vehicular homicide requires a willful and wanton disregard for the safety of persons or property. The repeated instances of illegal as well as reckless driving maneuvers within a short distance from and short time before the crash is sufficient evidence to sustain the conviction for vehicular homicide. Thrift v. State, 1D19-998 (4/9/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: A habitual felony offender sentence is not a new substantive offense, and therefore does not violate double jeopardy and does not require a jury determination. Lyons v. State, 1D19-2136 (4/9/20)

CRIMINAL PUNISHMENT CODE-LOWEST PERMISSIBLE SENTENCE: The lowest permissible sentence (LPS) should be imposed on each count only if it exceeds collective statutory maximum, not each individual statutory maximum. Question Certified; Is the lowest permissible sentence an individual minimum sentence and not a collective minimum sentence when there are multiple convictions of sentencing on a single scoresheet. Fruehwirth v. State, 5D19-297 (4/9/20)

COSTS: Court lacks the authority to impose costs and fines in criminal cases unless such imposition is specifically authorized by statute and the statutory authority is cited in the defendant's written disposition order. Costs may be imposed on remand. Charles v. State, 5D19-530 (4/9/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Absent Absent attachment of records showing the Defendant is not entitled to relief, he is entitled to an evidentiary hearing on claimant counsel was ineffective for failing to investigate an entrapment defense. Prosecutor's summary of the controlled buys on recordings is not record evidence. Comments made by attorneys are not evidence. Dunnell v. State, 5D19-2195 (4/9/20)

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS-CONSPIRACY: Where there is a conviction for a multi-object conspiracy, the evidence needs only to be sufficient to sustain a conviction for any one of the charged objectives. USA v. Maher, No. 19-10074 (4/8/20)

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS-CONTINUING OFFENSE: The five year statute of limitations does not bar prosecution for unlawfully receiving and retaining government property because the offence--retaining--is continuing.

The date of receipt of the fraudulently TARP grant money more than five years before prosecution does not bar prosecution for the continuing offense. The statute of limitations commenced running on the date that the Defendant last retained the grant money. USA v. Maher, No. 19-10074 (11th Cir. 4/8/20)

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: Under the elements clause of the ACCA a "violent felony" has as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person of another. "Use" requires active employment of violent physical force. Making terroristic threats is not a violent felony for purposes of the ACCA enhancement because not all acts constituting the crime involve use of physical force against another. USA v. VOP-POSSESSION OF PORNOGRAPHY: Probation may not be revoked for the underlying offense of possession of child pornography based on the Defendant's possession of a Penthouse magazine, absent evidence that Penthouse is relevant to the defendant's deviant behavior pattern, and the affidavit only charged a violation of Condition 21, rather than a violation of Condition 33 (which prohibits possession of any pornography regardless of whether it is relevant to the Defendant's deviant behavior). Bryan v. State, 2D19-2331 (4/8/20)

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: After Miranda warnings, when Defendant, asked if she wished to make a statement says "No," "No," and "Definitely not," and investigator persisted in asking "clarifying questions" until Defendant gave in, the resulting statements should have been suppressed. Court's conclusion that the investigator was "understandably confused" was erroneous. Kramer v. State, 4D18-88 (4/8/20)

DOCTOR-PATIENT PRIVILEGE: Defendant did not waive her doctor-patient privilege by saying that her doctor had upped her prescription level. Doctor-Patient privilege applies to prescriptions, regardless whether the Defendant's blood sample contained the prescribed medications and that the privileged evidence was admitted in rebuttal. There is no rebuttal/impeachment exception to the Doctor-Patient privilege. Kramer v. State, 4D18-88 (4/8/20)

manslaughter/vehicular homicide based on s. 948.01, which prohibits deferring sentence. "It appears that the trial court believed that 'defer' equated to the grant of a continuance for sentencing. . .We are aware that the trial court's interpretation is widespread in the county and circuit courts. . .But courts and practitioners have expressed frustration with the application of that interpretation. . .The issue is an interesting one [which might need to be certified] to the Florida Supreme Court under different circumstances." RESENTENCING: Resentencing entitles the defendant to a de novo sentencing hearing with the full array of due process rights. Resentencing proceedings must be a clean slate. Defendant is entitled to another resentencing hearing where statements made by the trial court and the prosecutor at the hearing patently evidence their belief that the only purpose of remand was to introduce evidence that Dean qualified as a Prison Releasee Reoffender. Dean v. State, 4D18-2406 (4/8/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-DOG SNIFF: Officers may conduct a dog sniff of a stopped car after the Defendant is removed and arrested for driving with a suspended license, and if the dog alerts, may search the car. Gant does not preclude the search because the dog sniff was not a search. State v. Fredericks, 4D19-2407 (4/8/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-MAILBOX RULE: Where Defendant provided unrebutted proof that his motion for postconviction relief was timely filed, we find that the postconviction court erred. ATTEMPTED SEXUAL BATTERY: Defendant properly convicted of attempted sexual battery where he put the victim in a tight bear hug while grabbing her breasts and buttocks while trying to throw her on the bed after

INEFFECTIVE APPELLATE COUNSEL-PIPELINE: Appellate counsel was not ineffective for for failing to raise an issue which had not yet been decided and which would not apply retroactively. SEARCH AND SEIZURE-AUTOMOBILE STOP: When an officer lacks information negating an inference that the owner is the driver of the vehicle, and the registered owner has a suspended licence, the stop is reasonable. The fact that the registered owner of a vehicle is not always the driver of the vehicle does not negate the reasonableness of the officer's inference that the owner is the driver. Kansas v. REASONABLE SUSPICION: "[R]easonable suspicion is an 'abstract' concept that cannot be reduced to 'a neat set of legal rules,'". . . and we have repeatedly rejected courts' efforts to impose a rigid structure on the concept of reasonableness." Kansas v. Glover, No. 18–556 (4/6/20)

DWLS (J. Kagan, concurring): "Several studies have found that most license suspensions do not relate to driving at all; what they most relate to is being poor." Kansas v. Glover, No. 18–556 (4/6/20)

QUOTATION (J. Sotomayor, dissenting): "For starters, the majority flips the burden of proof. It permits Kansas police officers to effectuate roadside stops whenever they lack 'information negating an inference' that a vehicle's unlicensed owner is its driver. . .This has it backwards: The State shoulders the burden to supply the key inference that tethers observation to suspicion." Kansas v. Glover, No. 18–556 (4/6/20)

QUOTATION (J. Sotomayor, dissenting): "The majority today has paved the road to finding reasonable suspicion based on nothing more than a demographic profile. . .That has never been the law, and it never should be. The majority's justifications for this new approach have no foundation in fact or logic." Kansas v. Glover, No. 18–556 (4/6/20)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: The proper remedy for a prisoner to pursue in challenging a sentence-reducing credit determination by the Department, where the prisoner has exhausted administrative remedies and is not alleging entitlement to immediate release, is a mandamus petition filed in circuit court. Key v. State, 1D19-2267 (4/3/20)

COMPETENCY: Where, upon remand,the trial court cannot determine whether Mr. Sutton was competent at the time he entered his plea, Defendant must be allowed to withdraw his plea, if he is competent and so chooses. "We caution Mr. Sutton that, should he withdraw his plea, the State can proceed against him on the original charges." Sutton v. State, 2D17-4073 (4/3/20)

RESENTENCING-MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE: Court may rescind its order for resentencing of a minor sentenced to life with possibility of parole, who was granted an order for resentencing under R.3.800, but for whom the hearing never occurred. Because R. 3.800 was a nonfinal order, court retains inherent authority to reconsider and rescind it. Because minors sentenced to life with possibility of parole are no longer subject to Graham, Court may deny the Defendant a resentencing hearing. Rules 3.800 and 3.850 distinguished. Conflict certified. Morgan v. State, 2D18-4940 (4/3/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy precludes multiple convictions for Resisting several officers without violence where the efforts to resist her arrest were part of a continuous episode. Struggling from the hotel to the patrol car is a single episode. Bruzzese v. State, 5D18-3945 (4/3/20)

DEATH PENALTY: Whether the sufficiency and weight of the aggravating factors outweigh the mitigating circumstances are not determinations subject to the beyond a reasonable doubt standard of proof. Bright v. State, SC17-2244 (4/2/20)

ARGUMENT-DEATH PENALTY: "Your decision should not be influenced by feelings of prejudice or by racial or ethnic bias or sympathy. That's not a basis for your decision, that he was abused, et cetera. No. You cannot have sympathy for that," is not an invitation to ignore mitigation but rather an explanation "that the evidence of abuse is properly considered as mitigation, and that their decisions may not be based upon sympathy." Bright v. State, SC17-2244 (4/2/20)

ARGUMENT-DEATH PENALTY: "And by the way,. . ., you're never compelled to actually vote for death. But. . .this is the case that you should in terms of following the law," is not an assertion that it is a juror's duty under the law to vote for a sentence of death. . .because the prosecutor "did not not imply that they were required by law to do so." Bright v. State, SC17-2244 (4/2/20)

DEATH PENALTY-HAC: A murder may be characterized as Heinous, Atrocious, and Cruel where the Victim perceived imminent death, if only for a few seconds. Bright v. State, SC17-2244 (4/2/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is not entitled to SYG immunity where trial court's finding that clear and convincing evidence overcame the Defendant's self-defense claim is supported by competent substantial evidence. So long as there is competent substantial evidence to support the trial court's findings, the reviewing court must yield. Wilson v. State, 1D19-2996 (4/2/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-LESSER INCLUDED: Court did not err in not instructing the jury on battery as a permissive lesser included offense of false imprisonment where the information did not allege all the statutory elements of the permissive lesser included offense (battery) nor was there evidence adduced at trial to establish all of the elements. Earnest v. State, 1D18-5244 (4/1/20)

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL-PRESERVATION: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial on claim that Court applied the wrong standard in denying his Motion for New Trial where he argued that the Court erred in sustaining the State's objection to Asked and Answered and erred in not granting Defendant's Motion for Judgment of Acquittal. Defendant did not preserve the issue of whether the Court failed to apply the correct standard of whether the verdict is contrary to the weight of the evidence when Defendant neither objected nor sought clarification. SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PRETEXT: Court may not suppress evidence based on its conclusion that the stop was pretextual. State v. D.M.M., 1D19-2293 (4/1/20)

APPEAL-JURISDICTION-VENUE: Where case is transferred to a different venue in a different district(here, from Polk County, Second District to Alachau County, First District), any appeal mst be filed in the venue to which venue had been transferred. Stephens v. State, 2D18-810 (4/1/20)

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Once it becomes clear that a defendant and his counsel are in an adversarial relationship with respect to the defendant's entry of his plea, the defendant is entitled to the appointment of conflict-free counsel to represent him and to assist him on the motion to withdraw plea. Defendant's counsel's assertion that he could not present any legal argument in support of the motion to withdraw plea, left Defendant "in the untenable position of having to orally try and articulate a facially sufficient motion to withdraw his plea at his sentencing hearing without the assistance of counsel . . .[and] evinced a sufficiently adversarial relationship such that the trial court should have appointed. . . conflict-free counsel." Franks v. State, 2D19-811 (4/1/20)

JURY DELIBERATIONS: During deliberations, jury may view videos admitted into evidence outside the presence of the the judge and attorneys. No error in allowing jury to view in private the video which was admitted with muted sound (because of inadmissible comments by the officer) where there is no showing that the juror(s) unmuted the sound. Wright v. State, 3D18-1633 (4/1/20)

CARRYING CONCEALED FIREARM: State must present evidence of Defendant's licensure or lack of a license to carry a concealed firearm. Harmon v. State, 3D18-2410 (4/1/20)

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Judge who is caught watching videos on website of Defendant's expert witness immediately before a sentencing hearins and allowed Defendant only one day to file a motion to disqualify is disqualified. "Here, in addition to the extra-record research conducted by the trial court, the unexplained and contradictory imposition of a same-day, less than twelve-hour deadline for filing a written motion to disqualify would cause any reasonably prudent person to fear that he would not receive a fair and impartial resentencing." Sawyer v. State, 3D20-356 (4/1/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BLOOD DRAW: A warrantless blood draw of an unconscious person, incapable of giving actual consent, is lawful based on the presumption that an unconscious defendant has consented, but Defendant must be given an opportunity to demonstrate that his blood would not have been drawn if police had not been seeking BAC information and that police could not have reasonably judged that a warrant application would interfere with other pressing needs or duties. Good summary of contradictory holdings and analyses. McGraw v. State, 4D17-232 (4/1/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-LESSER INCLUDED: Failure to give an instruction on a lesser included offense is not fundamental error. Where Defendant, charged with Attempted First Degree Murder, was convicted of the lesser included offence of Attempted Second Degree Murder, and where the Court erroneously failed to instruct on Attempted Manslaughter by Act, error is not fundamental, so Defendant (who had not objected) is not entitled to relief. The fundamental error test for jury instructions cannot be met where there was no error in the jury instruction for the offense of conviction and there is no claim that the evidence at trial was insufficient to support that conviction. Roberts v. State, 4D17-3877 (4/1/20)

EVIDENCE-RELEVANCE-GUN: Where the evidence at trial does not link a seized gun to the crime charged, the gun is inadmissible in evidence. Where Co-Defendant shot Victim and the Defendant was charged as an accessory, evidence that the Defendant later had a gun in his possession whch was not used in the shooting. Jeanbart v. State, 4D18-2726 (4/1/20)

PRO SE ARGUMENT: Court improperly sustained State's "facts not in evidence" objections to Defendant's pro se arguments that he lacked knowldedge that co-Defendant would shoot victim where the matters were either in evidence or supported by reasonable inferences from the record.

Jeanbart v. State, 4D18-2726 (4/1/20)

VOP-DANGEROUSNESS-JURY FINDING: In VOP, the Sixth Amendment does not require a jury to make a finding of dangerousness when that finding does not change the range of punishment authorized by the original jury verdict or plea of guilty. Section 948.06(8)(e) does not change the range of punishments but merely prevents the judge from deviating from again imposing probation. Hollingsworth v. State, 4D18-3705 (4/1/20)

ATTORNEY: "[T]he trial court was highly critical of appellant's attorney for filing the motion [arguing Apprendi/Alleyne in a VOP sentencing case]. . .[A]ppellant's attorney acknowledged that he was arguing a position contrary to Souza. . .but was advocating in good faith a change in the law. The attorney was acting in full compliance with his professional responsibility. . .Appellate counsel acted in good faith and did not deserve the court's criticism. Hollingsworth v. MARCH 2020

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE: Defendant suffered no prejudice from counsel's failure to present penalty phase mitigation beyond showing a photograph of a baseball field and arguing that Jesus, Socrates, Alfred Dreyfus, Jeffrey Dahmer, the Scottsboro Boys, and Charles Manson were victims of arbitrarily imposed death penalties. Sealey v. Warden, Georgia Diagnostic Prison, No. 18-10565 (11th Cir. 3/31/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE: Defendant suffered no prejudice from counsel's failure to present mitigating evidence from Defender's childhood-- the only evidence presented was a picture of a baseball field-- where the evidence which could have been presented was contradictory and, if presented would not have raised a reasonable probability sufficient to undermine confidence in the outcome. Sealey v. Warden, Georgia Diagnostic Prison, No. 18-10565 (11th Cir. 3/31/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE:

Defendant suffered no prejudice justifying a new sentencing hearing where Court denied a motion to continue for one day in order to present a mitigation witness when the evidence is insufficient to show that the witness's testimony would have changed the result. Sealey v. Warden, Georgia Diagnostic Prison, No. 18-10565 (11th Cir. 3/31/20)

SHACKLES: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial where he was shackled, but no objection is lodged nor is there a showing of prejudice. "We admonish district courts, though, that in the typical case, the record should reflect why restraints are necessary. These security measures should not be the norm, and it is not overly burdensome to articulate why they are needed." USA v. Moore, No. 17-14370 (11th Cir. 3/31/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201714370.pdf

JURORS: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial where two jurors during deliberations asked to speak to Judge and expressed concern for their personal safety in the event of acquittal where no evidence showed that the jurors' personal safety concerns affected their impartiality and the jury ultimately reached a split verdict. Proper procedure prescribed for similar situations. USA v. Moore, No. 17-14370 (11th Cir. 3/31/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201714370.pdf

INDICTMENT-POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Indictment does not have to allege that the Defendant know he was a felon. "Reading this knowledge requirement into the statute while also holding that indictments tracking the statute's text are insufficient would be incongruous. Although the government may be well advised to include such mens rea allegations in future indictments, that language is not required to establish jurisdiction. . . "The absence of an element of an offense in an indictment is not tantamount to failing to charge a criminal offense against the United States." USA v. Moore, No. 17-14370 (11th Cir. 3/31/20)

DEPORTATION: Defendant's conviction for aggravated battery constitutes an aggravated felony that made him ineligible for asylum, cancellation of removal, and withholding of removal. Aggravated battery involves physical force under the elements clause definition of an aggravated felony. Lukaj v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 19-13073 (11th Cir. 3/30/20)

CORPUS DELICTI: Corpus delicti prohibits the use of Child's confession that he had possessed the firearm and ammunition found in the bushes in which he had hidden himself. A person's confession to a crime is not sufficient evidence of a criminal act where no independent direct or circumstantial evidence exists to substantiate the occurrence of a crime. The corpus delicti of possession of a firearm by a minor requires evidence that a minor had possessed the firearm. T.C.C. v. State, 2D18-4664 (3/27/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-UNIT OF PROSECUTION: Defendant can be convicted of only one count of unlawfully intercepting a wire communication regardless of the number of individuals in the illegally recorded phone conversation The allowable unit of prosecution is not determined by the number of individuals whose voices were unlawfully recorded on a single telephone call. Weeks v. State, 5D18-3612 (3/27/20)

https://www.5dca.org/content/download/632689/7189199/file/183612_DC08_03272020_081843_i.pdf

SELF-INCRIMINATION-PASSWORD: Error, if any in requiring the Defendant to disclose the password to his cell phone, is not reversible error when no evidence from the search of the phone was used at trial or in the investigation leading to trial. Love v. State, 5D19-413 (3/27/20)

https://www.5dca.org/content/download/632691/7189223/file/190413_DC05_03272020_082251_i.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS-LACK OF REMORSE: Court erred in considering Defendant's actions in preparing a defense, such as filing a motion to suppress, as evidence of lack of remorse in imposing sentence. Defendant is entitled to a new sentencing hearing with a different judge. Court impermissibly equated her exercise of her constitutional rights as a lack of remorse. A trial court may not base sentencing decisions on the fact that a defendant exercised his or her right to plead not guilty and proceed to trial. Bici v. State, 5D19-798 (3/27/20)

COSTS: Court may not impose $100 cost for the FDLE Operating Trust Fund without orally pronouncing it, but may reimpose it on remand. Rolfe v. State, 5D19-1151 (3/27/220)

SELF DEFENSE-NON-DEADLY FORCE: Court erred by refusing to give a jury instruction on use of nondeadly force in a case of aggravated battery from a knife wound during an argument about how to disassemble a bedframe. Use of a knife does not summarily equate to the use of deadly force as a matter of law. Croft v. State, 5D19-2266 (3/27/20)

SELF DEFENSE-UNINTENDED VICTIM: Where self-defense is a viable defense to the charge of battery on an intended victim, the defense also operates to excuse the battery on the unintended victim. Croft v. State, 5D19-2266 (3/27/20)

COSTS: Court may not impose investigatory costs unless requested by the State or agency involved. O'Neal v. State, 5D19-3048 (3/27/29)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-WRONG CASE NUMBER: Where defendant twice erroneously filed a motion for postconviction relief under the wrong case number (the case had been Nolle processed and filed under a co-defendant's case number), Court must give the Defendant another opportunity to amend. Woods v. State, 5D19-3216 (3/27/20)

DEPORTATION-MODIFIED CATEGORICAL APPROACH: Conviction for sexual intercourse with a female without her consent does not qualify as an aggravated felony when the record does not clearly establish whether the offense was forcible rape or statutory rape. The Court may not rely on a criminal complaint that contained a sworn statement from the accuser to conclude that Defendant pleaded guilty to forcible rape. George v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 18-14000 (11th Cir 3/26/20)

MODIFIED CATEGORIGORICAL APPROACH: The modified categorical approach is only a tool that helps implement the categorical approach when a defendant was convicted of violating a divisible statute. It retains the categorical approach's central feature: a focus on the elements, rather than the facts, of a crime. George v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 18-14000 (11th Cir 3/26/20)

DISORDERLY CONDUCT: Words alone--including profanity regarding police officers--cannot support probable cause for disorderly conduct. Alston v. Swarbrick, No. 18-10791 (11th Cir. 3/26/20)

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE: Declining to cooperate or provide useful information in the investigation of another, is not probable cause for obstruction. "His failure to answer Officer Swarbrick's questions—and even his profanity-laced response—were not even arguably sufficient to support probable cause under § 843.02. . . See id. Because Officer Swarbrick lacked arguable probable cause to arrest Alston under this (or any other) statute, Alston's false arrest claim must proceed." Alston v. Swarbrick, No. 18-10791 (11th Cir. 3/26/20)

EXCESSIVE FORCE: A three-to-five minute period during which officer continuously used pepper spray on Plaintiff's face while he lay on the ground helplessly is a cognizable claim of excessive force. Alston v. Swarbrick, No. 18-10791 (11th Cir. 3/26/20)

APPEALS-VOP: Revocation of probation reversed where the affidavit of violation of probation is not included in the record on appeal, unless upon remand the Court finds the missing affidavit. Jones v. State, 1D18-4362 (3/26/20)

JURY INSTRUCTION-LESSER INCLUDED: Defendant who was charged with aggravated animal cruelty for stomping on puppies is not entitled to an instruction on the permissive lesser-included offense of simple animal cruelty where the information did not allege all the elements of the lesser offense. Johnson v. State, 1D18-4528 (3/26/20)

DNA TESTING: Defendant is not entitled to postconviction DNA testing after he was convicted on the basis of DNA removed from the victim's teeth when she bit his hand during his sexual assault of her. Holmes v. State, 1D19-969 (3/26/20)

COMPETENCY: Case remanded for a retroactive determination of competency where Court had ordered counsel to schedule a competency hearing based on conflict and competency reports but no hearing was ever held. Kellond v. State, 1D19-1288 (3/26/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Officer may not detain a suspect who was identified by a citizen informant as the person who tried to turn the knob of the home known not to be his and who declined to talk to the officer. Racial incongruity or a person being allegedly out of place in a particular area, cannot constitute a finding of reasonable suspicion of criminal behavior. Fields v. State, 2D18-5067 (3/25/20)

LOITERING AND PROWLING: Trying to turn a door handle of a house is not loitering and prowling. A vaguely suspicious presence is insufficient to establish the first element of the crime. Fields v. State, 2D18-5067 (3/25/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court lacks jurisdiction to rescind its order for a postconviction Graham resentencing based on Michel because the Defendant's motion had been filed under R 3.850 and the State had not appealed, rather than under R 3.800, which would've been a nonfinal nonappealable order. Croft v. State, 2D18-5109 (3/25/20)

PLEA AGREEMENT-ENFORCEMENT: Because there is no procedure for a motion to enforce a plea agreement, such a claim must be filed pursuant to rule 3.850. Bennett v. State, 2D19-79 (3/25/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PAT DOWN: Officer may not pat down Defendant who was in the house of a robbery suspect absent any evidence that the Defendant have been involved in the robbery or any other criminal activity. General concerns of officer safety do not justify a pat-down. Pat-down searches performed routinely or for safety purposes only are constitutionally impermissible. Townsend v. State, 2D19-2235 (3/25/20)

DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE-JURISDICTION: Court properly dismissed petition for dissolution of marriage where both parties primarily resided in Denmark. Robinson v. Christiansen, 3D19-1709 (3/25/20)

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: Court improperly considered charges for which the Defendant had been acquitted in imposing sentence ("You were charged and went to trial, although you were acquitted at trial of another incident with two counts of resisting an officer. . .and you knew that. I didn't know that until today." Kimbrough v. State, 3D19-1173 (3/25/20)

PLEA-SENTENCING: "[Defendant] argues that the trial court erred in entering a conviction and sentence on count 43, as her plea did not encompass that count." Because the count was included on the scoresheet, resentencing is required. Green v. State, 4D18-2853 (3/25/20)

GUIDELINES-SCORESHEET-DISPUTE: Merely objecting to the sufficiency of proof of a prior offense on a scoresheet, rather than disputing its accuracy or truth, does not obligate the State to introduce corroborating evidence of the conviction. Woods v. State, 4D18-3778 (3/25/20)

COMMITMENT-JUVENILE: Court may only depart from the DJJ's recommendation if it (1) articulates an understanding of the respective characteristics of the opposing restrictiveness levels, and (2) explains why one level is better suited. Where PDR did not provide an alternate commitment recommendation, a second PDR would have been required to determine the appropriate level of commitment. F.L.P. v. State, 4D19-362 (3/25/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for misadvising him to reject plea offer in attempted murder case because he could only be convicted of battery for trying to drown his girlfriend. Mook v. State, 4D19-1422 (3/25/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court improperly dismissed Defendant's Amended Motion for Post Conviction reilef as untimely without having ruled on his motion for extensin of time. Miller v. State, 4D19-2347 (3/25/20)

RESTITUTION: Where the loss is of a unique artifact for which market value cannot fully compensate, courts must use replacement cost in determining restitution. "[E]vidence must show that the restitution will make the victim whole—nothing more and nothing less." Where a precise valuation of a stolen item might not be possible, a court does not abuse its discretion in making a reasonable estimate of the loss, but the Court may not accept the victim's valuation without adequate support for its assessment. Case remanded for a new restitution hearing. USA v. Goldman, No. 18-13282 (11th Cir. 3/25/20)

SENTENCE-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: Although the district court must take into account each of the § 3553(a) factors, it need not discuss them specifically; rather, the court's acknowledgement that it has considered the §3553(a) factors will suffice. USA v. Goldman, No. 18-13282 (11th Cir. 3/25/20)

PUN-ISHMENT: "Enter Defendant-Appellant Jarred Alexander Goldman (sometimes truth can be stranger than fiction). . .[who] stole Gold Bar 27 from the Museum. This appeal requires us to consider the proper standard—we might call it the gold standard—for determining, for purposes of ordering restitution. . ." "Today we take this golden opportunity to reaffirm that. . ." "Silence in this situation is not golden." USA v. Goldman, No. 18-13282 (11th Cir. 3/25/20)

HOBBS ACT ROBBBERY-CRIME OF VIOLENCE: Hobbs Act robbery does not qualify as a "crime of violence" under the Sentencing Guidelines, but a Florida robbery conviction does. Hobbs Act robbery does not satisfy §4B1.2(a)'s elements clause. Under the categorical approach, the Hobbs Act robbery statute–which can be violated with threats of force to person or property--is broader than the Guidelines' elements clause definition. USA v. Eason, No. 16-17796 (11th Cir. 3/24/20)

DANGEROUS SEXUAL FELONY OFFENDER-NOTICE: Information does not need to allege that the Defendant qualifies as a Dangerous Sexual Felony Offender (50 year mandatory minimum) where he had been advised before trial that he so qualified and the jury made the factual finding which met the statutory requirements. Goldson v. State, 1D18-3080 (3/24/20)

MEDICAID FRAUD: Court erred in finding Fla. Stat. 409.920(2)(a)2., which criminalizes knowingly making unauthorized Medicaid claims unconstitutional as an invalid delegation of legislative authority and a violation of due process for vagueness. State v. Scharlepp, 1D18-4833 (3/24/20)

APPEAL-PLAIN ERROR: Appellate Court erred by refusing to review the Defendant's unpreserved argument that Federal Court improperly imposed a consecutive sentence to a pending state court case on the ground that unpreserved factual errors by the District Court are not subject to review. A plain error that affects substantial rights may be considered even though it was not brought to the court's attention. "Put simply, there is no legal basis for the Fifth Circuit's practice of declining to review certain unpreserved factual arguments for plain error." Davis v. United States, No. 19–5421 (US S. Ct., 3/23/20)

INSANITY DEFENSE: Process Clause does not require States to provide an insanity defense that acquits a defendant who could not "distinguish right from wrong" when committing his crime—or, otherwise put, does not requires States to adopt the moral-incapacity test from M'Naghten. Thorough history of theories of insanity defense. Kahler v. Kansas, No. 18–6135 (US Sct. 3/23/20).

INSANITY DEFENSE: "Defining the precise relationship between criminal culpability and mental illness involves examining the workings of the brain, the purposes of the criminal law, the ideas of free will and responsibility. It is a project demanding hard choices among values, in a context replete with uncertainty, even at a single moment in time. And it is a project, if any is, that should be open to revision over time, as new medical knowledge emerges and as legal and moral norms evolve. Which is all to say that it is a project for state governance, not constitutional law." Kahler v. Kansas, No. 18–6135 (US Sct. 3/23/20).

QUOTATION: "No insanity rule in this country's heritage or history was ever so settled as to tie a State's hands centuries later." Kahler v. Kansas, No. 18–6135 (US Sct. 3/23/20).

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/18-6135_j4ek.pdf

QUOTATION (BREYER, DISSENTING): "The criminal law does not adopt, nor does it perfectly track, moral law. . . But the criminal law nonetheless tries in various ways to prevent the distance between criminal law and morality from becoming too great." Kahler v. Kansas, No. 18–6135 (US Sct. 3/23/20).

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Search is lawful where officer unlawfully entered the curtilage of a home, then, to find a convenient place to urinate, wandered into the open field by an abandoned hog barn (outside the curtilage) and saw inside the murdered victim's purse. Because officer entered area by the hog pen to pee rather than to investigate, search is legal. State v. Ware, 1D18-1443 (3/20/20)

RESENTENCING-PRESENCE OF DEFENDANT: Defendant's presence is not required for the Court to strike conviction which had previously been vacated, and a handwritten correction is a purely ministerial act for which the Defendant's presence is not required. Copeland v. State, 1D19-645 (3/20/20)

LIFE SENTENCE-HOMICIDE-MINOR: Court abused its discretion in sentencing to life in prison, with review after 25 years, a 17 year old girl who shot and killed a 77 year old man who had sexually abused her for five years. Court failed to meaningfully assess Defendant's background and remarkable rehabilitation. Court improperly considered Defendant's years of sexual molestation as evidence of "a loving family, with open physical affection, walks, and trips to the park." J.M.H. v. State, 2D17-3721 (3/20/20)

TIMELINESS-MAILED SERVICE: Defendant's Motion for rehearing is timely when filed seventeen days after the date of service of the order denying his 3.850 motion. Time limit for a motion for rehearing is 15 days, but by rule Defendant is allowed an additional three days if the order is served by mail or e-mail (this rule has since been rescinded). Cox v. State, 2D17-3822 (3/20/20)

SENTENCING-MINOR-HOMICIDE: Forty-year mandatory minimum sentence with review after twenty-five years for a minor convicted of murder is not unconstitutional under the Eighth Amendment. Court improperly sentenced Defendant to a sentence lower than forty year mandatory minimum. State v. Moran, 2D18-942 (3/20/20)

SNAP OUT MEMORANDUM: A "snap out" memorandum of sentence form does not qualify as a rendered sentence that can be attached to a commitment. "Simply put, the Department of Corrections has no obligation to regard a local snap-out form as a proper sentencing document in lieu of the standard, statewide judgment and sentence form." Pittman v. State, 2D18-4199 (3/20/20)

CONTEMPT-DIRECT: Defendant cannot be found in direct criminal contempt when he refuses in court to enter passcode to his phone, claiming he forgot it, and Court heard testimony from officer that he had previously refused to enter the code without claiming forgetfulness. Whenever a judge must rely on additional evidence not directly observed by the trial judge, the proceeding is no longer direct criminal contempt but becomes indirect criminal contempt. State v. Ware, 2D18-4318 (3/20/20)

VOP-SEX OFFENDER: Defendant cannot be found to have violated sex offender probation where the porn on his found was not related to the deviant behavior of his conviction. The statutory definition of lewd and lascivious molestation is insufficient to establish the Defendant's deviant behavior. Alvarez v. State, 2D19-565 (3/20/20)

APPEAL-DEFERENCE TO TRIAL COURT: "Because the pictures are in the record and we can view them for ourselves, we are not bound by any trial court findings with respect to them." Alvarez v. State, 2D19-565 (3/20/20)

WILLIAMS RULE: In case of sexual molestation by fondling the Child under her underwear, the State is entitled to present Williams Rule evidence of Defendant fondling a child under her bathing suit three years before. The similarity test has been abrogated in child molestation cases, and there is no heightened similarity requirement where the molestations occur outside of the familial context. State v. Hall, 2D19-2092 (3/20/20)

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court may not enter a downward departure sentence based on his conclusion that the Victim and her family law attorney were using the criminal proceeding to gain leverage in Family Court. State v. Griffith, 5D19-1405 (3/20/20)

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: State's failure to disclose four witnesses' statements, a statement from the victim, the identities of four Marion Youth Academy staff members who are present immediately after the battery and six eyewitnesses constituted a discovery violation. Court's failed to determine whether the violation was (1) inadvertent or willful, (2) trivial or substantial, and (3) whether it procedurally prejudiced the opposing party's ability to prepare for trial. Defense counsel's inability to depose or interview all witnesses is cognizable prejudice. Frazier v. State, 5D19-1671 (3/20/20)

SPEEDY TRIAL: Because State's discovery violation prevented the Defendant from being adequately prepared for trial before expiration of the speedy trial., The Defendant must be discharged. Discharge is required when State's discovery violations prejudiced defendant and are uncorrectable within speedy trial period. Frazier v. State, 5D19-1671 (3/20/20)

DEATH PENALTY: Death penalty is lawful where jury unanimously found the existence of at least one statutory aggravating circumstance beyond a reasonable doubt. Hurst has been receded from (Poole). Jury's verdict that the Defendant was guilty of armed kidnapping and sexual battery is sufficient legal basis for the trial court to find that the Defendant murdered the victim while committing or attempting to commit kidnapping and sexual battery. Boyd v. State, SC18-1589 (3/19/20)

DEATH PENALTY: Pursuant to Poole, there is no Hurst v. Florida or Hurst v. State error when a unanimous jury finding establishes the existence of at least one statutory aggravating circumstance beyond a reasonable doubt. A jury must find the aggravating circumstance that makes the defendant death eligible, but the jury is not constitutionally required to weigh the aggravating and mitigating circumstances or to make the ultimate sentencing decision. Defendant's contemporaneous convictions for sexual battery and robbery establish the aggravators of sexual battery and that the killing was for pecuniary gain. Reed v. State, SC19-714 (3/19/20)

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIMES: Controlled phone call between the Defendant in the victim alluding to sexual acts occurring after the victim had turned 16 (not acts charged in the information) is unduly prejudicial and not inextricably intertwined. "Not only do we conclude that the discussion of sex after the victim had turned sixteen was unfairly prejudicial, but we also conclude that the discussion was not inextricably intertwined with the charged crimes." An erroneous admission of irrelevant collateral crime evidence is presumed harmful. New trial required. Woolman v. State, 2D17-4459 (3/18/20)

SEX OFFENSE-FAMILIAL OR CUSTODIAL AUTHORITY-JURY INSTRUCTION: Teachers are not, by reason of their chosen profession, custodians of their students at all times, particularly when school is recessed for the summer. "Custodial authority" requires both custody and control, and it does not allow for an alternative of a duty or obligation to care for another. Jury instruction that the defendant could be found guilty if he had "custody or control" is a fundamentally erroneous misstatement of law. Woolman v. State, 2D17-4459 (3/18/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Amendment to SYG changing the burden of proof is a procedural change in the law and applies to all Stand Your Ground immunity hearings conducted on or after the statute's effective date (June 9, 2017). "Because Nelson's immunity hearing was held on June 9, 2017, the same day the amendment became effective, he is entitled to a new immunity hearing conducted under the amended statute." Nelson v. State, 2D18-39 (3/18/20)

VOP: In revoking probation, Court must enter a written order listing the specific conditions the defendant violated. Ford v. State, 2D18-4106 (3/18/20)

VOP-HEARSAY: Probation may not be revoked based on allegation that the Defendant moved without permission based on the hearsay statements of the Defendant's neighbor and girlfriend that he had moved. The fact that the probation officer was unable to make contact with Defendant at his home does not prove that he had moved. Bailey v. State, 2D19-1395 (3/18/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Child is not in constructive possession of narcotics in the kitchen just because he is closest to it. Mere proximity to contraband does not provide probable cause to arrest the person closest to that contraband. Because the Defendant was unlawfully arrested for possessing the cocaine on the stove, the marijuana found in his pocket incident to the unlawful arrest must be suppressed. J.J. v. State, 3D18-398 (3/18/20)

FACTUAL FINDINGS-DEFERENCE: Appellate court need not defer to the trial court's factual findings when it has the benefit of seeing the video recording itself. "Our deference to the trial court's superior vantage point regarding credibility findings and the live testimony of witnesses is not fully applicable to our consideration of the video." J.J. v. State, 3D18-398 (3/18/20)

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Cocaine in open view on the kitchen stove is not in the constructive possession of the closest person to it. Mere proximity to a substance does not establish that the person intentionally exercised control over the substance in the absence of additional evidence. J.J. v. State, 3D18-398 (3/18/20)

VALID PRESCRIPTION DEFENSE-JURY INSTRUCTIONS: Any error in failing to give the valid prescription jury instruction is harmless where the Defendant is convicted of the lesser included offense of purchasing oxycodone for which the defense is not available. Further, any failure to give the valid prescription defense is harmless error where the evidence supporting the defense "was not merely weak but flimsy." Potter v. State, 3D18-324 (3/18/20)

WITHHOLD OF ADJUDICATION-APPEAL: Although the Court may not withhold adjudication on a first-degree felony, the error in withholding adjudication is not fundamental, and so the State may not appeal unless it had made a contemporaneous objection. "The State's failure to contemporaneously object at sentencing, and its near acquiescence to [Defendant's request that the judge withhold adjudication, require us to affirm the court's ruling." State v. Ervin, 4D19-626 (3/18/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for leading him to believe that hearsay was inadmissible in VOP hearings. Mathieu v. State, 4D19-1029 (3/18/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for misadvising him that the Court cannot impose consecutive sentences following the VOP because the original sentences were concurrent. Mathieu v. State, 4D19-1029 (3/18/20)

PLEA-WITHDRAWAL: When a defendant files a pro se motion to withdraw plea alleging that his attorney misadvised him, misrepresented the terms of the plea, or coerced him into entering a plea, an adversarial relationship exists and the trial court should not strike the pleading as a nullity. Court should either permit counsel to withdraw or discharge counsel and appoint conflict-free counsel to represent the defendant. Graves v. State, 4D19-1040 (3/18/20)

RESTITUTION: Defendants' (husband and wife) argument that they should be assessed restitution in some "minimal amount," rather than $740,000, and then be allowed to "live their lives" as "a happily married couple" is rejected. USA v. Pazos Cingari, No. 17-12262 (11th Cir 3/17/20)

RESTITUTION-JOINT AND SEVERAL LIABILITY: Principles of joint and several liability may not apply where only one partner profited from the scheme, but here, where the husband and wife team were both actively involved in the scheme, joint and several liability applies. USA v. Pazos Cingari, No. 17-12262 (11th Cir 3/17/20)

FRAUD-IMMIGRATION APPLICATIONS: Where Defendants operated a scheme of preparing fraudulent immigration applications without their clients' knowledge of the false statements therein, to the detriment of their clients, the sentencing guideline for fraud (§2B1.1) should be applied, not the guideline for falsifying immigration forms (§2L2.1). USA v. Pazos Cingari, No. 17-12262 (11th Cir 3/17/20)

SPLITTING HAIRS: "Although the Cingaris zoom in on the phrase 'specifically covered' and contrast it with the commentary's use of 'more aptly covered,' these phrases are connected to distinct nouns: another offense established must be 'specifically covered' elsewhere, and the conduct

'involv[ed]' with that offense must be 'more aptly covered.'" USA v. Pazos Cingari, No. 17-12262 (11th Cir 3/17/20)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-RULE OF LENITY: Whether the rule of lenity can be applied to the non-statutory advisory Sentencing Guidelines is an open question. "The rule of lenity applies only if, after seizing everything from which aid can be derived, we can make no more than a guess as to what Congress intended." USA v. CONSPIRACY TO COMMIT HOBBS ACT ROBBERY: Conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act Robbery is not a crime of violence. Conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act Robbery cannot serve as the sole predicate offense for a conviction for using a firearm during a crime of violence under 18 USC § 924(c). Hossain v. EIGHT AMENDMENT-MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE: A juvenile offender's sentence does not implicate Graham, and therefore Miller, unless it meets the threshold requirement of being a life sentence or the functional equivalent of a life sentence. Forty year sentence committed by a minor is not a de facto life sentence. Prior precedent receded from or distinguished as dicta. Previous holdings that resentencing is required for all juvenile offenders serving a sentence longer than twenty years without the opportunity for early release based on demonstrated maturity and rehabilitation are receded from. ARGUMENT-LACK OF KNOWLEDGE: New trial is required where prosecutor misstated the law by saying that "Nowhere does it say that there is a fourth element in there that. . . says that [Defendant] knowingly possessed hydromorphone." Knowledge of the illicit nature of the controlled substance requires knowledge of the specific substance that was charged. Lack of knowledge of the illicit nature may be asserted as an affirmative defense. If the defendant asserts this defense then the defendant does not have to prove a lack of knowledge of the illicit nature of the controlled substance. Instead, the State has the burden to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant knew the illicit nature of the substance. Acevedo v. State, 2D18-844 (3/13/20)

CHILD NEGLECT: Defendant does not commit second-degree child neglect by hesitating to call an ambulance to see if the child gets better when child is found unresponsive. There was no evidence that Defendant's

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to file a motion to suppress confession based on detectives' implied threat to arrest the Defendant's mother for tampering with evidence. MANDATORY MINIMUM-SECOND DEGREE MURDER-FIREARM-SAY WHAT ?!!: A mandatory minimum life sentence for attempted second degree murder with a firearm is lawful, but a sentence of life imprisonment with a mandatory minimum of twenty-five years is not, at least when the trial court chooses to impose a sentence beyond the selected mandatory minimum sentence pursuant to the 10-20-Life statute. BAIL-EXCESSIVE: Aggregate Bond of $360,000 ($1000 or $500 per count) for multiple counts of child pornography is excessive. In setting bond, the court must impose the first, least restrictive, listed condition that would reasonably protect the community from risk of physical harm to persons, assure the presence of the accused at trial, and assure the integrity of the judicial process. STAND YOUR GROUND: Amendment to SYG law changing burden of proof is procedural, rather than substantive, and thus applies to all Stand Your Ground hearings conducted on or after its effective date. Because Defendant's SYG hearing occurred before the amended statute's effective

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court may not grant motion for post conviction relief on the basis that counsel was ineffective for failing to require a competency hearing or submit comptency reports which had been ordered where these grounds were not alleged in the Defendant's motion. State v. Dixon, 4D18-3694 (3/11/20)

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-LOWEST PERMISSIBLE SENTENCE: When the Lowest Permissible Sentence (LPS) exceeds the felony's statutory maximum sentence, the mandatory minimum sentence for both primary and additional offenses must be imposed on each count. EVIDENCE-REDACTION-INVESTIGATIVE TECHNIQUE: "We begin our analysis by observing a basic principle: it is error to permit a witness to comment on the credibility of another witness because the jury alone determines the credibility of witnesses." The State's argument that the detectives were simply engaging in appropriate investigative technique, while true, does not mean that the jury is permitted to hear the detectives' statements in order to provide context. JURY INSTRUCTIONS-PROMULGATION: New Rule of Judicial Administration 2.270 changes procedure for creating or modifying standard jury instructions. "This Court has determined that the current process for developing and authorizing standard jury instructions is more cumbersome than necessary, and that. . . some wrongly believe that by authorizing for publication and use standard instructions prepared by the committees, the Court has ruled on the legal correctness of those instructions. . .Therefore,. . .the Court has determined that it should no longer be involved in the development and authorization for use of Florida's standard jury instructions. Rather, the three committees the Court has created to prepare standard jury instructions should be authorized to develop and approve, by two-thirds vote, new and amended standard jury instructions." Procedure established for trial court to modify standard instructions. LESSER INCLUDED-AGGRAVATED ASSAULT-RECKLESS DRIVING: Reckless driving is not a permissive lesser included offense for aggravated assaults when the weapon is an automobile. An instruction on a permissive lesser included offense may be given only when both the accusatory pleading and the evidence supports the commission of the lesser. The elements of the offense cannot be established by mere inference. "[T]he notion that the charging information should be viewed in light of the evidence presented at trial inappropriately conflates the two independent considerations set forth by this Court for decades as the test for determining what constitutes a permissive lesser-included offense. . ., essentially eliminating the first requirement that all elements of a lesser offense 'must' be factually alleged in the charging document in order for the offense to qualify as a permissive lesser-included offense." POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Failure of counsel to move to suppress a stolen medical encyclopedia, even if meritorious, is not prejudicial when other evidence, including unique items lawfully seized (a Minnie Mouse keychain, and other things) establish that the Defendant was the robber and murderer. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is procedurally barred from arguing a motion for post conviction relief that law enforcement unlawfully serves to self and without a warrant where he did not raise the issue on direct appeal. PREEMPTION: Identity theft/false employment documents used by undocumented aliens are not preempted federal immigration law, and thus are subject to state prosecution. Provision of INA that information in I-9 can only be used for limited purposes does not preclude state prosecution for use of fraudulent employment documents by undocumented aliens. Kansas v. PREEMPTION: "From the beginning of our country, criminal law enforcement has been primarily a responsibility of the States, and that remains true today. . . Our federal system would be turned upside down if we were to hold that federal criminal law preempts state law whenever they overlap, and there is no basis for inferring that federal criminal statutes preempt state laws whenever they overlap." CONTAINER FOR THE THING CONTAINED: "A tangible object can be 'contained in' only one place at any point in time, but an item of information is different. THING CONTAINED FOR THE CONTAINER: "I would find myself lying awake at night saying over and over, 'The thinger for the thing contained.' . . .I would stare at the ceiling and try to think of an example of the Thing Contained for the Container. . .I finally hit on one. . .If a woman were to grab up a bottle of Grade A and say to her husband, 'Get away from me or I'll hit you with the milk,' that would be a Thing Contained for the Container. The next day in class I raised my hand and brought my curious discovery straight out.. . [I]t never occurred to me that the other children would laugh. They laughed loudly and long. When Miss Groby had quieted them she said to me rather coldly, 'That was not really amusing, James.'" Thurber, James. "Here lies Miss Groby," The Thurber Carnival.

SENTENCE REDUCTION-YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: Court may not retroactively reclassify a Defendant as a youthful offender after already imposing a mandatory minimum prison sentence without the youthful offender designation after the Defendant had turned 21. State v. Johns, 2D18-1844 (3/4/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Directing a juvenile probationer to "stand up" during a curfew check is "a minor inconvenience," not an unlawful detention. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant may not pursue by writ of habeas corpus relief from his conviction from several years earlier based on a dubious and possibly fraudulent claim of juror tampering which had been the subject of a previously withdrawn 3.850 motion. Concepcion v. State, 3D19-1478 (3/4/20)

APPEAL-CERTIORARI: Certiorari may not be used to redress mere legal error, and may only be used to repair a material injury that cannot be corrected on appeal. Temporary placement of child in foster care cannot be challenged by petition for writ of certiorari. J.G. v. DCF, 319-2206 (3/4/20)

COMPETENCY-RETROACTIVE DETERMINATION: Court errors in making a nunc pro tunc competency determination as of the time of trial based on an expert's report completed two years before the trial. A new competency evaluation is required. Ramsay v. State, 4D19-951 (3/4/20)

SENTENCING-SCORESHEET: Offenses for which the Defendant had completed his probation before violating should not be included on scoresheet as additional offenses because they were not before the court for sentencing. An offense should not be scored as an additional offense following the revocation of a defendant's probation if the defendant completed his sentence as to that offense before the VOP occurred. Delorme v. State, 4D 19-1510 (3/4/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-INCREASE OF SENTENCE: Court violated double jeopardy by increasing, six days later, the Defendant's initial and lawful sentence of life in prison with a 25 years mandatory minimum to life in prison with a minimum mandatory sentence of life for second-degree murder. The maximum sentence is thirty years in prison with a mandatory minimum sentence of twenty-five years in prison. Hill v. State, 1D18-1358 (3/3/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-COMPETENCY: When a postconviction claim for ineffective assistance of counsel is based on counsel's alleged failure to properly challenge the defendant's competency, Defendant must set forth clear and convincing circumstances that create a real, substantial and legitimate doubt as to the movant's competency. STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: "I don't know what all these legal questions mean, so I want to, like have somebody with me," is invoking right to an attorney. "I'm not trying to be difficult or anything. Like, I just don't know, because you guys word stuff funny sometimes," indicates that any waiver is not knowing and voluntary. N.J.O. v. State, 2D18-2444 (2/28/20)

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: The heavy burden to show voluntary waiver of Miranda rights is even more onerous when the suspect is a juvenile. In the case of a juvenile, the issue of voluntariness requires consideration of (1) the manner in which the Miranda rights were administered, including any cajoling or trickery; (2) the suspect's age, experience, background and intelligence; (3) the fact that the suspect's parents were not contacted and the juvenile was not given an opportunity to consult with his parents before questioning; (4) the fact that the questioning took place in the station house; and (5) the fact that the interrogators did not secure a written waiver of the Miranda rights at the outset. N.J.O. v. State, 2D18-2444 (2/28/20)

APPEAL-REVIEW-DEFERENCE: When a trial court's ruling on a Miranda issue is based on an audio or videotape, the trial court is in no better position to evaluate the evidence than the appellate court, which need not defer to the trial court's conclusions concerning whether N.J.O. invoked his rights and whether the subsequent waiver was knowing and voluntary. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's motion for Post Conviction Relief under R 3.800 is not successive where it raises a different issue than that which had been raised in his previous motion for post conviction relief. Lineberger v. State, 2D 18-3503 (2/28/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-RESIDENCE-WARRANT: The affidavit in the warrant application must satisfy two elements: first, that a particular person has committed a crime -- the commission element, and, second, that evidence relevant to the probable criminality is likely located at the place to be searched -- the nexus element. Conclusory affidavit about a single drug transaction with few details is legally insufficient. Case remanded to determine whether the search is valid under the Leon good faith exception. Hicks v. LIFE SENTENCE-HOMICIDE-MINOR-JURY FINDING: Alleyne requires that a jury must make the factual finding under the statute as to whether a juvenile offender actually killed, intended to kill, or attempted to kill the victim. An Alleyne violation can be considered harmless if a rational jury would have found beyond a reasonable doubt that the juvenile offender actually killed, intended to kill, or attempted to kill the victim. Because the Defendant "had purposely set his alarm clock to arise that morning to shoot [Victim] prior to her waking, any Alleyne error is harmless. Colon v. State, 4D18-1080 (2/28/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to argue that his 90 minute late arrival for sentencing (which allowed the Court to exceed the otherwise agreed sentence) was not willful. Court's dismissal of motion for post-

conviction relief based on its statement that it had found the late arrival willful is not supported by attached records. Ingram v. State, 5D20-102 (2/28/20)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-SENTENCING: Defendant who argued that a prison sentence was not warranted under the statutory sentencing considerations properly preserved for appeal the issue of whether the sentence was unreasonably long. Defendant advocating for a shorter sentence is ordinarily understood to be making an argument that the sentence is longer than greater than necessary to achieve the purposes of sentencing . Nothing more is needed to preserve the claim that a longer sentence is unreasonable. Holguin-Hernandez v. USA, No. 18–7739 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/26/20)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/18-7739_9q7h.pdf

SENTENCING-ACCA: A "serious drug offense" under the Armed Career Criminal Act (ACCA) requires only that the state offense involve the conduct specified in the federal statute; it does not require that the state offense match certain generic offenses. To determine whether an offender's prior convictions qualify for ACCA enhancement, Court must use the "categorical approach," not the label the State assigns to the crimes. Shular v. USA, No. 18–6662 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/26/20)

STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION (KAVANAUGH, CONCURRING): A court must find not just ambiguity but "grievous ambiguity" before resorting to the rule of lenity. Shular v. USA, No. 18–6662 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/26/20)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/19pdf/18-6662_c0ne.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-AGGRAVATORS-JURY FINDING: Where the imposition of the death penalty is vacated because the Court failed to properly consider the Defendant's PTSD, the state Supreme Court may reweigh the aggravating and mitigating circumstances, rather than re-submitting the case to a jury. "Ring and Hurst did not require jury weighing of aggravating and mitigating circumstances, and Ring and Hurst did not . . .prohibit appellate reweighing of aggravating and mitigating circumstances." Ring and Hurst would not apply here because this case preceded Ring and came before the appellate court on collateral review rather than on a direct appeal. McKinney v. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant's motion for post conviction relief, based on later discovered eye witness testimony that the Defendant did not commit the murder, was denied after State presented evidence that the eye witness was not present at the time of the crime because he was in jail, Defendant is not permitted to present evidence found even later that the witness was not in custody where the trial court found the witness not credible regardless whether he was there. "[A]ny discrepancy in Wilridge's jail records is simply too little and too weak to be material under Brady standards." Sweet v. State, SC19-1856 (2/27/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: A person does not get to claim that he was acting in self-defense if he is defending himself from violence that he provoked in the first instance, but he may claim SYG immunity for use of deadly force when he had provoked a threat to a third-person (here, his brother). "[I]f the legislature had thought it desirable to have the initial-provocation exception apply when a defendant provokes the use of force against a third person, it would not have required editorial heavy lifting to make that happen. . .If the legislature really wanted [that result]. . ., all it needed to do was copy the words 'or another' from section 776.012(2) and paste them in the parallel location in section 776.041(2). "It is one thing to say a defendant cannot claim justification when he provokes violence against himself. It is quite another to say the defendant cannot claim justification when he provokes an altercation that risks violence against a third person." Bouie v. State, 2D18-2705 (2/26/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND-STANDARD OF REVIEW: Application of the law to the facts in SYG cases is de novo. Defendant is immune from prosecution when he repeatedly shot a person who engaged in a fight with the Defendant's brother after following in a car and approaching him with something in a hand with something reasonably believed to be a weapon, notwithstanding that the Defendant continuing firing shots while the victim was retreating. EQUAL PROTECTION-FELONS-VOTING RIGHT: Felons right to vote under Florida's Constitutional Amendment 4 cannot be limited by legislation requiring payment of all LFO's ("legal financial obligations"). SEXUAL OFFENDER DESIGNATION: Defendant may be designated a sexual offender for the offense of false imprisonment if the crime contained a sexual component. The probable cause affidavit may establish the sexual component, notwithstanding that the only factual basis articulated at the

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy does not bar dual convictions/sentences for DUI serious bodily injury and DUI property damage. DEPORTATION: Defendant facing deportation is not entitled to withdraw his plea where he entered his plea with eyes wide open and aware of the risk of deportation and now faces the very consequences that he fully acknowledged understanding when he accepted the plea. Vaz v. State, 3D19-613 (2/19/20)

ADVERSARY PRELIMINARY HEARING-HEARSAY: Hearsay is inadmissible in an adversary preliminary hearing under Fla. R. Crim. P. 3.133(b)(1). Court erred in finding probable cause with no evidence, other than hearsay from the arresting cause, that the Defendant's license was suspended as a habitual traffic offender. Rule 3.133(b) does not permit the state to rely wholly on a complaint (even if sworn), on another affidavit or on any other evidence inadmissible at trial. Davis v. Junior, 3D19-613 (2/19/20)

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: After an accused has invoked the right to silence or right to counsel but later initiates further conversation, police must again re-read the Miranda rights before commencing further conversation. Merely asking the Defendant if he remembered and understood his Miranda rights is insufficient. Quarles v. State, 4D18-1502 (2/19/20)

LIMITATION OF ACTION: Where the defendant unsuccessfully asserted the statute of limitations to present prosecution on some charged crimes, he may nonetheless then waive the statute of limitations in order to secure the possibility of a conviction on a lesser included offense. Maclean v. State, 4D 18-2467 (2/19/20)

FAILURE TO REDELIVER VEHICLE: Court errors by conflating §817.52(3) (failure to redeliver vehicle) with §812.155(3), (fail to return leased personal property or equipment); the former does not require a notice warning of the possibility of criminal prosecution. Sampaio v. State, 4D18-3416 (2/19/20)

DEFINITION-"DISCHARGED": "'[D]ischarged' appears to have a fluid meaning." "A Discharge. . . plainly refers to circumstances where a defendant was charged in a criminal case and later 'un-charged' without a final verdict being reached." Starkes v. State, 1D 18-4432 (2/18/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel's failure to object to prejudicial evidence regarding Defendant's prior career as a pharmaceutical salesman was not prejudicial where the jury verdict implicitly rejected the State's contention that the Defendant had drugged and sexually abused the victim. State v. Bush, 5D18-3987 (2/14/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to cross-examine the minor victims in a sex abuse case on their failure to remember some matters where counsel made the tactical decision that asking about this would establish that the children did not want to remember the events. Counsel's strategy was not unreasonable. State v. Bush, 5D18-3987 (2/14/20)

DISMISSAL-THREAT TO KILL: Court erred in dismissing the charge of threatening to kill where a former student sent a Snapchat photo to a current student showing in AR 15 rifle and the caption, "Show and Tell @NM on Monday." State v. Cowart, 5D19-681 (2/14/20)

PLEA-WITHDRAWAL: When a plea agreement calls for a specified sentence and the trial court determines to impose a greater sentence, the defendant has the right to withdraw the plea. Hodges v. State, 5D 19-2089 (2/14/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was ineffective for failing to request a limiting instruction upon the admission of the Victim/girlfriend's written statement which contradicted her trial testimony. The consequence of counsel's failure to request a limiting instruction as to the use of the girlfriend's prior inconsistent statement was that this statement was placed before the jury by the State as substantive evidence. A hearing is required to show whether the Defendant was prejudiced by counsel's omission. McGhee v. State, 5D 19-2265 (2/14/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Motion for New Trial based on affidavit from officer (a close friend of the Defendant) that his trial testimony about finding cartridges in the Defendant's car was not true is time barred 20 years after the trial. EVIDENCE: Officer's testimony identifying Defendant as the person in a video ("That's Marvin Cannon. I recognize him. He has been personally familiar to me for a number of years.") does not improperly imply that the Defendant had a prior criminal record. Cannon v. State, SC19-84 (2/13/20)

ARGUMENT-RELIGIOUS THEMES: Discussion during voir dire of the concept of "an eye for an eye" and State's brief religious reference during closing ("he reaps what he sowed.") are not improper injections of religion into the trial. Not every statement referencing God or the Bible is prejudicial. Cannon v. State, SC19-84 (2/13/20)

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-PRESERVATION: More than one objection is required to preserve a claim that a peremptory challenge is racially motivated. After the initial objection, the issue is not preserved for appellate review if the party objecting to the challenge fails to renew the objection before the jury is sworn. Cannon v. State, SC19-84 (2/13/20)

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-ROBBERY: Defendant who, when confronted for leaving the store without paying, looks down at his hip and says either "all right, young man, don't get shot," or "don't walk up on me," is properly convicted of robbery, notwithstanding that victim saw no gun. Defendant's statement to the victim along with his gesture to his hip, are circumstances that would induce fear in the mind of a reasonable person. Cameron v. State, 1D18-1368 (2/12/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-EXPERT: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to call a firearm expert to challenge theory of the location of the shooter, which would tend to show that the Defendant was not the shooter, since he was charged as a principal. Williams v. State, 1D19-1334 (2/12/20)

GIGLIO: Differences in the testimony a witness gave at the Defendant's trial and that of his co-defendant is a Giglio violation where nothing in the record suggests that the testimony given was false nor that the prosecutor was aware of any false testimony by the witness. Williams v. State, 1D19-1334 (2/12/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant may not use R.3.800 to contest impostion of a three year mandatory minimum for possession of a firearm by a felon on the ground that his possession was constructive rather than actual. Bracht v. State, 1D19-2464 (2/12/20)

CERTIORARI-DISCOVERY: Court properly denied State's motion to compel the Defendant's counsel to disclose the identity of his DNA expert and the DNA swabs he took from the presumed weapon (a fire extinguisher). State v. Jackson, 1D19-2570 (2/12/20)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is entitled to a new SYG hearing where Court failed to apply the 2017 amendment to the statute which shifted the burden of proof from the defendant to the State. Way v. State, 2D17-34369 (2/12/20)

SELF-DEFENSE-PRINCIPAL INSTRUCTION: Court improperly gives a principal instruction for the stabbing of the victim in the back by a third party who intervened to stop the victim from continuing to beat the Defendant on the ground (Victim had angrily charged and attacked the Defendant after realizing that the Defendant had cut him during their first fight moments before). "[T]here is no evidence indicating that Montgomery's actions while the victim was on top of him, beating him about the face and upper body, were intended to reduce the victim's ability to defend himself from the stabbing." Montgomery v. State, 2D18-1119 (2/12/20)

SELF DEFENSE-FORCIBLE FELONY INSTRUCTION: Instruction on the Forcible Felony Exception to the Defendant's entitlement to self defense should not be given in the absence of a forcible felony. Armed Trespass is not a forcible felony. "[T]he statute requires more than just a felony -- it requires an independent forcible felony. Trespass is not a felony; and armed trespass is not a forcible felony." Montgomery v. State, 2D18-1119 (2/12/20)

FLIGHT-CONSCIOUSNESS OF GUILT: The fact that the Defendant moved to Pennsylvania at some time within two months of the crime is inadmissible as consciousness of guilt. New trial required. Alford v. State, 2D18-1324 (2/12/20)

PUBLIC TRIAL-EXCLUDED CO-DEFENDANT: Court lawfully excluded Defendant's husband from her trial when she testified where the Husband was scheduled to go on trial separately for the same incident (a fight at a school). Moore v. State, 3D19-1466 (2/12/20)

VOP-POSSESSION: Defendant can be found in violation of probation when cannabis and weapons are found in a room for which he wore the key around his neck and in which his shirt and wallet were found. Testimony that the room was jointly occupied was not credible. Martin v. State, 3D18-2282 (2/12/20)

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Evidence that Defendant set up the drug deal and entered the home with a co-defendant where the victim was beaten, stabbed and robbed is sufficient evidence of complicity in the murder to sustain the murder conviction. Evidence is more than circumstantial. Pena v. State, 3D18-1504 (2/12/20)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION: In case of Resisting Without Violence, failure of counsel to contest the legality of the arrest for a misdemeanor (activating a fire alarm) not committed in the presence of the officer is not properly preserved and cannot be rescued by the fundamental error exception to the rule of preservation. Issue may be raised by motion for post conviction relief. H.R. v. State, 3D18-2248 (2/12/20)

JOA: Boilerplate motion for Judgment of Acquittal in Resisting Without Violence case does not adequately articulate and preserve the issue that the officer was not acting in performance of legal duty when he arrested the child for a misdemeanor not committed in his presence. In order to be preserved for further review by a higher court, an issue must be presented to the lower court and the specific legal argument or ground to be argued on appeal or review must be part of that presentation. H.R. v. State, 3D18-2248 (2/12/20)

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR-JOA: The fundamental error exception does not permit appellate review of unpreserved error in the State's evidentiary failure to prove the crime unless the evidence failed to establish the commission of any crime whatsoever. H.R. v. State, 3D18-2248 (2/12/20)

HEARSAY-PRIOR CONSISTENT STATEMENT: Where State implied in cross-examination that Defendant had recently fabricated his testimony ("You've had the opportunity to sit in the courtroom the whole time. . .[and] [l]isten to. . .[e]very single witness?"), Defendant may enter into evidence his entire recorded interrogation as a prior consistent statement offered to rebut an express or implied charge of recent fabrication. "Once the State implied that Kitchings' trial testimony was fabricated, the defense should have been permitted to show that Kitchings had provided an earlier, consistent statement to the police. Given the prosecutor's often misleading cross-examination about inconsistencies and omissions, introduction of the entire statement would have placed these matters in a broader context so the jury could have fully evaluated the veracity of the trial testimony." Kitchings v. State, 4D18-1929 (2/12/20)

RULE OF COMPLETENESS: Rule of completeness does not allow the entire recorded statement the Defendant made to police denying the offense, nothwithstanding that the State used misleading techniques to mislead the jury, where the statement was not actually admitted into evidence by the State. Statement admitted on other grounds. Kitchings v. State, 4D18-1929 (2/12/20)

REVERSE WILLIAMS RULE: Dubious prior claim of sexual battery by a different perpetrator in New York is properly excluded where the New York defendant was not available to testify and there are significant factual differences. Kitchings v. State, 4D18-1929 (2/12/20)

EVIDENCE-VICTIM'S RECORDED STATEMENT: In sexual battery case, Court improperly allows the Victim's entire recorded statement into evidence to rehabilitate her trial testimony. Kitchings v. State, 4D18-1929 (2/12/20)

https://www.4dca.org/content/download/585723/6628781/file/181929_DC13_02122020_104621_i.pdf

ARGUMENT-PRESERVATION: "Kitchings also complains about certain misrepresentations made by the prosecutor in closing argument. . .The most egregious argument was that Kitchings was taking Cialis-type medication to address an erection problem, for which there was no support in the record. A conviction should be based on the evidence, not on innuendo. . . However, there was no objection, so there was no preservation." Kitchings v. State, 4D18-1929 (2/12/20)

SELF-DEFENSE-INSTRUCTION: Defendant is entitled to a self defense instruction where he testified that he punched the Victim when he (the Defendant) was cornered and Victim had an aggressive demeanor and stance. Court's conclusion that the Defendant's evidence merely supported his subjective state of mind and did not support a conclusion that a reasonably, cautious, and prudent person would feel threatened is inappropriate. The trial court should not weigh the evidence for the purpose of determining whether the instruction is appropriate. Radler v. State, 4D18-1737 (2/12/20)

SELF-DEFENSE: Silent aggressive behavior can be threatening. Radler v. State, 4D18-1737 (2/12/20)

PROFFER: Court improperly denied the Defendant the right to proffer evidence of the events leading up to the fight which is the gravamen of the offense. Court improperly assumed evidence of what Defendant saw and heard as he was leaving his girlfriend's room was irrelevant. Radler v. State, 4D18-1737 (2/12/20)

RELEVANCE: Observation includes what Defendant hears as well as what he sees. "We disagree with the State's argument that the question of what Defendant 'observed' as he was leaving the room was limited to visual, as opposed to auditory, observation." Radler v. State, 4D18-1737 (2/12/20)

SENTENCING-UPWARD DEPARTURE-RULE OF LENITY: Provision of pre-Punishment Code guidelines s. 921.0016(3)(r,) which permits an upward departure from the sentencing guidelines when the primary offense is scored at offense level 7 or higher and the defendant has been convicted of one more offense that scored, or would have scored, at an offense level 8 or higher, applies only to the case where a prior offense was a level 8 or higher. The rule of lenity is not unlike the old baseball axiom that “the tie goes to the runner.” Court erred in imposing an upward departure. Key v. State, 4D19-1233 (2/12/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-PERFORMANCE OF PLEA AGREEMENT: Where a condition of a guilty plea is that the defendant will serve the agreed-upon state sentence in federal prison concurrently with a longer federal sentence, and the Defendant is not sent to federal prison, Defendant is entitled to suspension of the sentence, or being resentenced to credit for time served or being allowed to withdraw his plea. Saye v. State, 4D19-2932 (2/12/20)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-IMPROPER ARGUMENT: Defendant does not preserve for appellate review unobjected to, improper comments that were made during closing statements when he fails to make a contemporaneous objection but raised the issue in a motion for new trial. Berouty v. State, 2D18-2251 (2/7/20)

APPELLATE COUNSEL-INEFFECTIVENESS: Appellate counsel was ineffective for failing to argue Faretta where Defendant had asked for re-appointment of counsel on his motion to withdraw plea but court did not inquire about him proceeding pro se nor did it conduct a Faretta inquiry. A motion to withdraw plea is a critical stage of the proceedings at which a defendant is entitled to be present and to have counsel represent him. Larocca v. State, 2D19-3028 (2/7/20)

COSTS: Court may not impose $100 investigative cost for the Sheriff's Office when the cost is not requested nor mentioned at the change of plea hearing. Costs may not be imposed on remand. An apparent agreement between the State Attorney and the Public Defender for imposition of investigative costs in all cases in order to avoid cluttering the docket is unlawful. "If the Legislature desires to amend the statute to provide that a minimum $100 cost of investigation must be summarily assessed against a defendant in each case, it is certainly capable of doing so. . .Unless and until it does, trial judges are not authorized to summarily impose a blanket $100 investigative costs assessment per case." RESTITUTION: Court erred in requiring Defendant to pay restitution for the victim's nearly twenty-year-old cargo trailer, which was used as a tool shed and which he was not charged with having stolen and which was not mentioned in discovery. Young v. State, 5D19-1879 (2/7/20)

HOBBS ACT: Conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act robbery does not qualify as a crime of violence under § 924(c)(3)'s elements clause because conspiracy does not require an overt act toward the commission of substantive Hobbs Act robbery. USA v. Duhart, No. 17-11476 (11th Cir. 2/7/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201711476.rem.pdf

SENTENCING-SUBSTANTIVE UNREASONABLENESS: In reviewing the reasonableness of a sentence, the appellate court conducts a two-step inquiry, first reviewing for significant procedural error and second evaluating the substantive reasonableness under the totality of the circumstances, considering whether the sentence is sufficient, but not greater than necessary, to comply with the purposes listed in § 3553. A 168-month total sentence for carjacking is not substantively unreasonable. USA v. King, No. 19-10251 (2/7/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Passenger in a borrowed car has no standing to contest the search of it. USA v. Black, No. 19-10793 (11th Cir. 2/7/20)

AMENDMENT-JURY INSTRUCTIONS: Standard jury instructions for owning or leasing a place for sale of controlled substance is amended. SEARCH WARRANT-GOOD FAITH EXCEPTION: Officers may search home in good faith reliance on a search warrant issued without probable cause. The exclusionary rule only applies when there is 1) misconduct by police or their adjuncts; 2) a conclusion that applying the exclusionary rule will appreciably deter the misconduct; and 3) a conclusion that the benefit of applying the rule does not outweigh its costs. The mere lack of probable cause supporting a warrant is not a reason to suppress evidence. Wingate v. State, 1D18-4157 (2/6/20)

FIRST STEP-SENTENCE REDUCTION: Court must consider whether to reduce Defendant's life sentence. Under First Step Act, a district court may reduce a defendant's term of imprisonment if the defendant's sentence was based upon a guidelines range that was later lowered by the Sentencing Commission. Court must engage in a two-part analysis. First, the district court determines the sentence the court would have imposed had the amended guidelines been in effect when the defendant was sentenced. Second, the Court must then decide whether it will exercise its discretion to impose the newly calculated sentence or if it will retain the original sentence. USA v. Valme, No. 19-12025 (11th Cir. 2/5/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy violations are fundamental error which may be raised for the first time on appeal. In determining whether multiple convictions based on the same conduct constitute a violation of double jeopardy, an appellate court may consider only the charging document, not the entire record. Double Jeopardy prohibits multiple punishments for exploitation of the elderly (obtaining property) and exploitation of the elderly under section (breaching a fiduciary duty) for counts involving the same time period and concern the same bank accounts. Powers v. State, 2D17-4237 (2/5/20)

VOP: Defendant cannot be found to have violated probation by committing the new law offense of assault where the affidavit of probation did not so allege. A trial court is not permitted to revoke probation on conduct not charged in the affidavit of revocation. Jackson v. State, 2D17-4283 (2/5/20)

VOP: Probation cannot be revoked for failure of follow PO's instruction that he not have contact with two specific people. While a probation officer may give a probationer routine supervisory directions that are necessary to carry out the conditions imposed by the trial court, he may not essentially impose a new condition of probation. Jackson v. State, 2D17-4283 (2/5/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ANONYMOUS TIP: An anonymous tip that a woman in a dark SUV in a McDonald's parking lot had yelled for someone to call the police is insufficient to justify the stop of a blue PT Cruiser leaving the McDonald's three minutes later. For an anonymous tip to provide a reasonable basis for a Terry stop, the tip must contain specific details which are then corroborated by independent police investigation. Bauman v. State, 2D18-1594 (2/5/20)

RESTITUTION: Court erred in ordering zero restitution when jury found the Defendant guilty of embezzling more than $20,000, but did not make a factual finding as to the exact amount taken. Court can order restitution greater than a maximum dollar value defining an offense for which a defendant is adjudicated guilty. Eylward v. State, 2D18-2169 (2/5/20)

JOA-INTENT: Defendant is entitled to Judgment of Acquittal in theft case where State did not prove intent to steal. Williams v. State, 18-2813 (2/5/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his claim that counsel was ineffective for misinforming him that the 40 year plea offer was a mandatory minimum when in fact only the first 15 years was the mandatory minimum. The fact that the State later said that it would have withdrawn the plea right before trial does not render irrelevant the fact that Defendant rejected the offer at pretrial based on the misadvice. Baptiste v. State, 2D18-3750 (2/5/20)

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-COOPERATION: Defendant's prompt acknowledgment of guilt does not constitute cooperation justifying a downward departure. A downward departure is not justified merely because the defendant cooperated after his offense was discovered. State v. Diaz, 2D19-359 (2/5/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy prohibits an increase in Defendant's sentence from 364 days in jail (with county boot camp program) three years in prison after Defendant failed to complete the boot camp program due to an injury. Once a sentence has been imposed and the person begins to serve the sentence, the later imposition of more onerous terms violates the double jeopardy clause. . . . when it disrupts the defendant's legitimate expectations of finality. Good discussion. Martinez v. State, 3D18-1863 (2/5/20)

CONFESSION-VOLUNTARINESS: Multiple vague offers to help appellant ("Help me help you, dude"), implications that it would benefit him to "come clean" or that it would be worse for him if he denied culpability. Confession was involuntary and must be suppressed. Moore v. State, 4D18-1083 (2/5/20)

SPEEDY TRIAL-RECAPTURE: Where Defendant filed a notice of expiration of speedy one year after his arrest, court failed to set a hearing on the motion, and one month later the Defendant filed a notice of expiration, the Defendant is entitled to discharge. After the 10/5 day recapture window expires, court may not make a finding that the Defendant was unavailable for trial. Defendant is not required to serve a copy of the notice of expiration upon the court. Rivera Almodovar v. State, 4D19-620 (2/5/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claimant counsel was ineffective for misadvising him that hearsay was not admissible, that the victim would not show up at the hearing, and that he could not get consecutive sentences on the counts for which he was on probation because they were originally imposed concurrently. Mathieu v. State, 4D19-1029 (2/5/20)

IMMIGRATION: Access device fraud and aggravated identity theft are not conclusively aggravated felonies, so that deportation is not presumptively mandatory. When the law is not succinct and straightforward, a criminal defense attorney need do no more than advise a noncitizen that pending criminal charges may carry a risk of adverse immigration consequences. Defendant cannot withdraw plea on basis of claim that counsel should have told him he would be deported. Martin v. USA, No. 18-12643 (11th Cir. 2/4/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel is not ineffective for failing to call Defendant's girl friend as a character witness in the penalty phase of a murder trial where she was highly impeachable and door would be opened to evidence of Defendant's very bad character. "[P]utting [the witness] on the stand at the sentence stage would have. . .opened more doors leading to a death sentence. Johnston v. SENTENCING HEARING: Under Rule 32(i)(3)(B), at the sentencing hearing the Court must rule on disputed statements in the PSI or determine that they would not change the analysis. Defendant must assert challenges to factual statements from the PSI with specificity and clarity to trigger this provision. USA v. Dobbs, No. 19-11796 (2/3/20)

JURY-12 PERSON: Defendant is entitled to a 12 person jury for a capital offense, notwithstanding that the death penalty is not an option Neither the prosecutor nor the court, by electing not to seek the death penalty, could change the classification of an offense from capital to noncapital and unilaterally determine whether a defendant is entitled to trial by a twelve-person jury. JANUARY 2020

EVIDENCE-OPINION: DEA agent may give expert opinion that unwitting drug smugglers who do not know they are transporting drugs are extremely rare. An expert witness may not state an opinion about whether the defendant had a particular intent, but this rule does not require the exclusion of expert testimony that supports an obvious inference with respect to the defendant's state of mind so long as the witness does not expressly state this inference. USA v. Russell, No. 19-10560 (11th Cir. 1/31/20).

SENTENCE REDUCTION-RULE 35: Jailhouse snitch/Defendant may not compel the US Attorney's office to file a Rule 35 motion for reduction of sentence based on his testimony in the three murder cases of two fellow prisoners. The decision whether to file a substantial-assistance motion is a matter of prosecutorial discretion, and the mere fact that a defendant has provided substantial assistance does not mean that the government is obligated to seek a sentence reduction. USA v. Tokars, No. 19-11155 (1/31/20)

NEW TRIAL: Judge's statement tha just t "I think there was sufficient evidence on all three counts to support the verdict of guilty and actual possession," does not establish that the Court applied the wrong standard in denying Defendant's Motion for New Trial. If it is unclear whether the trial court used the wrong standard, the potential that the trial court may have erred does not constitute fundamental error. Because Defendant did not object or seek clarification on whether the trial court applied the correct standard, he did not preserve the issue for appeal. Knighton v. State, 1D 18-2133 (1/31/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant, who suffers from PTSD from his service in the Marines, is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to advise him that insanity was a defense. King v. State, 1D 19-130 (1/31/20)

CONTEMPT: Court may not hold the Defendant in contempt for calling a potential juror racist during jury selection when the Judge did not fully hear what the Defendant said but rather relied on what a bailiff told him. But under the Tipsy Coachman doctrine, the finding of contempt stands because the Judge heard the Defendant say something, and he had previously been admonished to keep silent. Riley v. State, 2D 17-2534 (1/31/20)

JOA-RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE: Defendant who apparently was impaired by drugs but had not lost the power of self-control when she was found sleeping in the grass was not eligible for Marchman Act detention. Officer who detained her was not in the lawful execution of a legal duty. Defendant is entitled to Judgment of Acquittal. Lobb v. State, 2D 18-4137 (1/31/20)

INEFFECTIVE APPELLATE COUNSEL: Appellate counsel was ineffective for failing to raise the issue of the improper jury instruction which wrongly allocated the burden of proof in a self defense case. "By instructing the jury that [Defendant's]actions were not justified unless the State proved the very facts it disputed, the instruction prevented the jury from finding that [Defendant's] use of deadly force was justified. This instruction amounted to a directed verdict on [Defendant's] sole defense and thereby deprived him of a fair trial." Routenberg v. State, 2D19-1632 (1/31/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF (CONCURRING OPINION): Counsel was ineffective for inattentively allowing jurors who had not been stricken two nonetheless be excused and for otherwise acting unprofessionally (wearing bedroom slippers, eating cookies or crackers during the trial, describing her client is a jerk and threatening to leave in the middle of the trial). "Rude behavior and unprofessional conduct have no place in a court of law." But no prejudice because the evidence was overwhelming. Willis v. State, 5D18-3081 (1/31/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court erred in granting Defendant's motion for a new trial based on the conclusion that counsel was ineffective for failing to conduct independent DNA testing, hire a DNA expert or understand aspects of the DNA evidence where the record as a whole showed that counsel did not entirely failed to function as an advocate or completely fail to subject the prosecution to meaningful adversarial testing, and where there is no showing of prejudice. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel is ineffective for failing to call witnesses because he had a blanket strategy of refusing to present witnesses in order to retain the first and last closing argument, but Defendant failed to show prejudice when the witnesses at the time of the hearing on the motion for postconviction relief several years later had no meaningful memory of the events. JURISDICTION-HIGH SEAS: MDLEA allows United States to exercise jurisdiction over vessels without nationality from possessing narcotics with intent to distribute on the high seas in international waters, regardless of any nexus to USA. A vessel is without nationality when no one onboard claims nationality nor produces any nationality documents. CONCURRENCE: "I am deeply troubled that the government took seven weeks between arresting the defendants and bringing them before a magistrate judge for a probable-cause determination. . .The government is fortunate that the defendants did not raise the Coast Guard's apparent seven-week odyssey in the district court.. . .[S]Even weeks! That's a long time. Christopher Columbus's first voyage across the entire Atlantic Ocean, from the Canary Islands to the Bahamas, took only roughly five weeks. . .In the absence of a very good reason, detaining a person on the high seas for seven weeks before formally charging him with a crime is just wrong." POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Failure of the indictment to allege Defendant had knowledge of his status as a felon is plain error, but not reversible where there is no showing of a reasonable probability that the outcome of the trial or guilty plea would have been different had the knowledge requirement been included. SENTENCING: 105-month upward variance from the applicable guideline range is not procedurally unreasonable. A sentence is procedurally unreasonable when a district court commits an error such as improperly calculating the guideline range, failing to consider the 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a) factors, sentencing based on erroneous facts, or failing to explain the sentence given. USA v. Ramirez-Flores, No. 19-11163 (1/27/20)

HUH? WHAT? HUH?: Court lacks jurisdiction to grant Defendant's Motion to Correct Sentence more than sixty days after it is filed (Court had sentenced Defendant to prison for twelve years for violating probation on a count for which he was not on probation. HEARSAY: Text message sent by the Victim ("Damn, my boy got some fire, boy."), offered by the Defendant to support the idea that the Victim died of a heroin overdose supplied by someone other than him, is inadmissible hearsay. Jackson v. State, 1D18-1603 (1/29/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to relief on claim that counsel was ineffective for not taking depositions where the Court found that the choice not to take depositions was a reasonable strategic decision. Rawls v. State, 3D 18-2505 (1/29/20)

THEFT-VALUE: Testimony that the Victim had purchased an Apple iPhone 7 Plus four $700 one month before is sufficient to establish that the value exceeded $300. C.S. v. State, 3D 18-2491 (1/29/20)

HISTORICAL TIDBIT: "Grades of larceny hold historical significance, as 'in ancient times, the higher grade of this offense was punishable capitally, and that grade was reached at what now would seem an extremely low figure as to value . . . [G]rand larceny . . . consist[ed] of feloniously stealing the personal property of another, 'above the value of 12 pence.' " C.S. v. State, 3D 18-2491 (1/29/20)

TRANSMISSION OF HARMFUL MATERIAL: Jury instruction is not deficient for failing to define the "prurient interest" prong of the definition of "harmful to minors" in a way related to community standards. The standards for obscenity can be different for minors, as compared to adults. "[U]ntil a majority of the United States Supreme Court or the Florida Supreme Court holds otherwise, the jury does not need to be specifically instructed that it is to use a community standard, statewide or countywide in determining if material or conduct is prurient." PRO SE FILINGS: Court abuse discretion in prohibiting the Defendant from filing pro se motions where the four motions he filed appear to have been made in good faith. Bynes v. State, 1d 19-1961 (1/29/19)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is not entitled to certiorari relief for being required to present prima facie evidence on self-defense where he agreed to the procedure. "Because Rogers did not object to, but agreed with, the trial court's suggestion at the immunity hearing that he needed to present evidence in support of his prima facie claim, he cannot now be heard to complain that the procedure employed by the trial court departed from the essential requirements of law." POST CONVICTION RELIEF-TIMELINESS: Two year time limit on Defendant's motion for postconviction relief is tolled for the time when the case itself was under appeal. Court erred in denying the motion as time-barred. The time to seek postconviction relief did not begin to run until the earlier appeal concluded on June 29, 2018. Cave v. State, 1D19-103 (1/27/20)

THREATS TO PUBLIC OFFICIALS-FREE SPEECH: Threatening senators (hunt them down, "bash in Senator Scott's brain," and "kill that mother fucker") is not First Amendment protected speech (Defendant also said that Dylann Roof "is the greatest American hero that ever lived.") USA v. Bell, (11th Cir. 1/24/20)

SENTENCING-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS REVIEW: Substantive reasonableness review broadly looks to whether the district court abused its discretion in weighing permissible §3553(a) factors. Court may consider how many times the Defendant illegally re-entered the country, regardless of lack of prosecution, in imposing an upward variance in sentencing the Defendant in illegal reentry case. USA v. Velazquez-Calderon, (11th Cir. 1/24/20)

INEFFECTIVE APPELLATE COUNSEL: Appellate counsel was ineffective for failing to argue that the automobile exeption to the Fourth Amendment did not apply. "Had counsel raised this issue on appeal, this Court would have been constrained to reverse." Jones v. State, 5D19-2945 (1/24/20)

DEATH PENALTY: Hurst v. State receded from to the extent it requires a jury unanimously to find the existence of a statutory aggravating circumstance beyond a reasonable doubt. "Neither Hurst v. Florida, nor the Sixth or Eighth Amendment, nor the Florida Constitution mandates that the jury. . . recommend a sentence of death." Poole v. State, SC18-245 (1/23/20)

DEATH PENALTY: "[L]est there be any doubt, we hold that our state constitution's prohibition on cruel and unusual punishment, article I, section 17,5 does not require a unanimous jury recommendation — or any jury recommendation — before a death sentence can be imposed." STARE DECISIS: The test for how to apply Stare Decisis is receded from. "In the years since our decision in North Florida Women's Health, we have not treated that case as having set forth a stare decisis test that we must follow in every case. . .[W]e are wary of any invocation of multi-factor stare decisis tests or frameworks. . .They are malleable. . .[a]nd they can lead us to decide cases on the basis of guesses about the consequences of our decisions, which in turn can make those decisions less principled. CROCODILE TEARS: "It is no small matter for one Court to conclude that a predecessor Court has clearly erred. The later Court must approach precedent presuming that the earlier Court faithfully and competently carried out its duty. . .In this case we cannot escape the conclusion that, to the extent it went beyond what a correct interpretation of Hurst v. Florida required, our Court in Hurst v. State got it wrong." Poole v. State, SC18-245 (1/23/20)

UPWARD DEPARTURE-JURY FINDING-DANGEROUSNESS: Upon remand from the improper imposition of an upward departure without a jury finding of dangerousness, the proper remedy is a new sentencing hearing with a newly empaneled jury. Gaymon v. State, SC19-712 (1/23/20)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant did not raise the issue of whether counsel had conceded guilt on some counts until the written closing argument on his motion for postconviction relief, and had not raise the issue in the motion itself, the issue is not preserved for appeal. Kocaker v. State, SC17-1975 (1/23/20)

VOP-HEARSAY: In VOP hearing, Defendant is entitled to certain minimal due process requirements, including the right to confront and cross-examine adverse witnesses, unless the court determines that the interest of justice does not require the witness to appear. Hearsay may be admissible if trustworthy and reliable. Hearsay evidence (PO talking to trooper in Orlando to establish that Defendant had left the Northern District and video clip of Defendant's daughter telling LEO that Defendant had hit her) is admissible in VOP hearing. USA v. Williams, (11th Cir. 1/23/20)

HABEAS CORPUS-CUSTODY-JURISDICTION: Defendant cannot seek habeas corpus relief unless in custody. Where Defendant is serving life imprisonment on one count (murder) and a consecutive term on other counts (the subject of the habeas corpus action), he is not in custody because relief will not shorten his overall term of incarceration. Boone v. Warden, (11th Cir. 1/23/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201813097.pdf

CRIME OF VIOLENCE: Attempted bank robbery is a crime of violence under the elements clause of §924(c). USA v. Harvey, No. 18-13108 (11th Cir 1/23/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201813108.pdf

FIRST STEP: The First Step Act authorizes, but does not require, a district court to impose a reduced sentence. Court did not err in denying, as a matter of discretion, the Defendant's sentence when his offense level (L. 37) is unaffected the First Step Act because of the Defendant's Career Offender status. USA v. Rivas, No. 19-11691 (11th Cir. 1/23/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201911691.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A Rule 60(b) motion (Motion for Relief from a Judgment or Order) will be treated as a successive §2255 motion if it attacks the federal court's previous resolution of a claim on the merits. Attacking a district court's application of a statute of limitations is a challenge on the merits. St. Preux v. USA, No. 17-14091 (11th Cir. 1/23/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201714091.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED: Where there is no error in the jury instruction on the offense of conviction, and the evidence supports that conviction, the defendant's judgment must be affirmed. Weaver v. State, 1D18-2199 (1/23/20)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/569101/6430562/file/182199_DC05_01232020_143026_i.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose $250 public defender fee, instead of $100, without making findings to support the higher-than-minimum amount permitted by the statute. Rohn v. State, 1D18-4368 (1/23/20)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/569104/6430598/file/184368_DC08_01232020_144000_i.pdf

RETURN OF PROPERTY: A motion to return property must allege that the property is exclusively his own, that it was not the fruit of illegal activity, and that it is not being held for evidentiary purposes. The fact that property was previously entered into evidence at the trial level is insufficient to deny the motion without a hearing, and the assertion that there may be postconviction proceedings beyond the direct appeal does not establish the State's continued need to retain the property. Horn v. State, 1D18-4858 (1/23/20)

FORFEITURE: When the government filed a motion for forfeiture before sentencing but the court was unable to calculate the amount of the forfeiture money judgment before sentencing, it was reasonable and entirely permissible under Rule 32.2 for it to enter a written judgment to generally order forfeiture, with the specific amount and subject substitute assets to be determined later. Establishing the amount of forfeiture as part of sentencing may occur in a post-sentencing hearing when Defendant affirmatively agrees to the issue being deferred. USA v. Mincey, No. 16-11049 (11th Cir. 1/22/20)

HOBBS ACT: Conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act robbery does not serve as a predicate crime of violence because conspiracy is not a crime of violence. The residual clause is unconstitutionally vague. Conviction vacated. Chance v. State, No. 17-15192 (11th Cir 1/22/20)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201715192.rem.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: 28 U.S.C. § 2255 is the exclusive mechanism for a federal prisoner to seek collateral relief unless he can satisfy the "saving clause,' which permits a prisoner to seek collateral review by filing a §2241 petition only if the remedy available through § 2255 is inadequate or ineffective to test the legality of his detention. §2255 remedy is adequate even if the claims brought in that motion would have been dismissed due to a procedural bar, time limit, or circuit precedent. Defendant may not raise a habeas corpus (§2241) challenge to the inapplicability of First Step to his previously imposed sentence. Orr v. USA, No. 19-11881 (11th Cir. 1/22/20)

COMPETENCY: Court commits fundamental error by not holding a hearing and adjudicating Defendant's competency after finding reasonable grounds to believe that Defendant was incompetent and ordering a competency evaluation. The failure to hold a competency hearing prior to accepting a plea constitutes fundamental error that can be raised on direct appeal without the filing of a motion to withdraw plea. Hicks v. State, 1D 18-4130 (12/22/20)

LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR: A life sentence with the possibility of parole for first-degree murder committed by a minor is constitutional. State v. Griner, 1D 18-4849 (12/22/20)

JOA-CAPITAL SEXUAL BATTERY: Court erred in denying Motion for Judgment of Acquittal for capital sexual battery where the State failed to present evidence establishing union between the Defendant's penis and the Victim's anus. Dozier v. State, 1D 18-597 (1/22/20)

AGGRAVATED CHILD ABUSE-WILLFUL INTENT: There is sufficient evidence of willful intent to commit aggravated child abuse when a 320 pound woman sat on 109 pound girl in order to restrain her, causing compression of the chest and asphyxiation. Striking the child and sitting on her is not legally permissible corporal punishment. Posey v. State, 1D 19-1283 (1/22/20)

DWLS: Notice is not an element of DWLS as a Habitual Traffic Offender. Previous precedents receded from. "The Rodgers court simply identified one part of one subsection of section 322.251 and, for whatever reason, declared that it was an element of section 322.34(5). . .This seemingly innocuous insertion, once planted in Florida's jurisprudence without the pruning influence of a ratio decidendi, soon began to spread." Robinson v. State, 2D17-3087 (1/22/20)

APPEALS-JURISDICTION: Appellate court does not have jurisdiction to consider the denial of a motion to correct sentence under R. 3.800(b) outside of a direct appeal. Lesende v. State, 2D18-2252 (1/22/20)

SEVERANCE: Court properly denied severance of one of four drug sales occurring within 10 days of each other where one led to the other, the same defense applied to all, and the Defendant only sought the sever the count with the recording. "In the instant case, the recorded transaction that was the basis of count two was intertwined with or connected in an episodic sense to that in count four, when Det. Love completed the purchase of the bundle of heroin that he had ordered during the prior, recorded transaction." Vinas v. State, 3D18-1433 (1/22/20)

MURDER-PREMEDITATION: Premeditation is sufficiently established by evidence that the Defendant chased down the victim and killed him with the blow of an axe to the head while he was on the ground. Harris v. State, 4D18-1735 (1/22/20)

EVIDENCE-RELEVANCE: Defendant's statement that he and his friends were "Guat hunting" (looking for Mexicans or Guatemalans to rob) and that they had earlier in the evening assaulted a Hispanic on a bike were relevant to motive in the racially motivated killing. Harris v. State, 4D18-1735 (1/22/20)

CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPON: An element of the crime of carrying a concealed weapon is that the defendant was not licensed to carry a concealed weapon. Burden of proof on this element is on the State, rather than on the Defendant to assert as an affirmative defense. Fundamental error occurs when information fails to allege that the Defendant was not licenced and unobjected to jury instructions do not mention the element. Jackson v. State, 4D18-3021 (1/22/20)

PRISION RELEASEE REOFFENDER-INJUSTICE: Defendant is lawfully sentenced to life in prison as a Prison Releasee Offender based on his prior conviction for carrying a concealed firearm and possessing a firearm as a delinquent at the age of sixteen and the new offense of stealing the Rolex of someone who was trying to sell it in a high crime neighborhood, perhaps for drugs. "Morris's case is demonstrative of the effect of undiscerning inclusion of youthful crimes in mandatory statutory sentencing schemes. . . .[C]rimes committed while an offender is underage should not be permitted to establish predicate offenses for sentencing under recidivism statutes." Morris v. State, 4D18-3035 (1/22/20)

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: The circumstantial evidence standard of review applies only where all of the evidence of a defendant's guilt is circumstantial, not where any particular element of a crime is demonstrated exclusively by circumstantial evidence. Evidence that the Defendant attempted to use a bogus receipt to take merchandise without paying is not circumstantial evidence. Court erred in entering JOA. State v. Timianski, 4D18-3409 (1/22/20)

INFORMATION-SCORESHEET-CALCULATION: Where the body of the information alluded to burglary of a conveyance (a Level 4 on scoresheet) but the heading of the information, supported by the probable cause affidavit alluded to damage in excess of $1,000 (Level 8), Defendant is properly scored at Level 8. Funderburk distinguished. Brown v. State, 4D18-3592 (1/22/20)

INFORMATION-SCORESHEET-CALCULATION: Absent an allegation in the information that the stolen property's value was $10,000 or more, the charge must be categorized as a Level 2 offense. Brown v. State, 4D18-3592 (1/22/20)

SENTENCING: At the time of sentencing, the district court must state its reasons for imposing a particular sentence. Upon imposing a reduced sentence pursuant to the First Step Act, the Court's statement that the sentence imposed would be sufficient but not greater than necessary to comply with § 3553(a). USA v. Burgest, No. 19-11743 (11th Cir. 1/21/20)

SENTENCING-ENHANCEMENT-FIREARM TRAFFICKING: 2K2.1(b)(5) enhancement for trafficking in firearms applies when Defendant transferred two or more firearms having reason to know that the recipient could not legally possess them or would use or dispose of them unlawfully. The fact that the recipient of the firearms was also buying meth does not mean that the guns were to possessed or used unlawfully. USA v. Criscoe, (11th Cir. 1/21/20)

EVIDENCE: In a prosecution of sexual battery of a child, evidence of physical abuse against the child's mother is admissible to explain why the victim had not earlier reported the crime for fear of the defendant's retribution. Wendell v. State, 1D 18-4156 (1/21/20)

JOA-BURGLARY-MERE PRESENCE: Child walking down the street with two others, one on whom was straddling a bicycle just stolen from a carport, cannot be convicted of burglary or theft. There was evidence that Child's companion committed a burglary, but not that Child did anything to encourage or aid in the commission of the burglary or the theft of the bike. Mere presence is insufficient to establish guilt. S.L.W. v. State, 2D18-3546 (1/17/20)

NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE–MANIFEST INJUSTICE: Advances in forensic medicine changing the consensus within the medical community from believing that "short distance" falls cannot cause death to believing that they can is newly discovered evidence which warrants a new trial where the State's expert had testified at trial that a fall down the stairs could not have caused the fatal injury in a child abuse case. Manifest injustice excuses the two year time limitation for relief. "Nothing could be more manifestly unjust than having a murder conviction rest largely on the testimony of. . . a medical examiner whose work has been called into doubt. . and when apparent advances in forensic science appear to substantially weaken the opinions reached." INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF APPELLATE COUNSEL: If a legal issue would in all probability have been found to be without merit had counsel raised the issue on direct appeal (here, a suppression of confession issue),, the failure of appellate counsel to raise the meritless issue will not render appellate counsel's performance ineffective. Moran v. State, 5D19-1833 (1/17/20)

FRAGMENTED SENTENCES: Defendant who is sentenced to serve concurrent sentences in prison in separate cases, each of which carry a mandatory minimum, and for whom the mandatory minimums portions of each sentence are to be served consecutively, does not receive an improperly fragmented sentence. Consecutive minimum mandatory sentences within otherwise concurrent sentences is lawful, so long as the offenses arose from separate and distinct criminal episodes. Thomas v. State, 5D19-2637 (1/17/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Defendant's van is properly searched when Defendant attempts to deliver narcotics to a dealer who had been arrested earlier in the day and who negotiated a drug deal with the Defendant immediately after the dealer's arrest. United States v. Mancilla-Ibarra, (11th Cir. 1/15/20)

SAFETY VALVE: Defendant does not qualify for the two level safety valve reduction when he gives some information but holds back on other information, thus not satisfying the "tell-all" provision. The Defendant carries the burden of proving he qualifies for safety valve. "And it is blackletter law that where the trier of fact remains uncertain, the party with the burden of proof loses." POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Brevity of consultation with client alone is not grounds for postconviction relief. Martin v. State, SC18-214 (1/16/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to try to implicate a 6'3" tall individual with an alibi in South Florida at the time of the murder in Jacksonville where the shooter is described as a "short fat dude" and the Defendant, whose nickname was "Shorty Fat", is 5'3″ with a waist circumference of 48 inches. Martin v. State, SC18-214 (1/16/20)

ARGUMENT-VISUAL AID: "The prosecutor's use of a visual aid which allegedly depicted a cartoon of a man with his head in the sand is clearly a questionable choice in the context of a capital murder trial. . .The State used the visual aid to argue the evidence. . [that] the jury should not 'bury their heads in the sand.'" But no fundamental error. Martin v. State, SC18-214 (1/16/20)

VOTING RIGHTS: Article VI, section 4 of the Florida Constitution restores voting rights to certain felons only upon completion of all terms of sentence, including payment in full of all fines, costs, and restitution. Re: Implementation of Amendment 4, the Voting Restoration Amendment, SC19-1341 (1/16/20)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: "[T]his Court has sometimes suggested that the first step in construing a constitutional provision may involve something other than determining the objective meaning of the text. . .('In construing the Constitution, we first seek to ascertain the intent of the framers and voters'. . .) We believe that such statements can be misleading because they may be understood to shift the focus of interpretation from the text and its context to extraneous considerations. And such extraneous considerations can result in the judicial imposition of meaning that the text cannot bear. . . We therefore adhere to the 'supremacy-of-text principle.'" Re: Implementation of Amendment 4, the Voting Restoration Amendment, SC19-1341 (1/16/20)

DEFINITION-"TERM": "But the fact that the word 'terms' itself can carry different meanings does not render the phrase 'all terms of sentence,' as used in Amendment 4, susceptible to more than one natural reading. . .We conclude that 'all terms of sentence' plainly encompasses not only durational terms but also obligations and therefore includes all LFOs imposed in conjunction with an adjudication of guilt. Re: Implementation of Amendment 4, the Voting Restoration Amendment, SC19-1341 (1/16/20)

DEFINITION-"SENTENCE": "The word 'sentence" is not defined in the Florida Constitution or seemingly anywhere in the Florida Statutes. . .[T]he word "sentence" cannot be construed in an overly technical fashion here. . .Amendment 4. . .uses the word 'sentence' in its plain, common sense. . . [T]here is no basis to conclude that 'all terms of sentence' excludes any LFOs ordered by the sentencing judge. Re: Implementation of Amendment 4, the Voting Restoration Amendment, SC19-1341 (1/16/20)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-(concurring, J. Labarga): Textualism "is a sound theory of interpretation which, in most instances, proves to be determinative. My concern is with its strict disapproval of consideration of extrinsic sources which, in some instances, such as in this case, prove to be not only helpful, but dispositive." Re: Implementation of Amendment 4, the Voting Restoration Amendment, SC19-1341 (1/16/20)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-(concurring, J. Labarga): "Textualist abhorrence of consideration of the intent of the framers of a constitutional or statutory provision has been persistently and stubbornly present throughout the theory's history. . .I agree with the majority that the lodestar of constitutional and statutory interpretation should be, in the first instance, the application of the words of the governing text read in context. However, the analysis should provide some allowance for consideration of the intent of the framers and voters in instances where it will assist in elucidating the meaning of the text in question." APPEAL-COSTS: Where Court imposed investigative costs without them having been requested, and Defendant successfully appeals their imposition, Court may not impose the investigative costs upon remand. "A party does

SILENCE OF DEFENDANT: Testimony that Defendant, who when approached on his porch about the two people killed in front of his house, initially remained silent, detached, and emotionless, and that he did not claim self-defense, is an impermissible comment on his right to remain silent under Article 1, section 9's privilege against self-incrimination. Prearrest, pre-Miranda silence does not prove a consciousness of guilt and is therefore not relevant as substantive evidence. A defendant's postarrest, pre-Miranda silence may not be used either as substantive evidence or for impeachment purposes and that (2) a defendant's prearrest, pre-Miranda silence may not be used as substantive evidence but may be used for impeachment if the silence is inconsistent with the defendant's testimony at trial. APPEAL-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE: Counsel's failure to provide the court with the authorities on the use of Defendant's pre-arrest silence and to object to the State's introduction of evidence and comment upon his silence was ineffective assistance of counsel Because there could have been no tactical explanation for counsel's failure, issue can be raised on direct appeal. Conviction vacated and remanded. "[I]n view of the extent of the State's evidence and argument on Mr. Howard's prearrest, pre-Miranda silence and counsel's multiple missed opportunities to object, this is one of those rare cases where the deficiency is apparent on the face of the record." TOO WEIRD-MOTION-TIMELINESS: Where Court improperly imposed a $50,000 fine and Defendant moved to correct the order imposing it, which the Court granted but only on the 61st day, the order was untimely, a nullity and the motion deemed denied. Notwithstanding, the deemed denial of the motion is vacated and the case remanded for the proper granting of the motion. Hamiter v. State, 2D18-2104 (1/15/20)

APPEAL-ANDERS BRIEF: Appointed counsel may challenge a trial court's denial of a rule 3.800(b) motion to correct a minor sentencing error in an Anders "no merit" brief. "[W]e question whether it is generally appropriate to correct a 'minor sentencing error' without subjecting the asserted error to adversarial testing. But our question here concerns the point at which a 'minor sentencing error' becomes a 'major sentencing error,' which can be a slippery inquiry. . .Although the error before us involves costs. . .and errors concerning costs may pale in significance to errors concerning, for example, length of incarceration, we are not so cavalier . . .as to lightly dismiss a $50,000-plus mistake as 'minor.'" VIOLENT FELONY OFFENDER OF SPECIAL CONCERN: Court must make written findings articulating whether or not a VFOSC poses a danger to the community. The transcript of the oral pronouncement is insufficient. Saladriga v. State, 3D19-473 (1/15/20)

PRESENCE OF CHILD-DISPOSITION: A juvenile defendant has a constitutional right to be present at his or her disposition hearing, notwithstanding the practical considerations of the Child having been transported to a commitment facility for other cases before. M.C. v. State, 3D19-470 (1/15/20)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Defendant, the subject of a "need to identify" flier based on his suspected involvement in robbery, is properly stopped after he failed to stop at a stop sign and properly searched after officer's smell marijuana and arrested after police confirm he had no license. COMMENT ON SILENCE-VOIR DIRE: During voir dire, State's comment, ". . . if the defendant were to testify — and if he does not, . . .," to which the Defense objected and which the State did not pursue, is an isolated comment which did not vitiate the fairness of the trial. Wright v. State, 3D17-941 (1/15/20)

EXPERT TESTIMONTY-DAUBERT: Toxicologist's testimony that he could not determine what percentage of the alcohol in the victim's body was from body decomposition and what was from consumption by the victim was admissible under Daubert. Larocca v. State, 18-1824 (1/15/20)

VOIR DIRE-TIME LIMITS: 75 minute time limit for voir dire was not an abuse of discretion in sex abuse of a helpless person case. "[T]here is no mathematical formula that determines how much time the trial court should allocate for voir dire and [we] reiterate that this determination is made on a case-by-case basis." Efforts to "pre-try" the case militates against allowing further time for voir dire. Cassaday v. State, 4D18-3066 (1/15/20)

ATTORNEY-WITHDRAWAL: Court acted within its discretion in denying attorney's motion to withdraw based on irreconciliable difference on the eve of sentencing. Permitting withdrawal at such a late juncture would have hindered the functioning of the court as there would not have been time for appellant to procure new counsel. Schultz v. State, 4D18-3413 (1/15/20)

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Upon remand, Court may consider a downward departure, but Court did not err in failing to consider a downward departure here because counsel did not file a motion so requesing, and court stated it would not have downwardly departed anyway. 157.5 year sentence stands. Schultz v. State, 4D18-3413 (1/15/20)

JURORS-PEREMPTORYCHALLENGE-PRESERVATION-DISSENT:

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Because Defendant has one minor criminal offense (DWLS) within ten years of the instant offense, all priors must be scored and Court may not impose a downward departure sentence. A trial court's opinions that the lowest permissible sentence is too harsh, or that the severity of the sentence is not commensurate with the seriousness of the crime, are prohibited grounds upon which to depart. RULE OF COMPLETENESS: The Rule 106 Rule of Completeness-if a party introduces all or part of a writing or recorded statement, an adverse party may require the introduction, at that time, of any other part that in fairness ought to be considered–applies to oral as well as written or recorded statements. But Defendant's statement as to why he had failed to mention his criminal history does not explain or modify his inculpatory statement that he had a criminal history, and thus is not admissible under the Rule of Completeness. EVIDENCE: In possession of firearm by felon case, Court properly admitted photograph of firearm on the car seat when it had actually been underneath the seat when found, where testimony clearly acknowledged that the firearms had been moved before being photographed. MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL: When a trial court evaluates a motion for new trial, it must consider the weight of the evidence rather than the sufficiency of the evidence. Judge's statement that "The Court will rely on the rulings previously made in this case, and I will deny the motion for new trial at this time," does not show that the judge applied the wrong legal standard. RESTITUTION: Defendant who engaged in a fraudulent scheme to pay off Victim's mortgage before foreclosure, and who instead diverted the funds, is not liable for restitution to the mortgage company for the full value of the home after it foreclosed on it. "[T]he State relies on various citations to the record in support of its assertion that the restitution imposed was supported by the evidence presented at trial. But not one of those citations demonstrates that Chicago Title paid a claim in the amount of $240,938. . . VOP-HEARSAY: Court may not revoke probation for changing residence without permission solely on the testimony of the probation officer that the Defendant failed to report for several months and his father said "he was not there and had not been there in a while." Failing to report does not corroborate hearsay that the Defendant had moved. Vann v. State, 2D18-4704 (1/8/20)

VOP: Only allegations made in the Affidavit can support a violation. Defendant's probation cannot be revoked on the basis that he had failed to report for several months when the only allegation in the Affidavit of Violation of Probation was that he had moved without permission. Vann v. State, 2D18-4704 (1/8/20)

MISTRIAL: A mistrial should be granted only when an error is so prejudicial as to vitiate the entire trial, such that a mistrial is necessary to ensure that the defendant receives a fair trial, and only in cases of absolute necessity. In case of Deputy charged with sexually assaulting a citizen, Court erred by denying Motion for Mistrial following the alleged victim violating the Order in Limine excluding evidence about inconclusive DNA evidence by saying, "You see the DNA results on me. And now you guys say the DNA's not on my butt, but it was on my butt." Nebergall v. State, 4D18-2327 (1/8/20)

APPEAL-LOST TRANSCRIPT: New trial is required when a transcript is lost and the missing transcript would reflect matters which prejudice the defendant. Campbell v. State, 4D18-2456 (1/8/20)

THEFT-VALUE-JOA: JOA for Grand Theft is required for theft of two iPads, an iPhone, an Alexa speaker, knick-knacks, a signed baseball, a camera, and jewelry (including an engagement ring which the wife estimated as being worth $3000). To prove value, the court must ascertain whether the person testifying is competent to testify to the value of property and if so, whether the evidence adduced at trial is sufficient to prove its fair market value beyond a reasonable doubt. Where the value of the property is estimated and no other proof is presented, the owner's evidence is insufficient to prove fair market value. Good discussion. Harris v. State, 4D19-913 (1/8/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel misadvised him that he could have his record expunged. Affirmative misadvice regarding a collateral consequence may render a plea involuntary. Jackson v. State, D19-2804 (1/8/20)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's is not entitled to an evidentiary hearing on a bare and conclusory allegation of newly discovered evidence. If the defendant files a newly discovered evidence claim based on recanted trial testimony or on a newly discovered witness, he must include an affidavit from that person as an attachment. Batista v. State, 4D19-3013 (1/8/20)

EIGHTH AMENDMENT-EXCESSIVE FORCE: To establish an Eighth Amendment excessive force/sexual assault claim, the Plaintiff must establish 1) that the official acted with a sufficiently culpable state of mind i.e., sadistically and maliciously applied for the very purpose of causing harm, and 2) the conduct must have been objectively harmful enough to establish a constitutional violation. A guard who sadistically and maliciously forces his finger into an inmate's anus violates the Eighth Amendment. Courts cannot find excessive force claims not actionable because the prisoner did not suffer more than de minimis injury. "The lack of serious physical injury, considered in a vacuum, cannot snuff out Eighth Amendment sexual-assault claims." Prior precedent receded from. Sconiers v. Lockhart, No. 16-16954 (11th Cir. 1/7/20)

EIGHTH AMENDMENT: Defendant's plea to the offense of Resisting Without Violence does collaterally estop the Defendant from suing the officer for an Eighth Amendment claim based on the same incident. Sconiers v. Lockhart, No. 16-16954 (11th Cir. 1/7/20)

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: Prior conviction for making terroristic threats is not a predicate violent felony under the elements clause of the Armed Career Criminal Act. Georgia's terroristic-threats statute can be violated without the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person of another. "Use" under the ACCA requires active employment of physical force. "Physical force" means violent force—that is, force capable of causing physical pain or injury to another person." United States v. JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE: Counsel was ineffective for not arguing that Defendant found on porch of a damaged trailer cannot be found guilty of criminal mischief, absent evidence that he had committed the damage or, if he had, had done so maliciously. Issue of ineffective assistance apparent from the record may be raised on direct appeal. White v. State, 2D18-2732 (1/3/20)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Defendant cannot be convicted of theft and dealing in stolen property where he stole a television and sold it two hours later. These actions constituted one scheme or course of conduct for the purposes of §812.025. Ramirez v. State, 5D18-3458 (1/3/20)

RETROACTIVITY-UPWARD DEPARTURE: Brown v. State, holding that the jury, and not the court, must make the factual determination of dangerousness to the public as the predicate for the imposition of a state prison sentence, does not apply retroactively. A change in the law is not deemed retroactive unless the change (a) emanates from the Florida or United States Supreme Court, (b) is constitutional in nature, and (c) constitutes a development of fundamental significance. Brown does not constitute a development of fundamental significance. Adams v. State, 5D 19-2540 (1/3/20)

MOTION TO DISMISS: "A motion to dismiss an information pursuant to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.190(c)(4) is analogous to a motion for summary judgment in a civil case. . .. Both should be granted sparingly."If the state's evidence is all circumstantial, whether it excludes all reasonable hypotheses of innocence may only be decided at trial. State v. HAZING: Information charging felony hazing based on a claim that a fraternity encouraged, and the (absent) fraternity president allowed, excessive drinking resulting in death is sufficient to withstand a motion to dismiss. State v. Petagine, 1D18-2086 (1/2/20)

DISSENT (J. BILBREY): "The question has been asked since primeval times, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' Andrew Coffey wanted to be a brother of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity at Florida State University. He went to a party with brothers of the fraternity and fellow pledges, drank to excess, and tragically died. . . But the limited question we are presented with here is not whether any moral, civil, or societal obligation toward Mr. Coffey was violated by the fraternity brothers, but whether . . . the fraternity president. . . committed the crime of hazing." JOA-CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: A defendant moving for a judgment of acquittal in a circumstantial evidence case must identify the element or elements of the crime for which he contends evidence is lacking and, if the evidence is purely circumstantial, must outline his theory of the case and explain why it is not inconsistent with the circumstantial evidence. Allen v. State, 1D18-3073 (1/2/20)

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIME: Evidence the Defendant had sexually assaulted another woman in a similar manner – knocking on the door then assaulting the woman inside — is admissible and relevant to show that Defendant had a common scheme or plan. Jakubowski v. State, 1D18-1074 (12/31/19)

HEARSAY: Victim's statements to a nurse describing the sexual assault were not admissible under the exception for medical diagnosis or treatment, but their admission is harmless where, as here, the victim testifies to the same information in the evidence is merely cumulative. Jakubowski v. State, 1D18-1074 (12/31/19)

EVIDENCE-CONSCIOUSNESS OF GUILT: Evidence that Defendant attempted suicide shortly after being confronted by the victim about his sexual abuse of her as a child is admissible to show consciousness of guilt. Mathis v. State, 1D18-2183 (12/31/19)

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL: On a Motion for New Trial, the Court must consider (1) a sufficiency of the evidence standard (i.e., was the jury's verdict supported by sufficient evidence) and (2) a weight of the evidence standard by which the trial judge acts as a seventh juror to independently assess whether the jury verdict was contrary to the weight of the evidence. A new hearing is required where the Court only considered the former (stating only that the evidence was "sufficient") but not whether the verdict is against the weight of the evidence. Smith v. State, 1D18-3208 (12/31/19)

EVIDENCE-PSYCHOTHERAPIST-PATIENT PRIVILEGE: Defendant is entitled to use Victim's psychological assessment records (lawfully obtained when the Defendant was the Victim's guardian) establishing that the Victim suffered from Reactive Attachment Disorder (RAD). Although the assessments were covered by the psychotherapist-patient privilege, "strict adherence to procedural rules may give way to a defendant's right to present relevant evidence in his defense." Traffanstead v. State, 1D18-874 (12/31/19)

CERTIORARI: Where the threshold requirement of irreparable harm is not established, the petition for writ of certiorari must be dismissed. Before conducting certiorari review of a non-final order, the appellate court must focus on the jurisdictional question of whether there is irreparable harm. Ford v. State, 1D19-4365 (12/31/19)

JUVENILE-SECURE DETENTION: Juvenile who does not score secure detention may not be remanded to secure detention based on an allegation that he had cut off his ankle monitor, absent a hearing to determine whether he was in contempt of court. S.B. v. El Fance, 3D 19-2508 (12/31/19)

HOBBS ACT: To sustain a conviction for Hobbs Act robbery, the government need only show that the offense had at least a minimal effect on interstate commerce. Examples of a minimal effect sufficient to meet the jurisdictional requirement include that a robbery deprived a business of cash or a depletion of assets. United States v. Herrera, No. 17-13440 (11th Cir. 12/31/19)

CONSPIRACY: Where a single conspiracy is charged in the indictment while multiple conspiracies may have been revealed at trial, the conviction stands unless the variance is (1) material and (2) substantially prejudiced the defendant. The existence of different sub-groups does not undermine the jury's finding of a single conspiracy so long as each group acted in furtherance of one overarching plan. United States v. Browdy, No. 17-15664 (12/30/19)

HEARSAY-STATEMENTS AGAINST PENAL INTEREST: Testimony regarding an out-of-court statement by a cooperating witness's wife that her husband wanted to frame the Defendant is properly excluded. The statement was not against the Wife's penal interest. United States v. Browdy, No. 17-15664 (12/30/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201715664.pdf

MISTRIAL: A brief, unelicited, and unresponsive mention that the Defendant had previously been incarcerated does not warrant a mistrial. United States v. Browdy, No. 17-15664 (12/30/19)

SCORESHEET-FIREARM ENHANCEMENT: Defendant is subject to a two level firearm enhancement based on a co-conspirator's act of threatening another by putting a gun in his mouth where the use of the firearm was reasonably foreseeable, occurred while the Defendant was apart of the conspiracy, and was in furtherance of it. United States v. Browdy, No. 17-15664 (12/30/19)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM DURING A FELONY: Jury instruction and caption of the information referring to "Possession of a Firearm during Commission of a Felony" is not fundamental error, notwithstanding that the statute criminalizes carrying, not possessing, a firearm. Defendant properly convicted of carrying a firearm found under the seat he was driving. "Appellant's argument is semantic only, and he has failed to demonstrate fundamental error." Ruffins v. State, No. 1D18-706 (12/27/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSENT: The act of Defendant pointing to the car thief sought by the police and sitting on the motel bed is nonverbal consent for police to enter the hotel room. Defendant can be detained and questioned about the narcotics seen in plain view in the room. Smith v. State, 2D18-2493 (12/27/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BLOOD DRAW: In DUI manslaughter case, blood draw procured in violation of the implied consent statute is nevertheless admissible based on inevitable discovery, notwithstanding that the process for obtaining a search warrant had not been initiated. "[W]e conclude that the inevitable discovery exception to the exclusionary rule applies in the instant case. Campbell's blood sample would have been obtained because there was probable cause for a blood draw, and a warrant would have been issued." Campbell v. State, 5D18-2091 (12/27/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-GOOD FAITH: The good faith exception cannot be applied where the police officer's acts occur subsequent to a binding appellate court decision (Birchfield) which determines that such acts are violative of the Fourth Amendment, even if the decision was released only the day before. Campbell v. State, 5D18-2091 (12/27/19)

BINDING PRECEDENT: The effective date of an appellate decision is the date appearing on the face of the decision even though it may not become final until after the time has expired for filing a motion for rehearing. Campbell v. State, 5D18-2091 (12/27/19)

within the same criminal transaction or episode (here, stock car racers on the track). Rivera v. State, 5D18-3385 (12/27/19)

STAND YOUR GROUND-RETROACTIVITY: Change in SYG statute applies retroactively, but given the Court's finding that under either standard SYG would not apply, conviction stands. Maddox v. State, 5D19-352 (12/27/19)

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Judge's comments that indicated that he had predetermined that Defendant would receive lengthy prison sentences provides Defendant with a well-grounded fear that he would not receive a fair sentencing hearing before the judge. Judge's subsequent denial of motion to mitigate is vacated. Hauter v. State, 5D19-2921 (12/27/19)

COMPETENCY: Once a trial court appoints doctors to undertake competency evaluations of a defendant, the trial court is obligated to make its own independent competency determination. Judge's statement that a defendant presents as "very lucid in court" is not a finding of competency. Where reports, prepared well before the inadequate hearing, indicate that the Defendant is bipolar with a likelihood of decomposition, the Court may not make a retroactive finding of competency. New trial required. Alexander v. State, 3D18-1747 (12/26/19)

EVIDENCE-VOIR DIRE: Where Defendant successfully moved to exclude evidence of prior thefts known to have been committed by Defendant, he may not present evidence, nor discuss during voir dire, his homelessness in support of defense that he was seeking shelter in the car, not that he intended to steal from it. An order in limine should only be used as a shield and never to gag the truth or mislead the jury. "[I]n order for homelessness to be relevant, jurors would be forced to embrace the assumption that members of the homeless population are more likely to enter a vehicle in search of refuge than for the purpose of committing a crime." Sims v. State, 3D18-1431 (12/26/19)

ENHANCEMENT-BODY ARMOR: Selling body armor does not subject one to the two level enhancement for use of body armor during the offense. "[T]here are only two ways to "use" body armor under the guideline, and neither of them involves selling it." United States v. Bankston, No. 18-14812 (11th Cir. 12/23/19)

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-PLAIN MEANING-LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: "[T]he government offers legislative history. That legislative history, we are told. . ., reveals the guideline's true purpose: 'to take body armor out of the hands of violent criminals. . .' No matter. . .' When the import of the words Congress has used is clear. . ., we need not resort to legislative history, and we certainly should not do so to undermine the plain meaning of the statutory language.'" HEARSAY: Error, if any, in admitting statements, "Do it, Josh" (Defendant's girlfriend telling him to shoot at victim) and "I can't believe he done that." (Victim's boyfriend alluding to Defendant having shot her) is harmless. Wright v. State, 1D18-1609 (12/23/19)

CELL PHONE PASS CODE: QUESTION CERTIFIED: What is the proper legal inquiry when the state seeks to compel a suspect to provide a password to the suspect's cell phone if the suspect has not previously given up his Fifth Amendment privilege in the password? What legal standard applies in determining whether the foregone conclusion applies to compelled production of passwords in these situations? Pollard v. State, 1D18-4572 (12/23/19)

QUOTATION: "The expansion of governmental powers to compel disclosures of personally-held information to search person's homes and personal effects. . ., is the antipode of the original understanding of the Fifth Amendment, which protected individual freedom by prohibiting compelled disclosures used to incriminate an accused. . . At its core, the debate . . is about which vision of the right against compelled testimony prevails: those of the Founders who erred on the side of personal liberty or those who defend state powers to extract testimony and see no problem in 'merely compel[ling a defendant] to unlock [a] phone by entering the passcode himself." SENTENCE-MINOR: Resentencing is not required where a minor homicide defendant's sentence (30 years) is not a life sentence, a mandatory life sentence or a de facto life sentence. Wagner v. State, 1D18-4783 (12/23/19)

MOTION FOR POST CONVICTION RELIEF-BURGLARY: Defendant is not entitled to relief on claim that he could not be found guilty for remaining in a structure open to the public (a public parking garage) with the intent to commit a crime. A person who remains in premises with the intent to commit a forcible felony commits burglary. COMPETENCY: Court may order involuntary treatment of a forensic client committed to a state facility if necessary for his own or other's safety, regardless of Due Process analysis, which limits forced medication to restore competency. FAILURE TO REGISTER: Sexual Offender Registration and Notification Act (SORNA) defines a "sex offense" to include a criminal offense with an element of sexual contact. The categorical approach applies to determine whether a state conviction qualifies under SORNA. The sentencing court must look only to the fact that the defendant has been convicted of crimes falling within certain categories, and not to the facts underlying the prior convictions. Defendant who was convicted of violating a Tennessee law prohibiting sexual contact to one of five body areas (the primary genital area, groin, inner thigh, buttock, or breast) is subject to SORNA. United States v. Vineyard, No. 18-11690 (11th Cir. 12/20/19)

DEFINITION-PRIMARY GENITAL AREA: "The plain meaning of the term 'primary' suggests that the 'primary genital area' covers essentially the same area of the body as the genitals. United States v. Vineyard, No. 18-11690 (11th Cir. 12/20/19)

FIREARM IN FURTHERANCE: Hobbs Act robbery is a crime of violence under the elements clause of §924(c), which requires a mandatory consecutive sentence for any defendant who uses or carries a firearm during a crime of violence or a drug-trafficking crime. SENTENCING-DRUG QUANTITY: Sentencing courts are permitted to make factual findings, including drug quantities, based on undisputed statements in the PSI. United States v. Thomas, No. 19-11388 (11th Cir. 12/20/19)

SENTENCING-ENHANCEMENT-RISK OF DEATH/SERIOUS BODILY INJURY: Flight alone is insufficient to warrant an enhancement under for creating a serious risk of death or serious bodily injury, but high-speed flight in a residential area may warrant the enhancement, particularly where no objection is made to the PSR. United States v. Thomas, No. 19-11388 (11th Cir. 12/20/19)

JUROR: A Court may replace a seated juror, prior to deliberations, when facts arise that cast doubt on the juror's ability to perform his dues. Court did not abuse its discretion in declining to remove the juror who expressed concerns for his safety because he worked at a jail but whose concerns were assuaged when he learned the Defendant would not go to his jail if convicted. United States v. Rothwell, No. 18-13284 (11th Cir. 12/20/19)

CAREER OFFENDER-RELEVANT CONDUCT: A defendant is a career offender under the Sentencing Guidelines if he has at least two prior felony convictions for either a crime of violence or a controlled substance offense within ten years of the commencement of the instant offense, including any relevant conduct. Defendant who is convicted of a crime committed in 2017 but who has relevant conduct (drug dealing) beginning in 2014, is subject to Career Offender sentencing because on priors extending back to 2004 (ten years from the earliest relevant conduct. Defendant qualifies for Career Offender status. In evaluating relevant conduct, the Court considers the similarity, regularity, and temporal proximity between the instant offense and the uncharged conduct. United States v. Rothwell, No. 18-13284 (11th Cir. 12/20/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-WELFARE CHECK: Officers acted lawfully under the community caretaker exception to the Fourth Amendment by rousing the Defendant and his unconscious passenger from the running car. The community caretaker exception to the warrant requirement focuses on concern for the safety of the general public. Searches and seizures conducted under the community caretaker doctrine are solely for safety reasons and must be totally divorced from the detection, investigation, or acquisition of evidence relating to the violation of a criminal statute. State v. Brumelow, 1D18-3631 (12/20/19)

HEARSAY: Statements by a non-testifying 911 caller repeated by the officer and inculpating the Defendant in the shooting are inadmissible hearsay. Officer's testimony, purporting to explain the police investigation but containing prejudicial third party statements of non-testifying witnesses, is improper hearsay even though the proponent of such evidence seeks to clothe such hearsay under a nonhearsay label. Error here is harmless. Knots v. State, 1D18-476 (12/20/19)

APPEAL-POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SUPPLEMENTAL RECORDS: Appellant may not supplement the record on appeal with documents which were not provided to the trial court in his hearing on his Motion for Post Conviction Relief. Partlow v. State, 1D19-1272 (12/20/19)

COMPETENCY: Court may require incompetent Defendant committed to a state facility to receive involuntary treatment, including forced psychotropic medication. When the State seeks to involuntarily medicate a forensic client solely for restoration of competency to stand trial, forced administration of psychotropic medication is permissible only when (1) an important governmental interest is at stake, (2) the administration of antipsychotic medication is substantially likely to render the defendant competent to stand trial without causing side effects that would significantly interfere with the defendant's ability to help counsel prepare a defense, (3) less intrusive treatments are unlikely to achieve the same results, and (4) the administration of the medication is in the forensic client's best medical interest. However, Courts may order involuntary treatment when a defendant is dangerous to himself or others or to protect the defendant's own interests where the refusal to take medication puts the defendant's own health at risk. Miller v. State, 1D19-43 (12/20/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-GOOD FAITH EXCEPTION-COMPUTER ERROR: Officers mistakenly thought the Child (who had an identical twin brother with a similar name) had an arrest warrant. Where computer and/or human error lead an officer to erroneously believe that a warrant for the Defendant's arrest existed, any evidence found in the course of the arrest must be suppressed. The good faith exception does not apply to mistakes or errors caused by law enforcement personnel. If the error is attributable to law enforcement personnel, the seized evidence must be suppressed under the exclusionary rule. "No exceptions to that rule apply." State v. J.R.D., 2D18-2034 (12/20/19)

MOTION TO DISMISS: Court may deny State's ore tenus motion for leave to file a traverse after it had filed a motion to strike but not a traverse before the hearing. Nonrtheless, the Motion should have been denied for being self contradictory on the issue of whether the Defendant ever had a driver's license in the first place. State v. Randolph, 5D18-2979 (12/20/19)

MANDATORY MINIMUM-HABITUAL OFFENDER-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCE: Sentences for attempted murder and burglary must be imposed concurrently. Once a defendant's sentences for multiple crimes committed during a single criminal episode are enhanced through habitual felony offender statutes, the total penalty cannot be further increased by ordering that the sentences run consecutively. Shooting one victim both in the house and several blocks away after the victim fled is one criminal episode where the State did not charge separate attempted murders. Mason v. State, 5D18-3691 (12/20/19)

RESENTENCING: Court cannot rescind its prior order for resentencing and must proceed with a resentencing hearing when neither party moved to vacate the order in question. The fact that the rescission of the order for resentencing was due to a change in the law does not matter. Magill v. State, 5D19-1478 (12/20/19)

COLLATERAL ESTOPPEL: Defendant's argument that statute allowing sentence reviews for juveniles convicted of crimes punishable by up to life in prison but not for lower-level offenses violates Equal Protection is not barred by collateral estoppel when she had raised different arguments before. The doctrine of collateral estoppel only precludes a defendant from relitigating the same issues between the same parties in connection with a different cause of action. Ortiz v. State, 5D19-1923 (12/20/19)

COLLATERAL ESTOPPEL: For the doctrine of collateral estoppel to apply to bar relitigation of an issue, five elements must be present: (1) an identical issue must have been presented in the prior proceedings; (2) the issue must have been a critical and necessary part of the prior determination; (3) there must have been a full and fair opportunity to litigate that issue; (4) the parties in the two proceedings must be identical; and (5) the issues must have been actually litigated. Ortiz v. State, 5D19-1923 (12/20/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant may not raise a claim of entitlement to postconviction relief based on newly discovered evidence – FBI report on unreliability of hair analysis – which could have been raised in an earlier motion for postconviction relief. Bogle v. State, SC17-2151 (12/19/19)

SELF-REPRESENTATION: A Faretta colloquy is not rendered inadequate by the trial court's failure to inquire as to the defendant's age, experience, and understanding of the rules of criminal procedure. Thorough discussion of right of self-representation. Hooks v. State, SC18-1106 (12/19/19)

COMPETENCY: The fact that the Defendant had stopped taking his psychotropic medication does not establish that the Defendant was incompetent at the time of his trial. Sparre v. State, SC18-1192 (12/19/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-APPEAL: Where Defendant's motion for postconviction relief made a general claim that trial counsel was ineffective for failing to impeach a witness, but in the hearing he failed to specifically show what he ws referring to, on appeal he may not point to specific areas of the deposition testimony which he claims should have been used to impeach at trial. Sparre v. State, SC18-1192 (12/19/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-ARGUMENT: Counsel was ineffective for failing to object to State's penalty phase arguments mocking his defense that the killing was frenzied rather than premeditated (i.e, a "thrill kill and then he just kind of got a little carried away" and "the knife just kept slipping."), but there is no reasonable probability that the first-degree murder verdict or the sentence of death were affected. Sparre v. State, SC18-1192 (12/19/19)

APPEAL-INEFFECTIVE APPELLATE COUNSEL: Appellate counsel was deficient for failing to supplement the record on appeal with the defense sentencing memorandum, which trial counsel filed with the trial court but which (apparently) was not filed with the clerk of court and therefore not included in the record on appeal. This deficiency does not warrant relief because appellate court had the substance of what was missing. Sparre v. State, SC18-1192 (12/19/19)

RULES-PARENTAL LEAVE: New rule 2.570 requires, with exceptions, a court must grant a timely motion for continuance based on the parental leave of the movant's lead attorney, due to the birth or adoption of a child for a presumptive three-month maximum length. In Re: Amendments to Rules-Parental Leave, SC18-1554 (12/19/19)

SPEEDY TRIAL-ARREST: "Arrest" in the speedy trial context should mean formal arrest, which is the only type of detention by law enforcement that implicates the Sixth Amendment speedy trial right. Rules of Criminal Procedure should be amended consistently with this ruling. Investigative detention including handcuffing, transportation, and interrogation at the Sheriff's Department is not a formal arrest triggering speedy trial. Davis v. State, SC18-1627 (12/19/19)

JURY PARDON: There is no fundamental right to instructions that facilitate partial jury nullification. "We hereby recede from this Court's precedent where a finding of fundamental error was predicated on Florida's jury pardon doctrine." "[W]e erred by transforming the unreviewable pardon power of the jury into a fundamental right of the defendant. And we further erred by treating the deprivation of the defendant's nonexistent right to the availability of a jury pardon as a structural defect that vitiates the fairness of the trial." Knight v. JURY PARDON: "Contrary to the logic of the jury pardon doctrine, interference with an opportunity for the jury to carry out a partial jury nullification does not undermine the validity of the trial. No defendant has the right to a trial in which the judge facilitates the jury's acting in disregard of the law." Knight v. State, SC-309 (12/19/19)

JURY PARDON-STARE DECISIS: "[W]e recede from this Court's precedents relying on a right of access to a partial jury nullification as a basis for finding fundamental error in jury instructions. . . .We make this decision mindful of the importance of stare decisis in most cases. While the doctrine of stare decisis is 'strong,' it is 'not unwavering.'" Knight v. State, SC-309 (12/19/19)

STAND YOUR GROUND-RETROACTIVITY: Amendment to the SYG law (Fla.Stat. 776.032(4)) altering the burden of proof at pretrial immunity hearings applies to pending cases involving criminal conduct alleged to have been committed prior to the effective date of the statute. The change in law is procedural and applies retroactively. The date of effectiveness of the shift in the Burden of Proof is the date of the SYG hearing. Pre-effective-date immunity hearings are not undone. Love v. State, SC18-747 (12/19/19)

AMENDMENT-JURY INSTRUCTIONS-SELF-DEFENSE: Whether Castle Doctrine applies to a place of business is an issue which needs to be resolved through case law, not through proposed amendments to the jury instructions. "[A] standard jury instruction case is not the proper means in which to resolve a substantive issue of law. Rather, absent clarification by the legislature, that matter must await this Court's resolution in an actual case and controversy." In re: Standard Jury Instructions, SC19-419 (12/19/19)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: There are two legally distinct issues that can be raised by a defendant in a motion for judgment of acquittal: (1) whether the State presented legally sufficient evidence to establish each element of the charged offense; and (2) whether in a case where the only proof of guilt is circumstantial, the State's evidence is inconsistent with any reasonable hypothesis of innocence, including the defendant's own version of the evidence. Because Defendant did not raise a circumstantial evidence/reasonable hypothesis argument in his motion for judgment of acquittal, issue is not preserved for appeal. Johnson v. CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION-CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Cathinones found in a bedroom and a photograph on the Defendant's phone showing cathinones is insufficient circumstantial evidence to establish that the Defendant had constructive possession of the narcotics. Johnson v. State, 1D18-4554 (12/19/19)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: When a trial court has awarded a defendant jail credit, the Department of Corrections has primary responsibility for calculating the credit. EVIDENCE-IDENTIFICATION: When the evidence is such that the witness is in no better position than the jurors to make an identification, officer's opinion that the person in the video is the defendant is inadmissible because it invades the province of the jury. The fact that the officer had known the Defendant and had a special familiarity with him does not justify the officer giving his opinion as to identity. Bentley v. State, 2D18-2256 (12/18/19)

THEFT-VALUE-JOA: Where the value of the property is based on mere speculation or guess, the owner's evidence is insufficient to prove fair market value. Freixa v. State, 3D18-1195 (12/18/19)

COMPETENCY: Where a court grants a defendant's motion for appointment of an expert for a competency examination, but fails to hold a hearing or enter a written finding on the movant's competency to proceed, the case must be temporarily remanded to the circuit court with specific instructions to vacate the conviction or make a nunc pro tunc deterimination of competency, if possible. VOIR DIRE-TIME LIMIT: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial when Court limited voir dire to 90 minutes, with a 10 minute extension, and counsel for the the Defendant exhausted his time inefficiently. "Although the trial court's limiting the defense's questioning of prospective jurors during voir dire is cause for concern, we conclude that. . . there was no abuse of discretion." Guy v. DISCOVERY VIOLATION: Last-minute disclosure of the jail call procured the night before in which the Defendant said fishy things about his anticipated testimony, including a suggestion that his counsel had told him what to say, is not a discovery violation. Guy v. State, 4D18-2054 (12/18/19)

SENTENCING-LIFE-MINOR-HOMICIDE: Life sentence with a review after 25 years is lawful for a 14-year-old who brutally murdered his eight-year-old neighbor girl and hid her body under the waterbed. Phillips v. State, 1D17-5383 (1st DCA 12/17/19)

PRETRIAL DETENTION-FTA: Court improperly ordered the defendant be held without bond after failing to appear at arraignment where he made no finding that his nonappearance was willful and that no conditions of release could protect the community or assure his presence at trial. SENTENCING-HEARSAY: Court may consider hearsay during a sentencing hearing so long as the evidence has sufficient indicia of reliability and the defendant is given the opportunity to rebut the evidence. Where PSR includes disputed allegations from the police report about the Defendant's previous sex offense but the record does not show that the Court relied on those disputed facts, the sentence stands. United States v. Morales Abad, 19-11299 (12/12/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Eye witness's fingerprints on the murder victim's wallet is newly discovered evidence but would not likely result in acquittal on retrial where there is a plausible, innocent explanation for the fingerprints, so conviction stands. Matthews v. State, SC18-9 (12/12/19)

SEX TRAFFICKING-MENS REA: In sex trafficking of a minor case, the Government need only prove that the defendant had a reasonable opportunity to observe the victim, not that he either knew or recklessly disregarded the victim's age. United States v. Pemberton, No. 17-14466 (11th Cir. 12/11/2019)

PLEA-VOLUNTARINESS: In case where plea before magistrate was aborted then renewed before the district judge the next day, the district judge's failing to repeat the previously given Rule 11 advice to Defendant about his right to counsel, after Defendant agreed to skip the repeat admonitions, if error, is invited. United States v. Pemberton, No. 17-14466 (11th Cir. 12/11/2019)

FIREARM-MANDATORY MINIMUM: Hobbs Act robbery qualifies as a crime of violence under the elements clause of § 924(c)(3)(A) because it requires the use, attempted use, or threatened use of force against the person or property of another and is therefore a predicate offense for the 10-Year Mandatory Minimum. United States v. Smith, No. 18-15013 (11th Cir 12/11/19)

APPEAL WAIVER: When a defendant challenges his sentence on appeal by raising claims that the government argues are barred by an appeal waiver, the government may file a motion to dismiss those claims. United States v. Moore, No. 18-13057 (11th Cir. 12/11/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201813057.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-MISADVICE: Where counsel misadvised Defendant that he qualified as a Career Criminal and would therefore be sentenced to over twenty years on a plea, and so the Defendant went to trial and lost, in order to vacate the conviction he must establish a reasonable probability that he would have pled guilty, the district court would have accepted his guilty plea, and, in turn, that his sentence would have been less severe had he pled guilty than the sentence he actually received. United States v. Medina, No. 18-12270 (11th Cir. 12/11/19)

SENTENCING-MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE: Where Defendant convicted of felony murder as an accomplice is remanded for resentencing and verdict does not clearly establish that she had the intent to kill, she is entitled to a full de novo sentencing hearing under § 921.1401. Toye v. State, 2D16-5423 (12/11/19)

https://www.2dca.org/content/download/544829/6139021/file/165423_DC13_12112019_082322_i.pdf

SENTENCING CONSIDERATIONS: When the comments of a sentencing court may reasonably be viewed as suggesting that the sentence was, at least in part, based on the defendant's decision to go to trial, resentencing before a different judge is appropriate. Toye v. State, 2D16-5423 (12/11/19)

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: Court's comment ("Those bottom of the guidelines are pretty much reserved for people who accept responsibility. This is a matter where the jury went forward and convicted your client.") establishes that the Court improperly punished the Defendant for going to trial. Defendant is entitled to resentencing before a different judge. Moore v. State, 2D18-1488 (12/11/19)

LESSER INCLUDED: Lewd or lascivious conduct is not a lesser included offense of Attempted Sexual Battery on a Child less than T where the allegations in the charging document fail to include elements of lewd or lascivious conduct. Lewd or lascivious conduct contains an element not included in the offense of sexual battery on a child, namely, touching in a lewd or lascivious conduct. Remedy for Court in bench trial having found an impermissible lesser included is remand for consideration on the lesser offense of battery, not discharge. J.F. v. State, 2D18-1619 (12/11/19)

SENTENCING-MANDATORY MINIMUM-ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT: Where judgment reflects a three year minimum mandatory which the Court failed to orally pronounce, the Court must re-sentence the Defendant with the minimum mandatory after ensuring that the Defendant is present at the new hearing. Although the Defendant's presence might be "useless, or the benefit but a shadow. . .we are bound by the rule that a defendant's due process rights are violated when a minimum term of imprisonment is added to a sentence without the defendant's presence." Thomas v. State, 2D18-3420 (12/11/19)

SECOND DEGREE MURDER-VOLUNTARY INTOXICATION: Voluntary intoxication is only available for crimes of specific intent, not second-degree murder, a general intent crime. Mentally ill Defendant who brutally beat the victim to death after becoming voluntarily intoxicated by flakka and sweet liquor is guilty of second degree murder. "No evidence in this case suggests that Morrison had a specific intent to fatally attack the elderly victim. However, the evidence does indicate that he 'voluntarily intoxicated' himself with a combination of illegal and dangerous drugs. . .The end result was the same as . . .if [he] had set out to deliberately murder a person." Morrison v. State, 4D17-2635 (12/11/19)

ARGUMENT: "We're asking you to find him guilty of first-degree murder because it's premeditated murder, because that is what he did. Had that not been what he did, we wouldn't have charged him that way," is improper argument but not fundamental error. Prosecutor may not imply that it would not have brought charges if the defendant were innocent. Morrison v. State, 4D17-2635 (12/11/19)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-JURY INSTRUCTION: Defense counsel who makes a general request for a specific jury instruction but fails to raise any objection to the instructions subsequent to the denial of the request thereby fails to preserve the issue for appeal. For an issue to be preserved for appeal it must be presented to the lower court and the specific legal argument or ground to be argued on appeal must be part of that presentation. Reed v. State, 4D18-1533 (12/11/19)

HEAT OF PASSION: Argument with a girl friend who is dumping one is insufficient provocation to warrant a heat of passion instruction in a homicide of one's girl friend and her sister. Reed v. State, 4D18-1533 (12/11/19)

COSTS: Court may not impose a public defender fee of $300 without providing notice of the amount and of the right to contest the fee. Defendant may agree to a higher public defender fee as part of a plea agreement. Mack v. State, 4D18-2034 (12/11/19)

SCORESHEET ERROR: Where error on the sentencing scoresheet erroneously increased the lowest permissible sentence from 20.315 months to 20.175 months and the sentence imposed was 72 months, the error is harmless. Desrosiers v. State, 4D18-2547 (12/11/19)

COSTS: In a criminal case, a trial courts may not assess costs in excess of a $100.00 fee in prosecution costs and a $225.00 fee a where the defendant is convicted of a felony without making appropriate factual findings. Desrosiers v. State, 4D18-2547 (12/11/19)

COSTS: In drug cases, the trial court may assess fees for the county drug abuse trust fund, but must consider the defendant's ability to pay. Desrosiers v. State, 4D18-2547 (12/11/19)

COMPETENCY-HEARING: Court is not required to hold a competency hearing absent any evidence of Appellant's incompetency at the time of trial. Assertion and evaluations for psychological evaluations for insanity at the time of the offense do not trigger the need for competency evaluations. The fact that a defendant intends to rely on the insanity defense, standing alone, does not raise a presumption that the defendant is incompetent to stand trial. Gordon v. State, 4D18-2653 (12/11/19)

PREMEDITATION: Premeditation can be shown by circumstantial evidence. The fact that the Defendant walked over to the victim, pulled a knife from his pocket, shouted an expletive at him, and then stabbed him more than eighteen times at close range, then turned to a second person and said “I'll do it to you, too. I'll kill you,” is sufficient evidence of premeditation. The deliberate use of a knife to stab a victim multiple times is evidence that can support a finding of premeditation. Gordon v. State, 4D18-2653 (12/11/19)

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Defendant is not in constructive possession of illegal substances on top of a dresser in a home with multiple occupants, notwithstanding his acknowledgment that he is a drug user. For a conviction under a theory of constructive possession, the State is required to prove that the defendant knew of the presence of the contraband and had the ability to maintain dominion and control over it. When the premises where the contraband is found are in joint possession, the elements of constructive possession may not be inferred and must be established by independent proof. While knowledge can be established by proof that the contraband was in plain view in the common areas, dominion and control must be established by independent proof beyond mere proximity where the premises were in joint possession or the defendant was a mere visitor. Sims v. State, 1D18-4916 (12/10/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PATDOWN: During traffic stop, where Officer smells marijuana but can't find any on Defendant after shaking his underwear, officer acted reasonably in using a pocket knife to cut a hole in his underwear. "[G]iven that the officer could have. . .reached into Appellant's underwear and presumably touched Appellant's genitals, I cannot say under the totality of the circumstances here that the search was unreasonable." Hilliard v. State, 1D118-4998 (12/10/19)

PLEA WAIVER: Waiver of the right to appeal includes waiver of the right to appeal difficult or debatable legal issues or even blatant error. United States v. Patel, No. 19-11407 (11th Cir. 12/9/19)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for solicitation and traveling after solicitation do not violate double jeopardy where the Defendant entered into a plea agreement. Unlike where there is a trial in which only charged conduct is allowable, plea negotiations are not so limited and can be based on relevant but uncharged information. In the context of plea negotiations, the charging document need not be as strictly constructed as to those counts that might form the basis for a double jeopardy violation. Newcombe v. State, 1D16-4769 (12/6/19)

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: The use of juvenile offenses as qualifying priors under the PRR statute does not violate Graham or Miller. "McDuffey's criminal history demonstrates persistent criminality rather than the incorrigibility inherent in youth." McDuffey v. State, 1D17-3250 (12/6/19)

INJUSTICE: "McDuffey's criminal history is short-lived, consisting of the one-day theft spree as a sixteen-year-old and the joint kidnapping/robbery of a drug dealer at age twenty-one. His offenses require punishment and appropriate incarceration, but a mandatory sentence of life without parole. . .raises more than one judicial eyebrow." McDuffey v. State, 1D17-3250 (12/6/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DNA TESTING: Defendant convicted of rape is not entitled to post-conviction testing of foreign DNA samples under the victim's fingernails on the theory that the sex had been consensual (Defendant's DNA was in her vagina) but the fight had been with someone else. "Appellant's assertions are unsupported by any facts, any evidence, common sense, or the law. And, because Appellant's assertions are 'patently unbelievable,' the courts are not required to order further investigation, designed only to humiliate and further traumatize a 14-year-old victim of a brutal rape." SENTENCING-LOWEST PERMISSIBLE SENTENCE: Court errs in sentencing the Defendant to 107.25 months (LPS) on each count (one 2nd degree felony and two third degree felonies) consecutively (about 33 years total) where the LPS was 107.25 months and the cumulative statutory maximum would have been 25 years. "Because the LPS does not exceed twenty-five years, the trial court was not required to impose the LPS, and the sentences should have been capped by their individual statutory maximum sentences." POST CONVICTION RELIEF: When a defendant's initial rule 3.850 motion for postconviction relief is determined to be legally insufficient for failure to meet pleading requirements, the trial court must allow the defendant at least one opportunity to amend the motion. JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-PRESERVATION: A request for a standing objection to nonspecific things previously objected to in preliminary proceedings does not renew a specific objection to a peremptory challenge when the Defense has, prior to that request, accepted the jury without reservation. Where defense had objected to the State's challenge to the jury's sole black juror and opposed the State's proffered race neutral explanation but later announced that he agreed to the jury as constituted, then the following day requested a continuing objection to "a few objection [sic] in preliminary proceedings," the issue of improper use of a peremptory challenge is not properly renewed and preserved. ARGUMENT-GOLDEN RULE: Asking jurors to imagine the victim's loss of hope as he slowly died while hung and tied to the bed did not expressly ask the jurors to put themselves in the victim's position but "came close to crossing the line." "If you could do that in America, then we'd all be in trouble because the mortgage companies would have us tied to the bed," constituted an improper golden rule argument. Jordan v. ARGUMENT: "Don't let him get away with this" is improper argument but not fundamental error. An objection is required for preservation of the issue, and counsel's strategic decision to limit objections so as not to antagonize the jury is rational. Jordan v. State, SC18-899 (12/5/19)

ARGUMENT-LACK OF REMORSE: Although State generally may not argue lack of remorse, the door is opened to this type of argument when defense counsel's opening statement included condolences for the victim and his family. "By injecting remorse into his opening statement in a case where part of the defense was that Jordan did not know the victim was in danger and had not meant to kill the victim when he left him tied up, we find that trial counsel opened the door for the State to address the lack of any evidence of remorse in this case." POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Before a prisoner in custody pursuant to a state court judgment can file a second federal habeas petition under § 2254, he must move in the appropriate court of appeals for an order authorizing the district court to consider the application. Defendant may not file a successive habeas corpus petition for post conviction relief without prior authorization notwithstanding that his petition presents a claim that relies on a new rule of constitutional law that the Supreme Court has made retroactive. Banks v. United States, No. 19-11010 (11th Cir. 12/5/19)

SENTENCING-ACCA-PRIORS: Where one of the predicates for ACCA sentencing was not legally sufficient because it fell under the residual clause (which was later determined to be unconstitutionally vague) but where another count (a drug offense), was oiginally mislabeled as a nonqualifying predicate offense in the PSI, the Defendant remained subject to ACCA sentencing, and is not entitled to a new sentencing hearing. Court is not required to articulate which priors it relied on in imposing an ACCA sentence. Gray v. United State, No. 18-12770 (11th Cir. 12/5/19)

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Defendant who did not object within 14 days to magistrate's recommendation that his plea be accepted cannot successfully move to withdraw the plea later. A district court may permit a defendant to withdraw his guilty plea. Defendant's failure to submit written objections to the magistrate's recommendation that the plea be accepted within 14 days waives his right to review, absent plain error. United States v. Cabeza, No. 18-10258 (11th Cir. 12/5/19)

SENTENCING-FIREARM ENHANCEMENT: Defendant who is sentenced for possession of a firearm by a felon is subject to a four level enhancement for use of the firearm in connection with another offense based on evidence that he had recently sold marijuana from the room where the gun was found, so that the gun had the potential to facilitate the offense of drug trafficking. A firearm found in close proximity to drug-related items has the potential to facilitate the drug offense, and is therefore possessed in connection with' that offense. United States v. Saez, No. 19-11364 (11th Cir. 12/5/19)

MINOR-SENTENCE: 50 year sentence for a 17 year old convicted of armed robberies is not subjected to Cruel and Unusual Punishment. Sentence is neither a life nor a de facto life sentence. Grace v. State, 1D19-133 (12/5/19)

JOA: Child is entitled to Judgment of Dismissal on charge of grand theft of the vehicle in which he was a passenger and of the burglaries/thefts related to the stolen property in the stolen car. Evidence that a person was a passenger in a previously stolen vehicle is insufficient to prove the theft of the vehicle. J.K. v. State, 2D17-4190 (12/4/19)

PLEA-WITHDRAWAL: Court retains jurisdiction to rule on Defendant's Motion to withdraw plea filed before Notice of Appeal is found. The motion tolled rendition of his sentence and placed his appeal in abeyance until the court disposed of the motion. Court has jurisdiction to rule on the defendant's motion to withdraw plea even though the defendant's appeal was pending because the motion to withdraw plea was filed before the notice of appeal. Chipman v. State, 2D18-2134 (12/4/19)

VOP: Court may not revoke probation solely on proof that the probationer has been arrested. His No Contest plea and resulting conviction establishes the violation for one case but not for the other Condition 5 violations which did not result in a conviction. Herrera v. State, 2D18-3709 (12/4/19)

VOP: Defendant may not be violated for failure to pay drug testing costs when that special condition was not imposed. Probation cannot be revoked for violating a special condition that was not imposed by the court, even where the probationer fails to object. Error is fundamental. Herrera v. State, 2D18-3709 (12/4/19)

VOP-FAILURE TO PAY: Court may not revoke probation based on failure to pay fines and costs where time remained on the probation to make such payments, and the court made no inquiry as to whether the Defendant had the ability to pay any of his monetary obligations. Court must make an inquiry and make explicit findings of willfulness before revoking probation for failing to pay costs. Error is fundamental. Herrera v. State, 2D18-3709 (12/4/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that trial counsel was ineffective by affirmatively misadvising him that if he were to testify, the State would be allowed to cross-examine him regarding the nature and details of his prior felony conviction. McDade v. State, 3D19-363 (12/4/19)

PSI: The omission of the DJJ recommendation in a PSI is an error in the sentencing process, not an error in the order imposing the sentence. Defendant, who was a minor at the time of the commission of the offense, is not entitled to a resentencing where he failed to object to the omission at sentencing. Error is not correctable by motion. Jones v. State, 4D18-1945 (12/4/19)

MINOR-RESENTENCING: Court lacks jurisdiction to rescind an order granting resentencing once it became a final, appealable order, and neither party timely moved for rehearing of the order. White v. State, 4D18-3560 (12/4/19)

APPEAL-MOTION FOR EARLY TERMINATION OF PROBATION: An order denying early termination of probation is not an appealable order. Velazquez v. State, 4D19-245 (12/4/19)

https://www.4dca.org/content/download/544188/6132224/file/190245_1701_12042019_09011190_i.pdf

INJUSTICE: "I concur that an order denying an early termination of probation is not an appealable order. That is unfortunate. Were this case reviewable on appeal, appellant would be entitled to a reversal because the court abused its discretion by denying appellant's motion for termination without explanation." Velazquez v. State, 4D19-245 (12/4/19)

QUOTATION: "Judicial discretion is a discretion guarded by the legal and moral conventions that mold the acceptable concept of right and justice. If this is not true, then judicial discretion, like equity, will depend on the length of the judge's foot, the state of his temper, the intensity of his prejudice, or perhaps his zeal to reward or punish." Velazquez v. State, 4D19-245 (12/4/19)

MOTION TO MITIGATE-JURISDICTION: Court lacks jurisdiction to rule on (deny) a motion to mitigate filed after a notice of appeal was filed. Court should have dismissed the motion without prejudice. Barberian v. State, 4D19-1471 (12/4/19)

JURY INSTRUCTIONS: Court correctly gave the jury instruction related to eyewitness identification which was consistent with the law at the time of the offense, rather than the jury instruction applicable after the laws on eyewitness identification were changed. Williams v. State, 1D18-3426 (12/4/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court properly denied Defendant's claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to call an expert witness to testify about how crack cocaine may affect a user's perceptions. Where there is no testimony that the witness consumed crack, defendant never requested such an expert, and defendant had stated that his counsel had called all witnesses requested. Lynn v. State, 1D18-3816 (12/4/19)

POSSESSION OF a FIREARM BY FELON: Guns found throughout the Defendant's home from which he trafficked in narcotics is sufficient circumstantial evidence to sustain a conviction for possession of a firearm by a felon. To support a conviction for possession of a firearm by a convicted felon, the government must prove that (1) the defendant "was a convicted felon, (2) he knowingly possessed a firearm, and (3) the firearm was in or affected interstate commerce. United States v. Hill, No. 19-10387 (11th Cir. 12/4/19)

ACCA: Where Defendant challenges his ACCA enhancement alleging improper reliance on a residual clause predicate offense, he must show that—more likely than not—it was use of the residual clause that led to the sentencing court's enhancement of his sentence. If it is just as likely that the sentencing court relied on the elements or enumerated offenses clauses, solely or as an alternative basis for the enhancement, then the movant has failed to show that his enhancement was due to use of the residual clause. Robinson v. State, No. 17-13929 (11th Cir. 12/3/19)

FALSE STATEMENT: Notary who knowingly notarized fake passport applications is properly convicted of making false statements in a passport application. United States v. Ershova, No. 18-12338 (11th Cir. 12/3/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201812338.pdf

MOTION TO DISMISS: Defendant may not move to dismiss an indictment on the ground that the undisputed facts would not establish the crime. The sufficiency of a criminal indictment is determined from its face, and an indictment is sufficient if it follows the language of the statute and sets forth the essential elements of the crime. United States v. Ershova, No. 18-12338 (11th Cir. 12/3/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201812338.pdf

FALSE STATEMENT IN PASSPORT APPLICATION: A notary who makes false notarizations is guilty of making a false statement in a passport application (i.e., that she actually witnessed the signing of the application). A notarization is a statement. "[A]lthough notaries have not previously been prosecuted under § 1542, the statute, standing alone, was sufficiently clear to give Ershova fair warning that falsely certifying she had witnessed the fathers sign the forms was criminal." United States v. Ershova, No. 18-12338 (11th Cir. 12/3/19)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY A FELON: Prohibiting a felon from possessing a firearm is within the federal government's power under the Commerce Clause. United States v. Porter, No. 18-14551 (11th Cir. 12/3/19)

VOP: Affidavit of Violation should not be dismissed because probation officer initially alleged that the Defendant possessed heroin when the white powder turned out to be N-Ethylpentylone and the petition was accordingly amended. "The probation officer's mistake, or at worst, his negligence, in alleging that Coleman possessed heroin was insufficient to warrant an evidentiary hearing on the veracity of his arrest warrant." United States v. Coleman, No. 19-10410 (11th Cir. 12/3/19)

VOP: Defendant is properly found to be in violation of controlled release where video recording and testimony from two transportation security officers established that Defendant accompanied Chung through an airport in Detroit while they were carrying about $79,000 and that after officers discovered Chung in possession of heroin and Defendant's pants held a plastic bag of N-Ethylpentylone. (Defendant was also recorded on a cell phone snorting cocaine.) United States v. Coleman, No. 19-10410 (11th Cir. 12/3/19)

SENTENCING: Defendant's argument that prison is "wholly unacceptable" fails. United States v. Coleman, No. 19-10410 (11th Cir. 12/3/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201910410.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL-COMPETENCY: Defendant's statement at his change-of-plea hearing that he had seen a psychologist in jail who had told him to get evaluated, and later information in the PSR showing that the Defendant had been diagnosed with schizoaffective disorder-bipolar is insufficient evidence of incompetency to require the Court to order a competency evaluation sua sponte. "True, the record shows that Ward had a history of mental illness, that he suffered auditory hallucinations and may have tried to commit suicide after pleading guilty, and that he was then diagnosed with schizoaffective disorder-bipolar type. But there are no prior medical opinions regarding Ward's competence, and his demeanor at the change-of-plea hearing and sentencing indicates that he had a rational and factual understanding of the proceedings against him and was able to assist counsel." United States v. Ward, No. 19-10479 (11th Cir. 12/2/19)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Government must prove that the Defendant knew his status as a convicted felon. United States v. Ward, No. 19-10479 (11th Cir. 12/2/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201910470.pdf

GUIDELINES-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCE: When being sentenced for possession of a firearm by a felon while there is a related state court charge of attempted murder for using that firearm, and where the acts underlying the attempted murder were calculated as relevant conduct, the Court errs by not considering a concurrent sentence under Section 5G1.3(c) of the Sentencing Guidelines, which advises courts that a federal sentence shall be imposed to run concurrently with an anticipated, but not yet imposed, state sentence resulting from an offense that is relevant conduct to the instant federal offense. There is no requirement that the anticipated state court sentence must be imminent. Resentencing required. United States v. Ward, No. 19-10479 (11th Cir. 12/2/19)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON-KNOWLEDGE OF STATUS: By pleading guilty, Defendant waives any objection to the indictment for failing to allege that he knew he was a prohibited person. The fact that Defendant had received multiple sentences of more than one year of imprisonment for serious felonies—and in fact served nearly eight years in prison—indicates that he knew that his prior offenses were punishable by more than one year of imprisonment. United States v. Ward, No. 19-10479 (11th Cir. 12/2/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-FOREIGN SEARCH: Evidence obtained from searches carried out by foreign officials in their own countries is admissible in United States courts, even if the search would not otherwise comply with United States law or the law of the foreign country, unless the conduct of the foreign officials during the search shocks the judicial conscience or if American law enforcement officials substantially participated in the search or if the foreign officials conducting the search were actually acting as agents for their American counterparts. The search of the Defendant's property in Malaysia does not shock the judicial conscience. "[W]hile the alleged beating may violate American norms of decency, Olaniyi did not show it violates international norms of decency." United States v. Olaniya, No. 18-14622 (12/2/19)

IDENTITY THEFT: Defendant's argument that he did not know that the person whose bank account he tapped into was a real person is nonavailing. United States v. Olaniya, No. 18-14622 (12/2/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201814622.pdf

OTHER CRIMES: Evidence of thefts from other people's bank accounts is inextricably intertwined with the charged offense and is thus admissible. Evidence, not part of the crime charged but pertaining to the chain of events explaining the context, motive, and set-up of the crime, is properly admitted if linked in time and circumstances with the charged crime, or forms an integral and natural part of an account of the crime, or is necessary to complete the story of the crime for the jury. As the evidence was not extrinsic under Rule 404(b), the Government was not required to give pretrial notice of its intent to use the evidence at trial. United States v. Olaniya, No. 18-14622 (12/2/19)

EVIDENCE-SENTENCING HEARING: The standard for admissibility of evidence in a sentencing hearing is not the evidence code, but rather whether the evidence has sufficient indicia of reliability. United States v. Pitts, No. 18-14873 (11th Cir. 11/27/19)

PLEA-WITHDRAWAL: A defendant who seeks to withdraw a guilty plea after the court has accepted the plea but before sentencing must demonstrate a fair and just reason for doing so, considering the totality of the circumstances surrounding the plea. Trial court acted within its discretion in denying motion to withdraw plea by Defendant, an attorney who had pled guilty to mishandling escrow accounts, on the ground that new evidence (a poorly qualified expert hired to contest the amount of restitution) would establish lack of criminal intent. United States v. Pitts, No. 18-14873 (11th Cir. 11/27/19)

APPEAL: Defendant's pleading entitled "Objections to Government's Response to Defendant's Motion for Relief from Judgment. . .and/or Notice of Appeal" is not a legally sufficient notice of appeal because it does not designate the court to which the appeal is being taken, nor does it evince a clear intent to appeal, nor does it identify the order being appealed. United States v. Baxter, No. 19-10327 (11th Cir. 11/27/19)

STAND YOUR GROUND-APPEAL: Prohibition is the appropriate remedy when the Court errs in denying SYG immunity on the merits. Certiorari is the appropriate remedy when the Stand Your Ground proceeding or the trial court's ruling is flawed by legal error. Garcia v. State, 2D18-4541 (11/27/19)

STAND YOUR GROUND-SELF-DEFENSE-TRESPASS: One is entitled to defend oneself and is protected by SYG when attacked for dithering about leaving the house party. A defendant is not foreclosed from defending himself simply because he is in a place where he does not have the right to be, but he must first attempt to retreat from the situation if he can do so safely. Court errs by ruling that as a matter of law any use of force by the party host is lawful. Garcia v. State, 2D18-4541 (11/27/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that Court improperly allowed expert testimony on DNA evidence in which "low count number" testing had been utilized, that possible contamination of the DNA samples had occurred, and that the population frequency statistics were unreliable. Miller v. State, 2D19-17 (11/27/19)

INFORMATION: Defendant is estopped from vacating conviction where State filed an amended information as part of a reduced charge plea negotiation, in which it wrote "possession with intent to sell cannabis" on the face of the information but neglected to state all the elements of the offense in the body. Even where the body of a charging instrument omits an essential element, such an error is a waivable technical defect, if the charging instrument references the correct statute, and the statute sets forth the required elements. de Quesada v. State, 3D19-2018 (11/27/19)

IMMIGRATION CONSEQUENCES: Defendant cannot raise claim that his plea was involuntary for failure to warn of likely immigration consequences more than two years after the plea, absent allegation that . As he filed his motion well beyond the two-year limitation, entirely failed to articulate any prejudice, and did not allege that he could not have ascertained the immigration consequences of his plea during two-year period after his judgment became final with the exercise of due diligence. de Quesada v. State, 3D19-2018 (11/27/19)

EVIDENCE-OPINION ON CREDIBILITY: State may not ask whether Defendant believes police offer lied ("Therefore, you are saying that what the officer said on the stand is not the truth, is that correct?"). A witness may not be asked to give an opinion about the credibility of another witness. Y.N. v. State, 3D18-45 (11/27/19)

EVIDENCE-BENCH TRIAL: When improper evidence is admitted over objection in a bench trial, the court must make an express statement on the record that the erroneously admitted evidence did not contribute to the final determination or it will be regarded as having been considered. New trial required. Y.N. v. State, 3D18-45 (11/27/19)

COMPETENCY: Upon remand, successor judge who acquainted himself with the record may make a nunc pro tunc finding of competency after hearing. Little v. State, 4D17-2611 (11/27/19)

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court may not sentence Defendant who has under 22 points on his scoresheet to prison for VOP. Upon remand, if it seeks an enhanced penalty, the State must convene a jury to consider danger to the public. Issue of whether chronic thievery constitutes "danger to the public" is not addressed. Lewis v. State, 4D18-2548 (11/27/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-STANDING: A defendant who is tracked using Cell-Site Location Information (CSLI) data has standing to challenge the search of his or her physical location, notwithstanding that the location in which he is found is in his murdered mother's car. State v. Martin, 4D18-3417 (11/27/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-GOOD FAITH: The good faith exception to the exclusionary rule for unlawful searches does not apply to areas of law that are undecided or unsettled. Officers acted in good faith reliance on then-existing practices and orders authorizing Cell-Site Location Information (CSLI) data, but not in using Cell-Site Simulator data to pinpoint the Defendant's location in his murdered mother's car. State v. Martin, 4D18-3417 (11/27/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CELL PHONE-SITE LOCATION: A cell-site simulator is a device that transforms a cell phone into a real-time tracking device, tricking nearby cell phones into thinking the device is a cell tower. Police may not track Defendant's location with a cell-site without obtaining a warrant. Officers did not act in good faith reliance based on their claimed belief that a the court order authorizing the disclosure of "real-time/live cell site locations" and a "mobile tracking device" extends to a cell site simulator. "The Fourth Amendment violation here is precisely the kind of violation the exclusionary rule seeks to deter." Evidence properly suppressed. State v. Martin, 4D18-3417 (11/27/19)

RETROACTIVITY-PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: Lewars (Defendant who was committed to prison but released from jail with credit time served before getting there is not subject to PRR) does not apply retroactively. Life sentence as PRR affirmed. A change of law will not be applied retroactively unless the change: (a) emanates from the Supreme Court of Florida or the United States, (b) is constitutional in nature, and (c) constitutes a development of fundamental significance. Lewars is an evolutionary refinement and not a development of fundamental significance, a major constitutional change, or jurisprudential upheaval that requires retroactive application. Sims v. State, 4D19-1506 (11/27/19)

QUOTATION 1: "Of course, there's no such thing as a good bank robbery. But. . .there are certainly less bad ones." United States v. Perez, No. 17-14136 (11th Cir. 11/26/19)

QUOTATION 2: "If this were an Encyclopedia Brown mystery, it might be called The Case of the Polite Bank Robber." United States v. Perez, No. 17-14136 (11th Cir. 11/26/19)

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES: Unarmed bank robber who said "please" and "thank you," bargained pleasantly with one teller ("Perez asked. . . if [$1000.00] was the most cash the teller could dispense."), and allowed another to report the robbery while it was ongoing is not subject to the Guidelines' threat-of-death offense level enhancement. "Put $5[,]000 in an envelope . . . and no one will get hurt." is a threat of harm, but not in itself enough to justify the enhancement. United States v. Perez, No. 17-14136 (11th Cir. 11/26/19)

EVIDENCE-OTHER CRIMES, WRONGS OR MISDEEDS: In theft and burglary case, evidence of a stolen checkbook, unrelated to the case at issue, found in the stolen backpack is inadmissible. "Although. . . the prosecutor and State witness carefully avoided making the overt assertion that Appellant had stolen the checkbook, they might just as well have. . . When the jury was told that. . .the Appellant. . .was found to be in possession of a checkbook belonging to somebody else, the inescapable implication was that he stole it, and was a person prone to theft." STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is not entitled to SYG immunity when he came up behind the victim, grabbed her, threw her to the ground, laid on top of her, hit her repeatedly in the face and said, "You f—ing b—-, you'll never hit my wife again," after his wife had started the fight by repeatedly stabbing the victim with a broken bottle. STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant who shattered a beer bottle, grabbed the victim by the throat with her free hand, stabbed the victim with the bottle, and said, "You want some of this? You want to try me? You want some of this b—-?" and who cut the victim's facial nerves and vocal cords is not entitled to SYG immunity. Craven v. State, 1D18-5272 (11/22/19)

OPENING THE DOOR: Defendant charged with a violent crime with a firearm opens the door to evidence that he had been previously convicted of possession of a firearm by a felon when he said that he did not have a gun during the crime charged because he could not legally possess one. Dickerson v. State, 1D19-1320 (11/22/19)

HEARSAY: Statements of the bleeding, upset victim at the scene of the crime while the fire department was still trying to put out the fire are admissible as excited utterances and statements of identification. Dickerson v. State, 1D19-1320 (11/22/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SEVERANCE: Counsel is not ineffective for failing to sever Defendant's case from that of his co-Defendant where each testified only to their own innocence and neither of them attempted to implicate the other with their testimony. Dickerson v. State, 1D19-1320 (11/22/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/543764/6127130/file/191320_DC05_11222019_120329_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-EDITED RECORDING: Claim that counsel was ineffective for allowing a too heavily redacted interview to be admitted where he fails to show that the redactions fundamentally changed the nature of the video. Dickerson v. State, 1D19-1320 (11/22/19)

JURY INSTRUCTION-EXCUSABLE HOMICIDE: In case of Defendant shooting his wife through a door in what he claims was a botched suicide attempt, failure to give an excusable homicide instruction is reversible error. But where the trial court specifically directed the parties to the missing definitions of justifiable and excusable homicide and defense counsel acknowledged the omission, the Defendant affirmatively waived any claim to assert fundamental error. Question certified whether waiver further requires the record to reflect that counsel knew the omission itself was erroneous. Brady v. State, 2D18-117 (11/22/19)

RESENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: Defendant is entitled to a 3rd sentencing hearing before a 3rd judge when the first two judges, before and after the first appeal, considered the Defendant's use of a firearm during the robbery when the jury had found him guilty of the lesser included of robbery without a firearm. Love v. State, 2D18-4461 (11/22/19)

APPEAL-CERTIORARI-MODIFICATION OF PROBATION: Defendant may move to modify the conditions of probation at any time, including before it begins. Court's ruling that it is without jurisdiction to modify conditions of probation can be challenged by petition for writ of certiorari. Wilson v. State, 2D18-4662 (11/22/19)

CORPUS DELICTI: Cocaine found on the ground where the Defendant had run is sufficient evidence that someone had committed the crime of possession of cocaine, so that Defendant's admission that he had discarded the cocaine is admissible. "Whether a corpus delicti has been established is a different inquiry from whether the evidence adduced would legally withstand a motion for judgment of acquittal. The former is a rule of evidentiary admission; the latter is one of evidentiary consideration." With limited exceptions, to establish a corpus delicti the State need only show that a crime has been committed, not that the defendant committed that particular crime. K.T.B. v. State, 2D19-59 (11/22/19)

CONTINUANCE: Defendant is entitled to a continuance in murder case when, 12 days before trial, State discloses an FDLE report showing the victim's blood on Defendant's headboard, undermining the Defendant's defense that the blood came from murdered kittens. Defense counsel must be afforded a reasonable opportunity to investigate and prepare any applicable defenses. Court must consider (1) the time actually available for preparation; (2) the likelihood of prejudice from the denial; (3) the defendant's role in shortening preparation time; (4) the complexity of the case; (5) the availability of discovery; (6) the adequacy of counsel actually provided; and (7) the skill and experience of chosen counsel. VEHICULAR HOMICIDE-JOA: Drag race ending in a fatal crash at 99 m.p.h. is sufficient to establish vehicular homicide. Ruiz v. State, 5D18-3402 (11/22/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SCORESHEET ERROR: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that there was an apparent scoresheet error, unless the Court attaches records showing that the same sentence would have been imposed regardless. The fact that the trial court did not impose the lowest permissible sentence does not compel the conclusion that the court would have imposed the same sentence even if the extra points had not been listed on the scoresheet. Sanders v. State, 5D19-1194 (11/22/19)

PROBATION-TERM: For life felony, Defendant cannot be sentenced to 40 years in prison followed by 15 years of probation. The maximum sentence for a life felony is 40 years or life. Because the Defendant was sentenced to 40 years imprisonment, no probation could follow. VOP dismissed. Owens v. Flowers, 5D19-3366 (11/22/19)

CONSPIRACY: Government is not required to prove that the Defendant conspired to distribute a specific controlled substance. Government is only required to prove that the Defendant conspired to distribute a generic controlled substance. Proof of the type of drug involved in the conspiracy is separate and distinct from proof of mens rea as to the type of drug. Because the type of drug is not an element of the statutory offense, a finding of mens rea with respect to the specific type of drug is ordinarily not required. But where the indictment charged a specific substance instead of the generic substance as an element, the government is required to prove mens rea as to the specific substance. United States v. Achey, (11th Cir 11/22/19)

DEFINITION-"A": When used as an indefinite article, "a" means some undetermined or unspecified particular. United States v. Achey, (11th Cir 11/22/19)

CONSPIRACY: A simple buyer-seller controlled substance transaction does not, by itself, form a conspiracy, but if the evidence allows an inference that the buyer and seller knew the drugs were for distribution rather than to support the buyer's personal drug habit, the transaction may amount to a conspiracy. United States v. Achey, (11th Cir 11/22/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201811900.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Newly discovered evidence of dubious admissibility and credibility, including that a third party had implied that he might be the killer and that that person had been seen running with a gas can and blood on his shirt, is not sufficient to warrant post conviction relief in an otherwise strong case of guilt. Calhoun v. State, SC18-340 (11/21/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to call to alibi witnesses where their testimony would have been cumulative and their credibility suspect. Thomas v. State, 1D18-2024 (11/20/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-RULE OF SEQUESTRATION: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to invoke rule of sequestration where the active two witnesses talking to each other is not shown to be prejudicial. Faulk v. State, 1D18-2173 (11/20/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-PHOTO LINEUP: Defendant's speculation that the victims may have chosen him out of the lineup because they believe that all people of color look alike is not a basis for postconviction relief. Faulk v. State, 1D18-2173 (11/20/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-MENTAL HEALTH EVALUATION: Counsel was not ineffective for not seeking a mental health evaluation where the record reflects that the Defendant participated meaningfully throughout the trial in his claims of mental illness are otherwise undermined by the facts. Any mental health mitigation would have been meaningless because the Defendant was a Prison Releasee Re-offender who was required by law to serve the statutory maximum sentence. Faulk v. State, 1D18-2173 (11/20/19)

JURY INSTRUCTION-SEXUAL BATTERY-PENETRATION: It is fundamental error in a sexual battery case for the state to argue, and for the court to instruct the jury on, union with the vagina when the information only alleges actual penetration. Goodman v. State, 1D18-2264 (11/20/19)

EVIDENCE-VOUCHING: CPT officer's testimony that in her medical opinion there was sexual assault or abuse according to patient history and physical findings that were consistent with the history is improper vouching. Counsel provided deficient performance in failing to object to the CPT officer's testimony, but no prejudice was shown given the overwhelming evidence of guilt. ("Appellant could not recall if he had raped his daughter as he had seven drinks that night and did not know how much alcohol the victim drank."). Roderick v. State, 1D18-4020 (11/20/19)

ARGUMENT: Prosecutor did not improperly evoke religion when telling the story about King Solomon's maternity case and suggesting that jurors should use their God-given common sense. Roderick v. State, 1D18-4020 (11/20/19)

PLEA-WITHDRAWAL: Motion to withdraw plea filed by the Defendant who is represented by counsel is a nullity absent a claim in the motion that an adversarial relationship with his counsel existed. Trial counsel's obligation of representation to his or her client does not end upon the rendition of a judgment of conviction and sentence, but continues thereafter until either a notice of appeal is filed and related tasks completed, the time for filing the notice has passed, or good cause is shown upon written motion. Rodriguez v. State, 3D19-1006 (11/20/19)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-SPLIT SENTENCE: A defendant who is sentenced to incarceration because he violated the probationary portion of a split sentence is entitled to receive credit for time served in prison before being placed on probation. The trial court shall direct the Department of Corrections to compute and apply credit for all other time served previously on the prior sentence for the offense for which the offender is being recommitted. The failure to award a defendant proper credit for prior prison time served is cognizable on a motion to correct illegal sentence under Rule 3.800(a). Villalona v. State, 3D19-1080 (11/20/19)

EVIDENCE-OPINION: Detective may not testify that, based on his training and experience, there was no self defense legitimately available for Defendant. Such an opinion improperly invades the exclusive province of the jury. Hunt v. State, 4D18-1577 (11/20/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-FACTUAL FINDINGS: "While not an independent ground for reversal, unexplained rulings are generally anathema to a sound appellate opinion. While we decline to enunciate a ruling that would require factual findings following hearings on motions to suppress, we implore trial judges to consider such a routine procedure, whether they be written or orally pronounced." Case remanded for the court to make factual findings. Searcy v. State, 4D18-2201 (11/20/19)

COMMENT ON SILENCE: State's question of Defendant during cross-examination "And today in 2018 is the first time we're hearing about this guy name[d] Rico?" is an improper comment on Defendant's right to remain silent. The State is not permitted to comment on a defendant's postarrest silence. This prohibition applies to all evidence and argument, including impeachment evidence and argument, that is fairly susceptible of being interpreted by the jury as a comment on silence. A defendant does not waive this prohibition by electing to take the stand and testify at trial. Hopkins v. State, 4D18-2204 (11/20/19)

SHIFTING BURDEN OF PROOF: State may not imply that Defendant has the burden of offering an exculpatory statement prior to trial. Asking the Defendant "And today in 2018 is the first time we're hearing about this guy name[d] Rico?" improperly shifts the burden of proof. Hopkins v. State, 4D18-2204 (11/20/19)

RESTITUTION: Court may not summarily order the defendant to pay $57,148.25 in restitution without first providing the defendant with notice and an opportunity to be heard at a restitution hearing. Whittaker v. State, 4D18-2336 (11/20/19)

RESENTENCING-MINOR: After Court grants motion for resentencing under Graham and State does not seek rehearing or appeal of the order, and where the law is changed before resentencing occurred, the circuit court lacked jurisdiction to reconsider the earlier order granting resentencing. Scott v. State, 4D18-3682 (11/20/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Acquitted co-Defendant who submits an affidavit that he, without the Defendant's participation, committed the crime is newly discovered evidence. Post-trial confessions from codefendants can amount to newly discovered evidence that provides an exception to the two-year time limitation of Rule 3.850(b). Franklin v. State, 4D19-390 (11/20/19)

COMPETENCY: Court may order video-recording of competency evaluation. Video-recording the evaluation ensures a complete and accurate record of the evaluation is available. Sylvestre v. State, 4D19-2753 (11/20/19)

CONFIDENTIAL INFORMANT-DISCLOSURE: In attempted murder case, the State may withhold the identities of confidential informants who it does not intend to call when Defendant fails to raise a legally cognizable defense or otherwise show that disclosure of the witnesses' identities is relevant or helpful to his defense or essential to a fair determination of the cause. State v. Henry, 5D19-2288 (11/18/19)

APPEAL-SEARCH AND SEIZURE: As part of its discovery obligation, the State must disclose the application for the search warrant, but the Court's failure to order the disclosure of the underlying affidavit is not a dispositive issue, and thus not appealable after a plea. House v. State, 1D18-4138 (11/15/19)

YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: Court may decline to impose a Youthful Offender where it is clear that he understood that he had the option to do so if he so chose. Reynosopena v. State, 5D18-3856 (11/15/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-JUROR MISCONDUCT: Defendant is entitled to a hearing 15 years after his conviction on claim that juror concealed the fact that she had been the victim of sexual crimes as a child. Smith v. State, 5D19-101 (11/15/19)

VOP: Defendant cannot be found in violation of probation for failing to register when he was arrested 24 hours after moving and the statute allows 48 hours to register upon changing one's address. Niemi v. State, 5D19-325 (11/15/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Arguing self-defense at trial but not requesting a self-defense instruction on the theory that self-defense was weak and a diminished capacity defense was preferable is not a reasonable defense strategy. " We can fathom no sensible, strategic reason for counsel to argue self-defense during Washer's closing argument but opt not to request a self-defense jury instruction. . .Counsel's assessment that the instruction is 'awful' is insufficient." Washer v. State, 5D19-663 (11/15/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was ineffective for failing to investigate GPS data which would have undermined the credibility of State's witnesses, despite being requested to do so. New trial is required. Washer v. State, 5D19-663 (11/15/19)

JOA-MANSLAUGHTER: Defendant properly convicted of manslaughter based on marooning drunk victim in the swamp after their boat sank and she punched him in the nose and stabbed him in the forearm with a flounder gig (her co-defendant stabbed him, too) notwithstanding that the stabbings did not cause the death. King v. State, 1D18-1278 (11/13/19)

MANSLAUGHTER-JURY INSTRUCTION: Where Defendant is a principal to manslaughter, she is not entitled to an instruction that she was the cause in fact of the death or the proximate cause. Such an instruction is confusing or misleading. King v. State, 1D18-1278 (11/13/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INVESTIGATORY STOP: Officer may not stop vehicle for driving around at night for a long time in a neighborhood after receiving complaints about a loud muffler where State did not argue that the muffler violated the anti-loud muffler statute. Good string of cases on bad reasonable suspicion car cases. Allenbrand v. State, 2D17-4787 (11/13/19)

COMPETENCY: Court may not merely accept counsel's stipulation as to the admissibility of the doctors' reports and the competency conclusions contained therein and proceed to VOP hearing without making an independent finding of competency. A trial court must make its own determination as to competency; the doctor evaluations are advisory only. Aquino v. State, 3D18-751 (11/13/19)

COMPETENCY-REMAND-REMEDY: "Depending on the circumstances of the case, a trial court may make a retroactive competency determination so long as the defendant is assured due process. . . [T]he decision as to whether the case's circumstances and due process considerations warrant a new trial or a nunc pro tunc competency determination is left to the trial court to make upon remand." RESTITUTION: Victim of burglary is entitled to replacement value and cost of installation of a new window, notwithstanding that the new window is more expensive than the original. Pujol v. State, 3D18-1045 (11/13/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to call witnesses who could have been identified and located. "While it is generally true that the defendant must provide the names of uncalled fact witness, . . . where. . . the fact witnesses' names are not known . . .[but] defendant has provided sufficient information from which both the witnesses' names can be learned and the individuals located, the defendant has satisfied his burden." Ruiz v. State, 3D18-1627 (11/13/19)

HABEAS CORPUS: Defendant may not raise an untimely and successive habeas corpus claim for relief for ineffective assistance of counsel under the "Manifest injustice" doctrine except in the "rarest and most exceptional of situations." "The mere incantation of the words 'manifest injustice.' does not make it so." Beiro v. State, 3D18-2479 (11/13/19)

SENTENCING-SCORESHEET: Where sentencing scoresheet improperly lists three prior misdemeanor convictions when he really had two, the Defendant is not entitled to a new sentencing hearing where the trial court sentenced Defendant to almost two years more than the minimum sentence, and it is therefore obvious that the .2 error did not affect the sentence. Harmon v. State, 4D18-1295 (11/13/19)

RESENTENCING: Resentencing is de novo. Upon resentencing, the Court must consider events occurring after the original sentence such as, as here, a psychosexual evaluation that found Defendant's risk of sexual recidivism to be low. Spires v. State, 4D18-2210 (11/13/19)

RESENTENCING: Court lacks jurisdiction to vacate an order granting resentencing on the basis of subsequent case low holding that 30-year sentence for a juvenile does not violate Graham. German v. State, 4D18-3635 (11/13/19)

CONSPIRACY-ELEMENTS CLAUSE: Conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act robbery does not qualify as a "crime of violence," as defined by § 924(c)(3)(A) (the elements clause). Conspiracy is not violent. Brown v. United States, No. 17-13993 (11/12/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201713993.pdf

ELEMENTS CLAUSE DEFINED: The elements clause (18 U.S.C. § 924(c)(3)) defines a "crime of violence" as an offense that is a felony and (A) has as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person or property of another, or (B) that by its nature, involves a substantial risk that physical force against the person or property of another may be used in the course of committing the offense. Brown v. United States, No. 17-13993 (11th Cir. 11/12/19)

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: New sentencing hearing is required when Court, in imposing sentence, considers factors laid out in the probable cause affidavit which were not proven at trial and which were more egregious than what was shown at trial. Where the record reflects that the trial judge may have relied upon impermissible considerations in imposing sentence, the State bears the burden to show that the judge did not rely on such considerations. Petit-Homme v. State, 5D19-108 (11/8/19)

YOUTHFUL OFFENDER-VOP: When a youthful offender commits a substantive violation of probation and the trial court imposes a sentence in excess of the six year cap, the Defendant cannot maintain his youthful offender status. Alexis v. State, 5D19-1032 (11/8/19)

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: Defendant may not argue on appeal that his forty-year minimum mandatory sentence for armed robbery while possessing and discharging a firearm is unlawful where he did not raise the issue in the lower court at sentencing or in a motion to correct. A sentencing error may not be raised on appeal unless the alleged error has first been brought to the attention of the lower tribunal. Reager v. State, 1D18-1316 (11/8/19)

PRINCIPAL-ACCESSORY AFTER THE FACT: A person convicted as a principal to a crime cannot also be convicted as an accessory after the fact to the same crime, since these two offenses are mutually exclusive. Vowell v. State, 1D18-2018 (11/8/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: When elderly Defendant rejected plea offer, counsel's representation was deficient when he failed to tell Defendant he faced a mandatory minimum life sentence if convicted of the armed burglary, but no prejudice is shown where Defendant rejected the fifteen year offer because he considered it a de facto life sentence. Mongo v. State, 1D18-2208 (11/8/19)

JURY INSTRUCTION-HARMLESS ERROR: Harmless error applies to a claim that the trial court failed to instruct on attempted voluntary manslaughter as a necessary lesser included offense of attempted second degree murder. Smart v. State, 1D18-4119 (11/8/19)

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: In sentencing Defendant for unlawful sexual activity with a minor and delivery of a controlled substance to a minor, based on him picking up and having sex with a drug addicted minor to whom he gave Dilaudid, who later overdosed that night, Court erred by considering that the Defendant blamed the victim for her own death and the possibility that the Defendant caused the death. ("[W]e'll never know really what caused her death other than it was tragic. And you are the primary cause of her death, period."). Consideration of subsequent misconduct or pending or dismissed charges is constitutionally impermissible and violates a defendant's due process rights. Nichols v. State, 2D18-1487 (11/8/19)

ATTORNEY DISCIPLINE: Attorney who altered a photo lineup by replacing his client's image in one exhibit with the image of an alternate suspect and using it in a deposition in a criminal case is subject to discipline for conduct involving dishonesty. The element of intent can be satisfied, merely by showing that the conduct was deliberate or knowing, regardless of the lawyer's motive. The Florida Bar v. Schwartz, SC17-1391 (11/7/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH-CHANGE OF LAW: Opinion in Buck v.Davis that injection of racial bias into a criminal trial violates Due Processis not a new fundamental constitutional right. STAND YOUR GROUND: From his porch, Defendant was entitled to fire a warning shot and, in response to return fire, then actually fire upon three people who had dragged his niece from his home against her will, notwithstanding that the three people turned out to be undercover cops. Derossett v. State, 5D19-802 (11/7/19)

APRIL FOOLS: Court erred by adjudicating delinquent a 12 year old student on April 1st who said "I'm going to shoot up the classroom, April Fools." Threats of future action are not bomb threats. "[Child] does not argue, nor do we reach, the issue of under what circumstances a joke or other statement that is explicitly not intended to be taken seriously can violate § 790.163(1)." J.A.W. v. State, 1D19-1974 (11/6/19)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-MERGER DOCTRINE: Convictions for first-degree felony murder and aggravated battery on a law enforcement officer violate double jeopardy under the merger doctrine. The principle of merger, prohibiting multiple punishments for a single killing, is an exception to the standard Blockburger double jeopardy analysis." [W]e have not found a single Florida case upholding a defendant's conviction for aggravated battery where the defendant was also convicted for a homicide offense resulting from the same criminal conduct." Barnett v. State, 2D17-379 (11/6/19)

RECLASSIFICATION: Second-degree murder is a 1st PBL. Court improperly treated the offense as a life felony based on State's erroneous representation that it was a life felony. Error is fundamental. Williams v. State, 17-3959 (11/6/19)

ELEMENT-PRIOR CONVICTION: A certified copy of a judgment does not need further authentication to be admitted into evidence, but merely introducing a judgment, which shows identity between the name on the prior judgment and the name of the defendant, is insufficient. Defense counsel's stipulation to admission of the records does not waive the requirement of linking the judgment to the Defendant. B.M. v. State, 2D17-4306 (11/6/19)

EVIDENCE-AGE: Arresting officer's testimony merely that juvenile "was seventeen, I believe." is insufficient to establish that the juvenile was a juvenile. B.M. v. State, 2D17-4306 (11/6/19)

FALSE REPORT OF USE OF FIREARM: Middle school conversation in which Child says that he hates school and wanted to kill other students and "shoot the school, " and that he "was going to kill somebody" but did not say "he was going to kill somebody right at that moment," cannot be found delinquent for making a false report concerning the use of firearms in a violent manner. "A reasonable reader would understand making a report to mean providing information about something that is occurring or has already occurred, not expressing a desire or an intention to do something in the future. ARGUMENT-PRESERVATION: State's argument that jury should think of itself as baseball players and to keep their eyes on the ball and not be swayed by "sliders" or "outside fast balls" is proper. Woodard v. State, 3D18-141 (11/6/19)

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: If a party makes a contemporaneous objection to an improper comment which is sustained by the trial judge, the party must move for mistrial if he or she wishes to preserve the issue for appellate review. Woodard v. State, 3D18-141 (11/6/19)

APPEALS: Unless a notice of appeal is filed within thirty days of the judgment's rendition, appellate court has no jurisdiction. A petition for writ of habeas corpus may not be employed as a substitute for an appeal. Darkins v. State, 3D19-1324 (11/6/19)

DISCOVERY-EXPERT: Error, if any, in not designating a witness as an expert is harmless where Defendant had an opportunity to depose the witness and the witness testified to the uncontested cause of death, not the identity of the killer, where the defense was that Some Other Dude Did It (SODDI). Hedvall v. State, 3D15-2368 (11/6/19)

EXPERT: Detective who had taken a crime scene reconstruction course with 20 or more hours devoted to blood pattern analysis, had training at the medical examiner's office with 12 hours devoted to blood pattern analysis, and had taken a DNA course with 20 hours of blood pattern analysis may give expert testimony as to blood splatter. JURORS-CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE: Court properly denied challenge for cause to juror who said that trained police officers may observe some things that others would not, but that police officers do not always tell the truth and absent special training, their testimony is entitled to no greater weight than another witness. Hedvall v. State, 3D15-2368 (11/6/19)

JURORS-CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE-PRESERVATION OF ISSUE: In order to preserve appeal of Court's denial of Defendant's challenge for cause, Defendant must exhaust all challenges and identify who he would have stricken had he had more challenges. Where Defendant unsuccessfully challenged three jurors for cause and exercised his peremptory challenges on them, but only identified two additional jurors he would have excused if he could, the issue is not preserved. Hedvall v. State, 3D15-2368 (11/6/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SPEEDY TRIAL: The State is not entitled to the recapture period when it leads a defendant to believe that no charges are pending against him/her, even though the State has pursued new charges based on the same conduct, whether or not the pending charge is suspended, continued, or is the subject of entry of a nolle prosequi. Counsel is not ineffective for filing a notice of expiration of speedy trial instead of moving for a discharge because at the time the prevailing law in the state of Florida entitled the State to the recapture period. There can be no deficient performance if defense counsel follows then prevailing law. Arslam v. State, 4D16-4339 (11/6/19)

INVESTIGATIVE COSTS: Investigative costs must be requested by the investigating agency and supported by evidence of the amount of the costs incurred. Kelly v. State, 4D18-1456 (11/6/19)

DISCOVERY: Failure to disclose maps used as a demonstrative aid, if a discovery violation, is harmless error. Smith v. State, 4D18-3076 (11/6/19)

KIDNAPPING-JURY INSTRUCTION: A jury instruction that erroneously includes an element that the State neither argued nor presented evidence to support is not fundamental error because it is not in dispute. No reversible error for defining “restraint” in a kidnapping case where restraint is not pled in the information. Improperly including an additional element not initially charged is not fundamental error if the element of the offense is not in dispute at trial or material to the jury's consideration. Smith v. State, 4D18-3076 (11/6/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Claim that counsel was ineffective in failing to object to the alleged error and that, but for the error, the State may have made a more favorable plea offer is speculative and states no basis for postconviction relief. Passino v. State, 4D19-2117 (11/6/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A scoresheet error raised under rule 3.800(a) is harmless if the court could have imposed the same sentence using a corrected scoresheet. Fausten v. State, 4D19-2185 (11/6/19)

BATTERED SPOUSE SYNDROME: Battered Spouse Syndrome is not available in the absence of a claim of self-defense. BSS cannot be asserted to support a disallowed diminished capacity defense. Morris v. State, 1D18-1638 (11/5/19)

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Defendant is not entitled to judgment of acquittal when proof of premeditation is circumstantial but other elements are supported by direct evidence. The circumstantial evidence standard applies only when all evidence of the defendant's guilt is circumstantial, not when an element of the crime is shown entirely by circumstantial evidence. Morris v. State, 1D18-1638 (11/5/19)

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Court is not required to appoint counsel on Defendant's motion for rehearing of order denying motion to withdraw plea where plea, tendered during trial, was thoroughly qualified and at the hearing jail calls were admitted in which Defendant said his motion was an effort to game the system. Hamilton v. State, 1D18-1287 (11/1/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court properly dismissed without hearing Defendant's successive motions for post conviction relief which persistently violated length and format requirements. Ziegler v. State, 1D18-2314 (11/1/19)

ACCIDENT REPORT PRIVILEGE: The compelled disclosure of a driver's identity at an accident scene does not violate the privilege against self-incrimination. Because the accident-report privilege only applies to self-incriminatory statements, the officer may compel the Defendant to give his identity. The accident-report privilege is not a true privilege but rather a limitation on the admissibility of evidence. Jones v. State, 1D18-3535 (11/1/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to call private investigator who would have testified that the officer's testimony that he saw the Defendant driving was false and for failing to depose officer who claimed the Defendant had confessed. Osborn v. State, 5D18-3039 (11/1/19)

OCTOBER 2019

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-RICO: Defendant is properly convicted of two RICO counts where there was a seduced widow (principal victim) whose money was used to swindle others because the charges alleged different time-periods, different enterprise membership, different victims, and different unlawful conduct. Overlapping enterprises pursuing different patterns of racketeering can be prosecuted separately without violating double jeopardy protections. Ball v. State, 1D18-330 (10/30/19)

VOP: Defendant may be found guilty of violating probation by committing a battery on his daughter where officers observed old injuries on her, she said that Defendant had hit her a week before, and she waffled as to whether he had hit her that day. Reynolds v. State, 17-3820 (10/30/19)

VOP-HEARSAY (DISSENT): "The photograph of Jessica's injured mouth was no more proof that Appellant hit her than the photo of a dinner plate was proof that 'a ghost had been seen in the story of the man who said, 'My friend saw a ghost eating off a plate at his house last night, and if you don't believe it, here is the plate he says he saw the ghost eating from.'" Reynolds v. State, 17-3820 (10/30/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to vacation of conviction where Court finds that Defendant's claim, denied by trial counsel, that trial counsel advised him to reject plea offer based on erroneous evaluation of merits of the case. Jones v. State, 1D17-3833 (10/30/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court lacks jurisdiction to rescind an order granting resentencing once it became a final, appealable order, and neither party timely moved for rehearing. Henderson v. State, 1D18-3098 (10/30/19)

VINDICTIVE SENTENCE: Defendant is not vindictively sentenced when his and the codefendant's sentences are disparate but when the two are not similarly situated, such as where, as here, the Defendant had a gun and was older than the seventeen year old co-defendant. Love v. State, 1D19-368 (10/30/19)

RECLASSIFICATION-AGGRAVATED BATTERY: Aggravated battery is properly reclassified to a first-degree felony where it is clear that the aggravated battery was based on great bodily harm and that therefore the use of a deadly weapon was not an essential element of the offense. Evans v. State, D19-1341 (10/30/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to retain a video enhancement expert to improve the clarity of the perpetrator's face in the surveillance video. Romaine v. State, 2D17-4605 (10/30/19)

JURY INSTRUCTION-DELIVERY OF NARCOTIC-FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: Where defendant is charged with delivery of cannabis, but the jury was instructed that the Defendant could be found guilty if he "sold, delivered, or possessed with intent to sell or deliver" cannabis, the Defendant is entitled to a new trial. When the jury instruction erroneously includes an element of the offense, it will be held to be fundamental error if there is a dispute concerning that specific element at trial. Where an offense may be committed in various ways, the evidence must establish it to have been committed in the manner charged in the indictment. Reese v. State, 2D18-916 (10/30/19)

COMPETENCY: Court may not enter an order finding the Defendant incompetent based on the written reports of two experts "and others," without actually holding a competency hearing. Rogers v. State, 2D19-2193 (10/30/19)

UNSEALING RECORD: Defendants in a defamation lawsuit, based on the claim that they had disparaged the Plaintiff as a drug dealer, may not have the Plaintiff's sealed record unsealed to support their defense that their claim was true. Farach v. Rivero, 3D19-866 (10/30/19)

EXPUNCTION: "[T]he expungement statute does not transmute a once-true fact into a falsehood. It does not require the excision of records from the historical archives of newspapers or bound volumes of reported decisions or a personal diary. It cannot banish memories. . .[I]t does not alter the metaphysical truth of his past, nor does it impose a regime of silence on those who know the truth." Farach v. Rivero, 3D19-866 (10/30/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SEXUAL OFFENDER REGISTRATION: Defendant's asserted ignorance of sexual offender requirements is not newly discovered evidence allowing the Defendant to raise a motion for postconviction relief beyond the two-year limitation period. Tisdale v. State, 3D18-1717 (10/30/19)

SCORESHEET ERROR: Upon resentencing on the remaining counts after the Defendant's vehicular homicide count was vacated, the Defendant is not entitled to another resentencing based on the use of an improper scoresheet where the Court sentenced the Defendant and statutory maximum without regard to the scoresheet. The scoresheet is to be corrected, but the sentences stand. Oakley v. State, 4D18-1800 (10/30/19)

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: State may appeal the erroneous entry of a Judgment of Acquittal after a jury verdict, regardless of whether the verdict is recorded. State may not appeal a Judgment of Acquittal entered before a jury verdict. State v. Pickersgill, 4D18/3115 (10/30/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Defendant's claim that newly discovered evidence bearing on the motivation of the confidential informant who told police that the Defendant would receive a package of narcotics is properly denied without a hearing. Regardless of informant's motive, police had sufficient evidence for an anticipatory warrant. Joshua v. State, 4D18-3724 (10/30/19)

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL-VIOLENT FELONY: Attempted first-degree assault (Alabama offense) is a violent felony under the Armed Career Criminal Act. In deciding whether a defendant's prior state offense contains a use-of-force element, the Court employs a categorical approach, looking to the elements. But if the prior conviction was for violating a divisible statute (one that sets out one or more elements of the offense in the alternative) the Court applies a modified categorical approach, whereby if some forms of the offense require the use of violent force but others do not, a sentencing court may refer to a case documents to determine whether the defendant's prior conviction had, as an element, the use of violent force or not. United States v. Hunt, No. 17-12365 (11th Cir. 10/30/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Defendant has standing to contest search of motel room from which he fled, but officers, who had an arrest warrant for Defendant, were justified in entering the room to see if he had returned. United States v. Ross, No. 18-11679 (11th Cir. 10/30/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Defendant's right to privacy in a motel room ends at check out time at 11:00 a.m. United States v. Ross, No. 18-11679 (11th Cir. 10/30/19)

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON-KNOWLEDGE: An element of Possession of a Firearm by a Felon is that the Defendant knew he was a felon. Failure of indictment to so allege and for jury instructions to so instruct is harmless error. "Because the record establishes that Reed knew he was a felon, he cannot prove that the errors affected his substantial rights or the fairness, integrity, or public reputation of his trial." United States v. Reed, No. 17-12699 (11th Cir. 10/30/19)

EVIDENCE: Court acted within its discretion in excluding cross-examination that the investigating offevidence andfailingicer had been disciplined years before for misuse of police computer in a political campaign. United States v. Ochoa, No. 16017609 (11th Cir. 10/25/19)

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: Public Safety exception to Miranda Rule renders admissible Defendant's statement about where a gun was in his house before it was searched. United States v. Ochoa, No. 16017609 (11th Cir. 10/25/19)

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: Defendant did not successfully invoke his right to counsel or his right to remain silent when he said that he did not agree with the statement that he was willing to answer questions without a lawyer present. United States v. Ochoa, No. 16017609 (11th Cir. 10/25/19)

SPEEDY TRIAL: Defendant who did not object to Speedy Trial violation on severed Possession of Firearm count set for trial outside the time for speedy trial is not entitled to discharge. United States v. Ochoa, No. 16017609 (11th Cir. 10/25/19)

FIREARM-CLOSE PROXIMITY: Where firearm and magazine were discovered outside and inside the house, respectively, but testimony established that they had been in the same room earlier, they may be considered in close proximity for purposes of sentencing guidelines consideration. United States v. Ochoa, No. 16017609 (11th Cir. 10/25/19)

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-NEED FOR RESTITUTION: Court may not enter a downward departure based on CFE Federal Credit Union's alleged need for restitution outweighing the need for incarceration where the only factual basis for the finding is defense counsel's unsworn assertion. State v. Melendez, 5D18-1420 (10/25/19)

EXPERT: Expert opinion on human trafficking and the sex worker subculture is admissible to assist the trier of fact on subjects not within an ordinary juror's understanding or experience. While law enforcement officers cannot testify as to general criminal behavior as substantive proof of guilt, experts have traditionally been permitted to consider such behavior when rendering their opinions. Poole v. State, 5D18-1681 (10/25/19)

MARITIME JURISDICTION: Information does not have to state the basis of a county's jurisdiction when the county in fact has jurisdiction under Fla. Stat. §910.006 (maritime jurisdiction). "The State is required to allege the essential elements of the crime charged, not the essential elements of jurisdiction." The fact that the information falsely alleged that the events occurred in Brevard County, rather than at sea, does not change the result. Although not required, a better practice when filing charges based on events occurring at sea during cruise ship voyages would be to allege the statutory basis for jurisdiction in the charging document. Batiz v. State, 5D18-1831 (10/25/19)

JURISDICTION: Jurisdiction must be proven beyond all reasonable doubt. Here, the court had jurisdiction because the crime was one of violence. Batiz v. State, 5D18-1831 (10/25/19)

YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: When the trial court retains an offender's youthful offender status following a violation of probation, the maximum permissible sentence is six years. Defendant can be sentenced to 9 years in prison while being stripped of his Youthful Offender status, or sentenced to no more than six years in prison as a Youthful Offender. Beiber v. State, 5D18-2833 (10/25/19)

COSTS: Court may not impose a state attorney fee or public defender fee in excess of $100 without a request. Cottier v. State, 5D18-3213 (10/25/19)

EXCESSIVE PUNISHMENT (CONCURRENCE): "[A] 45-year sentence for a non-violent monetary crime is extraordinarily harsh. . . To sentence him to what is essentially a life sentence is a manifest injustice. I would hope that if the defendant files a . . .motion for mitigation of his sentence, the trial judge would give it great consideration." Cottier v. State, 5D18-3213 (10/25/19)

SAVINGS CLAUSE-RETROACTIVE: The Savings Clause amendment to the Florida Constitution ("[R]epeal of a criminal statute shall not affect prosecution for any crime committed before such repeal."), which became effective on Jan. 8, 2019 does not require trial courts to apply an amended criminal statute retroactively to cases on appeal. There is no longer any provision in the Florida Constitution that would prohibit the Legislature from applying an amended criminal statute retroactively to pending prosecutions or sentences, but nothing in the Florida Constitution requires the Legislature to do so. Changes to §775.087 (firearm mandatory minimums) are not retroactive. Stapleton v. State, 5D18-3291 (10/25/19)

JUVENILES-FIREARM-MAND MIN: Juvenile cannot get credit for pretrial detention served against his 15 day mandatory minimum for possession of a firearm. State v. S.A., 5D19-735 (10/25/19)

BINDING PRECEDENT: Court may not disregard binding precedent from other jurisdictions. "After being reminded that his decision was contrary to J.Z. and the plain language of the statute, the judge stated, 'let's see what the Fifth [District] says about this.'. . . This was improper." In the absence of interdistrict conflict, district court decisions bind all Florida trial courts. State v. S.A., 5D19-735 (10/25/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PRETEXT: Court may not invalidate stop based on its belief that the stop was pretextual, and even if it could, the evidence does not support such a finding. State v. Mellaci, 5D19-835 (10/25/19)

CONCURRENT SENTENCE DOCTRINE: The concurrent sentences doctrine provides that, where a defendant is given concurrent sentences on several counts and the conviction on one count is found to be valid, an appellate court need not consider the validity of the convictions on the other counts. The concurrent sentences doctrine applies to both convictions and sentencing errors. Defendant cannot raise in motion for post conviction relief the issue that the sentence on one count exceeded the statutory maximum where the Government had not filed a sentencing enhancement and where the sentence was concurrent with other counts for which the maximum was not exceeded. Padgett v. United State, No. 17-12645 (11th Cir. 10/24/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court properly denies Certificate of Appealability (COA) where Defendant failed to allege specific facts showing he was entitled to relief. Claims that counsel had misled Defendant are refuted by plea colloquy. Reed v. United States, No. 19-10521 (11th Cir. 10/24/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201910521.pdf

INVITED ERROR: The invited error doctrine stems from the common sense view that where a party invites the trial court to commit error, he cannot later cry foul on appeal." Defendant who requested through counsel a 70 month sentence for illegal reentry (""I would just respectfully ask the Court to impose a sentence of 70 months, at the low end of the Guidelines range.") may not later contest on appeal the legality of the sentence as unduly harsh. United States v. Noriega-Perez, No. 19-10232 (11th Cir. 10/24/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/unpub/files/201910232.pdf

SENTENCING-UPWARD VARIANCE: The Sentencing Reform Act precludes sentencing courts from imposing or lengthening a prison term to promote an offender's rehabilitation. Court illegally imposed a sentence longer than necessary so that he would qualify for and complete the Bureau of Prison's Residential Drug Abuse Program. United States v. Jeczalik, No. 19-10995 (11th Cir. 10/23/9)

SENTENCING-COLLOQUY: Plea to VOP vacated where Court merely accepted defense counsel's representations that Appellant was admitting the violations and never asked the Defendant anything. Koon v. State, 1D18-2306 (10/23/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to review his scoresheet with him, and had he known his lowest permissible sentence, he would not have entered an open plea. Wilson v. State, 1D18-4414 (10/23/19)

SELF-REPRESENTATION: Court errs by failing to conduct a Faretta hearing upon Defendant's request to represent himself. The fact that the Defendant does not simultaneously request the discharge of counsel does not take away from the Defendant's request for self-representation. Spera v. State, 2D18-1702 (10/23/19)

VIOLENT FELONY OFFENDER OF SPECIAL CONCERN: In order to sentence Defendant as a VFOSC, Court must make written findings as to whether the VFOSC poses a danger to the community. McCray v. State, 3D17-1300 (10/23/19)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/539677/6091472/file/171300_812_10232019_09540121_i.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-JUDGE-NEUTRALITY: Defendant may not raise on appeal the question of whether, during vop hearing, the Court's questioning of probation officer to establish willfulness of violation was an unlawful departure from neutrality in the absence of a contemporaneous objection. Edwards v. State, 3D18-992 (10/23/19)

SELF-DEFENSE-FORCIBLE FELONY EXCEPTION: Court errs by giving forcible felony exception jury instruction in a self defense case (the use and/or threatened use of deadly force is not justified when Defendant was attempting to commit, committing, or escaping after the commission of a forcible felony) unless a separate charge of a forcible felony is actually filed. Error is fundamental. Lindo v. State, 3D18-1959 (10/23/19)

PRETRIAL RELEASE-30 DAY RULE: Defendant is not entitled to lifting of condition of home confinement while on pretrial release where State does not file charges within 30 days. Pretrial release conditions do not constitute being "in custody" under R. 3.134. "The plain language of the statute controls, limiting ROR to defendants in actual physical custody." Branch v. Junior, 3D18-2552 (10/23/19)

FLEEING AND ELUDING: Police car with stripes, visible police light bar, and a push bar fits the statute prohibiting fleeing and eluding an officer in a patrol vehicle with agency insignia and other jurisdictional markings prominently displayed on the vehicle. Although Black's Law Dictionary does not define "prominent," Merriam-Webster Dictionary does, and these markings were prominent. G.C. v. State, 3D18-2563 (10/23/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to post conviction relief beyond the two year limitation upon his claim that he recently learned of a plea offer never conveyed to him where the record shows he had been advised of the offer. "[C]onsiderably more disconcerting, is what appears to be the demonstrably false and fraudulent nature of Delgado's allegations. . .[I]t certainly appears that Delgado has knowingly asserted a false claim of newly-discovered evidence. If true, such a brazen attempt to avoid a procedural bar by crafting false allegations can only be viewed as a contemptuous obstruction of the proper administration of justice and must be addressed as such." Delgado v. State, 3D19-1557 (10/23/9)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Upon remand, imposition of a previously omitted minimum mandatory sentence does not violate double jeopardy. It does not offend double jeopardy principles to resentence a defendant to harsher terms when the original sentence was invalid, particularly when it is the defendant who brings his sentence into question." Burks v. State, 3D19-1618 (10/23/19)

WHAT? HUH? WHAT?: Defendant who is serving two life sentences and who successfully appeals the Court's failure to impose the mandatory minimum on one of the life sentences may not thereafter claim a double jeopardy violation when the mandatory minimum is imposed on remand. Burks v. State, 3D19-1618 (10/23/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-MANDAMUS: Defendant is not entitled to a writ of mandamus to compel Court to accept a motion for post conviction relief when he has been barred from filing any more such motions. Stallworth v. State, 3D19-1834 (10/23/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that the DNA evidence admitted at trial was based on the inappropriate use of the combined probability of inclusion (CPI) method in making a match. Alisme v. State, 4D19-429 (10/23/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to a hearing on motion for post conviction relief on grounds that his conviction for failing to register as a sex offender was invalid where the issue had been fully litigated and decided adversely. Kelly v. State, 1D18-1438 (10/21/19)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: A claim for jail credit beyond the amount agreed to in a plea bargain is not cognizable in a rule 3.801 proceeding. Ancrum v. State, 1D18-1639 (10/21/19)

EVIDENCE-VICTIM'S KNOWLEDGE OF SEX: Court properly exercised discretion in excluding evidence that juvenile victim of sex abuse was familiar with sex acts years earlier on ground that the evidence was remote and not related to the criminal charge, and error, if any, was harmless. Washington v. State, 1D18-2216 (10/21/19)

MANDATE-ENFORCEMENT: Trial Court need not enforce the appellate court's mandate to resentence Defendant who received a life sentence with the possibility of parole when the law changed (by Supreme Court's overruling of Atwill) between the mandate and resentencing. A trial court's role in carrying out an appellate court mandate is normally purely ministerial, but an exception to the general rule occurs when an intervening decision is issued by a higher court contrary to the decision reached on the former appeal. Marshall v. State, 2D16-1095 (10/18/19)

SINGLE HOMICIDE RULE: Single homicide rule prohibits dual convictions and sentences for vehicular homicide and fleeing and eluding causing serious injury or death that involve the same victim. Question certified. Maisonet-Maldonado v. State, 5D18-942 (10/18/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-GIGLIO: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that State committed a Giglio violation by failing to disclose favorable promises made to a witness in exchange for her testimony. Ortiz v. State, 5D (10/18/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel must accurately advise Defendant as to amount of credit for time served on different counts and cases. Everett v. State, 5D19-1082 (10/18/19)

JUDGES-DISQUALIFICATION: Judge should be disqualified for making comments indicating that he had prejudged the petitioner's guilt and doubted both his sincerity and truthfulness regarding a medical episode experienced during trial proceedings. Quick v. State, 5D19-2518 (10/18/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: Counsel was ineffective for failure to conduct a neuropsychological evaluation of the Defendant to determine whether he suffered an organic brain damage caused by a childhood car accident and affecting his behavior. [A] jury should have had an opportunity to hear and consider [this]." "The long and short of it is that there is a reasonable probability that, had Jefferson's counsel conducted a proper investigation and presented to the jury the extensive evidence of organic brain damage that such an investigation would have uncovered, at least one juror who would have reached a different judgment." Defendant is entitled to a new death penalty sentencing hearing. Jefferson v. GCDP Warden, No. 17-12160, 11th Cir. (10/17/19)

HALF-HEARTED MITIGATION: In death penalty phase, trial counsel argued that "because of his difficult upbringing in a poor black family, Jefferson was not as responsible for his actions as most individuals." … "We could go down into Atlanta and pick out at random any black 17-year old we wanted to, and we'd get an arrest record very similar to Lawrence Jefferson's." New sentencing hearing required. Jefferson v. GCDP Warden, No. 17-12160, 11th Cir. (10/17/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201712160.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: "Where a petitioner has established that his lawyer's actions fell below an objectively reasonable standard of performance and that such ineffectiveness rendered his trial fundamentally unfair, he is entitled to relief even in spite of the substantial deference that we show to the decisions of trial counsel." If the failure to engage in further investigation was the result of neglect or oversight, no presumption of reasonableness attaches. "[T]he sentencing profile actually presented at Jefferson's trial compared with what would have been presented if Jefferson's trial counsel had performed a proper investigation is striking." Jefferson v. GCDP Warden, No. 17-12160, 11th Cir. (10/17/19)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy does not preclude an enhanced sentence of life imprisonment on the ground that the Defendant cannot be convicted of both burglary with a battery and sexual battery because the sexual battery was the same conduct used to enhance the burglary charge. Simmons v. State, 1D18-1657 (10/17/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/539300/6087032/file/181657_1284_10172019_12420689_i.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Defendant can be convicted of two counts of sexual battery based on the separate acts of touching the victim's vagina with his sexual organ and penetrating the victim's vagina with his finger. Simmons v. State, 1D18-1657 (10/17/19)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for sexual battery and unlawful sexual activity with a minor violates double jeopardy because the latter count is subsumed in the former. Smith v. State, 1D18-2218 (10/17/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/539301/6087044/file/182218_1287_10172019_12435439_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is bound by his answers in plea colloquy when making a claim of ineffective assistance. "As defendants cannot go behind their colloquy statements, we cannot permit them to do so by asserting that they simply forgot about potential witnesses during trial and now, in post-conviction proceedings, remember them." Worrell v. State, 1D18-3531 (10/17/19)

EXPERT: Expert cannot opine that the defendant does not fit the profile of a pedophile. Character evidence is inadmissible. Worrell v. State, 1D18-3531 (10/17/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to relief on claim that counsel failed to convey a plea offer where there was no offer because the Defendant said he would not accept one. Gordon v. State, 1D18-4102 (10/17/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/539304/6087080/file/184102_1284_10172019_12484988_i.pdf

USE OF FIREARM BY FELON: Rosemond Rule (that Defendant, to be convicted of aiding and abetting with use of firearm during a crime of violence, must have advance knowledge that his co-conspirators would use or carry a firearm during the underlying crime of violence) applies retroactively. Advance knowledge is not present when a defendant only learns of a gun's presence when he no longer has a realistic opportunity to quit the crime. Steiner v. United States, No. 17-15555 (11th Cir. 10/16/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201715555.pdf

CRIME OF VIOLENCE: Aiding and abetting a carjacking qualifies as a crime of violence under the elements clause of § 924(c)(3)(A). Steiner v. United States, No. 17-155555 (11th Cir. 10/16/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201715555.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-STANDARD OF REVIEW: The relevant question when a state prisoner seeks federal habeas relief based on insufficient evidence is whether any rational trier of fact could have found the essential elements of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt. Steiner v. United States, No. 17-155555 (11th Cir. 10/16/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201715555.pdf

ARREST: Officer crosses a firm and bright constitutional line by crossing the threshold of Defendant's home to make a warrantless arrest. The Fourth Amendment prohibits the police from making a warrantless and nonconsensual entry into a suspect's home in order to arrest him. Officers do not have a right to enter and arrest anyone standing in an open doorway without a warrant. A warrant (or exception) is always required for a home arrest even if the arrestee is standing in the doorway of his home when the officers conduct the arrest. Bailey v. Swindell, No. 18-13572 (11th Cir. 10/16/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201813572.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PLAIN VIEW-MOTEL ROOM: Officers may seize and open an unopened briefcase when the Defendant was lawfully arrested on a warrant and disclaims ownership of it. State v. Miller, 2D17-4922 (10/16/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-APPLICABLE LAW: "The question of which state's law to choose when evidence is obtained in a state other than the prosecuting forum is one that has generated a great deal of debate, with compelling arguments on both sides. . .We have found no hard-and-fast rule under Florida law. . .Regardless, we need not weigh in on that debate now because even under the Florida law that Miller advocated and the trial court applied, suppression was unwarranted." State v. Miller, 2D17-4922 (10/16/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Claim that restitution order was unlawfully entered because the Defendant was neither present nor noticed cannot be raised under R.3.800, only under R.3.850. Under R.3.850, where the facts on which the claim is predicated were unknown to the movant or the movant's attorney and could not have been ascertained by the exercise of due diligence the motion can be asserted after the two year limit. Heare v. State, 2D18-2630 (10/16/19)

GRAND THEFT-VALUATION: Court may not reduce the verdict from first degree grand theft to third degree grand theft based on valuation where the Defendant waived consideration of lesser included and invited error. Banks v. State, 2D17-3206 (10/16/19)

THREATS TO SCHOOL: Cyber-threat to shoot up a school is not 1st Amendment or Article 1, §4 protected speech. O.P.-G. v. State, 3D18-1304 (10/16/19)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/539150/6085353/file/181304_809_10162019_10064835_i.pdf

DISRUPTION OF SCHOOL: Off-campus conduct (cyber threats) falls within purview of statute punishing school disruption. Section 877.13(1) penalizes behavior, regardless of where initiated, that creates a foreseeable risk of substantial disruption within a school. O.P.-G. v. State, 3D18-1304 (10/16/19)

DISCOVERY: An incomplete police report which omits additional inculpatory information does not warrant a new trial where the defense did not request a continuance or other relief, and the witness with the additional information did not testify. O.P.-G. v. State, 3D18-1304 (10/16/19)

ARGUMENT-BOLSTERING: Argument that the phone record evidence would corroborate the victim's testimony is not bolstering. Improper bolstering is when the government vouches for the credibility of the witness. Molina v. State, 3D18-2502 (10/16/19)

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-MENTAL DISORDER: Mental health condition for which defendant requires treatment does not have to be connected to the criminal conduct to justify a downward departure. Geliga v. State, 4D18-1984 (10/16/19)

BENCH CONFERENCE: Failure to allow the Defendant to be present at a bench conference is not fundamental error, and thus will not be entertained on appeal when no contemporaneous objection was lodged. Further, no adverse ruling resulted from the bench conference. Rodriguez v. State, 4D18-2988 (10/16/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-EXTENSION: Defendant is entitled to an extension of time to file his first 3.850 motion when a hurricane caused flood destroyed his legal documents. "Like other biblical calamities, hurricanes and floods that impact a person's ability to timely file a post-conviction motion constitute good cause for an extension to file." Kovacs v. State, 4D19-1150 (10/16/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-EXPERT TESTIMONY-STANDARD OF REVIEW: When an indigent defendant demonstrates to the trial judge that his sanity at the time of the offense is to be a significant factor at trial, and he is not given sufficient time for a psychiatrist to help the defense evaluate, prepare, and help present a defense, the Defendant is entitled to a new sentencing hearing. Structural errors in a trial, such as denial of the right to counsel or a mental health expert, are not subject to harmless error analysis, but rather are presumptively harmful. McWilliams v. Commissioner, No. 13013906 (11th Cir. 10/15/19)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201313906.rem.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-FEDERAL-JURISDICTION: Defendant needs appellate court approval to file a successive motion for post-conviction relief in the District Court. District Court lacks jurisdiction to entertain an issue beyond that for which the Court of Appeal allowed a successive motion for post-conviction relief. United States v. Pearson, No. 2017-14619 (11th Cir. 10/15/19).

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201714619.pdf

SENTENCING PACKAGE DOCTRINE: The "sentencing package doctrine" "is not so much a doctrine as it is a common judicial practice grounded in a basic notion of how sentencing decisions are made in cases involving multiple counts of conviction. . . which requires a court to craft an overall sentence-the 'sentence package'-that reflects the guidelines and the relevant [18 U.S.C.] § 3553(a) factors." If a sentence is vacated on one of the component counts, the district court should be free to reconstruct the sentencing package to ensure that the overall sentence remains consistent with the guidelines, the § 3553(a) factors, and the court's view concerning the proper sentence in light of all the circumstances. United States v. Pearson, No. 2017-14619 (11th Cir. 10/15/19).

COMPETENCY: Once a court has reasonable grounds to question a defendant's competency, it must hold a competency hearing and make an independent determination on whether the defendant is competent to proceed. Defense counsel's representation that the Defendant had been found competent based on an expert's evaluation is insufficient. Williams v. State, 1D17-5399 (10/11/19)

LESSER INCLUDED-VALUATION: Court may not reduce the offense of conviction from first-degree grand theft to third-degree grand theft where the Defendant affirmatively waived consideration of any lesser included and the evidence supported a finding that the property stolen exceeded hundred thousand dollars in value. Banks v. State, 2D17-3206 (10/11/19)

SENTENCE-CONSECUTIVE: Court may not order that sentence for contempt of court be served consecutively to an anticipated sentence in the pending case. Hernandez v. State, 2D18-4310 (10/11/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-RENTAL CAR: Defendant who is not on the rental car agreement nevertheless has a right of privacy in it. Defendant did not have standing to contest the placement of the GPS (which had been authorized by the confidential informant who rented the car), but he did have standing to challenge the tracking of his movements. An individual who borrows a vehicle with the owner's consent has a legitimate expectation of privacy in the vehicle and standing to challenge its search while it is in his possession. Nonetheless, the search is lawful based on a reliable tip that the Defendant was going to rob the McDonald's which was in fact robbed. Strong v. State, 5D18-1638 (10/11/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SELF-DEFENSE: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to argue that Defendant had no duty to retreat where some evidence supported the jury's finding that the Defendant was the initial aggressor. Counsel was not ineffective for failing to file a Stand Your Ground motion or the trial court would have denied it, anyway. Fields v. State, 5D18-2786 (10/11/19)

RESENTENCING-SCORESHEET ERROR: When one count is vacated on the Defendant's motion for post-conviction relief, Defendant must be resentenced under the new sentencing scoresheet, regardless whether the Court could have impose the same sentence. Pierce v. State, 5D19-1123 (10/11/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that trial counsel incorrectly told him that he would receive a sentence concurrent with a sentence imposed in another county. Rouse v. State, 5D19-2119 (10/11/19)

JOA-FAILURE TO REGISTER: Defendant cannot be convicted of failure to register in absence of proof that he had ever established his residence in the county of the prosecution. The general rule is where an offense may be committed in various ways, the evidence must establish it to have been committed in the manner charged in the indictment. Demus v. State, 4D17-3497 (10/10/19)

APPEALS-JURISDICTION: Jurisdictional allegation that the case "may present federal issues," is legally insufficient to establish supreme court jurisdiction of discretionary review based on conflicts between circuits. Mallet v. State, SC19-1038 (10/10/19)

EXPERT-RETROGRADE EXTRAPOLATION: State properly used retrograde extrapolation to deduce that the Defendant's .027 BAL was above .08 at the time of her boating accident. The lack of complete information upon which the retrograde extrapolation was made goes to the weight, not to the admissibility, of the opinion evidence. Vitiello v. State, 5D17-3834 (10/4/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Appellate counsel for the Defendant was not ineffective for failing to argue that the amendment to the Stand Your Ground law applied retroactively. Appellate counsel is not required to anticipate changes in the law." The ineffectiveness of appellate counsel cannot be based upon the failure of counsel to assert a theory of law which was not at the time of the appeal fully articulated or established in the law." Moradi v. State, 5D18-3723 (10/4/19)

VOP: Evidence that PO knocked on the Defendant's door and called his phone is insufficient to sustain a finding that Defendant violated probation by being away from his home. "[T]he approach of simply knocking on the door and then declaring a violation when no one answers provides strong potential defenses to the person being supervised. If the supervising officer truly believes that a person under supervision is not home, it would behoove that officer to acquire evidence that corroborates the alleged absence from the residence." Brown v. State, 2D18-1892 (10/4/19)

REMAND: Erroneous jury instruction on lesser included instruction for second degree murder did not warrant a new trial for the second count of attempted second degree murder. "We sympathize with the post conviction court's effort to interpret our admittedly ambiguous opinion in the prior appeal, but we agree with the State that we did not authorize a new trial on the attempt charge." State v. Pharisien, 2D18-4254 (10/4/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: In hearing on motion for post conviction relief, affidavit by co-defendant who had already been convicted of the murder, for which he took sole responsibility, but who refused to confirm the truthfulness of the affidavit at the hearing, is properly excluded. Dailey v. State, SC18-557 (10/3/19)

COMPETENCY: Court commits fundamental error by failing to conduct a competency hearing after his attorney requested a competency evaluation and the trial court appointed an expert, as well as failing to make an individualized finding as to his competency, before the trial court accepted Walker's plea. Walker v. State, 1D18-372 (10/3/19)

COMPETENCY: Court commits fundamental error in finding that Appellant was competent to proceed based on defense counsel's stipulation where there is no indication that the trial court reviewed the expert's report, made an independent determination that Appellant's competency had been restored, or entered a written order to that effect. Peterson v. State, 1D18-1416 (10/3/19)

CERTIFIED LEGAL INTERN: Finding that Child violated conditions of PTI is vacated where the Child was represented by a certified legal intern, but no executed written consent form accepting representation by a non-lawyer exists. C.C.J. v. State, 2D17-113 (10/2/19)

VIOLENT FELONY OFFENDER OF SPECIAL CONCERN: The VFOSC statute requires that the Court must make written findings as to whether the individual is a danger to the community, but because a defendant's designation as a VFOSC does not depend on a finding that the defendant poses a danger to the community, a trial court's failure to make written findings does not entitle the defendant to have the VFOSC designation stricken. Rather, the court's conclusion that a VFOSC poses a danger to the community is what compels revocation. McCray v. State, 2D18-1541 (10/2/19)

ILLEGAL SENTENCE: Upon motion to correct illegal sentence, Defendant's negotiated twenty-year sentence for robbery as a Prison Releasee Offender must be vacated because the maximum for that offense is 15 years. Morell v. State, 2D18-3683 (10/2/19)

MEDICAL RECORDS-INVESTIGATIVE SUBPOENAS: State is not entitled to the medical records of a highly intoxicated suspect at the hospital following a car crash who chanted "No blood for police, no blood for police." In order to procure an investigative subpoena for medical records in a potential DUI case, the State must show a nexus between the medical records the State seeks and some material issue in the case by (1) identifying some theory that reasonably makes the records relevant and (2) producing some evidence that makes it reasonable to expect that the records will produce evidence that supports the theory. Leka v. State, 2D18-5095 (10/2/19)

SPEEDY TRIAL: Speedy trial period is lawfully extended based on the unavailability of a critical witness due to an unexpected and serious medical condition. Robinson v. State, 3D18-0916 (10/2/19)

WILLIAMS RULE: Unless the Court has made a definitive ruling on the admissibility of Williams Rule evidence, a contemporaneous objection to the evidence must be made. Court's failure to give a limiting instruction upon admission of Williams Rule evidence is not reversible error where the Defendant did not request the limiting instruction. Lubin v. State, 3D18-1461 (10/2/19)

APPEALS: Defendant may not appeal a nonfinal order granting leave to amend a facially insufficient post-conviction motion. However, the trial court should include in its order a statement that "the defendant has no right to appeal the order until entry of the final order" in order to avoid needless unwarranted appeals. Moore v. State, 3D19-1610 (10/2/19)

TESTIMONY PLAY BACK: All testimony read or played back during deliberations must be done in open court in the presence of all parties. Court may not remove the attorneys and defendant from the courtroom during the playback. Strachan v. State, 4D18-868 (10/2/19)

VOIR DIRE LIMITATION: Court erred in limiting Defendant's voir dire to 55 minutes, when there remained other issues for the Defendant to cover, particularly where, as here, defense counsel used his time "very wisely," articulated the grounds he still wanted to cover, and based the amount of time for the defendant solely on the amount of time used by the state. "[I]nflexibility in the amount of time provided for voir dire is not a wise path upon which to continue to travel. . .Any extension of time would have been far less than the many hours which both sides' appellate counsel spent on this appeal, and many days less than the amount of time which will be necessary to try this case again." Strachan v. State, 4D18-868 (10/2/19)

VOIR DIRE: "A trial judge cannot question prospective jurors on such crucial areas as the presumption of innocence, the State's burden of proof, and the defendant's right not to testify, and then prevent counsel from further examination under the guise that it would be repetitive." Strachan v. State, 4D18-868 (10/2/19)

HEARSAY-TEXT MESSAGE: Text message saying "b usually gut n with the deepest pockets, my stupid (unintelligible) tried to fall in love" is not hearsay because it is not offered for the truth of the matter asserted, but rather to show the effect on the Defendant, who felt threatened and thus justified in defending himself later. "Even if the trial court did not understand the third text to be a threat, that was a question for the jury, not the trial court, in determining the credibility of the defendant's self-defense claim." Strachan v. State, 4D18-868 (10/2/19)

SELF DEFENSE-LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES: Where applicable, Court's instructions to the jury should make clear that the self-defense instructions apply to lesser included offenses as well as the main offense. Strachan v. State, 4D18-868 (10/2/19)

SENTENCING-SCORESHEET: If a defendant commits, but is not convicted of, a collateral crime before committing the instant crimes, the sentencing court still may consider the collateral crime in rendering sentence for the instant crimes, if the defendant has been convicted of the collateral crime before sentencing for the instant crimes. The earlier offense should be scored as a prior record. Fox v. State, 4D18-1374 (10/2/19)

GRAMMAR-LAST ANTECEDENT DOCTRINE: Relative and qualifying words, phrases and clauses are to be applied to the words or phrase immediately preceding, and are not to be construed as extending to, or including, others more remote only where no contrary intention appears. WILLIAMS RULE: In Defendant's kidnapping case, Court properly admitted evidence of similar kidnappings committed by the Defendant a month before. Mann v. State, 4D18-1921 (10/2/19)

JOA-LEAVING SCENE OF ACCIDENT INVOLVING DEATH: State need only show that Defendant knew or should have known that an a person was injured, not that he had died. Manhard v. State, 1D17-5010 (10/1/19)

silent. “[T]he comment regarding Appellant’s invocation of his right to remain silent was to inform the second officer that he could not ask Appellant any questions” and “did not create any error to the extent that a guilty verdict could not have been obtained without the assistance of the alleged error.” Manhard v. State, 1D17-5010 (10/1/19)

EVIDENCE-PHOTO IDENTIFICATION: Use of a single photograph for identification is not unduly suggestive where the witness had an independent familiarity with the defendant such as here where the witness had bought drugs from the Defendant before. Lynn v. State, 1D18-3816 (10/1/19)

SEPTEMBER 2019

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Flight, standing alone, is insufficient to form the basis of a resisting without violence charge. Where there is a command to stop, there must be evidence that the individual actually heard it (or perceived it, if it was nonverbal) and that the individual understood that the command was directed at him. Officers activation of lights and the yelp of a siren is insufficient to infer that a bicyclist knew he was being ordered to stop. Goodman v. State, 2D181632 (9/27/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PAT DOWN: Pat down based on attempting to avoid the initial stop, appearing nervous, placing his bicycle between himself and the officer, sitting down on the curb and hunching over as if to conceal something is unlawful. Goodman v. State, 2D18-1632 (9/27/19)

POSSESSION OF CONVEYANCE FOR TRAFFICKING: Defendant is properly convicted of possession of a conveyance for trafficking in narcotics where he transported the drugs in his van, actually sold the drugs while in his vehicle, and delivered the drugs from within his vehicle to the C.I. Vehicle does not have to be modified like Walter White's meth lab RV in Breaking Bad. Norwood v. State, 5D18-3077 (9/27/19)

COMPETENCY: "It is unclear how a trial court should make an independent determination of competency. Certainly, the first step should be reviewing the expert's report. However, the record often does not provide a clear picture of whether the trial court has done so. Such is our predicament in this case." Remanded for a nunc pro tunc determination of competency. Yancy v. State, 5D18-3544 (9/27/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Defendant is entitled to a hearing beyond the two year limit based on newly discovered evidence that there existed a plea offer which was never communicated to him. Taylor v. State, 5D19-766 (9/27/19)

COMPETENCY-INVOLUNTARY COMMITMENT: Court may not involuntarily commit Defendant when experts noted that Defendant suffered from an intellectual disability and had a history of ADHD and bipolar disorder, but neither expert opined that he was incompetent due to mental illness nor met the criteria for competency restoration. DCF v. Rodriguez Virella, 5D19-1026 (9/27/19)

BRADY: Unsigned rambling letter read at Defendant's sentencing hearing blaming hm for the victim's death is not Brady evidence. Frasch v. State, 1D17-754 (9/25/19)

HEARSAY: Heated conversation in which the victim is heard on speakerphone saying that "You are my husband" and another is heard saying "I will kill you," is admissible because the second speaker did not deny being the husband and thus is an adoptive admission of identity. Error, if any, is harmless. Frasch v. State, 1D17-754 (9/25/19)

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE: Court did not abuse discretion in denying the Defendant's request to withdraw a previous peremptory challenge. Frasch v. State, 1D17-754 (9/25/19)

TAMPERING WITH A WITNESS IN A FIRST-DEGREE FELONY INVESTIGATION: Defendant is properly convicted of Tampering with a Witness as a First-Degree Felony where the (burglary with a battery) is a First-Degree Felony, notwithstanding that he is acquitted of the underlying charge. The Level of offense for Tampering with a Witness equates with the charge investigated, not with the charge of conviction. "The Legislature did not provide for any such adjustment to the offense level of witness tampering in light of the ultimate verdict." Williams v. State, 1D18-661 (9/25/19)

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court cannot downward depart based on conflicts in the evidence and that the facts of this case do not support the ultimate sentence. "A trial court's personal view of the evidence and a defendant's guilt are not legally valid reasons for a downward departure." Williams v. State, 1D18-661 (9/25/19)

CONTEMPT-DIRECT: Court improperly found Defendant in contempt of court for filing fraudulent liens on the property that was the subject of Appellant's claim and on the property named in the liens the court had found through its own research. Court may not find Defendant in direct criminal contempt based on filings that were not before the court and on conduct not committed in the Court's presence. Plummer v. State, 1D18-1309 (9/25/19)

APPEAL-BELATED: It is generally insufficient for a special master to recommend a belated appeal based simply on its finding the State does not object to the petition, but State's lack of objection may be viewed as an admission of the allegations in the petition. Belated appeal granted. Pelham v. State, 1D19-1010 (9/25/19)

RESENTENCING-PSI: Upon resentencing, the Court must conduct a full resentencing hearing, including considering the PSI, rather than merely relying on evidence from the earlier sentencing hearing. Heatley v. State, 2D-16-4562 (9/25/19)

APPEAL- CERTIORARI-OTHER CRIMES, WRONGS, OR ACTS: State is entitled to certiorari review of trial court's exclusion of collateral crime evidence insects case. Evidence of a collateral act of child molestation is relevant under the Williams rule to corroborate the victim's testimony in both familial and nonfamilial child molestation cases. State v. SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Stop of person apparently sleeping in a running car at the key code security gate of a complex who is disoriented when encountered is lawful. An investigatory stop must be based upon all the circumstances, including the officer's objective observations, information from police reports, if such are available, and consideration of the modes or patterns of operation of certain kinds of lawbreakers, and must raise a suspicion that the particular individual being stopped is engaged in wrongdoing. "The process does not deal with hard certainties, but with probabilities." State v. Welch, 2D17-4520 (9/20/19)

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Defendant is entitled to conflict-free counsel when moving to withdraw plea based on allegation that counsel performed deficiently in advising him. Angeles v. State, 2D18-1870 (9/20/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-FRESH PURSUIT-STOP BAR: Because stop bar was in city limits (though the intersection was not), Defendant's crossing over the stop bar to see if it was safe to make a right turn on red was in city limits, justifying Orlando Police officer in pursuing the Defendant into unincorporated county. Jones v. State, 5D18-3375 (9/20/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-AUTOMOBILE: Officers may not search Defendant's car incident to arrest for fleeing and eluding when he is apprehended outside his parked car. Nonetheless, conviction for possession or drugs found in the car is affirmed when appellate counsel failed to argue that the automobile exception did not apply. Defendant may re-raise the issue by motion for post-conviction relief. Jones v. State, 5D18-3375 (9/20/19)

ARGUMENT: Court erred in prohibiting counsel for the Defendant from arguing that, had it been tested, the Defendant's fingerprints would not have been found on the baggie of meth. Turner v. State, 5D18-3772 (9/20/19)

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Upon resentencing, Court must give the same credit for time served as was previously awarded. Court may not sua sponte rescind jail credit previously awarded at any time even if the initial award was improper. Cummings v. State, 1D17-5191 (9/18/19)

QUOTATION: "It cannot be ignored that Cummings is serving a mandatory life sentence plus thirty years imprisonment. It is, at best, unclear whether Cummings will see any benefit from an additional thirty-four days of jail credit on this life-plus-thirty sentence. . . Courts and litigants seeking real relief may be better off if these claims were limited to ones where the defendant could actually receive a real benefit." Cummings v. State, 1D17-5191 (9/18/19)

JURY INSTRUCTION-FELONY MURDER: In homicide case where mother left her discarded newborn baby in a trash bag outside in cold weather and was convicted of first-degree murder under a general verdict, either premeditated murder or murder by child abuse, jury instruction which included instructing the jury on torture and caging the child as part of aggravated child abuse, is proper. An infant in a trash bag can be caging. Being left in the cold can be torture. Crowell v. State, 1D18-2039 (9/18/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Plea colloquy in which the Defendant said that counsel had reviewed all possible defenses with his attorney is insufficient, standing alone, to refute his claim that counsel failed to advise him of the insanity defense. Bartletto v. State, 1D18-3306 (9/18/19)

COMPETENCY: Once a court has reasonable grounds to question a defendant's competency, it must hold a competency hearing and make an independent determination on whether the defendant is competent to proceed. A.D.H., v.State, 18-4953 (9/18/19)

SPEEDY TRIAL: Child's prior announcement of an intent to enter a plea of guilty or nolo contendere is a valid basis for the denial of his motion for discharge for speedy trial violation when he backed out of pleaing at the last minute. Continuance is properly charged to the Child. A.L. v. State, 3D18-1848 (9/18/19)

EVIDENCE: Photos of the Defendant holding a similar gun on another occasion is inadmissible in armed robbery case absent evidence that the gun is the same one used in the robbery, or has any distinct features or meaningful details linking it to the crime. Beard v. State, 4D18-159 (9/18/19)

APPEAL-MOOTNESS: Argument that Court improperly sentenced him to prison where he has fewer than 22 points on scoresheet and there is no jury finding of dangerousness is meritorious by moot when Defendant has already completed his sentence. Casiano v. State, 4D18-3255 (9/18/19)

RESENTENCING: Court may not vacate its previous resentencing order which allowed judicial review, in accord with Atwell, based on Atwell being later receded from. The earlier order granting resentencing became final when neither party moved for rehearing or appealed that order. The decisional law effective at the time of the resentencing applies. Jones v. State, 4D18-3589 (9/18/19)

RESENTENCING: Court is not required to resentence Defendant where Atwell, on which the Defendant relied in seeking resentencing, had been receded from. This case is distinguished from Jones v. State, decided the same day. Davis v. State, 4D19-618 (9/18/19)

EVIDENCE-EXPERT: State is entitled to present a doctor to testify as an expert that Defendant's actions in prescribing oxycontin was not in good faith in accord with proper professional practices. "The right to call witnesses is one of the most important due process rights of a party and accordingly, the exclusion of the testimony of expert witnesses must be carefully considered and sparingly done." State v. Sills, 4D19-1585 (9/18/19)

SENTENCE-VINDICTIVENESS: 20 year sentence after trial, and after Court had proposed a cap of eight years for a plea before trial, is not vindictive. There is no presumption of vindictiveness in all cases in which a judge participates in failed plea negotiations, and then sentences the defendant more severely than the sentence contemplated. Court's efforts to facilitate plea negotiations do not compel a conclusion of vindictive sentencing. Discussion of when a sentence is vindictive. Evans v. State, 2D18-515 (9/13/19)

THEFT-VALUE: State fails to establish that the value of the stolen cell phone is in excess of $100 where it did not present direct testimony of value or, alternatively, evidence of: (1) original market cost; (2) manner in which property was used; (3) condition of property; and (4) percentage of depreciation of property since purchase). T.D. v. State, 5D18-773 (9/13/19)

JOA: Where there is contradictory and conflicting testimony, weight of evidence and witness's credibility are questions solely for jury. Conflicting testimony should not be determined on motion for judgment of acquittal. Anglero v. State, 5D18-1289 (9/13/19)

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: A certified document that demonstrates Appellant was released from a Connecticut correctional institution within three years of the instant offense does not establish that Defendant was released from a prison sentence instead of from temporary detention. PRR sentence remanded for resentencing without prejudice. Alterisio v. State, 5D18-1821 (9/13/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: An attorney's failure to move to suppress damaging evidence due to a lack of factual investigation or legal research can constitute deficient performance. Defendant is entitled to having his plea vacated where counsel failed to advise him that he had a valid motion to suppress, and the evidence indicated that he would have prevailed on a motion to suppress based on improper Terry stop. Madison v. Florida, 5D18-3663 (9/13/19)

EVIDENCE-CREDIBILITY: The finder of fact is not required to believe the testimony of any witness, even if unrebutted. Hernandez v. Cardenas, 5D19418 (9/13/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant filed an unsworn motion for post-conviction relief, Court must give him an opportunity to correct the deficiency. Acevedo-Soto v. State, 5D19-555 (9/13/19)

SCORESHEET: Where a conviction is vacated due to a double jeopardy violation, the Defendant should be properly sentenced under a scoresheet that does not include points for that vacated conviction. Termitus v. State, 19-583 (9/13/19)

TRUANCY: By statute, the superintendent may sign a truancy petition herself without an attorney signing it. Jenkins v. M.F., 5D19-595 (9/13/19)

https://www.5dca.org/content/download/536809/5961199/file/190595_1260_0 9132019_08432918_i.pdf

SENTENCING-PLEA AGREEMENT: Court may sentence Defendant to consecutive probation where plea agreement is for a recommendation not to impose probation. The Court is not bound by the recommendation. Jennings v. State, 1D17-4006 (9/12/19)

SENTENCE-CONCURRENT-FEDERAL AND STATE: Defendant may not withdraw his plea where his agreement was for him to serve twenty years in state custody concurrent with the ten years he was already serving in federal prison, but he was later transferred to state custody so that his total incarceration would be 30 years. An order providing that a state sentence is to be served concurrently with a federal sentence is really only a recommendation and the discretion to determine how and where the sentence would be served belonged to the Department of Corrections. Johnson v. State, 1D17-5170 (9/12/19)

EVIDENCE: Facebook photo of the Defendant holding a gun consistent with that used in the crime is admissible. Barnes v. State, 3D17-1979 (9/11/19)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Where verdict form and charging document alleged only that the acts of solicitation of a minor via computer and traveling to meet a minor occurred only within a single broad time frame, leaving open the possibility that they only occurred once, double jeopardy precludes being convicted of both, notwithstanding that the evidence supported separate acts. Howard v. State,1D17-1520 (9/9/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to post conviction relief for failure of counsel to call three witnesses who were not clearly exculpatory but would have undermined the State's witnesses where the Defendant agreed at trial to the witnesses not being called. Burkhalter v. State, 1D17-2193 (9/9/19)

CONSPIRACY: Defendant properly convicted of conspiracy to commit murder where he planned the murder of former prisoner who had bit a correctional officer and fellow Klansman by having a CI working undercover for the FBI inject the victim with a fatal dose of insulin, feign a fishing accident, chop up the body, and or/shoot him, and where the Defendant gloated over the fake picture of the dead body ("Ha-ha, oh, shit. Ha-ha, oh, shit. I love it . . . . good job."). Moran v. State, 1D17-4074 (9/9/19)

CONSPIRACY: Defendant properly convicted of conspiracy to commit murder where he planned the murder of former prisoner who had bit a correctional officer and fellow Klansman by having a CI working undercover for the FBI inject the victim with a fatal dose of insulin, feign a fishing accident, chop up the body, and or/shoot him, and where the co-defendant gloated over the fake picture of the dead body ("Ha-ha, oh, shit. Ha-ha, oh, shit. I love it . . . . good job.") The Defendant's participation is sufficient to establish the he participated in the crime with the CI. Newcomb v. State, 1D17-4440 (9/9/19)

RESENTENCING: Court may re-sentence the Defendant to the same sentence as before on remand from appeal where, as here, the defendant was afforded due process. Salowitz v. State, 1D17-4858 (9/9/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/536422/5956725/file/174858_1284_0 9092019_09103256_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Claims of trial error cannot be raised on a motion for post-conviction relief. Errors must be raised on direct appeal. Dunn v. State, 1D17-5278 (9/9/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/536423/5956737/file/175278_1284_0 9092019_09132813_i.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVATION: Defendant's objection to photo lineup as unduly suggestive is not preserved for appeal when the issue is not clearly raised before the trial court. Jones v. State, 1D18-1425 (9/9/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/536424/5956749/file/181425_1284_0 9092019_09143542_i.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: Life sentence as PRR is not unconstitutional as cruel or unusual merely because the predicate offense was committed when the Defendant was fifteen years old. Singleton v. State, 1D18-2227 (9/9/19)

COMPETENCY: Court may not merely rely on expert evaluations that the Defedant is competent before sentencing the Defendant. The Court must make an independent determination of competency. Bowden v. State, 1D18-2676 (9/9/19)

MOTION TO DISMISS: Court cannot grant a 3.190(c)(4) motion to dismiss where the only evidence is Defendant's DNA from blood found on a shirt weeks after the burglary. A trial court cannot dismiss criminal charges because it concludes that the case will not survive a motion for judgment of acquittal. Even if the state's evidence is all circumstantial, whether it excludes all reasonable hypotheses of innocence may only be decided at trial; the issue cannot be resolved by a rule 3.190(c)(4) motion to dismiss. State v. Fay, 2D18-933 (9/6/19)

DEATH PENALTY-INSTRUCTIONS: Jury must be instructed that the aggravating factors for the death penalty must be found beyond a reasonable doubt, but not that those factors outweigh the mitigating circumstances beyond a reasonable doubt. Rogers v. State, SC18-150 (9/5/19)

EVIDENCE: Letters which the Defendant wrote characterizing himself as a ruthless, cold-blooded, cutthroat gangster are admissible in guilt and penalty phases of death case. Rogers v. State, SC18-150 (9/5/19)

MITIGATING CIRCUMSTANCES: In imposing death penalty, Court need not expressly articulate why the evidence presented warranted the allocation of a certain weight to a mitigating circumstance. Rogers v. State, SC18-150 (9/5/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to object to a jury instruction that the Defendant was not entitled to use deadly force in self-defense if he was engaged in unlawful activity (a misstatement of law at the time). Counsel's ignorance of the law is per se ineffective. However, "to the extent that Mr. Bolduc's claim is based solely on counsel's failure to object to the reading of a standard jury instruction, the claim may be dead on arrival under existing law concerning whether such a failure could ever constitute deficient performance." Bolduc v. State, 2D18-2734 (9/4/19)

EVIDENCE-WILLIAMS RULE: In robbery/murder case, evidence of a separate robbery in close temporal proximity and at the same restaurant chain, conducted with a similar modus operandi is admissible. Silver v. State, 3D172320 (9/4/19)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/536239/5955184/file/172320_ 809_09042019_03061012_i.pdf

HEARSAY-INESCAPABLE INFERENCE: The rule of exclusion of evidence which gives rise to an inescapable inference that a non-testifying witness implicated the Defendant does not apply when the witness testifies. Silver v. State, 3D17-2320 (9/4/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: The defendant must show that there is a reasonable probability that, but for counsel's unprofessional errors, the result of the proceeding would have been different. When a defendant fails to make a showing as to one prong, it is not necessary to delve into whether he has made a showing as to the other prong. Williams v. State, 3D18-1547 (9/4/19)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/536209/5954776/file/181547_ 809_09042019_10425433_i.pdf

MANDATORY MINIMUM: Three year mandatory minimum for possession of a firearm does not apply absent a jury finding that the Defendant personally possessed the firearm. Allen v. State, 3D-18-2375 (9/4/19)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/536212/5954812/file/182375_ 811_09042019_10523833_i.pdf

MANDATORY MINIMUM-FIREARM-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES: Consecutive sentencing of mandatory minimum imprisonment terms for multiple firearm offenses is impermissible if the offenses arose from the same criminal episode and a firearm was merely possessed but not discharged. If, however, multiple firearm offenses are committed contemporaneously, during which time multiple victims are shot at, then consecutive sentencing is permissible but not mandatory. Hernandez v. State, 3D19-0091 (9/4/19)

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF APPELLATE COUNSEL: Because appellate counsel was ineffective for failure to argue improper imposition of consecutive mandatory minimum sentences, which would have placed the case in the pipeline for reversal, Defendant is entitled to resentencing. Hernandez v. State, 3D19-0091 (9/4/19)

COMPETENCY: Court must hold competency hearing once counsel has raised the issue of the Defendant's mental competency. Court may make a retrospective determination. Gresham v. State, 5D18-124 (8/30/19)

VOP-HEARSAY: Defendant cannot be found to have violated probation based on his probation officer's testimony that the Defendant had been discharged from the treatment program for fighting, when the probation officer did not witness the fight. Evidence is hearsay. Cote v. State, 5D18-1562 (8/30/19)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-KIDNAPPING-MULTIPLE COUNTIES: Double jeopardy precludes multiple convictions for kidnapping when the victim is transported over county lines. When there is no temporal break in the victim's confinement, there is only one single criminal episode of kidnapping. Pursuant to the distinct acts test, a single criminal impulse may be punished only once no matter how long the action may continue. Watkins v. State, 5D18-3302 (8/30/19)

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Regardless of whether judge ruled correctly in denying as legally deficient the motion for disqualification, disqualification is required whenever the judge rules on the truth of the facts alleged. When a judge looks beyond the mere legal sufficiency of the motion and attempts to refute the charges of partiality, he has exceeded the proper scope of his inquiry and that basis alone establishes grounds for his disqualification. Novo v. State, 5D19-2290 (8/30/19)

MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE-FINDING BY JURY: Judge, not jury, may determine whether a life sentence is appropriate under the statutory factors in §921.1401. Serrano v. State, 1D17-3669 (8/30/19)

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: Eighth Amendment does not prohibit courts from considering victim-impact evidence in sentencing proceeding for minor facing life imprisonment for homicide. A Miller-type juvenile sentencing hearing is not the functional equivalent of a capital sentencing proceeding so that the categorical exclusion of victim-impact evidence is not required. Serrano v. State, 1D17-3669 (8/30/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-TIMELINESS-MAILBOX RULE: Court may not rely upon the case docket in denying 3.850 motion as untimely. Under the mailbox rule, a petition by a pro se inmate is deemed filed at the moment in time when the inmate loses control over the document by entrusting its further delivery or processing to agents of the state. Court's suspicion of altered dates does not defeat consideration of the motion. Snodgrass III v. State, 1D184581 (8/30/19)

PROBATION-JURISDICTION: Defendant who was lawfully sentenced on various counts stacked counts to three years of prison followed by twelve years of probation (originally ending in 2022), after various violations, cannot be sentenced to five years in prison and two years of probation concurrently on the remaining third degree felonies. Absent imposition of consecutive sentences, jurisdiction cannot extend beyond five years combined. McLendon v. State, 1D19-3017 (8/30/19)

JUVENILE-JURISDICTION: Court has no jurisdiction to re-sentence a juvenile who has turned 20 years of age after his sentence is overturned on appeal for failure to consider a comprehensive evaluation. J.R. v. State, 4D19-1538 (8/28/19)

PRR-MINOR: Eighth Amendment (Graham and Miller) does not preclude imposition of a prison releasee reoffender (PRR) sentence where the predicate offenses were committed when the Defendant was under the age of eighteen. Marshall v. State, 1D17-5248 (8/23/19)

SECOND DEGREE MURDER-JOA: Shooting girlfriend while driving and not immediately seeking medical care is sufficient evidence of malicious intent and ill will to sustain a conviction for second degree murder. Holmes v. State, 1D18-1700 (8/23/19)

EVIDENCE: Evidence that the Defendant resisted arrest by holding off the SWAT team several days after the crime is admissible as evidence reflecting a consciousness of guilt. Holmes v. State, 1D18-1700 (8/23/19)

IMPEACHMENT-PAST RECORDED RECOLLECTION: Witness's sworn statement in the state attorney's office is admissible as a past recorded recollection where the witness at trial claim she did not remember certain events. Roberts v. State, 1D18-1834 (8/23/19)

JURY POLL: Verdict stands when, during the polling of the jury, one juror responded, when asked if this was her verdict, "Reluctantly." The answer merely expressed some sort of reservation about the decision, but it remained an affirmative answer. Moore v. State, 1D18-2224 (8/23/19)

EVIDENCE-VIDEO: Detective may identify Defendant from a Wal-mart video when he spent time with the Defendant after the arrest and the Defendant's appearance had changed between arrest and trial. Even non-eyewitnesses may testify as to the identification of persons depicted or heard on a recording so long as it is clear the witness is in a better position than the jurors to make those determinations. Nolan v. State, 1D18-3026 (8/23/19)

SEXUAL BATTERY-CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: The circumstantial evidence that the Defendant left the Victim's mostly nude dead body in the freezing cold with 36 stab wounds, along with his DNA (semen and blood) on and in her body, and had cut his hand on the day in question is sufficient to establish that the sex was not consensual. The general judgment of acquittal standard, not the special circumstantial evidence standard, applies where there is evidence tending to show that the defendant committed or participated in the crime. Reversed en banc. Shrader v. State, 2D13-2712 (8/23/19)

EN BANC REVIEW: Misapplication of circumstantial evidence standard in sexual battery case with a murdered victim warrants en banc review. Conflict between concepts of circumstantial evidence standard and deferring to the jury. Shrader v. State, 2D13-2712 (8/23/19)

ENTRAPMENT: For subjective entrapment, the defendant has the burden of showing that a government agent induced him to commit the charged offense and that he was not predisposed to commit it. State may use evidence of incidents which had been nolle prossed to show predisposition. Harris v. State, 5D18-1242 (8/23/19)

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court may not impose a downward departure based of sentence manipulation absent evidence that State intentionally delayed arrest until Defendant's continuing drug sales scored him mandatory prison. The mere presence of continued transactions cannot serve as competent, substantial evidence to support a finding of sentence manipulation. Washington v. State, 5D18-1698 (8/23/19)

FORFEITURE OF BOND-REMISSION: Bondsman is entitled to remission of forfeiture of bond if the Defendant is timely apprehended or bondsman cooperates in finding the Defendant. #1 Anytime Bail 24/7 Inc. v. State of Florida and Clerk of Court, 5D18-2677 (8/23/19)

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE: On the face of the record, trial counsel was ineffective for not procuring a non-deadly force self-defense instruction when he displayed but did not fire a firearm during a road rage incident. Copeland v. State, 5D18-2869 (8/23/19)

SENTENCE REVIEW-MINOR: Upon remand from the Supreme Court, no relief is warranted for the discrepancy of a minor who was prosecuted as an adult having a judicial review after 15 years for his first-degree murder conviction where there was no jury finding that he intended to kill the victim, and after 20 years for his kidnapping conviction. "[I]t is hardly this court's or the trial court's place to depart from the sentencing framework. . . explicitly ordered by the Florida Supreme Court, or to declare its remand order unconstitutional. . .Accordingly, because we conclude that Williams is essentially requesting that our court determine the Florida Supreme Court's earlier remand order to be unconstitutional, which we have no authority to do, we affirm his present sentences." Williams v. State, 5D18-3984 (8/23/19)

PLEA-VOLUNTARINESS: A plea is not rendered involuntary nor is ineffective assistance of counsel established when the defendant is not informed of every possible ramification or limitation concerning gain time or every possible reduction in time to be served. Sharma v. State, 5D19-146 (8/23/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Trial court must vacate the Defendant's R.3.800(a) asserting that she does not qualify as a habitual violent felony offender or attached records establishing that the sentence is legal on the face of the record. Ford v. State, 5D19-990 (8/23/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court may not deny as successive a motion for post conviction relief based on newly discovered evidence where the mother and brother of the victim claimed that someone else had confessed to and bragged about the murder. For determining post-conviction claims for newly discovered evidence relating to guilty pleas, the evidence must not have been known at the time of the plea, and it must appear that the defendant or defense counsel could not have known of it by the use of diligence, and the defendant must demonstrate a reasonable probability that, but for the newly discovered evidence, he would not have pled guilty and would have insisted on going to trial. George v. State, 5D19-1047 (8/23/19)

EXCLUSIONARY RULE-MEDICAL RECORDS: The exclusionary rule does not require that the Defendant's medical records acquired by a lawful search warrant must be suppressed if the police previously violated his constitutional right of privacy by subpoenaing the same records without notice. Dinkins v. State, 5D17-1567 (8/23/19)

COLLATERAL CRIMES: In a murder prosecution, evidence of a separate shooting one month before to which the Defendant had pled guilty is admissible when the gun in both instances is shown to be the same. The fact that the Defendant had moved to withdraw his plea in the earlier shooting, specifically to thwart the Williams Rule evidence, does not bar the evidence from being used. Brown v. State, 1D17-3453 (8/22/19)

SCORESHEET-OUT OF STATE CONVICTIONS: For scoresheet purposes, Court cannot base its conclusion that the Defendant's out of state conviction was for Accessory after the Fact to Murder based on printouts from South Carolina Clerk showing that the original charge was for murder, corroborated by an article, where the Judgment itself said "Accessory After the Fact to Felony A, B." When the degree of felony or severity level is ambiguous, as here,the prior conviction must be scored at level one. Taulbee v. State, 1D18-2569 (8/21/19)

VOP: Defendant is properly convicted of violating probation where the wrong condition of probation was cited but the Defendant had notice of the wrongful conduct alleged. Moxey v. State, 3D16-2563 (8/21/19)

APPEALS: In the absence of a transcript of proceedings, the Court's final judgment will be affirmed. The appellant has the burden of providing the record in dispute. Diogo v. Diogo, 3D18-1274 (8/21/19)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/535388/5945879/file/181274_ 809_08212019_10170777_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: When a defendant fails to make a showing that any ineffectiveness of counsel would have changed the result, the Court need not determine whether counsel was ineffective. McGee v. State, 3D18-1921 (8/21/19)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/535391/5945915/file/181921_ 809_08212019_10204292_i.pdf

RECKLESS DRIVING: Grossly excessive speed (85 in a 45 mph zone) resulting in a fatal accident may constitute reckless driving. Natal v. State, 4D17-1271 (8/21/19)

FIREARM-MANDATORY MINIMUM: Defendant is subject to mandatory minimum for possession of a firearm during burglary, regardless of its operability. Brown v. State, 4D17-3492 (8/21/19)

https://www.4dca.org/content/download/535377/5945741/file/173492_1708_0 8212019_09015444_i.pdf

COLLATERAL CRIMES: Court improperly admitted evidence that the Defendant punched the victim's wife sometime later (an unredacted photo lineup in which the wife in writing identified the Defendant as the one who hit her). Hudson v. State, 4D18-1715 (8/21/19)

JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE-FORCIBLE FELONY EXCEPTION: Court should not give the forcible felony exception jury instruction where there is no evidence of an underlying felony. Where the Defendant is not committing a separate felony, the instruction invites confusing circular logic. Hudson v. State, 4D18-1715 (8/21/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-GOOD FAITH EXCEPTION-GPS MONITOR: Evidence found because of the GPS Monitor which was illegally placed upon the Defendant (a clerical error by a DOC employee) upon his release from prison is not suppressible. Good Faith Exception. Maldonado v. State, 4D181909 (8/21/19)

RECORDING-PRIVACY: Victim's cell phone recording of argument in her house is admissible where Defendant knew he was being recorded. Defendant did not have a subjective expectation of privacy in his statements when he saw the cell phone in the victim's hand and knew that he was being recorded. Smiley v. State, 1D18-1792 (8/16/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/535230/5944067/file/181792_1284_0 8162019_11302868_i.pd

RECORDING-PRIVACY: Defendant has no reasonable expectation of privacy in house where he frequently stayed when he had been told to leave. Accordingly, the Victim's cell phone recording of the events in the house is admissible. Defendant's statements during argument after he had been asked to leave do not qualify as "oral communications" protected under the wiretap law because any expectation of privacy under the circumstances is not one society recognizes as reasonable. "Although society generally recognizes as reasonable an expectation of privacy in conversations conducted in a private home. . ., the reasonableness of that expectation presupposes that the speaker has permission to be there in the first place." Smiley v. State, 1D18-1792 (8/16/19)

EVIDENCE-STRIKING TESTIMONY: Court may order the Defendant's entire testimony stricken when he becomes argumentative, interrupting, and nonresponsive during cross-examination ("y'all are playing with my life. My life is no joke," "[t]hat's not burglary," etc.)" "Appellant effectively refused to answer the State's questions because his behavior precluded the State from proceeding with its cross-examination and posing further questions." Wright v. State, 1D18-1956 (8/16/19)

COLLATERAL CRIMES: Victim's testimony about additional sexual battery and multiple uncharged batteries and aggravated assaults upon her were interwoven with the charged crimes and painted an accurate account of all events, and thus were inextricably intertwined and admissible. Ansley v. State, 1D18-2091 (8/16/19)

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-CUSTODY: Defendant was not in custody when he went to the police station and confessed to a murder of which the police were unaware. Barrientos v. State, 2D14-5870 (8/16/19)

https://www.2dca.org/content/download/535193/5943611/file/145870_65081 62019_08312917_i.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-REQUEST FOR COUNSEL: "Um, when you're . . .appointed, uh, an attorney, like, isn't that when you be — being charged? When you appointed attorney?" is not a clear request for counsel in Detective's response did not constitute steamrolling. Confession is admissible. State v. Monroe, 2D18-1060 (8/16/19)

JOA-TAMPERING-CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Evidence that the Defendant in jailhouse calls asked gang members to handle a witness against him in a separate case, and the witness is later killed, is sufficient circumstantial evidence to justify the Defendant's conviction for tampering, at least if motion for judgment of acquittal is not fully articulated. Motion for Judgment of Acquittal must specifically argue that the circumstantial evidence was insufficient. Hudson v. State, 1D17-3593 (8/14/19)

SECOND DEGREE MURDER: Evidence that the Defendant shot his girlfriend with his gun against her head, then drove around with her body in the trunk for days is sufficient evidence to establish second degree murder. Mackey v. State, 1D17-4086 (8/14/19)

EVIDENCE: Evidence of the exhumation of the body of the victim who had been buried in a sleeping bag under a pile of decorative rocks is admissible to show the Defendant's state of mind, specifically, that his actions were not due to early-onset Alzheimer's. Mackey v. State, 1D17-4086 (8/14/19)

MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE-NONHOMICIDE: The fact that a minor who does not commit a homicide can be sentenced to a life sentence with a sentence review after twenty years but a minor who commits a homicide can be sentenced to a life sentence with a review after only fifteen years does not render the review statuteS arbitrary or a violation of Equal Protection. Graham v. State, 1D182664 (8/14/19)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Convictions for first-degree felony murder and aggravated battery on a law enforcement officer violate double jeopardy under the merger doctrine. The legislature did not intend dual convictions for the same lethal act. It is error to instruct the jury on a nonhomicide offense as a lesser offense to a homicide offense. Barnett v. State, 2D17-379 (8/14/19)

APPEALS-INEFFECTIVE APPELLATE COUNSEL: Appellate counsel was not ineffective for failing to argue on appeal that dual convictions for solicitation and traveling after solicitation violate double jeopardy where the case so holding (Shelley) was not decided until four months after counsel filed his initial brief. Morejon-Medina v. State, 2D18-3539 (8/14/19)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for solicitation and traveling after solicitation violate double jeopardy. In order to sustain dual convictions, the charging document itself must foreclose any possibility that the solicitation underlying the traveling charge was the same as that underlying the solicitation charge. Because double jeopardy is fundamental, one of the convictions must be vacated. Morejon-Medina v. State, 2D18-3539 (8/14/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court must give Defendant an evidentiary hearing, or attach portions of the record supporting denial, on claim that State improperly commented on his right to remain silent by arguing that the Defendant "doesn't give you a reason not to believe [the State's main witness;] he gives you a reason to believe everything [the State's main witness] says." Perez Perez v. State, 2D18-3561 (8/14/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court erred in dismissing Defendant's motion for post conviction relief on grounds that Defendant did not pay a "preparation fee" totaling $925.30 where the Defendant claims he never got the order in the record reflects that if he got it, he did not get it in a timely manner. Rogers v. State, 2D18-3799 (8/14/19)

JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE: Court does not err in failing to instruct on self-defense where there was no evidence that the defendant was protecting himself, or the only error suggesting self-defense was presented for impeachment purposes only. Hudson v. State, 3D18-500 (8/14/19)

BATTERY BY STRANGULATION: The State need not prove great bodily harm to establish the crime of domestic battery by strangulation; instead, the State can prove this crime by establishing defendant's actions created a risk of great bodily harm. Lopez-Macaya v. State, 3D18545 (8/14/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to call the codefendant as a witness. Question certified: Does a defendant have to allege a basis for knowing that an uncalled witness would testify favorably in order to present a legally sufficient claim in a Rule 3.850 motion. "It is simply too easy for a convicted defendant to make vague and very possibly speculative allegations concerning how a codefendant would testify. Requiring a defendant to. . .specify how he knows the codefendant would have testified in a certain manner places very little additional burden on the defendant." Livingston v. STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA-INTERROGATION: "[B]y the time Detective McElroy, for whatever purpose, asked Appellant, 'Okay did you fire the trigger? Or pull the trigger?' the encounter became a custodial interrogation requiring Miranda warnings. A reasonable person would conclude that Detective McElroy's yes or no question was intended to lead to an incriminating response about the specific crime." Rios v. State, 5D18-1817 (8/9/19)

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: State commits discovery violation when it discloses a witness but fails to disclose that the witness's testimony has changed or is substantially different than what the police report indicates. The State's discovery violation is not cured by the Defendant's failure to depose the witness. State commits a discovery violation when it provides the defendant with a witness's "statement" and thereafter fails to disclose that the witness intends to change that statement to such an extent that the witness is transformed from a witness who "didn't see anything" into an eyewitness who observed the material aspects of the crime charged. J.S. v. State, 2D18-1221 (7/31/19)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: An information is not fundamentally defective where it alleged two counts of violating the same statute, using identical language and relying upon the same two-year range of dates for the commission of both offenses. "Had [Defendant] believed that the time frames (or other allegations). . .were so vague and indefinite as to mislead or hamper him. . . or expose him to the possibility of multiple convictions and punishments for violating the same statute by a single act, he should have filed a motion to dismiss or for a statement of particulars." EVIDENCE-REDACTION OF INTERROGATION: False exculpatory statements of Defendant (I never knew the victim) are admissible to show consciousness of guilt. Redaction of video to delete references to other victims does not unfairly prejudice to Defendant who wishes to assert that he was mistaken as to which victim when making inculpatory statements. State v. Martin, 3D18-945 (7/31/19)

EXPERT-DAUBERT: Under Daubert, judge must determine whether purported expert testimony is scientifically valid and properly applied. Court must consider (1) whether the theory can be or has been tested; (2) whether the theory or technique has been subjected to peer review and publication; (3) the known or potential rate of error of a particular scientific technique, as well as the existence of standards controlling the technique's operation; and (4) general acceptance in the scientific community. Trooper's testimony that the vehicle was dipping down due to braking fails Daubert. Kemp v. State, 4D15-3472 (7/31/19)

VETERAN'S COURT: Is a defendant who satisfies the criteria for eligibility into veterans' court entitled to admission, or does a judge have discretion to deny admission of a case-by-case basis? Question certified. Simeone v. State, 4D18-3470 (7/31/19)

SENTENCING: Argument of Defendant (who stole a newborn infant from a Jacksonville hospital and fled to South Carolina where she raised the child) that an eighteen year old sentence is unreasonable and/or cruel and unusual punishment lacks merit. Williams v. State, 1D18-2898 (7/29/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that State committed a Giglio violation by presenting false testimony. Although inconsistencies between witnesses is not a Giglio violation, in the absence of attachments to the record rebutting the Defendant's claims, a hearing is required. Helvey v. State, 5D18-1487 (7/26/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to an evidentiary hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to object to a jury instruction on recently stolen property, and for misadvising him that, were he to testify, the jury would learn the nature of the Defendant's prior convictions. Helvey v. State, 5D18-1487 (7/26/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSENSUAL ENCOUNTER: Detention is illegal when officer orders group of youths to stop based on a (correct) hunch that they had violated court-imposed curfew. This was not a consensual encounter. Officer cannot detain a youth who said he didn't have to stop when the officer originally told him, without legal justification, to do so. N.J. v. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failure to call a computer expert to testify about how malware could lead to inadvertent downloading of child pornography. POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to advise them of the possibility of a youthful offender sentence. Redden v. State, 5D19-1369 (7/26/19)

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Victim's car is broken in to while next to the Defendant's car when the victim dropped her dogs off at the kennel. The stolen property is found in the Defendant's room and the Victim's credit card in his car. JOA required. "Although the State's evidence was sufficient to establish that a vehicle rented to Joseph was involved in the burglary, and that his fingerprints were found on papers located in the vehicle and in Wilkerson's spare bedroom, the uncontroverted evidence was that Joseph was not the only individual who used the car during the rental term or used the spare bedroom." POSSESSION OF RECENTLY STOLEN PROPERTY: State is not entitled to the inference of guilt arising from the Defendant's possession of recently stolen property where the possession is not exclusive. Joseph v. State, 5D17-3907 (7/25/19)

COSTS: Court erred in imposing FDLE Operating Trust Fund cost without orally pronouncing it. Montanez v. State, 5D18-193 (7/25/19)

MINOR-SENTENCE REVIEW: Juvenile Defendant who was originally sentenced in 1988 was entitled to a sentence review in 2019 notwithstanding that he had been resentenced in 2017, where it is not clear that in 2017 the Court actually conducted a proper sentence review. Weiand v. State, 5D19500 (7/25/19)

SEX OFFENDERS-PROBATION CONDITIONS: Condition of probation or supervised release barring Defendant from accessing the internet is lawful. Packingham, recognizing a constitutional right to internet access for sex offenders, only applies to sex offenders not on probation. Alford v. State, 2D174982 (7/24/19)

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Evidence is insufficient to establish that the Defendant burglarized and stole property from a school where a cigarette butt with the Defendant's DNA was left at the scene and the Defendant and associate were found a few weeks later in a pickup truck owned by the Defendant with some of the stolen property. An accused's mere presence at the scene does not eliminate a reasonable hypothesis that someone other than the accused committed the crime. Joint possession of the stolen property is also legally insufficient to establish guilt. "Direct evidence is evidence which requires only the inference that what the witness said is true to prove a material fact. . .Circumstantial evidence is evidence which involves an additional inference to prove the material fact." Dobbins v. State, 2D18-401 (7/24/19)

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE DEFINED: "Direct evidence is evidence which requires only the inference that what the witness said is true to prove a material fact; e.g., 'I saw A shoot B' is direct evidence that A shot B. Circumstantial evidence is evidence which involves an additional inference to prove the material fact; e.g., 'I saw A flee the scene', is circumstantial evidence of A's guilt and direct evidence of flight." Dobbins v. State, 2D18-401 (7/24/19)

LIFE FELONY: Ninety-years concurrent sentences for three life sentences is unlawful. Unless sentenced to life, the maximum for a life felony is forty years. Upon re-sentencing, Defendant may be sentenced to consecutive sentences up to ninety years. Thornton v. State, 2D18-1524 (7/24/19)

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE: White men fall under the protected class of gender. Court erred by not entertaining Defendant's objection to the State's peremptory challenge of a white man. Beal v. State, 3D17-1469 (7/24/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court may not summarily deny motion for post conviction relief on the basis of attached portions of the record without actually attaching the portions of the record. Bradshaw v. State, 3D18-1204 (7/24/19)

PLEA-WITHDRAWAL: The pressure of having to choose between entering a plea or going to trial does not render a plea involuntary. Withdrawal of the plea of nolo contendere is not warranted. Milton v. State, 3D19-370 (7/24/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant cannot seek post conviction relief by petition for habeas corpus in appellate court, particularly, where as here, the Defendant seeks to evade the trial court's prohibition on Defendant's frivolous filings. Owens v. State, 3D19-1298 (7/24/19)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/533823/5929151/file/191298_ 804_07242019_10202708_i.pdf

HEARSAY-STATEMENT AGAINST PENAL INTEREST: Co-Defendant's recorded statement to an informant, later recanted, detailing how he murdered the Defendant's girlfriend at the Defendant's request is admissible under the Statement Against Penal Interest exception to the hearsay rule, but only to the extent the statement is self-inculpating. That part of the statement that inculpates the defendant is inadmissible unless the statements are inextricably intertwined. "That part of a statement that inculpates another must be redacted. The reasons are simple: inculpating another is not a statement against the declarant's penal interest, and . . .such statements rarely have 'particularized guarantees of trustworthiness.'" Adams v. State, 4D17-966 (7/24/19)

CONFRONTATION CLAUSE: Co-Defendant's recorded statement to an informant, later recanted, detailing how he murdered the Defendant's girlfriend at the Defendant's request at the Defendant's request is not barred by the Confrontation Clause because not testimonial. Adams v. State, 4D17-966 (7/24/19)

EVIDENCE: Threatening to commit a sexual act on the co-defendant's girlfriend is not, as asserted by Defendant, "evidence only of an innocent person trying to take reasonable steps to correct an injustice." Such evidence, along with the Defendant asking co-defendant to write a letter to the defendant's attorney admitting that neither of them were involved in the crime, to say that he was just trying to impress the informant, and was trying to be a character in the defendant's book, and further telling the co-defendant that his mother did not raise him to be a rat, is evidence of consciousness of guilt. Adams v. State, 4D17-966 (7/24/19)

EVIDENCE: Recorded phone conversation between the Defendant and the Victim's Father, in which the Defendant denies being involved in the murder, and in which the Father calls the Defendant a liar five times, a punk twice, and a junkie once, and opines that the Defendant had shot his daughter, is inadmissible and warrants a new trial. Adams v. State, 4D17-966 (7/24/19)

CONFRONTATION CLAUSE/HEARSAY (CONCURRING OPINION): "To decide admissibility under a hearsay exception, reference should be made to the language of the statutory exception and not to the more general, case-bycase approach that would admit testimony based upon 'particularized guarantees of trustworthiness.' Such an approach would allow hearsay exceptions to swallow the rule against hearsay." Adams v. State, 4D17-966 (7/24/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR OF MARIJUANA: Officer who conducts a canine search based on smell of marijuana may require passenger to leave in the vehicle a pouch he is wearing which turns out to contain narcotics. State v. Tigner, 4D18-3106 (7/24/19)

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant who was waving a gun around committed the offenses of opening carrying a firearm and improper display of a firearm, and therefore was not immune from prosecution under the Stand Your Ground law when he shot the gun. The fact that the Defendant was not charged with the above offenses is irrelevant. State v. Kirkland, 5D18-3795 (7/24/19)

APPEALS-DISPOSITIVE ISSUE: When State refuses to stipulate, the Court must rule on whether an issue is dispositive. Cien Fuegos v. State, 5D18-3637 (7/23/19)

https://www.5dca.org/content/download/533788/5928713/file/183637_1252_0 7232019_02164897_i.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Defendant can be prosecuted in state court for lewd and lascivious molestation despite having been convicted for the same acts in federal court. Under the "dual-sovereignty" doctrine, an act that constitutes a crime under both federal and state law can be separately prosecuted by both sovereigns without violating the prohibition against double jeopardy because the offenses are separate. Kasper v. State, 5D19-179 (7/23/19)

SENTENCING: Defendant cannot be sentenced on four second degree felonies to concurrent sentences of twelve years in prison followed by ten years of probation (22 years of combined prison and probation). None of the counts can exceed a combined prison/probation maximum of 15 years. Jackson v. State, 5D19-305 (7/23/19)

JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE: Jury instruction providing that the defendant had no duty to retreat if he was not otherwise engaged in criminal activity–the standard instruction at the time–is not fundamental error. Absent objection, error, if any, is not preserved. Moorer v. State, 1D-1224 (7/23/19)

PRO SE MOTION: Defendant's pro se motion to withdraw plea while represented by counsel, alleging that he did not qualify as a Habitual Violent Felony Offender, is a nullity in the absence of an adversarial relationship with counsel. Howard v. State, 1D 18-3824 (7/23/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's motion for post conviction relief is properly denied when everything he says is refuted by the record. Austin v. State, 1D18-3961 (7/23/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/533785/5928671/file/183961_1284_0 7232019_02305154_i.pdf

VOP-HEARSAY: Where the state seeks to revoke probation based on the commission of a new offense, it is required to present direct, non-hearsay evidence linking the defendant to the commission of the offense. Hallman v. State, 1D18-4070 (7/23/19)

LESSER INCLUDED: Juvenile charged with aggravated battery cannot be convicted of the lesser included offense of category two lesser-included offense of improper exhibition of a dangerous weapon because the petition did not include the element of exhibiting the weapon in a "rude, careless, angry, or threatening manner." R.C.O. v. State, 1D18-4515 (7/23/19)

DISCLOSURE-THERAPIST NOTES: Defendant charged sex offense against his daughter and stepdaughter is not entitiled to the children's psychotherapist's notes. Absent a clear and unequivocal waiver of the psychotherapist-patient privilege, the compelled disclosure of the confidential therapy notes for the children is an unlawful fishing expedition. Hicks, LCSW v. State, 1D18-4527 (7/23/19)

NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Where police reports showed there was a recording of a jailhouse informant's interaction with the defendant, that recording is not newly discovered evidence. Defendant is time barred from seeking post-conviction relief more than two years after his conviction became final on the basis of that recording. Rupp v. State, 1D19-0574 (7/23/19)

CORPUS DELICTI: Testimony that the Defendant was a hunter, a good shooter, coupled with the fact that he had recently killed dead squirrels in his refrigerator, is sufficient circumstantial evidence that he possessed a gun warranting admission of his confession of ownership of the gun over his corpus delicti objection. Porter v. State, 1D17-3577 (7/22/19)

COMPETENCY: Court ordered to hold competency hearing after ignoring previous order from the appellate court to hold the hearing. "When this Court issues a mandate with specific instructions, the lower tribunal must follow those instructions, and has no discretion or authority to do otherwise." Alcazar v. State, 1D17-4462 (7/22/19)

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: At sentencing, Court did not err in considering jail calls which the State used to suggest that the Defendant had gotten other charges dropped by discouraging witnesses from testifying. Paul v. State, 1D17-5162 (7/22/19)

CRUEL OR UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT: Court is not required to consider the Defendant's mental age, rather than his chronological age. Paul v. State, 1D17-5162 (7/22/19)

CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES-MANDATORY MINIMUM: For a Defendant who is sentenced to 25 years with a 10 year minimum mandatory for a qualifying firearm defense (which by statute must be run consecutively to any nonqualifying offense) and to 15 years for a violation of probation, only the 10 year minimum mandatory must be imposed consecutively; the rest of the sentences may be imposed concurrently. "[T]he plain language of subsection (2)(d) speaks to 'any term of imprisonment provided for in this subsection.' The only terms of imprisonment provided for in subsection (2) are minimum mandatory terms." "[N]othing in section 775.087(2)(d) expressly prohibits the non-minimum mandatory component of a sentence to run concurrently to a non-qualifying sentence." Mattox v. State, 1D18-663 (7/22/19)

FLEEING AND ELUDING (DISSENT): For conviction for fleeing and eluding, what constitutes a marked patrol vehicle needs to be precisely explained and established. "No evidence establishes what the 'police logo' looked like, what it said, its size, where it was placed on the vehicle, whether it was prominently displayed, and whether it was a 'jurisdictional marking' or an 'agency insignia. Officer's testimony that the police vehicle had 'all the decals, lights and everything,' it is not enough. "And to say 'everything' is to say nothing.. . .[G]eneralized statement without details is 'like the proverbial Old Mother Hubbard' because it 'covers everything but touches nothing.'" Dupree v. State, 1D18-1084 (7/22/19)

FACTUAL BASIS: The fact that the Defendant drowned a mother and her toddler in a community swimming pool is a factual basis for second degree murder. The main purpose in ascertaining a factual basis for a plea is to prevent a defendant from mistakenly pleading to the wrong offense. Gomez v. State, 1D18-1853 (7/22/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/533700/5926619/file/181853_1284_0 7222019_11583150_i.pdf

VOP: A general conclusion that the defendant was "non-compliant" is insufficient to support a finding of violation of probation. Davis v. State, 1D184786 (7/22/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/533702/5926643/file/184786_1287_0 7222019_12012188_i.pdf

VOP: Defendant did not willfully violate probation by failing to update his address at the DHSMV where his failure to do so was because he did not have the required $31. Davis v. State, 1D18-4786 (7/22/19)

MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE-POSSIBILITY OF PAROLE: A juvenile offender's life sentence with the possibility of parole after 25 years does not violate the Eighth Amendment because the juvenile has a meaningful opportunity to receive parole. Defendant is not entitled to resentencing. Florida v. Jackson, 1D18-5224 (7/22/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-MANDAMUS: To support claim of newly discovered evidence, Defendant may use petition for writ of mandamus to compel the Public Defender's Office to provide him with a copy of report questioning the validity of tests on his hair. A defendant, when represented by a public defender, is entitled to free copies of his or her own records, including copies of all trial and hearing transcripts, motions, State discovery presented to defense counsel, and any other documents that were otherwise prepared at public expense, but not free copies of documents in the possession of the public defender if the documents were not obtained at public expense. Petition for writ of mandamus does not require an affirmative acknowledgment of an obligation to pay for copying costs. Anthony v. State, 2D18-1987 (7/19/19)

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: Defendant played with the hem of an underage girl's skirt, tried to kiss her, and otherwise acted creepily. Counsel's failure to move for judgment of acquittal on the charge of lewd and lascivious conduct is not fundamental error, and thus cannot be raised on direct appeal. Defendant may raise the issue of ineffective assistance of counsel in a 3.850 motion. Aquino v. State, 3D17-1666 (7/17/19)

DEALING IN STOLEN PROPERTY: Child is properly convicted of dealing in stolen property for selling to "fat tire" bicycles which had been stolen several days earlier where Child's explanations were not deemed believable. A.F. v. State, 3D18-1362 (7/17/19)

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: The fact that a judge has ruled adversely to the party in the past does not constitute a legally sufficient ground for a motion to disqualify. Pounds v. State, 3D19-1165 (7/17/19)

UNANIMOUS VERDICT: Information which alleges attempted murder by the alternative means of ramming his truck into the wife's SUV and thereafter stabbing her with a knife does not unlawfully invite a nonunanimous verdict based on 2 separate theories where they were both part of the same criminal episode. Cherfrere v. State, 4D13-4071 (7/17/19)

HEARSAY: Officer's testimony that a confidential informant told him that a sixfoot-tall, heavy-set black male known as Angel, who drove a two-door red Ford F-150 pickup truck, was interested in purchasing large quantities of prescription pills is inadmissible hearsay. "The State's contention that this testimony was not hearsay is simply wrong. Even if the informant's statements were not offered for their truth, they were irrelevant, because the police officer's reason for investigating appellant was immaterial." Conyers v. State, 4D17-3790 (7/17/19)

10/20/LIFE: Defendant is not subject to 10-20-Life based on causing serious bodily injury where both he and his brother fired multiple shots at the Victim with only 1 of the bullets striking him. Counsel for the Defendant was ineffective on the face of the record for failing to move for a Judgment of Acquittal. Squire v. State, 4D18-290 (7/17/19)

PROBATION-CONDITIONS: Written order of probation requiring that Defendant pay costs in equal monthly payments is unlawful when not orally pronounced nor found in any applicable statute or rule. Cordero-Callahan v. State, 4D18-2285 (7/17/19)

PROHIBITION ON PRO SE FILINGS: Court improperly barred the Defendant from making any further pro se motions while denying his Rule 3.800 motion to correct an illegal sentence without giving him an opportunity to respond. Court may not impose the sanction of barring pro se filings without allowing the defendant to respond before considering sanctions. Carrasco v. State, 4D191025 (7/17/19)

INCOMPETENT DEFENDANT-PRETRIAL DETENTION: Mentally incompetent homeless defendant who failed to comply with conditions of release cannot be held in the county jail unless the criteria for pretrial detention is met and appropriate treatment for mental illness is available. "Every effort should be made to avoid an incompetent defendant languishing in jail without adequate treatment." "[T]reatment in a custodial facility should only be ordered as a last resort." Marino v. State, 4D19-1283 (7/17/19)

SENTENCING-PREDETERMINATION: Defendant is entitled to a resentencing before a different judge or the original sentencing judge had stated before trial that he intended to sentence the defendant consecutively to his VOP case. Gunn v. State, 1D17-5062 (7/16/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant may not seek post-conviction relief by a habeas corpus petition where the claim would be otherwise time-barred by Rule 3.850. Green v. State, 1D18-1281 (7/16/19)

https://www.1dca.org/content/download/532151/5908356/file/181281_1284_0 7162019_09563878_i.pdf

DISQUALIFICATION-JURISDICTION: Judge who had previously disqualified himself may not deny a motion for DNA testing. Ratley v. State, 1D18-4184 (7/16/19)

STAND YOUR GROUND-RETROACTIVITY: Defendant is entitled to a new Stand Your Ground hearing when the burden of proof was altered while his appeal was pending. Stand Your Ground amendment applies retroactively to Defendant's whose convictions had not been made final. Conflict certified. Washington v. State, 17-1978 (7/15/19)

TRESPASSING-POSTING-JOA: A photograph of a "no trespassing" sign on the ground next to the portable restroom is insufficient to show adequate posting to sustain trespass by Defendant who bogarted the construction site port-a-potty. JOA required. Borrico v. State, 5D17-4114 (7/12/19)

RESENTENCING-ABSENCE OF DEFENDANT: Upon resentencing after appeal, Defendant has the right to present testimony and evidence. Court erred in refusing to allow the Defendant to present evidence because it had already conducted "an extensive sentencing hearing where evidence was presented." Wilson v. State, 5D18-26 (7/12/19)

RECKLESS DRIVING: Grossly excessive speed (accelerating to 85 mph at time of collision) in a residential neighborhood is sufficient to justify a conviction for reckless driving. Grossly excessive speed alone can constitute reckless conduct. Natal v. State, 4D17-1271 (7/10/19)

SCORESHEET-LEGAL STATUS: Legal status point should not be assessed unless the probationer is on probation when he commits an offense which is before the court for sentencing. Scoresheet which assesses points for a community sanction violation and 12 points as a VFOSC constitutes improper double counting. Reed v. State, 4D17-3778 (7/10/19)

MINOR-LIFE IMPRISONMENT-HOMICIDE-JUDICIAL REVIEW: Life imprisonment with a sentence review after 25 years for a 14-year-old who beat a younger child to death is lawful. “Although the sentence review will involve consideration of different factors, given that the judge who handled the resentencing has already taken a position as to whether Appellant is ‘fit to reenter society,’ it would be appropriate that the sentence review be assigned to a different judge.” Bellay v. State, 4D17-3866 (7/10/19)

MINOR-LIFE IMPRISONMENT-HOMICIDE-JUDICIAL REVIEW: Defendant who committed his offense as a minor before 1983 is not entitled to resentencing under the 1983 guidelines. Bellay v. State, 4D17-3866 (7/10/19)

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIMES: In trafficking in oxycodone case, the prosecutor and three of the State’s witnesses improperly referred to the fact that Defendant’s house was under surveillance, that a search warrant related to narcotics had been issued, and that Defendant was the target. Evidence was not inextricably intertwined. New trial is required. Dawson v. State, 4D18-1586 (7/10/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-APPEAL PENDING: If the trial court does not rule on a motion to correct a sentencing error while an appeal is pending within 60 days the motion shall be deemed denied. Once the sixty days has passed, an order purporting to resentence a defendant is entered without jurisdiction and is a nullity. Staples v. State, 3D17-133 (7/10/19)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/531506/5898902/file/170133_ 809_07102019_09524287_i.pdf

YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: When a youthful offender commits a substantive violation of probation and the trial court elects to impose a sentence in excess of the six-year cap, the sentence necessarily loses his youthful offender status. Staples v. State, 3D17-133 (7/10/19)

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIMES: Victim's statement that the Defendant, who was charged with severely beating and raping her, said that he had done this to 6 other women is relevant to show how the Defendant had coerced her. The statement was unobjected to and error, if any, was not fundamental. Hayes v. State, 3D18-409 (7/10/19)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/531512/5898980/file/180409_ 809_07102019_09584043_i.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-SENTENCE CORRECTION: Defendant's claim that he could not be found guilty of possessing a firearm because the weapon was a pellet gun cannot be raised after his sentence has been served and after 2 years have elapsed. The sentence is not illegal. Lopez v. State, 3D18-464 (7/10/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BLOOD DRAW: There is no requirement that the Defendant be at fault to justify a blood draw in a DUI manslaughter case. The blood draw statute does not require probable cause of driver fault. "By the plain statutory language, the motor vehicle, rather than 'the person driving or in actual physical control of the motor vehicle,' must have caused the death or serious bodily injury." State v. Quintanilla, 3D18-1483 (7/10/19)

INFORMATION: A charging document that substantially but imperfectly charges a crime is not fundamentally deficient, and any objections must be made before or when he pleads at arraignment. Information which charges the Defendant with taking property when he in fact took money is not fatally defective. Wilson v. State, 3D19-456 (7/10/19)

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas Corpus action based on failure to properly calculate gain time must be filed where the Defendant is incarcerated, not the county of conviction. Guerra v. State, 3D19-760 (7/10/19)

SENTENCING-MINOR-50-YEAR SENTENCE-REVIEW: Minor/Defendant convicted of murder is lawfully sentenced to serve 50 years in prison without review based on his prior felony record. Baker v. State, 2D17-2160 (7/10/19)

https://www.2dca.org/content/download/531557/5899526/file/172160_65_071 02019_08314133_i.pdf

RECENTLY STOLEN PROPERTY-JOA: When the State's case is based entirely upon the statutory inference, the trial court must direct a judgment of dismissal for the defendant where a reasonable explanation for possession of recently stolen property is totally unrefuted and there is no other evidence of guilt. Stolen property found in the Child's jointly occupied bedroom does not compel the conclusion that he was the thief. A.L. v. State, 2D17-4572 (7/10/19)

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-DWLS: Police may stop Defendant on suspicion that he was DWLS based to on two previous DWLS arrests of the Defendant in the last year. Information is not stale. Valero v. State, 2D18-914 (7/10/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Offhand comment making fun of counsel was in jest and not basis for disqualification. Discussion on why "judges should avoid attempts at humor while on the bench. . .[J]udicial humor is rarely as funny as the judge thinks it is, and judicial humor is never funny when it is at the expense of an attorney or a party." CHILD HEARSAY: Court erred in excluding recanted child hearsay that nine year old's father had sexually abused her where DNA confirmed the original statement. Court's theories discounting the DNA evidence and that the child suffered from an Electra complex were speculative and unsupported by evidence. DNA evidence cannot be considered in determining the reliability of the statement. State v. Boatman, 1D18-2808 (7/9/19)

ARGUMENT-OPINION AS TO GUILT: Argument that jury should "return a verdict that truth dictates and justice demands" is not an improper expression of the prosecutor's opinion. Fountain v. State, 1D18-2883 (7/9/19)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: After appeal, Double Jeopardy does not bar Defendant's sentences for armed robbery and attempted murder from 30 and 35 years consecutively to 65 years concurrently. The change did not modify the Court's original sentencing goal. Whitfield v. State, 1D18-3025 (7/9/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant cannot challenge conviction based on erroneous instruction on the possible lesser included offense of manslaughter (which included an intent to kill provision) because his conviction became final before the instruction was determined to be a misstatement of law. McCrae v. State, 1D18-4115 (7/9/19)

HABEAS CORPUS: Defendant may file habeas corpus petition raising different issues than those which were raised in a previous motion to correct illegal sentence. Court erred in ruling that the issues were the same. Barreiros v. State, 3D18-2584 (7/3/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant may use R. 3.800 to raise argument that he was improperly sentenced to stacked mandatory minimums. Depositions are not court records which can be considered to determine whether a sentence is illegal. Defendant's remedy lies with R. 3.850, requiring an evidentiary hearing and subject to a two-year time limit. Morgan v. State, 3D19-37 (7/3/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court properly denied Defendant's motion to withdraw plea based on counsel's alleged misadvise that he would receive a downward departure and his attorney's "bare-bones" argument for a downward departure. "Given that the brief filed on behalf of Santos cites only two cases and is six pages in total length, the irony of Attorney James W. CONTEMPT: "We do not doubt for an instant that the trial judge heard what he maintains he heard. INCONSISTENT VERDICTS: "Although logically under the facts presented to the jury there was no way Appellant could have committed the murder and attempted murder without possessing and discharging a firearm that does not make the verdict truly inconsistent." Inconsistent jury verdicts are permitted in Florida because "jury verdicts can be the result of lenity and therefore did not always speak to the guilt or innocence of the defendant." Conviction upheld. Only true inconsistent verdicts are disallowed. True inconsistent verdicts are those in which an acquittal on one count negates a necessary element for conviction on another count. MINOR-LIFE SENTENCE-HOMICIDE-JURY FINDING: Forty-year mandatory minimum, with review after 25 years, for juveniles who intend to kill does not require a jury finding. Alfonso v. State, 3D17-2617 (6/26/19)

DURESS-JURY INSTRUCTION: Although it is unclear whether the "choice of evils" concept (the harm that the defendant avoided must outweigh the harm caused by crime charged) that is now element 6 of the standard jury instruction on duress, waived any appeal by failing to object to it. Franklin v. State, 4D181410 (6/26/19)

VIOLATION OF INJUNCTION: Defendant is properly convicted of violating an injunction when he is served with the temporary injunction which was extended and converted to a permanent injunction at the hearing at which she had not appeared. Garcia v. State, 3D18-14732 (6/26/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: The law of the case doctrine does not bar litigation on the admission of hearsay which was not sufficiently reviewed based on the sufficiency of the evidence in earlier proceedings. If the facts upon which the supreme court's prior conclusions were made are no longer the facts of the case, then the doctrine does not apply. State v. Parker, 4D18-3112 (6/26/19)

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATION: Defendant is entitled to a seventh trial after prosecutors struck 41 of the 42 black prospective jurors in the previous six trials. "The jury in Flowers' third trial consisted of 11 white jurors and 1 black juror. The lone black juror who served on the jury was seated after the State ran out of peremptory strikes." Batson affirmed. Flowers v. Mississippi, No. 17-9572 (US S.Ct. 6/21/19)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/18pdf/17-9572_k536.pdf

QUOTATION: (J. Kavanaugh): "The State appeared to proceed as if Batson had never been decided. The State's relentless, determined effort to rid the jury of black individuals strongly suggests that the State wanted to try Flowers before a jury with as few black jurors as possible, and ideally before an all-white jury. . .The State's actions in the first four trials necessarily inform our assessment of the State's intent going into Flowers' sixth trial. We cannot ignore that history. We cannot take that history out of the case." Flowers v. Mississippi, No. 17-9572 (US S.Ct. 6/21/19)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/18pdf/17-9572_k536.pdf

QUOTATION (J. Kavanaugh): "One can slice and dice the statistics and come up with all sorts of ways to compare the State's questioning of

excluded black jurors with the State's questioning of the accepted white jurors. But any meaningful comparison yields the same basic assessment: The State spent far more time questioning the black prospective jurors than the accepted white jurors. . .[D]isparate questioning can be probative of discriminatory intent." Flowers v. Mississippi, No. 17-9572 (US S.Ct. 6/21/19)

BUT DIDN'T YOU JUST SAY. . .? (J. Thomas, Dissent): "If the Court's opinion today has a redeeming quality, it is this: The State is perfectly free to convict Curtis Flowers again." Flowers v. Mississippi, No. 17-9572 (US S.Ct. 6/21/19)

PRACTICING VETERINARY MEDICINE: Court properly dismissed the charge of practicing veterinary medicine without a license where Defendant home-treated his injured dog by trying to remove bone fragments from its rectum. Avella v. State, 5D18-1407 (6/21/19)

CRUELTY TO ANIMAL: Whether the act of trying to remove bone fragments from his dog's rectum constitutes cruelty to animals is a jury question and cannot be resolved by a motion to dismiss. Avella v. State, 5D18-1407 (6/21/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant should be allowed to amend his claims for post-conviction relief where his attorney failed to file an amended motion nor informed Defendant of the need to do so. Babic v. State, 2D181681 (6/21/19)

APPEALS: A criminal defendant's right to self-representation does not extend to appellate proceedings. In its discretion, appellate court may deny Appellant's request to represent himself. Garcia v. Schneider, 3D18-2484 (6/21/19)

THEFT-VALUE-HEARSAY: Defendant cannot be found guilty of grand theft based upon the theft of less-than-a-year-old Louis Vuitton Neverfull purse and wallet, which the victim had bought for $1500 and $700 respectively. The victim's testimony, over objection, that the replacement value for the items on eBay were about $1000 and $400 is insufficient to establish the value. Hearsay evidence from websites as to value is inadmissible hearsay. Gonzalez v. State, 3D19-479 (6/21/19)

https://www.3dca.flcourts.org/content/download/527664/5862160/file/190479_ 812_06212019_10205195_i.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: Consideration of a lack of remorse or failure to take responsibility is fundamental error. In animal abuse case, Court's consideration of the Defendant's failure to take responsibility for the injuries to his dog requires resentencing before a different judge. Piccinini v. State, 5D172919 (6/21/19)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: To determine whether multiple convictions of solicitation of a minor . . . and traveling after solicitation of a minor are based upon the same conduct for purposes of double jeopardy, the reviewing court should consider only the charging document-not the entire evidentiary record. Richardson v. State, 2D17-3814 (6/21/19)

CROSS-EXAMINATION: Court erred in limiting cross-examination of a flipping codefendant into the fact that the witness had been facing up to life in prison. Defendant's Sixth Amendment right to confront witnesses outweighs the policy of shielding the jury from learning the maximum penalty the Defendant faced (which was the same as that of the witness). Rivera v. State, 5D17-1397 (6/21/19)

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-FIFTH AMENDMENT: "Don't know what to tell you. I need a lawyer, man," and statement that he could not tell detectives much because he had to speak to his lawyer first are unambiguous requests for counsel. Statements should have been suppressed. However, error is harmless here. Wilson v. State, 5D17-3568 (6/21/19)

SELF-INCRIMINATION-PASSWORD: In determining whether the Fifth Amendment protects compelled disclosure of a password to a phone in the state's possession, the proper legal inquiry is whether the state is seeking to compel a suspect to provide a password that would allow access to information the state knows is on the suspect's cellphone and has described with reasonable particularity. Defendant cannot be compelled to disclose password to cell phone on the assumption that co-defendant had communicated with him before the crime. Where the state establishes factually that it knows that a password existed, that the suspect possesses or controls the password, and that the suspect's actions disclosed or authenticated the password sought it is a foregone conclusion to force its disclosure. Unless the state can describe with reasonable particularity the information it seeks to access on a specific cellphone, an attempt to seek all communications, data and images is an unlawful fishing expedition. Pollard v. State, 1D18-4572 (6/20/19)

SIMILAR FACT EVIDENCE: In Shaken Baby case, prior instances of abuse committed by the Defendant against a particular child are admissible where the defendant is charged with abusing that child, especially where the Defendant suggested that the child's injuries may have been the result of an accident. There is no need for factual similarity. Lowery v. State, 1D17-3716 (6/20/19)

JURY INSTRUCTION-UNCHARGED LESSER: Where an offense may be committed in various ways, the evidence must establish it to have been committed in the manner charged in the indictment. In child homicide, Court erred in instructing on malicious punishment as a mens of committing aggravated child abuse although not specifically alleged in the information, but error is harmless. Lowery v. State, 1D17-3716 (6/20/19)

LESSER INCLUDED: Court did not err in instructing on the lesser of manslaughter by culpable negligence in the absence of evidence of negligence. Manslaughter by culpable negligence is a category 1, necessarily lesser included offense and must be given. Lowery v. State, 1D17-3716 (6/20/19)

SCORESHEET-PENETRATION: Penetration points are properly scored when supported by the factual basis and is not objected to, notwithstanding that penetration is not alleged in the information. Ayos v. State, 4D17-3840 and 4D17-3857 (6/19/19)

JUVENILE-COMMITMENT-DEVIATION: To justify a commitment disposition that departs from the DJJ's recommendation, Court must articulate an understanding of the different restrictiveness levels and explain why one is better than the other, and point out considerations that DJJ overlooked. Merely listing reasons without convincing analysis is insufficient. C.C. v. State, 4D173890 (6/19/19)

VOP: A plea of no contest does not constitute competent substantial evidence that the Defendant committed a new law violation. "[E]vidence that a probationer entered a no contest plea to a new charge, without more, is. . . insufficient to sustain a revocation of probation." Contreras v. State, 2D174989 (6/19/19)

VOP: Before a probationer can be imprisoned for failure to pay a monetary obligation, the trial court must inquire into the probationer's ability to pay and make an explicit finding that he willfully failed to do so. Contreras v. State, 2D17-4989 (6/19/19)

HEARSAY: Out of court statement by cellmate that Defendant had confessed, later disclaimed, is inadmissible and not within the identification exception to the hearsay rule, nor is it admissible for impeachment of the cellmate where the purpose is to establish the truth of the statement. "It is.

. .obvious that the State's true aim was to circumvent the hearsay rules." Lawrence v. State, 2D17-4071 (6/19/19)

AGGRAVATED ANIMAL CRUELTY: Slashing and stabbing sheep to death is aggravated animal cruelty. Reyes v. State, 3D18-0164 (6/19/19)

RESENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: A defendant is entitled to a de novo sentencing proceeding after an appellate court determines that the trial court's reason for downward departure are invalid. On remand for resentencing due to the substantive invalidity of a downward departure, the trial court is permitted to impose a downward departure as long as the departure comports with the principles and criteria of the Criminal Punishment Code. APPEAL-DISPOSITIVE ISSUE-STAND YOUR GROUND RETROACTIVITY: An issue is dispositive only when it is clear that there will be no trial, regardless of the appeal. Issue of whether the retroactive application of the statutory change to the burden of proof in stand your ground hearings in case in which the Defendant entered a negotiated plea after the hearing is not an appealable because it is not dispositive. Where, as here, the remedy on appeal is a new SYG hearing, the possibility of the trial remains, and so the issue is not dispositive. Discussion of the Gorilla Rule and precognition. Hicks v. STAND YOUR GROUND: Court erred in finding that the Defendant was trespassing, and therefore was not entitled to shoot his sister's boyfriend, who was fighting with the Defendant's brother who had come to his sister's defense. The brother's trespass, if it existed, cannot be imputed to the Defendant. Fletcher v. State, No. 1D18-1867 (6/12/19)

PRETRIAL DETENTION: Court may order a defendant detained without bond beyond first appearance for a reasonable time pending an Arthur bond hearing without making a preliminary finding of proof evident, presumption great. Thourtman v. Junior, No. 3D18-2433 (6/12/19)

WHAT THEY TEACH AT JUDGE SCHOOL: "In doing so, the trial court followed the standard practice taught to trial judges in Florida. See, e.g., Fla. Court Educ.5 at 7 (2016) ('In cases in which death or life imprisonment is a possible penalty, the first appearance judge, upon finding of probable cause, will typically order that the defendant be held with no bond.'. . .)". Thourtman v. Junior, No. 3D18-2433 (6/12/19)

QUOTATION (DISSENT): "[W]e are duty-bound to follow the Florida Supreme Court's decision in State v. Arthur. . ., which unambiguously held that 'before release on bail pending trial can ever be denied, the state must come forward with a showing that the proof of guilt is evident or the presumption is great.' . . .The majority opinion embraces a contrary view, creating a procedural mechanism possessed of both logic and practicality. And it may well be that my position possesses neither logic nor practicality, constrained as it is by a faithful adherence to Florida Supreme Court precedent. . . Because the majority opinion is not similarly constrained, I must respectfully dissent." Thourtman v. Junior, No. 3D18-2433 (6/12/19)

ADMINISTRATIVE PROBATION: Administrative probation is non-reporting probation which can only be imposed by the Department of Corrections, but Defendant who is sentenced by court to administrative probation is estopped from challenging its legality when he violates it because he reaped its benefit. Cadet v. State, No. 3D19-178 (6/12/19)

VETERAN'S COURT: Court may exercise its discretion to deny a qualifying Defendant from entry into Veteran's Court. A judge's decision on whether to admit an eligible and willing defendant into veterans' court is a discretionary act. Simeone v. State, No. 4D18-3470 (6/12/19)

APPEALS-PRESERVATION-DISPOSITIVE ISSUE: Defendant may not appeal denial of motion to suppress narcotics where Defendant pled as well to BLEO and Resisting with Violence. To plead and appeal, the issue might be dispostive of the entire case, not only some counts. An issue is dispositive only if, regardless of whether the appellate court affirms or reverses the lower court's decision, there will be no trial of the case. Milliron v. State, No. 1D16-3889 (1st DCA 6/7/19)

PTI: Under Fla.Stat. §397.334(2) a court may order an individual charged with a nonviolent felony to enter a pretrial treatment-based drug court program upon motion of a party or the court. The Court's power to order drug court treatment is discretionary, and a late application is sufficient basis for denial. Byrd v. State, No. 1D17-1529 (1st DCA 6/7/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES: One cannot be sentenced to consecutive sentences for multiple homicides resulting from placing one bomb, but where the record is not clear that a single bomb was placed, the consecutive sentences cannot be challenged under Rule 3.800. Jarvis v. State, No. 1D17-4186 (1st DCA 6/7/19)

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL: In ruling on a motion for new trial the correct standard is weight of the evidence, not sufficiency of the evidence. However, error here, if any, was not preserved by an articulated objection. Kline v. State, No. 1D18-1706 (1st DCA 6/7/19)

MANDATORY MINIMUM-ILLEGAL SENTENCE: Defendant may not move to correct an illegal sentence which failed to impose a ten-year mandatory minimum for possession of a firearm because Rule 3.800 only authorizes the defendant to move to correct an adverse ruling. Conflict certified. Earl v. State, No. 1D18-3828 (1st DCA 6/7/19)

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Defendant cannot be found guilty of possession of pills found in the center console under paperwork belonging to the defendant where the vehicle is jointly occupied. "[T]he presence of some of a defendant's personal items in the same area as contraband merely supports an inference that the defendant had knowledge of and dominion and control over the substance" but does not disprove the reasonable hypothesis of innocence that someone else placed the contraband in the glove compartment. Nugent v. State, No. 2D17-3169 (2nd DCA 6/7/19)

CONVICTION RELIEF: A claim that a sentence was illegally imposed because the information did not charge the defendant with an element required for his [or her] sentence is cognizable in a rule 3.800(a) motion. Reed v. State, No. 2D18-2005 (2nd DCA 6/7/19)

WITHDRAWAL OF PLEA: Counsel's failure to advise Defendant that entry of a plea would likely result in termination of parental rights is adequate grounds to withdraw the plea. "Failure to inform [a defendant] of [a] collateral consequence may not have rendered the plea involuntary, but . . . ignorance of it does meet the 'good cause' test for a pre-sentence plea withdrawal." Purcell v. State, 5D17-2901 (5th DCA 6/7/19)

JURY INSTRUCTIONS-AMENDMENT: Jury instructions related to insanity, involuntary intoxication/specific intent, Entrapment, and jury findings for Alleyne enhancements. In re: Standard Jury Instructions, 44 Fla. L. Weekly S181a (FLA 65/6/19)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION: Defendant who pleads guilty or nolo contendere forfeits the right to appeal the judgment unless he expressly reserves the right to appeal a prior dispositive order of the lower tribunal, identifying with particularity the point of law being reserved. Osborne v. State, 44 Fla. L. Weekly D1442a (1st DCA 6/5/19)

CERTIORARI: Appellate court lacks jurisdiction to entertain a petition for writ of certiorari absent a finding that the petitioner has suffered an irreparable harm that cannot be remedied on direct appeal. Martinez v. State, 44 Fla. L. Weekly D1440c (3rd DCA 6/5/19)

OPENING THE DOOR: Defendant opened the door to statement by witness that she (the Defendant) had told the witness that she had previously tried to poison her husband by antifreeze when and direct the witness said that he did not believe that she had tried to kill her husband. Dippolito v. State, 44 Fla. L. Weekly D1429a (4th DCA 6/5/19)

ENTRAPMENT: Law enforcement's invited participation of the "Cops" TV program in the investigation of her solicitation to murder her husband is not objective entrapment. Objective entrapment is a question of law for the court and thus there is no right to a jury determination of the issue. Dippolito v. State, 44 Fla. L. Weekly D1429a (4th DCA 6/5/19)

APPEAL-PRESERVATION-JUVENILE-SENTENCING-COMMITMENT LEVEL: Where Child does not object when Court exceeds DJJ's recommended commitment level, the issue is not preserved for appeal. D.L.T. v. State, 44 Fla. L. Weekly D1428a (4th DCA 6/5/19)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's motion for post-conviction relief is deficient where it alleges that counsel did not advise him that he was facing a mandatory life sentence as a PRR if he turned down the plea offer, but failed to allege that the State would not have withdrawn the plea offer and the court would have accepted it. Holmes v. State, 44 Fla. L. Weekly D1427b (4th DCA 6/5/19)

SEXUAL BATTERY-JURY INSTRUCTIONS: Court erred in instructing jury on the elements of sexual battery by using the word "butt" rather than "anus," where the instructions include no definition for "butt." Error is fundamental. Ramirez Ramos v. State, 44 Fla. L. Weekly D1424b (4th DCA 6/5/19)
