CASE LAW SUMMARY

JUNE 2026

CAREER OFFENDER-CRIME OF VIOLENCE: Under the sentencing guidelines, a "crime of violence" means any felony offense falling into one of two categories, the elements clause (offenses that have as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force) or the enumerated crimes clause (a list of specific offenses like "robbery" and "aggravated assault"). USA v. Pinkston, No. 21-13391 (11th Cir. 6/12/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113391.pdf

CAREER OFFENDER-CATEGORICAL APPROACH: The "categorical approach" is used to classify a conviction for sentencing a career offender. If the least culpable conduct that can sustain a conviction involves sufficient force, the conviction satisfies the elements clause. If the least culpable conduct matches or exceeds the generic form of an enumerated offense, the conviction satisfies the enumerated crimes clause. USA v. Pinkston, No. 21-13391 (11th Cir. 6/12/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113391.pdf

CAREER OFFENDER-CRIME OF VIOLENCE-BANK ROBBERY: Federal bank robbery is a crime of violence under both the elements clause and the enumerated crimes clause of the career-offender guideline. USA v. Pinkston, No. 21-13391 (11th Cir. 6/12/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113391.pdf

CAREER OFFENDER-CRIME OF VIOLENCE-AGGRAVATED ASSAULT: Florida aggravated assault is a crime of violence under the career-offender guideline. The mens rea of aggravated assault requires proof of more than recklessness. USA v. Pinkston, No. 21-13391 (11th Cir. 6/12/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113391.pdf

STATE COURT PRECEDENT (J. PRIOR, CONCURRING): The Florida Supreme Court has held that Aggravated Assault in Florida requires at least knowing conduct. In the view of the other circuits, the backward-looking nature of recidivist enhancements requires a federal court to ignore a decision from a state court of last resort when the decision postdates the defendant's predicate offense. They are wrong. Any methodology for determining state law that declines to apply the most recent pronouncement from a state's highest court is necessarily suspect. State courts of last resort tell us what the elements are. And their decisions ordinarily tell us what the elements "always" were from enactment—notwithstanding prior inconsistent interpretations. USA v. Pinkston, No. 21-13391 (11th Cir. 6/12/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113391.pdf

STATE COURT PRECEDENT (J. ABUDU, CONCURRING): "I write separately to express concern with allowing a defendant's prior conviction to be upgraded to a qualifying crime of violence based on subsequent and contrary judicial decisions...We should...give further consideration to an approach which is consistent with our sister circuits, assessing whether a defendant committed a qualifying crime of violence by looking to the law at the time of his conviction instead of asking whether, in light of new decisional law, the offense now qualifies as a crime of violence and should be retroactively applied to enhance his sentence. Such an outcome perhaps presents serious due process and equal protection concerns." USA v. Pinkston, No. 21-13391 (11th Cir. 6/12/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113391.pdf

APPEAL-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Appellate courts have jurisdiction to correct sentencing errors that are unlawful but not completely illegal and therefore can review a trial court's denial of a downward departure. "We must note that there is a jurisdictional split as to whether an appellate court has jurisdiction to review a trial court's denial of a downward departure request after a guilty plea is entered...[T]he Florida Supreme Court is currently reviewing this conflict and has not yet issued an opinion." Lee v. State, 2D2025-0078 (6/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489963/opinion/Opinion_2025-0078.pdf

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court errs in proceeding under the misconception that the only downward departure alternative would have been another, futile attempt at probation. "We express no opinion on whether there is, in fact, a viable basis for a downward departure prison sentence or, if there is, whether it would be appropriate to impose such a sentence. That will be for a judge to decide at resentencing. We simply hold that the trial court erred when it concluded that extending Lee's probation was the only basis upon which it could have entered a downward departure sentence." Lee v. State, 2D2025-0078 (6/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489963/opinion/Opinion_2025-0078.pdf

ALLOCUTION: "That's crazy...Right, but I – still blows my mind that...instead of seventy-eight months, you could have said...I'll give you fifty months...You know? It just blows my mind." Lee v. State, 2D2025-0078 (6/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489963/opinion/Opinion_2025-0078.pdf

POSTCONVICTION DNA TESTING: Court may not deny a postconviction motion for DNA testing without attaching the portions of the record that conclusively show the movant is not entitled to relief. Shannon v. State, 2D2026-0359 (6/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489966/opinion/Opinion_2026-0359.pdf

SEALING RECORD: Court abuses its discretion by denying his petition to seal Defendant's criminal record without stating specific reasons for denying the petition based on all the facts and circumstances of the case. Davila v. State, 5D2025-1303 (6/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489981/opinion/Opinion_2025-1303.pdf

ACCESSORY AFTER THE FACT: Accessory after the fact to a capital felony requires the commission of a capital felony. Where the perpetrator of the killing had stand your ground self-defense immunity, no capital felony occurred, so there can be no conviction for Accessory after the Fact. State v. Wesley, 6D2024-1651 (6/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2490010/opinion/Opinion_2024-1651.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: In Florida, courts follow the supremacy-of-text principle—namely, the principle that the words of a governing text are of paramount concern, and what they convey, in their context, is what the text means. State v. Wesley, 6D2024-1651 (6/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2490010/opinion/Opinion_2024-1651.pdf

FALSE REPORT: Defendant may be convicted of False Report to Law Enforcement Authorities Concerning a Capital Felony for lying about hiding the deceased's body in the car truck and leaving it in a Walgreens parking lot, notwithstanding having Stand Your Ground immunity for the killing. The statute's plain language does not require the determination as to whether a capital felony occurred, or if the Defendant committed it. The charge targets a defendant's actions directed toward law enforcement, and not the commission of the underlying crime. State v. Wesley, 6D2024-1651 (6/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2490010/opinion/Opinion_2024-1651.pdf

APPEALS-PRESERVED ISSUE: There are only two instances in which an unpreserved challenge to the sufficiency of the evidence can be reviewed: (1) the mandatory review by this Court of the evidence by which a capital defendant was convicted and sentenced to death; and (2) when there is insufficient evidence that a defendant committed any crime. De Los Santos v. State, 6D2025-0765 (6/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2490016/opinion/Opinion_2025-0765.pdf

CRUEL OR UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT: The Eighth Amendment to the United States Constitution and Article I, §17 of the Florida Constitution have historically provided protection relative to the mode and method of punishment, not the length of incarceration. De Los Santos v. State, 6D2025-0765 (6/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2490016/opinion/Opinion_2025-0765.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood

and applied. Zuraff v. State, 6D2025-1130 (6/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2490017/opinion/Opinion_2025-1130.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION -FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: In order to be of such fundamental nature as to justify a reversal in the absence of timely objection the error must reach down into the validity of the trial itself to the extent that a verdict of guilty could not have been obtained without the assistance of the alleged error. B.M., a Child v. State, 3D25-2030 (6/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489913/opinion/Opinion_2025-2030.pdf

VENUE: The proper venue for trying an alleged violation of 18 U. S. C. §1519 (knowingly falsifying a document with the intent to obstruct a federal investigation) is the district where the falsification occurred; the defendant cannot be tried in a different district where the investigation was located. The venue for trying a §1519 offense is, and is only, where the defendant falsified a document, because that is the only conduct proscribed by the statute. The trial for falsifying a document must take place where the defendant falsified the document. Abouammo v. United States, No. 25–5146 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/11/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-5146_e29f.pdf

VENUE: Venue in criminal cases mattered more than might be supposed to the Nation's Founders. Prior to the Revolution, Parliament enacted measures to try allegedly treasonous colonists in England, rather than in their home colonies. The legislation was so roundly despised as to make it into the Declaration of Independence and into the Constitution twice. Abouammo v. United States, No. 25–5146 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/11/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-5146_e29f.pdf

INTERSTATE TRANSPORTATION OF DENTURES: The Federal Denture Act, which criminalized interstate mailing of dentures (except by a dentist), is now defunct. Abouammo v. United States, No. 25–5146 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/11/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-5146_e29f.pdf

GUIDELINES-SOPHISTICATED LAUNDERING ENHANCEMENT: "One-step laundering" that did not involve any off-shore accounts or shell companies does not amount to sophisticated laundering. "Sophisticated laundering" refers to "complex or intricate offense conduct pertaining to the execution or concealment" of the laundering offense. In other words, the enhancement is aimed at laundering conduct that is materially more elaborate, either in how it is carried out (execution) or in how it is masked (concealment), than routine laundering transactions. USA v. Morilla, No. 24-10610 (11th Cir. 6/11/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410610.pdf

SENTENCING-RELEVANT CONDUCT: A defendant's relevant conduct does not include the conduct of members of a conspiracy prior to the defendant joining the conspiracy, even if the defendant knows of that conduct. USA v. Morilla, No. 24-10610 (11th Cir. 6/11/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410610.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-HARMLESS ERROR: Where the Court states it would have imposed the same sentence, even absent an alleged error in calculating the advisory range (a Keene statement) before any §3553(a) argument and before allocution, the "district court's sequencing turns Keene's harmlessness inquiry on its head." [A] pre-argument Keene statement either (1) reflects that the sentencing decision was effectively fixed before the required § 3553(a) presentation and the defendant's allocution, or (2) reflects that the court had not yet completed the holistic §3553(a) analysis that Keene presupposes. Keene requires that the same sentence would be imposed only after meaningful consideration of the §3553(a) factors. And "allocution is not a hollow ritual; it is a procedural safeguard designed to matter to the sentencing outcome." USA v. Morilla, No. 24-10610 (11th Cir. 6/11/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410610.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: The Brady rule only applies to the discovery, after trial, of information which had been known to the prosecution but unknown to the defense. A motion for Brady relief must allege that movant was unaware of or could not obtain the records in question. Woodbury v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2024-0232 (6/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489916/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0232%20&%20SC2024-1127.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: There is no categorial bar on execution of the mentally ill. Woodbury v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2024-0232 (6/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489916/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0232%20&%20SC2024-1127.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-STANDBY COUNSEL: There exists no cognizable claim of ineffective assistance of standby counsel A pro se defendant, even if he has standby counsel, cannot later complain that the quality of his defense was substandard. Woodbury v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2024-0232 (6/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489916/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0232%20&%20SC2024-1127.pdf

SHACKLES: The right to be free of restraint is not absolute. The Constitution does not prohibit the use of physical restraints visible to the jury when justified by a state interest specific to a particular trial. "Given Woodbury's violent history, his status as a pro se defendant, and our characterization of shackling errors as subject to harmless error review, any error would not have been of the type without which the guilty verdict...could not have been obtained." Woodbury v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2024-0232 (6/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489916/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0232%20&%20SC2024-1127.pdf

ATTORNEY- DISCIPLINE: Attorney who participated in the fake elector scheme in the 2020 presidential election pled guilty in Georgia state court to the felony charge of unlawfully conspiring to file a false certificate in federal district court, but whose probation was later terminated early under the Georgia First Offender Act, is deemed "not be considered to have ever had a criminal conviction." The Florida Bar v. Chesebro, SC2024-1528 (6/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489905/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1528.pdf

ATTORNEY- DISCIPLINE: "This matter is unique. We have a duty to regulate the practice of law in Florida and meaningfully sanction lawyer misconduct...But we are also bound to respect the judgments of sister states under principles of comity...It is alleged—and Chesebro does not here dispute—that he aided in the filing of a false certificate in federal court. That concession requires us to mete out discipline, even giving due regard to Chesebro's exoneration under the law that governs his prosecution for that act...[W]e...find that a reprimand is appropriate." The felony suspension entered on October 28, 2024, is hereby lifted, and Kenneth Chesebro is reinstated to the practice of law effective immediately. The Florida Bar v. Chesebro, SC2024-1528 (6/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489905/opinion/

Opinion_SC2024-1528.pdf

ATTORNEY-DISCIPLINE (J. LABARGA, DISSENTING): Respondent Kenneth Chesebro, a member of The Florida Bar, was indicted in Fulton County, Georgia, on multiple felony charges relating to allegations of election fraud and interference with the 2020 presidential election. In Georgia, Chesebro ultimately pled guilty and was sentenced to five years of felony probation for certifying a slate of false electors for the State of Georgia. Chesebro does not dispute that he submitted fraudulent ballot information. "In my view, the intentional commission of fraud upon the court is one of the most egregious ethical transgressions a lawyer can commit, and such serious misconduct necessitates the imposition of severe professional sanctions." The Florida Bar v. Chesebro, SC2024-1528 (6/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489905/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1528.pdf

AMENDMENT- RULES- OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE: A new subdivision is added to require inclusion of a jurisdictional statement in the initial brief. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Appellate Procedure, SC2025-0241 (6/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489908/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0241.pdf

AMENDMENT- RULES- OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE: A certificate of compliance is only required for computer-generated briefs. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Appellate Procedure, SC2025-0241 (6/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489908/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0241.pdf

AMENDMENT- RULES- OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE: Case citations

in rule 9.800 are amended to reflect the change from two-digit year and varied number of digits for case number designators to the four-digit year and four-digit case number designators. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Appellate Procedure, SC2025-0241 (6/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489908/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0241.pdf

MOTIONS-TIMELINESS: Court does not abuse its discretion when it denies a defendant's motion to suppress as untimely. The parties' failure to request an extension of the deadline for pretrial motions through inadvertence does not constitute good cause. USA v. Crespo, No. 24-10310 (11th Cir. 6/10/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410310.pdf

APPEAL-WIRETAP: Defendant may not attack the legality of a wiretap by quoting from the application but not including it in the record. Appellant abandons the merits of his appeal by failing to give citations to the authorities and parts of the record on which relies. USA v. Crespo, No. 24-10310 (11th Cir. 6/10/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410310.pdf

GOOD FAITH DEFENSE: There exists no case law establishing good faith as a defense to witness tampering and obstruction of justice. USA v. Crespo, No. 24-10310 (11th Cir. 6/10/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410310.pdf

SENTENCING-RELEVANT CONDUCT: Where Defendant's offense involved obstructing the investigation or prosecution of a criminal offense, the guideline sentence is based on the severity of the underlying offense that was the subject of the judicial proceeding sought to be obstructed, impeded or influenced. USA v. Crespo, No. 24-10310

(11th Cir. 6/10/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410310.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-RECORD: In an appeal of a summary denial of postconviction relief, the appellate court may not take judicial notice of records in the previous appeal; it may only consider documents in the record on the appeal on the denial of the motion for postconviction relief. In other words, the State cannot overcome the postconviction court's error in failing to attach records either by supplementing the record with the missing documents or by providing those records to us in an appendix to its response. State may not simply ask the appellate court to "take judicial notice" of missing documents. Goodson v. State, 1D2024-1762 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489885/opinion/Opinion_2024-1762.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE: Court errs in denying defense counsel's strike of a female juror in a domestic violence case where "[q]uite simply, the record did not support the trial court's conclusion that defense counsel's reason for the strike was a pretext for keeping [the challenged juror] off the jury because of her gender." Hernandez v. State, 3D24-0173 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489848/opinion/Opinion_2024-0173.pdf

INFORMATION-TAMPERING: Because the degree of the offense of tampering depends on the degree of the underlying official proceeding, the information must allege the degree of the underlying official proceeding. It is fundamental error to convict a defendant of a felony that is not charged, but a colloquy between the parties and the court can function as an oral amendment to a charging instrument where three conditions are met: the defendant has notice of the charge as it will actually be tried, the defendant agrees to proceed, and the defendant suffers no prejudice to his substantial rights. Fraser v. State, 1D2024-2317 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489889/opinion/Opinion_2024-2317.pdf

PROBATION-SPECIAL CONDITION: Where not orally pronounced, a special condition included in the written probation order that Defendant have no contact with the victim's family must be stricken. Fraser v. State, 1D2024-2317 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489889/opinion/Opinion_2024-2317.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Where Court intended to sentence Defendant to the bottom of the guidelines ("15 months state prison, which is the bottom of the guidelines"), but after the hearing was concluded realized that it had misread the score sheet, recalled the case, and sentenced Defendant to 45.15 months, Double Jeopardy is not violated. A defendant has a legitimate expectation of finality, but if there is some circumstance which undermines the legitimacy of that expectation, then a court may permissibly increase the sentence. Simple human error is inevitable in oral pronouncements and the constitutional doctrine of double jeopardy was never intended to make sentencing a game in which mental errors by judges and attorneys are irreparable even when the error is discovered minutes later. Williams v. State, 1D2024-3330 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489891/opinion/Opinion_2024-3330.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE-JUVENILE OFFENDER (J. BILBREY, CONCURRING): "I have concerns whether Appellant's current sentence is legal." When Appellant committed the murder in 1983, life with the possibility of parole after 25 years was the only lawful sentence other than death. A life with parole–25 sentence is quantitatively and qualitatively a far different sentence from mandatory life without parole, the strongest of all available punishments for juveniles. When Appellant was resentenced to life without parole, he was allowed a sentence review hearing, making his sentence. Still, at resentencing his sentence was increased beyond what was permissible under the 1983 statutes. But for Appellant's request to be resentenced under §921.1401 because he believed it was the only way to allow for a sentence review hearing under 921.1402, his life without parole sentence would clearly be an illegal sentence. Whether a juvenile offender cannot agree to an otherwise illegal sentence in exchange for a sentence review hearing has apparently never been addressed by this court. Kirkland v. State, 1D2025-1230 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489894/opinion/Opinion_2025-1230.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A plea colloquy is the constitutionally required mechanism by which the court ensures a defendant's waiver of rights is knowing and voluntary. A defendant's in-trial expression of general satisfaction with counsel cannot, without more, be read to ratify or waive every pretrial decision counsel made or failed to make in the months preceding trial. But where the Defendant was asked about pretrial motions during the colloquy, he may not later complain about counsel's failure to file a stand-your-ground motion. Baker v. State, 1D2025-2736 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489897/opinion/Opinion_2025-2736.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Claims of ineffective assistance arising from an uncommunicated or lapsed plea offer are governed by the two prong test of Strickland v. Washington. To establish prejudice, a defendant must demonstrate a reasonable probability that: (1) he would have accepted the earlier offer had counsel advised him correctly; (2)

the prosecutor would not have withdrawn the offer; (3) the trial court would have accepted it; and (4) the conviction or sentence under the offer's terms would have been less severe than the judgment and sentence imposed. To guard against late, frivolous, or fabricated claims, offers should be reduced to writing and their terms documented in the record. Baker v. State, 1D2025-2736 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489897/opinion/Opinion_2025-2736.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BLUE LIGHTS: §316.2397 prohibits any non-exempted vehicle from displaying a red, red and white, or blue light visible from directly in front. An illuminated blue Uber sign is not exempted. Cadet v. State, 2D2025-0761 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489842/opinion/Opinion_2025-0761.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: "[S]tatutory interpretation is not simply about defining disembodied words." Cadet v. State, 2D2025-0761 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489842/opinion/Opinion_2025-0761.pdf

DEFINITION-"LAMP": "[A]s far as we can tell, the definition of 'lamp' hasn't changed much since the electric light bulb started replacing oil wicks as a source of illumination. Cadet v. State, 2D2025-0761 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489842/opinion/Opinion_2025-0761.pdf

INDICTMENT/INFORMATION: If the State charges a defendant with a statutory violation, it is required to proceed by indictment or information. Quiroga v. State, 3D25-0766 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489851/opinion/Opinion_2025-0766.pdf

JURISDICTION-TRIBAL LAND: State has no authority to charge individuals with ordinance violations committed on tribal land. Florida's civil and criminals laws are enforceable on tribal lands under §285.16 , but "this section does not confer subject matter jurisdiction over violations of local ordinances committed on tribal land...And it certainly does not confer jurisdiction for phantom ordinances that do not exist." Quiroga v. State, 3D25-0766 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489851/opinion/Opinion_2025-0766.pdf

REMAND-MANDATE: Where case is remanded for evidentiary hearing, Court errs in failing to conduct the evidentiary hearing. Court may not summarily deny Defendant's motion for postconviction relief without a hearing. Gonzalez v. State, 4D2025-3220 (6/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489872/opinion/Opinion_2025-3220.pdf

NARCOTICS DISTRIBUTION/POSSESSION-ENHANCEMENT-CAUSATION: Where Defendant/dealer's employee/distributor stole heroin from his supply and overdosed, Defendant is subject to the life sentence enhancement because of her death. The government does not need to show that the defendant knew or intended for the victim to use the controlled substance. §841(b)(1)(C)'s "death-results" penalty enhancement provision is triggered by a violation of §841(a), not an additional mens rea finding. The "death-results" penalty enhancement provision does not require proof of proximate cause or allow for an intervening cause exception. §841(b)(1)(C)'s language speaks only to actual or but-for cause, not proximate cause. USA v. Lebarron, 21-12157 (11th Cir. 6/8/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112157.pdf

NARCOTICS POSSESSION-ENHANCEMENT-CAUSATION (J. ABUDU, CONCURRING): "Although the majority opinion, given our precedent, is the correct one today, it is not the just one. While a dissent in this case is not in order, a reconsideration of Webb is more than ripe." USA v. Lebarron, 21-12157 (11th Cir. 6/8/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112157.pdf

NARCOTICS POSSESSION-ENHANCEMENT-CAUSATION (J. TJOFLAT, DISSENTING): "Should a man spend the rest of his life in prison because his drugs were stolen? According to the Majority, Congress would have it no other way, and our hands are tied. I disagree. Because this Court has elevated unadulterated textualism over common sense and longstanding principles of the criminal law, and because we are now treading on dangerous constitutional waters, I respectfully dissent." USA v. Lebarron, 21-12157 (11th Cir. 6/8/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112157.pdf

NARCOTICS POSSESSION-ENHANCEMENT-CAUSATION (J. TJOFLAT, DISSENTING): "Lebarron sought to make the simple argument that he did not distribute drugs to J.B. but that she, in fact, stole them. Lebarron quite sensibly felt that this fact would have some bearing on his legal responsibility for her death...The District Court disagreed...Accordingly, it prohibited him from making the argument to the jury. I believe the District Court erred...By refusing to let Lebarron even make the argument that his drugs were stolen, the District Court sidestepped essential, longstanding due process protections for criminal defendants." USA v. Lebarron, 21-12157 (11th Cir. 6/8/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112157.pdf

NARCOTICS POSSESSION-ENHANCEMENT-CAUSATION (J. TJOFLAT, DISSENTING): "Congress has long evinced its intent to forcefully curtail the 'growing menace of drug abuse in the United States.'...But this policy directive cannot, and, as I see it, has not given way to basic due process. The straits are not that dire." USA v. Lebarron, 21-12157 (11th Cir. 6/8/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112157.pdf

NARCOTICS POSSESSION-ENHANCEMENT-CAUSATION (J. TJOFLAT, DISSENTING): "In my view, to treat a larcenist as a victim of the individual from whom he stole is to flip common sense on its head." USA v. Lebarron, 21-12157 (11th Cir. 6/8/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112157.pdf

NARCOTICS POSSESSION-ENHANCEMENT-CAUSATION (J. TJOFLAT, DISSENTING): "This Court, through a series of erroneous decisions, has cultivated a landscape where a defendant can be de facto charged with murder and face life in prison because of a death that is only connected to his conduct by mere happenstance. USA v. Lebarron, 21-12157 (11th Cir. 6/8/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112157.pdf

MENS REA: There exists considerable debate, however, as to whether courts should also presume mens rea applies to elements that determine severity, rather than total innocence...I believe that some level of mens rea, perhaps criminal negligence, is appropriate to ensure adequate culpability and to justify the dramatic increase in penalty brought about by the Resulting-in-Death Enhancement. USA v. Lebarron, 21-12157 (11th Cir. 6/8/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112157.pdf

NARCOTICS POSSESSION-ENHANCEMENT-CAUSATION (J. TJOFLAT, DISSENTING): "As it stands today, a defendant can go from no mandatory minimum sentence to a mandatory minImum of life in prison without any finding of escalated guilt. This flouts our 'universal and persistent' common law tradition 'that an injury can amount to a crime only when inflicted by intention' and a 'vicious will.'" USA v. Lebarron, 21-12157 (11th Cir. 6/8/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112157.pdf

CIVIL RESTITUTION LIEN: $50 per day civil restitution lien under §95.11(3)(f) accrues upon conviction. The criminal court has continuing jurisdiction postsentencing to impose the lien by motion after a prisoner obtains a judgment against D.O.C. for injuries sustained in prison. A motion, not a pleading, is the mechanism the State must use to obtain the lien. It is not subject to the four-year statute of limitations provided for civil actions founded on a statutory liability.. Baez v. Department of Corrections, 2D2025-0423 (6/5/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489700/opinion/Opinion_2025-0423.pdf

SEALED COURT RECORDS: Article I, §24(a) of the Florida Constitution provides that every person has the right to inspect or copy any public record, with narrow exemptions. A Florida citizen and member of the public has standing to challenge a closure order which would seemingly negate the public's constitutional right of inspection. Otherwise, litigants could, by agreement or stipulation, cause all judicial records in a case to be closed. "To be clear, while there is a presumption that court files are open to the public, a trial court does possess the power and authority to close or seal a court file. Not every record in a court file is necessarily open to public view." But litigants cannot have a reasonable expectation of privacy with regard to matters that are inherent to their civil proceedings. Barfield v. Case Confidential, 5D2024-0720 (6/5/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489714/opinion/Opinion_2024-0720.pdf

PROBATION/INCARCERATION-LENGTH: Trial court must award credit for time served in jail awaiting trial against a probation term so that combined time does not exceed statutory maximum. Craig v. State, 6D2025-0699 (6/5/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489730/opinion/Opinion_2025-0699.pdf

LIFE IMPRISONMENT: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Loveland v. State, 6D2025-0884 (6/5/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489731/opinion/Opinion_2025-0884.pdf

LIFE IMPRISONMENT: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Williams v. State, 6D2025-0908 (6/5/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489732/opinion/Opinion_2025-0908.pdf

LIFE IMPRISONMENT: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Rowles v. State, 6D2025-2803 (6/5/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489736/opinion/Opinion_2025-2803.pdf

ERLINGER: R. 3.800(a) is not the proper vehicle for raising a claim of error under Apprendi and its progeny. Persaud v. State, 5D2025-2198 (6/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489618/opinion/Opinion_2025-2198.pdf

EVIDENCE-AUDIO RECORDING: §934.03 criminalizes the intentional interception, disclosure, or use of intercepted oral communications and generally prohibits such communications from being admitted into evidence. Audio recording of Defendant saying "I will choke the life out of your body and bury your ass in a fuing chicken coop" is inadmissible. Judkins v. State, 1D2024-2610 (6/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489533/opinion/Opinion_2024-2610.pdf

COMPETENCY: Court does not commit fundamental error in failing to hold a competency hearing after competent to stand trial. Thereafter, the trial court neither held a competency hearing nor entered a written competency order after the trial court appointed an expert who concluded that Defendant was competent to stand trial because nothing in his motion or the record provided reasonable grounds to doubt his competency to proceed. Luker v. State, 1D2025-0099 (6/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489536/opinion/Opinion_2025-0099.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger errors are subject to harmless error review. If the record plainly and unequivocally establishes that the defendant qualifies for the enhancement, it is not necessary for the court to delve into the Erlinger constitutional issue, because any resulting error would be harmless beyond a reasonable doubt. State v. Alvardo-Balmaceda, 3D24-0977 (6/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489563/opinion/Opinion_2024-0977.pdf

PROHIBITION ON FILING: Court errs in prohibiting Defendant from filing motion challenging his conviction as successive where the underlying motion raising an Erlinger issue was new. "Our reversal of this sanction order does not condone Appellant's prior abuse of the postconviction process. We agree that Appellant has filed frivolous and repetitive postconviction claims throughout his motion practice in this case...Appellant should not interpret this decision as authorizing him to resume filing procedurally barred or otherwise frivolous postconviction claims." Lightsey v. State, 4D2025-0800 (6/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489572/opinion/Opinion_2025-0800.pdf

TWELVE-PERSON JURY-CAPITAL SEX BATTERY: The legislative amendment to provide for the death penalty for capital sexual battery does not entitle Defendant to a twelve-person jury where the death penalty was not possible because his offense predated the amendment. Oakes v. State, 4D2025-2758 (6/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489583/opinion/Opinion_2025-2758.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-JURISDICTION: Trial court lacks jurisdiction to rule on Defendant's premature motion for postconviction relief, filed while he awaited resentencing pursuant to an appellate mandate. Thomas v.State, 4D2026-0195 (6/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489585/opinion/

Opinion 2026-0195.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: Extraordinary and compelling reasons for a reduction in sentence exist under the following circumstances: (1) medical circumstances of the defendant necessitating release, (2) advanced age of the defendant, (3) family circumstances of the defendant necessitating release, (4) being a victim of abuse while incarcerated, (5) other reasons similar in gravity to those described in (1–4), and (6) unusually long sentences. USA v. Smith, No. 25-13361 (11th Cir. 6/2/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202513361.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: Neither Defendant's age at the time of the offense nor rehabilitation while in prison is an extraordinary and compelling reason for release. USA v. Smith, No. 25-13361 (11th Cir. 6/2/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202513361.pdf

GIGLIO: Defendant is entitled to a new trial where jailhouse snitch falsely testified that he had no prior record and prosecutor was aware of that record. Whitton v, Dixon, No. 25–580 (S. Ct. 6/1/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-580_08m1.pdf

AEDPA: The Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty requires the federal reviewing court to defer to the state court's determination of harmlessness unless it was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented. But the state court can only consider evidence presented at trial, not supplemental evidence (here, DNA from blood stains on Defendant's boots). Whitton v, Dixon, No. 25–580 (S. Ct. 6/1/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-580_08m1.pdf

GIGLIO (J. THOMAS, DISSENTING): This Court vacates the Eleventh Circuit's judgment because of one-and-a-half sentences in its opinion. Fortunately, though, the Court's decision will have no real-world effect. The Eleventh Circuit can reissue a virtually identical opinion after deleting one sentence on page 42 and one part of one sentence on page 40. Whitton v, Dixon, No. 25–580 (S. Ct. 6/1/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-580_08m1.pdf

MAY 2026

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to call expert to testify that there would have been physical injury to the victim if there had been multiple penetrations. Ramos v. State, 2D2024-2743 (5/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489390/opinion/Opinion_2024-2743.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INEVITABLE DISCOVERY: The inevitable discovery doctrine requires the State to establish by a preponderance of evidence that the police ultimately would have discovered the evidence independently of the improper police conduct by means of normal investigative measures that inevitably would have been set in motion as a matter of routine police procedure. State v. Bounds v. State, 6D2025-0460 (5/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489423/opinion/Opinion_2025-0460.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. White v. State, 6D2025-0462 (5/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489424/opinion/Opinion_2025-0462.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Lowe v. State, 6D2025-0755 (5/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489426/opinion/Opinion_2025-0755.pdf

FIRST STEP ACT-STACKING: The First Step Act eliminated mandatory stacked offenses under §924(c), but does not apply retroactively to Defendant sentenced before it took effect. The compassionate release provision empowering a court to reduce the term of imprisonment if it finds "extraordinary and compelling" reasons does not apply. Far from "extraordinary," nonretroactive amendments to criminal penalties are the norm. Treating the severity of a mandatory penalty as a reason for compassionate release rejects Congress's judgment that the punishment fits the crime. Rutherford v. United States, No. 24-820 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/28/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-820_97be.pdf

DEFINITION-"EXTRAORDINARY": The term "extraordinary" means "most unusual," "far from common," or "having little or no precedent." Rutherford v. United States, No. 24-820 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/28/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-820_97be.pdf

DEFINITION-"COMPELLING": "Compelling," means "tending to convince or convert by or as if by forcefulness of evidence." Rutherford v. United States, No. 24-820 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/28/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-820_97be.pdf

CUISINE: "Imagine that a dietitian cautions her patient, 'Pasta alone is not an acceptable dinner.' Though the patient might fervently wish otherwise, this advice does not license any meal besides standalone pasta. (Fried chicken with a side of funnel cakes? A bowl of Lucky Charms?)." Rutherford v. United States, No. 24-820 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/28/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-820_97be.pdf

FIRST STEP ACT-STACKING (J. SOTOMAYOR, J., DISSENTING): "[T]he Court should have upheld the Commission's policy statement because the Commission acted reasonably when it construed the terms "extraordinary and compelling" to permit courts to consider sentencing disparities caused by changes in law only in narrow circumstances and only as part of a holistic inquiry. The Commission's policy statement falls well within the expansive scope of the terms "extraordinary" and "compelling" and is consistent with longstanding judicial practices, which Congress did not alter here. Congress's decision not to make its changes retroactive simply means that Congress did not intend for every person who committed §924(c) offenses prior to the First Step Act's passage to be automatically eligible for relief....By making that one choice, however, Congress did not also decide that sentencing disparities created by those changes should never be considered in deciding compassionate-release motions." Rutherford v. United States, No. 24-820 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/28/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-820_97be.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: Doubts about a conviction's validity do not qualify as "extraordinary and compelling" reasons for compassionate

release. Challenging the validity of a conviction through a compassionate release motion circumvents the exacting requirements of §2255. There is an obvious distinction between a prisoner who asserts that he should not have been convicted in the first place and one who asserts that his present circumstances warrant an exercise of compassion. Fernandez v. State, No. 24-556 (5/28/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-556_8m58.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "[H]abeas nullifies a conviction as a matter of law, while compassionate release shortens a sentence as a matter of grace. The majority does not adequately explain why these two forms of relief—which operate differently, exist for different reasons, and ultimately yield different results—must necessarily work to the exclusion of each other." Fernandez v. State, No. 24-556 (5/28/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-556_8m58.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "Congress designed compassionate release as a tool for preserving a modicum of mercy in an otherwise harsh sentencing system...Congress gave prisoners an equitable 'out' for the extraordinary and compelling circumstance in which they might otherwise be stuck serving an unjust sentence." Fernandez v. State, No. 24-556 (5/28/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-556_8m58.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATION: The Equal Protection Clause bars prosecutors from exercising peremptory challenges based on race. In determining whether a prosecutor employed a peremptory challenge based on race, after the defendant makes a prima facie showing that a peremptory strike was based on race (step one), the prosecutor must provide a race-neutral reason for the challenged strike (step two). Then, at step three, defense counsel has an opportunity to rebut the prosecutor's race-neutral reason as pretextual, and the trial court in turn decides whether the prosecutor's race-neutral reason for striking a juror is pretextual in light of all evidence with a bearing on it. Pitchfork v. Cain, No. 24–7351 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/28/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-7351_jiel.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATION: Where the prosecutor used peremptory strikes against four of the five black potential jurors, Court erred in finding the strikes as race neutral without affording the defense and opportunity to rebut strikes as pretextual nor making any findings as to whether the prosecutor's stated reasons were pretextual. In other words, the trial court ended its Batson analysis at step two and never proceeded to step three. "The State's argument—that Pitchford preserved his Batson objection but nonetheless somehow waived his Batson pretext argument—does not make much sense." Pitchfork v. Cain, No. 24–7351 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/28/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-7351_jiel.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE (AI): Rules amended to require the signer of a document filed with Florida's courts to represent that "the legal authorities identified exist." Sanctions authorized for any filing inconsistent with the representation a signer makes under rule 2.515(d)(2), including reprimand, contempt, striking of the document, dismissal of proceedings, costs, attorneys' fees, or other sanctions. Amendment effective June 15, 2026. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of General Practice and Judicial Administration 2.515, No. SC2026-0673 (5/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489374/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0673.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH SENTENCE: Method-of-execution

claims based on prisoner's medical condition are time-barred when the worsening medical condition was discovered years earlier. Prisoner's kidney disease does not render lethal injection cruel or unusual punishment. Once the Supreme Court has upheld the constitutionality of a lethal injection protocol, that protocol is facially constitutional as a matter of law. Lukeheart v. State, SC2026-0736 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489335/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0736.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: The thirty-two-day death warrant period does not deprive Prisoner of his due process rights under the United States Florida Constitutions. Lukeheart v. State, SC2026-0736 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489335/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0736.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Under Florida and federal law, a defendant has no constitutional right to effective collateral counsel. Lukeheart v. State, SC2026-0736 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489335/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0736.pdf

EVIDENCE-RELEVANCE/PREJUDICE: Photos showing Defendant's Confederate flag tag were admissible where they showed damage and paint transfer to the vehicle. Trial judges should carefully scrutinize photographs for prejudicial effect, but the test for admissibility of photos is relevancy rather than necessity. Madden v. State, 1D 2024-1067 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489245/opinion/Opinion_2024-1067.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATION: Peremptory challenges may not be used to exclude prospective jurors solely because of their race or ethnicity. Mesamours v. State, 3D24-1485 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489254/opinion/Opinion_2024-1485.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATION: The guidelines for trial courts in ruling upon a race-based objection to a peremptory challenge are: First, a party objecting to the use of a peremptory challenge must demonstrate the venireperson is a member of a distinct racial group and request a reason for the strike. Next, the proponent of the strike must give a race-neutral explanation for the strike. Finally, if the reason given is facially race-neutral, "and the court believes that, given all the circumstances surrounding the strike, the explanation is not a pretext, the strike will be sustained. The court should focus on the genuineness of the strike proponent's explanation and the burden of persuasion never leaves the opponent of the strike to prove purposeful racial discrimination. Mesamours v. State, 3D24-1485 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489254/opinion/Opinion_2024-1485.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATION: Although a strike based on a reason equally applicable to an unchallenged juror is one factor which courts have found relevant to the genuineness inquiry, striking a Black juror because she was the only one to cast doubt on credibility of officers can be deemed a non-pretextual reason for the strike. The genuineness inquiry is case specific, and based primarily on an assessment of credibility. Mesamours v. State, 3D24-1485 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489254/opinion/Opinion_2024-1485.pdf

SIX JURORS: A twelve-person jury is not required under the Sixth and Fourteenth Amendments. Mesamours v. State, 3D24-1485 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489254/opinion/Opinion_2024-1485.pdf

BATTERY: Shooting into the floor, causing tile shards to drive into the victim's legs, constitutes battery. Petterson-Grifith v. State, 3D25-1944 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489261/opinion/Opinion_2025-1944.pdf

ILLEGAL SENTENCE: If it is possible under all the sentencing statutes—given a specific set of facts—to impose a particular sentence, then the sentence will not be illegal within rule 3.800(a) even though the judge erred in imposing it. Brewer v. State, 3D26-0435 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489285/opinion/Opinion_2026-0435.pdf

ERLINGER: Because Apprendi claims are subject to harmless error review, they are not the type of "illegal sentence" claim cognizable in a R. 3.800(a) motion. Cochran v. State, 3D26-0566 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489330/opinion/Opinion_2026-0566.pdf

FRIVOLOUS FILINGS: A sanction order entered by the trial court marks the pro se litigant's end of the road, not only in the trial court, but also in the appellate court. Florida's appellate courts. Thus, if a pro se litigant is prohibited from filing papers in the lower court, the lower court obviously will not be entering written orders adjudicating such filings.

Without a lower court order, there's nothing for the appellate court to review. And without a lower court order, there can be no appellate court jurisdiction. Wilson v. State, 3D26-0859 (7/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489286/opinion/Opinion_2026-0859.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Separate convictions for sale, delivery, or possession with intent to sell or deliver hydromorphone and for possession of hydromorphone violate Double Jeopardy under the Blockburger test. Simple possession is subsumed by possession with intent to distribute; the former does not have any element that the latter does not. Medders v. State, 4D2025-0875 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489287/opinion/Opinion_2025-0875.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Separate convictions for sale, delivery, or possession with intent to sell or deliver hydromorphone and for possession of hydromorphone violate Double Jeopardy under the Blockburger test. It does not matter that the jury was instructed only on sale; the information doesn't just say "sell." It says "sell, deliver, or possess with an intent to sell..." In determining whether different charges "are based upon the same conduct for purposes of double jeopardy, only the charging document is considered. Medders v. State, 4D2025-0875 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489287/opinion/Opinion_2025-0875.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-IDENTICAL LANGUAGE: Trafficking in multiple types of the drugs that might comprise trafficking violates Double Jeopardy. This crime cuts to the substances' aggregate weight, rather than different crimes. "[W]e note an emerging district split on the question of whether identically worded indictments that purport to charge distinct criminal conduct are permissible." Medders v. State, 4D2025-0875 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489287/opinion/Opinion_2025-0875.pdf

A/ANY (GRAPPIN) TEST: When evaluating statutory language, the a/any test is a valid linguistic tool that is helpful in establishing the legislature's intended unit of prosecution. When the article "a" is used by the legislature in the text of the statute, the intent of the legislature is clear that each discrete act constitutes an event allowable unit of prosecution. On the other hand, use of the adjective "any" indicates an ambiguity that may require application of the rule of lenity. For "possession of 4 grams or more of any morphine, opium, hydromorphone, [etc.]," the "a/any test" counsels that the unit of prosecution is grams of any of these substances, rather than a particular one of the substances. Medders v. State, 4D2025-0875 (5/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489287/opinion/Opinion_2025-0875.pdf

GUIDELINE CALCULATION-CRIME OF VIOLENCE: Attempted carjacking is a crime of violence for purposes §2K2.1 guidelines calculation. Because Florida carjacking qualifies as a crime of violence, so does its attempt. USA v. Irons, No. 24-12112 (11th Cir. 5/26/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412112.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES-FIREARM ENHANCEMENT: Carrying a concealed firearm constitutes another felony in conjunction with the possession of a firearm by a felon, so that the §2K2.1(b)(6)(B) four-level increase applies. The additional element of concealment makes a concealed-carry violation different from—and more serious than—the possession prohibited by §922(g). USA v. Irons, No. 24-12112 (11th Cir. 5/26/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412112.pdf

CONDITION OF SUPERVISED RELEASE: Conditions in the written judgment–that Defendant must obtain a G.E.D. and submit to searches of his residence–must be vacated when not orally pronounced, but may be imposed upon re-sentencing. USA v. Irons, No. 24-12112 (11th Cir. 5/26/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412112.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES-FIREARM ENHANCEMENT (J. ABUDU, DISSENTING): Court erred in its application of the four-level enhancement for possession of a fiream based on his carrying a concealed firearm offense. §2K2.1(b)(6)(B) requires more than mere overlap between two firearm-related offenses; it necessitates that the firearm facilitate, or have the potential to facilitate, another felony offense that is distinctive from the other. "Here, the firearm did not facilitate the concealed-carry offense; it constituted it." The enhancement ends up punishing the same conduct when 'the gun was an essential element" of the predicate offense itself, resulting in a circular scheme...In ordinary English, it makes little sense to say that Irons's concealed firearm possession aids him in concealing a firearm....We should not apply the enhancement in such a circular, self-fulling manner." USA v. Irons, No. 24-12112 (11th Cir. 5/26/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412112.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Qualified immunity shields from suit a police officer acting within his discretionary authority unless a plaintiff establishes that the officer violated a constitutional right that was clearly established at the time of the alleged violation. Officers are entitled to qualified immunity where Plaintiff had overdosed on GHB and struggled with officers after she regained consciousness in the back seat of the patrol vehicle, resulting in her arm being broken. Officers had an arguable basis to seize Plaintiff under the emergency-aid doctrine. Precedents imposing a probable-cause requirement in emergency-aid situations are no longer good law. The less demanding objective-reasonable standard applies. Marut v. Phillips, No. 24-13309 (11th Cir. 5/22/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202413309.pdf

PROBABLE CAUSE: Probable cause does not require conclusive evidence and is not a high bar. Marut v. Phillips, No. 24-13309 (11th Cir. 5/22/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202413309.pdf

BOLSTERING: It is elemental in our system of jurisprudence that the jury is the sole arbiter of the credibility of witnesses. It is an invasion of the jury's exclusive province for one witness to offer his personal view on the credibility of a fellow witness. Cosme v. State, 2D2025-0001 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489146/opinion/Opinion_2025-0001.pdf

BOLSTERING: State improperly bolstered the victim's claims by eliciting testimony from 1) the CPT interviewer that he observed no signs of deception from the victim; that the victim had no motive to fabricate; that her disclosure, unlike in other cases, did not appear influenced; and that he found no inconsistencies" in her account; 2) from the school resource officer that the victim was successfully truth qualified; that she appropriately answered his questions; that she knows the difference between telling the truth and a lie"; and that he, from his perspective as a law enforcement officer, did not see any signs of deception with her"; and 3) another officer that based on his professional review of the reports and the victim's interviews that she was "reliable" and "very consistent" and that "each time she gave the account, it was described the same way," in contrast with children who lie. Cosme v. State, 2D2025-0001 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489146/opinion/Opinion_2025-0001.pdf

DON'T DO IT AGAIN: "[W]here the State has violated the defendant's due process rights so clearly and egregiously, we have no choice other than to order a new trial. We trust that the State will be mindful to avoid the same error again on remand and in other similar cases in the future." Cosme v. State, 2D2025-0001 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489146/opinion/Opinion_2025-0001.pdf

EVIDENCE-FABRICATION: In sex abuse case, evidence that the victim had viewed sexually explicit material is admissible in support of his defense of fabrication. Evidence that a child victim knew about certain sexual activities is relevant to a defendant's claim of fabrication. Cosme v. State, 2D2025-0001 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489146/opinion/Opinion_2025-0001.pdf

KIDNAPPING: Surplusage in the information–alluding to an attempt when the intended charge was kidnapping–is not fundamental error. "This court has not dealt with a situation, like this case, where surplusage exists in a charging document." For an unobjected-to error to be reversible, the error must reach down into the validity of the trial itself to the extent that a verdict of guilty could not have been obtained without the assistance of the alleged error. "Facundo knew the charge...[H]e was not misled as to the charge he faced, and he has not suffered any identified prejudice." Facundo v. State, 2D2025-1709 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489158/opinion/Opinion_2025-1709.pdf

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR-CONTEMPORANEOUS OBJECTION: Discarding the contemporaneous objection rule takes away the trial court's opportunity to address alleged errors and risks counsel allowing errors in the proceedings to go unchallenged and later using the error to a client's tactical advantage. fundamental error. Facundo v. State, 2D2025-1709 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489158/opinion/Opinion_2025-1709.pdf

DON'T DO IT AGAIN: "This court does not take the mistake by the State lightly. Facundo faced the loss of his liberty for the remainder of his life... [I]ssues like this should be avoided by the State taking a moment to double-check its charging documents. But, because the State's mistake was not contemporaneously objected to,...we affirm." Facundo v. State, 2D2025-1709 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489158/opinion/Opinion_2025-1709.pdf

VIOLENT CAREER CRIMINAL-ATTEMPTED MANSLAUGHTER: Attempted manslaughter by act is a qualifying offense under the VCC statute as a forcible felony under §776.08's catch-all provision because the use of physical force or violence against an individual is a necessary element of the crime of attempted manslaughter by act and because it involves a level of physical force or violence comparable" to that of an enumerated forcible felony—i.e., manslaughter. Conflict certified. Dunlap v. State, 6D2024-1627 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489172/opinion/Opinion_2024-1627.pdf

RECIDIVIST ENHANCEMENT: §775.084 permits the application of only one recidivist category to a defendant's sentence. Dunlap v. State, 6D2024-1627 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489172/opinion/Opinion_2024-1627.pdf

ERLINGER: Assuming without deciding that Erlinger applies to the VCC statute, Defendant has not met his heavy burden to show that there are no set of circumstances under which the statute would be valid. A facial constitutional challenge must fail unless no set of circumstances exists in which the statute can be constitutionally applied. Dunlap v. State, 6D2024-1627 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489172/opinion/Opinion_2024-1627.pdf

EXTRATERRITORIAL JURISDICTION: Florida's implied consent law authorizes a municipal officer's request for submission to a breath test outside of the municipality. State v. Hart, 6D2024-2164 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489173/opinion/Opinion_2024-2164.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant alleges that trial counsel's failure to preserve a right to appeal resulted in an involuntary plea, Court errs in summarily denying relief; the potential merit of the lost appeal is not relevant. Walker v. State, 6D2025-0004 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489175/opinion/Opinion_2025-0004.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Robinson v. State, 6D2025-2063 (5/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489179/opinion/

Opinion 2025-2063.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-IQ: (J. SOTOMAYOR, J., CONCURRING): Executing an individual who is intellectually disabled violates the 8th Amendment. There is no single approach to weighing multiple IQ scores. In cases presenting multiple IQ scores, courts should continue to consider multiple IQ scores in light of this Court's precedents and the views of medical experts. "If a conflict among the States or lower courts emerges and a case properly presents the issue, it may be appropriate for this Court to weigh in with more specific guidance about the permissible method or methods by which courts must analyze such scores. The Court rightly decides that it is inappropriate to do so in this case." Hamm v. Smith, No. 24–872 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/21/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-872_ec8f.pdf

EIGHTH AMENDMENT (J. THOMAS, DISSENTING): The Eighth Amendment prohibits cruel and unusual punishments. As originally understood, that prohibition concerns cruel and unusual methods of punishment. Because capital punishment need not be cruel and has not long fallen out of use, the Constitution allows it. Punishments like crucifixion or immolation are "cruel," but death, by itself, is not. Executing someone with a particular IQ does not implicate a method of execution at all. It is therefore beyond the scope of the Eighth Amendment. Hamm v. Smith, No. 24–872 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/21/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-872_ec8f.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-IQ (J. THOMAS, DISSENTING): "In Atkins v. Virginia... this Court held for the first time that convicted murderers...cannot be executed if they are deemed insufficiently intelligent, which the Court suggested would require that they had an IQ of 70 or below...Such persons could not be executed, the Court said, even if they 'know the difference between right and wrong,' even if they 'are competent to stand trial,' and even if they are intelligent enough to deserve other 'criminal sanctions.'...The Court did not pretend that the Constitution had ever been understood to impose such a rule." Hamm v. Smith, No. 24–872 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/21/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-872_ec8f.pdf

STARE DECISIS-DEATH PENALTY-INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY (J. THOMAS, DISSENTING): Under its modern approach to stare decisis, this Court has often concluded that precedents must be overruled. Atkins is egregiously wrong, unworkable, and has created no legitimate reliance interests. Prospective murderers who would argue that they are too unintelligent to be executed are not planning murders in reliance on this Court's Eighth Amendment jurisprudence. Stare decisis is therefore no obstacle. Hamm v. Smith, No. 24–872 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/21/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-872_ec8f.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Qualified immunity shields law enforcement officers acting within their discretionary authority unless a plaintiff establishes that the officer violated a constitutional right that was clearly established. Officer has qualified immunity for shooting a subject who continue to impose an immediate threat after his car was crashed in a PIT maneuver but he continued to engage the accelerator so heavily that his tires audibly squealed as his vehicle pushed into officer's car. It was not excessive force for the officer to fire one round to stop the suspect from pressing the accelerator. Bolton v. Sheriff of Coweta County, No. 23-12752 (11th Cir. 5/21/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312752.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: An officer who is present at the scene and who fails to take reasonable steps to protect the victim of another officer's use of excessive force can be held liable for his nonfeasance only when the officer is in a position to intervene and fails to do so. An officer cannot be liable for failure to intervene when there is no constitutional violation to thwart. Bolton v. Sheriff of Coweta County, No. 23-12752 (11th Cir. 5/21/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312752.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH SENTENCE-ERLINGER: Erlinger does not preclude the trial court from considering and weighing aggravators and mitigators for imposition of the death penalty. These determinations do not resemble the factual findings addressed in Erlinger. By its terms, considering and weighing aggravators and mitigators involves value judgment—not a fact intensive assessment of when and where certain crimes were committed. Wilcox v. State, SC2023-1498 (5/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489101/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1498%20&%20SC2024-0785.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Neither the Sixth nor Eighth Amendment requires a jury to make the sufficiency or weighing determinations called for by the death-penalty statute; nor is a jury constitutionally required to make any sentencing recommendation at all. Instead, as a matter of constitutional law, all the jury must do is unanimously find the existence of a statutory aggravating circumstance beyond a reasonable doubt. Wilcox v. State, SC2023-1498 (5/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489101/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1498%20&%20SC2024-0785.pdf

BRADY/GIGLIO: Defendant is not constitutionally entitled to the transcription of witness interviews. There is no Brady violation where the State did not have transcripts either. Wilcox v. State, SC2023-1498 (5/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489101/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1498%20&%20SC2024-0785.pdf

SIXTH AMENDMENT/SPEEDY TRIAL: The tension between Defendant having to choose between his right to a speedy trial and time for a new attorney to prepare does not entitle him to a new trial. Wilcox v. State, SC2023-1498 (5/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489101/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1498%20&%20SC2024-0785.pdf

TRANSCRIPTS-DUE PROCESS: Self-represented defendant who was given DVD recordings, which he could not access in jail, but not transcripts was not deprived of due process. Any injury he suffered was self-inflicted in that had he not chosen to waive his right to counsel his attorney could have viewed the recordings. Wilcox v. State, SC2023-1498 (5/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489101/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1498%20&%20SC2024-0785.pdf

FRANKLY, STRANGE (J. TANENBAUM, CONCURRING): "[P]etitioning for an extraordinary writ against The Florida Bar is, frankly, strange. To do so, essentially, is to ask this court to issue an extraordinary writ to itself. The Florida Bar is a mere agency of this court, and its officers act only under this court's authority." Arrazola Mendivil v. The Florida Bar, SC2026-0210 (5/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489102/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0210.pdf

ERLINGER: R. 3.800(a) is not the proper vehicle for raising a claim of error under Apprendi and its progeny. Thurman v. State, 6D2026-0949 (5/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489122/opinion/Opinion_2026-0949.pdf

VOP: A VOP affidavit need only allege the basic facts and need not be set forth with the specificity required in criminal indictments and informations. Reddick v. State, 1D2024-0612 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489051/opinion/Opinion_2024-0612.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: R 3.850 movants are permitted to amend defective pleadings only if they can be amended in good faith. But the court may not dismiss a motion for postconviction relief without leave to amend based on its conclusion that no good faith amendment would cure the deficiency. Norman v. State, 1D2025-0693 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489022/opinion/Opinion_2025-0693.pdf

APPEAL-POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-COUNSEL (J. WINOKUR, CONCURRING): The appointment of counsel in postconviction appeals is unauthorized. First, a postconviction appellant has no constitutional right to appointed counsel. Second, a postconviction appellant has no statutory right to appointed counsel. And third, we are prohibited from using, directly or indirectly, funds, resources, or employees of this state or its political subdivisions in appellate or collateral proceedings unless the use is constitutionally or statutorily mandated. Norman v. State, 1D2025-0693 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489022/opinion/Opinion_2025-0693.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: There simply cannot be a cognizable claim for ineffective assistance of appellate counsel where an Anders is filed and the appellate panel presumably conducted its own full and independent review of the record to discover any arguable issues apparent on the face of the record. A petition alleging ineffective assistance of appellate counsel constitutes an improper second bite of that apple. Jones v. State, 1D2025-1984 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489032/opinion/Opinion_2025-1984.pdf

APPEAL-MOOTNESS: Where one is challenging the legality of his sentence or seeking jail credit against that sentence, and he completes the sentence during the pendency of the appeal, the appeal may be dismissed as moot. Lynn v. State, 1D2025-2860 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489033/opinion/Opinion_2025-2860.pdf

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATORY: The party objecting to the other side's use of a peremptory challenge on racial grounds must: a) make a timely objection on that basis, b) show that the venireperson is a member of a distinct racial group, and c) request that the court ask the striking party its reason for the strike. If these initial requirements are met (step 1), the court must ask the proponent of the strike to explain the reason for the strike. At this point, the burden of production shifts to the proponent of the strike to come forward with a race-neutral explanation (step 2). If the explanation is facially race-neutral and the court believes that, given all the circumstances surrounding the strike, the explanation is not a pretext, the strike will be sustained (step 3). The court's focus in step 3 is not on the reasonableness of the explanation but rather its genuineness. Throughout this process, the burden of persuasion never leaves the opponent of the strike to prove purposeful racial discrimination. Carballo v. State, 3D24-0993 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489011/opinion/Opinion_2024-0993.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE: An appellate court must conclude the trial judge did not engage in the genuineness inquiry which Melbourne requires if the explanation advanced for a peremptory challenge is reasonable and the record is devoid of any indication that the judge considered relevant circumstances in denying him Defendant's peremptory strikes of a woman and an Asian man. Carballo v. State, 3D24-0993 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489011/opinion/Opinion_2024-0993.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE: Prior jury service is a valid, facially race- and gender-neutral reason for exercising a peremptory challenge. Carballo v. State, 3D24-0993 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489011/opinion/Opinion_2024-0993.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Where a motion to withdraw a plea] is filed after sentence has been imposed, the defendant bears the burden of establishing that a manifest injustice has occurred. Francois v. State, 3D25-1526 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489017/opinion/Opinion_2025-1526.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Court may not impose $200 in costs of prosecution, rather than the statutory minimum of $100 where the State did not request a higher amount. Maloney v. State, 4D2025-0667 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489050/opinion/Opinion_2025-0667.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: Court may not impose investigative costs which the State did not request prior to judgment. Maloney v. State, 4D2025-0667 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489050/opinion/Opinion_2025-0667.pdf

COSTS PER COUNT: $65 costs per count may be imposed under §939.185(1)(a) which authorizes assessment of the cost pursuant to a county ordinance. Maloney v. State, 4D2025-0667 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489050/opinion/Opinion_2025-0667.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-PLEA OFFER: A defendant may establish deficient performance where counsel's misadvice leads the defendant to reject a favorable plea. Counsel has a duty to provide reasonably accurate advice regarding both the strength of the state's case and the defendant's potential sentencing exposure. Inostroza v. State, 4D2025-0891 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489054/opinion/Opinion_2025-0891.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-PLEA OFFER: Attorney is ineffective for advising him Defendant that his case was "not a murder case" and that, at worst, he would be convicted of a lesser offense carrying a significantly lower sentence where Defendant had, while driving after drinking alcohol, struck the victim, hid the victim next to a dumpster and tried to conceal evidence of the accident. The bacterial infection resulting from the "sequela of multiple blunt force injuries" was not an intervening cause of death. An intervening occurrence does not cut off causation unless it is the sole cause of death. Inostroza v. State, 4D2025-0891 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489054/opinion/Opinion_2025-0891.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-PLEA OFFER: To establish that counsel was ineffective for advising Defendant to reject a favorable plea offer, a defendant is not required to present affirmative evidence, such as the trial judge's testimony, that the plea would have been accepted. Rather, the defendant must demonstrate a reasonable probability that the plea would have been entered and accepted. Inostroza v. State, 4D2025-0891 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489054/opinion/Opinion_2025-0891.pdf

SENTENCING: No provision of the constitution or statute requires a judge to articulate the reasons for not giving the statutory minimum sentence when the sentence falls between the statutory minimum and maximum. Davila v. State, 4D2025-1307 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489060/opinion/Opinion_2025-1307.pdf

DUAL JURY: To deal with Bruton issues, dual juries for codefendants may be used. Sturridge v. State, 4D2025-1788 (5/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2489065/opinion/Opinion_2025-1788.pdf

DEATH SENTENCE-METHOD OF EXECUTION: The anesthesia-less cut-down procedure for placing a venous line to administer lethal injection is not cruel and unusual punishment. Speculative and conclusory allegations that lethal injection protocols present a substantial risk of serious harm are insufficient to warrant an evidentiary hearing. Knight v. State, SC2026-0718 (5/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488907/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0718.pdf

DEATH WARRANT-DUE PROCESS: Florida's expedited process for issuance of a death warrant does not deprive prisoner of meaningful collateral proceedings to challenge his convictions and sentences of death. Knight v. State, SC2026-0718 (5/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488907/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0718.pdf

IMPEACHMENT-HEARSAY-ADMISSIONS OF PARTY OPPONENT: The requirement to provide a witness an opportunity to explain or deny the prior statement and for the opposing party to be afforded an opportunity to interrogate the witness on it does not apply to admissions of a party-opponent. Howard v. State, 6D2024-0667 (5/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488889/opinion/Opinion_2024-0667.pdf

LIFE IMPRISONMENT: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Nowling v. State, 6D2025-0879 (5/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488897/opinion/Opinion_2025-0879.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Marshall v. State, 6D2025-2525 (5/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488899/opinion/Opinion_2025-2525.pdf

ILLEGAL SENTENCE-PRR: R. 3.800(a) is not the proper vehicle for raising a claim of error under Apprendi and its progeny, including Alleyne. Plott had held that an Apprendi claim is cognizable under R. 3.800(a), but "we conclude that Plott is in tension with both Florida and federal precedent and must fall." Maye v. State, SC2023-1184 (5/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488786/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1184.pdf

ERLINGER: "Were Maye's challenge to the PRR statute properly raised, the State concedes that Florida's PRR statute is unconstitutional under the Supreme Court's decision in Erlinger...However, we need not reach that issue." Maye v. State, SC2023-1184 (5/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488786/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1184.pdf

ILLEGAL SENTENCE-HARMLESS ERROR (J. GROSSHANS, CONCURRING): Harmless error is doctrinally incompatible with the concept of an "illegal sentence." "Rule 3.800(a) does not define 'illegal sentence,' leaving significant work for the courts in determining its meaning and scope. I think it is fair to say that we have struggled to find one uniform standard that applies across the board...Whatever might be said of the compatibility and workability of these formulations, I think they convey that an illegal sentence means something more than mere legal error...Indeed, over the last thirty years, we have found that few errors meet rule 3.800(a)'s illegality standard." Maye v. State, SC2023-1184 (5/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488786/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1184.pdf

ERLINGER (J. LABARGA, DISSENTING): Apprendi, Alleyne, and Erlinger collectively embrace the essential principle of our constitutional democracy that no person convicted of a crime should serve a day of imprisonment longer than the maximum sentence prescribed by the criminal statute governing the crime he or she committed—unless supported by the factual determination of a unanimous jury...Unfortunately, the expansive protections established by these three landmark Supreme Court cases are, in practice, too often treated as mere suggestions, rather than binding constitutional constraints." Maye v. State, SC2023-1184 (5/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488786/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1184.pdf

ERLINGER (J. LABARGA, DISSENTING): "[T]he legacy of Apprendi is firmly established as a cornerstone of modern American constitutional law that limits judicial discretion in sentencing." "Skirting the question of whether Florida's Prison Releasee Reoffender Punishment Act is unconstitutional on its face and as applied to Maye, the majority has instead fixated on whether rule 3.800(a) was the correct procedural vehicle for Maye to have used to raise his claim. The majority concludes that the error claimed by Maye does not qualify as an 'illegal sentence' under rule 3.800(a) because it is curable..." Maye v. State, SC2023-1184 (5/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488786/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1184.pdf

HARMLESS ERROR (J. LABARGA, DISSENTING): "Originally designed as a narrow, pragmatic tool to conserve judicial resources, the harmless error doctrine has, unfortunately, grown into a frequent, and powerful, barrier for appellants. It encourages prosecutor misconduct, particularly during the closing argument phase where, regardless of how improper the argument may have been, it will likely be deemed harmless considering the strength of the prosecution's case. And, as in this case, it erases constitutional law by skipping the error-identification step." Maye v. State, SC2023-1184 (5/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488786/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1184.pdf

HARMLESS ERROR (J. LABARGA, DISSENTING): "Notwithstanding the widespread rhetorical emphasis on the importance of the rule of law, the State of Florida has a statute in place that violates the Fifth and Sixth Amendments of the Constitution of the United States. In each instance that a judge in this state enters an order enhancing a prisoner's sentence pursuant to the Prison Releasee Reoffender Punishment Act without a jury's factual determination beyond a reasonable doubt, the rule of law is ignored. There is no greater rule of law in our country than the Constitution of the United States. This Court should...rule that Florida's Prison Releasee Reoffender Punishment Act violates the Fifth and Sixth Amendments." Maye v. State, SC2023-1184 (5/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488786/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1184.pdf

ERLINGER: A judge is authorized to use judicial records, plea agreements, and colloquies between a judge and the defendant for the limited function of determining the fact of a prior conviction and the then-existing elements of that offense. The date a defendant was released from prison or jail and the nature of the qualifying offense are ministerial in nature and thus do not require jury findings. Sanderson v. State, 1D2024-1311 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488674/opinion/Opinion_2024-1311.pdf

VOP-VFOSC: When a VFOSC probationer is alleged to have violated probation other than a failure to pay costs, fines, or restitution, the court must make written findings as to whether or not the violent felony offender of special concern poses a danger to the community. The Sixth Amendment requires a jury to determine whether sentencing a defendant to a "nonstate prison sanction rather than a prison sentence could present a danger to the public. But the Court alone may make the VFOSC finding, upon a violation of probation. Sanderson v. State, 1D2024-1311 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488674/opinion/Opinion_2024-1311.pdf

MANDATE-JURISDICTION: An appellate court's mandate is the procedural vehicle by which jurisdiction transfers back to the trial court. The trial court lacks jurisdiction to comply with the appellate court's published opinion until the issuance of the mandate. "[W]hile we applaud the trial court's efficient compliance with our decision, and are loath to 'punish efficiency,' we must reverse the order because the trial court did not have jurisdiction to enter it at that time." The general rule is that an appeal of an order divests the trial court of jurisdiction except to those matters which do not interfere with the power of the appellate court to determine the issues which are on appeal. Touchton-Williams v. State, 1D2025-0677 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488675/opinion/Opinion_2025-0677.pdf

NUNC PRO TUNC: Nunc pro tunc orders are issued to correct clerical mistakes or refer to judicial acts which memorialize a previously taken judicial act. A nunc pro tunc entry is an entry made now, of something which was actually previously done, to have effect as to the former date. Its office is not to supply omitted action by the court, but to supply an omission in the record of an action really had where entry thereof was omitted through inadvertence or mistake. Touchton-Williams v. State, 1D2025-0677 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488675/opinion/Opinion_2025-0677.pdf

RESTITUTION: Court may not award restitution for the victim's

Medicare bill because it encompasses her Medicare Part B premium for a six-month coverage period, not medical treatment related to her injuries. Mitchell v. State, 1D2025-1024 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488690/opinion/Opinion_2025-1024.pdf

RESTITUTION: Court may not award restitution for the victim's car loan balance. Because insurance paid out the fair market value of the car, the remaining balance on the loan was a product of the victim's financial decision, not Defendant's conduct. Mitchell v. State, 1D2025-1024 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488690/opinion/Opinion_2025-1024.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: A summary denial of a Rule 3.850 motion is upheld only if the motion is legally insufficient or its allegations are conclusively refuted by the record. State's closing argument is not among the files and records that may conclusively refute this type of postconviction claim. Bing v. State, 1D2025-2592 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488713/opinion/Opinion_2025-2592.pdf

INVOLUNTARY PSYCHOTROPIC MEDICATION: While an involuntarily committed incompetent defendant has a significant liberty interest in avoiding the unwanted administration of psychotropic drugs, that liberty interest may be overridden where the safety of others is placed at risk. "The law, as well as common sense, dictates that a mentally incompetent person...may not refuse medication where the evidence demonstrates the requested treatment will reduce the likelihood he will sexually assault nursing staff or engage in violence against others." Pough v. State, 1D2025-2661 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488719/opinion/Opinion_2025-2661.pdf

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE: "[W]e are compelled to comment on Mr. Gleason's apparent use of artificial intelligence to prepare the briefs he filed with this court. His briefs cite numerous cases that do not exist, and they frequently quote case law for propositions that appear nowhere in the cases cited." This technology is very good at sounding right, but less adept at being right. "[W]e remind all litigants—both pro se and represented—that they must ensure the accuracy of their filings or risk the consequences." Gleason v. Marcus, 2D2024-2688 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488665/opinion/Opinion_2024-2688.pdf

INDIGENCE-PRIVATE/APPOINTED COUNSEL: Where defendant fired attorneys in 2nd degree murder case later amended to a first-degree capital murder case, Court may not approve JAC-compensated hiring of a 2nd seat/penalty phase attorney. Where the defendant has already retained private counsel, §27.511(7) prohibits the appointment of criminal conflict counsel to simultaneously represent the defendant in that case. Defendant must choose between keeping the one privately retained counselof his choice or dismissing his retained counsel and seeking court-appointed counsel, whether a public defender, criminal conflict counsel, or private court-appointed counsel. Question Certified. The Justice Administrative Commission v. Jackson, 3D22-2082 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488668/opinion/Opinion_2022-2082.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-WARRANT: Where local police seize evidence based on observations made by the FBI agents who entered the property pursuant to a search warrant, but the search warrant was never presented to the Defendant nor to the court (the State advised the trial court that the federal prosecutor said the file was sealed and "under no circumstances was I to provide this Court with any copies of that search warrant"), evidence must be suppressed. Absence of a search warrant in the court file shifts the burden of going forward to the prosecution. While the State does not bear the initial burden when a valid warrant exists, it must be able to produce the warrant and affidavit. There was no way for the trial court to determine that there was a substantial basis to conclude that probable cause existed for the search warrant, and the Court "just skipping over that part as to whether or not it's valid because I can't make a determination on the validity of the warrant" is improper. The good faith exception is inapplicable when the warrant and affidavit are not in the record. Cabrera v. State, 3D2022-2082 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488668/opinion/Opinion_2022-2082.pdf

INFORMATION: A charging document that substantially but imperfectly charges a crime is not fundamentally deficient. An information may be amended on the motion of the prosecuting attorney or defendant at any time prior to trial because of formal defects.Barroso v. State, 3D24-2114 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488728/opinion/Opinion_2024-2114.pdf

COSTS: Charges for "Crime Stoppers," and "Cost of Defense" apply to noncriminal municipal ordinance violations. Currington v. State, 3D24-2132 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488686/opinion/Opinion_2024-2132.pdf

JOA-ATTEMPTED KIDNAPPING: A defendant who takes a substantial, overt step toward committing kidnapping but is prevented from completing the confinement, abduction, or imprisonment can be charged with attempted kidnapping. Rushing toward two women and a child while yelling: "F it, I'm gonna just snatch the baby then" is attempted kidnapping. Triana v. State, 3D25-0504 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488695/opinion/Opinion_2025-0504.pdf

CHARGE-AMENDMENT: The court may allow the prosecutor to amend in open court a traffic citation alleging a criminal traffic offense to state a different traffic offense. No new traffic citation need be issued by the arresting officer. Williams v. State, 3D25-1000 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488735/opinion/Opinion_2025-1000.pdf

MOTION TO MITIGATE: Court did not err in denying Defendant's motion to reduce for special consideration his five consecutive 134-year terms in order to enable his release for deportation. Mullings v. State, 3D26-0197 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488715/opinion/Opinion_2026-0197.pdf

APPEAL-MOTION TO MITIGATE: An order denying a motion to correct, reduce, or modify a sentence is not appealable. Mullings v. State, 3D26-0197 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488715/opinion/Opinion_2026-0197.pdf

CONVICTION RELIEF: R. 3.850 contains no "manifest injustice" exception to the rule's time limitation or bar against filing successive postconviction motions. The mere incantation of the words "manifest injustice" does not make it so. Ramsey v. State, 3D26-0388 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488714/opinion/Opinion_2026-0388.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: To be considered timely filed as newly discovered evidence, the successive rule 3.851 motion was required to have been filed within one year of the date upon which the claim became discoverable through due diligence." Rolack v. State, 3D26-0646 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488742/opinion/Opinion_2026-0646.pdf

CRIMINAL PUNISHMENT CODE: The Criminal Punishment Code provides that the lowest permissible sentence calculated in a scoresheet is the floor, or bottom-limit of any sentence to be imposed, rather than its ceiling. The Criminal Punishment Code no longer contemplate upward departure sentences because generally the statutory maximum sentence is the highest possible sentence for any crime. Hernandez Morel v. State, 3D26-0675 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488721/opinion/Opinion_2026-0675.pdf

EXPERT: Court errs in directly declaring the expert status of a witness in front of the jury. Mock v. State, 4D2024-2970 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488710/opinion/Opinion_2024-2970.pdf

COMPETENCE: A presumption of competence attaches from a previous determination of competency to stand trial. Jackson v. State, 4D2025-1359 (5/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488722/opinion/

Opinion_2025-1359.pdf

RE-SENTENCING: Upon re-sentencing, Court may consider Defendant's disciplinary records while in prison serving the original sentence imposed. Manago v. State, 5D2024-1343 (5/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488639/opinion/Opinion_2024-1343.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Facts supporting a ground for departure must be proved by a preponderance of the evidence. State v. Rivernider, 5D2024-0156 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488500/opinion/Opinion_2024-0156.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Under §921.0026(2)(j), a finding that the crime was committed in an "unsophisticated manner" is insufficient for a downward departure; the two elements of "isolated incident" and "remorse" must also be shown. State v. Rivernider, 5D2024-0156 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488500/opinion/Opinion_2024-0156.pdf

SPECULATION-GENERAL CRIMINAL BEHAVIOR: Officer's testimony that "Typically, whenever you have that large quantity of...any controlled substance in conjunction with a box of plastic bags..." is inadmissible general criminal behavior evidence. General criminal behavior testimony based upon a law enforcement officer's observations and experience in the investigation of other cases is inadmissible as substantive proof of a defendant's guilt. Munnerlyn v. State, 5D2025-1102 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488503/opinion/

Opinion_2025-1102.pdf

PRESERVED ISSUE-OBJECTION-SPECULATION: Defendant's "speculation" objection is sufficient to preserve the issue of improper general criminal behavior evidence. An objection as to relevance or that any probative value would have been outweighed by unfair prejudice may have been better or more appropriate than simply "speculation," but no magic words are needed. "While the relevance and section 90.403-based objections might deserve a higher grade on a law school exam, we find Appellant's 'speculation' objection to have sufficiently alerted the trial court to the issue."
Munnerlyn v. State, 5D2025-1102 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488503/opinion/Opinion_2025-1102.pdf

HARMLESS ERROR: Courts are also less likely to find an error harmless where the State relies on the erroneously admitted evidence during its closing argument and opening statement. Munnerlyn v. State, 5D2025-1102 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488503/opinion/Opinion_2025-1102.pdf

PROBATION-CONDITIONS: A special condition of probation is invalid if it (1) has no relationship to the crime of which the offender was convicted, (2) relates to conduct which is not in itself criminal, and (3) requires or forbids conduct which is not reasonably related to future criminality. Court may not impose special conditions of probation prohibiting Defendant from acting as a signor on another's bank, credit card, or financial account; having direct access to another's funds; and engaging in any business with anyone over the age of 65. The first two special conditions special conditions are neither inherently criminal nor reasonably related to future criminality. The third is illegally overbroad because Defendant could violate it unintentionally, for example, via an online purchase. Thime v. State, 6D-2023-2089 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488517/opinion/Opinion_2023-2089.pdf

JURISDICTION DURING APPEAL: Court lacks jurisdiction to enter a restitution order after Defendant filed a notice of appeal. Thime v. State, 6D-2023-2089 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488517/opinion/Opinion_2023-2089.pdf

CONTINUANCE: For a motion for continuance concerning the absence of a witness, the defendant must show: (1) prior due diligence to obtain the witness's presence; (2) substantially favorable testimony would have been forthcoming; (3) the witness was available and willing to testify; and (4) the denial of the continuance caused material prejudice. Defendant is not entitled to a continuance where he waited until a week before trial to inform his counsel about two witnesses; claimed the witnesses were present when the incident occurred but did not describe what they would say at trial; and said nothing about the witnesses' availability and willingness to testify. Simon v. State, 6D2024-2172 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488528/opinion/Opinion_2024-2172.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Griffin v. State, 6D-2025-1176 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488530/opinion/Opinion_2025-1176.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Abrams v. State, 6D2025-1194 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488532/opinion/Opinion_2025-1194.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. King v. State, 6D2025-1332 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488536/opinion/Opinion_2025-1332.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Mitchell v. State, 6D2025-1432 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488537/opinion/Opinion_2025-1432.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Taylor v. State, 6D2025-2165 (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488540/opinion/Opinion_2025-2165.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term “life” is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Mendez v. State, 6D2026-0185 (5/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488544/opinion/Opinion_2026-0185.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term “life” is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Zamarano v. State, (5/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488545/opinion/Opinion_2026-0244.pdf

JUROR INTERVIEW: A party who has reason to believe that the verdict may be subject to legal challenge may move for permission to interview a juror about false statements during voir dire if the complaining party establishes that the information is relevant and material to jury service in the case, 2) the juror concealed the Iformation during questioning and 3) the failure to disclose the information was not attributable to the complaining party’s lack of diligence. Defendant is not entitled to conduct a post-trial juror interview about an prior misdemeanor conviction on an alcohol-related reckless driving offense which the juror had not disclosed where it showed nothing material to the case. Drunkard v. State, 1D2024-1844 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488357/opinion/Opinion_2024-1844.pdf

TWELVE PERSON JURY: The Sixth Amendment does not require a twelve-person jury. Drunkard v. State, 1D2024-1844 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488357/opinion/Opinion_2024-1844.pdf

JUROR INTERVIEW (J. BILBREY, J., CONCURRING): A motion for a postconviction juror must allege facts showing materiality of the nondisclosure. Drunkard v. State, 1D2024-1844 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488357/opinion/Opinion_2024-1844.pdf

12 PERSON JURY (J. BILBREY, J., CONCURRING): "We cannot overrule the binding precedent given by the United States Supreme Court in Williams v. Florida, 399 U.S. 78, 86 (1970). Drinkard notes in his initial brief that the holding in Williams has been criticized, and strongly so, by Justice Gorsuch...In our court Williams has had both a defender...and a critic...But unless the United States Supreme Court chooses to reconsider Williams, in Florida criminal trials a twelve-person jury is only required for capital cases. Drunkard v. State, 1D2024-1844 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488357/opinion/Opinion_2024-1844.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-MOOTNESS: Where one is seeking jail credit against a sentence, and he completes the sentence during the pendency of the appeal, the appeal may be dismissed as moot. Parker v. State, 1D2024-3347 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488364/opinion/Opinion_2024-3347.pdf

SELF REPRESENTATION: Generally, a criminal defendant cannot proceed pro se while represented by counsel. Davis v. State, 1D2025-2929 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488372/opinion/Opinion_2025-2929.pdf

INTERLOCUTORY APPEAL-VOP-JURISDICTION: An order granting a motion to suppress in a violation of probation proceeding but not dismissing the affidavit of violation of probation is not an appealable order. Appellate court has no interlocutory jurisdiction to hear State's appeal of the granting of a motion to suppress in a VOP proceeding. R. 9.140(c)(1)(B) permits interlocutory appeals of suppression orders "before trial." A VOP hearing is not "before trial." There is no trial in the probation violation context, and therefore there is no order "suppressing before trial." State v. Brady, 2D2025-0390 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488348/opinion/Opinion_2025-0390.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-LESSER INCLUDED: The giving of an instruction on a lesser offense is a matter of discretion for the trial judge, who must determine whether the charging document and evidence at trial support the giving of the instruction on the lesser offense as a permissive lesser included offense. Rivera-Enriquez v. State, 3D24-2154 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488387/opinion/Opinion_2024-2154.pdf

INFORMATION-AMENDMENT: The state may substantively amend an information midtrial unless it prejudices the defendant's substantial rights. Rivera-Enriquez v. State, 3D24-2154 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488387/opinion/Opinion_2024-2154.pdf

ABUSE OF DISCRETION: Discretion is abused when the judicial action is arbitrary, fanciful, or unreasonable, which is another way of saying that discretion is abused only where no reasonable man would take the view adopted by the trial court. Rivera-Enriquez v. State, 3D24-2154 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488387/opinion/Opinion_2024-2154.pdf

BOLSTERING: Allowing one witness to offer a personal view on the credibility of a fellow witness is an invasion of the province of the jury to determine a witness's credibility. It is especially harmful for a police witness to give his opinion of a witness's credibility. Officer who testified that he reviewed the child victim's video recorded statement and based on her demeanor and his experience found it to be genuine constitutes improper bolstering. Medrano Chavez v. State, 3D25-0800 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488371/opinion/Opinion_2025-0800.pdf

SUPPRESSION HEARING: Court does not abuse discretion in denying State's motion to continue the suppression hearing and granting Defendant's motion to suppress where State had not contacted any of the officers before the hearing. State v. Paul, 3D25-0037 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488363/opinion/Opinion_2025-0037.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: R. 3.850 contains no 'manifest injustice' exception to the rule's two-year time limitation or bar against filing successive postconviction motions. Claims of ineffective assistance of counsel filed more than two years after the defendant's judgment and sentence became final are untimely. Someillan v. State,3D25-2397 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488375/opinion/Opinion_2025-2397.pdf

RESTITUTION-JURY FINDING: A jury is not required to decide the restitution amount. The judge can make that determination. Jones v.

State, 4D2025-1747 (5/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488392/opinion/Opinion_2025-1747.pdf

OPENING LINE OF MY FUTURE NOVEL: "Things went well for Blair until he recruited Sequoia Quixote." USA v. Blair, No. 23-13642 (11th Cir. 5/1/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313642.pdf

PLOT OF MY FUTURE NOVEL: "Anthony Blair had quite the deal for his friends and associates: all-expenses-paid vacations to Costa Rica. The only catch? They would have to bring back 'souvenirs' in their luggage—things like stuffed animals, coffee, and, most importantly, canned fruits and vegetables. When the travelers returned, Blair would meet them and collect just the cans (the rest was theirs to keep). The cans, as the reader may have suspected, contained neither fruit nor vegetables, but cocaine." USA v. Blair, No. 23-13642 (11th Cir. 5/1/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313642.pdf

SIXTH AMENDMENT-PURPOSEFUL INTRUSION: Government did not intrude on Defendant's attorney-client relationship by engaging as a cooperating witness the person who it knew to be paying for Defendant's attorney. That's not enough. Purposeful intrusion refers to intentional efforts to learn about a defendant's defense strategy. USA v. Blair, No. 23-13642 (11th Cir. 5/1/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313642.pdf

TEXTS-EVIDENCE-AUTHENTICATION: Evidence is authenticated if the presenter shows that it is what he claims it to be. Only some competent evidence is needed, and circumstantial evidence can suffice.

Texts and photos extracted from Defendant's phone are admissible notwithstanding that the extraction data contained date labels from four years in the future. USA v. Blair, No. 23-13642 (11th Cir. 5/1/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313642.pdf

EVIDENCE-PHONE EXTRACTION: Cellebrite is a plug-and-play technology that requires no special skill or knowledge to operate. Cellebrite evidence needs no expert testimony to be admitted. The testimony of the agents who plugged in the phone and ran the Cellebrite program is sufficient. USA v. Blair, No. 23-13642 (11th Cir. 5/1/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313642.pdf

EVIDENCE-CHARACTER-PROSECUTOR: Defendant is not entitled to call a former Assistant United State Attorney to testify about a cooperating witness's character for truthfulness. USA v. Blair, No. 23-13642 (11th Cir. 5/1/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313642.pdf

DELIBERATE INDIFFERENCE: A deliberate indifference instruction should be given only when there is a high probability that the defendant purposefully avoided learning all of the facts in order to have a defense in the event of a subsequent prosecution." But no error exists if the evidence could support both actual knowledge or deliberate ignorance and the jury was instructed on both. USA v. Blair, No. 23-13642 (11th Cir. 5/1/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313642.pdf

PROCEDURALLY UNREASONABLE SENTENCE: A sentence is procedurally unreasonable if there is a significant procedural error like improper calculation of a Guidelines range, failure to adequately explain the sentence, or failure to consider the sentencing factors. Using the words "procedurally unreasonable" is not enough for a cognizable sentencing challenge. USA v. Blair, No. 23-13642 (11th Cir. 5/1/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313642.pdf

SUBSTANTIVELY UNREASONABLE SENTENCE: A sentence is substantively unreasonable if, but only if, the reviewing court is left with the definite and firm conviction that the district court committed a clear error of judgment in weighing the sentencing factors. Individuals who cooperate are not similarly situated to those who provide no help to the government and go to trial. USA v. Blair, No. 23-13642 (11th Cir. 5/1/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313642.pdf

COMPETENCY: Once Defendant's competency has been raised, the court must conduct a competency hearing and make a finding. But a status hearing may constitute a sufficient competency hearing if the court reviews a written competency evaluation and makes an independent finding that the defendant is competent to proceed. "We acknowledge that in the past we have affirmed cases like this but have remanded for entry of a written order…[but] [i]n Santiago-Gonzalez, the supreme court made it clear that remand is unnecessary if the appellant fails to show the trial court's error was fundamental." Leeks v. State, 2D2024-2340 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488234/opinion/Opinion_2024-2340.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A single, generalized sentence does not obligate the postconviction court to treat that sentence as a separate involuntary plea claim. A postconviction court must address claims that are fairly presented in the motion, but the court is not required to invent (and address) claims that the motion never fairly articulated in the first place. For each claim and subclaim, the motion should identify the specific act or omission complained of, explain why that act or omission matters under a recognizable legal theory, and allege the facts showing entitlement to relief on that theory. Mejia v. State, 2D2025-0288 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488235/opinion/Opinion_2025-0288.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: When confronted with an inartfully drafted pro se motion under R. 3.850, the court should proceed in three steps. 1) It should determine whether the motion, read liberally but fairly, actually presents a distinct claim or subclaim at all. At a minimum, every claim and subclaim must identify the act or omission complained of, connect that act or omission to a recognizable legal theory, and allege facts showing entitlement to relief under that theory. 2) If the motion does fairly present a distinct claim or subclaim, the court should determine whether that claim is legally sufficient, legally insufficient but curable, legally insufficient and incurable, legally sufficient but conclusively refuted by the record, or legally sufficient and not conclusively refuted by the record. 3) If it concludes that a motion only ambiguously suggests a possible additional theory, the court need not sua sponte treat that theory as a distinct claim. Mejia v. State, 2D2025-0288 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488235/opinion/Opinion_2025-0288.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A defendant may not later "go behind the plea" by contradicting sworn representations made during a plea colloquy. Sworn acknowledgments, when coupled with an adequate advisement of sentencing consequences, conclusively refute later allegations that a plea was induced by misunderstanding or undisclosed sentencing exposure. Mejia v. State, 2D2025-0288 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488235/opinion/Opinion_2025-0288.pdf

RENEWAL OF OFFER OF ATTORNEY: Where Defendant represented herself in her first-degree murder, Court's failure to offer her a lawyer to represent her at the sentencing phase, however was fundamental error. The failure to renew the offer of counsel at sentencing cannot be considered harmless even when a defendant faces a mandatory or predetermined sentence. "The reason why the renewal of the offer of counsel is required is straightforward: the requirement of a mandatory sentence does not negate a criminal defendant's constitutional right to counsel as to other aspects of the sentencing process." Blanchard v. State, 5D2024-1293 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488247/opinion/Opinion_2024-1293.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-NOTICE: State's failure to provide timely notice within 45 days of arraignment does not preclude it from seeking the death penalty; but untimely notice would result in the State's forfeiture of its ability to have its own expert examination of the criminal defendant. "Notably, neither the Legislature by statute nor the Florida Supreme Court in its rulemaking capacity has provided any wiggle room for timely notice to mean anything other than 45 days from arraignment in a capital case." There is no second bite at the apple exception in a death penalty resentencing case. Jordan v. State, 5D2025-1210 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488253/opinion/Opinion_2025-1210.pdf

SENTENCING-JUVENILE-CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: A disposition order must specify the maximum penalty defined by statute and the amount of time served in secure detention before disposition. A trial court is required to grant predisposition credit for time served on a determinate commitment for an offense such as a misdemeanor that will necessarily conclude before the juvenile reaches the age at which DJJ's authority ends. J.J.A. v. State, 5D2025-1759 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488254/opinion/Opinion_2025-1759.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's plea was involuntary, entitling him to withdraw it, where his counsel misadvised him that if he took a plea he could later appeal the sentence and "be out." Affirmative misadvice of counsel provides basis to allow withdrawal of plea. Williams v. State, 6D2024-0350 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488259/opinion/Opinion_2024-0350.pdf

SEX OFFENDER PROBATION: The condition of sex offender probation that Defendant is precluded only from residing within 1000 feet of any school, daycare center, park, playground or other place where children regularly congregate does not restrict him from visiting his parents' home. Scanlon v. State, 6D2025-0013 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488262/opinion/Opinion_2025-0013.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Tullis v. State, 6D2025-2211 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488265/opinion/Opinion_2025-2211.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Oliver v. State, 6D2025-2562 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488266/opinion/Opinion_2025-2562.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Heflin v. State, 6D2025-3039 (5/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488267/opinion/Opinion_2025-3039.pdf

APRIL 2026

POSTCONVICTION DNA TESTING: Under §925.11 and R.3.853, a prisoner under sentence of death is entitled to the full underlying DNA testing data, not merely the conclusion, for a qualified bioinformaticist to perform a statistical analysis where FDLE lacks the capability to make a full analysis. Duckett v. State, SC2026-0528 (4/30/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488197/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0528.pdf

POSTCONVICTION DNA TESTING (J. TANENBAUM, DISSENTING): "[T]he defendant now wants, basically, the 'source code' for the testing so that his expert can review and perhaps opine about the reliability of the test results...The defendant undoubtedly is using the DNA testing process as an impermissible 'fishing expedition.' Simply put, though section 925.11 establishes an independent right of action, the action is disposed of once the testing is ordered and the results provided. It does not create a new 'mini-trial' over whether the DNA testing results are probative of the defendant's guilt or innocence." Duckett v. State, SC2026-0528 (4/30/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488197/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0528.pdf

DEATH SENTENCE-REVIEW (J. TANENBAUM, DISSENTING): "[T]he court has routinely expanded its authority based on its own apparent, non-textual view that it has perpetual authority over the case in which the death penalty was imposed, even if the judgment itself has become final...Having taken more of a 'might makes right' approach starting in the 1990s and continuing through present day, this court never has engaged in a textual analysis to support this otherwise raw exercise of power." Duckett v. State, SC2026-0528 (4/30/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488197/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0528.pdf

STARE DECISIS (J. TANENBAUM, DISSENTING): "We must continuously police our own jurisdictional boundaries; no one can do it for us. Ensuring that we act only within constitutional constraints is an ongoing exercise in self discipline. Doing so is the true demonstration of judicial restraint. Duckett v. State, SC2026-0528 (4/30/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488197/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0528.pdf

ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT: A written sentencing order must conform to the orally pronounced sentence, and where there is conflict, the orally pronounced sentence prevails. Luther v. State, 1D2024-0041 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488097/opinion/Opinion_2024-0041.pdf

INEFFECTIVE APPELLATE COUNSEL: There simply cannot be a cognizable claim for ineffective assistance of appellate counsel where the appellate court under the Anders process in essence determined that the appellant had received his constitutionally guaranteed right to effective assistance from appellate counsel. Brown v. State, 1D2025-1887 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488112/opinion/Opinion_2025-1887.pdf

JUVENILE DISPOSITION: Court may not depart from the DJJ's recommended placement without a legally sufficient foundation identifying significant information that the Department has overlooked, failed to sufficiently consider, or misconstrued. The court must do more than place generalized reasons on the record; it must engage in a well-reasoned and complete analysis of the PDR and the type of facility to which the trial court intends to send the child. K.K.J., a child v. State, 1D2025-1956 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488126/opinion/Opinion_2025-1956.pdf

ERLINGER: An Erlinger error is harmless where the record demonstrates, beyond a reasonable doubt, that, had the enhancement issues been submitted to a jury, a rational jury would have found that the defendant qualified for an enhanced sentence. If the record plainly and unequivocally establishes that the defendant qualifies for the enhancement, it is not necessary for the court to delve into the Erlinger constitutional issue. Madison v. State, 3D23-1575 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488111/opinion/Opinion_2023-1575.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Erroneous strategic prediction about the outcome of a trial is not necessarily deficient performance. Proano v. State, 3D24-1771 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488119/opinion/Opinion_2024-1771.pdf

COSTS: §939.185(1)(a) provides the board of county commissioners may adopt by ordinance an additional court cost, not to exceed $65 to be imposed by the court when a person is found guilty of any felony. Porter v. State, 4D2024-0961 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488131/opinion/Opinion_2024-0961.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROBABLE CAUSE-TRAFFIC STOP: An officer may stop a car which sped through a densely populated entertainment district on a narrow, consisting two-lane road, passing other cars. Probable cause does not require certainty or precise measurement. Legality in the abstract does not resolve whether conduct is careless under the circumstances. Brooks v. State, 4D2025-0669 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488137/opinion/Opinion_2025-0669.pdf

JOA-CRIMINAL MISCHIEF: Suspicions alone cannot satisfy the State's burden of proving guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. Defendant cannot be convicted of criminal mischief based on the victim's testimony that he saw a silhouette and had a hunch that it was the Defendant based on prior threats. Baker v. State, 4D2025-1240 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488141/opinion/Opinion_2025-1240.pdf

WEAPON: An object wrapped in a towel and possibly used to cut or puncture the victim's tires cannot support the charge of armed trespass. Defendant is entitled To JOA where no witness observed or could identify the object Defendant used an object to deflate the tires where it was not used in a way to cause great bodily harm. Baker v. State, 4D2025-1240 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488141/opinion/

Opinion_2025-1240.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-AFFIDAVIT: An affidavit is not properly sworn where it asserts that "the foregoing motion is true, and correct to the best of my knowledge, understanding." Malcolm v. State, 4D2025-1566 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488140/opinion/Opinion_2025-1566.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: The purported discovery of a twenty-year plea offer raises a facially sufficient claim of newly discovered evidence. Trial counsel's knowledge of the plea offer is not imputed to the defendant for purposes of the newly discovered fact exception of Rule 3.850(b)(1). Conflict certified. Malcolm v. State, 4D2025-1566 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488140/opinion/Opinion_2025-1566.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Pantzer v. State, 4D2025-3356 (4/29/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2488149/opinion/Opinion_2025-3356.pdf

JOA-SEX BATTERY: Defendant cannot be convicted of violating §794.011(2)(a) by having union with the victim's anus with his mouth. Penetration is required for this specific charge. Armstrong v. State, 5D2024-1508 (4/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487885/opinion/Opinion_2024-1508.pdf

VOIR DIRE-DEFENDANT NOT TESTIFYING: State must not raise with potential jurors be seen driving the defendant may not testify. "The prosecutor's repeated, unobjected-to comments during voir dire on the various reasons a defendant...would choose to remain silent appear to come within those high risk errors warned about by the Florida Supreme Court in Marston." Owens v. State, 5D2025-1866 (4/24/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487733/opinion/Opinion_2025-1866.pdf

VOIR DIRE-DEFENDANT NOT TESTIFYING (J. LAMBERT, CONCURRING): "[S]ignificantly, the prosecutor here did not respond to the venire member's inquiry of wanting to hear both sides by simply referring back to the trial court's earlier instructions. Instead, the prosecutor provided the prospective jurors with many reasons why a defendant in a criminal trial may choose not to testify, including that Owens may not want to answer questions from the prosecutor and that his counsel may advise him not to testify. Owens v. State, 5D2025-1866 (4/24/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487733/opinion/Opinion_2025-1866.pdf

MOTION TO DISMISS: In considering a motion to dismiss, the State is entitled to the most favorable construction of the evidence, and all inferences should be resolved against the defendant. Roster v. State, 6D2023-4107 (4/24/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487905/opinion/Opinion_2023-4107.pdf

COST OF EXTRADITION: Extradition costs are costs of prosecution authorized under §938.27(1). Hart v. State, 6D2024-1345 (4/24/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487926/opinion/

Opinion_2024-1345.pdf

FARETTA: Once a court determines that a competent defendant of his or own free will has knowingly and intelligently waived the right to counsel, the dictates of Faretta are satisfied, the inquiry is over, and the defendant may proceed unrepresented. Absent a substantial change in circumstances that would cause the trial court to question its original ruling on the defendant's request for self-representation, there is no concomitant requirement to revisit Faretta every time the offer of counsel is subsequently renewed and rejected. but the court must renew an offer of counsel at each crucial stage of the proceedings. Bandera-Valier v. State, 6D2024-1801 (4/24/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487940/opinion/Opinion_2024-1801.pdf

FARETTA-VOP: Court must renew an offer of counsel at each crucial stage of the proceedings, including after it finds Defendant in violation of probation and before imposing sentence. Conflict certified. Bandera-Valier v. State, 6D2024-1801 (4/24/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487940/opinion/Opinion_2024-1801.pdf

FARETTA-VOP (J. KAMOUTSAS, CONCURRING): "[T]he remand in this case could result in the exact same sentence and exact same outcome—including Appellant's declining counsel again. All in all, I write out of concern that this seems to place form over substance, promote gamesmanship in seeking self-representation, serve as a reversible error trap for trial judges, and could lead ultimately to an absurd result, which does not seem to entirely comport with a body of Florida Supreme Court precedent." Bandera-Valier v. State, 6D2024-1801 (4/24/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487940/opinion/Opinion_2024-1801.pdf

MANDATE-JUVENILE OFFENDER-RESENTENCING: Resentencing for juvenile offenders is not required unless a sentence is for life or a functional equivalent. Generally, a mandate communicates the appellate court's judgment to the lower court and directs the lower court's action. However, t]ere are limited exceptions to this broad and important rule. One exception is when an intervening decision by a higher court supersedes the legal basis of the appellate court's mandate before the trial court's judicial labor is complete. The trial court may then disregard the mandate to comply with the new legal standards. Maxwell v. State, 6D2025-0756 (4/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487947/opinion/Opinion_2025-0756.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR OF MARIJUANA: Court does not need to decide whether the smell of fresh marijuana alone gives an officer probable cause to search a vehicle where in addition to the officer saw uncontained flakes of marijuana. Wilson v. State, 6D2025-1402 (4/24/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487948/opinion/Opinion_2025-1402.pdf

APPEAL-REPRESENTED DEFENDANT: A defendant may not trigger the appellate court's jurisdiction by filing a pro se notice of appeal while represented by counsel. A defendant has no right on appeal to represent himself and to be represented by counsel at the same time. The defendant has no right to partially represent himself and, at the same time, be partially represented by counsel. Appellant's pro se notice of appeal is a nullity. Campoverde v. State, 6D2025-1402 (4/24/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487948/opinion/Opinion_2025-1402.pdf

DEATH WARRANT-PUBLIC RECORDS: A prisoner under sentence of death has no freestanding due process claim right to discovery of documents relating to the use of lethal injection untethered to any claim cognizable under R. 3.851.15. Hitchcock v. State, SC2026-0574 (4/23/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487860/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0574.pdf

DEATH SENTENCE: "[W]e do not recognize an independent claim of actual innocence in postconviction proceedings...Florida's refusal to recognize postconviction actual innocence claims does not violate the Eighth Amendment." Hitchcock v. State, SC2026-0574 (4/23/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487860/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0574.pdf

EVIDENCE-TEXT MESSAGES: "McClain claims that the court erred in permitting the State to introduce text messages to his girlfriend in the days leading to the crimes, because the messages impermissibly showed an improper character trait with which McClain acted in conformity, as any feelings McClain had in days prior to the crime were not probative of a material fact at issue. We find that any error in admitting the messages was harmless beyond a reasonable doubt." McClain v. State, 1D2024-1097 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487703/opinion/Opinion_2024-1097.pdf

SENTENCING-DEPARTURE: Whether a trial court should impose a departure sentence is a judgment call within the sound discretion of the court and will be sustained on review absent an abuse of discretion. Webb v. State, 1D2025-2457 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487705/opinion/Opinion_2025-2457.pdf

VOP-GUILTY PLEA: A defendant cannot enter a plea to an alleged violation of probation. Entering an admission to a violation of probation is not the same as entering a plea to a charge in the first instance. "There simply is no such thing as a plea to a charged VOP...Rather, the statute gives a probationer the option to 'admit' that the charged VOP is true, or to not admit it to be true." Edwards v. State, 2D2025-1190 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487692/opinion/Opinion_2025-1190.pdf

JOA: The standard of review historically applied to a determination of the legal sufficiency of evidence to support a criminal conviction, at least where there is some direct evidence, is simply whether the State presented competent, substantial evidence to support the verdict, regardless of whether the State presented only purely circumstantial evidence of guilt. Walton v. State, 3D24-0485 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487740/opinion/Opinion_2024-0485.pdf

SEX OFFENSE-OTHER BAD ACTS: Evidence of the defendant's commission of other acts of child molestation is admissible regardless of whether the charged and collateral offenses occurred in the familial context or whether they share any similarity. Juarbe v. State, 3D24-1706 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487743/opinion/Opinion_2024-1706.pdf

OPENING THE DOOR: As an evidentiary principle, the concept of "opening the door" allows the admission of otherwise inadmissible testimony to qualify, explain, or limit testimony or evidence previously admitted. The concept of "opening the door" is based on considerations of fairness and the truth seeking function of a trial. Juarbe v. State, 3D24-1706 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487743/opinion/Opinion_2024-1706.pdf

PRO SE/REPRESENTED DEFENDANT: The submission of pro se motions on the Defendant's behalf by someone who is not a licensed is not permitted. "We need not, and therefore do not, opine as to the appropriate mechanism for a party subject to a trial court order barring further pro se filings to seek review of that order." Craft v. State, 3D26-0701 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487762/opinion/Opinion_2026-0701.pdf

SECOND AMENDMENT: Statements of public officials concerning the right "to keep and bear arms" under the Second Amendment are not admissible to show Defendant's state of mind during the commission of the crimes. "[T]ough talk by politicians about the Second Amendment or the war against crime does not tend to prove either the subjective state of mind of a given defendant or whether the defendant's belief was objectively reasonable." Wilson v. State, 4D2025-0250 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487719/opinion/Opinion_2025-0250.pdf

SENTENCING: Court may not impose a general sentence for multiple counts; it must impose an individual sentence for each count. Wilson v. State, 4D2025-0250 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487719/opinion/Opinion_2025-0250.pdf

SIX PERSON JURY: A six-person jury does not violate the Sixth and Fourteenth Amendments. Wilson v. State, 4D2025-0250 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487719/opinion/Opinion_2025-0250.pdf

VOP-HEARSAY: Hearsay evidence is admissible in a probation revocation hearing to prove a violation of probation, but may not form the sole basis for revocation. The hearsay evidence must be supported by non-hearsay evidence. Mervil v. State, 4D2025-1385 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487721/opinion/Opinion_2025-1385.pdf

EVIDENCE-COCAINE: A sufficiently experienced officer may opine regarding the identity of crack cocaine. Mervil v. State, 4D2025-1385 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487721/opinion/Opinion_2025-1385.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: "We know of no principle or case, nor has one been cited to us, which holds that due process includes the right of an express explanation on why a motion to downward depart was denied. We decline to recognize such a right." Ferguson v. State, 4D2025-1723 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487722/opinion/Opinion_2025-1723.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Florida v. State, 4D2025-3601 (4/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487725/opinion/

Opinion 2025-3601.pdf

FIREARMS: The Second Amendment does not protect those weapons not typically possessed by law-abiding citizens for lawful purposes. Machineguns are not protected by the Second Amendment as weapons in common use for lawful purposes. USA v. Alsenat, No. 24-14058 (11th Cir. 4/21/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202414058.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: When an officer makes a brief investigatory stop of persons or vehicles that falls short of a traditional arrest, the Fourth Amendment is satisfied if the officer's action is supported by reasonable suspicion to believe that criminal activity may be afoot. District of Columbia v. R.W., No. 25–248 (US S. Ct. 4/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-248_8m58.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: Unprovoked flight by occupants of a suspicious vehicle justifies the investigatory detention of the driver who remained behind. "We need not determine whether that connection alone supported reasonable suspicion because R. W. was in the driver's seat and—after the passengers fled from the car—began backing out of the parking space, ignoring the car's open back door." District of Columbia v. R.W., No. 25–248 (US S. Ct. 4/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-248_8m58.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: The Fourth Amendment requires that a court slosh its way through a factbound morass. There may be no easy-to-apply legal test or on/off switch, but one thing is clear: The 'totality of the circumstances requires courts to consider the whole picture. Pretending that the most revealing aspect of the encounter did not happen --the compelling fact that two individuals fled the vehicle as soon as they spotted the police car--is incompatible with the required totality-of-the-circumstances approach. District of Columbia v. R.W., No. 25–248 (US S. Ct. 4/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-248_8m58.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS-EXTRINSIC: Extrinsic evidence of prior bad acts is admissible if (1) it is relevant to an issue other than defendant's character; (2) the probative value substantially outweighs its undue prejudice; and (3) the government offers sufficient proof so that the jury could find that defendant committed the act. USA v. Defilippis, No. 21-13123 (11th Cir. 4/20/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113123.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACT-INTRINSIC: Intrinsic evidence is evidence that is (1) an uncharged offense which arose out of the same transaction or series of transactions as the charged offense, (2) necessary to complete the story of the crime, or (3) inextricably intertwined with the evidence regarding the charged offense. USA v. Defilippis, No. 21-13123 (11th Cir. 4/20/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113123.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS: Where Defendant is charged with selling fentanyl resulting in death, Facebook messages about drug deals between Defendant and the other people are admissible as extrinsic evidence to show he intended to distribute the drugs which resulted in the death. Evidence of a defendant's prior similar distribution is relevant to their intent. USA v. Defilippis, No. 21-13123 (11th Cir. 4/20/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113123.pdf

EVIDENCE: Photos which imply a defendant has been engaged in criminal activity and unfairly suggest bad character or a history of arrests or may be admitted only when 1) the government has a demonstrable need to introduce the photos, 2) the photographs themselves do not imply that the defendant has a prior criminal record, and 3) the manner of introduction is such that it does not draw particular attention to the source or implications of the photos. Introduction of photos showing Defendant in an orange jumpsuit, with the purpose of suing his tattoos, was improper. Clearly identifiable prison garb does more than clothe a defendant with suitable raiment—it also clothes him with an unmistakable mark of guilt. But error was harmless. USA v. Defilippis, No. 21-13123 (11th Cir. 4/20/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113123.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-BUT-FOR CAUSATION: "But-for causation" describes harm that would not have occurred absent the conduct at issue. If there is no causal link between the alleged conduct and the harm, then there is no but-for causation. Evidence that Defendant was the most likely distributor is sufficient for Defendant to be convicted of homicide by overdose. USA v. Defilippis, No. 21-13123 (11th Cir. 4/20/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113123.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: Defendant cannot successfully argue that the government violated Brady based on testimony that his counsel elicited, particularly where the evidence was damaging, not exculpatory. government is not obliged under Brady to furnish a defendant with information which he already has or, with any reasonable diligence, he can obtain himself. Brady and Rule 16 protect defendants from the undue surprise of having evidence introduced that they had no way of discovering, not against evidence they can obtain themselves. USA v. Defilippis, No. 21-13123 (11th Cir. 4/20/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113123.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: A defendant does not preserve an issue for appeal if the objection's factual predicates were raised but were presented to the district court under a different legal theory. Impairments of due process ("I also would argue it's a due process clause violation, that I think at this point I'm just preserving that.") is insufficient to prove a due process and equal protection-based rational basis challenge to §841(b)(1)(C). USA v. Defilippis, No. 21-13123 (11th Cir. 4/20/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113123.pdf

MANDATORY LIFE SENTENCE: The language of §841(b)(1)(C) is explicit and unambiguous about which offenses trigger mandatory life sentences. Congress has the power to define criminal punishments without giving the courts any sentencing discretion. No Eleventh Circuit or Supreme Court precedent addresses whether the imposition of a life sentence pursuant to 21 U.S.C. §841(b)(1)(C) violates equal protection under the Fifth Amendment because the passage of the First Step Act allegedly unevenly amended portions of 21 U.S.C. §841(b)(1). USA v. Defilippis, No. 21-13123 (11th Cir. 4/20/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113123.pdf

INFORMATION-SPECIFICITY-OBSTRUCTION: An information that alleges all the essential facts of the charged offense and tracks the statutory language is legally sufficient. The court errs by ordering successive amended informations repeatedly requiring the State to add more specific details regarding the nature of the duties that the officers were engaged in, then dismissing the case because the result was vague and confusing. State v. Scott, 2D2025-0446 (4/17/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487555/opinion/Opinion_2025-0446.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: State must request investigative costs to make a defendant liable for those costs. Venrooy v. State, 5D2025–0345 (4/17/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487571/opinion/Opinion_2025-0345.pdf

VINDICTIVE SENTENCE: Prior to trial, a judge may ask the attorneys if a plea offer has been extended, and may ask the defendant if he is aware of a pending plea offer. A disparity between the State's pre-trial plea offer and the sentence imposed by the trial court after trial, standing alone, does not create a presumption of vindictiveness. Proffitt v. State, 6D2024-1066 (4/17/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487581/opinion/Opinion_2024-1066.pdf

MARITIME DRUG LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT: MDLEA's definition of "stateless vessel" is not unconstitutional for applying to vessels that do not qualify as stateless under customary international law, nor does customary international law limit Congress's power under the Felonies Clause. USA v. Martinez, No. 22-13361 (11th Cir. 4/16/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213361.pdf

MARITIME DRUG LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT: A country's Exclusive Economic Zone may be part of the "High Seas" where Congress may assert extraterritorial jurisdiction over vessels that are engaged in conduct that has a potentially adverse effect generally recognized as a crime by nations that have reasonably developed legal systems. Congress's constitutional authority over stateless vessels on the high seas does not require a nexus with the United States. USA v. Martinez, No. 22-13361 (11th Cir. 4/16/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213361.pdf

MARITIME DRUG LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT: International law does not limit Congress's power to assert jurisdiction over high-seas drug trafficking on vessels whose claimed nation of registry does not confirm the claim. "Defendants argue the failure of Colombia's government to confirm the vessel's registration does not make the vessel stateless under international law. But our precedent holds that it does." USA v. Martinez, No. 22-13361 (11th Cir. 4/16/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213361.pdf

SENTENCE GUIDELINES-AMENDMENT-RETROACTIVITY: In reviewing a district court's application of the Sentencing Guidelines, the version of the Guidelines in effect at the time of the defendant's sentencing applies. On appeal, new amendments are considered only if they are clarifying rather than substantive. USA v. Martinez, No. 22-13361 (11th Cir. 4/16/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213361.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Florida's elimination of comparative proportionality review, the elimination of the statutory requirement that a jury unanimously recommend a death sentence, and a lack of a sufficient narrowing of the class of individuals subject to the death penalty did not violate the Eighth Amendment. Neither The United States Constitution nor the Florida Constitution requires that a jury unanimously recommend the death penalty. Zieler v. State, SC2023-1003 (4/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487514/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1003.pdf

APPEAL-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE (J. TANENBAUM, CONCURRING): "There simply cannot be a cognizable, 'unpreserved' claim on appeal...that a criminal defendant received ineffective assistance of trial counsel, even if that ineffectiveness purports to appear 'on the face of the record.'...[T]here could be any number of tactical reasons, known only to trial counsel, for the purported action or inaction by counsel. It is unclear, then, where in a proceeding a trial court might intervene to head off or correct a decision made by trial counsel. It is a misnomer to call any ineffectiveness 'error' in the absence of any clear opportunity for the trial court to have acted." Zieler v. State, SC2023-1003 (4/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487514/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1003.pdf

AMENDMENT-BAR RULES-TERMINOLOGY: Rules amended to replace references to "chemical dependency" with "substance use disorder," and references to "psychological problems" with "mental health conditions." In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating The Florida Bar - Substance Use Terminology, SC2025-1172 (4/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487515/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1172.pdf

AMENDMENT-BAR RULES-TERMINOLOGY-HARRUMPH (J. TANENBAUM, DISSENTING): "These changes to some of our bar rules...appear to mirror several of those that the American Psychiatric Association ('APA') made to its Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders—Fifth Edition ('DSM-5'), ostensibly as part of that organization's larger 'destigmatization' campaign. We should not be outsourcing our rule revisions to organizations like the APA." In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating The Florida Bar - Substance Use Terminology, SC2025-1172 (4/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487515/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1172.pdf

AMENDMENT-BAR RULES-TERMINOLOGY-HARRUMPH (J. TANENBAUM, DISSENTING): "Speaking of operational problems, The Florida Bar—under the aegis of this court—spends nearly $1 million a year on the programs mentioned in the amendments (i.e., those addressed to lawyers' substance abuse and mental health challenges). These funds come from the money that lawyers and judges alike are compelled to pay, respectively, to keep their license or to maintain their commissions' validity. Yet the overall utilization of those programs clocks in at under one percent of the 115,000 lawyers...To be good stewards of these funds, as part of our ongoing bar-reform efforts, we should consider scrapping rules 2-3.2(d)(10) and 2-9.11 entirely, rather than make ostensibly aesthetic changes to them." In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating The Florida Bar - Substance Use Terminology, SC2025-1172 (4/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487515/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1172.pdf

DEATH WARRANT-PUBLIC RECORD: Denial of a prisoner's motions for public records relating to nearly every aspect of lethal injection process does not violate Due Process or Equal Protection. Willacy v. State, SC2026-0526 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487492/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0519%20&%20SC2026-0526.pdf

DEATH WARRANT-PUBLIC RECORDS: In order to obtain certiorari relief from an order regarding public records relating to nearly every aspect of the lethal injection process to determine whether FDOC was complying with its protocol and whether a constitutional violation might exist, a prisoner must establish that the order compelling discovery does not conform to the essential requirements of law and may cause irreparable injury for which appellate review will be inadequate. Seeking to discover if possible claims exist, rather than records to support a colorable claim for postconviction relief, is an impermissible fishing expedition. Willacy v. State, SC2026-0526 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487492/opinion/

Opinion_SC2026-0519%20&%20SC2026-0526.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: Challenges to the Governor's absolute discretion to issue death warrants do not present colorable claims for postconviction relief. Willacy v. State, SC2026-0526 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487492/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0519%20&%20SC2026-0526.pdf

DEFINITION-"MAY"-MANDATORY/PERMISSIVE CANON: Per the Mandatory/Permissive Canon, the word "may" is commonly treated as a permissive word granting discretion. Willacy v. State, SC2026-0526 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487492/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0519%20&%20SC2026-0526.pdf

DEATH WARRANT-PUBLIC RECORDS-APPELLATE JURISDICTION (J. TANENBAUM, DISSENTING IN PART: The absence of a motion under R 3.851 pending in the trial court wholly obviates appellate jurisdiction to address any of the merits in a prisoner's discovery of records request. "An active death warrant does not give us extraordinary appellate review powers under the Florida Constitution, and it does not give rise to some extralegal proceeding in the trial court over which we then have plenary authority...[A] demand to compel—without a pending rule 3.851 motion—submitted only after a death warrant is signed, fairly can be characterized as a pre-motion fact-finding expedition seeking to delay execution...Even though a death sentence has been imposed, we operate like any other appellate court, with only the jurisdiction specified in the constitutional text—no more, no less." Willacy v. State, SC2026-0526 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487492/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0519%20&%20SC2026-0526.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION- CHILD HEARSAY: Argument to trial court that child hearsay statements were unreliable, without asserting that the trial court's findings were legally insufficient, fails to preserve a sufficiency challenge under §90.803(23). Stewart v. State, 1D2024-2366 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487416/opinion/Opinion_2024-2366.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION: Issue is not preserved where the objection in trial court addressed bolstering and cumulativeness but did not raise the balancing test under §90.403. Stewart v. State, 1D2024-2366 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487416/opinion/Opinion_2024-2366.pdf

PUBLIC TRIAL: The right to a public trial is not absolute. Trial courts retain the inherent authority to exclude spectators for legitimate reasons, including sequestration concerns, preventing witness intimidation, or shielding minors or other immature persons from graphic or explicit testimony. In child sex abuse case, Court may the courtroom the Victim's sister whose presence upset her. Cordon v. State, 3D23-1858 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487454/opinion/Opinion_2023-1858.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A trial court abuses its discretion when it summarily denies a timely 3.850 motion, without permitting amendment. Mosby v. State, 3D25-0934 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487477/opinion/Opinion_2025-0934.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Issues which either were or could have been litigated at trial and upon direct appeal are not cognizable through collateral attack. Dorsey v. State, 3D25-1325 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487448/opinion/Opinion_2025-1325.pdf

EVIDENCE: Where the medical examiner found that Defendant's wife died from blunt force trauma and had injuries "consistent with being caused by a cylindric object", and her son testified that he saw Defendant hit the victim with a black and blue baseball bat, the black and blue baseball bat found behind a television in the family's bedroom is admissible. A sufficient nexus does not require testimony that the proffered weapon is definitively the weapon that was used during the crime. Johnson v. State, 3D23-2802 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487467/opinion/Opinion_2023-2802.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: The trial court's expressed belief that Defendant could have been charged with first-degree murder does not warrant reversal. There must be some indication that the court based its sentence on an impermissible factor before a sentence will be reversed. Johnson v. State, 3D23-2802 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487467/opinion/Opinion_2023-2802.pdf

STATEWIDE PROSECUTOR: The statute defining Statewide Grand Jury jurisdiction limits jurisdiction to crimes occurring in two or more judicial circuits or connected with an organized criminal conspiracy affecting two or more judicial circuits. A defendant charged with Unlawful Compensation or Reward for Official Behavior is not subject to statewide grand jury jurisdiction. Transfer of state funds from Leon County to Broward County fails to support the existence of organized criminal activity affecting a circuit other than the Seventeenth Circuit. State v. Hunter, 4D2024-2558 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487475/opinion/Opinion_2024-2558.pdf

HUH?: "On appeal, the state advances textualist and grammatical arguments that...the phrases 'in two or more judicial circuits' and 'as part of a related transaction' in the SWGJ jurisdiction statute are not separate modifiers of the preceding verb 'occur' because no conjunction appears between the two phrases. In the state's view, 'in two or more judicial circuits' explains more about where the offense must occur, while 'as part of a related transaction" modifies the prior phrase by calibrating the degree of modification." State v. Hunter, 4D2024-2558 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487475/opinion/Opinion_2024-2558.pdf

ATTEMPTED SECOND-DEGREE MURDER-25 TO LIFE: Attempted second-degree murder—standing alone—is a second-degree felony punishable by up to 15 years' imprisonment. If a firearm is used, that second-degree felony is again reclassified to a first-degree felony punshable up to 30 years. If the jury also finds the defendant discharged a firearm and caused great bodily harm, 10-20-life applies and gives the court discretion to impose a mandatory minimum between twenty-five years and life. Where the jury finds defendant guilty of attempted second-degree and that he discharged a firearm and caused great bodily harm, the Court has discretion to impose a mandatory minimum between twenty-five years and life. Ranne v. State, 4D2024-2951 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487479/opinion/Opinion_2024-2951.pdf

ATTEMPTED SECOND-DEGREE MURDER-25 TO LIFE: For attempted second-degree with discharge and great bodily harm, imposing a life sentence with a 25 year mandatory minimum exceeds the statutory maximum. Once the court imposed the twenty-five-year mandatory minimum under §775.087(2)(a)3., it could not exceed the statutory maximum for the offense. "[B]ecause the trial court selected a twenty-five-year mandatory minimum but imposed a life total sentence without separate statutory authority, the sentence exceeds the statutory maximum and is thus illegal." On remand, Court may not resentence the defendant to life in prison; it must resentence at or below the statutory maximum of thirty years in prison with the twenty-five-year mandatory minimum remaining in effect. Ranne v. State, 4D2024-2951 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487479/opinion/Opinion_2024-2951.pdf

CONTINUANCE: Defendant is entitled to a continuance where the Court allowed the State to amend its information and charge the defendant with a new offense on the morning of trial. Sturridge v. State, 4D2025-0706 (4/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487481/opinion/Opinion_2025-0706.pdf

ERLINGER-POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant based his challenge to his PRR and HFO sentence on both Apprendi and Erlinger, the trial court's denial of his R. 3.800 motion on the ground that Erlinger is not retroactive misses the mark because, for one, he did not rely on Erlinger alone. His motion relied almost exclusively on Apprendi—which was decided long before the convictions at issue. Besides, "we do not decide whether Erlinger announced a new rule or if it merely applied Apprendi...Of course, we are aware of our supreme court's decision in Wainwright v. State, (citation omitted), but Wainwright did not hold that Erlinger announced a new rule. Instead, Wainwright concluded that 'even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively.'" But "[a]lthough the postconviction court's reasons for denying Bailey's motion were in error, we affirm under the tipsy coachman doctrine. This court has already rejected these claims." Bailey v. State, 5D2025-1317 (4/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487303/opinion/Opinion_2025-1317.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A claim that a crime was not actually committed is cognizable under R. 3.850. Navarro v. State, 6D2024-0701 (4/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487276/opinion/Opinion_2024-0701.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that trial counsel acted ineffectively when he counseled him not to accept the State of Florida's renewed plea offer after his first trial ended in a mistrial and failed to explain that his entrapment defense had no likelihood of success on retrial, and if he had, he would have accepted the State's offer. Severe v. State, 6D2024-2818 (4/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487278/opinion/Opinion_2024-2818.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: Court errs in granting Defendant's Speedy Trial Demand and Motion for Discharge where neither the trial court's written order nor its oral pronouncement discharging Defendant reflect the trial court made the required inquiry under R. 3.191(p)(1) and (j). A defendant should not be discharged after expiration of speedy trial time based on demand until court determines that defendant had a bona fide desire to obtain speedy trial and accused or counsel has diligently investigated case and is prepared for trial; if these prerequisites are not met demand should be stricken as invalid. State v. Hipolito, 6D2025-0212 (4/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487282/opinion/Opinion_2025-0212.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: The remedy for an illegal sentence based upon a negotiated plea is to seek to withdraw the plea, not to seek relief under R. 3.800(b)(2). Asaju v. State, 6D2025-1711 (4/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487285/opinion/Opinion_2025-1711.pdf

APPEAL: A defendant may not appeal after a guilty or nolo contendere plea except for an expressly reserved appeal of a prior dispositive order of the lower tribunal, identifying with particularity the point of law being reserved. An issue is dispositive only when it is clear that there will be no trial, regardless of the outcome of the appeal. Nunez v. State, 1D2025-0223 (4/8/26)

flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487168/opinion/Opinion_2025-0223.pdf

MISTRIAL: One isolated comment does not entitle a defendant to a mistrial, especially when an appropriate curative instruction is given by a trial judge. Rodriguez v. State, 3D24-1468 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487153/opinion/Opinion_2024-1468.pdf

LEWD OR LASCIVIOUS: A person who intentionally masturbates in the presence of a victim who is less than 16 years of age, commits lewd or lascivious exhibition. Under Florida criminal law the terms “lewd” and “lascivious” are synonymous: Both require an intentional act of sexual indulgence or public indecency, when such act causes offense to one or more persons viewing it or otherwise intrudes upon the rights of others. Duran v. State, 3D24-1539 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487154/opinion/Opinion_2024-1539.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: The failure to proffer the proposed question or testimony to be elicited at the time of the trial court's denial of recross means that the defense failed to properly preserve the issue. Without a proffer, an appellate court cannot determine whether an error occurred, let alone a fundamental error. B.M., a Child v. State, 3D25-1031 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487158/opinion/Opinion_2025-1031.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Mateo v. State, 3D26-0270 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487172/opinion/Opinion_2026-0270.pdf

VOP-PRR: Upon revocation of probation, the State may seek to have a defendant sentenced as a prison releasee reoffender despite the State having initially waived the PRR sentence as part of a negotiated plea agreement at the time of his initial sentencing. Duggans v. State, 3D25-0258 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487181/opinion/Opinion_2025-0258.pdf

ERLINGER: Any Erlinger in imposing a PRR sentence without a jury finding is harmless where the State met its burden to prove beyond a reasonable doubt. Duggans v. State, 3D25-0258 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487181/opinion/Opinion_2025-0258.pdf

INEFFECTIVE APPELLATE COUNSEL: For ineffective assistance of appellate counsel, Petitioner must show 1) specific errors or omissions which show that appellate counsel's performance deviated from the norm or fell outside the range of professionally acceptable performance and 2) the deficiency of that performance compromised the appellate process to such a degree as to undermine confidence in the fairness and correctness of the appellate result. Baker v. State, 3D25-1789 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487199/opinion/Opinion_2025-1789.pdf

INEFFECTIVE APPELLATE COUNSEL: Counsel cannot be deemed deficient for failing to make a meritless argument. Baker v. State, 3D25-1789 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487199/opinion/Opinion_2025-1789.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy challenges to a defendant's convictions are not cognizable in a R. 3.800(a) motion. A postconviction double jeopardy argument is a challenge to his convictions, not sentences, and thus is not cognizable under the rule regarding motions to correct illegal sentences. Chaney v. State, 3D26-0057 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487166/opinion/Opinion_2026-0057.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Mateo v. State, 3D26-0270 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487172/opinion/Opinion_2026-0270.pdf

PRINCIPAL: Cell phone data, license plate reader data, surveillance video, and Defendant's DNA on shell casings found in his home matching the unusual shell casing found at the scene constitute sufficient evidence that Defendant was at least a principal to the murder. Mathis v. State, 4D2024-1543 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487174/opinion/Opinion_2024-1543.pdf

PRINCIPAL: Court does not abuse its discretion in giving the "Principals" instruction where Defendant advances a theory that there was another person involved in the Victim's death. Mathis v. State, 4D2024-1543 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487174/opinion/Opinion_2024-1543.pdf

HEARSAY/CONFRONTATION: Written reports are statements within the meaning of the hearsay rule. A party may not evade the hearsay rules by having the witness summarize the statement rather than relay the statement verbatim. Although an expert may rely on hearsay in reaching the expert's opinion, an expert's testimony may not merely be used as a conduit for the introduction of the otherwise inadmissible evidence. Henderson v. State, 4D2024-2188 (4/8/24)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487175/opinion/Opinion_2024-2188.pdf

HEARSAY-BUSINESS RECORDS-NURSE: A witness's testimony Is inadmissible hearsay where she testified that she lacked personal knowledge of the underlying testing and was instead relying on and summarizing another declarant's report. A witness's testimony regarding the contents of a business record not in evidence is inadmissible hearsay. A nurse's recounting of the sexual assault report is inadmissible hearsay. Henderson v. State, 4D2024-2188 (4/8/24)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487175/opinion/Opinion_2024-2188.pdf

HEARSAY-MEDICAL TREATMENT: The medical treatment or diagnosis exception to the hearsay rule does not apply where the sexual assault report in question consists of statements by the medical examiner, not the patient. The exceptions applies when a doctor, or perhaps a nurse or paramedic, explains what a victim of a crime told them when seeking treatment. It does not apply to allow the victim to state in court what the doctor explained to the victim about the reason or the necessity for treatment. Henderson v. State, 4D2024-2188 (4/8/24)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487175/opinion/Opinion_2024-2188.pdf

JOA-IDENTICAL TWINS: "While Appellant's twin's proximity to the crime scene created some confusion and inconsistency in the identification testimony, sufficient evidence existed for the jury to find beyond a reasonable doubt that Appellant possessed the gun. The detective testified that Appellant had approached him on a white bike and, after watching the surveillance video, the detective determined the shooter was the biker whom he had encountered. While the detective's identification was initially equivocal, he later testified the biker was Appellant...Defense counsel's cross examination questions conceded that Appellant was the interviewee. The evidence was sufficient for a jury to find that the shooter, the biker, and the interviewee were the same person and that Appellant was that person." Evans v. State, 4D2024-2867 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487187/opinion/Opinion_2024-2867.pdf

FIREARM-MANDATORY MINIMUM: In order for the three-year mandatory minimum sentence to be imposed for possession of a firearm

by a convicted felon, the jury must make an express finding of actual possession. Evans v. State, 4D2024-2867 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487187/opinion/Opinion_2024-2867.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: Trial courts cannot impose investigative costs where the record does not demonstrate that the State requested reimbursements for these costs. These costs cannot be imposed on remand. Evans v. State, 4D2024-2867 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487187/opinion/Opinion_2024-2867.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: To preserve a sufficiency-of-the-evidence issue for appellate review, a defendant is required, in moving for judgment of acquittal at trial, to identify the element(s) of the charged offense for which he contends the evidence is lacking. Unpreserved challenges to the sufficiency of the evidence of one element of a crime may only be reviewed for fundamental error in non-death-penalty cases when insufficient evidence exists to prove that a defendant committed any crime through the acts in question. Randolph v. State, 4D2024-3089 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487189/opinion/Opinion_2024-3089.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-CUSTODIAL INTERROGATION: Police need not ask clarifying questions if a defendant who has received proper Miranda warnings makes only an equivocal or ambiguous request to terminate an interrogation. “I’m telling you, I’m going to need some advice because I’m – I am too fucking stupid.” did not mention an attorney and was reasonably susceptible to multiple interpretations. A generalized request for “advice” is not an unequivocal invocation of the right to counsel. Defendant’s statements are not suppressible. State

v. Reese, 4D2025-1445 (4/8/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487194/opinion/Opinion_2025-1445.pdf

JURISDICTION-INTERLOCUTORY APPEAL: 28 U.S.C. §1292(a) creates a narrow exception from the long established policy against piecemeal appeals in the case of injunctions, but a District Court's denial of a motion for a limited remand to amend the indictment is not an injunction, particularly where the state court can re-indict with a new grand jury. Circuit court lacks jurisdiction over such an interlocutory appeal. State of Georgia v. Heinze, No. 23-12050 (11th Cir. 4/7/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312050.pdf

JURISDICTION: When a case has been removed to federal court under 28 U.S.C. §1442, the State does not loses jurisdiction over the case, so the State may bring a superseding indictment. With or without remand, federal law does not prohibit the State from seeking a superseding indictment in state court. State of Georgia v. Heinze, No. 23-12050 (11th Cir. 4/7/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312050.pdf

RULE OF THE LAST ANTECEDENT: The rule of the last antecedent provides that a pronoun, relative pronoun, or demonstrative adjective generally refers to the nearest reasonable antecedent. State of Georgia v. Heinze, No. 23-12050 (11th Cir. 4/7/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312050.pdf

DEATH SENTENCE-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE: Prisoner is not entitled to relief from his death sentence where he cannot show that he was prejudiced by his trial attorneys' substandard mitigation investigation because the Court would have probably sentenced him to death anyways. Alabama trial courts frequently accord little or very little weight to evidence of instability, poverty, a dysfunctional family, few positive role models, exposure to criminals and violence, PTSD, substance abuse, and childhood rape. "A difficult and unsettled childhood featuring impoverished living conditions and exposure to substance abuse and violence is, tragically, so common that it provides little mitigating value." If an Alabama prisoner presents new evidence that would not have mattered to an Alabama sentencing court, then the prisoner has not met the Strickland standard for prejudice. Williams v. State, No. 21-13734 (11th Cir. 4/3/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113734.opn.remand.pdf

DEATH SENTENCE-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE (J. WILSON, DISSENTING): "The majority's interpretation effectively creates at least fifty standards—at least one per state, maybe more depending on changes in the state court's disposition over time—for when Strickland prejudice exists for failure to present mitigating evidence...That cannot be so. The Sixth Amendment right to effective assistance of counsel is a universal right afforded to all citizens of the United States, no matter what state they are from or what state they are charged, tried, and sentenced in." Williams v. State, No. 21-13734 (11th Cir. 4/3/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113734.opn.remand.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Separate convictions for Sexual Battery on a Minor by a Person in Familial or Custodial Authority and Unlawful Sexual Activity with a Minor do not violate Double Jeopardy. Blockburger. Each contains an element the other does not. Although conduct constituting the charges in each offense may also constitute the conduct charged in the other, this is not necessarily the case. The former requires familial or custodial authority; the latter requires the offender to be twenty-four or older. Also, the age predicates of the victim differ. Oliver v. State, 5D2024-0814 (4/2/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486959/opinion/Opinion_2024-0814.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for grand theft and dealing in stolen property for the theft and sale of an RV trailer on the same morning are prohibited by Double Jeopardy: Guerra v. State, 5D2025-1772 (4/2/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486962/opinion/Opinion_2025-1772.pdf

WAIVER OF COUNSEL: Court commits fundamental error by accepting Child's uncounseled plea without conducting an adequate inquiry regarding his waiver of counsel. T.F.V., a Child v. State, 5D2025-3306 (4/2/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486961/opinion/Opinion_2025-3306.pdf

MOTION TO SUPPRESS: A trial court's ruling on a motion to suppress is presumed correct. It is for the trial court to make credibility determinations and to weigh the evidence. Kaiser v. State, 6D2024-0559 (4/2/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2487016/opinion/Opinion_2024-0559.pdf

ERLINGER-VOSC: Erlinger does not bar a trial court, rather than a jury, from finding that a defendant is a violent felony offender of special concern (VFOSC) or that a VFOSC is a danger to the community. A judge is authorized to use judicial records, plea agreements, and colloquies between a judge and the defendant for the limited function of determining the fact of a prior conviction and the then-existing elements of that offense. Sanderson v. State, 1D 2024-1311 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486883/opinion/Opinion_2024-1311.pdf

VHFOSC: The Sixth Amendment right to trial by a jury is not implicated during sentencing for violation of probation when the trial court, rather than a jury, found the defendant to be a violent felony offender of special concern and a danger to the community. Hill v.State, 1D2024-3318 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486888/opinion/Opinion_2024-3318.pdf

SEALED RECORDS: Court has discretion to unseal records where the public's right to access to transcripts and records, including a plea colloquy and a plea agreement, and the strong presumption of openness of court proceedings outweighs the privacy interests of certain innocent third parties' (Defendant's wife and family). Len v. State, 3D25-1327 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486954/opinion/Opinion_2025-1327.pdf

AUNTS WITH BLUE GLOVES: "The defendant's aunt...began hurling insults and making threats of violence towards the defendant, urging her to come outside and fight them. [T]his continued over the course of several hours. While outside, the aunt wore blue gloves that she admitted she wore during physical confrontations to prevent blood from getting on her." Carn v. State, 3D24-1941 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486928/opinion/Opinion_2024-1941.pdf

HEARSAY: Hearsay is an out-of-court statement offered to prove the truth of the matter asserted. Statements offered for another purpose—such as to show their effect on the listener, to explain subsequent conduct, or to establish state of mind—are not hearsay and are admissible if otherwise relevant. Statements offered to explain a defendant's conduct are admissible as non-hearsay. Carn v. State, 3D24-1941 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486928/opinion/Opinion_2024-1941.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION-HEARSAY: Where evidence is excluded as a class and the court suggests any further proffer as unavailing, the issue has been preserved. A proffer is unnecessary where the offer would be a useless ceremony, or the evidence is rejected as a class. Carn v. State, 3D24-1941 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486928/opinion/Opinion_2024-1941.pdf

WEAK ARGUMENT: Defendant solicited her boyfriend to make "this bitch dead now." "[T]he defendant argues that even if she had explicitly asked her boyfriend ...to come kill them, she didn't really mean for him to come kill them...That argument is as weak as it sounds." Carn v. State, 3D24-1941 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486928/opinion/Opinion_2024-1941.pdf

DEFINITION-FEMALE GENITALS: "[I]nclusion of the amended statutory definition of 'female genitals' in a jury instruction for pre-amendment conduct was not fundamental error where the victim testified to penetration of the vagina and the exact anatomical point of penetration was not in dispute." Styles v. State, 4D2024-2205 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486921/opinion/Opinion_2024-2205.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: A motion to withdraw plea is facially insufficient where the defendant fails to allege that he would not have entered the plea and would have insisted on going to trial had he been properly informed. Anthony v. State, 4D2024-2982 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486938/opinion/Opinion_2024-2982.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION-OBJECTION: If the court has made a definitive ruling on the record admitting or excluding evidence, either at or before trial, "[c]ounsel need not renew the objection to preserve the issue for appeal. But counsel, at trial, can abandon the issue by stating that he has 'no objection' when subsequently asked about it...To preserve an objection raised before trial in a motion in limine, the proper response at trial might be, 'Subject to and without waiving my previous objection upon which the court ruled, no additional objection.'" Montaque v. State, 4D2025-0178 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486940/opinion/Opinion_2025-0178.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION-OBJECTION (J. CIKLIN, CONCURRING): "Under Carr, a defendant who affirmatively states 'no objection' at trial abandons any prior objection—even one previously ruled upon definitively. I write separately only to underscore the tension between that rule and section 90.104(1)(b), Florida Statutes, which provides that a party need not renew an objection after a definitive ruling to preserve a claim of error. The interaction between the statute and Carr can create uncertainty for trial counsel when asked, at trial, whether there is an objection to the admission of evidence previously challenged. Until the Supreme Court revisits the issue, however, Carr remains binding precedent." Montaque v. State, 4D2025-0178 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486940/opinion/

Opinion_2025-0178.pdf

STIPULATION: A defendant's signed stipulation to certain facts precludes the claim on appeal that such a stipulation was not knowing or voluntary. Nava v. State, 4D2025-1214 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486947/opinion/Opinion_2025-1214.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES: A defendant who is convicted of multiple offenses and sentenced to consecutive terms of imprisonment must be given presentence jail credit only on the first of the consecutive sentences. Applying jail credit to each consecutive sentence is not a valid sentence. Small v. State, 4D2025-3217 (4/1/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486922/opinion/Opinion_2025-3217.pdf

MARCH 2026

MISTRIAL: Court should not grant a motion for mistrial merely because an error is prejudicial. Rather, the lower court should grant a mistrial only when an error is so prejudicial as to vitiate the entire trial. Brown v. State, 3D25-0399 (3/31/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486845/opinion/Opinion_2025-0399.pdf

SENTENCING CONSIDERATIONS: Where Defendant was convicted at trial of false imprisonment--he was a 63 year old retired army sergeant allergic to bees who locked the door to his balcony when he found a bee removal guy with about fifty or sixty bees on it--Court violated Due Process by punishing him for rejecting a plea offer of a withhold and/or a misdemeanor and adjudicating him guilty. Hodges v. State, 5D2025-1998 (3/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486715/opinion/Opinion_2025-1998.pdf

SENTENCING CONSIDERATIONS: The constitutional right to trial by jury "becomes illusory when a defendant is punished for exercising this sacred right." Court improperly considered that Defendant had declined plea offers for a withhold of adjudication in adjudicating him guilty after trial. Court's comments ("[c]ertainly if this was a plea, I would have withheld adjudication [of guilt], but this was trial and the jury found him guilty, and so he of course is being adjudicated guilty." and "[Hodges's] punishment is that he is now a convicted felon, which is a shame, because everybody did everything they could to avoid that.") establish that Defendant was punished for going to trial. Hodges v. State, 5D2025-1998 (3/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486715/opinion/Opinion_2025-1998.pdf

APPEAL: Subsection e of Rule 9.140(b)(2)(A)(ii), allowing appeals "as otherwise provided by law," is broad enough to encompass a direct appeal alleging an error in the sentencing process, provided the error is properly preserved. Conflict certified, although the Rule has now been changed for future appeals. Morribel v. State, 6D2023-3256 (3/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486754/opinion/Opinion_2023-3256.pdf

APPEAL: Outright refusal to allow a defendant to present matters in mitigation is reversible error, but there appears to be some disagreement over how much of a defendant's presentation a court is required to entertain. No error in limiting Defendant's argument for a downward departure where no downward departure was available nor was a motion for substantial assistance in play. Morribel v. State, 6D2023-3256 (3/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486754/opinion/Opinion_2023-3256.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger is subject to harmless error analysis. Bullock v. State, 6D2024-1085 (3/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486759/opinion/Opinion_2024-1085.pdf

ERLINGER: Where the record reflects that Defendant had an extensive criminal record that clearly qualified him for the enhanced sentence, a rational jury would have arrived at the same conclusion as the trial court. An Erlinger error, if any, is harmless. Combs v. State, 6D2024-1613 (3/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486760/opinion/Opinion_2024-1613.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: Where Court admitted evidence that Defendant had failed to meet with detectives as evidence of consciousness of guilt, defendant may not raise on appeal that he was not informed that the meeting was mandatory where he had not so argued below. Montejo Luna v. State, 6D2024-2441(3/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486761/opinion/Opinion_2024-2441.pdf

APPEAL-PLEA WITHDRAWAL: R. 9.140(b)(2)(A)(ii)(c) allows a defendant who has entered a guilty or nolo contendere plea to raise on direct appeal the voluntariness of the plea but only if preserved by a motion to withdraw plea. There is no fundamental-error exception to the preservation requirement of that subsection. Wahl v. State, 6D2024-2553 (3/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486763/opinion/Opinion_2024-2553.pdf

JOA-WEAPON-TASER: Defendant is not entitled to a judgment of acquittal where the State failed to prove the taser found in his possession was operable. The statute contains no requirement that the device be "operable." Smith v. State, 6D2025-0194 (3/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486765/opinion/Opinion_2025-0194.pdf

SUPERVISED RELEASE: New offenses committed following the expiration of supervised release by an absconding defendant cannot be a basis for the violation. A defendant's failure to report does not automatically extend or toll a term of supervised release. Rico v. United States, No. 24–1056 (U.S. S.Ct. 3/25/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-1056_qn12.pdf

TOLL: "[A] preliminary note on terminology is warranted. The Ninth Circuit held that a defendant who absconds during supervised release 'tolls' his existing, judicially ordered term of supervised release until federal authorities find him. This is a misnomer. In legal settings, the word 'toll' often denotes some stop or pause...But under the Ninth Circuit's approach, a defendant who absconds stops or pauses nothing...What the Ninth Circuit's rule really does is extend the period of supervised release beyond what a judge has ordered." Rico v. United States, No. 24–1056 (U.S. S.Ct. 3/25/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-1056_qn12.pdf

SUPERVISED RELEASE (J. ALITO, DISSENTING): "I am bemused

by the notion that petitioner was on supervised release when she was evading all supervision. (I suppose she was on 'unsupervised supervised release.') And it seems strange to regard a crime committed after the expiration of 'unsupervised supervised release' as a non-event. By that logic, if petitioner had gone on a murder spree after the expiration of the period of unsupervised supervised release, the sentencing judge would have been required to put that out of his mind." Rico v. United States, No. 24–1056 (U.S. S.Ct. 3/25/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-1056_qn12.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Mere speculation is insufficient to prove prejudice under Strickland v. Washington. Dukes v. State, 1D2024-2170 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486526/opinion/Opinion_2024-2170.pdf

JIMMY RYCE: To constitute a sexually violent predator under the Jimmy Ryce Act, an individual must have been convicted of a sexually violent offense and must suffer from a mental abnormality or personality disorder that makes him or her likely to engage in acts of sexual violence if not confined to a secure facility for long-term control, care, and treatment. James v. State, 1D2025-0938 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486544/opinion/Opinion_2025-0938.pdf

JIMMY RYCE: A person may be civilly committed under the Jimmy Ryce Act by summary judgment without a jury trial. James v. State, 1D2025-0938 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486544/opinion/Opinion_2025-0938.pdf

RESTITUTION-ANIMAL CRUELTY: County Animal Services is not a victim for the purpose of recovery of restitution In animal cruelty case. Perez v. State, 1D2025-0944 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486542/opinion/Opinion_2025-0944.pdf

COST OF INVESTIGATION: Court may not impose costs of investigation in the absence of a request. Perez v. State, 1D2025-0944 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486542/opinion/Opinion_2025-0944.pdf

SENTENCING-JUVENILE: Court may not disregard DJJ's sentencing recommendation without providing a legally sufficient foundation. Generalized conclusions are insufficient. To deviate, the Court must engage in a well reasoned and complete analysis of the PDR and the type of facility to which the trial court intends to send the child. J.W.B., IV, a child, 1D2025-1954 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486564/opinion/Opinion_2025-1954.pdf

ERLINGER-PRR-VFO: Erlinger errors are subject to harmless error analysis. Alleged Erlinger errors are harmless when the defendant did not challenge the sufficiency of the evidence to support enhancement during sentencing. Page v. State, 2D2023-1850 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486500/opinion/Opinion_2023-1850.pdf

REPRESENTATION: The Sixth Amendment protects the right of a criminal defendant to be represented by the attorney of his or her own choosing. Jordan v. State, 2D2024-1440 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486499/opinion/Opinion_2024-1440.pdf

REPRESENTATION: Court abuses its discretion by denying a motion to continue based on retention of new counsel where it failed to consider (1) the time available for preparation, (2) the likelihood of prejudice from the denial, (3) the defendant's role in shortening preparation time, (4) the complexity of the case, (5) the availability of discovery, (6) the adequacy of counsel actually provided, and (7) the skill and experience of chosen counsel and his pre-retention experience with either the defendant or the alleged crime. Jordan v. State, 2D2024-1440 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486499/opinion/Opinion_2024-1440.pdf

SELF-REPRESENTATION-FARETTA: A Defendant need not articulate a reason to invoke his right of self-representation. A defendant who persists in discharging competent counsel after being informed that he is not entitled to substitute counsel is presumed to be unequivocally exercising his right of self-representation. Jordan v. State, 2D2024-1440 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486499/opinion/Opinion_2024-1440.pdf

CONTINUANCE-NEW COUNSEL (ATKINSON, CONCURRING): A defendant's Sixth Amendment right to counsel of choice must be balanced with a court's duty to manage its dockets. In some cases, the unique circumstances will justify a trial court's denial of a request for continuance without inquiry and without making findings. Jordan v. State, 2D2024-1440 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486499/opinion/

Opinion_2024-1440.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Court properly denied Defendant's claim counsel was ineffective for not providIng the information necessary to make an informed decision on whether to accept the offer where the court determined that trial counsel was more credible than the Defendant. Moore v. State, 3D23-1465 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486582/opinion/Opinion_2023-1465.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: To show prejudice for ineffective assistance in rejecting a plea offer, the defendant must demonstrate a reasonable probability, defined as a probability sufficient to undermine confidence in the outcome, that (1) he or she would have accepted the offer had counsel advised the defendant correctly, (2) the prosecutor would not have withdrawn the offer, (3) the court would have accepted the offer, and (4) the conviction or sentence, or both, under the offer's terms would have been less severe than under the judgment and sentence that in fact were imposed. Moore v. State, 3D23-1465 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486582/opinion/Opinion_2023-1465.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: To preserve for appellate review a challenge to the trial court's jury selection method as it pertains to the use of peremptory challenges, a party must do more than simply object to the procedure that was used to select the jury. The party must (i) exhaust his or her peremptory challenges, (ii) identify an objectional juror that is still on the jury panel, (iii) request and be denied an additional peremptory challenge as to the objectionable juror, and (iv) prior to the jury panel being sworn, object to the composition of the jury. Lowery v. State, 3D23-1957 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486586/opinion/Opinion_2023-1957.pdf

JURY SELECTION (J. GORDO, CONCURRING): Court's use of a "random jury-box method" using a "Google random number generator" to call the remaining jurors in random order rather than sequentially after strikes are used, with the effect that the parties would be blind to the order of the replacement jurors, is lawful. The impartial-jury guarantee under the Florida Constitution does not grant a defendant a right to a particular type of selection or preferred jury composition; it guarantees fairness, not customization. The applicable Florida and federal statutes do not explicitly recognize a right to know who comes next. Lowery v. State, 3D23-1957 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486586/opinion/Opinion_2023-1957.pdf

JURY SELECTION (J. GORDO, CONCURRING): If the Supreme Court deems it appropriate, the adoption of a uniform rule or procedural amendment governing the use of random jury-box method might promote statewide consistency, safeguard the informed and meaningful exercise of peremptory challenges and define the limits of trial court discretion in employing such a method. Such guidance would establish when these procedures are permissible, clarify counsel's ability to make strategic peremptory decisions and provide an orderly mechanism for preserving and reviewing related objections. Lowery v. State, 3D23-1957 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486586/opinion/Opinion_2023-1957.pdf

VENIRE FACIAS: Venire facias is a judicial writ directing the sheriff to summon a specified number of qualified persons to serve as jurors. Lowery v. State, 3D23-1957 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486586/opinion/Opinion_2023-1957.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: When the movant fails to allege new and different grounds, or fails to allege good cause for why the new and different grounds were not alleged earlier, the court may summarily deny the motion as successive. Gerome v. State, 3D25-1640 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486567/opinion/Opinion_2025-1640.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE- APPELLATE COUNSEL: A petition alleging ineffective assistance of appellate counsel on direct review must not be filed more than 2 years after the judgment and sentence became final on direct review unless it alleges under oath with a specific factual basis that the petitioner was affirmatively misled about the results of the appeal by counsel, and in no case may be filed more than 4 years after the judgment and sentence became final. Wilson v. State, 3D25-2410 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486620/opinion/Opinion_2025-2410.pdf

REPRESENTED DEFENDANT: A defendant is not authorized to seek pro se extraordinary writ petitions while currently represented by counsel in the lower criminal proceedings. Vega v. State, 3D26-0170 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486609/opinion/Opinion_2026-0170.pdf

ILLEGAL SENTENCE: An "illegal sentence" is one that imposes a punishment or penalty that no judge under the entire body of sentencing statutes and laws could impose under any set of factual circumstances. Stevens v. State, 3D26-0202 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486577/opinion/Opinion_2026-0202.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE- APPELLATE COUNSEL: A petition alleging ineffective assistance of appellate counsel on direct review must not be filed more than 2 years after the judgment and sentence become final on direct review unless it alleges under oath with a specific factual basis that the petitioner was affirmatively misled about the results of the appeal by counsel. In no case may a petition alleging ineffective assistance of appellate counsel on direct review be filed more than 4 years after the judgment and sentence become final on direct review. Scott v. Quinn, 3D26-0514 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486614/opinion/Opinion_2026-0514.pdf

ERLINGER-PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: Sentencing under the PRR statutes is constitutional. First, Florida authority permits the trial court to make such findings. And second, even if such a trial court finding is error, it would be harmless where the defendant never argued that he did not qualify as a PRR. Soto v. State, No. 4D2024-0901 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486540/opinion/Opinion_2024-0901.pdf

INVESTIGATIVE COSTS: Investigative costs, including lab fees, may only be assessed if requested by the investigating agencies. Berger-Smith v. State, 4D2024-2293 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486541/opinion/Opinion_2024-2293.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: First-degree felony murder and second-degree murder are degrees of the same offense. Dual convictions for offenses which are degrees of the same offense as provided by statute are barred. Dual convictions for both offenses as to the same victim arising from a single episode violate the prohibition against double jeopardy. Dawkins v. State, 4D2024-2870 (3/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486552/opinion/Opinion_2024-2870.pdf

FALSE STATEMENTS-MEDICARE: Misidentifying the true owner of a business in an application to provide services covered by Medicare constitutes making a false statement under §1035(a)(2). USA v. Alexander, No. 23-11322 (11th Cir. 3/24/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311322.pdf

FALSE STATEMENTS-MEDICARE-MATERIALITY: Defendant may be convicted of making a false application to provide Medicare services by claiming his mother had an ownership stake A false statement is material if it has a natural tendency to influence, or is capable of influencing, the decision of the decisionmaking body to which it was addressed. A statement is material based on the determination of two questions: "what statement was made?" and "what decision was the agency trying to make?" Ownership is material. USA v. Alexander, No. 23-11322 (11th Cir. 3/24/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311322.pdf

AIDING AND ABETTING: To prevail under a theory of aiding and abetting, the government must prove: (1) the substantive offense was committed by someone; (2) the defendant committed an act which contributed to and furthered the offense; and (3) the defendant intended to aid in its commission. USA v. Alexander, No. 23-11322 (11th Cir. 3/24/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311322.pdf

FORFEITURE: Courts must follow three steps in criminal forfeiture proceedings. First, a judgment of forfeiture may not be entered unless the defendant receives notice of forfeiture in the indictment or information; second, a court must determine the amount of money a defendant will be ordered to pay (if a money judgment will be entered) as soon as practical after a guilty verdict; and third, a court must promptly enter a preliminary order of forfeiture setting forth the amount of any money judgment, which it must do before sentencing unless doing so is impractical. USA v. Alexander, No. 23-11322 (11th Cir. 3/24/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311322.pdf

FORFEITURE: Court is required to enter a preliminary order of forfeiture in advance of sentencing, but this timing requirement is a procedural error subject to harmlessness review. USA v. Alexander, No. 23-11322 (11th Cir. 3/24/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311322.pdf

RESTITUTION: A conviction inherently means that the paying victim experienced at least some loss. So if the defendant is convicted, that means the government has already shown loss. For that reason, it makes sense for the restitution amount to initially include the entire amount the victim entities paid related to the fraudulent scheme, and then for the defendant to be able to offset that amount by the value of any goods or services she can prove were medically necessary. But where the form which included the false statement was never said to have been processed by Medicare, much less relied upon, restitution is unwarranted. Restitution is not simply used as punishment, and as such, there needs to be a showing of specific losses that the victim would not have otherwise incurred. USA v. Alexander, No. 23-11322 (11th Cir. 3/24/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311322.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Government officials enjoy qualified immunity from suit under §983 unless their conduct violates clearly established law. To find that a right is clearly established, courts generally need to identify a case where an officer acting under similar circumstances was held to have violated the Constitution with a high degree of specificity. Principles stated generally, such as that an officer may not use unreasonable and excessive force, do not suffice. Zorn v. Linton, No. 25–297 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/23/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-297_bqm2.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Officers have qualified immunity for using a pain compliance technique to forcibly remove a protester from a state capitol. Zorn v. Linton, No. 25–297 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/23/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-297_bqm2.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "The majority today gives officers license to inflict gratuitous pain on a nonviolent even where there is no threat to officer safety or any other reason to do so. That is plainly inconsistent with the Fourth Amendment's fundamental guarantee that officers may only use 'the amount of force that is necessary' under the circumstances." Zorn v. Linton, No. 25–297 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/23/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-297_bqm2.pdf

INDICTMENT-AMENDMENT: Once returned by a grand jury, an indictment may not be amended to charge an additional, similar, or different offense—not by the State, a trial judge, or even the grand jury that returned the indictment. Only an amendment to form--to correct a defect, error, or omission in a caption or to eliminate surplusage--is permitted. Lemos v. State, 5D2024-2438 (3/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486372/opinion/Opinion_2024-2438.pdf

INDICTMENT-AMENDMENT: State cannot amend its indictment charging first degree felony murder to accessory after the fact to first degree murder ("I'll pretend that accessory after the fact is a lesser to murder one. We all know it's not. But...we can do it that way."). This flawed approach does not deprive the trial court of its subject matter jurisdiction such that vacating the conviction and sentence is required. "[T]he issue is not one of 'jurisdiction' but one of due process. And as with most rights, a defendant such as Lemos can waive a defect in the charging instrument, even one reaching constitutional dimension." Conflict certified. Lemos v. State, 5D2024-2438 (3/20/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486372/opinion/Opinion_2024-2438.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-LETHAL INJECTION: Determining the constitutionality of an execution method does not require the trial court to compare the State's proposed method with the prisoner's proposed alternative. To prevail on a method-of-execution claim, a prisoner "has to establish two things: (1) that the method of execution in question creates a substantial risk of serious harm and (2) that there is an alternative that is feasible, readily implemented, and in fact significantly reduces a substantial risk of severe pain. If the planned method does not present a substantial risk of serious harm, the officials may use it regardless of the proposed alternatives. Nance v. Commissioner, Georgia Department of Corrections, No. 25-11890 (11th Cir. 3/19/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202511890.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-LETHAL INJECTION: Prisoner may be executed by lethal injection, rather than by firing squad, where his claim that his veins are severely compromised, heavily scarred, tortuous, with thin walls, presenting a substantial risk that his vein would "blow" and lose its structural integrity, was contradicted by testimony that his veins were fine. Nance v. State, No. 25-11890 (11th Cir. 3/19/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202511890.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: A defendant whose sentence is vacated on direct appeal cannot withdraw his underlying plea for good cause prior to the imposition of a new sentence on remand. The R. 3.170 good-cause standard for reviewing a plea ("[t]he court . . . shall on good cause, at any time before a sentence, permit a plea of guilty or no contest to be withdrawn.") does not apply during post-appeal resentencing proceedings. Saffold v. State, No. SC2023-1749 (3/19/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486332/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1749.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL (J. TANENBAUM, CONCURRING): "[W]e are obliged to state with clarity that rule 3.170(l) does not authorize a trial court to consider a change-of-plea motion on a remand for a new sentencing." Saffold v. State, No. SC2023-1749 (3/19/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486332/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1749.pdf

SUPREME COURT-RULE INTERPRETATION (J. TANENBAUM, CONCURRING: "Unlike statutes, with court rules, we are the policymaker." Interpretation of rules "truly is a matter of judicial policy, and we can speak to it directly without resort to construction canons." "Our being the policymaker...means we happen to know what our intent was when the rule was promulgated (or at least have access to that thinking if we care to look)." Saffold v. State, No. SC2023-1749 (3/19/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486332/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1749.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-EXPECTATIONS: Expectation 3.11, which directs lawyers not to prevent a deponent from answering a question unless there is a legal privilege, is amended to add two other exceptions: when the instruction not to answer is "necessary to enforce a limitation on evidence directed by the court," and when the instruction is made "in connection with a motion to terminate or limit the examination of a deponent." In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Professionalism Expectations, No. SC2025-1347 (3/19/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486333/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1347.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-EXPECTATIONS: Expectation 4.9, which states that a lawyer should only refuse disclosure during discovery if there is a legal privilege, is amended to add or a valid legal objection." In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Professionalism Expectations, No. SC2025-1347 (3/19/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486333/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1347.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-EXPECTATIONS: Expectation 4.10, which addresses disorganized, unintelligible, and inappropriate discovery responses, the phrase "in an attempt to conceal evidence" is deleted so that the lawyer's subjective intent is not the basis of the disfavored behavior. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Professionalism Expectations, No. SC2025-1347 (3/19/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486333/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1347.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-EXPECTATIONS: Expectation 4.20, which advises lawyers not to criticize or denigrate opposing parties, witnesses, or the court to clients, media, or members of the public, is amended to delete "criticize or." In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Professionalism Expectations, No. SC2025-1347 (3/19/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486333/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1347.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-EXPECTATIONS: Expectation 5.1, which currently advises lawyers to "encourage" their support personnel to abstain from rude, disruptive, and disrespectful behavior, is amended to advise the lawyer to "instruct" their support personnel to abstain from such behavior. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Professionalism Expectations, No. SC2025-1347 (3/19/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486333/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1347.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-EXPECTATIONS: Expectation 6.10, which instructs lawyers to "respond promptly to inquiries and communications from clients and others," is amended by deleting "and others." In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Professionalism Expectations, No. SC2025-1347 (3/19/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486333/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1347.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-APPEALS-NO STAPLES: Documents filed in paper format should be held together by removable paper clips and must not be stapled or bound. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Appellate Procedure, No. SC2025-1458 (3/19/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486334/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1458.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-APPEALS-SERVICE: R 2.516((d) is re-titled from "Proof of Service" to "Certificate of Service" and updates the certificate of service samples to conform to the recent changes made to rule 2.516(f). In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Appellate Procedure, No. SC2025-1458 (3/19/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486334/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1458.pdf

TERRORISM-TRUE THREAT-JOA: "True threats" are "statements where the speaker means to communicate a serious expression of an intent to commit an act of unlawful violence." Defendant may be convicted of making an electronic threat for posting a video on himself with an AR-15 style rifle threatening to shoot up a middle school "on a Saturday or a Sunday when no children are there" with the disclaimer "THIS IS AN ART PIECE. A WORK OF FICTION." The question of intent is for the jury and is not a matter for judgment of acquittal. Mere disclaimers will not shield a person from prosecution. Dominguez v. State, 1D2024-1250 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486208/opinion/Opinion_2024-1250.pdf

JOA: A boilerplate motion for judgment of acquittal is insufficient to preserve an issue. Branch v. State, 1D2024-2165 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486213/opinion/Opinion_2024-2165.pdf

BURGLARY: Entering the area underneath a home, which functioned both as an attached porch and as a carport, can qualify as the necessary entry to meet that element of a burglary. Branch v. State, 1D2024-2165 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486213/opinion/Opinion_2024-2165.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: There must be some affirmative indication that a trial court actually based the sentence on an impermissible factor before an otherwise legal sentence will be reversed. Perry v. State, 1D2024-2479 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486214/opinion/Opinion_2024-2479.pdf

NOLLE PROSEQUI (J. AROSE, CONCURRING): The words "nolle prosequi" are a Latin expression which translated literally mean "to be unwilling to prosecute." "Nolle pros" is a shortened form of the Latin phrase "nolle prosequi." Aldacosta v. State, 2D2023-1620 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486199/opinion/Opinion_2023-1620.pdf

IDIOM OF THE DAY (J. AROSE, CONCURRING): "In my view, this approach created a mare's nest to unravel." Aldacosta v. State, 2D2023-1620 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486199/opinion/Opinion_2023-1620.pdf

NOLLE PROSEQUI (J. AROSE, CONCURRING): The State's discretion to nolle prosse a charge is not unbridled. The State may not nolle prosse a charge after the jury is sworn and jeopardy has attached, nor following return of the jury's verdict. "My concerns are beyond academic. Because the State may not nolle prosse a charge after jeopardy attached, the State's nolle prosse of Mr. Aldacosta's Count I conviction is a nullity...Thus, the State's feckless nolle prosse failed to totally cure the double jeopardy problem. Seemingly, the conviction remains on the books." Aldacosta v. State, 2D2023-1620 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486199/opinion/Opinion_2023-1620.pdf

PRR-ERLINGER: Even assuming Erlinger applies to Defendant's PRR sentence, error would be harmless where Defendant did not dispute his criminal history or that he factually qualified as both an HFO and a PRR. Davis v. State, 2D2024-1137 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486200/opinion/Opinion_2024-1137.pdf

SUBPOENA-MEDICAL RECORDS: A single evaluation from a confidential expert is not enough to show that Defendant is incompetent, and thus cannot be proceeded against, where the Court has not made a competency determination. Regardless, a hearing concerning Defendant's medical records is not a material stage of the criminal proceedings. It did not require his participation to reach a just resolution of the issues being considered. Hill v. State, 2D2025-1955 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486201/opinion/Opinion_2025-1955.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger errors are subject to a harmless error review. The harmless error inquiry is whether the record demonstrates beyond a reasonable doubt that a rational jury would have found that appellant qualified as a habitual felony offender. Mesa v. State, 3D2024-0384 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486262/opinion/Opinion_2024-0384.pdf

APPEAL: For an appellant to raise an issue properly on appeal, he must raise it in the initial brief. Issues not raised in the initial brief are considered waived or abandoned. Mesa v. State, 3D2024-0384 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486262/opinion/Opinion_2024-0384.pdf

CONDITIONS of PROBATION: Standard conditions of probation are contained within §948.03 and need not be orally pronounced. Special conditions are not authorized by statute and must be orally pronounced at sentencing before being placed in the probation order. Mesa v. State, 3D2024-0384 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486262/opinion/Opinion_2024-0384.pdf

PROBATION-SPECIAL CONDITION: The requirement that Defendant "work diligently at a lawful occupation," differs from the corresponding standard condition by omitting the language "insofar as may be possible." Mesa v. State, 3D2024-0384 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486262/opinion/Opinion_2024-0384.pdf

PROBATION-SPECIAL CONDITION: The condition that Defendant disclose his probationary status to his employer is a special condition of probation which must be orally pronounced or stricken from the written order. Mesa v. State, 3D2024-0384 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486262/opinion/Opinion_2024-0384.pdf

EVIDENCE-BOLSTERING: Officer's testimony that not every person stopped for DUI ends of being arrested for DUI is not improper

bolstering. Vargas v. State, 3D24-0882 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486263/opinion/Opinion_2024-0882.pdf

ARGUMENT: State did not commit fundamental error by suggesting that Defendant sought to hide evidence of her guilt when she declined to take a breathalyzer test because the State was seeking not to shift the burden of proof, but rather, to establish consciousness of guilt. The refusal to submit to a chemical or physical breath test upon the request of a law enforcement officer as provided in this section is admissible into evidence in any criminal proceeding. Vargas v. State, 3D24-0882 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486263/opinion/Opinion_2024-0882.pdf

INEXTRICABLE EVIDENCE: Evidence which is inextricably intertwined with the crime charged is admissible under section §90.402 because it is a relevant and inseparable part of the act which is in issue. It is necessary to admit the evidence to adequately describe the deed. Lyles v. State, 3D24-1483 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486252/opinion/Opinion_2024-1483.pdf

VOIR DIRE: Where defense counsel repeatedly questioned the prospective jurors on their willingness to accept the basis of its defense (children lie), Court did not abuse its discretion in sustaining State's objection to the question "Now, are you all open to the idea that a child could be making up these serious allegations as a way to control who has custody over them?" on grounds of pre-trying the case The question (whether a prospective juror could believe a child could lie) had already been asked, in some form, both collectively and individually. The additional details sought by defense counsel regarding a potential/hypothetical incentive to lie for purposes of custody were included, in the general sense, in the multiple instances of questioning on this issue. Zapata v. State, 3D24-2163 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486266/opinion/Opinion_2024-2163.pdf

EVIDENCE-AUTHENTICATION-TEXT MESSAGES: Circumstances recognized as sufficient to meet the test of authenticity include when a letter is written disclosing information which is likely known only to the purported author. Rolle v. Joseph, 3D24-2173 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486268/opinion/Opinion_2024-2173.pdf

SUBSISTENCE CREDIT: § 951.16 provides that "[e]very person who may be imprisoned in the county jail for failure to pay a fine and costs, or either, under sentence imposed upon conviction for crime shall be entitled to receive, together with subsistence, a credit on such fine and costs, or either, as the case may be, in proportion to the time such person may be imprisoned." Louissaint v. State, 3D25-1528 (3/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486261/opinion/Opinion_2025-1528.pdf

PRETRIAL DETENTION: For pretrial detention. Court must weigh the evidence, resolve factual disputes, and make any necessary credibility determinations in the same manner it would weigh and analyze testimony and evidence presented at any evidentiary hearing in which the trial court sits as fact finder, rather than viewing the evidence in a light most favorable to the State. Contradictory language in Arthur is dicta. "There is nothing in the plain language of 907.041(5)(d), or its procedural counterpart, Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.131, that requires the trial court to view the evidence at a pretrial detention hearing in a particular manner or in a light most favorable to one party or the other...and we decline the invitation to add such language." Williams v. Green, 3D25-2545 (3/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486137/opinion/Opinion_2025-2545.pdf

DNA TESTING: §925.11(1)(a)1 does not authorize postconviction DNA testing for defendants who have pled guilty or nolo contendere to felony offenses. Davis v. State, 2D2025-2823 (3/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486058/opinion/Opinion_2025-2823.pdf

JUVENILE-VOP-JURISDICTION: §985.0301 provides that the court shall retain jurisdiction to dispose of a case, unless relinquished by its order, until the child reaches 19 years of age. Where Child was originally sentenced to one year probation and upon her first violation restored to probation for the balance of jurisdiction, she may be sentenced for a new violation occurring after the expiration of the original one year tem of probation. T.A.F. v. State, 6D2024-0793 (3/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486087/opinion/Opinion_2024-0793.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: For double jeopardy protection to apply, the offenses must be the same in law and in fact. Offenses are separate if each offense requires proof of an element that the other does not, without regard to the accusatory pleading or the proof adduced at trial. McRae v. State, 6D2024-0992 (3/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2486092/opinion/Opinion_2024-0992.pdf

APPEAL: The State may appeal from a ruling granting a motion for judgment of acquittal after a jury verdict. State v. Perez Franco, 1D2023-1916 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485904/opinion/Opinion_2023-1916.pdf

DISCHARGE OF FIREARM: A jury finding of discharge of a firearm raises the mandatory minimum sentence to twenty years in prison. State v. Perez Franco, 1D2023-1916 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485904/opinion/Opinion_2023-1916.pdf

JOA: A jury is allowed to draw reasonable inferences from the evidence presented at trial, and where a jury can make such inferences from the evidence to determine the guilt of a defendant, the facts must be decided upon by the jury, not the court. However, a jury may not draw an inference from an inference rather than from the evidence presented by the parties. Evidence is insufficient to support a conviction when it requires pyramiding of assumptions or impermissibly stacked inferences. State v. Perez Franco, 1D2023-1916 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485904/opinion/Opinion_2023-1916.pdf

JOA-DISCHARGING FIREARM: A spent shell casing found near the location of a shooting incident and the recovery of a firearm from the Defendant more than a week later is insufficient to show that Defendant discharged the firearm, particularly where Defendant's father had fired a weapon. State v. Perez Franco, 1D2023-1916 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485904/opinion/Opinion_2023-1916.pdf

PRINCIPAL: Defendant may be convicted as a principal regardless whether the charging document explicitly names him as a principal; it is immaterial whether the indictment or information alleges that the defendant committed the crime or was merely aiding or abetting in its commission, so long as the proof establishes that he was guilty of one of the acts denounced by the statute. State v. Perez Franco, 1D2023-1916 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485904/opinion/Opinion_2023-1916.pdf

JOA-INCONSISTENT VERDICTS: Inconsistent jury verdicts are permitted in Florida. Inconsistent verdicts against jointly tried conspirators are not truly inconsistent. State v. Perez Franco, 1D2023-1916 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485904/opinion/Opinion_2023-1916.pdf

JOA-INCONSISTENT VERDICTS: The jury did not return an inconsistent verdict when it found the son guilty of a higher crime than it found the father guilty of notwithstanding the fact that the two defendants were jointly tried and the evidence demonstrated that the father discharged his firearm while the son only possessed a firearm because jury verdicts can be the result of lenity and therefore do not always speak to the guilt or innocence of the defendant. State v. Perez Franco, 1D2023-1916 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485904/opinion/Opinion_2023-1916.pdf

PRINCIPAL-ENHANCEMENT: Defendant can be convicted as a principal or aiding his father in assaulting victims, “What the son cannot be found criminally culpable of as a principal, though, is the criminal enhancements of possession and discharge of a firearm.” When a defendant is charged with a felony involving the use of a weapon, his or her sentence cannot be enhanced under §775.087(1) as a principal without evidence establishing that the defendant had personal possession of the weapon or discharged it. State v. Perez Franco, 1D2023-1916 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485904/opinion/Opinion_2023-1916.pdf

COMPETENCY: Court must make an independent determination of competency rather than merely accepting a stipulation between the State and the defense. Dantzler v. State, 1D2023-2400 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485908/opinion/Opinion_2023-2400.pdf

COMPETENCY-NUNC PRO TUNC DETERMINATION-REMAND: To address a deficient competency determination, appellate courts have used different remedies: 1) To reverse and remand for a nunc pro tunc determination of competency; 2) To relinquish jurisdiction to the trial court to allow the trial court to make a nunc pro tunc determination of competency; 3) temporarily remanding a case, without affirming or reversing, to allow the trial court to make a nunc pro tunc determination of competency; or 4) Under R 9.600(b), to permit the lower tribunal to proceed with specifically stated matters during the pendency of the appeal, to wit, making a nunc pro tunc determination of competency. The fourth way is the right one. Dantzler v. State, 1D2023-2400 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485908/opinion/Opinion_2023-2400.pdf

COMPETENCY-NUNC PRO TUNC DETERMINATION: In making a nunc pro tunc competency determination a new competency hearing is not required. A trial court must do three things whenever it has reasonable grounds to believe that a defendant may be incompetent: (1) hold a hearing, (2) make an independent determination of whether the defendant is competent, and (3) enter a written order stating its determination. Dantzler v. State, 1D2023-2400 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485908/opinion/Opinion_2023-2400.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Termination of probation does not limit Defendant's ability to challenge his conviction nor the Court's jurisdiction. R. 3.850 is for "relief from judgment," not just "release from custody." A movant need not be "in custody" to file a R. 3.850 motion. Patella v. State, 1D2025-1783 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485912/opinion/Opinion_2025-1783.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Evidence that Defendant "is a man with humanity" is not newly discovered evidence. "In any case, the claim is meritless." King v. State, SC2026-0336 (3/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485899/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0336.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-PUBLIC RECORDS: Rules which permit counsel for a defendant subject to a death warrant to request the production of certain public records, is not intended to be a procedure authorizing a fishing expedition. Various records, checklists, and logs relating to the procedures for the use and maintenance of the chemicals used in the lethal injection protocol, sought to support speculative inferences that the State fails to follow appropriate lethal injection protocols are not discoverable. An alleged failure to document the removal of drugs from inventory until one or two days after an execution would not, without more, show a substantial and imminent risk that is sure or very likely to cause serious illness and needless suffering during an execution. King v. State, SC2026-0336 (3/10/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485899/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0336.pdf

FLIGHT: Evidence of flight or concealment may be admissible to establish consciousness of guilt. The probative value of flight as circumstantial evidence of guilt depends upon the degree of confidence with which four inferences can be drawn: (1) from the defendant's behavior to flight; (2) from flight to consciousness of guilt; (3) from consciousness of guilt to consciousness of guilt concerning the crime charged; and (4) from consciousness of guilt concerning the crime charged to actual guilt of the crime charged. USA v. Hamilton, No. 23-12038 (11th Cir. 3/9/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312038.pdf

FLIGHT INSTRUCTION: A flight instruction is permissible where after the failed robbery at the Grab-A-Snack Market Defendant crashed his girlfriend Pearlie's Ford Explorer into a building, told her to report it stolen, and went to Georgia. A jury could reasonably find that his flight established his consciousness of guilt. USA v. Hamilton, No. 23-12038 (3/9/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312038.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT: A comment on the failure of the defense, rather than the failure of the defendant to explain or rebut evidence, does not violate the defendant's Fifth Amendment privilege. "And again, what possible explanation is there for telling Pearlie Scott to falsely report the car stolen if Hamilton wasn't even involved?" Is not an improper argument. The comment may be reasonably viewed as a logical inference from all of the evidence rather than an argument requiring a negative inference from the defendant's failure to testify. USA v. Hamilton, No. 23-12038 (3/9/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312038.pdf

NEW TRIAL: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial based on the juror's postverdict comment in a questionnaire that "I truly felt Mr. Hamilton wasn't guilty...I wished I would've stuck to my guns and allowed another jury to try him." The court may not receive a juror's affidavit or evidence of a juror's statement on jurors' mental process in reaching the verdict. The use of juror testimony to impeach a verdict is prohibited. USA v. Hamilton, No. 23-12038 (3/9/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312038.pdf

SENTENCE-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: Court did not err in imposing on above-the-guidelines sentence for Hobbs Act robbery based on aggravating factors in Defendant's criminal history. USA v. Hamilton, No. 23-12038 (3/9/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312038.pdf

SENTENCING-DEPARTURE/VARIANCE: A departure is a term of art under the Guidelines and refers only to non-Guidelines sentences imposed under the framework set out in the Guidelines, including the departure provisions. A variance, by contrast, is a sentence imposed outside the guidelines range when the court determines that a guidelines sentence will not adequately further the purposes reflected in 18 U.S.C. §3553(a). A court must give the parties advance notice if it is considering departing from the guidelines range, but it need not give advance notice if it is considering varying from that range.
USA v. Hamilton, No. 23-12038 (3/9/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312038.pdf

APPEAL-JURISDICTION-MOTION: A trial court has jurisdiction to rule on Defendant's unrelated 3.850 motion to challenging his underlying conviction during the unrelated appeal of the order revoking probation because the trial court could consider the merits of the motion without passing judgment on any of the issues before the appellate court. Sands v. State, 2D2025-0147 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485925/opinion/Opinion_2025-0147.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-STOP: Officer's testimony that Defendant's brake lights came on for only half a second supports an inference that he did not come to a complete stop at a stop sign. Kent v. State, 3D25-0779 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485985/opinion/Opinion_2024-0779.pdf

SEVERANCE-CHARGES: Defendant is not entitled to severance of charges of DWLS and Giving a False Name from the Possession of Narcotics charge. Error, if any, was harmless. Kent v. State, 3D25-0779 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485985/opinion/Opinion_2024-0779.pdf

MISTRIAL-JUDICIAL SPILLOVER-PROSECUTORIAL: In considering whether there is prejudicial judicial spillover from a JOA'ed count, the Court must consider whether there was evidence (1) that would not have been admitted but for the dismissed charges and (2) that was improperly relied on by the jury in their consideration of the remaining charge. Kent v. State, 3D25-0779 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485985/opinion/Opinion_2024-0779.pdf

MISTRIAL–JUDICIAL SPILLOVER-PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT: Defendant is not entitled to a mistrial on the remaining charges where Defendant was charged with DWLS despite the State not having the Michigan records showing his license had been suspended where the State said that it made a good faith effort to obtain the driving records. Defendant failed to establish the evidentiary spillover from the acquitted DWLS charge to the remaining charges was so prejudicial that mistrial was warranted. "No Florida case directly addresses the issue of mistrial due to the prejudicial spillover (also sometimes referred to as "retroactive misjoinder" or evidentiary spillover") from counts dismissed pursuant to a judgment of acquittal." Kent v. State, 3D25-0779 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485985/opinion/Opinion_2024-0779.pdf

EVIDENCE-CONSCIOUSNESS OF GUILT: Evidence of a defendant's statements calculated to defeat or avoid his prosecution is admissible against him as showing consciousness of guilt. Kent v. State, 3D25-0779 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485985/opinion/Opinion_2024-0779.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE-RECANTATION: Florida law treats recantations with suspicion. Recanted testimony will not entitle a defendant to a new trial unless (1) the trial court is satisfied that the recantation is true; and (2) the witness' testimony will change to such an extent as to render probable a different verdict." Morrow v. State, 3D24-2074 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485984/opinion/Opinion_2024-2074.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-HEARING: Defendant is not entitled to a hearing on his motion for postconviction relief where his allegations are conclusively refuted by the record. "[I]t is beyond peradventure that a defendant is bound by the statements he makes and answers he gives to the trial court during the plea colloquy." Watts v. State, 3D25-0417 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485976/opinion/Opinion_2025-0417.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: It is the jury's duty to determine whether the evidence is sufficient to exclude every reasonable hypothesis of innocence beyond a reasonable doubt. Where there is substantial, competent evidence to support the jury verdict, that determination will not be disturbed by the courts. Aguirre v. State, 3D25-0838 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485977/opinion/Opinion_2025-0838.pdf

INFORMATION/CHARGING DOCUMENT: Where the record contains no indictment, information, or notice to appear, the trial court lacks subject matter jurisdiction and may not enter a judgment of conviction. McKinnon v. State, 3D25-0999 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485989/opinion/Opinion_2025-0999.pdf

BENCH TRIAL: It is fundamental error for the trial court to conduct a bench trial instead of a jury trial where: (1) there is an express jury demand; and (2) the crime being tried is punishable by incarceration for up to a year, not six months or less. Absent a written waiver or proper colloquy on an oral waiver, the trial court's decision to proceed to a bench trial, even after the State certified it was not seeking jail or probation constitutes fundamental error where the crime charged here is punishable by a term of up to one year, not six months or less. McKinnon v. State, 3D25-0999 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485989/opinion/Opinion_2025-0999.pdf

NATIVE HUE OF RESOLUTION SICKLIED O'ER WITH THE PALE CAST OF THOUGHT[1]: "The State concedes error on the first issue, the lack of a valid charging document. The State initially took the position on the second issue that there was conflicting law on the issue of a right to a jury trial under the circumstances, but it didn't matter because the first issue was dispositive. Then, after the reply brief, the State amended the confession of error to confess error on the jury trial issue, too. But a few days later, the State withdrew the amendment to the confession of error, confessing error only on the first issue." McKinnon v. State, 3D25-0999 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485989/opinion/Opinion_2025-0999.pdf

SELF-REPRESENTATION: The right to proceed pro se may be forfeited where it is determined, after proper notice and an opportunity to be heard, that the party has abused the judicial process by the continued filing of successive or meritless collateral claims in a criminal proceeding. Williams v. State, 3D25-1701 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485978/opinion/Opinion_2025-1701.pdf

LIFE IMPRISONMENT: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. There is nothing indefinite about such a sentence. Gonzalez v. State, 3D25-1739 (3/11/26)

[1]Shakespeare, William. Hamlet, Act III, Scene 1.

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485979/opinion/Opinion_2025-1739.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: Florida's Prison Releasee Reoffender statute is not unconstitutional based on Alleyne and Apprendi. Thomas v. State, 3D25-1966 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485980/opinion/Opinion_2025-1955.pdf

ERLINGER: Under the prior conviction exception, a sentencing judge may do no more, consistent with the Sixth Amendment, than determine what crime, with what elements, the defendant was convicted of. Erlinger makes clear that the prior conviction exception is limited to determining the identity of the crime and its elements—no more is allowed. When the sentencing court, rather than the jury, made the necessary factual findings to impose a habitual felony offender sentence, any error was harmless beyond a reasonable doubt where no rational jury would have found the qualifying facts differently than the sentencing court. Kenyon v. State, 4D2023-1856 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485933/opinion/Opinion_2023-1856.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Galarraga v. State, 4D2025-3236 (3/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485954/opinion/Opinion_2025-3236.pdf

BOND FORFEITURE: Forfeiture of cash bond must be set aside where Defendant's FTA occurred because he had been deported. §903.26 provides that a bail bond forfeiture shall be discharged within sixty days upon a determination that, at the time of the required appearance or within sixty days after the date of the required appearance, the defendant...was deported. There is no distinction between a bond posted by a surety and a bond posted in cash by or on behalf of a defendant. Clerk v. Rangel, 1D2024-1772 (3/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485786/opinion/Opinion_2024-1772.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: A defendant's mother has common authority to consent to the search of defendant's bedroom where she has access to the room, defendant did not lock the room or instruct his mother not to let anyone enter the room, and articles were left out in the open. State v. King, 5D2024-3357 (3/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485796/opinion/Opinion_2024-3357.pdf

MISTRIAL: Co-defendant's inadvertent, fleeting, and vague reference to a discussion about planning another robbery was not so prejudicial as to vitiate the entire trial. "In his brief, Quesada cites an oft-repeated proposition that the improper admission of uncharged-crime evidence is 'presumed harmful error.'... However, the Florida Supreme Court has recently characterized this proposition as nonbinding dicta and a 'misstatement of the law.'" Quesada v. State, 6D2023-3173 (3/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485800/opinion/Opinion_2023-3173.pdf

MISTRIAL (J. NARDELLA, DISSENTING): "[T]he co-defendant testified on direct examination, that he and Quesada discussed '[d]oing a robbery on somebody else.' This testimony of a separate, uncharged robbery, although not intentionally elicited by the prosecution nor mentioned at trial again, deprived Quesada of a fair trial by encouraging the jury to believe that Quesada was predisposed to commit robberies. On these facts, no curative instruction would have been sufficient to cure this prejudice, only a mistrial." Quesada v. State, 6D2023-3173 (3/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485800/opinion/Opinion_2023-3173.pdf

APPEAL-COSTS-PRESERVED ISSUE: Defendant cannot appeal whether certain investigative costs were awarded without evidence to support for the issue is not preserved by a contemporary objection. An objection to the sufficiency of the proof must be made contemporaneously with the assessment of costs. Davis v. State, 6D2024-1391 (3/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485805/opinion/Opinion_2024-1391.pdf

ERLINGER: Alleged Erlinger error is subject to a harmless error analysis, and since the offense for which Defendant was convicted of subjected him to a life sentence irrespective of any PRR designation, he is not serving an enhanced sentence; accordingly, the error, if any, is harmless. Zink v. State, 6D2024-1626 (3/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485808/opinion/Opinion_2024-1626.pdf

APPEAL-CERTIFICATION-SUCCESSIVE HABEAS CORPUS: Only a single §2255 motion is authorized and successive attempts at relief are limited. §2255 plainly requires successive motions to be certified by the appropriate appeals court. The appeals court can only certify constitutional challenges that invoke a new rule of constitutional law, made retroactive to cases on collateral review by the Supreme Court, that was previously unavailable. Appellant may bring a successive challenge to the enhanced sentence under the §924(c)(3)(B)'s residual clause because his predicate offense of attempted Hobbs Act robbery would not qualify as a crime of violence, but he may not raise other issues. "To the extent our sister courts permit movants to add new claims that have not been screened, and which exceed the bounds of the leave granted by the court of appeals, we respectfully disagree." USA v. Ragland, No. 2023-12278 (11th Cir. 3/5/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312278.reh.pdf

AMENDMENT-APPELLATE RULE: Rules amended to expressly state that a defendant, from a guilty or nolo contendere plea, may appeal an error in the sentencing process where he expressly reserves the right to appeal a prior dispositive order of the lower tribunal, identifying with particularity the point of law being reserved. "We now expressly enumerate 'an error in the sentencing process, if preserved,' in the rule's list of appeals otherwise allowed." In Re: Amendment to Florida Rule of Appellate Procedure 9.140, SC2026-0073 (3/5/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485780/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0073.pdf

SCORESHEET: Scoresheet may not include prior convictions where Defendant had not been convicted of any other crime for a period of 10 consecutive years from the most recent date of release from confinement, supervision, or sanction, whichever is later, to the date of the primary offense. Humphrey v. State, 1D2024-0032 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485636/opinion/Opinion_2024-0032.pdf

JOA: Appellate court reviews the denial of a motion for judgment of acquittal de novo to determine whether competent, substantial evidence supports the elements of the crime. A judgment of acquittal should only be granted when the jury cannot reasonably view the evidence in any manner favorable to the opposing party. Kelly v. State, 1D2024-1482 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485635/opinion/Opinion_2024-1482.pdf

JOA-BURGLARY-INVITEE: An owner's consent for the defendant to enter the dwelling is an affirmative defense to burglary. If the person is licensed or invited to enter, there is no burglary. Kelly v. State, 1D2024-1482 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485635/opinion/Opinion_2024-1482.pdf

JOA-BURGLARY-INVITEE: The common, colloquial invitation to "come over anytime" does not necessarily grant permission to enter a residence at any time. A reasonable jury could infer that an owner of a dwelling does not give consent to enter the dwelling by extending a blanket invitation to come over anytime. "[E]ven if a 'standing invitation' existed, a reasonable person would understand that any such invitation was revoked the moment Colley shot through the sliding glass door at Amanda and her friends inside." Kelly v. State, 1D2024-1482 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485635/opinion/Opinion_2024-1482.pdf

PRO SE: Generally, a criminal defendant cannot proceed pro se while represented by counsel. Orr v. State, 2025-2260 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485654/opinion/Opinion_2025-2260.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: An accused may not be subjected to more severe punishment for exercising his constitutional right to stand trial. The burden is on the State to show from the record as a whole that the trial court did not consider impermissible factors in rendering its sentence. Where the Court's rationale appears to be that a harsher penalty (48 years–plea offer had been 17 years) is appropriate because of the difficulty for jurors in viewing reprehensible child pornography. Alcantara-Menjivar v. State, 2D2024-0688 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485633/opinion/Opinion_2024-0688.pdf

PUBLIC DEFENDER FEE: $1,000 in costs for the public defender's fee is improperly imposed without notice or an opportunity to contest it. Alcantara-Menjivar v. State, 2D2024-0688 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485633/opinion/Opinion_2024-0688.pdf

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: In order to be of such fundamental nature as to justify a reversal in the absence of timely objection the error must reach down into the validity of the trial itself to the extent that a verdict of guilty could not have been obtained without the assistance of the alleged error. Salgadooliva v. State, 2D2025-0938 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485700/opinion/Opinion_2025-0938.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Ferguson v. State, 3D25-193 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485704/opinion/Opinion_2025-1693.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: R. 3.800(a) is intended to correct errors that are apparent on the face of the record. Ferguson v. State, 3D25-193 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485704/opinion/

Opinion_2025-1693.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: A petition alleging ineffective assistance of appellate counsel on direct review must not be filed more than 2 years after the judgment and sentence become final on direct review unless it alleges under oath with a specific factual basis that the petitioner was affirmatively misled about the results of the appeal by counsel. In no case may a petition alleging ineffective assistance of appellate counsel on direct review be filed more than 4 years after the judgment and sentence become final on direct review. Barrett v. State, 3D26-0180 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485705/opinion/Opinion_2026-0180.pdf

SENTENCING: Where a trial court's written sentencing order conflicts with the oral pronouncement, the oral pronouncement controls. Orgill v. State, 4D2024-1145 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485670/opinion/Opinion_2024-1145.pdf

COSTS: Trial court need not cite statutory authority for the imposition of costs. Orgill v. State, 4D2024-1145 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485670/opinion/Opinion_2024-1145.pdf

SELF-DEFENSE-DUTY TO RETREAT: Court erred by overruling the defendant's objection to the prosecutor's closing argument, which had incorrectly implied the defendant had a duty to retreat under the evidence presented. But where a trial court errs in overruling a defense objection to a prosecutor's incorrect statement of law, the error can be harmless if: (1) The misstatement was presented to the jury in the context of closing argument by an advocate, not in the context of an instruction by the court; (2) the misstatement was an innocent one—the prosecutor was struggling with a subtle rule of law that is difficult to articulate; and (3) although the prosecutor repeated the incorrect statement to the jury minutes later he read the proper instruction Darby v. State, 4D 2024-3153 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485675/opinion/Opinion_2024-3153.pdf

YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: A defendant is not entitled to retain his youthful offender status after his violation of probation and adult sentencing. Dunston v. State, 4D2025-0670 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485676/opinion/Opinion_2025-0670.pdf

RESENTENCING-COUNSEL: A defendant is entitled to be present and represented by counsel at any resentencing proceeding from a motion to correct illegal sentence unless resentencing involves only a ministerial act. Where the resentencing was for the ministerial purpose of striking the youthful offender designation, Defendant is not entitled to representation. Dunston v. State, 4D2025-0670 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485676/opinion/Opinion_2025-0670.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE: Claims for which an appellant has not presented any argument, or for which he provides only conclusory argument, are insufficiently presented for review and are waived. Dunston v. State, 4D2025-0670 (3/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485676/opinion/Opinion_2025-0670.pdf

RESTITUTION-JURISDICTION: A district court continues to have jurisdiction in a criminal case to order compliance with unsatisfied restitution obligations after the defendant completes her probationary sentence. USA v. Mims, No. 22-13215 (11th Cir. 3/2/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213215.reh.pdf

APPEAL-ARGUMENT FORFEITURE RULE: Failure to raise an issue in an initial brief on direct appeal should be treated as a forfeiture of the issue, absent special circumstances. USA v. Mims, No. 22-13215 (3/2/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213215.reh.pdf

RESTITUTION: Restitution under the MVRA is criminal punishment for purposes of the Ex Post Facto clause. USA v. Mims, No. 22-13215 (3/2/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213215.reh.pdf

ANCILLARY JURISDICTION: The ancillary jurisdiction doctrine recognizes federal courts' jurisdiction over some matters (otherwise beyond their competence) that are incidental to other matters properly before them. This doctrine enables a court to function successfully, that is, to manage its proceedings, vindicate its authority, and effectuate its decrees. District courts have inherent power to enforce compliance with their lawful orders through civil contempt. USA v. Mims, No. 22-13215 (3/2/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213215.reh.pdf

FEBRUARY 2026

SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION: Generally applicable federal laws extend to the acts of Indians committed in Indian country, even if the victim is also an Indian. Nothing in the Major Crimes Act limits federal jurisdiction to only the crimes it enumerates. USA v. Brice, No. 22-14126 (11th Cir. 2/27/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214126.pdf

EVIDENCE: Prior to admitting evidence of previous convictions, the district court is required to make an on-the record finding that the probative value of admission outweighs its prejudicial effect. But error may be harmless. USA v. Brice, No. 22-14126 (11th Cir. 2/27/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214126.pdf

INFORMATION-DEFECTS : Substantive defects in an information--such as a failure to allege any essential element of the charged crime--can be raised for the first time on appeal. Technical defects must be preserved by contemporaneous objection. Sawyers v. State, 2D2024-0520 (2/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485481/opinion/Opinion_2024-0520.pdf

INFORMATION-DEFECTS: The failure to allege that great bodily harm was inflicted "as the result of" his discharge of the firearm—does not render the information substantively defective. The missing phrase relates solely to the causation language required to trigger the enhanced sentencing provision in §775.087(2)(a)3, not to the elements of the substantive offense itself. Facts which affect only the sentence to be imposed—not the existence of criminal liability—are not essential elements for charging purposes. Conflict certified.
Sawyers v. State, 2D2024-0520 (2/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485481/opinion/Opinion_2024-0520.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A defect in a charging document is not a proper basis for relief under R. 3.800 because such a defect does not render a sentence "illegal." Conflict certified. Sawyers v. State, 2D2024-0520 (2/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485481/opinion/Opinion_2024-0520.pdf

ETHICS: "[W]e encourage all members of the bar—whether it be a judge or attorneys appearing before a judge—to always be mindful of the principles inherent in the practice of law including civility, collegiality, and professionalism. Nyugen v. Williams, 2D2025-0410 (2/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485484/opinion/Opinion_2025-0410.pdf

ETHICS: Where attorney advised opposing counsel that she would not be able to attend the pretrial hearing because of illness and asked for a continuance, opposing counsel's failure to advise the Court violated principles of candor, civility, collegiality, and professionalism. It is not unusual for attorneys to accommodate opposing counsel, as a matter of course, when opposing counsel is dealing with personal struggles such as an illness. Such accommodations are based on the principles of civility, collegiality, and professionalism—principles that every attorney should strive to promote and exemplify in their practice of law. "Our opinion should serve as a reminder that courts do not look favorably on attorneys who engage in "gotcha" litigation tactics. Nyugen v. Williams, 2D2025-0410 (2/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485484/opinion/Opinion_2025-0410.pdf

ATTORNEY-EXCUSABLE NEGLECT: An assertion of illness is an assertion of excusable neglect. Nyugen v. Williams, 2D2025-0410 (2/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485484/opinion/Opinion_2025-0410.pdf

RE-SENTENCING: Defendant is not entitled to re-sentencing on the basis of a score sheet error where his sentence was the result of a negotiated plea and the erroneous scoresheet had no effect on the sentence. Feaster v. State, 5D2024-0701 (2/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485489/opinion/Opinion_2024-0701.pdf

ENTRAPMENT: Entrapment occurs when law enforcement employs methods of persuasion or inducement which create a substantial risk that such crime will be committed by a person other than one who is ready to commit it. A court considers two questions of fact in determining whether entrapment has occurred: (1) improper inducement by law enforcement and (2) the defendant's lack of predisposition to commit the offense charged. Where inducement s disputed, the trial court errs in dismissing the case rather than submitting it to the jury. State v. Gadbois, 6D2024-1593 (2/27/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485502/opinion/Opinion_2024-1593.pdf

ACCA: Under ACCA, any defendant convicted of possessing a firearm in violation of §922(g) is subject to a mandatory 15-year minimum sentence if he is an "armed career criminal," meaning that he has 3 prior convictions for "violent felonies" or "serious drug offenses" committed on separate occasions. USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 2/26/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.reh.pdf

CATEGORICAL APPROACH: Under the categorical approach, the Court looks to the statutory definition of the state offense, not the facts of the crime as committed. A state conviction qualifies as a "serious drug offense" or "violent felony" only if the state statute of conviction defines the offense in the same way as, or more narrowly than, ACCA's definition. The least culpable conduct prohibited by the state statute must fall within ACCA's definition of the qualifying predicate offenses. USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 2/26/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.reh.pdf

ACCA PREDICATE-IOFLUPANE: A prior state drug conviction may constitute an ACCA predicate if the drugs on the federal and state schedules matched when the state drug offense was committed. Where at the time of each drug conviction, both Florida law and federal law criminalized manufacturing, distributing, or possessing with intent to distribute cocaine, including ioflupane, the offense is an ACCA predicate. USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 2/26/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.reh.pdf

ACCA PREDICATE-VIOLENT FELONY: Under the categorical approach, Attempted Armed Robbery is not a violent felony and, thus, is not a valid predicate offense under ACCA. "So, is attempted armed robbery under Florida law categorically a violent felony under ACCA's elements clause? We conclude that the answer is no." Because no element of Florida attempted armed robbery requires proof that the defendant used, attempted to use, or even threatened to use force, it does not satisfy ACCA's elements clause. Prior precedent has been abrogated by the Supreme Court's decision in Taylor. USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 2/26/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.reh.pdf

PRIOR-PANEL-PRECEDENT RULE-ATTEMPTED ARMED ROBBERY: Under the prior-panel-precedent rule, a prior panel's holding is binding on all subsequent panels unless and until it is overruled or undermined to the point of abrogation by the Supreme Court or the appellate court sitting en banc. To constitute an "overruling" for the purposes of the prior panel precedent rule, the Supreme Court decision 'must be clearly on point, actually abrogating or directly conflict withing with, as opposed to merely weakening, the holding of the prior panel. Taylor is clearly on point and directly conflicts with Joyner's conclusion that Florida attempted robbery is a violent felony under ACCA. USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 2/26/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.reh.pdf

PRIOR-PANEL-PRECEDENT RULE (J. LUCK, DISSENTING): Because Taylor never discussed Joyner and involved a different firearm mandatory-minimum statute, a different underlying felony, and a different attempt law, it did not comment on the precise issue we had in Joyner...[T]he majority opinion is not reading Taylor's section 924(c) holding for guidance on how to apply the Act to Florida attempted armed robbery. It is using Taylor to ignore Joyner. That's not guidance. It's creative destruction." USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 2/26/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.reh.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A postconviction motion may not be amended unless good cause is shown. Neither COVID, voluminous records, not chnge of counsel constitutes good cause. Bright v. State, SC2023-1735 (2/26/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485461/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1735%20&%20SC2024-0876.pdf

JUROR INTERVIEW: A motion to interview jurors must be filed within 10 days after the rendition of the verdict, unless good cause is shown for the failure to make the motion within that time. Bright v. State, SC2023-1735 (2/26/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485461/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1735%20&%20SC2024-0876.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel's strategic decision to not pursue a victim-blaming approach is not ineffective. Bright v. State, SC2023-1735 (2/26/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485461/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1735%20&%20SC2024-0876.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-CONFLICT OF INTEREST: Courts may presume prejudice when the defendant's attorney labors under a conflict of interest, i.e., (1) counsel had an actual conflict of interest, and (2) the conflict adversely affected counsel's representation of the defendant. Failing to move to continue a case because of an impending hurricane does not constitute a conflict of interest. Bright v. State, SC2023-1735 (2/26/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485461/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1735%20&%20SC2024-0876.pdf

SCORE SHEET: Multiple assessments of community sanction violation points are allowed for successive probation violations. Hamilton v. State, 6D2024-1254 (2/26/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485478/opinion/Opinion_2024-1254.pdf

COSTS: Statutorily-mandated costs may be imposed without notice and, thus, need not be specifically pronounced at the sentencing hearing. Hamilton v. State, 6D2024-1254 (2/26/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485478/opinion/Opinion_2024-1254.pdf

JURISDICTION-APPEAL: A party's filing of a notice of appeal divests the trial court of jurisdiction to enter a restitution order. Kolek v. State, 6D2024-2086 (2/26/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485479/opinion/Opinion_2024-2086.pdf

SIXTH AMENDMENT-CONFERRAL WITH COUNSEL: A testifying defendant has a constitutional right during a mid-testimony recess to consult with his lawyer about a wide range of topics, but not to discuss his ongoing testimony. Once the Defendant takes the stand, for the duration of his time on the stand, consultation about the testimony itself sheds its constitutional protection. Villarreal v. Texas, No. 24–557 (U.S. S.Ct 2/25/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-557_l5gm.pdf

SIXTH AMENDMENT-CONFERRAL WITH COUNSEL: "To be clear, we address here only the constitutional protection for—and not the ethical propriety of—discussion of testimony during an over night recess. In other words, this opinion solely considers the extent of a court's discretion to ban such consultation...We do not disturb what a lawyer may discuss with her client in the absence of a court order. Nor do we touch upon what a lawyer must discuss with her client to render effective assistance." Villarreal v. Texas, No. 24–557 (U.S. S.Ct 2/25/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-557_l5gm.pdf

SIXTH AMENDMENT-CONFERRAL WITH COUNSEL: "[A] rule prohibiting the discussion of testimony for its own sake mimics sequestration within constitutional bounds. It restrains real-time feedback aimed at chameleonic adjustments in the defendant's testimony and thus (like true sequestration) advances 'the central function of the trial, which is to discover the truth.'" Villarreal v. Texas, No. 24–557 (U.S. S.Ct 2/25/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-557_l5gm.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Claims that officers were in the courtroom in support of the victim and unduly influenced jurors, and the request for juror interviews are time-barred. Kearse v. State, SC2026-0250 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485420/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0250%20&%20SC2026-0251.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY: To establish intellectual disability as a bar to execution, a defendant must demonstrate (1) significantly subaverage general intellectual functioning; (2) concurrent deficits in adaptive behavior; and (3) manifestation of the condition before age eighteen. "Significantly subaverage general intellectual functioning" requires performance two or more standard deviations below the mean on an approved standardized intelligence test. An IQ test result of 75 is squarely in the range of potential intellectual disability. An IQ score of 79 or 78 is not. A last-minute, post-warrant IQ score of 75 does not qualify as newly discovered evidence. Kearse v. State, SC2026-0250 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485420/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0250%20&%20SC2026-0251.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY: The clear and convincing evidence standard of proof for establishing intellectual disability is not too high and does not violate the Eighth Amendment for Due Process. Kearse v. State, SC2026-0250 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485420/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0250%20&%20SC2026-0251.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-AGE: Defendant's age (over 18) at the time of the murder, coupled with his significantly subaverage intellectual functioning, does not place him in a category of defendants exempt from execution. Kearse v. State, SC2026-0250 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485420/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0250%20&%20SC2026-0251.pdf

VOP: Court improperly revoked probation where it had ordered installations to be suspended is a special condition of probation and he had later driven the car where the Court had not communicated the effective date on which the suspension would start and DHSMV had not suspended the license. Jackson v. State, 1D2025-0468 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485349/opinion/Opinion_2025-0468.pdf

VOP: Absent a clearly specified beginning or end date, probationers cannot be charged with violating a required probationary condition until the remaining period of probation was too short to perform the condition. Jackson v. State, 1D2025-0468 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485349/opinion/Opinion_2025-0468.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: The test for the legal sufficiency of the evidence is simply whether the State presented competent, substantial evidence to support the verdict. If, after viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the State, a rational trier of fact could find the existence of the elements of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt, sufficient evidence exists to sustain a conviction. A defendant's use of a firearm during a crime can be established even if the gun is not recovered and introduced into evidence. Finley v. State, 4D2024-0591

(2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485364/opinion/Opinion_2024-0591.pdf

FELONY MURDER: Specific intent to kill is not a required element of felony murder. Finley v. State, 4D2024-0591 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485364/opinion/Opinion_2024-0591.pdf

LOSA WITH PROPERTY DAMAGE: Defendant cannot be convicted of leaving the scene of an accident with property damage or running his car into the ditch without any evidence of damage to any car other than the defendant's. Ward v. State, 4D2025-0770 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485370/opinion/Opinion_2025-0770.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: State must request the cost of prosecution if it is higher than the statutory minimum of $100. Lisby v. State, 4D2025-1463 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485371/opinion/Opinion_2025-1463.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: Investigative costs cannot be imposed where the State fails to request such costs before the judgment. Lisby v. State, 4D2025-1463 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485371/opinion/Opinion_2025-1463.pdf

MAILBOX RULE: Court must consider a motion to mitigate which had been provided to prison officials before the sixty days expired. Fowler v. State, 4D2025-2752 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485375/opinion/Opinion_2025-2752.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Colson v. State, 4D2025-3736 (2/25/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485376/opinion/Opinion_2025-3736.pdf

POWER-QUOTATION (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "Our founders understood that men are not angels, and we disregard that insight at our peril when we allow the few (or the one) to aggrandize their power based on loose or uncertain authority...Even if unelected agency officials were uniquely immune to the desire for more power (an unserious assumption), they report to elected Presidents who can claim no such modesty...That is no recipe for a republic." Learning Resources, Inc., et al. v. Trump, No. 24–1287 (U.S. S.Ct., 2/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-1287_4gcj.pdf

TARIFFS (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "[T]he President insists he may use IEEPA to equalize foreign and domestic duties—or not. He may use it to negotiate with foreign countries—or not. He may set tariffs at 1 percent or 1,000,000 percent. He may target one nation and one product or every nation and nearly every product. And he may change his mind at any time for nearly any reason. At least as I see it, history...does not support the notion that Presidents have traditionally enjoyed so much power. More nearly, history refutes it." Learning Resources, Inc., et al. v. Trump, No. 24–1287 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-1287_4gcj.pdf

TARIFFS (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "Are we really to believe that the patriots that night in Boston Harbor considered the whole of the tariff power some kingly prerogative?" Learning Resources, Inc., et al. v. Trump, No. 24–1287 (U.S. S.Ct., 2/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-1287_4gcj.pdf

HUH? (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "The equivocation on whether 'commonsense principles of communication' include only those things that might 'go without saying,' or also include 'external' and 'substantive' Article I 'values,' leads to a further equivocation on how much 'skepticism' common sense might dictate when assessing an executive official's claim to an extraordinary delegated power…I am uncertain what to make of this, except that it seems to toggle between a clear-statement rule and nothing at all." Learning Resources, Inc., et al. v. Trump, No. 24–1287 (U.S. S.Ct., 2/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-1287_4gcj.pdf

HMM (J. KAGAN, CONCURRING): "[R]egulate" is one of 9 verbs listed in IEEPA's delegation provision. ...(The others are 'Investigate,' 'block,' 'direct, 'compel,' 'nullify,' 'void,' 'prevent' and 'prohibit.'...Those verbs are followed by 11 objects, each describing a distinct sort of transaction involving foreign property—not just 'importation,' but also 'acquisition,' 'use,' 'transfer,' and so forth. Combine the verbs and objects in all possible ways, and the statute authorizes 99 actions a President can take to address a foreign threat. And exactly none of the other 98 involves raising revenues." Learning Resources, Inc., et al. v. Trump, No. 24–1287 (U.S. S.Ct., 2/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-1287_4gcj.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION (J. JACKSON, CONCURRING): "When Congress tells us why it has included certain language in a statute, the limited role of the courts in our democratic system of government—as interpreters, not lawmakers—demands that we give effect to the will of the people." Learning Resources, Inc., et al. v. Trump, No. 24–1287 (U.S. S.Ct., 2/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-1287_4gcj.pdf

DRESSED FOR SUCCESS: "The taller man had on a neon yellow-green mask, while the shorter man wore a dark olive-green shirt, dark mask, Jordan brand sneakers, rubber-coated work gloves, and a blue hat with "Miami" in white, cursive font embroidered on the front...The taller man wielded a medium framed silver and purple pistol, while the shorter man bore a small, black pistol." USA v. Estadella, No. 23-11061 (11th Cir. 2/20/026)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311061.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-AUTHORITY TO CONSENT: Under Florida law the deed was effective at the date of execution. Common authority to consent to search can be actual or apparent, and a consent search is not impermissible if law enforcement reasonably, but mistakenly, believes the person providing consent has common authority over the property. Elderly man who had moved out of his home after co-occupant Defendant punched him in the nose and who had executed but not filed a quitclaim deed to the property, but who told detectives that he still lived there, possessed a key, and who still had most of his possessions and his dogs on the property had authority to consent to a search of the home. One occupant cannot force a co-occupant out of a property through physical violence and then successfully claim the co-occupant lacks common authority over the property. USA v. Estadella, No. 23-11061 (11th Cir. 2/20/026)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311061.pdf

EVIDENCE: Defendant's Scarface poster, with the Defendant's face superimposed over Al Pacino's, and a YouTube music video showing

Defendant surrounded by guns are admissible to show (1) his control over the room where the methamphetamine was found; and (2) that, like drug kingpin Tony Montana in Scarface, he intended to distribute the methamphetamine. "Plus, as the district court reasoned, many people today are not familiar with that 1983 movie." USA v. Estadella, No. 23-11061 (11th Cir. 2/20/026)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311061.pdf

EVIDENCE: Video evidence of Defendant kidnapping a woman from a motel with a firearm is admissible as inextricably intertwined with evidence relevant to Defendant's firearm charges. The Star Motel incident was both (1) the first step in the "chain of events" of this case and (2) necessary to complete the story of how and why detectives zeroed in on him, took him into custody, searched his home, and discovered almost all the evidence in this case. USA v. Estadella, No. 23-11061 (11th Cir. 2/20/026)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311061.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT: "I suspect because try as he might to try to cast some doubt on what you saw with your own eyes,...it's impossible to defend the indefensible." is not an improper attack on defense counsel. "We comfortably conclude the prosecutor's comment...was a permissible comment on the weight of the evidence." USA v. Estadella, No. 23-11061 (11th Cir. 2/20/026)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311061.pdf

DRUG QUANTITY: Defendant possessing pure forms of methamphetamine (ice) scores a higher base level than those possessing a mixture or substance containing a detectable amount of meth. USA v. Estadella, No. 23-11061 (11th Cir. 2/20/026)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311061.pdf

DEATH PENALTY (J. ABUDU, DISSENTING FROM DENIAL OF EN BANC REHEARING: "Considering the whole body of Supreme Court precedent on the right to a jury under the Sixth Amendment, we should not promote non-unanimous death sentences and invasions on the right to a jury trial in death penalty cases...We also should give more deference, not less, to the jury's behavior when its hesitation suggests the defendant should not be subjected to the 'ultimate sanction.'" Davis v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 18-14671 (11th Cir. 2/19/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814671.2.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-TIMELINESS: Where a cell phone is seized under a search warrant, the fact that the data is extracted after the expiration date listed in the warrant does not invalidate the search as untimely.the expiration date listed in the warrant. The deadline in the warrant does not apply to the time to analyze and investigate the contents of the device off-site. An off-site extraction may postdate a warrant's formal expiration date. USA v. Hernandez, No. 24-10482 (11th Cir. 2/19/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410482.pdf

SENTENCING-ZERO-POINT OFFENDER: A defendant is eligible for a two-point guidelines reduction if he has zero criminal history points and meets a variety of other criteria. USA v. Hernandez, No. 24-10482 (11th Cir. 2/19/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410482.pdf

RAPE: The common-law definition of rape does not include digital penetration. Black's Law Dictionary defines "rape" as "[t]he unlawful carnal knowledge of a woman by a man forcibly and against her will." "Carnal knowledge" means "the act of a man having sexual bodily connections with a woman" or "sexual intercourse." Barrie v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 24-12504 (11th Cir. 2/19/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412504.pdf

DEPORTATION-CATEGORICAL APPROACH: Under the Immigration and Nationality Act ("INA"), a non-citizen is removable from the United States if he has been convicted of an aggravated felony. Attempted first-degree sexual abuse under a statute which criminalizes acts including digital penetration is not an aggravated felony (which includes rape) because the generic federal definition of rape does not extend to digital penetration. The categorical approach applies. Barrie v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 24-12504 (11th Cir. 2/19/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412504.pdf

CATEGORICAL APPROACH: The categorical approach requires that the Court look to the statute of conviction rather than the specific facts underlying the crime. The Court must presume that the state conviction rested upon the least of the acts criminalized by the statute, and then determine whether that conduct would fall within the federal definition of the crime. Digital penetration is the least of the acts criminalized by the District of Columbia statute on attempted first-degree sexual abuse, so the offense is an aggravated felony of rape only if the generic federal offense of rape includes digital penetration. It does not. Barrie v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 24-12504 (11th Cir. 2/19/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412504.pdf

BENCH TRIAL: Criminal defendants have a constitutional right to a jury trial under both the United States and Florida constitutions. Where Defendant is convicted after a bench trial and there is no record evidence that he waived his right to a jury trial, conviction must be vacated. Jones v. State, 1D2023-2172 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485092/opinion/Opinion_2023-2172.pdf

MANDAMUS: Mandamus is an extraordinary remedy. It lies only where the petitioner establishes a clear legal right to the performance of a ministerial duty and the absence of any other adequate remedy. Florida Commission on Offender Review v. Johnson, 1D2024-2436 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485100/opinion/Opinion_2024-2436.pdf

PAROLE: Offenders convicted of non-capital felonies committed on or after October 1, 1983 are subject to the sentencing guidelines and are not eligible for parole. Where Defendant was sentenced to life in prison for both first-degree murder (which was imposed outside the guidelines and therefore outside the statutory abolition of parole) and armed robbery, she is not eligible for parole on the armed robbery count. A departure does not take a sentence outside the guidelines framework, including when capital and non-capital offenses are sentenced together. The capital offense itself falls outside the guidelines, but the non-capital offenses do not. The resulting sentence therefore remains a guidelines sentence, not an illegal or nonguidelines disposition, and it does not restore parole eligibility. Florida Commission on Offender Review v. Johnson, 1D2024-2436 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485100/opinion/Opinion_2024-2436.pdf

STARE DECISIS: Stare decisis is binding as to what a prior decision actually decided—not to what might have been assumed or silently considered. Questions which merely lurk in the record, neither brought to the attention of the court nor ruled upon, are not to be considered as having been so decided as to constitute precedents. Florida Commission on Offender Review v. Johnson, 1D2024-2436 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485100/opinion/Opinion_2024-2436.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION: Parties are required to preserve arguments because it allows the lower tribunal to consider and resolve errors when they arise, rather than wait for the process of an appeal and expend the judicial resources that come with that procedure. Appellant may not argue on appeal that his violations of probation were not willful and substantial where he did not raise that argument below. Byers v. State, 1D 2024-3131 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485119/opinion/Opinion_2024-3131.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for lewd or lascivious battery violate the prohibition against double jeopardy where the information charged him with two counts of committing lewd or lascivious battery on one or more occasions with identical language. To determine whether multiple convictions are based upon the same conduct for purposes of double jeopardy, the reviewing court should consider only the charging document. Dominguez v. State, 2D 2023-1818 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485095/opinion/Opinion_2023-1818.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy violations constitute fundamental error that may be raised for the first time on appeal. Conflict Certified. Dominguez v. State, 2D 2023-1818 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485095/opinion/Opinion_2023-1818.pdf

JUVENILE DISPOSITION-UPWARD DEPARTURE: A trial judge may not deviate from DJJ's recommendation at a disposition hearing simply because the judge disagrees with the recommendation. The judge must explain why the judge came to a different conclusion than DJJ did and explain why the new restrictiveness level is indicated. The Court must (1) articulate an understanding of the restrictiveness characteristics of the opposing restrictiveness levels including (but not limited to) the type of child that each restrictiveness level is designed to serve, the potential lengths of stay associated with each level, and the divergent treatment programs and services available to the juvenile at these levels; and (2) logically and persuasively explain why, in light of these differing characteristics, one level is better suited to serving both the rehabilitative needs of the juvenile—in the least restrictive setting—and maintaining the ability of the State to protect the public from further acts of delinquency. Simply listing reasons that are totally unconnected to this analysis does not explain why one restrictiveness level is better suited than another. T.S. v. State, 2D2025-0022 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485101/opinion/Opinion_2025-0022.pdf

INFORMATION-STATE: "Delgado...claims that no reasonable jury could have found that he was driving under the influence of alcohol on the specific date stated on the information: October 16, 2023. If the information merely stated that this incident did occur on October 16, 2023, Delgado may have a point. But the information states that the incident happened 'on or about October 16, 2023.'...Police cited Delgado for "DUI and Damage to Property" at 11:06 PM—54 minutes before October 16. Thus, the State provided sufficient evidence for the jury to conclude that the moment of Delgado's arrest, 11:06 PM, October 15, was about the same time as alleged in the information." Delgado v. State, 3D24-1382 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485165/opinion/Opinion_2024-1382.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION-CURATIVE INSTRUCTION: A defendant need not request a curative instruction in order to preserve an improper

comment issue for appeal. The issue is preserved if the defendant makes a timely specific objection and moves for a mistrial. But he must move for a mistrial. Delgado v. State, 3D24-1382 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485165/opinion/Opinion_2024-1382.pdf

COMPETENCY: Not every manifestation of mental illness demonstrates incompetence to stand trial; rather, the evidence must indicate a present inability to assist counsel or understand the charges. Montero v. State, 3D25-2123 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485163/opinion/Opinion_2025-2123.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Claims of ineffective assistance of counsel or coercion with regard to entry of a plea are deemed refuted by oral or written statements to the contrary contained in a negotiated plea. Maloy v. State, 3D25-2298 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485173/opinion/Opinion_2025-2298.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Attorney's subsequent disbarment does not per se establish ineffectiveness. The relevant inquiry remains whether counsel's performance was constitutionally deficient and prejudicial. Maloy v. State, 3D25-2298 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485173/opinion/Opinion_2025-2298.pdf

BRADY: To establish a Brady violation, the defendant has the burden to show (1) that favorable evidence, either exculpatory or impeaching, (2) was willfully or inadvertently suppressed by the State, and (3)

because the evidence was material, the defendant was prejudiced. To meet the materiality prong, the defendant must demonstrate a reasonable probability that, had the suppressed evidence been disclosed, the jury would have reached a different verdict. State v. Stouffer, 4D2024-0546 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485130/opinion/Opinion_2024-0546.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: The four factors in determining whether a criminal defendant has been deprived of his right to constitutional speedy trial are 1) the length of delay, 2) the reason for the delay, 3) the defendant's assertion of his right, and 4) prejudice to the defendant. State v. Stouffer, 4D2024-0546 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485130/opinion/Opinion_2024-0546.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: The speedy trial rule now starts from the date formal charges are filed rather than from the date of arrest. Dismissals under this rule will be without prejudice unless a defendant's constitutional right to speedy trial has been violated, which would then require a dismissal with prejudice. The length of delay that will provoke a speedy trial inquiry is necessarily dependent upon the peculiar circumstances of the case. Delays approaching one year are generally deemed presumptively prejudicial but presumptively prejudicial is not the same as conclusively prejudicial. State v. Stouffer, 4D2024-0546 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485130/opinion/Opinion_2024-0546.pdf

BRADY/SPEEDY TRIAL: Neither a delay in turning over evidence, which was subject to a gag order, of a federal investigation of a detective, nor evidence about an unrelated civil lawsuit against Big Pharma, claiming that the pharmaceutical companies engaged in an effort to mislead about the safety of opioid drugs is Brady evidence or a violation of Brady. State v. Stouffer, 4D2024-0546 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485130/opinion/Opinion_2024-0546.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: Defendant's assertion that his defense was impaired by the intervening death of a potential alibi witness is a mere assertion, lacking in substance or particulars. State v. Stouffer, 4D2024-0546 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485130/opinion/Opinion_2024-0546.pdf

VOP: If a court revokes a defendant's probation, that court is required to render a written order noting the specific conditions of probation that were violated. Samuels v. State, 4D 2024-2569 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485142/opinion/Opinion_2024-2569.pdf

VFOSC: When a violent felony offender of special concern ("VFOSC") is found to have violated a condition of their probation, Court must make written findings regarding whether that individual poses a danger to the community. This requirement is mandatory, not discretionary. Where Court did not do so, the proper remedy is to reverse the sentencing order and remand for another sentencing hearing with directions that the trial court make the necessary written findings under §948.06(8)(e). Samuels v. State, 4D 2024-2569 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485142/opinion/Opinion_2024-2569.pdf

DUI-REFUSAL: A refusal to take a blood-alcohol test, after a police officer has lawfully requested it, is not an act coerced by the officer, and thus is not protected by the privilege against self-incrimination. Neither a yes/no question nor its answer to an officer's postarrest statutory explanation of a motorist's obligation to take a breath test and the criminalization of a refusal to take a breath test constitute a testimonial interrogation. A refusal to take a blood-alcohol test is not compelled, and admission of such refusal does not violate the Fifth Amendment. Ortega v. State, 4D2024-2681 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485144/opinion/Opinion_2024-2681.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A motion Is not properly sworn where it asserts that "the foregoing motion is true, and correct to the best of my knowledge, understanding." Malcolm v. State, 4D2025-1566 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485160/opinion/Opinion_2025-1566.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Trial counsel's knowledge of a plea offer is not imputed to the defendant for purposes of the newly discovered fact exception of Rule 3.850(b)(1). A third party's knowledge of a plea offer should not be imputed to the defendant for purposes of the two year deadline in rule 3.850(b)). Conflict has been certified by Fifth DCA. Malcolm v. State, 4D2025-1566 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485160/opinion/Opinion_2025-1566.pdf

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-MENTAL DISORDER: Where a forensic psychologist opined that the defendant has "a psychological disorder," needs specialized treatment for his mental disorders of depression and anxiety, and is amenable to treatment, Court errs in finding that there was not sufficient evidence to establish a basis for departure. Busias v. State, 4D2025-2007 (2/18/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485158/opinion/Opinion_2025-2007.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: To establish eligibility for release under USSG §1B1.13(b)(3)(C) (compassionate release), an inmate must demonstrate that no other person is qualified and free to provide the needed care. Defendant's son may care for Defendant's elderly father. USA v, Robelo-Galo, No. 2024-12128 (11th Cir. 2/17/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412128.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: A prisoner may be eligible for compassionate release when an extraordinary and compelling circumstance, including the incapacitation of the defendant's parent, when the defendant would be the only available caregiver for the parent. USA v, Robelo-Galo, No. 2024-12128 (11th Cir. 2/17/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412128.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: For compassionate release, the phrase "only available caregiver" focuses on an alternative caregiver's capacity to provide care and his willingness to do so. To prove that he is the "only available caregiver," an inmate must establish that no other likely caregiver is both (1) qualified and (2) free to provide care. An alternative caregiver is qualified if he has the capacity to provide the incapacitated person with the care that the person needs and is free if no material constraint prevents him from providing care. USA v, Robelo-Galo, No. 2024-12128 (11th Cir. 2/17/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412128.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: The fact that a potential caregiver needs to work and lives hours away from Defendant's father does not necessarily render him not free to provide care. USA v, Robelo-Galo,

No. 2024-12128 (11th Cir. 2/17/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412128.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: Speculative and conclusory allegations that lethal injection protocols present a substantial risk of serious harm are insufficient to warrant an evidentiary hearing. Neither the alleged failure to document the removal of drugs from inventory until one or two days after an execution would not, without more, show a substantial and imminent risk that is sure or very likely to cause serious illness and needless suffering during an execution, nor would the alleged failure to log the removal of etomidate from inventory establish such a risk where the autopsy indicates the drug was, in fact, administered. Trotter v. State, SC2026-0214 (2/17/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485089/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0214%20&%20SC2026-0217.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: Prisoner's advanced age and status as an elderly person do not exempt him from execution on Eighth Amendment grounds. Neither the Eighth nor Fourteenth Amendments require states to expand the protections afforded by the Eighth Amendment or to interpret their own corresponding state more expansive manner than the Supreme Court has interpreted the federal prohibition. "[W]e again decline to expand the prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment to include individuals 65 years of age and older." Trotter v. State, SC2026-0214 (2/17/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485089/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0214%20&%20SC2026-0217.pdf

AEDPA: AEDPA permits federal relief for claims first adjudicated on the merits by a state court only if the underlying adjudication: (1) resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States; or (2) resulted in a decision that was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented in the State court proceeding. Calder v. Secretary, Florida D.O.C., No. 24-10309 (11th Cir. 2/13/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410309.pdf

AEDPA: Defendant cannot prevail on federal habeas corpus petition on ground that counsel in state trial was ineffective for allowing on retrial his coerced statement which had been improperly admitted in the first trial where he cannot show prejudice. The state court's determination that there was no prejudice was not contrary to or an unreasonable application of federal law as determined by the Supreme Court. The state court's finding did not involve an unreasonable application of Strickland. Calder v. Secretary, Florida D.O.C., No. 24-10309 (11th Cir. 2/13/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410309.pdf

POSTCONVICTON RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective. Court's "hearing notes" indicating, that the trial court, at a pretrial hearing, reviewed "the max . . . the defendant could receive if found guilty" do not conclusively refute Defendant's claim that his counsel failed to advise him that if he proceeded to trial and was found guilty he qualified as a Habitual Violent Felony Offender ("HVFO"), and how the designation would increase his maximum sentence. The notes do not reference any specific sentencing enhancement or indicate the maximum sentence discussed at the hearing. Conley v. State, 5D2025-0280 (2/12/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484982/opinion/Opinion_2025-0280.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZUE-PROTECTIVE SWEEP: The Fourth Amendment

permits a properly limited protective sweep in conjunction with an arrest when the searching officer possesses a reasonable belief based on specific and articulable facts that the area to be swept harbors an individual posing a danger to those on the arrest scene. Officers may do a protective sweep search of a car interior where they have reasonable suspicion of people inside but cannot see inside because of dark-tinted windows. Jones v. State, 6D2024-1469 (2/13/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2485000/opinion/Opinion_2024-1469.pdf

PAROLE: The Florida Commission on Offender Review's decision to suspend an inmate's presumptive parole release date can be set aside by a court only for a demonstrated abuse in the Commission's discretion. Florida Commission on Offender Review v,Clarke, 1D2024-1093 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484831/opinion/Opinion_2024-1093.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: When ruling on a motion for downward departure, the trial court must engage in a two-step process: First, the court must determine whether it can depart. Second, the trial court further must determine whether it should depart, i.e., whether departure is the best sentencing option. Where it is unclear whether the trial court rejected Defendant's motion for downward departure because it believed it did not have the authority to depart, re-sentencing is required. "We note that providing findings as to each step of the Banks analysis would assist in our appellate review." Dawson v. State, 2D2023-1231 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484819/opinion/Opinion_2023-1231.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-FORCIBLE FELONY EXCEPTION: Court

commits fundamental error by instructing the jury on the forcible felony exception to self-defense when the defendant is not charged with an independent forcible felony. Where codefendant shot the victim in the butt while he tried to run away without paying for the marijuana. Attempted sale of marijuana is not a forcible felony. Higbee v. State, 2D 2024-1429 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484820/opinion/Opinion_2024-1429.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: Investigative costs are discretionary and must be orally pronounced or supported by evidence. State orally requesting "cost of investigation to MSO" without specifying an amount or referring to any documentation is insufficient. Villeco v. State, 2D2024-1545 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484821/opinion/Opinion_2024-1545.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-SECOND DEGREE MURDER-DEPRAVED MIND: Fundamental error occurs only when the omission is pertinent or material to what the jury must consider in order to convict. In second degree murder case, the failure to give the instruction defining a depraved mind is not fundamental error. “[T]he average juror pretty well understands what a depraved mind is.” Gomez Marin v. State, 3D23-1994 (9/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484839/opinion/Opinion_2023-1994.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-SECOND DEGREE MURDER-PROVOCATION: A person does not have a depraved mind if the killing is in the”heat of passion.” In the heat of passion the slayer is oblivious to his real or apparent situation. He is intoxicated by his passion, is impelled by a blind and unreasoning fury to redress his real or imagined injury, and while in that condition of frenzy and distraction fires the fatal shot. It operates as a complete defense if the killing occurs by accident and misfortune in the heat of passion, upon any sudden and sufficient provocation. Because this instruction goes to a defense and is not to an essential element of the crime charged, an objection is necessary to preserve the issue on appeal. Error is not fundamental. Gomez Marin v. State, 3D23-1994 (9/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484839/opinion/Opinion_2023-1994.pdf

COSTS OF DEFENSE: Imposition of a $15,000 legal services fee based solely on the fee that the Justice Administrative Commission would pay for this type of case, not on the number of hours counsel spent and his reasonable hourly rate, is improper. Gomez Marin v. State, 3D23-1994 (9/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484839/opinion/Opinion_2023-1994.pdf

UNANIMOUS VERDICT: Where State charged one count of custodial interference but presented to the jury that Defendant committed custodial interference on two separate dates, allowing the jury to deliberate on both contravenes the constitutional guarantee of a unanimous jury verdict. Error is fundamental. Treating two discrete acts—separated by nearly a week and by an intervening return of custody—as a single continuing offense of custodial interference is untenable. Davis v. State, 3D24-1037 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484840/opinion/Opinion_2024-1037.pdf

JURY QUESTION: It is prejudicial error for a trial judge to respond to a request from the jury without the prosecuting attorney, the defendant, and defendant's counsel being present and having the opportunity to participate in the discussion of the action to be taken on the jury's request. This right to participate includes the right to place objections on record as well as the right to make full argument as to the reasons the jury's request should or should not be honored. Verdecia v. State, 3D-24-1273 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484877/opinion/Opinion_2024-1273.pdf

TRIAL-DISMISSAL-ABSENT WITNESS: Court may not sua sponte dismiss the case because a State witness is not present two hours before the trial was to commence. The fact that the police officers were not physically in the courtroom before a jury had even been selected does not constitute a showing that the state was not prepared to present its evidence at trial at the appropriate time once the trial had begun. Dismissal of the case for a witness's failure to appear is generally not a viable alternative. Generally, and in the absence of a statute or proper motion, the authority to dismiss a criminal charge is vested exclusively in the executive branch. State v, Vergara, 3D25-0091 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484846/opinion/Opinion_2025-0091.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Previously known evidence does not become newly discovered every time a new detail emerges. Padron v. State, 3D25-0786 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484886/opinion/Opinion_2025-0786.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: To affirm a trial court's summary denial of a motion for postconviction relief, the claims must be either facially insufficient, conclusively refuted by the record, or procedurally barred. "Finding that all Lightsey's claims fit squarely in these three categories,

we affirm." Lightsey v. State, 3D25-0883 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484858/opinion/Opinion_2025-0883.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Milian v. State, 3D25-1611 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484887/opinion/Opinion_2025-1611.pdf

VOP: If a trial court revokes a defendant's probation, the court is required to render a written order noting the specific conditions of probation that were violated. Shalamoff v. State, 4D2024-1117 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484848/opinion/Opinion_2024-1117.pdf

VOP-SCORE SHEET-ADDITIONAL OFFENSES: An offense qualifies as an "additional offense" for purposes of the scoresheet if it is pending before the court for sentencing at the time of the sentencing proceeding then being conducted. An offense should not be scored as an additional offense following the revocation of a defendant's probation if the defendant completed his sentence as to that offense before the violation of probation occurred. Shalamoff v. State, 4D2024-1117 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484848/opinion/Opinion_2024-1117.pdf

COMPETENCY: Where Defendant was found competent to proceed, and the trial judge ordered a new competency evaluation of appellant based on new concerns, a different judge cannot find the Defendant competent to stand trial based on the initial examination performed two years earlier. Competency must be assessed based on the defendant's mental condition at the time of the proceedings. Castro v. State, 4D2025-0134 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484852/opinion/Opinion_2025-0134.pdf

EXPUNCTION: Where a certificate of expunction has been denied, the correct procedure to challenge FDLE's ruling is to file a petition for writ of mandamus in the circuit court, naming FDLE as the respondent. Bazile v. State, 4D2025-1113 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484857/opinion/Opinion_2025-1113.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: Where Appellant 's appellate counsel filed an Anders brief, and Appellant filed a pro se brief as permitted as part of the Anders review, he is not precluded from alleging ineffective assistance of appellate counsel's because he had not chosen to represent himself. The fact that he could have, but did not, present an issue in his pro se brief on direct appeal does not preclude a subsequent claim of ineffective assistance of appellate counsel, nor does the fact that the court could have identified the error in the course of its independent Anders review.
Galante v. State, 4D 2025-2639 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484861/opinion/Opinion_2025-2639.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: Appellate counsel may be ineffective for failing to raise claims of fundamental error. Appellate counsel's failure to identify fundamental error by the trial court, and the failure to raise it in the direct appeal, generally falls outside of the range of professionally acceptable performance and may constitute the basis for relief. Galante v. State, 4D 2025-2639 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484861/opinion/Opinion_2025-2639.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Picard v. State, 4D 2025-3006 (2/11/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484863/opinion/Opinion_2025-3006.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Defendants may withdraw a guilty plea after the court accepts the plea but before sentencing if they show a fair and just reason for requesting the withdrawal. USA v. Mullings, No. 24-11822 (2/19/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411822.pdf

HMM: "The district court credited [attorney] Maloy's testimony that he spoke on the phone with Mullings 'hundreds, maybe thousands' of times." USA v. Mullings, No. 24-11822 (2/10/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411822.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Defendant's claim that his plea was not entered knowingly because "he was in a state of haste and confusion at the time" is unpersuasive where Court afforded Defendant an additional two months to consider whether to plea after an initial plea hearing was rescheduled due to his hesitation. USA v. Mullings, No. 24-11822 (2/19/260

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411822.pdf

SENTENCING-ENHANCEMENT-OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE: A defendant's denial of guilt cannot serve as the basis for an obstruction-of-justice enhancement unless the defendant makes a denial of guilt under oath that constitutes perjury. Defendant's false statements either during his plea colloquy or during his later attempt to withdraw his guilty plea support the obstruction of justice sentencing enhancement. USA v. Mullings, No. 24-11822 (2/19/260

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411822.pdf

SENTENCING-ACCEPTANCE OF RESPONSIBILITY: Defendant's statements during his motion to withdraw plea may support a denial of the two point reduction for acceptance of responsibility. A defendant is not entitled to acceptance of responsibility reduction when he downplayed his culpability. USA v. Mullings, No. 24-11822 (2/19/260

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411822.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: Under ACCA, a mandatory minimum sentence of 15 years' imprisonment applies when a defendant convicted of being a felon in possession of a firearm under §922(g) has three previous convictions for a violent felony or a serious drug offense. The categorical approach is used to identify whether a prior conviction qualifies as a predicate offense. Under that approach, only the elements of the statute under which the defendant was convicted and not the facts underlying the prior conviction considered, presuming that the prior conviction rested upon nothing more than the least of the acts criminalized or the least culpable conduct. USA v. Hicks, No, 23-13940 (11th Cir. 2/10/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313940.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: Georgia excepts from the definition of marijuana "the completely defoliated mature stalks of such plant,", while the federal government excludes "the mature stalks of such plant."

The divergent language of "defoliated mature stalks" and "the mature stalks of such plant" does not establish a realistic probability that Georgia would actually prosecute conduct falling out side the federal definition. Because a defendant would face prosecution under both statutes, the Georgia offense is an ACCA predicate. Both definitions except the stalk of the marijuana plant from penalization, and neither excepts the leaves of the marijuana plant. USA v. Hicks, No, 23-13940 (11th Cir. 2/10/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313940.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT-SECOND AMENDMENT: Statutory restrictions of firearm possession, such as §922(g)(1), are a constitutional avenue to restrict the Second Amendment right of certain classes of people such as felons. USA v. Hicks, No, 23-13940 (11th Cir. 2/10/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313940.pdf

APPEAL-EVIDENCE: Where one party's account is blatantly contradicted by video evidence, the Court of Appeals should not rely on such visible fiction; it should view the facts in the light depicted by the videotape. Castro-Reyes v. City of Opa-Locka, No. 24-12307 (11th Cir. 2/6/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412307.pdf

APPEAL: A district court's denial of a claim of qualified immunity, to the extent that it turns on an issue of law, is an appealable final decision within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. §1291 notwithstanding the absence of a final judgment, including when there are mixed questions of law and fact in an interlocutory appeal of the denial of summary judgment on qualified immunity grounds. Castro-Reyes v. City of Opa-Locka, No. 24-12307 (11th Cir. 2/6/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412307.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Qualified immunity offers complete protection for government officials sued in their individual capacities if their conduct does not violate clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would have known. Castro-Reyes v. City of Opa-Locka, No. 24-12307 (11th Cir. 2/6/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412307.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY-FALSE ARREST: Probable cause is a complete bar to §1983 claims for false arrest. Officers are entitled to qualified immunity where the undisputed facts show that they had arguable probable cause to Plaintiff under the Baker Act, that is, they must have reason to believe both that a person has a mental illness and that the mental illness has led to other statutory criteria. Castro-Reyes v. City of Opa-Locka, No. 24-12307 (11th Cir. 2/6/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412307.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY-EXCESSIVE FORCE: To overcome officers assertions of qualified immunity on his excessive force claims, Plaintiff has the burden to show that their use of force violated his Fourth Amendment rights and that those rights were clearly established at the time of the conduct. The Fourth Amendment's freedom from unreasonable searches and seizures encompasses the plain right to be free from the use of excessive force in the course of an arrest. Where Plaintiff was bound at his feet and ankles, officers repeatedly tased him, punched him in the face, and dragged him by his ankles causing his head to hit each of the concrete stairs outside his apartment, officers are not entitled to qualified immunity. Castro-Reyes v. City of Opa-Locka, No. 24-12307 (11th Cir. 2/6/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412307.pdf

STATE AGENT IMMUNITY: Officers are not entitled to state agent immunity under Florida law on assault and battery claims where there is a genuine dispute of material fact as to whether (1) they acted with actual malice, defined as acting with "ill will, hatred, spite, or an evil intent"; (2) their conduct was worse than gross negligence; (3) their conduct was more reprehensible and unacceptable than mere intentional conduct; or (4) they acted with a conscious and intentional indifference to consequences and with the knowledge that damage was likely to be done to persons or property. A jury could reasonably view officer's repeated deployment of the taser, his joking about the tasing with other officers, and his administration of a final shock after being ordered to stop as conduct reflecting a malevolent intent or, at minimum, a willful disregard of Plaintiff's safety and rights. Castro-Reyes v. City of Opa-Locka, No. 24-12307 (11th Cir. 2/6/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412307.pdf

VOP-HEARSAY-CURFEW: Court improperly revoked based on the probation officer testifying over a hearsay objection that she received emails and text messages from others that stated Child ran away from her placement on various dates. While hearsay that is normally inadmissible in a criminal trial may be admitted in VOP proceedings, it may not constitute the sole basis for finding a violation of probation. D.D.R. v. State, 2D 2024-2537 (2/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484682/opinion/Opinion_2024-2537.pdf

VOP-DATE: When a VOP affidavit alleges that a defendant has committed a VOP on a specific date, the State must present evidence showing that the VOP occurred on that specific date as opposed to some undetermined date. Where Child acknowledged that at some point she violated curfew, her admission is immaterial as it does not establish that she violated her curfew on any of the nineteen dates alleged in the VOP petition. D.D.R. v. State, 2D 2024-2537 (2/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484682/opinion/Opinion_2024-2537.pdf

COMPETENCY: Where the record reflects that the trial court had reasonable grounds to believe that Defendant might not be competent, the court fundamentally erred when it failed to make an independent determination regarding his competence. Webb v. State, 5D2024-1038 (2/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484694/opinion/Opinion_2024-1038.pdf

INTERROGATION-OPINION: A jury may hear an interrogating detective's statements about a crime when the statements provoke a relevant response to lie. But where detectives made multiple comments accusing Defendant of lying ("your lies are starting to come apart," "you are lying," "everything you told us is a lie," "we can tell that you're lying," "we know you are lying"), and Defendant neither confessed nor admitted to lying, their statements were improper and it was error to admit them where. Admission of these statements essentially permitted the State to improperly elicit police opinion testimony and invade the province of the jury. Mackey v. State, 5D2024-1538 (2/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484703/opinion/Opinion_2024-1538.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: When a trial court summarily denies one or more grounds of a R. 3.850 motion, the court's order must state its rationale for summarily denying as to each issue raised. Callwood v. State, 5D2025-0947 (2/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484713/opinion/Opinion_2025-0947.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose court costs as a lump sum of $223 without providing any notice as to what the costs represent nor impose a "DERP fee" of $50 without notice as to the authority for the fee. While a trial court is not required to explain the basis for an imposed cost, due process requires that it at least be evident from the record. Lopez v. State, 6D2024-0599 (2/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484724/opinion/Opinion_2024-0599.pdf

COST OF SUPERVISION: Court may not impose a $50 per month probation supervision fee without orally pronouncing the amount of the fee at his sentencing. When a trial court fails to orally pronounce the amount of a probation supervision cost for misdemeanor probation at a defendant's sentencing, the court is only authorized to impose the minimum cost of $40.00 per month required by statute. Lopez v. State, 6D2024-0599 (2/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484724/opinion/Opinion_2024-0599.pdf

VOP: The Florida Statutes do not authorize, nor would our constitution permit, a permanent revocation of probation based solely upon proof of an arrest during the probationary period. Court improperly revoked where Court asked "Do you wish to admit or deny that you violated your probation by being arrested on a new charge?" and Defendant responded, "I admit." Conseillant v. State, 6D 2024-2515 (2/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484730/opinion/Opinion_2024-2515.pdf

SENTENCING: The mere fact that a sentencing judge hears improper information related to uncharged conduct during a sentencing hearing does not necessarily warrant reversal. There must be some indication that the court based its sentence on an impermissible factor before a sentence will be reversed. Six v. State, 6D2024-2781 (2/6/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484731/opinion/Opinion_2024-2781.pdf

APPEAL: An order dismissing a motion to correct an illegal sentence is nonfinal and not appealable where dismissal was without prejudice. Williams v. State, 1D2025-0692 (2/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484534/opinion/Opinion_2025-0692.pdf

ARGUMENT: State's closing argument that DUI defendant could have proven his innocence by giving a breath sample ("[W]hy would you not blow?... You'd be done with it, proved innocence beyond a reasonable doubt, we're out of here.") improperly shifts burden of proof. Impairment and consciousness of guilt may be inferred from the defendant's refusal to submit to a breath-alcohol test. But arguments blurring the distinction between the defendant's consciousness of guilt and the State's burden of proof go too far. "[B]y invoking the quantum of proof and further suggesting that Osorio waived the opportunity to prove his innocence, the remarks strayed beyond consciousness of guilt and into impermissible territory." Osorio v. State, 3D24-0483 (2/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484600/opinion/Opinion_2024-0483.pdf

EVIDENCE-PRIOR TESTIMONY: A defendant's testimony at a former trial is admissible in evidence against him in later proceedings. Upon retrial, State may present Defendant's testimony from his first trial regardless of his claim that prior counsel and been ineffective for advising him whether and how to testify at the first trial where Defendant had not properly presented an ineffective assistance claim. There was no evidentiary hearing nor presentation of evidence, witnesses, and testimony that would assist the trial court to determine whether Defendant's first trial counsel was ineffective. A mid-trial objection during the second trial did not preserve the issue of ineffective assistance relating to the first trial testimony. Macaulay v. State, 3D24-1046 (2/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484607/opinion/Opinion_2024-1046.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: If a witness would not have been available to testify at trial, Defendant fails to show deficient performance or prejudice from counsel's failure to call, interview, or investigate that witness. Stanley v. State, 3D24-1769 (2/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484553/opinion/Opinion_2024-1769.pdf

AUTHENTICATION TEXT MESSAGES: Even when messages are not obtained directly from the sender's phone, electronic communications, like other traditional communications, may be authenticated by appearance, contents, substance, internal patterns, or other distinctive characteristics taken in conjunction with the circumstances. Stanley v. State, 3D24-1769 (2/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484553/opinion/Opinion_2024-1769.pdf

JURY-WAIVER: Where Court, without objection, sets and holds bench trial without a written waiver of the Defendant, error is fundamental. The failure to obtain a valid waiver of a defendant's right to jury trial is per se reversible error. To acquire an oral waiver, the trial court must conduct an oral colloquy, on-the-record, which sufficiently demonstrates that the defendant can appreciate his right to a jury trial and, in doing so, proceeds with waiving that right. Counsel conceding[2] that she generally spoke to the defendant off-the-record about jury trials and bench trials does not show there was a valid waiver. Jean-Charles v. State, 3D25-0376 (2/4/26)

[2]Editor's note: This is a gerund. See f.n. 2, infra.

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484604/opinion/Opinion_2025-0376.pdf

JURY TRIAL: The United States Constitution includes three separate provisions addressing the right to a jury trial: Article III, the Sixth Amendment, and Art. III, §2, cl. 3. Jean-Charles v. State, 3D25-0376 (2/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484604/opinion/Opinion_2025-0376.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: A motion to disqualify judge must be served on him using the state e-filing portal (R. 2.516(c)). If the motion is not denied within 30 days of service, the motion is deemed granted and the moving party may seek an order from the court directing the clerk to reassign the case. "We understand that the judge might not have seen the motion within thirty days of service. But Mr. Banks not only served the judge via the efiling portal, he also served the judge at the judge's designated email address for all communications. By failing to rule on the motion within thirty days of service, the motion is deemed granted." Banks v. Banks, 4D2025-3026 (2/4/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484578/opinion/Opinion_2025-3026.pdf

HEARSAY/CONFRONTATION-BODYCAM: Hearsay is an out-of court statement offered to prove the truth of the matter asserted, but an out-of-court statement offered to show its effect on the listener isn't hearsay because it's not offered to prove the truth of the matter asserted. The Confrontation Clause bars only the introduction of hearsay because the need to test an absent witness ebbs when her truthfulness is not at issue. USA v. Holley, No. 24-11843 (2/3/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411843.pdf

HEARSAY/CONFRONTATION-BODYCAM: Bystanders' bodycam-recorded statements are admissible where they are offered to explain the conduct and behavior of the police officials in facing an ongoing shooting emergency so long as the danger of unfair prejudice caused by the use of the statements does not substantially outweigh the probative value of the evidence. Contrary out-of-circuit precedents distinguished. USA v. Holley, No. 24-11843 (2/3/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411843.pdf

CONFRONTATION CLAUSE: Statements are nontestimonial when made in the course of police interrogation under circumstances objectively indicating that the primary purpose of the interrogation is to enable police assistance to meet an ongoing emergency. Even if bystanders' bodycam-recorded statements were admitted for the truth of the matters asserted, Defendant's Confrontation Clause challenges would still fail because the bystanders' statements were plainly nontestimonial in nature. USA v. Holley, No. 24-11843 (2/3/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411843.pdf

HEARSAY-PRESENT SENSE IMPRESSIONS: Present sense impressions are statements describing or explaining an event or condition, made while or immediately after the declarant perceived it. The 911 call in which the anonymous caller used gerunds[3] to describe his observations ("At my house this man has shot at the mail lady . . . . [he] said he gone kill everybody and he's walking around with a semi-

[3]Editor's note: According to Copilot, a gerund is a verb form that ends in "-ing" and functions as a noun in a sentence. For example, in the sentence "Swimming is fun," "swimming" acts as the subject. I can't find the gerund in the quotation in the opinion. Maybe it's hidden in the ellipsis. According to the punctuation guide.com, an ellipsis is a set of three periods (. . .) indicating an omission. The plural of ellipsis is "ellipses," "ellipsises," or "ellipsi." I mean, I guess. I really don't know.

automatic rifle.") was admissible under the present sense impression exception to the hearsay rule. 911 calls are ordinarily not designed primarily to establish or prove some past fact, but to describe current circumstances requiring police assistance. USA v. Holley, No. 24-11843 (2/3/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411843.pdf

APPEAL: Unless an argument is raised and developed in an initial brief, it is considered abandoned. An appellant abandons a claim when he either makes only passing references to it or raises it in a perfunctory manner without supporting arguments and authority. USA v. Holley, No. 24-11843 (2/3/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411843.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-STAY OF EXECUTION: To successfully challenge a method of execution, a defendant must (1) establish that the method of execution presents a substantial and imminent risk that is sure or very likely to cause serious illness and needless suffering and (2) identify a known and available alternative method of execution that entails a significantly less severe risk of pain. But speculative and conclusory allegations that lethal injection protocols present a substantial risk of serious harm are insufficient to warrant an evidentiary hearing. Alleged prior violations of protocol do not warrant a hearing or stay of execution. Heath v. State, SC2026-0112 (2/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484512/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0112%20&%20SC2026-0113.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Defendant is not entitled to execution by firing squad. Firing squad is not feasible as an alternative method of execution because defendant failed to show how it could be readily implemented or significantly reduce the substantial risk of severe pain. Heath v. State, SC2026-0112 (2/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484512/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0112%20&%20SC2026-0113.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-PUBLIC RECORDS: Defendant is not entitled to records relating to more than ten executions that occurred in 2025, with which he alleged there were errors in the drug logs, problems with the preparation of the drugs, or problems with the drugs themselves. Heath v. State, SC2026-0112 (2/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484512/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0112%20&%20SC2026-0113.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-CLEMENCY RECORDS: Defendant is not entitled to records from his clemency proceeding in order to investigate whether the denial of executive clemency violated federal due process. Records relating to the clemency process are exempt from disclosure. Such records are either relevant nor reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Heath v. State, SC2026-0112 (2/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484512/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0112%20&%20SC2026-0113.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-EIGHTH AMENDMENT: The Eighth Amendment does not categorically exclude Defendant from execution because his alleged stunted brain development attributable to his prior incarceration rendered his "psychological age" younger than 25. Heath v. State, SC2026-0112 (2/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484512/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0112%20&%20SC2026-0113.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-NONUNANIMOUS RECOMMENDATION: Before a sentence of death may be considered by the trial court in Florida, the jury must find the existence of the aggravating factors proven beyond a reasonable doubt, that the aggravating factors are sufficient to impose death, and that the aggravating factors outweigh the mitigating circumstances. The Eighth Amendment does not require a unanimous jury recommendation of death. Heath v. State, SC2026-0112 (2/3/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484512/opinion/Opinion_SC2026-0112%20&%20SC2026-0113.pdf

JANUARY 2026

SILENCE-ADVERSE INFLUENCE: In bench trial, Court's comments that the fact that Defendant's admissions were not recorded do not mean they did not happen and that the detective's testimony was unrebutted does not constitute an improper Inference from Defendant's silence. Not all direct references to a defendant's failure to testify are forbidden. USA v. Rodgers, No. 24-10638 (11th Cir. 1/30/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410638.pdf

MAXIMUM SENTENCE-JAIL/PROBATION: Defendant convicted of DUI may not be sentenced to 364 days in jail as a condition of twelve months jail. Probation must be long enough for him to complete the required substance abuse course. Garrett v. State, 1D2024-2695 (1/30/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484380/opinion/Opinion_2024-2695.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Drunk driving deputy sheriff in a patrol truck who causes a fatal accident and flees the scene in his police truck has qualified immunity from civil suit for wrongful death. An officers has qualified immunity unless he violated plaintiff's clearly established constitutional rights and (2) acted under color of law. Even if the officer violated Plaintiff's substantive due process right to bodily integrity, that right was not clearly established at the time of the violation. Hughes v.

Locure, No. 23-10954 (11th Cir. 1/29/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310954.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY-INTERLOCUTORY APPEAL: An appellate court has jurisdiction to hear an interlocutory appeal of denial of qualified immunity, but my not review whether the officer was acting under color of law. "[F]or the purpose of an interlocutory appeal, a defendant takes the color of law issue off the table by asserting qualified immunity." Hughes v. Locure, No. 23-10954 (11th Cir. 1/29/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310954.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY (J. JORDAN, DISSENTING): A substantive due process violation occurs when an officer's conduct "shocks the conscience." Where intoxicated officer drove a dark-colored police vehicle through downtown Tuskegee at 70 miles per hour in a 25-mph zone at night without headlights for no work-related reasons, his inebriated joyride constituted the exercise of power without any reasonable justification in the service of a legitimate governmental objective." The substantive due process violation was one of "obvious clarity," i.e., the conduct was so egregious that a constitutional right was clearly violated, even in the total absence of case law. Simply because there is no clearly defined case law condemning certain conduct does not mean police officers should be free to engage in such conduct, no matter how offensive or destructive to a fair and just society that conduct may be, and then hide behind the shield of qualified immunity. Hughes v. Locure, No. 23-10954 (11th Cir. 1/29/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310954.pdf

CATEGORICAL APPROACH-CRIME OF VIOLENCE: An attempt to commit a qualifying crime of violence can itself qualify as a crime of violence under the United States Sentencing Guidelines. Under the categorical approach, to decide whether an offense qualifies as a crime of violence, the Court considers not whether the defendant acted violently, but whether the least culpable conduct that could lead to a conviction for that offense would qualify as violent. Regardless, the Guidelines define a crime of violence to encompass attempts. "In plain English, ...the attempt to commit a qualifying crime of violence is also considered a crime of violence. No further inquiry is necessary because the language is not ambiguous, and 'we presume that the Sentencing Commission said what it meant and meant what it said.'" USA v. Ott, No. 24-13812 (11th Cir. 1/29/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202413812.pdf

PRISON RELEASE REOFFENDER: Any Alleyne error in not requiring a jury to make the factual determination necessary to establish Defendant's his PRR status–that he committed the robbery within three years of his release from a prior term of imprisonment–is harmless if the record establishes beyond a reasonable doubt that a rational jury would have found the fact necessary to qualify him for the sentencing enhancement. Hugger v. State, 1D 2024-1756 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484254/opinion/Opinion_2024-1756.pdf

APPEAL: An order denying a request for extension of time to file a postconviction motion is nonfinal and not appealable. Stephens v. State, 1D2025-2317 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484272/opinion/Opinion_2025-2317.pdf

CHILD ABUSE-MENTAL INJURY-EXPERT: Taking 3-year old child in a car to a robbery which ended with the Defendant's codefendant crushing the victim's skull by running over her head cannot qualify as child abuse that could reasonably be expected to result in mental injury to the child absent expert testimony. The statute requires expert testimony. Mojica v. State, 3D23-0911 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484271/opinion/Opinion_2023-0911.pdf

TOO MANY CANONS (J LINDSEY, DISSENTING): Expert testimony is not required for a conviction for committing an intentional act that could reasonably be expected to result in mental injury to a child under §827.03(1)(b)2, unlike under §827.03(1)(b)1, which requires an actual mental injury, because of the surplusage canon (courts should avoid readings that would render part of a statute meaningless), the harmonious-reading canon (statute should be interpreted to give effect to every clause in it, and to accord meaning and harmony to all of its parts), the nearest-reasonable-referent doctrine (whether coming before or after what is modified, modifiers should be read as modifying the nearest noun, verb, or other sentence element to which they can reasonably be said to pertain), and the interpretative-direction canon (when a definitional section says that a word "means" something, the clear import is that this is its only meaning). Mojica v. State, 3D23-0911 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484271/opinion/Opinion_2023-0911.pdf

CONTINUANCE: Court abuses its discretion by denying him one-day mid-trial continuance where subpoenaed witness who had just testified in a mid-trial deposition that Defendant was innocent but then fled the courthouse to attend to his girlfriend who was in labor. The abuse of discretion standard can be met when the court's ruling on the continuance results in undue prejudice to the defendant. A request for a writ of bodily attachment is not necessary to show that Defendant's counsel exercised due diligence in securing his witness. "[W]e are unaware of any statute, rule, or binding precedent, requiring a party to seek a writ of bodily attachment to seek a continuance to secure the attendance of a witness for trial. We are not inclined to create new law here." Perpall v. State, 3D23-1646 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484276/opinion/Opinion_2023-1646.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT: Generally, name calling or referring to a defendant with certain labels, such as "pedophile" or "animal," may be considered inflammatory, but the State's referring to the Defendant as a "monster" was invited where the defense itself introduced the word monster several times before the State made its closing argument. Francois v. State, 3D24-0047 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484274/opinion/Opinion_2024-0047.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT: Arguments appealing to community sensibilities and civic conscience are improper. But State's statement "How reckless was it that they are on the freeway as a matter of public safety" was an isolated and limited comment which does not warrant a mistrial. Francois v. State, 3D24-0047 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484274/opinion/Opinion_2024-0047.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT-BOLSTERING: State's statement that the victim's had "tried to move on" and had "joined the military" to "protect [our] citizens in this [country]" is not independently reversible error if it is not an improper attempt to sway the jury and had already been discussed by both parties throughout the trial. Francois v. State, 3D24-0047 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484274/opinion/Opinion_2024-0047.pdf

ERLINGER-PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: Where based on uncontroverted evidence, any error in not submitting the PRR

determination to a jury is harmless beyond a reasonable doubt. Tucker v. State, 3D24-0277 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484277/opinion/Opinion_2024-0277.pdf

VOP: Revoking an individual's probation for conduct not alleged in the charging document deprives the individual of due process and constitutes fundamental error, but resentencing is not required where the record is clear that the trial court did not consider the uncharged violation during sentencing. Mitchell v. State, 3D24-0880 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484277/opinion/Opinion_2024-0277.pdf

STATEMENTS DURING PLEA NEGOTIATIONS: Evidence of a plea of guilty, later withdrawn; a plea of nolo contendere; or an offer to plead guilty or nolo contendere to the crime charged or evidence of statements made in connection with any of the pleas or offers is inadmissible. Calderon v. State, 3D24-1360 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484281/opinion/Opinion_2024-1360.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION: Whether Defendant's in-court statements rejecting a plea offer and commenting on the facts of the case were improperly admitted is not preserved where the State presented some portion of a recorded statement made by Calderon during the pretrial hearing, but the appellate court does not know what portion of that recorded hearing was presented to the jury, the recording itself was not introduced into evidence, is not a part of the record, and the trial transcript merely indicates that a recording was played to the jury. Calderon v. State, 3D24-1360 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484281/opinion/

Opinion_2024-1360.pdf

RECORD: "We take this opportunity to remind trial courts that, in the absence of an agreement by the parties and approval by the trial court, a court reporter must make a good-faith effort to transcribe the audio portion of a recording presented to the jury." Calderon v. State, 3D24-1360 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484281/opinion/Opinion_2024-1360.pdf

EX POST FACTO: Statutes in effect at the time of commission of a crime control as to the offenses for which the perpetrator can be convicted, as well as the punishments which may be imposed. Knowles v. State, 3D25-0846 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484266/opinion/Opinion_2025-0846.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: If an offender's probation or community control is revoked and the offender is serving a split sentence pursuant to §948.012, upon recommitment to the Department of Corrections, the court shall order credit for time served in state prison or county jail only, without considering any type of gain-time earned before release to supervision, or any type of sentence reduction granted to avoid prison overcrowding, including, but not limited to, any sentence reduction resulting from administrative gain-time, provisional credits, or control release. James v. State, 3D25-1688 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484269/opinion/Opinion_2025-1688.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A claim that the charging document did not allege the facts necessary to support an enhanced sentence is precisely the type of technical deficiency in the sentencing procedure that the supreme court held is not cognizable in a rule 3.800(a) motion. Powell v. State, 3D25-2367 (1/28/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484270/opinion/Opinion_2025-2367.pdf

AEDPA: Under the AEDPA, a federal court may grant habeas relief on a claim that a state court resolved on the merits only when the state court's decision was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law, or was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented in state court. A state prisoner must show far more than clear error. The habeas claimant must establish that the state court blundered so badly that every fairminded jurist would disagree with the decision. Klein v. Martin, No. 25–51. (U.S. S.Ct. 1/26/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-51_4g15.pdf

AEDPA: A federal court must carefully consider all the reasons and evidence supporting the state court's decision. A state court need not make detailed findings addressing all the evidence before it. "Indeed, AEDPA requires deference even if the state court does not discuss the evidence at all...What matters...is whether a decision is contrary to, or involves an unreasonable application of, this Court's holdings, not whether the state court's opinion satisfies the federal court's opinion writing standards." Klein v. Martin, No. 25–51. (U.S. S.Ct. 1/26/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-51_4g15.pdf

AEDPA: Petitioner is not entitled to habeas corpis relief under AEDPA based Non-disclosure of Brady evidence–a report that there was nothing on Defendant's computer about how to make a silencer with a Gatorade bottle. "The outward-punched puncture at the bottom of the bottle also looked like a bullet hole, and the defense never explained why anyone wanting to construct a bong would have poked a hole in the bottom of the bottle." Klein v. Martin, No. 25–51. (U.S. S.Ct. 1/26/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-51_4g15.pdf

LEAVING SCENE OF ACCIDENT: Defendant cannot legally leave the scene—not even to report the accident to the nearest police station—without first ascertaining the condition of the other vehicles's occupant. Defendant is not entitled to a jury instruction that he would have been entitled to leave the scene to report it to the police if the person in the other car was already dead where he had immediately fled. The comment to instruction 28.4 merely acknowledges the futility of a statutory requirement to give information or render reasonable assistance to a person who is dead—it in no way excuses the statutory requirement to ascertain that person's condition at the outset. Paleveda v. State, 2D2024-0980 (1/23/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484056/opinion/Opinion_2024-0980.pdf

SENTENCE CORRECTION-DEFENDANT'S PRESENCE: Where Court failed to orally pronounce the applicable mandatory minimum sentences, Defendant must be present for resentencing, even though his presence would be "useless, or the benefit but a shadow." A defendant's due process rights are violated when mandatory minimum terms are added to a sentence without the defendant's presence. Palmer v. State, 5D2023-0854 (1/23/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484060/opinion/Opinion_2023-0854.pdf

CORRECTION-HARMLESS CLERICAL ERROR: "[W]e now hold that correcting a clerical error that is harmless to the defendant in an Anders case is, at most, discretionary...Given that our decision today...will likely evade review, we direct the Clerk of this court...to refer this opinion to the Clerk of the Florida Supreme Court and the Appellate Court Rules

Committee of The Florida Bar for consideration of a rule amendment clarifying the scope of an appellate court's Anders review. Quaif v. State, 5D2024-0888 (1/23/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484061/opinion/Opinion_2024-0888.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-COMPETENCY: A claim that counsel failed to investigate a defendant's mental health and failed to seek a competency determination is cognizable in a rule 3.850 motion. Villalba-Santos v. State, 5D2025-2219 (1/23/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484065/opinion/Opinion_2025-2219.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT: Prosecutor commits misconduct requiring reversal by invoking an unadmitted exhibit in his closing argument to urge the jury to convict, although "we are prepared to assume that he did not deliberately seek to mislead the jury." "The circumstances we confront are particularly troubling: The evidence of Jones's guilt on the § 924(c) offense was thin, the prosecutor told jurors at the close of trial that 'all [they] need[ed]' to convict him of that crime was a piece of evidence that wasn't before them, and Jones was sentenced to 30 years on that count alone. If left uncorrected, the prosecutor's misconduct in this case would leave 'reasonable citizen[s]' with 'a rightly diminished view of the judicial process.'" USA v. Jones, No. 24-10938 (11th Cir. 1/22/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410938.reh.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-MIRANDA: "To be clear, the prosecutor here should not—not, not, not—have commented on Jones's invocation of his right to remain silent...We shouldn't have to keep saying this, but alas, it seems the message isn't getting through: So let us once again make 'crystal clear' that the government may not 'call attention to' a defendant's invocation of his Miranda rights...Prosecutors know better, and they simply must stop 'continu[ing] to indulge themselves in this way'—enough is enough." But error is harmless. USA v. Jones, No. 24-10938 (11th Cir. 1/22/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410938.reh.pdf

EVIDENCE: Rap-music videos, images, and lyrics that Defendant had posted depicting him with marijuana, cash, and firearms with machine-gun-conversion switches, which bore disclaimers clarifying that the videos were made for "entertainment purposes only", were inadmissible. Videos and lyrics that contain violence and profanity could reasonably be understood as promoting a violent and unlawful lifestyle. Rule 403 directs district courts to exclude relevant evidence if its probative value is substantially outweighed by unfair prejudice. But the error is harmless. USA v. Jones, No. 24-10938 (1/22/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410938.reh.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION: Where Defendant contended below that the government hadn't proven that the police actually found a controlled substance, but on appeal that it failed to prove that he used firearms "in furtherance of" his drug-related crimes, review is only for plain error. "The applicable standard of review is doing a lot of work here. The well-worn rule, of course, is that on a sufficiency challenge we must '[v]iew[] the evidence in the light most favorable to the government and draw[] all reasonable inferences in favor of the jury's verdict.'" The evidence is "[h]ardly overwhelming, but given the applicable standard, legally sufficient. A jury could reasonably conclude from the combination of the government's evidence that Jones possessed the machine gun in furtherance of his drug-trafficking activities." USA v. Jones, No. 24-10938 (11th Cir. 1/22/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410938.reh.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-APPELLATE PROCEDURE: In all criminal appeals in which the lower tribunal has declared the defendant indigent for purposes of appeal, an order from the court directing supplementation of the record is sufficient to compel the court reporter to provide a transcript to the clerk of the lower tribunal within the time period for supplementation specified. No separate order to transcribe proceedings is required. In Re: Amendment to Florida Rule of Appellate Procedure 9.200, No. SC2025-1378 (1/22/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2484015/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1378.pdf

EXPERT-FALSE MEMORY: Courts must categorically exclude expert testimony related to the credibility of eyewitnesses. Testimony from experts on the reliability of an eyewitness does not help the jury to resolve factual or evidentiary issues. But expert testimony on memory reliability is distinct from expert testimony about eyewitness reliability. "We see no reason to forbid the use of all expert opinions on the reliability of memory solely because a subset of the science is within the jury's common sense." "In sum, our rule against the per se inadmissibility of expert evidence on eyewitness testimony does not extend to the larger field of science on the reliability of memory." USA v. Zappey, No. 2023-11607 (11th Cir. 1/21/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311607.pdf

EXPERT-FALSE MEMORY: Court does not err in limiting the testimony of Defendant's two experts on false memories. "[M]ore studies do not necessarily equate to new information. USA v. Zappey, No. 2023-11607 (11th Cir. 1/21/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311607.pdf

HUH?: "The exclusion of expert testimony offered to impeach a victim's credibility on claims of sexual assault—rather than as substantive evidence of the defendant's guilt or innocence—is harmless when other evidence of the person's guilt is substantial." USA v. Zappey, No. 2023-11607 (11th Cir. 1/21/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311607.pdf

COSTS OF INCARCERATION: §960.293 provides for a liquidated damage amount of $50 per day of the convicted offender's sentence based upon the length of the sentence imposed. The civil restitution may be enforced either by a separate civil action or by a motion in the criminal court. Palomares v. State, 2D2023-1485 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483917/opinion/Opinion_2023-1485.pdf

COSTS OF INCARCERATION: DOC may file a motion for imposition of the civil restitution lien for costs of incarceration in the trial court independently of the Office of the State Attorney. The word "state" is not limited to the prosecuting authority for the State of Florida. Palomares v. State, 2D2023-1485 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483917/opinion/Opinion_2023-1485.pdf

COSTS OF INCARCERATION (J. ROTHSTEIN-YOUAKIM, CONCURRING): "Although I agree with the majority's ultimate conclusions..., I disagree that resolution of this appeal requires such laborious reasoning. The plain language of the Florida Civil Restitution Lien Act allows the state to pursue a civil restitution lien order by motion in the underlying criminal proceeding...The plain language of the Act tells us all we need to know, and I am content to listen to what it's saying." Palomares v. State, 2D2023-1485 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483917/opinion/Opinion_2023-1485.pdf

FARETTA: A defendant may waive his right to a Faretta hearing if the request for self-representation is not raised prior to trial. Evans v. State, 3D24-2126 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483965/opinion/Opinion_2024-2126.pdf

FARETTA: A trial court's failure to take the preliminary step of holding a hearing on a defendant's unequivocal pro se request to represent himself results in per se reversible error. Evans v. State, 3D24-2126 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483965/opinion/Opinion_2024-2126.pdf

NELSON HEARING: A trial court need not conduct a Nelson inquiry where the defendant merely expresses general dissatisfaction with his attorney without specific allegations of what the attorney did wrong. A Nelson hearing is required only when the defendant makes a clear and unequivocal statement that he wishes to discharge appointed counsel, the discharge request is based on a claim of incompetence, and the alleged ineffectiveness arises from counsel's current representation. Evans v. State, 3D24-2126 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483965/opinion/Opinion_2024-2126.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: § 775.082(1) does not require D.O.C. to release parole eligible defendant serving a life sentence after 25 years. The statute does not guarantee him release on parole after 25 years. The legislative amendment to the parole statute in 1982 did not somehow make parole mandatory after 25 years. Parole is overseen by the Florida Commission on Offender Review, not the Department of Corrections. Blackshare v. Dixon, 3D25-1284 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483974/opinion/Opinion_2025-1284.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if the decision in Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Robinson v. State, 3D25-1920 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483979/opinion/Opinion_2025-1920.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: The writ of habeas corpus is enshrined in our Constitution to be used as a means to correct manifest injustices. Yet the "mere incantation of the words 'manifest injustice' does not make it so." Santiago v. State, 3D26-0010 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483977/opinion/Opinion_2026-0010.pdf

APPEAL-CERTIFIED QUESTION: It was the intention of the framers of the constitutional amendment which created the District Courts that the decision of those courts would, in most cases, be final and absolute. The District Courts of Appeal were never intended to be intermediate courts. The Florida Constitution does not provide that the Florida Supreme Court is to be the last word in every case involving statutory construction. Myrick v. State, 4D2024-3148 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483946/opinion/Opinion_2024-3148.pdf

STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION-"CASUS MISSUS": "Casus omissus pro omisso habendus est" means "nothing is to be added to what the text states or reasonably implies." Myrick v. State, 4D2024-3148 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483946/opinion/

Opinion_2024-3148.pdf

APPEAL-CERTIFIED QUESTION: Whether a statewide grand jury can indict for violation of §905.395 and the unlawful disclosure of its own proceedings is not an issue of great importance because the Office of Statewide Prosecution can still prosecute those matters referred by the Statewide Grand Jury to the county in which venue and jurisdiction do apply, even where indictment by the Statewide Grand Jury itself is not authorized. Myrick v. State, 4D2024-3148 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483946/opinion/Opinion_2024-3148.pdf

APPEAL-CERTIFIED QUESTION (J. HARPER, DISSENTING): "The majority's refusal to certify rests on the assertion that the Legislature 'clearly' did not empower the statewide grand jury to indict for violations of its own secrecy...The potential judicial nullification of section 905.395, Florida Statutes and the limitation on the statewide grand jury's ability to indict for violations of secrecy raises a matter of great public importance...Authoritative resolution by the Florida Supreme Court is warranted because this decision implicates separation of powers, the enforceability of a criminal statute, and the proper scope of judicial interpretation...Questions concerning the scope of the powers and duties of grand juries fall squarely within the class of issues the Florida Constitution contemplates for certification as matters of great public importance." Myrick v. State, 4D2024-3148 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483946/opinion/Opinion_2024-3148.pdf

PER CURIAM AFFIRMANCE (J. LOTT, CONCURRING): Federal appellate courts, and many other states' appellate courts, have a "selective publication" system in which panels may select which opinions are to be published and accordingly afforded precedential effect, and which opinions are not to be published and thus not afforded precedential effect. Florida, by contrast, has no selective publication regime. "I, for one, would welcome a system of selective publication which would allow district judges in appropriate cases to issue non-precedential opinions binding only on the parties before them that explain their reasoning in those cases with more specificity than a PCA." Mayfield v. State, 4D2025-0356 (1/21/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483948/opinion/Opinion_2025-0356.pdf

RESTITUTION: Restitution under the Mandatory Victims Restitution Act of 1996 (MVRA) is plainly criminal punishment for purposes of the Ex Post Facto Clause. MVRA restitution is labeled as a penalty, is codified in the criminal code, is predicated on a criminal conviction, is imposed against a criminal defendant, is sometimes imposed in lieu of other penalties, is ordered at sentencing where the United States is the adverse party, and can result in resentencing when the defendant refuses to pay. Ellingburg v. United States, No. 24–482 (U.S. S.Ct. 1/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-482_d1oe.pdf

EX POST FACTO LAW (J. THOMAS, CONCURRING): "An ex post facto law is even 'more unreasonable,' Blackstone thought, than the reviled practice of the Roman emperor 'Caligula, who . . . wrote his laws in a very small character, and hung them up upon high pillars, the more effectually to ensnare the people.'" Ellingburg v. United States, No. 24–482 (U.S. S.Ct. 1/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-482_d1oe.pdf

EX POST FACTO LAW (J. THOMAS, CONCURRING): The Ex Post Facto Clauses...prohibit retroactive laws that impose coercive penalties for public wrongs. Contrary to the modern framework, it does not matter what the legislature labels the law, where it places the law, which agency it vests enforcement with, what its stated goals were, whether it provides safeguards for the accused, whether it requires a showing of scienter, or whether the conduct to which it applies is already a crime...What matters is what the law does. If it punishes a public wrong—or an injury to the sovereign in its sovereign capacity—then it is subject to the Ex Post Facto Clauses." Ellingburg v. United States, No. 24–482 (U.S. S.Ct. 1/20/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-482_d1oe.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-TWO-WAY COMMUNICATION DEVICE: Double jeopardy precludes Defendant from being convicted of unlawful use of a two-way communication device and additionally convicted for using devices to solicit certain illegal acts. Broadwine v. State, 2D2024-1353 (1/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483816/opinion/Opinion_2024-1353.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Out-of-state credit is not credit that a defendant is entitled to as a matter of law. The proper vehicle for a defendant seeking out-of-state jail credit is a timely motion for postconviction relief under R. 3.850. Where Defendant incorrectly filed a postconviction moton for out-of-state credit under R. 3.801, the postconviction court should have treated the claim as if filed under the correct rule. Ghonheim v. State, 2D2025-0350 (1/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483822/opinion/Opinion_2025-0350.pdf

PRO SE MOTION: A defendant does not have the right to file pro se motions while also represented by counsel, and such motions should be treated as nullities unless they unequivocally seek to discharge counsel. But where counsel had only been appointed on Defendant's R. 3.850 motion, not on the R. 3.800 motion at issue, Defendant's pro se motion should not have been stricken, Simmons v. State, 2D2025-0401 (1/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483823/opinion/Opinion_2025-0401.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-DETAINER: "While the language of the statute is simple and clear, its application can be more complicated." A defendant is entitled to credit for all of the time she or he spent in the county jail before sentence, but absent the execution of an arrest warrant, a defendant who is in jail in a specific county pursuant to an arrest on one or more charges need not be given credit for time served in that county on charges in another county when the second county has only lodged a detainer against the defendant. The difference between an executed warrant and a detainer or hold is that an arrest warrant is a formal, definitive, and mandatory document, whereas the detainer is the transmission of information and a request to hold a person or notify the requesting authority of the prisoner's imminent release. Only if the prisoner is subject to release but is being held because a detainer has been lodged can it be said that the prisoner is in custody pursuant to the detainer. A Defendant is not entitled to credit against one county's sentence for the time that he had spent in prison on a different county's sentence. Smith v. State, 6D2024-0128 (1/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483837/opinion/Opinion_2024-0128.pdf

COSTS OF SUPERVISION: Court may not place a 4% surcharge on costs of supervision. Valentin v. State, 6D2024-0483 (1/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483845/opinion/Opinion_2024-0483.pdf

INCONSISTENT VERDICT: Inconsistent jury verdicts are permitted in Florida; truly inconsistent verdicts are not. True inconsistent verdicts are those in which an acquittal on one count negates a necessary element for conviction on another count. Nelson v. State, 6D2024-2296 (1/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483846/opinion/Opinion_2024-2296.pdf

INCONSISTENT VERDICT: The jury's finding that Defendant did not discharge a firearm is not inconsistent with the finding of guilt for attempted aggravated battery. Conviction for attempted aggravated battery may be consistent with the jury's finding that Defendant possessed a firearm during the commission of the crime but did not discharge the firearm. Nelson v. State, 6D2024-2296 (1/16/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483846/opinion/Opinion_2024-2296.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-BAR ADMISSION: R. 4-13.2 amended to end reliance solely on the America Bar Association (ABA) for accreditation of law schools. Graduates of a law school approved by other institutional accrediting agencies recognized by the United States Department of Education may sit for the Bar Exam. The term "accredited law school" refers to any law school approved or provisionally approved by (1) a programmatic accrediting agency recognized by the United States Department of Education to accredit programs in legal education that lead to the first professional degree in law or (2) an institutional accrediting agency recognized by the United States Department of Education to accredit institutions of higher education, provided the institutional accrediting agency is also approved by the Court. Effective on October 1, 2026. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating The Florida Bar and Rules of the Supreme Court Relating to Admissions to The Bar, SC2025-2064 (1/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483731/opinion/

Opinion_SC2025-2064.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-BAR ADMISSION (J. LABARGA, DISSENTING): "Since 1992, the American Bar Association (ABA) has been the sole law school accreditor recognized in the Court...Regrettably, under the guise of expanding the accrediting agencies for law schools in Florida, the majority has taken the extraordinary step of divesting the ABA of its three decades long status as the sole accreditor of Florida law schools. I cannot agree with this action...Because I strongly believe that the best course for our legal educational system, our legal system, our profession, and above all, for Floridians is to stay the course with the ABA as the sole law school accreditor, I strongly dissent to the course taken by the majority today." In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating The Florida Bar and Rules of the Supreme Court Relating to Admissions to The Bar, SC2025-2064 (1/15/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483731/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-2064.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: §924(c)(1)(A)(i), criminalizes using, carrying, or possessing a firearm in connection with a federal crime of violence or drug trafficking crime. §924(j) prescribes different and potentially harsher penalties when a violation of subsection (c) causes death, but does not have ro run consecutively. Blockburger applies. Because Congress has not clearly manifested an intent to authorize more than one punishment, Double Jeopardy precludes convictions for both18 U.S.C. §§924(c)(1)(A)(i) and (j) for one act that violates both provisions. Barrett v. United States, No. 24–5774 (U,S. S.CT. 1/14/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-5774new_f20h.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-BLOCKBURGER (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): 'What happens...where...the government brings two charges for the same offense concurrently in the same proceeding rather than successively in two separate ones? That question does not appear to have arisen much in our Nation's early years. Maybe it didn't in part because criminal codes were considerably thinner then, affording prosecutors fewer opportunities to bring overlapping charges...These days, federal and state criminal codes have exploded, with scores of repetitive offenses on the books. Frequently...today's prosecutors bring as many overlapping felony charges as they can in a single case to see what will stick...[O]ur cases speak confusingly about the role of the Double Jeopardy Clause in concurrent prosecutions...Someday, we will need to resolve the tension in our case law. And when we do, ...[a] solution would be to recognize...that two charges amount to the same offense under the Double Jeopardy Clause if they fail the Blockburger test—full stop. So a defendant cannot be prosecuted for both charges in successive proceedings. Nor may he be convicted twice...for both charges just because they happen to be brought concurrently." Barrett v. United States, No. 24–5774 (U,S. S.Ct. 1/14/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-5774new_f20h.pdf

SERIOUSLY-BLOCKBURGER (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "Our cases discussing Blockburger as a mere presumption in the concurrent-prosecution context were decided during a relatively brief period when this Court didn't take Blockburger very seriously." Barrett v. United States, No. 24–5774 (U,S. S.Ct. 1/14/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-5774new_f20h.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: An officer may enter a home without a warrant if but only if, he has an objectively reasonable basis for believing that an occupant is seriously injured or imminently threatened with such injury. Probable cause is not required. "The probable-cause requirement is rooted in, and derives its meaning from, the criminal context, and we decline to transplant it to this different one." Case v. Montana, No. 24–624 (U.S. Ct. 1/14/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-624_b07d.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose a four percent surcharge on the cost of supervision. Batie v. State, 1D2024-0681(1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483607/opinion/Opinion_2024-0681.pdf

CONDITION OF PROBATION: An order requiring Defendant to pay his costs through his probation officer over the probationary period is not a general condition and cannot be imposed without oral pronouncement. Batie v. State, 1D2024-0681(1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483607/opinion/Opinion_2024-0681.pdf

ORDER ON MOTION TO SUPPRESS: The lack of explicit findings does not mandate automatic reversal of an order denying a motion to suppress. The trial court is not required by any rule or statute to set forth detailed findings of fact in the written order on a motion to suppress. If there is sufficient evidence in the record to sustain the order of the trial court the judge will be presumed to have properly based his order on that evidence. Torres-Carmona v. State, 2D2024-1423 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483605/opinion/Opinion_2024-1423.pdf

PROBABLE CAUSE: Probable cause is a practical, common-sense question. It is the probability of criminal activity, and not a prima facie showing of such activity. The determination of probable cause involves factual and practical considerations of everyday life on which reasonable and prudent men, not legal technicians, act. Torres-Carmona v. State, 2D2024-1423 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483605/opinion/Opinion_2024-1423.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-GOOD FAITH: Even if an affidavit contains deficiencies, where the existence of probable cause presents a close question on which reasonable minds could differ—or even that probable cause was in fact lacking—suppression would nonetheless be unwarranted under the good faith exception to the exclusionary rule. Torres-Carmona v. State, 2D2024-1423 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483605/opinion/Opinion_2024-1423.pdf

JURY SELECTION-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGES: A party's use of peremptory challenges is limited only by the rule that the challenges may not be used to exclude members of a distinctive group, such as race. The factors relevant to the trial court's genuineness inquiry include the racial make-up of the venire, prior strikes exercised against the same racial group, or singling out the juror for special treatment. The trial court's ultimate determination of genuineness—whether the proffered reason for the strike was a pretext—turns primarily on an assessment of credibility, therefore implicating the abuse of discretion standard, and will be affirmed on appeal unless there is no record support for the trial court's finding. Mpaka v. State, 3D23-1454 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483630/opinion/Opinion_2023-1454.pdf

IMPEACHMENT: If there has been a recantation, the State generally may impeach its own witness with a prior inconsistent statement where the State calls the witness with the reasonable expectation that the witness will testify to something helpful to the State's case aside from the prior inconsistent statement. McCoy v. State, 3D24-1038 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483635/opinion/

Opinion_2024-1038.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. There is nothing indefinite about such a sentence. Martinez v. State, 3D25-1564 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483641/opinion/Opinion_2025-1564.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Simon v. State, 3D25-1694 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483644/opinion/Opinion_2025-1694.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger was a direct-appeal case and it involved required jury findings regarding an element. It does not apply to postconviction cases. Roundtree v. State, 3D25-1906 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483645/opinion/Opinion_2025-1906.pdf

ERLINGER-RETROACTIVITY: Erlinger does not apply retroactively. The essential considerations in determining whether a new rule of law should be applied retroactively are essentially three: (a) the purpose to be served by the new rule; (b) the extent of reliance on the old rule; and (c) the effect on the administration of justice of a retroactive application of the new rule. Roundtree v. State, 3D25-1906 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483645/opinion/Opinion_2025-1906.pdf

NO-CONTACT ORDER-PROBATION: A court can revoke an order of probation, the term of which has not yet commenced, should the court determine that the defendant probationer has been guilty of misconduct occurring subsequent to the entry of the order of probation. A no-contact condition of probation applies while Defendant is serving his prison sentence before startng probation. Rivera v. State, 3D25-1939 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483658/opinion/Opinion_2025-1939.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Merchison v. State, 3D25-2000 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483647/opinion/Opinion_2025-2000.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-VOP WARRANT: Defendant may not seek an emergency writ of habeas corpus discharging an active but unexecuted probation violation arrest warrant. Mack v. State, 3D25-2582 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483659/opinion/Opinion_2025-2582.pdf

IMPEACHMENT-CONVICTIONS-OPENING THE DOOR: Where defense counsel during cross-examination elicits from an officer an exculpatory statement by the Defendant, the door is opened for the state to present as impeachment that Defendant had 23 impeachable prior convictions. When a hearsay statement has been admitted in evidence, credibility of the declarant may be attacked and, if attacked, may be supported by any evidence that would be admissible for those purposes if the declarant had testified as a witness. Caribo v. State, 4D2023-2962 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483633/opinion/

Opinion_20

IMPEACHMENT-CONVICTIONS-OPENING THE DOOR (J. GROSS, DISSENTING): Defendant's statement that he did not have any jewelry on him–which was undisputedly true–was not hearsay, so §90.806(1), which allows impeachment of hearsay statements, was not triggered. The defense attorney identified the non-hearsay purpose of the testimony was to show that Defendant cooperated with law enforcement, which is suggestive of ""not guiltiness." "That the defense attorney offered the quoted statement for a non hearsay purpose means that the statement was not hearsay. If the statement was not hearsay, then section 90.806(1) impeachment does not come into play." Caribo v. State, 4D2023-2962 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483633/opinion/Opinion_2023-2962.pdf

CULPABLE NEGLIGENCE: Defendant cannot be convicted for culpable negligence in violation of §784.05(2), a first-degree misdemeanor that requires proof of an actual injury, where the jury instructions explicitly stated that actual injury was not required. Malley v. State, 4D2025-0086 (1/14/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483637/opinion/Opinion_2025-0086.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: §2244(b)(1), which directs courts to dismiss a claim presented in a second or successive habeas corpus application by a state prisoner, does not apply to motions filed by federal prisoners. Where federal prisoner unsuccessfully sought postconviction relief challenging his §924(c) conviction on the ground that the residual clause was unconstitutionally vague, he may file a successive motion based on a change in the law. Dismissal is only required for state prisoners who file successive motions. Bowe v. United States, No. 24–5438 (U.S. S.Ct. 1/9/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-5438_o7kq.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: For federal postconviction relief, a state prisoner can file an application for a writ of habeas corpus under 28 U. S. C. §2254; a federal prisoner, by contrast, can file a motion to vacate, set aside, or correct a sentence under §2255. The two have distinct requirements, but through a limited cross-reference in §2255(h) to §2244, Congress has borrowed certain of the procedures that apply to state prisoners and applies them to federal prisoners too. Bowe v. United States, No. 24–5438 (U.S. S.Ct. 1/9/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-5438_o7kq.pdf

JURISDICTION-CERTIORARI: §2244(b)(3)(E), which provides that the denial of an authorization by a court of appeals to file a second or successive application for relief shall not be the subject of a petition for a writ of certiorari, only applies to state prisoners, not to federal prisoners. Section 2244(b)(3)(E) does not prevent the Court's review because the certiorari bar does not clearly apply to motions filed by federal prisoners. Bowe v. United States, No. 24–5438 (U.S. S.Ct. 1/9/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-5438_o7kq.pdf

APPLES AND ORANGES: "[T]he certiorari bar in §2244(b)(3)(E) says nothing about how the §2255 motion must be certified...It instead speaks to what happens after a panel has acted on a certification request...If Congress intended §2255(h) to incorporate this postcertification orange alongside all the panel-certification apples in §2244(b)(3), it did not say so clearly. Bowe v. United States, No. 24–5438 (U.S. S.Ct. 1/9/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-5438_o7kq.pdf

§924(c)–FIREARM: §924(c) prohibits carrying a firearm in relation to a crime of violence. It carries a ten year minimum mandatory which must be served consecutively to the predicate. A "crime of violence" is defined in two ways. Under the elements clause, it is a felony that has as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person or property of another. Under the residual clause, it is a felony that by its nature, involves a substantial risk that physical force against the person or property of another may be used in the course of committing the offense. But the residual clause is unconstitutionally vague, and neither Hobbs Act robbery nor conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act robbery satisfies the elements clause. Bowe v. United States, No. 24–5438 (U.S. S.Ct. 1/9/26)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-5438_o7kq.pdf

COSTS: Court errs in imposing costs of supervision where Defendant was not placed on probation. Balbino-Lara v. State, 6D2024-0038 (1/9/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483495/opinion/Opinion_2024-0038.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Summary denial of all claims raised in a motion for postconviction relief without an evidentiary hearing, is appropriate if the record shows conclusively that the appellant is entitled to no relief. Miller v. State, 6D2024-1355 (1/9/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483498/opinion/Opinion_2024-1355.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Court errs in imposing $150 costs of prosecution rather than the $100 state attorney minimum cost for felony offenses without the State showing sufficient proof of higher costs incurred. Irizarry v. State, 6D2024-1495 (1/9/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483500/opinion/

Opinion_2024-1495.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-LOSS: Where Defendant is convicted of using credit cards in a conspiracy with codefendants, loss for guidelines calculations and restitution must be calculated on the loss attributable to Defendant. The scope of the defendant's jointly undertaken activity is not necessarily the same as the scope of the entire conspiracy, so the relevant conduct for each coconspirator likewise is not necessarily the same. A sentencing judge must make individualized findings. USA v. Barry, No. 23-12101 (11th Cir. 1/7/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312101.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: A warrantless seizure will not be considered unreasonable when (1) there is probable cause to believe the property is or contains evidence of a crime and (2) the seizure falls within an established exception to the warrant. State v. Nealy, 1D2024-1249 (1/7/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483311/opinion/Opinion_2024-1249.pdf

PROBABLE CAUSE: Probable cause merely requires that the facts available to the officer would warrant a person of reasonable caution in the belief that certain items may be useful as evidence of a crime; it does not demand any showing that such a belief be correct or more likely true than false. State v. Nealy, 1D2024-1249 (1/7/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483311/opinion/Opinion_2024-1249.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-EXIGENT: Where Defendant is a murder suspect and appears nervous, officers have probable cause to seize his phone. The officer's fear that he might destroy evidence is an exigent cause for seizing the phone. Defendant affirmatively indicating that he is about to destroy evidence is not necessary to justify the seizure. State v. Nealy, 1D2024-1249 (1/7/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483311/opinion/Opinion_2024-1249.pdf

EVIDENCE: A still frame from a video showing Defendant with something pointed at a cashier (not the victim) at the crime scene before the shooting is admissible and not unfairly prejudicial where the jury saw both the image and the video, which gave the jury the context to reasonably understand that the image depicted Defendant giving an item to the cashier, rather than committing a robbery. James v. State, 2D2024-0085 (1/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483373/opinion/Opinion_2024-0085.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION-ARGUMENT: State's opening statements, characterizing Defendant as "evil" is improper, but not fundamental error. James v. State, 2D2024-0085 (1/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483373/opinion/Opinion_2024-0085.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS: Evidence that Defendant's shooting of Victim was motivated by Victim not lending him $20.00 to buy crack is admissible. Even though evidence of Defendant's propensity to use illicit substances in and of itself is irrelevant and prejudicial to the attempted murder charge, its admission is not fundamental error because it tended to prove the motive for shooting the victim. James v. State, 2D2024-0085 (1/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483373/opinion/Opinion_2024-0085.pdf

VINDICTIVE SENTENCE: Factors that should be considered in determining whether a presumption of vindictiveness exists include but are not limited to: (1) whether the trial judge initiated the plea discussions with the defendant, (2) whether the trial judge, through his or her comments on the record, appears to have departed from his or her role as an impartial arbiter by either urging the defendant to accept a plea, or by implying or stating that the sentence imposed would hinge on future procedural choices, such as exercising the right to trial; (3) the disparity between the plea offer and the ultimate sentence imposed; and (4) the lack of any facts on the record that explain the reason for the increased sentence. Smith v. State, 2D2024-2304 (1/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483369/opinion/Opinion_2024-2304.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when decided. Washington v. State, 2D2025-2180 (1/7/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483370/opinion/Opinion_2025-2180.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Petitioner is not entitled to habeas relief on claim that the complete record was not submitted on his appeal where he did not raise any inadequacy in the appellate record during direct appeal, nor did he identified any errors occurring during the proceedings that were not transcribed. Ramirez v. State, 2D2025-2442 (1/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483380/opinion/Opinion_2025-2442.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-LPS; Although second degree felonies are punishable by up to fifteen years in prison, where Defendant is convicted of three of them and his score sheet totals 462 points with the lowest permissible prison sentence ("LPS") calculated to 325.5 months in prison, or 27.125 years, the court has two options: a life sentence or a 325.5-month sentence (total sentencing points greater than 363 allow a life sentence). Concurrent 30 year sentences followed by life probation is an illegal sentence. Court must resentence the defendant to the calculated LPS of 325.5 months on each of the counts, to be served concurrently, because any other sentence, including a consecutive sentence, would be greater than the original sentence. Moreover, because the court did not exercise its discretion to impose life imprisonment, the circuit court cannot resentence the defendant to lifetime probation. Stonebraker v. State, 4D2024-0449 (1/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483335/opinion/Opinion_2024-0449.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: A defendant may appeal from an order denying a downward departure motion where he alleges that the trial court misunderstood its discretion or that the trial court had a blanket policy to refuse to exercise that discretion. Levine v. State, 4D2024-0863 (1/7/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483336/opinion/Opinion_2024-0863.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: The statutory maximum sentence does not becomes the only downward departure sentence available whenever the lowest permissible guidelines sentence exceeds the statutory maximum. Where grounds exist, the court may depart downward further. Levine v. State, 4D2024-0863 (1/7/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483336/opinion/Opinion_2024-0863.pdf

SCORE SHEET ERROR: When a defendant challenges the existence of prior convictions used for scoring, the state bears the burden to produce corroborating evidence. The state must present competent evidence substantiating the disputed convictions before recalculating the scoresheet. Levine v. State, 4D2024-0863 (1/7/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483336/opinion/Opinion_2024-0863.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose a $200 prosecution cost nor a $25 investigative cost in the absence of the defendant's agreement or the State's request for those amounts. Holmes v. State, No. 4D2024-1288 (1/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483337/opinion/Opinion_2024-1288.pdf

ERLINGER-HABITUAL OFFENDER: While a circuit court errs in not submitting the HFO factors to a jury, the error is harmless where the State introduced unrebutted evidence of the defendant's qualifying convictions and when he was released from prison. Holmes v. State, No. 4D2024-1288 (1/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483337/opinion/Opinion_2024-1288.pdf

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON-JURY INSTRUCTION-BIFURCATED TRIAL: Where Defendant stipulated that he was a prohibited person for the bifurcated portion of the trial, the Court improperly instructed the jury, "The parties have stipulated to the second element [under-age possession by a delinquent]. You've already found the first [element], that he was in actual possession of a firearm. The parties have stipulated to the second part, so what we need to do is have you as pro, for the matter of procedure go back to the jury room with the verdict form and check the appropriate box...Do you follow that? Okay." Stephen v. State, 4D2024-2225 (1/7/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483344/opinion/Opinion_2024-2225.pdf

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Court accepting Defendant's signed stipulation to prove his convicted felon status beyond a reasonable doubt without a colloquy is not fundamental error . Defendant cannot use this "gotcha" tactic after knowingly signing a stipulation to being a felon at the time of the offense. Thomas v. State, 4D2024-2567 (1/7/26)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483343/opinion/Opinion_2024-2567.pdf

HOBBS ACT: A Hobbs Act robbery is not committed where force or threat of force is used only after the property has been taken by surreptitious means and carried away. Defendant's use of force only after one of his co-conspirators had stolen marijuana and carried it away is not Hobbs Act robbery. Force used to facilitate flight does not convert a theft into robbery. The force required to commit robbery must occur prior to or during the taking of property. USA v. Grable, No. 23-10544 (1/5/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310544.pdf

HOBBS ACT: The two required elements for a substantive Hobbs Act conviction are robbery and an effect on interstate commerce. Robbery under the Hobbs Act requires that the taking of property be done by means of actual or threatened force, or violence, or fear of injury, immediate or future, to the person or property. The phrase "by means of" typically indicates that the given result (the end) is achieved, at least in part, through the specified action, instrument, or method (the "means"), such that the connection between the two is something more than oblique, indirect, and incidental. In other words, not every but-for cause will do. USA v. Grable, No. 23-10544 (1/5/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310544.pdf

ROBBERY: "Today, many jurisdictions have shifted away from the common law's temporal understanding of the use of force to a 'modern' view that captures any force used before, during, or after the theft is committed...Florida's current robbery statute encompasses acts that 'occur[] either prior to, contemporaneous with, or subsequent to the taking of the property,' so long as the act and the taking 'constitute a continuous series of acts or events.'" USA v. Grable, No. 23-10544 (1/5/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310544.pdf

HOBBS ACT-AIDING AND ABETTING: Aiding and abetting a Hobbs Act robbery is a crime of violence for purposes of §924(c). USA v. Grable, No. 23-10544 (1/5/26)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310544.pdf

DECEMBER 2025

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: As a matter of course a police officer may order the driver of a lawfully stopped car to exit his or her vehicle. Cherfils v. State, 2D2023-1932 (12/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483058/opinion/Opinion_2023-1932.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR OF MARIJUANA: The plain smell of cannabis standing alone does not make it clearly or immediately apparent that the substance is contraband. Plain smell no longer establishes probable cause. But where the smell was such that officer could reasonably conclude that Defendant had been illegally smoking marijuana in his vehicle, the search is lawful. Cherfils v. State, 2D2023-

1932 (12/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483058/opinion/Opinion_2023-1932.pdf

PHRASE OF THE DAY: "ostensible prevarication" Cherfils v. State, 2D2023-1932 (12/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483058/opinion/Opinion_2023-1932.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court may downward depart based on Defendant's autism or qualification as a Youthful Offender. Court erred in determining that "I don't think it's appropriate for me to sentence [Mr. Morgan] as a youthful offender. Which leaves me with no alternative but to sentence him on Counts I through XLIV to 536.550 months." Morgan v. State, 2D2024-0125 (12/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483060/opinion/Opinion_2024-0125.pdf

VINDICTIVE SENTENCE: The disparity between the State's pre-trial plea offer and the sentence imposed by the trial court after trial, standing alone, does not create a presumption of vindictiveness nor require re-sentencing. Angerman v. State, 3D23-0706 (12/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483092/opinion/Opinion_2023-0706.pdf

JOA-MENS REA: A trial court should rarely, if ever, grant a motion for judgment of acquittal on the issue of intent. Angerman v. State, 3D23-0706 (12/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483092/opinion/

Opinion_2023-0706.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-SCORE SHEET: When a defendant raises a scoresheet error pursuant to rule 3.850, any error is harmless if the record conclusively shows that the trial court would have imposed the same sentence using a corrected score sheet. Zaldivar v.State, 3D24-0379 (12/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483109/opinion/Opinion_2024-0379.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: The term "manifest injustice" is abused widely by postconviction litigants. R. 3.850 contains no "manifest injustice" exception to the rule's time limitation or bar against filing successive postconviction motions. Contrary precedent distinguished. Zaldivar v.State, 3D24-0379 (12/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483109/opinion/Opinion_2024-0379.pdf

APPEAL: When the defendant in a criminal appeal challenges the sufficiency of the State's evidence, the appellate court conducts a de novo review of the trial record to ensure that the guilty verdict is supported by competent, substantial evidence regarding each element of the charged crime, viewing] the evidence in the light most favorable to the State and asking whether a rational trier of fact could have found the existence of the elements of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt. Revuelta v. State, 3D24-2203 (12/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483100/opinion/Opinion_2024-2203.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-INSANITY: Defendant (a sovereign citizen type person and member of the Sovereign Nuwaupian Nation) who was found Not Guilty by Reason of Insanity is not entitled to relief under R.3.850. Drinks v. State, 3D25-1720 (12/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483122/opinion/Opinion_2025-1720.pdf

PLEA COLLOQUY: The inquiry to determine if a plea has a factual basis need not be a mini-trial. Wilburn v. State, 3D25-2015 (12/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483108/opinion/Opinion_2025-2015.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-CONCESSION OF GUILT: Ineffective assistance is not shown where the record shows that Defendant agreed with counsel's strategy of admitting that he agreed with counsel's strategy of conceding that he committed homicide and does not reflect a clear objection to counsel conceding his guilt of second-degree murder rather than manslaughter. Colley v. State, SC2024-1011 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483052/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1011&%20SC2024-1647.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-CONCESSION OF GUILT: Counsel is not required to obtain a defendant's consent to every tactical decision, including which lesser offense to concede. Choosing to concede guilt to a particular lesser-included offense, where the defendant admits being the actor and does not pursue a claim of factual innocence, is a matter of trial strategy within counsel's authority. "Counsel testified that arguing only for manslaughter would have undermined his credibility with the jury, especially given that Colley can be heard on the 911 call saying 'fucking whore[] and shoot[ing] twice.'" Colley v. State, SC2024-1011 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483052/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1011&%20SC2024-1647.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to prepare him to testify where he he was collloquyed on testifying and confirmed that he understood his rights, had consulted with counsel, did not need additional time, was satisfied" with counsel's advice, and that his decision not to testify was his own. Colley v. State, SC2024-1011 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483052/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1011&%20SC2024-1647.pdf

RULE OF SEQUESTRATION: The purpose of the rule of sequestration is to avoid a witness coloring his or her testimony by hearing the testimony of another, thereby discouraging fabrication, inaccuracy and collusion. §90.616(2) allows an exception to the rule of sequestration when a witness's presence is essential to the presentation of the party's cause, and a trial court has wide discretion in deciding whether to exempt a witness from sequestration. Counsel was not ineffective for failing to object to lead detective sitting at the prosecution table where her testimony was innocuous—it did not serve to prove any element of any crime but to give the jury a timeline of events and to enter a surveillance video into evidence. Colley v. State, SC2024-1011 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483052/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1011&%20SC2024-1647.pdf

CONFLICT OF INTEREST: A claim of ineffective assistance based on conflict requires proof that counsel actively represented conflicting interests and that the conflict adversely affected performance. Speculative or hypothetical conflicts are insufficient. Counsel having previously represented Sheriff's office is not a conflict per se. Without an actual conflict and an adverse effect, Defendant cannot establish deficiency or prejudice. Colley v. State, SC2024-1011 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483052/opinion/

Opinion_SC2024-1011&%20SC2024-1647.pdf

EVIDENCE-DEATH PENALTY: At a capital penalty phase, any evidence that the court deems to have probative value may be received, regardless of its admissibility under the exclusionary rules of evidence, provided the defendant is accorded a fair opportunity to rebut any hearsay statements. Colley v. State, SC2024-1011 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483052/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1011&%20SC2024-1647.pdf

EVIDENCE-JUDGE: A judge may be called as a witness to testify about Defendant's apparent mental state in an injunction hearing an hour before he murdered his wife and her friend, and shot or shot at two other women. "Colley argues the testimony should have been excluded under section 90.403 as unduly prejudicial because it came from a sitting judge, and that the State should have called the prosecutor or defense attorney from the plea hearing instead. But he identifies no authority suggesting that a judge's factual observations become inadmissible simply due to judicial office." Colley v. State, SC2024-1011 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483052/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1011&%20SC2024-1647.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: In support of his Ambien-induced parasomnia defense, counsel was not ineffective for failing to have pharmacogenomic testing done and to present evidence that he is genetically predisposed to be a poor metabolizer of Cymbalta. Colley v. State, SC2024-1011 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483052/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1011&%20SC2024-1647.pdf

JURY EXPERT: Due process does not require Court to order funding for a jury selection expert. Jury selection is a legal function that should be within the competence of experienced trial lawyers. Colley v. State, SC2024-1011 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483052/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1011&%20SC2024-1647.pdf

BURGLARY: Ownership for the purpose of charging burglary differs from ownership in property law, as burglary is a disturbance to habitable security instead of to the fee, and that ownership in the burglary context can be defined as any possession that is rightful as against a burglar, and can be proven by special or temporary ownership, possession, or control. Defendant is properly convicted of burglary for entering the former marital home while under an active domestic violence injunction, armed with two guns, shooting out the back door, and shooting his ex-wife and three other people. Colley v. State, SC2024-1011 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483052/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1011&%20SC2024-1647.pdf

EVIDENCE-JUDGE (J. LABARGA, J., DISSENTING IN PART): "The title of "judge" carries with it a certain weight...Admittedly, there is no controlling authority prohibiting judges from testifying against a defendant on the ground that such testimony is prejudicial. However, it stands to reason that the testimony of a judge, especially concerning matters that relate to the judge's position, has the potential to influence a jury's impression of the judge's testimony." Colley v. State, SC2024-1011 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483052/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1011&%20SC2024-1647.pdf

BREATH TEST-EXTRATERRITORIAL JURISDICTION: The implied consent statute clearly contemplates that an officer making a DUI arrest

will complete his responsibilities under the statute by requesting the arrestee to submit to a breath test. Municipal officers have authority under that law to request the test at a testing facility outside his jurisdiction. State v. Repple, SC2024-1088 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483053/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1088.pdf

BREATH TEST-EXTRATERRITORIAL JURISDICTION (J. SASSO, DISSENTING): "[T]his issue boils down to whether section 316.1932...impliedly grants extraterritorial power to municipal officers for the purpose of requesting a breath test...If a municipality is to exercise powers outside its borders, the authority to do so must come from the Legislature by general or special law. ...The majority says the Legislature has done so, applying the predicate-act canon to section 316.1932. While I agree that the canon is venerable, I do not agree that it applies here...Implied powers arise when the express text leaves a genuine gap—implied powers must be truly necessary to carry out an explicitly granted power or right, not just convenient or generally related...[E]ven if...the predicate-act canon is a natural fit for the statute, I cannot agree that it applies here. It is not necessary, in the way the predicate-act canon contemplates, for a municipal officer to leave his or her jurisdiction to conduct the breath test. It is not the grant of statutory power that demands the officer leave his jurisdiction, it is the municipality's failure to have an adequate testing apparatus." State v. Repple, SC2024-1088 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483053/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1088.pdf

APPEAL: Order dismissing postconviction motion without prejudice is a nonappealable, nonfinal order. Stewart v. State, 1D2025-1426 (12/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483070/opinion/

Opinion 2025-1426.pdf

DEPARTURE-MANDATORY MINIMUM: §3553(e) allows a departure from a statutory minimum sentence only when the government moves for it. When Government files a §3553(e) substantial assistance motion to depart from a statutory minimum prison sentence for one offense, a district court may not depart from the statutory minimum sentence for a separate offense. Because §3553(e) applies to "a minimum sentence," not the aggregate of multiple sentences, a motion for departure on one sentence does not apply to other sentences. USA v. Day, No. 24-13312 (11th Cir. 12/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202413312.pdf

SENTENCING-JUSTICE (J. KIDD, CONCURRING): "By all accounts, Day turned her life around. She enrolled in a year-long transitional program at the Lovelady Center. In that program, she took parenting, relapse prevention, and anger management classes. Day was randomly drug tested two to three times a month as part of the program, and, remarkably, she never tested positive. After completing the program, she remained employed by the Lovelady Center, where she was able to mentor other women who were undergoing similar life events...And there is little more that could have been asked of her...But that does not matter. By statute, only one person's opinion mattered that day: Gloria A. Bedwell's, the Assistant United States Attorney...Ms. Bedwell...had all the cards...Yet there remains one actor with nearly unbounded discretion...and who still has the opportunity to exercise that discretion in Day's case on remand: the federal prosecutor. I hope that Ms. Bedwell, or whomever succeeds her, uses the discretion afforded to her by the people of the United States to reach a just result in Day's case." USA v. Day, No. 24-13312 (11th Cir. 12/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202413312.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION: Standard Jury Instruction 3.7 explains the presumption of innocence, the State's burden to prove the defendant's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, and the definition of reasonable doubt. Only the second of the three matters is constitutionally required. Neither instruction regarding the presumption of innocence nor a definition of reasonable doubt is constitutionally required. Anady v. State, 1D2023-2811 (12/23/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483001/opinion/Opinion_2023-2811.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION: Court's failure to include Standard Jury Instruction 3.7 on presumption of innocence and reasonable doubt is not fundamental error. Contrary precedent disapproved. "By holding that the exclusion of Standard Jury Instruction 3.7 constitutes fundamental error, the opinions noted above appear to reflect our supreme court's concern...that 'some' were treating standard instructions as if they were pronouncements from the supreme court, rather than recommendations from a committee..., as if every word of the standard instruction is a proclamation from on high. We should not make the same mistake." Conflict certified. Anady v. State, 1D2023-2811 (12/23/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483001/opinion/Opinion_2023-2811.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION (J. BILBREY, CONCURRING): Fundamental error always occurs when a jury is not instructed that a defendant's guilt must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt, but that failure to instruct a jury on the presumption of innocence or to define reasonable doubt is not fundamental error in every instance. If a defendant requests that the jury be accurately instructed on the definition of reasonable doubt, it would be error for a trial court to fail to do so. Anady v. State, 1D2023-2811 (12/23/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2483001/opinion/Opinion_2023-2811.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY: The Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments forbid the execution of persons with intellectual disability, but leave to the states the task of developing appropriate ways to enforce this restriction upon their execution of sentences. If the court finds, by clear and convincing evidence, that the defendant has an intellectual disability, the court may not impose a sentence of death and shall enter a written order that sets forth with specificity the findings in support of the determination. Significantly subaverage general intellectual functioning is reflected by IQ testing within the margin of error below seventy. State v. Jackson, 3D22-1451 (12/22/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482890/opinion/Opinion_2022-1451.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY: Court did not err in finding Defendant ineligible for the death penalty on the basis of significantly subaverage general intellectual functioning, relying testing and Defendant's historical evidence of his deficits. State v. Jackson, 3D22-1451 (12/22/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482890/opinion/Opinion_2022-1451.pdf

ERLINGER: Even assuming Erlinger applies, error is harmless. Reese v. State, 6D2023-3361 (12/23)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482914/opinion/Opinion_2023-3361.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was deficient in advising Defendant to testify that he had two prior impeachable convictions–he had four–which opened the door to admission of the priors into evidence and the State arguing that he had lied about the number. Error was prejudicial. Fernandez v. State, 6D2023-3717 (12/23/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482920/opinion/Opinion_2023-3717.pdf

IMPEACHMENT: Mid-trial colloquies can be useful in confirming how many impeachable priors there are before defendants testify. Fernandez v. State, 6D2023-3717 (12/23/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482920/opinion/Opinion_2023-3717.pdf

JOA: Where Defendant argued for a JOA for interfering with custody on the ground that her conduct did not amount to a taking, but a taking is not the only way in which a person may interfere with custody under the statute, "we are without option but to affirm her conviction." Arroyo v. State, 6D2025-0165 (12/23/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482957/opinion/Opinion_2025-0165.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT: Lawyers know that argument to the jury must be based solely on the evidence admitted at trial. Prosecutor commits misconduct requiring reversal by invoking an unadmitted exhibit in his closing argument to urge the jury to convict. "The circumstances we confront are particularly troubling: The evidence of Jones's guilt on the § 924(c) offense was thin, the prosecutor told jurors at the close of trial that 'all [they] need[ed]' to convict him of that crime was a piece of evidence that wasn't before them, and Jones was sentenced to 30 years on that count alone. If left uncorrected, the prosecutor's misconduct in this case would leave 'reasonable citizen[s]' with 'a rightly diminished view of the judicial process.'" USA v. Jones, No. 24-10938 (11th Cir. 12/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410938.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-MIRANDA: "To be clear, the prosecutor here should not—not, not, not—have commented on Jones's invocation of his right to remain silent. We don't fault the prosecutor for Corporal Hunter's spontaneous statement, in response to a question about DNA collection, that '[n]o interview was conducted with Mr. Jones as he invoked his right to an attorney after I advised him of Miranda rights.' But we can—and do—fault the prosecutor for returning to the issue with her own pointed question: '[Y]ou said that you attempted to interview him but he invoked his—or after Mirandizing him, he invoked his rights, correct?' We shouldn't have to keep saying this, but alas, it seems the message isn't getting through: So let us once again make 'crystal clear' that the government may not 'call attention to' a defendant's invocation of his Miranda rights...Prosecutors know better, and they simply must stop 'continu[ing] to indulge themselves in this way'—enough is enough." But error is harmless. USA v. Jones, No. 24-10938 (11th Cir. 12/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410938.pdf

EVIDENCE: Rap-music videos, images, and lyrics that Defendant had posted depicting him with marijuana, cash, and firearms with machine-gun-conversion switches, which bore disclaimers clarifying that the videos were made for "entertainment purposes only", were inadmissible. Videos and lyrics that contain violence and profanity could reasonably be understood as promoting a violent and unlawful lifestyle. Rule 403 directs district courts to exclude relevant evidence if its probative value is substantially outweighed by unfair prejudice. But the error is harmless. USA v. Jones, No. 24-10938 (11th Cir. 12/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410938.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION: Where Defendant contended below that the government hadn't proven that the police actually found a controlled substance, but on appeal that it failed to prove that he used firearms "in furtherance of" his drug-related crimes, review is only for plain error. "The applicable standard of review is doing a lot of work here. The well-worn rule, of course, is that on a sufficiency challenge we must '[v]iew[] the evidence in the light most favorable to the government and draw[] all reasonable inferences in favor of the jury's verdict.'" The evidence is "[h]ardly overwhelming, but given the applicable standard, legally sufficient. A jury could reasonably conclude from the combination of the government's evidence that Jones possessed the machine gun in furtherance of his drug-trafficking activities." USA v. Jones, No. 24-10938 (11th Cir. 12/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410938.pdf

COSTS: The erroneous imposition of costs may be addressed in an Anders brief. Young v. State, 2D2-24-2323 (1/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482834/opinion/Opinion_2024-2323.pdf

DISCOVERY-RICHARDSON: State committed a discovery violation by disclosing a lab analyst and DNA report which omitted mention of male DNA on the victim's shorts where State knew about the omission and waited until its opening statement to allege that male DNA was on the victim's shorts. "[W]e do not know of any authority holding that an omission of information required to be disclosed under rule 3.220(b) is not a discovery violation." The state's alleged lack of knowledge of the rule's requirements do not make its choice of non-disclosure to be any less willful. New trial required. Macias v. State, 4D2024-1360 (12/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482873/opinion/Opinion_2024-1360.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION-RICHARDSON: "To the extent any of our court's precedent has blended the foregoing standards of review in Richardson-based cases, we clarify the correct standards of review here, and expect practitioners to apply the correct standards of review as warranted." A Richardson hearing is required when there is a possible discovery violation in order to flesh out whether there has indeed been a discovery violation. A discovery violation is harmless only if an appellate court can determine, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the defense was not procedurally prejudiced. The defense is procedurally prejudiced if there is a reasonable possibility that the defendant's trial preparation or strategy would have been materially different had the violation not occurred. The required focus is on how the defense might have responded and not on whether the undisclosed evidence affected the verdict. It is the State's burden to show that the error was harmless. The state's burden to show a discovery violation to be harmless is extraordinarily high. Macias v. State, 4D2024-1360 (12/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482873/opinion/Opinion_2024-1360.pdf

DISCOVERY-RICHARDSON: To conduct a Richardson hearing, the circuit court must inquire as to whether the violation (1) was willful or inadvertent; (2) was substantial or trivial; and (3) had a prejudicial effect on the aggrieved party's trial preparation. On the third prong, the state must show in the record that the defendant was not prejudiced by the discovery violation. Macias v. State, 4D2024-1360 (12/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482873/opinion/Opinion_2024-1360.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: Generally, where the State does not reveal additional witnesses or evidence until the eve of trial or during trial, a discovery violation occurs. Discovery violations are not waived by defense counsel's failure to depose a witness. Macias v. State, 4D2024-1360 (12/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482873/opinion/Opinion_2024-1360.pdf

JURISDICTION-APPEAL-CORRECTION: "[W]e are compelled to reverse in part and remand to address a technical, jurisdictional matter." Where court erroneously imposed a credit for time served sentence on a count that had been eliminated in the amended information, it lacks jurisdiction to correct the error after the appeal is filed but before Appellant filed his R. 3.800(b) motion to correct. "While we appreciate the trial court's diligence, it nevertheless lacked jurisdiction to enter its order correcting sentencing documents while Appellant's direct appeal was pending." Go back and do it again[4]. Harrington v. State, 5D2024-2191 (12/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482859/opinion/Opinion_2024-2191.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: To uphold a summary denial of a postconviction motion, the claims must be either facially invalid or conclusively refuted by the record. Benedictis v. State, 5D2024-2447 (12/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482858/opinion/Opinion_2024-2447.pdf

ERLINGER: Even assuming Erlinger applies, any error in this case is harmless. Ward v. State, 6D2024-1514 (12/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482866/opinion/Opinion_2024-1514.pdf

---

[4] Editor's Note: Should be "contemporaneously," not "contemporaneous". An adverb, not an adjective, was called for. And sentences do not run "concurrent", they run concurrently. Sheesh! And don't get me started on people who use the adverb "hopefully" as if it were an adjective, e.g, "Hopefully, I'll finish this darn case law summary before midnight." https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=aQnW-MxAU6U&list=RDaQnW-MxAU6U&start_radio=1

DEATH PENALTY: §921.141 removed the requirement for a jury to be unanimous in recommending a death sentence. Hunt v. State, SC2024-0096 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482797/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0096.pdf

COLLATERAL CRIME EVIDENCE: Evidence of inextricably intertwined acts is relevant and admissible. Collateral crimes evidence is inextricably intertwined if it is "necessary to (1) adequately describe the deed; (2) provide an intelligent account of the crime(s) charged; (3) establish the entire context out of which the charged crime(s) arose; or (4) adequately describe the events leading up to the charged crime(s). Evidence that Defendant had raped and sex trafficked the primary intended victim, for which charges were pending, is relevant to show why Defendant attempted to murder her and others in the home. The sex crimes evidence appropriately painted an accurate picture of the events and provided context for the criminal conduct. Hunt v. State, SC2024-0096 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482797/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0096.pdf

TRANSFERRED INTENT: The doctrine of transferred intent applies to cases where a person is killed through mistaken identity or accident. It applies where the accomplice killed the wrong red haired girl. Hunt v. State, SC2024-0096 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482797/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0096.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-AGGRAVATED FACTORS: Aggravating factors need not be determined beyond a reasonable doubt. Hunt v. State, SC2024-0096 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482797/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0096.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-UNANIMOUS RECOMMENDATION: Ramos, which held that the constitutional right to a jury requires a unanimous verdict as to all essential elements of a crime, does not apply to a jury's recommendation of death in a capital case because a jury's recommendation is not equivalent to a verdict. Instead, it is a capital jury's finding of an aggravating factor that is equivalent to a verdict and must be unanimously found. Hunt v. State, SC2024-0096 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482797/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0096.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-EX POST FACTO: §921.141, Florida's amended capital sentencing scheme, eliminating the unanimous jury recommendation requirement, does not violate the ex post facto clauses by increasing the chance that the death penalty will be imposed. A procedural change need not be ameliorative to conform with the Ex Post Facto Clause. Hunt v. State, SC2024-0096 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482797/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0096.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-RETROACTIVITY: §921.141, amended in early 2023 to provide that a trial court may impose a sentence of death based on the recommendation of eight or more jurors, may be applied retroactively. Jackson v. State, SC2023-1298 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482869/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1298.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: §921.141's provision allowing a judge to impose a sentence of death upon the recommendation of eight or more jurors is constitutional under the Eighth, Fourteenth (Equal Protection), and Sixth Amendments. Jackson v. State, SC2023-1298 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482869/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1298.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Applying §921.141's procedural changes to a Hurst resentencing that began after the amendments went into effect, for crimes that occurred in 2005, applies prospectively. Where Defendant's original conviction predated Hurst, which was later weakened, he is not entitled to its protection. Resentencing is a de novo proceeding in which the decisional law effective at the time of the resentencing applies. Poole, not Hurst, controls. Jackson v. State, SC2023-1298 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482869/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1298.pdf

WATCH YOUR TONGUE, COUNSEL!: "As far as Jackson's suggestion that this Court rubber-stamps death sentences, it warrants no response other than a strong caution to counsel." Jackson v. State, SC2023-1298 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482869/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1298.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ARGUMENT: "We conclude that the jury should have been instructed about the binding effect of a life recommendation—that, after all, is consistent with what the statute says. And it is unclear why that did not happen. But that was not the nature of Jackson's arguments below...[T]he Caldwell issue Jackson advances is not the Caldwell issue argued below. We disapprove this sleight of hand." Jackson v. State, SC2023-1298 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482869/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1298.pdf

ARGUMENT-EVIL: The use of the term "evil" alone during closing statements does not entitle a defendant to a new trial. "Perhaps the prosecutor could have used the word 'evil' with less frequency," but there is no fundamental error. The prosecutor's remarks were largely aimed at the defendant's acts, not at the defendant himself. Jackson v. State, SC2023-1298 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482869/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1298.pdf

JURY-DEATH QUALIFYING: The Constitution does not prohibit the States from "death qualifying" juries in capital cases. "Death qualification" does not violate the "fair-cross-section requirement," even if the fair cross-section requirement extends to petit juries. Jackson v. State, SC2023-1298 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482869/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1298.pdf

DEATH PENALTY (J. LABARGA, CONCURRING): Today's decisions in Hunt v. State...and Jackson v. State...reject challenges to the 2023 statutory amendment that now requires only eight members of a twelve-person capital jury to vote to recommend the death penalty...I write to underscore that the 8-4 threshold renders Florida the absolute outlier among states that impose the death penalty. Florida now has the lowest standard in the nation, requiring the fewest number of jurors to recommend the death penalty...Among the states that continue to impose the death penalty, only Alabama and Florida permit a nonunanimous jury recommendation of death...In my view, a jury's unanimous recommendation of death provides a narrowing function that is wholly warranted in this state that, with 30 exonerations, still leads the nation in exonerations from death row...While a majority of this Court has held that this Court's interpretation of permissible safeguards in the death penalty context is limited by the conformity clause of the Florida Constitution, I continue to fundamentally disagree that interpretations by the United States Supreme Court constitute a ceiling and not a floor." Jackson v. State, SC2023-1298 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482869/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1298.pdf

DEATH PENALTY (J. LABARGA, CONCURRING): "I believe that the use of the death penalty in Florida and the integrity of the process benefit from safeguards such as the requirement of jury unanimity, and I believe that such safeguards are constitutionally permissible. I also continue to adhere to the views expressed in my dissent in Lawrence v. State, 308 So. 3d 544 (Fla. 2020) (receding from the decades-long practice of conducting proportionality review in direct appeals of sentences of death). For these reasons, I can only concur in the result." Hunt v. State, SC2024-0096 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482797/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0096.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-GENERAL PRACTICE: Rule 2.120 amended to expressly explain that chief judges may issue administrative orders to establish rules of practice or procedure as long as they are not inconsistent with the constitution, court rules, local court rules, or Supreme Court's administrative orders. Other tweaks. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of General Practice and Judicial Administration, SC2024-1403 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482800/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1403.pdf

AMENDMENT-BAR RULES: R. 4-8.6 amended to add not-for-profit authorized business entities" are added as a type of authorized business entity in which lawyers may practice and to clarify that subject to a narrow exception, nonlawyers may not serve in certain positions, have certain titles, or perform policy-making functions. Only a person legally qualified to render legal services in Florida may direct the legal services or professional judgment of a lawyer engaged in the practice of law in Florida. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Rule 4-8.6, No. SC2025-1173 (12/18/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482802/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1173.pdf

AMENDMENT-BAR RULES: Minor tweaks to disciplinary suspension rules. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Chapter 3, SC2025-1180 (12/18/25)

HEARSAY: "[T]hough the term 'hearsay' has perplexed law students and lawyers for decades, its core definition is simple: an out-of court statement offered to prove that what the statement says is true." USA v. Keegan, No. 22-13019 (11th Cir. 12/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213019.pdf

HEARSAY-MEDICAL DIAGNOSIS: Not any statement made to a physician that might conceivably be related to a patient's medical history is admissible as an exception to the hearsay rule. Defendant's allegations of domestic abuse made to a psychologist, which Defendant seeks to admit to support a duress defense, are not admissible under the medical diagnosis or treatment exception to the hearsay rule. The "for medical diagnosis" language ferrets out statements whose real use and predominating effect would be that of hearsay testimony of the patient. USA v. Keegan, No. 22-13019 (11th Cir. 12/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213019.pdf

DEFINITION-"FOR": The word "for" is used "to indicate the object, aim,

or purpose of an action or activity." "For" is used as a function word to indicate purpose." It connotes the end with reference to which anything is, acts, serves, or is done. USA v. Keegan, No. 22-13019 (11th Cir. 12/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213019.pdf

HEARSAY: Concerns about reliability are inherent in the hearsay rule and its exceptions. "It is not enough that Keegan asked for a medical diagnosis and got one..[T]he phrase 'for medical diagnosis' is there for a reason. Without it, statements...made to medical professionals without the true goal of seeking treatment, could be entered into evidence—all while the true source of the information evades cross-examination...Such evasion strikes at the heart of our Nation's hearsay rules." USA v. Keegan, No. 22-13019 (11th Cir. 12/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213019.pdf

HEARSAY-EXPERT OPINION: In weighing whether the basis for an expert's opinion based on what he as been told is admissible, Rule 703 requires courts to consider, among other things, the text of the Rule, the context surrounding the statement, and the facts of the case. USA v. Keegan, No. 22-13019 (11th Cir. 12/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213019.pdf

HEARSAY (J. NEWSOM, CONCURRING): "[T]he Federal Rules' hearsay provisions didn't just apparate, Harry-Potter-like. Rather, they arose out of centuries' worth of discussion and debate—not only about the risks of hearsay statements but also the limited circumstances in which some such statements might, despite their out-of-court-ness, be sufficiently trustworthy to warrant admission...And as the Court quite rightly points out, the thread that binds the traditional hearsay exceptions together—their animating justification, if you will—is that they cover statements that, by their very nature, indicate reliability...One way or another, the hearsay exceptions reflect an evident insistence on reliability." USA v. Keegan, No. 22-13019 (11th Cir. 12/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213019.pdf

TEXTUALISM (J. NEWSOM, CONCURRING): "'[P]roper textualism' isn't wooden 'literalism...'The aim of the interpretive enterprise isn't to isolate the clinical, classroom meaning of a particular string of words. It's subtler, richer." USA v. Keegan, No. 22-13019 (11th Cir. 12/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213019.pdf

HEARSAY-MEDICAL DIAGNOSIS (J. NEWSOM, CONCURRING): "[E]ven if Keegan's interpretation of the phrase "made for . . . medical diagnosis" can (as I think it can) claim consistency with the literal, dictionary-driven meaning of Rule 803(4)'s terms, it has no footing in—and indeed, is irreconcilable with—the real world, ordinary understanding of that phrase, as used in context. And that, to me, is dispositive." USA v. Keegan, No. 22-13019 (11th Cir. 12/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213019.pdf

ERLINGER-PRR: Erlinger error, if any, in imposing PRR enhancement is harmless. Flowers v. State, 1D2024-0818 (12/17/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482686/opinion/Opinion_2024-0818.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: A sentence of life imprisonment does not violate the proscription in Article I, Section 17 of the Florida Constitution against an indefinite term of imprisonment. Robinson v. State, 3D25-1920 (12/17/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482749/opinion/

Opinion_2025-1920.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: Georgia's written agreement to halt executions until after certain conditions related to the COVID-19 pandemic are satisfied–they have not been–does not preclude his execution because "there's a catch. By its terms, the agreement applies to only those inmates whose final appeal in the Eleventh Circuit concluded during Georgia's COVID-19 judicial emergency. Humphreys falls outside that group." Humphrey v. Commissioner, Georgia Department of Corrections, No. 25-14325 (11th Cir. 12/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202514325.ord.pdf

DEATH WARRANT-EQUAL PROTECTION: The "right to continue living" does not warrant strict scrutiny under the Equal Protection clause. "To be sure,...Ohio Adult Parole Authority v. Woodard...states...that a death-sentenced prisoner has 'an interest in his life' that warrants 'some minimal procedural safeguards,' [but]...[n]othing in Justice O'Connor's opinion suggests this right is a fundamental one that calls for strict scrutiny." Humphrey v. Commissioner, Georgia Department of Corrections, No. 25-14325 (11th Cir. 12/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202514325.ord.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: Inexcusable delay in bringing a claim challenging the imposition of the death penalty may bar a stay of execution. Appellate courts ordinarily do not grant a motion for a stay when it could have been brought at such a time as to allow consideration of the merits without requiring entry of a stay. Four and a half months delay in moving for a stay is too long. Courts ordinarily do not grant a stay when the movant created the need for it. Walls v. Secretary, Department of Corrections, No. 25-14302 (11th Cir. 12/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202514302.ord.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Circumstantial evidence is sufficient for a conviction where any reasonable construction of the evidence supports the jury's finding beyond a reasonable doubt. It does not matter if the evidence leaves room for innocent explanations for the defendant's conduct, nor does it have to exclude every reasonable hypothesis because a jury is free to choose among the reasonable constructions of the evidence. "[T]he law does not look down on circumstantial evidence." USA v. Perez Cremades, No. 24-10284 (11th Cir. 12/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410284.pdf

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Possession may be established through actual or constructive possession. Actual knowledge and possession of drugs is proven by the large quantities of meth and fentanyl; a drug-filled FedEx package; and Defendant's Social Security card, passport, and mail addressed to him, all found in an 800-square-foot rented house occupied by Defendant and his daughter. USA v. Perez Cremades, No. 24-10284 (11th Cir. 12/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410284.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE-INTENT: Intent to distribute may be proven by the large quantities of methamphetamine and fentanyl that were found in Defendant's house and the additional quantities of those drugs in the package that had been addressed to his house and shipped using a fake return address. USA v. Perez Cremades, No. 24-10284 (11th Cir. 12/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410284.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE-INTENT TO DISTRIBUTE: "Here's the thing, given the brevity of life and the danger that inevitably arises from consuming large quantities of virtually pure methamphetamine and large numbers of fentanyl pills, there is no chance that Cremades intended to personally consume all of the more than 3,000 grams of high purity methamphetamine or all of those more than 7,000 pills of fentanyl." USA v. Perez Cremades, No. 24-10284 (11th Cir. 12/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410284.pdf

EVIDENCE-DRUG LEDGER: "[E]ven assuming without deciding that admitting evidence of the drug ledger was an abuse of discretion, ...[a]ny error in the ledger's admission was harmless given all the other evidence presented at trial. USA v. Perez Cremades, No. 24-10284 (11th Cir. 12/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410284.pdf

JURY FINDING-PRR: The trial court, rather than the jury, determining Defendant met the statutory requirements to be designated a prison releasee reoffender and a habitual felony offender is subject to harmless error analysis. Johnson v. State, 2D2024-1141 (12/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482449/opinion/Opinion_2024-1141.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose a $223 lump sum cost without citation to any authority. The statutory authority for all costs imposed, whether they are mandatory or discretionary, must be cited in the written order. Rowe v. State, 2D2024-2022 (12/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482450/opinion/Opinion_2024-2022.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER-APPRENDI: PRR sentence does not violate Apprendi where a jury did not determine the date of Defendant's release from prison when Defendant stipulated to the dispositive facts at sentencing. (He had committed the new offense 15 days after his release from prison). "Some courts have employed a harmless error analysis when an Apprendi claim is based on stipulated facts...However, we conclude a harmless error analysis is unnecessary because a sentence based on a defendant's stipulation does not violate Apprendi in the first place." Brooks v. State, 5D2023-3198 (12/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482472/opinion/Opinion_2023-3198.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-INTERROGATION: A jury may hear an interrogating detective's statements about a crime when the statements provoke a relevant response from the defendant being questioned. However, an interrogating detective's statements opinion as to the credibility, guilt or innocence of the accused is generally inadmissible. New trial is required where jury heard recording of interrogating detectives repeatedly expressing their personal opinions about Defendant's guilt and that they believed she was lying, such as "your lies are starting to come apart," "you are lying," "everything you told us is a lie," "we can tell that you're lying," "you've engaged in a pattern of lying," and "we know you are lying," and Defendant never provided a relevant response to the detectives claims that she was lying. Mackey v. State, 5D2024-1538 (12/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482476/opinion/Opinion_2024-1538.pdf

JUDGEMENT OF DISMISSAL: Juvenile is entitled to Judgment of Dismissal where Defendant confessed to stealing a red Nissan and the victim said that her red Nissan had been stolen, but the State failed to prove it was the same car. A theft conviction requires the State to prove, as a material element of the crime, who owns the motor vehicle the defendant stole. The matching general description of the car recovered from the Child and the victim's stolen car and the temporal proximity of the recovery to the theft (three days) is insufficient, without additional identifying evidence to establish that the car stolen was the same one the juvenile confessed to stealing. J.N.S. v. State, 6D2024-0309

(12/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482493/opinion/Opinion_2024-0309.pdf

APPEAL-FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: Jury instruction errors are subject to the contemporaneous objection rule. In the absence of a contemporaneous objection at trial, a jury instruction error is only subject to relief in the event of fundamental error. Failure to give an instruction unnecessary to prove an essential element of the crime charged is not fundamental error. Alape v. State, 6D2024-0519 (12/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482495/opinion/Opinion_2024-0519.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION: Where Defendant was charged with "solicit[ing], induc[ing], entic[ing], or procur[ing] another to commit prostitution, by sexual intercourse" and the jury instruction included an unobjected to instruction on the uncharged offense of solicitation to commit lewdness and assignation, error is not fundamental. The jury's verdict form shows that Appellant was not convicted of any uncharged crime. Masson v. State, 6D2024-1383 (12/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482497/opinion/Opinion_2024-1383.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Postconviction claims in capital cases must generally be filed within one year after the judgment and sentence become final, and both untimely and repetitive claims are prohibited. Procedural bars apply to intellectual disability claims. Walls v. State, SC2025-1915 (12/11/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482441/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1915%20&%20SC2025-1917.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-AGE: 19 year olds are subject to the death penalty. Walls v. State, SC2025-1915 (12/11/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482441/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1915%20&%20SC2025-1917.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-AGE: No federal or state court has accepted the argument that a prolonged stay on death row constitutes cruel and unusual punishment. Walls v. State, SC2025-1915 (12/11/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482441/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1915%20&%20SC2025-1917.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: When officers raise the defense of qualified immunity, they have the burden to establish that they were acting within their discretionary authority. If the officers satisfy that burden, the burden then shifts to the plaintiff to establish that the officers violated a constitutional right that was clearly established at the time of the alleged violation. An excessive force claim in the context of an arrest invokes the protections of the Fourth Amendment and is governed by an objective reasonableness standard. Plaintiff's intent to drive a truck into an officer, even if it never moves, converts it into a deadly weapon, so officer has qualified immunity to shoot the plaintiff/driver. Settle v. Collier, No. 24-12436 (11th Cir. 12/9/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412436.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Officer has civil immunity under Florida's SYG statute for shooting driver who converted car into deadly weapon, regardless whether it actually moved. Settle v. Collier, No. 24-12436 (11th Cir. 12/9/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202412436.pdf

INCOMPETENCY-DISMISSAL: Where Court finds Defendant incompetent due to developmental disability and unrestorable, it may not dismiss the case until some amount of time, not to exceed two years, has passed between when a defendant is declared incompetent and when charges are dismissed. "Given Mr. Rush's diagnoses, his competency may indeed be unrestorable. Still, it was error to grant the rule 3.190(c)(4) motion to dismiss in the same order adjudicating Mr. Rush criminally incompetent for the first time." State v. Rush, 1D2023-2979 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482291/opinion/Opinion_2023-2979.pdf

INCOMPETENCY-DISMISSAL (J. TANENBAUM, CONCURRING): "The State argues that the trial court committed procedural error when it granted Rush's motion to dismiss the information under Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.190(c)(4) after determining that Rush was incompetent to proceed. I agree. The motion did not assert that there were undisputed facts material to the charges against him showing a lack of guilt...Once the trial court found that Rush was incompetent,...rule 3.190 was not the proper vehicle for considering dismissal...Rush's competency has nothing to do with his guilt, so a dismissal under that rule was improper. State v. Rush, 1D2023-2979 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482291/opinion/Opinion_2023-2979.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: Where there can be no reasonable doubt that Defendant qualified as a PRR, any error in not submitting the PRR determination to a jury was harmless beyond a reasonable doubt. Jett v. State, 1D2023-3158 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482292/opinion/Opinion_2023-3158.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER (J. TANENBAUM, CONCURRING): A so-called Apprendi error (or for that matter, an Alleyne or Erlinger error) is a sentencing process error that must be preserved contemporaneously at sentencing—failing which, its consideration only could be under an authorized fundamental-error analysis. Jett v. State, 1D2023-3158 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482292/opinion/Opinion_2023-3158.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Challenges to the original probable cause are properly raised at trial and on direct appeal but are not a viable basis for postconviction relief or a postconviction writ of habeas corpus. Richardson v. Dixon, 1D2024-2815 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482294/opinion/Opinion_2024-2815.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE-JUROR: Juror's nondisclosed information during voir dire does not warrant relief when untimely asserted. The exception to the time bar applies when the information did not become ascertainable until after the deadline, not when the postconviction defendant only decided to start looking for it after the deadline. "[T]he circumstances of this case are different than a typical scenario in which a defendant, years later, serendipitously learns of some previously undiscoverable fact that indicates a juror had concealed information or lied. Rather, this defendant went on a fishing expedition but did not do so until after the time period to file a postconviction motion had expired. Rivera v. State, 1D2023-2718 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482281/opinion/Opinion_2023-2718.pdf

PRIVATE DETECTIVES: Private detective agencies have existed at least since the 19th century, famously in the United States with the Pinkerton National Detective Agency. Rivera v. State, 1D2023-2718 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482281/opinion/Opinion_2023-2718.pdf

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE-HALLUCINATION: The phenomenon of hallucination arises when AI does not know an answer and makes up answers that sound plausible to fill in the blanks or gaps in data. These AI platforms look at legal briefs in their training model and then create output that looks like a legal brief by placing one most-likely word after another consistent with the prompt it received. "According to one study, GenAI programs for legal research hallucinate legal authorities between seventeen and thirty-three percent of the time." Russell v. Mells, 2D2024-1560 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482282/opinion/Opinion_2024-1560.pdf

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE-ATTORNEY-DISCIPLINE: Attorney filed an appellate brief which included an AI generated nonexistent case citation and two "hallucinated" misquotations from real cases. "When a lawyer cites imaginary legal authorities to our court as if they were law, we are compelled to refer that lawyer to the Bar because of the professional rules of conduct. It doesn't take much moral imagination to understand why. As judges, we rely on attorneys to ethically represent their clients. We expect that representation to be zealous, honest, and competent." Russell v. Mells, 2D2024-1560 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482282/opinion/Opinion_2024-1560.pdf

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE-ATTORNEY-DISCIPLINE: "[I]t is a fundamental duty of attorneys to read the legal authorities they cite in appellate briefs or any other court filings to determine that the authorities stand for the propositions for which they are cited...[C]ounsel 'fundamentally abdicated' her duty to the court and her client when she submitted this filing without verifying that the three cases cited in her brief said what she claimed they said...We are publishing this aspect of the case with the hope that it will remind attorneys that technological advances do not dispense with ethical obligations." Russell v. Mells, 2D2024-1560 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482282/opinion/Opinion_2024-1560.pdf

ATTORNEY SCOLDED: "[W]e couldn't help but notice, the signature line of counsel's response to our order to show cause appears to have been executed by someone on behalf of Ms. McLane, instead of by Ms. McLane herself...While a delegated signature execution may not have been a legal or ethical impropriety, under these circumstances, it certainly didn't make a good impression." Russell v. Mells, 2D2024-1560 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482282/opinion/Opinion_2024-1560.pdf

SENTENCING: Court did not commit fundamental error in sentencing where the record reflects the trial court did not give any weight to uncharged conduct, despite hearing about uncharged offenses. Bien-Aime v. State, 3D24-0656 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482307/opinion/Opinion_2024-0656.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Once the Defendant enters a plea of guilty and assures the Court under oath that the plea is voluntary, the Court will not go behind the plea. The plea cuts off inquiry into all that precedes it. Espinosa v. State, 3D24-1269 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482320/opinion/Opinion_2024-1269.pdf

SENTENCING-DEPARTURE: When a departure sentence is grounded on both valid and invalid reasons, the sentence should be reversed and the case remanded for resentencing unless the state is able to show beyond a reasonable doubt that the absence of the invalid reasons would not have affected the departure sentence. Ruiz v. State, 3D24-2054 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482306/opinion/Opinion_2024-2054.pdf

SENTENCING- IMPROPER for SCORE SHEET: Error is harmless if the record conclusively shows that the trial court would have imposed the same sentence using a corrected scoresheet. Ruiz v. State, 3D24-2054 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482306/opinion/Opinion_2024-2054.pdf

MISTRIAL: The trial judge must have the power to declare a mistrial in appropriate cases, without concern that any time a reviewing court disagreed with his assessment of the trial situation a retrial would automatically be barred. Court's determination that mistrial was a manifest necessity deserves great deference, especially when the grounds for the mistrial relate to jury prejudice, for the trial judge is in a peculiarly good position to observe the jurors, the witnesses and the attorneys in order to evaluate the extent of the prejudice. Kendrick v. State, 3D25-1811 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482335/opinion/Opinion_2025-1811.pdf

ATTEMPTED SECOND-DEGREE MURDER: To sustain a conviction for attempted second-degree murder, the State must prove two elements: (1) the defendant intentionally committed an act that could have resulted, but did not result, in the death of someone, and (2) the act was imminently dangerous to another and demonstrated a depraved mind without regard for human life. Second-degree murder is normally committed by a person who knows the victim and has had time to develop a level of enmity toward the victim, but a preexisting relationship between the defendant and the victim is not necessarily required. to sustain a conviction for second-degree murder. Brandishing a firearm, pointing it directly at an officer's torso during an attempted arrest, attempting to rerack the firearm after it misfired, and engaging in a violent struggle for the weapon that resulted in its discharge constituted acts imminently dangerous to another and demonstrating a depraved mind without regard for human life. Kenyon v. State, 4D2023-1856 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482311/opinion/Opinion_2023-1856.pdf

EVIDENCE: Court did not abuse its discretion in allowing State to present in rebuttal pro se defendant's statements made in his motion for JOA. Kenyon v. State, 4D2023-1856 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482311/opinion/Opinion_2023-1856.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: Pro se defendant may not challenge the admission on rebuttal of statements made in his motion for JOA on the grounds of violation of his Sixth Amendment right to conduct his own defense where he did not raise the issue in his briefing with the appellate court. "The impeachment of a Faretta defendant by that defendant's arguments to the court, outside the presence of the jury, appears to present a significant Sixth Amendment issue." Kenyon v. State, 4D2023-1856 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482311/opinion/Opinion_2023-1856.pdf

OPENING THE DOOR: The concept of "opening the door" allows the admission of otherwise inadmissible testimony to qualify, explain, or limit testimony or evidence previously admitted. The mere fact that testimony may be characterized incomplete or misleading does not automatically trigger the opening the door principle. Otherwise, the rule threatens to become a pretext for the illegitimate use of inadmissible evidence, and the fairness-promoting purpose of the rule is lost. By exhaustively questioning whether officer who was arresting Defendant for VOP issued a "command" or merely a "request," and by eliciting testimony about the legal difference between consensual and nonconsensual encounters, Defendant created the misleading impression that the officers may not have been engaged in the lawful performance of a legal duty and opened the door to him being on probation. Kenyon v. State, 4D2023-1856 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482311/opinion/Opinion_2023-1856.pdf

IMPEACHMENT: Counsel may not make inquiries on cross-examination about unethical conduct on the part of expert witnesses, or disciplinary actions in their profession. Defense expert witness on proper handling of evidence improperly impeached for having been fired from an out-of-state medical examiner position and being prosecuted for tampering with evidence in Florida, but error is harmless. "We note that Federal Rule of Evidence 608(b) permits the use of specific instances of misconduct as a method of impeachment under certain circumstances. Professor Ehrhardt explains that the drafters of the Florida Evidence Code 'specifically intended not to adopt provision similar to Federal Rule 608(b) because it did not reflect the existing Florida law and because they felt the possibility for abuse of this type of evidence was great.'" Kenyon v. State, 4D2023-1856 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482311/opinion/

Opinion_2023-1856.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS: A superseding/amended indictment brought after the statute of limitations has expired is valid so long as the original indictment is still pending and was timely and the superseding indictment does not broaden or substantially amend the original charges. The sole purpose of a statute of limitations in the criminal context is to prevent the State from hampering defense preparation by delaying prosecution until a point in time when its evidence is stale and defense witnesses have died, disappeared or otherwise become unavailable. Kenyon v. State, 4D2023-1856 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482311/opinion/Opinion_2023-1856.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS-CHERRY PICKING: Where Defendant charged with Attempted Second-Degree Murder requested instructions for the lesser-included offenses of attempted battery and aggravated assault, confirming that he was willing to waive the limitations defense for those offenses, he necessarily waived the statute of limitations for attempted manslaughter and attempted aggravated battery. The trial court properly told Defendant that he could not use a statute-of-limitations objection to cherry pick the lesser-included offenses to be charged to the jury. A defendant who successfully asserts the statute of limitations to bar some offenses occurring out of a criminal episode cannot then waive the statute of limitations to have the jury instructed on other lesser-included offenses. A defendant may affirmatively waive his statute-of-limitations defense to lesser-included offenses, but permitting "on again, off again" waiver of the statute of limitations would contravene public policy. A defendant cannot selectively waive his statute of limitations defense as to the charges arising out of the criminal episode. Kenyon v. State, 4D2023-1856 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482311/opinion/Opinion_2023-1856.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Stone v. State, 4D2025-1911 (12/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2482300/opinion/Opinion_2025-2911.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-SUCCESSIVE MOTION: R. 3.851 places a one-year time limit for motions for postconviction relief from the death penalty. New reports or studies, based on previously available information, are not newly discovered evidence so that the time limit can be excused. Jury-related claims are no exception. Claims alleging that a defendant's jury was not a fair cross-section of the community should have been raised on direct appeal or on an initial motion for postconviction relief. Sparre v. State, SC2024-1512 (12/4/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472516/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1512.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-SUCCESSIVE MOTION: R. 3.851 requires a case management conference to be held within 30 days after the state files its answer to a successive motion for postconviction relief from the death penalty, but failure to do so may be harmless error. Sparre v. State, SC2024-1512 (12/4/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472516/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1512.pdf

JURY COMPOSITION: The Sixth Amendment guarantees an entitlement to be tried by a jury chosen from a fair cross-section of the community, but does not guarantee that the jury actually selected will always mirror the relevant community. Nor does the Eighth Amendment. Nor do Article I, §§16 and 21 of the Florida Constitution. Sparre v. State,

SC2024-1512 (12/4/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472516/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1512.pdf

COSTS: Court is not required to provide statutory or ordinance citations for the costs identifiable by name in its sentencing minutes. Conflict certified. Sayed v. State, 6D2023-0826 (12/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2480995/opinion/Opinion_2023-0826.pdf

COSTS: While no statute or procedural rule requires a trial court to explain the basis for an imposed cost, due process requires that it at least be evident from the record. "[W]e continue to reject any technical requirement that citation to authority must always appear in every written cost order...While a citation in the written order might be the best practice, due process is satisfied, and appellate review possible, when there is citation to authority in the record or when the basis for each cost is otherwise evident in the record. That is not the case here." Culbertson v. State, 6D2023-3024 (12/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2481008/opinion/Opinion_2023-3024.pdf

COSTS-SURCHARGE: §938.04 applies a surcharge of "5-percent" to any fine assessed. That surcharge should be $0 where there was no oral pronouncement of fines, only a lump-sum imposition of costs in the amount of $271. Culbertson v. State, 6D2023-3024 (12/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2481008/opinion/Opinion_2023-3024.pdf

COSTS: §318.18 costs for traffic offenses do not apply to a trespass

offense. Culbertson v. State, 6D2023-3024 (12/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2481008/opinion/Opinion_2023-3024.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant scored at least 535 months as a career offender and 504 months without the career offender designation, and Court sentenced him to 414 months (a downward variance), counsel was not ineffective for failing to object to the career-offender classification at sentencing. The application of an erroneous guideline range may not be dispositive when the district court gives a detailed explanation of the reasons the selected sentence is appropriate, making it clear that the judge based the sentence on factors independent of the Guidelines. Regardless whether counsel's performance was deficient, Defendant was not prejudiced. Buckner v. USA, No. 24-10001 (11th Cir. 12/3/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410001.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INFORMANT: REASONABLE SUSPICION: An anonymous tip can provide the basis for reasonable suspicion, provided that it can be established that the tip is reliable. Tips which allege criminal conduct, but only describe innocent details of identification which in and of themselves are not indicative of criminal behavior, are not enough, but even innocent detail tips from a reliable informant can prove to be reliable and be the foundation for reasonable suspicion where they include future predictions ordinarily not easily predicted, such as suspect's phone number, the exact location where the drug sale would occur, and real time updates. State v. Milton, 1D2024-2856 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472346/opinion/Opinion_2024-2856.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for possession of a firearm

and ammunition by a convicted felon violate double jeopardy. McQuay v. State, 1D2024-3125 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472351/opinion/Opinion_2024-3125.pdf

APPEAL-JURISDICTION: Orders disposing of motions for rehearing or motions that suspend rendition are not reviewable separately from a review of the final order. Kidder v. State, 1D2025-1808 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472367/opinion/Opinion_2025-1808.pdf

RENEWED OFFER OF COUNSEL: Pro se Defendant who knowingly and voluntarily chose not to attend and participate in his trial--he requested that the trial court send him the verdict in the mail--cannot complain that Court failed to renew the offer of assistance of counsel prior to the charge conference. A party may not invite error and then be heard to complain of that error on appeal. Morgan v. State, 2D2024-2151(12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472319/opinion/Opinion_2024-2151.pdf

APPEAL: Appellate court may take judicial notice of the records in prior appeals in the same underlying case. Macauley v. State, 3d24-1046 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472363/opinion/Opinion_2024-1046.pdf

EVIDENCE-FORMER TESTIMONY: Upon retrial, defendant's testimony at the former trial is admissible despite his claim that the substance of the testimony from the first trial was tainted by ineffective assistance of counsel where ineffectiveness had never been asserted previously. Macauley v. State, 3d24-1046 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472363/opinion/Opinion_2024-1046.pdf

VOP: Although illness, including mental illness, can render a technical violation of probation not substantial or willful because a mental or physical illness can be debilitating to the point that a probationer cannot comply with the terms of probation, Court's finding that Defendant's conclusory allegation that his mental illness and departure from his medical regimen rose to that debilitating level is within its broad discretion. Ascano v. State, 3D24-2205 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472368/opinion/Opinion_2024-2205.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. There is nothing indefinite about such a sentence. Valdes v. State, 3D25-1342 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472347/opinion/Opinion_2025-1342.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: In the postconviction context, indigent inmates are not entitled to trial transcripts free of charge. There is no right to free transcripts for use in preparation of a postconviction motion. Sims v. State, 3D25-1393 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472352/opinion/Opinion_2025-1393.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Appellate courts have the authority to correct a manifest injustice by way of habeas corpus, but the mere incantation of the words "manifest injustice" does not make it so. Butler v. State, 3D25-2281 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472377/opinion/Opinion_2025-2281.pdf

RESTITUTION: In unlicensed contracting case, an investigative report prepared by a Florida Department of Business and Professional Regulation investigator in which the victim claimed loss, and a series of handwritten contracts for $86,000, viewed by the court but not admitted into evidence, do not support a restitution order. Restitution must be proved by substantial competent evidence. Pope v. State, 4D2024-2822 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472354/opinion/Opinion_2024-2822.pdf

JOA: Due process is violated when an individual is convicted of a crime not charged in the charging instrument. Defendant is entitled to a Judgment of Acquittal for violating statute which prohibits recreational discharging of a firearm in a residential area where the Defendant's gun went off and her daughter was accidentally shot during a shoving match (evidence was conflicting as to how it came unholstered and why it fired). A criminal defendant is entitled to a trial on the charges contained in the information and may not be prosecuted for uncharged offenses, even if the uncharged offenses are of the same general character or constitute alternative ways of committing the charged offense. McClan v. State, 4D2024-2954 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472355/opinion/Opinion_2024-2954.pdf

VOP: Where Defendant is placed on probation for 24 months and ordered to perform 50 hours of community service at a rate of no less than 10 hours per month, Court improperly revoked probation where his probation order did not specify when he was required to begin community service hours, and he had ample time remaining on his sentence to complete the hours at the required rate. A trial court errs in finding a violation of probation for failing to complete required community service where a probation order contains no formally imposed deadline to complete the service hours and sufficient time remains in the probationary period to complete the service hours. Mathis v. State, 4D2025-0734 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472353/opinion/Opinion_2025-0734.pdf

VOP: Court fundamentally errs by proceeding immediately to revocation and sentencing following the evidentiary portion of the violation of probation hearing. Addressing an alleged VOP is a two-step process in which the trial court first determines whether the defendant willfully and substantially violated a condition of probation (the violation phase) and then, second, whether probation should be revoked (the sentencing phase). A defendant must be provided an opportunity to be heard on both issues. Mathis v. State, 4D2025-0734 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472353/opinion/Opinion_2025-0734.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Oviedo v. State, 4D2025-2231 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472362/opinion/Opinion_2025-2231.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Acosta v. State, 4D2025-2505 (12/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472361/opinion/

Opinion_2025-2505.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Federal courts may reward defendants for substantial assistance in three ways: 1) §5K1.1 of the Sentencing Guidelines, 2) §3553(e), upon motion of the Government to reflect a defendant's substantial assistance in investigating or prosecuting another defendant, and 3) Rule 35(b) for post-conviction assistance. USA v. Perez, No. 23-12336 (11th Cir. 12/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312336.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Where Government filed a substantial-assistance motion under both §5K1.1 of the Sentencing Guidelines and §3553(e), requesting a two-level reduction, Court may not depart further below the statutory minimum based on the general sentencing factors in §3553(a). Departures for substantial assistance may be based only on the assistance factors. USA v. Perez, No. 23-12336 (11th Cir. 12/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312336.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE (J. ABUDU, CONCURRING): A statutory minimum cannot be displaced by reference to the general §3553(a) factors. A judge may increase a sentence to reflect the seriousness of an offense or the need for deterrence, but she cannot decrease it to reflect a defendant's minor role, personal history, or other §3553(a) considerations once the floor is re-set. "Restricting the district court's discretion here heightens the risk of unwarranted disparities among defendants whose circumstances are materially different. As a matter of public policy, and perhaps due process, a sentencing framework that allows wide discretion to increase one's sentence while barring comparable discretion for downward departures warrants reevaluation." USA v. Perez, No. 23-12336 (11th Cir. 12/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312336.pdf

IMMUNITY-WITNESS: Where Defendant sought to call a witness who stated that she would invoke her Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination. Court did not err in declining to give the witness immunity and excusing her. The power to confer immunity resides exclusively in the Executive Branch, not in the courts. USA v. Beasley, No. 24-10506 (11th Cir. 12/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410506.pdf

IMMUNITY-WITNESS: A defendant may not compel a witness to testify when the witness has properly invoked her Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination. Defendant's right to present a complete defense must yield to the witness's unchallenged invocation of her Fifth Amendment privilege. A conflict between a witness's Fifth Amendment privilege and a defendant's Sixth Amendment compulsory process right is generally resolved in favor of the witness. USA v. Beasley, No. 24-10506 (11th Cir. 12/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410506.pdf

NEW TRIAL-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: A district court may grant a motion for a new trial grounded on newly discovered evidence if the interest of justice so requires. Defendant would have to prove that the evidence was discovered after trial, the defendant's failure to discover the evidence was not due to a lack of diligence, the evidence is not merely cumulative or impeaching, the evidence is material, and the evidence would probably produce a different result at trial. A sentencing memorandum does not count as "evidence" within the meaning of Rule 33. USA v. Beasley, No. 24-10506 (11th Cir. 12/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410506.pdf

EVIDENCE-UNCHARGED BAD ACTS: Evidence is admissible as intrinsic if it is either (1) an uncharged offense which arose out of the same transaction or series of transactions as the charged of sense, (2) necessary to complete the story of the crime, or (3) inextricably intertwined with the evidence regarding the charged offense. In health fraud case, evidence that Defendant was skimming cash from the pharmacy explains why he would have had a financial motive to participate in the conspiracy; Defendant had told co-perpetrator felt "undervalued and underappreciated," which could suggest that he viewed the money he took as his fair share of the conspiracy's profits. USA v. Beasley, No. 24-10506 (11th Cir. 12/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410506.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-WARRANT: Detention is lawful where officer investigates a littering complaint and Defendant provides a false ID. USA v. Thomas, No. 2024-11427 (11th Cir. 12/1/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411427.pdf

NOVEMBER 2025

ABUSE OF JUDICIAL PROCESS: Federal courts have the inherent authority to fashion an appropriate sanction for conduct which abuses the judicial process. Court properly dismissed the amended complaint filed by Donald Trump and his attorneys, which alleged that Hillary Clinton conspired with the director of the FBI and others to "weave a false narrative" about him and Russia (his initial complaint was 108 pages long with 508 numbered paragraphs; an amended complaint added over eighty pages), and properly assessed $937,989.39 in fees and costs for committing sanctionable conduct. The complaint was a "quintessential shotgun pleading," implausible, lacking any specific allegations which might provide factual support for the conclusions reached, and misrepresenting its sources. "Trump's amended complaint failed to state a claim for relief on any issue before us." Trump v.

Clinton, No. 22-13410 (11th Cir. 11/26/25)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213410.pdf

ABUSE OF JUDICIAL PROCESS: A finding of bad faith is warranted where an attorney knowingly or recklessly raises a frivolous argument, or argues a meritorious claim for the purpose of harassing an opponent. Shotgun pleading can be evidence of bad faith. So can advancing legal theories that are frivolous and foreclosed by precedent that the most basic legal research would have revealed, a malicious prosecution claim without a prosecution, a trade secret claim without a trade secret, and a litigant's pattern of misusing the courts. Trump v. Clinton, No. 22-13410 (11th Cir. 11/26/25)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213410.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS (CIVIL)-EQUITABLE TOLLING: President is not entitled to equitable tolling for bringing a civil suit for the entirety of his first presidential term because he claims that he faced "historically-unprecedented circumstances" as president and "the President occupies a unique position in the constitutional scheme." Trump unpersuasively "points to the workload he faced during his first term. But it is hard to see how his presidential workload differs from any other modern president." Trump v. Clinton, No. 22-13410 (11th Cir. 11/26/25)

http://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213410.pdf

ATTORNEY-DISCIPLINE: Disbarment, not suspension, is appropriate for attorney who intentionally or knowingly converts client property regardless of injury or potential injury. Misuse or misappropriation of funds held in trust is one of the most serious offenses a lawyer can commit and disbarment is the presumptively appropriate sanction. The Florida Bar v. Fojo, SC2024-0622.pdf (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472148/opinion/

Opinion_SC2024-0622.pdf

ATTORNEY-DISCIPLINE: Florida is free to impose a more severe punishment than that imposed in a sister state, and also when a lawyer knowingly or intentionally deceives a client with the intent to benefit the lawyer or another regardless of injury or potential injury to the client. Resignation in another state warrants disbarment in Florida. The Florida Bar v. Fojo, SC2024-0622.pdf (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472148/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0622.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE: R 3.130 is amended to add a reference to pretrial detention, where formerly there was just a reference to pretrial release and R. 3.132(a) to add "or an unauthorized alien arrested for a forcible felony" as an individual who must not be released from jail before first appearance. In Re: Amendments to the Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure - 2025 Legislation, SC2025-0530 (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472150/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0530.pdf

ERLINGER-PRR: Any error in imposing a prison releasee reoffender ("PRR") sentence because the trial court, not the jury, found that Defendant met the statutory qualifications, is harmless. Sheffield v. State, 1D2024-1587 (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472100/opinion/Opinion_2024-1587.pdf

APPEAL-JUVENILE: Appellate court cannot review any disposition errors that are not preserved by either a contemporaneous objection or a motion to correct under R. 8.135(b). L.L. v. State, 2D2024-2438

(11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472079/opinion/Opinion_2024-2538.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: A successor judge cannot be disqualified based on a successive motion by the same party unless the successor judge rules that he or she is in fact not fair or impartial in the case. Such a successor judge may rule on the truth of the facts alleged in support of the motion. MacKenzie v. MacKenzie, 2D2025-1096 (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472080/opinion/Opinion_2025-1096.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: A trial judge's comments of mere frustration, admonishment, or annoyance with counsel's mannerisms, tactics, or abilities do not rise to the level of recusal. But remarks needlessly questioning counsel's competence and extraneously impugning counsel's integrity, credibility, and candor, unsupported by the record, do. MacKenzie v. MacKenzie, 2D2025-1096 (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472080/opinion/Opinion_2025-1096.pdf

VOP-HVFO: Upon a violation of probation where Defendant had originally been sentenced as a habitual violent felony offender, later mitigated, Court retains discretion whether to designate him as a habitual violent felony offender and to impose a minimum mandatory sentence. Sentencing under both the habitual felony offender statute and the habitual violent felony offender statute is permissive, not mandatory. Ortiz v. State, 3D24-0234 (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472175/opinion/Opinion_2024-0234.pdf

APPEAL: An error in the sentencing process, rather than an error in the sentencing order, may be directly appealed without first filing in the trial court a motion to correct. Ortiz v. State, 3D24-0234 (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472175/opinion/Opinion_2024-0234.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-MOTION TO CORRECT: Defendant may not use R. 3.801(a) to seek credit for gain time awarded by D.O.C. while he was serving the prison portion of his split sentence. Lane v. State, 3D25-0712 (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472180/opinion/Opinion_2025-0712.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-MOTION TO CORRECT: R. 3.801(a) provides that a court may correct a final sentence that fails to allow a defendant credit for all of the time he or she spent in the county jail before sentencing, but gain time is no longer to be considered as time served for all purposes. Gain time reduces an inmate's release date. It is clearly not synonymous with actual time served. On the contrary, gain time is time not served. Lane v. State, 3D25-0712 (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472180/opinion/Opinion_2025-0712.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: When a split-sentenced prisoner is released from prison and remains under probation, is thereafter found to have violated that probation, and the trial court imposes a subsequent prison sentence, the trial court may “recommend” that a defendant’s accrued prison gain time not be forfeited, but the statutory authority to declare a forfeiture of accrued prison gain time resides exclusively with D.O.C. Lane v. State, 3D25-0712 (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472180/opinion/Opinion_2025-0712.pdf

MOTION TO CORRECT ILLEGAL SENTENCE: A life sentence for lewd or lascivious molestation against a person less than 12 years of age is lawful. A life sentence is required for a second or subsequent offense. The life sentence is not unlawful because his attorney stated that it was. Even if the trial court mistakenly believed it did not have sentencing discretion, a life sentence is still technically legal. Defendant may file a timely rule 3.850 motion. Negron-Espada v. State, 4D2025-2727 (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472127/opinion/Opinion_2025-2727.pdf

ERLINGER: Even assuming Erlinger applies, any error in this case is harmless. Gray v. State, 6D2024-1331 (11/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2472132/opinion/Opinion_2024-1331.pdf

HEALTH CARE FRAUD: Nurse practitioner who participated in a telemedicine business involving billing Medicare for durable medical equipment such as neck and knee braces for patients who were never seen and whose medical information had been obtained by telemarketers is properly convicted of Medicare fraud. USA v. Beaufils, No. 2022-13292 (11/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213292.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: When the defendant moves for a judgment of acquittal at the close of the government's case but fails to renew the motion after all of the evidence has been entered into the record, conviction will be reversed only where doing so is necessary to prevent a manifest miscarriage of justice. A manifest miscarriage of justice means either that the record is devoid of evidence of an essential element of the crime or that the evidence on a key element of the offense is so tenuous that a conviction would be shocking. USA v. Beaufils, No. 2022-13292 (11/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213292.pdf

CONSPIRACY: To prove conspiracy, the government has to establish (1) that a conspiracy existed; (2) that the defendant knew of it; and (3) that the defendant, with knowledge, voluntarily joined it. While direct evidence is ideal, circumstantial evidence will suffice. Testimony of a co-conspirator, even if uncorroborated, can be sufficient to support a conviction. Nurse practitioner who ordered orthotics for patients whom she had never spoken with or met, including knee braces for an amputee, as part of a fraudulent referral scheme is properly convicted of conspiracy to commit health care fraud. USA v. Beaufils, No. 2022-13292 (11/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213292.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTIONS: R. 30(b) requires trial court to inform the parties before closing arguments how it intends to rule on requested jury instructions. Court committed plain error when it failed to inform the parties of its intended ruling on the parties' joint request for a deliberate ignorance instruction, especially when it then did not give it, but error was harmless. Substantial compliance with Rule 30(b) is sufficient. Any potential prejudice arising out of Government's arguing deliberate ignorance is offset by Court's instruction that nothing the lawyers say is evidence "is not binding on you" emphasis that convictions had to be based on a finding of actual knowledge. The absence of the instruction arguably actually harmed the government by eliminating another potential guilt and thus did not prejudice Defendant. USA v. Beaufils, No. 2022-13292 (11/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213292.pdf

DELIBERATE IGNORANCE: The"ostrich defense" is a common phrase courts across the country use for deliberate ignorance. USA v. Beaufils, No. 2022-13292 (11/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213292.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-OBSTRUCTION: A defendant may obstruct or impede justice by committing perjury. For a district court to find a defendant perjured herself, the testimony must be: (1) made under oath or affirmation; (2) false; (3) material; and (4) given with the willful intent to provide false testimony and not as a result of a mistake, confusion, or faulty memory. Ordinarily, making a false statement to law enforcement officers without being under oath does not constitute perjury unless that materially false statement "significantly obstructed or impeded the official investigation or prosecution, but a specific and wholesale denial of the actual criminal acts during trial testimony may. USA v. Beaufils, No. 2022-13292 (11/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213292.pdf

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL: A defendant must file a motion for a new trial, on grounds other than newly discovered evidence, within 14 days after a verdict is returned. A district court may extend this deadline after it has already expired if the party failed to act because of excusable neglect. An attorney's failure to understand or review clear law cannot, as a categorical matter, constitute excusable neglect to relieve a party from the consequences of failing to comply with a statutory deadline. USA v. Beaufils, No. 2022-13292 (11/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213292.pdf

APPEAL-PRINCIPLE OF PARTY PRESENTATION: The principle of party presentation requires that the parties frame the issues for decision while the court serves as neutral arbiter. Courts call balls and strikes; they don't get a turn at bat. Transgression of the principle of party presentation deprives one side the chance to challenge a claim never asserted. Where Petitioner asserted only one claim in his federal habeas petition (that his counsel was ineffective for failing to investigate whether other jurors had been prejudiced by one juror's visit to the crime scene before deliberations), appellate court erred by granting relief based on other factors (a "combination of extraordinary failures from juror to judge to attorney"). Clark v. Sweeney, No. 25–52 (U.S. S. Ct. 11/24/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/25-52_4gd5.pdf

CONFRONTATION CLAUSE: Ordinarily, the Sixth Amendment's Confrontation Clause guarantees the defendant a face-to-face meeting with witnesses appearing before the trier of fact. In child-abuse cases, a court may screen a child witness from the defendant when necessary to protect the child from trauma that would be caused by testifying in the physical presence of the defendant, but before invoking this procedure, a court must hear evidence and make a case specific finding of the requisite necessity. Simply pointing to a state statute that authorizes screening will not suffice. A victims' rights provision in the state Constitution may authorize screening, but "true as all that may be, it is also irrelevant. When state law conflicts with the Federal Constitution, the latter controls...And under the Sixth Amendment, neither state screening statutes, nor the 'generalized finding[s]' on which they are premised, are enough to overcome a defendant's right to face-to-face confrontation." Pitts v. Mississippi, No. 24-1159 (U.S. S. Ct. 11/24/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-1159_k536.pdf

HARMLESS ERROR: Just because a constitutional error took place at trial does not necessarily mean a new one must be held. Even constitutional errors are sometimes subject to a harmless-error rule and do not require a new trial if the prosecution can show beyond a reasonable doubt that the error complained of did not contribute to the verdict obtained. Pints v. Mississippi, No. 24-1159 (U.S. S. Ct. 11/24/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/25pdf/24-1159_k536.pdf

SENTENCING-LPS: When the lowest permissible prison sentence under the Criminal Punishment Code exceeds the statutory cap for the individual offense, the lowest permissible prison sentence must be imposed. When the statutory maximum sentence exceeds the lowest permissible sentence under the code, the lowest permissible becomes the maximum sentence which the trial judge can impose. Harris v. State, 5D2024-1179 (11/21/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471935/opinion/Opinion_2024-1179.pdf

PRIOR PRECEDENT RULE-STARE DECISIS (J. MAKAR, DISSENTING): "The prior precedent rule (aka stare decisis) requires that no panel of an appellate court can overturn or circumvent precedent without the full court's approval via an en banc proceeding. Nothing is more deleterious to the stability of the rule of law than avoidance of this rule." Williams v. State, 5D2024-2334 (11/21/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471954/opinion/Opinion_2024-2334.pdf

SCRIVENER'S ERRORS-(J. MAKAR, DISSENTING): Clerical errors are correctable on appeal because no core judicial power is wielded; no judicial reasoning or determination occurs. Instead, rectifying this type of error merely corrects what is incontestable, thereby restoring what is unquestionably incorrect on the face of the appellate record. "It is perhaps the most modest exercise of judicial guidance imaginable; it has been a corrective mainstay for decades without opposition from anyone, including the State or the defense bar. No court has claimed it must sit on its hands and ignore these types of clerical errors, particularly those that benefit convicted criminals. Until now." Williams v. State, 5D2024-2334 (11/21/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471954/opinion/Opinion_2024-2334.pdf

APPEAL-EN BANC REVIEW-SCRIVENER'S ERROR (J. MAKAR, DISSENTING): En banc review should have been granted. The holding of a panel this case–that appellate courts lack authority in Anders appeals to correct clerical errors that favor criminal defendants—runs counter to precedent, prudent judicial practices, and clear legislative intent and has muddled precedent, thereby creating conflict and uncertainty in the law. "Our duty requires that panel decisions conform to the court's precedents, which can only be changed via the en banc process with participation by the full court's twelve members...Panels do not have the final say; the full court does. ...[A]ppellate panels are not freelancers exercising unconstrained judicial power." Williams v. State, 5D2024-2334 (11/21/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471954/opinion/Opinion_2024-2334.pdf

STARE DECISIS-EN BANC REVIEW (J. MAKAR, DISSENTING): "Decisional uniformity is immensely important, and not a mere velleity; it also stresses that the en banc process is a collective one, relying on us to work together as a whole to avoid fragmented jurisprudential outcomes by panels...Same facts + same issue = different outcome' is a recipe for decisional conflict...En banc review exists to ensure uniformity and reduce the serendipity of divergent outcomes from random appellate panel assignments. Williams v. State, 5D2024-2334 (11/21/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471954/opinion/Opinion_2024-2334.pdf

APPELLATE PANEL (J. MAKAR, DISSENTING): The formula to determine the number of possible three-judge panels on a twelve-member court is (12 x 11 x 10)/(1 x 2 x 3) = 220. Williams v. State, 5D2024-2334 (11/21/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471954/opinion/Opinion_2024-2334.pdf

PARTY PRESENTATION PRINCIPLE (J. MAKAR, DISSENTING): Appellate courts should generally stay in their lane and not become counsel for a party by raising unbriefed and unpreserved issues. That's the central premise of the party presentation principle, which says an appellate court should generally decide only those legal issues presented to it by the parties. Williams v. State, 5D2024-2334 (11/21/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471954/opinion/Opinion_2024-2334.pdf

MULTIPLE METAPHORS (J. MAKAR, DISSENTING): "Something's wrong with this picture...The closeness of the prior en banc votes, at a minimum, warranted that the panel seek en banc review so that the full court could have attempted to achieve a jurisprudential equilibrium from the outset versus having ongoing range wars in concurring and dissenting opinions down the road...We shouldn't be playing an intra-mural game of leapfrog, each panel deciding for itself which jurisprudential lily pad it wants to land upon...[M]ust this Court put on blinders, akin to the famous trial scene in Planet of the Apes, where judges turn a blind eye to the obvious?" Williams v. State, 5D2024-2334 (11/21/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471954/opinion/Opinion_2024-2334.pdf

CONSPIRACY AGAINST RIGHTS: The offense of conspiracy against rights covers a conspiracy to violate the Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances Act ("FACE Act") by vandalizing abortion clinics. Conspiracy to violate the FACE Act falls squarely within Section 241's prohibition against conspiracies to violate a "right" secured by the "laws of the United States." USA v. Oropesa, No. 25-10928 (11th Cir. 11/20/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202510928.pdf

RULES REGULATING BAR-AMENDMENT: The Florida Bar may extend the time to complete application requirements for board certification and recertification on request by the executive director or board of governors for good cause shown, such as floods, fires, hurricanes, war, riots, and civil strife. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Rules 6-3.5 and 6-3.6, No. SC2025-0017 (11/20/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471856/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0017.pdf

EVIDENCE-SODDI: Court properly excluded speculative evidence about an alternative suspect with a complicated relation to the victim where the alternative suspect had an alibi for the murder. USA v. Starr, No. 24-10131 (11th Cir. 11/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410131.pdf

HEARSAY-EXCITED UTTERANCE: Victim's statement to a third party after an earlier confrontation--"He's going to kill me."–is admissible as an excited utterance. While the declarant must still be under the stress or excitement that the startling event caused, the excited utterance need not be made contemporaneously to the startling event. USA v. Starr, No. 24-10131 (11th Cir. 11/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410131.pdf

HEARSAY: An out-of-court statement offered to show its effect on the listener isn't hearsay because it's not offered to prove the truth of the matter asserted. Officer may testify about a series of facts he learned to explain the next steps he took in investigating the case. USA v. Starr, No. . 24-10131 (11th Cir. 11/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410131.pdf

MURDER FOR HIRE: Murder for hire convictions may be based on circumstantial evidence. Circumstantial evidence is intrinsically no different from testimonial evidence. USA v. Starr, No. . 24-10131 (Cir. 11/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410131.pdf

THIRD PARTY PERPETRATOR (JORDAN, J., CONCURRING): "[T]he Supreme Court has said that a trial court can exclude a defendant's evidence regarding a third-party perpetrator if that evidence does not sufficiently connect the other person to the crime...This standard seems incorrect to me...One of the Supreme Court's 19th century cases explains that third-party perpetrator evidence can be excluded if it is 'so remote or insignificant as to have no legitimate tendency to show that [the third party] could have committed the murder,'...and to my mind this is a more correct statement of what the standard should be." USA v. Starr, No. 24-10131 (11th Cir. 11/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410131.pdf

STALKING: Several examples of acts which do not constitute stalking, such as staring at a woman while she sunbathes. [Editor's note: Yeah, but just don't do that. It's creepy.] Castano v. Vega, 3D25-0275 (11/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471791/opinion/Opinion_2025-0275.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant who had pled guilty can not assert claims for postconviction relief that attempt to go behind the plea. Aguila v. State, 3D25-0428 (11/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471792/opinion/Opinion_2025-0428.pdf

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE: To be guilty of unlawfully resisting an officer, an individual who flees must know of the officer's intent to detain him, and the officer must be justified in making the stop at the point when the command to stop is issued. E.B., a Juvenile v. State, 3D25-0489 (11/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471761/opinion/Opinion_2025-0489.pdf

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE: Defendant had apparent knowledge that the police were trying to detain him where a uniformed police officer yelled out, "Police!"; whereupon the defendant looked directly at the officer and ran. E.B., a Juvenile v. State, 3D25-0489 (11/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471761/opinion/Opinion_2025-0489.pdf

HFO/HVFO: Florida law prohibits imposing both HFO and HVFO sanctions. Only one recidivist category in §775.084 may be applied to any given criminal sentence. Munden v. State, 4D2023-0949 (11/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471757/opinion/Opinion_2023-0949.pdf

HFO/PRR: HVFO and PRR sentences must be of the same duration. A defendant cannot be sentenced as both an HFO and a PRR for the same crime unless the HFO sentence would be longer than the PRR sentence. Munden v. State, 4D2023-0949 (11/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471757/opinion/Opinion_2023-0949.pdf

EX POST FACTO-PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: For an offense prior to 2019, to satisfy the "released from" aspect of the PRR

definition based on release from "a state correctional facility operated by the Department of Corrections or a private vendor," a defendant must have been incarcerated in and physically released from a prison, and not a county facility operated by the local government. Applying the amended statute to Defendant subject to the 2016 version of Florida's PRR statute violates Ex Post Facto prohibition. Munden v. State, 4D2023-0949 (11/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471757/opinion/Opinion_2023-0949.pdf

DRUG COURT: A person is eligible for voluntary admission into a pretrial substance abuse education and treatment intervention program if he or shE is identified as having a substance abuse problem and is amenable to treatment, is charged with a nonviolent felony, is not also charged with a crime involving violence, has two or fewer felony convictions for nonviolent felonies. Court may not disapprove treatment based on State's objection absent evidence that Defendant fails to qualify. Laguerre v. State, 4D2025-2539 (11/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471779/opinion/Opinion_2025-2539.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Wilkes v. State, 4D2025-2659 (11/19/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471781/opinion/Opinion_2025-2569.pdf

INTERFERENCE WITH RIGHTS: 18 U.S.C. §245(b)(2)(B) applies when someone by force or threat of force willfully injures, intimidates or interferes with, or attempts to injure, intimidate or interfere with any person because of his race, color, religion or national origin and because he is or has been participating in or enjoying any benefit, service, privilege, program, facility or activity provided or administered by any State or subdivision thereof. Where Defendant shot and killed black jogger, the element of racial motivation can be shown by racial animus in the form of private conversations and racist posts on Facebook. USA v. Bryan, No. 22-12792 (11th Cir. 11/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212792.pdf

INTERFERENCE WITH RIGHTS: Jogging on the street constitutes participating in or enjoying any benefit, service, preference, program, facility or activity provided or administered by any State or subdivision thereof. The phrase "provided or administered" in the statute does not mean that a public entity has ownership or title over the facility. Rather, the ordinary meaning of the terms "provide" and "administer" applies if a state or political subdivision maintains the particular facility in a condition suitable for use. USA v. Bryan, No. 22-12792 (11th Cir. 11/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212792.pdf

ATTEMPTED KIDNAPPING: 18 U.S.C. § 1201(a) prohibits kidnapping when the offender uses an instrumentality of interstate or foreign commerce. Defendants' truck can be the instrumentality of interstate commerce. Automobiles are per se instrumentalities of interstate commerce. USA v. Bryan, No. 22-12792 (11th Cir. 11/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212792.pdf

KIDNAPPING: Under the kidnapping statute, the government needs to show that defendants kidnapped Victim"for ransom or reward or otherwise." "Or otherwise" includes any reason which would in any way be of benefit, including to gain some personal satisfaction by inflicting violence on a black man. USA v. Bryan, No. 22-12792 (11th Cir. 11/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212792.pdf

INSTRUMENTALITIES OF INTERSTATE COMMERCE: "[T]he Supreme Court has, at various times, called interstate highways 'instrumentalities' of interstate commerce....We concluded, however, that highways are best categorized 'as channels of commerce, since they are routes for the interstate transportation of people and goods.'" USA v. Bryan, No. 22-12792 (11th Cir. 11/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212792.pdf

INSTRUMENTALITIES OF INTERSTATE COMMERCE: Automobiles are per se instrumentalities of interstate commerce. "Were we to hold otherwise, as the dissent urges, by concluding that not all automobiles are instrumentalities of interstate commerce, we would create a strange mismatch wherein highways, unlike other channels of interstate commerce, are categorical 'channels" of interstate commerce without a corresponding, categorical 'instrumentality' used to access them." USA v. Bryan, No. 22-12792 (11th Cir. 11/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212792.pdf

INSTRUMENTALITIES OF INTERSTATE COMMERCE (J. CALVERT, DISSENTING IN PART): "[I]t is apparent that the defendants' use of a truck to chase and block Arbery does not align with Congress's intent when it added instrumentalities to §1201...[R]ather than a blanket rule for all automobiles, I would look at the specific use of the automobile and consider whether that use was consistent with the text of the statute, Congress's intent, and the limitations on Congress's ability to regulate commerce. Considering all of these factors, it is apparent that the defendants' use of a truck to drive and park on streets in a residential neighborhood was insufficient to confer jurisdiction under §1201(a).4. USA v. Bryan, No. 22-12792 (11th Cir. 11/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212792.pdf

SENTENCING-MAXIMUM SENTENCE: Where Defendant is convicted

ot two second degree felonies (15 years maximum) and the lowest permissible sentence under the guidelines is 17.3375 years, Court cannot impose concurrent sentences of 25 years followed by 5 years of probation. Each individual offense has its own maximum sentence. Thus, the lowest permissible sentence of 17.3375 years is both the minimum and maximum sentencing exposure on each count. Ramos v. State, 6D24-0171 (11/14/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471567/opinion/Opinion_2024-0171.pdf

POSSESSION: Defendant may be convicted of possession of and knowledge of the drugs where he was the driver and sole occupant of the vehicle in which the contraband was found, and the contraband was in his plain view and ready reach, notwithstanding his claim that he had no knowledge of the contraband and that other people were in the car earlier in the day. The jury is free to believe or disbelieve the defendant. Gibson v. State, 6D2024-1823 (11/14/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471573/opinion/Opinion_2024-1823.pdf

DEATH WARRANT-METHOD OF EXECUTION: Postconviction challenges to the method of execution must be raised within one year of when the capital defendant's conviction and sentence became final or within one year of when the facts were known or those that could not have been ascertained by the exercise of due diligence. Randolph v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2025-1723 (11/13/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471508/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1722%20&%20SC2025-1723.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: The compactness of the death warrant period (30 days) does not deprive the defendant of due process and right to counsel. Randolph v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2025-1723 (11/13/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471508/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1722%20&%20SC2025-1723.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-CLEMENCY: Death row prisoner is not entitled to rebut any factual findings by the clemency decision-maker, nor is he entitled to an updated clemency proceeding due to the amount of time that has passed since his earlier clemency investigation. Randolph v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2025-1723 (11/13/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471508/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1722%20&%20SC2025-1723.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant may not assert that trial counsel violated his Sixth Amendment rights by repeatedly conceding guilt without expressly obtaining his consent to that strategy until seven years after the claim could have first been raised. Randolph v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2025-1723 (11/13/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471508/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1722%20&%20SC2025-1723.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-CONCESSION OF GUILT: Counsel is not required to obtain the express consent of a defendant prior to conceding guilt. Randolph v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2025-1723 (11/13/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471508/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1722%20&%20SC2025-1723.pdf

ERLINGER: Prison Releasee Reoffender sentence affirmed without deciding the impact, if any, of Erlinger because any error was harmless. Relford v. State, 1D2024-1713 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471365/opinion/Opinion_2024-1713.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPEAL: Appellate counsel cannot be ineffective for failing to raise an issue on appeal when counsel identified the issue in an Anders brief on direct appeal). Lewis v. State, 1D2024-2563

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471375/opinion/Opinion_2024-2563.pdf

ARRAIGNMENT-WAIVER: Defendant's signature is not required on a waiver of presence at arraignment, and that the waiver is not required to be a separate, stand-alone document rather than a single document consolidated with the written plea of not guilty. Court improperly issues an FTA corpus when counsel had filed a written plea of not guilty and waived his client's defendant's presence at arraignment. See R. 3.180(a)(2) and 3.160(a). The filing of a written plea of not guilty waives not only the defendant's presence at arraignment, but waives the arraignment proceeding itself. Cilien v. State, 3D25-1911 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471405/opinion/Opinion_2025-1911.pdf

EVIDENCE: Court did not abuse its discretion in excluding evidence that co-defendant/victim's girlfriend had an argument with the victim a few days before the murder. The trial court possesses a large measure of discretion to determine whether the probative value of the evidence is substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice. Accordingly, if a defendant's purpose is to shift suspicion from himself to another person, evidence of past criminal conduct of that other at it would be admissible if that person were on trial for the present offense. Robinson v. State, 2023-1530 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471342/opinion/Opinion_2023-1530.pdf

EVIDENCE: Where Defendant murdered victim when he found his girlfriend with the victim to days after his release from jail, evidence that Defendant had been in jail was relevant and inextricably intertwined to establish the context out of which the charged crime arose. "While it may not have been the decision another judge may have made, it was not such that no reasonable judge would have reached the same conclusion as is required to find an abuse of discretion." Robinson v. State, 2023-1530 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471342/opinion/Opinion_2023-1530.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose the FDLE Operating Trust Fund costs of $100 per charge, pursuant to §938.055 without having included those costs in the court's oral pronouncement of sentence. Thevenin v. State, 4D2024-0919 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471343/opinion/Opinion_2024-0919.pdf

COLLATERAL CRIME EVIDENCE: Evidence of unlawful sexual acts on child victim outside the period charged in the information is admissible under §90.404(2). Koonce v. State, 4D2024-1016 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471346/opinion/Opinion_2024-1016.pdf

TIPSY COACHMAN: The tipsy coachman doctrine allows an appellate court to affirm a trial court that reaches the right result, but for the wrong reasons, so long as there is any basis which would support the judgment in the record. Koonce v. State, 4D2024-1016 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471346/opinion/Opinion_2024-1016.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-ERRONEOUS DEFINITION: The Court's use of the wrong definition of "sexual battery" is not fundamental error where Defendant's act violated the statute under both the old and the new versions. Koonce v. State, 4D2024-1016 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471346/opinion/Opinion_2024-1016.pdf

EVIDENCE: Evidence that the victim's mother did not seek child support from the defendant was highly relevant to the defendant's defense, which was that the mother and victim fabricated these allegations because the defendant and the victim's mother were involved in a nasty child custody battle and the mother was very unhappy with the defendant for seeking child support. Koonce v. State, 4D2024-1016 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471346/opinion/Opinion_2024-1016.pdf

JURY SELECTION-DEFENDANT'S ABSENCE: Where outside the presence of the Defendant and with the assent of counsel, a prospective juror expressed concern with her address being published if she were to be selected for the jury, no due process violation occurred. The prospective juror was dismissed for a cause unrelated to the matter discussed. Even if it were error for the trial court to have spoken with the juror outside of the defendant's presence, it was not reversible error. Koonce v. State, 4D2024-1016 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471346/opinion/Opinion_2024-1016.pdf

6 PERSON JURY: Sexual battery on a person less than twelve years of age is not a capital offense for purposes of determining whether the twelve person jury is required, because the Eighth Amendment to the United States Constitution prohibits a death sentence for capital sexual battery. "We need not decide now whether Hogan should be revisited in light of the 2023 amendment" [permitting the death penalty for capital sex battery]. Koonce v. State, 4D2024-1016 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471346/opinion/Opinion_2024-1016.pdf

FORFEITURE: A forfeiture proceeding consists of two stages: (1) the probable cause stage, where the seizing agency must establish probable cause to believe that the property at issue has been used in violation of the Forfeiture Act in order to justify the continued seizure of the property; and (2) the forfeiture trial, where the seizing agency must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the property has been used in violation of the Forfeiture Act, and must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the owner knew or should have known that the property was being used in criminal activity. Statute was changed in 2023, rendering precedents to the contrary inapplicable. Rodriguez v. Tony, 4D2024-1468 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471354/opinion/Opinion_2024-1468.pdf

COSTS: Court may not assess the "crimes against a minor" cost where the victim was not a minor. Gray v. State, 4D2024-2251 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471359/opinion/Opinion_2024-2251.pdf

RESENTENCING: Where case is remanded for resentencing based on defense counsel's failure to advise Defendant that he qualified for habitual offender sentencing, resulting in him rejecting a favorable plea offer, Court is not prohibited from rejecting the State's reoffer of 15 years and reimposing the original 30-year sentence. In "lost plea" situations, the trial court has discretion to accept the offer or leave the original sentence undisturbed. Key v. State, 4D2024-2536 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471394/opinion/Opinion_2024-2536.pdf

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Whether based on the language from McDonald, Heller, and Bruen excluding convicted felons from having protected Second Amendment rights, or whether based on the historical tradition of the Second Amendment, Florida law prohibiting felons from possessing firearms survives Second Amendment scrutiny." Carter v. State, 4D2025-0249 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471368/opinion/Opinion_2025-0249.pdf

PROHIBITED PRO SE FILINGS: "We recognize Johnson's filings are numerous. But in this instance, the instance that led to the sanction, Johnson presented a new claim based on Erlinger...We believe the claim was, at the time it was filed, colorable. As a result, we reverse the sanction imposed against Johnson. But we caution Johnson that future frivolous filings will not be tolerated." Johnson v. State, 4D2025-0402 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471369/opinion/Opinion_2025-0402.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: When an initial R. 3.850 motion is determined to be legally insufficient for failure to meet either the rule's or other pleading requirements, the trial court abuses its discretion when it fails to allow the defendant at least one opportunity to amend the motion. King v. State, 4D2025-0921 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471374/opinion/Opinion_2025-0921.pdf

BAKER ACT: To qualify as a "mental illness" under §394.455(29), an impairment of mental or emotional processes must affect a person's exercise of conscious control of one's actions or of the ability to perceive or understand reality and that impairment must also substantially interfere with the person's ability to meet the ordinary demands of living. In addition, there must be clear and convincing evidence that without treatment, the patient would pose a real and present threat of substantial harm to himself, or a substantial likelihood that in the near future he will inflict serious bodily harm on himself or another, as evidenced by recent behavior. Joseph v. State, 4D2025-1337 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471381/opinion/Opinion_2025-1337.pdf

BAKER ACT: Court may not impose involuntary inpatient placement based on a lack of self-care and a desire to not speak with hospital staff or otherwise submit to treatment. Joseph v. State, 4D2025-1337 (11/12/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471381/opinion/Opinion_2025-1337.pdf

JURISDICTION-STATEWIDE PROSECUTOR-VOTING: The Office of the Statewide Prosecutor lacks jurisdiction to prosecute Defendant whose alleged crime occurred only in a single circuit. Defendant who registered to vote in Hillsborough County on the mistaken belief that his voting rights have been restored pursuant to Florida Constitutional Amendment cannot be prosecuted by OSP because the registration is sent to Tallahassee. Conflict certified. Hart v. State, 2D2023-0493 (11/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471217/opinion/Opinion_2023-0493.pdf

CHILD HEARSAY: Child hearsay is admissible notwithstanding that the declarant is no longer a child at the time of the trial. §90.803(23) permits the admission of the eldest victim's child hearsay statements, regardless of her age at retrial, so long as she was under the age of sixteen when she made the statements. McCartney v. State, 2D2024-0642 (11/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471218/opinion/Opinion_2024-0642.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Regardless whether defense counsel was deficient in failing to object to State's invitation to find guilt without unanimity ("If half of you think that the State has proven the vaginal penetration and the other half thinks anal penetration beyond reasonable doubt, that's fine."), Defendant does not show prejudice where it is not reasonably probable that the outcome of the proceedings would have been different. Fundamental error is not the test for prejudice under Strickland. The likelihood of a different result must be substantial, not just conceivable. State v. Walker, 2D2024-1884 (11/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471220/opinion/Opinion_2024-1884.pdf

CATEGORICAL APPROACH: Under the categorical approach, if there is conduct that would violate the state law but fall outside of ACCA's serious drug offense definition, the state offense cannot serve as a predicate, regardless of the actual conduct that resulted in the defendant's conviction. Whether there is a mismatch here between federal and state law—making the ACCA enhancement inapplicable under the categorical approach—depends on when they occurred. When a sentencing court applies the categorical approach to determine whether an earlier state drug conviction qualifies as a serious drug offense, a court must look to the version of state law that applied at the time of the defendant's state drug offense, not at the time of his new federal offense. USA v. Miller, No. 23-13069 (11th Cir. 11/6/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313069.pdf

RULES-ADOPTION: Amendments to §90.404(2)(c), enacted July 1, 2011, and providing that evidence of the defendant's commission of other crimes, wrongs, or acts involving a sexual offense is admissible for its bearing on any matter to which it is relevant, are adopted to the extent that they are procedural. Re: Amendments to Florida Evidence Code, SC2025-0659 (11/6/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471158/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0659.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-R. 3.131: R. 3.131 is amended to create a new subdivision (f)(2), which states that the "court must revoke pretrial release for a person who commits a violation of section 843.23" (tampering with an electronic monitoring device while on pretrial release). In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure - 2025 Legislation, No. SC2025-1496 (11/6/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471160/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1496.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT: Sentencing points multipliers added for Aggravated Animal Cruelty and Fleeing and Eluding. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure - 2025 Legislation, No. SC2025-1496 (11/6/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471160/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1496.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-CAPITAL CASES: The terminology for capital cases is broadened consistent with the statutory expansion of the death penalty beyond first degree murder cases. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure - 2025 Legislation, No.

SC2025-1496 (11/6/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471160/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1496.pdf

HEARSAY-EXCITED UTTERANCE: In pimp's trial, statements of victim of sex trafficking/prostitution upon her arrest in reverse sting---she "did not even want to come on th[e] date and that she was forced to." and "Look, you can see my phone. I don't want to get anybody in trouble"–are admissible as excited utterances. USA v. Carter, No. 22-14116 (11th Cir. 11/5/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214116.pdf

CONFRONTATION: In pimp's trial, statements of victim of sex trafficking/prostitution upon her arrest in reverse sting--she "did not even want to come on th[e] date and that she was forced to." and "Look, you can see my phone. I don't want to get anybody in trouble." are non-testimonial because they came in response to an ongoing emergency and therefore do not violate the Sixth Amendment Confrontation clause. USA v. Carter, No. 22-14116 (11th Cir. 11/5/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214116.pdf

CONFRONTATION: Factors that suggest that a statement is nontestimonial include whether the statement was prompted by police questioning and whether the declarant was distressed when making the statement. USA v. Carter, No. 22-14116 (11th Cir. 11/5/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214116.pdf

INDICTMENT-CONSTRUCTIVE AMENDMENT: If an essential element of a charged offense is broadened beyond the indictment, then a constructive amendment occurs. Constructive amendments mandate reversal when the defendant properly objects to them. But if the defendant fails to object, appellate review is only for plain error. USA v. Carter, No. 22-14116 (11th Cir. 11/5/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214116.pdf

PLAIN ERROR: Plain error occurs if a party can show (1) error; (2) that is plain; (3) that affects his substantial rights; and (4) that seriously affects the fairness, integrity, or public reputation of judicial proceedings. The overarching consideration is whether the entire record suggests that it is likely that the jury would have convicted the defendant without the error. USA v. Carter, No. 22-14116 (11th Cir. 11/5/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214116.pdf

INDICTMENT-CONSTRUCTIVE AMENDMENT: Where indictment alleges transporting Adult Victim for her to engage in prostitution, Court constructively amends it by instructing the jury that it "is enough that one of the dominant purposes was prostitution or debauchery." But where the government's theory remained consistent throughout trial–that Defendant was a pimp who forced the Victims to perform sex work on his behalf–any asserted error, considered in isolation, by adding "debauchery" did not mislead the jury. USA v. Carter, No. 22-14116 (11th Cir. 11/5/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214116.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: Miranda warnings are not required unless the defendant is both in custody and under interrogation. Standard questioning by police of Defendant in his garage during a missing person investigation is noncustodial. Barrett v. State, 1D2023-2857 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471034/opinion/

Opinion_2023-2857.pdf

ERLINGER-PRR: Even if the court erred by failing to require a jury determination as to whether Defendant was released from prison within three years of committing his current offense, such error was harmless beyond a reasonable doubt. Lawson v. State,1D2023-3115 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471035/opinion/Opinion_2023-3115.pdf

FLEEING AND ELUDING-COUNTY LINE: In fleeing and eluding case, evidence that Defendant reached the speed of 127 miles after crossing into a neighboring county is admissible. The fact that Defendant traveled at 127 mph was relevant because it proved the high-speed/wanton disregard element of the fleeing to elude charge. State did not have to prove that each element was committed in the same county. If the acts constituting one offense are committed in two or more counties, the offender may be tried in any county in which any of the acts occurred. There is no requirement that the commission of each element take place in the county in which the defendant is charged. Johnson v. State, 1D2024-0912 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471041/opinion/Opinion_2024-0912.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in the law, it does not apply retrospectively. Any error was harmless when the trial court, rather than the jury, made the factual determinations necessary for Appellant to be sentenced as a prison releasee reoffender. Currie v. State, 1D2024-2884 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471051/opinion/Opinion_2024-2884.pdf

GAINTIME-EX POST FACTO: D.O.C.'s changed interpretation of §944.275, on incentive gain time violated prohibition on ex post facto laws. The Department violated the Ex Post Facto Clause when it changed its interpretation of the statute and removed gain time earned by minor offender convicted of murder whose life sentence was commuted to a term of years. Dixon v. Brown, 1D2025-1237 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471056/opinion/Opinion_2025-1237.pdf

APPEAL: Referencing a matter in a footnote does not elevate the matter to a point on appeal.[5] Dixon v. Brown, 1D2025-1237 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471056/opinion/Opinion_2025-1237.pdf

CANONS: "[T]he Department relies on several canons of statutory construction. For instance, the Department relies on the canons of verba cum effectu sunt accipienda...; the absurdity doctrine...; expressio unis est exclusio alterius...; and generalia specialibus non derogant[6]. Dixon v. Brown, 1D2025-1237 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471056/opinion/Opinion_2025-1237.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-AMENDMENT: A post hoc, extratextual source such as a subsequent amendment to a criminal statute, can no longer be a viable tool to derive textual meaning. Dixon v. Brown, 1D2025-1237 (11/5/25)

---

[5]Editor's Note: Yeah, but does saying in a footnote that "referencing a matter in a footnote does not elevate the matter to a point on appeal" elevate the footnote to a holding?

[6]See Cordelia Chase in Buffy, the Vampire Slayer, Season 3, Episode 8: "You're having too many or's! Pick one!"

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471056/opinion/Opinion_2025-1237.pdf

IT'S COMPLICATED (J. LONG, DISSENTING): "[W]e must guard against the tendency to overcomplicate the straightforward...[J]ust because we can read confusion into the statute, does not make the statute ambiguous." Dixon v. Brown, 1D2025-1237 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471056/opinion/Opinion_2025-1237.pdf

APPEAL: A trial court's ruling on a motion to suppress comes to the appellate court clothed with a presumption of correctness and the court must interpret the evidence and reasonable inferences and deductions derived therefrom in a manner most favorable to sustaining the trial court's ruling. State v. Clayton, 3D22-0665 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471063/opinion/Opinion_2022-0665.pdf

APPEAL-SYG: On review of trial court's order on motion to dismiss due to Stand Your Ground immunity, the trial court's factual findings are presumed correct and can be reversed only if they are not supported by competent substantial evidence. I.J., a Juvenile v. State, 3D2024-0711 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471070/opinion/Opinion_2024-0711.pdf

APPEAL-REVIEW: The trial court's findings that are based on hearing officer's live testimony are reviewed under the ordinary competent and substantial evidence standard. However, to the extent that the trial court's findings are based on viewing the bodycam footage, which the appellate court has also viewed, a much less deferential standard applies. Iglesias Torralba v. State, 3D24-1103 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471077/opinion/Opinion_2024-1103.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSENT: Consent to search may be in the form of conduct, gestures, or words. Iglesias Torralba v. State, 3D24-1103 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471077/opinion/Opinion_2024-1103.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: Under Richardson, when a discovery violation is alleged, the standard of appellate review is whether the trial court abused its discretion in determining if a violation occurred and if so, whether it was inadvertent, and not prejudicial to the preparation of the defense. Bissember v. State, 3D24-1533 (11/5/23)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471083/opinion/Opinion_2024-1533.pdf

VOP: An admission against interest is hearsay, standing alone, can suffice as proof of violation of a condition of probation because a defendant's admission, as opposed to statements by third parties, is not hearsay. Ware v. State, 3D24-2001 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471084/opinion/Opinion_2024-2001.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF/HABEAS CORPUS: A petition for a writ of habeas corpus alleging ineffective assistance of appellate counsel fails with prejudice where it contains conclusory allegations, was filed more than three years after the judgment and sentence were affirmed on direct appeal, and fails to sufficiently invoke any exception to the two-year window contained in Fla.R.App.P. 9.141(d)(5). Barrett v. State, 3D25-1517 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471093/opinion/Opinion_2025-1517.pdf

VOP-JURISDICTION: Where Court did not issue a notice to appear until after the expiration of the term of probation it no longer has subject matter jurisdiction. The clerk-issued praecipe does not function as a notice to appear and is not satisfactory to capture jurisdiction. §948.06(1)(b) states that the trial judge must issue the required notice to appear rather than the clerk. VOP: Tolling of a probationary period requires two steps: 1) a filing of an affidavit, and 2) the issuance of either a) a warrant, b) a warrantless arrest or c) notice to appear. It was the explicit intent of the legislature for the committing trial court judge to be the actor in issuing the notice to appear. Segovia v. State, 3D25-1843 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471098/opinion/Opinion_2025-1843.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Summary denial of a successive postconviction motion is appropriate where every issue raised is either successive, time barred, waived, or should have been raised by direct appeal. Walker v. State, 3D25-1907 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471095/opinion/Opinion_2025-1907.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-COMMUNITY CARE DOCTRINE: Stop of Defendant was lawful where his daughter had called 911 to report that her father left the house drunk and took her two younger siblings in the vehicle with him and her cellphone tracking technology traced him to a McDonald's restaurant. A permissible stop for a welfare check falls outside of the Fourth Amendment's scope under the community caretaking doctrine. It was not unreasonable for the officer to block the defendant's vehicle to ensure the defendant would not drive away before the officer could accurately and completely determine the children were

safe. Leiby v. State, 4d2024-2490 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471066/opinion/Opinion_2024-2490.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to an evidentiary hearing hearing on claim that he rejected the plea offer based on counsel failing to advise him that the guidelines would require him to be sentenced to 182.25 months in prison (in excess of the 15 year statutory maximum) if convicted at trial. The fact that he had known he "scored a little over fifteen years" when he rejected the plea offer does not refute his claim that he did not know the trial court would be required to impose that sentence. Millien v. State, 4D2025-1292 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471071/opinion/Opinion_2025-1292.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Jefferson v. State, 4D2025-2543 (11/5/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2471079/opinion/Opinion_2025-2543.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: A district court's denial of a claim of qualified immunity, to the extent that it turns on an issue of law, is an appealable final decision within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. §1291 notwithstanding the absence of a final judgment. Aguirre-Jarquin v. Seminole County, No. 23-10811 (11th Cir. 11/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310811.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: To defeat an official's qualified immunity claim, a plaintiff must establish that (1) the defendant violated a constitutional right, and (2) this right was clearly established at the time of the alleged violation. To be clearly established, the contours of a right must be sufficiently clear such that every reasonable officer would have understood his conduct to violate that right. Aguirre-Jarquin v. Seminole County, No. 23-10811 (11th Cir. 11/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310811.pdf

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION: The gravamen of a malicious-prosecution claim is that a Fourth Amendment violation occurs when legal process itself goes wrong and extends to seizures based on warrants or seizures which are defective due to constitutional infirmities. Aguirre-Jarquin v. Seminole County, No. 23-10811 (11th Cir. 11/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310811.pdf

SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY: Officers are not immunized from statutory immunity from suit for Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress where they acted in bad faith or with malicious purpose or in a manner exhibiting wanton and willful disregard of human rights, safety, or property, but suspects have no right to an error-free investigation of exculpatory leads. Officers have qualified immunity where they erroneously focus on innocent suspect for whom probable cause existed (and who spent 14 years on death row before exoneration) while overlooking evidenced implicating the actual killer. Aguirre-Jarquin v. Seminole County, No. 23-10811 (11th Cir. 11/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310811.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY-LATENT PRINT REPORT: Constitutional due process is implicated when a state law enforcement officer offers false inculpatory evidence that the State uses to incriminate a suspect. A latent print examiner does not have qualified immunity for fabricating inculpatory palm print reports where obvious misidentification of prints occurred. "[I]t is unlawful for a law enforcement officer to falsely create or falsely attest to the existence of incriminating evidence...[P]urposeful failure to properly verify the results of a positive comparison is not mere error or overconfidence in expressing a forensic conclusion; it is the absence of a step required to report incriminating forensic evidence. Any intentional transmittal to investigators of a positive identification without this step would thus be a fabrication of a forensic result." Aguirre-Jarquin v. Seminole County, No. 23-10811 (11th Cir. 11/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310811.pdf

FILLED PAUSE: "A filled pause is a hesitation, between speaker turns, or within a turn, during which the speaker makes an utterance that is not subject-specific and is not responsive to or encouraging of another's speech. Filled pauses are sometimes words (you know, well, like) and sometimes not (ur, uhm, uh)." Aguirre-Jarquin v. Seminole County, No. 23-10811 (11th Cir. 11/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310811.pdf

LACHES: To establish laches, the government must show (1) a delay in asserting a right or a claim, (2) that the delay was not excusable, and (3) that it caused the government undue prejudice. USA v. Prime, No. 23-13776 (11th Cir. 11/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313776.pdf

OOPS-LACHES: Four years later, Defendant is not entitled to return (or replacement of the contents) of an orange external hard drive, now destroyed, with cryptographic keys necessary to access substantial cryptocurrency where at least three times before he had represented that he owned very little bitcoin. "We have little difficulty concluding that the government would not have destroyed the hard drive if it had thought that it contained millions of dollars in bitcoin. But now that the hard drive is destroyed, the government cannot return it. To the extent that the bitcoin ever existed (and we have our doubts), the government would now have to find and hand over almost 3,443 replacement bitcoin to make Prime whole. That is prejudice in anyone's book—now to the tune of over $345 million…The sum of it is this: Because Prime's inexcusable delay prejudiced the government, laches bars his claim." USA v. Prime, No. 23-13776 (11th Cir. 11/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313776.pdf

VOP: Court must enter an order identifying the conditions of Child violated. J.R.M.-T. v. State, 6D2024-1559 (11/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470908/opinion/Opinion_2024-1559.pdf

OCTOBER 2025

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Court may summarily deny a legally sufficient R. 3.850 motion alleging ineffective assistance of counsel only where the question can be conclusively resolved either as a matter of law or by reliance upon the records in the case. If the latter, a copy of that portion of the files and records that conclusively shows that the defendant is entitled to no relief shall be attached to the final order. Without attached records, the reviewing court has no way of knowing whether, for example, any errors committed by trial counsel were "harmless" or that guilt was "overwhelming." Williams v. State, 5D2025-2353 (10/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470875/opinion/Opinion_2025-2353.pdf

INFORMATION-AMENDMENT: In DUI case, Court erred in allowing the State to amend the information after the close of evidence to change the make of one of the damaged vehicles from a "Red Corolla" to a "Red Toyota", then later again changed "Red Corolla" to "Red Toyota Corolla" (two of the eight damaged vehicles were Toyotas). Once a trial commences, the State cannot amend the information without leave of court, and the court cannot grant leave to amend the information during trial if doing so would prejudice the substantial rights of the defendant. The State has the burden of proof to show lack of prejudice. "It is hard to imagine more obvious prejudice to the substantial rights of a defendant than the defendant being wholly prevented from mounting a defense to a new charge made against her." Raber v. State, 6D2023-2423 (10/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470897/opinion/Opinion_2023-2423.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: A conviction for simple DUI and DUI with property damage based on the same conduct violates the prohibition against double jeopardy. DUI is a continuing offense for which only one conviction may be maintained for each episode. [Note: Defendant still ended up with two convictions for DUI, though. I think. It's kind of confusing]. Raber v. State, 6D2023-2423 (10/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470897/opinion/Opinion_2023-2423.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: A violation of double jeopardy constitutes fundamental error that may be raised for the first time on appeal. For double jeopardy protection to apply the offenses must be the same in law and in fact. There is no constitutional prohibition against multiple punishments for different offenses arising out of the same criminal transaction. Where Defendant had collided into two vehicles driving in front of her, then put her vehicle into reverse, accelerated, and collided with a third vehicle, pushing it into two parked cars and ended up damaging a total of eight vehicles, the evidence at trial showed no temporal break in Defendant's driving sufficient for her to reflect and form a new intent to commit a separate act of driving under the influence, so multiple convictions violate Double Jeopardy. Raber v. State, 6D2023-2423 (10/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470897/opinion/Opinion_2023-2423.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-DUI: Since a conviction of DUI with property damage explicitly requires that the defendant committed the offense of simple DUI, Double Jeopardy/Blockburger preclude multiple convictions. Raber v. State, 6D2023-2423 (10/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470897/opinion/Opinion_2023-2423.pdf

COSTS: The $33 assessment for "Certain Traffic Offense Court Cost," pursuant to §§318.17 and 318.18 do not apply to DUI convictions. Raber v. State, 6D2023-2423 (10/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470897/opinion/Opinion_2023-2423.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Discretionary denials of downward departure sentences are appealable. Rabelo v. State, 6D2024-0029 (10/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470893/opinion/Opinion_2024-0029.pdf

APPEAL: "When a decision is based on more than one independent ground and the initial brief challenges only one, we must affirm. Orange County, Florida v. Kennedy, 6D2024-2647 (10/31/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470894/opinion/Opinion_2024-2647.pdf

DEPORTATION-STARE DECISIS: Alien convicted under Florida law of child neglect without causing great bodily harm is deportable under INA, which makes child neglect deportable, because the federal child neglect statute does not require great bodily harm. Prior precedent is binding, notwithstanding that it is based on a Supreme Court opinion (Chevron) which was later overruled (Loper Bright). Bastias v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 21-11416 (11th Cir. 10/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202111416.rem.pdf

DEPORTATION-STARE DECISIS (J. NEWSOM): "I concur...There's no easy way to put this, but in capsule form, here's why: In Pierre,... applying the principles enunciated in Chevron,...overruled by Loper Bright Enters...we accepted the Board of Immigration Appeals' interpretation of the phrase 'crime of child abuse,'...to include a state-law offense involving criminally negligent conduct that constitutes maltreatment but doesn't cause physical injury...The only truly difficult question, in my mind—and I do find it difficult—is whether Pierre remains good law, despite the facts (1) that it specifically grounded its interpretive analysis in Chevron and (2) that the Supreme Court expressly overruled Chevron in Loper Bright Enterprises...Counterintuitive though the conclusion may be, I believe that we remain bound by Pierre. Bastias v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 21-11416 (11th Cir. 10/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202111416.rem.pdf

DEPORTATION-STARE DECISIS-PRIOR PRECEDENT RULE (J. NEWSOM): A prior panel's holding is binding on all subsequent panels unless and until it is overruled or undermined to the point of abrogation by the Supreme Court or the appellate court sitting en banc. "We haven't overruled or abrogated Pierre en banc. (Yet—more on that in a bit.) The more pertinent question is whether the Supreme Court's decision in Loper Bright did so. It's a close call, but I don't think it did." The Supreme Court overruled Chevron, but it did so only on a prospective basis; the Court expressly did not call into question prior cases that relied on the Chevron framework. The "holdings" of those cases remain good law and are entitled to stare decisis effect. Bastias v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 21-11416 (11th Cir. 10/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202111416.rem.pdf

DEPORTATION-STARE DECISIS-CATEGORICAL APPROACH (J. NEWSOM): The state-law offense to which Bastias pleaded guilty is a categorical match for, and thus qualifies as, a "crime of child abuse" under the binding, Pierre-approved interpretation of that phrase as used in §1227(a)(2)(E)(I). Bastias v. U.S. Attorney General, No. 21-11416 (11th Cir. 10/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202111416.rem.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-MOTION TO DISMISS: Effective July 13, 2026, R. 3.190 rewritten to require that a motion to dismiss must be filed by the deadline set by the trial judge or the motion will be dismissed, unless the defendant demonstrates good cause for the delay or that the grounds raised are fundamental. Additionally, the subdivisions discussing motions to suppress evidence and motions to suppress statements are combined into one subdivision. Any traverse or demurrer be filed at least two days before any hearing on a motion to dismiss. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.190, No. SC2024-0839 (10/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470825/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0839.pdf

ANDERS BRIEF-SELF-REPRESENTATION: When appellate court issues a supplemental briefing order and the appellant adopts the issue it raised–whether the trial court's efforts to protect Defendant's right to court-appointed counsel impermissibly interfered with his right to self-representation--, it still must affirm and deny rehearing when the appellant's supplemental brief is unable to provide an adequate legal or factual basis for reversal. "Ash's rehearing motion goes so far as to suggest that making the argument raised by our supplemental briefing order may have been a violation of the Rules Regulating the Florida Bar." Ash v. State, 1D2022-1163 (10/29/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470694/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

ANDERS BRIEF-SELF-REPRESENTATION (J. WINOKUR, DISSENTING): The purpose of Anders is to ensure that a defendant is afforded his right to have his conviction subjected to meaningful adversarial testing, even when appellate counsel finds no appealable issues in the record. "The rules of procedure state that we are required to order briefing when we discover an issue that is 'arguable'; we are not limited to issues that we consider 'meritorious.'...[I]t appears...that the majority finds that the issue raised in the Causey order...required briefing on a frivolous (or non-arguable) issue...I disagree. The question of whether the trial court improperly interfered with Ash's constitutional right to represent himself is not a frivolous one." Ash v. State, 1D2022-1163 (10/29/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470694/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

NON-JURY TRIAL-NO JAIL: Where Court fails to enter a written order pursuant to §27.512 that indigent Defendant would not be incarcerated after trial and the record is silent as to whether Defendant was indigent, a new trial is required. "We recognize the overwhelming volume of our county court dockets, but recommend that the court double-check for timely entry of an order certifying no incarceration or ineligibility for appointment of counsel based on indigency before beginning any bench trial without the assistance of counsel. Osorio v. State, 3D23-1037 (10/29/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470745/opinion/Opinion_2023-1037.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: Miranda warnings apply only to in-custody interrogation. Defendant is not in custody when asked about his expired driver license or whether he had any weapons in the vehicle. State v. Poke, 3D24-0657 (10/29/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470753/opinion/Opinion_2024-0657.pdf

VOP: When revoking probation, Court must enter a written order staying the reasons. Gibson v. State, 3D24-1770 (10/29/23)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470752/opinion/Opinion_2024-1770.pdf

VOP-VFOSC: If the court determines that a violent felony offender of special concern has committed a violation of probation other than a failure to pay costs, fines, or restitution, the court must make written findings as to whether or not Defendant poses a danger to the community. Written findings are mandatory; failure to comply §948.06(8) is not harmless error. Gibson v. State, 3D24-1770 (10/29/23)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470752/opinion/Opinion_2024-1770.pdf

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: State can establish the control element of possession through independent proof, such as fingerprints, an admission, or evidence of other incriminating statements or circumstances, such as Defendant's negotiation with undercover police the night before crack cocaine was found in his jointly-occupied hotel room. Slocum v. State, 3D24-2209 (10/29/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470756/opinion/Opinion_2024-2209.pdf

VOP-APPEAL-WRITTEN ORDER: Where Court did not enter its written revocation order until after Defendant had filed his notice of appeal, it retains jurisdiction to issue a written order which conforms to its oral pronouncement after a notice of appeal has been filed. In such case, Defendant should file a motion to correct sentencing error in the trial court and a notice of pending motion to correct sentencing error in the appellate court. Slocum v. State, 3D24-2209 (10/29/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470756/opinion/Opinion_2024-2209.pdf

EXTRADITION: Where Defendant who had bonded out in Mississippi, was arrested on a Florida warrant, and once in Florida waived extradition rights to Mississippi, he is not enitled to a Writ of Habeas Corpus when Mississippi delays picking him up for FTA. Even absent the waiver, the ninety-day statutory limit on detention does not run while a fugitive subject to extradition is being prosecuted locally. Johnson v. State, 3D25-1841 (10/29/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470762/opinion/Opinion_2025-1841.pdf

COSTS OF SUPERVISION: Court may not impose probation supervision costs in excess of $40 per month for a misdemeanor unless an evidentiary hearing is held. See §948.09(1)(b). King v. State, 4D2024-1060 (10/29/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470729/opinion/Opinion_2024-1060.pdf

MOOTNESS: As a general rule, a sentence cannot be challenged after it has been fully served and has expired because any sentencing issue is moot thereafter. Redmond v. State, 2D2024-0560 (10/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470547/opinion/Opinion_2024-0560.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-PROBABLE CAUSE: Defendant is entitled to release on his own recognizance on charge of violation of an ordinance for vagrancy where the ordinance requires that before arrest, a homeless person must first be offered and refuse shelter, but the arrest affidavit gives no indication that the arresting officer offered shelter or that Defendant refused such offer. The requirement to offer shelter is not an affirmative defense; it is a condition precedent to arrest. Stafford v. Green, 3D25-2036 (10/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470626/opinion/Opinion_2025-2036.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Where Court summarily denies a R. 3.850 claim and fails to attach a copy of portion of the files and records that conclusively show that the defendant is not entitled to relief, the proper remedy is to remand the matter back to the trial court to attach the records or to set the matter for an evidentiary hearing. Klug v. State, 5D2024-1779 (10/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470554/opinion/Opinion_2024-1779.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to advise him to accept a plea offer. Klug v. State, 5D2024-1779 (10/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470554/opinion/Opinion_2024-1779.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: Court may not impose a $150 cost of prosecution absent evidence supporting a cost greater than $100. Hunt v. State, 5D2024-3399 (10/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470567/opinion/Opinion_2024-3399.pdf

NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE-DEMORGAN'S THEOREM: Rule barring postconviction relief for newly discovered evidence after two years applies where the newly discovered fact was unknown to both the movant and the movant's attorney. Rule 3.850(b)(1) provides that a motion may not be filed more than two years after the judgment and sentence become final unless "the facts on which the claim is predicated were unknown to the movant or the movant's attorney. "[W]e are readily aware that 'or' is a disjunctive term, but according to De Morgan's theorem, when it is used after a negative, both of the listed items are negated. This singular-negation effect, forbidding doing anything listed, occurs when the disjunctive or is used after a word such as not or without...At the risk of oversimplifying the theorem, the 'or' should be read as an 'and' because [rule 3.850(b)(1)] requires proof of a negative." Gadson v. State, 5D2025-1267 (10/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470575/opinion/Opinion_2025-1267.pdf

DEMORGAN'S THEOREM: Under DeMorgan's Theorem the denial of the alternation [not (A or B)] is equivalent to the conjunction of the denials [not A and not B]. Gadson v. State, 5D2025-1267 (10/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470575/opinion/Opinion_2025-1267.pdf

DICTA: No decision is authority on any question not raised and considered, although it may be involved in the facts of the case. Issues, even jurisdictional issues, lurking in the record but not addressed do not bind the court in later cases. Gadson v. State, 5D2025-1267 (10/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470575/opinion/Opinion_2025-1267.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant filed for postconviction relief under Fla.R.Civ.P. 1.540, alleging that his counsel had testified falsely in an earlier 3.850 hearing, the Court should have treated the civil action as a 3.850 and applied the latter rule's 2-year limit, not the former's 1-year limit. Postconviction relief proceedings, while technically classified as civil actions, are actually quasi-criminal in nature because they are heard and disposed of by courts with criminal jurisdiction. The denomination "civil" is used merely to indicate that the action is not one brought in the proceeding initiated by the State alleging criminal actions. Caraballo v. State, 6D2024-2591 (10/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470589/opinion/Opinion_2024-2591.pdf

RICO: To establish a RICO conspiracy, the government must prove that the defendants objectively manifested, through words or actions, an agreement to participate in the conduct of the affairs of the enterprise through the commission of two or more predicate crimes. An enterprise need not be a legal entity such as a corporation or partnership; it may also be a group of persons associated together for a common purpose of engaging in a course of conduct. USA v. Green, No. 24-10657 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

RICO: An enforcer who murders for a local chapter of a national gang that operates under a pyramid-like structure (the Gangster Disciples) is subject to RICO prosecution for his ties to the national gang. USA v. Green, No. 24-10657 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

WIRETAP: An interception occurs both where the wiretapped phone is located and where a listener first hears the communications. A Georgia wiretap in Georgia is valid notwithstanding that data first traveled through the telephone switch in parts unknown and then traveled to Virginia before making its way to Georgia; because the calls were first listened to in Georgia. USA v. Green, No. 24-10657 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

CONFRONTATION: A jailhouse letter written by a co-defendant and implicating the Defendant is not testimonial, and therefore is not excludable under the Confrontation Clause. USA v. Green, No. 24-10657 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

HEARSAY: A jailhouse letter written by a co-defendant and implicating the Defendant is not hearsay because it is a statement made by the party's coconspirator during and in furtherance of the conspiracy is not hearsay where the co-defendant had not withdrawn from the conspiracy. Neither arrest nor confinement shows withdrawal because it is not an affirmative action nor does it communicate anything to the other members of the conspiracy. A mere cessation of activity in the conspiracy is not enough; a conspirator who sits idly by—even in a jail cell—has not withdrawn. Nor does providing a largely but not completely true proffer (one which omits revealing who shot the two victims) constitute withdrawal. USA v. Green, No. 24-10657 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

EVIDENCE: The standard for what constitutes relevant evidence is a low one. Photos of ballistic vests and armored plates belonging to the criminal gang's enforcement team are admissible and not unduly prejudicial for leading the jury to infer that Defendant used those items to carry out dangerous enforcement team tasks like the murders attributed to him. "Green says it was 'unfair and misleading' for the government to have introduced those photos, because it could have 'lure[d]' the jury into finding that 'Green [was] engaged in unlawful violence.'...The government presented a mountain of evidence that established that Green did in fact engage in unlawful violence...[T]he evidence did not mislead the jury—it just led the jury to a conclusion that Green did not prefer." USA v. Green, No. 24-10657 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

CONTINUANCE: Defendant who used delay tactics of routinely disrupting proceedings and insisting on making frivolous "sovereign citizen" arguments is not entitled to a continuance for late-appointed counsel to prepare. "Although Chambers's stand-by counsel had little time to prepare for the case, that circumstance was created—indeed, invited by—Chambers's 'manipulative conduct and his repeated insistence on representing himself' until the last possible moment...All Chambers can do is point to the difficulty his counsel had in wading through the pile of evidence pointing to his guilt. He supplies no reason for this Court to believe that the outcome of his trial would have been different had the district court granted his motion for a continuance." USA v. Chambers, No. 24-11301 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

ANONYMOUS JURY: Court did not commit fundamental error by failing to give a precautionary instruction to the jury to explain why it used numbers in stead of names for juror identification, and why it had jurors transported to the courthouse from an off-site location each day. USA v. Chambers, No. 24-11301 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

SHACKLES: No error, plain or not, in shackling Defendant where the shackles were not visible to the jury. USA v. Chambers, No. 24-11301 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

CONCURRENT SENTENCE DOCTRINE: The concurrent sentence doctrine applies to a challenge to a sentence that runs concurrent with or consecutive to a valid life sentence. This doctrine provides that, if a defendant is given concurrent sentences on several counts and the conviction on one count is found to be valid, an appellate court need not consider the validity of the convictions on the other counts. "As its name suggests, the concurrent sentence doctrine usually applies when a defendant challenges a sentence that runs concurrent to, and is shorter than or equal to, another lawful sentence. But it applies just the same to a defendant...who is contesting a sentence that runs consecutive to a life sentence....So if a defendant is sentenced to life on at least one count, and a term of years (or life) on another count, it makes no difference whether the term of years (or another term of life) runs concurrent with or consecutive to the term of life. Either way, the defendant will never leave prison." USA v. Chambers, No. 24-11301 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

CONCURRENT SENTENCE DOCTRINE: Where Defendant carried but did not discharge a firearm, Court erroneously sentenced Defendant to two consecutive life sentences plus a consecutive ten-year sentence instead of two consecutive life sentences plus a consecutive five-year sentence, the error was harmless because his term of imprisonment would not change. USA v. Chambers, No. 24-11301 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

SENTENCING-MERGED COUNTS: Court has discretion to merge Defendant's Use of a Firearm to Cause the Death of Another Person conviction into his Violent Crimes in Aid of Racketeering (VICAR) murder conviction to avoid any Double Jeopardy problem, resulting in a mandatory life sentence. "In any event, even if the district court erred..., any error was harmless... Again, it will make no difference to Chambers whether he serves one or two life sentences, or life plus a term of years; he will be incarcerated until his death." USA v. Chambers, No. 24-11301 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Defendant cannot be convicted of both Violent Crimes in Aid of Racketeering (VICAR) murder and Use of a Firearm to Cause the Death of Another Person and Violent Crimes in Aid of Racketeering (VICAR) murder. USA v. Chambers, No. 24-11301 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

RESTITUTION: Defendant may be require to pay restitution for lost income for attending the trial to the family of homicide victim. USA v. Chambers, No. 24-11301 (11th Cir. 10/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410657.pdf

AMENDMENTS-RULES-R. 3.992: 1.25 multiplier for Aggravated Animal Cruelty and a 1.5 multiplier for Fleeing or Attempting to Elude or Aggravated Fleeing or Eluding. Other tweaks, i.e. "we amend the title for subdivision (b), section II. to "ADDITIONAL OFFENSE(S)" instead of "ADDITIONAL OFFENSES(S)." In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.992, SC2025-1036 (10/23/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470506/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1036.pdf

VOP: A VOP affidavit need only allege the basic facts and need not be set forth with the specificity required in criminal indictments and informations. Reddick v. State, 1D2024-0612 (10/22/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470194/opinion/Opinion_2024-0612.pdf

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: Fundamental error is one that reaches down into the validity of the trial itself to the extent that a verdict of guilty could not have been obtained without the assistance of the alleged error. Castillo v. State, 3D23-1883 (10/22/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470133/opinion/Opinion_2023-1883.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-MOTION: R. 3.801(d) expressly prohibits a trial court from considering a successive motion for jail credit. Icon v. State, 3D25-0772 (10/22/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470181/opinion/Opinion_2025-0772.pdf

VOP-NO INCARCERATION: Once a county court has ordered that a defendant will not be incarcerated and denied that defendant a jury trial based on that commitment pursuant to §918.0157, it may not later impose incarceration for a violation of probation. Barrett v. State, 3D25-0860 (10/22/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470190/opinion/Opinion_2025-0860.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A legally insufficient motion for postconviction relief should be denied without prejudice to allow leave to amend. Court's order should allow the defendant 60 days to amend the motion. Hernandez Sarmiento v. State, 3D25-1060 (10/22/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470195/opinion/Opinion_2025-1060.pdf

MOTION TO CORRECT: Defendants are not permitted to raise more than one R. 3.800(a) Motion to Correct Illegal Sentence. Ravon v. State, 3D25-1206 (10/22/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470201/opinion/Opinion_2025-1206.pdf

BAKER ACT: The state has the burden to establish the criteria for involuntary placement set out in §394.467 by clear and convincing evidence. The mere fact of mental illness is insufficient justification for involuntary commitment. P.B. v. State, 4D2025-0118 (10/22/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470172/opinion/Opinion_2025-0118.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Wilson v. State, 4D2025-2342 (10/22/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2470178/opinion/Opinion_2025-2342.pdf

IVORY SMUGGLING: The antique and de minimis exceptions to the criminal prohibition of importation of African ivory does not absolve one of the obligation to declare the possession of ivory upon entry into the United States. Defendant is not relieved of his obligation to declare statues containing ivory simply because they may have qualified for one of the two import/export exceptions. Evidence about either exception is inadmissible. USA v. Martinez, No. 23-10848 (11th Cir. 10/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310848.pdf

EVIDENCE-RULE OF COMPLETENESS: If a party introduces all or part of a writing or recorded statement, an adverse party may require the introduction, at that time, of any other part—or any other writing or recorded statement—that in fairness ought to be considered at the same time. The rule does not automatically make the entire document admissible, only such additional material that is relevant and is necessary to qualify, explain, or place into context the portion already introduced. Court does not err in excluding those parts of his statement in which he asserts the antique or de minimis nature of the smuggled items. USA v. Martinez, No. 23-10848 (11th Cir. 10/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310848.pdf

OBSTRUCTION: In ivory smuggling case, asking a witness to misrepresent what an invoice was for is obstruction of justice. USA v. Martinez, No. 23-10848 (11th Cir. 10/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310848.pdf

ARGUMENT: Government's closing argument that "the Defendant is no longer presumed innocent. The Defendant stands before you guilty as charged" is improper and plain error. The presumption of innocence, although not articulated in the Constitution, is a basic component of our system of criminal. The presumption of innocence is undoubted law, axiomatic and elementary, and its enforcement lies at the foundation of the administration of our criminal law. The presumption of innocence disappears only when a verdict of guilty, supported by substantial evidence, is returned against the defendant. But error is harmless. USA v. Martinez, No. 23-10848 (11th Cir. 10/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310848.pdf

APPEAL-ABANDONED ISSUE: An appellant abandons an issue when he includes only passing references to it and makes no argument and cites no authorities in support. USA v. Martinez, No. 23-10848 (11th Cir. 10/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310848.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to postconviction relief based on an improper communication with a bailiff; a juror asked if they could ask questions and the bailiff said no. The matter of the communication was addressed during the trial. Neither ineffectiveness not prejudice are shown. Jasper v. State, 2D2023-2721 (10/17/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2467351/opinion/Opinion_2023-2721.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: Court may not impose a $50 Cost of Investigation not requested by State. The State must request investigative costs to make a defendant liable for those costs. McClain v. State, 5D2024-2955 (10/17/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2467345/opinion/Opinion_2024-2955.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Where Defendant files a facially insufficient motion to correct credit for time served, Court must allow him the opportunity to amend his motion. Stokes v. State, 5D2025-0894 (10/17/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2467348/opinion/Opinion_2025-0894.pdf

GUIDELINES-VALUE CALCULATION-ART: Court may use Defendant's asking price as the value of smuggled artwork for guidelines calculations. USA v. Martinez, No. 23-10848 (11th Cir. 10/17/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310848.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: The Fourth Amendment prohibits warrantless entry into a home, absent a few jealously and carefully drawn exceptions, such as exigency or consent. Dukes v. Sheriff of Levy County, Florida, No. 24-10014 (11th Cir. 10/16/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410014.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Officer is not entitled to summary judgment based on qualified sovereign immunity where he entered the home of, then tased, the naked and hard of hearing homeowner who had opened the door when he heard a knock and walked away. In the dark, the homeowner thought it was his son at the door and the officer thought the homeowner was the lawbreaking son. A reasonable jury could find that the homeowner never consented, either explicitly or implicitly, to the officer entering his home. Dukes v. Sheriff of Levy County, Florida, No. 24-10014 (11th Cir. 10/16/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410014.pdf

FOURTH AMENDMENT: It is clearly established that a resident's decision to open a door in response to an officer's knock does not by itself give an officer permission to enter a home. Opening a door to a house and leaving it open while walking away is not an invitation to an officer to enter a home. Dukes v. Sheriff of Levy County, Florida, No. 24-10014 (11th Cir. 10/16/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410014.pdf

COMPETENCY: The trial or guilty plea conviction of a person who is mentally incompetent is prohibited by the Due Process Clause of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments. The constitutional test for competency is whether the defendant has sufficient present ability to consult with his lawyer with a reasonable degree of rational understanding—and whether he has a rational as well as factual understanding of the proceeding against him. A defendant is incompetent if a preponderance of the evidence shows that a mental disease or defect makes him unable to understand the nature and consequences of the proceeding against him or to assist properly in his defense. USA v. Marks, No. 23-10463 (11th Cir. 10/16/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310463.pdf

COMPETENCY: An accused must have the capacity to assist in preparing his or her defense. This does not mean, however, that the accused must fully comprehend the intricacies of the legal questions and theories involved in the case, or that he or she be able to suggest a particular trial strategy, or choose among alternative trial defenses. Lack of decisional competency is not incompetency. USA v. Marks, No. 23-10463 (11th Cir. 10/16/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310463.pdf

COMPETENCY-BURDEN OF PROOF: "We need not definitively decide whether, as a general matter, §4241 places the burden of proof as to competency on the defendant in all cases, or on the government in all cases, or whether the burden of proof depends on which party requests the competency hearing." The allocation of the burden of proof is a procedural rule which affects the outcome only in a narrow class of cases where the evidence is in equipoise. "[W]e believe that placing the burden of proof on Mr. Marks did not matter. The evidence was not in equipoise." USA v. Marks, No. 23-10463 (11th Cir. 10/16/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310463.pdf

BURDEN OF PROOF (J. TJOFLAT, CONCURRING): The phrase "burden of proof" is a conglomerate; it incorporates at least two related but fundamentally distinct concepts: (1) the peculiar duty of him who has the risk of any given proposition on which parties are at issue—who will lose the case if he does not make this proposition out, when all has been said and done (the burden of persuasion) and (2) the duty of going forward in argument or in producing evidence (the burden of production). USA v. Marks, No. 23-10463 (11th Cir. 10/16/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310463.pdf

BURDEN OF PROOF (J. TJOFLAT, CONCURRING): Burdens do not belong in competency hearings. "I contend assigning burdens will not impact competency determinations...The majority opinion leaves open the possibility that the burden of persuasion might matter if the psychological evidence is at equipoise. I disagree. As a threshold matter, balanced evidence is rare, and judges are well equipped to make close calls...[T]he court must find incompetence by a preponderance of the evidence. Anything short of that, including where the evidence is at equipoise, requires the defendant be adjudged competent." USA v. Marks, No. 23-10463 (11th Cir. 10/16/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310463.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-JUVENILE PROCEDURE: R. 8.110 clarifies that if a child offers no testimony other than his or her own, the child is entitled to both the first and last closing arguments. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Juvenile Procedure, SC2025-0237 (10/16/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2466631/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0237.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-JUVENILE PROCEDURE: R. 8.225 clarifies that a notice for a hearing conducted remotely only requires 72 hours' notice. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Juvenile Procedure, SC2025-0237 (10/16/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2466631/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0237.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-JUVENILE PROCEDURE: Various tweaks. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Juvenile Procedure, SC2025-0237 (10/16/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2466631/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0237.pdf

NELSON HEARING: When a defendant requests that his court appointed counsel be dismissed for incompetency, the trial court must conduct a Nelson inquiry. During this hearing, the trial judge must inquire of both the defendant and his court-appointed counsel about the circumstances of the complaint. Dowdell v. Florida, 1D2022-3242 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465733/opinion/Opinion_2022-3242.pdf

NELSON HEARING: Where Defendant seeks to discharge counsel for failing to depose a pizza deliveryman who was not listed in discovery, he needs to show more than that "[t]he delivery man that delivered the pizza, because all this could be detrimental to my case for him to be able to testify. Well, to my knowledge it didn't seem like anything was wrong, you know, so I need, I need him to be depositioned [sic] because he's a part of the case." Dowdell v. Florida, 1D2022-3242 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465733/opinion/Opinion_2022-3242.pdf

ERLINGER: Any Erlinger error is harmless where Defendant did not contest his qualification as a PRR, did not challenge the admission of any of the State's evidence to prove the qualifying facts, and introduced no contrary evidence. Dowdell v. Florida, 1D2022-3242 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465733/opinion/Opinion_2022-3242.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger applies, any error is harmless where the record demonstrates beyond a reasonable doubt that a rational jury would have found that he was released from prison within three years of committing his current offenses. Hicks v. State, 1D2024-1300 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465749/opinion/Opinion_2024-1300.pdf

ERLINGER (J. WINOKUR, CONCURRING): "I have concerns about the propriety of raising an Apprendi error by motion under Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure...3.800(b)...An Apprendi claim...alleges an error in the sentencing process—not an error in the sentencing order itself...And because it is an error in the sentencing process, our supreme court has held that it cannot be raised by motion under rule 3.800(b). Hicks v. State, 1D2024-1300 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465749/opinion/Opinion_2024-1300.pdf

FOOFARAW-ERLINGER (J. WINOKUR, CONCURRING): "The foofaraw surrounding Erlinger and its supposed effects on Florida sentencing, particularly PRR sentencing, is unnecessary." Hicks v. State, 1D2024-1300 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465749/opinion/Opinion_2024-1300.pdf

ANDERS BRIEF (J. MOE, CONCURRING): "Florida's Anders process goes beyond what was required in Anders v. California, 386 U.S. 738 (1967). Among other concerning aspects, our process in Florida 'shifts the appellate court from the role of neutral arbiter to the role of advocate' and requires 'appellate courts to abandon the principles fundamental to appellate review and close their eyes to jurisdictional limitations.'" Terry v. State, 2D2024-2014 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465707/opinion/Opinion_2024-2014.pdf

POSTCONVICTION DNA TESTING: §925.11(1)(a)1 does not authorize

postconviction DNA testing for defendants who have pled guilty or nolo contendere to felony offenses. Davis v. State, 2D2025-1081 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465727/opinion/Opinion_2025-1081.pdf

OTHER BAD ACTS: For collateral sex crimes to be admissible, §90.404(2)(c) requires significant similarity between the collateral evidence and the charged crime, evidence so similar and specific that it resembles a clear pattern of conduct. Courts find adequate similarity when the defendant's conduct conforms to an identifiable pattern. Martinez v. State, 3D2179 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465737/opinion/Opinion_2023-2179.pdf

EARLY TERMINATION OF PROBATION: Court may not prohibit early termination as a special condition of probation. Vassar v. State, 3D24-0845 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465810/opinion/Opinion_2024-0845.pdf

COST OF INVESTIGATION: Court may not impose a $100 cost of investigation not requested by the State. Vassar v. State, 3D24-0845 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465810/opinion/Opinion_2024-0845.pdf

NEOLOGISM-TO COLLUQUY: "The trial court extensively colloquied Scott...After this third recess...Scott was colloquied once again." Scott v. State, 3D24-0923 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465812/opinion/Opinion_2024-0923.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-ADVICE AGAINST TESTIFYING: Defendant is not entitled to relief on claim that counsel was ineffective for advising him not to testify where there existed tactical reasons not to testify, and Defendant's claim was not credible. "Scott explained that he did want to testify, but followed his attorney's advice. Scott then asserted that he did not talk with his counsel about testifying, but claimed that counsel's body language sent the message not to testify. Scott also claimed that counsel told his wife that he would not represent Scott unless he kept his 'mouth shut and not testify.'" Even on these types of claims, the defendant must still prove prejudice, not merely speculate that an error affected the outcome. Scott v. State, 3D24-0923 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465812/opinion/Opinion_2024-0923.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEEDLE IN A HAYSTACK: "Justice Robert Jackson observed that '[i]t must prejudice the occasional meritorious application [for writ of habeas corpus] to be buried in a flood of worthless ones. He who must search a haystack for a needle is likely to end up with the attitude that the needle is not worth the search...Seventy-two years later, our experience with motions under Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.850 is similar to that of Justice Jackson. But this case involves one of those needles." De Santus v. State, 4D2023-2235 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465784/opinion/Opinion_2023-2235.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: In murder trial, defense counsel was ineffective for failing to present evidence of, nor confronting the the sole eyewitness about, the fact that she had given a statement to a defense investigator recanting her testimony implicating Defendant and implicating some other dude ("Gangsta Baby"), who himself had identified Defendant as the shooter before the grand jury, but later recanted his testimony at trial. "In addition to bungling the prior inconsistent statements, the defense team also failed to offer evidence of the main witness's alleged attempt to extort money from De Santus's family in return for favorable testimony." De Santus v. State, 4D2023-2235 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465784/opinion/Opinion_2023-2235.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF--ADVICE AGAINST TESTIFYING: A defendant who elects not to testify at trial may still state a facially sufficient claim of ineffective assistance of counsel if the defendant can allege and prove that trial counsel's preparation for his testimony was deficient such that it deprived him of the ability to choose whether to testify on his own behalf and that this deficiency prejudiced the defendant. De Santus v. State, 4D2023-2235 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465784/opinion/Opinion_2023-2235.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF--ADVICE AGAINST TESTIFYING: "At the end of a trial day, the judge pressured De Santus to either testify or rest immediately. The lead defense counsel stated on the record that he had not yet spoken with De Santus about the choice to testify. Although the trial court ordered multiple recesses,...the defense team did not spend adequate time with him to help him make an informed decision. Instead, the lead defense counsel was primarily focused on an attempt to recuse the trial judge, an unusual tactical choice, since a mid-trial recusal of a presiding judge is about as common as snow flurries in Miami." De Santus v. State, 4D2023-2235 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465784/opinion/Opinion_2023-2235.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-SEVERABILITY: In murder case, Court properly severed and limited an overbroad search warrant for phone records to the time of the shooting and a few hours before and after to show Defendant's physical location during and shortly after the homicides. The preferred method of limiting the scope of a search warrant for a cloud account will usually be time based. State v. Demons, 4D2024-0248 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465783/opinion/Opinion_2024-0248.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-SEVERABILITY: For severability of a search warrant to apply, some part of the warrant must be both constitutionally valid and distinguishable from the invalid portions. First, the court must separate the warrant into its constituent clauses. Second, the court must examine each individual clause to determine whether it is sufficiently particularized and supported by probable cause. Third, the court must determine whether the valid parts are distinguishable from the nonvalid parts. Even where parts of the warrant are valid and distinguishable, severance may be inappropriate where the sufficiently particularized portion is only a relatively insignificant part of a sweeping search. State v. Demons, 4D2024-0248 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465783/opinion/Opinion_2024-0248.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-AMENDED INFORMATION: State may amend an information outside the speedy trial period to correct the offense date. Doing so does not constitute alleging a new offense. Lewis v. State, 4D2025-0353 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465793/opinion/Opinion_2025-0353.pdf

AMENDED INFORMATION-ALIBI: Amending the information to correct the offense date does not prevent Defendant from presenting an alibi defense where the trial court offered a continuance so that defense counsel could investigate a defense for the corrected offense date. Lewis v. State, 4D2025-0353 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465793/opinion/Opinion_2025-0353.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Hector v. State, 4D2025-2168 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465798/opinion/Opinion_2025-2168.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Wilson v. State, 4D2025-2234 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465800/opinion/Opinion_2025-2234.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Kindle v. State, 4D2025-4065 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465807/opinion/Opinion_2025-2290.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Harrell v. State, 4D2025-2292 (10/15/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2465806/opinion/Opinion_2025-2292.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-SAFETY VALVE: Denial of safety relief on a narcotics offense based on a §924 possession of a firearm in furtherance count is not a violation of double jeopardy. Enhancement of a sentence based on other criminal conduct has the practical effect of penalizing the defendant, but it is not considered "punishment" for that conduct in the double jeopardy context. USA v. Dorelus, No. 25-10296 (11th Cir. 10/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202510296.pdf

SAFETY VALVE: Safety valve relief under 18 U.S.C. §3553(f) and U.S.S.G. §5C1.2 allows for sentencing without regard to any statutory minimum, with respect to certain offenses when specific requirements are met. A defendant who qualifies for safety valve relief also receives a two-level downward adjustment to his offense level. Defendant bears the burden of satisfying the five requirements for safety valve relief by a preponderance of the evidence. A defendant who possessed a firearm or other dangerous weapon in connection with the offense is ineligible for safety valve. USA v. Dorelus, No. 25-10296 (11th Cir. 10/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202510296.pdf

INVESTIGATIVE COSTS: Court may not impose investigative costs not requested by the State. Hightower v. State, 5D2024-2269 (10/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2462038/opinion/Opinion_2024-2269.pdf

COSTS: Court is not required to provide statutory or ordinance citations for the costs identifiable by name in its sentencing minutes. Conflict certified. Kim v. State, 6D2024-0197 (10/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2462085/opinion/Opinion_2024-0197.pdf

COSTS: No statute or procedural rule requires a trial court to explain the basis for an imposed cost, but it is improper for a trial court to impose costs in a sentencing order without providing an explanation in the record as to what the costs represent. A "lump sum" imposition of costs is improper because it does not allow for meaningful appellate review and violates a criminal defendant's due process rights because it provides no notice of why a trial court has imposed costs against him. Kim v. State, 6D2024-0197 (10/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2462085/opinion/Opinion_2024-0197.pdf

COSTS: Two costs totaling $5, imposed for indeterminable reasons, must be stricken or identified. Kim v. State, 6D2024-0197 (10/10/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2462085/opinion/Opinion_2024-0197.pdf

PTSD: Post Traumatic Stress Disorder results when an individual is exposed to stressors, situations, or an environment that is threatening and that may, at times, create risk and the threat of harm and loss of life. PTSD causes an individual's overall functioning to be impaired cognitively, behaviorally, and emotionally, so these individuals don't weigh alternatives, project consequences, manage conflicted data, or learn from past experiences. An individual suffering from PTSD is more likely to perceive a situation as threatening and to act on impulse and without thinking. Oquendo v. State, SC2023-0807 (10/9/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461834/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0807.pdf

SELF-DEFENSE: Self-defense law requires both that the defendant believed that the use of force was necessary (actual subjective belief of the defendant) and that the belief was reasonable (objective reasonable person standard). Oquendo v. State, SC2023-0807 (10/9/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461834/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0807.pdf

PTSD-SELF-DEFENSE: A showing of self-defense legally involves both an objective component, to which the reasonable person standard applies, and a subjective component, which leaves room for the admission of other relevant evidence establishing the overall circumstances. As to the objective component, evidence of PTSD is categorically irrelevant. But to the extent PTSD evidence may be relevant to the subjective component of a defendant's self defense theory (that the defendant believed that the use of force was necessary), it is admissible, even though it is irrelevant to the objective component. Such evidence may tend to show that a defendant with PTSD actually believed that he was in imminent danger. Oquendo v. State, SC2023-0807 (10/9/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461834/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0807.pdf

DIMINISHED CAPACITY-PTSD: PTSD evidence is not necessarily inadmissible diminished capacity evidence, but Court does not abuse its discretion in refusing to admit expert testimony on PTSD where defense counsel's arguments suggest the central purpose is to show diminished capacity and counsel fails to lay the necessary predicate. "We reiterate that our holding today does not condone the use of PTSD evidence to support an otherwise inadmissible claim of diminished capacity. Where such state-of-mind evidence is relevant to support a particular defense, the danger of a jury misapplying the evidence as diminished capacity evidence may be prevented by giving the jury 'a limiting instruction that the expert testimony does not tend to prove lack of specific intent but rather is relevant to establish a particular defense.'" Oquendo v. State, SC2023-0807 (10/9/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461834/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0807.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: "Is there any way I can talk to my lawyer or anything?" is an unequivocal invocation of the right to a lawyer. The tacking on of the phrase "or anything" does not render it ambiguous. "That's why I need a lawyer or something, dude, cause I don't know what to tell y'all. . . . You know, I don't know what to tell y'all. What do I do? I don't got nothing to do with that shit. For real," made two hours later, is an unequivocal invocation of the right to a lawyer., too. The indirect comment disclaiming any participation in the crimes alleged does not render it ambiguous. Snowden v. State, 1D2023-1998 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461744/opinion/Opinion_2023-1998.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: Where, after thirteen hours of confinement and multiple requests for an attorney, Defendant was advised of Miranda and acknowledged that he understood them but was neither asked if he waived them nor provided a waiver form, his later statements under interrogation are inadmissible. Snowden v. State, 1D2023-1998 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461744/opinion/Opinion_2023-1998.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: The clear standard to be applied when waiver of an invoked Miranda right is at issue: (1) did the suspect reinitiate contact with police and, if so, (2) did he knowingly and voluntarily waive his earlier-invoked Miranda rights. Once an individual has invoked the Miranda right to counsel, a valid waiver of this right can be found only if the individual is the one responsible for reinitiating contact with the police. "Based on the totality of the circumstances, including the conduct of the investigators and their interactions with Snowden before and after he thrice invoked his right to counsel, we conclude that Snowden's decision to reinitiate contact with detectives was a result of improper coercive tactics by law enforcement." Snowden v. State, 1D2023-1998 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461744/opinion/Opinion_2023-1998.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Perry v. State, 1D2024-2934 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461762/opinion/Opinion_2024-2934.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: For an argument to be cognizable on appeal, it must be the specific contention asserted as legal ground for the objection, exception, or motion below. While no magic words are required, the argument below must be sufficiently specific to inform the court of the perceived error. Hall v. State, 1D2024-3216 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461786/opinion/Opinion_2024-3216.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE-ODOR: Where Defendant is convicted of introduction of marijuana into prison, in State's expert testified that he could not smell the difference between marijuana and hemp, but an officer testified that he could, the argument that officer's "inane super human ability" to tell the difference is insufficient to require a JOA where Defendant failed to argue that there was a change of law on whether an officer can offer testimony identifying marijuana based on smell and appearance. Hall v. State, 1D2024-3216 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461786/opinion/Opinion_2024-3216.pdf

NOMENCLATURE-MARIJUANA/CANNABIS: "We do not adopt the parties' usage of the general nomenclature ‘marijuana’ and "instead call the controlled substance by its statutory term 'cannabis,' which the legislature has expressly defined to exclude 'marijuana' and 'hemp.'" Williams v. State, 2D2023-2434 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461737/opinion/Opinion_2023-2434.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-GOOD FAITH-ODOR OF CANNABIS: Good faith exception applies or at the time of the stop existing precedent recognized probable cause to conduct a warrantless search based on the odor of cannabis. When officers reasonably rely upon binding appellate precedent to conduct a search, the search qualifies as a good-faith exception to the exclusionary rule even when that appellate precedent is later overruled and the search is deemed to be unconstitutional. Williams v. State, 2D2023-2434 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461737/opinion/Opinion_2023-2434.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: When a defendant files a motion to withdraw plea under R. 3.170(l) but the time to file such a motion has passed, the postconviction court should instead consider the motion as one under R. 3.850 if it meets the procedural requirements of that rule. Stewart v. State, 2D2024-2326 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461741/opinion/Opinion_2024-2326.pdf

CONFRONTATION: Where a nurse who did not take the statements nor collect the evidence does not testify, portions of the rape treatment report and labels on the rape kit that reflect medical treatment are properly admitted as business records and do not violate the right to confrontation. The Confrontation Clause applies only to testimonial hearsay. The Confrontation Clause does not bar the use of testimonial statements for purposes other than establishing the truth of the matter asserted. "Because the Confrontation Clause applies only to out-of-court statements that are used to establish the truth of the matter asserted, and the trial court ordered the jury to not rely on the labels and statements for the truth of where on L.J.'s body the samples were obtained, the admission of the labels and statements did not violate the Confrontation Clause. The labels and statements only served to explain Analyst Alvarez's thought process in retesting some samples and not others." Robinson v. State,3D23-1254 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461789/opinion/Opinion_2023-1254.pdf

CONFRONTATION: A substitute expert may not testify based solely on the tests conducted by a missing expert, but an analyst may re-test the samples and testify about those procedures and results. Robinson v. State,3D23-1254 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461789/opinion/Opinion_2023-1254.pdf

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: The prohibition on the possession of firearms by felons is presumptively lawful. Whether based on the language from McDonald, Heller, and Bruen excluding convicted felons from having protected Second Amendment rights, or whether based on the historical tradition of the Second Amendment, Florida law prohibiting convicted felons from possessing firearms survives Second Amendment scrutiny. Gibbs v. State, 3D23-1676 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461765/opinion/Opinion_2023-1676.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-JUSTIFIABLE/EXCUSABLE HOMICIDE:

Failure to instruct the jury on justifiable and excusable attempted homicide is not fundamental error where Defendant raised no defense that his shooting of a firearm toward the victims was either justified or excused and the evidence did not support either defense. Dumay v. State, 3D23-1819 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461790/opinion/Opinion_2023-1819.pdf

CROSS-EXAMINATION-ARGUMENT: Court acts within its discretion in limiting defense counsel's cross-examination of the victim concerning areas neither germane to the victim's testimony nor relevant to his theory of defense. Court acts within its discretion in limiting defense counsel's closing argument outside the scope of the evidence. Cuoto v. State, 3D24-1081 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461794/opinion/Opinion_2024-1081.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Mere conclusory allegations are insufficient to state a claim under R. 3.850. Loor v. State, 3D24-1129 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461795/opinion/Opinion_2024-1129.pdf

APPEAL: An order denying a motion to voluntarily withdraw a habeas corpus petition is not an appealable order. The order may be challenged by petition for writ of certiorari. Riechmann v. State, 3D25-0102 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461802/opinion/Opinion_2025-0102.pdf

WITHDRAWAL OF POSTCONVICTION MOTION: Barring prejudice to the State, a defendant is generally entitled to withdraw a postconviction motion before it is ruled on, but not afterwards. Riechmann v. State, 3D25-0102 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461802/opinion/Opinion_2025-0102.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Diaz v. State, 3D25-0457 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461780/opinion/Opinion_2025-0457.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas relief is not available for matters that could have and should have been raised on direct appeal; or for matters that have already been ruled on through another appellate procedure. Habeas corpus is not a vehicle for obtaining additional appeals of issues which were raised or should have been raised on direct appeal, or which could have been, should have been, or were raised in post-conviction proceedings. Major v. State, 3D25-1816 (10/8/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461799/opinion/Opinion_2025-1816.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-AGE: 8th Amendment does not prohibit imposition of the death penalty upon a person of advanced age (72 years old). "No opinion of the United States Supreme Court or this Court has held that the elderly are categorically exempt from execution...Presently, the United States Supreme Court—and this Court—recognize only one age-based death penalty exemption, which prohibits the imposition of the death penalty on individuals who were under the chronological age of 18 at the time that their capital crimes were committed." Smithers v. State, SC2025-1507 (10/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461713/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1507.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: Any motion to vacate a judgment of conviction and sentence of death must be filed by the defendant within 1 year after the judgment and sentence become final, unless (A) the facts on which the claim is predicated were unknown to the movant or the movant's attorney and could not have been ascertained by the exercise of due diligence, or (B) the fundamental constitutional right asserted was not established within the allowable time period and has been held to apply retroactively, or (C) postconviction counsel, through neglect, failed to file the motion. Smithers v. State, SC2025-1507 (10/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461713/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1507.pdf

CRUEL AND PUNISHMENT: The Supreme Court's interpretation of the Eighth Amendment is both the floor and the ceiling for protection from cruel and unusual punishment in Florida. Smithers v. State, SC2025-1507 (10/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461713/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1507.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: District courts of appeal have jurisdiction to review trial court's exercise of its discretion to deny downward departure sentence. McMiller v. State, 3D23-3125 (10/7/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461672/opinion/Opinion_2023-3125.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-PLEA OFFER: For postconviction challenges involving plea agreements, a defendant must show the outcome of the plea process would have been different with competent advice. Where the advice led to an offer's rejection, a defendant must show 1) there is a reasonable probability that the defendant would have accepted the plea and the prosecution would not have withdrawn it, 2) the court would have accepted its terms, and 3) the conviction or sentence or both would have been less severe than what the defendant received after trial. Even where counsel was deficient, Defendant cannot show prejudice where he repeatedly maintained that he was innocent of all charges and his "mind wouldn't let [him] admit to something [he] didn't do." "No doubt, Ivory received poor counsel at his trial. But in a case with this much evidence, that is not what made the difference." Ivory v. USA, No. 23-10123 (11th Cir. 10/3/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310123.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-FAILURE TO CALL WITNESS: When a defendant raises an ineffective assistance claim based on counsel's failure to call a witness, the defendant carries a heavy burden to show prejudice. Defendant cannot show prejudice where counsel did not call a potential witness who would be unlikely to testify because his related case was on appeal and he would have exposed himself to a future perjury charge if he had lied on the stand. "[W]e cannot imagine that any competent attorney would have advised McCant to testify, rather than try to talk him out of it...But even if McCant had testified, we think that testimony...would not have bolstered [the] defense—it would have taken a sledgehammer to it." Ivory v. USA, No. 23-10123 (11th Cir. 10/3/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310123.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: Properly preserving an issue for appellate review requires three components: I) a litigant must make a timely, contemporaneous objection, 2) the party must state a legal ground for that objection and 3) the argument on appeal must be the specific contention asserted as legal ground for the objection, exception, or motion below. State v. Bryant, 6D2024-1490 (10/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461449/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=d4163b3f-c33e-4090-88f3-889b23713161

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: An issue must be presented to the lower court and the specific legal argument or ground to be argued on appeal or review must be part of that presentation if it is to be considered preserved. State may not argue in its initial brief opposing a downward departure that Defendant's employer, with whom she may have cooperated after it uncovered her actions, was "not a state actor as required by the mitigation statute. While a legal argument on appeal may be more comprehensive—and often will be—than the argument made by counsel below, it must still be the same legal argument. State v. West, 6D2024-2378 (10/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461450/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=febb8288-2a0d-4c41-a06f-b314a0e35b41

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is entitled to SYG immunity for slapping his father's arm when the latter yelled at him and pointed a knife at him. Florida law entitles a person to use non-deadly force against another when and to the extent that the person reasonably believes that such conduct is necessary to defend himself or herself or another against the other's imminent use of unlawful A person who uses non-deadly force in has no duty to retreat and is immune from criminal prosecution. Diamond v. State, 6D2025-1683 (10/3/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461460/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=03c4de58-0195-4654-b9d1-d4af3b453544

TRIAL IN ABSENTIA-CIVIL: Federal court may not conduct a civil trial in absentia for the return of valuable items once belonging to Simon Bolívar from Venezuela to his great great grandson (thousands of his historic documents, correspondence and other writings; Napoleon Bonaparte's ornamental epaulets; Bolívar's one-of-a-kind Liberation Medal of Peru; and a lock of his hair). The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure do not provide for trial in absentia. The remedy is default. Devengoechea v. Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela, No. 24-10029 (11th Cir. 10/1/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410029.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: Claim of mental incompetence is subject to procedural bar. Defendant cannot relitigate the issue of his competency. Damas v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2023-1476 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461307/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1476.pdf

COMPETENCY: Foundation objections to competency reports must be preserved. Bowden v. State, 1D2024-1848 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461412/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=e66c1cfc-f42a-47db-be07-7a253b1bd29f

SELF-REPRESENTATION: Waiver may appear if it is reasonably shown that the defendant has abandoned an initial request for self-representation. Court must mke an assessment of the accused's capacity to make a knowing and intelligent waiver before a trial court can accept a waiver of counsel from a defendant. Phillips v. State, 1D2024-1773 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461406/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=60b6c3c4-4791-4684-b736-5b35541ef513

ERLINGER-HFO: Even assuming Erlinger applies to HFO s sentencing, any error in failing to require a jury to make the requisite findings is harmless where Defendant did not introduce any contrary evidence and never argued that he did not qualify for an HFO sentence enhancement and the record demonstrates beyond a reasonable doubt that no rational jury would have found the timing of the predicate convictions relative to Appellant's release from his latest sentence and the other HFO qualifying facts any differently than found by the sentencing court. McGlaun v. State, 1D2023-2681 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461377/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=5ccf34bb-ba77-4448-a3fc-c01295f6f89e

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A trial court may summarily deny a motion for postconviction relief that is timely and facially sufficient only if the claims it raises are conclusively resolved either as a matter of law or by reliance upon the records in the case. Smith v. State, 1D2024-1490 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461382/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=40912ebf-51ad-48d4-9573-c4071e9061d6

SELF-REPRESENTATION: Generally, a criminal defendant cannot proceed pro se while represented by counsel. Briggs v. State, 1D2025-1801 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461421/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=1eb4df68-1b64-4139-a2cd-34ea270bfa5e

THEFT-VALUE: When a specific amount is at issue in a theft charge, the State must prove the value of the stolen property beyond a reasonable doubt. A security guard cannot testify that a stolen laptop was worth between $100.00 and $750.00 absent evidence that he had the necessary personal knowledge. Ribbing v. State, 1D2023-3323 (10/1/25/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461391/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=1bcbebcc-ff96-4a44-9e88-4fec048eb301

EVIDENCE-AUTHENTICATION: Authentication or identification of evidence Is a condition precedent to its admissibility. This requirement is satisfied with evidence sufficient to support a finding that the matter in question is what its proponent claims. Testimony that links a message or data to a party's phone or a password protected online account is generally sufficient to make a prima facia showing for authentication. Andrews v. State, 1D2024-1106 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461423/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=1b7a45b3-008e-48bb-8572-f14760d2f9c6

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR-PLAIN SMELL: The smell of cannabis standing alone is insufficient to establish probable cause. Prior precedent to the contrary receded from. Cannabis is now legal to possess in multiple forms, depending on discrete characteristics such as where it was procured or its chemical concentration by weight. "Simply put, the legislature fundamentally changed the very definition of the substance in a way that renders some of the jurisprudence that properly applied under the predecessor statutes distinguishable." Question certified. Williams v. State, 2D2023-2200 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461305/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=f2ec77ed-99a3-49bb-bd37-f451d14569ba

NOMENCLATURE-MARIJUANA/CANNABIS: "Whereas the parties use only the general nomenclature 'marijuana, herein we instead call the controlled substance by its statutory term 'cannabis,' which the legislature has expressly defined to exclude "marijuana" and "hemp" as those terms are otherwise defined by statutes governing medical use of marijuana, hemp, and industrial hemp." Williams v. State, 2D2023-2200 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461305/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=f2ec77ed-99a3-49bb-bd37-f451d14569ba

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Questions arising under the Fourth Amendment have generally been answered through examination of the totality of the circumstances. Terms like "articulable reasons" and "founded suspicion" are not self-defining; they fall short of providing clear guidance dispositive of the myriad factual situations that arise. But the essence of all that has been written is that the totality of the circumstances—the whole picture—must be taken into account. Based upon that whole picture the detaining officers must have a particularized and objective basis for suspecting the particular person stopped of criminal activity. Williams v. State, 2D2023-2200 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461305/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=f2ec77ed-99a3-49bb-bd37-f451d14569ba

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PLAIN VIEW/PLAIN SMELL: When closer examination of an item observed in plain view is necessary to confirm the incriminating nature of the contraband, its incriminating nature is not considered immediately apparent. Williams v. State, 2D2023-2200 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461305/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=f2ec77ed-99a3-49bb-bd37-f451d14569ba

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Probationer has 4th Amendment protection from unreasonable search and seizure. While probation officers may search probationers without a warrant, granting such general authority to law enforcement officials is not permissible under the search and seizure provisions of the Florida or United States Constitutions. Williams v. State, 2D2023-2200 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461305/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=f2ec77ed-99a3-49bb-bd37-f451d14569ba

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PLAIN SMELL-PARADOX (J. ATKINSON, CONCURRING): Perhaps the plain smell doctrine serves dual purposes—or perhaps even has two meanings. On one hand, it could provide that an officer's smell of an incriminating odor is not a search that implicates the Fourth Amendment. And on the other hand, it could provide that the incriminating information gained from the mere smell of that odor may be sufficient to establish probable cause to conduct a further search, Probable cause is generally what authorizes a search or seizure to occur, so if no search has occurred, then no probable cause should be needed. As such, incorporating probable cause into a doctrine premised upon the rationale that no search has occurred presents an ostensible paradox. Williams v. State, 2D2023-2200 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461305/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=f2ec77ed-99a3-49bb-bd37-f451d14569ba

PROBABLE CAUSE-MEANING (J. ATKINSON, CONCURRING): When available evidence provides no indication that one possibility is more likely than another— when the indicia are at equipoise—it makes no sense to utilize the word "probable" to describe either possibility. The United States Supreme Court has explicitly repudiated the rationale that probable cause is tantamount to a more likely than not standard. But the phrase "probable cause" cannot be based on a mere possibility without contorting the meaning of the word "probable" far more violently than any United States Supreme Court opinion could conceivably require. For probable cause there must be a substantial chance of criminal activity based on objective criteria, not merely a guess based on evidence supporting a possibility of such activity. Williams v. State, 2D2023-2200 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461305/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=f2ec77ed-99a3-49bb-bd37-f451d14569ba

EN BANC REVIEW-HISTORY (J. LAROSE, CONCURRING): En banc review and its history explained. Williams v. State, 2D2023-2200 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461305/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=f2ec77ed-99a3-49bb-bd37-f451d14569ba

SEARCH AND SEIZURE (J. MOE, CONCURRING): While a reasonable suspicion is all that is necessary for an investigatory stop, for a law enforcement officer to take the next step and search a vehicle (and the containers within the vehicle), the law enforcement officer must have something more. For a search to be legally justified under the Fourth Amendment and article I, section 12, the officer must have probable cause to believe that there is a fair probability that contraband or evidence of a crime will be found in the car. A potentially lawful activity cannot be the sole basis for a detention because, if this were allowed, then the Fourth Amendment would be eviscerated, but reasonable suspicion need not rule out the possibility of innocent conduct. Williams v. State, 2D2023-2200 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461305/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=f2ec77ed-99a3-49bb-bd37-f451d14569ba

DEFINITION-"HOTBOXING" (J. MOE, CONCURRING): "Hotboxing" is the practice of smoking marijuana in an enclosed space (e.g. a car or a small room) in order to maximize the narcotic effect. Williams v. State, 2D2023-2200 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461305/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=f2ec77ed-99a3-49bb-bd37-f451d14569ba

JOA-PRINCIPAL: The State must prove that Defendant had a conscious intent for associate to shoot the victim unjustifiably, and that Defendant did some act which was intended to assist him. In order to be a principal in a crime, one must have a conscious intent that the crime be done and must do some act or say some word which was intended to and does incite, cause, encourage, assist, or advise another person to actually commit the crime. There must be proof of some overt act, or some words uttered, in furtherance of the scheme that led to the crime. Defendant is entitled to JOA. Penny v. State, 2D2024-0032 (9/30/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461306/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=f7bd5ebb-57de-4f0d-bde2-a3f0effefcae

FUNDAMENTAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: During deliberations on the first phase of a bifurcated murder/possession of a firearm trial, grave error occurred when the stipulation that Defendant was a felon was sent to jury room, but error was not fundamental, Issue not preserved where defense counsel did not object, move for a new trial based on what had occurred, or ask that the jury be polled as to whether the stipulation was considered during its deliberations on phase one of the trial. In order to raise an issue on appeal, it must be presented to the trial court, and the specific legal argument or ground to be argued on appeal must be part of that presentation. Dixon v. State, 3D23-1574 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461367/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=0e6bec1e-26f8-4610-bdf9-7738b2e0c34a

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to postconviction relief based on counsel's failure to call an expert without demonstrating what an individual qualified as a concrete expert would have testified to in the case or how such testimony would cast doubt on Defendant's guilt. Cherfrere v. State, 3D2131 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461357/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=2409a38f-deec-4081-88cb-c36f6bbfe4ab

INFORMATION: An information gives sufficient notice of the necessary elements for an enhancement or an offense when it contains a specific statutory citation to that enhancement or offense. Perez v. State, 3D24-0078 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461358/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=cbf7009e-62d5-4fbf-b823-489774d1a09f

INFORMATION: State may substantively amend an information during trial, even over the defendant's objection, unless there is a showing of prejudice to the substantive rights of the defendant. Perez v. State, 3D24-0078 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461358/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=cbf7009e-62d5-4fbf-b823-489774d1a09f

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS AD PROSEQUENDUM: Habeas corpus ad prosequendum is a writ used in criminal cases to bring before a court

a prisoner to be tried on charges other than those for which the prisoner is currently being confined. If the writ is honored, the prisoner is loaned from the jurisdiction where the prisoner is being held to the jurisdiction where the prisoner faces pending charges. Moreno Hernandez v. State, 3D25-1008 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461393/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=a72c088c-1376-4666-af60-9f563c927cf1

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS AD PROSEQUENDUM: The writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum is not abolished in Florida. A County Court has authority to issue a writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum, notwithstanding that a county court cannot issue a Writ of Habeas Corpus. §900.03 provides that courts having criminal jurisdiction may issue writs necessary to the exercise of criminal jurisdiction. Moreno Hernandez v. State, 3D25-1008 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461393/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=a72c088c-1376-4666-af60-9f563c927cf1

WRIT OF PROHIBITION: Prohibition lies to prevent a lower court from exercising unauthorized judicial power. Prohibition may only be granted when it is shown that a lower court is without jurisdiction or attempting to act in excess of jurisdiction. Prohibition is an appropriate vehicle to prevent a court from issuing a writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum. Moreno Hernandez v. State, 3D25-1008 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461393/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=a72c088c-1376-4666-af60-9f563c927cf1

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS: The “Great Writ” bears the formal name of the writ of habeas corpus ad subjiciendum et recipiendum. It enables a prisoner to test the legality of his or her detention and to secure release if the detention is unlawful. Moreno Hernandez v. State, 3D25-1008 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461393/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=a72c088c-1376-4666-af60-9f563c927cf1

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: A trial court's decision whether to depart from the guidelines is a two-part process. First, the court must determine whether it can depart, i.e., whether there is a valid legal ground and adequate factual support for that ground. Second, where the requirements set out above are met, the court must determine whether it should depart, i.e., whether departure is indeed the best sentencing option for the defendant. State v. Prophet, 4D2024-1045 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461344/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=bce7c67d-1580-41ef-a846-d95243aea848

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-UNSOPHISTICATED: For a downward departure based on §921.0026(2)(j)--the "offense was committed in an unsophisticated manner and was an isolated incident for which the defendant has shown remorse"--competent, substantial evidence must support all three factors. A crime is unsophisticated when the acts constituting the crime are artless, simple, and not refined. A home invasion robbery is not unsophisticated where there is extensive advance coordination and seventeen texts and six phone calls discussing the plan. State v. Prophet, 4D2024-1045 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461344/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=bce7c67d-1580-41ef-a846-d95243aea848

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-UNSOPHISTICATED (J. MAY, DISSENTING): Phone calls and texts are commonplace today and do not connote sophistication. State v. Prophet, 4D2024-1045 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461344/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=bce7c67d-1580-41ef-a846-d95243aea848

STATEWIDE GRAND JURY: §905.395 (Unlawful acts related to disclosure of statewide grand jury proceedings) is not a crime within the subject matter jurisdiction of the statewide grand jury. Defendant cannot be indicted by a statewide grand jury for unlawfully disclosing information about earlier statewide grand jury testimony. Such conduct is not fraud or deceit. "We reject the State's argument that Myrick's violation of section 905.395 was one that involved fraud or deceit upon the statewide grand jury, in that she provided information indirectly to Runcie to make him appear more competent than he was. Such a loose, indirect interpretation of the statutory language rewrites the statute, which requires a 'crime involving or resulting in fraud or deceit,' not conduct short of a crime that tends to be fraudulent or deceitful." Because the statewide grand jury is a creature of statute, it has no inherent authority beyond what the statute specifically provides. Myrick v. State, 4D2024-3148 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461333/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=536e1b6d-a348-4b76-820b-82ca861470cd

DICTA (J. HARPER, CONCURRING): Dictum is a statement in a judicial opinion that could have been deleted without seriously impairing the analytical foundations of the holding. Myrick v. State, 4D2024-3148 (10/1/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461333/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=536e1b6d-a348-4b76-820b-82ca861470cd

SEPTEMBER 2025

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for DUI property damage and DUI serious bodily injury and/or manslaughter violate double jeopardy. DUI property damage is a degree variant of DUI manslaughter and/or DUI serious bodily injury, and because the convictions are barred as degree variants of the same proscribed conduct, the conviction and sentence of the lesser degree (property damage) must be vacated. Meyer v. State, 5D24-1156 (9/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461156/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=cf15e566-5ff5-4dda-893e-752b08e44823

INFORMATION-JURY INSTRUCTION-VARIANCE: Where a statute provides that an offense may be committed in various ways, due process demands that the defendant may be convicted only upon proof that the crime was committed in the way that was charged in the information. Trial counsel is ineffective for not objecting to jury instructions that did not match the charges in the information as to how the offense was allegedly committed (union of Defendant's mouth and the victim's vagina in the information but the jury instruction focused on penile-vaginal penetration). Alarcon v. State, 5D2024-2976 (9/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461188/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=146b1ad3-1f1b-4c17-9f7c-0830f44876a0

APPEAL-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: District courts of appeal have jurisdiction to review a trial court's exercise of its discretion to deny downward departure sentence. Caviness v. State, 6D2023-3661 (9/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461194/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=6b0bedc2-c7ea-4b1a-b227-d1ce3794f4d7

APPEAL-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: District courts of appeal have jurisdiction to review a trial court's exercise of its discretion to deny downward departure sentence. Ambert v. State, 6D2023-3989 (9/26/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461215/opinion/Opinion_download?documentVersionID=090111d2-788b-4580-a2f3-a2ed3ca6a8c4

COMMUNICATION-APHORISM: "An old saying observes that 'the single biggest problem in communication is the illusion that it has taken place.'" Davis v. Henry County, Georgia, No. 23-13616 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313616.pdf

SEIZURE: Officers who yelled, "Freeze! . . . Hey, stop, freeze!" intended to seize the the subject. Davis v. Henry County, Georgia, No. 23-13616 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourxts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313616.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY-FOURTH AMENDMENT: Officers who shot up a lady's hatchback with her in it while investigating a possible burglary by someone in a black truck at a neighbor's house are not entitled to qualified immunity. Davis v. Henry County, Georgia, No. 23-13616 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313616.pdf

BATTERY-TOUCH: The common law had much to say about the concept of "touch." The common law defined the "crime of battery" as the "intentional application of unlawful force against the person of another" with force "satisfied by even the slightest offensive touching." And that touching extended to "anything attached to the person" that through its attachment "partakes of [a person's] inviolability." So "[t]hough no great bodily pain is suffered by a blow on the palm of the hand, or the skirt of the coat, . . . these are clearly within the legal d[e]finition of Assault and Battery." The concept of "touch" did not end with a person's clothing. Rather, hitting a horse amounted to a strike upon its rider. "We see no material difference from an officer's bullet that strikes the car of a person driving it." Davis v. Henry County, Georgia, No. 23-13616 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313616.pdf

FOURTH AMENDMENT: Fourth Amendment protections kick in when an officer engages in a seizure of the person by either use physical force or by securing the person's submission to an assertion of authority. Intentionally shooting a lady's car while she is driving it constituted a seizure. In 1605, officers seized a woman when they "shewed her their mace, and touching her body with it, said to her, we arrest you, madam." "The required 'corporal seising or touching the defendant's body' can be as readily accomplished by a bullet as by the end of a finger." Davis v. Henry County, Georgia, No. 23-13616 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313616.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: For reasonable suspicion, an officer must be able to articulate more than an inchoate and unparticularized suspicion or hunch of criminal activity. The level of suspicion required is considerably less than proof of wrongdoing by a preponderance of the evidence, but officers investigating separate suspects at a neighboring address in a black truck do not have reasonable suspicion to seize a lady with a hatchback calmly loading her car. Fleeing from masked officers dressed in dark clothing under the cover of night is not reasonable suspicion. "[A]ll bets are off when an officer fails to identify himself, and his status as an officer isn't obvious."

"That's not suspicious behavior; it's survival instincts." Davis v. Henry County, Georgia, No. 23-13616 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313616.pdf

13TH AMENDMENT: The 13th Amendment abolishes slavery and allows Congress to legislate against any activity it rationally determines to be a badge or incident of slavery. 18 U.S.C. §245, which targets racial violence that interferes with federally protected activities, falls well within Congress's authority under the 13th Amendment. USA v. Leahy, No. 22-13822 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213822.pdf

RACIAL VIOLENCE: "This is an easy one." A self-described "suburban white kid" who used his car to terrorize a Black family by repeatedly trying to run their car off a county road while he yelled racial slurs and made a gun-shooting gesture is properly convicted. Congress rationally determined that violent interference with the use of a public road because of race constitutes a badge or incident of slavery. USA v. Leahy, No. 22-13822 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213822.pdf

SOME PEOPLE: As J.T., drove his girlfriend and her 4-year old daughter home from a birthday party, Leahy tried to run him off the road, yelled racial slurs, made shooting gestures, then physically attacked J.T. on foot after repeatedly yelling ""[F] you, n". When J.T. calmly restrained him and held him for the police, Leahy said, ""[Y]ou got me, my bad, bro, my bad, ... I don't want to go to jail." When police arrived he claimed that he was a victim of a hate crime because he is white. And when it became clear that the officers didn't believe him, he told them, "They're gonna let this monkey f beat up on this f suburban white kid...What? That's crazy." USA v. Leahy, No. 22-13822 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213822.pdf

DEFINITION-"BECAUSE"-"IN ORDER TO": "Because" is not "in order to." "In order to" is used with an infinitive form of a verb to express the purpose of something." "Because" requires only a showing of 'but-for' causation. USA v. Leahy, No. 22-13822 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213822.pdf

JURY QUESTION: When a jury requests a supplemental instruction, a district court should answer within the specific limits of the question presented and resolve the jury's difficulties with concrete accuracy. A district court observes best practices by avoiding yes-or-no questions that invite the court to draw factual conclusions. USA v. Leahy, No. 22-13822 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213822.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT: A search warrant for a house at a certain address describing a single-family home when in fact the subject lived in an efficiency apartment carved out of that home is lawful. USA v. Schmitz, No. 24-11157 (11th Cir. 9/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411157.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-3.850: Claims of newly discovered evidence, claims of failure to call witnesses, and failure to either investigate or call an expert witness are placed in new subdivisions of R. 3.850. For claims of failure to call witnesses, movant must allege the identity of the witness(es), the substance of the testimony, whether the witness(es) was available to testify at trial, and how the defendant was prejudiced, and identify any known documentation supporting the claim. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure 3.850 and 3.853, SC2025-0158 (9/25/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457645/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0158.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-3.131: New subdivision created providing a list of nonmonetary conditions of release derived verbatim from §903.047. New subdivision regarding reconsideration of the monetary component of a defendant's bail is added. The amendments to the rule shall become effective January 1, 2026. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.131, No. SC2025-0216 (9/25/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457646/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0216.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: Recognition of prisoner's eligibility for compensation for abuse suffered at the Okeechobee School for Boys does not constitute newly discovered evidence establishing significant mitigation such that he would probably receive a life sentence at a retrial. Claim is procedurally barred. Jones v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2025-1423 (9/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461134/opinion/Opinion_Opinion_SC2025-1422&%20SC2025-1423.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: A 30-day death warrant period does not violate the Eighth Amendment. Jones v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2025-1423 (9/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461134/opinion/Opinion_Opinion_SC2025-1422&%20SC2025-1423.pdf

DEATH WARRANT-RECORDS REQUEST: R. 3.852 provides that collateral counsel may obtain additional public records, but the request is untimely without a showing of good cause as to why the records request was not made until after the death warrant was signed, where the request was not related to any colorable postconviction claim, and where that the requests were overly broad and unduly burdensome. R. 3.852 is not intended to be a procedure authorizing a fishing expedition for records. Any abuse that occurred at the Okeechobee School in the 1970s does not provide a basis for a colorable claim of relief. Jones v. Secretary, D.O.C., SC2025-1423 (9/24/25)

https://flcourts-media.flcourts.gov/content/download/2461134/opinion/Opinion_Opinion_SC2025-1422&%20SC2025-1423.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A sentence generally cannot be challenged after it has been fully served. Parker v. State, 1D2025-0664 (9/24/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457570/opinion/Opinion_2025-0664.pdf

VOP: Due process requirements of a probation revocation hearing include a written statement by the factfinder as to the evidence relied on and the reasons for revoking probation. A trial court must reduce to writing its oral pronouncement of the violations and revocation of probation. Castro v. State, 3D23-2176 (9/24/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457599/opinion/Opinion_2023-2176.pdf

VOIR DIRE: Court does not commit reversible error during jury selection by by explaining the concepts of reasonable doubt and the presumption of innocence with an extended metaphor involving a cardboard box, a cat, a mouse that disappeared, the possibility of a hole in the box, a Harry Potter invisibility cloak, the Starship Enterprise, and a big bowl. But the trial judge should rely upon, and seldom stray from, Florida's Standard Jury Instructions. "[W]e again caution trial courts to carefully weigh the benefits and detriments of expanding beyond the concise and carefully formulated language of the standard jury instructions." The cat ate the mouse. Smith v. State, 3D24-0654 (9/24/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457601/opinion/Opinion_2024-0654.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: An investigative detention must be temporary and last no longer than is necessary to effectuate the purpose of the stop. State v. Eddie, 3D24-2161 (9/24/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457594/opinion/Opinion_2024-2161.pdf

CONCEALED WEAPON-SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Mere possession of a concealed weapon does not constitute criminal activity and therefore cannot be the basis for an investigatory stop. State v. Eddie, 3D24-2161 (9/24/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457594/opinion/Opinion_2024-2161.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: Appellate counsel is not ineffective for failing to raise a defect in the verdict form which could have been better drafted, but which contained all the necessary elements and was unobjected to at trial. State v. Gonzalez-Azcuy, 3D25-0529 (9/24/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457609/opinion/Opinion_2025-0529.pdf

VINDICTIVE SENTENCE: "Casting aside the nondiscretionary nature of his life sentence for first-degree murder, we reiterate the proposition that 'a claim of vindictive sentencing cannot be raised by a motion to correct illegal sentence under [r]ule 3.800(a).'" Latson v. State, 3D25-1132 (9/24/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457611/opinion/Opinion_2025-1132.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Robinson v. State, 3D25-1378 (9/24/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457595/opinion/Opinion_2025-1378.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy does not preclude being sentenced for two separate crimes occurring at different times. Indirect criminal contempt for failing to show at his arraignment is not the same as the underlyinmg charge. Scott v. State, 3D25-1717 (9/24/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457616/opinion/Opinion_2025-1717.pdf

BAIL-ARTHUR HEARING: In Arthur hearing, Court must consider whether the proof of guilt is evident and presumption great (Phase One) and Defendant's amenability for pretrial release (Phase Two). Once the State meets it burden to establish proof evident/presumption great, a defendant is still entitled to an evidentiary opportunity to demonstrate his amenability for release. Polk v. State, 3D25-1770 (9/24/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457617/opinion/Opinion_2025-1770.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The term 'life' is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. A life sentence is not an illegal indefinite sentence). Holthaus v. State, 4D2025-1812 (9/24/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457597/opinion/Opinion_2025-1812.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Myers v. State, 4D2025-1896 (9/24/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457596/opinion/Opinion_2025-1896.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Ortiz-Olivo v. State, 4D2025-1945 (9/24/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457598/opinion/Opinion_2025-1945.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL POWER (J. KAGAN, DISSENTING): Order prohibiting president from dismissing a member of the Federal Trade Commission stayed. "That stay, granted on our emergency docket, is just the latest in a series...Congress, as everyone agrees, prohibited each of those presidential removals...Yet the majority, stay order by stay order, has handed full control of all those agencies to the President. He may now remove—so says the majority, though Congress said differently—any member he wishes, for any reason or no reason at all. And he may thereby extinguish the agencies' bipartisanship and independence...Our emergency docket should never be used... to permit what our own precedent bars. Still more, it should not be used... to transfer government authority from Congress to the President, and thus to reshape the Nation's separation of powers. Trump v. Slaughter, No. 25A264 (U.S. S.Ct. 9/22/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/25a264_o759.pdf
CHILD WITNESS-COMPETENCY: Error, if any, in Court's failure to make a thorough enough inquiry into a child's competency to discern truth from lies and to testify accordingly is not preserved where counsel declined offers to inquire further. Crenshaw v. State, 5D23-3159 (9/19/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457425/opinion/Opinion_2023-3159.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: State does not commit a discovery violation by disclosing the entire contents of data on a phone, but only highlighting the portion it intends to use right before jury selection. Defendant's trial preparation would not have been different had the State pinpointed earlier the exact messages it intended to introduce at trial. Crenshaw v. State, 5D23-3159 (9/19/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457425/opinion/Opinion_2023-3159.pdf

COLLATERAL CRIME EVIDENCE: Evidence that Defendant had been abusing the victim for six years leading up to the charged acts was inextricably intertwined to establish the entire context out of which the charged crimes arose. Inextricably intertwined evidence does not have to be similar to the charged crime. Inextricably intertwined evidence need only: (1) adequately describe the charged act, (2) provide an intelligent account of the crime charged, (3) establish the entire context out of which the charged crime arose, or (4) adequately describe the events leading up to the charged crime. Inextricably intertwined evidence is not Williams rule evidence. Crenshaw v. State, 5D23-3159 (9/19/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457425/opinion/Opinion_2023-3159.pdf

JOA-CHILD SEX ABUSE: If the evidence of an element of the offense charged does not conform to the date of the offense alleged in the information, the defendant's motion for judgment of acquittal should be granted. Witness's testimony that she had been touched and penetrated in her private parts almost every day in a particular house, and her residency at that house coincided temporally with the dates in the information, the convictions stand. Crenshaw v. State, 5D23-3159 (9/19/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457425/opinion/Opinion_2023-3159.pdf

JOA-CHILD SEX ABUSE: Where the date of the touching of the victim's breasts is not shown, fundamental error does not require the conviction to be vacated. "There is no fundamental error if the evidence introduced at trial is insufficient as to only one element of a crime." Crenshaw v. State, 5D23-3159 (9/19/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457425/opinion/Opinion_2023-3159.pdf

JOA-CHILD HEARSAY: Child hearsay fails to constitute sufficient evidence of a crime only when the child's trial testimony directly conflicts with the hearsay statement or the child repudiates or recants the hearsay statement. The victim...may not have testified at trial that Crenshaw touched her breasts, but this silence does not equate to recantation or contradiction." Crenshaw v. State, 5D23-3159 (9/19/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457425/opinion/Opinion_2023-3159.pdf

TRANSMITTING HARMFUL IMAGES: Defendant is properly convicted of transmitting harmful images to a minor for texting her a picture of hairy testicle earrings. The statute does not require that the individual view

the image. Crenshaw v. State, 5D23-3159 (9/19/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457425/opinion/Opinion_2023-3159.pdf

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL: Court errs in denying motion for new trial on the ground that there was sufficient evidence to support the verdict. The standard is whether the verdict was contrary to the weight of evidence. Crenshaw v. State, 5D23-3159 (9/19/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457425/opinion/Opinion_2023-3159.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: Court does not err in imposing a $100 cost of prosecution even though State did not request it. The minimum cost of prosecution must be imposed. Crenshaw v. State, 5D23-3159 (9/19/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457425/opinion/Opinion_2023-3159.pdf

LICENSE SUSPENSION: DHSMV does not err in administratively suspending driver's license for DUI based on the documents alone where the refusal affidavit erroneously put the time of refusal at 9:06 p.m., which was the time the DUI occurred. The discrepancy was easily resolved and not so stark as to place the hearing officer in a position of being forced to arbitrarily choose one document over another. Material inconsistencies in the record are not fatal when they are resolvable by other evidence, including resolution by inferences. DHSMV v. Begara, 5D2024-3482 (9/18/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457443/opinion/Opinion_2024-3482.pdf

VIOLENT CAREER OFFENDER: To qualify as a VCC, a person must have at least three prior convictions for listed offenses. Escape from a juvenile detention facility constitutes escape within the intent and meaning of § 944.40, and thus is a proper predicate offence. Pryor v. State, SC2023-0593 (9/18/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457402/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0593.pdf

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: In order to preserve a claim of insufficiency of the evidence, Defendant must make a timely challenge in the trial court unless the evidence is insufficient to show that a crime was committed at all. Pryor v. State, SC2023-0593 (9/18/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457402/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0593.pdf

SHEESH!: "Pryor brandished a gun and fired several shots into the air during an argument that started when he failed to bring home a rat to feed his girlfriend's pet snake." Pryor v. State, SC2023-0593 (9/18/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457402/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0593.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS AD PROSEQUENDUM-DETAINER-ICE: A court is constitutionally, statutorily, and procedurally authorized to issue a writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum to return a prisoner in ICE custody for trial on charge for which he had bonded out. Prisoner's status as an immigration detainee rather than a federal prisoner does not preclude use of the writ because the Interstate Agreement on Detainers does not apply. The writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum suffers no geographical limitations in its use. Peralta-Mejia v. State, 3D25-1719 (9/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457396/opinion/Opinion

2025-1719.pdf

WRITS OF HABEAS CORPUS: There is no express specific Florida constitutional provision pertaining to writs of habeas corpus ad prosequendum, but they exist. Different kinds of writs of habeas corpus include habeas corpus ad respondendum, ad satisfaciendum, ad prosequendum, ad testificandum, and ad deliberandum. Peralta-Mejia v. State, 3D25-1719 (9/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457396/opinion/Opinion_2025-1719.pdf

COSTS: Discretionary fine under §775.083(1) and the mandatory 5% surcharge attached to it must be orally pronounced. Capps v. State, 1D2024-0034 (9/17/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457312/opinion/Opinion_2024-0034.pdf

SCORESHEET-VICTIM INJURY: Where the unchallenged probable cause affidavit alleged penetration, penetration points are properly assessed. Stump v. State, 2D2025-1055 (9/17/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457303/opinion/Opinion_2025-1055.pdf

ILLEGAL SENTENCE: Under R. 3.800(a), an illegal sentence is a kind of punishment that no judge under the entire body of sentencing statutes could possibly inflict under any set of factual circumstances. A sentence is illegal only if the terms or conditions of the punishment for a particular offense are impermissible as a matter of law. Stump v. State, 2D2025-1055 (9/17/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457303/opinion/Opinion_2025-1055.pdf

MAXIMUM SENTENCE: Where the lowest permissible sentence exceeds the offense's statutory maximum sentence, the LPS must be imposed. Stump v. State, 2D2025-1055 (9/17/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457303/opinion/Opinion_2025-1055.pdf

SEXUAL PERFORMANCE BY CHILD: §827.071(5)–Possession of Sexual Performance of a Child–does not require proof of an intent to arouse or gratify sexual desire. Defendant who secretly filmed his fourteen-year-old daughter, engaging in sexual conduct by pleasing herself is properly convicted. Diaz v. State, 3D23-1084 (9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457338/opinion/Opinion_2023-1084.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: To allege a facially sufficient claim for ineffective assistance of counsel, a defendant must plead sufficient facts to establish that counsel's performance was deficient, and that the defendant was prejudiced by the deficient performance. George v. State, 3D23-1056 (9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457333/opinion/Opinion_2023-1056.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: To uphold the trial court's summary denial of claims raised in a 3.850 motion, the claims must be either facially invalid or conclusively refuted by the record. Diaz v. State, 3D23-1084 (9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457338/opinion/Opinion_2023-1084.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Although res judicata and R. 3.800 allow a defendant to file successive 3.800 motions raising new issues, collateral estoppel bars such motions which litigate issues previously presented and decided. Simon v. State, 3D24-1557 (9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457344/opinion/Opinion_2024-1557.pdf

SENTENCING CONSIDERATIONS: Consideration of subsequent misconduct or pending or dismissed charges is constitutionally impermissible and violates a defendant's due process rights. Court improperly considered the details of dismissed charges in rejecting his counsel's characterization of the crime at sentencing as a "one-off mistake." Ramirez v. State, 3D24-1601 (9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457346/opinion/Opinion_2024-1601.pdf

COLLOQUY-VERB: "[T]he trial court stated it wanted to colloquy Ramirez..."
Ramirez v. State, 3D24-1601 (9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457346/opinion/Opinion_2024-1601.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: To the extent that a postconviction claim is conclusory or otherwise facially insufficient, the trial court should not deny the claim on its merits, but instead should enter a nonfinal order that provides the defendant the opportunity to amend the motion to state a legally sufficient claim for relief. Valhueri v. State, 3D24-2187

(9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457347/opinion/Opinion_2024-2187.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: A supplemental police report which could have been discovered through a diligent request is not newly discovered evidence entitling Defendant to relief. Charles v. State, 3D24-2288 (9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457349/opinion/Opinion_2024-2288.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus is not a second appeal and cannot be used to litigate or relitigate issues which could have been, should have been, or were raised on direct appeal. Conclusory allegations are insufficient by this Court because they do not permit the court to examine the specific allegations against the record. Florence v. Secretary, D.O.C., 25-0709 (9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457355/opinion/Opinion_2025-0709.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: If a defendant seeks to make a newly discovered evidence claim, the evidence must not have been known by the trial court, the party, or counsel at the time of trial, and it must appear that the defendant or defense counsel could not have known of it by the use of diligence and the newly discovered evidence must be of such nature that it would probably produce an acquittal on retrial. Milton v. State, 3D25-1436 (9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457360/opinion/Opinion_2025-1436.pdf

DISCOVERY-BRADY: There is no Brady violation where the information is equally accessible to the defense and the prosecution, or where the defense either had the information or could have obtained it through the exercise of reasonable diligence. Milton v. State, 3D25-1436 (9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457360/opinion/Opinion_2025-1436.pdf

COMPETENCY: Where Defendant is diagnosed as actively psychotic resulting from bipolar schizoaffective disorder and schizophrenia, complicated by borderline intellectual functioning, and presents a danger to others, particularly women, but there is evidentiary support as to amenability to treatment and the possibility of being restored to competency, he is not entitled to release from involuntary commitment. McGee v. State, 3D25-1488 (9/17/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457359/opinion/Opinion_2025-1488.pdf

REEFER MADNESS: Defendant took a single hit of marijuana from a bong, began acting paranoid, drove a car at 94 miles into a car stopped at a red light (killing the occupants), briefly lay down on a mattress in a store, went to bar to have several drinks, took off his clothes, and sat naked next to two patrons in another restaurant. Baldie v. State, 4D2022-2163 (9/17/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457326/opinion/Opinion_2022-2163.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: In DUI Manslaughter case involving marijuana, the crime is not an isolated incident where Defendant had smoked marijuana over one hundred times, although he had never before driven after smoking nor exhibited bizarre effects.

Absence of a criminal record does not mean the incident is isolated. "[T]he legislature intended trial courts to have discretion to depart from a lowest permissible sentence for those offenders who have consistently demonstrated a respect for the law, rather than a disrespect for the law. Stated another way, we do not construe section 921.0026(2)(j) to allow a defendant who has frequently broken the law to qualify for an isolated incident departure sentence, even in situations where the defendant has broken the law numerous times but has never been prosecuted." Baldie v. State, 4D2022-2163 (9/17/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457326/opinion/Opinion_2022-2163.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Mobley v. State, 4D2023-3139 (9/17/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457327/opinion/Opinion_2023-3139.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Flood v. State, 4D2025-2108 (9/17/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457329/opinion/Opinion_2025-2108.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Correctional officer is not entitled to qualified immunity for failing to intervene when inmate was repeatedly punched, kicked, kneed, pepper-sprayed, and tased, causing numerous cuts, bruises, and broken bones to his face and ribs. An officer who is present at the scene and who fails to take reasonable steps to protect the victim of another officer's use of excessive force, can be held liable for his nonfeasance. Nute v. White, No. 23-10273 (11th Cir. 9/16/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310273.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: A failure to intervene claim does not require that the defendant/officer had authority over the officer inflicting excessive force. The duty of an officer to intervene derives from the Constitution, not from a chain of command. Nute v. White, No. 23-10273 (11th Cir. 9/16/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310273.pdf

PRETRIAL DETENTION-JUVENILE OFFENDER: Florida law requires minors to be separately housed from adult inmates. Holding female minors charged as adults in an adult jail's mental health ward where they have regular contact with incarcerated adults and trustees and can see and be seen, and hear and be heard, by adult inmates is unlawful. Petitioners must be released, confined in accord with law, or transferred to juvenile detention. Comer v. State, 3D25-1258 (9/12/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457183/opinion/Opinion 2025-1258.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: A petition for writ of habeas corpus is about securing liberty when it has been unlawfully deprived. Importance and possible uses explained. Female minor offenders may petition for writ of habeas corpus to seek to be released from their confinement that does not comply with the statutory requirements of their detention as minors. Comer v. State, 3D25-1258 (9/12/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457183/opinion/Opinion 2025-1258.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: "When it comes to federal habeas petitions, finality matters." USA v. Taylor, No. 20-11238 (11th Cir. 9/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202011238.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: While a prisoner always gets one chance to bring a federal habeas challenge to his conviction, he almost never gets another. Court has no jurisdiction to entertain second or successive motions. A limited remand does not allow for amendment or supplementation of a §2255 petition where the stated purpose of the limited remand is only to allow the district court to rule on whether to issue a Certificate of Appealability. USA v. Taylor, No. 20-11238 (11th Cir. 9/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202011238.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY: A Summary denial of a successive postconviction motion is appropriate if the motion, files, and records in the case conclusively show that the movant is entitled to no relief Postconviction claims in capital cases must generally be filed within one year after the judgment and sentence become final. Pittman v. State, SC2025-1320 (9/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457032/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Claim of intellectual disability for execution must be timely raised and not successive. Procedural bars apply to intellectual disability claims in death penalty cases. Pittman v. State, SC2025-1320 (9/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457032/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Developments in the case law do not alter the holdings that Florida's death penalty scheme is constitutionally sound. Pittman v. State, SC2025-1320 (9/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457032/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1320.pdf

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: 18 U.S.C. § 922(g)(1) doesn't actually use the word "felon." Rather, it prohibits any person who has been convicted of a crime punishable by imprisonment for a term exceeding one year from possessing a firearm. The term "imprisonment" refers to actual confinement in a prison, jail, or comparable facility. Defendant convicted of a Class D Felony, for which imprisonment for over one year is not lawful, cannot be convicted of federal possession of a firearm by a felon. "Because Gaines couldn't receive any real-deal jail time for his Class D felony, that offense doesn't qualify as a 'crime punishable by imprisonment for a term exceeding one year' within the meaning of § 922(g)(1)." USA v. Gaines, No. 24-10117 (11th Cir. 9/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410117.pdf

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: "[T]he government...contends...that the term 'imprisonment' covers more than just imprisonment—more, that is, than time in the slammer, and, in particular, that it includes time in a community-corrections program or jailtime that could follow from the hypothetical revocation of a suspended sentence...We are not persuaded." USA v. Gaines, No. 24-10117 (11th Cir. 9/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410117.pdf

GRAMMAR-ADJECTIVES-PUNISHABLE: The basic rule for the placement of adjectives is that single adjectives occur in attributive position—which is to say that the adjective comes right before the noun it modifies. One exception is when the adjective has its own "post-head dependents," which are words describing the adjective. In that case, the adjective occurs postpositively—that is, comes after the noun it modifies.

Technically speaking, the term "punishable" is a postpositive adjective that modifies the noun "crime." For "crime [punishable by imprisonment for a term exceeding one year]," "crime" is the noun, "punishable" is the postpositive adjective modifying the noun, and the words "by imprisonment for a term exceeding one year" are the adjective's post-head dependents. USA v. Gaines, No. 24-10117 (11th Cir. 9/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410117.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: The oldest and most commonsensical interpretive principle is that in their full context, words mean what they conveyed to reasonable people at the time they were written. USA v. Gaines, No. 24-10117 (11th Cir. 9/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410117.pdf

DEFINITION-"IMPRISON": Both ordinary-language and legal definitions of the cognate word "imprison" strongly indicate that "imprisonment" was (and is) commonly understood to refer to actual confinement in a prison or jail or, only secondarily as an analogy—"to limit, restrain or confine as if by imprisoning, i.e., "[imprison]ed little sausages in pastry and baked them." USA v. Gaines, No. 24-10117 (11th Cir. 9/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410117.pdf

PREFIXES-IM v. IN: "Im-" is a variation of the prefix "in-" that occurs when the next letter in line is a "b," "m," or "p."...The "in-" (and thus the "im-") prefix is used to indicate location: "in : within : inward : into : toward : on."...Examples of words using the "im-" version of the prefix include "imperil" ("to bring into peril") and "impanel" ("to enter in or on a panel")...The prefix ("im-") transforms the root word ("peril," "panel," etc.) into a verb that means to place the subject in the root word. USA v. Gaines, No. 24-10117 (11th Cir. 9/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410117.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY: A summary denial of a successive postconviction motion is appropriate if the motion, files, and records in the case conclusively show that the movant is entitled to no relief Postconviction claims in capital cases must generally be filed within one year after the judgment and sentence become final. Pittman v. State, SC2025-1320 (9/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457032/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Claim of intellectual disability for execution must be timely raised and not be successive. Procedural bars apply to intellectual disability claims in death penalty cases. Pittman v. State, SC2025-1320 (9/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457032/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Developments in the case law do not alter the holdings that Florida's death penalty scheme is constitutionally sound. Pittman v. State, SC2025-1320 (9/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457032/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1320.pdf

SECOND AMENDMENT-FIREARM-OPEN CARRY: §790.053, which generally makes it a crime for an ordinary, law abiding, adult citizen to carry a firearm openly in public, is unconstitutional as incompatible with the Second Amendment's guarantee of the right to bear arms. Second Amendment claims must be resolved by text, history, and tradition alone, not by judicial interest balancing and means-end scrutiny. McDaniels v.

State, 1D2023-0533 (9/10/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457057/opinion/Opinion_2023-0533.pdf

SECOND AMENDMENT-DIFFERENCES: Analogical reasoning requires a showing that modern and historical regulations are relevantly similar. But because everything is similar in infinite ways to everything else, the task is to determine which similarities are important and which are not. A green truck and a green hat are relevantly similar if the metric of comparison is "things that are green," but not if the metric is "things you can wear." So too here: open carry and concealed carry regulations may appear alike if the metric is simply "manner of carry." But under the proper metric—whether the regulation preserves the ability to bear arms as historically understood—they are not relevantly similar. McDaniels v. State, 1D2023-0533 (9/10/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457057/opinion/Opinion_2023-0533.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for agreement to include jury instructions for uncharged lesser included charges for which he was convicted. Robinson v. State, 1D2023-1660 (9/10/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457069/opinion/Opinion_2023-1660.pdf

MURDER-JURY INSTRUCTION: Court may give the abnormal mental health instruction–that diminished mental capacity is not a defense to any crime–in the absence of the asserion of an insanity defense where Defendant had been Baker Act'ed after shooting her baby and herself and testifies to amnesia. Diminished capacity is not a viable defense. Rodriguez-Barnes v. State, 1D2024-1594 (9/10/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457075/opinion/Opinion_2024-1594.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Thompson v. State, 1D2025-0457 (9/10/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457084/opinion/Opinion_2025-0457.pdf

NEOLOGISM: "The trial court colloquized him." Gonzalez v. State, 3D24-1306 (9/10/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457087/opinion/Opinion_2024-1306.pdf

SENTENCING-VINDICTIVENESS: Court's isolated statement noting that rejecting the plea "put everyone through the ringer," in context, does not show vindictiveness. Gonzalez v. State, 3D24-1306 (9/10/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457087/opinion/Opinion_2024-1306.pdf

DNA TESTING: Postconviction DNA testing is not intended to be a fishing expedition. Gerome v. State, 3D25-1207 (9/10/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457100/opinion/Opinion_2025-1207.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Issues raised and rejected on direct appeal are procedurally barred in postconviction proceedings. Arroyo v. State, 3D25-1270 (9/10/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457062/opinion/Opinion_2025-1270.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Fail v. State, 3D25-1275 (9/10/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457063/opinion/Opinion_2025-1275.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Culpepper v. State, 3D25-1360 (9/10/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457102/opinion/Opinion_2025-1360.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: An evidentiary hearing is required to assess the victim's credibility in recanting trial testimony and the timeliness of a postconviction motion based on newly discovered evidence. Recanted testimony cannot be discovered before it is recanted. Although recantations are exceedingly unreliable, an evidentiary hearing is usually required for the trial court to assess credibility of the recantation. Lazo v. State, 4D2025-0170 (9/10/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457070/opinion/Opinion_2025-0170.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Stafford v. State, 4D2025-1442 (9/10/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457076/opinion/Opinion_2025-1442.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Hope v. State, 2025-1744 (9/10/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457078/opinion/Opinion_2025-1744.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Calvin v. State, 4D2025-2027 (9/10/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2457077/opinion/Opinion_2025-2027.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ALIENS (J. KAVANAUGH, CONCURRING): Temporary Restraining Order prohibiting ICE detention practices vacated. Government is likely to prevail on argument that reasonable suspicion may be based on apparent race or ethnicity, speaking Spanish or speaking English with an accent, presence in a particular location (e.g., bus stop, car wash, etc.), and the type of work one does. Apparent ethnicity alone cannot furnish reasonable suspicion, but it can be a relevant factor when considered along with other salient factors. Noem v. Vasquez Perdomo, No. 25A169 (S.Ct. 9/8/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/25a169_5h25.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ALIENS (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "We should not have to live in a country where the Government can seize anyone who looks Latino, speaks Spanish, and appears to work a low wage job. Rather than stand idly by while our constitutional freedoms are lost, I dissent." Noem v. Vasquez Perdomo, No. 25A169 (S.Ct. 9/8/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/25a169_5h25.pdf

APPEAL-CONTINUED REPRESENTATION: A procedural dilemma is created where a defendant is effectively left without active representation after an appellate decision issues but before the time to seek review or file a post-decision motion has lapsed. Under existing precedent, pro se filings submitted by represented appellants must be stricken as unauthorized. "But the rationale for those decisions begins to fray when, as here, the appellant is not actually receiving representation but is nonetheless affirmatively precluded from filing on his own behalf...[T]his case underscores the need to consider whether an exception or procedural accommodation may be appropriate in such scenarios...In the meantime, we remind all attorneys—particularly institutional actors like the Public Defender—to remain mindful of the formal requirements governing withdrawal." Burton v. State, 2D2024-0622 (9/5/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456857/opinion/Opinion_2024-0622.pdf

MENTAL HEALTH EXPERT: Court need not accept the opinion of an expert where the State did not present a counter-expert but, through cross-examination, highlighted significant gaps in Defendant's expert's evaluation. Expert testimony may be undermined through effective cross-examination or the absence of foundational support. Whether to accept expert testimony lies within the sound discretion of the trial court. Burton v. State, 2D2024-0622 (9/5/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456857/opinion/Opinion_2024-0622.pdf

SCORESHEET-VICTIM INJURY-ERLINGER: Erlinger is subject to harmless error analysis. Any error in Court assessing moderate victim injury points without a jury finding of severity is harmless where Defendant ran over the victim with her car, causing the victim to suffer a broken scapula, severe abrasions, road rash and to spend a night in the hospital and six weeks in bed. Harvis v. State, 2D2024-1237 (9/5/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456859/opinion/Opinion_2024-1237.pdf

ERLINGER: An Erlinger issue may be raised by a R. 3.800(b) motion. Failure to raise the issue at the initial sentencing hearing does not waive it. Harvis v. State, 2D2024-1237 (9/5/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456859/opinion/Opinion_2024-1237.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Regardless whether counsel was deficient in not filing a Stand Your Ground motion nor in presenting evidence of prior threats, Defendant suffered no prejudice in manslaughter case where he shot the unarmed victim thirteen times: two initial shots, more while following him through the parking lot, and 6 or 7 more while standing over him while he was lying on the ground. Bavle v. State, 5D2024-0003 (9/5/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456862/opinion/Opinion_2024-0003.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: Defendant is entitled to a JOA for sale of a controlled substance within 1,000 feet of a municipal park where officers measured the distance to the park, but the State adduced no evidence that the park by Vana's home was a state, county, or municipal park when he sold drugs in 2018. The city's broker testified that the city owned it, but without reference to whether this ownership corresponded to the time of the charged offenses. Vana v. State, 6D2023-2407 (9/5/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456868/opinion/Opinion_2023-2407.pdf

FINES: Court may not impose "Drug Case Fines" of $350 pursuant to §938.23 absent a finding that a defendant to has the ability to pay the fine and the additional assessment and will not be prevented thereby from being rehabilitated or from making restitution. Davis v. State, 6D2023-2596 (9/5/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456871/opinion/Opinion_2023-2596.pdf

COSTS: $2 cost may be imposed pursuant to §938.15 without citation to the enacting ordinance. There is no need to cite the ordinance for which court costs are imposed. While a citation in the written order might be the best practice, due process is satisfied, and appellate review possible, when there is citation to authority in the record or when the basis for each cost is otherwise evident in the record. Split in authority recognized. Spiro v. State, 6D2024-0321 (9/5/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456872/opinion/Opinion_2024-0321.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy precludes convictions for both computer solicitation of a minor for sex and travel for sex with a minor after computer solicitation where the information does not make clear that the State relied on separate solicitation conduct to charge each offense. The charging document itself must foreclose any possibility that the solicitation underlying the traveling charge was the same as that underlying the solicitation charge. Neu v. State, 6D2-24-0677 (9/5/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456874/opinion/Opinion_2024-0677.pdf

INTERROGATION: The term "interrogation" under Miranda refers not only to express questioning, but also to any words or actions on the part of the police. When an officer's questions or actions extend beyond requests for basic biographical information and could reasonably be viewed as designed to secure potential incriminating evidence, the questions or actions constitute an interrogation. Sipp v. State, 6D2024-0831 (9/5/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456876/opinion/Opinion_202

4-0831.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-STOP: An officer is justified in stopping a vehicle even in the absence of a traffic infraction when the vehicle is being operated in an unusual manner causing legitimate concern for the safety of the public. Hamilton v. State, 6D2024-1342 (9/5/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456878/opinion/Opinion_2024-1342.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Officers have qualified immunity against being sued for arresting plaintiff who made 911 calls "a gazillion times" complaining about gunshots at a hunting club on private property. Officers are entitled to qualified immunity where there is arguable probable cause to make an arrest based on their collective knowledge. Prospero v. Sullivan, No, 24-10086 (11th Cir., 9/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410086.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Defendant's untimely claim that a third party confessed to two people, respectively, that he, not the defendant, was the actual murderer and that he had murdered someone else too, does not entitle Defendant to a new trial where he could have interviewed those two witnesses years earlier. Suggs v. State, SC2024-0702 (9/4/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456831/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0660&%20SC2024-0702.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Defendant's claim that a third party confessed to two people, respectively, that he, not the defendant, was the actual murderer and that he had murdered someone else too does not entitle Defendant to a new trial where that would have been inadmissible hearsay. Chambers v. Mississippi only applies to trustworthy evidence. Suggs v. State, SC2024-0702 (9/4/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456831/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0660&%20SC2024-0702.pdf

DEFINITION- "PREDICATE": "Predicate" means to "found or base something on." Suggs v. State, SC2024-0702 (9/4/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456831/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0660&%20SC2024-0702.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-DEPOSITION: New subdivision added for moving the court to limit interviewing or conducting depositions in the presence of the defendant a provision for a hearing to determine whether a deposition of a victim of a sexual offense who is under the age of 16 should be conducted. New subdivision providing for a hearing to determine if the presumption against the taking of a deposition of a victim of a sexual offense who is under the age of 12 is overcome. Limitations or specific conditions a court may order on depositions. All amendments effective October 1, 2025.In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.220, SC2024-1461 (9/4/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456832/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1461.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: A sentence of imprisonment shall not begin to run before the date it is imposed, but the court imposing a sentence shall allow a defendant credit for all of the time she or he spent in the county jail before sentence. The credit must be for a specified period of time and shall be provided for in the sentence. Griggs v. State, 3D25-1266 (9/3/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456786/opinion/Opinion_2025-1266.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Child may be detained for the pedestrian traffic infraction of jaywalking. Z.S.F., a juvenile v. State, 3D24-744 (9/3/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456788/opinion/Opinion_2024-0744.pdf

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE: Child commits resisting without violence by fleeing from being stopped for jaywalking. The basis for a traffic stop can rest on a mistaken understanding of the scope of a legal prohibition. An officer conducts a valid traffic stop even if he makes an objectively reasonable mistake of law. Z.S.F., a juvenile v. State, 3D24-744 (9/3/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456788/opinion/Opinion_2024-0744.pdf

VOP-PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: State does not waive its right to seek PRR sentencing after VOP even where State had waived PRR sentencing in the negotiated plea. Greene v. State, 3D24-1267 (9/3/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456800/opinion/Opinion_2024-1267.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER-VOP: Defendant's testimony may establish that Defendant committed his offense within three of his release from prison, but Court must specify in writing the evidence relied on and its reasons for revoking probation. Greene v. State, 3D24-1267 (9/3/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456800/opinion/Opinion_2024-1267.pdf

EVIDENCE: Mother/victim's testimony that she believed that Defendant's friends in her house were gang members was admissible to show the reason for the fight. It is axiomatic that evidence of gang affiliation must be closely scrutinized because it can be inflammatory, but in some contexts, evidence of gang membership may be admissible to explain disputed or unclear issues. T.R., a juvenile v. State, 3D25-312 (9/3/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456803/opinion/Opinion_2025-0312.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS/MANDAMUS: Prisoners petition for habeas corpus, asserting that §775.082(1) is self-executing and entitles him to parole release after twenty-five years, should have been treated as sounding in mandamus, rather than habeas, and therefore venue lies in the county where the state, agency, or subdivision, maintains its principal headquarters. Howard v. State, 3D25-0505 (9/3/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456806/opinion/Opinion_2025-0505.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: A claim alleging a violation of Vienna Convention is procedurally barred where not raised on direct appeal, and where petitioner fails to establish he has standing to assert such a claim. Huerte v. Dixon, 3D25-0647 (9/3/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456810/opinion/Opinion_2025-0647.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger claims do not apply retroactively. Perez v. State, 3D25-0822 (9/3/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456811/opinion/Opinion_2025-0822.pdf

EXPUNCTION: Before denying a petition to seal or expunge criminal records, the trial court must conduct an evidentiary hearing and state specific reasons for denial. A probable cause affidavit is not enough. Caporizzo v. State, 4D2024-2710 (9/3/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456794/opinion/Opinion_2024-2710.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is entitled to SYG immunity where he shot unarmed victim who had threatened him before, yelled at him, threatened to "whoop his ass," walked quickly toward him aggressively, and reached into his pocket. Especially if the victim is a bully whose nickname is "Boss Hog."
Spencer v. State, 4D25-0023 (9/3/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456797/opinion/Opinion_2025-0023.pdf

CLEAR AND CONVINCING: Evidence is clear and convincing when the truth of the facts asserted is highly probable, of sufficient weight to convince the trier of fact without hesitancy. Spencer v. State, 4D25-0023 (9/3/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456797/opinion/Opinion_2025-0023.pdf

ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT: When a court says one thing at a sentencing hearing and the written sentence says another, conformance to the oral pronouncement is required. Graham v. State, 2024-2861 (9/3/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456796/opinion/Opinion_2024-2861.pdf

PROBATION-SEX OFFENDER CONDITIONS: Where Defendant was not placed on sex offender probation but the Court ordered Defendant to comply with special conditions related to sex offenders, such as successful completion of sex offender treatment and no contact with the victims and underage children, the part of the written order that Defendant "follow all sex offender rules" is stricken. Gonzalez Garcia v. State, 4D2025-0471 (9/3/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456801/opinion/Opinion_2025-0471.pdf

MOTION TO CORRECT: A motion for clarification is, in essence, a motion to correct an illegal sentence. Gonzalez Garcia v. State, 4D2025-0471 (9/3/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456801/opinion/Opinion_2025-0471.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Williams v. State, 4D2025-1659 (9/3/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456808/opinion/Opinion_2025-1659.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: Under ACCA, a "serious drug offense" includes an offense under State law, involving possessing with intent to manufacture or distribute, a controlled substance for which a maximum term of imprisonment of ten years or more. The ACCA does not violate Equal Protection where a state possession of marijuana conviction would constitute a predicate "serious drug offense" (because it has a maximum sentence of ten years) while the materially indistinguishable federal marijuana-possession offense (because it has a maximum sentence of fewer than ten years) would not. When states affix the maximum punishment, they must consider how serious the crime is with respect to local nuances within their respective jurisdictions. "Simply put, Congress can rely on state convictions to identify who it most needs to punish or most needs to deter." USA v. Green, No. 24-11526 (9/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411526.pdf

AUGUST 2025

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE-ATTORNEY DISCIPLINE: Attorney referred to the Bar for discipline for filing appellate brief which cited at least one non-existent authority and contained multiple fictitious quotations. Attorneys using AI tools without checking on the accuracy of their output are responsible for the consequences of incorporating inaccurate information into their work product. "Efficiency, expertise, and cost savings are some of the reasons why attorneys delegate work and use technological tools such as generative artificial intelligence in representing their clients. But this case is another reminder that an attorney who does so remains responsible for the work product that is generated." Clerk of Court v. Rangel, 2D2024-1772 (8/29/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456644/opinion/Opinion_2024-1772.pdf

ERLINGER-HARMLESS ERROR: Where State adduced evidence establishing that Defendant qualified as a habitual felony offender and he did not, and does not, challenge the sufficiency or the weight of the evidence adduced by the State, or otherwise allege any prejudice, HFO sentence is affirmed. Florida courts have recognized that the types of errors addressed in Apprendi, Blakely, and Alleyne are subject to harmless error review. It follows then that Erlinger errors are also subject to harmless error. Avalos v. State, 6D2023-3611 (8/29/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456673/opinion/Opinion_2023-3611.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant may not raise in a motion for postconviction relief issues of whether his waivers of counsel and a penalty-phase jury were involuntary where he had not first raised them on direct appeal. Bell v. State, SC2024-1264 (8/28/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456610/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1264%20&%20SC2024-1556.pdf

FIRST APPEARANCE: R. 3.130 does not prescribe what ought to happen if a defendant is not brought before a judge within twenty-four hours. A delay in the first appearance does not automatically lead to release, dismissal of charges, or the suppression of evidence. Bell v. State, SC2024-1264 (8/28/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456610/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1264%20&%20SC2024-1556.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-ATTORNEY DISCIPLINE: Rules for attorney discipline tweaked, effective October 27, 2025. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Discipline Rules, SC2025-0019 (8/28/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456611/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0019.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-BAR MEMBERSHIP: Rules regarding bar dues and payment thereof, and attorneys appearing pro hac vice, revised. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Chapter 1, SC2025-0020 (8/28/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456621/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0020.pdf

COMPETENCE: Court commits fundamental error in failing to make an independent determination of Defendant's competence after appointing an expert to evaluate his icompetence to proceed. Davis v. State, 5D2024-0997 (8/28/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456606/opinion/Opinion_2024-0997.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective in VOP hearing for not presenting evidence from his GPS monitor which would have exonerated him. Fulmore v. State, 5D2024-1052 (8/28/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456607/opinion/Opinion_2024-1052.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: Stern questioning does not render Defendant's statements involuntary. "Certainly, Janssen experienced an interrogation, not a friendly chat," but the officers' isolated use of stern tones and hardened language did not render the confession involuntary, unknowing, or unintelligent. Janssen v. State, 1D2023-3176 (8/27/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456489/opinion/Opinion_2023-3176.pdf

EVIDENCE: Reputation evidence of the victim may be relevant to reflect the defendant's state of mind, but specific act evidence is not relevant. Wilson v. State, 1D2024-0387 (8/27/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456490/opinion/Opinion_2024-0387.pdf

JOA: A trial court should rarely, if ever, grant a motion for judgment of acquittal on the issue of intent because proof of intent usually consists of the surrounding circumstances of the case. Wilson v. State, 1D2024-0387 (8/27/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456490/opinion/Opinion_2024-0387.pdf

ERLINGER: Any potential Erlinger error is harmless where Defendant did not dispute his prior record or release dates at sentencing and defense counsel conceded at sentencing that he qualified for the PRR enhancement. Moore v. State, 3D23-1360 (8/27/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456523/opinion/Opinion_2023-1360.pdf

IMPEACHMENT: If a party knowingly calls a witness for the primary purpose of introducing a prior statement which otherwise would be inadmissible, impeachment should ordinarily be excluded. On the other hand, a party may always impeach its witness if the witness gives affirmatively harmful testimony. To determine whether a party has called a witness for the primary purpose of introducing impeachment, courts consider the following: (1) whether the witness's testimony affirmatively harmed the calling party, and (2) whether the impeachment of the witness was of de minimis substantive value. Regan v. State, 3D23-2121 (8/27/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456567/opinion/Opinion_2023-2121.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE- EXIGENT CIRCUMSTANCES: Exigent circumstances exist when 911 calls were received, even in cases when the callers did not identify a life threatening emergency, and officers find suspicious circumstances at the residence. Buttes v. State, 3D24-0525

(8/27/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456525/opinion/Opinion_2024-0525.pdf

BURGLARY: Child's entry into a backyard cannot sustain a conviction for burglary in the absence of evidence of intent to commit a crime therein. C.G., a juvenile v. State, 3D24-1813 (8/27/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456580/opinion/Opinion_2024-1813.pdf

ANTIQUE FIREARM: State is not required to prove, as an element of the crime of possession of a firearm, that the firearm was not an antique weapon whether the firearm was an antique firearm is a matter of defense. Kelly v. State, 3D25-0095 (8/27/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456551/opinion/Opinion_2025-0095.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively to a sentence that was already final at the time Erlinger issued. Cherry v. State, 3D25-0537 (8/27/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456585/opinion/Opinion_2025-0537.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: State courts, in construing and interpreting state law, are not bound by the decisions of federal courts. Cordero v. State, 3D25-0773 (8/27/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456563/opinion/Opinion_2025-0773.pdf

VIOLENT CAREER CRIMINAL: Burglary is a forcible felony. Cordero v. State, 3D25-0773 (8/27/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456563/opinion/Opinion_2025-0773.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-RETROACTIVITY: Hurst v. Florida does not apply retroactively to sentences that became final before Ring v. Arizona. Livingston v. D.O.C., 3D25-1507 (8/27/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456561/opinion/Opinion_2025-1507.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Livingston v. D.O.C., 3D25-1507 (8/27/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456561/opinion/Opinion_2025-1507.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus is not a second appeal and cannot be used to litigate or relitigate issues which could have been, should have been, or were raised on direct appeal. Livingston v. D.O.C., 3D25-1507 (8/27/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456561/opinion/Opinion_2025-1507.pdf

DUI MANSLAUGHTER: DUI Manslaughter must include a probation component long enough to allow him to complete a substance abuse course. Allen v. State, 4D2024-123 6 (8/27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456535/opinion/Opinion_2024-1236.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: A prosecutor cannot request costs on behalf of an agency without that agency's consent. Allen v. State, 4D2024-1236 (8/27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456535/opinion/Opinion_2024-1236.pdf

COURT COSTS: Discretionary court costs must be orally pronounced at sentencing to be lawfully imposed. Allen v. State, 4D2024-123 6 (8/27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456535/opinion/Opinion_2024-1236.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is is entitled to a hearing on motion for postconviction relief for counsel's failure to call a the use of force expert. Nieves Rivera v. State, 4D2024-2528 (8/27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456537/opinion/Opinion_2024-2528.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: To state a facially sufficient ineffective assistance claim based on counsel's failure to call a witness, the defendant must (1) identify the witness, (2) specify the content of his or her testimony, (3) allege that he or she was available to testify at trial, and (4) sufficiently allege that the failure to call the witness to testify resulted in prejudice. Nieves Rivera v. State, 4D2024-2528 (8/27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456537/opinion/Opinion_2024-2528.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to n call witnesses to testify as to the victims' reputations for being violent and aggressive. Nieves Rivera v. State, 4D2024-2528 (8/27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456537/opinion/Opinion_2024-2528.pdf

EVIDENCE: A victim's reputation for violence is admissible in self-defense cases, regardless of the defendant's knowledge, to demonstrate that the victim was the aggressor. Reputation evidence of the victim is admissible as circumstantial evidence to prove that the victim acted consistently with his or her reputation for violence. Nieves Rivera v. State, 4D2024-2528 (8/27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456537/opinion/Opinion_2024-2528.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Emory v. State, 4D2025-0439 (8/27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456545/opinion/Opinion_2025-0439.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Brown v. State, 4D2025-0861 (8/27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456544/opinion/Opinion_2025-0861.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply

retroactively. Austin v. State, 4D2025-0932 (8/27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456546/opinion/Opinion_2025-0932.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Murray v. State, 4D2025-1661 (8/27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456554/opinion/Opinion_2025-1661.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Glover v. State, 4D2025-1909 (8.27/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456555/opinion/Opinion_2025-1909.pdf

SEX OFFENDERS-CONTACT WITH OWN CHILD: Previous opinion, which held that a statute which prohibits offenders who have been convicted a sex offense involving a child from residing or conducting an overnight visit with their minor children violates Due Process and the First Amendment, vacated. Case to be reheard en banc. Henry v. Sheriff of Tuscaloosa County, No. 24-10139 (11th Cir. 8/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202110139.1.pdf

VOP-SCORESHEET: Upon violation of probation, victim injury points which had been mistakenly omitted from the original scoresheet may be scored. Greene v. State, 5D2023-3236 (8/22/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456323/opinion/Opinion_2023-3236.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: Defendant's and detectives' lengthy back-and-forth about wanting a lawyer and wanting to make a statement ("Obviously, I know my rights. I do want a lawyer. I will answer questions. I do want to speak with you. I want the truth to be known.") do not constitute an unequivocal request for counsel. "There simply is no reasonable understanding of this response from which officers could conclude that Pastor's answer was 'an expression of a desire to have his attorney present during questioning and deal with police only through counsel." State v. Pastor, 5D2024-0989 (8/22/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456336/opinion/Opinion_2024-0989.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: Law enforcement officers are not required to stop questioning when an accused's request for counsel is equivocal or ambiguous, nor are they required to clarify an equivocal or ambiguous request if the individual was properly advised of his rights. State v. Pastor, 5D2024-0989 (8/22/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456336/opinion/Opinion_2024-0989.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: In the context of an Article I, Section 9 claim, the Florida Constitution does not place greater restrictions on law enforcement than those mandated under federal law when a suspect makes an equivocal statement regarding the right to remain silent. State v. Pastor, 5D2024-0989 (8/22/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456336/opinion/Opinion_2024-0989.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-AFFIDAVIT: An affidavit leading to the search warrant may be witnessed by a law enforcement officer who was a party to the underlying transaction, notwithstanding §117.107(12), which prohibits a notary public from notarizing a signature on a document if the notary is a party to the underlying transaction, where the officer who witnessed the search warrant affidavit did not do so as a notary and, even if he had, a broad interpretation of the phrase "underlying transaction" ignores all the textual and structural clues that bear on the meaning of the disputed text. Gonzalez v. State, 6D2024-0754 (8/22/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456359/opinion/Opinion_2024-0754.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-SIXTH AMENDMENT: The fact that at the time of his trial the only requirements of defense counsel in a death case be that the attorney is admitted to the Bar does not entitle him to a new penalty phase. R. 3.112 is not retroactive. The "evolving standards of decency" doctrine does not apply to the Sixth Amendment. Windom v. State, SC2025-1179 (8/21/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456303/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1179%20&%20SC2025-1182.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: The postconviction court's requirement that the successive postconviction motion be filed less than five days after notice of the death warrant. did not violate Due Process. An expedited warrant litigation schedule does not deprive a defendant of his right to due process. Windom v. State, SC2025-1179 (8/21/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456303/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1179%20&%20SC2025-1182.pdf

FIREARMS-DRUG USERS: Medical marijuana users who wish to purchase guns are entitled to seek pre-enforcement declaratory relief challenging the constitutionality of 18 U.S.C. §922(d)(3) and (g)(3), which prohibit unlawful drug users from possessing firearms. At the motion to dismiss stage, they cannot be fairly compared with felons or those the government deems dangerous. “The Federal Government very well may prove at a later stage of litigation...that Appellants can fairly be considered relevantly similar to felons or dangerous individuals who can categorically be disarmed. Indeed,... they may be fairly deemed as dangerous during the times they are high.” Florida Commissioner of Agriculture v. Attorney General, No. 22-13893 (11th Cir. 8/20/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213893.pdf

CONFRONTATION-CONTEMPT: A person faced with criminal contempt is entitled 6th Amendment right to confront adverse witnesses. Court improperly excluded Defendant’s from courtroom during the Zoom testimony of a child who claimed Defendant violated court order by having contact with her. Although §92.54 authorizes remote testimony in certain circumstances, it still requires that a defendant retain the ability to observe and hear the testimony. M.L.K. III v. State, 1D2023-1980 (8/20/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456229/opinion/Opinion_2023-1980.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively to a sentence that was already final at the time Erlinger. Reed v. State, 3D25-0331 (8/20/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456263/opinion/Opinion_2025-0331.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Ware v. State, 3D25-1286 (8/20/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456262/opinion/Opinion_2025-1069.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus is not a second appeal and cannot be used to litigate or relitigate issues which could have been, should have been, or were raised on direct appeal. Williams v. State, 3D25-1286 (8/20/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456264/opinion/Opinion_2025-1286.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: Speedy trial is not violated where Defendant was arrested for petit theft, the 90-day time period for misdemeanors had expired, and State filed a felony charge of robbery. The speedy trial time for felony offenses had not expired at the time the state filed the robbery charge. The expiration of speedy trial on a lesser included misdemeanor with its shorter time frames does not bar prosecution on a greater felony offense. Unless the misdemeanor is a necessary element of the felony, the state may file felony charges after the misdemeanor speedy trial period has expired, as long as the felony is timely filed. State v. Thomas, 4D2024-1487 (8/20/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456244/opinion/Opinion_2024-1487.pdf

SENTENCING: Although a nonstate prison sanction of county jail incarceration must be limited to one year where Defendant scores fewer than 22 points, nothing in §775.082(10) restricts the aggregate duration of all nonstate prison sanctions to one year. Jail and prison combined may exceed one year. Graham v. State, 4D2024-1954 (8/20/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456249/opinion/Opinion_2024-1954.pdf

PSI: A trial court's failure to consider a mandatory PSI report before sentencing a defendant is a sentencing error that may be preserved through a R. 3.800(b) motion, but the PSI may be waived by the defendant's attorney. No magic words; counsel advising that no PSI existed and not object to the lack thereof is a waiver. Graham v. State, 4D2024-1954 (8/20/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456249/opinion/Opinion_2024-1954.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Charistil v. State, 4D2025-0969 (8/20/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456254/opinion/Opinion_2025-0969.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Butler v. State, 4D2025-1384 (8/20/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456248/opinion/Opinion_2025-1384.pdf

ANONYMOUS JURY: A district court may empanel an anonymous jury if the interests of justice so require, but only in limited and carefully delineated circumstances. Court should not order the empaneling of an anonymous jury without (a) concluding that there is strong reason to believe the jury needs protection, and (b) taking reasonable precautions to minimize any prejudicial effects on the defendant and to ensure that his fundamental rights are protected. The general practice of empaneling an anonymous jury based solely on the type of crime and the concern that jurors might think there could be some threat to them is insufficient. But error is harmless. USA v. Touray, No. 2023-13121 (11th Cir. 8/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313121.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-MULTIPLE CONSPIRACIES: When a defendant requests an instruction about multiple conspiracies, the instruction is appropriate if the indictment charges several defendants with one overall conspiracy, but the proof at trial indicates a jury could reasonably conclude that some of the defendants were involved only in separate conspiracies unrelated to the overall conspiracy charged. Where the instructions given adequately informs the jury that in order to convict, it must find that each appellant joined in the conspiracy charged, it is sufficient. USA v. Touray, No. 2023-13121 (11th Cir. 8/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313121.pdf

SENTENCING-ACQUITTED CONDUCT: A sentencing court may consider conduct for which a defendant has been acquitted if the government proves the conduct in question by a preponderance of the evidence. USA v. Touray, No. 2023-13121 (11th Cir. 8/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313121.pdf

SENTENCING-ACQUITTED CONDUCT: A 2024 amendment to the Guidelines eliminated acquitted conduct from the relevant conduct calculations. USA v. Touray, No. 2023-13121 (11th Cir. 8/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313121.pdf

SENTENCE-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: 120-month sentence for illegal reentry is not substantively unreasonable with the guideline range for that particular count alone would have only been up to 6 months imprisonment where there were other charges of conviction. Court should calculate the total punishment when a defendant is convicted on multiple concurrent counts. The total sentence, not the individual count of conviction, is reviewed for substantive unreasonableness. USA v. Touray, No. 2023-13121 (11th Cir. 8/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313121.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: County does not have qualified immunity for 4th Amendment violations for intercepting passengers boarding airplanes, taking their boarding passes and identifications, interrogating them, and searching their carry-on luggage, all in the name of combating drug trafficking. The individual officers are entitled to qualified immunity because it was not clearly established that this type of detention was unlawful, but the county is not. Andre v. Clayton County, Georgia, No. 23-13253 (11th Cir. 8/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313253.pdf

YEAH, RIGHT: "At oral argument, defendants insisted that because both plaintiffs had already shown their boarding passes and IDs to the airlines to board their flights, nothing stopped them from continuing to board their flights even while officers retained those documents. Defendants argued that plaintiffs would merely be inconvenienced by having to reclaim their IDs later or get new IDs after their travels. Evidently, defendants theorize that a reasonable person would willingly abandon his physical government ID and boarding pass (which might also be on his cell phone) to law enforcement as he boarded a departing plane." Andre v. Clayton County, Georgia, No. 23-13253 (11th Cir. 8/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313253.pdf

DUI-BREATH ALCOHOL TESTS: The Intoxilyzer 8000 test was not an approved instrument and therefore not an approved test, as required by section 316.1932(1)(a), where the replacement of the breath tube was a repair not performed by an authorized repair facility and therefore, the breath tests were not conducted in substantial compliance with chapter

11D-8 of the Florida Administrative Code. State v. Kilburn, 2D2024-0649 (8/15/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455992/opinion/Opinion_2024-0649.pdf

DEFINITION-"REPAIR": The word repair is generally understood to mean to fix something that is broken, or to restore by replacing a part or putting together what is torn or broken. State v. Kilburn, 2D2024-0649 (8/15/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455992/opinion/Opinion_2024-0649.pdf

DEFINITION- "MAINTAIN": "Maintain" is defined as "to keep in an existing state (as of repair, efficiency, or validity): preserve from failure or decline." State v. Kilburn, 2D2024-0649 (8/15/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455992/opinion/Opinion_2024-0649.pdf

DRIVER LICENSE-SEXUAL PREDATOR: Statute Defendant's driver's license to say "SEXUAL PREDATOR" does not constitute compelled speech in violation of the 1st Amendment. "Crist raises an emergent issue that surfaced less than a decade ago, and on which the few courts to reach it have split. Therefore, we must take a side in a new and unfolding debate." Crist v. State, 5D2022-2966 (8/15/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456047/opinion/Opinion_2022-2966.pdf

OBSCURE HISTORY: "[A] 1796 passport issued...to James Grubb described him as having a 'small mouth, large nose, large forehead,' and

'long chin.'...A similar 1795 passport issued to Samuel Potts described him as 'bald' and having a 'large Nose, high Forehead, . . . and long Face.'" Crist v. State, 5D2022-2966 (8/15/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456047/opinion/Opinion_2022-2966.pdf

THE TROUBLE WITH TRIBBLES: "In his concluding prayer for relief, he asks us to hold—and we quote—that Florida's marked-license statutes 'are unconstitutional and should be revised to allow for either a code, statute numbers or a number/letter combination.' Lest readers dismiss our warning as hyperbole or Crist's prayer as a pipe dream, they would do well to consider the lived experience of courts that have accepted compelled-speech claims in this context. Recall that the Louisiana Supreme Court...held that 'Louisiana has not adopted the least restrictive means of doing so,' because the State had employed a capitalized descriptive phrase in 'big orange letters,' whereas '[a] symbol, code, or a letter designation' would have sufficed...While the court earlier had suggested a 'single letter' was all the Constitution allowed,...it nonetheless permitted two letters and three numbers." Crist v. State, 5D2022-2966 (8/15/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456047/opinion/Opinion_2022-2966.pdf

OOPS: [W]e remand for correction of a scrivener's error in the costs judgment to reflect an amount of $1,084.55 instead of $1,0845.55. Britt v. State, 5D2024-0727 (8/15/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456022/opinion/Opinion_2024-0727.pdf

COST OF INVESTIGATION: Court may not impose a $100 cost of investigation where the State never requested it. Somers v. State, 5D2024-

2640 (8/15/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456023/opinion/Opinion_2024-2640.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVATION: In order for an argument to be cognizable on appeal, it must be the specific contention asserted as legal ground for the objection, exception, or motion below. Williams v. State, 6D2023-3567 (8/15/15)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456029/opinion/Opinion_2023-3567.pdf

FELONY MURDER: If an indictment charges premeditated murder, the State need not charge felony murder or the particular underlying felony to receive a felony murder instruction. Williams v. State, 6D2023-3567 (8/15/15)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456029/opinion/Opinion_2023-3567.pdf

CARRYING CONCEALED FIREARM: §790.01 was amended effectively on July 1, 2023 so that it is not a crime for a person to carry a concealed firearm without a license if the person otherwise satisfies the criteria for receiving and maintaining such a license. But the amendment does not apply retroactively to defendant security concealed firearm before July 1, 2023. State v. Herard, 6D2023-3607 (8/15/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456035/opinion/Opinion_2023-3607.pdf

SAVINGS CLAUSES: The constitutional savings clause of Article X, §9 provides that repeal of a criminal statute shall not affect prosecution for any crime committed before such repeal. §775.022, the statutory savings clause, generally prohibits retroactive application of amendments to criminal statutes unless expressly provided by the Legislature or one of two statutory exceptions applies. State v. Herard, 6D2023-3607 (8/15/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456035/opinion/Opinion_2023-3607.pdf

COST OF SUPERVISION: Court may not impose costs for supervision and monitoring where Defendant is not placed on probation. Fortson v. State, 6D2023-4184 (8/15/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2456042/opinion/Opinion_2023-4184.pdf

DUI MANSLAUGHTER-SENTENCE: DUI manslaughter is a second degree felony, but a 15-year prison sentence is illegal because DUI manslaughter requires a term of probation that allows for a defendant to complete a substance abuse course. Question Certified: Does section 316.193(5)'s requirements of "monthly reporting probation" and completion of a discretion to impose the maximum fifteen-year prison sentence provided in section 775.082, florida statutes? Coullias v. State, 1D2021-3673 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455855/opinion/Opinion_2021-3673.pdf

DUI MANSLAUGHTER-SENTENCE (J. BILBREY, CONCURRING): "While sentencing judges may temper justice with mercy, as appellate judges we are reviewing only the legality and constitutionality of the sentencing process and sentence. We are not saying that the sentence of fifteen years was too high, only that without requiring some period of probation to allow the completion of a substance abuse course, the sentence did not comply with section 316.193(5)." Coullias v. State, 1D2021-3673 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455855/opinion/Opinion_2021-3673.pdf

JUDICIAL ROLE (J. TANENBAUM, DISSENTING): "Remedying harm is the coin of the judicial realm. To grant relief from legally cognizable harm is the judicial power's primary—and in many cases, its exclusive—function." Coullias v. State, 1D2021-3673 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455855/opinion/Opinion_2021-3673.pdf

JUDICIAL ROLE (J. TANENBAUM, DISSENTING): A reviewing court is powerless to interfere with the length of a sentence imposed by the trial court so long as the sentence is within the limits allowed by the relevant statute. Coullias v. State, 1D2021-3673 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455855/opinion/Opinion_2021-3673.pdf

EVIDENCE: Defendant charged with sexual battery is entitled to present evidence of earlier sexual battery upon the same victim by a different assailant a few days before to show the possible source of her bruises. Basic criminal process rights afford defendants the right to present a defense and to confront state witnesses with evidence that tests the accuracy of their testimony. McCray v. State, 1D2023-1932 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455863/opinion/Opinion_2023-1932.pdf

EVIDENCE (J. WINOKUR, CONCURRING): Facts which on principles of sound logic tend to sustain or impeach a pertinent hypothesis of an issue are to be deemed relevant and admitted in evidence, unless proscribed by some positive prohibition of law. McCray v. State, 1D2023-1932 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455863/opinion/Opinion_2023-1932.pdf

EVIDENCE-CROSS-EXAMINATION (J. WINOKUR, CONCURRING): Although cross-examination is generally limited to the scope of the direct examination, the credibility of the witness is always a proper subject of cross-examination. McCray v. State, 1D2023-1932 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455863/opinion/Opinion_2023-1932.pdf

RAPE SHIELD STATUTE (J. WINOKUR, CONCURRING): By its express terms, the rape shield law does not apply to non-consensual sexual activity. McCray v. State, 1D2023-1932 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455863/opinion/Opinion_2023-1932.pdf

EVIDENCE-IMPEACHMENT (J. WINOKUR, CONCURRING): "The bathroom incident was not relevant because it provided substantive proof that the victim suffered bruising before she entered McCray's tent; rather, the incident was relevant because, as impeachment evidence, it attacked the credibility of the victim...[O]n the one hand, the victim testified that she had no bruises on her body before she entered the victim's tent. On the other, she admitted that, just a few days before the alleged rape, she suffered a "violent" attack. McCray v. State, 1D2023-1932 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455863/opinion/Opinion_2023-1932.pdf

ANDERS BRIEF: Anders brief must be combined with a complete discussion of any possible points of merit to the appeal. Counsel must explain why an appeal of the order may be, not simply identify issues for the appellate court to review. Jenkins v. State, 1D2024-0258 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455868/opinion/Opinion_2024-0258.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Mingo v. State, 1D2025-0081 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455905/opinion/Opinion_2025-0081.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Nelson v. State, 1D2025-0081 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455905/opinion/Opinion_2025-0081.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Farnam v. State, 1D2025-0114 (8/13/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455906/opinion/Opinion_2025-0114.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED-RESISTING A MERCHANT: In a robbery case, Defendant is entitled to an instruction on the lesser included offense of resisting a merchant. Physical detention is not required. But failure to instruct on a lesser included offense is per se reversible error only when the omitted offense is the next immediate lesser. Atmore v. State, 2D2024-0584 (8/13/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455840/opinion/Opinion_202

4-0584.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED-LETTERS: "If a defendant is charged with offense "A" of which "B" is the next immediate lesser-included offense (one step removed) and "C" is the next below "B" (two steps removed), then when the jury is instructed on "B" yet still convicts the accused of "A" it is logical to assume that the panel would not have found him guilty only of "C" (that is, would have passed over "B"), so that the failure to instruct on "C" is harmless." Atmore v. State, 2D2024-0584 (8/13/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455840/opinion/Opinion_2024-0584.pdf

DWLS: A driver license once suspended remains suspended until reinstated. "When the five-year revocation period expired, the defendant's driver's license did not magically reappear." Johnson v. State, 3D2024-1303 (8/13/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455889/opinion/Opinion_2024-1303.pdf

MANDAMUS: Where there was no evidence that the document sought by the mandamus petition existed at the time of the hearing, a writ ordering its production would be unavailing. It is well-established fundamental principle of the law of mandamus that the writ will never be granted in cases when, if issued, it would prove unavailing, or when compliance with it would be nugatory in its effects, or would be without beneficial results and fruitless. Seme v. Office of the State Attorney, 3D24-2241 (8/13/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455858/opinion/Opinion_2024-2241.pdf

CONCURRENT SENTENCE: If concurrent sentences are imposed on multiple offenses, then jail time must be credited for the time awaiting sentencing as to each concurrent sentence. Derefaka v. State, 4D2023-2041 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455867/opinion/Opinion_2023-2041.pdf

OOPS AGAIN: Court does not err in not holding a Richardson hearing concerning a possible discovery violation, where the arrest affidavit and capias cited a non-existent statute citation, but the charging document cited the correct statute number. But the judgment needs to be corrected where it says that Defendant was convicted under §951.22(0). That statute does not exist. There is no subsection (0). Wise-Wilkerson v. State, 4D2024-0218 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455871/opinion/Opinion_2024-0218.pdf

FINE: $50,000 fines are mandatory per the respective cocaine and fentanyl trafficking statutes, so the trial court is not required to orally pronounce them. Shaw v. State, 4D2023-2041 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455867/opinion/Opinion_2023-2041.pdf

FINE: $50,000 fines for trafficking in fentanyl and cocaine are not constitutionally excessive challenge. Shaw v. State, 4D2023-2041 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455867/opinion/Opinion_2023-2041.pdf

COSTS: $65 costs imposed pursuant to a mandatory county ordinance may not be orally pronounced. Because the costs were mandatory, the trial court need not orally pronounce them before imposition. ("Interestingly, the First District has held the sixty-five-dollar county ordinance cost is both discretionary and mandatory."). Shaw v. State, 4D2023-2041 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455867/opinion/Opinion_2023-2041.pdf

BLOOD DRAW: The implied consent statute and its exclusionary rule apply only when blood is being taken from a person based on probable cause as a result of a DUI offense specified in the statutes. §316.1933 requires law enforcement to perform a blood test if the officer has probable cause to believe that a motor vehicle driven by or in the actual physical control of a person under the influence of alcoholic beverages or any chemical substances and has caused the death or serious bodily injury of a human being. State v. Marshall, 4D2024-1115 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455875/opinion/Opinion_2024-1115.pdf

SUPPRESSION-BLOOD DRAW: Where Court made conflicting findings regarding consent, its order pressing the blood draw is vacated and case remanded for clarification. State v. Marshall, 4D2024-1115 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455875/opinion/Opinion_2024-1115.pdf

BLOOD DRAW: Where a defendant is not under lawful arrest and did not seek medical treatment, the implied consent law is not implicated. A person only receives the protection of the implied consent law if the testing provisions of that law are being utilized by the state. If the defendant has consented to the test, then the blood test falls wholly outside the scope of the implied consent law. State v. Marshall, 4D2024-1115 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455875/opinion/Opinion_2024-1115.pdf

BLOOD DRAW: Voluntary consent is not limited to situations where the consenting party had full knowledge that the implied consent laws required submission only to a breath or urine test and that the blood test was being offered as an alternative. State v. Marshall, 4D2024-1115 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455875/opinion/Opinion_2024-1115.pdf

OPINION: Detective may not proffer an opinion that the shooting was not accidental ("[F]rom your review of all of the evidence . . . did you have any indication from the physical evidence or otherwise that this was an accidental shooting?" "No, I did not think it was accidental."). Generally, a lay witness may not testify in terms of an inference or opinion, because it usurps the function of the jury. Opinion testimony of a lay witness is only permitted if it is based on what the witness has personally perceived, grounded in reliability and personal perception rather than speculation. Stukins v. State, 4D2024-1394 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455881/opinion/Opinion_2024-1394.pdf

HARMLESS ERROR: The fact that Detective's improper opinion testimony was isolated does not necessarily establish its harmlessness. Stukins v. State, 4D2024-1394 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455881/opinion/Opinion_2024-1394.pdf

SENTENCING-MARSY'S LAW: The Florida Constitution and Marsy's Law permit crime victims to make a statement before the sentencing court. A trial court is left in a particularly challenging spot when it must balance the rights of the defendant with those of the victim. Court properly threaded the needle by explaining that it would not consider nor rely on Victim's testimony about uncharged conduct. Manna v. State, 4D2024-2656 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455891/opinion/Opinion_2024-2656.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Smith v. State, 4D2025-1672 (8/13/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455900/opinion/Opinion_2025-1672.pdf

AIDING AND ABETTING: A defendant can be properly convicted of aiding and abetting even when he has not personally committed all the acts constituting the elements of the substantive crime aided. USA v. Buchanan, No, 22-14195 (11th Cir. 8/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214195.pdf

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Defendant may be found guilty of possessing counterfeit checks based on his aiding and abetting co-defendant's in the scheme to forge and cash them. USA v. Buchanan, No, 22-14195 (11th Cir. 8/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214195.pdf

THEFT: Theft includes possession of stolen property. Defendant who may not have personally stolen checks from the mail, but aided and abetted others in dealing in possessing them may be convicted of theft. Possession of stolen property is a continuing offense while the defendant has the stolen item, and is not temporally limited to when the item was stolen. The essence of retention is possession, which itself is a continuing offense because the crime is not complete until the possessor parts with the item. USA v. Buchanan, No, 22-14195 (11th Cir. 8/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214195.pdf

IDENTITY THEFT: Under §1028A(a), it is unlawful to knowingly possess without lawful authority, a means of identification of another person during and in relation to certain enumerated felonies, including possessing five or more identification documents with intent to unlawfully use or transfer. The possession must be the "crux" of the predicate offense. Possession of fraudulent checks with the intent of using them with corresponding false identification cards is aggravated identity theft. The means of identity is at the crux of the criminality. USA v. Buchanan, No, 22-14195 (11th Cir. 8/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214195.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-SOPHISTICATED MEANS: The sophisticated means enhancement is both offense-based and defendant-based. Defendant who merely cashed forged checks direction of, and created by others, is not subject to the 2-point sophisticated means enhancement. "If the sophisticated means existed before Mr. Buchanan's participation, it is difficult to see how Mr. Buchanan could 'then' have 'caused' those sophisticated means. Second, putting superglue on one's fingers [to hide fingerprints] does not seem to be especially complex." USA v. Buchanan, No, 22-14195 (11th Cir. 8/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214195.pdf

DEFINITION-SOPHISTICATED: "Sophisticated" means "very complex or complicated," or "especially complex or especially intricate." USA v. Buchanan, No, 22-14195 (11th Cir. 8/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214195.pdf

RESTITUTION: Restitution must be based on the amount of loss actually caused by the defendant's conduct, taking into account relevant conduct. But relevant conduct does not include the conduct of members of a conspiracy prior to the defendant joining the conspiracy, even if the defendant knows of that conduct. USA v. Buchanan, No, 22-14195 (11th

Cir. 8/12/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214195.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-WARRANT: Defendant is not entitled to relief from imposition of the death penalty on the ground the Court refused to inform the jury that Defendant would be ineligible for parole is sentenced to life. Bates v. State, SC2025-1127 (8/12/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455836/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1127%20&%20SC2025-1128.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-WARRANT: A thirty-day warrant period does not, in and of itself, deprive a capital defendant of the right to challenge the warrant. The right to counsel only requires that the defendant have meaningful access to counsel and the courts after his death warrant was signed. Bates v. State, SC2025-1127 (8/12/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455836/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1127%20&%20SC2025-1128.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-WARRANT: A death-sentenced defendant has no constitutional right to public records regarding lethal injection procedures during the warrant period. Bates v. State, SC2025-1127 (8/12/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455836/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1127%20&%20SC2025-1128.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-VENUE: CHANGE OF VENUE: The four Skilling factors for courts to consider when determining whether a defendant is entitled to a change of venue include: (1) the size and characteristics of the community in which the crime occurred; (2) whether pretrial publicity contained a confession or other blatantly prejudicial information of the type readers or viewers could not reasonably be expected to shut from sight; (3) the length of time between the crime and the trial, and any change in the decibel level of media attention in that time; and (4) whether the defendant was acquitted of any charges. The fourth factor can be put in the mix only after trial in an appeal or post-conviction proceeding. Parnell v. USA, No. 22-13907 (11th Cir. 8/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213907.pdf

INEFFECTIVENESS ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL-VENUE: Any presumption of ineffective assistance of counsel for not moving to change venue does not wash over and erase the deficient performance requirement of an ineffective assistance of counsel claim. Defendant is wrong in asserting that no tactical or strategic reason can possibly matter. Parnell v. USA, No. 22-13907 (11th Cir. 8/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213907.pdf

INEFFECTIVENESS ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL: Failure to make the required showing of either deficient performance or sufficient prejudice defeats the ineffectiveness claim. A court need not address both prongs if the petitioner has made an insufficient showing on one of them. Both deficient performance and prejudice are essential. A §2255 movant asserting an ineffective assistance of counsel claim cannot skip over the deficiency component or fold it into the prejudice component of the claim just because a Skilling presumption of jury prejudice could have been established. Parnell v. USA, No. 22-13907 (11th Cir. 8/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213907.pdf

INEFFECTIVENESS ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL: Experience counts. The presumption that an attorney's strategic decision was reasonable is even stronger when the performance of an experienced trial counsel is examined because experience is due some respect. When courts are examining the performance of an experienced trial counsel, the presumption that his conduct was reasonable is even stronger. Parnell v.

USA, No. 22-13907 (11th Cir. 8/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213907.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: The Speedy Trial Act excludes several who periods of delay when computing its time limits, including "the ends of justice." Court must put its reasoning on the record, but defendant waives his right to dismissal under the Speedy Trial Act if he fails to move for dismissal prior to trial. USA v. Louis, No. 23-10643 (11th Cir. 8/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310643.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: Unlike in the statutory context, a defendant who fails to demand a speedy trial does not forever waive that constitutional right. Whether Defendant's constitutional right to a speedy trial has been violated depends on four factors: (1) length of [the] delay; (2) the reason for the delay; (3) the defendant's assertion of his right, and (4) prejudice to the defendant. Unless the first three factors weigh heavily against the government, the defendant is generally required to show actual prejudice to receive relief. USA v. Louis, No. 23-10643 (11th Cir. 8/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310643.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: A delay in trial exceeding one year is presumptively prejudicial. The delay is calculated from the time of arrest or indictment, whichever comes first. USA v. Louis, No. 23-10643 (11th Cir. 8/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310643.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: COVID is a valid reason for delay in bringing a case to trial. USA v. Louis, No. 23-10643 (11th Cir. 8/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310643.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: In reviewing a sufficiency challenge, Courts resolve all reasonable inferences in favor of the verdict and consider the evidence in the light most favorable to the government. The evidence is insufficient only if no reasonable trier of fact could find guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. USA v. Louis, No. 23-10643 (11th Cir. 8/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310643.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-FLIGHT: Evidence of flight is admissible to demonstrate consciousness of guilt and thereby guilt. The probative value of flight evidence is diminished if the defendant has committed several unrelated crimes or if there has been a significant time delay between the commission of the crime and the time of flight. But less probative does not mean disallowed. USA v. Louis, No. 23-10643 (11th Cir. 8/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310643.pdf

DEMONSTRATIVE EVIDENCE: Demonstrative evidence, like any evidence offered at trial, should be excluded if its probative value is substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice, confusion of the issues, or misleading the jury. Court did not err in prohibiting Defendant from trying on discovered shoes to prove that they did not fit. USA v. Louis, No. 23-10643 (11th Cir. 8/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310643.pdf

INTERSTATE COMMERCE: The phrase "in commerce" refers to both the channels within which people and goods move through the flow of commerce" and the instrumentalities used to facilitate that movement. Using cell phones and the internet to purchase sex with minors is interstate commerce, even if all communications are intrastate. USA v. Tovar, No. 23-10755 (11th Cir. 8/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310755.pdf

INTERSTATE COMMERCE-JURISDICTION: The interstate-commerce element in the sex-trafficking statute is nonjurisdictional. "Simply put, if Congress doesn't say it is jurisdictional, then it isn't." "The unhappy fact is that our cases have not been consistent. We have sometimes mistakenly suggested that a statutory interstate-commerce element strikes at the federal courts' subject-matter jurisdiction." USA v. Tovar, No. 23-10755 (11th Cir. 8/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310755.pdf

BINDING PRECEDENT: Alternative holdings are as binding as solitary holdings. USA v. Tovar, No. 23-10755 (11th Cir. 8/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310755.pdf

SELF-DEFENSE-FORCIBLE FELONY EXCEPTION INSTRUCTION: The forcible felony exception instruction says that defendant is not justified in the use of self-defense if he was committing or attempting to commit a forcible felony. It applies only when the accused is charged with at least two criminal acts, the act for which the accused is claiming self-defense and a separate forcible felony. Otherwise, the instruction would be circular and confusing. When an individual is charged with burglary with a battery, the burglary and battery are viewed as separate and independent offenses charged within one information. Where Defendant was charged with burglary with a battery but only claimed self-defense regarding the battery that occurred within the victim's apartment, the forcible felony exception instruction should be given. Smith v. State, 5D2023-0538 (8/8/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455722/opinion/Opinion_2023-0538.pdf

SELF-DEFENSE INSTRUCTION-BURGLARY WITH BATTERY: A self-defense instruction to the entire burglary with a battery charge is appropriate when justifiable use of force is claimed regarding both the burglary and battery. But where the battery occurred after the unlawful entry, a self-defense instruction should not be given for both the burglary and the battery. Smith v. State, 5D2023-0538 (8/8/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455722/opinion/Opinion_2023-0538.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Convictions for both grand theft of a motor vehicle and scheme to defraud violate double jeopardy. Scott v. State, 6D2023-1593 (8/8/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455733/opinion/Opinion_2023-1593.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-MAILBOX RULE: Motion for postconviction relief bearing a prison date stamp of 2009 but not appearing on the trial court's docket until twelve years later is timely. Under the "mailbox rule," a pro se inmate's motion is deemed filed at the moment in time when the inmate loses control over the document by entrusting its further delivery or processing to agents of the state. Scott v. State, 6D2023-1593 (8/8/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455733/opinion/Opinion_2023-1593.pdf

PRETRIAL DIVERSION: State has non-reviewable discretion to terminate a defendant's participation in a Pretrial Deversion Program under §948.08. Court lacks authority to determine whether Defendant complied with and completed diversion. State v. Higgins, 6D2024-0853 (8/8/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455737/opinion/Opinion_2024-0853.pdf

DEFINITION-"THE": Grammar and usage establish that "the" is a function word indicating that a following noun or noun equivalent is definite or has been previously specified by context. USA v. Gyetvay, No. 23-13254 (11th Cir. 8/7/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313254.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS-TOLLING: 18 U.S.C. 3292(a)(1) allows Government to apply to suspend the running of the statute of limitations for certain "Target Offenses" that the grand jury is investigating where the evidence has been formally requested and is held in a foreign country. The government must identify the offense or offenses at issue with enough specificity to 1) make clear to the judge to whom the application is presented which charges the government seeks to be tolled, and 2) elicit evidence of the alleged violations under investigation by the grand jury. Where the target offense was tax evasion (26 U.S.C. §7201), the statute of limitations for failure to file tax returns (26 U.S.C. §7203) was not tolled. USA v. Gyetvay, No. 23-13254 (11th Cir. 8/7/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313254.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS: When any doubt exists about the statute of limitations in a criminal case, the limitations period is construed narrowly against the government and in favor of the defendant. USA v. Gyetvay, No. 23-13254 (11th Cir. 8/7/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313254.pdf

MOTION TO SUPPRESS-TIMELINESS: A motion to suppress is untimely when filed after expiration of the Court's deadline for pretrial motions, notwithstanding that defense counsel did not receive the search warrant until the day of the deadline, where he neither moved for an extension of time nor gave good cause for the delay. A district court's scheduling order is not a frivolous piece of paper, idly entered, which can be cavalierly disregarded by counsel without peril. USA v. Gyetvay, No. 23-13254 (11th Cir. 8/7/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313254.pdf

FORFEITED/WAIVED: Under Rule 12, late filed motions are forfeited rather than waived. USA v. Gyetvay, No. 23-13254 (11th Cir. 8/7/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313254.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-EMAIL-ANACHRONISM: Time-based limitations on the search of an email account, especially when combined with subject-matter limitations, prevent the sort of "general, exploratory rummaging...abhorred by the colonists." USA v. Gyetvay, No. 23-13254 (11th Cir. 8/7/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313254.pdf

SENTENCING-RELEVANT CONDUCT: Relevant conduct is broadly defined to include both uncharged and acquitted conduct that is proven at sentencing by a preponderance of the evidence, including all acts and omissions committed, aided, abetted, counseled, commanded, induced, procured, or willfully caused by the defendant. Past FBAR non-filings (Report of Foreign Bank and Financial Accounts form) are relevant conduct for calculating the Guidelines range. USA v. Gyetvay, No. 23-13254 (11th Cir. 8/7/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313254.pdf

RESTITUTION: For restitution, property must serve as the object of the offense, not simply a collateral component. Court erred in ordering $4,021,074 in restitution to the IRS where Court provided no explanation for the restitution amount being that amount nor did explain why making false statements on his Streamlined Procedures certification was made with the intent to deprive the IRS of property in the form of tax dollars. USA v. Gyetvay, No. 23-13254 (11th Cir. 8/7/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313254.pdf

STRANGE AND ANOMALOUS DEFERENCE SPECTRUM: "Using the arbitrary-and-capricious standard for mixed questions would create an anomaly in the deference spectrum...(I]f we used arbitrary-and-capricious review for mixed questions, the most deferential standard would (strangely) occupy the law-fact spectrum's middle." Martinez v. US Attorney General, No. 23-10105 (11th Cir. 8/6/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310105.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-TRAFFIC STOP: Officer has reasonable suspicion to stop vehicle with Louisiana license plates after identifying the driver as the owner and ascertaining that he did not have a valid Louisiana driver license, notwithstanding that it turned out that he had a valid Florida driver license. State v. Powell, 1D2024-0351 (8/6/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455610/opinion/Opinion_2024-0351.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR OF MARIJUANA: Where trooper smelled marijuana and Defendant stated he did not have a medical marijuana card, admitted smoking marijuana in the car the night before, and did not claim that the smell was hemp, trooper may search the vehicle. State v. Powell, 1D2024-0351 (8/6/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455610/opinion/Opinion_2024-0351.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-HOTEL: The constitutional protections against unreasonable searches of the home extend to hotel rooms, but a hotel guest no longer has an expectation of privacy in his hotel room when he has been lawfully ejected from the hotel. Williams v. State, 1D2023-10755 (8/6/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455612/opinion/Opinion_2024-1628.pdf

VOP-JURISDICTION: Credit for time spent in jail prior to sentencing reduces only the jail term imposed as a condition of probation, not the overall length of the probationary period. Where Defendant is sentenced to 48 months of probation is a special condition that he spend 120 days in jail with credit for 76 days, the 76 days do not shorten the 48 months of probation. The credit he received for time served did not shorten the length of his probation. Conflict Certified. Medley v. State, 1D2024-1707 (8/6/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455617/opinion/Opinion_2024-1707.pdf

JURY TRIAL: Defendant's conviction for criminal mischief after a bench trial must be vacated where there was no oral or written waiver of the right to a trial by jury. Defendant's silence in court does not constitute a valid waiver of the right to a jury trial, even where such silence follows defense counsel's oral waiver on behalf of the defendant. Erb v. State, 1D2024-2674 (8/6/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455619/opinion/Opinion_2024-2674.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: The postconviction process and the appellate courts do not exist simply to give prisoners something to do while they serve their sentences. Newkirk v. State, 1D2024-2993 (8/6/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455620/opinion/Opinion_2024-2993.pdf

ERLINGER: Any change in law stemming from Erlinger is not fundamentally significant and does not satisfy the retroactivity test. Mosley v. State, 1D2025-0234 (8/6/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455629/opinion/Opinion_2025-0234.pdf

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS: When a defendant improperly seeks postconviction relief in a habeas petition, a circuit court may convert the habeas petition to a rule 3.850 motion and transfer it to the sentencing court, but if there would be a procedural bar to a postconviction motion, the circuit court should instead dismiss the habeas petition as unauthorized. Woods v. State, 2D2024-1547 (8/6/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455580/opinion/Opinion_2024-1547.pdf

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS: There are limited circumstances in which a petition for writ of habeas corpus may be used to challenge a fundamentally defective information that wholly fails to charge a crime, but any failure to allege venue in an information does not meet that standard. Woods v. State, 2D2024-1547 (8/6/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455580/opinion/Opinion_2024-1547.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Pounds v. State, 3D2025-0069 (8/6/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455644/opinion/Opinion_2025-0069.pdf

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus is not a vehicle for obtaining additional appeals of issues which were raised, or should have been raised, on direct appeal or which were waived at trial or which could have, should have, or have been, raised in rule 3.850 proceedings. Pagan v. Dixon, 3D2025-0241 (8/6/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455651/opinion/Opinion_2025-0241.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger was a direct-appeal case--not a postconviction case--and it involved required jury findings regarding an element. Postconviction review of defendant's sentence based on Erlinger is improper. Richardson v. State, 3D25-0830 (8/6/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455642/opinion/Opinion_2025-0830.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: A life sentence is not impermissible indefinite imprisonment under the Florida Constitution. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Sheppard v. State, 3D25-1039 (8/6/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455646/opinion/Opinion_2025-1039.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE-PAROLE: "Appellant's argument that the statute guarantees him release on parole after 25 years is clearly without any arguable merit. Appellant's assertion that a legislative amendment to the parole statute in 1982 somehow made parole mandatory after 25 years is without any basis in law." Battle v. Dixon, 4D2025-1156 (8/6/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455653/opinion/Opinion_2025-1156.pdf

EIGHTH AMENDMENT-QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Qualified immunity provides that government officials performing discretionary functions generally are shielded from liability for civil damages insofar as their conduct does not violate clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would have known. Qualified immunity shields state prison officials from a lawsuit alleging that their denial of a transgender prisoner's request to grow long hair and wear makeup, earrings, and nail polish violated the prisoner's right to be free from cruel and unusual punishment where plaintiff fails to prove medical necessity. Bayse v. Ward, No. 24-11299 (11th Cir. 8/1/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411299.pdf

BINDING PRECEDENT: Unpublished cases do not serve as binding precedent and cannot be relied upon to define clearly established law. Bayse v. Ward, No. 24-11299 (11th Cir. 8/1/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411299.pdf

MOTION TO CORRECT-JURISDICTION-APPEAL: Trial court lacks jurisdiction to rule on pro se motion to correct credit for time served where a direct appeal was pending, and where Defendant was represented by appellate counsel. Higgins v. State, 2D2025-0054 (8/1/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455458/opinion/Opinion_2025-0054.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-INTERSTATE AGREEMENT ON DETAINERS: IAD and R. 3.191 must be read together; notice of expiration of Speedy Trial must be filed for Defendant to be discharged for not being brought to trial within 180 days under the Interstate Agreement on Retainers. Hunter v. State, 5D2024-0300 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455465/opinion/Opinion_2024-0300.pdf

INTERSTATE AGREEMENT ON DETAINERS: The IAD establishes clear procedures for resolution of one jurisdiction's outstanding but untried charges against a prisoner in the custody of a different jurisdiction. If a prisoner who is imprisoned in one state (the "sending state") wishes to resolve any untried indictment or information pending in another state (the "receiving state") that has lodged a detainer against him, the prisoner may initiate the process by sending a formal written notice or request for transfer and resolution of charges to the receiving state. He must provide a written notice and request for disposition to the warden or other corrections official having custody over him, who must promptly forward the prisoner's notice and request to the appropriate prosecuting official and court. Once the prisoner's conforming notice has been delivered to the receiving, the prisoner shall be brought to trial in the receiving jurisdiction within 180 days. Hunter v. State, 5D2024-0300 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455465/opinion/Opinion_2024-0300.pdf

INTERSTATE AGREEMENT ON DETAINERS: If the prisoner makes a good faith effort to bring himself within the IAD's purview, and omits nothing essential to its operation, then his failure of strict compliance will not deprive him of its benefits. Hunter v. State, 5D2024-0300 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455465/opinion/Opinion_2024-0300.pdf

INTERSTATE AGREEMENT ON DETAINERS: Weekends are not excluded from the 10-day speedy trial recapture period. R. 2.514 excludes weekends and holidays only for the periods of time of less than 7 days. Hunter v. State, 5D2024-0300 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455465/opinion/Opinion_2024-0300.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: A waiver of speedy trial may be implied, even presumed, when a defendant seeks a continuance, making him unavailable for trial. Hunter v. State, 5D2024-0300 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455465/opinion/Opinion_2024-0300.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: Where Defendant's agreement to a post-expiration trial date and his post-expiration motion for a continuance prior to serving his notice of expiration were not the principal reason that the trial was not timely commenced within the recapture period, neither operated as a waiver of his entitlement to discharge pursuant to the IAD and Rule 3.191. Hunter v. State, 5D2024-0300 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455465/opinion/Opinion_2024-0300.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-RECAPTURE-ETHICS (J. EISNAUGLE, CONCURRING): Counsel stood silent when a Court set the trial beyond expiration of speedy trial until it was too late for the trial court to correct the error. "Generally, the rule on preservation does not countenance the potential for gamesmanship...Nevertheless, I am bound by our supreme court's decision in Stuart v. State...[N]o concept of a duty of open dealing before the court can justify requiring the defense to do the state's job...[But] [t]hat is no reason to jettison the rule on preservation. As I see it, a defendant has no 'right and lawful interest' in allowing, through silence, a speedy trial violation to occur based on the trial court's misunderstanding of the law. ..Were I not bound by Stuart, I would apply the rule on preservation and affirm." Hunter v. State, 5D2024-0300 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455465/opinion/Opinion_2024-0300.pdf

FALSE NAME: The crime of giving a false name cannot occur before Defendant is lawfully detained. Pickard v. State, 5D2024-1241 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455466/opinion/Opinion_2024-1241.pdf

VINDICTIVE SENTENCE: When a trial court imposes a harsher sentence after participating in plea negotiations, the appellate court must review the totality of the circumstances to determine if the sentence is vindictive.

Factors include: (1) whether the court initiated plea discussions with the defendant, (2) whether the court appears to have departed from its impartial role by urging the defendant to accept a plea or by implying that going to trial would influence sentencing, (3) the disparity between the plea offer and the sentence imposed, and (4) the lack of any facts to explain the increased sentence other than the defendant exercising his right to a trial or hearing. Pickard v. State, 5D2024-1241 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455466/opinion/Opinion_2024-1241.pdf

VINDICTIVE SENTENCE: Sentence is vindictive where the court started plea discussions by offering a two-year sentence, told counsel that he had to "get it done in two minutes," said Defendant was being "very unrealistic" and "just wasn't getting it," lamented that "clients don't always listen to good strong legal advice," and imposed a sentence ten times longer than the one it suggested at the start of the hearing. "The bottom line is that nothing in the record— other than Appellant exercising his right to a hearing—explains the disparity between the two-year sentence that the court offered and the twenty-year sentence that it imposed less than an hour later." Pickard v. State, 5D2024-1241 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455466/opinion/Opinion_2024-1241.pdf

COMPETENCY: A competency hearing is mandatory if the trial judge has reasonable grounds to suggest a defendant is not mentally competent to proceed. Defendant's right to have the trial court make an independent, legal determination that he is competent to proceed once his competency has been called into question cannot be waived. Awolowo distinguished. Navarro v. State, 5D2024-1352 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455467/opinion/Opinion_2024-1352.pdf

SENTENCING-SCORESHEET: When a sentence is being imposed, an accurate scoresheet must be prepared to inform and guide the court in making its sentencing decision. Sentencing a defendant without the consideration of a scoresheet is fundamental error that may be raised at any time. Navarro v. State, 5D2024-1352 (8/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455467/opinion/Opinion_2024-1352.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: If a prisoner files a habeas corpus petition in circuit court, the petition must be filed in the circuit court of the county in which the prisoner is detained. Jones v. Florida D.O.C., 6D2023-4334 (8/1/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455477/opinion/Opinion_2023-4334.pdf

JULY 2025

SENTENCING GUIDELINES-CHILD PORN-NUMBER OF IMAGES: Each video frame that contains child pornography counts as one "image" for purposes of calculating any sentencing enhancement. To calculate this sentencing enhancement, the government must present evidence of the number of frames containing child pornography. This task could be accomplished by identifying how many seconds within the video contain child pornography and then multiplying that number by the video's frame rate. Neither the guidelines commentary (each video or video-clip equals 75 images) nor the Defendant (each video equals one image) is correct. "[T]he fact that a result seems harsh does not render it absurd." USA v. Kluge, No, 2023-10697 (11th Cir. 7/31/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310697.pdf

RESTITUTION-CHILD PORN: Court must order restitution in an amount that ref lects the defendant's relative role in the causal process that underlies the victim's losses, but which is no less than $3,000 per victim. Judge may determine the essential findings required to trigger the $3,000 mandatory minimum restitution awards, including the identity of the victims, their total losses, and the portion of those losses attributable to Defendant's actions. A jury need not find these essential facts. Apprendi and Alleyne do not apply to restitution orders because an award of restitution is not a criminal penalty. USA v. Kluge, No, 2023-10697 (11th Cir. 7/31/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310697.pdf

RESTITUTION-CHILD PORN: In setting restitution in child porn case, Court need not disaggregate the value of the victim's loss caused by original abuser-creator or distributor of child pornography abuse from the award. A court need only indicate in some manner that it has considered that the instant defendant is a possessor, and not the initial abuser or a distributor, and has assigned restitution based solely on the defendant possessor's particular conduct. USA v. Kluge, No, 2023-10697 (11th Cir. 7/31/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310697.pdf

CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE: Discretionary conditions of supervised release in the written judgment are binding, despite not being identified on the record at sentencing nor enumerated in the PSI. A defendant is given notice of, and opportunity to be heard on, the conditions of his supervised released as long as the district court informed him that there were standard conditions adopted in the Middle District of Florida attached to his supervised release. USA v. Kluge, No, 2023-10697 (11th Cir. 7/31/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310697.pdf

APPEAL-SENTENCING PROCESS: Defendant who pleads guilty or no contest may not appeal an unpreserved error in the sentencing process, even if that error is fundamental. R. 9.140(b) contains no provision expressly authorizing appeals based on errors in the sentencing process, whether preserved or not. Question Certified: May a Defendant who entered a plea of guilty or nolo contendere raise on appeal a claim of unpreserved fundamental error in the sentencing process? Clakley v. State, 1D2021-3319 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455323/opinion/Opinion_2021-3319.pdf

SENTENCING-APPEAL-IMPRUDENCE: Defendant who intends to appeal his sentence probably should not, as soon as it is imposed, interject "I'm glad that p[]ssy motherf[]cker dead" and "I'm glad that b[*]tch dead." Clakley v. State, 1D2021-3319 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455323/opinion/Opinion_2021-3319.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: Sentencing judges have wide discretion to consider a defendant's conduct and the surrounding conditions of the offense when imposing an in-range sentence. Court does not err in considering that the facts of conviction could have supported a charge of first-degree murder. Clakley v. State, 1D2021-3319 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455323/opinion/Opinion_2021-3319.pdf

VICTIM IMPACT STATEMENTS: Florida constitution provides crime victims with an affirmative right to give an unsworn impact statement and to have it considered by the sentencing court. If error, error is not fundamental. Clakley v. State, 1D2021-3319 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455323/opinion/Opinion_2021-3319.pdf

COSTS: Court does not err in imposing a $2 cost pursuant to §938.15, without identifying the municipal or county ordinance that authorized the cost where the ordinance exists and applies to the defendant. Clakley v.

State, 1D2021-3319 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455323/opinion/Opinion_2021-3319.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: The correct standard for determining any sufficiency-of-the-evidence claim is competent, sufficient evidence. Jackson v. State, 1D2023-0333 (7/30/2)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455332/opinion/Opinion_2023-0333.pdf

JURY: The jury alone determines the credibility of witnesses. Jackson v. State, 1D2023-0333 (7/30/2)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455332/opinion/Opinion_2023-0333.pdf

COMPETENCY: Under the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, a defendant may not be tried and convicted of a crime if he is not competent to stand trial. States must provide adequate procedures to safeguard the right. A trial court must conduct a hearing for competency to stand trial whenever it reasonably appears necessary, whether requested or not, to ensure that a defendant meets the standard of competency. Tucker v. State, 1D2024-1520 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455345/opinion/Opinion_2024-1520.pdf

APPEAL-RECORD: "Although he was afforded a chance to do so, Tucker did not file with this court a transcript of the competency hearing conducted in this case. Without this transcript, we cannot determine what factors the trial court considered in reaching its conclusion that Tucker was competent to proceed." Tucker v. State, 1D2024-1520 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455345/opinion/Opinion_2024-1520.pdf

COMPETENCY: On the one hand, a trial court has a continuing obligation to conduct a competency hearing at any time it is reasonably necessary—whether it is requested or not. On the other hand, once a defendant is determined competent to stand trial, a presumption of competence attaches to the defendant in later proceedings. An additional competency hearing is necessary only if a bona fide question of the defendant's competency has been raised. Tucker v. State, 1D2024-1520 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455345/opinion/Opinion_2024-1520.pdf

WAIVER OF RIGHT TO TESTIFY: For a waiver of the right to testify to be valid, the record must show the defendant made a knowing, voluntary, and intelligent decision. A thorough colloquy with Defendant on his right to testify spanning eight pages of the trial transcript is sufficient. Tucker v. State, 1D2024-1520 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455345/opinion/Opinion_2024-1520.pdf

VOP: A probationer must meet all four requirements to qualify for sentencing under §948.06(2)(f), which requires Court to modify or continue a probationary term upon finding a probationer in violation when a) the term of supervision is probation, b) the probationer does not qualify as a violent felony offender of special concern, c) the violation is a low-risk technical violation, and d) the court has not previously found the probationer in violation of his or her probation during the current term of supervision. Tucker v. State, 1D2024-1520 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455345/opinion/Opinion_2024-1520.pdf

VOP: §948.06 provides for the possibility of multiple terms of supervision within the same case, so the "current" term of supervision means that other, previous terms of supervision are disregarded. "It's not absurd to interpret the 'current term' provision in §948.06(2)(f)1.d., to distinguish between VOPs occurring during different probationary terms in a case...[T]he statute reflects a rational policy of giving probationers one slender break when adjusting to each current probationary term, applying to just a single, low-risk misstep. This grace benefits state coffers, too, insofar as it avoids having to pay to imprison low-risk violaters." Tucker v. State, 1D2024-1520 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455345/opinion/Opinion_2024-1520.pdf

VOP: Lying to probation officer (Defendant obtained permission to visit his "aunt," who was later discovered to be his girlfriend and not his aunt) is not a low-risk violation. "Although Garmany's violation is obviously technical in nature, it isn't captured among the violations that can receive the benefit of §948.06(2)(f)(1). And we lack the authority to add it to the list ourselves." Garmany v. State, 1D2024-1892 (7/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455352/opinion/Opinion_2024-1892.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Appellate court will not reverse a conviction that is supported by competent, substantial evidence. There is sufficient evidence to sustain a conviction if, after viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the State, a rational trier of fact could find the existence of the elements of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt. Perez v. State, 3D2023-2154 (7/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455335/opinion/Opinion_202

3-2154.pdf

ATTEMPTED SECOND-DEGREE: The elements of attempted second-degree murder are: (1) the defendant intentionally committed an act that could have resulted, but did not result, in the death of someone, and (2) the act was imminently dangerous to another and demonstrated a depraved mind without regard for human life. Perez v. State, 3D2023-2154 (7/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455335/opinion/Opinion_2023-2154.pdf

DISMISSAL: Court may not dismiss case based on the absence of a witness. State has exclusive discretion to dismiss criminal charges absent a statute or a motion to dismiss. State v. Aguirre Zulaga, 3D2024-0247 (7/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455366/opinion/Opinion_2024-0247.pdf

DISMISSAL (J. MILLER, J., CONCURRING): "I...write separately to address the trial court's standing requirement that all witnesses appear at a time certain for a pretrial competency determination. Few undertakings are more firmly committed to the broad discretion of the trial court than docket management...But...mandating appearance for a pretrial competency determination is, in my view, both legally unnecessary and potentially burdensome on the parties and witnesses. State v. Aguirre Zulaga, 3D2024-0247 (7/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455366/opinion/Opinion_2024-0247.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Normally, a habeas corpus petition must be filed in the circuit court for the county in which the petitioner is imprisoned. But when a petitioner attacks his conviction by raising issues relating to the trial or to the propriety of a plea, the trial court that imposed the sentence and rendered the judgment of conviction has jurisdiction. Shiflet v. State, 3D2024-1651 (7/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455370/opinion/Opinion_2024-1651.pdf

RESTITUTION: The statutory provisions requiring the imposition of restitution recognize the discretion of the trial court in determining the amount of restitution. Walls v. State, 3D2024-1652 (7/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455373/opinion/Opinion_2024-1652.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-PLEA OFFER: Counsel's failure to convey a client's acceptance of a plea offer to the State can constitute ineffective assistance of counsel. To establish prejudice on a lost plea, a defendant must show (1) he or she would have accepted the offer had counsel advised the defendant correctly, (2) the prosecutor would not have withdrawn the offer, (3) the court would have accepted the offer, and (4) the conviction or sentence, or both, under the offer's terms would have been less severe than under the judgment and sentence that in fact were imposed. Nathaniels v. State, 3D24-1683 (7/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455374/opinion/Opinion_2024-1683.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: To affirm a trial court's summary denial, the claims must be either facially insufficient, conclusively refuted by the record, or procedurally barred. "Finding all of Weaver's claims fit squarely in these three categories, we affirm." Weaver v. State, 3D2025-0884 (7/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455382/opinion/Opinion_2025-0884.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A motion to correct illegal sentence under R. 3.800(a) is not cognizable where the defendant seeks to challenge the validity of the conviction and, only by extension, the "legality" of the resulting sentence. Dawkins v. State, 3D25-0922 (7/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455349/opinion/Opinion_2025-0922.pdf

PAROLE: There exists no right to parole upon serving the 25-year mandatory minimum portion of a life sentence. Johnson v. State, 3D25-1026 (7/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455384/opinion/Opinion_2025-1026.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Successive habeas corpus petitions seeking the same relief are not permitted nor can new claims be raised in a second petition when the circumstances upon which they are based were known or should have been known at the time the prior petition was filed. McClenney v. State, 3D25-1224 (7/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455355/opinion/Opinion_2025-1224.pdf

COST OF SUPERVISION: §948.09(1)(a)1 does not specifically authorizes a trial court to impose a $50 cost of supervision. A cost of supervision for a misdemeanor is no less than $40 per month, but no amount is set for felonies. Because no statutory authority sets that cost amount, an evidentiary hearing on the proper amount is required, not to exceed the actual per diem cost of the supervision. What that amount should be is left for the trial court's determination. Avila v. State, 4D2023-2599 (7/30/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455343/opinion/Opinion_2023-2599.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: A life sentence is not unconstitutionally indefinite. A life sentence is set and definite even if the ultimate duration of the term is not known until the offender dies. Decosta v. State, 4D2025-0682 (7/30/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455375/opinion/Opinion_2025-0682.pdf

ACCA: The Armed Career Criminal Act requires an enhanced sentence for people who possess a firearm after receiving three or more qualifying felony convictions. A conviction under South Carolina's assault with intent to kill statute is a "violent felony" predicate for ACCA because it requires the purposeful or knowing intent to commit a violent injury for assault with intent to kill. USA v. Harbuck, No. 23-14007 (7/28/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202314007.pdf

ACCA: The Armed Career Criminal Act's definition of "violent felony" is not void for vagueness. USA v. Harbuck, No. 23-14007 (7/28/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202314007.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-INVITED ERROR: When a party agrees with a court's proposed instructions, the doctrine of invited error applies, meaning that review is waived even if plain error would result. USA v. Kennedy, No. 21-14181 (7/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114181.pdf

EVIDENCE-TEXT MESSAGES: Text messages between Defendant and his girlfriend alluding to their drug use are not merely evidence of any other crime, wrong, or act that was not charged in the indictment. Instead, the texts are inextricably intertwined with the evidence regarding the charged offense because whether Defendant provided his girlfriend with heroin is directly relevant to the charge of possession with intent to distribute heroin. USA v. Kennedy, No. 21-14181 (7/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114181.pdf

OPINION-EXPERT: Officer may testify as an expert that the type and quantity of drugs can suggest whether they're intended for distribution or personal use and that 3.63 grams of heroin is a "distribution quantity. USA v. Kennedy, No. 21-14181 (7/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114181.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: In determining the sufficiency of the prosecution's case, Court makes no distinction between circumstantial and direct evidence. Possession of a firearm for drugs can be shown by circumstantial as well as direct evidence and "can be either actual or constructive. USA v. Kennedy, No. 21-14181 (7/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114181.pdf

DISTRIBUTION OF NARCOTICS: "As for what we are calling Kennedy's Johnny Appleseed argument, illegal drugs are not apple trees." The criminal drug possession statute he was convicted of violating makes no distinction between selling drugs and giving them away. USA v. Kennedy, No. 21-14181 (7/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114181.pdf

FIREARM-FURTHERANCE: Firearms found in a gun case, the safe, and Defendant's truck support a finding that he possessed the firearms in furtherance of narcotics distribution. "[A]s Forrest Gump might say, drugs and guns go together like peas and carrots." USA v. Kennedy, No. 21-14181 (7/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114181.pdf

ACCA: ACCA lists "burglary" as one of the enumerated "violent felon[ies]" that (if punishable by a term of imprisonment exceeding one year) qualifies as predicate offense for a sentence enhancement. The Georgia burglary statute in effect at the time is a predicate offense. Unlawfully entering or remaining in a building or structure with the intent to commit a crime inside is all generic burglary requires that a burglar have specifically intended to do. USA v. Kennedy, No. 21-14181 (7/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114181.pdf

QUOTATION: "After all, the best laid plans of mice and burglars often go astray." USA v. Kennedy, No. 21-14181 (7/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114181.pdf

SENTENCING CONSIDERATIONS: In sentencing, Court may consider Defendant's post-conviction behavior, including threats he made to witnesses and that his response to the jury's verdict was "to rip his mask off, throw it on the table, and state 'Fuck,' with the jury still in the box." "There is no reason a sentencing court should not take into account a defendant's threats to harm witnesses against him and his public expressions of disrespect for the court, the jury, and the judicial proceedings as a whole. And there are a number of good reasons a court should consider those types of misconduct when setting a sentence." USA v. Kennedy, No. 21-14181 (7/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114181.pdf

SENTENCE-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: Sentences that fall within the Guidelines range or that are below the statutory maximum are generally reasonable. USA v. Kennedy, No. 21-14181 (7/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114181.pdf

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: When contraband is discovered in a jointly occupied vehicle, knowledge and the ability to exercise dominion and control of the contraband cannot be inferred based solely on the defendant's proximity to the contraband. Instead, knowledge and ability to maintain control must be established by independent proof, such as a confession that Defendant just bought "that meth" which "cost like $100." Thompson v. State, 2D2024-1523 (7/25/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455172/opinion/Opinion_2024-1523.pdf

HVFO: Even if the HVFO sentence was rendered in error, the error is harmless where the record demonstrates beyond a reasonable doubt that a rational jury would have found" defendant qualified as an HFO. Wilkerson v. State, 5D2024-0939 (7/25/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455179/opinion/Opinion_2024-0939.pdf

COST OF INVESTIGATION: Court may not impose a $100.00 cost of investigation where State did not request it. Costs not mandated in a minimum amount set by statute will have to be requested—and established—by the State. Because they must be proven, they must be requested. Townsend v. State, 5D2024-1379 (7/25/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455180/opinion/Opinion_2024-1379.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: The felony prosecution cost is $100 per case. Court may not impose $150 in prosecution costs upon State's request absent documentation supporting the higher amount. Prosecution costs must be requested and established by the State. Berrios v. State, 5D2024-2361 (7/25/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455181/opinion/Opinion_2024-2361.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Where Defendant moves to withdraw is plea because he had reconsidered his decision and he found the sentence unfavorable and "unfit for challenging" on appeal, and further alleged his trial counsel had misled and coerced him into entering the plea by saying he would lose trial and get life, conflict-free counsel must be appointed. Once a defendant raises specific allegations in a motion to withdraw a plea that give rise to an adversarial relationship,the trial court should hold a limited hearing to determine whether an adversarial relationship exists between the defendant and defense counsel. A key to determining whether an adversarial relationship exists is when it becomes apparent that the defendant and his counsel are on opposite sides on the question of whether a plea should be withdrawn. Mathis v. State, 5D2024-2498 (7/25/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455182/opinion/Opinion_2024-2498.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively as it is purely procedural in nature. Major v. State, 6D2025-0277 (7/25/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455188/opinion/Opinion_2025-0277.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: F.R.App.P. 9.141(d) does not provide a vehicle to challenge postconviction appellate counsel's effectiveness. Fitzsimmons v. State, 1D2024-2928 (7/23/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455052/opinion/Opinion_202

4-2928.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: There simply cannot be a cognizable claim for ineffective assistance of appellate counsel where under the mandated Anders process, an affirmance by the appellate court in essence has determined that the appellant received his constitutionally guaranteed right to effective assistance from appellate counsel. Wallace v. State, 1D2024-3343 (7/23/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455056/opinion/Opinion_2024-3343.pdf

SPECIAL JURY INSTRUCTION: To be entitled to a special jury instruction, Defendant must prove: (1) the special instruction was supported by the evidence; (2) the standard instruction did not adequately cover the theory of defense; and (3) the special instruction was a correct statement of the law and not misleading or confusing. Whipple v. State, 3D23-2015 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455102/opinion/Opinion_2023-2015.pdf

EVIDENCE-SILENT WITNESS: Under the "silent witness" method, a photograph may be admitted upon a showing of the reliability of the production process. T]he silent witness theory is equally applicable to video evidence. Whipple v. State, 3D23-2015 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455102/opinion/Opinion_2023-2015.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Evidence is sufficient to sustain a conviction if, after viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the State, a rational trier of fact could find the existence of the elements of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt, regardless of whether, at trial, the State

presented only purely circumstantial evidence of guilt as to the charge crime. Jaime v. State, 23-2020 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455084/opinion/Opinion_2023-2020.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE-ANALOGY MATTERS: Evidence to overcome a motion for JOA is sufficient where State put the evidence together like pieces of a puzzle, not by a stacking of inferences. Jaime v. State, 23-2020 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455084/opinion/Opinion_2023-2020.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Evidence is sufficient to sustain a conviction if, after viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the State, a rational trier of fact could find the existence of the elements of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt. This standard of appellate review applies regardless of whether, at trial, the State presented only purely circumstantial evidence of guilt as to the charge crime. Miller v, State, 3D24-0077 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455085/opinion/Opinion_2024-0077.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: Officer has reasonable suspicion to conduct a patdown search where suspect looked young and appeared nervous when observed clutching the front pocket of his hoodie, consistently with someone attempting to conceal a firearm. Brock v. State, 3D24-0393 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455103/opinion/Opinion_2024-0393.pdf

FIREARM: "While we do not prejudge a question of constitutionality which is not properly before us, the events in this case give pause that perhaps the legislature may want to revisit the constitutional implications and collateral effects of this statute [§790.0, which prohibits anyone under the age of twenty one from carrying a concealed firearm]...A foreseeable consequence is that many law-abiding, young adult citizens who are exercising their Second Amendment rights can be confused for individuals who do not meet the age requirement." Brock v. State, 3D24-0393 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455103/opinion/Opinion_2024-0393.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: In moving for a judgment of acquittal, the defendant admits not only the facts stated in the evidence adduced, but also admits every conclusion favorable to the State] that a jury might fairly and reasonably infer. Court should not grant a motion for JOA unless the evidence is such that no view which the jury may lawfully take of it favorable to the State can be sustained under the law. Oliver v. State, 3D24-1532 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455092/opinion/Opinion_2024-1532.pdf

ASSAULT: Where the circumstances were such as to ordinarily induce fear in the mind of a reasonable man, then the victim may be found to be in fear, and actual fear need not be strictly and precisely shown. Oliver v. State, 3D24-1532 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455092/opinion/Opinion_2024-1532.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Court must allow a defendant credit for all of the time she or he spent in the county jail before sentence. But the term "county jail" is applicable only to Florida jails and does not apply to incarceration in other jurisdictions. The trial judge has inherent discretionary authority to award credit for time served in other jurisdictions while awaiting transfer to Florida. Broughton v. State, 3D24-1796 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455105/opinion/Opinion_2024-1796.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant fails to show ineffective assistance of counsel for not getting credit for time served where he could not show that he was held in another state solely on the Florida charge. Instead, the documentation provided shows he was held in other states for charges pending in those states completely unconnected to Florida. Broughton v. State, 3D24-1796 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455105/opinion/Opinion_2024-1796.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Pace v. State, 3D24-2122 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455113/opinion/Opinion_2024-2122.pdf

INEFFECTIVE APPELLATE COUNSEL: Appellate counsel's ineffectiveness is limited to those situations where the petitioner establishes first that appellate counsel's performance was deficient because the alleged omissions are of such magnitude as to constitute a serious error or substantial deficiency falling measurably outside the range of professionally acceptable performance and second, that the petitioner was prejudiced because appellate counsel's deficiency compromised the appellate process to such a degree as to undermine confidence in the correctness of the result. Dumond v. State, 3D25-0163 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455110/opinion/Opinion_2025-0163.pdf

ERLINGER: The purpose Erlinger is to conform criminal procedure to the Sixth Amendment's guarantee. Erlinger is not a development of fundamental significance under the existing retroactivity test; it does not apply retroactively Alvarez v. State, 3D25-1203 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455096/opinion/Opinion_2025-1203.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: A life sentence is not impermissible indefinite imprisonment under the Florida Constitution. The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Alvarez v. State, 3D25-1203 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455096/opinion/Opinion_2025-1203.pdf

MINORS-PRETRIAL INCARCERATION: Commissioner appointed to determine facts to resolve the legality of holding minors chrged as adults in county jail. Comer v. State, 3D25-1258 (7/23/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2455116/opinion/Opinion_2025-1258.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-EIGHTH AMENDMENT: Death penalty imposed over jury's life over recommendation was not unconstitutional and arbitrary notwithstanding that it would be unlawful now. Zakrzewski v. State, SC2025-1009 (7/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454993/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1009.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: The thirty-day period between the signing of his death warrant and expected execution is not so short as to deprive prisoner of meaningful access to counsel and the courts, notwithstanding that it overlaps with the July 4th holiday and the pendency of another death row inmate's execution. The Governor's broad discretion in selecting which death warrants to sign and when does not violate the United States Constitution or the Florida Constitution. Zakrzewski v. State, SC2025-1009 (7/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454993/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1009.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-RECORDS: Defendant is not entitled to records relating to Florida's lethal injection protocol from FDLE nor clemency records from the Attorney General. Requests related to actions of lethal injection personnel in past executions do not relate to a colorable claim concerning future executions because there is a presumption that members of the executive branch will perform their duties properly. Zakrzewski v. State, SC2025-1009 (7/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454993/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-1009.pdf

DISTURBING A LAWFUL ASSEMBLY-FREE SPEECH: Defendant is entitled to JOA for Disturbing an Assembly where at a city council meeting he raised his hand and made two statements--"Can I ask you a question, please," and "No, you're out of order because I asked for help and I'm not getting it." The speculation that Defendant might speak out of order or become argumentative if he were not removed from the meeting does not provide probable cause for his arrest. Jones v. State, 2D2024-0400 (7/18/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454856/opinion/Opinion_2024-0400.pdf

RESISTING AN OFFICER WITHOUT VIOLENCE: Where Defendant was wrongly arrested for disturbing a lawful assembly, he cannot be convicted or resisting arrest without violence. Jones v. State, 2D2024-0400 (7/18/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454856/opinion/Opinion_2024-0400.pdf

THREATENING A LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICER: Facebook postings where Defendant graphically described how he was going to physically harm officer and stated, "I mean that shit" may support a conviction for threatening a police officer. Comments were not hyperbolic nor metaphoric. Jones v. State, 2D2024-0400 (7/18/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454856/opinion/Opinion_2024-0400.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-UPWARD DEPARTURE: Court may not impose any sentence above a nonstate prison sanction for felony DWLS where Defendant scores fewer than 22 points unless a jury makes the dangerousness finding. Dubac v. State, 5D2024-2250 (7/18/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454908/opinion/Opinion_2024-2250.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-UPWARD DEPARTURE (J. EISNAUGLE, CONCURRING): Supreme court should reconsider Gaymon. §775.082(10) provides that if the court makes written findings that a nonstate prison sanction could present a danger to the public, the court may sentence the offender to prison. "Important here, the Legislature could have assigned the dangerousness finding to the jury. It did not." Consistent with strict separation of powers, Florida's courts are without authority to add words to statutes that were not placed there by the Legislature nor to modify a statute's express terms. Dubac v. State, 5D2024-2250 (7/18/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454908/opinion/Opinion_2024-2250.pdf

TRIAL-FORCE ISSUE CONCESSION: Court erred when it forced counsel to concede in closing argument that Defendant had committed the offense of battery as a condition of the trial court giving a jury instruction on self-defense. Requiring a defendant to concede to the jury that elements of a crime were established is the opposite of requiring the State to prove each element of a crime to the jury beyond a reasonable doubt. Ortiz v. State, 6D2023-3214 (7/18/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454874/opinion/Opinion_2023-3214.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION: In a criminal proceeding, the trial court's discretion is limited by the defendant's right to have the jury instructed on any valid theory of defense supported by record evidence. Ortiz v. State, 6D2023-3214 (7/18/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454874/opinion/Opinion_2023-3214.pdf

SELF-DEFENSE: The question of self-defense is one of fact, and is one for the jury to decide where the facts are disputed. If there is any evidence to support a theory of self-defense, the trial court should give the requested instruction however flimsy the evidence is which supports that theory or however weak or improbable the testimony may have been. Ortiz v. State, 6D2023-3214 (7/18/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454874/opinion/Opinion_2023-3214.pdf

SELF-DEFENSE: In assessing whether there is any evidence to support a theory of self-defense, no particular type of evidence is required. A defendant is not required to testify at trial to receive a jury instruction on self-defense. A defendant's statements admitted into evidence at trial may be sufficient evidence for a self-defense instruction. The cross-examination of State witnesses can also support a claim of self-defense. If a jury can reasonably infer from circumstantial evidence presented at trial that the defendant had the state of mind necessary for self-defense, then the defendant is entitled to a jury instruction on self-defense. Ortiz v. State, 6D2023-3214 (7/18/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454874/opinion/Opinion_2023-3214.pdf

SELF-DEFENSE: A defendant may argue other theories of defense to the charged crime that are inconsistent with self-defense, as long as the defendant's other theories do not necessarily disprove self-defense. Ortiz v. State, 6D2023-3214 (7/18/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454874/opinion/Opinion_2023-3214.pdf

RESTITUTION: Once Defendant objects to the amount of restitution sought, the trial court is required to hold an evidentiary hearing. Khouleanghak v. State, 6D2023-3030 (7/18/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454875/opinion/Opinion_2023-3930.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: Where after being read his Miranda rights Defendant said, "I understand that. But . . . would I be able to get one?" and officer responded, "Would you—of course. Everyone has a—everyone has a right to an attorney. Sure." questioning could continue. Defendant's later statement, "Damn. I want to speak with my lawyer." did not preclude further questioning where Defendant continued talking and clarified that he was not requesting an attorney. A law enforcement must make a good-faith effort to give a simple and straightforward answer to a clear question concerning a suspect's rights; if after answering, the suspect does not make an invocation, the interview may continue. State v. Gafford, 6D2024-0196 (7/18/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454876/opinion/Opinion_2024-0196.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A R. 3.800 motion for correction of illegal sentence is not successive where it asserts new or different grounds than those raised in the first motion. Vazquez Torres v. State, 6D2024-2452 (7/18/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454880/opinion/Opinion_2024-2452.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-ARGUMENT: Prosecutor's comment during closing argument asking the jury a rhetorical question as to how Defendant's antisocial personality disorder could be mitigating, made in violation of a motion in limine, was not improper. Even if it were, the Court did not abuse its discretion in denying Defendant's motion for mistrial. Fletcher v. State, SC2023-0058 (7/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454783/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0058.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-MITIGATORS: Jury's finding of no mitigating circumstances, although there was clear evidence of some, does not constitute "reverse jury nullification". The jury's verdict on mitigation does not violate the Eighth Amendment because the Eighth Amendment does not require any jury recommendation as to whether to impose life or death. Fletcher v. State, SC2023-0058 (7/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454783/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0058.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-VICTIM IMPACT STATEMENT: Victim impact statements are constitutional. Fletcher v. State, SC2023-0058 (7/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454783/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0058.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Florida's death sentencing scheme under §921.141 is constitutional. Defendant's challenge to the death penalty statute's so-called "overprovision" of aggravators ("aggravator drift") rejected. Setting a burden of proof to establish mitigation in a capital case does not run afoul of the Eighth Amendment. Fletcher v. State, SC2023-0058 (7/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454783/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0058.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-CONTINUANCE: Whether to grant a continuance lies within the court's discretion, and there is no constitutional right to a mitigation specialist. Williams v. State, SC2023-1000 (7/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454789/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1000.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is time-barred from raising claim, based on autopsy slides which had been disclosed 20 years previously, that the victim's death was caused by pneumonia. Davis v. State, SC2024-1128 (7/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454796/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1128.pdf

JUDGE-DISCIPLINE: Judge who solicited a political contribution in the courtroom from the bench and while wearing her robe, and who contributed to political campaigns, including that of a presidential candidate, is subject to discipline. Judges may not make financial contributions to political organizations or candidates. Ten-day suspension and a public reprimand imposed. Inquiry Concerning a Judge Re: Stefanie C. Moon, No. SC2025-007 (10/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454803/opinion/Opi

nion_SC2025-0071.pdf

APPEAL: Access to a law library is not necessary to prepare and transmit a simple notice of appeal. Davis v. Dixon, 1D2025-1224 (7/16/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454708/opinion/Opinion_2025-1224.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A defendant is entitled to an evidentiary hearing on a claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to call a witness to testify unless the motion is conclusively refuted by the record or is otherwise procedurally barred. Evans v. State, 3D24-1199 (7/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454732/opinion/Opinion_2024-1199.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A decision not to raise certain possible defenses or call certain defense witnesses is ordinarily a matter of personal judgment and strategy within the prerogatives of defense counsel. Evans v. State, 3D24-1199 (7/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454732/opinion/Opinion_2024-1199.pdf

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE: Officer investigating a call regarding trespassers is engaged in the lawful execution of a legal duty. B.W., a juvenile v. State, 3D24-1209 (7/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454738/opinion/Opinion_2024-1209.pdf

PRESUMPTIVE RELEASE DATES: Judicial review is still available through the common law writs of mandamus for review of presumptive parole release dates, and habeas corpus for review of effective parole release dates. Perreault v. Dixon, 3D2024-1861 (7/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454742/opinion/Opinion_2024-1861.pdf

PAROLE-JURISDICTION: A petition to challenge the Parole Commission's determination of a petitioner's presumptive parole release date is in Leon County, where the Commission is headquartered. Perreault v. Dixon, 3D2024-1861 (7/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454742/opinion/Opinion_2024-1861.pdf

JOA: Defendant may be convicted of Trafficking in Cocaine notwithstanding that he only agreed to purchase specific "Louis Vuitton" branded cocaine, which did not really exist, not the unbranded cocaine an undercover officer presented to him for inspection. Santana-Ozuna v. State, 3D23-1818 (7/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454749/opinion/Opinion_2023-1818.pdf

POSSESSION: Possession includes temporary possession for the purpose of verification or testing, irrespective of dominion or control. Santana-Ozuna v. State, 3D23-1818 (7/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454749/opinion/Opinion_2023-1818.pdf

PRIOR PANEL PRECEDENT RULE: Unless the Florida Supreme Court overrules a prior panel's decision, a subsequent panel of the appellate court is not free to disregard, and must follow, precedent of the prior panel. Only the Court, sitting en banc, may recede from a prior panel's decision.

Santana-Ozuna v. State, 3D23-1818 (7/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454749/opinion/Opinion_2023-1818.pdf

EVIDENCE-AUTHENTICATION (J. BOKOR, CONCURRING): "I respectfully suggest that the ... majority's use of circumstantial evidence, including the post-hoc actions of the parties, comes close to providing sufficient indicia of reliability to place the recording before the jury. Close but no cigar. We lack evidence establishing the recording device's reliability, the competence of the operator, or the accuracy or authenticity of the recording. The confidential informant didn't testify...The detective could only testify that the recording played to the jury was consistent with what he received from the informant...This fails to meet President Reagan's maxim to 'trust but verify.' Or, it is heavy on the trusting and light on the verification." Santana-Ozuna v. State, 3D23-1818 (7/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454749/opinion/Opinion_2023-1818.pdf

PROBATION: Probation and community control are a matter of grace—not a right. The trial court has broad discretion to provide that grace. It equally has broad discretion to revoke it. Rossi v. State, 3D25-0152 (7/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454758/opinion/Opinion_2025-0152.pdf

CAREER OFFENDER-PREDICATE OFFENSE: Cocaine trafficking under Florida law is a controlled substance offense under the career offender guidelines. USA v. Rowe, No. 2023-10042 (11th Cir. 7/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310042.pdf

CAREER OFFENDER-PREDICATE: Prior precedent held that the Florida crime of cocaine trafficking is not a controlled substance offense under the career offender guidelines because purchase is not necessarily possession. But the Florida Supreme Court determined in Conage that it is; the purchase of a trafficking quantity of cocaine under Florida's drug trafficking statute involves the possession of that substance. So a Florida cocaine trafficking offense is a predicate for career offender guidelines. Prior precedent overturned. USA v. Rowe, No. 2023-10042 (11th Cir. 7/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310042.pdf

PRIOR PRECEDENT RULE: Under the prior panel precedent rule, appellate court must follow its earlier decisions unless they have been overturned or abrogated by the Court en banc, by the United States Supreme Court, or by the relevant state supreme court on a matter of state law. USA v. Rowe, No. 2023-10042 (11th Cir. 7/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310042.pdf

CATEGORICAL APPROACH: Under the categorical approach, whenever the appellate court determines whether a state law crime counts as strike under the career offender guidelines, it must address the crime as a category by answering, either explicitly or implicitly, two questions: 1) What are the elements of the least culpable conduct that can sustain a conviction under a state statute and 2) does that prohibited conduct count as a predicate offense under the federal guideline or statute? If the elements of the state conviction match the offense described by the federal statute or guideline, then the conviction counts toward enhancement. USA v. Rowe, No. 2023-10042 (11th Cir. 7/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310042.pdf

PLEA: In accepting a guilty plea, a district court must verify three conditions: (1) the guilty plea must be free from coercion; (2) the defendant must understand the nature of the charges; and (3) the defendant must know and understand the consequences of his guilty plea. USA v. Rowe, No. 2023-10042 (11th Cir. 7/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310042.pdf

HYBRID REPRESENTATION: By local rules, a party who is represented by an attorney must appear only through the attorney; the party may not file documents or participate in a trial or hearing on the party's own behalf. USA v. Rowe, No. 2023-10042 (11th Cir. 7/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310042.pdf

CATEGORICAL APPROACH: Because the categorical approach involves questions of both state and federal law, our decisions in this area may be abrogated by developments in the United States Supreme Court on federal law issues or a state supreme court on state law issues. When a state court disagrees with us about the elements of a state crime, then we may need to reconsider our decisions about whether that state crime is or is not a predicate offense under the categorical approach. The purchase of a trafficking quantity of cocaine under Florida's drug trafficking statute . . . involves the possession of that substance. USA v. Rowe, No. 2023-10042 (11th Cir. 7/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310042.pdf

ENHANCEMENT: Florida's cocaine trafficking offense is an enhancement predicate under both the Armed Career Criminal Act and §2L1.2 of the sentencing guidelines. USA v. Rowe, No. 2023-10042 (11th Cir. 7/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310042.pdf

RESTITUTION-JURISDICTION: A district court continues to have ancillary jurisdiction in a criminal case to order compliance through with unsatisfied restitution obligations after the defendant completes her probationary sentence. The ancillary-jurisdiction doctrine recognizes federal courts' jurisdiction over some matters properly before it. A district court did not divest itself of jurisdiction by closing a criminal case. USA v. Mims, No.

2022-13215 (11th Cir. 7/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213215.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-EXCLUSIONARY RULE: The exclusionary rule is not a constitutional right. Rather, it is a prudential doctrine designed to deter future violations by removing the incentive for law enforcement to disregard Fourth Amendment protections. The rule applies only where the benefits of deterring police misconduct outweigh the costs of excluding reliable, trustworthy evidence (the"good faith exception"). State v. Johnson, No. 1D2024-0072 (7/16/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454706/opinion/Opinion_2024-0072.pdf

GOOD FAITH EXCEPTION-HUH?: When an officer's reliance on a warrant is not objectively reasonable—such as when the underlying affidavit is so lacking in indicia of probable cause—the exclusionary rule applies. But, "[t]o be clear, the absence of probable cause does not make every affidavit 'bare bones.'...[T]he standard for assessing an affidavit under the good-faith exception is less demanding than the 'substantial basis" threshold required to establish probable cause in the first instance...More to the point here, '[a]ll that's required in the Leon context are facts that show a nexus and that are not 'so vague as to be conclusory or meaningless.'" State v. Johnson, No. 1D2024-0072 (7/16/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454706/opinion/Opinion_2024-0072.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-EXCLUSIONARY RULE: Search warrant affidavit for search of house which says that for six months Defendant was seen conducting daily hand-to-hand transactions after leaving his house and that a trash pull found indications of drug packaging, is not obviously deficient simply because the drug sales took place at locations away from the residence. State v. Johnson, No. 1D2024-0072 (7/16/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454706/opinion/Opinion_2024-0072.pdf

COSTS OF INCARCERATION: DOC may file a separate civil action to seek recovery of incarceration costs from a convicted offender under §960.297(1), but nothing in the text of that provision indicates that it is the sole means by which the State may recover incarceration costs. Nothing in the Act requires the State to file a separate civil action, and nothing in §960.297(1)'s text indicates that a separate civil action is a necessary predicate for a civil restitution lien to exist. Palomares v. State, 2D202301485 (7/16/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454690/opinion/Opinion_2023-1485.pdf

COSTS OF INCARCERATION: The word "state" in §960.297(1) is not limited to the prosecuting authority for the State of Florida. It extends to DOC. Thus, DOC may request an incarceration lien. Palomares v. State, 2D202301485 (7/16/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454690/opinion/Opinion_2023-1485.pdf

COSTS OF INCARCERATION-CALCULATION: DOC may not procure a civil restitution lien for the full 1,635 days of incarceration (the length of the sentence imposed) where most or all of that time was spent in a county jail. Allowing FDOC to recover the full extent of prisoner's incarceration costs, inclusive of those incurred by the county, not only constitutes a windfall for FDOC but deprives the county of its remedy under the Act. Palomares v. State, 2D202301485 (7/16/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454690/opinion/Opinion_2023-1485.pdf

COSTS OF INCARCERATION-CALCULATION (J.

ROTHSTEIN-YOUAKIM):
“Although I agree with the majority's ultimate conclusions and do not argue with the accuracy of its opinion, I disagree that resolution of this appeal requires such laborious reasoning. The plain language of the Florida Civil Restitution Lien Act allows the state to pursue a civil restitution lien order by motion in the underlying criminal proceeding... It also provides that the state may seek recovery" by "separate civil action or as counterclaim in any civil action."..., but nowhere does the Act express or even imply that the state can obtain such an order by motion only if it first prevails in a separate civil action. ...In short, I do not believe that the issues on appeal present close questions that require us to dig so deeply into our statutory construction toolbox. The plain language of the Act tells us all we need to know, and I am content to listen to what it's saying.” Palomares v. State, 2D202301485 (7/16/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454690/opinion/Opinion_2023-1485.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: The fact that one of the appellate panel had presided over a hearing involving this case in the lower court for one minute, from 10:47 to 10:48 a.m., merely to reset a hearing scheduled before her colleague for another date does not warrant recusal or disqualification of the Associate Judge. Oxyde v. State, 4D2024-1405 (7/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454726/opinion/Opinion_2024-1405.pdf

DISORDERLY CONDUCT-EVIDENCE: Defendant’s use of vulgar slurs during the disorderly conduct incident are admissible. Regardless, the probative value outweighed any prejudice that may have resulted from the slurs’ admission. Oxyde v. State, 4D2024-1405 (7/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454726/opinion/Opinion_2024-1405.pdf

DISORDERLY CONDUCT: Yelling profanities and throwing rocks at his wife's window, awakening neighbors, is disorderly conduct. Consideration of time, place, and manner is useful in determining whether the acts at issue are of a nature to affect the peace and quiet of persons who may witness them. It is the degree of loudness, and the circumstances in which they are uttered, which takes shouting and screaming out of the constitutionally protected area. Oxyde v. State, 4D2024-1405 (7/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454726/opinion/Opinion_2024-1405.pdf

DISORDERLY CONDUCT: Reciting "Mary Had a Little Lamb," depending on the tone and circumstances, could be disorderly conduct. "The actress Greta Garbo famously declared, 'I want to be let alone.' The testimony of the apartment residents indicated a desire 'to be let alone,' particularly during the apartment building's quiet hours. Instead, Defendant breached their 'peace and quiet.'...The trial court...did not err in denying the JOA motions." Oxyde v. State, 4D2024-1405 (7/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454726/opinion/Opinion_2024-1405.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Willingham v. State, 4D2025-0160 (7/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454736/opinion/Opinion_2025-0160.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Wright v. State, 4D20251418 (7/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454741/opinion/Opinion_2025-1418.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: A life sentence does not violate Article 1, §17 of the Florida Constitution, which forbids an indefinite term of imprisonment. Lovall v, State, 5D2025-0540 (7/15/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454617/opinion/Opinion_2025-0540.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively). Del Sol v. State, 3D25-0654 (7/16/23)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454759/opinion/Opinion_2025-0654.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY-STRIP SEARCH-PRISON VISITOR: A highly invasive strip search of a visitor to a prison involving both physical touching of intimate body parts and a visual body-cavity inspection is both a search and a seizure. Such a search and seizure without reasonable suspicion is a Fourth Amendment violation of obvious clarity such that the officers are not entitled to qualified immunity. Gilmore v. Georgia, D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.enb.pdf

JOB OF APPELLATE COURT (C.J. PRYOR, CONCURRING): "Our foremost job is to decide appeals correctly...Under any standard, the officers' alleged conduct violated Ms. Gilmore's constitutional right to be free from an unreasonable seizure... What matters for now is that Ms. Gilmore will get her day in court regardless of the correct answer to the difficult question that we avoid." Gilmore v. Georgia, D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.enb.pdf

PRECEDENT-QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Prior 11th circuit precedents should be overruled to the extent that they hold or state that no amount of out-of-circuit authority can clearly establish the law for purposes of qualified immunity. Decisions of other circuits are a relevant consideration in determining whether the law is clearly established. Persuasive decisions from other circuits can be considered in determining whether a violation was one of obvious clarity for purposes of qualified immunity. Gilmore v. Georgia, D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.enb.pdf

OBVIOUSLY: "[I]t is not always obvious that a violation was one of 'obvious clarity.'" Gilmore v. Georgia, D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.enb.pdf

PRECEDENT-ROBUST CONSENSUS (C.J. PRYOR, C.J.): There is a problem "with holding that a 'robust consensus' of persuasive authority alone can clearly establish the law. That is, the so-called 'robust consensus' might be wrong." Gilmore v. Georgia, D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.enb.pdf

PRECEDENT-ROBUST CONSENSUS (J. ROSENBAUM, CONCURRING): "More than a quarter-century ago, the Supreme Court determined that a 'robust consensus of cases of persuasive authority' can clearly establish the law, making qualified immunity inappropriate...So it's unsurprising that every circuit has recognized and accepted this principle to govern their qualified-immunity analyses. Except us...And now, in a two-step move, we once again exempt ourselves from binding precedent. First, we cabin any 'functionality' of the robust-consensus-of-persuasive-authority principle to cases of obvious clarity—that is, when, by definition, it's so obvious that conduct violates clearly established law that no precedent (controlling or persuasive) is necessary. And second, we decide not to determine whether a robust consensus of persuasive authority can clearly establish the law by precedent...This case presents an opportunity to correct our precedent and clarify the law. I would use it to do both." Gilmore v. Georgia, D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.enb.pdf

PRECEDENTS (J. ROSENBAUM, CONCURRING): "[E]ven our Circuit's formulation—that only decisions from the Supreme Court, the Eleventh Circuit, or the highest court of the state can clearly establish the law—has always functioned under a legal fiction. No one really thinks that officers have the time to read, understand the significance of, and be up to date on all governing case law." Gilmore v. Georgia, D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.enb.pdf

HUH? (J. ROSENBAUM, CONCURRING): "The Tjoflat Concurrence's prophylactic-nonconformance misfire is even more apparent when we consider our panel opinions. Panel opinions may clearly establish the law, but an en banc court may always disagree later...[I]f the en banc court vacates it and changes the rule, officers will have prophylactically conformed to the panel decision in the intervening period." Gilmore v. Georgia, D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.enb.pdf

ROBUST CONSENSUS (J. TJOFLAT, CONCURRING): "The first problem with the so-called 'robust consensus' standard is simple: nobody knows what it means." Gilmore v. Georgia, D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.enb.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ABANDONMENT: One can abandon property by verbally disclaiming ownership of it. Where Defendant disclaims ownership of a phone fund near him at his arrest, he abandons it. Search of phone is lawful. USA v. Morgan, No. 23-11114 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311114.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ABANDONMENT-FIFTH AMENDMENT: Although Defendant's statement disclaiming ownership of the phone was unlawfully obtained in violation of Miranda, Court didn't err in relying on that statement to conclude that Morgan had abandoned it. USA v. Morgan, No. 23-11114 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311114.pdf

FIFTH AMENDMENT-MIRANDA: "At the outset, a few Miranda basics." Miranda's demands apply only to custodial interrogations. Words or actions constitute interrogation when, from the standpoint of an objective officer, they are reasonably likely to elicit an incriminating response from the suspect. Even if an interaction qualifies as a custodial interrogation, a suspect's statements might still be admissible if the officer's questions fall within a "routine booking question" exception to secure the biographical data necessary to complete booking or pretrial services. USA v. Morgan, No. 23-11114 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311114.pdf

MIRANDA: A violation of Miranda's prophylactic rule does not necessarily require the suppression of physical evidence derived from a suspect's unwarned-but-uncoerced statement. Defendant's statement disclaiming ownership, obtained in violation of Miranda, may nevertheless be used to show he abandoned the phone. "[T]he agents obtained Morgan's statements after he had been warned and had invoked his rights to counsel and silence. But that's neither here nor there...[W]hile Miranda protects Fifth Amendment rights, it isn't itself the Fifth Amendment." The Self-Incrimination Clause is not implicated by the admission into evidence of the physical fruit of a voluntary statement. USA v. Morgan, No. 23-11114 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311114.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT-VOLUNTARINESS: The police's use of a trick alone will not render a confession involuntary. Involuntariness based on deceptive questioning has only been found in those rare circumstances in which an officer's deception interferes with the defendant's ability to understand the nature of his Miranda rights and the consequences of abandoning them. USA v. Morgan, No. 23-11114 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311114.pdf

OVERVIEW TESTIMONY: Officer's overview testimony explaining the scheme to smuggle narcotics based on information obtained over the course of the entire investigation does not warrant reversal. "To be sure, we've noted other circuits' concerns about overview testimony...But...we have no binding caselaw holding that overview testimony violates Rule 701." USA v. Morgan, No. 23-11114 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311114.pdf

EXPERT: R. 16 requires Government to provide a complete statement of all opinions and the bases and reasons for them. With proper notice, agent may testify that Western Union transactions were "highly suspicious" and the use of use of shaving-gel jars with false bottoms was consistent with international drug trafficking. Nothing in Rule 16's text unambiguously requires detailed disclosure nor "nor are we aware of...any binding caselaw obliging experts...to disclose case-specific materials." USA v. Morgan, No. 23-11114 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311114.pdf

FIFTH AMENDMENT (J. ROSENBAUM, DISSENTING): "On its journey to securing Steven Morgan's conviction, the government blew past constitutional protection after constitutional protection. Officers repeatedly violated Miranda and its progeny's Fifth Amendment guardrails, extracted involuntary statements that the Fifth Amendment does not allow the government to use in a criminal case, and performed a presumptively unconstitutional warrantless search of Morgan's LG cell phone. Morgan had me at the Fifth Amendment." USA v. Morgan, No. 23-11114 (11th Cir. 7/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311114.pdf

EVIDENCE-INTENT: Evidence of abnormal brain pathology and prior head injuries is inadmissible to show Defendant did not act with the requisite intent. Rivera v. State, 6D24-0735 (7/11/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454570/opinion/Opinion_2024-0735.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-AGGRAVATOR-SPECIAL JURY INSTRUCTION: Defendant is not entitled to a special jury instruction on the aggravator of avoidance of arrest that where the victim of the homicide is not a law enforcement officer, the State must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the sole or dominant motive for the murder was to avoid a lawful arrest. Jones v. State, SC2023-0696 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454526/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0696.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Florida's capital sentencing scheme is not arbitrary and capricious in violation of the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments, nor does it violate the Eighth Amendment based on evolving standards of decency. Jones v. State, SC2023-0696 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454526/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0696.pdf

MURDER-VENUE: Venue is sufficiently proven if the jury can reasonably infer from the evidence that the crime occurred in the county where the trial occurs. Where murder occurred in a van traveling North and the Defendant discarded the victim's body in Monroe County, and also discarded evidence of the murder in various dumpsters and trash cans deep in Monroe County, evidence is sufficient to establish venue in the Keys, not in Dade County. Wolf v. State, SC2023-1077 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454527/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1077.pdf

JURORS-CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE: A juror must be excused for cause if any reasonable doubt exists as to whether the juror possesses an impartial state of mind, but prospective jurors may not be excused for cause simply because they voice general objections to the death penalty. Juror who said she would be reluctant to recommend the death penalty even if she found it to be otherwise appropriate may be excused for cause. Wolf v. State, SC2023-1077 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454527/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1077.pdf

JURORS-CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE: In a death penalty case, a juror is only unqualified if he or she expresses an unyielding conviction and rigidity toward the death penalty. Wolf v. State, SC2023-1077 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454527/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1077.pdf

JURORS-CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE: A defendant cannot demonstrate prejudice if the trial court grants the same number of additional peremptories for cause challenges that were erroneously denied. Wolf v. State, SC2023-1077 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454527/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1077.pdf

HEARSAY: Officer's testimony "So we were told that we were looking for an older-model conversion van with [an] aftermarket wraparound skirt" was not hearsay. It was not offered to prove that the parts found at the scene were from Defendant's van, but rather to show why the officer stopped it and detained the Defendant. Nor does it violate the Confrontation Clause, which does not bar the use of testimonial statements for purposes other than establishing the truth of the matter asserted. Wolf v. State, SC2023-1077 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454527/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1077.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT: State's arguments that jurors should "think to yourself he asked for mercy when he was not willing to give any" and "now he asks you for mercy when he was unwilling to give it" were "blatantly impermissible" and "will not be tolerated" but do not rise to such a level that a recommendation of death could not have been obtained without them, given the strength of the evidence against Defendant, the gravity and weight of the aggravators, and the minimal and weak mitigation. Error was not fundamental. Wolf v. State, SC2023-1077 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454527/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1077.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT-DEATH PENALTY: State's comments that Defendant lied to law enforcement and got rid of evidence were not improper nonstatutory aggravation but a rather a review of evidence and explication of a reasonable inference to be drawn from it.

Wolf v. State, SC2023-1077 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454527/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1077.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-MERCY INSTRUCTION: Defendant is not entitled to a special jury instruction that "[Y]ou are never required to impose a death sentence. You may always consider mercy in making this determination." Standard Instruction 7.11 is the equivalent of a "mercy instruction." Wolf v. State, SC2023-1077 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454527/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1077.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-HAC: Where the condition of the victim's body indicated that at some point she was alive and conscious and felt excruciating pain and the terror of being raped and murdered and knew that she was about to die, the Heinous, Atrocious, and Cruel aggravator applies. "Heinous" means extremely wicked or shockingly evil; "atrocious" means outrageously wicked and vile; and, "cruel" means designed to inflict a high degree of pain with utter indifference to, or even enjoyment of, the suffering of others. Wolf v. State, SC2023-1077 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454527/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1077.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: A charging instrument does not have to list the aggravators that render eligibility for death. Wolf v. State, SC2023-1077 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454527/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1077.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT (J. SASSO, CONCURRING): "I question whether this Court should retain the line of precedent prohibiting same-mercy arguments...[T]here does not appear to be any doctrinal justification for this Court's position on the issue." Wolf v. State, SC2023-1077 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454527/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1077.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT: Teensy tiny amendments to R. 3.040. And I'll bet you don't even know what R. 3.040 is without looking it up. I know I didn't. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.040, SC2025-0713 (7/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454529/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0713.pdf

VOP: Competent substantial evidence is required to support revocation of probation. The term "competent substantial evidence" does not relate to the quality, character, convincing power, probative value or weight of the evidence but refers to the existence of some evidence (quantity) as to each essential element and as to the legality and admissibility of that evidence. Competency of evidence refers to its admissibility under legal rules of evidence. "Substantial" requires that there be some (more than a mere iota or scintilla), real, material, pertinent, and relevant evidence (as distinguished from ethereal, metaphysical, speculative or merely theoretical evidence or hypothetical possibilities) having definite probative value. Ramcald v. State, 1D2021-3919 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454431/opinion/Opinion_2021-3919.pdf

VOP: State failed to produce substantial evidence of a violation of probation for contacting the victim where she received an unsolicited email from the sushi restaurant where the defendant worked inviting her to place an online order. Ramcald v. State, 1D2021-3919 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454431/opinion/Opinion_2021-3919.pdf

VOP (J,TANENBAUM, CONCURRING): "Our review of probation-violation proceedings is exceedingly deferential...Enter here the caveat—the inevitable 'but': This discretion, broad as it may be, is not 'unbridled.'...The trial court...should give 'careful consideration' to the decision to revoke, and it should in fact revoke probation 'only when the probation violation is both willful and substantial so as to indicate that probation will not work for that defendant.'" Ramcald v. State, 1D2021-3919 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454431/opinion/Opinion_2021-3919.pdf

REVERSE/VACATE: Where an order revoking probation is overturned on appeal, it is not reversed. It is vacated. "The order of probation is not a judgment...We reverse judgments but vacate orders, including sentencing and probation orders." Ramcald v. State, 1D2021-3919 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454431/opinion/Opinion_2021-3919.pdf

OPENING STATEMENT: Prosecutor's statement in opening drawing an inference about what Defendant's thought process must have been when he was performing the acts he described to the police—fetching a bin, putting the victim's body inside, loading the bin into the trunk of her car, and dumping her body by a dirt road, if improper, does not constitute fundamental error. Young v. State, 1D2023-1115 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454432/opinion/Opinion_2023-1115.pdf

MURDER-IMPLAUSIBLE DEFENSE: Defendant's claim that he acted in self defense is implausible. In his hotel room he strangled the petite stripper in a provocative pink outfit; she had brought her own stripper pole. "There was no reasonable explanation for why, after the agreed-upon two hour period had expired, the victim would change her clothes, pack up her belongings, disassemble the pole, and return to her car, only to turn back around, reassemble the pole, change her clothes, and perform again for Young so that her accomplice could rob him while she was dancing...Young also never explained how, if the intruder stole his only room key, he was able to leave his room to fetch a bin and return to put the victim's body inside it." Young v. State, 1D2023-1115 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454432/opinion/Opinion_2023-1115.pdf

CONSCIOUSNESS OF GUILT: Removal of an ankle monitor is admissible to show consciousness of guilt, or if error, is harmless. "[T]he monitor's existence may have suggested that Young committed another crime. But it did not suggest a propensity to commit murder or any other violent offense." Young v. State, 1D2023-1115 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454432/opinion/Opinion_2023-1115.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INDEPENDENT SOURCE DOCTRINE: As a general rule, evidence obtained unlawfully is inadmissible. However, the independent source doctrine is an exception to that exclusionary rule. The independent source doctrine applies when evidence is discovered as a result of unlawful police activity but is also discovered independently through a lawful Investigation that occurs either before or after the illegal activity, so long as the independent investigation is untainted by the initial illegality. State v. Reddick, 1D2023-2175 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454436/opinion/Opinion_2023-2175.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Regardless whether the protective sweep of Defendant's home was lawful, nothing observed during this sweep was used as a basis for obtaining a search warrant or evidence related to child pornography. "[T]he record simply does not support the inference or the conclusion that the sweep informed the warrant application. The warrant application was intended, planned, and announced in advance; and it did not disclose a single piece of information gained in the sweep." State v. Reddick, 1D2023-2175 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454436/opinion/Opinion_2023-2175.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-EXCLUSIONARY RULE: Suppression is not required if law enforcement allegedly tried to "check" for potential evidence before seeking a warrant. State v. Reddick, 1D2023-2175 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454436/opinion/Opinion_2023-2175.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE (J. ROBERTS, DISSENTING): "A person's home—whether it is a mansion behind iron gates, a three-bedroom ranch house, an apartment, or a travel trailer— is the area most protected by the Fourth Amendment. With very few exceptions, a search warrant signed by a neutral and detached magistrate is always required before entering a person's home." Officers are without legal authority to enter a suspect's apartment prior to applying for and receiving a search warrant, including to make use of the suspect's table to write out the warrant application. State v. Reddick, 1D2023-2175 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454436/opinion/Opinion_2023-2175.pdf

ATTEMPTED FIRST-DEGREE MURDER OF LEO: Premeditation can form in a moment and need exist only for such time as will allow the accused to be conscious of the nature of the act he is about to commit and the probable result of that act. Evidence that two witnesses and the police officers heard Defendant say over the telephone that when police arrived at his home "I'll kill them" shows premeditation. Scott v. State, 1D2023-2788 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454438/opinion/Opinion_2023-2788.pdf

PREMEDITATION (J. KELSEY, CONCURRING: "I...write separately only to address the prosecutor's utterly inaccurate definition of 'premeditation.' Rather than use statutory, caselaw, or jury instruction definitions of "premeditation," the prosecutor repeatedly argued that premeditation means merely being 'alive, awake.' To the contrary, premeditation is... 'a fully-formed conscious purpose to kill, which exists in the mind of the perpetrator for a sufficient length of time to permit reflection.'" Scott v. State, 1D2023-2788 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454438/opinion/Opinion_2023-2788.pdf

EVIDENCE-VALUE: When a specific amount is at issue in a theft charge, the State must prove the value of the stolen property beyond a reasonable doubt. "Value" means the market value of the property at the time and place of the offense or, if such cannot be satisfactorily ascertained, the cost of replacement of the property taken within a reasonable time after the offense. Ribbing v.State, 1D2023-3323 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454440/opinion/Opinion_2023-3323.pdf

EVIDENCE-VALUE: To assess the sufficiency of evidence regarding the stolen property's value, courts apply the following two-part test: First, the court must determine whether the person testifying is competent to testify as to the value of the property. Second, if the person is competent, the court must ascertain whether the evidence adduced at trial is sufficient to prove that the property was worth over the value alleged in the charge at the time of the theft. Ribbing v.State, 1D2023-3323 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454440/opinion/Opinion_2023-3323.pdf

EVIDENCE-VALUE: Security guard may not testify as to the value of the stolen laptop where State does not offer anything to demonstrate that he had personal knowledge as to the fair market value of the laptop, and there is nothing to demonstrate that he possessed the requisite knowledge. Ribbing v.State, 1D2023-3323 (7/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454440/opinion/Opinion_2023-3323.pdf

ERLINGER: Any error in failing to submit sentence enhancement factors to the jury pursuant to Erlinger is harmless. Alonso v. State, 2D2023-2304 (7/9/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454434/opinion/Opinion_2023-2304.pdf

SENTENCE: A trial court's written sentence must conform to its oral pronouncement. Reeves v. State, 2D2023-2557 (7/9/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454437/opinion/Opinion_2023-2557.pdf

MOTION TO WITHDRAW PLEA-JURISDICTION: Defendant filing a notice of appeal divests the trial court of jurisdiction to rule on any subsequent filings, including a motion to withdraw plea. Clark v. State, 2D2024-1701 (7/9/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454439/opinion/Opinion_2024-1701.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: In dismissing a first postconviction motion based on a pleading deficiency, a court abuses its discretion in failing to allow the defendant at least one opportunity to correct the deficiency unless it cannot be corrected. Estache v. State, 3D24-2298 (7/9/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454480/opinion/Opinion_2024-2298.pdf

SEVERANCE-CO-DEFENDANTS-BRUTON: If a defendant moves for a severance of defendants on the ground that an oral or written statement of a codefendant makes reference to him or her but is not admissible against him or her, the court shall determine whether the state will offer evidence of the statement at the trial. If the state intends to offer the statement in evidence, the court shall order the state to submit its evidence of the statement for consideration by the court and counsel for defendants and if the court determines that the statement is not admissible against the moving defendant, it shall require the state to elect 1 of the following courses: (A) a joint trial at which evidence of the statement will not be admitted; (B) a joint trial at which evidence of the statement will be admitted after all references to the moving defendant have been deleted, provided the court determines that admission of the evidence with deletions will not prejudice the moving defendant; or (C) severance of the moving defendant. Boatwright v. State, 4D2023-0975 (7/9/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454455/opinion/Opinion_2023-0975.pdf

SEVERANCE-CO-DEFENDANTS-BRUTON: The admission of a non-testifying co-defendant's statement that expressly implicates the defendant violates the defendant's right to confrontation, even if the court instructs the jury to consider the confession only against the co-defendant. However, Bruton is limited to facially incriminating confessions. Statements that only become incriminating when linked to other evidence do not implicate the Confrontation Clause and can be admitted with a proper limiting instruction. Boatwright v. State, 4D2023-0975 (7/9/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454455/opinion/Opinion_2023-0975.pdf

SEVERANCE-CO-DEFENDANTS-BRUTON: Co-Defendant's statement to his girlfriend admitting to being present at robbery/murder in joint trial with Defendant is admissible as a statement against interest and the statement of a party opponent. A severance is not required because the Defendant is not named as the shooter or being present. Boatwright v. State, 4D2023-0975 (7/9/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454455/opinion/Opinion_2023-0975.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT: Prosecutor's argument, not supported by evidence, that a flip phone lacks Bluetooth capability is improper, but the error is harmless. Burgess v. State, 4D2024-2028 (7/9/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454472/opinion/Opinion_2024-2029.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT: Prosecutor did not improperly shift the burden of proof by responding to Defendant's assertion that he was with his cousin Bobo by saying, "We can't talk to him. We have no idea. Can't do anything about that." The prosecutor did not say that appellant should be found guilty if he could not establish an alibi, but rather simply that Bobo was not available to testify due to his demise. Burgess v. State, 4D2024-2028 (7/9/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454472/opinion/Opinion_2024-2029.pdf

INVESTIGATIVE COSTS: Investigative costs cannot be imposed where the State fails to request such costs before the judgment. Moise v. State, 4D2024-2571 (7/9/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454488/opinion/Opinion_2024-2571.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Prosecution costs above the statutory minimum may not be imposed when the State fails to request a higher amount. Moise v. State, 4D2024-2571 (7/9/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454488/opinion/Opinion_2024-2571.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change of law, it does not apply retroactively. Bowens v. State, 4D2025-0904 (7/9/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454471/opinion/Opinion_2025-0904.pdf

WITNESS-SELF-INCRIMINATION: Recanting witness at postconviction hearing may invoke 5th Amendment privilege where, if the witness's testimony at the evidentiary hearing was false, the witness could be charged with perjury by contradiction. Alternatively, if a witness testified that the sworn affidavit recanting trial testimony was false, then he could be charged with perjury in official proceedings. In either scenario, the crime would not be completed until they offered that perjured testimony at the hearing. Bell v. State, SC2025-0891 (7/8/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454418/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0891.pdf

WITNESS-SELF-INCRIMINATION: The privilege afforded by the constitutional guarantee against self-incrimination extends not only to answers that would themselves support a conviction but likewise embraces those which would furnish a link in the chain of evidence needed to prosecute the witness for a crime. Bell v. State, SC2025-0891 (7/8/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454418/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0891.pdf

WITNESS-SELF-INCRIMINATION: The matter of deciding what answers may incriminate or tend to incriminate is not solely up to the witness himself but is one requiring the exercise of the sound discretion of the trial court under all the circumstances of the case. It is the duty of the trial court to determine whether there is a reasonable basis for the assertion of the privilege and whether the privilege has been invoked in good faith. To sustain the privilege it need only be evident from the implications of the question, in the setting in which it is asked, that a responsive answer to the question or an explanation of why it cannot be answered might be dangerous because injurious disclosure could result. Bell v. State, SC2025-0891 (7/8/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454418/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0891.pdf

WITNESS-SELF-INCRIMINATION: Witnesses' invocation of the privilege against self-incrimination does not violate Defendant's Sixth Amendment right of confrontation. Bell v. State, SC2025-0891 (7/8/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454418/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0891.pdf

NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Recantations, as a general matter, are highly unreliable as a form of newly discovered evidence. Witness's failure to recant his previous testimony under oath at the evidentiary hearing by invoking privilege against self-incrimination is fatal to Defendant's claim of newly discovered evidence. "Even if we were to accept Edwards's affidavit as true— despite him having testified at the evidentiary hearing that the contents of the affidavit were not true—Bell can establish neither the materiality prong of Brady, nor the prejudice prong of Giglio." Bell v. State, SC2025-0891 (7/8/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454418/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0891.pdf

DEATH WARRANT-TIME PERIOD: Time period between the signing of the death warrant and imposition of the death penalty is not unreasonably short. "[T]his Court has previously rejected similar constitutional arguments attacking the compressed warrant litigation schedule. Bell v. State, SC2025-0891 (7/8/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454418/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0891.pdf

DEATH WARRANT-TIME PERIOD (J. LABARGA, CONCURRING): "I feel compelled to again express my concerns about the extremely short time frame for this case and other recent death warrant cases." Bell v. State, SC2025-0891 (7/8/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454418/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0891.pdf

DEPORTATION: Supreme Court's stay of lower's order enjoining unlawful deportation of non-citizens to third countries without notice or a meaningful opportunity to be heard precludes lower court from stopping the deportations. A district court cannot compel compliance with an order that the Supreme Court has stayed. Department of Homeland Security v. D. V. D., No. 24A1153 (U.S. Ct. 7/3/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a1153_2co3.pdf

DEPORTATION (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "The United States may not deport noncitizens to a country where they are likely to be tortured or killed. International and domestic law guarantee that basic human right. In this case, the Government seeks to nullify it by deporting noncitizens to potentially dangerous countries without notice or the opportunity to assert a fear of torture...What the Government wants to do, concretely, is send the eight noncitizens it illegally removed from the United States from Djibouti to South Sudan, where they will be turned over to the local authorities without regard for the likelihood that they will face torture or death." Department of Homeland Security v. D. V. D., No. 24A1153 (U.S. Ct. 7/3/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a1153_2co3.pdf

DEPORTATION (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "'In a democracy, power implies responsibility. The greater the power that defies law the less tolerant can this Court be of defiance. As the Nation's ultimate judicial tribunal, this Court, beyond any other organ of society, is the trustee of law and charged with the duty of securing obedience to it.' [citation omitted] This Court continues to invert those principles. Today's order clarifies only one thing: Other litigants must follow the rules, but the administration has the Supreme Court on speed dial." Department of Homeland Security v. D. V. D., No. 24A1153 (U.S. Ct. 7/3/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a1153_2co3.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: Prisoner who ate half a honey bun and finished a cup of coffee after murdering his cellmate ("I'm going to strangle the life out of you. . . . Tell the devil I said hello") is not entitled to relief from the death penalty. Allen v. State, SC2023-1662 (7/3/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454282/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1662%20&%20SC2024-0543.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for simultaneous possession of a firearm and ammunition violate double jeopardy. Where the bullets in the gun found in Defendant's possession in the back of the patrol car were from the supply of 9mm ammunition found in the vacant residence, the Defendant's possession of each was not clearly separate in time and space. Dual conviction vacated. Ellis v. State, 5D2024-2053 (7/3/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454265/opinion/Opinion_2024-2053.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant cannot be sentenced as an habitual offender for possession of cocaine with intent to sell or deliver. §775.084 does not permit habitualization for a felony relating to the purchase or the possession of a controlled substance. Davis v. State, 5D2024-3385 (7/3/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454269/opinion/Opinion_2024-3385.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A second motion under R. 3.800(a) is not barred as a successive where the first was dismissed, not denied. Davis v. State, 5D2024-3385 (7/3/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454269/opinion/Opinion_2024-3385.pdf

FORFEITURE: A mathematical or computational mistake in determining the amount of forfeiture can constitute clear error. USA v. Philossaint, No. 23-12273 (11th Cir. 7/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312273.pdf

FORFEITURE: Defendant may not be ordered to forfeit money in an amount greater than the amount he actually received absent factual findings that he was the leader or mastermind of the scheme to defraud. The fact that the Defendant is assessed a two-level aggravating role enhancement under the sentencing guidelines as an "organizer, leader, manager, or supervisor" does not automatically make a defendant a leader or mastermind for purposes of forfeiture. Although forfeiture and loss under the Sentencing Guidelines bear similarities and are determined under the same burden of proof, the two require distinct calculations and need not be calculated identically. USA v. Philossaint, No. 23-12273 (11th Cir. 7/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312273.pdf

APPEAL-RECORD: Defendant may not raise on appeal the issue of whether the trial court erred by not evaluating the Fifth Amendment assertions made by a witness during her deposition where the deposition transcript is not included in the appellate record. Magbanua v. State, 1D2022-2733 (7/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454196/opinion/Opinion_2022-2733.pdf

WITNESS-FIFTH AMENDMENT: Neither the State nor the defense may call a witness that the party knows will invoke the Fifth Amendment and refuse to testify. Magbanua v. State, 1D2022-2733 (7/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454196/opinion/Opinion_2022-2733.pdf

EVIDENCE: Order granting State's motion in limine to prohibit Defendant from calling any witness for the purpose of the witness invoking the Fifth Amendment is not error where the State requested that certain procedures be followed, including that the trial court make a pretrial ruling on what questions could be asked. Because Defendant did not join in the State's request, she cannot now complain that the trial court erred in granting the motion. Magbanua v. State, 1D2022-2733 (7/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454196/opinion/Opinion_2022-2733.pdf

PROBATION-PLEA TERMINATION: Defendant is not entitled to early termination of sex-offender probation where he had entered a plea agreement with the State in which the State agreed to an early termination at five years (Judge: "Of course, that would have to be approved by the court. Okay?"...I am going to follow the negotiated disposition in this case.") A trial court cannot and will not be bound by a plea agreement, even when the court has approved or accepted it. "Contrary to the dissent's suggestion, whether the judge has accepted a plea agreement is of no moment to establishing when the trial court is bound by it—which is never." Parson v. State, 1D2023-0869 (7/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454197/opinion/Opinion_2023-0869.pdf

PROBATION-PLEA TERMINATION (J. BILBREY, DISSENTING): Once a plea agreement with a specified sentence is entered and accepted by a trial court, the court is bound by it. Even so, the majority opinion contends that a trial court is never bound by a plea agreement...This is an overly broad statement by the majority and whether a trial court is bound to impose a particular sentence depends on the terms of the agreement and the timing of sentencing. Parson v. State, 1D2023-0869 (7/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454197/opinion/Opinion_2023-0869.pdf

PROBATION-PLEA TERMINATION (J. BILBREY, DISSENTING): "A defendant's violation of probation can be sanctioned by the State, but now a defendant has no right to enforce the plea agreement and require probation terminate despite full compliance by the defendant. Why would a defendant be inclined to execute an agreement if the agreement was not mutually binding once accepted by the sentencing court?...It is clearly wrong that a defendant cannot enforce an accepted plea agreement requiring early termination of probation, and I hope this error will be corrected by this court en banc or a higher court." Parson v. State,

1D2023-0869 (7/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454197/opinion/Opinion_2023-0869.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: "Is there any way I can talk to my lawyer or anything?" is an unequivocal invocation of the right to a lawyer. The tacking on of the phrase "or anything" does not render it ambiguous. "That's why I need a lawyer or something, dude, cause I don't know what to tell y'all. . . . You know, I don't know what to tell y'all. What do I do? I don't got nothing to do with that shit. For real," made two hours later, is an unequivocal invocation of the right to a lawyer., too. The indirect comment disclaiming any participation in the crimes alleged does not render it ambiguous. Snowden v. State, 1D2023-1998 (7/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454198/opinion/Opinion_2023-1998.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: Where, after thirteen hours of confinement and multiple requests for an attorney, Defendant was advised of Miranda and acknowledged that he understood them but was neither asked if he waived them nor provided a waiver form, his later statements under interrogation are inadmissible. Snowden v. State, 1D2023-1998 (7/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454198/opinion/Opinion_2023-1998.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: The clear standard to be applied when waiver of an invoked Miranda right is at issue: (1) did the suspect reinitiate contact with police and, if so, (2) did he knowingly and voluntarily waive his earlier-invoked Miranda rights. Once an individual has invoked the Miranda right to counsel, a valid waiver of this right can be found only if the individual is the one responsible for reinitiating contact with the police. "Based on the totality of the circumstances, including the conduct of the investigators and their interactions with Snowden before and after he thrice invoked his right to counsel, we conclude that Snowden's decision to reinitiate contact with detectives was a result of improper coercive tactics by law enforcement." Snowden v. State, 1D2023-1998 (7/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454198/opinion/Opinion_2023-1998.pdf

MOTION TO WITHDRAW PLEA: A motion to withdraw a plea filed prior to sentencing is a critical stage of the proceedings at which a defendant is entitled to representation by conflict-free counsel. Leaving a defendant to draft and present a motion to withdraw plea on his own because of counsel's doubts about its merits amounts to a denial of conflict-free counsel. Defendant is denied counsel where his attorney only filed a shell motion appending substantive allegations that Defendant had drafted on her own. Rodgers v. State, 1D2024-0799 (7/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454201/opinion/Opinion_2024-0799.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-DURESS: In DWLS case, Defendant is entitled to a duress instruction where he testified that his wife had driven home and that he only drove his overheated car a few blocks to get it out of the intersection, off the street, and into a public parking lot. Veloz v. State, 2D2024-0726 (7/2/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454170/opinion/Opinion_2024-0726.pdf

JURY FINDINGS-HFO/PRR: An Erlinger claim–that HFO and PRR findings must, at a defendant's request, be made by the jury– may be raised pursuant to R. 3.800(b). Flournoy v. State, 2D2024-1491 (7/2/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454171/opinion/Opinion_202

4-1491.pdf

JURY FINDINGS-HFO/PRR: An Erlinger claim–that HFO and PRR findings must, at a defendant's request, be made by the jury– is subject to harmless error analysis. Where the error concerns sentencing, the error is harmless only if there is no reasonable possibility that the error contributed to the sentence. Flournoy v. State, 2D2024-1491 (7/2/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454171/opinion/Opinion_2024-1491.pdf

VOP: Failure to complete expensive mental health counseling where defendant receives $270 a month disability is not a willful violation of probation. When a monetary obligation is a condition of a defendant's probation, his failure to pay is not willful if he failed to do so because he could not pay for it. In order to revoke probation based on failure to pay a monetary obligation that is a condition of probation, the trial court must inquire whether the defendant has or had the ability to pay and must make an explicit finding of willfulness. A defendant is entitled to a favorable determination on an alleged violation of a monetary obligation where there is no evidence that the trial court made such an inquiry. Aribu v. State, 2D2024-1911 (7/2/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454173/opinion/Opinion_2024-1911.pdf

JURY-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATION: Court did not abuse its discretion in denying Defendant's use of a peremptory strike to remove a juror where the trial court found his race-neutral explanation was not credibly genuine after Defendant had agreed to the sitting of another juror who expressed essentially the same concerns as the challenged juror. Warren v. State, 3D2022-2022 (7/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454227/opinion/Opinion_202

2-2022.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Affidavits by the co-defendant that he shot the victim and the defendant had no foreknowledge do not constitute newly discovered evidence where Defendant failed to establish that this evidence was unknown to him and that, in the exercise of due diligence, it could not have been discovered prior to trial. Matthews v. State, 3D2023-0018 (7/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454228/opinion/Opinion_2023-0018.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Affidavits by the co-defendant that he shot the victim and the defendant had no foreknowledge do not entitle Defendant to a new trial where the co-defendant's own postconviction motions appeared to contradict the averments made by him in the affidavits (he denied having participated in the murder at all). Where co-defendant's motions and hearing testimony did not show that he was involved in the murder at all, the claims in his affidavits would not be admissible at trial. Matthews v. State, 3D2023-0018 (7/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454228/opinion/Opinion_2023-0018.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Relief on ineffective assistance of counsel claims must be based on more than speculation and conjecture. Morgan v. State, 3D24-1862 (7/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454220/opinion/Opinion_2024-1862.pdf

ERLINGER: Erlinger does not apply retroactively to postconviction cases. Lewis v. State, 3D25-0396 (7/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454223/opinion/Opinion_2025-0396.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: Any sentence, even one of a short duration, can potentially exceed a defendant's life span. The fact that the judicial system has no way of knowing how long the defendant will live and therefore cannot know how long the defendant will be incarcerated does not render a life sentence unconstitutionally indefinite. Sanchez v. State, 3D25-0652 (7/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454225/opinion/Opinion_2025-0652.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE-DEFINITENESS-ASSONANCE: The term "life" is sufficiently definite and there is nothing indefinite about such a sentence. A life sentence is not impermissible indefinite imprisonment. Beaubrum v. State, 3D25-0882 (7/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454244/opinion/Opinion_2025-0882.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Ingram v. State, 4D2025-0929 (7/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454222/opinion/Opinion_2025-0929.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Hartman v. State, 4D2025-0977 (7/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454221/opinion/Opinion_2025-0977.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Yearby v. State, 4D2025-0984 (7/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454224/opinion/Opinion_2025-0984.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Freeman v. State, 5D2025-0028 (7/1/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454100/opinion/Opinion_2025-0028.pdf

JUNE 2025

EIGHTH AMENDMENT-CIVIL SUIT: Bivens v. Six Unknown Fed. Narcotics Agents recognized an implied cause of action for damages against federal officers for certain alleged violations of the Fourth Amendment, but Bivens does not permit an Eighth Amendment excessive-force claim. Goldey v. Fields, No. 24–809 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/30/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24-809_9o6b.pdf

FYI-ETHNICITY-GRAMMAR-STYLE: The capitalization of Black when referring to Black people and especially to African American people or their culture is now widely established in dictionaries and style guides. Sockwell v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 23-13321 (11th Cir. 6/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313321.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATION: Batson established a three-step inquiry to evaluate the prosecutor's use of peremptory strikes: First, a defendant must make a prima facie showing that a peremptory challenge has been exercised on the basis of race. Second, if that showing has been made, the prosecution must offer a race-neutral basis for striking the juror in question. Third, in light of the parties' submissions, the trial court must determine whether the defendant has shown purposeful discrimination. Prosecutor's statement that the juror "is a [B]lack male, approximately 23 years of age, which would put him very close to the same race, sex and age of the defendant" is an explicitly racial reason for striking" him. Prosecutor's proffered race neutral reason for the strike--he was "very vague and unclear in his answer" about what he had heard about the case–was not genuine. Sockwell v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 23-13321 (11th Cir. 6/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313321.pdf

AEDPA-JURY-PEREMPTORY STRIKES-DISCRIMINATION: Discriminatory use of peremptory challenges is shown where the prosecutor used over 50% of their strikes to strike Blacks, struck 80% of all Blacks on the venire, and had a documented pattern of exercising challenges on a discriminatory basis. State Supreme Court finding of no violation of Batson is an unreasonable application of law where there are explicit racial statements and strong evidence of discriminatory purpose. Sockwell v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 23-13321 (11th Cir. 6/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313321.pdf

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATION: The defendant may present: (1) statistical evidence about the prosecutor's use of peremptory strikes against Black prospective jurors as compared to white prospective jurors in the case; (2) evidence of a prosecutor's disparate questioning and investigation of Black and white prospective jurors in the case; (3) side-by-side comparisons of Black prospective jurors who were struck and white prospective jurors who were not struck in the case, (4) a prosecutor's misrepresentations of the record when defending the strikes during the Batson hearing; (5) relevant history of the State's peremptory strikes in past cases; or (6) any other relevant circumstances that bear upon the issue of racial discrimination. Sockwell v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 23-13321 (11th Cir. 6/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313321.pdf

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-DISCRIMINATION: "Here, Brooks had a significant history of striking jurors in a racially discriminatory manner right before and during Sockwell's trial in 1990. Both the ACCA and Alabama Supreme Court found several instances of Brooks striking Black jurors in violation of Batson starting in 1988." Sockwell v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 23-13321 (11th Cir. 6/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313321.pdf

INEFFECTIVE APPELLATE COUNSEL-DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Appellate counsel is ineffective for failing to argue that convictions for both possession of cocaine and trafficking in cocaine violate the proscription against double jeopardy. Reyes v. State, 6D2023-1737 (6/30/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454074/opinion/Opinion_2023-1737.pdf

JUDICIAL POWER-UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS: District courts lack authority to issue universal injunctions prohibiting governmental action against anyone, anywhere. Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

JUDICIAL POWER-UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS: District court's may not enforce the constitutional provision that anyone born in the United States is a U.S. citizen by issuing a universal injunction against an executive order excluding certain children from that provision. Injunctions can only by entered to protect individual petitioners. Federal courts do not have equitable authority to issue universal injunctions. Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS: The Judiciary Act of 1789 endowed federal courts with jurisdiction over all suits in equity, which encompasses only those sorts of equitable remedies traditionally accorded by courts of equity at our country's inception. Universal injunctions are not sufficiently analogous to the relief issued by the High Court of Chancery in England at the time of the adoption of the Constitution and the enactment of the original Judiciary Act. Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS: "No one disputes that the Executive has a duty to follow the law. But the Judiciary does not have unbridled authority to enforce this obligation." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "No right is safe in the new legal regime the Court creates. Today, the threat is to birthright citizenship. Tomorrow, a different administration may try to seize firearms from law abiding citizens or prevent people of certain faiths from gathering to worship. The majority holds that, absent cumbersome class-action litigation, courts cannot completely enjoin even such plainly unlawful policies unless doing so is necessary to afford the formal parties complete relief. That holding renders constitutional guarantees meaningful in name only for any individuals who are not parties to a lawsuit. Because I will not be complicit in so grave an attack on our system of law, I dissent." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "The majority ignores entirely whether the President's Executive Order is constitutional, instead focusing only on the question whether federal courts have the equitable authority to issue universal injunctions...As every conceivable source of law confirms, birthright citizenship is the law of the land." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

BIRTHRIGHT CITIZENSHIP (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "Few constitutional questions can be answered by resort to the text of the Constitution alone, but this is one. The Fourteenth Amendment guarantees birthright citizenship." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

BIRTHRIGHT CITIZENSHIP (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "[T]he Citizenship Order is patently unconstitutional. To allow the Government to enforce it against even one newborn child is an assault on our constitutional order and antithetical to equity and public interest...[N]ewborns subject to the Citizenship Order will face the gravest harms imaginable...[T]he Order threatens to render American born children stateless...[The] threat hangs like a guillotine over this litigation...If allowed to take effect, the Order may even wrench newborns from the arms of parents lawfully in the United States, for it purports to strip citizenship from the children of parents legally present on a temporary basis... Those newborns could face deportation, even as their parents remain lawfully in the country." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "The Court's decision is nothing less than an open invitation for the Government to bypass the Constitution. The Executive Branch can now enforce policies that flout settled law and violate countless individuals' constitutional rights, and the federal courts will be hamstrung to stop its actions fully. Until the day that every affected person manages to become party to a lawsuit and secures for himself injunctive relief, the Government may act lawlessly indefinitely." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

BIRTHRIGHT CITIZENSHIP (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING):"The majority insists that the constitutionality of the Citizenship Order will come before this Court eventually and that, when it does, the Government will obey this Court's resulting opinion with respect to all newborn children...Why?...The majority's certainty that the Government will keep its word is nothing short of a leap of faith, given that the Government has adopted a plainly unconstitutional policy in defiance of this Court's precedent and then gamed the system to stymie this Court's consideration of the policy's merits." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

RULE OF LAW: "The rule of law is not a given in this Nation, nor any other. It is a precept of our democracy that will endure only if those brave enough in every branch fight for its survival. Today, the Court abdicates its vital role in that effort. With the stroke of a pen, the President has made a 'solemn mockery' of our Constitution. Rather than stand firm, the Court gives way. Because such complicity should know no place in our system of law, I dissent." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "It is important to recognize that the Executive's bid to vanquish so-called 'universal injunctions' is, at bottom, a request for this Court's permission to engage in unlawful behavior....That is some solicitation. With its ruling today, the majority largely grants the Government's wish." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "Focusing on

inapt comparisons to impotent English tribunals, the majority ignores the Judiciary's foundational duty to uphold the Constitution and laws of the United States. The majority's ruling thus not only diverges from first principles, it is also profoundly dangerous, since it gives the Executive the go-ahead to sometimes wield the kind of unchecked, arbitrary power the Founders crafted our Constitution to eradicate. The very institution our founding charter charges with the duty to ensure universal adherence to the law now requires judges to shrug and turn their backs to intermittent lawlessness. With deep disillusionment, I dissent." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING):"To hear the majority tell it, this suit raises a mind-numbingly technical query: Are universal injunctions 'sufficiently 'analogous' to the relief issued 'by the High Court of Chancery in England at the time of the adoption of the Constitution and the enactment of the original Judiciary Act' to fall within the equitable authority Congress granted federal courts in the Judiciary Act of 1789?...But that legalese is a smokescreen. It obscures a far more basic question of enormous legal and practical significance: May a federal court in the United States of America order the Executive to follow the law?" Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

POWER (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "[I]n this clash over the respective powers of two coordinate branches of Government, the majority sees a power grab—but not by a presumably lawless Executive choosing to act in a manner that flouts the plain text of the Constitution. Instead, to the majority, the power-hungry actors are . . . (wait for it) . . . the district courts." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "When a court is prevented from enjoining the Executive universally after the Executive establishes a universal practice of stripping people's constitutional rights, anyone who is entitled to the Constitution's protection but will instead be subjected to the Executive's whims is improperly divested of their inheritance. The Constitution is flipped on its head, for its promises are essentially nullified." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

UNIVERSAL INJUNCTIONS (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "Imagine an Executive who issues a blanket order...demanding, say, that any and all of its political foes be summarily and indefinitely incarcerated in a prison outside the jurisdiction of the United States...[T]he majority says, oh well, there is nothing to be done...A Martian arriving here...would...surely wonder: 'what good is the Constitution, then?' 'Those things Americans call constitutional rights seem hardly worth the paper they are written on!'" Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

RULE OF LAW (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING: "These observations are indictments, especially for a Nation that prides itself on being fair and free. But, after today, that is where we are. What the majority has done is allow the Executive to nullify the statutory and constitutional rights of the uncounseled, the underresourced, and the unwary, by prohibiting the lower courts from ordering the Executive to follow the law across the board." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

RULE OF LAW (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "I view the demise of the notion that a federal judge can order the Executive to adhere to the Constitution—full stop—as a sad day for America. The majority's unpersuasive effort to justify this result makes it sadder still. It is the responsibility of each and every jurist to hold the line. But the Court now requires judges to look the other way after finding that the Executive is violating the law, shamefully permitting unlawful conduct to continue unabated." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

RULE OF LAW (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "Make no mistake...: [T]his Court's complicity in the creation of a culture of disdain for lower courts, their rulings, and the law...will surely hasten the downfall of our governing institutions, enabling our collective demise." Trump v. Casa, Inc., No. 24A884 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a884_new_5426.pdf

FIRST AMENDMENT-PORNOGRAPHY: Statute requiring commercial websites that publish sexually explicit content to verify the ages of their visitors does not violate the First Amendment. The power to require age verification is within a State's authority to prevent children from accessing sexually explicit content. A State may not prohibit adults from accessing content that is obscene only to minors, but, it may enact laws to prevent minors from accessing such content. Verifying age by government identification and transactional data is a legitimate legislative choice that does not impose excessive burdens on users. Free Speech Coalition, Inc. v. Paxton, No. 23-1122 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/27/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-1122_3e04.pdf

PLEA-VOLUNTARINESS: A knowing and voluntary guilty plea waives all non-jurisdictional defects, including denial of a motion to suppress evidence. Nothing in Rule 11 or caselaw requires a judge to proactively inform a defendant that by entering an unconditional plea he waives his right to appeal all non-jurisdictional matters. Mentioning the possibility of appealing an unpreserved motion to suppress at sentencing is too little, too late. USA v. Edwards, No. 22-13963 (11th Cir. 6/27/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213963.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: Defendant abandons a claim when he either makes only passing references to it or raises it in a perfunctory manner without supporting arguments and authority. USA v. Edwards, No. 22-13963 (11th Cir. 6/27/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213963.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION-ACCA: An Erlinger issue–jury must make the factual finding as to the timing of the predicate enhancement convictions–is not preserved absent an objection except for when plain error occurs, which would require defendant to show a reasonable probability that a jury would have concluded that he committed the three predicate crimes on fewer than three occasions. A mere possibility isn't a reasonable probability. USA v. Edwards, No. 22-13963 (11th Cir. 6/27/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213963.pdf

COMMERCE CLAUSE: §922(g)– use of a firearm in connection with a crime – is facially constitutional under the Commerce Clause. USA v. Edwards, No. 22-13963 (11th Cir. 6/27/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213963.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: In child sexual molestation cases, motions to sever should be granted where offenses occurred at different times and places, involving different victims. Defendant is entitled to an evidentiary hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to move to sever. Sandoval v. State, 5D2024-0647 (6/27/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453958/opinion/Opinion_2024-0647.pdf

SELF-DEFENSE-JURY INSTRUCTION: Defendant who shot victim was entitled to deadly force self-defense instruction in shooting case where he was short and skinny and his assailants were each over 200 pounds, had been drinking, had already shoved him to the ground, and one lunged at him as he was surrounded by the four people. The reasonableness of a defendant's belief is assessed from the defendant's point of view includes taking into account the relative physical differences between the defendant and the person or persons by whom the defendant felt threatened. Smith v. State, 6D2023-2239 (6/27/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454055/opinion/Opinion_2023-2239.pdf

SELF-DEFENSE-JURY INSTRUCTION: Court erred when it denied Defendant's requested jury instruction and when prohibited him from introducing testimony about the threat shouted at him. Defendant has the right to have the jury instructed on any valid theory of defense supported by record evidence, no matter how weak or flimsy. The question of self-defense is one of fact, and is one for the jury to decide where the facts are disputed. Smith v. State, 6D2023-2239 (6/27/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454055/opinion/Opinion_2023-2239.pdf

SELF-DEFENSE-JURY INSTRUCTION: A defendant is not required to testify at trial to receive a jury instruction on self-defense. If a jury can reasonably infer from circumstantial evidence presented at trial that the defendant had the state of mind necessary for self-defense, then the defendant is entitled to a jury instruction on self-defense. The cross-examination of State witnesses can also support a claim of self-defense. Smith v. State, 6D2023-2239 (6/27/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454055/opinion/Opinion_2023-2239.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION: Defendant is entitled to a jury instrction on self defense/SYG pertaining to him being in a place he had a right to be where he returned to the property with permission to retrieve his belongings after earlier argument and the people there were not the actual owners of the property, anyway. Smith v. State, 6D2023-2239 (6/27/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454055/opinion/Opinion_2023-2239.pdf

HEARSAY: "I'm going to beat you up" is not hearsay. A recognized, non-hearsay use of an out-of-court statement is to show the effect on the listener. When a statement is offered to prove what a person thought after the person heard the statement, it is being offered to prove the person's state of mind and is not hearsay. In the context of self-defense, a prior threat made to a defendant before the defendant used force is not hearsay when offered to show that the defendant feared that he or she was in danger of death or great bodily harm. Smith v. State, 6D2023-2239 (6/27/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454055/opinion/Opinion_2023-2239.pdf

TRESPASS (J. WHITE, CONCURRING): "The majority's footnote 8 is built on a flawed foundation. It claims that 'nothing in the record' shows that any of the group could 'eject' Smith from the property. Not so...The majority's footnote 8 cites no legal authority supporting the bald assertion that a permanent or temporary resident (Amelia or Benjamin) cannot eject a visitor (Smith) when the owner (Ms. Stanley) is not present." Smith v. State, 6D2023-2239 (6/27/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2454055/opinion/Opinion_2023-2239.pdf

STACKING-FIRST STEP ACT: The First Step Act, enacted in 2018, eliminated the requirement of offenders convicted of violating 18 U.S.C. §924(c)—a law that criminalizes the possession of a firearm while committing other crimes—to be sentenced to mandatory minimum "stacked" 25-year periods of incarceration, is retroactive if a sentence "has not been imposed" upon an eligible §924(c) offender as of the date of the First Step Act's enactment. (With stacking, a first-time offender convicted of two §924(c) counts would receive mandatory 5 and 25 year consecutive sentences (30 years). Where a §924(c) offender had been sentenced as of the Act's enactment, but that sentence was later vacated, such that the offender must face a post-Act resentencing, he is not subject to stacking. The First Step Act's more lenient penalties apply. Hewitt v. United States, No. 23-1002 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/26/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-1002_1p24.pdf

VACATED SENTENCE: Vacated sentences are void ab initio. A person whose sentence has been vacated has not been convicted. A criminal defendant whose judgment of conviction has been vacated is to be treated going forward as though he never had been convicted. Hewitt v. United States, No. 23-1002 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/26/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-1002_1p24.pdf

GRAMMAR: Past-perfect tense and present-perfect tense explained and analyzed. Hewitt v. United States, No. 23-1002 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/26/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-1002_1p24.pdf

VACATED SENTENCE (J. ALITO, DISSENTING): "The Court tells us that the 2022 vacatur of petitioners' sentences rendered those sentences legal nullities from their inception...Animating the Court's atextual interpretation is a thinly veiled desire to march in the parade of sentencing reform." Hewitt v. United States, No. 23-1002 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/26/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-1002_1p24.pdf

DUE PROCESS: Defendant has standing to seek postconviction DNA evidence to prove his innocence notwithstanding that State would likely refuse to produce it under its interpretation of state law that Defendant would still be guilty under various theories regardless of any testing results. Individuals convicted of crimes in state court have a liberty interest in demonstrating their innocence with new evidence under state law. Due process does not countenance procedural sleight of hand whereby a state extends a right with one hand and then takes it away with another. Gutierrez v. Saenz, 23–7809 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/26/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-7809_3e04.pdf

LIBERTY (THOMAS, DISSENTING): "The original meaning of 'liberty' in the Fourteenth Amendment was likely far narrower than our precedents currently hold. The term originally appears to have referred only to freedom from physical restraint...As with any legal text, we must construe the Fourteenth Amendment according to the ordinary meaning of its terms at the time of its enactment." Entitlements established by the government–such as access to postconviction exculpatory evidence--cannot be "liberty" under the Due Process Clause. Gutierrez v. Saenz, 23–7809 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/26/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-7809_3e04.pdf

ATTORNEY-DISCIPLINE: Attorneys must maintain at all times the respect due to courts of justice and judicial officers. This obligation is not discharged by merely observing the rules of courteous demeanor in open court, but it includes abstaining out of court from all insulting language and offensive conduct toward the judges personally for their judicial acts. Attorney who posted various intemperate social media messages targeting a judge ("a white judge stole justice from a black doctor") and accusing him and appellate judges of racism suspended for 30 days. Florida Bar v. Girley, SC2022-0859 (6/26/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453935/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0859%20&%20SC2022-0860.pdf

ATTORNEY-DISCIPLINE: In Bar disciplinary proceedings, the referee is not bound by technical rules of evidence because bar disciplinary proceedings are quasi-judicial rather than civil or criminal. Evidence that, generally, there is inequality in the court system is irrelevant in disciplinary hearing about statements that targeted specific members of the judiciary. Judges cannot be compelled to testify as to matters concerning their judicial duties, and inquiring into a judge's thought process is impermissible. Florida Bar v. Girley, SC2022-0859 (6/26/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453935/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0859%20&%20SC2022-0860.pdf

RULES-JUVENILE-AMENDMENT: R. 8.245 amended to provide that if a party objects to production within 10 days of service of the notice, the party requesting production may set and notice a hearing to resolve the objection. A party may proceed with issuing a subpoena if no objections were made. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Juvenile Procedure 8.245, SC2024-1779 (6/26/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453937/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1779.pdf

STRUCTURING-BANK SECRECY ACT: The Bank Secrecy Act criminalizes structuring--failing to disclose transactions over $10,000 by breaking down payments to appear to hide a single transaction. USA v. Vayas, No. 24-10425 (11th Cir. 6/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410425.pdf

INDICTMENT-CONSTRUCTIVE AMENDMENT: A "constructive amendment" occurs when the essential elements of the offense contained in the indictment are altered to broaden the possible bases for conviction beyond what is contained in the indictment. 31 U.S.C. §5324(a)(1) covers conduct which prevents (or attempts to prevent) a required CTR (Currency Transaction Report) from being filed; §5324(a)(3) targets efforts that prevent a financial institution's duty to file a CTR from being triggered in the first place. But the prototypical act of structuring— splitting up a large transaction into smaller ones under $10,000 to evade reporting requirements—can be characteristic of either. Defendant is properly convicted of violating (a)(1) notwithstanding that "structuring" was defined during the trial and in the jury instructions but does not appear in the text of (a)(1). "Structuring" describes both (a)(1) and (a)(3) offenses. USA v. Vayas, No. 24-10425 (11th Cir. 6/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410425.pdf

JURY QUESTION: Where jury asked "On structuring: if I say not guilty based on the evidence presented[,] can I say guilty based on reasoning and common sense?", Court's response referring to instructions already given--to consider only the evidence admitted and that jury may use reason and common sense to make deductions and reach conclusions–is accurate and sufficient. USA v. Vayas, No. 24-10425 (11th Cir. 6/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410425.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR OFFENDER: Imposition of two nonhomicide life without-parole sentences consecutive to a homicide life-without parole sentence is constitutional because the defendant would still obtain meaningful review of his homicide life-without-parole sentence. Carter v. State, 1D2023-2744 (6/25/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453835/opinion/Opinion_2023-2744.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION-QUARTERMAN AGREEMENT: Defendant may not raise on appeal the issue of her attorney's failure to raise the issue of willfulness after she failed to appear in court pursuant to a Quarterman agreement. Unpreserved claims of ineffective assistance of counsel cannot be raised on direct appeal absent a showing of fundamental error. Lagasse v. State, 2D2024-1144 (6/25/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453813/opinion/Opinion_2024-1144.pdf

PROBATION-SPECIAL CONDITIONS: General conditions of probation, which are contained within the Florida Statutes, need not be orally pronounced at the sentencing hearing. Special conditions, which are those not specifically authorized by statute, must be orally pronounced. Capozzi v. State, 3D23-1336 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453888/opinion/Opinion_2023-1336.pdf

PROBATION CONDITIONS: The enumeration of standard conditions of probation in the form provided by R. 3.986 does not satisfy the notice requirement in the same way that the publication of §948.03 does. Under the statute, only knowing use of intoxicants to excess, and knowing visitation of places where intoxicants or drugs are used or dispensed, is prohibited. Capozzi v. State, 3D23-1336 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453888/opinion/Opinion_2023-1336.pdf

PROBATION-SPECIAL CONDITIONS: The enumeration of standard conditions of probation in the form provided by R. 3.986 does not satisfy the notice requirement in the same way that the publication of §948.03 does. Requiring a probationer to maintain full-time employment is an improper condition of probation because a down-turn in the economy could prevent its completion. A condition that Defendant work faithfully at suitable employment insofar as may be possible would be lawful. Capozzi v. State, 3D23-1336 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453888/opinion/Opinion_2023-1336.pdf

PROBATION-SPECIAL CONDITIONS: A requirement that Defendant notify her employer of her probation is a special condition which must be stricken if not orally pronounced. Capozzi v. State, 3D23-1336 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453888/opinion/Opinion_2023-1336.pdf

SENTENCING-HVFO: Habitual offender sentences "are not subject to the sentencing guidelines. Essix v. State, 3D23-1404 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453875/opinion/Opinion_2023-1404.pdf

EVIDENCE-RAP VIDEOS: In mass shooting at a nightclub case, rap videos celebrating the shooting are admissible to shed light on Defendant's knowledge of the gang's history of conflict with the victim's and his motivation to act as a lookout. The main concern with the admission of rap videos in criminal trials is that if they appear to promote a violent or criminal lifestyle in general without being sufficiently probative of the crimes charged, they can potentially inflame a jury. But generally, in Florida, rap videos are admissible when they describe events close to the crime charged, contradict the defendant's statements or defense, or otherwise help to explain the factual context of a charged crime and/or motives that drove it. Barnes v. State, 3D23-2155 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453889/opinion/Opinion_2023-2155.pdf

INDEPENDENT ACT INSTRUCTION: In first degree murder case, where evidence admits of two interpretations: either Defendant Barnes knowingly acted as lookout for codefendant's plan to shoot people or he unwittingly acted as lookout without knowing or intending that any crime would happen, neither scenario fits the Independent Act doctrine. Court did not err in refusing this instruction. Barnes v. State, 3D23-2155 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453889/opinion/Opinion_2023-2155.pdf

MOTION TO DISMISS: Court may not grant an ore tenus motion to dismiss based on disputed facts. A properly filed written motion is required. State v. Adams, 3D23-2305 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453890/opinion/Opinion_2023-2305.pdf

JUDICIAL IMPARTIALITY: The requirement of judicial impartiality is at the core of our system of criminal justice. A judge may not enter into the fray by giving tips or legal advice to either side. State v. Adams, 3D23-2305 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453890/opinion/Opinion_2023-2305.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A motion to vacate a sentence that exceeds the limits provided by law may be filed at any time. No other motion shall be filed or considered pursuant to this rule if filed more than 2 years after the judgment and sentence become final unless it alleges that: (1) the facts on which the claim is predicated were unknown to the movant or the movant's attorney and could not have been ascertained by the exercise of due diligence, and the claim is made within 2 years of the time the new facts were or could have been discovered with the exercise of due diligence. Duncan v. State, 3D24-0424 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453876/opinion/Opinion_2024-0424.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: In collateral proceedings by habeas corpus, as in post-conviction proceedings under R. 3.850, successive petitions for the same relief are not cognizable and may be summarily denied. The mere incantation of the words "manifest injustice" does not make it so. Urbay v. State, 3D24-1728 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453878/opinion/Opinion_2024-1728.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: There is no Brady violation where the information is equally accessible to the defense and the prosecution, or where the defense either had the information or could have obtained it through the exercise of reasonable diligence. State v. Morejob-Blagoev, 3D-24-1728 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453878/opinion/Opinion_2024-1728.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: The mere incantation of the words "manifest injustice" does not make it so. There is little doubt that every defendant believes they will suffer a "manifest injustice" if their postconviction claim is deemed foreclosed by the passage of time. However, a defendant does not have an unlimited right to continue to litigate (and relitigate) the validity of their conviction. Hernandez v. State, 3D25-0104 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453899/opinion/Opinion_2025-0104.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The fact that the judicial system has no way of knowing how long the defendant will live and therefore cannot know how long the defendant will be incarcerated does not render a life sentence unconstitutionally indefinite. It is abundantly clear that the Legislature, by prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life. Tapia v. State, 3D25-0746 (6/25/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453885/opinion/Opinion_2025-0746.pdf

ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT: A trial court's oral pronouncement of a sentence controls over the written sentencing document. Sturrup v. State, 4D2023-2804 (6/25/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453856/opinion/Opinion_2023-2804.pdf

VIOLENT CAREER CRIMINAL: A certified copy of the judgment reflecting that Defendant had been adjudicated guilty of "felon in poss. Ammo (Actual)" contrary to sections "775.087(2)" and "790.23(1)(a)(c)(d)(e)" is not proof that Defendant had possessed a firearm, as required for the VCC designation. The PSI, not actually introduced into evidence, noted that Defendant had a loaded revolver in his vehicle when he was arrested. Although Defendant did not object to consideration of the PSI report or otherwise dispute the truth of the hearsay statements contained therein, Court's reliance on the PSI report is fundamental error. Molinet-Gonzalez v. State, 4D2023-2912 (6/25/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453859/opinion/Opinion_2023-2912.pdf

VIOLENT CAREER CRIMINAL: Felon in possession of ammunition conviction does not qualify as a "felony violation of chapter 790 involving the use or possession of a firearm" for purposes of VCC sentencing. Molinet-Gonzalez v. State, 4D2023-2912 (6/25/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453859/opinion/Opinion_2023-2912.pdf

VOP-HEARSAY: Probation may not be revoked based solely on hearsay. Quarta v. State, 4D2025-0019 (6/25/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453872/opinion/Opinion_2025-0019.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Peterson v. State, 4D2025-0905 (6/25/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453873/opinion/Opinion_2025-0905.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: The minimum costs for the state attorney mandated by §938.27(8) must be imposed by the trial court even in the absence of a request by the State. Huertas v. State, 5D2024-2489 (6/24/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453735/opinion/Opinion_2024-2489.pdf

ERLINGER: Even if Erlinger constitutes a change in law, it does not apply retroactively to cases that were final when it was decided. Booth v. State, 5D2025-1312 (6/24/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453737/opinion/Opinion_2025-1312.pdf

DUE PROCESS-DEPORTATION (SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): Although Federal law permits the Government to deport noncitizens found to be unlawfully in the United States only to countries with which they have a meaningful connection, and noncitizens have the right not to be removed to a country where they are likely to be tortured or killed, the majority opinion prevents district courts from temporarily enjoining such deportations. The Due Process Clause represents 'the principle that ours is a government of laws'...By rewarding lawlessness, the Court once again undermines that foundational principle. Apparently, the Court finds the idea that thousands will suffer violence in farflung locales more palatable than the remote possibility that a District Court exceeded its remedial powers when it ordered the Government to provide notice and process to which the plaintiffs are constitutionally and statutorily entitled. That use of discretion is as incomprehensible as it is inexcusable." Department of Homeland Security v. D.V.D., No. 24A1153 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/23/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a1153_l5gm.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: The use of technology that merely accesses information voluntarily shared over a peer-to-peer network, such as Torrential Downpour, is not a search under the Fourth Amendment. It is not a "search" when the government accesses electronic information revealed to third parties. "The key fact for the purposes of our Fourth Amendment analysis is that Ewing consented to others downloading files from him." USA v. Ewing, No. 24-11308 (11th Cir. 6/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411308.pdf

PEER-TO-PEER FILE SHARING-BITTORRENT: Peer-to-peer file sharing and BitTorrent explained. USA v. Ewing, No. 24-11308 (11th Cir. 6/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411308.pdf

EVIDENCE-CHILD PORN: Court does not commit reversible error in failing to review the images before ruling on Ewing's objection to jurors' seeing images which are conceded to be child porn. Even when this evidence is relevant, a district court should exercise care in permitting the government to display images and videos of child pornography because of its potential to inflame the jury and should ordinarily review pornographic images or a detailed description of those images before ruling on an objection to those images under Rule 403. But failure to do so is nor reversible error and is harmless. USA v. Ewing, No. 24-11308 (11th Cir. 6/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411308.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INVENTORY SEARCH: A warrantless search is proper under the inventory search exception of an impounded car if officers (1) had the authority to impound the car, and (2) followed department procedures governing inventory searches. During an inventory search, a police officer may be allowed sufficient latitude to determine whether a particular container should or should not be opened in light of the nature of the search and characteristics of the container itself. Holmes v. State, No. 23-10794 (11th Cir. 6/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310794.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-WARRANT: Probable cause for a search warrant for a residence established where Defendant had recently committed arson and the materials late in the arson had not yet been found, the car seen driving away from the arson was parked in front of the residence, and Defendant was seen leaving the residence to get back into that car. Holmes v. State, No. 23-10794 (11th Cir. 6/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310794.pdf

EVIDENCE-TEXT MESSAGES: Text messages using coded language associated with drug dealing are admissible and not unduly prejudicial. Holmes v. State, No. 23-10794 (11th Cir. 6/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310794.pdf

EXPERT-OPINION: Agent may testify as an expert about the operations of drug dealers and typically carrying firearms to protect themselves and their product. Holmes v. State, No. 23-10794 (11th Cir. 6/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310794.pdf

POSSESSION OF FIREARM: Defendant may be found guilty of possession of a firearm in furtherance of a drug trafficking crime where Defendant was a street-level drug dealer in the car which contained a variety of drugs in Ziplock bags and bottles, apparently packaged for sale. Holmes v. State, No. 23-10794 (11th Cir. 6/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310794.pdf

POSSESSION OF FIREARM: Defendant may be found guilty of possession of firearm found in his home where it was found in his bedroom and he had searched on the Internet for that particular make and model of the gun. Holmes v. State, No. 23-10794 (11th Cir. 6/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310794.pdf

SUPERVISED RELEASE: Supervised release is a form of postconfinement monitoring that permits a defendant a kind of conditional liberty by allowing him to serve part of his sentence outside of prison, subject to conditions on his behavior. A term of supervised release is not itself a "sentence" at all; it is a component of a defendant's prison sentence. Esteras v. United States, No. 23–7483 (6/20/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-7483_6k4c.pdf

SENTENCING: For a violation of supervised release, Court may not consider the need for the sentence imposed to reflect the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law, and to provide just punishment for the offense A criminal sentence may include both time in prison and a term of supervised release. At the original sentencing, Court must consider all the factors listed in 18 U. S. C. §3583(a). But subsection(2)(A) is conspicously omitted from the enumerated factors on a violation of supervised release. The omission of §3553(a)(2)(A) from the list of factors means that courts may not consider it. Esteras v. United States, No. 23–7483 (6/20/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-7483_6k4c.pdf

SENTENCING-VIOLATION OF SUPERVISED RELEASE: "Congress's decision to exclude retribution from the calculus also comports with the role of supervised release in our current criminal justice scheme. Fines, probation, and imprisonment are a court's primary tools for ensuring that a criminal defendant receives just deserts for the original offense. Supervised release, by contrast, 'is not a punishment in lieu of incarceration.'...Rather, it 'fulfills rehabilitative ends' and 'provides individuals with postconfinement assistance.' ...So when a defendant violates the conditions of his supervised release, it makes sense that a court must consider the forward-looking ends of sentencing (deterrence,incapacitation, and rehabilitation), but may not considerthe backward-looking purpose of retribution." Esteras v. United States, No. 23–7483 (6/20/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-7483_6k4c.pdf

LEGAL DRAFTMANSHIP: "Congress cannot anticipate (much less account for) every future statutory skirmish—and even if it could, courts have no authority to hold Congress to a 'perfect as we see it' standard of drafting." Esteras v. United States, No. 23–7483 (6/20/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-7483_6k4c.pdf

OTHER WORLDLINESS (J. ALITO, DISSENTING): "Veteran trial judges often complain that their appellate colleagues live in a world of airy abstractions and do not give enough thought to the practical effects of their holdings. Today's decision is likely to earn the rank of Exhibit A in the trial bench's catalog of appellate otherworldliness." Esteras v. United States, No. 23–7483 (6/20/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-7483_6k4c.pdf

TEXTUALISM (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "[P]ure textualism's refusal to try to understand the text of a statute in the larger context of what Congress sought to achieve turns the interpretive task into a potent weapon for advancing judicial policy preferences. By 'finding' answers in ambiguous text, and not bothering to consider whether those answers align with other sources of statutory meaning, pure textualists can easily disguise their own preferences as 'textual' inevitabilities. So, really, far from being 'insufficiently pliable,' I think pure textualism is incessantly malleable—that's its primary problem—and, indeed, it is certainly somehow always flexible enough to secure the majority's desired outcome." Stanley v. City of Sanford, Florida, No. 23–997 (6/20/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-997_6579.pdf

SCIENCE (J. THOMAS, CONCURRING): In politically contentious debates over matters shrouded in scientific uncertainty, courts should not assume that self-described experts are correct. Experts and elites have been wrong before—and they may prove to be wrong again. The people, their elected representatives, and the democratic process have the power to decide how best to address an area of medical uncertainty and extraordinary importance.

That sovereign prerogative does not bow to major medical organizations. United States v. Skrmetti, No. 23-477 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/18/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-477_2cp3.pdf

EQUAL PROTECTION (J. BARRETT, CONCURRING): The Equal Protection Clause does not demand heightened judicial scrutiny of laws that classify based on transgender status. Rational-basis review applies, which means that courts must give legislatures flexibility to make policy in this area. United States v. Skrmetti, No. 23-477 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/18/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-477_2cp3.pdf

SEX/GENDER (J. ALITO, CONCURRING): "None of our equal protection decisions has used 'gender' in the sense in which it is now sometimes used, i.e., to denote 'a group of people in a society who share particular qualities or ways of behaving which that society associates with being male, female, or another identity.' For these reasons a party claiming that a law violates the Equal Protection Clause because it classifies on the basis of sex cannot prevail simply by showing that the law draws a distinction on the basis of 'gender identity.'...Rather, such a plaintiff must show that the challenged law differentiates between the two biological sexes: male and female." United States v. Skrmetti, No. 23-477 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/18/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-477_2cp3.pdf

SELF-REPRESENTATION: Defendant is entitled to represent himself in multiple first-degree murder death penalty case. His assertion that he is a sovereign citizen is not proof that he lacked an understanding of the proceedings, particularly in light of a mental health expert's conclusion that claiming sovereign citizenship was a delay tactic. Lorenzo v. State, SC2023-0539 (6/19/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453609/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0539.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Court did not err in considering a mitigation report prepared by standby counsel for pro se defendant. When a capital defendant waives the right to present evidence in mitigation, the court still retains its responsibility to consider mitigating evidence in the record. Lorenzo v. State, SC2023-0539 (6/19/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453609/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0539.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-AGE: 20 year old's age at the time of crime does not put him outside the class of individuals subject to capital punishment. Gudinas v. State, SC2025-0794 (6/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453494/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0794.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Any claim of newly discovered evidence in a death penalty case must be brought within one year of the date such evidence was discovered or could have been discovered through the exercise of due diligence. In order to obtain relief based on a claim of newly discovered evidence, a defendant has the burden to establish:
(1) that the newly discovered evidence was unknown by the trial court, by the party, or by counsel at the time of trial and it could not have been discovered through due diligence, and (2) that the evidence is of such a nature that it would probably produce an acquittal or yield a less severe sentence on retrial. Gudinas v. State, SC2025-0794 (6/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453494/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0794.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: New literature and neuroscience research about brain development with age is not newly discovered evidence sufficient to vacate the death penalty. Gudinas v. State,

SC2025-0794 (6/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453494/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0794.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: The categorical bar to execution of the intellectually disabled does not apply to individuals with other forms of mental illness or brain damage. Gudinas v. State, SC2025-0794 (6/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453494/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0794.pdf

EIGHTH AMENDMENT-CONFORMITY CLAUSE: Florida's Eighth Amendment Conformity Clause, which forecloses the possibility of courts interpreting the Florida prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment to provide more protections than the Eighth Amendment as interpreted by the United States Supreme Court, is constitutional. Gudinas v. State, SC2025-0794 (6/17/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453494/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0794.pdf

HEARSAY-BUSINESS RECORDS: Digital map screenshots which include handwritten marks may be admitted as business records in the absence of indications that the marks were not made in the ordinary course of a regularly conducted business activity. Colston v. State, 1D2022-2215 (6/18/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453525/opinion/Opinion_2022-2215.pdf

HEARSAY: The username in an email address is not inadmissible hearsay. Colston v. State, 1D2022-2215 (6/18/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453525/opinion/Opinion_2022-2

215.pdf

DISCHARGE OF COUNSEL: A general complaint that counsel has not visited enough is not an adequate ground to find that counsel is ineffective. Cota v. State, 1D2023-2849 (6/18/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453538/opinion/Opinion_2023-2849.pdf

DISCHARGE OF COUNSEL: Counsel's decision whether to investigate and depose a witness is a strategic one. That is particularly true in child sexual abuse cases. Cota v. State, 1D2023-2849 (6/18/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453538/opinion/Opinion_2023-2849.pdf

SELF-REPRESENTATION: A Faretta inquiry is triggered only when a defendant asserts an unequivocal desire to represent himself at trial. Court is under no affirmative duty to inform Defendant of his right to conduct his own defense. Cota v. State, 1D2023-2849 (6/18/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453538/opinion/Opinion_2023-2849.pdf

DWLS-HABITUAL TRAFFIC OFFENDER: State may not use a criminal defendant's prior uncounseled convictions to enhance a subsequent charge, but this rule does not apply to a defendant charged with DWLS because the offense is defined not by reference to prior convictions, but to an administrative designation based upon such convictions. Nelson v. State, 1D2024-0105 (6/18/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453542/opinion/Opinion_2024-0105.pdf

DUI MANSLAUGHTER: Court cannot impose a downward departure from the sentencing guidelines for DUI manslaughter which omits the mandatory minimum sentence 4 years in prison. Court cannot impose a mandatory minimum sentence and then suspend it. State v. Beaman, 1D2024-1081 (6/18/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453545/opinion/Opinion_2024-1081.pdf

JURY FINDING-DATES OF CONVICTION/RELEASE: The holding in Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Strickland v. State, 1D2024-2791 (6/18/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453548/opinion/Opinion_2024-2791.pdf

ARGUMENT: Court properly limited the defense's closing argument where there was no evidence to support the theory the defense wished to advance. Turner v. State, 3D22-2218 (6/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453536/opinion/Opinion_2022-2218.pdf

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE: As a general rule, flight, standing alone, is insufficient to form the basis of a resisting without violence charge unless Defendant knows of the officer's intent to detain him, but the trial court's failure to sua sponte instruct the jury on the issue of knowledge of intent to detain does not constitute fundamental error where uncontradicted evidence showed that the Defendant was directed to stop. Husarek v. State, 3D23-1645 (6/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453567/opinion/Opinion_2023-1645.pdf

APPEAL-SENTENCING ERRORS: A sentencing error may not be raised on appeal unless the alleged error has first been brought to the attention of the lower tribunal: (1) at the time of sentencing; or (2) by motion pursuant to R. 3.800(b). What falls within the definition of a "sentencing error" "remains somewhat nebulous given the lack of consistency in the jurisprudential landscape." Sentencing errors include harmful errors in orders entered as a result of the sentencing process. R. 3.800(b) is intended to permit defendants to bring to the trial court's attention errors in sentence-related orders, not any error in the sentencing process. Ventura v. State, 3D23-2069 (6/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453581/opinion/Opinion_2023-2069.pdf

APPEAL-SENTENCING ERRORS: Denial of counsel at sentencing, while occurring during the sentencing process, is not an error in an order entered as a result of the sentencing process. To assert such a claim on appeal, no motion under rule 3.800(b) need be filed, but the contemporaneous objection rule applies. Ventura v. State, 3D23-2069 (6/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453581/opinion/Opinion_2023-2069.pdf

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR-JUDICIAL DISCRETION: The failure to recognize judicial discretion to impose a lighter sentence can constitute fundamental error when it affects the integrity of the sentencing process. Ventura v. State, 3D23-2069 (6/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453581/opinion/Opinion_2023-2069.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: To obtain a new trial based on newly discovered evidence, first, the evidence must not have been known by the trial court, the party, or counsel at the time of trial, and it must appear that the defendant or defense counsel could not have known of it by the use of diligence. Second, the newly discovered evidence must be of such nature that it would probably produce an acquittal on retrial. Newly discovered evidence satisfies the second prong of the test if it weakens the case against so as to give rise to a reasonable doubt as to Defendant's culpability. Morant v. State, 3D24-1006 (6/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453541/opinion/Opinion_2024-1006.pdf

JURY FINDING-DATES OF CONVICTION/RELEASE: The holding in Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Acosta v. State, 3D24-2218 (6/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453546/opinion/Opinion_2024-2218.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: The remedy of habeas corpus is not available in Florida to obtain the kind of collateral postconviction relief available by motion in the sentencing court pursuant to R. 3.850. Habeas corpus is not a second appeal and cannot be used to litigate or relitigate issues which could have been, should have been, or were raised on direct appeal. Harper v. State, 3D25-0195 (6/28/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453550/opinion/Opinion_2025-0195.pdf

RETROACTIVITY: Since announcing Teague, the Supreme Court has not given retroactive effect to any decisions announcing new constitutional rules of criminal procedure. Arias v. State, 25-0297 (6/18/27)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453578/opinion/Opinion_2025-0297.pdf

RETROACTIVITY: The essential considerations in determining whether a new rule of law should be applied retroactively are three: (a) the purpose to be served by the new rule; (b) the extent of reliance on the old rule; and (c) the effect on the administration of justice of a retroactive application of the new rule. Defendant is not entitled to postconviction relief based on Erlinger. Arias v. State, 25-0297 (6/18/27)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453578/opinion/Opinion_2025-0297.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The term "life" is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. There is nothing indefinite about such a sentence. Deparias v. State, 3D-25-0617 (6/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453551/opinion/Opinion_2025-0617.pdf

JURY FINDING-DATES OF CONVICTION/RELEASE: The holding in Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Erlinger was a direct-appeal case—not a postconviction case—and it involved required jury findings regarding an element. Fresquet v. State, 3D25-0627 (6/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453556/opinion/Opinion_2025-0627.pdf

JURY FINDING-DATES OF CONVICTION/RELEASE: The holding in Erlinger does not apply retroactively. Erlinger was a direct-appeal case—not a postconviction case—and it involved required jury findings regarding an element. DelSol v. State, 3D25–0654 (6/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453555/opinion/Opinion_2025-0654.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: A life sentence is not impermissible indefinite imprisonment under the Florida Constitution. A]ny sentence, even one of a short duration, can potentially exceed a defendant's life span. By prescribing a sentence of life imprisonment, intends that the defendant remain in prison for the rest of his life Simmons v. State, 3D25-0655 (6/18/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453579/opinion/Opinion_2025-0655.pdf

APPEAL-DEFERENCE: Appellate court defers to a trial court's findings of fact when they are supported by competent, substantial evidence, that accords less deference to findings that are based on evidence other than live testimony, such as video footage. Hall v. State, 2023-2338 (6/18/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453584/opinion/Opinion_2023-2338.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSENT: Where no constitutional violation preceded the search, the State must prove consent only by a preponderance of the evidence. State needs to show only that Defendant more likely than not consented to a pat-down search. Hall v. State, 2023-2338 (6/18/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453584/opinion/Opinion_2023-2338.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSENT: A police officer is allowed to approach an individual in public for a conversation—and even ask for identification—without implicating the Fourth Amendment. Hall v. State, 2023-2338 (6/18/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453584/opinion/Opinion_2023-2338.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CONSENT: Where officer offers Defendant a ride in a patrol car and asks to search him first, Defendant's response of "okay," along with raising his arms, shows a strong, non-verbal indication of consent to the search. Hall v. State, 2023-2338 (6/18/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453584/opinion/Opinion_2023-2338.pdf

AEDPA: Individuals seeking to appeal the denial of a §2254 habeas petition must receive permission to do so by first obtaining a certificate of appealability, issued only if the applicant has made a substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right. Rivers v. Guerrero, No 23–1345 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/12/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-1345_g3bh.pdf

AEDPA: Habeas petitioners are generally entitled to one fair opportunity to litigate the merits of their postconviction claims in federal court. §2254 prohibits a second or successive habeas petition unless it relies on a new and retroactive rule of constitutional law or alleges previously undiscoverable facts that would establish the petitioner's innocence. Rivers v. Guerrero, No 23–1345 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/12/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-1345_g3bh.pdf

AEDPA: A second-in-time filing submitted during the pendency of his appeal of the judgment related to his first habeas petition qualifies as a prohibited second or successive application. What matters is the existence of a final judgment with respect to the first petition, not the status of an appeal. "If the second-or-successive line is drawn at the end of the appellate-review period, a petitioner could file any number of new applications raising new claims during the pendency of appeal or certiorari review, thereby prolonging the case seemingly indefinitely." Rivers v. Guerrero, No 23–1345 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/12/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-1345_g3bh.pdf

OOPS: Relying on an agent's person GPS device, a six member FBI SWAT team raided the wrong house, not a suspected gang hideout at 3741 Landau Lane but instead 3756 Denville Trace, a quiet family home occupied by a couple and her 7-year-old son. They breached the front door, detonated a flash-bang grenade, and assaulted the innocent occupants before realizing their mistake. They had failed to notice the street sign for "Denville Trace" and the house number visible on the mailbox. Martin v. United States, No. 24–362 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/12/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24-362_mjn0.pdf

SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY: The Federal Tort Claims Act waives the federal government's sovereign immunity, subject to a list of 13 exceptions, including the discretionary-function exception and the intentional-tort exception. Martin v. United States, No. 24–362 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/12/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24-362_mjn0.pdf

SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY: The government will usually be liable if a private individual under like circumstances would be liable under state law. Martin v. United States, No. 24–362 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/12/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24-362_mjn0.pdf

SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY: The United States cannot defeat an FTCA (Federal Torts Claim Act) suit by invoking the Supremacy Clause and showing that a federal officer's acts had some nexus with furthering federal policy and complied with the full range of federal law. The FTCA does not permit the Supremacy Clause defense. Martin v. United States, No. 24–362 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/12/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24-362_mjn0.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Costs of prosecution must be imposed by the trial court even in the absence of a request by the State. Other costs not mandated in a minimum amount set by statute will have to be requested—and established—by the State. Because they must be proven, those costs must be requested. Parks v. State, SC2023-1355 (6/12/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453320/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1355.pdf

ARREST: The Constitution permits an officer to arrest a suspect without a warrant if there is probable cause to believe that the suspect has committed or is committing an offense. Scott v. City of Miami, No. 22-13038 (6/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311280.pdf

PROBABLE CAUSE: Probable cause requires only a probability or substantial chance of criminal activity, not an actual showing of such activity. Probable cause is not a high bar. It is a flexible and fluid concept, not reducible to precise definition or quantification. Probable cause requires less than a preponderance of the evidence. Scott v. City of Miami, No. 22-13038 (6/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311280.pdf

PROBABLE CAUSE: Eyewitness identification by a patrol officer of a driver, seen speeding away from him and ultimately crashing the car, is sufficient to establish probable cause to arrest the driver. Scott v. City of Miami, No. 22-13038 (6/1/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311280.pdf

PROBABLE CAUSE: Probable cause will only be vitiated if the exculpatory evidence did not merely make it less likely probable cause existed but obviously and irrefutably established that it didn't exist. Scott v. City of Miami, No. 22-13038 (6/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311280.pdf

JUDICIAL NOTICE-SUNSET: "This Court takes judicial notice of the United States Naval Observatory Astronomical Applications Department's 'Table of Sunrise/Sunset, Moonrise/Moonset, or Twilight Times for an Entire Year,' which lists sunrise and sunset times in a given city for a given year." A court may judicially notice a fact that is not subject to reasonable dispute because it can be accurately and readily determined from sources whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned. Scott v. City of Miami, No. 22-13038 (6/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311280.pdf

SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY: Florida's sovereign immunity statute provides immunity from tort liability only to an officer, employee, or agent of the state or of any of its subdivisions. Only individuals, not cities or municipalities, may receive immunity under the statute. Scott v. City of Miami, No. 22-13038 (6/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311280.pdf

RASHOMON EFFECT (J. JORDAN, CONCURRING): The Rashomon Effect describes the combination of a difference of perspective and equally plausible accounts, with the absence of evidence to elevate one above others, and the inability to disqualify any particular version of the truth, all surrounded by the social pressure for closure on the question. Scott v. City of Miami, No. 22-13038 (11th Cir. 6/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311280.pdf

UNLAWFUL REENTRY: 8 U.S.C. § 1326, which criminalizes unlawfully reentering the United States after a prior removal, does not violate the equal accident component of the Fifth Amendment's Due Process clause. The discriminatory intent of the statute's predecessor (the Undesirable Aliens Act of 1929) does not perpetually taint the statute. "We agree that much of the 1929 Act's history is plagued with xenophobic rhetoric. Still, the statute before us is not the unlawful reentry provision in the 1929 Act; it is §1326, enacted in 1952 and amended repeatedly thereafter. That distinction is dispositive." USA v. Ferretiz-Hernandez, No. 22-13038 (11th Cir. 6/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213038.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-LEGISLATIVE INTENT: What motivates one legislator to make a speech about a statute is not necessarily what motivates scores of others to enact it. Discerning collective legislative intent is hard enough in ordinary cases. The task would become nearly impossible if courts were told to presume bad motives based on the acts of a different legislature decades earlier. USA v. Ferretiz-Hernandez, No. 22-13038 (11th Cir. 6/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213038.pdf

TRIAL BY JURY: Oral waiver of a jury trial and acceptance of a bench trial is lawful. The fact that Defendant's counsel, rather than the court, conducted the on-the-record inquiry for waiver of a jury trial does not matter. Saini v. State, 1D2023-2507 (6/11/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453205/opinion/Opinion_2023-2507.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: Defendant is not entitled to a Richardson hearing where victim testified in deposition that he did not know whether Defendant's machete caused the cut on his arm but at trial that the Defendant cut him. A minor discrepancy in detail is not a discovery violation. Torolopez v. State, 3D2023-2255 (6/11/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453244/opinion/Opinion_2023-2255.pdf

EVIDENCE-AUTHENTICATION-RECORDINGS. Audio recordings can be authenticated by direct and circumstantial evidence other than by the direct testimony of a witness who participated in the calls or otherwise heard the conversations live. Recorded telephone conversations between confidential informant and Defendant may be authenticated by detective who did not listen to the conversations live. "Gomez-Martinez asks this Court to hold that an audio recording can only be admitted into evidence in a Florida courtroom if it is authenticated by a witness who participated in the recorded phone call or otherwise heard the conversation live and testifies that the recording accurately reflects the conversation. We respectfully but firmly decline to adopt such a holding." Gomez-Martinez v. State, 3D23-1853 (6/11/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453243/opinion/Opinion_2023-1853.pdf

EVIDENCE-AUTHENTICATION: Authentication or identification of evidence is required as a condition precedent to its admissibility. The requirements of this section are satisfied by evidence sufficient to support a finding that the matter in question is what its proponent claims. Authentication for the purpose of admission is a relatively low threshold that only requires a prima facie showing that the proffered evidence is authentic; the ultimate determination of the authenticity of the evidence is a question for the fact-finder. Gomez-Martinez v. State, 3D23-1853 (6/11/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453243/opinion/Opinion_2023-1853.pdf

AUTHENTICATION: The principle that evidence can be authenticated by circumstantial evidence applies across the board to all types of evidence, including audio recordings. The circumstantial evidence sufficient to make a prima facie showing of authenticity may include the content of the audio recording itself. Gomez-Martinez v. State, 3D23-1853 (6/11/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453243/opinion/Opinion_2023-1853.pdf

AUTHENTICATION-AUDIO RECORDING: Generally, evidence required to authenticate an audio recording is said to have four elements: "(1) the recording device was operating properly, (2) the device was operated in a proper manner, (3) the recording was accurate, and (4) the voices of the persons speaking were identified. But there is no specific list of requirements' to determine compliance with §90.901. Gomez-Martinez v. State, 3D23-1853 (6/11/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453243/opinion/Opinion_2023-1853.pdf

METAPHORS RUN AMOK-AUTHENTICATION (J. GOODEN, DISSENTING): "While the threshold for authentication is low, I do not believe that hurdle was crossed under these facts...[T]here are substantial problems with the sheer breadth of circumstantial hoops being jumped through here...There are too many holes that cannot be plugged." Gomez-Martinez v. State, 3D23-1853 (6/11/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453243/opinion/Opinion_2023-1853.pdf

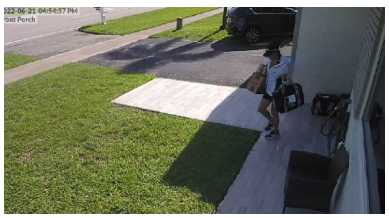
PRIMA FACIE: "Prima facie" means no more than evidence sufficient to justify, but not to compel, an inference. "Prima facie" is defined as sufficient to establish a fact or raise a presumption unless disproved or rebutted. Gomez-Martinez v. State, 3D23-1853 (6/11/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453243/opinion/Opinion_2023-1853.pdf

OPENING THE DOOR: To open the door to evidence of prior bad acts, the defense must first offer misleading testimony or make a specific factual assertion which the state has the right to correct so that the jury will not be misled. The issue is not always whether the door has been opened, but rather how wide. Questioning should be narrowly tailored to just fit through that door. Where Defendant, claiming self-defense for shooting her boy friend, testified that "I have never experienced anything like that before to have killed somebody or hurt somebody that you love," she opens the door to cross-examination about having shot her son four years before. But "[t]he State went too far and flung the door wide-open." Holmes v. State, 3D24-0174 (6/11/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453245/opinion/Opinion_2024-0174.pdf

BURGLARY-CURTILAGE-PORCH: A porch covered by the same roof that covers the rest of the house, adjacent to and touching the front door and having a "welcome" rug on it is part of the curtilage. Taking an Amazon package off the porch is burglary. Krasner v. State, 4D2024-0355 (6/11/25)



https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453229/opinion/Opinion_2024-0355.pdf

TWELVE PERSON JURY: Nope. You get six. Krasner v. State, 4D2024-0355 (6/11/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453229/opinion/Opinion_2024-0355.pdf

DEPOSITION-PHYSICAL PRESENCE: A blanket denial of a pro se Defendant taking a deposition because of R. 3.220(h)(7) ("A defendant shall not be physically present at a deposition") departs from the essential requirements of law, particularly where the Defendant is an attorney. Gallagher v. State, 4D2024-2602 (6/11/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453238/opinion/Opinion_2024-2602.pdf

DEPOSITION TO PERPETUATE TESTIMONY: Whether a motion to perpetuate testimony should be allowed is subject to trial court discretion. Where the rule's requirements are satisfied, the court should grant the motion. Gallagher v. State, 4D2024-2602 (6/11/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453238/opinion/Opinion_2024-2602.pdf

DEPOSITION TO PERPETUATE TESTIMONY (J. ARTUA, CONCURRING): The Compulsory Process Clause/Confrontation clauses of the Sixth Amendment ensures the right to perpetuate testimony based on witnesses' anticipated unavailability. "The fact that she was the party who initially sought to perpetuate the testimony of these witnesses is immaterial at this stage in the proceeding because, theoretically, she could face the need to impeach their testimony or otherwise confront any testimony they may provide against her." Gallagher v. State, 4D2024-2602 (6/11/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453238/opinion/Opinion_2024-2602.pdf

SENTENCING IN ABSENTIA: Where Defendant failed to appear for sentencing at the scheduled time and her counsel said she would get there later in the day, but she did not, Court may sentence her in absentia. But Court may not sentence her in absentia where her attorney had left and not come back. Lawyers in criminal courts are necessities, not luxuries. Mullin v. State, 4D2024-2619 (6/11/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453240/opinion/Opinion_2024-2619.pdf

ERLINGER-RETROACTIVITY: Erlinger is not a new rule of law that should apply retroactively to his case because it is not a development of fundamental significance. Cohen v. State, 5D2025-0264 (6/11/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453290/opinion/Opinion_2025-0264.pdf

RESTITUTION: Restitution may be proved by substantial competent evidence, including hearsay evidence that has a minimal indicia of reliability. Victim is not entitled to restitution of $4,000 for depreciation of his stolen car that had been repaired after an accident based on documents that were not offered into evidence and hearsay by unidentified third parties. K.L. v. State, 2D2023-2298 (6/6/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452953/opinion/Opinion_2023-2298.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: To establish a claim of ineffective assistance of appellate counsel, a petitioner must show that appellate counsel performed deficiently and that the deficiency of that performance compromised the appellate process to such a degree as to undermine confidence in the fairness and correctness of the appellate result. Appellate counsel is ineffective for not challenging the conviction for kidnapping where the body of the information charged attempted kidnapping. Facundo v, State, 2D2024-2599 (6/6/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452964/opinion/Opinion_2024-2599.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A motion for posconviction relef is not successive where the second motion repeated an earlier claim (that possession of cocaine conviction was not a qualifying prior for habitual offender designation) but added another, different claim (that the priors were not sequential). Sheppard v. State, 2D2024-2698 (6/6/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452968/opinion/Opinion_2024-2698.pdf

HABITUAL FELONY OFFENDER: To be sentenced as a habitual felony offender, a defendant must have previously been convicted of any combination of two or more felonies in this state or other qualified offenses and sentenced separately from any other felony conviction that is to be counted as a prior felony. Additionally, one of the two prior felony convictions cannot be for purchase or possession of a controlled substance. One prior felony for purchase or possession qualifies if the other prior felony does not. Sheppard v. State, 2D2024-2698 (6/6/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452968/opinion/Opinion_2024-2698.pdf

HABITUAL OFFENDER-ERLINGER: Under Erlinger, a unanimous jury, not the judge, must make the finding that the defendant's prior convictions were committed on different occasions because the fact of when the prior convictions were committed increases the prescribed range of penalties. "We decline Scott's request to address the constitutionality of Florida's HFO statute as it is unnecessary for us to do so" because Florida's HFO statute does not provide for the imposition of any mandatory minimum sentences but merely permits an enhanced or extended prison sentence and Defendant's sentence did not exceed the unenhanced statutory maximum. Scott v. State, 5D2024-1704 (6/6/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452955/opinion/Opinion_2024-1704.pdf

MOTION TO CORRECT-JURISDICTION: Trial Court lacks jurisdiction to rule on a R. 3.800(b)(2) motion to correct after an initial appellate brief is filed. Rivera v. State, 5D2025-0008 (6/6/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452961/opinion/Opinion_2025-0008.pdf

EVIDENCE-OPINION ON CREDIBILITY-BOLSTERING: There is no legal principle more firmly established in our system of jurisprudence than that which makes the jury the sole arbiter of the credibility of witnesses. A detective may not testify to the credibility of State's key witness. Detective's testimony that a witness was offered a plea deal for her testimony because "[t]he things that she had told me from that interview, and based on my investigation at that time, everything was credible that she had told me" was improper. "In sum, while the State, in appropriate cases, has the right to explain its procedures and the relationship between the State and its witnesses, in doing so the State may not directly comment upon the credibility of another witness." Cochran v. State, 6D2023-4126 (6/6/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2453051/opinion/Opinion_2023-4126.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-FLORIDA BAR: New rule adopted (R.3-5.3), effective December 5, 2025, providing a procedure for notice and an opportunity to respond before the imposition of an interim suspension of an attorney based on felony charges, explaining that the respondent may move to dissolve the interim suspension on a change in the criminal charges or on a disposition of them, and a provision for possible expungement of the interim suspension. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating The Florida Bar, No. SC2025-0727 (6/5/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452939/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0727.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVATION: Defendant who entered a plea of guilty may not raise an unpreserved claim of fundamental error in the sentencing process. A "sentencing error" in R. 9.140(b)(2)(A)(ii)d is different from a "sentencing error" in R. 3.800(b). A defendant pleading guilty may appeal only an error in the sentencing order, but not one that occurred in the sentencing process. Accordingly, a defendant who entered a plea of guilty is prevented from ever successfully challenging an error in the sentencing process—even if that error was preserved. Question Certified: Under R. 9.140(b)(2)(a)(ii), can a defendant who entered a plea of guilty or nolo contendere raise on appeal a claim of unpreserved fundamental error in the sentencing process? Emerson v. State, 1D2021-1543 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452869/opinion/Opinion_2021-1543.pdf

APPEAL-SENTENCING ERROR: R. 3.800(b) permits defendants to raise a sentencing error after sentencing, by motion to correct either within thirty days following rendition of sentence, or pending appeal before the first brief. It obviates the need for an appellate court to determine whether a sentencing error is fundamental and can be raised without proper preservation, because all sentencing errors, even fundamental ones, must first be raised at sentencing or by motion to correct. But the rule only encompasses errors in the sentencing order, not errors in the sentencing process. Emerson v. State, 1D2021-1543 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452869/opinion/Opinion_2021-1543.pdf

APPEAL: A plea of guilty cuts off any right to an appeal from court rulings that preceded the plea in the criminal process including independent claims relating to deprivations of constitutional rights that occur prior to the entry of the guilty plea. Emerson v. State, 1D2021-1543 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452869/opinion/Opinion_2021-1543.pdf

APPEAL-SENTENCING PROCESS: "[A] guilty plea waives appeal of (unreserved) issues occurring before the plea but does not waive appeal of matters occurring after the plea. ..But what about errors in the sentencing process? Jackson teaches that such errors are not 'sentencing errors' for which a defendant can file a rule 3.800(b) motion, and as such must be preserved by objection at sentencing. Yet, a sentencing process error is generally a post-plea issue that was not waived by the guilty plea...'[O]ne cannot expressly reserve a sentencing error which has not yet occurred.'). This leaves appeal of sentencing process errors following a guilty plea in limbo. Rule 9.140(b)(2)(A) tells us that a defendant pleading guilty may not appeal unless authorized by that subdivision. Because a sentencing process error is not a 'sentencing error,' nor does it appear to be covered by any other subdivision of rule 9.140(b)(2)(A), it is unclear whether appeal of sentencing process errors is even authorized." Emerson v. State, 1D2021-1543 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452869/opinion/Opinion_2021-1543.pdf

APPEAL-COMPETENCY: Failure to conduct a competency hearing where Defendant's incompetency is raised after the plea but before sentencing is not fundamental error. Emerson v. State, 1D2021-1543 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452869/opinion/Opinion_2021-1543.pdf

JACKSON HOLE (J. TENENBAUM, CONCURRING): "The majority and I, however, view the impact of Jackson on Emerson's right to appeal differently.

As the majority acknowledges, its reading, if correct, would leave rule 9.140 with a failure to account expressly for a defendant's appellate claim that there was a constitutional or statutory deficiency in the process that led to the sentence—what some might call a 'Jackson Hole.' The attention I have in mind is a simple rule change to make clear that the court intended rule 9.140(b)(2)(A)(ii) only to eliminate—as a matter of judicial policy—any consideration of fundamental error in the context of appeals by pleading defendants. That is, there is room for change to highlight how only preserved errors following a plea—regardless of type—can be raised, but that the rule's scope otherwise matches that of the constitutionally guaranteed right to appeal a sentence. Our disagreement seems to be over the nature of rules of procedure...The majority sees the rule as prescriptive...I see the rule as merely descriptive." Emerson v. State, 1D2021-1543 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452869/opinion/Opinion_2021-1543.pdf

APPEAL (J. TENENBAUM, CONCURRING): "[T]he supreme court cannot by rule foreclose an appellant from asserting a category of un-waived or un-forfeited appellate claims in a constitutionally guaranteed appeal. Emerson v. State, 1D2021-1543 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452869/opinion/Opinion_2021-1543.pdf

APPEAL (J. TENENBAUM, CONCURRING): Judicial power is the power to remedy injury. Appellate judicial power is the power to remedy harm caused by a lower court. Emerson v. State, 1D2021-1543 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452869/opinion/Opinion_2021-1543.pdf

APPEAL-REHEARING: State is entitled to a rehearing of the appeal and for the conviction to be affirmed where Defendant's appellate counsel filed an Anders brief and, when instructed to file merits brief, filed one which merely reiterated the questions without providing legal authority or supporting argument. Ash v. State, 1D2022-1163 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452873/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

APPEAL-ANDERS BRIEF-FARETTA: A brief consisting of a single-sentence, non-supported, and non-elaborated argument without legal authority is insufficient and not properly presented for appellate review. On the other hand, "[w]e have been unable to find a single case, from anywhere, reversing a judgment or sentence based on the Faretta coercion principle used in our original opinion. We, therefore, do not intend any criticism of appellate defense counsel for failing to provide authority that does not exist." Ash v. State, 1D2022-1163 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452873/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

ANDERS BRIEF: Does Fla.R.A.P. 9.140(g)(2) and In Re Anders Briefs, 581 So.2d 149 (FLA1991), continue to accord with the fundamental principles of appellate review in a manner sufficient to invoke the court's jurisdiction, and, if so, do they require appellate courts to depart from their roles as neutral arbiters? Question Certified. Ash v. State, 1D2022-1163 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452873/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

APPEAL-ANDERS BRIEF-FARETTA (J, WINOKUR, DISSENTING): "The majority finds that Ash merely restated the questions set forth in the court's order. It concludes that we cannot address Ash's argument because he failed to provide legal authority for its argument or 'supporting' argument for it. However, it disclaims any criticism of Ash's counsel for this failing, purportedly because no law supports the argument anyway. I reject both claims." Ash v. State, 1D2022-1163 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452873/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

APPEAL-MOTION FOR REHEARING (J. WINOKUR, DISSENTING): Motions for rehearing are not a medium through which counsel may advise the court that they disagree with its conclusion regarding matters that have already received the careful attention of the judges. State is not entitled to a rehearing of appeal where it expresses enthusiastic agreement with the original dissent in this case but fails to identify with particularity any points of law or fact overlooked or misapprehended in the previous decision. Ash v. State, 1D2022-1163 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452873/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

SELF-RERESENTATION (J. WINOKUR, DISSENTING): The Sixth Amendment does not contain an express right to self-representation, but when naturally read implies it. The Judiciary Act of 1789 provided a right to self-representation. The defendant's right to conduct his own defense is based on the fundamental legal principle that a defendant must be allowed to make his own choices about the proper way to protect his own liberty. Ash v. State, 1D2022-1163 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452873/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

FARETTA (J. WINOKUR, DISSENTING): "Because appellate courts so often view Faretta solely as a requirement of a proper waiver of counsel instead of an informed choice between Sixth Amendment rights, it is no wonder that trial courts often err on the side of providing more frequent and more thorough Faretta inquiries than necessary. Yet the balance between the right to counsel and the right to proceed without counsel demonstrates why a court should be circumspect about Faretta inquiries. Overuse of them, particularly when accompanied by repeated insistence that the defendant cannot represent himself well enough, can interfere with the right to proceed without counsel by actively dissuading the exercise of the right to self-representation." Ash v. State, 1D2022-1163 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452873/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

APPEALS: A decision approved by a majority of one of this court's three-judge panels is valid and legitimate. When two decisions of the same district court conflict, the one later in point of time would overrule the earlier one as the decisional law. Bickley v. State, 1D2023-2750 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452881/opinion/Opinion_2023-2750.pdf

CONFRONTATION CLAUSE: A violation of the Confrontation Clause does not occur when the codefendant's statement is not related to any confession or inculpatory statement by the codefendant about the defendant. Additionally, the Confrontation Clause is not implicated when the statements were used purely as a provocation to observe he defendant's reactions. The codefendant's statement here that he "drove the car," shown to the Defendant during his custodial interrogation to provoke a reaction did not implicate violate the Confrontation Clause. Snowden v, State, 1D2024-0359 (6/4/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452880/opinion/Opinion_2024-0359.pdf

MISTRIAL: Generally speaking, the use of a curative instruction to dispel the prejudicial effect of an objectionable comment is sufficient. Hawthorne v. State, 3D23-2286 (6/4/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452833/opinion/Opinion_2023-2286.pdf

LIFE IMPRISONMENT: A sentence of life imprisonment is sufficiently definite so that it can be understood and applied. Baist v. State, 3D25-0484 (6/4/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452859/opinion/Opinion_2025-0484.pdf

EX POST FACTO: The penalty provision in existence at the time of the alleged offense controls. The requirement under §985.433(7)(c), which took effect on July 1, 2024, that a child who commits an offense involving a firearm must be placed on conditional release for a period of 1 year following his or her release from a commitment program with electronic monitoring for the initial 6 months does not apply to a Child who committd the crime before the effective date. A.T.M.C., A Child v. State, 4D2024-2103 (6/4/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452850/opinion/Opinion_2024-2103.pdf

COMPETENCY-EXPERT: Although §916.301(1) requires that all evaluations must be conducted by qualified experts who have expertise in evaluating persons who have an intellectual disability, it does not require a court to appoint only an expert who is included on the APD-maintained list. Appointing qualified experts is mandatory, appointing such experts. Koonce v. State, 4D2025-0147 (6/4/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452854/opinion/Opinion_2025-0147.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant is entitled to SYG immunity where two valets argued about who was supposed to park the cars, the Defendant being calm and polite with a pleasant demeanor and walking away and victim following him, yelling, at him, cursing at him, pointing his finger in his face, and grabbing his shirt before Defendant punched him, “Simply put,...a reasonable and prudent person situated in the same circumstances and knowing what Martin knew would have used the same force as did Martin.” The trial court’s legal conclusion that the nose-breaking punch was neither proportionate nor in self-defense was wrong. Martin v. State, 4D2025-0304 (6/4/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452853/opinion/Opinion_2025-0304.pdf

CERTIORARI: Certiorari relief is reserved for serious legal errors. To be entitled to certiorari relief, a petitioner must establish three elements: (1) a departure from the essential requirements of the law, (2) resulting in material injury for the remainder of the case (3) that cannot be corrected on postjudgment appeal. The departure from the essential requirements of law must be a violation of a clearly established principle of law resulting in a miscarriage of justice. Jones v. State, 4D2025-0360 (6/4/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452856/opinion/Opinion_2025-0360.pdf

MOTION TO MITIGATE: The denial of a R. 3.800(c) motion is not appealable, but certiorari is available where a court erroneously concludes it lacks jurisdiction to grant relief, such as because it mistakenly believed that the motion was untimely. A motion to mitigate is not untimely because one had been made, denied, and unsuccessfully appealed before. A prior decision denying a downward departure does not restrict the trial court's sentencing discretion when considering a second timely request for mitigation. Jones v. State, 4D2025-0360 (6/4/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452856/opinion/Opinion_2025-0360.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Summary denial of a successive postconviction motion is appropriate If the motion, files, and records in the case conclusively show that the movant is entitled to no relief. Wainwright v. State, SC2025-0708 (6/3/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452756/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0708.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Death sentence based on the prior violent felony aggravator is not rendered unconstitutional under the Sixth Amendment because the judge, not the jury, found that the prior crime was one that involved the use or threat of violence to the person. If Erlinger applies, it does not apply retroactively. Wainwright v. State, SC2025-0708 (6/3/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452756/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0708.pdf

RETROACTIVITY: A change in the law only applies retroactively to final cases only if the change (1) emanates from the Florida Supreme Court or the United States Supreme Court, (2) is constitutional in nature, and (3) constitutes a development of fundamental significance. A change of law is of fundamental significance when it (1) places beyond the authority of the state the power to regulate certain conduct or impose certain penalties or (2) is of sufficient magnitude to necessitate retroactive application. Erlinger is not a development of fundamental significance. Wainwright v. State, SC2025-0708 (6/3/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452756/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0708.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Allegedly newly discovered evidence of the effect his father's exposure to toxins during the Vietnam War had on Defendant, in the absence of evidence that Defendant's neurobehavioral deficits were caused by it, does not support vacating the death penalty, And the evidence was not newly discovered, anyways. Wainwright v. State, SC2025-0708 (6/3/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452756/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0708.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-BRADY EVIDENCE: Defendant is not entitled to postconviction relief where State failed to disclose Brady evidence of State's assurance of a benefit for a witness, conferred after the testimony of the witness where the information was accessible to the defense, who did not exercise reasonable diligence in pursuing the claim, and the claim was not material anyways. Wainwright v. State, SC2025-0708 (6/3/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452756/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0708.pdf

PRIOR PANEL PRECEDENT RULE: A prior panel's holding is binding on all subsequent panels unless and until it is overruled or undermined to the point of abrogation by the Supreme Court or by the appellate court sitting en banc. An intervening Supreme Court decision abrogates the lower court's precedent only if the intervening decision is both clearly on point and clearly contrary to the earlier decision. If the Supreme Court never discussed the precedent and did not otherwise comment on the precise issue, the precedent remains binding. To abrogate a prior-panel precedent, the later Supreme Court decision must demolish and eviscerate each of its fundamental props. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 6/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.rem.pdf

FIREARMS-FELONS: Felons are categorically disqualified from exercising their Second Amendment right. Rahimi did not abrogate case law so holding. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 6/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.rem.pdf

PUNISHMENT-HISTORY (J. PRYOR CONCURRING): There is a long tradition of legislatures subjecting felons to severe punishment for their crimes, including in eighteenth-century England when felons convicted of nonviolent offenses like fraudulent bankruptcy, violating quarantine, or forging a marriage license faced capital punishment. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 6/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.rem.pdf

PUNISHMENT-HISTORY (J. PRYORCONCURRING): In America, death

continued to be the standard penalty for all serious crimes at the time of the Founding, even those convicted of nonviolent felonies like counterfeiting and theft. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 6/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.rem.pdf

PRECEDENT (J. ABUDU, CONCURRING): "I write separately to simply underscore the perils of relying on antiquated, legally questionable, and often-rejected notions of fairness and justice when determining whether the modern-day application of laws is constitutionally permissible....[T]he practice of relying solely on laws enacted during a time when women and people of color were denied a seat at the legislative table is, in and of itself, problematic." USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 6/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.rem.pdf

FYI: Tapioca is the starch extracted from dried yuca (or cassava) plants and is a popular ingredient in dishes, desserts, and even drinks—like boba (or bubble tea)—across the world. Sweet Additions Ingredient Processors, LLC v. Meelunie America, Inc., No. 24-10335 (1th Cir. 6/2/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410335.pdf

MAY 2025

DUI-SENTENCE: For DUI, Court must impose probation for a term long enough for Defendant to complete a substance abuse course. Redmond v. State, 2D2024-0560 (5/30/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452630/opinion/Opinion_2024-0560.pdf

APPEAL (J. ATKINSON, CONCURRING): A sentencing error can only be reviewed on direct appeal if a defendant contemporaneously objected at the time of sentencing or filed a motion to correct sentencing error under rule 3.800(b). But because the trial has authority to treat an argument as having been asserted in the "proper" procedural vehicle--it should have been filed as a 3.800(b) motion to correct rather than a 3.800(c) motion to modify--the appellate court has jurisdiction to review the failure to include probation in the sentence on direct appeal. "I agree with the majority that this court has jurisdiction to review the sentencing error...but concur only in result because I disagree with the basis for jurisdiction described in the majority opinion." Redmond v. State, 2D2024-0560 (5/30/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452630/opinion/Opinion_2024-0560.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Court must conduct an evidentiary hearing to determine whether the trial court would have imposed the same sentence (1,131 days) had it been aware that an incorrect scoresheet had been used to calculate the sentence and that an incorrect amount of jail credit had been awarded, resulting in a sentence that was not a time-served sentence (he scored lower and had fewer days of credit for time served). Contrary to the standard under a 3.800(a) motion, which is whether the trial court could have imposed the same sentence, under a 3.850 motion, the test is whether the trial court would have imposed the same sentence. Williams v. State, 5D2024-2941 (5/30/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452637/opinion/Opinion_2024-2941.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-HABITUAL FELONY OFFENDER: Claims of Apprendi error are cognizable in a R. 3.800(a) motion. "[W]e need not decide if Erlinger announces a new rule, and if it does, whether it requires retroactive application." Brown v. State, 5D2024-3233 (5/30/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452641/opinion/Opinion_2024-3233.pdf

APPEAL-MANDATE: A trial court may not act contrary to an appellate court's mandate. Acting in contravention of a mandate without seeking relief from the appellate court invites reversal. A reversal with general directions vests a trial court with broad discretion in how to handle the case. But a remand with specific instructions constrains the trial court to act in accordance with the instructions, and it cannot exceed the specific bounds of those instructions. McKinney v. Graham, 6D2023-2745 (5/30/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452662/opinion/Opinion_2023-2745.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: The smell of cannabis, along with the officers' testimony about their experience in the area of town where Defendant's car was searched, establish probable cause. State v. Simpson, 6D2023-3679 (5/30/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452663/opinion/Opinion_2023-3679.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-AUTOMOBILE EXCEPTION: The automobile exception arises from a century-old case, Carroll v. United States, 267 U.S. 132 (1925), which prescribes a flexible test anchored in the facts and circumstances within law enforcement's knowledge and reasonable belief that the searched vehicle was carrying contraband or evidence of a crime. Under the automobile exception, probable cause exists where, based on the available facts, a person of reasonable caution would believe that contraband or evidence of a crime is present. State v. Simpson, 6D2023-3679 (5/30/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452663/opinion/Opinion_2023-3679.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROBABLE CAUSE: Finely-tuned standards such as proof beyond a reasonable doubt or by a preponderance of the evidence have no place in the probable-cause decision. The probable cause standard does not demand any showing that an officer's reasonable belief that a search may reveal evidence of a crime be correct or more likely true than false, only a fair probability on which reasonable and prudent people, not legal technicians, act. State v. Simpson, 6D2023-3679 (5/30/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452663/opinion/Opinion_2023-3679.pdf

BAKER ACT: Testimony consisting only of what might happen if Subject was discharged ("she could potentially fall into harm's way" and "she could develop high blood sugar, end up in a diabetic ketoacidosis or diabetic coma") fails to establish a real and present threat of substantial harm permitting involuntary placement. H.P. v. State, 6D2024-1228 (5/30/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452664/opinion/Opinion_2024-1228.pdf

LIFE SENTENCES-MINOR OFFENDER: Consecutive life sentences do not deny a minor offender a meaningful opportunity for release during his lifetime. A state is not required to guarantee eventual freedom to a juvenile offender convicted of a nonhomicide crime. With fifteen-year and twenty-five year reviews, Juveniles who have committed homicide offenses, are not constitutionally required by Graham to be given a meaningful opportunity to obtain release based on demonstrated maturity and rehabilitation. Life sentences without parole for juveniles are not totally outlawed. Bonifay v. State, 1D2023-2823 (5/28/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452520/opinion/Opinion_2023-2823.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION-MISTRIAL: In order to preserve an allegedly improper prosecutorial comment for review, a defendant must object to the comment and move for a mistrial. Burgos v. State, 3D23-1083 (5/28/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452567/opinion/Opinion_2023-1083.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A claim that the trial court improperly departed from the recommended sentencing guidelines may not be brought pursuant to R. 3.800(a) if the departure sentence is within the legal maximum because it does not constitute an illegal sentence. Recio v. State, 3D23-2201 (5/28/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452568/opinion/Opinion_2023-2201.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Where there is a plea agreement on the conviction and length of sentence to be imposed, the sentencing guidelines are not applicable. Recio v. State, 3D23-2201 (5/28/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452568/opinion/Opinion_2023-2201.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: The fact that the judicial system has no way of knowing how long the defendant will live and therefore cannot know how long the defendant will be incarcerated does not render a life sentence unconstitutionally indefinite. There is nothing indefinite about such a sentence. Jimenez-Solano v. State, 3D25-374 (5/28/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452572/opinion/Opinion_2025-0374.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: A life sentence is not impermissible indefinite imprisonment under the Florida Constitution. Any sentence, even one of a short duration, can potentially exceed a defendant's life span. The fact that the judicial system has no way of knowing how long the defendant will live and therefore cannot know how long the defendant will be incarcerated does not render a life sentence unconstitutionally indefinite. Alvarez v. State,

3D25-0533 (5/28/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452578/opinion/Opinion_2025-0533.pdf

COSTS: Where the total costs imposed were $25 higher than the individual assessment, and those assessments included imposing one set of costs twice, as well as an inapplicable traffic infraction cost, Defendant is entitled to a new sentencing hearing on the issue of court costs. Redman v. State, 6D2023-4024 (5/23/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452444/opinion/Opinion_2023-4024.pdf

COSTS: It is improper for a trial court to impose costs in a sentencing order without providing an explanation in the record as to what the costs represent, so as to permit a reviewing court to determine the statutory authority for the costs. Redman v. State, 6D2023-4024 (5/23/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452444/opinion/Opinion_2023-4024.pdf

FRAUD: Defendant is guilty of fraud where he procures a government contract by falsely claiming to subcontract with a disadvantaged business enterprise. Under the fraudulent-inducement theory, a defendant commits federal fraud whenever he uses a material misstatement to trick a victim into a contract that requires handing over her money or property--regardless of whether the fraudster seeks to cause the victim net pecuniary loss. The fraudulent-inducement theory supports liability for federal fraud anytime a defendant uses falsehoods to induce a victim to enter into a transaction. Kousisis v. United States, No. 23-909 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/22/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-909_f2q3.pdf

FRAUD: “The common law did not establish a generally applicable rule that all fraud plaintiffs must plead and prove economic loss, so we will not read such a requirement into the wire fraud statute.” Kousisis v. United States, No. 23-909 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/22/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-909_f2q3.pdf

FRAUD: If a plaintiff was delivered something different from what was promised--even something of equivalent value--then failing to deliver as promised might constitute fraud. “If someone contracts for a painting of her grandfather and instead winds up with a portrait of Grover Cleveland, petitioners’ so-called ‘exception’ concededly applies...[W]hy not a heap of coal worth a million dollars instead of a gold bar worth the same?...Or, more to the point, why not services performed with materials from a non-disadvantaged supplier when the government demanded a disadvantaged one? Petitioners offer no principled way to draw the line. And there is none.” Kousisis v. United States, No. 23-909 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/22/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-909_f2q3.pdf

QUOTATION-COMMON LAW (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): “When we look to the old soil of the common law for guidance, we have no license to plow over what we find there.” Kousisis v. United States, No. 23-909 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/22/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-909_f2q3.pdf

FRAUD (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): “Over centuries of experience, common-law courts developed a variety of tools to sort venial lies from criminal frauds. In a brief and unfortunate diversion in an otherwise sound opinion, the Court casts doubt on whether one of those tools still applies under the federal wire-fraud statute. In the process, the Court needlessly risks turning the federal wire-fraud statute into a weapon for punishing victimless crimes. I can only trust that future courts will recognize that aside for what it is–unsound dicta." Kousisis v. United States, No. 23-909 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/22/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-909_f2q3.pdf

FRAUD (SOTOMAYOR, CONCURRING): "The Court today rightly rejects petitioners' request to graft an economic-loss requirement onto the federal wire fraud statute. When a defendant tricks a victim out of their money by promising one thing and delivering something materially different, it is no defense to say that the delivered items are of equal economic value. Statutory text, precedent, and history mandate that conclusion...Common sense, unsurprisingly, points in the same direction. A Yankees fan deceived into buying Mets tickets is no less defrauded simply because the Mets tickets happen to be worth the same amount as the promised Yankees ones." Kousisis v. United States, No. 23-909 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/22/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-909_f2q3.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-JURY INSTRUCTION: Jury is entitled to consider whether the murders of two children were CCP where Defendant took the time to sharpen his fillet knife before the murders; received no provocation from either sleeping victim, hit both boys on their heads with a hammer multiple times and stabbed, slashed, and/or sawed both of their necks multiple times; and changed weapons during the murders to make sure the victims were dead. Wilson v. State, SC2023-0320 (5/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452358/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-MITIGATION: Methamphetamine intoxication is not a standalone mitigating and there was scant evidence that he was actually under the influence of methamphetamine at all. Wilson v. State, SC2023-0320 (5/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452358/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-VICTIM IMPACT: Victim impact evidence about unrelated family tragedies is admissible to demonstrate the victims' uniqueness as individuals and the loss to the community's members as a result of their deaths. Wilson v. State, SC2023-0320 (5/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452358/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-JURY INSTRUCTION: Defendant is not entitled to a special jury instruction indicating that a life sentence virtually precludes a defendant's release from prison. The standard instruction already says that. Wilson v. State, SC2023-0320 (5/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452358/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-JURY INSTRUCTION-MERCY: Defendant is not entitled to a special "mercy" instruction. Standard Instruction 7.11—"the law neither compels nor requires you to determine that the defendant should be sentenced to death"—is sufficient. Wilson v. State, SC2023-0320 (5/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452358/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-JURY INSTRUCTION-SYMPATHY: To instruct a jury to reach a verdict based on the evidence rather than emotion does not offend the Eighth Amendment. Wilson v. State, SC2023-0320 (5/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452358/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-COMPARATIVE PROPORTIONALITY: Defendant is not entitled to a comparative proportionality review of his death sentence. Wilson v. State, SC2023-0320 (5/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452358/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-DEATH QUALIFYING THE JURY: Death qualifying a jury is constitutional. Wilson v. State, SC2023-0320 (5/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452358/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0320.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: The death sentence is not unconstitutional just because other states have chosen to abolish it. "At bottom, the Constitution itself contemplates, in the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, that the government may take a life if the government affords the person due process of law." Wilson v. State, SC2023-0320 (5/22/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452358/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0320.pdf

ALIAS: "John Doe's many aliases have made his name, like his nationality, a mystery. During one of his many encounters with immigration officials, Doe insisted, 'Only God knows my name.' Perhaps." USA v. John Doe, No. 22-14307 (11th Cir. 5/21/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214307.pdf

IMMIGRATION LAW: "Like Frankenstein's monster, modern immigration law was assembled piecemeal from quasi-dead bodies of law. The result is a sometimes-confusing mashup of terms and meanings from different periods of immigration law." USA v. John Doe, No. 22-14307 (11th Cir. 5/21/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214307.pdf

FAILURE TO LEAVE COUNTRY: The preface of 8 U.S.C. §1227(a) provides for the removal of any alien in and lawfully admitted to the United States if the alien is within one or more listed classes of deportable aliens. §1253(a)(1) criminally penalizes a noncitizen who willfully fails to leave the country after a final removal order outstanding by reason of being a member of any of the classes described in §1227(a). But Government does not need to prove that Defendant had been lawfully admitted for him to be guilty of failing to leave. §1253(a)(1)'s reference to the "classes described in" §1227(a) does not incorporate that section's limited application to only noncitizens who are "in and admitted to the United States." It does not restrict criminal penalties to noncitizens who face removal by reason of being deportable under §1227(a)." USA v. John Doe, No. 22-14307 (11th Cir. 5/21/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214307.pdf

GRAMMER-NEAREST REASONABLE REFERENT: "Grammarians (and the government) call the phrase 'in and admitted to the United States' as used here a 'postpositive modifier.' That means the phrase modifies only the nearest reasonable referent preceding it in a sentence." USA v. John Doe, No. 22-14307 (11th Cir. 5/21/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214307.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: There is no absolute duty to appoint counsel for an indigent defendant in a postconviction relief proceeding unless the application on its face reflects a colorable or justiciable issue or a meritorious grievance. James v. State, 3D24-1202 (5/21/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452302/opinion/Opinion_2024-1202.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's recalcitrance, antagonism and even personal attacks upon each of a lengthy series of court-appointed attorneys, all of whom were required to withdraw, rendered it obvious that he simply would not permit himself to be represented by anyone and amounted to a binding forfeiture or waiver of that right. James v. State, 3D24-1202 (5/21/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452302/opinion/Opinion_2024-1202.pdf

APPEAL: Defendant may not appeal an order which is not adverse to him. Harris v. State, 3D24-1703 (5/21/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452327/opinion/Opinion_2024-1703.pdf

JUDGMENT: Judgment which fails to include Defendants Social Security Number as required by law is not void. Harris v. State, 3D24-1703 (5/21/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452327/opinion/Opinion_2024-1703.pdf

GENERAL SENTENCE: An illegal general sentence occurs when the trial court imposes only one sentence after a defendant has been convicted of several offenses. It is distinguished from consecutive sentences, where one sentence succeeds another. LaPorte v. State, 3D24-1787 (5/21/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452328/opinion/Opinion_2024-1787.pdf

RECORDS: Court properly denied Defendant's request for Public Defender to provide him with the record on appeal, including all trial and deposition transcripts, where Public Defender refuted his allegation that it possessed the documents. Sims v. State, 3D25-0228 (5/21/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452331/opinion/Opinion_2025-

0228.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus is not available in Florida to obtain the kind of collateral postconviction relief available by motion in the sentencing court pursuant to R. 3.850. Deus v. State, 3D25-0264 (5/21/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452332/opinion/Opinion_2025-0264.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his claim that he was misled into believing that the State could inquire into the specifics of his prior felony convictions and that, but for this, he would have testified at trial. Velazco v. State, 3D24-1120 (5/21/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452324/opinion/Opinion_2024-1120.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: A habeas corpus proceeding cannot be employed as a substitute for relief by appeal. Caleb v. State, 3D25-0438 (5/21/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452308/opinion/Opinion_2025-0483.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE: A life sentence is not impermissible indefinite imprisonment under the Florida Constitution. Lemon v. State, 3D25-O535 (5/21/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452312/opinion/Opinion_2025-0535.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-MISTRIAL: Defendant is not entitled to a dismissal following a mistrial where the State disclosed at trial a newly found video of Defendant with the gun after earlier denying that it existed. When the defendant requests declaration of a mistrial, double jeopardy usually is not a bar to re-prosecution. Curry v. State, 4D2023-0805 (5/21/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452292/opinion/Opinion_2023-0805.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel failed to convey to him a plea offer which he would have accepted. Gonzalez v. State, 4D2024-2610 (5/21/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452309/opinion/Opinion_2024-2610.pdf

WRITS: Habeas corpus may be the Great Writ, but it isn't the only writ. A writ of Audita Querela is used to challenge a judgment rendered infirm by matters arising subsequent to the rendition of the judgment. A Writ of Coram Nobis is used to attack a judgment that was infirm at the time it was rendered, and extends to factual and legal errors, but only errors of the most fundamental character. Ramdeo v. USA, No 23-11699 (11th Cir. 5/20/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311699.pdf

WRIT OF CORAM NOBIS: Prisoners in federal custody are eligible for coram nobis relief. There is no out-of-custody requirement for prisoners challenging a non-custodial aspect of their sentence through the writ of error coram nobis. Ramdeo v. USA, No 23-11699 (11th Cir. 5/20/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311699.pdf

SENTENCING: Court's comment that legal drugs are "[t]he number one killer of Americans between 18 and 35" does not render the sentence illegal due to of lack of evidence supporting the comment. There is no requirement that sentencing judges confine their considerations to empirical studies and ignore what they have learned from similar cases over the years. USA v. Brenes-Colon, No. 24-10355 (11th Cir. 5/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410355.pdf

DEPORTATION: Appellate courts have jurisdiction to review interlocutory orders that have the practical effect of refusing an injunction. Fifth Amendment entitles aliens to due process of law in the context of removal proceedings. No person shall be removed from the United States without opportunity to be heard, including notice that is reasonably calculated, under all the circumstances, to apprise interested parties and that affords a reasonable time to make an appearance. The practice of giving notice roughly 24 hours before removal, devoid of information about how to exercise due process rights to contest that removal, surely does not pass muster. A.A.R.P. v. Trump, No. 24A1007 (U.S. S. Ct. 5/16/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a1007_g2bh.pdf

SEX OFFENDER REGISTRATION: §943.0435, governing petitions for removal of the requirement to register as a sexual offender, is procedural. The provision as it exists at the time of the filing of the petition controls. State v. Perdomo, 2D2024-0857 (5/16/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452123/opinion/Opinion_2024-0857.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Minimum costs of prosecution are mandatory and must be imposed even in absence of State's request). Riddle v. State, 5D2024-0298 (5/16/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452140/opinion/Opinion_2024-0298.pdf

OFFICER-DEADLY FORCE: A police officer's use of deadly force violates the Fourth Amendment when it is not objectively reasonable. To assess whether an officer acted reasonably in using force, a court must consider all the relevant circumstances, including facts and events leading up to the climactic moment, not just looking only to the circumstances existing at the precise time an officer shoots (the so-called moment-of-threat rule). The Fourth Amendment requires a court to slosh its way through a factbound morass. Barnes v. Felix, No. 23-1239 (U.S. S. Ct. 5/15/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-1239_onjq.pdf

STACKING: §924(c)(1)'s stacking rule–that In the case of a subsequent conviction under this subsection the person shall be sentenced to a term of imprisonment of not less than 25 years and no term of imprisonment imposed shall run concurrently with any other--applies not only to recidivists with prior finalized convictions, but to defendants convicted of multiple §924(c) charges stemming from one indictment. Stacked sentence of 4,641 months' imprisonment (386.75 years) stands. And followed by 5 years of supervised release. USA v. Solomon, No. 2022-11488 (11th Cir. 5/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211488.pdf

APPEAL-HABEAS CORPUS-CERTIFICATE OF APPEALABILITY: Until a certificate of appealability has been issued, federal courts of appeals lack jurisdiction to rule on the merits of appeals from habeas corpus cases, such as where the question of whether the district court erred when it refused to resentence Defendant de novo. USA v. Solomon, No. 2022-11488 (11th Cir. 5/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211488.pdf

HOBBS ACT ROBBERY-CRIME OF VIOLENCE: Hobbs Act Robbery is a "crime of violence" under §924(c)(3)(A). Under Taylor, Attempted Hobbs Act robbery is not a crime of violence, but Taylor says nothing of the completed crime of Hobbs Act robbery, which is. USA v. Solomon, No. 2022-11488

(11th Cir. 5/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211488.pdf

PRIOR-PANEL-PRECEDENT RULE: Under the prior-panel-precedent rule, a prior panel's holding is binding on all subsequent panels unless and until it is overruled or undermined to the point of abrogation by the Supreme Court or by this [C]ourt sitting en banc. To constitute an "overruling", the Supreme Court decision must be clearly on point. To be squarely on point, the intervening Supreme Court case must actually abrogate or directly conflict with, as opposed to merely weaken, the holding of the prior panel. USA v. Solomon, No. 2022-11488 (11th Cir. 5/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211488.pdf

ATTORNEY-DISCIPLINE: Referee recommended a publicly reprimand for attorney who committed misdemeanor domestic violence. Forida Bar recommended a 90-day suspension. Supreme Court imposed a two-year rehabilitative suspension. The Florida Bar v. Mitchell, SC2023-0869 (5/15/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452068/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0869.pdf

ATTORNEY-DISCIPLINE (J.CANADY): Because attorney punched his wife and broke her nose, "I would impose a suspension of three years rather than two years." The Florida Bar v. Mitchell, SC2023-0869 (5/15/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452068/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0869.pdf

RULES-AMENDED-ADVERTISEMENT: Incredibly tiny tweak of rules for attorney advertising. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar - Rules 4-7.19 and 4-7.20, SC2025-0018 (5/15/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452070/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0018.pdf

DISCIPLINARY CONFINEMENT: A prisoner serving a life sentence may be placed in disciplinary confinement. Prisoner serving a life sentence has no constitutionally protected liberty interest. Santibenez v. Dixon, 1D2023-2818 (5/14/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451937/opinion/Opinion_2023-2818.pdf

MURDER-PREMEDITATION: Jury may find premeditation where victim was shot in the back of the head as he was walking away from Defendant. Easterling v. State, 1D2023-3268 (5/14/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451938/opinion/Opinion_2023-3268.pdf

SENTENCING: There is no sentencing scoresheet for first degree murder or any capital felony. Easterling v. State, 1D2023-3268 (5/14/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451938/opinion/Opinion_2023-3268.pdf

SENTENCING-SCORESHEET-VICTIM INJURY: Ordinarily, victim injury points are only assessed where the victim's injury or death is the direct result of the offense for which an offender is convicted, but by statute as of 2022, for accidents involving serious injury or death, sentence points for victim injury may be assessed against the offender regardless. Neither Apprendi, Alleyne, nor Erlinger apply. Chang v. State, 2D2023-2090 (5/14/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451947/opinion/Opinion_2023-

2090.pdf

SENTENCING-SCORESHEET-VICTIM INJURY: The decision of a trial court to impose victim injury points is subject to an abuse-of-discretion standard. Chang v. State, 2D2023-2090 (5/14/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451947/opinion/Opinion_2023-2090.pdf

PRIEST-PENITENT PRIVILEGE: The priest-penitent privilege recognizes the human need to disclose to a spiritual counselor, in total and absolute confidence, what are believed to be flawed acts or thoughts and to receive priestly consolation and guidance in return. It has four requirements for the privilege to apply. First, the communication must be with a member of the clergy. Second, the communication must be made for the purpose of seeking counsel and advice. Third, the clergy member must receive the communication in the usual course of his practice. Fourth, the communication must be private and not intended for further disclosure—except to others present in furtherance of the communication. Castano v. State, 3D22-2081 (5/14/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451996/opinion/Opinion_2022-2081.pdf

PRIEST-PENITENT PRIVILEGE: Defendant's admission that he had sex with his daughter, made to his pastor in the presence of his wife as part of group counseling, is subject to the clergy communication privilege. Castano v. State, 3D22-2081 (5/14/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451996/opinion/Opinion_2022-2081.pdf

MISTRIAL: A motion for mistrial should be granted only where necessary to ensure that the defendant receives a fair trial. Peoples v. State, 3D23-0105

(5/14/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452005/opinion/Opinion_2023-0105.pdf

VOIR DIRE: Court has discretion during voir dire to preclude attorneys from pre-trying their case or obtaining a commitment on the ultimate issues. Brown v. State, 3D23-2013 (5/14/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451973/opinion/Opinion_2023-2013.pdf

HEARSAY: A description of a particular car which contained no accusatory information whatsoever is not hearsay where it is not offered for the truth of the matter. Brown v. State, 3D23-2013 (5/14/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451973/opinion/Opinion_2023-2013.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: Court may not impose $200 in prosecution costs without the State requesting or offering proof of this higher cost. Lindenberger v. State, 4D2023-2961 (5/14/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451989/opinion/Opinion_2023-2961.pdf

DISORDERLY CONDUCT: Convictions for disorderly conduct cannot be based on speech alone unless the speech caused witnesses to react in a manner which threatens to breach the peace. Words alone cannot constitute disorderly conduct unless they are "fighting words" or words like shouts of "fire" in a crowded theatre. Speech which draws curiosity or annoyance from onlookers is, standing alone, insufficient to support a conviction for disorderly conduct. Oxyde v. State, 4D2024-1405 (5/14/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452008/opinion/Opinion_2024-1405.pdf

DISORDERLY CONDUCT: Belligerent speech accompanied by disruptive physical acts is sufficient to support a disorderly conduct conviction. Defendant who, in addition to yelling and cursing, threw rocks at the apartment building and continuously banged on and forcefully tried to open his estranged wife's door may be convicted of disorderly conduct. Oxyde v. State, 4D2024-1405 (5/14/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452008/opinion/Opinion_2024-1405.pdf

EVIDENCE-RACIAL SLURS: Ordinarily, racial slurs and ethnic epithets are so prejudicial as to render them inadmissible, unless the probative value outweighs any prejudice that may result from having the jury hear them. But in disorderly conduct case, Defendant's offensive slurs were directly relevant and material to whether his conduct affected the peace and quiet of witnesses to the conduct. Oxyde v. State, 4D2024-1405 (5/14/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2452008/opinion/Opinion_2024-1405.pdf

FIRST AMENDMENT: The Protection of Children Act, which targets drag shows and makes it a misdemeanor to knowingly admit a child to an adult live performance, is enjoined as a void for vagueness and overly broad violation of the First Amendment. The possibility that the government might view a gender-bending but chaste drag performance as "lewd" and lacking "value" is far from an unreasonable conclusion. HM Florida-Orl, LLC v. Governor of Florida, No. 23-12160 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312160.pdf

FIRST AMENDMENT: "[B]y providing only vague guidance as to which performances it prohibits, the Act wields a shotgun when the First Amendment allows a scalpel at most. And Florida's history of arbitrarily enforcing other, similar laws against performances that are far from obscene only deepens our concerns. We therefore hold that the Act is likely unconstitutional on its face and affirm the lower court's injunction against its enforcement." HM Florida-Orl, LLC v. Governor of Florida, No. 23-12160 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312160.pdf

METAPHOR OF THE DAY: "[I]t would defeat decades of First Amendment jurisprudence to allow states to impose laws whose 'breadth—and slipperiness' obfuscate their reach, then dodge lawsuits by saying plaintiffs are confused as to a law's scope...The government cannot shroud rules in foggy language and then blame would-be speakers for their fears of what may lurk in the fog." HM Florida-Orl, LLC v. Governor of Florida, No. 23-12160 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312160.pdf

METAPHOR OF THE DAY (SECOND PLACE): "But these canons fire blanks here. First, we note that the ejusdem canon is not strictly on target." HM Florida-Orl, LLC v. Governor of Florida, No. 23-12160 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312160.pdf

OBSCENITY: The line between obscene and non-obscene sexual content can be fuzzy. Obscene content is always sexual, but not all sexual content is obscene. Material that provokes only "healthy sexual desires," as opposed to "shameful or morbid" ones, is not obscene. The Constitution is not a prude: material may be crude, vulgar, or offensive without rising to the level of obscene. HM Florida-Orl, LLC v. Governor of Florida, No. 23-12160 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312160.pdf

HUH?: While overbreadth and vagueness are distinct, vagueness can contribute to overbreadth because overbreadth analysis accounts for a law's ambiguous as well as unambiguous scope. HM Florida-Orl, LLC v. Governor of Florida, No. 23-12160 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312160.pdf

TOO WEIRD I: "[Perhaps the only people likely to drive from Tallahassee to see a drag show in Miami are FDBPR inspectors." HM Florida-Orl, LLC v. Governor of Florida, No. 23-12160 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312160.pdf

TOO WEIRD II: "Jimbo dances and prances onstage, lip-syncing to Björk's cover of Betty Hutton's 1951 song 'It's Oh So Quiet,' before undoing a hidden zipper on the stomach's underside and pulling from within . . . a pile of baloney...Perhaps some may consider Jimbo's baloney birth a bit odd (and hammy in every sense of the word)." HM Florida-Orl, LLC v. Governor of Florida, No. 23-12160 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312160.pdf

CONSPIRACY TO COMMIT MONEY LAUNDERING: Defendant who hired people–his victims–for a fake work at home scheme wherein the victims would cash bogus checks sent to them and send him the cash is properly convicted of money laundering. USA v. Spila, No. 23-13913 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313913.pdf

MONEY LAUNDERING: Money laundering occurs where a person

knowingly conducts or tries to conduct a financial transaction, the person knows that the money or property involved in the transaction were the proceeds of some kind of unlawful activity, the money or property came from an unlawful activity, and the person knows that the transaction was designed in whole or in part to conceal or disguise the nature, location, source, ownership, or control of the proceeds. Defendant does not need to know whether the unlawful activity is a felony. USA v. Spila, No. 23-13913 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313913.pdf

ARGUMENT: Government's statement in closing argument that "[w]ire fraud is a felony" is fair rebuttal to defense's comment that there was "no evidence that anything was done that would be a felony." USA v. Spila, No. 23-13913 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313913.pdf

EVIDENCE-E-MAIL-SELF-AUTHENTICATING: For most pieces of evidence introduced at trial, The proponent of the evidence must produce evidence sufficient to support a finding that the item is what the proponent claims it is but original or copies of domestic business records that are accompanied by a certification of the custodian are considered self-authenticating. Self-authenticating documents (emails) contain two statements for admissibility purposes: the first is the email provider's statement that one user wrote and sent a message to another user at the recorded time; the second is the content of the emails. The self-authentication provision does not absolve the proponent of the email content from the burden to prove that the statements it contains are admissible. It instead relieves them of the burden to lay the foundation supporting the authenticity of the record. USA v. Spila, No. 23-13913 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313913.pdf

EXPERT-FORENSIC ACCOUNTANT: A general objection that witness had not been disclosed as an expert fails to preserve the issues of the admissibility of her testimony about the bank records analysis that she conducted, the exhibits she created, the charts she prepared, and whether the information she explained about those charts constitute expert opinions. USA v. Spila, No. 23-13913 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313913.pdf

EVIDENCE-OPINION: Lay witnesses may testify based on particularized knowledge gained from their own personal experiences. Testimony based on professional experience that does not require specialized or technical knowledge can be considered lay testimony. USA v. Spila, No. 23-13913 (11th Cir. 5/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313913.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Ordinary, authorized review of a search warrant or wiretap application is expressly authorized by law and therefore is not subject to the general prohibition on ex parte communications. It cannot be a basis for the disqualification of the judge. Adelson v. State, 1D2025-0949 (5/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451788/opinion/Opinion_2025-0949.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-TRAFFIC STOP-SPEEDING: Whren does not impose a probable cause standard for traffic stops; the standard to justify a stop of a motor vehicle is reasonable suspicion. A visual estimate is speed is not reasonable suspicion; failing to maintain a single lane is. State v. Howard, 5D2024-0176 (5/9/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451726/opinion/Opinion_2024-0176.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION-IMPAIRMENT: Defendant's driving pattern of failing to maintain a single lane; making contact with a curb going into the parking lot of the convenience store while she was pulling over; having slurred speech, a thick tongue, a flushed face, glossy, bloodshot eyes; and the odor of alcohol emanating from her person and up to reasonable suspicion where officer to conduct the DUI investigation and request her to perform field sobriety exercises. State v. Howard, 5D2024-0176 (5/9/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451726/opinion/Opinion_2024-0176.pdf

BINDING PRECEDENT: "The State contends the court relied on inapposite cases from other district courts of appeal in determining that the officer lost the authority to require Howard to take a breath test when he crossed over the Casselberry city limits and ignored binding precedent from this Court even though it was presented to the court during the suppression hearing. Why the lower court overlooked this Court's binding precedent is unclear...[I]f the district court of the district in which the trial court is located has decided the issue, the trial court is bound to follow it. State v. Howard, 5D2024-0176 (5/9/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451726/opinion/Opinion_2024-0176.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-JURISDICTION: There is an exception to the limitation of municipal law enforcement officer's utilization of powers outside of their territory where the officer continues to act or investigate outside of his or her geographic jurisdiction and the subject matter of the officer's investigation originates inside their city limits. State v. Howard, 5D2024-0176 (5/9/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451726/opinion/Opinion_2024-0176.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defense counsel renders ineffective assistance of counsel when counsel's performance falls outside the range of reasonable professional assistance and when there is a reasonable probability that the results of the proceeding would have been different but for the inadequate performance. Birch v. State, 5D2024-0521 (5/9/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451727/opinion/Opinion_2024-0521.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to move to sever the murder charge, for which he was acquitted, from the possession of a firearm charge, for which he was not. Birch v. State, 5D2024-0521 (5/9/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451727/opinion/Opinion_2024-0521.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to object to a constructive possession instruction where he was charged with actual possession of a firearm and the jury was instructed that they could find him guilty by either a constructive or actual theory of possession. Birch v. State, 5D2024-0521 (5/9/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451727/opinion/Opinion_2024-0521.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim that counsel was ineffective for misadvising him that he could present a necessity defense for possession of the firearm by a felon without testifying. Birch v. State, 5D2024-0521 (5/9/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451727/opinion/Opinion_2024-0521.pdf

DISMISSAL: Court may not sua sponte dismiss charges with the State's objection based on the victim's claim of amnesia. State v. Trevino, 6D2023-2208 (5/9/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451765/opinion/Opinion_2023-2208.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Officer who choked and punched a subdued driver is not entitled to qualified immunity. People have a clearly established right to be free from excessive force. Where plaintiff was born with severe osteoporosis and weighed slightly over 100 pounds, officer who choked him, punched him, possibly broke his wrist, repeatedly called him a "handicapped na," and told his brother "You shut up, boy. You wait your turn. You're going to get yours next" is not entitled to qualified immunity. Jones v, Ceinski, No. 23-12178 (11th Cir. 5/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312178.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: A police officer violates the Fourth Amendment, and is not entitled to qualified immunity, if he or she uses gratuitous and excessive force against a suspect who is under control, not resisting, and obeying commands. Jones v, Ceinski, No. 23-12178 (11th Cir. 5/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202312178.pdf

JUDGE-DISCIPLINE: Judge who called one assistant state attorney an "ass", talked about making the life of one State Attorney's Office employee "a shambles", and said that the State Attorney's Office was conspiring to remove her from the bench and that therefore she would have to start being a bitch in her rulings violated her duty to treat parties respectfully and impartially. She must be administered a public reprimand. Inquiry Concerning a Judge JQC No. 2024-796 Re: Martha Cannon Adams, SC2025-0278 (5/8/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451682/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0278.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: Capital Collateral Review Counsel did not have an actual conflict with Defendant based on federal litigation challenging the court's rules and policies prohibiting him from filing pro se pleadings. An "actual conflict" in the postconviction context generally involves counsel's representation of a co-defendant or co-defendants or counsel's connection to the defendant's case at trial. Such an "actual conflict" is the only basis for moving to discharge postconviction counsel in a capital case. Defendant's desire to litigate CCRC's past performance and competence are claims of ineffective assistance of postconviction counsel, to which he has no constitutional right in Florida. Rogers v. State, SC2025-0585 (5/8/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451719/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0585.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: Newly enacted legislation and new articles and scholarship do not constitute newly discovered evidence. Rogers v. State, SC2025-0585 (5/8/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451719/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0585.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Florida's lethal injection protocol is not cruel and unusual punishment under the Eighth Amendment as applied to him due to the substantial risk those procedures will cause him needless suffering due to his porphyria diagnosis. Rogers v. State, SC2025-0585 (5/8/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451719/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0585.pdf

VOIR DIRE-TIME LIMIT: 75-minute time limit does not violate Due Process. A time limitation on voir dire of one-to-three minutes per prospective juror does not constitute per se reversible error, although such time limitations should be applied with caution and be specifically tailored to each case. The reasonableness of an imposed time limit on voir dire is dependent on the facts of each case. McMath v. State, 1D2023-0012 (5/7/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451561/opinion/Opinion_2023-0012.pdf

VOIR DIRE-TIME LIMIT-SHEESH: Defendant cannot show that the 75-minute time limit on voir dire denied him Due Process where counsel used some of her allotted time to ask questions about what books jurors had read, whether anyone had seen a particular movie or if they enjoyed movies generally, personal knowledge of the legal standards of the termination of parental rights, and what some jurors saw in a picture of an optical illusion. "Shortly after defense counsel asked prospective jurors how important they felt communication was to a relationship, the judge advised counsel that she had reached her allotted time." McMath v. State, 1D2023-0012 (5/7/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451561/opinion/Opinion_2023-0012.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES-ENHANCEMENT: Where the jury found Defendant guilty of armed burglary with assault and also burglary with a battery, the firearm enhances the scoresheet from a level 8 offense to a level 9. McMath v. State, 1D2023-0012 (5/7/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451561/opinion/Opinion_2023-0012.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL: It is not fundamental error for counsel for the defendant to advise him that the Court must impose a sentence at the bottom of the sentencing guidelines, even if that is in excess of the statutory maximum, where there are no grounds for a downward departure. Green v. State, 1D2024-1119 (5/7/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451566/opinion/Opinion_2024-1119.pdf

EVIDENCE-WITNESS EXCLUSION: Defendant has a constitutional right to present witnesses in his or her defense. Court improperly excluded Defendant's mother's testimony that she did not see any evidence of her son being under the influence during the time they were together in her house. If there is any possibility of a tendency of evidence to create a reasonable doubt, the rules of evidence are usually construed to allow for its admissibility. Karls v. State, 2D2024-0325 (5/7/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451584/opinion/Opinion_2024-0325.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: A defendant who pleads nolo contendere with no express reservation of the right to appeal a legally dispositive issue, shall have no right to a direct appeal. Seeking a ruling of dispositiveness is not enough to satisfy the reservation requirement. Defense counsel and the prosecutor stipulating that the denial of the motion to suppress was dispositive and the prosecutor orally agreeing to this stipulation during the plea colloquy does not constitute an express reservation of the right to appeal. Nugent v. State, 2D2024-0613 (5/7/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451579/opinion/Opinion_2024-0613.pdf

CONFIDENTIAL INFORMANT: To invoke an in camera hearing for identification of a confidential informant, a defendant must file a sworn motion or affidavit alleging facts concerning the informant's involvement which, if true, would support the possibility of a specific asserted defense. Elysse v. State, 3D23-1322 (5/7/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451597/opinion/Opinion_2023-1322.pdf

PHOTO-AUTHENTICATION-SILENT WITNESS: A trial judge may admit a photograph under the silent witness method of authentication after considering the following factors: (1) evidence establishing the time and date of the photographic evidence; (2) any evidence of editing or tampering; (3) the operating condition and capability of the equipment producing the photographic evidence as it relates to the accuracy and reliability of the photographic product; (4) the procedure employed as it relates to the preparation, testing, operation, and security of the equipment used to produce the photographic product, including the security of the product itself; and (5) testimony identifying the relevant participants depicted in the photographic evidence. Elysse v. State, 3D23-1322 (5/7/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451597/opinion/Opinion_2023-1322.pdf

MAILBOX RULE: A motion filed by a pro se inmate is deemed filed at the moment in time when the inmate loses control over the document by entrusting its further delivery or processing to agents of the state. Altman v. State, 3D24-1547 (5/7/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451620/opinion/Opinion_2024-1547.pdf

SIX-PERSON JURY: Trial by a six-person jury to consider charges of sexual battery of a child under age twelve does not constitute fundamental error. Proper preservation requires a litigant to make a timely, contemporaneous objection to place the trial court on notice that error may have been committed and provide the trial court with an opportunity to correct the error at an early stage of the proceedings. Bartels v. State, 4 D2024-0728 (5/7/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451599/opinion/Opinion_2024-0728.pdf

SIX-PERSON JURY (J. ARTAU, CONCURRING): "I would certify the following question to our supreme court as one of great public importance:

Whether the failure to empanel a twelve-person jury when required to do so by Florida law constitutes fundamental error." Bartels v. State, 4 D2024-0728 (5/7/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451599/opinion/Opinion_2024-0728.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-CAPITAL SEX BATTERY (J. ARTAU, CONCURRING): §921.1425(3) requires a jury to unanimously find at least two aggravating factors from an exclusive list of eleven specifically developed for the crime of rape or sexual battery on a child before a defendant is eligible for the death penalty. §794.011(2)(a) is constitutional because its authorization of the death penalty would have been permissible at common law and is consistent with the original understanding of the Eighth Amendment. Bartels v. State, 4 D2024-0728 (5/7/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451599/opinion/Opinion_2024-0728.pdf

TITLE AND HEADINGS CANON (J. ARTAU, CONCURRING): The title-and-headings canon provides that the title of a statute or section can aid in resolving an ambiguity in the legislation's text. Bartels v. State, 4 D2024-0728 (5/7/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451599/opinion/Opinion_2024-0728.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to an evidentiary hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to investigate and call two alibi witnesses who would have testified that he was at his cousin's house playing video games at the time of the robbery. Emory v. State, 4D2024-2335 (5/7/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451607/opinion/Opinion_2024-2335.pdf

CONDITIONAL RELEASE-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCE: A defendant who violates conditional release is not resentenced. Rather the Parole Commission makes an administrative determination regarding conditional release, which leaves the original sentence undisturbed. When the defendant is sentenced for a new crime while on conditional release for an earlier offense, the trial court must exercise its discretion to decide whether the new sentence is to run concurrently or consecutively to his sentence on a controlled release violation; it may not defer the structure of the sentence to the Department of Corrections. The sentence is illegal, and correctable under R. 3.800. Walden v. State, 2D2024-0155 (5/2/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451349/opinion/Opinion_2024-0155.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: R. 3.800(a) provides for the correction of an illegal sentence, an incorrect calculation made in a sentencing scoresheet, or an erroneous sexual predator designation. Manifestly, all such errors can be raised on direct appeal. Walden v. State, 2D2024-0155 (5/2/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451349/opinion/Opinion_2024-0155.pdf

VOP: In revoking probation Court must enter a written order identifying the specific conditions violated. Robbins v. State, 5D2024-0768 (5/2/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451362/opinion/Opinion_2024-0768.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant was entitled to SYG immunity for shooting an intoxicated woman who had attacked him with a chair, pointed a gun at him, and rummaged in the back of a pickup where a machete was stored. Moore v. State, 6D2024-2740 (5/2/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451424/opinion/Opinion_2024-

2740.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: If a defendant raises a prima facie claim of self-defense immunity, then the State bears the burden to overcome that claim by clear and convincing evidence. Moore v. State, 6D2024-2740 (5/2/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451424/opinion/Opinion_2024-2740.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND-HEARING: Court may not rely on Defendant's silence in not testifying or presenting evidence at the SYG hearing in determining he was not entitled to immunity. "The statute is clear: Moore's burden was only to raise a prima facie claim of self-defense... At that point, the burden shifted to the State to prove by clear and convincing evidence that Moore did not act in self-defense. Accordingly, Moore was not required to submit any evidence, and the trial court erred in considering the lack of evidence presented by Moore and then using that lack of evidence to fill in the gaps in the State's evidence." Moore v. State, 6D2024-2740 (5/2/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451424/opinion/Opinion_2024-2740.pdf

BEST EVIDENCE RULE: Officer's testimony that a video showed Defendant with a firearm is not admissible under the Best Evidence Rule when the video is not admitted in evidence. Facts based only on inadmissible evidence are facts without a competent, substantial evidentiary backing. Moore v. State, 6D2024-2740 (5/2/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451424/opinion/Opinion_2024-2740.pdf

APRIL 2025

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-FIREARM ENHANCEMENT: Where firearm is found in a bag with narcotics, Defendant is subject to the guidelines enhancement for possessing a firearm in connection with another felony offense. USA v. James, No 23-11872 (4/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311972.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-FIREARM ENHANCEMENT: Four-level enhancement under §2K2.1(b)(6)(B) of the sentencing guidelines applies when a firearm is found in close proximity to drugs if the defendant used or possessed any firearm or ammunition in connection with another felony offense. "In connection with" means the firearm possession is contextually, causally, or logically related to that offense. At minimum, the firearm must have some purpose or effect with respect to the crime and it must facilitate or have the potential of facilitating the offense. USA v. James, No 23-11872 (4/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311972.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS: Evidence of prior drug dealing is highly probative of intent to distribute a controlled substance and that such evidence is not overly prejudicial. Evidence that Defendant had been convicted based on Alford pleas to prior drug sales is admissible in possession with intent to sell case. Under R.404(b), evidence of other crimes, wrongs, or acts are admissible if: (1) the evidence is relevant to an issue other than the defendant's character; (2) there is sufficient proof to allow a jury to find by a preponderance of the evidence that the defendant committed the prior act; and (3) the probative value of the evidence is not substantially outweighed by the risk of unfair prejudice. USA v. Booker, No. 23-14041 (11th Cir. 4/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202314041.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-ALFORD PLEA: An Alford plea is a best interest guilty plea while maintaining innocence. Where evidence of Defendant's Alford plea is admitted under R. 404(b), the Court is not required to give a jury instruction on what an Alford plea is. USA v. Booker, No. 23-14041 (11th Cir. 4/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202314041.pdf

VOIR DIRE-JUROR: Juror's statement after jury selection to courtroom deputy that Defendant's bracelet might ""have to do with voodoo"–prosector suggested it was associated with a Western African religion called Ifá–does not require that the juror be removed or further questioned. USA v. Booker, No. 23-14041 (11th Cir. 4/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202314041.pdf

EVIDENCE-CODE NAMES/WORDS: Law enforcement officers with sufficient experience may offer lay opinion testimony about code words and nicknames used by criminals. USA v. Booker, No. 23-14041 (11th Cir. 4/30/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202314041.pdf

CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE: A juror who expressed his belief that a child "would speak more credibly and honestly than an adult" should be removed for cause. Salomon v. State, 4D2024-0579 (4/30/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451239/opinion/Opinion_2024-0579.pdf

CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE-PRESERVATION: To preserve challenges for cause to prospective jurors, the defendant must object to the jurors, show that he or she has exhausted all peremptory challenges and requested more that were denied, and identify a specific juror that he or she would have excused if possible. The defendant must also renew the objection prior to the jury being sworn. Salomon v. State, 4D2024-0579 (4/30/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451239/opinion/Opinion_2024-0579.pdf

CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE: Close cases should be resolved in favor of excusing the juror. A prospective juror's reasonable doubt as to whether he could render a fair and impartial verdict should be resolved in favor of granting the challenge for cause. A juror is not impartial when one side must overcome a preconceived opinion in order to prevail. Salomon v. State, 4D2024-0579 (4/30/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451239/opinion/Opinion_2024-0579.pdf

CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE: The failure to strike a juror for cause in criminal cases is per se reversible error. "To this day, the supreme court has not permitted a harmless error standard to apply to the failure to strike a juror in the criminal context." The dissent maintains that 'harmless error is the appropriate standard. "This sentiment may be in line with Blackstone's eighteenth-century commentaries, but it is inapposite to recent Florida supreme court rulings clearly to the contrary. We are bound to apply the express holdings of the supreme court, not Blackstone." Salomon v. State, 4D2024-0579 (4/30/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451239/opinion/Opinion_2024-0579.pdf

TRUE THREAT-RETROACTIVITY: The holding in Counterman v. Colorado that the First Amendment requires proof of mens rea for a criminal defendant to be constitutionally convicted for committing a true-threat crime has not been held to apply retroactively. Certified as a question of great public importance. Hillstrom v. State, 4D2024-1989 (4/30/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451249/opinion/Opinion_2024-1989.pdf

RETROACTIVITY-IMMUTABLE LAW (J. ARTAU, CONCURRING): Supreme Court should revisit Witt and Barnum, which held that only major constitutional changes of law, as opposed to evolutionary refinements in the criminal law, would "be cognizable" as a foundational change in the law entitling a defendant to relief under R. 3.850. The concept of a "change" to our Constitution without a ratified amendment, or "evolutionary refinements" to our law without a statutory or rule enactment, misconstrues the nature of law and the proper role of the judiciary. "As Blackstone explained, 'law is 'mmutable.'" "Simply put, the law does not evolve without a statutory or rule change, and courts are not at liberty to make 'evolutionary refinements' to the law." Hillstrom v. State, 4D2024-1989 (4/30/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451249/opinion/Opinion_2024-1989.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Defendant who tried to make a citizen's arrest on victim who had committed a battery on the victim's wife is not entitled to SYG immunity where Victim was driving away when Defendant shot him. Raulerson v. State, 1D2022-2798 (4/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451186/opinion/Opinion_2022-2798.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: To raise a prima facie claim of SYG immunity Defendant must show that the elements of justifiable force are met. Raulerson v. State, 1D2022-2798 (4/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451186/opinion/Opinion_2022-2798.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND (J. TANENBAUM, CONCURRING): Florida Constitution does not provide for interlocutory appeals from denials of SYG motions, and the supreme court has expressly foreclosed such use of the writ of prohibition for over 120 years. "We should hew to the supreme court's consistent directive over the years that the writ's scope remain narrow—reserved for emergencies when a trial court proposes to act beyond its jurisdiction; never to be used for direct appellate review. Raulerson v. State, 1D2022-2798 (4/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451186/opinion/Opinion_2022-2798.pdf

WRIT OF PROHIBITION: Prohibition is an extraordinary writ, extremely narrow in scope and operation, by which a superior court, having appellate and supervisory jurisdiction over an inferior court or tribunal possessing judicial or quasi-judicial power, may prevent such inferior court or tribunal from exceeding jurisdiction or usurping jurisdiction over matters not within its jurisdiction. Raulerson v. State, 1D2022-2798 (4/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451186/opinion/Opinion_2022-2798.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-SECOND DEGREE MURDER: Evidence that Defendant three times shot the driver of the car whom he was trying to rob shows a depraved mind sufficient to support a conviction for second-degree murder. Winchester v. State, 1D2023-2355 (4/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451192/opinion/Opinion_2023-2355.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT: A warrant authorizing the search of a premises need not also identify, by name or by personal description, the person or persons expected to be found therein and to be searched as an incident to the search of the premises. Palmore v. State, 1D2023-2815 (4/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451191/opinion/Opinion_2023-2815.pdf

FIRST-DEGREE MURDER-PREMEDITATION: Killing with premeditation is killing after consciously deciding to do so. The law does not fix the exact period of time that must pass between the formation of the premeditated intent to kill and the killing, only that it be long enough to allow reflection by the defendant. Murder by strangulation may be premeditated, particularly where there was evidence of pre-assault conflict between Defendant in the victim. Yinger v. State, 1D2023-3241 (4/30/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451196/opinion/Opinion_2023-3241.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Once a motor vehicle has been lawfully detained for a traffic violation, the police officers may order the driver and passengers to get out of the vehicle. Montgomery v. State, 3D23-1112 (4/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451238/opinion/Opinion_2023-1112.pdf

APPEAL-JURISDICTION: Upon the dismissal of the appeal, jurisdiction of the trial court is reactivated to consider and rule upon any and all motions and pleadings pending in the cause. Garcia v. State, 3D24-1490 (4/30/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451250/opinion/Opinion_2024-1490.pdf

VOP-YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: Upon revocation of a youthful offender's probation for a substantive violation, the trial court is authorized to either impose another youthful offender sentence with no minimum mandatory, or to impose an adult Criminal Punishment Code sentence, which would require imposition of any minimum mandatory term of incarceration associated with the offense of conviction. Parks v. State, 3D25-0313 (4/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451256/opinion/Opinion_2025-0313.pdf

ARREST-MISDEMEANOR-FELLOW OFFICER RULE: A law enforcement officer can arrest a person for misdemeanor DUI without a warrant in only three circumstances: (1) the officer witnesses each element of a prima facie case, (2) the officer is investigating an accident and develops probable cause to charge DUI, or (3) one officer calls upon another for assistance and the combined observations of the two or more officers are united to establish the probable cause for the arrest. Castillo v. State, 3D23-1693 (4/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451261/opinion/Opinion_2023-1693.pdf

ARREST-FELLOW OFFICER RULE: An admission to one officer can act as that officer's "observation" for purposes of the fellow officer rule. An element of a misdemeanor driving offense can occur in the constructive presence of an arresting officer by virtue of the defendant's admission. Castillo v. State, 3D23-1693 (4/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451261/opinion/Opinion_2023-1693.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: When a represented defendant files a pro se rule 3.170(l) motion to withdraw plea based on allegations purporting to give rise to an adversarial relationship (e.g., counsel's misadvice, misrepresentation, or coercion), the trial court should not strike the pleading as a nullity even though the defendant did not also specifically include the phrase, "I request to discharge my counsel." Rather, the trial court should hold a limited hearing at which the defendant, defense counsel, and the State are present. If it appears to the trial court that an adversarial relationship between counsel and the defendant has arisen and the defendant's allegations are not conclusively refuted by the record, the court should either permit counsel to withdraw or discharge counsel and appoint conflict-free counsel to represent the defendant. Toomer v. State, 3D24-0735 (4/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451266/opinion/Opinion_2024-0735.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Although rule 3.170(l) does not expressly require a trial court to hold an evidentiary hearing, due process requires a hearing unless the record conclusively shows the defendant is entitled to no relief.

Toomer v. State, 3D24-0735 (4/30/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451266/opinion/Opinion_2024-0735.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: The proper test for determining whether Miranda rights have been validly waived after a suspect has invoked them is a two-part test that requires courts to examine the totality of the circumstances, including the necessary fact that the accused, not the police, reopened dialogue with the authorities. A defendant's Miranda rights are not automatically violated when an officer fails to re-read Miranda warnings following the defendant's voluntary re-initiation of contact. Florida Supreme Court has receded from precedent to the contrary. There is no longer a remind-or-readvise requirement. Penna v. State, 4D2020-0345 (4/30/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451227/opinion/Opinion_2020-0345.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT-VOLUNTARINESS: The Florida standard for determining the voluntariness of an incriminating statement –that is, whether the incriminating statements were the product of free will and rational choice—is the same as that which 'applies to federal prosecutions under the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination. Penna v. State, 4D2020-0345 (4/30/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451227/opinion/Opinion_2020-0345.pdf

ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT: Where a trial court's written sentencing order conflicts with the oral pronouncement, the oral pronouncement controls. Wilson v. State, 4D2024-0417 (4/30/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451234/opinion/Opinion_2024-0417.pdf

SEARCH-KNOCK AND TALK-NO TRESPASSING: No trespassing signs

do not constitute express orders revoking the implied license to enter to conduct a knock-and-talk where the officer did not see the signs. USA v. Rivers, No 22-14159 (11th Cir. 4/25/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214159.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT: Where officers found Defendant, a felon, with a firearm just outside his house, they have probable cause to obtian a search warrant to look for firearm accoutrements in the residence because the firearm would be of little use without ammunition. USA v. Rivers, No 22-14159 (11th Cir. 4/25/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214159.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT-ERLINGER: Under Erlinger, judicial factfinding by a preponderance of the evidence that a defendant has three ACCA predicate convictions committed on different occasions violates the Fifth Amendment's guarantee of due process of law and the Sixth Amendment's guarantee to a jury trial. Either a jury must make the finding beyond a reasonable doubt or Defendant must freely so admit in a guilty plea. Erlinger errors are subject to harmless error review. USA v. Rivers, No 22-14159 (11th Cir. 4/25/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214159.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT-ERLINGER: "Occasion" ordinarily means "an event or episode—which may, in common usage, include temporally discrete offenses." Whether all four of Defendant's prior drug offenses committed within a relatively short span of eight days constitute different occasions must be determined by a jury beyond a reasonable doubt for ACCA enhancement. Erlinger errors are subject to harmless error review, but error here was not harmless. USA v. Rivers, No 22-14159 (11th Cir. 4/25/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214159.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: Governor has discretion to decide the date for imposition of the death penalty. Hutchinson v. Secretary. D.O.C., SC2025-0518 (4/25/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451000/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0517%20&%20SC2025-0518.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Eighth Amendment does not provide an absolute right to present mitigating evidence at any time, regardless of its availability, regardless of the defendant's diligence in locating and presenting it, and regardless of its strength or force. Hutchinson v. Secretary. D.O.C., SC2025-0518 (4/25/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451000/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0517%20&%20SC2025-0518.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Neither the length nor conditions of his confinement render Defendant's execution cruel and unusual punishment. Hutchinson v. Secretary. D.O.C., SC2025-0518 (4/25/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451000/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0517%20&%20SC2025-0518.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: The Florida Constitution's access-to-court provision does not entitle prisoner to the presence of two legal witnesses and related accomodations at his execution. Hutchinson v. Secretary. D.O.C., SC2025-0518, (4/25/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451000/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0517%20&%20SC2025-0518.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Prisoner with certain neurocognitive disorders is not exempt from the death penalty. Atkins does not extend beyond the intellectual-disability context. Hutchinson v. Secretary. D.O.C., SC2025-0518, (4/25/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451000/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0517%20&%20SC2025-0518.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: Ineffective assistance of state postconviction counsel does not provide cause to forgive a procedural default for claims of ineffective assistance of trial counsel where the state requires such claims to be raised in the initial-postconviction-review proceeding. There is no right to the effective assistance of postconviction counsel. Hutchinson v. Secretary. D.O.C., SC2025-0518, (4/25/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451000/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0517%20&%20SC2025-0518.pdf

DEATH WARRANT: The short period between the signing of the death warrant and the date of execution does not violate Due Process. Hutchinson v. Secretary. D.O.C., SC2025-0518, (4/25/25) https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2451000/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0517%20&%20SC2025-0518.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: Court may not impose $5,132.43 costs of prosecution and an additional statutory prosecution cost of $100. Gadson v. State, 5D2023-3666 (4/25/25) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450977/opinion/Opinion_2023-3666.pdf

CIVIL RESTITUTION LIEN: DOC may directly move for imposition of a civil restitution case in the underlying criminal case rather than by filing a separate civil action. DOC is an executive agency of the state, and when it takes any action, it does so on behalf of the state. The State Attorney's Office need not file for the civil restitution lien. Florida D.O,C. v Jones, 6D2023-2947 (4/25/25) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450998/opinion/Opinion_2023-2947.pdf

SEX OFFENDERS-CONTACT WITH OWN CHILD: Statute which prohibits adult sex offenders who have been convicted of a sex offense involving a child from residing or conducting an overnight visit with a minor, including their own child, without exceptions, violates Due Process and the First Amendment. Parents must have a meaningful chance to show that they are fit despite their conviction. Henry v. Sheriff of Tuscaloosa County, Alabama, No. 24-10139 (11th Cir. 4/23/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410139.pdf

CHILD PORNOGRAPHY: In fiscal year 2019, non-production child-pornography offenders possessed a median of 4,265 illegal images, according to the U.S. Sentencing Commission. Henry v. Sheriff of Tuscaloosa County, Alabama, No. 24-10139 (11th Cir. 4/23/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410139.pdf

FIRST/FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT-SEX OFFENDER-PARENT: The Constitution guarantees parents the right to live with their children. Defendant does not necessarily forfeit that right when he commits a sexual offense. The right of a parent to live with their child is both deeply rooted in this Nation's history and tradition and implicit in the concept of ordered liberty. Henry v. Sheriff of Tuscaloosa County, Alabama, No. 24-10139 (1th Cir. 4/23/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410139.pdf

FIRST/FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT: "Whether a right exists is a different question from whether the state may constitutionally restrict the exercise of that right." Henry v. Sheriff of Tuscaloosa County, Alabama, No. 24-10139 (11th Cir. 4/23/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410139.pdf

SEX OFFENDER-CHILDREN: Sex offender has a fundamental right to live with his family, including his child. Restrictions on that right are subject to strict scrutiny; they must be narrowly tailored to further the compelling interest of protecting its children from sexual abuse. The State has no compelling interest in removing children from parents who are in fact competent to love and care for them. A conviction for possession of child pornography does not alone predict with substantial precision an offender's likelihood of harming their own child. Henry v. Sheriff of Tuscaloosa County, Alabama, No. 24-10139 (11th Cir. 4/23/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410139.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Prisoner is not entitled to a writ of habeas corpus to require prison to take his to a vascular surgeon. Court has no authority to issue a writ of mandamus compelling particular medical treatment or to direct the treatment and placement of prisoners serving sentences in the custody of the Florida Department of Corrections. Adams v. Dixon, 1D2024-1746 (4/23/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450849/opinion/Opinion_2024-1746.pdf

QUARTERMAN AGREEMENTS (J. LUCAS, CONCURRING): "[T]here's a difference in kind between conditions such as the one the trial court imposed in Mr. Bolden's case (don't get arrested before your sentencing), which are categorically distinct from what the Florida Supreme Court authorized in Quarterman (show up on time for your sentencing). ...Quarterman, properly construed, is more limited than how it's come to be applied in practice.

Quarterman only spoke to presentencing release conditions that (1) were an integral part of a negotiated plea agreement and (2) concerned the defendant's timely appearance at a subsequent sentencing hearing. While I can certainly understand the motivation to impose 'extra' Quarterman conditions outside of that context, trial courts should perhaps be hesitant to do so." Bolden v. State, 2D2023-2262 (4/23/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450823/opinion/Opinion_2023-2262.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: In order to be preserved for further review by a higher court, an issue must be presented to the lower court and the specific legal argument or ground to be argued on appeal or review must be part of that presentation. Lingo v. State, 3D24-0640 (4/23/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450802/opinion/Opinion_2024-0640.pdf

DISCOVERY: Disclosure requirements for the prosecution principally concern those matters not accessible to the defense in the course of reasonably diligent preparation. Lingo v. State, 3D24-0640 (4/23/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450802/opinion/Opinion_2024-0640.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION: Judge's comments during jury instructions that "jury instructions are written by committees of lawyers and judges and are therefore pretty much unintelligible," and that it might be better to "skip all these instructions" and just review the verdict form demean the authority of the law and denied Defendant due process by encouraging the jury to depart from its instructions but is not fundamental error. For a judge's offhand comments during jury instructions to rise to fundamental error, they must be more than an ill-advised expression of personal views; rather, the comments must reach down into the validity of the trial itself to the extent that a verdict of guilty could not have been obtained without the assistance of the alleged error. Nelson v. State, 3D2024-0994 (4/23/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450844/opinion/Opinion_2024-0994.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES: The sentencing guidelines do not apply to life felonies committed prior to October 1, 1983. Shaw v. State, 3D25-0324

(4/23/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450819/opinion/Opinion_2025-0324.pdf

LIFE SENENCE: A life sentence is not impermissible "indefinite imprisonment" under the Florida Constitution. An individual's life expectancy should not be used to mark the longest term which a particular defendant should serve. Any sentence, no matter how short, may eventually extend beyond the life of a prisoner. Padgett v. State, 3D25-0349 (4/23/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450828/opinion/Opinion_2025-0349.pdf

POSTCONVICTION DNA TESTING: R. 3.853 is not intended to be a fishing expedition. Defendant has the burden to explain, with reference to specific facts about the crime and the items he wishes to have tested, how the DNA testing requested will exonerate the movant or mitigate the sentence. Rodriguez v. State, 3D25-0436 (4/23/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450824/opinion/Opinion_2025-0436.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: Court may not impose $50 in investigative costs which were neither requested by the state, agreed to, nor supported by evidence. Elliot v. State, 4D2024-0583 (4/23/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450807/opinion/Opinion_2024-0583.pdf

SECOND AMENDMENT-CONCEALED WEAPON: Second Amendment does not give felons the right to possess a firearm. But see Range v. Attorney General, 124 F.4th 218 (3d Cir. 2024) Fleming v. State, 4D2024-0623 (4/23/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450809/opinion/Opinion_2024-0623.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Court has the discretion under R. 3.850(f)(2) to allow Defendant to file a second amended motion roughly three years after his his facially insufficient motion and first amended motion. If the amended motion is still insufficient or if the defendant fails to file an amended motion within the time allowed for such amendment, the court, in its discretion, may permit the defendant an additional opportunity to amend the motion or may enter a final, appealable order summarily denying the motion with prejudice. JeanCharles v. State, 4D2024-1717 (4/23/25) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450831/opinion/Opinion_2024-1717.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-10-20-LIFE: Defendant may not challenge as illegal his sentence of 35 years with a 25 year minimum mandatory for using a firearm during an Attempted Robbery and causing great bodily harm by discharging it, which was punishable at the time by a minimum term of imprisonment of not less than 25 years and not more than a term of imprisonment of life in prison. An "illegal sentence" is one that no judge under the entire body of sentencing laws could possibly impose. Defendant may not challenge in a R. 3.800(a) proceeding a sentence that is more lenient than the trial court was authorized to impose. A defendant is not precluded on direct appeal from challenging such a sentence, but he is under R. 3.800(a). This distinction is significant. Conflict certified. Lewis v. State, 4D2024-2433 (4/23/25) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450830/opinion/Opinion_2024-2433.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-10-20-LIFE (J. WARNER, DISSENTING): A thirty-five-year sentence for attempted robbery with a deadly weapon is illegal. "The proposition that Lewis 'could have' been sentenced to a longer prison term pursuant to the 10-20-Life mandatories also does not apply to this case, as what sentence the trial court could have imposed does not make the actual sentence imposed legal or the error harmless." Lewis v. State, 4D2024-2433 (4/23/25) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450830/opinion/Opinion_2024-2433.pdf

DEADLINES-VOLUNTARY DEPARTURE: Under 8 U. S. C. §1229c(b)(2), the deadline for a removable alien to voluntarily depart the United States extends to the next business day if it would otherwise fall on a weekend or public holiday. Monsolvo Velázquez v. Bondi, No. 23–929 (U.S. S.Ct. 4/22/25) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-929_h3ci.pdf

DEFINITION-"DAY" (J. ALITO, DISSENTING): A "day" is a a division of time equal to 24 hours and representing the average length of the period during which the earth makes one rotation on its axis. Monsolvo Velázquez v. Bondi, No. 23–929 (U.S. S.Ct. 4/22/25)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-929_h3ci.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-TRAFFIC: "[W]e amend rule 6.445 to clarify that citations must identify the specific type of speed measuring device used to measure the driver's speed. However, we decline to further amend the rule to establish a separate set of requirements to be followed when the speed measuring device used is a stopwatch." In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Traffic Court 6.445, Case No. SC2024-1293 (4/17/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450661/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1293.pdf

VVC-TTVFO: Defendant cannot be sentenced as both a Violent Career Criminal (VCC) and a Three-Time Violent Felony Offender (TTVFO). Ballester v. State, 6D2023-0447 (4/17/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450660/opinion/Opinion_2023-0447.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Where postconviction court finds that recanted testimony is not credible. Defendant is not entitled to postconviction relief on the grounds of newly discovered evidence. McKinney v. State, 1D2023-2052 (4/16/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450527/opinion/Opinion_2023-2052.pdf

JOA-MURDER-PREMEDITATION: Defendant's soured friendship with victim over their drug dealing relationship, his text to his girlfriend that he was "about to do some hot shit," him being seen removing Victim's belongings from the apartment, and Victim being found with two bullets in his head is sufficient evidence of premeditation for a conviction for first-degree murder. McInnis v. State, 1D2023-2714 (4/16/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450528/opinion/Opinion_2023-

2714.pdf

JOA-ROBBERY: The testimony of the four eyewitnesses and two deputy sheriffs, along with evidence that the Defendant fled from law enforcement wearing the same-colored shirt, pants, and shoes as the perpetrator, being arrested with a handgun, cash, and marked paper bands that were stolen during the robbery, is sufficient competent, substantial evidence to support his conviction. James v. State, 1D2024-0920 (4/16/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450529/opinion/Opinion_2024-0920.pdf

CONTINUANCE: Court abused its discretion in denying a continuance when Defendant's expert, a board-certified radiologist who would have testified that the child's injuries resulted from an undiagnosed metabolic bone disease, at the last minute said he would not be flying in from California for the trial as scheduled. Surratt v. State, 2D2023-1077 (4/16/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450537/opinion/Opinion_2023-1077.pdf

EVIDENCE: Court does not abuse its discretion in admitting, as relevant to establishing the context of the charged offense, a gun found with the defendant at the time of arrest, even though it was not the gun used in the offense. Ross v. State, 3D23-0704 (4/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450600/opinion/Opinion_2023-0754.pdf

PRO SE DEFENDANT: A notice of appeal filed by a criminal defendant represented by counsel is unauthorized by law and is treated as a nullity. Valdez v. State, 3D24-1241 (4/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450550/opinion/Opinion_2024-1241.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Where a motion to withdraw a plea occurs after sentencing, the Defendant has the burden of proving that a manifest injustice has occurred. Cordero v, State, 3D24-1795 (4/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450603/opinion/Opinion_2024-1795.pdf

PLEA: Pleas do not occur after disposition in a criminal case. To say that a trial court took a plea from a defendant after disposition of a criminal case—regardless of whether adjudication has been withheld—makes no sense because, at that point, the defendant's guilt as to the criminal charges in the case had already been formally determined. Cordero v, State, 3D24-1795 (4/16/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450603/opinion/Opinion_2024-1795.pdf

SPOUSAL PRIVILEGE: Wife giving law enforcement the Ring video which captured her husband repeatedly putting his two-year-old niece's hand inside his pants does not violate spousal privilege where he had told her that the Ring camera was glitchy, which is why she had looked at the video. Spousal privilege imposes limitations on one spouse's ability to testify against the other spouse regarding marital communications and does not extend so far as to require exclusion of evidence stemming from such communications. The privilege is narrowly construed and does not cover one spouse's observations of the other spouse's criminal actions. Schwarz v. State, 4D2024-0594 (4/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450575/opinion/Opinion_2024-0594.pdf

EVIDENCE: References to the victim has Defendant's niece is relevant as backdrop for the babysitting context in which the incident occurred. Evidence, not part of the crime charged but pertaining to the chain of events explaining the context, motive and set-up of the crime, is properly admitted if necessary to complete the story of the crime for the jury. Schwarz v. State, 4D2024-0594 (4/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450575/opinion/Opinion_2024-0594.pdf

LEWD OR LASCIVIOUS MOLESTATION: Defendant repeatedly placing the Victim's right hand down the front of his pants supports a conviction for lewd or lascivious molestation notwithstanding the Defendant claimed that her hand only "came close" to his genital area. Schwarz v. State, 4D2024-0594 (4/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450575/opinion/Opinion_2024-0594.pdf

SENTENCING DEPARTURE-DOUBLE COUNTING: A concern about "double-counting" is implicated when a "double counted" factor is used to justify a departure sentence, but is not a concern where the sentence of life imprisonment is lawful. Florida law gives a sentencing judge unlimited discretion to sentence a defendant up to the maximum term set by the legislature for a particular crime. Schwarz v. State, 4D2024-0594 (4/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450575/opinion/Opinion_2024-0594.pdf

TRAFFICKING IN SUBSTITUTE CATHINONE: Dimethylpentylone is a substituted cathinone, a chemical that is similar to MDMA or Ecstasy, although it isn't in and of itself written in the statute. §893.03(1)(c)191 provides an extensive, non-exhaustive list of different types of chemicals and molecular structures prohibited under the statute, "including, but not limited to" forty-five substances. Words such as "including" are words of expansion, not limitation. The fact that Dimethylpentylone is not enumerated is not dispositive. That section 893.03(1)(c)191 criminalizes substances based on their molecular structures, of which a common person in possession of these substances would be unaware, does not make it unconstitutional. Jackson v. State, 4D2024-0819 (4/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450576/opinion/Opinion_2024-0819.pdf

HABITUAL FELONY OFFENDER: Erlinger v. United States reiterated the principle that a jury, rather than a judge, must find beyond a reasonable doubt nearly all facts that lead to a sentencing enhancement. But while the trial court, post-Erlinger, should have convened a jury to designate appellant as an HFO based on the date of his conviction or release, this was harmless error as the evidence conclusively established that Defendant qualified as an HFO. The record demonstrates beyond a reasonable doubt that a rational jury would have found that appellant qualified as an HFO. Jackson v. State, 4D2024-0819 (4/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450576/opinion/Opinion_2024-0819.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS: Where Defendant's DNA was linked to the specimen from a rape kit collected seventeen years earlier, he is entitled to discharge. Although §775.15(14) and (15) include two exceptions to the four year statute of limitations for rape-(1) the crime was reported within 72 hours, and (2) the prosecution commenced within one year after the defendant had been identified through DNA– Court may not take judicial notice of the probable cause affidavit and the court file because it constitutes hearsay. The exceptions to the status of limitations must be established by admissible evidence. Reaves v. State, 4D2024-1306 (4/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450583/opinion/Opinion_2024-1306.pdf

HEARSAY-JUDICIAL NOTICE: Information contained in police reports is ordinarily considered hearsay and inadmissible in an adversary criminal proceeding and the information in the report does not fall under any recognized exception to the hearsay rule. The mere fact that a trial court takes judicial notice of a court file does not defeat a hearsay objection to its contents. Documents contained in a court file, even if that entire court file is judicially noticed, are still subject to the same rules of evidence to which all evidence must adhere. Reaves v. State, 4D2024-1306 (4/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450583/opinion/Opinion_2024-1306.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR OFFENDER: Where Defendant, a minor at the time of the offenses, received consecutive sentences of life imprisonment with parole eligibility after twenty-five years for 1st degree murder, and 25 years, and 15 years or non-homicide crimes, resulting in forty cumulative years of consecutive sentences before eligibility for parole parole on the first-degree murder life imprisonment sentence, the Eighth Amendment is not violated. Consecutive prison terms for unrelated homicide and non-homicide offenses is not an aggregate sentence implicating the Eighth Amendment. Conflict certified. Rogers v. State, 4D2024-2704 (4/16/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450588/opinion/Opinion_2024-2704.pdf

PAROLE-LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR OFFENDERS-EIGHTH AMENDMENT: Florida's parole system holds up under Eighth Amendment scrutiny. For homicide offenders, it's not a sham and for non-homicide offenders, it offers a meaningful opportunity for release. "The Commission might be a little stingy in granting inmates release from prison, but its system does not run afoul of the Eighth Amendment." Howard v. Coonrod, No. 23-10858 (4/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310858.pdf

PAROLE-LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR OFFENDERS-14th AMENDMENT: Florida's parole system does not—on a class wide basis—violate the 14th Amendment. "[J]uvenile lifers haven't identified any liberty interest that is cognizable for due-process purposes." Florida has not created a liberty interest in the outcome of its parole decisions. The decision to parole an inmate from the incarceration portion of the inmate's sentence is an act of grace of the state, not a right. Howard v. Coonrod, No. 23-10858 (4/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310858.pdf

PAROLE: Florida's parole system explained. Four stages: First, near the end of the mandatory minimum portion of an inmate's sentence, the Florida Commission on Offender Review schedules an Initial Interview and then sets a presumptive parole release date. Second, at intervals of one to seven years the Commission conducts Subsequent Interviews to consider any new information. Third, the Commission holds an Effective Interview just before the presumptive parole release date. Fourth, if the Commission doesn't authorize release at the Effective Interview, it may hold an Extraordinary Review to explain its reasoning or set a new presumptive parole release date. Howard v. Coonrod, No. 23-10858 (4/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310858.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE-JUVENILE OFFENDERS-HISTORY: The Supreme Court's quartet of juvenile-offender sentencing decisions embody four key teachings: First, homicide offenders may be sentenced to life without the possibility of parole, provided that the sentence isn't mandatory and the sentencer has the discretion to impose a different punishment than life without parole after considering an offender's youth and attendant characteristics. Second, homicide offenders may be sentenced to less than life without parole, so long as the parole or other release system isn't a sham. Third, non-homicide offenders may never be sentenced to life without parole. Finally, non-homicide offenders may be sentenced to less than life without parole, so long as the state provides some meaningful opportunity to obtain release based on demonstrated maturity and rehabilitation. Howard v. Coonrod, No. 23-10858 (4/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310858.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE-MINOR HOMICIDE OFFENDER: Graham's holding that states must provide juvenile nonhomicide offenders "some meaningful opportunity to obtain release based on demonstrated maturity and rehabilitation" does not apply to homicide offenders. Howard v. Coonrod, No. 23-10858 (4/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310858.pdf

MEANINGFUL OPPORTUNITY FOR RELEASE: "The Supreme Court has never been entirely clear about what counts as a constitutionally valid 'meaningful opportunity' [for release]...But we can infer some basic characteristics. First, the decisionmakers in the state's release system must have the ability to incorporate 'demonstrated maturity and rehabilitation' into their assessment of whether to release a juvenile non-homicide offender...Second, the decisionmakers must actually exercise that authority...And third, a juvenile non-homicide offender must have some mechanism for making his views known—for pointing out...to the decisionmakers his maturity and rehabilitation. Beyond this, we hesitate to say more...[W]e turn to Florida's parole system, and we conclude that it checks all the boxes." Howard v. Coonrod, No. 23-10858 (4/15/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310858.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-HABEAS CORPUS: Petitioner is not entitled to federal habeas corpus relief based on trial counsel's failure to properly preserve the religion-based Batson challenge because at the time it had not been established that a religion-based peremptory challenge was improperly discriminatory. Where the law was unsettled at the time of counsel's challenged action, the appellate court generally does not find that counsel rendered constitutionally ineffective assistance. Bilotti v. Florida D.O,C., No. 23-11759 (11th Cir. 4/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311759.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Trial counsel's failure to object to standard jury instructions that have not been invalidated by the state Supreme Court does not render counsel's performance deficient. Reviewing court looks to the standard jury instructions at the time of the trial, rather than in hindsight. Bilotti v. Florida D.O,C., No. 23-11759 (11th Cir. 4/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311759.pdf

AEDPA: AEDPA provides that federal courts may grant habeas relief only if the claim either resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court, or (2) resulted in a decision that was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented in the State court proceeding. Bilotti v. Florida D.O,C., No. 23-11759 (11th Cir. 4/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311759.pdf

CERTIFICATE OF APPEALABILITY: Although an appellate court generally reviews only the issues that the certificate of appealability specifies, it construes the COA to encompass any issue that must be resolved before reaching the merits of a claim identified in it. COAs don't somehow alter the normal rule that the appellate court may affirm on any ground the record supports. The COA limits only what a movant may appeal, not what the court may consider. Bilotti v. Florida D.O,C., No. 23-11759 (11th Cir. 4/11/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311759.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to object to Prosecutor's suggestion during voir dire that an explanation for a defendant choosing not to testify could be upon "advice of counsel." Owens v. State, 5D2023-3213 (4/11/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450327/opinion/Opinion_2023-3213.pdf

VOIR DIRE-COMMENT ON SILENCE: "[T]wenty-five years ago, the Florida Supreme Court issued a caveat that 'strongly caution[ed] prosecutors against making comments that may be interpreted as comments on the defendant's failure to testify or that impermissibly suggest a burden on the defendant to prove his or her innocence...[B]ecause of the common belief among prospective jurors that the innocent have nothing to hide, it is important for a court to remain vigilant in protecting the right of the defendant to remain silent 'against devaluation by innuendo or faint praise.'...[D]uring voir dire, 'it is a defendant's prerogative—not the prosecutor's—to first broach with potential jurors the sensitive area of not taking the witness stand,'...Our opinion today, with the detailed discussion of the Florida Supreme Court decision in Marston, hopefully serves as a cautionary reminder to prosecutors regarding commenting during voir dire on a defendant's right to remain silent or burden to prove innocence." Owens v. State, 5D2023-3213 (4/11/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450327/opinion/Opinion_2023-3213.pdf

VOP: Where the record is clear that the Court revoked his probation based on Defendant's admitted violations, and a written order reflected revocation based on unadmitted allegations as well, the error is considered to be a correctable scrivener's error. Gonzalez v. State, 5D2024-2204 (4/11/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450329/opinion/Opinion_2024-2204.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-DISCOVERY: If a law enforcement agency agrees to electronic service of deposition notices, the agency must designate the e-mail address for the agency liaison that will accept such service. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure 3.220, 3.851, and 3.853, SC2024-1471 (4/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450309/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1471.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-MOTIONS: In Rules 3.851(f)(2) and 3.853(c), the reference to delivering motions to the judge is replaced with a requirement that the clerk notify the judge of the motion having been filed. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure 3.220, 3.851, and 3.853, SC2024-1471 (4/10/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450309/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1471.pdf

VOP: Where Defendant is sentenced in one hearing for both the new substantive offense and a violation of probation, and on new substantive offense sentenced as a Habitual Offender, the new offense should not be included on the scoresheet for the VOP case. A sentence imposed under the HFO statute is not subject to the Criminal Punishment Code. Because the erroneous scoresheet pushed the Least Permissible Sentence (LPS) above the statutory sixty-month maximum, Defendant's 64.95-month sentences on the VOP were unlawful. Brantley v. State, 1D2023-1695 (4/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450191/opinion/Opinion_2023-1695.pdf

PRO SE DEFENDANT: Court may deny Defendant's request to proceed pro se and require that counsel represent uncooperative defendant who had history of disrupting the proceedings. Dillard v. State, 1D2023-2443 (4/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450197/opinion/Opinion_2023-2443.pdf

JURY TRIAL-WAIVER: There is no fundamental error where Defendant's counsel, rather than the trial court, conducted her on-the-record inquiry for waiver of a jury trial in favor of a bench trial. Saini v. State, 1D2023-2507 (4/9/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450203/opinion/Opinion_2023-2507.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-STALENESS: Search warrant for phones, tablet, and a laptop to find child pornography is stale when executed more than a month after its issuance. §933.05 mandates that a search warrant shall be returned within 10 days after issuance thereof. A warrant that is not executed within the statutory period is stale, and any search conducted pursuant to it is invalid. "We will not second-guess lawmakers' plain language by appending a prejudice requirement to the firmly established statutory time limit." Moschella v. State, 2D2023-0044 (4/9/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450172/opinion/Opinion_2023-0044.pdf

COMPETENCY: Where Court made an oral finding of competency after the parties stipulated to the mental health expert's report but the record does not demonstrate that the trial court reviewed the contents of the report, nor did the trial court enter a written order finding Defendant competent to proceed, a nunc pro tunc determination of competency must be made, or if it cannot be, a new trial is required. Durham v. State, 2D2023-1548 (4/9/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450174/opinion/Opinion_2023-1548.pdf

RESTITUTION: In a criminal case, ability to pay is considered in enforcement proceedings after the court orders restitution, but in a juvenile case, the court must determine before ordering restitution what the delinquent child or his or her parent(s) or guardian(s) can be reasonably expected to both pay and make. A juvenile court may order restitution even if the child does not have an immediate ability to pay, but in that case, the juvenile court must make findings on the record about the juvenile's expected earning capacity. A.L.W. v. State, 2D2023-2710 (4/9/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450175/opinion/Opinion_2023-2710.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-JIMMY RYCE: Defendant is not entitled to withdraw a plea where neither the Court nor counsel advised him of the consequences of the Jimmy Ryce Act. Any such consequences are collateral, and Defendant cannot show prejudice. Rodriguez v. State, 3D23-1339 (4/9/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450220/opinion/Opinion_2023-1339.pdf

CULPABLE NEGLIGENCE: Juvenile is not entitled to judgment of dismissal where he smeared deodorant gel on his teacher's desk, chair, the nearby floor and several areas of the classroom, causing the teacher to slip and fall. Culpable negligence only requires proof of creating an exposure to personal injury, not proof of a likelihood of death or great bodily harm. A.C., a juvenile v. State, 3D23-1490 (4/9/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450221/opinion/Opinion_2023-1490.pdf

CULPABLE NEGLIGENCE: Smearing deodorant gel on the floor may constitute was a course of conduct showing a reckless disregard for the safety of others. There is no uniform schedule of specific acts that constitute culpable negligence. The conduct is not viewed in a vacuum, but rather, through the prism of the circumstances. A.C., a juvenile v. State, 3D23-1490 (4/9/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450221/opinion/Opinion_2023-1490.pdf

VOP-HEARSAY-BUSINESS RECORDS: Revocation of probation may be supported by hearsay such as business records hearsay is generally admissible as an exception to the hearsay rule. The question in such proceedings is not whether all of the evidence offered in support of revocation was hearsay, but rather whether there is evidence to support revocation that would have been admissible at a criminal trial. Quigley v. State, 3D23-1682 (4/9/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450250/opinion/Opinion_2023-1682.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: In an appellate court's review of the denial of a claim of ineffective assistance of trial counsel after an evidentiary hearing, the trial court's factual findings are entitled to deference if supported by competent, substantial evidence. Pestano v. State, 3D23-2075 (4/9/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450227/opinion/Opinion_2023-2075.pdf

MOTION FOR JOA-PRESERVED ISSUE: A motion for judgment of acquittal can be made at the close of the State's evidence, and in order to preserve the issue for appeal, the defendant is not required to renew the motion after the defendant has presented evidence. Bridon v. State, 3D24-0390 (4/9/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450252/opinion/Opinion_2024-0390.pdf

FORFEITURE: Where Appellant, a day laborer, discovered 103 one-ounce gold Krugerrand coins secreted inside a wall when he was working on demolishing a condominium, which were later seized by the Sheriff's Office for safekeeping for the unknown and never identified rightful owner, or he is entitled to individual notice of any forfeiture proceeding. A person entitled to notice need not demonstrate a proprietary interest in the property at issue but only that he or she possessed the property when it was seized. Warren

v. Tony, 4D2024-0560 (4/9/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450207/opinion/Opinion_2024-0560.pdf

DUPLICITOUS COUNTS: A count in an indictment is duplicitous if it charges two or more separate and distinct offenses. The risk of a duplicitous count is that (1) a jury may convict a defendant without unanimously agreeing on the same offense; (2) a defendant may be prejudiced in a subsequent double jeopardy defense; and (3) a court may have difficulty determining the admissibility of evidence. USA v. Pulido, No 22-10709 (11th Cir. 4/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210709.pdf

DUPLICITOUS COUNT-UNANIMOUS VERDICT: A charge of enticing a minor to engage in sexual activity (18 U.S.C. §2422(b)) is duplicitous where it fails to list multiple enticement offenses to cover each criminal act. One enticement count to cover a 10-month period with numerous conversations about sex and sexual encounters is duplicitous because it allows for the possibility that the jurors didn't unanimously agree on the same act of enticement. USA v. Pulido, No 22-10709 (11th Cir. 4/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210709.pdf

TRAVELING WITH INTENT-FOREIGN COMMERCE CLAUSE: The power over channels of commerce under the Foreign Interstate Commerce Clause permits Congress to keep the channels of interstate commerce free from immoral and injurious uses, regardless of the non-commercial intent to have sex with underage Croatian girls. §2423(b) is directed at people who, for example, buy plane tickets to commit illicit activity in foreign countries. The travel-with-intent count is constitutional. USA v. Pulido, No 22-10709 (11th Cir. 4/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210709.pdf

TRAVELING WITH INTENT-FOREIGN COMMERCE CLAUSE: §2423(b), prohibiting traveling in foreign commerce with the purpose of committing an illegal sex act with a minor, does not impermissibly burden one's rights of travel and free thought under the First and Fifth Amendments. Defendant "did far more than think immoral thoughts or travel with amorphous intentions—he bought a plane ticket, traveled to Croatia, and had sex with a 15-year-old girl." USA v. Pulido, No 22-10709 (11th Cir. 4/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210709.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BORDER SEARCH: Fourth Amendment does not require any level of suspicion for forensic searches of electronic devices at the border. Border searches never require a warrant—or even probable cause—to be reasonable. Reasonable suspicion at the border is only required for highly intrusive searches of a person's body, such as a strip search or an x-ray examination. USA v. Pulido, No 22-10709 (11th Cir. 4/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210709.pdf

CONSPIRACY-ENTICEMENT OF MINOR: Evidence is sufficient to support a conviction for conspiracy to entice a minor where Defendant coached codefendant had to convince the minor to have sex with him; (2) knew about the sexual activity between the two; (3) spoke with a minor regarding her sexual experiences; (4) pretended to be a doctor and instructed her how she could avoid pregnancy; (5) hid the codefendant's relationship with the minor from her family; (6) paid for I.G.'s plane ticket to the United States; (7) helped ensure that she didn't return to Croatia with her family; and (8) obstructed her efforts to return to Croatia. "That is more than enough." USA v. Pulido, No 22-10709 (11th Cir. 4/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210709.pdf

MISTRIAL: The improper and troubling testimony about Defendant's immigration status is insufficient to warrant a mistrial. "[W]e...decline...to adopt a per se rule that every mention of a defendant's illegal immigration status is incurably prejudicial." USA v. Pulido, No 22-10709 (11th Cir. 4/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210709.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES-UNDULY INFLUENCING MINOR: There is a rebuttable presumption of undue influence if the defendant is at least 10 years older than his minor victim for purposes of the §2G1.3(b)(2)(B) two level enhancement. USA v. Pulido, No 22-10709 (11th Cir. 4/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210709.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES-CUSTODY, CARE, OR SUPERVISORY CONTROL: Where minor was entrusted to Defendant's care and he was responsible for all conduct in furtherance of the conspiracy for minor to have sex with codefendant, he is subject to the guidelines enhancement for custody, care, or supervisory control (§2G1.3). USA v. Pulido, No 22-10709 (11th Cir. 4/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210709.pdf

DUPLICITY (J. ROSENBAUM, CONCURRING): Forcing the government to charge by the enticement, rather than the victim, multiplies the statutory minimum; it eliminates the application of our usual sentencing practices that secure uniform and proportionate punishments; and, in some cases, it may even impose an effectively automatic life sentence. "This is all to say the Majority Opinion arrives at the correct disposition under our precedent, but I have deep concerns about the correctness of our precedent." USA v. Pulido, No 22-10709 (11th Cir. 4/8/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210709.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-DEPORTATION: Detainees held for deportation as suspected alien enemies, i.e., lawful permanent residents from Venezuela, must seek relief only by petition for writ of habeas corpus in the district of confinement. Trump v. J. G. G., et al., No. 24A931 (S.Ct., 4/7/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a931_2c83.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-DEPORTATION: Detainees held for deportation as suspected alien enemies, i.e., lawful permanent residents from Venezuela, are entitled to due process of law, including notice and opportunity to be heard. The notice must be afforded within a reasonable time and in such a manner as will allow them to actually seek habeas relief in the proper venue before such removal occurs. Trump v. J. G. G., et al., No. 24A931 (S.Ct., 4/7/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a931_2c83.pdf

J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING: Scores of Venezuelan immigrants have been sent to foreign prison in El Salvador without any due process of law, under the auspices of the 1798 Alien Enemies Act designed for times of war, part of the Aliens and Sedition Acts, which Madison called "a monster that must for ever disgrace its parents," not withstanding that there is no ongoing war between the United States and Venezuela. Nor is Tren de Aragua itself a "foreign nation," in what can be understood only as covert preparation to skirt both the requirements of the Act and the Constitution's guarantee of due process, all without any opportunity to contact their lawyers, much less notice or opportunity to be heard. "The Government's plan, it appeared, was to rush plaintiffs out of the country before a court could decide whether the President's invocation of the Alien Enemies Act was lawful or whether these individuals were, in fact, members of Tren de Aragua." Trump v. J. G. G., et al., No. 24A931 (S.Ct., 4/7/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a931_2c83.pdf

J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING: "The Government's conduct in this litigation poses an extraordinary threat to the rule of law. That a majority of this Court now rewards the Government for its behavior with discretionary equitable relief is indefensible. We, as a Nation and a court of law, should be better than this." Trump v. J. G. G., et al., No. 24A931 (S.Ct., 4/7/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a931_2c83.pdf

J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING: "The President of the United States has invoked a centuries-old wartime statute to whisk people away to a notoriously brutal, foreign-run prison. For lovers of liberty, this should be quite concerning...With more and more of our most significant rulings taking place in the shadows of our emergency docket, today's Court leaves less and less of a trace. But make no mistake: We are just as wrong now as we have been in the past, with similarly devastating consequences. It just seems we are now less willing to face it." Trump v. J. G. G., et al., No. 24A931 (S.Ct., 4/7/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/24a931_2c83.pdf

GOOD GRIEF!: "O'Steen represented Tong and his associates under a Retainer Agreement. The Agreement provided for a non-refundable retainer of $15,000 and any additional fees needed to enable O'Steen to do the work....[State Attorney] Siegmeister communicated a plea offer to O'Steen: Tong could plead guilty to a felony and be sentenced to five years' probation..., and the case against his two associates would be dismissed. Tong rejected the offer. He told O'Steen that under no circumstances would he plead guilty to a felony...O'Steen discussed...with Tong...the possibility [of PTI] if Tong paid him an additional attorney's fee of $50,000...To avoid paying the additional fee, Tong turned to the FBI." USA v. O'Steen, No. 22-13569 (11th Cir. 4/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213569.pdf

PLEA BARGAINING: State Attorney "Siegmeister...and O'Steen met...at a Walmart and discussed placing Tong in the PTI program. Afterwards, they drove to Siegmeister's farm. En route, Siegmeister asked O'Steen how much he was charging Tong. When O'Steen said it was $60,000, Siegmeister told him he could afford to buy one of his Braford bulls." Which he did. For $4,000. More than fair market value. He turned around and sold it for less than that. USA v. O'Steen, No. 22-13569 (11th Cir. 4/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213569.pdf

DUPLICITOUS CHARGES: Duplicity is the joining in a single count of two or more distinct and separate offenses. This should be distinguished from multiplicity, the charging of a single offense in several counts, and from misjoinder, the inclusion in separate counts of an indictment of offenses or defendants not permitted by Rule 8. USA v. O'Steen, No. 22-13569 (11th Cir. 4/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213569.pdf

DUPLICITY: An indictment is irreconcilably inconsistent and duplicitous where it charges in a single count Hobbs Act by Extortion under Color of Official Right as a principal and Hobbs Act by Extortion under Color of Official Right as an accomplice. Defendant was an attorney who charged his client an extra and exorbitant fee to bribe the State Attorney. USA v. O'Steen, No. 22-13569 (11th Cir. 4/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213569.pdf

EXTORTION UNDER COLOR OF OFFICIAL RIGHT: A private citizen cannot be convicted as a principal to extortion under color of official right. USA v. O'Steen, No. 22-13569 (11th Cir. 4/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213569.pdf

EXTORTION UNDER COLOR OF OFFICIAL ACT/HOBBS ACT: Hobbs Act by Extortion requires obstructing, delaying, or affecting commerce. USA v. O'Steen, No. 22-13569 (11th Cir. 4/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213569.pdf

EXTORTION UNDER COLOR OF OFFICIAL ACT/HOBBS ACT: Under Hobbs Act Extortion, the extorted property must be actual property of the victim, rather than sting money the government provided. Although the use of government funds as bribe money depletes the funds available to the government, it does not deplete the assets of an individual who is directly engaged in interstate commerce. USA v. O'Steen, No. 22-13569 (11th Cir. 4/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213569.pdf

EXTORTION UNDER COLOR OF OFFICIAL ACT/HOBBS ACT: An accused cannot be convicted as an accomplice of aiding and abetting the commission of a crime by a principal unless the prosecution first proves beyond a reasonable doubt that the principal committed the crime. Defendant/Attorney cannot be convicted of Extortion under Color of Official Act as an accomplice for obtaining bribe money from his client to pay the State Attorney where that particular money was not forwarded to the State Attorney (he got paid off differently). USA v. O'Steen, No. 22-13569 (11th Cir. 4/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213569.pdf

FAILING TO DISCLOSE $10,000 FEE: 31 U.S.C. §5 six 311 criminalizes willfully failing to file a report with Treasury within fifteen days of receipt of a legal fee in excess of $10,000. But the attorney's knowledge of the regulation is required for conviction. "We do not dishonor the venerable principle that ignorance of the law generally is no defense to a criminal charge. In particular contexts, however, Congress may decree otherwise. That, we hold, is what Congress has done with respect to 31 U.S.C. § 5322(a)." The circumstantial evidence here is insufficient to show that Defendant knew of the reporting requirement. USA v. O'Steen, No. 22-13569 (11th Cir. 4/4/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213569.pdf

HABITUAL OFFENDER: Before the trial court may impose a habitual felony offender sentence, it must find that the defendant has been previously convicted of two or more felonies and that the current felony occurred either (a) while the defendant was serving a prison sentence or lawfully imposed supervision as a result of a prior felony conviction; or (b) within five years from the date of conviction for the defendant's last prior felony or his release from, prison or supervision. Cleveland v. State, 2D2023-2373 (4/4/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450025/opinion/Opinion_2023-2373.pdf

HABITUAL OFFENDER: Defendant's stipulation that he had twelve prior felony convictions is insufficient to impose a habitual offender sentence absent record evidence of the timing of the convictions or his release from prison or probation. Cleveland v. State, 2D2023-2373 (4/4/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450025/opinion/Opinion_2023-2373.pdf

HABITUAL OFFENDER: Where Defendant fails to object to a habitual felony offender sentence at the time of sentencing and State did not provide requisite evidence, the case should be remanded for a new sentencing hearing at which the State may again attempt to prove that the defendant qualifies as a habitual felony offender. Cleveland v. State, 2D2023-2373 (4/4/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450025/opinion/Opinion_2023-2373.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: Proof to the jury of a defendant's release which subjects a defendant to as a PRR is not required. Kinard v. State, 2D2024 (4/4/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450028/opinion/Opinion_2024-2347.pdf

PLEA-WITHDRAWAL: A represented juvenile defendant sentenced as an adult may not appeal from a nolo contendere plea, based on it being involuntary, without first moving to withdraw the plea. There is no fundamental-error exception to the preservation requirement. The narrowly drawn and extremely limited exception when juveniles enter uncounseled pleas found by the Supreme Court in T.G. v. State does not apply when Defendant is represented by counsel. "[O]n an even more basic level, without receding from T.G., we reject its approach to creating ad hoc exceptions to rule 9.140(b)(2)(A)(ii)(c)...[N]o matter how emphatically a court stresses that its reasoning is good-for-one-case-only, every exception begets demands for more. We think it best to follow the text of rule 9.140(b)(2)(A)(ii)(c). Sauls v. State, 5D2023-2688 (4/4/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450013/opinion/Opinion_2023-2688.pdf

APPEAL-COUNSEL'S DUTY (J. EISNAUGLE, CONCURRING): "I conclude that the other issues are not sufficiently argued in the initial brief. Therefore, I do not reach them...It is elementary that when a decree of the trial court is brought here on appeal the duty rests upon the appealing party to make error clearly appear." Sauls v. State, 5D2023-2688 (4/4/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450013/opinion/Opinion_2023-2688.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to an evidentiary hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for not calling an alibi witness regardless whether there was some evidence undermining the alibi. Goodwin v. State, 5D2024-1276 (4/4/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450015/opinion/Opinion_2024-1276.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to an evidentiary hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for not calling mitigation witnesses for sentencing. Goodwin v. State, 5D2024-1276 (4/4/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450015/opinion/Opinion_2024-1276.pdf

JOA-LEWD AND LASCIVIOUS MOLESTATION: Defendant is entitled to judgment of acquittal for lewd and lascivious molestation where he called a juvenile victim to the bathroom, closed and locked the door, turned off the light, told her to go on knees, and took off his pants and boxers. An actual touching under the statute is required. Sylvaince v. State, 6D2023-3362 (4/4/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2450041/opinion/Opinion_2023-3362.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-PRETRIAL DETENTION: Rules amended to substantially revamp procedures for pretrial detention, effective May 1, 2025. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure 3.116 and 3.132, SC2024-0883 (4/3/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449948/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0883.pdf

ARGUMENT: State's unobjected to argument that no evidence was presented that victim was lying or was an attention seeker were an invited response. A prosecuting attorney may comment on the jury's duty to analyze and evaluate the evidence and state his or her contention relative to what conclusions may be drawn from the evidence. Kimble v. State, 1D2023-2497 (4/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449841/opinion/Opinion_2023-2497.pdf

CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION: Jury may infer that he possessed the narcotics in the backpack where the passenger disclaimed ownership. Baker v. State, 1D2024-0407 (4/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449843/opinion/Opinion_2024-0407.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: State need not request $100 cost of prosecution for it to be imposed. Baker v. State, 1D2024-0407 (4/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449843/opinion/Opinion_2024-0407.pdf

CORPUS DELICTI (J. LABRIT, CONCURRING): §92.565 replaces the traditional corpus delicti rule with a trustworthiness test in sex abuse cases. Before admitting Defendant's inculpatory statements under this exception to the corpus delicti rule, Court must (1) determine whether the charged offense qualifies as a sexual abuse crime, (2) determine whether the State is unable as a result of some disability on the part of the victim to prove an element of the crime, (3) determine whether the State has proven that the defendant's confession is trustworthy, and (4) make specific findings of fact on the issue of trustworthiness. State v. Young, 2D2024-0963 (4/2/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449846/opinion/Opinion_2024-0963.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: A party may not argue on appeal an issue which it disavowed in the lower court. And the reviewing court may not consider an issue raised below but apparently abandoned on appeal. An issue not raised in an initual brief is abandoned. State v. Young, 2D2024-0963 (4/2/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449846/opinion/Opinion_2024-0963.pdf

APPEAL-PRIOR PANEL PRECEDENT RULE: A three judge panel of a district court should not overrule or recede from a prior panel's ruling on an identical point of the law. State v. Young, 2D2024-0963 (4/2/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449846/opinion/Opinion_2024-0963.pdf

CORPUS DELICTI-SEX CASES: The plain language of §92.565(3), which creates an exception to the corpus delicti rule for Defendant's corroborated and reliable sex cases permits a trial court to consider whether a defendant's statements are self-corroborating. There is no textual basis to exclude self-corroboration. But prior case law holds otherwise. "I encourage this court to reexamine and recede from Tumlinson at the first opportunity." State v. Young, 2D2024-0963 (4/2/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449846/opinion/Opinion_2024-0963.pdf

SPECIAL INTERROGATORY: A special interrogatory used to determine the existence of additional circumstances relevant to mandatory minimum sentences or reclassifications have no legal bearing on the findings or evidence required to convict of an underlying crime and is thus analytically separate from verdicts for underlying crimes, and neither eliminates nor supplies an element of the underlying crimes. Reeves v. State, 3D22-2226 (4/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449868/opinion/Opinion_2022-2226.pdf

RESTITUTION: The court shall retain continuing post-sentencing jurisdiction over the convicted offender for the sole purpose of entering civil restitution lien orders, unaffected by the statute of limitations for civil actions brought by the state. Grimace v. State, 3D23-1885 (4/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449870/opinion/Opinion_2023-1885.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: Court has discretion whether to sentence Defendant to life in prison as a violent career criminal. But Defendant may not raise on appeal the argument that the court did not realize that it had discretion without having raised the issue at sentencing or by a motion to correct. Ventura v. State, 3D223-2069 (4/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449893/opinion/Opinion_2023-2069.pdf

SENTENCING ERROR (J. MILLER, CONCURRING/DISSENTING): Defendants failure to preserve a fundamental sentencing error by motion under R. 3.800(b) or by objection during the sentencing hearing forecloses them from raising the error on direct appeal. The rule extends only to "sentencing errors." "What falls within the definition of a 'sentencing error,' however, remains somewhat nebulous given the lack of consistency in the current jurisprudential landscape." Court's misapprehension of its discretion to impose less than a life sentence is a "sentencing error" which should be cognizable on direct appeal. Ventura v. State, 3D223-2069 (4/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449893/opinion/Opinion_2023-2069.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: If the Court denies a motion for postconviction relief as insufficient on its face, the court shall enter a nonfinal, nonappealable order allowing the defendant 60 days to amend the motion. Talley v. State, 3D24-0981 (4/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449888/opinion/Opinion_2024-0981.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court may not enter an order denying a motion for postconviction relief by citing to portions of the trial testimony without attaching those portions of the files and records that conclusively show no entitlement to relief. To avoid rendering two separate final orders, the trial court should not issue a final order on some of the claims until Defendant has had the opportunity to amend the others. Talley v. State, 3D24-0981 (4/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449888/opinion/Opinion_2024-0981.pdf

COMPETENCY: Court must enter a written order of competency, not merely make oral findings. Fowler v. State, 4D2023-1739 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449878/opinion/Opinion_2023-1739.pdf

VOP: Court may not find that defendant violated his probation by not paying costs without determining that the defendant had the ability to pay. Fowler v. State, 4D2023-1739 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449878/opinion/Opinion_2023-1739.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Whether the officers exceeded the scope of their legal duties by improperly detaining Defendant or failing to comply with criteria set forth in the Baker Act is irrelevant to whether Stand Your Ground immunity can be applied. SYG immunity does not exist for force against law enforcement officers acting in the performance of his or her official duties. A distinction exists between an officer's official duties and an officer's legal duties. While Defendant may still assert a lack of probable cause, procedural noncompliance, or that the officers used excessive force as defenses to any prosecution, he is not entitled to assert Stand Your Ground immunity. State v. Argerich, 4D2023-2892 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449880/opinion/Opinion_2023-2892.pdf

COMPETENCY: A trial court is entitled to reject apparently unrebutted testimony of a defense mental health expert if the trial court finds that the facts do not support the testimony. Colston v. State, 4D2024-0397 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449885/opinion/Opinion_2024-0397.pdf

JOA: On a motion for judgment of acquittal, all conflicts in the evidence, and reasonable inferences to be drawn from the evidence, are resolved in the State's favor. Video showing Defendant palcing a gun near a propane tank and gesturing to co-defendant, briefly interacting with the victim, watching the co-defendant shoot the victim, quickly leaving the scene with him, and Defendant making a jail call suggestive of her consciousness of guilt is competent, substantial evidence that she intended the co-defends\ant to shoot the victim. Farris v. State, 4D2024-0617 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449890/opinion/Opinion_2024-0617.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-PRINCIPAL: Giving an outdated version of the jury instruction on principals which omitted language specifying that the principals elements must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt is not fundamental error. "[A] proper approach to fundamental error considers the jury instructions as a whole...[and] does not nitpick at the instructions to manufacture a fundamental error that was overlooked by all the participants." Farris v. State, 4D2024-0617 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449890/opinion/Opinion_2024-0617.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION: "We note that when standard criminal jury instructions are relied upon, it is important for an attorney to compare the proposed instructions to the most recent version of the standard instructions." Farris v. State, 4D2024-0617 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449890/opinion/Opinion_2024-0617.pdf

OPENING STATEMENT-STATE'S MISREPRESENTATION: Prosecutor's failure to present evidence of a fact mentioned in opening statement warrants a mistrial if the reference prejudices the defendant's right to a fair trial by suggesting additional evidence of the defendant's guilt that is never subjected to cross-examination and evaluation by the jury, even where a curative instruction is given. Defendant is entitled to a mistrial where State's opening statement revealed that Defendant said she had been arguing with the Victim–State had said they would not use the statement–and the statement never came into evidence. Farris v. State, 4D2024-0617 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449890/opinion/Opinion_2024-0617.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT: "[T]he prosecutor's reference in opening statement to Farris's admission that she had an argument with the victim contributed to the denial of her right to a fair trial by suggesting additional evidence of her guilt—evidence of intent, ill will toward the victim, and a possible motive for the killing—that Farris never had the opportunity to contest...The prosecutor created the problem. The prosecutor did not have a good faith basis for making the comment in opening statement, especially after representing on the first day of trial that she was 'not using the statements' that Alford and Farris had given to police." Farris v. State, 4D2024-0617 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449890/opinion/Opinion_2024-0617.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-MISSTATEMENT OF LAW: Defendant is entitled to a new trial where prosecutor misstated the law of principals by saying that the Defendant did not have to have the conscious intent that the co-defendant shoot the victim, or the same criminal intent that he had. The fair reply doctrine does not permit the State to mislead the jury on the law in rebuttal. Farris v. State, 4D2024-0617 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449890/opinion/Opinion_2024-0617.pdf

CONFRONTATION: Admission into evidence of co-defendant's jail call did not violate Defendant's confrontation rights because it did not directly implicate him nor was it testimonial because he did not make the call with an expectation that it would be used in the investigation or prosecution of a crime. The admission of a co-defendant's confession in a joint trial violates the defendant's right of cross-examination secured by the Confrontation, but the Bruton rule applies only to directly accusatory incriminating statements, as distinct from those that do not refer directly to the defendant and become incriminating only when linked with evidence introduced later at trial. Alford v. State, 4D2024-0669 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449889/opinion/Opinion_2024-0669.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION: To preserve a claim of insufficiency of the evidence, a defendant must raise a timely challenge in the trial court. The only two exceptions to this requirement are: (1) when the death penalty is imposed; and (2) when the evidence is insufficient to show that a crime was committed at all. A party must obtain a ruling from the trial court in order to preserve an issue for appellate review. Alford v. State, 4D2024-0669 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449889/opinion/Opinion_2024-0669.pdf

FIREARM-SUFFICIENCY: Where the video shows a man raising his right arm and pointing an object, which appears to be a firearm, at the victim, a muzzle flash is seen, the victim ran away and died, and the cause of death was a gunshot wound to the torso, the jury could reasonably infer that the object was a firearm and that the man with the firearm shot the victim. Alford v. State, 4D2024-0669 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449889/opinion/Opinion_2024-0669.pdf

APPEAL (J. WARNER, CONCURRING): "I write to address a practice by the State of expressly refusing to address the merits of summarily denied claims in its answer brief...[W]e are told that the claim will not be addressed unless we direct the State to respond. This practice does not comport with the Florida Rules of Appellate Procedure...[W]hen an evidentiary hearing is held as to at least one claim, appellee has the duty to address all issues raised in the initial brief that appellee contests. Otherwise, the appellate court could view the failure to address an issue as a concession of error...I...would caution the State in future appeals that it may forfeit its right to respond to a summarily denied claim in a rule 9.141(b)(3) appeal, if the State does not address the claim in its answer brief." Smith v. State, 4D2024-1166 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449891/opinion/Opinion_2024-1166.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS-DILIGENT SEARCH: A prosecution on a charge on which the defendant has not previously been arrested or served with a summons is commenced when either an indictment or information is filed, provided the capias, summons, or other process is executed without unreasonable delay. In determining what is reasonable, inability to locate the defendant after diligent search shall be considered. Going to find different addresses using only two sources of information (NCIC/FCIC and DAVID) is not a diligent search. Obvious sources of information include the telephone book,the city directory, driver's license records, vehicle license records, property tax records, voter's registration records, the probation office, local utility companies, law enforcement agencies, state attorney's office, schools, armed forces, the prison system, relatives of the defendant, and witnesses in the case. Persaud v. State, 4D2024-2664 (4/2/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449898/opinion/Opinion_2024-2664.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: in death penalty cases for initial and successive postconviction motions, trial court must hold a hearing to determine whether an evidentiary hearing is required. Summary denial of a successive postconviction motion is appropriate if the motion, files, and records in the case conclusively show that the movant is entitled to no relief. Tanzi v. State, SC2025-0371 (4/1/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449824/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0371%20&%20SC2025-0372,%20&%20SC2025-0424.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-DEATH WARRANT: A compressed death warrant litigation schedule does not deprive a capital defendant of Due Process. Tanzi v. State, SC2025-0371 (4/1/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449824/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0371%20&%20SC2025-0372,%20&%20SC2025-0424.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-RECORD REQUESTS: Defendant on death row is not entitled to public records pertaining to Florida's lethal injection procedures; such records are unlikely to lead to a colorable claim for relief. Tanzi v. State, SC2025-0371 (4/1/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449824/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0371%20&%20SC2025-0372,%20&%20SC2025-0424.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Florida's lethal injection protocol, including the etomidate protocol, is not cruel and unusual punishment. Tanzi v. State, SC2025-0371 (4/1/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449824/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0371%20&%20SC2025-0372,%20&%20SC2025-0424.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Governor's authority to determine the timing of a death warrant, and thus the length of warrant litigation, does not unconstitutionally empower him to control the availability and reliability of judicial relief. Governor has authority and discretion when signing death warrants. Tanzi v. State, SC2025-0371 (4/1/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449824/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0371%20&%20SC2025-0372,%20&%20SC2025-0424.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-UNANIMOUS VERDICT: Florida's death penalty sentencing scheme remains constitutional under the Sixth, Eighth, and Fourteenth Amendments notwithstanding Erlinger v. United States. When a jury unanimously finds all of the necessary facts for the imposition of death sentences by virtue of its unanimous recommendation, the death penalty may be imposed. A unanimous, non-advisory jury is not necessary to impose a death sentence. Erlinger involved an element of the offense, not the existence of aggravating circumstances. Tanzi v. State, SC2025-0371 (4/1/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449824/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0371%20&%20SC2025-0372,%20&%20SC2025-0424.pdf

MARCH 2025

SUPERVISED RELEASE: Supervised release is a form of post-confinement monitoring provided to facilitate a transition to community life. A term of supervised release ends on its date of expiration, but a district court may also terminate a term of supervised release early or extend a term of supervised release if less than the maximum authorized term was previously imposed. USA v. Murat, No. 24-11614 (11th Cir. 3/28/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411614.pdf

VIOLATION OF SUPERVISED RELEASE: A district court's power to revoke a term of supervised release extends beyond the expiration of the term of supervised release for any period reasonably necessary for the adjudication of matters arising before its expiration if, before its expiration, a warrant or summons has been issued. When a defendant is reincarcerated for violating his supervised release, he is still serving that term of supervised release—albeit in prison—and the sentencing court still has jurisdiction over that term. It is not a term of imprisonment that is to be served, but all or part of the term of supervised release. USA v. Murat, No. 24-11614 (11th Cir. 3/28/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411614.pdf

VIOLATION OF SUPERVISED RELEASE: Court may rule on a limited number of counts in a petition to revoke supervised release, hold other counts in abeyance, and adjudicate those counts later. Court may enter two separate revocation orders on the original petition, one after a hearing on the technical violations and a later one after a hearing on the substantive violations. USA v. Murat, No. 24-11614 (11th Cir. 3/28/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411614.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: If the court has made a definitive ruling on the record admitting or excluding evidence, either at or before trial, a party need not renew an objection or offer of proof to preserve a claim of error for appeal. Sutter v. State, 1D2024-0337 (3/28/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449649/opinion/Opinion_2024-0337.pdf

EVIDENCE: When the evidence is circumstantial, the proof of a motive for committing the crime is relevant. Defendant's hateful statements and threats to harm children are relevant to establish his motive for stealing the glucose monitors shipped to his neighbor for his child. Sutter v. State,

1D2024-0337 (3/28/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449649/opinion/Opinion_2024-0337.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to correction of his sentence because it failed to include statutorily required monthly reporting probation and a substance abuse course. Defendant is entitled to no relief where he suffers no prejudice from an unlawfully lenient sentence. To challenge a court order, a defendant must demonstrate prejudicial error. Brown v. State, 5D2024-1583 (3/28/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449671/opinion/Opinion_2024-1583.pdf

FIREARMS: The Gun Control Act, which authorizes ATF to regulate any weapon which will or is designed to or may readily be converted to expel a projectile by the action of an explosive, permits it to regulate the manufacture and sale of "weapon parts kits." Bondi v. Vanderstok, No. 23–852 (S.Ct. 3/26/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-852_c07d.pdf

ARTIFACT NOUNS: Artifact nouns are typically characterized by an intended function, rather than by some ineffable natural essence. Reflecting as much, everyday speakers sometimes use artifact nouns to refer to unfinished objects—at least when their intended function is clear. But "when used to capture unfinished products, artifact nouns generally reach only so far...Few would call a pile of unfinished logs a table." Bondi v. Vanderstok, No. 23–852 (S.Ct. 3/26/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-852_c07d.pdf

ILLEGAL SENTENCE: Defendant may not challenge the legality of his sentence of probation for DUI for not including statutorily required monthly reporting probation and completion of a substance abuse program. R. 3.800(a) does not permit a defendant to challenge an unlawfully lenient sentence absent some showing of prejudice. A conviction or sentence may not be reversed absent an express finding that a prejudicial error occurred in the trial court. Campbell v. State, 2D2023-0651 (3/26/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449483/opinion/Opinion_2023-0651.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-WEIGHT: Where the Defendant testified that he thought that the three bags were hemp, and only one of the bags was tested and determined to be cannabis weighing 24.47 pounds, Defendant cannot be convicted of trafficking in cannabis in an amount in excess of 25 pounds. Because there is an identifiable danger of misidentification between legal hemp and illegal cannabis, the State can no longer rely solely on appearance and odor to extend an inference of illegal cannabis to the remaining untested packets and must chemically test each packet to meet the threshold weight. "We note that our holding does not extend to cases where circumstantial evidence other than appearance and odor alone may be sufficient to prove that all packages contain illegal cannabis." Campbell v. State, 2D2023-0651 (3/26/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449483/opinion/Opinion_2023-0651.pdf

CANNABIS-TESTING: Until recently, all forms of cannabis were illegal. Because the unique appearance, texture, and odor of cannabis was susceptible to being readily identifiable by experienced law enforcement officers, their testimony alone was sufficient to establish the identity of the substance without chemical analysis was sufficient. However, after the legalization of hemp at the federal and state levels, this is no longer the case. Campbell v. State, 2D2023-0651 (3/26/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449483/opinion/Opinion_2023-0651.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ISSUE PRESERVATION: Defendant is not entitled to suppression of the firearm found on his person when officers patted him down after removing him from the car which they decided to search based solely on the smell of marijuana. Because Defendant on appeal argued only that the search of the car was unlawful, not that the search of his person was unlawful, the issue of whether the guns should have been suppressed is not preserved. "He has not presented us with any legal argument regarding why the search of his person was unlawful, and we are not at liberty to craft that argument for him." Simmons v. State, 2D2023-0953 (3/26/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449484/opinion/Opinion_2023-0953.pdf

DICTA/HOLDING: If not a holding, a proposition stated in a case counts as dicta. A holding consists of those propositions along the chosen decisional path or paths of reasoning that (1) are actually decided, (2) are based upon the facts of the case, and (3) lead to the judgment. Simmons v. State, 2D2023-0953 (3/26/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449484/opinion/Opinion_2023-0953.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR OF MARIJUANA-DICTA (J. SLEET, DISSENTING): "I agree with the majority that much of this court's opinion in Owens, 317 So. 3d 1218, is dicta...[T]his court's choice of wording in Owens—'we hold that an officer smelling the odor of marijuana has probable cause"...—has caused and will likely continue to cause confusion for trial courts making probable cause determinations." Simmons v. State, 2D2023-0953 (3/26/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449484/opinion/Opinion_2023-0953.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR OF MARIJUANA (J. SLEET, DISSENTING): "I conclude that due to the legalization of medical marijuana, the odor of fresh marijuana alone does not establish a substantial chance that criminal activity is occurring." Simmons v. State, 2D2023-0953 (3/26/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449484/opinion/Opinion_2023-0953.pdf

SEX OFFENDER REGISTRATION-REMOVAL: §943.0435(11), which tightens the requirements for removal of sex offender registration and lengthens the period of ineligibility is procedural rather than substantive. The current version of the statute governing removal of required sex offender registration controls. Korson v. State, 2D2024-0807 (3/26/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449485/opinion/Opinion_2024-0807.pdf

CERTIORARI-STATE APPEAL: A district court lacks jurisdiction to grant the State's petition for writ of certiorari where the trial court's order is a final order and where the State had no statutory right to appeal the order. Appellate court cannot grant State's petition for writ of certiorari challenging an order granting removal from required sex offender registration. Korson v. State, 2D2024-0807 (3/26/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449485/opinion/Opinion_2024-0807.pdf

SENTENCING-PURPOSE: The primary purpose of sentencing is to punish the offender. Rehabilitation is a desired goal of the criminal justice system but is subordinate to the goal of punishment. Ducas v. State, 3D22-1395 (3/26/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449530/opinion/Opinion_2022-1395.pdf

SENTENCING CONSIDERATIONS: Following an appeal, Court may consider a conviction for offenses committed after the primary offense when resentencing a defendant on that primary offense. A subsequent arrest without conviction distinguished from the subsequent arrest with conviction. Ducas v. State, 3D22-1395 (3/26/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449530/opinion/Opinion_2022-1395.pdf

SENTENCING CONSIDERATIONS: "A conscientious judge trying to measure a defendant's potential for rehabilitation could not ignore the fact that the defendant was [later] convicted of trying to murder a witness to his crime." Ducas v. State, 3D22-1395 (3/26/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449530/opinion/Opinion_2022-1395.pdf

HEARSAY-EXCITED UTTERANCE: In SYG hearing, Defendant's 911 call. in which he said that he shot the three victims after they rushed him, is admissible as an excited utterance or spontaneous statement.. Hoempler v. State, 3D24-1814 (3/26/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449542/opinion/Opinion_2024-1811.pdf

EVIDENCE-INEXTRICABLY INTERTWINED: Evidence of the Defendant following and pestering a woman, which led to her friend accosting the defendant, which led to the defendant shooting him and his two sons, is admissible. Court does not abuse its discretion admitting evidence showing a chronological chain of events that led to the crime. Hoempler v. State, 3D24-1814 (3/26/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449542/opinion/Opinion_2024-1811.pdf

APPEAL-CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-CORRECTION: A petition for writ of habeas corpus is not a proper method for seeking review of an order denying a motion to correct jail credit filed pursuant to R 3.801. Joseph v. State, 3D24-2226 (3/26/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449558/opinion/Opinion_2024-2226.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-CORRECTION: A written notation in the plea agreement as to the amount of credit a defendant will receive is not sufficient to demonstrate that a defendant knowingly and voluntarily waived jail credit to which he would otherwise be legally entitled. Joseph v. State, 3D24-2226 (3/26/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449558/opinion/Opinion_2024-2226.pdf

SEVERANCE-COUNTS: Defendant is not entitled to severance of two murders occurring within thirty-six minutes and a few blocks of each other as part of the single crime spree. Offenses that occur during a crime spree are connected when they share a high degree of similarity or a causal link. Paul v. State, 4D23-2680 (3/26/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449546/opinion/Opinion_2023-2680.pdf

JURY SELECTION-PROCEDURE: The selection procedure whereby twelve prospective jurors were seated and, if stricken, replaced by the next person in the randomly-generated sequence without the parties having a copy of the random list is permissible. A defendant has no constitutional, statutory, or rule-based right to know the identity of a replacement juror before exercising a peremptory challenge. Question certified. Paul v. State, 4D23-2680 (3/26/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449546/opinion/Opinion_2023-2680.pdf

JURY SELECTION: Peremptory challenges are a right of rejection, not a right of selection. Paul v. State, 4D23-2680 (3/26/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449546/opinion/Opinion_2023-2680.pdf

ARGUMENT: A prosecutor's comment that no one took the stand to contradict the state's case constitutes an improper comment, implicating the appellant's Fifth Amendment rights. But where defense counsel places an issue before the jury in closing argument, the prosecution is permitted to respond. Prosecutor's rebuttal comments that there were no conflicts in the evidence that Defendant was the person who shot victims as no one testified that it was not the Defendant were permissible as an invited response to defense counsel's arguments regarding conflicts in the evidence. Paul v. State, 4D23-2680 (3/26/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449546/opinion/Opinion_2023-2680.pdf

ALLOCUTION: A defendant prior to sentencing has the opportunity to make an unsworn statement to the sentencing judge in allocution. "The key word here is "opportunity." The federal rule requires the trial court to address the defendant personally about allocution. Florida has no similar rule. Court's failure to make an unsolicited inquiry into whether Defendant wants to make a statement before sentencing is not fundamental error. Jones v. State, 4D2023-3066 (3/26/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449548/opinion/Opinion_2023-3066.pdf

LOITERING AND PROWLING: Where officer received a report about, but did not actually see, Defendant looking in car windows and trying to open a car door. his nervous demeanor and giving a false name are insufficient to establish the crime of loitering and prowling periods All elements of loitering or prowling must be committed in a police officer's presence because the offense is a misdemeanor. Behavior that does not occur in the officer's presence may not be considered. Saintil v. State, 4D2024-0624 (3/26/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449545/opinion/Opinion_2024-0624.pdf

PRO SE DEFENDANT: Non-attorneys proceeding pro se are not entitled to an award of attorney's fees. Jadusingh v. State, 4D2024-2466 (5/26/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449555/opinion/Opinion_2024-2466.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-PREJUDICE: Petitioner is not entitled to habeas corpus relief from his state court conviction based on the rape kit and report being admitted in evidence without the testimony of the doctor who collected the evidence and prepared the report where Petitioner did not establish actual prejudice. State prisoners are not entitled to habeas relief based on trial error unless they can establish that it resulted in actual prejudice. Johnson v. Secretary, Florida D.O.C., No. 23-10215 (11th Cir. 3/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310215.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-PREJUDICE: For habeas corpus relief, Court need not find whether error was committed if no actual prejudice is shown. The actual-prejudice inquiry turns on whether there is grave doubt whether the jury would have convicted without the asserted error. Court may skip directly to the actual-prejudice inquiry without considering whether error occurred. Cases to the contrary are non-binding dicta. Johnson v. Secretary, Florida D.O.C., No. 23-10215 (11th Cir. 3/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310215.pdf

DICTA: Generally, a dictum is a statement in a judicial opinion that is unnecessary to the case's resolution. The prior-panel-precedent rule applies only to holdings, not dicta. Johnson v. Secretary, Florida D.O.C., No. 23-10215 (11th Cir. 3/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310215.pdf

CATEGORICAL APPROACH-USE OF FORCE: The "categoricalv approach" is used to determine whether an offense falls within the elements clause. Under that approach, we do not examine the defendant's actual conduct.was violent, but whether the offense in question always involves the use, attempted use, or threatened use of force. If the offense can be committed without the use, attempted use, or threatened use of force, it is not a crime of violence under the elements clause. But attempted murder is always a use or attempted use of force. Delligatti v. United States, No. 23–825 U.S. S.Ct. 3/21/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-825_q713.pdf

USE OF FIREARM/CRIME OF VIOLENCE: Any person who uses or carries a firearm during or in relation to a "crime of violence" is subject to a mandatory minimum sentence of five years, to be served consecutively with any other term of imprisonment. 18 U. S. C. §924(c) defines a "crime of violence" to include a felony that involves the "use of physical force" against another person. The knowing or intentional causation of bodily injury necessarily involves the use of physical force. The "use of physical force" includes causing bodily injury by omission rather than action. Delligatti v. United States, No. 23–825 U.S. S.Ct. 3/21/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-825_q713.pdf

FIREARM/CRIME OF VIOLENCE: Mafia figure who recruited members of a street gang to commit a thwarted murder is guilty of using or carrying a firearm during or in relation to a "crime of violence" under 18 U.S.C. §924(c). Attempted murder is a crime of violence because an individual may knowingly or intentionally cause bodily injury or death by failing to take action. That constitutes using physical force within the meaning of the elements clause. Causing bodily harm by omission is the use of force. Delligatti v. United States, No. 23–825 U.S. S.Ct. 3/21/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-825_q713.pdf

FORCE: The concept of 'force'" includes causing bodily harm indirectly, such as by administering a poison or by infecting with a disease, or even by resort to some intangible substance, such as a laser beam. Delligatti v. United States, No. 23–825 U.S. S.Ct. 3/21/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-825_q713.pdf

CRIME OF VIOLENCE (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "To commit a 'crime of violence," an individual must (1) actively (not just through inertia) employ (2) a violent or extreme physical act (not a mere touching or pre-existing natural forces) (3) knowingly or intentionally to harm another person or his property. An individual who, as the Court puts it, 'causes bodily injury by omission' does not begin to meet these criteria." Delligatti v. United States, No. 23–825 U.S. S.Ct. 3/21/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-825_q713.pdf

(J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "Expanding the elements clause to reach omission offenses, as the Court does today, goes a long way toward rendering the residual clause pointless. Perhaps the Court considers that outcome a virtue, given that we have held the residual clause unconstitutionally vague and thus unenforceable...But conscripting one subsection to do the work no longer performed by another makes a hash of the separate and discrete provisions that Congress enacted." Delligatti v. United States, No. 23–825 U.S. S.Ct. 3/21/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-825_q713.pdf

VIOLENT PHYSICAL FORCE (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "The truth is that some acts involve the use of violent physical force and others do not, regardless whether those acts directly or indirectly cause bodily injury...[P]ulling the trigger of a gun involves the indirect application of violent physical force...But that hardly means pulling the trigger of a nerf gun...does too." Delligatti v. United States, No. 23–825 U.S. S.Ct. 3/21/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-825_q713.pdf

FALSE STATEMENTS: 18 U.S.C. §1014 does not criminalize statements that are misleading but not false. A misleading statement is not a false statement. Defendant's misleading statement to F.D.I.C.that he had borrowed $110,000 from the bank but omitted disclosing two other loans from the same bank for another $109,000. Thompson v. United States, No. 23–1095 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/21/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-1095_8mjp.pdf

FINE-CAPITAL OFFENSE: Court may not impose a fine on a person who has been convicted of a capital felony. First-degree murder is a capital felony. Dawson v. State, 5D23-2831 (3/21/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449355/opinion/Opinion_2023-2831.pdf

TIME: A motion to withdraw plea must be filed within 30 days after the rendition of a sentence. But the time does not begin on a legal holiday or weekend. Lagunas v. State, 5D2024-2283 (3/21/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449360/opinion/Opinion_2024-2283.pdf

MOTION TO WITHDRAW PLEA-JURISDICTION: The filing of a notice of appeal does not divest the trial court of jurisdiction to rule on a pending motion to withdraw plea nor is it a nullity. Lagunas v. State, 5D2024-2283 (3/21/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449360/opinion/Opinion_2024-

2283.pdf

AGGRAVATED BATTERY WITH A FIREARM: Aggravated battery with a firearm is a second-degree felony punishable by up to fifteen years in prison. §775.087(2)(a) provides that the defendant "shall be sentenced to a minimum term of imprisonment of not less than 25 years and not more than a term of imprisonment of life in prison." Court improperly sentenced Defendant to 35 years in prison subject to a minimum mandatory sentence of 25 years. The court could have sentenced him to a thirty-five year mandatory minimum sentence, but, once the trial court issued the twenty-five year mandatory minimum prison sentence, it could not thereafter exceed the fifteen year maximum penalty for the second-degree felony, i.e., the thirty-five year prison sentence, without further statutory authority. Thus, the portion of the sentence that exceeds the required twenty-five year mandatory minimum is illegal. Perez v. State, 5D2024-2599 (3/21/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449362/opinion/Opinion_2024-2599.pdf

MAILBOX RULE: A pro se inmate's motion is deemed filed at the moment in time when the inmate loses control over the document by entrusting its further delivery or processing to agents of the state. I.e., prison officials. Hernandez v. State, 4D23-3347 (3/21/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449370/opinion/Opinion_2023-3347.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-FRUIT OF POISONOUS TREE: The exclusionary rule requires a causal connection between the unconstitutional act and the discovery of evidence. Although the evidence obtained by search warrant of Defendant's home was properly suppressed based on the misleading affidavit, the 8 kilos of narcotics found in his co-defendant's car after officers listened to Defendsat's suspicious jail calls were not suppressible. "In sum, the evidence suppressed in the dismissal order could not have been derivative of an illegality where an illegality had yet to take place." State v.

Brinson, 6D2024-0122 (3/21/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449372/opinion/Opinion_2024-0122.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-FILING: Rules for filing amended. A document in the official court file that purports to be signed by a judge or other court official is presumed to be authentic. The clerk shall place such a document in the official court file only after authenticating it. The "last day" no longer ends at midnight; it ends at 11:59:59 p.m., eastern time. The five days' mailing time applies only if service is made solely by mail. Documents that are served but not filed must be served by attaching the document in PDF format to an e-mail message sent to the recipient's e-mail address. Attorneys must file through the Portal. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of General Practice and Judicial Administration, No. SC2023-1401 (3/20/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449279/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1401.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-FILING: All documents served by e-mail must be sent by an e-mail message containing a subject line beginning with the words "SERVICE OF COURT DOCUMENT" in all capital letters, followed by the case number and case style of the proceeding in which the documents are being served. The body of the e-mail must identify the court in which the proceeding is pending, the case number, the name of the initial party on each side, the title of each document served with that e-mail, and the name and telephone number of the person required to serve the document. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of General Practice and Judicial Administration, No. SC2023-1401 (3/20/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449279/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1401.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-FILING: Certificate of service should say ""I certify that on ….(date)….this the foregoing document has been furnished to (here insert name(s) or names,and service address(es) used for service, and mailing addresses) by (here insert method of service such as portal, e-mail), (delivery), or (mail). (fax) on ..... (date) …..Attorney at Law." In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of General Practice and Judicial Administration, No. SC2023-1401 (3/20/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449279/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1401.pdf

APPEAL-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: A bald assertion that the trial court should have imposed a sentence different from the one it did is not a cognizable claim for appellate relief. A defendant's sufficiently demonstrating a basis for a downward departure does not entitle him to a departure sentence. But the proper disposition—as with any appeal in which there are only meritless claims for appellate relief—is not dismissal, but affirmance. Contrary precedents receded from. Gazoombi v. State, 1D2024-0171 (3/20/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449275/opinion/Opinion_2024-0171.pdf

APPEAL-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE (J WINOKUR, J., CONCURRING): "I write only to emphasize what I believe is the critical conclusion here. First, a court determining that a defendant has shown that a departure from the lowest permissible sentence is warranted is not obligated to impose a departure sentence...Second, a sentence within statutory limits is generally not subject to appellate review." Gazoombi v. State, 1D2024-0171 (3/20/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449275/opinion/Opinion_2024-0171.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-PREJUDICE: Petitioner is not entitled to habeas corpus relief from his state court conviction based on the rape kit and report being admitted in evidence without the testimony of the doctor who collected the evidence and prepared the report where Petitioner did not establish actual prejudice. State prisoners are not entitled to habeas relief

based on trial error unless they can establish that it resulted in actual prejudice. Johnson v. Secretary, Florida D.O.C., No. 23-10215 (11th Cir. 3/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310215.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-PREJUDICE: For habeas corpus relief, Court need not find whether error was committed if no actual prejudice is shown. The actual-prejudice inquiry turns on whether there is grave doubt whether the jury would have convicted without the asserted error. Court may skip directly to the actual-prejudice inquiry without considering whether error occurred. Cases to the contrary are non-binding dicta. Johnson v. Secretary, Florida D.O.C., No. 23-10215 (11th Cir. 3/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310215.pdf

DICTA: Generally, a dictum is a statement in a judicial opinion that is unnecessary to the case's resolution. The prior-panel-precedent rule applies only to holdings, not dicta. Johnson v. Secretary, Florida D.O.C., No. 23-10215 (11th Cir. 3/25/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310215.pdf

UNANIMOUS VERDICT: Jury unanimity on the particular firearm possessed is not required where there is evidence that the defendant possessed more than one firearm. Jury does not need to agree unanimously on which firearm or ammunition a defendant possessed where there is evidence that he possessed more than one. A special interrogatory on the verdict form is not required. Unanimity is required as to each element, not as to the means. USA v. Morris, No. 22-13764 (11th Cir. 3/19/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213764.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-K-9: Fourth Amendment allows a K-9 officer

arriving midway through a lawful traffic stop to command the driver to exit the vehicle for officer safety before conducting a lawful vehicle sweep. Mims v. State, 1D2023-3157 (3/19/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449205/opinion/Opinion_2023-3157.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: R. 3.801 authorizes a motion to correct a sentence that fails to allow a defendant credit for all of the time spent in county jail before sentencing, and provides that such motion must be filed within one year after the sentence becomes final. For sentences imposed prior to July 1, 2013, the motion to corrct must be filed before July 1, 2014. Credit may not be corrected for sentence imposed in 1990. Davis v. State, 1D2024-0759 (3/19/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449213/opinion/Opinion_2024-0759.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION-SENTENCING: Where Defendant did not object to the State's discussion of his misconduct while on bond, he failed to preserve the issue of whether Court improperly considered it at sentencing. Bamba v. State, 3D23-1743 (3/19/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449193/opinion/Opinion_2023-1743.pdf

SEVERANCE-DEFENDANTS: Antagonistic defenses alone is insufficient basis for a severance. Simple hostility or a defendant attempting to shift the blame to another does not require a severance. The rule is designed to assure a fair determination of each defendant's guilt or innocence. Ingraham v. State, 4D2018-2307 (3/19/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449216/opinion/Opinion_2018-2397.pdf

SEVERANCE-DEFENDANTS: Defendant is not entitled to a severance on grounds that he wanted to support his "mere presence" defense with evidence of prior murders by a codefendant where those murders were dissimilar and therefore inadmissible. Delancy v. State, 4D2018-2365 (3/19/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449211/opinion/Opinion_2018-2365.pdf

SEVERANCE-DEFENDANTS: If a defendant moves for a severance of defendants on the ground that an oral or written statement of a codefendant makes reference to him or her but is not admissible against him or her. Where the State opts not to use the sttement and it is otherwis inadmissiblem there us no need for a severance. Delancy v. State, 4D2018-2365 (3/19/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449211/opinion/Opinion_2018-2365.pdf

SEVERANCE-DEFENDANTS: Defendant is not entitled to a severance where the opening statement of the codefendant placed him at the scene of the crime. Forbes v. State, 4D2018-2202 (3/19/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449215/opinion/Opinion_2018-2202.pdf

FIREARMS: Statute which prohibits purchase of firearms by minors does not violate the Second and Fourteenth Amendments as applied to individuals between the ages of 18 and 21. National Rifle Association v. Bondi, No. 21-12314 (3/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112314.enb.op.pdf

SECOND AMENDMENT: The Florida law prohibiting firearms purchases for people under the age of twenty-one is consistent with our regulatory tradition in why and how it burdens the right of minors to keep and bear arms. The question is whether the modern law is analogous enough to the Founding-era legal regime and the Florida law is. National Rifle Association v. Bondi, No. 21-12314 (3/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112314.enb.op.pdf

BRAINS (J. ROSENBAUM, CONCURRING): "[W]e must know some basic information about how the brain functions. I begin with neurons. Neurons are nerve cells that make up the brain...They gather and transmit electrochemical signals in the body and within the brain to tell the body and brain what to do." National Rifle Association v. Bondi, No. 21-12314 (3/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112314.enb.op.pdf

ORIGINAL INTENT (J. NEWSOM, CONCURRING): "I write separately to highlight an important methodological issue that, I'll confess, has become something of a hobby horse of mine: the uses and misuses of post-ratification history in originalist decisionmaking. I've been a vocal and persistent critic of courts' reliance on post-ratification history—sometimes euphemistically called 'tradition'—to interpret constitutional provisions...In short, I regard 'latter-day-but-still-kind-ofold-ish understandings' as having arisen too late in the day to inform a proper originalist analysis...It's an important question, though—one to which I hope scholars of all stripes will devote serious and sustained attention. I'll say that as a matter of existing doctrine, it seems to me clear enough that Founding-era (rather than Reconstruction-era) understandings must govern. National Rifle Association v. Bondi, No. 21-12314 (3/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112314.enb.op.pdf

SCHOOL SAFETY (J. WILSON, CONCURRING): "I write separately as a Florida judge who is puzzled by some of my dissenting colleagues' inconsistent treatment of school safety issues...[M]any of my colleagues who stressed the importance of protecting Florida schoolchildren when using school bathrooms looked the other way when Florida passed a law 'to comprehensively address the crisis of gun violence...on school campuses...I believe I am not alone when I say I am more concerned about high school seniors purchasing assault rifles than I am about which bathroom they use." National Rifle Association v. Bondi, No. 21-12314 (3/14/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112314.enb.op.pdf

CONTEMPT-INDIRECT CRIMINAL: For indirect criminal contempt, the Court may issue and sign an order to show cause based on an affidavit of any person having personal knowledge of the facts. The order must state the essential facts constituting the contempt charged and require the subject to appear before the court to show cause why the child should not be held in contempt of court. Court fundamentally errs by failing to strictly comply with the procedure set forth in R 8.150(c)(2). C.M.B. v. State, 2024-0091 (3/14/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449003/opinion/Opinion_2024-0091.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: Court does not commit error in imposing a $100 prosecution cost without a request on the record from the state. Desue v. State, 5D24-0168 (3/14/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449009/opinion/Opinion_2024-0168.pdf

MANDATORY FINE-ASSESSMENT: Where no fines were orally announced by the court and as part of the plea bargain, State had waived the assessment of mandatory fines, which it is permitted to do, the judgment showing the assessment of the fine plus a 5% surcharge must be amended. Ross v. State, 5D2024-2129 (3/14/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449013/opinion/Opinion_2024-2129.pdf

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE INJUNCTION: Harassment—standing alone—is not domestic violence. Blake v. Fares, 5D2024-2810 (3/14/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2449018/opinion/Opinion_2024-2810.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-STAY OF EXECUTION: Newly offered medical evidence fails to show a causal connection between Petitioner's mental impairments and his ability to file a timely petition. Nothing about that evidence establishes that, at the time he waived his post-conviction proceedings, he could not understand the proceedings against him, the nature of his convictions and death sentence, and the nature of the consequences that would stem from his decision to withdraw his post-conviction motion. The Supreme Court's grant of certiorari in another case does not matter. Because grants of certiorari do not themselves change the law, they must not be used by courts of this circuit as a basis for granting a stay of execution that would otherwise be denied. James v. Secretary, D.O.C., No. 25-10683 (11th Cir. 3/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202510683.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-CONSPIRACY: Court has no duty to affirmatively inform the jury that Defendant cannot be convicted of conspiring with a government agent where Defendant dealt with many people other than the agent. Both the Government and defense counsel made it crystal clear that the government agent could not be considered to be part of the conspiracy. USA v. Davis, No. 22-12971 (11th Cir. 3/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212971.pdf

RIGHT TO SILENCE: Agent saying "We wanted to work and cooperate with the Defendant. The Defendant chose not to" and "I would love to sit down and proffer with the Defendant" are improper comments on the right to silence, but any prejudice is curable and error harmless. USA v. Davis, No. 22-12971 (11th Cir. 3/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212971.pdf

SELF-REPRESENTATION-FARETTA: "[A]s we see it, if there is a right to counsel at sentencing -- which is undeniable -- then it follows that there is also a correlative right to proceed pro se at sentencing if a defendant has clearly and unequivocally sought to do so, and if the court has made the appropriate determination after a searching Faretta inquiry." After a clear denial of the request, a defendant need not make fruitless motions or forego cooperation with defense counsel in order to preserve the issue on appeal. USA v. Davis, No. 22-12971 (11th Cir. 3/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212971.pdf

SENTENCING: When resolving a dispute concerning a factor relevant to sentencing, the sentencing court may rely on any relevant information without regard to its admissibility under the rules of evidence applicable at trial, provided that the information has sufficient indicia of reliability to support its probable accuracy. The sentencing court generally does not need to make distinct findings regarding the reliability of hearsay statements used at sentencing if the reliability of the statements is apparent from the record. USA v. Davis, No. 22-12971 (11th Cir. 3/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212971.pdf

PASSPORT APPLICATION-FALSE STATEMENT: Using a fake passport to get a new passport constitutes making a false statement application for a passport. USA v. Schrek, No 24-11951 (11th Cir. 3/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411951.pdf

DEFINITION-"USE": "Use" means "to avail oneself of," "to employ," "to behave toward," and "to partake of." It covers a broad range of conduct, including where someone employs a passport to accomplish a purpose beyond merely traveling. USA v. Schrek, No 24-11951 (11th Cir. 3/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411951.pdf

DEFINITION-"FALSE": "False" means not only inauthentic. A fraudulently procured passport may be authentic but it is still a false document. The term "false documents" covers both inauthentic and untrue documents. USA v. Schrek, No 24-11951 (11th Cir. 3/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411951.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-SPEEDY TRIAL: Effective July 1, 2025, speedy trial rule is amended four ways. First, speedy trial now starts from the date that formal charges are filed rather than from the date of arrest. Second, the recapture period is mandatory in all situations (rule re-lettered). Third, the recapture period is increased from 10 days to 30 days. Fourth, dismissals under this rule will be without prejudice unless a defendant's constitutional right to speedy trial has been violated, which requires dismissal with prejudice. Juvenile speedy trial rule changes are in the works. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.191, SC2022-1123 (3/13/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448981/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1123.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-FORMAL CHARGES: R 3.134 is amended to provide that charges must be brought within 60 days or on the 63rd day the defendant released from all requirements of bail and all conditions of pretrial release. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.191, SC2022-1123 (3/13/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448981/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1123.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-EIGHTH AMENDMENT: Nearly thirty-year stay on death row does not constitute cruel and unusual punishment. James v. State, SC2025-0280 (3/13/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448995/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0280&%20SC2025-0281.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-EIGHTH AMENDMENT: The categorical bar to execution of the intellectually disabled does not apply to individuals with other forms of mental illness or brain damage. James v. State, SC2025-0280 (3/13/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448995/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0280&%20SC2025-0281.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Eighth Amendment does not require a unanimous jury recommendation of death. James v. State, SC2025-0280 (3/13/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448995/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0280&%20SC2025-0281.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: Amended R. 3.851, which no longer permits the waiver of postconviction counsel—does not apply retroactively. James v. State, SC2025-0280 (3/13/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448995/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0280&%20SC2025-0281.pdf

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: Questioning Defendant about whether he believed he could get a fair trial, based on statements in his pretrial filings that he could not, is not fundamental error. To preserve an issue for appeal based on improper argument, counsel is required to object and request a mistrial. Belc v. State, 1D2023-0089 (3/12/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448843/opinion/Opinion_2023-0089.pdf

MISTRIAL: Defendant is not entitled to a mistrial where Defendant testified about his pretrial wish to enter a guilty plea, just not to first-degree murder, and State asked follow-up questions. Although an offer to plead guilty or nolo contendere is inadmissible, Defendant broached the plea subject first. "[E]ven if the State should have refrained from asking about Belc's attempt to plead guilty, there was no prejudice or chance that the outcome of the trial would have been different." Belc v. State, 1D2023-0089 (4/12/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448843/opinion/Opinion_2023-0089.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: Defendant is not entitled to suppression of his statement where, after being read his Miranda rights, he asked about an attorney, the officer responded that they couldn't immediately summon an attorney and would stop the interview if he wanted one present, and he then agreed that the interview could continue and that he would let them know if he wished to stop. Belc v. State, 1D2023-0089 (4/12/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448843/opinion/Opinion_2023-0089.pdf

DISCIPLINE: An inmate charged with a disciplinary infraction is entitled to an opportunity to call witnesses and present documentary evidence regarding the case. But inmate is not entitled to a writ of mandamus compelling a new disciplinary hearing because of prison's failure to provide him with the video of the incident, absent a finding of prejudice. The Department correctly pointed out that the court did not address whether

Appellee, who was found guilty of "spoken threats" to a Department employee, was prejudiced by not being provided with video surveillance of the incident at issue when the cameras did not have audio. Florida D.O.C. v. Paulcin, 1D2024-0135 (3/12/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448844/opinion/Opinion_2024-0135.pdf

APPEAL-TIMELINESS: An untimely motion for rehearing does not toll rendition of the underlying order. Because the filed motion for rehearing was untimely, the time for filing the notice of appeal was not tolled. Ledent v. State, 1D2024-2476 (3/12/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448866/opinion/Opinion_2024-2476.pdf

SENTENCE REVIEW-FINDINGS: Where Defendant was sentenced for premeditated first-degree murder, robbery with a firearm, and tampering with physical evidence, with a sentencing review after twenty-five years, Court's oral findings that Defendant is not entitled to a fifteen-year review is insufficient. §775.082(1)(b)3 requires written findings. Maceda v. State, 2D2023-2809 (3/12/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448846/opinion/Opinion_2023-2809.pdf

EVIDENCE-PRIOR INCONSISTENT STATEMENT: To be inconsistent, a prior statement must either directly contradict or be materially different from the expected testimony at trial. The inconsistency must involve a material, significant fact rather than mere details. Barnett v. State, 3D22-1891 (3/12/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448901/opinion/Opinion_2022-1891.pdf

SECOND-DEGREE MURDER: Defendant's admission of "animosity" and "rivalry" with victim could support a jury finding of depraved mind for second-degree murder. Barnett v. State, 3D22-1891 (3/12/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448901/opinion/Opinion_2022-1891.pdf

APPEAL-STATE-JURISDICTION: State is not authorized by law to appeal orders modifying probation. State may not appeal Court's failure to hold a hearing on whether Defendant poses a danger to the community or impose a mandatory minimum sentence the State had waived at the initial sentencing. The Florida Legislature has authorized the State to appeal orders in dismissing an affidavit charging a violation of probation or to appeal probation imposed at an initial sentencing him due to noncompliance with §948.06(8)). But '[this is not one of those circumstances because the trial court here modified McKinney's probation rather than revoking it or dismissing the affidavit of violation. Thus, its order functionally evades appellate review." State v. McKinney, 3D23-0909 (3/12/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448887/opinion/Opinion_2023-0909.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: When a judge has looked beyond the mere legal sufficiency of a suggestion of prejudice andattempted to refute the charges of partiality, he has then exceeded the proper scope of his inquiry and on that basis alone established grounds for his disqualification. DeCastro v. State, 3D23-1523 (3/12/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448893/opinion/Opinion_2023-1523.pdf

HARMLESS ERROR: The Florida Supreme Court has repeatedly declined to alter the DiGuilio standard to one more likely to uphold a conviction. DeCastro v. State, 3D23-1523 (3/12/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448893/opinion/Opinion_2023-1523.pdf

PRISONER RELEASEE REOFFENDER: Burglary of a conveyance with an assault is a qualifying PRR offense. McCray v. State, 4D2024-0608 (3/12/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448878/opinion/Opinion_2024-0608.pdf

PRISONER RELEASEE REOFFENDER (J. CIKLIN, DISSENTING): Because burglary with assault or battery can be committed without the threat or use of physical force or violence, the defendant's conviction did not qualify for enhanced PRR sentencing under the catch-all provision of the PRR statute. McCray v. State, 4D2024-0608 (3/12/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448878/opinion/Opinion_2024-0608.pdf

PRO SE FILINGS: A prohibition on pro se filing is an extreme remedy that should be reserved for egregious abuse of judicial process. Defendant's four pro se filings post-conviction relief are nowhere close to the number of filings in other cases where litigants were abusing the judicial process by the sheer volume. "While the defendant's filings may have lacked merit or were untimely or unauthorized, these filings were not so numerous or lacking in merit to justify prohibiting the defendant's further pro se filing pursuant to rule 3.850(n) at this juncture." Asper v. State, 4D2024-1919 (3/12/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448882/opinion/Opinion_2024-1919.pdf

RESTITUTION-CHILD PORNOGRAPHY: 18 U.S.C. §2259.mandates a minimum restitution award of $3,000 per victim of child pornography, so long as that amount does not cause a victim to recover more than the full amount of their demonstrated losses. An award of $30,000 restitution among seven victims of child pornography is warranted. USA v. Sotelo, No. 21-12710 (11th Cir. 3/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112710.pdf

RESTITUTION-CHILD PORNOGRAPHY: In determining restitution in child pornography case, a court must assess as best it can from available evidence the significance of the individual defendant's conduct in light of the broader causal process that produced the victim's losses. Factors include: (1) the number of past criminal defendants found to have contributed to the victim's general losses; (2) reasonable predictions of the number of future offenders likely to be caught and convicted for crimes contributing to the victim's general losses; (3) any available and reasonably reliable estimate of the broader number of offenders involved; (4) whether the defendant reproduced or distributed images of the victim; (5) whether the defendant had any connection to the initial production of the images; (6) how many images of the victim the defendant possessed; and (7) other facts relevant to the defendant's relative causal role. Awareness of one's images being circulated on the internet is not a prerequisite for restitution. Projected therapy and medical costs can be considered. USA v. Sotelo, No. 21-12710 (11th Cir. 3/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112710.pdf

RESTITUTION-CHILD PORNOGRAPHY: "Altogether, the victims' restitution claims paint a vivid, painful picture of the harms caused by child sexual abuse and the possession of images depicting that abuse. While lives can be improved, the ongoing harm, inflicted by the illegal possession of these images, is seemingly impossible to end." USA v. Sotelo, No. 21-12710 (11th Cir. 3/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112710.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: R. 3.850(b)(1) provides an exception to the two-year time limit when the facts on which the claim is predicated were unknown to the movant or the movant's attorney and could not have been ascertained by the exercise of due diligence, and the claim is made within 2 years of the time the new facts were or could have been discovered. Seago v. State, 2D2024-1475 (3/7/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448505/opinion/Opinion_2024-1475.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: For newly discovered evidence, the defendant must demonstrate a reasonable probability that, but for the newly discovered evidence, the defendant would not have pleaded guilty and would have insisted on going to trial. Seago v. State, 2D2024-1475 (3/7/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448505/opinion/Opinion_2024-1475.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Where affiant claims that he, and not the Defendant, committed the crime, and where Defendant asserts that the affiant's confession would have been the deciding factor for him to again risk life sentences at retrial, he is entitled to a hearing on his newly discovered evidence claim. Seago v. State, 2D2024-1475 (3/7/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448505/opinion/Opinion_2024-1475.pdf

DISORDERLY CONDUCT (J. EMAS, DISSENTING): An irate person who does not use “fighting words,” or words which by their very utterance inflict injury or tend to incite an immediate breach of the peace does not commit disorderly conduct. Speech alone will not generally support a conviction for disorderly conduct. A crowd gathering to watch a defendant’s behavior, without more, is insufficient to support a conviction of disorderly conduct. Thomas v. State, 3D25-0345 (3/7/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448538/opinion/Opinion_2025-0345.pdf

BOND REVOCATION (J. EMAS, DISSENTING): A court may, on its own motion, revoke pretrial release and order pretrial detention if the court finds probable cause to believe that the defendant committed a new crime while on pretrial release. Thomas v. State, 3D25-0345 (3/7/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448538/opinion/Opinion_2025-0345.pdf

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE (J. EMAS, DISSENTING): Although the law in Florida previously permitted citizens forcibly to resist unlawful arrests, §776.051 (2025) now provides that a person is not justified in the use or threatened use of force to resist an arrest by a law enforcement officer, or to resist a law enforcement officer who is engaged in the execution of a legal duty, if the law enforcement officer was acting in good faith and he or she is known, or reasonably appears, to be a law enforcement officer. Thomas v. State, 3D25-0345 (3/7/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448538/opinion/Opinion_2025-0345.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER-JURY DETERMINATION: Defendant's PRR sentence is not unconstitutional because the trial judge- not a jury-decided whether he met the statutory requirements of a prison releasee reoffender. "While we do not reach the merits of his arguments as to Erlinger's impact, if any, upon existing Florida Statutes and caselaw, even if, arguendo, any error occurred here, such an error would be harmless. The Florida Supreme Court has accepted jurisdiction in Maye v. State, SC2023–1184, which presents substantially similar issue(s) resulting from Erlinger. Ashford v. State, 5D2024-0070 (3/7/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448520/opinion/Opinion_2024-0070.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: $100 cost of prosecution is mandatory, which means it must be imposed; thus, there is no need for the State to request it. Conflicting decisions on this point exist. Gibson v. State, 5D2024-2157 (3/7/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448525/opinion/Opinion_2024-2157.pdf

CROSS-EXAMINATION-BIAS: Defendant accused of robbery is entitled to cross-examine the Victim and present evidence that she had reported to the police that Victim had possessed child pornography in order to establish Victim's motivation for accusing her of robbery. "The trial court's conclusion that this testimony would have been more prejudicial than probative simply cannot be squared with Defendant's rights under the Sixth Amendment." Middlebrook v. State, 6D2023-2303 (3/7/25) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448532/opinion/Opinion_2023-2303.pdf

CROSS-EXAMINATION-BIAS Exposure of a witness' motivation in testifying is a proper and important function of the constitutionally protected right of cross-examination. It is not just the fact of bias itself or the general idea of bias that is relevant and a proper subject of cross-examination. Rather, a criminal defendant is entitled to cross-examine a State witness regarding the specific facts which might cause the witness to be biased against the defendant. This includes matters that are not otherwise related to the crime charged and that were not the subject of the State's direct examination of the witness. Middlebrook v. State, 6D2023-2303 (3/7/25) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448532/opinion/Opinion_2023-2303.pdf

GRAMMAR-SINGULAR POSSESSIVE: "A number of the judicial opinions quoted in this opinion use 'witness' as the singular possessive form of 'witness'. This opinion uses 'witness's' as the singular possessive form of 'witness'." Middlebrook v. State, 6D2023-2303 (3/7/25) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448532/opinion/Opinion_2023-2303.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-APPEALS: Rule added to allow civil defendants to appeal nonfinal orders that deny claims of Stand Your Ground immunity but proposed rule to allow interlocutory appeals of denial of criminal SYG motions. "[T]here are very few circumstances where interlocutory appeals are authorized in criminal proceedings...[T]he proposed amendments to rule 9.140 would create a first-of-its-kind rule for criminal defendants—a rule that would, at the very least, create internal tension with other procedures in the ruleset." Defendant's remedy is Writ of Prohibition. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Appellate Procedure, No. SC2024-0317 (3/6/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448454/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0317.pdf

MURDER-PREMEDITATION: Defendant's anger combined with an incriminating text showing that he harbored an intent to kill the victim is legally sufficient to show a premeditated intent to kill. Victim's body position undercuts Defendant's claim of self-defense. McInnis v. State, 1D2023-2714 (3/5/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448331/opinion/Opinion_2023-2714.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: If, at any point during custodial interrogation, a suspect asks a clear question concerning his or her rights, the officer must stop the interview and make a good-faith effort to give a simple and straightforward answer. To give an evasive answer, or to skip over the question, or to override or "steamroll" the suspect—is coercion. Any statement obtained in violation of this proscription violates the Florida Constitution. Smith v. State, 3D22-1611 (3/5/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448348/opinion/Opinion_2022-1611.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: "I can contact my lawyer," although said with "a slight inflection in his voice at the end of the utterance," appears to be a restatement or verification of the right, not a request for a lawyer. Even if were, detective's response–"Whenever you want."--is the simple truth. It reiterated that Defendant could call his lawyer at any time. Smith v. State, 3D22-1611 (3/5/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448348/opinion/Opinion_2022-1611.pdf

PSI: Court is not required to order a PSI upon a violation of probation where the original sentence was imposed pursuant to a negotiated plea in which he agreed to be sentenced as an HVFO without a PSI. Williams v. State, 3D23-1191 (3/5/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448350/opinion/Opinion_2023-1191.pdf

VOP: In a probation revocation hearing, due process requires a written statement by the factfinder as to the evidence relied on and the reasons for revoking probation." Williams v. State, 3D23-1191 (3/5/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448350/opinion/Opinion_2023-1191.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR-GOOD FAITH: Although the line of authority that the plain smell of burnt marijuana standing alone is sufficient to establish probable cause to search a vehicle is being questioned, officer was entitled to rely in good faith upon the law as it existed at the time of the search. Wright-Johnson v. State, 3D23-1452 (3/5/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448353/opinion/Opinion_2023-1452.pdf

PROBABLE CAUSE: Probable cause requires only a probability or substantial chance of criminal activity, not an actual showing of such activity; it is not a high bar. It merely requires that the facts available to the officer would warrant a man of reasonable caution in the belief that evidence of a crime may be found. It does not demand any showing that such a belief be more likely true than false. It is less than a preponderance of the evidence. Wright-Johnson v. State, 3D23-1452 (3/5/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448353/opinion/Opinion_2023-1452.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED-DEADLY WEAPON: Where information charged attempted murder "by stabbing" but did not allege the use of a deadly weapon, but the jury was instructed on the lesser included of aggravated battery with a deadly weapon, Defendant's conviction of the lesser cannot stand. In order for the trial court to instruct the jury on a category two permissive lesser-included offense, the indictment or information must allege all the statutory elements of the subject lesser offense. Remanded for entry of a conviction for simple battery. Verela v. State, 3D24-0402 (3/5/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448355/opinion/Opinion_2024-0402.pdf

DEADLY WEAPON: Only a firearm has been held to be a deadly weapon as a matter of law. While a knife is a weapon, it is not necessarily a deadly weapon. Elements of an offense cannot be established by mere inference. Verela v. State, 3D24-0402 (3/5/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448355/opinion/Opinion_2024-0402.pdf

DISMISSAL: Court erred in sua sponte dismissing case prior to the start of the trial where the State informed the trial court it was ready for trial and that its witnesses would be present when needed to testify, although they were not physically present in the courtroom at the moment. State v. Alahmari, 3D24-0435 (3/5/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448362/opinion/Opinion_2024-0435.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Defendant is entitled to credit for time served for the 416 days he spent in custody before bonding out and before being rearrested. Cuff v. State, 3D24-1304 (3/5/25)

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Although at the time (1978) Double Jeopardy precluded dual convictions for first-degree murder and the underlying attempted robbery–the law changed in 1983–where an independent basis exists to uphold the conviction and sentence, they stand. Defendant is not entitled to relief where the murder conviction could be sustained either upon the theory of premeditated design or on the theory of felony murder. Randolph v. State, 4D2024-1529 (3/5/25)

FEBRUARY 2025

PUBLIC DEFENDER APPLICATION FEE: The public defender application fee is $50, not $100. Fucci v. State, 5D2023-1420 (2/28/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448082/opinion/Opinion_2023-1420.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Where the record reflects that confusion existed as to whether Defendant's sentences would be concurrent (and thereby within the ten-year cap) or consecutive (and thereby beyond the cap), she is entitled to withdraw her plea. Black v. State, 5D2023-3147 (2/28/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448083/opinion/Opinion_2023-3147.pdf

COMPETENCY: A criminal prosecution may not move forward at any material stage of a criminal proceeding against a defendant who is incompetent to proceed. Once a defendant's competency is called into question, a trial court must make an independent, legal determination that a defendant is competent to proceed. The right to an independent competency determination is unwaivable. Carnley v. State, 5D2024-0147 (2/28/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448088/opinion/Opinion_2024-0147.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: Imposition of a $100 cost of prosecution does not require a request from the State. Carnley v. State, 5D2024-0147 (2/28/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448088/opinion/Opinion_2024-0147.pdf

VOP: For a violation of probation, the judgment and sentence must identify the conditions violated. Canada v. State, 5D2024-0689 (2/28/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2448086/opinion/Opinion_2024-0689.pdf

SUPERVISED RELEASE: A defendant, who asked for longer supervision and shorter incarceration, may not waive a statutory maximum term of supervised release (here, five years) over the government's objection. A statutory maximum is one of the fundamental and immutable legal landmarks within which the district court must operate. This limit on judicial authority is absolute. USA v. Charles, No. 23-11700 (11th Cir. 2/28/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311700.pdf

INVITED ERROR: The invited error doctrine stems from the commonsense view that where a party invites the trial court to commit error, he cannot later cry foul on appeal. USA v. Charles, No. 23-11700 (11th Cir. 2/28/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311700.pdf

SELF-REPRESENTATION: The Sixth Amendment includes a right to self representation. An indigent criminal defendant is not a ward of the State. A proper Faretta inquiry must balance the right to court-appointed counsel with the right to self-representation. Ash v. State, 1D2022–1163 (2/26/25) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447864/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

SELF-REPRESENTATION: Defendant's technical legal knowledge is not relevant to an assessment of his knowing exercise of the right to defend himself. To the extent that R. 3.111 requires a thorough inquiry into both the accused's comprehension of the offer of counsel and his capacity to make a knowing and intelligent waiver, a simple colloquy is sufficient. Ash v. State, 1D2022–1163 (2/26/25) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447864/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

SELF-REPRESENTATION: Where Defendant endured at least fourteen Faretta inquiries, thirteen of those were unnecessary. There is no concomitant requirement to revisit Faretta every time the offer of counsel is subsequently renewed and rejected. "Under the unique facts of this case, we find that the third Faretta inquiry conducted on March 22, 2022[7], is the straw that broke the camel's back." Ash v. State, 1D2022–1163 (2/26/25) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447864/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

SELF-REPRESENTATION: Numerous Faretta inquiries, repeated irrelevant and improper questions regarding his technical competence to represent himself, and suggestions that he lacked competence to represent himself constitute undue pressure on Defendant to elect court-appointed counsel. Courts must respect a litigant's demand for self-determination and must not depict self-representation in such unremittingly scary terms that any reasonable person would refuse. Ash v. State, 1D2022–1163 (2/26/25) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447864/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

[7]The thirteenth day of Faretta inquiries.

SELF REPRESENTATION (J. LONG, DISSENTING): "[T]he majority has discovered a new constitutional principle hidden in the text of the 233-year-old Sixth Amendment. It then imposes this new principle without any discussion of the constitutional text, its original meaning, or its application in history and tradition." Ash v. State, 1D2022–1163 (2/26/25) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447864/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

SELF REPRESENTATION (J. LONG, DISSENTING): "Today's decision extends Faretta to create a new amorphous legal principle that a court can 'coerce' a defendant into waiving his right to self-representation, even while allowing him to self-represent. We have never said that, and that is not what Faretta says. The majority provides no guidance for where this new coercion principle will start and stop." Ash v. State, 1D2022–1163 (2/26/25) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447864/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

SELF REPRESENTATION (J. LONG, DISSENTING): "Today's decision effectively extends the Faretta doctrine into uncharted territory—not only must a court permit self representation, the court also must not discourage it. But the trial court cannot do both." Ash v. State, 1D2022–1163 (2/26/25) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447864/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

SELF REPRESENTATION (J. LONG, DISSENTING): "Today, we muddy the water further with more textless ambiguity. In the majority's zeal to push back on one overreach, it goes too far and, I fear, makes a new and even messier mistake." Ash v. State, 1D2022–1163 (2/26/25) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447864/opinion/Opinion_2022-1163.pdf

CONTEMPT: Determining whether the contempt proceedings are civil, or criminal is critical. Criminal contempt sanctions require that a contemnor be afforded the same constitutional due process protections afforded to criminal defendants. Contempt orders that do not contain a purge provision must be characterized as criminal contempt. Portee-Jones v. Portee, 1D2023-0049 (2/26/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447867/opinion/Opinion_2023-0049.pdf

CONTEMPT-CRIMINAL: For criminal contempt, defendant must be afforded notice, arraignment, opportunity to be heard, the judgment, and oral pronouncement of sentence. Arraignment, notice, opportunities to be heard in defense and mitigation. Merely announcing a hearing time and place with a motion attached is insufficient. Portee-Jones v. Portee, 1D2023-0049 (2/26/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447867/opinion/Opinion_2023-0049.pdf

RESTITUTION: Restitution may not be established by a department store asset protection employee's testimony about an internal case report that the store generated, unsupported by evidence as to how the report was prepared, who prepared it, or why it was reliable. Tanksley v. State, 1D2023-1156 (2/26/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447874/opinion/Opinion_2023-1156.pdf

RESTITUTION: Restitution must be determined on a fair market value basis unless the state, victim, or defendant shows that using another basis, including, but not limited to, replacement cost, purchase price less depreciation, or actual cost of repair, is equitable and better furthers the purposes of restitution. Tanksley v. State, 1D2023-1156 (2/26/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447874/opinion/Opinion_2023-1156.pdf

VOP-PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: State may not seek a PRR sentence upon revocation of probation after it declined to seek a PRR sentence at the original sentencing. The availability of a PRR sentence expired once the trial court proceeded to sentence him under the general sentencing statute providing for scoresheet calculations and lowest-permissible sentences. Court has discretion to sentence Defendant to life in prison but is not required to do so. Hill v. State, 1D2023-2147 (2/26/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447879/opinion/Opinion_2023-2147.pdf

VOP-PRISON RELEASEE RE OFFENDER (J. TANENBAUM): "[I]mposition of a PRR sentence, originally or after revocation—without a jury determination of the qualifying facts beyond a reasonable doubt—might also now be constitutionally dubious." Hill v. State, 1D2023-2147 (2/26/25) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447879/opinion/Opinion_2023-2147.pdf

VOP: The proper standard for finding a new law violation is whether a preponderance of the evidence establishes that the probationer committed the charged offense or offenses. Torres v. State, 3D23-1474 (2/26/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447891/opinion/Opinion_2023-1474.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: R. 3.800(a) is not the proper means to challenge a court's failure to order a presentence investigation. R. 3.800(a) is intended to provide relief for a narrow category of cases in which the sentence imposes a penalty that is simply not authorized by law. It is not a vehicle designed to re-examine whether the procedure employed to impose the punishment comported with statutory law and due process. Bois v. State, 3D24-1592 (2/26/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447900/opinion/Opinion_2024-1592.pdf

PSI: Where Defendant waived his right to a PSI in the original negotiated plea resulting in probation, is not entitled to a PSI upon sentencing for violation of probation. Failure to obtain an on-the-record personal waiver of the right to a PSI is not required. Hatcher v. State, 3D23-1252 (2/26/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447921/opinion/Opinion_2023-1252.pdf

MODIFICATION OF SENTENCE: Court lacks jurisdiction to convert an adjudication of guilt into a withhold of adjudication after probation has expired. When a defendant has been placed on probation, the sentencing court loses jurisdiction over the defendant once the probationary period expires unless proceedings to modify or revoke probation have been instituted in the interim. Piedrahita v. State, 3D24-0043 (2/26/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447926/opinion/Opinion_2024-0043.pdf

PROBABLE CAUSE: Statements of unnamed witnesses and other circumstantial evidence can provide police with probable cause to arrest for DUI. Earlier precedent distinguished. State v. Contreras Saravia, 4D2024-071 (4/26/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447929/opinion/Opinion_2024-0371.pdf

ACCIDENT REPORT PRIVILEGE: Accident report privilege provides that each crash report made by a person involved in a crash and any statement made by such person to a law enforcement officer for the purpose of completing a required crash report may not be used as evidence, but witness statements are not thereby excludable. State v. Contreras Saravia, 4D2024-071 (4/26/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447929/opinion/Opinion_2024-0371.pdf

DNA-BAYES' THEOREM: Bayes' Theorem is a mathematical formula commonly used in paternity testing that assumes a 50% prior probability of paternity. The use of Bayes' Theorem does not violate the presumption of innocence. The probability of paternity is merely a way of expressing and interpreting the actual DNA test results and does nothing to shift the burden of going ahead to the defendant. Thomas v. State, 2D2024-0718 (2/26/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447935/opinion/Opinion_2024-0718.pdf

PRESUMPTION OF INNOCENCE: The presumption of innocence does not require a jury to assume it was impossible for a defendant to commit the crime charged. Rather, it requires the jury to assume as a starting proposition that the defendant did not commit the crime, until proven otherwise. Thomas v. State, 2D2024-0718 (2/26/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447935/opinion/Opinion_2024-0718.pdf

ATTEMPTED SECOND-DEGREE MURDER: The crime of attempted second-degree murder does exist in Florida. Leffler v. State, 4D2024-1336 (2/26/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447939/opinion/Opinion_2024-

1336.pdf

DUE PROCESS-FALSE TESTIMONY: Prosecutors have a constitutional obligation to correct false testimony. Where State knowingly allowed bipolar witness to falsely testify that he had never seen a psychiatrist ("I asked for some Sudafed...., but...they ended up giving me Lithium for some reason, I don't know why. I never seen no psychiatrist.") entitles Defendant to a new trial. Glossip v. Oklahoma, No. 22–7466 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/25/25) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/22-7466new_6479.pdf

DUE PROCESS-FALSE TESTIMONY: A conviction knowingly obtained through use of false evidence violates the Fourteenth Amendment's Due Process Clause. To establish a Napue violation, a defendant must show that the prosecution knowingly solicited false testimony or knowingly allowed it to go uncorrected when it appeared if it in any reasonable likelihood could have affected the judgment of the jury. Glossip v. Oklahoma, No. 22–7466 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/25/25) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/22-7466new_6479.pdf

DUE PROCESS-FALSE TESTIMONY-MATERIALITY: Evidence can be material even if it goes only to the credibility of the witness. The Due Process Clause imposes the responsibility and duty to correct false testimony on representatives of the State. Glossip v. Oklahoma, No. 22–7466 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/25/25) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/22-7466new_6479.pdf

FALSE TESTIMONY: "A lie is a lie." Glossip v. Oklahoma, No. 22–7466 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/25/25) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/22-7466new_6479.pdf

FALSE TESTIMONY-YEAH, RIGHT: After witness denied at trial seeing a psychiatrist--the jail psychiatrist who had prescribed him lithium was named Trompka--and the prosecutor was asked about her later discovered notes ("on Lithium?" and "Dr. Trumpet?"), she asked why the investigator thought the note referred to Dr. Trombka and not Dr. Trumpet, the jazz musician. Glossip v. Oklahoma, No. 22–7466 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/25/25) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/22-7466new_6479.pdf

HUH?!-MISREMEMBERED?! (J. THOMAS, DISSENTING): "[I]rrespective of whether Sneed lied, prosecutorial correction of his testimony would not have led the jury to infer that he had consciously committed perjury. The far more plausible inference would have been that Sneed simply misremembered." Glossip v. Oklahoma, No. 22–7466 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/25/25) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/22-7466new_6479.pdf

CONSPIRACY-FRAUD: A single conspiracy may be found where there is a 'key man' who directs the illegal activities, while various combinations of other people exert individual efforts towards the common goal. USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

FRAUD: Misrepresenting essential qualities of company marketing penny stocks--including its assets, cash flow, and what would be done with the proceeds of the share purchases–constitutes a misrepresentation of the essential characteristics of the stock and thus constitutes fraud. USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS: The statute of limitations is an affirmative defense, which a defendant must assert at trial. Raising a statute of limitations issue for the first time after the close of evidence during closing argument is insufficient to raise it as an affirmative defense because the prosecution is entitled to an opportunity to introduce evidence showing that the defendant fell within the statute. Failure to raise the defense before the close of evidence waives it. USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS-CONSPIRACY: Where the conspiracy extended into the time period of allowable prosecution under the statute of limitations, Defendant may be prosecuted for his participation from before then and less he had affirmatively withdrawn from the conspiracy before it ended. Passively ceasing to participate in a conspiracy does not amount to withdrawal. A conspirator's participation in a criminal conspiracy is presumed to continue until all the objects of the conspiracy have been accomplished or until the last overt act is committed by any of the conspirators. A mere cessation of activity in the conspiracy is not sufficient to establish withdrawal. USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

FIFTH AMENDMENT: FBI Agent's statement, "I attempted at that point [to] establish an in-person interview and we at tempted to coordinate to do so," taken in context, does not violate the Fifth Amendment. It was made in a pre-arrest context and does not say that Defendant refused to answer any more questions. USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

EXPERT: A witness testifying based on particularized knowledge gained from personal experiences or professional background, or presenting hard facts does not generally rise to the level of expert opinion. Witness who testifies that the defendant had passed his examinations to be a licensed stockbroker and the definitions of securities, private placements, penny stocks, and the disclosure and ethical obligations of securities brokers did not testify as an expert where he offers no opinions on facts or issues at trial. USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-LEADER: Defendant need not have been at the very top of the food chain in a conspiracy for the four-level leader or organizer enhancement to apply. Factors include (1) the exercise of decision making authority, (2) the nature of participation in the commission of the offense, (3) the recruitment of accomplices, (4) the claimed right to a larger share of the fruits of the crime, (5) the degree of participation in planning or organizing the offense, (6) the nature and scope of the illegal activity, and (7) the degree of control and authority exercised over others. USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES-LOSS: As of November 1, 2024, the guidelines specifically define "loss" as "the greater of actual loss or intended loss." But even before then, "loss" included "intended loss." USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION: Although Defendant's objection to the loss assessment did not include a Dupree argument, and at the time of the offense the guidelines commentary, but not the text itself, did not define "loss" as "intended loss," the issue is preserved. Alternative arguments on an issue to discover nuances or hidden meanings are not necessarily waived. Issue is preserved, but Defendant still loses. USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

LOSS: The definition of loss to includes "intended loss." Although the phrase appeared in the Applications notes but not the text itself, there is no ambiguity. "In other words, we see no need to turn to the Application Notes in the Commentary to the Guidelines to know that a court should apply the greater of actual loss or intended loss." USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES-AMENDMENT: When an amendment takes effect during the pendency of a direct appeal, it applies if it is a "clarifying" amendment rather than a "substantive" amendment. To determine whether an amendment to the Guidelines is substantive or clarifying, considering the following factors: 1) whether the amendment alters the text of the Guideline or only the commentary, 2) whether the Commission has described an amendment as clarifying or substantive, 3) whether the Commission has included the amendment in the list of retroactive amendments and 4) whether it overturns circuit precedent. USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

LOSS: Where a defendant was actively involved in contacting and recruiting clients and investors into a fraudulent scheme, he is accountable for the entire loss, even if he did not necessarily design the scheme himself. USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: An appellant abandons a claim when he either makes only passing references to it or raises it in a perfunctory manner without supporting arguments and authority. USA v. Horn, No. 22-13327 (11th Cir. 2/24/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213327.pdf

PUBLIC DEFENDER APPLICATION FEE: The public defender application fee is $50, not $100. Mneimne v. State, 5D2023-2376 (2/21/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447696/opinion/Opinion_2023-2376.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: Imposition of a $100 prosecution cost does not require a request on the record from the State. Polanco v. State, 5D2023-3061 (2/21/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447697/opinion/Opinion_2023-3061.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INVENTORY SEARCH-PRESERVED ISSUE: Where Defendant argued at the suppression hearing only that the inventory search was a pretext to search for drugs, he may not argue on appeal that the search deviated from agency policy. Holifield v. State, 5D2023-3551 (2/21/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447698/opinion/Opinion_2023-3551.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INVENTORY SEARCH-PRESERVED ISSUE: An inventory search must be free of any taint of a desire to search for illegal items. It cannot be used as a pretext to look for incriminating evidence. Holifield v. State, 5D2023-3551 (2/21/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447698/opinion/Opinion_2023-3551.pdf

VOTING-STATEWIDE PROSECUTOR: The Office of Prosecution (OSP) lacks jurisdiction to prosecute a person for unlawful voting where he voted in the county in which he resides. The fact that his vote is transmitted across county lines to Tallahassee does not matter[8]. Conflict certified. State v. Washington, 6D23-2104 (2/21/25)

[8]The law has since been amended to increase OSP jurisdiction over voting cases.

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447718/opinion/Opinion_2023-2104.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-3.802: Rules for sentence review for juvenile offenders amended. Provisions and time limits added for rehearing. "Upon" becomes "on," "shall" becomes "must," and "pursuant to" becomes "under." In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.802, SC2024-1171 (2/20/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447679/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1171.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-JUVENILE PROCEDURE-FORMS: Because two years ago the phrase "personally appear" in juvenile Notices to Appear was changed to merely "appear," the approved Creole word for "personally" is excised from the Creole translation of the form[9]. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Juvenile Procedure, SC2024-1717 (2/20/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447680/opinion/Opinin_SC2024-1717.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy precludes convictions for both burglary of a dwelling while armed with a firearm and burglary of a dwelling with assault or based on a single uninvited entry. McDonald v. State, 1D2022-1005 (2/19/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447547/opinion/Opinion_2022-1005.pdf

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: Where Defendant failed to object that State had impermissibly bolstered witnesses, badgered a defense witness, and made improper statements during closing arguments, issues are not preserved and are not fundamental error. Cooper v. State, 1D2022-2439 (2/19/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447549/opinion/Opinion_2022-2439.pdf

RESTITUTION: An award of $60,613 in restitution for misdemeanor contracting without a license is lawful. A county court may order restitution in

---

[9]I don't know what the Creole word was. And I'll probably never know now. It's gone. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3Cos7id7HtE

a misdemeanor case in an amount that exceeds the matter in controversy limits under §34.01(1)(c). The monetary limits of §34.01(1)(a) simply do not apply. Knowles v. State, 2D2024-1253 (2/19/25) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447557/opinion/Opinion_2024-1253.pdf

HARMLESS ERROR: Applying the harmless error test requires an examination of the entire record by the appellate court, including a close examination of the permissible evidence on which the jury could have legitimately relied, and an even closer examination of the impermissible evidence which might have possibly influenced the jury verdict. A reviewing court applying the harmless error test can consider the overwhelming nature of the State's evidence. Alfaro v. State, 3D23-16 (2/19/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447627/opinion/Opinion_2023-0016.pdf

CONTINUANCE: Defendant is not entitled to continuance where request for new private counsel was made on the heels of denial of request for continuance made only for purpose of delaying trial. There is no palpable abuse of judicial discretion shown where defense had three prior continuances and court was not alerted that defendant wished to substitute his counsel until morning of trial. Thomas v. State, 3D23-295 (2/19/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447625/opinion/Opinion_2023-0295.pdf

VOP: For a trial court to revoke probation based on a violation of a condition of probation, the State must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the defendant willfully and substantially violated that condition. Clark v. State, 3D23-1964 (2/19/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447624/opinion/Opinion_2023-1964.pdf

UNANIMOUS VERDICT: Unanimity is not required on a specific act supporting conviction where an offense may be committed by alternative acts. Castro v. State, 3D23-2110 (2/19/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447629/opinion/Opinion_2023-2110.pdf

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE: Defendant's resistance to two officers attempting to arrest him is a single instance of obstruction. Castro v. State, 3D23-2110 (2/19/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447629/opinion/Opinion_2023-2110.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Although res judicata does not prevent defendant from filing successive 3.800 motions raising new issues, collateral estoppel prevents defendant from relitigating issues previously presented and decided. Thomas v. State, 3D24-0673 (2/19/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447628/opinion/Opinion_2024-0674.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: If a motion for postconviction relief is insufficient on its face, and the motion is timely filed, the court shall enter a nonfinal, nonappealable order allowing the defendant 60 days to amend the motion. If the amended motion is still insufficient, the court may permit the defendant an additional opportunity to amend the motion or may enter a final, appealable order summarily denying the motion with prejudice, attaching that portion of the files and records in the case that conclusively shows that the defendant is not entitled to relief. Abdallah v. State, 3D24-0911 (2/19/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447614/opinion/Opinion_2024-0911.pdf

ARGUMENT: The control of comments during closing argument is within the trial court's discretion and an appellate court will not interfere unless an abuse of discretion is shown. Austin v. State, 4D2023-1424 (2/19/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447574/opinion/Opinion_2023-1424.pdf

BURGLARY: Defendant who rented out a room (an enclosed screen porch) in her house to the victim, is properly convicted of burglary for entering the room to take the victim's marijuana because she "felt like getting stoned." Sublett v. State, 4D2024-1925 (2/19/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447591/opinion/Opinion_2024-1925.pdf

MDLEA (MARITIME DRUG LAW ENFORCEMENT ACT): MDLEA does not violate principles of due process because it allows the United States to assert jurisdiction over foreign nationals for conduct that bears no nexus with the United States. USA v. Canario-Vilamar, No. 22-12077 (11th Cir. 2/18/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212077.pdf

MDLEA: The Felonies Clause of the Constitution grants Congress constitutional authority to "define and punish . . . Felonies committed on the high Seas." The inclusion of a nation's Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ) within the "high seas" plays no role in limiting the reach of the US Government under the Felonies Clause. USA v. Canario-Vilamar, No. 22-12077 (11th Cir. 2/18/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212077.pdf

MDLEA-EEZ: The Exclusive Economic Zone, which lies beyond a nation's territorial waters but within 200 miles of the coastal baseline, is a term of relatively modern vintage. The EEZ is part of the "high seas" for purposes of the Felonies Clause in Article I of the Constitution. USA v. Canario-Vilamar, No. 22-12077 (11th Cir. 2/18/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212077.pdf

MDLEA-STANDING: A person charged with a violation of the MDLEA does not have standing to raise a claim of failure to comply with international law as a basis for a defense. Such a claim may be made only by a foreign nation. Any battle over the United States's compliance with international law in obtaining MDLEA jurisdiction should be resolved nation-to-nation in the international arena, not between criminal defendants and the United States. USA v. Canario-Vilamar, No. 22-12077 (11th Cir. 2/18/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212077.pdf

FELONIES CLAUSE: The Define and Punish Clause of Article I empowers Congress to define and punish Piracies and Felonies committed on the high Seas, and to extend jurisdiction of this country to any stateless vessel in international waters engaged in the distribution of controlled substances. The Felonies Clause is not limited by customary international law. While the Offenses Clause explicitly incorporates "the Law of Nations" as a boundary on Congress's authority, the Felonies Clause includes no such limiting language. USA v. Canario-Vilamar, No. 22-12077 (11th Cir. 2/18/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212077.pdf

MDLEA-VESSEL WITHOUT NATIONALITY: A vessel without nationality is subject to the jurisdiction of the United States. A vessel without nationality includes a vessel aboard which the individual in charge makes a claim of registry and for which the claimed nation of registry does not affirmatively confirm. USA v. Canario-Vilamar, No. 22-12077 (11th Cir. 2/18/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212077.pdf

PRIOR PANEL PRECEDENT RULE: A prior panel precedent cannot be circumvented or ignored on the basis of arguments not made to or considered by the prior panel. An overlooked reason or argument exception to the prior-panel precedent rule does not exist. USA v. Canario-Vilamar, No. 22-12077 (11th Cir. 2/18/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212077.pdf

VOP: Probation cannot be revoked based on Defendant stealing a car before he was placed on probation, notwithstanding that he continued to drive the stolen car after probation began. If an affidavit alleges that a violation occurred on a particular date, the probationer may not be found to have violated probation unless shown to have committed the violation on that date. Garcia v. State, 2D2024-0208 (2/14/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447351/opinion/Opinion_2024-0208.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-POLE CAMERAS: Use of pole cameras to continuously record front and back yard areas visible to the public does not violate the Fourth Amendment. Security cameras are not searches just because they record large amounts of data. The Constitution does not prevent the government from using technology to conduct lawful investigations more efficiently. USA v. Williamson, No. 2022-12800 (11th Cir. 2/13/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212800.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-STALENESS: A warrant seeking nonperishable items typically held for long periods of time (stored money, personalized expensive jewelry) is not stale or is subject to the good faith exception. USA v. Williamson, No. 2022-12800 (11th Cir. 2/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212800.pdf

CONSPIRACY: To sustain a conspiracy conviction, the government must prove that (1) an illegal agreement existed to possess with the intent to distribute a controlled substance; (2) each defendant knew of the agreement; and (3) each defendant knowingly and voluntarily joined the agreement, but does not have to prove that each defendant knew every detail or participated in every stage of the conspiracy—only that they knew its essential nature. Evidence of a conspiracy, as opposed to a buyer-seller relationship, may include transactions involving large quantities of drugs and prolonged cooperation between the parties). USA v. Williamson, No. 2022-12800 (11th Cir. 2/13/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212800.pdf

FIREARM-DRUG TRAFFICKING: Defendant may be convicted for possession of a firearm in relation to drug trafficking where he had two firearms, marijuana, $14,000 in cash, and additional magazines when arrested. USA v. Williamson, No. 2022-12800 (11th Cir. 2/13/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212800.pdf

FIREARM-DRUG TRAFFICKING: Defendant may be convicted for possession of a firearm in relation to drug trafficking offense where he had in his apartment several firearms, a substantial amount of marijuana, 135 grams of fentanyl and heroin mixed, $95,000 in cash, and 1,400 rounds of ammunition. USA v. Williamson, No. 2022-12800 (11th Cir. 2/13/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212800.pdf

ENGAGING IN A CONTINUING CRIMINAL ENTERPRISE: To sustain a conviction for Engaging in a Continuing Criminal Enterprise, Government must prove (1) a felony violation of the federal narcotics laws (2) as part of a continuing series of violations (3) in concert with five or more persons (4) for whom Defendant was an organizer or supervisor (5) from which he derives substantial income or resources. A jury need not unanimously agree as to the identities of the five co-conspirators, only that there were five of them. "While the jury must reach a consensus on the fact that there were five or more underlings...there is no logical reason why there must be unanimity on the identities of these underlings." USA v. Williamson, No. 2022-12800 (11th Cir. 2/13/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212800.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-CONTINUING CRIMINAL ENTERPRISE: Conspiracy is a lesser included offense of Continuing Criminal Enterprise. One cannot be convicted of both. USA v. Williamson, No. 2022-12800 (11th Cir. 2/13/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212800.pdf

EVIDENCE-EXPERT TESTIMONY: Error, if any, in permitting agent to testify that "a cup of ice" meant "one ounce or one half ounce quantities of methamphetamine," was harmless. USA v. Williamson, No. 2022-12800 (11th Cir. 2/13/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212800.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-CONTINUING CRIMINAL ENTERPRISE: Jury need not be instructed that a mere buyer-seller relationship will not satisfy the requirements of the continuing criminal enterprise charge. Being "an organizer, supervisor, or manager" excludes—by its plain text—a mere buyer-seller relationship. The district court did not abuse its discretion in concluding that the pattern jury instruction encompassed this issue. USA v. Williamson, No. 2022-12800 (11th Cir. 2/13/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212800.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-POLE CAMERA (J. JORDAN, CONCURRING): A pole camera placed on the corner of a public commercial intersection in a large city may not trigger Fourth Amendment protections. But the Fourth Amendment might be implicated if such a camera records what goes on around a home for a long period of time. "I would urge caution before assuming that the Fourth Amendment's public view doctrine...constitutionally immunizes pole cameras regardless of the length of time they record nearby human activities...We simply do not know, and cannot accurately predict, how the Supreme Court will deal with the use of long-term pole cameras (or other similar means of video surveillance) and their impact on privacy, particularly in light of the current debate about the so-called 'mosaic' theory of the Fourth Amendment...Maybe the Supreme Court will conclude...that current Fourth Amendment doctrine is simply not equipped to deal with the challenges of long-term surveillance in the digital age and will announce a new paradigm...Time will tell." USA v. Williamson, No. 2022-12800 (11th Cir.

2/13/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212800.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-JUVENILE PROCEDURE: Rules amended on procedure for filing a motion to release a juvenile for whom probable cause was found for certain enumerated, for notice on motion to extend detention, and enhanced commitment programs. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Juvenile Procedure – 2024 Legislation, SC2025-0016 (2/13/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447322/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0016.pdf

ATTEMPTED SECOND-DEGREE MURDER: Where the self-described "baddest motherfucker...in Dixie County" shoots at his girlfriend in their small trailer because she got "slick at the mouth," and "that slick mouth pissed [him] off" is sufficient evidence of ill will, spite, hatred, or evil intent to support a conviction for second-degree murder. Mooney v. State, 1D2022-4160 (2/12/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447215/opinion/Opinion_2022-4160.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED-AGGRAVATED ASSAULT: Where the baddest motherfucker in Dixie County shot his girlfriend through an opaque curtain, and the information does not allege that she had a well-founded fear of violence, nor is there evidence that she knew he was about to shoot her, Defendant is not entitled to a jury instruction on the lesser included offense of aggravated assault. Mooney v. State, 1D2022-4160 (2/12/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447215/opinion/Opinion_2022-4160.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: $100 cost of prosecution is required even though there is no request from the State for it. Mooney v. State, 1D2022-4160 (2/12/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447215/opinion/Opinion_2022-4160.pdf

PRINCIPAL-MURDER: First-degree felony murder and first-degree premeditated murder under a theory of principal in the first-degree both require a shared intent, the former to commit the underlying felony, the latter to kill. Regardless who shot the victim, where Defendant and his accomplice acted in concert to rob drug dealer, he may be convicted of first-degree felony murder. Because they left and returned to finish him off, he may be convicted of first-degree premeditated murder. Clark v. State, 1D2023-1681 (2/12/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447265/opinion/Opinion_2023-1681.pdf

APPEAL-WRIT OF MANDAMUS: An appeal from the denial of a petition for writ of mandamus is civil in nature and therefore not subject to a petition for belated appeal brought under R. 9.141(c) Stenstrom v. Dixon, 1D2024-2773 (2/12/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447281/opinion/Opinion_2024-2773.pdfA

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Where Defendant punched, choked, kicked, and stabbed his girlfriend, separate convictions for aggravated battery with a deadly weapon and felony battery resulting in great bodily harm do not violate double jeopardy principles because he was charged under separate statutes and because the charging document differentiates between his physical attack on the victim and his stabbing her. Joseph v. State, 2D2023-0897 (2/12/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447202/opinion/Opinion_2023-0897.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: A double jeopardy violation is a fundamental error which can be raised for the first time on appeal. Joseph v. State, 2D2023-0897 (2/12/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447202/opinion/Opinion_2023-0897.pdf

HEARSAY-BUSINESS RECORDS: A Walmart Asset Protection Investigator may not testify that based on his review of computer printouts, which were not admitted into evidence, he discovered that Child's registers had been more than $13,000 short. Testimony about a business record's contents may not be introduced when that record has not been admitted into evidence. T.V.U. v State, 2D2023-2804 (2/12/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447209/opinion/Opinion_2023-

2804.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy allows a retrial, rather than dismissal, when a reviewing court determines that a defendant's conviction must be reversed because evidence was erroneously admitted against him, and also determines that without the inadmissible evidence there was insufficient evidence to support a conviction. T.V.U. v State, 2D2023-2804 (2/12/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447209/opinion/Opinion_2023-2804.pdf

HELL HATH NO FURY: When Defendant's boyfriend broke up with her, she stabbed him multiple times, chased him to a neighbor's house, and, still armed with the knife, attempted to kick in a door. Dang! Jaeger v. State, 2D2024-1342 (2/12/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447210/opinion/Opinion_2024-1342.pdf

SUBPOENA-MEDICAL RECORDS: Florida's constitutional right to privacy extends to medical records. To overcome a patient's privacy right in his or her medical records, the State must prove that it has a compelling interest in having the records disclosed. State must (1) identify some theory that reasonably makes the records relevant and (2) produce some evidence that makes it reasonable to expect that the records will produce evidence that supports the theory. Where Defendant had stabbed her boyfriend, State may not subpoena her hospital medical records from that night to look for speculated evidence of injuries to her or statements by her to medical personnel. Jaeger v. State, 2D2024-1342 (2/12/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447210/opinion/Opinion_2024-1342.pdf

SUBPOENA-MEDICAL RECORDS-REASONS: State may not subpoena medical records based on speculation or anticipation of defenses such as self-defense. "Even if we were to accept the dubious proposition that the State has a compelling interest in obtaining medical records to enhance its storyline at trial (i.e., by bolstering the victim's claim that he ended his relationship with Jaeger because she chronically abused alcohol), that rationale still would not justify a subpoena to the paramedics and would at best support only a more narrowly tailored subpoena to the hospital." Jaeger v. State, 2D2024-1342 (2/12/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447210/opinion/Opinion_2024-1342.pdf

PRINCIPAL-MERE PRESENCE-PRESERVED ISSUE: Where robbery victim lost $2300 in lottery winnings and Defendant and three associates were found with a total of $2366 in cash, almost evenly divided between them, and one of them had the Victim's wallet, Defendant's failure to argue for a JOA on the basis of mere presence precludes judicial review. "Failure to properly preserve the 'mere presence' claim is fatal to the argument. Even if we were to reach the merits of Turner's claim, however, his argument would prove unavailing." Turner v. State, 3D22-0706 (2/12/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447237/opinion/Opinion_2022-0706.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL-DIRECT APPEAL: Ineffective assistance of counsel claims may only be raised on direct appeal in the context of a fundamental error argument. Turner v. State, 3D22-0706 (2/12/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447237/opinion/Opinion_2022-0706.pdf

JURY-DELIBERATIONS-VIEWING VIDEO: Allowing the jury during deliberations to view the video in the courtroom with only a bailiff present is fundamental error. Judge must be present. Where defense counsel approved of the procedure, the Defendant may consent, provided his consent was knowing, i.e., that he knew he had a right to have the judge present during the video viewing. Because the question of whether Defendant was aware of his right to have the judge present is ultimately a question of fact and the appellate judges are not factfinders, the factfinding should be resolved in a proceeding under R. 3.850. Salgado-Mantilla v. State, 3D22-2151 (2/12/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447260/opinion/Opinion_2022-2151.pdf

JURY-DELIBERATIONS-VIEWING VIDEO: "Undoubtedly, the judicial best practice would have been for the trial judge to remain in the courtroom during the playing of the interview...The next best judicial practice would have been for the trial judge to expressly inform Salgado-Mantilla of the right to have the judge and the parties present during an in-court replay of the interview, and seek his acknowledgement of understanding such right, and ask him to explicitly waive such right on the record. Salgado-Mantilla v. State, 3D22-2151 (2/12/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447260/opinion/Opinion_2022-2151.pdf

RETURN OF PROPERTY: Although petitioner sought judicial relief for return of seized property outside the four-year statute of limitations, Court erred by sua sponte summarily denying the petition on the basis of statute of limitations. Gaitor v. State, 3D24-0957 (2/12/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447255/opinion/Opinion_2024-0957.pdf

RESTITUTION: Where plea agreement called for restitution capped at $3,278, Defendant cannot challenge an award restitution lower than that amount. Verdejo v. State, 3D24-1523 (2/12/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447257/opinion/Opinion_2024-1523.pdf

RESTITUTION (J. MILLER, DISSENTING): Where Defendant pled to grand theft of an automobile and agreed to restitution capped at $3,270.00, he is not precluded from challenging a request for restitution for myriad of personal items that the victim discovered missing from inside the vehicle. Verdejo v. State, 3D24-1523 (2/12/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447257/opinion/Opinion_2024-1523.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: A motion for correction of jail credit which fails to include all the required allegations of R. 3.801 is legally insufficient. Cooper v. State, 3D24-1524 (2/12/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447256/opinion/Opinion_2024-1524.pdf

VIOLENT CAREER CRIMINAL: The requisite predicate convictions necessary to impose a violent career criminal sentence need not be submitted to a jury, but "we acknowledge that appellant has argued the Court's decision in Erlinger v. United States, 602 U.S. 821 (2024) may be dispositive in the instant case." Bynes v. State, 4D2024-2711 (2/12/25) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447252/opinion/Opinion_2024-2711.pdf

COSTS: $151 costs pursuant to §section 938.10(1) may not be imposed where the victim was not a minor. Talbert v. State, 5D2024-1958 (2/14/25) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447402/opinion/Opinion_2024-1958.pdf

RETURN OF PROPERTY: Trial courts possess the inherent authority to rule on motions seeking the return of property seized by law enforcement in connection with a criminal investigation once the trial court takes jurisdiction over the criminal proceedings arising from the investigation. First, the defendant must file a facially sufficient motion for the return of property, alleging that the property at issue was defendant's personal property, was not the fruit of criminal activity, and was not being held as evidence. Scheurman v. State, 5D2023-2294 (2/11/25) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447199/opinion/Opinion_2023-2294.pdf

RETURN OF PROPERTY: Where defendant admitted violating probation by possessing weapons, but refused to admit that his possession of the muzzleloader violated his probation, he is entitled to have it returned. Scheurman v. State, 5D2023-2294 (2/11/25) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447199/opinion/Opinion_2023-2294.pdf

FIREARM-ANTIQUE FIREARM: The term "firearm" does not include an antique firearm. A black powder muzzleloader rifle qualifies as an "antique firearm" because it employs an "early type of ignition system" similar to a "matchlock, flintlock, [or] percussion cap." Scheurman v. State, 5D2023-2294 (2/11/25) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447199/opinion/Opinion_2023-2294.pdf

DEADLY WEAPON: A black powder muzzleloader rifle does not constitute a "deadly weapon" unless it is "used or threatened to be used in a way likely to produce death or great bodily harm." Keeping a muzzleloader in one's home does not violate the condition of probation relating to firearms and weapons. Scheurman v. State, 5D2023-2294 (2/11/25) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447199/opinion/Opinion_2023-2294.pdf

PROBATION CONDITIONS: Probation officer has no authority to impose additional conditions of probation, even if the court has ordered the probationer to follow all instructions the officer may give. Condition of probation that probationer comply with all instructions that his probation officer gives to him does not permit the probation officer to redefine the term "weapon." Scheurman v. State, 5D2023-2294 (2/11/25) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447199/opinion/Opinion_2023-2294.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: Rule 3.851, which limits the filing of a motion for postconviction relief to within one year of the date the defendant's conviction and sentence become final in death penalty cases, absent certain narrow exceptions, applies to defendants under an active death warrant. All terms and conditions of direct appeal and collateral review are strictly enforced, including the application of procedural bars, to ensure that all claims of error are raised and resolved at the first opportunity. Ford v. State, SC2025-0110 (2/7/25) https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447001/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0110.pdf

CRUEL AND/OR UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT: The conformity clause of Article I, §17 of the Florida Constitution, providing that Florida's prohibition against cruel or unusual punishment shall be construed in conformity with decisions of the U.S. Court's interpretation of the cruel and unusual clause of the Eighth Amendment means that the Supreme Court's interpretation of the Eighth Amendment is both the floor and the ceiling for protection from cruel and unusual punishment in Florida. Ford v. State, SC2025-0110 (2/7/25) https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447001/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0110.pdf

CRUEL OR UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT: Florida is precluded from interpreting its prohibition against cruel or unusual punishment to exempt individuals eighteen or more years old from execution on the basis of their age at the time of their crimes. Ford v. State, SC2025-0110 (2/7/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447001/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0110.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-UNANIMOUS VERDICT: Jury must unanimously agree to the existence of an aggravating circumstance necessary for the death penalty; it need not unanimously agree to death. Erlinger's holding that a jury must decide beyond a reasonable doubt whether ACCA predicate offenses occurred on different dates does not apply. Ford v. State, SC2025-0110 (2/7/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447001/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0110.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Determinations of whether the aggravating factors are sufficient to justify the death penalty and whether those factors outweigh the mitigating circumstances is not subject to the beyond a reasonable doubt standard of proof. Ford v. State, SC2025-0110 (2/7/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2447001/opinion/Opinion_SC2025-0110.pdf

HUMAN SMUGGLING: The prohibition on human smuggling of aliens continues until the subjects arrive at their destination. State v. Padilla-Valladares, 5D2023-2201 (2/7/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446963/opinion/Opinion_2023-2201.pdf

VOP: Court must set forth those specific conditions of probation that Defendant admits to violating and upon which the revocation and termination of probation are based. Fetterly v. State, 5D2023-2296 (2/7/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446964/opinion/Opinion_2023-2296.pdf

HABITUAL VIOLENT FELONY OFFENDER: Erlinger v. United States, 602 U.S. 821 (2024)--holding that a jury must decide beyond a reasonable doubt whether ACCA predicate offenses occurred on different dates–did not overrule Florida precedent about judges, not juries, making predicate findings for HVFO sentences. "We reject this argument because even if the HVFO sentence was rendered in error, the error is harmless on this record." Capra v. State, 5D2024-0090 (2/7/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446967/opinion/Opinion_2024-0090.pdf

APPEAL-MOTION TO WITHDRAW PLEA: Where a notice of appeal is filed first, the trial court is divested of of jurisdiction to consider a motion to withdraw plea. Hickman v. State, 5D2024-2146 (2/7/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446966/opinion/Opinion_2024-2146.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT: Rules 1.070, 1.410, and 1.550 amended to remove the word "praecipe." In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Civil Procedure, No. SC2024-0774 (2/6/25)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446888/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0774.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Court may not summarily deny motion for postconviction relief without attaching relevant portions of the record. Citing the record numerous times is insufficient. Touchton-Williams v. State, 1D2023-1275 (2/5/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446808/opinion/Opinion_2023-1275.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: Because direct evidence of intent is rare, and intent is usually proven through inference, a trial court should rarely, if ever, grant a motion for JOA on the issue of intent. Dorsey v. State, 1D2023-2113 (2/5/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446812/opinion/Opinion_2023-2113.pdf

RESISTING-LAWFUL EXECUTION: Officer who had reasonable suspicion of criminal activity based on an anonymous tip and made observations matching the description was therefore engaged in the lawful execution of a legal duty. Dorsey v. State, 1D2023-2113 (2/5/25) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446812/opinion/Opinion_2023-2113.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to relief on an untimely and successive postconviction challenge to a trial court's subject matter jurisdiction based on a prosecutor's alleged failure to take the sworn testimony of a material witness before filing the charging document. Carsten v. State, 1D2024-0183 (2/5/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446818/opinion/Opinion_2024-0183.pdf

IMMUNITY: Use immunity forbids testimony to be used against the witness in any criminal prosecution of the witness. Transactional immunity provides complete immunity from prosecution for the matter concerning which the testimony was elicited. Transactional immunity extends further, therefore, because it not only immunizes the witness for any use of his or her testimony or its fruits in a subsequent trial, but it also provides absolute immunity against future prosecution for the offense to which the question relates. State v. Perez, 3D23-1152 (2/5/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446831/opinion/Opinion_2023-1152.pdf

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL: Court shall grant a new trial only if new and material evidence is discovered which is of such a nature that it would probably produce an acquittal on retrial, which, if introduced at the trial would probably have changed the verdict or finding of the court, and which the defendant could not with reasonable diligence have discovered and produced at trial. Defendant-police officer convicted of battery on suspect–is not entitled to a new trial because the charges against the victim were later dropped. State v. Perez, 3D23-1152 (2/5/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446831/opinion/Opinion_2023-1152.pdf

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL: Generally, impeachment evidence does not justify a new trial, other than in certain limited circumstances. State v. Perez, 3D23-1152 (2/5/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446831/opinion/Opinion_2023-1152.pdf

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL: A new trial based on newly discovered evidence, even if it existed, that charges were dropped against the victim in retun for his testimony against officer would not justify a new trial where CCTV and body camera videos showing Defendant/Officer kicking and hitting handcuffed Victim on the floor and lifting him from the ground by his handcuffs and dropping him on his chin. State v. Perez, 3D23-1152 (2/5/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446831/opinion/Opinion_2023-1152.pdf

BELATED APPEAL: If a petitioner seeking a belated appeal presents a facially sufficient petition consistent with the rule's requirements, the burden shifts to the State to specifically dispute the petitioner's allegations. If the State raises a good faith basis to dispute the petitioner's claims through affidavit or specific contrary allegations, the appellate court may order an evidentiary hearing in the trial court to determine the limited disputed issues of fact. Delgado v. State, 3D24-1925 (2/5/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446847/opinion/Opinion_2024-1925.pdf

GAIN TIME: The authority to regulate gain time resides exclusively within the Department of Corrections. The burden falls upon the defendant to seek credit for this time pursuant to the appropriate administrative procedures. Parker v. State, 3D24-2057 (2/5/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446865/opinion/Opinion_2024-2057.pdf

SENTENCING-CORRECTION: Where Defendant's conviction was scored as a Level 8–it should have been Level 7–Defendant is entitled to resentencing if the reviewing court cannot determine conclusively from the record that the trial court would have imposed the same sentence despite the erroneous scoresheet. Reid v. State, 4D2023-1954 (2/5/25) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446804/opinion/Opinion_2023-1954.pdf

SENTENCING-DEPARTURE/VARIANCE: When a court determines that a guidelines sentence will not adequately further sentencing purposes and imposes a higher or lower sentence from the guidelines range, that's a variance. A departure, by contrast, is a term of art under the Guidelines and refers only to non-Guidelines sentences imposed under the framework set out in the Guidelines, including the departure provisions. USA v. Olson, No. 23-1193 (11th Cir 2/3/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311939.pdf

SENTENCING-DEPARTURE/VARIANCE: Advance notice to the parties is generally required for a departure but not for a variance. A primary indicator that the court departed is if it cited a specific guidelines departure provision in setting the defendant's sentence. If, instead, the court's rationale was based on §3553(a) factors and a determination that the guidelines range was inadequate, then that indicates a variance. USA v. Olson, No. 23-1193 (11th Cir 2/3/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311939.pdf

SENTENCING-DEPARTURE/VARIANCE: In some cases determining whether the court imposed a departure or variance may matter, but in others the lack of clarity, or even confusion about, which framework was being used won't matter. Where Court said, "I find the advisory guidelines range is not appropriate to the facts and circumstances of this case, and the sentence here, whether an upward departure or a variance," it doesn't matter. Plainly, that means the district court would have imposed the same sentence either way. USA v. Olson, No. 23-1193 (11th Cir 2/3/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311939.pdf

SENTENCING-SUNSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS-UPWARD VARIANCE: Court is free to weigh the §3553(a) factors as it sees fit. The weight to be assigned to any one factor falls squarely within the court's broad sentencing discretion. USA v. Olson, No. 23-1193 (11th Cir 2/3/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311939.pdf

FYI: 97.2% of federal criminal cases settled with a plea bargain in the fiscal year 2023. USA v. Olson, No. 23-1193 (11th Cir 2/3/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311939.pdf

JANUARY 2025

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-ELEMENT: Where Child is charged with robbery, Court may not find him guilty of the lesser offense of aggravated assault where the petition alleged that he carried deadly weapon, not that he assaulted the victim with a deadly weapon. Error is fundamental. J.M. v. State, 2D2022-3344 (1/31/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446617/opinion/Opinion_2022-3344.pdf

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: "It is a fundamental principle of due process that a defendant may not be convicted of a crime that has not been charged by the state; an error that directly results in such a conviction is by definition fundamental." J.M. v. State, 2D2022-3344 (1/31/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446617/opinion/Opinion_2022-3344.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: In determining whether to depart from the sentencing guidelines, a trial court must engage in a two-step process: First, the court must determine whether it can depart, i.e., whether there is a valid legal ground and adequate factual support for that ground in the case pending before it (step 1). Second, it must determine whether it should depart, weighing the totality of the circumstances in the case, including aggravating and mitigating factors. Where it is unclear whether the court rejected Defendant's request for downward departure based upon an erroneous conclusion that it lacked the authority to depart, an insufficiency of the evidence presented, or the exercise of trial court's discretion not to depart, resentencing is required, either with or without a new sentencing hearing. Manyak v. State, 2D2023-1558 (1/31/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446619/opinion/Opinion_2023-1558.pdf

COSTS PER CASE/COUNT: The minimum cost of prosecution is per case, not per charge. Granison v. State, 5D2024-1690 (1/31/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446613/opinion/Opinion_2024-1690.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Court did not abuse its discretion by denying the Defendant's motion to withdraw his jury waiver following his penalty phase as filed in bad faith for the purpose of the delay. Caylor v. State, SC2023-0338 (1/30/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446581/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0338.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Prove beyond a reasonable doubt is not required in determining the relative weight of the aggravators and the mitigators in a death penalty case. Sentencing determinations are neither elements of an offense nor their functional equivalent. Caylor v. State, SC2023-0338 (1/30/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446581/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0338.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: Defendant waives objection to improper prosecutorial comments by failing to contemporaneously object and move for mistrial during closing argument. Koehler v. State, 3D23-0736 (1/29/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446528/opinion/Opinion_2023-0736.pdf

OPINION-MENTAL CONDITION: An expert cannot testify as to the truthfulness of a witness or to a defendant's mental condition when such condition is not at issue. Calixte v. State, 3D24-0270 (1/29/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446530/opinion/Opinion_2024-0270.pdf

OPINION-MENTAL CONDITION: A defense expert testimony may testify about Defendant's mental condition and ability to understand his Miranda rights. Calixte v. State, 3D24-0270 (1/29/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446530/opinion/Opinion_2024-0270.pdf

JOA-POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Where State did not introduce a certified copy of Defendant's prior felony conviction at trial, he may not be convicted of possession of a firearm by felon. Harris v. State, 3D24-0486 (1/29/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446506/opinion/Opinion_2024-0486.pdf

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Without a valid stipulation, the only methods for the State to prove at trial that Defendant was a convicted felon would be to admit the whole record pertaining to the prior felony conviction or providing a certified copy of the conviction. Defendant must personally acknowledge the stipulation and his voluntary waiver following an on the record stipulation. Harris v. State, 3D24-0486 (1/29/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446506/opinion/Opinion_2024-0486.pdf

POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: When a criminal defendant offers to stipulate to the convicted felon element of the felon-in-possession of a firearm charge, the Court must accept that stipulation. Harris v. State, 3D24-0486 (1/29/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446506/opinion/Opinion_2024-0486.pdf

MOTION TO CORRECT CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Court may not summarily deny motion to correct sentence without attaching to the order those portions of the files and records that conclusively demonstrate no entitlement to relief. Icon v. State, 3D24-1121 (1/29/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446514/opinion/Opinion_2024-1121.pdf

YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: No one who has been found guilty of a life felony can be sentenced as a youthful offender. Jones v. State, 3D24-1544 (1/29/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446533/opinion/Opinion_2024-1544.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS-INFORMATION: A criminal information filed without a waiver of indictment is "instituted" and tolls the statute of limitations for an indictment. The later indictment filed years later related back to the date of the filing of the information. "Although the Fifth Amendment and Rule 7(b) protect Webster from prosecution by information without a waiver of indictment, the statute of limitations does not serve this same function." USA v. Webster, No. 23-11526 (1/28/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311526.pdf

DEFINITION-"INSTITUTE": "Institute" means "to establish" and "to enact." "The meaning of the word 'institute' has not changed since. . .1790." USA v. Webster, No. 23-11526 (1/28/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311526.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS-NOTICE: "[W]e have not held that actual notice is required to toll the statute of limitations." USA v. Webster, No. 23-11526 (1/28/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311526.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS-NOTICE (J. JORDAN, CONCURRING): "Our decision today leaves room for potential prosecutorial manipulation of the statute of limitations. If the timely filing of an information tolls the limitations period even without a waiver of indictment, the government can file an information just before that period expires, not provide the defendant any notice, and then wait years—there is, after all, no time limit under § 3282(a) for statutory tolling—to obtain an indictment.. . .And nothing. . .can prevent the government from proceeding in this fashion and tolling the statute of limitations for an indefinite period of time." USA v. Webster, No. 23-11526 (1/28/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311526.pdf

WHO COULD DISAGREE? (J. JORDAN, CONCURRING): "Whenever you encounter a word with a long history, it's safe to assume that the meaning has changed . . . or that it has stayed the same." USA v. Webster, No. 23-11526 (1/28/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311526.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: A PRR sentence is not illegal because the trial court, instead of a jury, made the finding that the offense was committed within three years after Defendant's release from prison. The key fact pertinent to PRR sentencing—whether the defendant committed the charged offense within three years of release from prison—is not an ingredient of the charged offense. Rather, it relates to the fact of a prior conviction. Denson v. State, 5D2024-1318 (1/28/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446448/opinion/Opinion_2024-1318.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER (J. EISNAUGLE, CONCURRING): Simmons, which held that the Sixth Amendment permits a judge, rather than a jury, to decide a defendant's date of release from prison from a prior sentence for purposes of imposing a PRR sentence, was wrongly decided but is binding. "Stated simply, the Erlinger Court enforced the constitutional right to a jury trial even where the 'inquiry will be straightforward' and 'regardless of how overwhelmin[g] the evidence may seem to a judge.'. . .Erlinger now makes plain what Apprendi signaled years ago—the exception for the fact of a prior conviction is questionable to begin with, and as a result, it must be applied narrowly. In short, the Sixth Amendment will not tolerate an expansion of the exception—even if the bench might view it as logical or slight." Denson v. State, 5D2024-1318 (1/28/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446448/opinion/Opinion_2024-1318.pdf

PRO SE-MOTION-REPRESENTED DEFENDANT: Pro se motion for jail credit should be stricken when Defendant was represented by counsel. Wells v. State, 2D2024-1305 (1/24/25)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446271/opinion/Opinion_2024-1305.pdf

APPEAL-SUPPLEMENTING RECORD: Where appellate court granted Appellant's motion to supplement the record on appeal after the appellate record had been transmitted, and Appellant moved the trial court for transcripts to be prepared, the trial court lacked jurisdiction to deny the transcription requests absent an order that relinquished jurisdiction to the trial court. "[W]e share [the Chief Judge's] confusion as to why PD10 sought certain transcripts. For example, it demanded transcripts of multiple status hearings where the trial court took no evidence and issued no substantive ruling. . .[T]his Court may give more careful consideration to PD10's future supplementation requests." Justiniano-Nazario v. State, 6D2024-0832 (1/24/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446289/opinion/Opinion_2024-0832.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-DISCOVERY: Order deciding that Appellant is not entitled to postconviction discovery is not among the class of orders independently appealable by a defendant pursuant to R. 9.140(b)(1). Burks v. State, 1D2024-1673 (1/23/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446237/opinion/Opinion_2024-1673.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Failure to investigate or call a witness whose testimony, when not hearsay, was "confusing and scattered" is not sufficient to support an ineffective assistance claim. In assessing prejudice under Strickland, the question is not whether a court can be certain counsel's performance had no effect on the outcome or whether it is possible a reasonable doubt might have been established if counsel acted differently, but rather whether it is reasonably likely the result would have been different. The likelihood of a different result must be substantial, not just conceivable. State v. McReynolds, 2D2023-1900 (1/22/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446170/opinion/Opinion_2023-1900.pdf

STALKING: To support an injunction for stalking, courts use a reasonable person standard, not a subjective standard, in determining if an incident causes substantial emotional distress. A reasonable person does not suffer substantial emotional distress easily. Calls saying "[W]ait, wait, let me talk" followed by a hang up are not enough. Abercrombie v. Nenneman, 2D2023-2110 (1/22/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446169/opinion/Opinion_2023-2110.pdf

REOPENING CASE: Trial court may allow the State to reopen its case after it rested and defense moved for acquittal. Destin v. State, 2D23-1403 (1/22/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446181/opinion/Opinion_2023-1403.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: When evidence is introduced that is so unduly prejudicial that it renders the trial fundamentally unfair, the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment provides a mechanism for relief. In reviewing a federal habeas corpus action challenging state court's denial of postconviction relief, the ultimate question is whether a fair minded jurist could disagree that the evidence so infected the trial with unfairness as to render the resulting conviction or sentence a denial of due process. Andrew v. White, No. 23–6573 (U.S. S. Ct. 1/21/25)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-6573_m647.pdf

HOLDING: When the Supreme Court relies on a legal rule or principle to decide a case, that principle is a "holding" of the Court for purposes of AEDPA. "To be sure, this Court did not hold in Payne that the introduction of all irrelevant evidence violates the Due Process Clause. Payne established, rather, that due process protects defendants from the introduction of evidence so prejudicial as to affect the fundamental fairness of their trials." To the extent that the Court of Appeals thought itself constrained by AEDPA to limit Payne to its facts, it was mistaken. Andrew v. White, No. 23–6573 (U.S. S. Ct. 1/21/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-6573_m647.pdf

AEPDA-HOLDING: General legal principles can constitute clearly established law for purposes of AEDPA so long as they are holdings of this Court. Certain principles are fundamental enough that when new factual permutations arise, the necessity to apply the earlier rule will be beyond doubt. Andrew v. White, No. 23–6573 (U.S. S. Ct. 1/21/25)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-6573_m647.pdf

AEPDA-HOLDING (J. THOMAS, DISSENTING): "We have instructed lower courts. . .to carefully distinguish holdings from dicta; and to refrain from treating reserved questions as though they have already been answered. The Tenth Circuit followed these rules. The Court today does not. . .And, worst of all, it redefines 'clearly established' law to include debatable interpretations of our precedent." A contestable interpretation of precedent cannot be clearly established law. Andrew v. White, No. 23–6573 (U.S. S. Ct. 1/21/25)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-6573_m647.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-PRINCIPAL: In order to be a principal in a crime, one must have a conscious intent that the crime be done and must do some act or say some word which was intended to and does incite, cause. Mere presence at the scene of an offense is not sufficient to support a principal instruction. Intent cannot be circumstantially proved unless one or more of the circumstances demonstrate knowledge. Dixon v. State, 2D2022-2549 (1/17/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446054/opinion/Opinion_2022-2549.pdf

WEAPON: An object not designed to inflict bodily harm may be a "weapon" if it was threatened to be used in a manner likely to cause bodily harm[10]. Whether an object is being used as a weapon during the commission of a felony is a question of fact for the jury. Hatcher v. State, 2D2023-1691 (1/17/25)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446059/opinion/Opinion_2023-1691.pdf

BOND REVOCATION (C.J. SLEET, CONCURRING): Court may forfeit the bond of Defendant who appears late to court for trial, but has discretion to set aside the forfeiture. "It seems to me the interest of justice, as well as judicial economy, would have been better served by setting aside the forfeiture ruling and proceeding with Henderson's trial." Henderson v. Gualtieri, Sheriff of Pinellas County, 2D2024-1286 (1/17/25)

---

[10]Such as a spatula. See, e.g., Buffy, the Vampire Slayer, Season 3, Episode 5, "Homecoming."

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446058/opinion/Opinion_2024-1286.pdf

HUMAN SMUGGLING: The human smuggling statute provides that "[a] person who transports into this state an individual who the person knows, or should know, is illegally entering the United States from another country commits a felony of the third degree" applies to someone who transports illegal aliens in Florida before reaching their final destination; the "illegal entering" is not complete when the Mexican/U.S. border is crossed. Illegal entering" plainly contemplates the continuous act of entering the United States until the illegal alien is delivered by the smuggler to his final destination in the interior. Defendant's reading of the phrase "is illegally entering." "is strained and unduly limits all that the language may be fairly read to mean. State v. Yanes-Blanco, 5D2023-1997 (1/17/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446039/opinion/Opinion_2023-1997.pdf

HUMAN SMUGGLING-GRAMMAR: To "enter" means "to come or go in; make an entry." The statute's phrase "is illegally entering" is in the present progressive tense, which indicates a continuing action or course of conduct, and Florida courts have long presumed that the Legislature knows the meaning of words and the rules of grammar when writing our laws. Rather than a singular event occurring at an instantaneous, identifiable moment in time—an illegal alien's entry into the United States is a continuous process. State v. Yanes-Blanco, 5D2023-1997 (1/17/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446039/opinion/Opinion_2023-1997.pdf

APPEAL-BREACH OF PLEA AGREEMENT-ISSUE PRESERVATION (J. PRATT, CONCURRING): Where Defendant claims a plea-agreement violation, he must move to withdraw his plea in order to preserve his claim for appeal. A Quarterman willfulness challenge does not concern a sentencing error. When a court erroneously determines that the defendant has breached his deferred-sentencing agreement and pronounces a sentence harsher than the one for which he bargained, the court violates his plea agreement and does not commit a sentencing error. "[W]here Rule 9.140 requires a motion to withdraw plea to preserve a claim, it means what it says." Gore v. State, 5D2023-2807 (1/17/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446043/opinion/Opinion_2023-2807.pdf

QUARTERMAN PLEA AGREEMENT: In consideration for the privilege to remain free, the defendant agrees that if he does not appear for sentencing at the agreed upon time and place, the trial court can sentence the defendant to any lawful sentence even if it is a sentence in excess of the sentence specified in the negotiated plea agreement. This practice is known as a Quarterman agreement. Gore v. State, 5D2023-2807 (1/17/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446043/opinion/Opinion_2023-2807.pdf

FINE: $500 fine us surcharges stricken for first degree murder conviction. §775.083(1) does not authorize the imposition of a fine. "A person who has been convicted of an offense other than a capital felony may be sentenced to pay a fine in addition to any punishment." Constant v. State, 5D2023-2829 (1/17/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446042/opinion/Opinion_2023-2829.pdf

APPEAL: Defendant may not challenge as fundamental error a written sentence for not comporting with its oral pronouncement on appeal if he has not preserved the issue by either filing a motion under rule 3.800(b) or by objecting during the sentencing hearing. O'Neil v. State, 6D2023-0677 (1/17/25)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2446068/opinion/Opinion_2023-0677.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-RELATIVE CULPABILITY: Relative culpability cannot provide a basis for vacating a death sentence. Doty v. State, SC2023-1123 (1/16/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445993/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1123.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-SELF-REPRESENTATION: The Constitution does not forbid a State from insisting that a criminal defendant proceed to trial with counsel when the defendant is found to be mentally competent to stand trial but not mentally competent to conduct that trial himself. Doty v. State, SC2023-1123 (1/16/25)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445993/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1123.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-TIMELY (J. WINOKUR, CONCURRING): If a trial court issues a nonfinal, nonappealable order under rule 3.850(f)(2) granting a defendant sixty days to file an amended motion—and provided the court has not issued a final order denying the motion with prejudice—Defendant cannot file a second motion beyond the sixty days but before expiration of the two-year deadline contained in R. 3.850(b) without the motion considered untimely or successive, even though this rule, as it has been interpreted by Daise and Ivory, is plainly at odds with the rule as identified by the Supreme Court in Spera. Owens v. State, 1D2023-1235 (1/15/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445929/opinion/Opinion_2023-1235.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-TIMELY (J. WINOKUR, CONCURRING): History of postconviction motions explained. "Although rule 3.850 falls within the rules of criminal procedure, and although pleadings under the rule contain the same caption as the defendant's criminal case, postconviction proceedings are technically civil, not criminal...They are civil in nature because their roots lie in the writ of habeas corpus." Owens v. State, 1D2023-1235 (1/15/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445929/opinion/Opinion_2023-1235.pdf

VOLUNTARY INTOXICATION: Voluntary intoxication resulting from the consumption, injection, or other use of alcohol or other controlled substance as described in chapter 893 is not a defense to any offense proscribed by law. Evidence of a defendant's voluntary intoxication is not admissible to show that the defendant lacked the specific intent to commit an offense and is not admissible to show that the defendant was insane at the time of the offense, except when the defendant's lack of specific intent or insanity is attributable to the use of a prescription medicine lawfully prescribed and taken as prescribed. McCauley v. State, 3D23-0410 (1/15/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445963/opinion/Opinion_2023-0410.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: Defendant is entitled to a JOA on the possession of a firearm by a felon count where the State did not enter Defendant's prior felony conviction and sentence into evidence, did not ask the trial court to read any stipulation to the jury, nor enter a stipulation into evidence, and where the jury was never told that the defense stipulated that he was a felon. Defendant's bodycam recorded statement implying that he knew he was a felon (Detective: "I'm asking, as a convicted felon, are you allowed to have a gun? Defendant: "Nah. You know that.") is legally insufficient to prove his status. Error is fundamental. Presha v. State, 3D23-2254 (1/15/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445954/opinion/Opinion_2023-2254.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY FELON: When requested by a defendant in a felon-in possession of a firearm case, the trial court must approve a stipulation whereby the parties acknowledge that the defendant is a convicted felon. But out of the jury's presence and after consultation with counsel, the defendant must personally acknowledge the stipulation and his voluntary waiver of his right to have the State otherwise prove the convicted felony status element beyond a reasonable doubt. Presha v. State, 3D23-2254 (1/15/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445954/opinion/Opinion_2023-2254.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL-FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: An argument that the evidence is totally insufficient as a matter of law to establish the commission of a crime need not be preserved. Such complete failure of the evidence meets the requirements of fundamental error-i.e., an error that reaches to the foundation of the case and is equal to a denial of due process. Presha v. State, 3D23-2254 (1/15/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445954/opinion/Opinion_2023-2254.pdf

RETURN OF PROPERTY: Title to unclaimed evidence or unclaimed tangible personal property lawfully seized pursuant to a lawful investigation in the custody of the court or clerk of the court from a criminal proceeding or seized as evidence by and in the custody of a law enforcement agency shall vest permanently in the law enforcement agency 60 days after the conclusion of the proceeding. "Conclusion of the proceeding" means the date the judgment and sentence became final. Montero v. State, 3D24-1123 (1/15/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445960/opinion/Opinion_2024-1123.pdf

ATTORNEY-MOTION TO WITHDRAW: While trial courts are accorded broad discretion to make appropriate inquiry to determine whether any of the grounds for attorney withdrawal are present, or whether the attorney-client relation has deteriorated to a point where counsel can no longer give effective aid in the fair presentation of a defense, such an inquiry may not (absent a valid waiver) include requiring counsel to reveal confidential communications with the client. Bair v. State, 3D24-2171 (1/15/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445969/opinion/Opinion_2024-2171.pdf

STATE ATTORNEY REMOVAL-MOOTNESS: Action for reinstatement to office by State Attorney after Governor had removed him is moot where the term of office had expired. Warren v. DeSantis, No. 23-10459 (11th Cir. 1/10/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310459.op3.pdf

COMPLAINT-DAMAGES: Boilerplate language requesting "such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper" does not constitute a complaint for money damages. Warren v. DeSantis, No. 23-10459 (11th Cir. 1/10/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310459.op3.pdf

SELF-REPRESENTATION: . An individual does not have a right to hybrid representation. Whenever a party has appeared by attorney, the party cannot thereafter appear or act on the party's own behalf in the action or proceeding, or take any step therein, unless an order of substitution shall first have been made by the Court USA v. Brown, No. 22-14056 (1/10/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214056.pdf

CONSPIRACY-SEX TRAFFICKING: There is sufficient evidence of the conspiracy to commit sex trafficking where Defendant and another person transported the victim from Fort Lauderdale to Orlando together and the accomplice participated in creating and posting an advertisement for a prostitution website. USA v. Brown, No. 22-14056 (1/10/25)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214056.pdf

HEARSAY: When offered against an opposing party, statements made by the party's coconspirator during and in furtherance of the conspiracy are not hearsay. Cell phone records of a co-conspirator made in furtherance of the conspiracy are not hearsay. USA v. Brown, No. 22-14056 (1/10/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214056.pdf

HEARSAY: Text message in which co-conspirator discusses the accusation that Defendant had sex with a 15-year old is not hearsay because it is not introduced for the truth of the matter asserted, but rather to show that Defendant knew the age of the victim. USA v. Brown, No. 22-14056 (1/10/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214056.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: Continuances due to COVID are excludable from speedy trial calculations. USA v. Brown, No. 22-14056 (1/10/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214056.pdf

MISTRIAL-JURY: Defendant is not entitled to a mistrial where Court mistakenly read to the jury the first count from the original indictment rather than from the superseding indictment. Any error was cured by the Court's instruction, including its admonition that the indictment is not to be considered as evidence and is not evidence of guilt. USA v. Brown, No. 22-14056 (1/10/25) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214056.pdf

THINGS THAT MAKE YOU SAY "HMM": Defendant's a.k.a. is "Slime." USA v. Brown, No. 22-14056 (1/10/25)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214056.pdf

DRIVER LICENSE/DRIVER'S LICENSE: "[R]eferences will be to a "driver license," the phrase used in Florida Statutes, rather than the colloquial "driver's license." See § 322.01(18)." Crist v. State, 5D2022-2966 (1/10/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445818/opinion/Opinion_2022-2966.pdf

DRIVER LICENSE-SEXUAL PREDATOR: Requirement that the "Sexual Predator" designation appear on the one's driver license is unconstitutional as government compelled speech. "A Florida driver license is a forum in which a license holder, who has been convicted of a sexual offense, is compelled to disclose the fact of his criminal history against his wishes. That a fact is compelled rather than a political opinion or policy doesn't matter." The SEXUAL PREDATOR designation on driver licenses is not a narrowly tailored means to inform only those persons who have the greater need to know about an individual's past sexual criminality. Question certified. Crist v. State, 5D2022-2966 (1/10/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445818/opinion/Opinion_2022-2966.pdf

DRIVER LICENSE-SEXUAL PREDATOR: "The conclusion that the "SEXUAL PREDATOR" designation on Crist's driver license is impermissibly compelled speech under the prevailing judicial test in no way involves the use of judicial power to compel a specific change to the statutory law. It merely holds that this specific designation is off-limits under the Bill of Rights." Crist v. State, 5D2022-2966 (1/10/25)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445818/opinion/Opinion_2022-2966.pdf

DRIVER LICENSE-SEXUAL PREDATOR (J. SOUD, DISSENTING): [T]he majority races into a dangerously wayward opinion that ends in a repugnant result with deleterious effect. . .[T]he majority. . .opens the door to others who seek editorial control over information on a driver license that more fits the whim of the licensee. This Court should immediately return that door to its closed and locked position." Crist v. State, 5D2022-2966 (1/10/25) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445818/opinion/Opinion_2022-2966.pdf

AND NOW FOR SOMETHING COMPLETELY DIFFERENT: Something about chocolate encased toy animals from Australia. Atlantic Candy Company v. Yowie, 5D2023-1513 (1/10/25) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445820/opinion/Opinion_2023-1513.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: "Both Moradi's lawyers testified they were unfamiliar with a four-year-old case—binding at the time—that held it was fundamental error to deliver a justifiable use of deadly force instruction that referred to a burden when discussing the forcible felony that can be used to establish a self-defense claim. Although trial counsel failed to object to a jury instruction, Defendant suffered no prejudice because there is no reasonable probability that the verdict would have been different even if his trial counsel had submitted the appropriate justifiable use of deadly force instruction. A near-seven-inch, heart-piercing stab with a five-inch blade is not a "poke." Plus, Defendant then beat the victim and placed his hands around his neck while blood gushed out of his body. Moradi v. State, 6D2023-1319 (1/10/25)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445811/opinion/Opinion_2023-1319.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: The fundamental error standard is inapplicable to postconviction proceedings. Moradi v. State, 6D2023-1319 (1/10/25) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445811/opinion/Opinion_2023-1319.pdf

FLIGHT: Evidence of flight is admissible as consciousness of guilt where the defendant flees from police after committing a murder. Moradi v. State, 6D2023-1319 (1/10/25) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445811/opinion/Opinion_2023-1319.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: If a prisoner files a habeas corpus petition in circuit court, the petition must be filed in the circuit court of the county in which the prisoner is detained. Jones v. Florlda D.O.C., 6D2023-3814 (1/10/25) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445812/opinion/Opinion_2023-3814.pdf

SEXUAL BATTERY-AGE: Defendant's statement that he is eighteen years old is legally sufficient to establish his age. Scott v. State, 1D20231988 (1/8/25) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445676/opinion/Opinion_2023-1988.pdf

BOLSTERING: State's argument that the officer has been doing his job for "two years, not for. . .a month and a half" and characterizing the arrest as "proper" constitutes improper bolstering. Quintanilla v. State, 3D22-2003 (1/8/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445687/opinion/Opinion_2022-2003.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION-FIREARM: Stopping a person solely on the ground that the individual possesses a gun violates the Fourth Amendment. Officer who sees Defendant remove a gun from a waistband holster and transfer it into his backpack lacks reasonable suspicion to detain him. Due to the statutory change to §790.01, non-licensure is an element of, rather than an affirmative defense to, the crime of carrying a concealed weapon. Mere possession of a concealed weapon does not constitute criminal activity. Sheppard v. State, 3D23-0752 (1/8/25) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445697/opinion/Opinion_2023-0752.pdf

VOP-SEX OFFENSE: Where a condition of sex offender probation includes that Defendant is prohibited from possessing pornographic materials "that are relevant to the offender's deviant behavior pattern," possessing DVDs titled "Sex from the North," "Brunettes Have More Fun," "Hometown Amateurs," "One on One," and "Sorority Self-Masturbation Satisfaction" are not relevant to the defendant's deviant behavior pattern unless they depicted or suggested the following viewing or touching a minor or against a person's will. All the DVD "artwork" appeared to show young women, but the State offered no proof that they were children or adolescents. College-age women are adults—they are not children or adolescents. "We note that had Tindall's offenses occurred on or after October 1, 2014, he would not have been permitted to possess any pornography." Tindall v. State, 4D2023-2703 (1/8/25)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445689/opinion/Opinion_2023-2703.pdf

WRITTEN THREAT: §836.10, which prohibits threats of violence sent through electronic social media, is not overbroad nor vague. Grigoriou v. State, 4D2024-0724 (1/8/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445709/opinion/Opinion_2024-0724.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose the $26 cost charged for certain county court traffic cases in a making social media threats case. Grigoriou v. State, 4D2024-0724 (1/8/25)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445709/opinion/Opinion_2024-0724.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-K-9 ALERT: In the past, an alert by a properly trained police dog was usually accepted as providing probable cause for a search. But whether the substance dog smells is legal or illegal is not readily apparent, his alert, alone, cannot provide the probable cause needed to justify a warrantless search. "[P]lain smell—whether perceived by man or man's best friend–of a distinct odor which may have emanated from a legal substance does not, by itself, supply probable cause to conduct a warrantless search of a vehicle." Ford v. State, 5D2023-1995 (1/7/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445655/opinion/Opinion_2023-1995.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-K-9 SNIFF: "Is the undifferentiated alert behavior of a properly trained police drug-sniffing dog sufficient to supply the sole probable cause for a warrantless search of a car, when that K-9 officer. . .cannot distinguish between illegal pot and legal medical marijuana or hemp? In other words, is that sniff up to snuff? Going forward, that dog won't hunt." Ford v. State, 5D2023-1995 (1/7/25).

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445655/opinion/Opinion_2023-1995.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-K-9 ALERT-GOOD FAITH: Although K-9 alert alone no longer justifies the search of a vehicle, the good-faith exception to the exclusionary rule applies to cases arising before this change in the law. Ford v. State, 5D2023-1995 (1/7/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445655/opinion/Opinion_2023-1995.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROBABLE CAUSE: Probable cause is a fluid concept—turning on the assessment of probabilities in particular factual contexts—not readily, or even usefully, reduced to a neat set of legal rules. Finely-tuned standards such as proof beyond a reasonable doubt or by a preponderance of the evidence, have no place in the determination of probable cause. Whether the basis for probable cause is proved by machine, man, or beast, all we have required is the kind of fair probability on which reasonable and prudent people, not legal technicians, act. Ford v. State, 5D2023-1995 (1/7/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445655/opinion/Opinion_2023-1995.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-K-9 ALERT (J. PRATT, CONCURRING): "[G]oing forward,. . .dogs trained to alert on cannabis can no longer provide the sole basis for a stop or search. . .[C]annabis legalization no doubt has triggered a setback for drug-detecting canine officers. But it need not mark their retirement. An alert by a dog trained not to alert to cannabis—or to alert to cannabis differently than it alerts to other drugs—can still on its own supply probable cause. And for another thing, even without such canine training, an undifferentiated alert can supply probable cause when combined with an officer's questions ruling out the presence of lawful cannabis." Ford v. State, 5D2023-1995 (1/7/25)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445655/opinion/Opinion_2023-1995.pdf

BENCH TRIAL: A written waiver of the right to a jury trial is required to hold a bench trial. Szwec v. State, 1D2022-4060 (1/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445375/opinion/Opinion_2022-4060.pdf

PROBATION-CONDITIONS: Court may not order defendant to complete GED or vocational training, only that she make a good faith effort to do so. Parker v. State, 1D2023-0760 (1/2/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445376/opinion/Opinion_2023-0760.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Relative culpability is a valid sentencing consideration. Disparate treatment of codefendants is permissible in situations where a particular defendant is more culpable. Parker v. State, 1D2023-0760 (1/2/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445376/opinion/Opinion_2023-0760.pdf

PROBATION-CONDITIONS: A condition of probation is valid if it satisfies one of the following factors: (1) has a relationship to the crime for which the offender was convicted, (2) relates to conduct that is criminal in nature, or (3) requires or forbids conduct that is reasonably related to future criminality. Defendant who murdered her daughter's father may not be required to take a parenting class. Murdering the child's father does not involve any act of parenting. "Requiring Parker to complete parenting classes in the distant future, once she is released from her 53-year incarceration and long after the daughter reaches majority, can have no bearing on any future criminality whether involving Parker's daughter or otherwise." Parker v. State, 1D2023-0760 (1/2/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445376/opinion/Opinion_2023-0760.pdf

PROBATION-CONDITIONS: Where Defendant murdered her daughter's father, she may be prohibited from having contact with her daughter for life. As the next of kin of a homicide victim, her child is a "victim" under the Florida Constitution. Parker v. State, 1D2023-0760 (1/2/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445376/opinion/Opinion_2023-0760.pdf

REVERSE WILLIAMS RULE EVIDENCE: The threshold for admission of both Williams rule evidence and reverse Williams rule evidence is relevance. The "degree of similarity" required to admit such evidence is the same regardless of whether it is the state or the defense seeking admission. Peterson v. State, 1D2023-2589 (1/2/25)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445384/opinion/Opinion_2023-2589.pdf

REVERSE WILLIAMS RULE EVIDENCE: Defendant's unprovoked drive-by shooting motivated by mutual dislike between people from "the northside" and people from "the southside" is too dissimilar from a planned shooting motivated by a fight over a woman at a football game for latter to be admissible as reverse Williams rule evidence. Peterson v. State, 1D2023-2589 (1/2/25)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445384/opinion/Opinion_2023-2589.pdf

ATTORNEY-PERJURY: The right to counsel includes no right to have a lawyer who will cooperate with planned perjury. There is no permissible choice to testify falsely. For defense counsel to take steps to persuade a criminal defendant to testify truthfully, or to withdraw, deprives the defendant of neither his right to counsel nor the right to testify truthfully. Ruiz v. State, 3D22-499 (1/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445460/opinion/Opinion_2022-0499.pdf

HEARSAY-IDENTIFICATION: A statement is not hearsay if the declarant testifies at the trial or hearing and is subject to cross-examination concerning the statement and the statement is one of identification of a person made after perceiving the person Photographs which witnesses used to identify Defendant are not admissible when they include accusatory narratives such as "He came into my brother's home. . .with a firearm." But the error here was harmless because the statements were merely cumulative. Garlobo v. State, 3D22-1174 (1/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445394/opinion/Opinion_2022-1174.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-JURORS: Defendant is not entitled to postconviction relief due to counsel's failure to strike a juror who stated she was unsure whether she could be fair. Only where a juror's bias is so clear can a defendant show the necessary prejudice under Strickland that there is a reasonable probability that, but for counsel's unprofessional errors, the result of the proceeding would have been different. Merely expressing doubt does not establish actual bias against the defendant. Fluctuating equivocations do not demonstrate actual bias. Nixon v. State, 3D22-1833 (1/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445393/opinion/Opinion_2022-1833.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-JURORS (J. BOKOR CONCURRING): "I believe we have a problem with our standard of proof for an ineffective assistance of counsel claim as it relates to the failure to challenge a juror for cause or use a preemptory strike. . . I believe this should be revisited by our supreme court considering the holding of the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals in Guardado v. Secretary, Florida Department of Corrections, 112 F.4th 958 (11th Cir. 2024)." Nixon v. State, 3D22-1833 (1/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445393/opinion/Opinion_2022-1833.pdf

COMPETENCY: Not every manifestation of mental illness demonstrates incompetence to stand trial. Neither low intelligence, mental deficiency, nor bizarre, volatile, and irrational behavior can be equated with mental incompetence to stand trial. Essix v. State, 3D22-1842 (1/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445449/opinion/Opinion_2022-1842.pdf

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT: Where Defendant fired his shotgun twice through victim's apartment window while yelling "Let's go bitch. Let's go bitch." he is not entitled to a JOA for lack of evidence that he knew the Victim was inside. Grimes v. State, 3D23-1064 (1/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445397/opinion/Opinion_2023-1064.pdf

VIDEO: "It has oft been said that a picture is worth a thousand words; a video is undoubtedly worth exponentially more." Grimes v. State, 3D23-1064 (1/2/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445397/opinion/Opinion_2023-1064.pdf

EVIDENCE: Police officers and lay witnesses may testify as to their observations of a defendant's acts, conduct, and appearance, and also to give an opinion on the defendant's state of impairment based on those observations. Objective observations based on observable signs and conditions are not classified as "scientific." Malakhov v. State, 3D23-1105 (1/2/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445459/opinion/Opinion_2023-1105.pdf

BOLSTERING: Officer's testimony that witness was a hundred percent sure of his identification of the defendant in the photo line up did not constitute improper bolstering because he did not opine on the ultimate issue of the witness's credibility. Johnson v. State, 3D23-2183 (1/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445416/opinion/Opinion_2023-2183.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Relevant factors in assessing the reasonableness of a stop pursuant to a BOLO) include: (1) the length of time and distance from the offense; (2) route of flight; (3) specificity of the description of the vehicle and its occupants; and (4) the source of the BOLO information. T.W., a Juvenile v. State, 3D24-0353 (1/2/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445455/opinion/Opinion_2024-0353.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-MANIFEST INJUSTICE: Appellate courts have the authority to correct a manifest injustice by way of habeas corpus, but this exception only applies to a narrow category of cases. The mere incantation of the words "manifest injustice" does not make it so. Leach v. State, 3D24-1597 (1/2/25)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445415/opinion/Opinion_2024-1597.pdf

MEDICAL RECORDS: Court may not sua sponte order disclosure of private medical and psychological records to the county jail where the direct filed fourteen-year-old defendant is in custody. A patient's medical records enjoy a confidential status by virtue of the right to privacy contained in the Florida Constitution, and any attempt on the part of the government to obtain such records must first meet constitutional muster. "[W]e caution that trial courts must be mindful of the limits imposed by the judicial role. With very few exceptions, the court's role does not include initiating matters but instead is limited to adjudicating matters properly raised by interested parties." Rosa v. State, 3D24-1662 (1/2/25)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445420/opinion/Opinion_2024-1662.pdf

DECEMBER 2024
LEWD AND LASCIVIOUS-AGE OF VICTIM: It is fundamental error to adjudicate Defendant guilty of a first-degree felony and to sentence him accordingly when the jury never found him guilty of that crime. Where the information's time frame spanned when the child was between eleven and twelve years of age, the evidence and arguments show that she was twelve, and the jury instruction alluded to the victim being between the ages of twelve and sixteen, the Clerk of Court Disposition Memorandum "Guilty as charged" erroneously reflected that Defendant was found guilty as charged of lewd molestation as a first-degree felony punishable by life, Defendant may be adjudicated and sentenced only for a second degree felony. The judgment of the Court must conform to the verdict of the jury. Lincoln v. State, 6D2023-0235 (12/30/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445295/opinion/Opinion_2023-0235.pdf

OOPS: "At the sentencing hearing, the State argued for life in prison in accordance with that charge, notwithstanding its argument during the hearing that the victim was twelve at the time of the offense. The defense argued mitigating factors and requested leniency but did not bring the error in the PSI or scoresheet to the court's attention. No one addressed the error, and the trial judge sentenced Lincoln to life in prison." Lincoln v. State, 6D2023-0235 (12/30/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445295/opinion/Opinion_2023-0235.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy does not bar a retrial after a mistrial without prejudice is declared following a Brady violation. Unless the prosecution's misconduct was intended to provoke the defendant into moving for a mistrial, when a trial court declares a mistrial, double jeopardy does not bar a retrial, even if the Defendant moved that the mistrial be with prejudice. A request for a mistrial with prejudice does not constitute an objection to a mistrial without prejudice or create a double jeopardy issue, particularly when Defendant rejected other possible remedies. D'Auria v. State, 5D2023-2751 (12/27/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445224/opinion/Opinion_2023-2751.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-DOG SNIFF: Search was not unlawfully prolonged for a K9 search where driver said he could get proof of insurance in a few minutes by contacting the vehicle owner, but did not. State v.

Denoncourt, 5D2024-0947 (12/27/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445228/opinion/Opinion_2024-0947.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PAT DOWN: Officer was justified in conducting a pat-down search of Defendant where he acted "very odd," messed with his pants, and had a notable bulge in it that "was 150 percent clearly not of a human body part unless you have just a massive hernia or something going on with you." State v. Denoncourt, 5D2024-0947 (12/27/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445228/opinion/Opinion_2024-0947.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Where defendant Is lawfully detained, officer may order him to exit vehicle, even if he did not have particularized basis to believe defendant was a threat to his safety. State v. Denoncourt, 5D2024-0947 (12/27/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445228/opinion/Opinion_2024-0947.pdf

COMPETENCY-MOOTNESS: Where underlying indictment is dismissed due to his continuing incompetency but Defendant remains confined due to civil commitment proceedings, his appeal challenging his detention is moot. Where new statutory bases supersede the original bases for orders challenged on appeal, appeals of the original orders are moot. USA v. Alhindi, No. 24-10595 (11th Cir. 12/23/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202410595.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: A motion to withdraw a plea is a critical stage of the proceedings during which an indigent defendant is entitled to court-appointed, conflict free counsel. Failure to offer appointed counsel before summarily denying such a motion requires reversal. Young v. State, 2D2023-1507 (12/20/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445045/opinion/Opinion_2023-1507.pdf

VOP: Where defendant was ordered to pay a $85,000 restitution at the rate of $200 per month, he may not be found to have violated probation when he received $75,000 from a divorce settlement and used that money to pay off other debts. There is no term in the probation order that addresses what effect, if any, a change in his financial circumstances would have vis-à-vis payment of his entire restitution obligation. "We understand the circuit court's frustration with what transpired in this case. . .Mr. Watson avoided prison under the assumption he would make restitution to the victims of his financial crime. But, having determined that Mr. Watson complied with the letter, if not the spirit, of his restitution obligation during his probation's term, we must reluctantly reverse the order revoking Mr. Watson's probation." Watson v. State, 2D2023-2306 (12/20/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445044/opinion/Opinion_2023-2306.pdf

TRANSCRIPTS DURING TRIAL: Court's comment that it would not order preparation of trial transcripts on a daily basis is not unlawful. The speculative argument that Defendant may need transcripts is legally insufficient. Lugo v. State, 3D24-2128 (12/20/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445054/opinion/Opinion_2024-2128.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to file motion to suppress when discrepancies between the weight of drugs seized and those tested suggest improper chain of custody. A trial attorney's failure to investigate a factual defense or a defense relying on the suppression of evidence, which results in the entry of an ill-advised plea of guilty, constitutes a facially sufficient attack upon the conviction. Reyna-Duran v. State, 6D2023-1876 (11th Cir. 12/20/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445085/opinion/Opinion_2023-1876.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A pro se defendant—even if he has standby counsel—cannot later complain that the quality of his defense was substandard or amounted to ineffective assistance of counsel. Craft v. State, SC2023-1501 (12/19/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444994/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1501.pdf

ZIP CODE: "ZIP" refers to the U.S. Postal Service's Zone Improvement Plan, a system of codes introduced in 1963. Fogarty v. State, 1D2021-2233 (12/18/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444893/opinion/Opinion_2021-2233.pdf

JOA: A defendant moving for a legal acquittal effectively admits not only the facts stated in the evidence adduced, but also every conclusion favorable to the adverse party that a jury might fairly and reasonably infer from the evidence. For a JOA, the evidence presented by the State must have been so wanting that no view which the jury may lawfully take of it favorable to the opposite party can be sustained under the law. "A key legal point here. . .is that not just direct or circumstantial evidence counts toward the sufficient-evidence assessment, but also all reasonable inferences that could be drawn from that evidence to conclude the element has been adequately demonstrated." Fogarty v. State, 1D2021-2233 (12/18/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444893/opinion/Opinion_2021-2233.pdf

JOA-SEXUAL BATTERY-HELPLESS VICTIM: Sexual battery on a victim physically helpless to resist includes a victim who is unconscious, asleep, or for any other reason physically unable to communicate unwillingness to an act. Although neither Victim nor Defendant recalled the two having sex the night of the incident, the combination of evidence of Victim's debilitating state of drunkenness, her breasts exposed, her pants pulled down, his semen on her underwear and in her vagina, and Defendant running out the back of the apartment is sufficient to infer that Defendant had sex with Victim only after she was so drunk that there was no way she could have given intelligent, knowing, and voluntary consent. Fogarty v. State, 1D2021-2233 (12/18/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444893/opinion/Opinion_2021-2233.pdf

INFERENCE-PERIPHERY OF THE SPHERE: An inference is a permissible analytical move a factfinder may make in determining whether a proponent of a factual proposition has met the legally required burden of proof. Of course if none of the inferences on the one hand accords with logic and reason or human experience, while on the other hand an inference which does square with logic and reason or human experience is deducible from the evidence, the question is not for the jury but is one of law for the court. Often astute lawyers fail to appreciate the fact that when an appellate court has spoken of inferences which may be drawn from circumstantial evidence it meant assuredly that such inferences had to be susceptible of being deduced from within the periphery of the sphere of the circumstantial evidence and that when one goes beyond such point he has entered the field of conjecture and speculation. Fogarty v. State, 1D2021-2233 (12/18/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444893/opinion/Opinion_2021-2233.pdf

TRIAL-ABSENT DEFENDANT: Where Defendant failed to appear for trial after the jury was chosen because he had been drinking and drugging, nearly died, was taken to the hospital, and had not been discharged, Court erred in finding that he had voluntarily absented himself from the trial ("Everything the witness just stated sounds very voluntary to me") and continuing with the trial in his absence. Where Defendant's counsel provided ample explanation—through a witness who found him unresponsive and an attending nurse who could speak to his current medical status in the hospital—for why he was not present in court, it may not. "The most that can be inferred. . .is that Nipper engaged in terribly reckless behavior that nearly killed him. . .[T]he trial court erred when it relied on the voluntariness of Nipper's misconduct. . .to find, essentially, a 'forfeiture by wrongdoing.' The judicially developed forfeiture doctrine does not extend this far." Nipper v. State, 1D2022-1381 (12/18/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444944/opinion/Opinion_2022-1381.pdf

SAT CITO SI RECTE (J. ROWE, CONCURRING): "Sat Cito Si

Recte—Soon enough if correct." Nipper v. State, 1D2022-1381 (12/18/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444944/opinion/Opinion_2022-1381.pdf

APPEAL-TIMELINESS OF OPINION (J. ROWE, CONCURRING): Rule 2.250(a)(2) establishes 180 days from the oral argument date as the "presumptively reasonable" time for appellate courts to render a decision. As a matter of judicial integrity and humility, judges must strive to render decisions consistent with the motto Sat cito, si recte. But there are no shortcuts to justice. The legal principles and constitutional rights which have preserved us a nation are either observed or they are violated. No matter how well intended, there cannot be any 'homespun', 'living room' approaches to matters of such grave consequence to one's freedom. Nipper v. State, 1D2022-1381 (12/18/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444944/opinion/Opinion_2022-1381.pdf

JOA-ATTEMPTED SECOND DEGREE MURDER: To establish attempted second-degree murder, the State must show that (1) defendant intentionally committed an overt act that could have resulted in the death of the victim but did not, (2) the act was imminently dangerous to another and demonstrated a depraved mind without regard for human life, and (3) the overt act went beyond mere preparation. Shooting at the victim through a privacy curtain into the bathroom area because the victim was complaining about Defendant ("that slick mouth pissed [him] off") evinces a depraved mind. That, and being "the baddest motherfucker . . . in Dixie County." Mooney v. State, 1D2022-4160 (12/18/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444901/opinion/Opinion_2022-4160.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED-2ND° MURDER-AGGRAVATED ASSAULT: An instruction on aggravated assault as a lesser included to attempted second degree murder is not required where there was no evidence that the victim had a well-founded fear that Defendant was going to shoot her from the next room. Mooney v. State, 1D2022-4160 (12/18/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444901/opinion/Opinion_2022-4160.pdf

APPEAL: Two letters filed with the trial court stating that he felt "rushed" during his plea hearing and he wished to appeal the plea offer is not a notice of appeal. The letters should be treated as a motion to withdraw plea. Appeal dismissed. Rhodes v. State, 1D2023-0463 (12/18/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444906/opinion/Opinion_2023-0463.pdf

APPEAL-ANDERS BRIEF: Anders brief which fails to state that the appeal would be frivolous is legally insufficient. Anderson v. State, 1D2023-2573 (12/18/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444937/opinion/Opinion_2023-2573.pdf

APPEAL-ANDERS BRIEF: Appointed counsel for appeal must master the trial record, thoroughly research the law, and exercise judgment in identifying the arguments that may be advanced on appeal." Anders brief which consists of a single page containing only limited facts, lacks references to the record evidence or legal authorities and fails to address the testimony of several witnesses, disputes about the offense elements, Defendant's designation as a violent felony offender of special concern, and the propriety of a downward departure sentence is insufficient. Anderson v. State, 1D2023-2573 (12/18/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444937/opinion/Opinion_2023-2573.pdf

APPEAL-ANDERS BRIEF: "[W]e turn now to the continued viability of our current Anders procedures. Addressing the recurring of inadequacy in briefing led us to evaluate the procedures more broadly. . ., we found them to be in tension with our core neutral adjudicatory power." Appellate court's duty to scour record for issues conflicts with duty to address only properly raised issues. Question Certified: Does R. 9.140(g)(2) continue to accord with the fundamental principles of appellate review in a manner sufficient to invoke the court 's jurisdiction, and, if so, does it require appellate courts to depart from their roles as neutral arbiters? Anderson v. State, 1D2023-2573 (12/18/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444937/opinion/Opinion_2023-2573.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-DOG SNIFF-PROLONGED DETENTION: Detention was unlawfully prolonged where canine did not arrive at twelve minutes after it determined that no one in the car at a warrant or had committed an ascertainable crime. A traffic stop may last no longer than necessary for an officer to address the traffic violation that warranted the stop and attend to related safety concerns. If an officer can complete traffic-based inquiries expeditiously, then that is the amount of time reasonably required to complete the stop's mission. A traffic stop prolonged beyond that point is unlawful. Officer's equivocal testimony about what he was doing is insufficient to meet the State's burden to establish that the stop was not attenuated. Beecher v. State, 1D2024-0383 (12/18/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444939/opinion/Opinion_2024-0383.pdf

AGGRAVATED ANIMAL CRUELTY: Defendant who shot two dogs which had attacked his chickens inside a fenced-in chicken coop in his fenced-in yard, one of which was caught eating one of his chickens, is entitled to dismissal the charge of aggravated animal cruelty. Chickens by statute are domesticated animals. Barnes v. State, 1D2024-0701 (12/18/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444942/opinion/Opinion_2024-0701.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Two requirements must be met for a conviction to be set aside based on newly discovered evidence: First, the evidence 'must have been unknown by the trial court, by the party, or by counsel at the time of trial, and it must appear that defendant or his counsel could not have known of it by the use of due diligence. Second, the newly discovered evidence must be of such nature that it would probably produce an acquittal on retrial. Leggett v. State, 3D23-0305 (12/18/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444923/opinion/Opinion_2023-0305.pdf
STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: Once a suspect has requested the help of a lawyer, no state agent can reinitiate interrogation on any offense throughout the period of custody unless the lawyer is present. The admissibility of statements obtained after the person in custody has decided to remain silent depends under Miranda on whether his right to cut off questioning was scrupulously honored. State v. Lainez, 3D23-0755 (12/18/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444922/opinion/Opinion_2023-0755.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus is not a vehicle for obtaining additional appeals of issues which were raised or should have been raised on direct appeal, or which could have been, should have been, or were raised in post-conviction proceedings. Diaz v. Dixon, 3D24-0956 (12/18/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444899/opinion/Opinion_2024-0956.pdf

DUI-PROBABLE CAUSE: An officer may not arrest a DUI suspect on the basis of witnesses who saw drunk bar patron start her car but prevented her from leaving. LEO may execute a warrantless misdemeanor arrest for DUI in only three circumstances: (1) the officer witnesses each element of a prima facie case, (2) the officer is investigating an accident and develops probable cause to charge DUI, or (3) one officer calls upon another for assistance and the combined observations of the two or more officers are united to establish the probable cause to the arrest. Officer may not arrest for DUI when by the time the officer arrived, Defendant was outside of her car, which was turned off. Atwell v. State, 4D2024-0618 (12/18/23)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444883/opinion/Opinion_2024-0618.pdf

CITIZEN'S ARREST: To effectuate a valid citizen's arrest, the private citizen arrestor must deprive the defendant of her freedom to leave. A security guard does not effectuate a valid citizen's arrest by positioning his golf cart to block drunk Defendant from driving off. Atwell v. State, 4D2024-0618 (12/18/23)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444883/opinion/Opinion_2024-0618.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-DOG SNIFF-PROLONGED DETENTION: Stop was not unlawfully prolonged for canine to arrive where the sniff was performed within approximately five minutes of the initiation of the traffic stop and the investigating officer had not yet written the traffic violation warning. Green v. State, 6D2023-0835 (12/20/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2445084/opinion/Opinion_2023-0835.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-SIXTH AMENDMENT: To determine whether a defendant has been deprived of his constitutional right to a speedy trial, courts weigh four factors: (1) the length of the delay, (2) the reason for the delay, (3) the defendant's assertion of his right, and (4) the prejudice to the defendant. A defendant generally must show actual prejudice unless the first three factors all weigh heavily against the government. USA v. Ogiekpolor, No. 22-13428 (11th Cir. 12/16/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213428.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-SIXTH AMENDMENT: Although trial was delayed for well over a year, Defendant's constitutional speedy trial right was not violated because the reasons for the delay (COVID, Defendant's motions to extend time) do not weigh heavily against the government. USA v. Ogiekpolor, No. 22-13428 (11th Cir. 12/16/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213428.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-SIXTH AMENDMENT-ACTUAL PREJUDICE: To show actual prejudice, Defendant must show (1) oppressive pretrial incarceration, (2) his own anxiety and concern, or (3) the possibility that his defense was impaired because of the delay. Pretrial incarceration alone ordinarily does not amount to prejudice. USA v. Ogiekpolor, No. 22-13428 (11th Cir. 12/16/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213428.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL ACT: Speedy Trial Act requires the government to file an information or indictment within 30 days from the defendant's arrest. USA v. Ogiekpolor, No. 22-13428 (11th Cir. 12/16/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213428.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL ACT: Speedy Trial Act requires the government to bring the case to trial within 70 days from the defendant's arrest, excluding any time periods when the ends of justice outweigh the best interest of the public and the defendant in a speedy trial, considering whether the failure to grant the continuance would be likely to make a continuation of such proceeding impossible, or result in a miscarriage of justice; whether the case is so complex that it is unreasonable to expect adequate preparation within the time limits; and whether the denial of a continuance would deny either party reasonable time necessary for effective preparation. USA v. Ogiekpolor, No. 22-13428 (11th Cir. 12/16/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213428.pdf
SPEEDY TRIAL: Defendant's failure to move for dismissal prior to trial constitutes waiver of the right to dismissal for failure to indict within thirty days. His motion to dismiss based on the seventy day rule (trial) is not a motion to dismiss based on the thirty day rule (indictment). USA v. Ogiekpolor, No. 22-13428 (11th Cir. 12/16/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213428.pdf

STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION: When Congress drafts new legislation, it divides that legislation into sections, subsections, paragraphs, subparagraphs, clauses, subclauses, and items and refers to each level of that hierarchy by a unique word. A section is a unit below the subpart but above the subsection, whereas a paragraph starts with "(1)," a subparagraph begins with "(A)," and a clause commences with "(I)." USA v. Ogiekpolor, No. 22-13428 (11th Cir. 12/16/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213428.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL ACT: In deciding whether to grant an ends-of-justice continuance, a district court must consider a multiplicity of factors, i.e., adequate time for defense counsel and the government to prepare, number of witnesses, pending motions, anticipated trial time, conflicts in schedules of judges and trial counsel, etc., including the anticipated filing of a superseding indictment. USA v. Ogiekpolor, No. 22-13428 (11th Cir. 12/16/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213428.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Trial counsel was not ineffective for failing to obtain a delay of the Faretta hearing because he knew that Defendant had frontal lobe brain damage that could be impairing his judgment where Defendant had already had two court-appointed experts who found him competent to proceed notwithstanding potential brain damage from a past car accident and his mother's use of drugs and alcohol. USA v. Ogiekpolor, No. 22-13428 (11th Cir. 12/16/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213428.pdf

DUI-EXPERT-BLOOD LEVEL: Defendant's expert may testify about the Widmark formula for calculating blood-or breath-alcohol level at a particular point in time notwithstanding that no blood/breath test was performed. The statute criminalizes driving under the influence, regardless of whether based on the impairment of normal faculties or on an excessive blood-or breath alcohol level. Panaro v. State, 2D2023-1369 (12/13/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444702/opinion/Opinion_2023-1369.pdf

EVIDENCE-EXPERT: Where evidence tends in any way, even indirectly, to establish a reasonable doubt of the defendant's guilt, it is admissible. While the defense is bound by the same rules of evidence as the state, the question of what is relevant to show a reasonable doubt may present different considerations than the question of what is relevant to show the commission of the crime itself. "Simply put, Panaro gets the benefit of any doubt on the relevance of the proffered expert testimony." Panaro v. State, 2D2023-1369 (12/13/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444702/opinion/Opinion_2023-1369.pdf

FINES/COST: Court must individually pronounce discretionary fees, costs, and fines during a sentencing hearing to comply with due process requirements. Jenkins v. State, 5D2023-2800 (12/13/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444699/opinion/Opinion_2023-2800.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: When a jury rejects a claim of self-defense at trial beyond a reasonable doubt, there is no reasonable probability that a trial judge would have rendered a different judgment at a Stand-Your-Ground hearing with a lower standard of proof. James v. State, 6D2023-1486 (12/13/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444748/opinion/Opinion_2023-1486.pdf

CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPON BY FELON: How or if the weapon is used is not dispositive as to whether it is a deadly weapon. Possession of or carrying a concealed, common pocketknife by a convicted felon, without more, is not a crime. The same does not hold true for a machete. Whether a machete is a deadly weapon that could not be carried concealed by a convicted felon is for the jury to decide.

CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPON BY FELON: How or if the weapon is used is not dispositive as to whether it is a deadly weapon. Possession of or carrying a concealed, common pocketknife by a convicted felon, without more, is not a crime. The same does not hold true for a machete. Whether a machete is a deadly weapon that could not be carried concealed by a convicted felon is for the jury to decide. The initial analysis as to whether an object is an "other deadly weapon" under the concealed weapon statute at issue is guided by the object's design and construction, not its use. State v. Ivory, 6D2024-0121 (12/13/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444765/opinion/Opinion_2024-0121.pdf

BANK ROBBERY: Federal bank robbery is a crime of violence under the elements clause of §924(c)(3). USA v. Armstrong, No. 21-11252 (11th Cir. 12/11/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202111252.rem.pdf No. 21-11252

ATTEMPTED BANK ROBBERY: Attempted bank robbery under §2113(a) is a crime of violence because it requires as an element that the defendant acted "by force and violence, or by intimidation" in committing the inchoate crime. USA v. Armstrong, No. 21-11252 (11th Cir. 12/11/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202111252.rem.pdf No. 21-11252

CATEGORICAL APPROACH: An indivisible statute is one which sets out a single (or "indivisible'') set of elements to define a single crime, even though it may also spell out "various factual ways of committing some component of the offense." When faced with an indivisible statute, the categorical approach is used to determine whether the offense is a crime of violence. A divisible statute, on the other hand, may list elements in the alternative, and thereby define multiple crimes. When parsing a divisible statute, the modified categorical approach is used to determine whether the defendant committed a crime of violence, considering a limited set of documents—the indictment, jury instructions, plea agreement, and plea colloquy—to determine which specific crime, comprising which elements, the defendant committed. USA v. Armstrong, No. 21-11252 (11th Cir. 12/11/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202111252.rem.pdf No. 21-11252

ROBBERY/EXTORTION: Robbery and extortion are two distinct crimes, criminalizing the two separate offenses of bank robbery, on the one hand, and bank extortion, on the other. Robbery and extortion are alternate elements— amounting to separate crimes—not alternate means of committing one crime; the modified categorical approach applies. USA v. Armstrong, No. 21-11252 (11th Cir. 12/11/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202111252.rem.pdf No. 21-11252

SEXUAL PREDATOR: A Colorado conviction is a qualifying predicate for a Florida sexual predator designation. The Colorado "position of trust" is similar to Florida's "position of familial or custodial authority." "Given the identification in the Sexual Predators Act of a 'compelling interest in protecting the public from sexual predators and in protecting children from predatory sexual activity,' we strive to ensure that any interpretation of the phrase 'similar law of another jurisdiction' furthers the Act's stated purpose, rather than reading it so narrowly that we thwart its purpose." The Sexual Predators Act is meant to apply to offenders who have committed a sex crime (especially a sex crime against minors) in a foreign jurisdiction, regardless of whether the sex crime is identical to a Florida sex crime. Conflict certified. Debose v. State, 1D2022-0995 (12/11/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444595/opinion/Opinion_2022-0995.pdf

VENUE: Venue is an appropriate question for the jury; a defendant may move for JOA on the ground that the State failed to prove proper venue. Question certified. Debose v. State, 1D2022-0995 (12/11/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444595/opinion/Opinion_2022-0995.pdf

VENUE: Venue for unlawful use of a communication device may lie in the county where the message is received. Debose v. State, 1D2022-0995 (12/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444595/opinion/Opinion_2022-0995.pdf

VENUE (J. WINOKUR, CONCURRING): "I raise practical issues that occur when a jury is required to determine whether the State has proved venue, issues that demonstrate essential contradictions that call into question the entire concept of making venue a jury issue. . .[A]n analysis of the constitutional right to trial before a jury in the county where the crime was committed leads to the conclusion that venue is a question of law for the court and should never be brought before the jury as a question of fact at all." "[I]f the State has violated a defendant's constitutional rights by trying him in the wrong county, then a jury composed of citizens from the wrong county is vested with the responsibility of deciding whether it is the right jury to try the defendant. . .This seems to violate the very notion of a constitutional right to trial by a jury in the county where the crime occurred." Debose v. State, 1D2022-0995 (12/11/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444595/opinion/Opinion_2022-0995.pdf

EVIDENCE: Evidence that Defendant brought a second weapon–not the murder weapon but one with matching projectiles–is admissible, or if error, would be harmless. Johnson v. State, 1D2022-4051 (12/11/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444594/opinion/Opinion_2022-4051.pdf

APPEAL-NONVERBAL SIGNALS: Claim that counsel was ineffective for not investigating whether witness's counsel was giving the witness nonverbal signals during her trial is not cognizable on direct appeal. Johnson v. State, 1D2022-4051 (12/11/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444594/opinion/Opinion_2022-4051.pdf

VOP-UNCHARGED CONDUCT: A trial court may not revoke probation based on a ground not alleged in the violation of probation affidavit, but when a trial court relies on both proper and improper grounds to revoke probation, reliance on improper grounds does not require reversal when it is clear from the record that the trial court would have revoked probation based solely on proper grounds. Morrow v. State, 1D2024-0445 (12/11/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444627/opinion/Opinion_2024-0445.pdf

VOP: Where a condition of sex offender probation prohibited Defendant from accessing the Internet, watching Netflix movies online may constitute a willful and substantial violation. "Morrow's argument that using the internet should be considered a substantial violation only when the offender uses the internet to access pornography or to contact a minor is an effort to rewrite the probation statute and second-guess the legislature's policy choices." Morrow v. State, 1D2024-0445 (12/11/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444627/opinion/Opinion_2024-0445.pdf

WILLIAMS RULE NOTICE: No Williams Rule notice is required for evidence of offenses used for impeachment or on rebuttal. Paylan v. State, 2D2022-0304 (12/11/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444588/opinion/Opinion_2022-0304.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: "The recurring theme in all her challenges, from the initial investigation to date, has been that someone on the other side or in cahoots with the other side is lying, whether out of personal animus, for personal gain, or to cover their own incompetence. But even if she were right, it would not be our role to 'fix' it. We may not be swayed by concerns of factual guilt or innocence. Nor may we decide the credibility of witnesses. To the contrary, we are affirmatively precluded from doing those things." Paylan v. State, 2D2022-0304 (12/11/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444588/opinion/Opinion_2022-0304.pdf

HABITUAL FELONY OFFENDER: Before a trial court may impose a habitual felony offender sentence, it must find, based on record evidence, that the defendant has been previously convicted of any combination of two or more felonies and that the current felony occurred either (a) while the defendant was serving a prison sentence or lawfully imposed supervision as a result of a prior felony conviction; or (b) within five years from the date of conviction for the defendant's last prior felony or within five years from the date of the defendant's release from prison or supervision for a prior felony offense. Thus, the State must provide record evidence of the date of the current felony offense, the date of the conviction for the last prior felony, and the date the defendant was released from any prison term or supervision imposed for the last felony conviction. Mathis v. State, 2D2023-1764 (12/11/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444590/opinion/Opinion_2023-1764.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: Before a PRR sentence may be imposed, the State is required to submit evidence that the offender's current offense was committed within three years of his release from custody on a prior offense. Mathis v. State, 2D2023-1764 (12/11/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444590/opinion/Opinion_2023-1764.pdf
HFO/PRR SENTENCING: Where Court received and reviewed sentencing packet that was made part of the record, but it was never removed or received in evidence, evidence is insufficient to support the trial court's finding that defendant qualifies as a HFO or a PRR. Mathis v. State, 2D2023-1764 (12/11/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444590/opinion/Opinion_2023-1764.pdf

CIVIL RESTITUTION LIEN: If inmate is convicted for a capital or life felony, the convicted offender is liable for incarceration costs and other correctional costs in the liquidated damage amount of $250,000. DOC may use this civil restitution lien to offset damages owed to the inmate for his treatment in prison. "Although we may share the trial court's concerns about the use of the civil restitution lien in this manner, the FDOC pursued a remedy which it was entitled to pursue." D.O.C. v. O'Neal, 2D2023-2495 (12/11/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444593/opinion/Opinion_2023-2495.pdf

ATTORNEY-CONFLICT: Attorney is disqualified from representing Defendant where he had earlier twice consulted with the co-Defendant on the same case and the co-Defendant, with other counsel, later flipped on Defendant and then died. Although the Sixth Amendment's right to counsel creates a presumption favoring a defendant's choice of counsel, that right is not absolute and may be overcome not only by a demonstration of actual conflict but by a showing of a serious potential for conflict. The fact that the codefendant died does not render the trial court's decision as error because the privilege continues after the individual's death. Landis v. State, 4D2023-0390 (12/11/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444645/opinion/Opinion_2023-0390.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: Cumulative 40 year sentence, intended to ensure that the Defendant "never see the light of day" is lawful and not based on improper considerations. State's argument that Defendant "is not just a drug trafficker in Martin County, he is the drug trafficker in Martin County" is not improper. Judges are routinely made aware of information which may not be properly considered in determining a cause. Our judicial system is dependent upon the ability of trial judges to disregard improper information and to adhere to the requirements of the law in deciding a case or in imposing a sentence. Landis v. State, 4D2023-0390 (12/11/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444645/opinion/Opinion_2023-0390.pdf

VOP-CONDITIONS: Court may not revoke probation based upon defendant's failure to remain confined to his approved residence after curfew and his failure to obey instructions from his probation officer. Although these are standard conditions of probation, the trial court did not orally pronounce these conditions at sentencing, nor were these conditions included in the written sentencing order. Okwor v. State, 4D2023-0495 (12/11/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444622/opinion/Opinion_2023-0495.pdf

VOP: Court cannot revoke probation for violating a condition unilaterally imposed by his probation supervisor under the general condition requiring compliance with a probation supervisor's instructions. Okwor v. State, 4D2023-0495 (12/11/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444622/opinion/Opinion_2023-0495.pdf

TRIAL-REMOVAL FROM COURTROOM: Defendant who routinely

interrupted the trial judge and spoke out of turn, even after multiple warnings, may be removed from the proceedings. Bless v. State, 4D2023-2007 (12/11/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444639/opinion/Opinion_2023-2007.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: Defendant did not preserve the issue where he did not make a timely, contemporaneous objection to his removal from the courtroom. Bless v. State, 4D2023-2007 (12/11/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444639/opinion/Opinion_2023-2007.pdf

COST OF INCARCERATION: DOC—as an agent of the State— may move for liquidated damages (a civil restitution lien order) for costs of incarceration: Dixon v. Montero, 4D2024-1318 (12/11/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444635/opinion/Opinion_2024-1318.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: The holding in Lewars--that release from jail rather than prison does not qualify Defendant for later PRR sentencing– does not apply retroactively. Conflict certified. Linden v. State, 4D2024-1544 (12/11/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444644/opinion/Opinion_2024-1544.pdf

CIVIL LIABILITY-SOCIAL MEDIA: Where the complaint fails to allege actual knowledge, online social media platform that randomly places anonymous people in video chatrooms where some (known as "cappers") induce children to perform sex acts online is not civilly liable for knowingly possessing child pornography nor knowingly benefitting from participation in a sex trafficking venture. M.H. v. Omegle.com, No. 22-10338 (11th Cir. 12/9/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210338.pdf

EVIDENCE-ARGUMENT: Where a video is admitted into evidence but only a part of it published--the balance was objected to as not authenticated--Defendant may not publish during closing argument, nor invite the jury to view during deliberations, the unpublished portions. "Simmons relies on the fact that the entire exhibit had already been admitted into evidence, but that does not move the needle. The district court was operating well within its discretion here when it concluded that Simmons was trying to introduce new evidence rather than summarize and argue from evidence the jury had already heard." USA v. Simmons, No. 22-12148 (11th Cir. 12/6/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212148.pdf

VOP: Defendant did not willfully violate probation by not reporting to the probation office within 72 hours when the office had relocated, he was given an incorrect address, and he tried to report there. Del Corral v. State, 5D2023-2205 (12/6/24) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444396/opinion/Opinion_2023-2205.pdf

VOP: Before a probationer can be imprisoned for failure to pay a monetary obligation such as restitution, the trial court must inquire into a probationer's ability to pay and make an explicit finding of willfulness. In all probation revocation proceedings in which the violation alleged is a failure to pay a monetary obligation, the State must present sufficient evidence of the probationer's willfulness, which includes evidence on ability to pay, to support a finding of willfulness. Del Corral v. State, 5D2023-2205 (12/6/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444396/opinion/Opinion_2023-2205.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Newly discovered evidence that birth parents were former high school students who later went to college and had successful careers dowe not warrant relief from his death sentence. Randolph v. State, SC2024-0273 (12/5/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444349/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0273.pdf

WILLIAMS RULE: In child sex abuse case, four witness's testimony about unrelated sexual molestation is admissible. Gianino v. State, 1D2022-4154 (12/4/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444224/opinion/Opinion_2022-4154.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: The minimum cost of prosecution is mandatory regardless of whether the State requests it. Harris v. State, 1D2023-0027 (12/4/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444226/opinion/Opinion_2023-0027.pdf

AUTOPSY PHOTOS: Where photographs are relevant, Court must determine whether the gruesomeness of the portrayal is so inflammatory as to create undue prejudice. Crime scene and autopsy were relevant to explain the crime scene and to show the victim's position (standing and at close range) when shot. Harris v. State, 1D2023-0027 (12/4/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444226/opinion/Opinion_2023-0027.pdf

TEXT MESSAGES-AUTHENTICITY: The requirement that evidence be authenticated as a condition of its admissibility is satisfied by evidence sufficient to support a finding that a matter in question is what its proponent claims. Text messages on witness's phone and identified as coming from Defendant are sufficiently authenticated. Harris v. State, 1D2023-0027 (12/4/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444226/opinion/Opinion_2023-0027.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: There cannot be a cognizable claim for ineffective assistance of appellate counsel once a panel of the appellate court, in the underlying appeal, has conducted the Anders review to discover any arguable issues. Martin v. State, 1D2024-0261 (12/4/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444246/opinion/Opinion_2024-0261.pdf

MISTRIAL: The granting of a motion for mistrial is not based on whether the error is prejudicial. Rather, the comments must either deprive the defendant of a fair and impartial trial, materially contribute to the conviction, be so harmful or fundamentally tainted as to require a new trial, or be so inflammatory that they might have influenced the jury to reach a more severe verdict than that it would have otherwise. Marin v. State, 3D23-1061 (12/4/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444282/opinion/Opinion_2023-1061.pdf

JOA: The standard to be applied in all cases when analyzing the sufficiency of the evidence is whether the State presented competent, substantial evidence to support the verdict. Tufenkjian v. State, 3D23-1897 (12/4/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444284/opinion/Opinion_2023-1897.pdf

POSSESSION: Knowledge of the presence of the contraband and its illicit nature can be inferred or presumed when Defendant is in exclusive possession of the automobile when it is stopped. Tufenkjian v. State, 3D23-1897 (12/4/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444284/opinion/Opinion_2023-1897.pdf

PARAPHERNALIA: Factors to be considered in determining whether an object is drug paraphernalia include the proximity of the object to controlled substances and expert testimony concerning its use. Tufenkjian v. State, 3D23-1897 (12/4/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444284/opinion/Opinion_2023-1897.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A second or successive motion is an extraordinary pleading. As such, it is subject to dismissal if it fails to allege new or different grounds for relief and the prior determination was on the merits. Pickett v. State, 3D24-0401 (12/4/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444291/opinion/Opinion_2024-0401.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-JIMMY RYCE: Absent an allegation of ineffective assistance of counsel, a habeas corpus petition to challenge an involuntary commitment as a sexually violent predator must be filed in the county where the facility in which the subject is confined. Jordan v. State, 3D24-0811 (12/4/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444271/opinion/Opinion_2024-0811.pdf

EXPERT/LAY WITNESS: When a witness testifies in a dual capacity, i.e., as both a lay witness and an expert witness, the district court must ensure that the lay opinions satisfy R. 701 and that the expert opinions satisfy R. 702. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

EXPERT-GANGS: Court erred in excluding Defendants' expert on gangs to rebut Government's extensive evidence suggesting that their Miami gang activity was affiliated with the Bloods gang or a Bloods-affiliated gang. "In the law, what's sauce for the goose is normally sauce for the gander." Where the government presents evidence to support a certain theory, a defendant is entitled to rebut that theory with evidence of his own. Expert testimony can be used to counter an opponent's fact or lay opinion testimony. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

EXPERT: With the exception of testimony on the mental state or condition of a defendant, there is no categorical prohibition on expert testimony concerning an ultimate issue of fact. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

EXPERT-RICO: In RICO case, Defendants' qualified expert in criminal gangs should have been allowed to give his opinion that the gang was not a criminal enterprise involved in or affecting interstate commerce. Just because an element of an offense has a legal definition (or prescribed legal parameters) does not mean that it is transformed into a question of law. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

ON THE OTHER HAND...: "We pause for a moment here to note that several circuits have held that the existence of an enterprise is not an element of a §1962(d) conspiracy. . .But others have come to a different conclusion. . .Some of our decisions suggest the that the existence of an enterprise is not an element of a §1962(d) offense. . . But one of our early cases points in a different direction." USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

RICO-ENTERPRISE: In addition to predicate crimes, a RICO conspiracy charge requires proof of an enterprise, of the continuing racketeering activity, and of the defendant's knowledge of, agreement to, and participation in the conspiracy. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

RICO-ENTERPRISE: An enterprise must have an ascertainable structure beyond that inherent in the pattern of racketeering activity in which it engages. An association-in-fact enterprise must have at least three structural features: a purpose, relationships among those associated with the enterprise, and longevity sufficient to permit these associates to pursue the enterprise's purpose. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

CONSPIRACY: 21 U.S.C. §846 does not require proof that a coconspirator commit an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INCIDENT TO ARREST: Where Defendant is handcuffed and taken to police station for questioning, gun may be seized incident to arrest even though officers subjectively believed Defendant was not under arrest or that he went to the police station "voluntarily" while handcuffed in the back of a police car. The character of a seizure as arrest or Terry stop depends on the nature and degree of intrusion, not on whether the officer pronounces the detainee "under arrest." USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

ARREST-PROBABLE CAUSE: Defendant may be lawfully arrested for driving an unregistered vehicle in violation of §320.02, a second-degree misdemeanor. It does not matter that the officers could have issued traffic citations rather than execute an arrest. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CARPORT: Entering open carport to talk to Defendant seated there is lawful under the knock-and-talk exception. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

SEVERANCE: As a general rule, defendants who are indicted together are usually tried together. A defendant does not suffer compelling prejudice, sufficient to mandate a severance simply because much of the evidence at trial is applicable only to co-defendants. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-BATSON: In evaluating a claim that a peremptory strike is racially discriminatory: First, a defendant must make a prima facie showing that a peremptory challenge has been exercised on the basis of race. Second, if that showing has been made, the prosecution must offer a race-neutral basis for striking the juror in question. Third, in light of the parties' submissions, the trial court must determine whether the defendant has shown purposeful discrimination. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-BATSON: In assessing discriminatory intent, Court should consider how reasonable, or how improbable, the explanations are; and by whether the proffered rationale has some basis in accepted trial strategy. Other relevant factors at include (1) statistical evidence about the prosecutor's use of peremptory strikes against black prospective jurors as compared to white prospective jurors in the case;

(2) evidence of a prosecutor's disparate questioning and investigation of black and white prospective jurors in the case; (3) "side-by-side comparisons of black prospective jurors who were struck and white prospective jurors who were not struck in the case; (4) a prosecutor's misrepresentations of the record when defending the strikes during the Batson hearing; and (5) other relevant circumstances. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-BATSON: No discriminatory intent is shown where nearly 1/3 of the jury pool was black and the jury ultimately selected was 1/3 black. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-BATSON: No discriminatory intent shown where the "government took some liberties in describing some of the prospective Black jurors' answers, but its descriptions were not a 'series of factually inaccurate explanations.'" Mistaken explanations should not be confused with racial discrimination. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

JURORS-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-BATSON: A juror's familiarity with—and thus potential bias for or against—the particular geographic setting of a case (and the defendants who hail from that area) can be a legitimate reason for the use of a peremptory strike. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

ISSUE-PRESERVATION: Where Court denied motion in limine without prejudice and advised Defendant to reassert the objection at trial, but he did not, he did not preserve the issue. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

EVIDENCE-SOCIAL MEDIA POSTS: Defendant's social media post ("My uncle fish gave me the game, my Aunte Danielle showed me the way, and ma n*s got me this far.") is admissible as a statement against Defendant's interest. "It is true that there is nothing facially self-inculpatory about Jerimaine's Facebook post. . .But a 'facially neutral statement[ ] might actually be against a declarant's interest. . . And a statement's context elucidates its meaning. . . '[T]he game" likely meant 'narcotics sales.'" USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

CONFRONTATION CLAUSE: Admission of Facebook post as a prior consistent statement does not violate the Confrontation Clause. "Simply put, Jerimaine could not have reasonably anticipated that a social media post, made years before his arrest, would be used in court. The statement is therefore nontestimonial and the Confrontation Clause does not apply." USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

HEARSAY-PRIOR CONSISTENT STATEMENT: A prior consistent statement by a witness is not hearsay if (1) the declarant testifies and is subject to cross-examination on the statement; and (2) the statement is consistent with the declarant's testimony and is offered to rebut an express or implied charge that the declarant recently fabricated it or acted from a recent improper influence or motive in so testifying. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

EVIDENCE-REHABILITATION: R. 801(d)(1)(B) does not limit the scope of rehabilitation to the precise issues on which witness was impeached. The scope of the use of a recording for rehabilitation is within the discretion of the court. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

ADOPTIVE ADMISSION: The issue is close, but Court did not abuse its discretion in admitting Defendant's "giggle and smirk" reaction to a co-conspirator's statement about participating in a murder. Non-verbal reactions like silence and a head-nod may be adoptive admissions. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

ADOPTIVE ADMISSION: When a statement is offered as an adoptive admission, Court must determine as a whether (1) the statement was such that, under the circumstances, an innocent defendant would normally be induced to respond and (2) there are sufficient foundational facts from which the jury could infer that the defendant heard, understood, and acquiesced in the statement. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE: Where Appellants insufficient brief and argue an issue, it will not be considered on appeal. Appellants "do not tell us with sufficient specificity what 'other acts' were actually and improperly introduced against them at trial; for what purpose those 'other acts' were presented; and when during the trial those 'other acts' were introduced. Saying that they included acts of mugging, auto theft, fleeing and eluding, possession of firearms, etc. is not enough." To properly present an issue on appeal, appellants must identify exactly the evidence they challenge. "We decline to sift through a transcript of nearly 8,000 pages to figure out and resolve their arguments." And specifying those matters in the reply brief is too late. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

RULE OF SEQUESTRATION: A violation of the rule of sequestration does not require the automatic exclusion of testimony. Court erred in excluding testimony of witness who viewed parts of the trial before changing her mind about testifying. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf
APPEAL-HARMLESS ERROR: Where Government fails to argue on appeal harmless error, the appellate court has discretion to sua sponte determine whether an error is harmless. But that discretion is not an obligation. "Nothing about this case is amenable to a sua sponte review for harmlessness. . .The trial transcript is nearly 8,000 pages long, and the exhibit pages number in the thousands. . .To determine the effect of the exclusion of Dr. de la Cruz on the six defendants convicted of the RICO conspiracy charge, we would have to sift through the voluminous record. . .-- a task not generally befitting of an appellate court." USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

FAIR TRIAL: "We do not vacate convictions in cases like this one lightly. And we appreciate the immense undertaking required of all parties to bring this case to trial, and acknowledge that it would be equally or even more burdensome to do it again years later. But paramount to our sensitivity for the government's limited resources and the district court's docket is our duty to ensure that the defendants receive a fair trial." USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

RICO-UNANIMOUS VERDICT: For a RICO conspiracy charge the jury need only be unanimous as to the types of racketeering acts that the defendants agreed to commit. It is not necessary to prove the specific predicate acts that supported a RICO conspiracy charge in order to prove a defendant's participation in a RICO conspiracy. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

RICO: Government does not have to establish that each conspirator explicitly agreed with every other conspirator to commit the substantive predicate RICO crime described in the indictment. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

RICO: One who uses a gang handshake may be regarded as a gang member. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

RICO-JUVENILE: Defendant may be found guilty of RICO notwithstanding that a large portion conspiracy occurred while he was a juvenile and therefore were delinquencies rather than felonies. When there was one continuous conspiracy and the defendant's membership in that conspiracy straddled his 18th birthday, his juvenile acts can be the sole basis for guilt. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

SENTENCING: A RICO conspirator may be held accountable for his co-conspirator's actions (here, murder) if they were reasonably foreseeable and in furtherance of the conspiracy, even if he did not personally participate in those actions. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-DRUG QUANTITY: A drug quantity may be based on the lowest estimated figures for daily sales. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

RICO-PARTICIPATION-DRUG QUANTITY: "Bryant asserts that he should not be held accountable for crack cocaine sold during the three years he spent in prison after joining the DSBF in 2010. The evidence, however, showed that he joined the narcotics conspiracy as early as 2010 and, other than his self-serving assertion to the contrary, he provided no evidence to establish that he withdrew from the conspiracy when he went to prison." Neither arrest nor incarceration automatically triggers withdrawal from a conspiracy. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

SENTENCING-FIREARM-ENHANCEMENT: Firearm enhancement should be applied if the weapon was present, unless it is clearly improbable that the weapon was connected with the offense. Proximity between guns and drugs alone is sufficient for the enhancement. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-ENHANCEMENT-THREAT OF VIOLENCE: A single incident of violence is enough for application of the threat of violence enhancement. USA v. Graham, No. 19-10332 (11th Cir. 12/2/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201910332.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-PRETRIAL DETENTION-NEBBIA HEARING: Court may not maintain a Nebbia hold on Defendant after bondsman and Defendant's mother established that the funds for the bond came from a non-criminal sources (social security check, her checking account, and some funds that were sent to her from friends and relatives). Mother's ability to pay the promissory note to the bail bondsman is not relevant to the Nebbia analysis. Her ongoing financial status has nothing to do with whether the funds used to post the appearance bond were derived from illegal sources, and verges on the proscription against pretrial detention merely for being indigent. Jenkins v. State, 3D2024-1998 (12/2/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444104/opinion/Opinion_2024-1998.pdf

HABITUAL OFFENDER: Defendant may not be habitualized on the basis of a prior conviction that did not sufficiently identify him by anything except the name. A certified copy of conviction with illegible fingerprints, no picture no date of birth nor a Social Security number is insufficient. State can prove that a prior conviction belongs to a defendant in several ways, such as fingerprint analysis, photographic evidence, or social security number, but may not be proved by name identity alone. Williams v. State, 4D2023-2253 (12/4/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444244/opinion/Opinion_2023-2253.pdf

SENTENCING: Court's oral pronouncement of a sentence controls over the written sentencing document. When the written document results in a sentence that is more severe than the sentence announced in court, the sentence is illegal. Dimitrion v. State, 4D2023-2259 (12/4/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444250/opinion/Opinion_2023-2259.pdf

INVESTIGATIVE COSTS: Court may not impose $50 investigative costs if requested by the law enforcement agencies. A prosecutor cannot seek costs on behalf of an agency without that agency's request. Dimitrion v. State, 4D2023-2259 (12/4/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444250/opinion/Opinion_2023-2259.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS: In car burglary/robbery with a shooting case, Williams Rule evidence of forty or fifty other car burglary/robberies committed by the Defendant while wearing a mask is inadmissible as in sufficiently similar and unduly prejudicial, particularly where the testimony about the earlier burglaries came from a flipping codefendant without corroboration. Music v. State, 4D2024-0018 (12/4/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444257/opinion/Opinion_2024-0018.pdf

INCOMPETENCE-COMMITMENT: Court's findings that Defendant "meets the criteria for commitment. . .and restoration of competency related abilities" based on being "clearly delusional. . . [with] irrational beliefs and opinions," and having "no family or friends in Jacksonville" and no place to live fall short of making the required specific findings. Involuntary commitment quashed. D.L.D. v. State, 5D2024-2623 (12/3/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444143/opinion/Opinion_2024-2623.pdf

NOVEMBER 2024

JUDGE-DISCIPLINE: A 60-day suspension without pay and a public reprimand imposed on the judge who yelled at a litigant who was trying to find a seat ("[C]ould you shut up and sit down. . .You want to be held in contempt and go to jail? I asked you a fg question, ae."). Judges must conduct themselves with integrity and be patient, dignified, and courteous toward others in official settings. Inquiry Concerning a Judge re: Hon. Wayne Culver, SC2022-0846(11/27/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444076/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0846.pdf

JUDGE-DISCIPLINE: A 25-day suspension without pay and a public reprimand imposed on a judge who ran on a platform that he would support law enforcement and that criminals would not be happy to see him on the bench. A judicial candidate may not impliedly pledge to favor law enforcement. There are few campaign tactics more corrosive to the integrity and impartiality of the judicial system than a candidate broadcasting his or her support for one party or another. Inquiry Concerning a Judge re: Hon.

John B. Flynn, SC2023-1435 (11/27/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444077/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1435.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Convictions for both first-degree and second-degree murder violates double jeopardy. First-degree felony murder and second-degree murder are degrees of the same offense. Gould v. State, 1D2023-0821 (11/27/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444025/opinion/Opinion_2023-0821.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: A double jeopardy violation is fundamental error that may be addressed for the first time on appeal. Gould v. State, 1D2023-0821 (11/27/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444025/opinion/Opinion_2023-0821.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: Although the trial court failed to make the required written findings on whether Defendant posed a danger to the community, he failed to preserve the issue by filing a motion to correct. Norman v. State, 1D2023-1069 (11/27/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444026/opinion/Opinion_2023-1069.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: When a defendant challenges a conviction by asserting ineffective assistance of counsel, he must show that there is a reasonable probability that, but for counsel's unprofessional errors, the result of the proceeding would have been different. Defendant, who had beaten his cellmate to death over the course of days cannot show prejudice. "An assessment of the likelihood of a result more favorable to the defendant must exclude the possibility of arbitrariness, whimsy, caprice, 'nullification,' and the like. A defendant has no entitlement to the luck of a lawless decisionmaker." Johnson v. State, 1D2023-1640 (11/27/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444027/opinion/Opinion_2023-1640.pdf

MANDAMUS: Court must rule on Defendant's motion to mitigate, notwithstanding that it was not separately docketed with the circuit court; it is considered filed on the date it was conveyed to prison officials for mailing. Shirah v. State, 1D2023-1833 (11/27/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444029/opinion/Opinion_2023-1833.pdf

STATEMENTS OF a DEFENDANT: A confession cannot be found to be involuntary without coercive police conduct. Brown v. State, 1D2023-2080 (11/27/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444030/opinion/Opinion_2023-2080.pdf

APPEAL-INMATE: Access to a prison law library is not necessary to prepare and transmit a simple notice of appeal and lack of that access did not demonstrate a right to a belated appeal. Edenfield v. State, 1D2024-2191 (11/27/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444052/opinion/Opinion_2024-2191.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: Court may not consider dismissed charges, unsubstantiated allegations of misconduct, or speculation about defendant committing future crimes. Court improperly considered charges that had been dropped in prior shootings involving the Defendant in determining the sentence. If the record is at all unclear whether a trial court considered improper sentencing factors, the sentence must be reversed. Alhasani v. State, 2D2023-1525 (11/27/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444008/opinion/Opinion_2023-1525.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: Reliance on improper sentencing factors is a due process violation that results in fundamental error; an appellant raising such an argument is not required to have preserved that argument below. Alhasani v. State, 2D2023-1525 (11/27/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444008/opinion/Opinion_2023-1525.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: No part of the time that the defendant is on probation or in community control shall be considered as any part of the time that he or she shall be sentenced to serve. Probation is a minimal restraint on liberty compared with incarceration, and a probationary period is not considered to be a "sentence." Kelly v. State, 2D2024-1934 (11/27/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444011/opinion/Opinion_2024-1934.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Where an initial motion for post-conviction relief raises the claim of ineffective assistance of counsel, the trial court may summarily deny a successive motion which raises additional grounds for ineffective assistance. Barrett v. State, 3D24-0546 (11/27/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444044/opinion/Opinion_2024-0546.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: When a trial judge's spouse or immediate family member is employed by the State Attorney's Office in the same judicial circuit where the trial judge is presiding over criminal cases and does not have supervisory authority over prosecutors appearing before the judge, recusal of the trial judge is not required. Guzzi v. State, 3D24-0659 (11/27/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444062/opinion/Opinion_2024-0659.pdf

VFOSC: Where a court orally pronounces a reason for its finding that the defendant, as a violent felony offender or of special concern, poses a danger to the community, but fails to provide written reasons for its finding, the proper remedy is to affirm the revocation of the defendant's probation, but remand for entry of a written order conforming to the court's oral pronouncement. Resentencing is not required. Hart v. State, 4D2023-1691 (11/27/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444064/opinion/Opinion_2023-1691.pdf

DISMISSAL-INVITED ERROR: Where State reneged on its waiver of jury trial and refused to call witnesses, Court may dismiss the case. In the absence of a motion to dismiss or a statute permitting the dismissal, the prosecutor generally has the sole discretion to dismiss criminal charges. But where the state refuses to proceed without a good faith reason, the trial court does not abuse its discretion by dismissing charges. "Here, the state never formally sought to revoke its consent to the jury trial waiver, waited until the day of trial to seek a jury trial, and did not move for a continuance. . .This cavalier refusal by the new ASA was compounded by her failure to suggest . . .a reasonable alternative. . .The state cannot now complain of error for which the state itself is responsible and which the state, in essence, invited the trial court to make." State v. Poitier, 4D2024-01206 (11/27/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444078/opinion/Opinion_2024-0106.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Court may not summarily deny motion for postconviction relief without attaching records showing no entitlement for relief. Sending hearing and trial transcripts up on appeal is not enough. The State's argument requires that this Court replace the trial court and examine the record in the first instance, which would actually hurt judicial efficiency. To accept the State's position, the work of trial courts would shift to the appellate court, unfairly and adversely affecting other litigants. Jackson v. State, 4D2024-0126 (11/27/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444080/opinion/Opinion_2024-0126.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant voluntarily dismisses his motion for postconviction relief, Court errs in dismissing it with prejudice. Johnson v. State, 6D2023-1929 (11/27/24) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444083/opinion/Opinion_2023-1929.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ABANDONMENT: Where Defendant abandoned backpack while fleeing, Officers did not need a warrant to open it and break the lock to the container in it. State v. Howard, 6D2023-4057 (11/27/24) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2444085/opinion/Opinion_2023-4057.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ISSUE PRESERVATION-MARIJUANA: Defendant failed to adequately challenge the frisk of his person where the motion challenged only the search of the car based on the odor of marijuana. "[T]he item Simmons seeks to suppress—the firearm—was not found in the car. He has not presented us with any legal argument regarding

why the search of his person was unlawful, and we are not at liberty to craft that argument for him." Simmons v. State, 2D2023-0953 (11/22/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443743/opinion/Opinion_2023-0953.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-MARIJUANA: The odor of burnt marijuana, perhaps combined with erratic driving—not raw marijuana alone–justifies a search. Simmons v. State, 2D2023-0953 (11/22/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443743/opinion/Opinion_2023-0953.pdf

DICTA/HOLDING: A holding consists of those propositions along the chosen decisional path or paths of reasoning that (1) are actually decided, (2) are based upon the facts of the case, and (3) lead to the judgment. If not a holding, a proposition stated in a case counts as dicta. Any statement of law in a judicial opinion that is not a holding is dictum. Simmons v. State, 2D2023-0953 (11/22/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443743/opinion/Opinion_2023-0953.pdf

OTHER BAD ACTS-CHILD SEX ABUSE: When a defendant is charged with a crime involving child molestation, evidence of the defendant's commission of other crimes, wrongs, or acts of child molestation is admissible and may be considered for its bearing on any matter to which it is relevant. A defendant's commission of other acts of child molestation is admissible regardless of whether the charged and collateral offenses occurred in the familial context or whether they share any similarity. Court must make a finding of relevancy (whether the evidence tends to prove or disprove a material fact) before performing the balancing test (probative value versus unfair prejudice). State v. Riggleman, 2D2024-0691 (11/22/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443753/opinion/Opinion_2024-0691.pdf

EVIDENCE-GENERAL CHARACTERISTICS: General criminal behavior testimony based upon an officer's experience with other cases is inadmissible as substantive proof of a defendant's guilt. General criminal behavior testimony used to show that a defendant's conduct mirrored that of other drug sellers is inadmissible. A defendant has a right to be tried based on the evidence against him or her, not on the characteristics or general behavior of certain classes of criminals. Lawrence v. State, 5D2023-3653 (11/22/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443752/opinion/Opinion_2023-3653.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Imposition of the cost of prosecution is mandatory and need not be requested. Conflict recognized. J.S., A Child v. State, 5D2024-0295 (11/22/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443750/opinion/Opinion_2024-0295.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to pursue and file a mental health evaluation is legally insufficient where Defendant does not claim to be incompetent to stand trial, but he must be provided an opportunity to amend his claim. Villaba-Santos v. State, 5D2024-0875 (11/22/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443755/opinion/Opinion_2024-0875.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to retain an expert to rebut State's expert that the gun was functional is legally insufficient where Defendant does not allege the substance of an expert's testimony and how that omitted testimony prejudiced him, but he must be provided an opportunity to amend his claim. Villaba-Santos v. State, 5D2024-0875 (11/22/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443755/opinion/Opinion_2024-0875.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: Imposition of the statutorily specified minimum cost of prosecution is mandatory and State does not need to specifically request it. Beauty v. State, 5D2024-1166 (11/22/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443760/opinion/Opinion_2024-1166.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A claim that should have been raised on direct appeal is procedurally barred. Mosley v. State, SC2023-1091

(11/21/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443730/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1091.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Upon remand, Defendant may not raise a new claim of recently discovered evidence (that the medical examiner was impaired) which exceeds the scope of the remand. Mosley v. State, SC2023-1091 (11/21/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443730/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1091.pdf

NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: To succeed on a claim of newly discovered evidence, Defendant must establish two prongs: first, that the evidence was not known by the trial court, the party, or counsel at the time of trial and it could not have been discovered through due diligence at the time of trial; and, second, that the newly discovered evidence is of such a nature that it would probably produce an acquittal on retrial. Here, it would not have. The mother was immolated and the child asphyxiated. Mosley v. State, SC2023-1091 (11/21/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443730/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1091.pdf

APPEAL: Defendant may not appeal an order granting a judgment of acquittal. A party to the cause may appeal only from a decision that is in some respect adverse to him. Wakely v. State, 1D2023-0245 (11/20/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443644/opinion/Opinion_2023-0245.pdf

CONTINUANCE: When faced with a party's motion to continue for insufficient time to prepare for trial, a trial court should take account of the following factors: 1) the time available for preparation, 2) the likelihood of prejudice from the denial, 3) the defendant's role in shortening preparation time, 4) the complexity of the case, 5) the availability of discovery, 6) the adequacy of counsel actually provided, and 7) the skill and experience of chosen counsel and his pre-retention experience with either the defendant or the alleged crime. Rasmussen v. State, 1D2023-1984 (11/20/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443657/opinion/Opinion_2023-1984.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel is not ineffective for failing to call civilian witnesses to support Defendant's insanity due to anxiolytic withdrawal syndrome defense (she had abruptly stopped taking Xanax) where they would have undermined the timeline of the expert witness. Thomason v. State, 3D22-1991 (11/20/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443615/opinion/Opinion_2022-1991.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: Generally, on-the-scene questioning which is customarily made by investigating officers during the fact-finding process does not constitute custodial interrogation because during this early on-the-scene investigatory stage, where the police have not focused on a suspect, and the questioning is not accusatory or has its core purpose the intent to elicit a confession, Miranda is not implicated. Thomason v. State, 3D22-1991 (11/20/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443615/opinion/Opinion_2022-1991.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Strategic choices made after thorough investigation of law and facts relevant to plausible options are virtually unchallengeable and strategic choices made after less than complete investigation are reasonable precisely to the extent that reasonable professional judgments support the limitations on investigation. decisions are generally not subject to postconviction attack. A particular decision not to investigate must be directly assessed for reasonableness in all the circumstances, applying a heavy measure of deference to counsel's judgments. Thomason v. State, 3D22-1991 (11/20/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443615/opinion/Opinion_2022-1991.pdf

ARGUMENT: Courts allow attorneys wide latitude to argue to the jury during closing argument. Logical inferences may be drawn, and counsel is allowed to advance all legitimate arguments. Walker v. State, 3D23-0735 (11/20/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443623/opinion/Opinion_2023-0735.pdf

COSTS: Twenty-five dollar community service administrative fee as a special condition of probation must be stricken if not orally pronounced at sentencing; it is not specifically authorized by statute or rule. Guzman v. State, 4D2024-0791 (11/20/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443642/opinion/Opinion_2023-0791.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-EXECUTION: Execution by nitrogen hypoxia without sedation does not violate the Eighth Amendment. The Eighth Amendment does not demand the avoidance of all risk of pain in carrying out executions. "There may exist a form of execution that induces psychological terror or pain that is severe enough to support an Eighth Amendment claim [but]. . .[n]othing in our Eighth Amendment jurisprudence suggests a special exemption for psychological terror or pain from the prohibition on cruelty." Grayson v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 24-13660 (11/18/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202413660.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: Defendant is entitled to a new sentencing hearing before a different judge where Court considered nolle prossed cases and testimony about those cases. A sentence cannot stand if the sentencing judge considered constitutionally impermissible factors in arriving at the sentence. Relying on pending or dismissed charges, in effect deeming such charges established without proof or a conviction, violates a defendant's right to due process. Grant v. State, 5D2023-3019 (11/15/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443443/opinion/Opinion_2023-3019.pdf

VFOSC: Court must enter a written order as to whether Defendant, as a violent felony offender of special concern, poses a danger to the community. King v. State, 5D2024-0585 (11/15/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443445/opinion/Opinion_2024-0585.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Court may not summarily deny Defendant's claim that the Court erred in relying on certain predicate convictions to support adjudicating him as a Habitual Felony Offender. Court must conduct a hearing or attach portions of the record that conclusively refute Defendant's claim. Robinson v. State, 5D2024-1742 (11/15/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443448/opinion/Opinion_2024-1742.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant alleged that the Court orally pronounced a sentence of thirty months but entered a written order imposing a 6.78 year sentence, the Court's order denying the motion to correct, merely stating that it had reviewed the recording of that proceeding in the motion and that it had no merit, is insufficient. Court must attach the sentencing transcript. Brown v. State, 5D2024-2036 (11/15/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443450/opinion/Opinion_2024-2036.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: R. 3.801 to correct credit for time served requires Defendant to seek relief within one year of the final sentence. Any procedural case law on jail credit preceding rule 3.801's enactment is irrelevant. No manifest injustice results from Defendant's failure to follow established procedural rules. Murray v. State, 6D2023-1816 (11/15/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443458/opinion/Opinion_2023-1816.pdf

INCONSISTENT VERDICTS: Where jury found the Defendant guilty of committing sexual battery on the victim by penetrating her vagina with his penis but also made a special verdict finding that he did not penetrate the victim's vagina with his penis during the course of committing the offense (Defendant neither objected to the verdict nor filed a motion for arrest judgment), the verdict is truly inconsistent. Where the jury finds the defendant guilty of a charge but also makes a specific verdict finding that directly negates a necessary element of that charge, the verdicts are truly inconsistent and is fundamental error. Lai v. State, 6D2023-2390 (11/15/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443464/opinion/Opinion_2023-2390.pdf
DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Convictions for Soliciting a Person Believed to Be a Child to Commit an Illegal Act and Transmitting Material Harmful to a Minor do not violate Double Jeopardy. Each offense has different elements. Blockburger. State v. Banda, 6D2023-4217 (11/15/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443463/opinion/Opinion_2023-4217.pdf

JOA-RACKETEERING-ENTERPRISE: Deputy who planted narcotics on people during multiple traffic stops for years cannot be convicted of RICO. The RICO Act does not criminalize one person's use of his or her place of employment to commit related crimes. Under the RICO Act, the State must prove that the enterprise in which the defendant is alleged to have participated or been employed by was being used by at least two persons with the understood purpose of accomplishing some illegal objective or end. Question certified. Wester v. State, 1D2021-2114 (11/13/24)
http://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443265/opinion/Opinion_2021-2114.PDF

RICO-GRAMMAR: The plain language of the RICO statute and its syntax dictate that a RICO violation is dependent on "any person" being associated with an enterprise. "The Legislature's deliberate use. . . of the ordinary term 'person' along with the distributive determiner 'any' requires recognition of its singular tense. But the 'any person" reference should not be interpreted blindly as declaring the Act's applicability to a sole bad actor, as such an application eviscerates the remaining provision of the statute. Logically, the use of the singular noun "person" may indicate a charging or procedural component." Wester v. State, 1D2021-2114 (11/13/24)

http://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443265/opinion/Opinion_2021-2114.PDF

DEFINITION-"THROUGH": "Thus, we contemplate the meaning of the qualifying preposition 'through.'" Wester v. State, 1D2021-2114 (11/13/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443265/opinion/Opinion_2021-2114.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: The Harmonious-Reading Canon means that the provisions of a text should be interpreted in a way that renders them compatible, not contradictory. . .The imperative of harmony among provisions is more categorical than most other canons of construction because it is invariably true that intelligent drafters do not contradict themselves (in the absence of duress). Wester v. State, D2021-2114 (11/13/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443265/opinion/Opinion_2021-2114.pdf

RICO: Cutting off pig ears may constitute RICO. Wester v. State, 1D2021-2114 (11/13/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443265/opinion/Opinion_2021-2114.pdf

EVIDENCE-GROOMING: CPT interviewer may give limited testimony defining grooming and giving examples of general behaviors that could constitute grooming. "We express no opinion on whether the investigator could have been allowed to testify as to her opinion or conclusions—an issue not before us." McKee v. State, 1D2023-0607 (11/13/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443273/opinion/Opinion_2023-0607.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED: A permissive lesser-included offense is one where the greater and lesser offenses appear to be separate on the face of the statutes, but the facts alleged in the accusatory pleadings are that the lesser offense cannot help but be perpetrated once the greater offense has been. McKee v. State, 1D2023-0607 (11/13/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443273/opinion/Opinion_2023-0607.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED: A court must instruct on a permissive lesser included offense, if requested, if the information alleges all the statutory elements of the permissive lesser included offense and there is some evidence adduced at trial establishing all of these elements. McKee v. State, 1D2023-0607 (11/13/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443273/opinion/Opinion_2023-0607.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's postconviction claim that prosecution for capital sex battery must be by indictment rather than by information is not cognizable under R. 3.800(a). R. 3.800 is not the correct procedural vehicle for attacking the merits of an underlying criminal conviction. Voegele v. State, 1D2024-0341 (11/13/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443289/opinion/Opinion_2024-0341.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Claim that life sentences for sexual battery on a child violate the constitutional prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment is not cognizable under rule 3.800(a). And even if it were cognizable, it wholly lacks merit. Voegele v. State, 1D2024-0341 (11/13/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443289/opinion/Opinion_2024-0341.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A claim that the trial court improperly departed from the recommended sentencing guidelines may not be brought pursuant to R. 3.800(a) if the departure sentence is within the legal maximum because it does not constitute an illegal sentence. Birdsong v. State, 1D2024-0516 (11/13/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443287/opinion/Opinion_2024-0516.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-COMPETENCY-COMMITMENT: A defendant who has been involuntarily committed to state hospital as incompetent may seek pro se habeas corpus relief notwithstanding that he is represented by counsel on the underlying criminal case. McDaniel v. State, 2D2024-0672 (12/13/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443260/opinion/Opinion_2024-0672.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel has a duty to make reasonable investigations or to make a reasonable decision, but a particular decision not to investigate must be directly assessed for reasonableness in all the circumstances, applying a heavy measure of deference to counsel's judgments. Lugo v. State, 3D23-0454 (11/13/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443286/opinion/Opinion_2023-0454.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: A R. 3.801 motion to correct credit for time served must be under oath. Lloyd v. State, 3D24-1150 (11/13/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443299/opinion/Opinion_2024-1150.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: A motion to correct sentence to account for prison time is governed by R. 3.800(a), not R. 3.801. Lloyd v. State, 3D24-1150 (11/13/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443299/opinion/Opinion_2024-1150.pdf

CONFRONTATION-ZOOM: The right of confrontation is violated where U.S. Marshall testifies by Zoom from Texas. Staff shortages and convenience are legally insufficient justifications to satisfy the necessity analysis. The fact that a witness resides in a state other than Florida does not mean that the witness is beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Florida. But error here is harmless because the witness gave limited testimony, which the defense apparently did not find significant enough to merit cross examination. Lopez v. State, 4D2023-0104 (11/13/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443302/opinion/Opinion_2023-0104.pdf

CONFRONTATION (J. ARTAU, CONCURRING): "The Confrontation Clause 'comes to us on faded parchment' and has 'a lineage that traces back to the beginnings of Western legal culture[,]' at least as early as the Roman Empire. . .As the Roman Governor Festus put it, 'It is not the manner of the Romans to deliver any man up to die before the accused has met his accusers face to face.'" Lopez v. State, 4D2023-0104 (11/13/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443302/opinion/Opinion_2023-0104.pdf

CONFRONTATION (J. ARTAU, CONCURRING): The word "confront" has two Latin roots: (1) "con" and (2) "frons." The prefix "con" is derived from "contra," meaning "against" or "opposed," and the noun "frons" means "forehead." Thus, the word "confront" necessarily requires a face-to-face encounter. Lopez v. State, 4D2023-0104 (11/13/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443302/opinion/Opinion_2023-0104.pdf

CONSTITUTION (J. ARTAU, CONCURRING): "[O]ur Constitution is not a fungible document that can be selectively enforced based on public policy preferences." Lopez v. State, 4D2023-0104 (11/13/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443302/opinion/Opinion_2023-0104.pdf

JUROR MISCONDUCT: Defendant is entitled to a mistrial where a juror googled the defendant on the Internet, saw that he was a felon, and told other jurors that she had looked him up. Green v. State, 4D2023-0774

(11/13/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443313/opinion/Opinion_2023-0774.pdf

RESISTING LEO: To be guilty of unlawfully resisting an officer, an individual who flees must know of the officer's intent to detain him, and the officer must be justified in making the stop at the point when the command to stop is issued. The vague description from an untested CI that someone named "Nephew" was going to sell drugs does not justify the stop of someone whom officers believed to be "Nephew" without testimony as to why they believed that. Rivera v. State, 2D2023-2053 (11/8/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443139/opinion/Opinion_2023-2053.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CLOSED CONTAINER: Warrantless search of closed containers removed from detainee's person is unlawful. Even if the arrest is lawful, search of an item from which a defendant has been physically separated cannot be upheld as a search incident to the defendant's arrest. Rivera v. State, 2D2023-2053 (11/8/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443139/opinion/Opinion_2023-2053.pdf

APPEAL-JURISDICTION-RESTITUTION: Trial court lacks jurisdiction to enter a restitution order wile an appeal of the underlying conviction is open. Lutgens v. State, 5D2023-1924 (11/8/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443138/opinion/Opinion_2023-1924.pdf

APPEAL: Defendant may not file a motion to correct sentencing error while an appeal is pending after the party's first brief is served, nor may he strike his initial brief to circumvent the rule. Ashford v. State, 5D2024-0070 (11/8/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443144/opinion/Opinion_2024-0070.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR OF MARIJUANA-GOOD FAITH: Although the odor of cannabis alone can no longer be the sole basis supporting reasonable suspicion for an investigatory detention, because the deputy reasonably relied on binding precedent at the time of the arrest, the search of the back seat passenger upon officer's smell of marijuana comes within the good-faith exception and is not properly subject to the exclusionary rule. Leggett v. State, 5D2024-0527 (11/8/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443149/opinion/Opinion_2024-0527.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-TRANSCRIPTS: The provision setting a 200 page limitation for transcripts is deleted and rules otherwise tweaked. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of General Practice and Judicial Administration 2.535, SC2023-1170 (11/7/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443082/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1170.pdf

COMPETENCY: Where defense counsel's motion for a competency evaluation does not provide reasonable grounds to believe that Defendant is not mentally competent to proceed, failing to hold a competency hearing is not fundamental error. Richardson v. State, 1D2022-1743 (11/6/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442996/opinion/Opinion_2022-1743.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION: Defendant may not appeal the admission into evidence of a video where he had not moved to exclude or otherwise objected to its admission. Acosta v. State, 3D23-0434 (11/6/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443011/opinion/Opinion_2023-0434.pdf

EVIDENCE: Videos of Defendant's Trump flags were admissible to show motive where Defendant yelled at the victim that Biden was a child molester, called him a Mexican child rapist, tore down his Biden flag, chased him at 60 MPH on jet skis, shot at him and, after the victim fell in the water, pointed the gun at him while commanding him to admit that he was a child molester. And then he took his jet ski. Acosta v. State, 3D23-0434 (11/6/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443011/opinion/Opinion_2023-0434.pdf

ROBBERY: Defendant may be convicted of robbery of the victims' jet ski when he took it after the victims were thrown off it and left treading water, and when it was floating away from them. Property is taken from the person or custody of another if it is sufficiently under the victim's control so that the victim could have prevented the taking if she had not been subjected to the violence or intimidation by the robber. The State presented sufficient evidence showing that the Defendant–he shot at them--instilled fear in the victims and this fear prevented them from swimming back to the jet ski. Acosta v. State, 3D23-0434 (11/6/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443011/opinion/Opinion_2023-0434.pdf

JOA-AFTERTHOUGHT DEFENSE: Defendant is not entitled to a judgment of acquittal on the basis of an"afterthought" defense where it was reasonable for the jury to find that the Defendant's goal was to take the jet ski. "The Defendant ripping the Biden flag off the victims' jet ski and his comments disparaging Biden could reasonably indicate he did not want the victims driving the jet ski around the island flying the Biden flag ever again." Acosta v. State, 3D23-0434 (11/6/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443011/opinion/Opinion_2023-0434.pdf

APPEAL-VIDEO REVIEW: A court can independently review a video and find that testimony allegedly contradicting that video is incompetent and insufficient in first-tier review of a DUI license suspension, but the law in Florida is currently unsettled as to whether, in other contexts, a court can review a video and independently find that it completely invalidates other evidence. Acosta v. State, 3D23-0434 (11/6/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443011/opinion/Opinion_2023-0434.pdf
VIDEO-EVIDENCE: "[T]he extent to which a video can ever conclusively show intent is questionable. Particularly here where the video is taken from far away and is grainy. The splash the Defendant claims was the result of the bullet landing, could also be the result of any number of things, including a fish jumping out of the water. Even if the splash was from the bullet hitting the water, its location merely suggests that the Defendant's aim was off. It does not indicate whether he intended to pull the trigger." Acosta v. State, 3D23-0434 (11/6/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443011/opinion/Opinion_2023-0434.pdf

APPEAL-REVIEW: The validity of the jury's finding on a question of fact that triggers a mandatory sentence (whether Defendant discharged a firearm) is not a technical issue and is reviewable on direct appeal. Acosta v. State, 3D23-0434 (11/6/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443011/opinion/Opinion_2023-0434.pdf

ASSAULT: The fact the victim did not testify, and thus could not describe or articulate any fear, does not bar a conviction for assault. Instead, if the circumstances are such as would ordinarily induce fear in the mind of a reasonable person, then the victim may properly be found to have been in fear. Richards v. State, 3D23-0957 (11/6/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442956/opinion/Opinion_2023-0957.pdf

JOA-OBSTRUCTION: Officer was in the lawful execution of a legal duty at the time he ordered Child to stop running away where the Child matched the description of a suspect in an armed robbery three days earlier and who had shown a gun in his pocket. The element of lawful execution of a legal duty is satisfied if an officer has either a founded suspicion to stop the person or probable cause to make a warrantless arrest. T.I.J., a Juvenile v. State, 3D23-1268 (11/6/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443009/opinion/Opinion_2023-1268.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: Reasonable suspicion is a less demanding standard than that for probable cause, and considerably less than proof of wrongdoing by preponderance of the evidence. When Defendant, who matched the description of the suspect from an armed robbery in the area three days earlier, removed a concealed firearm from inside the pocket of his hoodie, threw it into the air and started to run away, there is reasonable suspicion. T.I.J., a Juvenile v. State, 3D23-1268 (11/6/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443009/opinion/Opinion_2023-1268.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-FWC: FWC has authority to stop boats to inspect licenses, registration, and safety equipment. A person's expectation of privacy in a motorboat is less than the same expectation of privacy in an automobile. State v. Vinokurov, 3D23-1930 (11/6/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443041/opinion/Opinion_2023-1930.pdf

RESENTENCING-HFO: Upon resentencing, Court may take judicial notice of the testimony presented at the original sentencing hearing in support of a Habitual Offender sentence. Gilbert v. State, 4D2023-1359 (11/6/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442974/opinion/Opinion_2023-1359.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: A trial court's decision to grant a downward departure is a two-step process. First, the court must determine whether it can depart, i.e., whether there is a valid legal ground and adequate factual support for that ground in the case pending before it (step 1). Second, the trial court "must determine whether it should depart, i.e., whether departure is indeed the best sentencing option for the defendant. Coniglio v. State, 4D2023-1484 (11/6/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442975/opinion/Opinion_2023-1484.pdf

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court errs in finding that there is no legal reason to depart where two mental health experts testified that the defendant suffered from multiple psychiatric disorders, including PTSD from childhood sexual, and was determined to be 100% disabled by the VA as a result of these disorders. Defendant who is treated for both his psycho-sexual mental disorder and substance abuse qualifies for a downward departure. These are two separate treatments. Thus, his psycho-sexual mental disorder is unrelated to his alcohol abuse. Coniglio v. State, 4D2023-1484 (11/6/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442975/opinion/Opinion_2023-1484.pdf

DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: A court cannot refuse to consider a downward departure in child pornography cases as a general policy. Court's statements that "I find these child porn cases and child porn pictures to be a truly heinous crime creating multiple child victims" and that earlier cases caused him loss of sleep and appetite show lack of impartiality. "[T]rial judges are required to rise above the disturbing nature of these and other crimes and to provide every defendant a fair opportunity to be heard by an impartial judge who will consider only the evidence presented to the court within that case. Reversed and remanded for resentencing before another judge. Coniglio v. State, 4D2023-1484 (11/6/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442975/opinion/Opinion_2023-1484.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Assessment of prosecution costs need not be supported by evidence if the defendant affirmatively agrees to pay the requested amount. Brown v. State, 4D2023-2886 (11/6/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442993/opinion/Opinion_2023-2886.pdf
PRO SE DEFENDANT-DEPOSITIONS: Upon good cause, pro se Defendant may conduct depositions. Court may not prohibit all discovery depositions by pro se defendant on the basis of R. 3.220(h)(7), which prohibits defendants' physical presence at depos, without discussing good cause or any particular witnesses. Gallagher v. State, 4D2024-1289 (11/6/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2443012/opinion/Opinion_2024-1289.pdf

SAFETY VALVE: Defendant who cooperated, but was caught trafficking in narcotics again while sentencing remained pending, is eligible for safety valve. Under the plain text of the safety valve statute, a defendant's cooperation need not be disregarded because it was prompted by a government investigation or because it was not provided all at one time. The tell-all provision is not coextensive with acceptance of responsibility or substantial assistance. USA v. Maisonet, No. 22-13124 (11th Cir. 11/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213124.pdf

SAFETY VALVE: The safety valve statute does not condition a defendant's eligibility on whether he has been caught in a lie or whether he has continued his criminal activity. The statute merely requires that the defendant provide all the information he has not later than the time of the sentencing hearing. USA v. Maisonet, No. 22-13124 (11th Cir. 11/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213124.pdf

DEFINITION-"PROVIDE": "Provide" means "to make available (something needed or desired); furnish." USA v. Maisonet, No. 22-13124 (11th Cir. 11/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213124.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY: Certiorari granted to determine how to evaluate multiple IQ scores when considering Defendant's competency to be executed. Hamm v. Smith, No. 23–167 (U.S. S.Ct 11/4/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/24pdf/23-167_heim.pdf

OCTOBER 2024

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT: ACCA mandates a 15-year minimum sentence for any defendant who possesses a firearm in violation of §922(g) and is an "armed career criminal," meaning they have 3 prior convictions for "violent felonies" or "serious drug offenses" committed on separate occasions. See § 924(e)(1). USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 10/31/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.pdf

CATEGORICAL APPROACH: The categorical approach is applied to determine whether a defendant's prior state conviction is a predicate offense under ACCA, looking at the statutory definition of the state offense, not the facts of the crime as committed. A state conviction qualifies as a "serious drug offense" or "violent felony" only if the state statute of conviction defines the offense in the same way as, or more narrowly than, ACCA's definition. In other words, the least culpable conduct prohibited by the state statute must fall within ACCA's definition of the qualifying predicate offenses. USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 10/31/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT-CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE: ACCA defines a "serious drug offense," as "an offense under State law, involving manufacturing, distributing, or possessing with intent to manufacture or distribute, a controlled substance." The definition incorporates the law in effect at the time of the prior drug conviction—as to both the state statute and the federal drug schedules—and not the law in effect at the time of the subsequent § 922(g) conviction. A prior state drug conviction may constitute an ACCA predicate if the drugs on the federal and state schedules matched when the state drug offense was committed. USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 10/31/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT-CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE-IOFLUPANE: Because at the time of his predicate conviction, both Florida law and federal law criminalized ioflupane, it is an ACCA predicate offense. USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 10/31/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.pdf

CATEGORICAL APPROACH-ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT-VIOLENT FELONY: ACCA defines a "violent felony" as any crime punishable by more than one year in prison and which "has as an element the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against the person of another." This definition comprises the "elements clause." Attempted armed robbery qualifies as a categorical crime of violence under ACCA's elements clause. USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 10/31/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.pdf

PRIOR PANEL PRECEDENT RULE: Under the prior-panel precedent rule, a holding is binding on all subsequent panels unless and until it is overruled or undermined to the point of abrogation by the Supreme Court or by this court sitting en banc, even if the reasoning of an intervening high court decision is at odds with a prior appellate court decision. The Supreme Court holding that attempted Hobbs Act robbery (18 U.S.C. § 1951) is not a "crime of violence" under ACCA's elements clause is not a holding that Florida's attempted robbery is not a crime of violence. USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 10/31/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.pdf

CREEPILY DISCORDANT: "And, while Taylor's reasoning may creep towards that which we applied in Joyner, discordant reasoning provides an insufficient basis for departure from our precedent." USA v. Lightsey, No. 20-13682 (11th Cir. 10/31/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013682.pdf

RULES-BAR-AMENDMENT-CLE/PRO BONO: R 6-10.3 is modified to allow lawyers to earn one hour of general CLE credit for every hour of pro bono service, up to five credit hours of CLE during a three-year reporting cycle, and no CLE credit will be awarded for monetary donations. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Rule 6-10.3, SC2024-0964 (10/31/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442770/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0964.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-AEDPA: AEDPA establishes a highly deferential standard for evaluating state-court rulings and demands that state-court decisions be given the benefit of the doubt. A federal habeas court cannot grant a state petitioner habeas relief on any claim that was adjudicated on the merits in state court unless the state court's adjudication of the claim: (1) resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States; or (2) resulted in a decision that was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented in the State court proceeding. "Clearly established Federal law" means the holdings, as opposed to the dicta, of the Supreme Court's decisions as of the time of the relevant state-court decision. Davis v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 18-14671 (11th Cir. 10/30/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814671.pdf

AEDPA-DOUBLY DEFERENTIAL: Establishing that a state court's application of Strickland was unreasonable under AEDPA is all the more difficult because the standards created by Strickland and §2254(d) are both highly deferential, and when the two apply in tandem, review is doubly so. Davis v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 18-14671 (11th Cir. 10/30/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814671.pdf
ub/files/201814671.pdf

APPEAL: A party may not raise, and the Court will not consider, arguments not raised in a party's initial brief and made for the first time at oral argument. Davis v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 18-14671 (11th Cir. 10/30/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814671.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-AEDPA: In death penalty case, even though counsel failed to discover or present significant mitigation evidence, it was not objectively unreasonable for the state court to conclude that there was no reasonable probability of a different outcome. Davis v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 18-14671 (11th Cir. 10/30/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814671.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-DEATH PENALTY (J. BRANCH, CONCURRING): Counsel is not constitutionally required to go on a fishing expedition and scour a defendant's background to look for potential abuse when the defendant fails to mention such abuse to counsel. An attorney does not render ineffective assistance by failing to discover and develop evidence of childhood abuse that his client does not mention to him. Davis v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 18-14671 (11th Cir. 10/30/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814671.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-DEATH PENALTY (J. ROSENBAUM, DISSENTING): "Counsel made two serious errors that may well have changed the outcome of the penalty phase. . .from life imprisonment to death. Neither error stemmed from a strategic choice. Rather, they both resulted directly from counsel's ignorance of the law and failure to investigate as a competent attorney would have." Davis v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 18-14671 (11th Cir. 10/30/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814671.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-DEATH PENALTY (J. ROSENBAUM, DISSENTING): "Based solely on the fact that Davis and his abusive mother did not affirmatively volunteer that she had abused him, the state courts went so far as to accuse Davis of deliberately misleading trial counsel and participating in a 'conspiracy of silence' with his mother and family to hide his abuse. . .The Concurring Opinion endorses this fiction, again blaming Davis, his abusive mother, and his family members. . .But this conspiracy theory is like something out of another universe. . .[I]t is absurd to suggest. . .that Davis is somehow to blame for Lillie's failure to affirmatively volunteer the horrific abuse she inflicted upon Davis. . .Even if I wore a tin-foil hat, I couldn't understand how the Concurring Opinion and state courts' conclusion. . .—based on an implausible and outlandish conspiracy theory—is not unreasonable." Davis v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 18-14671 (11th Cir. 10/30/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201814671.pdf

APPEAL-POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Where there is no contemporaneous objection during a sentencing hearing and where the error does not qualify as a sentencing error that can be raised in a R. 3.800(b) motion, the error can still be considered and remedied on appeal if the error is fundamental. But even then, before a defendant can challenge on appeal that the plea was involuntary, he must first move to withdraw the plea in the trial court. Parker v. State, 1D2023-0760 (10/30/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442645/opinion/Opinion_2023-0760.pdf

CONSTITUTIONALITY: R. 3.800(b) can be used to allege that a sentencing statute was unconstitutional or to preserve Eighth Amendment claims. Parker v. State, 1D2023-0760 (10/30/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442645/opinion/Opinion_2023-0760.pdf

SENTENCING: Court's comparison of relative culpability of co-defendants does not deprive Defendant of her right to an individualized sentence determination. Parker v. State, 1D2023-0760 (10/30/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442645/opinion/Opinion_2023-0760.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: The Statewide Prosecutor is not a principal prosecuting attorney of a political subdivision, and therefore lacks authority to procure a wiretap under the Federal Wiretap Act. But although Defendant raised the issue in his motion to suppress, he did not preserve it. "In both the plea colloquy and in the written plea agreement Wallace gave up his right to appeal anything. . .other than the legality of sentence yet to be imposed. Neither the transcript of his plea hearing, nor the written plea agreement included any reservation of Wallace's right to appeal the denial of the motion to suppress." Wallace v. State, 1D2024-1862 (10/30/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442656/opinion/Opinion_2024-1862.pdf

RECLASSIFICATION-FIREARM: Attempted premeditated murder and attempted felony murder are first-degree felonies but become life felonies if Defendant personally uses a firearm. If he discharges the firearm there is a 25-year mandatory minimum. Ragan v. State, 3D23-1042 (10/30/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442714/opinion/Opinion_2023-1042.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for attempted felony murder and attempted premeditated murder of a single victim is permissible under the Blockburger test and in light Maisonet-Maldonado, which eliminated the "single homicide victim" rule from Florida's double jeopardy jurisprudence. Unlike double jeopardy, the "single homicide rule" or related merger doctrine is not a principle of constitutional law but rather a principle of statutory construction. Ragan v. State, 3D23-1042 (10/30/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442714/opinion/Opinion_2023-1042.pdf

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIMES: Where Defendant used the same firearm in other crimes committed a week earlier and two weeks later, the evidence of those collateral crimes is admissible to prove identity. Ragan v. State, 3D23-1042 (10/30/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442714/opinion/Opinion_2023-1042.pdf

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIMES: Collateral crime evidence may not become a feature of the trial, but there is no singular test to determine when collateral crime evidence becomes an impermissible feature of trial. Considerations are the number of references the prosecution made to such evidence; whether the collateral crimes evidence was a focus of closing argument; and how the trial court, through its instructions, guided and limited the jury's consideration and use of this evidence. Collateral crimes evidence becomes an impermissible feature of the trial when the evidence transcends the bounds of relevancy to the charge being tried and the prosecution devolves from development of facts pertinent to the main issue of guilt or innocence into an assault on the character of the defendant. Ragan v. State, 3D23-1042 (10/30/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442714/opinion/Opinion_2023-1042.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: In first-degree felony murder and aggravated child abuse case, Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim that victim had asthma. Beer v. State, 4D2023-1314 (10/30/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442672/opinion/Opinion_2023-1314.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: To state a facially sufficient ineffective assistance claim based on counsel's failure to call a witness, the defendant must (1) identify the witness, (2) specify the content of their testimony, (3) allege that they were available to testify at trial, and (4) sufficiently allege that the failure to call them to testify resulted in prejudice. Beer v. State, 4D2023-1314 (10/30/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442672/opinion/Opinion_2023-1314.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: In first-degree felony murder and aggravated child abuse case, Defendant is entitled to a hearing on the claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to preserve for appeal the claim that his due process rights were violated when he was convicted of an offense that was neither charged nor a necessarily lesser included offense of first-degree felony murder. Beer v. State, 4D2023-1314 (10/30/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442672/opinion/Opinion_2023-1314.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-TIMELINESS-NUNC PRO NUNC-INESS: AEDPA creates a 1-year period of limitation to apply for a writ of habeas corpus from the date on which the judgment becomes final. When a state court issues an amended judgment or sentence nunc pro tunc to the date of the original judgment, her petition for writ of habeas corpus filed 12 years after the original judgment is untimely. The federal court must accept that designation and refrain from evaluating whether it was proper under state law. An amended sentence issued nunc pro tunc does not constitute a new judgment because it relates back to the date of the original judgment. Because the state court unambiguously issued Batson's amended sentences nunc pro tunc, her petition is untimely. Batson v. Florida D.O.C., No. 23-13367 (11th Cir. 10/28/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114257.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-TIMELINESS-NUNC PRO NUNC-INESS: AEDPA creates a 1-year period of limitation to apply for a writ of habeas corpus from the date on which the judgment becomes final. Where the state court enters an amended judgment and does not designate it nunc pro tunc, the amended judgment constitutes a new judgment that restarts the federal statute of limitations. The Petition for Writ of habeas corpus is timely. Cassidy v. Florida D.O.C., No. 21-14257 (11th Cir. 10/28/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114257.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-TIMELINESS-NUNC PRO NUNC-INESS (J. HULL, CONCURRING): The clear intent of the state court was for the amended sentence to be nunc pro tunc because in two places the state court dated it as "done and ordered on August 8, 2012," the date of his original sentencing. But the words "nunc pro tunc" are required. Cassidy v. Sec'y, Florida D.O.C, No. 21-14257 (11th Cir. 10/28/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114257.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: Court may assess $100 in cost of prosecution where the State does not request it. Issue pending before Supreme Court. Jones v. State, 5D2023-2427 (10/25/24) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442477/opinion/Opinion_2023-2427.pdf

PUBLIC DEFENDER APPLICATION FEE: Public Defender application fee is $50, not $100. Dortch v. State, 5D2023-3547 (10/25/24) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442481/opinion/Opinion_2023-3547.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Where Court in its Order alluded to points raised in, and exhibits attached, to a State response hundreds of pages long, but did not attach any records conclusively demonstrating that Defendant was not entitled to relief to its order, it must attach these records if they exist or conduct an evidentiary hearing. Nicholas v. State, 6D2023-0681 (10/25/24) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442514/opinion/Opinion_2023-0681.pdf

REMOVAL TO FEDERAL COURT: Defendants indicted for interfering in the certification of the 2020 presidential election by issuing fraudulent elector certificates and claiming to be "contingent Republican Presidential Electors" acting with federal authority at the direction of Trump are not entitled to remove their state criminal prosecutions to federal court under the federal-officer removal statute. Even if nominated electors could be considered federal officers under the removal statute, the statute does not apply to former officers. The federal-officer removal statute applies only to current federal officers. State of Georgia v. Shafer, No. 23-13360 (11th Cir. 10/24/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313360.pdf

REMOVAL TO FEDERAL COURT (J. ROSENBAUM, Concurring): Defendants—who assert they were "contingently elected presidential electors"—can't remove their Georgia criminal case to federal court because, they "were not 2020 presidential Electors, no matter the modifiers they add to the title. The people of Georgia did not vote for them to be Electors. Nor does the purported position of 'contingently elected presidential elector' exist in the Constitution or federal or state law. And Defendants were no more presidential Electors simply because they give themselves the title than Martin Sheen was ever the President because he went by President Bartlet." State of Georgia v. Shafer, No. 23-13360 (11th Cir. 10/24/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313360.pdf

REMOVAL TO FEDERAL COURT: Former Acting Assistant Attorney General charged with state RICO for his role attempting to overturn presidential election is not entitled to removal to federal court as a "high-ranking U.S. Justice Department official." A former officer has no right of removal to federal court. The removal statute applies only to current officers. State of Georgia v. Clark, No. 23-13360 (11th Cir. 10/24/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313368.pdf

REMOVAL TO FEDERAL COURT (J. ROSENBAUM, Concurring): "The federal-officer removal statute is not a get-out-of-state court-free card for federal officers." It allows a federal officer to remove his criminal prosecution from state court to federal court only if the action is for or relating to any act under color of office. But a defendant conspiring to interfere with the results of the 2020 Presidential election in violation of Georgia's RICO Act bears no connection to his positions at the United States Department of Justice. State of Georgia v. Clark, No. 23-13360 (11th Cir. 10/24/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202313368.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: There are three separate guarantees embodied in the Double Jeopardy Clause. It protects against a second prosecution for the same offense after acquittal, against a second prosecution for the same offense after conviction, and against multiple punishments for the same offense. Dettle v. State, SC2022-0417 (10/24/24) https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442452/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0417.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: The holding in Lee--to determine whether multiple convictions of solicitation of a minor, unlawful use of a two-way communications device, and traveling after solicitation of a minor are based upon the same conduct for purposes of double jeopardy, the reviewing court must review only the charging document--does not apply retroactively. Dettle v. State, SC2022-0417 (10/24/24) https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442452/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0417.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY-RETROACTIVITY: New rules of law announced by the Florida Supreme Court or the United States Supreme Court generally do not, normally, apply retroactively, unless the change: (a) emanates from this Court or the United States Supreme Court, (b) is constitutional in nature, and (c) constitutes a development of fundamental significance. Lee does not constitute a development of fundamental significance. Dettle v. State, SC2022-0417 (10/24/24) https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442452/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0417.pdf

JUROR INTERVIEW: Defendant is time-barred from conducting a post-conviction juror interview forty years later upon learning that the juror is the second cousin of a person who was married to the victim's sister. Rule 3.575 requires that a motion seeking to interview a juror be filed within 10 days after the rendition of the verdict,unless good cause is shown. Bates v. State, SC2023-1683 (10/24/24) https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442453/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1683.pdf

DISCOVERY-RICHARDSON HEARING: When faced with an allegation of a discovery violation, the trial court is required to make an adequate inquiry into the totality of the circumstances, including whether the violation was inadvertent or willful, whether it was trivial or substantial, and most important, whether it prejudiced the opposition's ability to prepare for trial. Montgomery v. State, 2D202203874 (10/23/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442350/opinion/Opinion_2022-3874.pdf

SENTENCING-PREDETERMINATION: Court did not predetermine the sentence by commenting that it would put Defendant on probation but did not say for how long (court sentenced her to 330 days in county jail followed by two years of community control and two years of probation). Taylor v. State, 4D2023-1079 (10/23/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442372/opinion/Opinion_2023-1079.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-22 POINTS: A sentence of 330 days in county jail followed by two years of community control and two years of probation does not violate §775.082(10) (if the total sentence points are 22 points or fewer, the court must sentence the offender to a nonstate prison sanction). Taylor v. State, 4D2023-1079 (10/23/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442372/opinion/Opinion_2023-1079.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to call an alibi witness. Holland v. State, 4D2024-0382 (10/23/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442380/opinion/Opinion_2024-0382.pdf

APPEAL: Where State appeals Defendant's motion for mistrial with prejudice, Defendant's attorney's motion to withdraw in the trial court does not relieve him from the responsibility of representation in the appellate court. Mercado v. Sec'y, DOC, No. 22-11903 (10/21/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211903_(2).pdf

AEDPA-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF APPELLATE COUNSEL: AEDPA permits a district court to grant habeas relief on a claim that was adjudicated on the merits by a state court only if its decision was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law, as deter whommined by the Supreme Court of the United States. The phrase "clearly established Federal law" refers to the holdings, not the dicta. Petitioner must show far more than that the state court's decision was merely wrong or even clear error; the decision must be objectively unreasonable. Mercado v. Sec'y, DOC, No. 22-11903 (10/21/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211903_(2).pdf

AEDPA-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF APPELLATE COUNSEL: Defendant/appellant's attorney's failure to file an answer brief in State's appeal of a judgment of acquittal does not entitle him to federal habeas corpus relief. Because the Supreme Court has never held that counsel's failure to file an answer brief is presumptively prejudicial, under AEDPA Petitioner is not entitled to habeas corpus relief. Mercado v. Sec'y, DOC, No. 22-11903 (10/21/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211903_(2).pdf

AEDPA (J. PRYOR, CONCURRING): "Mercado fell through the cracks in Florida's criminal justice system. After he secured a mistrial and an order barring retrial from the state trial judge who presided over his criminal trial, the State of Florida appealed. Mr. Mercado's counsel filed no brief or other response on Mr. Mercado's behalf because counsel believed that he had withdrawn from representing Mr. Mercado. In fact, he had not. Florida's Fifth District Court of Appeal then decided the State's appeal of the trial court's order barring retrial without any input whatsoever from Mr. Mercado. . .[I]t is beyond dispute that Mr. Mercado's Sixth Amendment rights were violated because he was denied the assistance of counsel at a critical stage in his criminal proceedings. . .But our review of Mr. Mercado's post-conviction challenge is circumscribed by. . .AEDPA. Mercado v. Sec'y, DOC, No. 22-11903 (10/21/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211903_(2).pdf

FIFTH DCA SCOLDED/DEFENDANT SCREWED (J. PRYOR, CONCURRING): "In the State's appeal, there was no adversarial testing of its argument at this critical stage that determined whether Mr. Mercado would be retried. The fact that there was "No Appearance for Appellee" in the appeal should have given the Florida appellate court pause—yet it proceeded to the merits anyway. . .By considering the State's appeal without any response from Mr. Mercado, the Florida Fifth District Court of Appeal allowed the State to point to and put its own gloss on any contradictory evidence, without any opposition from the defense to argue against its position and direct the court toward the evidence that led two trial court judges to conclude that the State intentionally provoked a mistrial by violating the trial court's redaction ruling. The appellate court thus 'deprived both [Mr. Mercado] and itself of the benefit of an adversary examination and presentation of the issues.'" Mercado v. Sec'y, DOC, No. 22-11903 (10/21/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211903_(2).pdf

DEATH PENALTY: The indictment does not need to allege the aggravating factors for imposition of the death penalty. Boatman v. State, SC2022-1547 (10/17/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442185/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1547.pdf

JURY SELECTION-PUBLICITY: Individual voir dire to determine juror impartiality in the face of pretrial publicity is constitutionally compelled only if the trial court's failure to allow it renders the trial fundamentally unfair. Boatman v. State, SC2022-1547 (10/17/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442185/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1547.pdf

VOIR DIRE-EVIDENCE: Court did not abuse its discretion in denying Defendant's motion to show a representative sample of crime scene and autopsy photographs to prospective jurors during voir dire and to question prospective jurors about their ability to deliberate fairly and impartially after viewing those photographs. Boatman v. State, SC2022-1547 (10/17/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442185/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1547.pdf

STRIKING JURY PANEL: Defendant is not entitled to have the entire jury panel stricken when jury selection extended until 10:00 p.m., particularly where Defendant agreed to extending the voir dire into the night and the panel was given the choice to stay late or break for the night. Boatman v. State, SC2022-1547 (10/17/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442185/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1547.pdf

CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE-APPEAL: Where Defendant supports his appeal of the denials of his challenges for cause with a transcript citation to where defense counsel, based on his recollection of the individual's responses, indicated the basis for the cause challenges, but does not mention the judge's differing recollection or provide citations to the individuals' actual responses, he waives the issue. Boatman v. State, SC2022-1547 (10/17/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442185/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1547.pdf

HEARSAY: Defendant telling accomplice to stab the victim is not hearsay. Boatman v. State, SC2022-1547 (10/17/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442185/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1547.pdf

STARE DECISIS-OMINOUS FORESHADOWING-DEATH PENALTY-CONFRONTATION: "This Court has broadly stated on several occasions that hearsay in the penalty phase must also satisfy the right to confrontation. . .Indeed, this Court has described as 'uncontroverted' the 'proposition that the Sixth Amendment right of confrontation applies to all three phases of the capital trial.'. . .We have no occasion here to reexamine our precedent, but we note that other courts disagree with that broad proposition." Boatman v. State, SC2022-1547 (10/17/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442185/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1547.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-PREMEDITATION: Murder videos showing that Defendant procured two shanks in advance of the murder, blocked the dayroom door, and viciously attacked Victim for more than ten minutes before stomping on a shank in the back of his neck, along with his statement that he decided days earlier to kill him at the earliest opportunity, shows premeditation. Boatman v. State, SC2022-1547 (10/17/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442185/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1547.pdf

WAIVER OF PENALTY PHASE JURY: A waiver of the right to a penalty-phase jury trial is lawful if knowing, intelligent, and voluntary. Boatman v. State, SC2022-1547 (10/17/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442185/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1547.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Florida's death penalty scheme does not create so broad a range of death-eligible cases as to violate the Eighth Amendment. Boatman v. State, SC2022-1547 (10/17/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442185/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1547.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: Court improperly dismissed re-filed charges after State nolle prossed the original case due to witness unavailability and after Court denied its motion to continue. In view of the State's "right to nolle prosse," its actions could not be considered improper. State v. Oliff, 1D2023-1964 (10/16/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442050/opinion/Opinion_2023-1964.pdf

APPEAL-TIMELINESS: Rule 2.514(b) (when service is made by mail, 5 days are added to the times to act) does not apply to the 30-day period within which the notice of appeal must be filed because that period commences upon rendition of the challenged order rather than service of the order. Scott v. State, 1D2023-2978 (10/16/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442064/opinion/Opinion_2023-2978.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-BOLO: Stop is lawful where citizen informant described the suspects as "four black males wearing shorts but no shirts" but Defendant was of mixed race and had a shirt on. State v. L.C., 2D2023-0634 (10/16/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442011/opinion/Opinion_2023-0634.pdf

SHOW-UP IDENTIFICATION: Presenting the suspect to a witness in handcuffs or with flanking officers does not make the procedure unnecessarily suggestive. State v. L.C., 2D2023-0634 (10/16/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442011/opinion/Opinion_2023-0634.pdf

CONTINUANCE: Where State filed an amended information adding a new charge of witness tampering five days before trial, on the Friday before jury selection, Defendant is entitled to a continuance. Defense counsel must be afforded an adequate opportunity to investigate and prepare any applicable defense. Santiago v. State, 2D2023-1150 (10/16/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442012/opinion/Opinion_2023-1150.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-DUI MANSLAUGHTER-BLOOD DRAW: State is not entitled to draw blood without a warrant on exigent circumstances/inevitable discovery grounds. In DUI cases the dissipation of blood alcohol levels alone is not a legally cognizable exigency. State v. Harris, 2D2023-1430 (10/16/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442014/opinion/Opinion_2023-1430.pdf

QUARTERMAN AGREEMENT: Where Defendant entered a Quarterman agreement that the Court would not be bound by the plea agreement if Defendant failed to appear for sentencing, a non-willful failure to appear will not vitiate a plea agreement and permit the trial court to impose some greater sentence. The trial court must make a factual determination as to whether the failure to appear was willful. "[N]othing in the record contradicts Matos's explanation that she missed her originally scheduled sentencing hearing because she was suicidal, had sought help, and had been hospitalized that day. Given the lack of evidence that her failure to appear was willful and of any findings by the trial court as to willfulness, . . .the court erred in imposing a longer sentence than called for in the plea agreement." Matos v. State, 2D2023-2501 (10/16/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442013/opinion/Opinion_2023-2501.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-COVID: A crisis or emergency such as COVID constitutes a constitutionally valid reason for postponing trial. The fourfold balancing test in assessing potential speedy trial violations weighs the length of the delay between arrest and trial; the reasons for the delay; the timely assertion of speedy trial; and whether the defendant was prejudiced by delay attributable to the State. McCartney v. State, 3D22-1527 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442036/opinion/Opinion_2022-1527.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: Defendant may not argue on appeal that the item used did not constitute a firearm where he never made this argument to the trial court, either by motion for JOA or new trial. Azin v. State, 3D22-1622 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442102/opinion/Opinion_2022-1622.pdf

JOA-PRESERVED ISSUE: A generalized motion for judgment of acquittal that State failed to establish a prima facie case is not enough. "Such boilerplate motions are of course legally insufficient." Azin v. State, 3D22-1622 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442102/opinion/Opinion_2022-1622.pdf

JOA-FIREARM: The fact that no firearm was recovered does not compel a Judgment of Acquittal where victim testified he was slapped in the face with a pistol. Azin v. State, 3D22-1622 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442102/opinion/Opinion_2022-1622.pdf

ARGUMENT-VOUCHING: State's argument that the victims "told the truth" is not improper vouching where the prosecutor was responding to defense counsel's theory of defense, which focused on attacking the victims' credibility and motives, including directly suggested one of the victims was lying to the jury. Azin v. State, 3D22-1622 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442102/opinion/Opinion_2022-1622.pdf

IMPROPER ARGUMENT-ISSUE PRESERVATION: Where State implied that Defendant had intimidated witnesses into not testifying, the defense objected and the court sustained the objection and directed the State to "move on," any issue of improper argument was not preserved in the absence of a motion for mistrial. A defendant who objects to prosecutor's comment in final argument must make a motion for mistrial at some point during closing argument or, at the latest, at the conclusion of the prosecutor's argument. Azin v. State, 3D22-1622 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442102/opinion/Opinion_2022-1622.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION: In order to preserve a Confrontation Clause challenge for appeal, a defendant must object on Confrontation Clause grounds in the trial court. To preserve an error for appeal, three requirements must be met: First, a litigant must make a timely, contemporaneous objection. Second, the party must state a legal ground for that objection. Third, in order for an argument to be cognizable on appeal, it must be the specific contention asserted as legal ground for the objection, exception, or motion below. Burnell v. State, 3D22-1901 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442136/opinion/Opinion_2022-1901.pdf

RECROSS EXAMINATION: Court has discretion whether to allow recross examination. Discretion is abused only when the judicial action is arbitrary, fanciful, or unreasonable, which is another way of saying that discretion is abused only where no reasonable person would take the view adopted by the trial court. Burnell v. State, 3D22-1901 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442136/opinion/Opinion_2022-1901.pdf

JURY DELIBERATIONS: Videotaped out-of-court interviews with child victims introduced into evidence under §90.803(23) shall not be allowed into the jury room during deliberations. But there is no reviewable order where parties agreed to allow the jury to review the video alone in the empty courtroom. "Undoubtedly, the judicial best practice would have been for the trial judge to expressly inform Salgado-Mantilla of this right.

. .The cases, however, do not go so far as holding that the failure to expressly inform the defendant on the record always constitutes fundamental error if other circumstances in the record indicate the waiver was knowing and voluntary." Defendant may seek R. 3.850 relief. Salgado-Mantilla v. State, 3D22-2151 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442101/opinion/Opinion_2022-2151.pdf

APPEAL-INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE: Based on the plain language of section §924.051(3), unpreserved claims of ineffective assistance of counsel cannot be raised or result in reversal on direct appeal because the statute requires the more demanding showing of fundamental error. Felder v. State, 3D23-0634 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442137/opinion/Opinion_2023-0634.pdf

PRINCIPAL: A principals jury instruction is appropriate when evidence exists that another individual may have been involved in the underlying crime. Felder v. State, 3D23-0634 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442137/opinion/Opinion_2023-0634.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-HOMICIDE: A trial court must read the definitions of excusable and justifiable homicide in all murder and manslaughter cases. Felder v. State, 3D23-0634 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442137/opinion/Opinion_2023-0634.pdf

APPEAL: In conducting competent, substantial evidence review, the trial court's factual findings are presumed correct. State v. Harris, 3D2023-0904 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442076/opinion/Opinion_2023-0904.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: Harmless error analysis applies to trial court's failure to conduct Richardson hearing. Pinkney v. State, 3D23-1053 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442085/opinion/Opinion_2023-1053.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A motion to correct illegal sentence under R. 3.800(a) is not cognizable where the defendant seeks to challenge the validity of the conviction and, only by extension, the legality of the resulting sentence. An attack on the sufficiency of the evidence for the probation revocation is not cognizable in a R. 3.800(a) motion. Utile v. State, 3D23-2130 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442110/opinion/Opinion_2023-2130.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus may not be used to raise issues which would be untimely if considered as a motion for postconviction relief under rule 3.850. The manifest injustice exception to revive otherwise procedurally barred claims applies only to an extraordinarily narrow category of claims and merely incanting the term does not make it so. LoCascio v. State, 3D23-2292 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442069/opinion/Opinion_2023-2292.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: The rationale for permitting brief, warrantless seizures is, after all, that it is impractical to demand strict compliance with the Fourth Amendment's ordinary probable-cause requirement in the face of ongoing or imminent criminal activity demanding swift action predicated upon the on-the-spot observations of the officer on the beat. Davis v. State, 3D24-0382 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442142/opinion/Opinion_2024-0382.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Court may not summarily deny a facially insufficient rule 3.801 motion without first giving the defendant an opportunity to amend). Perez v. State, 3D24-0557 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442114/opinion/Opinion_2024-0557.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus cannot be used to seek a second appeal or to litigate issues that could have been or were raised in a motion under R. 3.850. McIntyre v. State, 3D24-1252 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442070/opinion/Opinion_2024-1252.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: There is a two-year limitation to file a petition for ineffective assistance of appellate counsel on direct review or four-year limitation where a petition alleges under oath with a specific factual basis that the petitioner was affirmatively misled about the results of the appeal by counsel. Milian v. State, 3D24-1676 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442083/opinion/Opinion_2024-1676.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: The requirements for establishing a claim based on ineffective assistance of appellate counsel parallel the standards announced in Strickland, i.e., petitioner must show 1) specific errors or omissions which show that appellate counsel's performance deviated from the norm or fell outside the range of professionally acceptable performance and 2) the deficiency of that performance compromised the appellate process to such a degree as to undermine confidence in the fairness and correctness of the appellate result. Milian v. State, 3D24-1676 (10/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442083/opinion/Opinion_2024-1676.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: The cost of prosecution is $100, not $200. Peterson v. State, 4D2023-2754 (10/16/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442060/opinion/Opinion_2023-2754.pdf

INVESTIGATIVE COST: $50 Investigative cost may not be imposed unless the defendant affirmatively agrees to pay the requested amount, and the State is not authorized to request costs on behalf of an agency without that agency's request. Peterson v. State, 4D2023-2754 (10/16/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442060/opinion/Opinion_2023-2754.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: A person is immune from criminal prosecution for the use of deadly force against an animal where the person has a reasonable belief that such force is necessary to prevent imminent death or great bodily harm to himself or herself or another. §776.012(2)'s plain, unambiguous text does not require that the deadly force be used against a person, rather than against an animal. "And we will not add words limiting section 776.012(2)'s application to force solely against persons and not animals SYG immunity applies in cruelty to animals where Defendant shot an aggressive pit bull while defending himself and his own dog. Gabriel v. State,4D2024-1502 (10/16/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442087/opinion/Opinion_2024-1502.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-RULE OF THE LAST ANTECEDENT (J. ARTAU, CONCURRING): In holding that one is entitled to SYG immunity against an attacking dog, majority errs in applying the rule of lenity; it should have applied the rule of the last antecedent, a traditional canon of statutory construction under which relative and qualifying words, phrases and clauses are to be applied to the words or phrase immediately preceding, and are not to be construed as extending to, or including, others more remote. Either way, you can shoot the dog. Gabriel v. State, 4D2024-1502 (10/16/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2442087/opinion/Opinion_2024-1502.pdf

EVIDENCE: Admitting a hearsay statement is not prejudicial when the out-of-court declarant is called as a witness and cross-examined at trial. Any error in admitting deputy's statement about what witness said was cured by the witness's subsequent testimony. USA v. Varazo, No. 23-11461 (11th Cir. 10/10/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311461.pdf

EVIDENCE-CHAIN OF CUSTODY: Challenges to the chain of custody generally go to the weight rather than the admissibility of evidence. USA v. Varazo, No. 23-11461 (11th Cir. 10/10/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311461.pdf

COMPETENCY: A defendant does not have a constitutional right to an adjudication on competency unless the trial court has reasonable grounds to believe that the defendant is incompetent to proceed. It is the violation of the right not to be tried when there are reasonable grounds to question the defendant's competency—not the right to have a hearing and competency determination—that deprives a defendant of due process. Failure to hold a competency hearing is not fundamental error. Davis v. State, 1D2021-3341 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441759/opinion/Opinion_2021-3341.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: Defendant may not raise on appeal an issue different than that raised in the trial court. Where Appellant argues that on appeal that the charging documents, jury instructions, and general verdict form used disjunctive language allowing a non-unanimous conviction, but at trial argued the information was "duplicative" and unclear, the issue is not preserved. Bates v. State, 1D2022-3199 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441760/opinion/Opinion_2022-3199.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Defendant is not entitled to suppression of inages found on computer where he failed to establish a legitimate expectation of privacy in the laptop because he declined to assert that the computer was his. A defendant who disclaims ownership lacks standing to challenge its search and seizure. Bates v. State, 1D2022-3199 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441760/opinion/Opinion_2022-3199.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-EXCLUSIONARY RULE: The exclusionary rule does not apply when officers obtain evidence in reasonable reliance on a search warrant even if it is later found that the warrant was unsupported by probable cause. Suppression is reserved as a remedy only in cases where a warrant is based on an affidavit so lacking in any indicia of probable cause as to render an officer's belief in its existence entirely unreasonable. Bates v. State, 1D2022-3199 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441760/opinion/Opinion_202

2-3199.pdf

OTHER BAD ACTS: Where Defendant is charged with possession of 50 images of child pornography and, at trial, around 500 child pornography images were mentioned, error is not fundamental. "Although we recognize that collateral crime evidence is often extremely prejudicial and presumptively harmful,. . .[t]he mention of additional images did not tip the scales." Bates v. State, 1D2022-3199 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441760/opinion/Opinion_2022-3199.pdf

VOIR DIRE: Court's failure to sua sponte declare a mistrial based on prospective juror/correctional officer's comment during jury selection that "the defendant, I don't know if he was at the Bay County Jail when I worked there," if error, is not fundamental. "Even if we assume the comment suggests that Grigges had, at some point, been in custody at the jail, the comment tells the jury nothing beyond that which it can already reasonably infer. It is unextraordinary and entirely reasonable for a jury to assume a defendant charged with first-degree murder was arrested and booked into the jail when first charged. There is no prejudice in such a mundane comment. . .[I]t is not a shock to a criminal trial jury to hear that the defendant has been charged with a crime." Grigges v. State, 1D2022-4069 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441763/opinion/Opinion_2022-4069.pdf

COSTS/FINES: A defendant has a right to have discretionary fines orally pronounced at sentencing because such costs may not be imposed without affording the defendant notice and an opportunity to be heard. Defendant may waive oral pronouncement of the breakdown of the costs and fines in open court. The effect of prohibiting waiver could incentivize a defendant to say nothing about fees even when given an opportunity to be heard. Defendants are not prohibited from waiving the oral pronouncement of fees and costs. "We do not intend to be overly formalistic." Grigges v. State, 1D2022-4069 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441763/opinion/Opinion_2022-4069.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Written sentencing order including a paragraph for the trial court to indicate the time served in jail between the date of arrest for the violation of probation and the date of resentencing, followed by a direction to the DOC to compute and apply the appropriate credit for the time he previously served in prison along with the original jail time credit is lawful, provided the judge remembers to check that box. Welch v. State, 1D2023-0161 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441772/opinion/Opinion_2023-0161.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Once a driver has been lawfully stopped for a traffic violation, police officers may order the driver out of the vehicle for officer safety reasons without violating the Fourth Amendment's prohibition of unreasonable searches and seizures. Jones v. State, 1D2023-1403 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441766/opinion/Opinion_2023-1403.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: A statutory cost of prosecution can be levied without being specifically requested by the State. Jones v. State, 1D2023-1403 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441766/opinion/Opinion_2023-1403.pdf

TRIAL-WITNESS: A judge may advise a witness of his or her rights when the witness is potentially exposing himself or herself to criminal liability such as perjury. Green v. State, 1D2023-1883 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441767/opinion/Opinion_2023-1883.pdf

SEX OFFENDER PROBATION: Sex offender probation can be imposed as a special condition of probation so long as a factor in Biller is satisfied. A special condition is invalid as not reasonably related to rehabilitation if it (1) has no relationship to the crime of which the offender was convicted, (2) relates to conduct which is not in itself criminal, and (3) requires or forbids conduct which is not reasonably related to future criminality. Willis v. State, 1D2023-3063 (10/9/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441768/opinion/Opinion_2023-3063.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: $50 for investigative costs may not be imposed unless requested on the record. Bond v. State, 4D2023-2499 (10/9/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441771/opinion/Opinion_2023-2449.pdf

COMPETENCY-CHILD WITNESS: Judge questioning child witness about her competency to testify in presence of jury is not per se reversible error, but the better practice is to conduct this examination outside the presence of the jury. McGrady v. State, 4D2023-2600 (10/9/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441775/opinion/Opinion_2023-2600.pdf

FREE SPEECH: Restrictions on personally directed and abusive speech at school board meetings violate the First Amendment. School board meetings qualify as limited public forums. Prohibiting calling people "names that are generally accepted to be unacceptable" is constitutionally problematic because it enables school board to shut down speakers whenever their message is deemed offensive. "No one likes to be called evil, but it is not 'abusive' to use that term. . .[H]ere, the ban on 'abusive' speech is an undercover prohibition on offensive speech." Moms for Liberty, No. 23-10656 (10/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310656.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-STOP-AUTOMOBILE: Weaving several times over the fog line is grounds for a welfare check stop under the community caretaking doctrine. State v. Sheldon, 5D2023-1668 910/8/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441722/opinion/Opinion_2023-1668.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: $150 cost of prosecution may not be imposed without a request. Pedreira v. State, 5D2023-2700 (19/8/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441729/opinion/Opinion_2023-2700.pdf

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE SURCHARGE: $201 domestic violence surcharge improperly assessed or a non-qualifying offense. Pedreira v. State, 5D2023-2700 (19/8/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441729/opinion/Opinion_2023-2700.pdf

COSTS: Costs for the FDLE Operating Trust Fund must be stricken where trhey were not orally pronounced. Youngblood v State, 5D2023-

3067 (10/8/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441724/opinion/Opinion_2023-3067.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: A cost imposed under §938.27(8) is mandatory. Conflict recognized. Scheider v. State, 5D2023-3244 (10/8/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441726/opinion/Opinion_2023-3244.pdf

PROBATION-MODIFICATION: Court must modify or continue probation where Defendant meets all four conditions of §948.06(2)(f) (The term of supervision is probation, the probationer does not qualify as a violent felony offender of special concern, the violation is a low-risk technical violation, and the court has not previously found the probationer in violation). Radi v, State, 5D2024-0256 (10/8/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441728/opinion/Opinion_2024-0256.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: A cost of prosecution imposed under §938.27(8) is mandatory. Conflict recognized. Strickland v. State, 5D2024-1325 (10/8/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441714/opinion/Opinion_2024-1325.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A court should not deny a postconviction claim as insufficiently pleaded without giving the movant one chance to amend the claim—assuming he can do so in good faith. But the court does not need to order an amendment when denial of the motion was not based on insufficiency in pleading. Bunch v. State, 5D2924-1691 (10/8/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441727/opinion/Opinion_2024-1691.pdf

PLEA: A plea conference is not a meaningless charade to be manipulated willy-nilly after the fact; it is a formal ceremony, under oath, memorializing a crossroads in the case. What is said and done at a plea conference carries consequences. Postconviction movants are bound by their sworn statements. Bunch v. State, 5D2924-1691 (10/8/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441727/opinion/Opinion_2024-1691.pdf

RIOT: Florida's amended criminal riot statute is not impermissibly vague and does not criminalize peaceful protest activity. A peaceful protestor, under the most natural reading of the statute, is no rioter. The statute does not apply to a person who is present at a violent protest, but neither engages in, nor intends to assist others in engaging in, violent and disorderly conduct. Merely attending a violent protest, without more, falls outside the statute's reach. The touchstone of liability under the riot statute is violence. This violence may not be incidental; it must be intentional. Dream Defenders v. Governor, No. 21-13489 (10/7/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113489.pdf

THEFT OF GOVERNMENT PROPERTY: Defendant properly convicted of theft of government property for drawing disability while helping run a janitorial business. A conviction for theft of government property requires the government prove (1) that the money or property belonged to the government; (2) that the defendant fraudulently appropriated the money or property to his own use or the use of others; and (3) that the defendant did so knowingly and willfully with the intent either temporarily or permanently to deprive the owner of using the property. USA v. Hill, No. 23-10289 (10/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310289.pdf

MAKING A FALSE CLAIM: Receiving direct deposits can satisfy the "making or presenting" actus reus of 18 U.S.C. §287. Receiving a direct deposit disability payment to which one is not entitled can constitute a false claim against the government. "[E]very time Hill received an RRB payment via direct deposit to his bank account while failing to disclose his involvement with SparClean, he presented a false claim." USA v. Hill, No. 23-10289 (10/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310289.pdf

INVITED ERROR: Accepting the deliberate avoidance pattern instruction at the charge conference and not objecting after the charges were read to the jury constitutes invited error and a waiver of the right to it upon appeal. USA v. Hill, No. 23-10289 (10/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310289.pdf

DICTA: "[T]here is dicta and then there is dicta, and then there is Supreme Court dicta." Johnson v. Terry, No. 23-11394 (11th Cir. 10/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311394.op2.pdf

APPEAL-REHEARING: A petition for rehearing en banc also functions as a petition for rehearing before the original panel. Johnson v. Terry, No. 23-11394 (11th Cir. 10/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311394.op2.pdf

BIVENS CLAIMS: Bivens claims are claims for money damages against federal officials and employees who have committed constitutional violations. In all but the most unusual circumstances. Plaintiff may not raise a Bivens claim against federal prison officials, doctors, a nurse, and a kitchen supervisor alleging that they violated his constitutional rights by using excessive force, by failing to protect him from other inmates, and by being deliberately indifferent to his serious medical needs. Johnson v. Terry, No. 23-11394 (11th Cir. 10/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311394.op2.pdf

BIVENS CLAIMS: Bivens may not be used to recognize new constitutional-claim causes of action. In the last 44 years, the Supreme Court has over and over again refused to extend Bivens to any new context or new category of defendants. Recognizing a cause of action under Bivens outside of the three contexts already allowed by the Supreme Court is a disfavored judicial activity and should be avoided in all but the most unusual circumstances. "[T]hose 'most unusual circumstances' are as rare as the ivory-billed woodpecker." Johnson v. Terry, No. 23-11394 (11th Cir. 10/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311394.op2.pdf

BIVENS CLAIMS: "Theoretically, we may someday see more Supreme Court decisions confirming and extending Bivens. Barring that unlikely event, for the time being the decision will remain on the judiciary's equivalent of an endangered species list, just like its natural history analogue, the ivory-billed woodpecker. Both the decision and the bird are staring extinction in the face." Johnson v. Terry, No. 23-11394 (11th Cir. 10/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311394.op2.pdf

WOODPECKERS-A COINCIDENCE OF RARITY: Ornithologists almost pronounced Ivory-billed Woodpeckers extinct, but there may be three of them in bottomland forests of Louisiana. "If that's true, the number of the birds that exist will exactly match the number of Supreme Court decisions that have confirmed and applied Bivens in the last forty-three years: three live ivory-billed woodpeckers and three live Bivens decisions. A coincidence of rarity." Johnson v. Terry, No. 23-11394 (11th

Cir. 10/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311394.op2.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES-SEX OFFENDER: The "repeat and dangerous sex offender against minors" enhancement does not apply when the Defendant had previously been convicted for the state offense of traveling to meet a minor. In determining whether the Florida conviction is a predicate, the categorical approach, not Defendant's course of conduct, is used. The least culpable conduct that could sustain a conviction under this statute appears to be traveling to meet a minor for the purpose of contributing to the delinquency of a child. That is plainly not a sex offense. USA v. Lusk, No. 22-12078 (11th Cir. 10/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212078.pdf

SENTENCING-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: A district court's unjustified reliance on any one §3553(a) factor may be indicative of an unreasonable sentence. The imposition of a sentence well below the statutory maximum penalty is an indicator of reasonableness. USA v. Lusk, No. 22-12078 (11th Cir. 10/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212078.pdf

ATTEMPTING TO ENTICE A MINOR: Defendant may be convicted of attempting to entice a minor even where his conduct did not involve an actual minor. USA v. Lusk, No. 22-12078 (11th Cir. 10/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212078.pdf

APPEAL WAIVER: An appeal waiver bars a defendant from challenging the constitutionality of the oral pronouncement of his sentence. Defendant who had signed the plea waiver may not appeal the Court's failure to describe the standard discretionary conditions of supervised release in detail. USA v. Read, No. 23-10271 (11th Cir. 10/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310271.pdf

CONDITIONS OF SUPERVISED RELEASE-ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT: District court may impose standard conditions of supervised release adopted by the Court in the Middle District without orally describing each condition. A reference to a written list of conditions is enough to afford a defendant the opportunity to challenge the conditions of supervised release, which is all that due process requires. USA v. Hayden, No. 19-14780 (11th Cir. 10/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201914780.pdf

AMENDMENT-JUVENILE PROCEDURE: Juvenile rules rephrased for clarity and new language added to make them more easily understood. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Juvenile Procedure, No. SC2024-0572 (10/2/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441466/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0572.pdf

RE-SENTENCING-SCORESHEET: In general, when the vacation of a conviction would result in changes to the defendant's scoresheet, the defendant is entitled to be resentenced using a corrected scoresheet unless the record conclusively shows that the trial court would have imposed the same sentence using a corrected scoresheet. Jones v. State, 2D2023-0522 (10/2/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441474/opinion/Opinion_2023-0522.pdf

HEARSAY-EXPERT-BAKER ACT: Evidence from the treating physician that she had reviewed subject's medical records and that he had admitted that he previously failed to comply with treatment is insufficient to support involuntary commitment. An expert's testimony may not merely be used as a conduit for the introduction of the otherwise inadmissible evidence. In the absence of personal knowledge of the witness, or admission of T.M.'s relevant medical records via a records custodian or a business records affidavit, a surrogate expert's testimony is insufficient. T.M. v. State, 3D230148 (10/2/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441499/opinion/Opinion_2023-0148.pdf

HEARSAY-BUSINESS RECORD: In order to lay a proper foundation for the admission of a business record, the affidavit must show that the record was: 1) made at or near the time of the event recorded, 2) by, or from information transmitted by, a person with knowledge, 3) kept in the course of a regularly conducted business activity, and 4) it was the regular practice of that business to make such a record. T.M. v. State, 3D230148 (10/2/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441499/opinion/Opinion_2023-0148.pdf

RE-SENTENCING-SCORESHEET: In general, when the vacation of a conviction would result in changes to the defendant's scoresheet, the defendant is entitled to be resentenced using a corrected scoresheet unless the record conclusively shows that the trial court would have imposed the same sentence using a corrected scoresheet. Jones v. State, 2D2023-0522 (10/2/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441474/opinion/Opinion_2023-0522.pdf

HEARSAY-EXPERT-BAKER ACT: Evidence from the treating physician that she had reviewed subject's medical records and that he had admitted that he previously failed to comply with treatment is insufficient to support involuntary commitment. An expert's testimony may not merely be used as a conduit for the introduction of the otherwise inadmissible evidence. In the absence of personal knowledge of the witness, or admission of T.M.'s relevant medical records via a records custodian or a business records affidavit, a surrogate expert's testimony is insufficient. T.M. v. State, 3D230148 (10/2/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441499/opinion/Opinion_2023-0148.pdf

HEARSAY-BOLO: The contents of a BOLO are generally inadmissible, but when the victim testifies to the same information during the trial, courts have often considered the admission of the BOLO's contents cumulative in nature, and, therefore, harmless. Solivan v. State, 3D23-0665 (10/2/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441548/opinion/Opinion_2023-0665.pdf

HEARSAY-BUSINESS RECORD: In order to lay a proper foundation for the admission of a business record, the affidavit must show that the record was: 1) made at or near the time of the event recorded, 2) by, or from information transmitted by, a person with knowledge, 3) kept in the course of a regularly conducted business activity, and 4) it was the regular practice of that business to make such a record. T.M. v. State, 3D230148 (10/2/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441499/opinion/Opinion_2023-0148.pdf

DNA TESTING: It is the defendant's burden to explain, with reference to specific facts about the crime and the items requested to be tested, how the DNA testing will exonerate the defendant of the crime or will mitigate the defendant's sentence. A trial court does not err in denying a motion for DNA testing where the defendant cannot show that there is a reasonable probability that the absence or presence of DNA at a crime scene would exonerate him or lessen his sentence. Jackson v. State, 3D24-1160 (10/2/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441560/opinion/Opinion_2024-1160.pdf

FARETTA: An accused has the right to self-representation, but the trial court has an obligation to ensure that a defendant who elects to waive counsel does so "with eyes open" by making the defendant "aware of the dangers and disadvantages of self-representation. Faretta violations at a critical stage of the criminal proceeding are per se reversible error. Harmless error analysis is not available. Sherrod v. State, 4D2023-0881 (10/2/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441477/opinion/Opinion_2023-0881.pdf

FARETTA-STAND YOUR GROUND: Court must conduct a full Faretta hearing before allowing Defendant to represent himself in a SYG hearing. Sherrod v. State, 4D2023-0881 (10/2/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441477/opinion/Opinion_2023-0881.pdf

STATEWIDE PROSECUTOR-PERJURY: Statewide prosecutor has jurisdiction in multiple counties. Where jurors in multiple counties convened virtually (COVID), the Statewide prosecutor has jurisdiction to prosecute a witness for perjury before that a grand jury so assembled. The alleged perjury occurred, in two or more judicial circuits as part of a related transaction. Florida v. Runcie, 4D2023-1061 (10/2/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441481/opinion/Opinion_2023-1061.pdf

LEWD OR LASCIVIOUS MOLESTATION: Defendant can be convicted of lewd or lascivious molestation by applying the principal theory for inducing two minors to perform sexual acts upon each other. McCaw v. State, 4D2023-1105 (10/2/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441489/opinion/Opinion_2023-1105.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Costs of prosecution are mandatory. Conflict recognized. Morales v. State, 5D2023-2968 (10/1/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441349/opinion/Opinion_2023-2968.pdf

SEPTEMBER 2024

VOP: Written revocation of probation orders must identify the terms and conditions of probation violated. Reyes v. State, 5D2023-3585 (9/27/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441314/opinion/Opinion_2023-3585.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: When a defendant is arrested in a foreign county on a warrant from another county, the defendant may be entitled to credit for the time spent in the foreign county. Milliord v. State, 5D2024-1490 (9/27/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441309/opinion/Opinion_2024-1490.pdf

HEARSAY-COCONSPIRATORS: Excluded from the definition of hearsay are out-of-court statements made by the party's coconspirator during and in furtherance of the conspiracy. The word "conspiracy" means an arrangement to work together toward a shared goal. There must be evidence of a conspiracy before a court can admit coconspirator statements, but it need not find that the conspiracy was unlawful before admitting those statements. USA v. Holland, No. 22-14219 (9/25/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214219.op2.pdf

APPEAL-DEPARTURE: Appellate review of the trial court's denial of a downward departure sentence is only appropriate when the trial court misapprehends its discretion to depart or refuses to exercise that discretion as a matter of policy. Thayer v. State, 1D2023-0342 (9/25/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441255/opinion/Opinion_2023-0342.pdf

VOTER FRAUD: The Office of Statewide Prosecution has authority under §16.56(1)(a) to bring voting fraud charges against a voter because the offense occurred in two Florida Judicial Circuits. State v. Wood, 3D22-1925 (9/25/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441226/opinion/Opinion_2022-1925.pdf

JIMMY RYCE-HABEAS CORPUS: In Jimmy Ryce cases, detainee may file a petition for habeas corpus alleging ineffective assistance of counsel in the county in which the judgment was rendered within two years after the judgment becomes final. All other habeas corpus petitions must be filed in the county where the facility in which he is confined is located. Shaw v. State, 3D22-1869 (9/25/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441228/opinion/Opinion_2023-1869.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-SUMMARY DENIAL: Court may not summarily deny a motion for postconviction relief as successive without attaching records necessary to support the ruling. Lucas v. State, 3D23-2190 (9/25/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441242/opinion/Opinion_2023-2190.pdf

YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: Offenders are not entitled to sentencing under the Youthful Offender Act for offenses committed prior to its effective date. Williams v. State, 3D24-0723 (9/25/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441222/opinion/Opinion_2024-0723.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-INEVITABLE DISCOVERY: Whether the Government employs its own surveillance technology or leverages the technology of a wireless carrier, an individual maintains a legitimate expectation of privacy in the record of his physical movements as captured through CSLI. Because acquisition of CSLI data is a search, the Government must generally obtain a warrant supported by probable cause before acquiring such records, but where Defendant was ultimately found with his cell phone without the use of CSLI, the inevitable discovery doctrine applies. CSLI only confirmed to law enforcement that appellant's phone was present at the address, which law enforcement had already ascertained through lawful means, and to which they were already headed. Craig v. State, 4D2022-1728 (9/25/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441235/opinion/Opinion_2022-1728.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-FACEBOOK RECORDS: In murder case, after police were denied a search warrant for Defendant's Facebook records for lack of probable cause, review of the same Facebook records, which had been lawfuly acquired in an unrelated fraud case, for evidence on the homicide constituted an unlawful search. A warrant authorizing officers to search through a large amount of Facebook data for evidence relevant to proving only theft or fraud does not give officers authority to search the Facebook records for evidence of homicide. Good faith exception does not apply." Young v. State, 4D2023-1056 (9/25/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441234/opinion/Opinion_2023-1056.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-SOCIAL MEDIA: People have a reasonable expectation of privacy in their private social media content." Young v. State, 4D2023-1056 (9/25/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441234/opinion/Opinion_2023-1056.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT: To obtain a search warrant, an officer must submit an affidavit setting forth facts establishing two elements: (1) the commission element—that a particular person has committed a crime; and (2) the nexus element—that evidence relevant to the probable criminality is likely to be located in the place searched. Further, a search warrant must contain a particular description of the items of property it authorizes the officers to seize. A warrant authorizing officers to search through a large amount of Facebook data for evidence relevant to proving only theft or fraud does not give officers authority to search the Facebook records for evidence of homicide." Young v. State, 4D2023-1056 (9/25/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441234/opinion/Opinion_2023-1056.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-EXCLUSIONARY RULE: State's argument that the Exclusionary Rule should not apply because the law was unsettled is wrong. "Were we to agree with this argument. . .we would effectively be holding that when the law is unsettled, an officer or the prosecutor is free to make an independent conclusion concerning the legality of a search or seizure, and even if a court subsequently disagrees with that conclusion, the illegally obtained evidence will not be suppressed. Under this approach, an officer would have an incentive not to seek a warrant when caselaw is unclear because the request might be denied. Young v. State, 4D2023-1056 (9/25/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441234/opinion/Opinion_2023-1056.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-WARRANT: "The rule on searches in questionable areas of law is simple and unequivocal: Get a warrant." Young v. State, 4D2023-1056 (9/25/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441234/opinion/Opinion_2023-1056.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: Defendant's post-Miranda confession was not voluntary where officers had threatened to take his truck if he did not talk ("So, either you cooperate with us, or we take your truck. Permanently. . .[B]ecause it was used in the commission of the crime."). In order for a confession or an incriminating statement of a defendant to be admissible in evidence, it must be shown that the confession or statement was voluntarily made, i.e., the product of free will and rational choice, and not elicited by direct or implied promises, however slight. Vera v. State, 4D2023-1311 (9/25/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441232/opinion/Opinion_2023-1311.pdf

STEALING-INTENT: Defendants charged with violating 18 U.S.C. §661, which prohibits taking and carrying way, "with intent to steal or purloin, any personal property of another" are not entitled to a jury instruction that the jury must find that defendants took the fishing gear with the intent to keep the gear for themselves or to convert it to their own use. The text of §661 does not explicitly include any language requiring a lucri causa element. USA v. Moore, No. 23-10579 (9/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310579.pdf

STEALING-INJUSTICE (J LAGOA, J., CONCURRING): "John Moore, Jr., and Tanner Mansell are felons because they tried to save sharks from what they believed to be an illegal poaching operation. They are the only felons I have ever encountered. . .who called law enforcement to report what they were seeing and what actions they were taking in real time. They are felons who derived no benefit, and in fact never sought to derive any benefit, from the conduct that now stands between them and exercising the fundamental rights from which they are disenfranchised. What's more, they are felons for having violated a statute that no reasonable person would understand to prohibit the conduct they engaged in." USA v. Moore, No. 23-10579 (9/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310579.pdf

LES MISERABLES (J LAGOA, J., CONCURRING): "For reasons that defy understanding, Assistant United States Attorney Tom Watts Fitzgerald . . .—taking a page out of Inspector Javert's playbook—. . .decided to pursue this indictment despite the following undisputed facts: Moore and Mansell (1) called law enforcement to report what they were doing, (2) were comfortable involving their tourism customers in their actions, (3) encouraged Kuehl to record what was happening, and (4) returned the gear to the marina dock as instructed. USA v. Moore, No. 23-10579 (9/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310579.pdf

INJUSTICE (J LAGOA, J., CONCURRING): Assume that Hypothetical Bob disarms a robber who was holding up an old woman and turns the gun over to the police. "Has Bob stolen from the robber? . . .[B]ased on the government's theories and the instructions given in our case, Bob's conduct would be criminally 'willful' because he intended to do the thing the law forbids: he intended to take the gun from its owner to prevent the owner from using it, and that is forbidden under §661." USA v. Moore, No. 23-10579 (9/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310579.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS: Evidence of uncharged or past crimes is not admissible to prove a person's character in order to show that on a particular occasion the person acted in accordance with the character, but may be admissible for another purpose, such as proving motive, opportunity, intent, preparation, plan, knowledge, identity, absence of mistake, or lack of accident. The government must offer prior notice of its intent to present the evidence, including an explanation of its permitted purpose unless the evidence is intrinsic to the charged crime. USA v. Cenephat, No. 22-1374 (11th Cir. 9/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213741.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS: Evidence of the details of a drive-by shooting shortly before his arrest, including gunshot residue on his hands is admissible in possession of a firearm by a felon charge. USA v. Cenephat, No. 22-1374 (11th Cir. 9/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213741.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS: In Possession of a Firearm by Felon case, Defendant's prior felon-in-possession convictions are admissible to prove intent. There is a logical connection between a convicted felon's knowing possession of a firearm at one time and his knowledge that a firearm is present at a subsequent time. USA v. Cenephat, No. 22-1374 (11th Cir. 9/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213741.pdf

SENTENCING: A district court may rely on any statements in the PSI that the defendant did not object to with specificity and clarity. USA v. Cenephat, No. 22-1374 (11th Cir. 9/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213741.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-COMMENTARY: Guidelines commentary may only be used to construe a guideline if, having exhausted all the traditional rules of statutory interpretation, the guideline's main text is ambiguous. USA v. Cenephat, No. 22-1374 (11th Cir. 9/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213741.pdf

INVESTIGATIVE COSTS: Court may not impose $50.00 for investigative costs where State did not specifically request them. Porter v. State, 5D2023-1553 (9/20/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2441033/opinion/Opinion_2023-1553.pdf

ATTORNEY-DISCIPLINE: Attorney sentenced to 60 days in jail, 50 suspended upon 5 months of probation with psychological treatment for contempt for continuing to practice law after disbarment. The Florida Bar v. Norkin, SC2021-1025 (9/17/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440973/opinion/Opinion_SC2021-1025.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: When a defendant brings any claim in a successive motion more than one year after the judgment and sentence became final, he must meet an exception to the time-limit rule. Where Defendant could have discovered that a witness against him expected a favorable deal from the State, his claim is time barred. Stein v. State, SC2022-1787 (9/19/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440976/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1787.pdf

REVOCATION OF RIGHT OF SELF-REPRESENTATION-APPEAL: The standard of review for a trial court's revocation of right of review is de novo, not abuse of discretion. USA v. Butler, No. 22-12798 (11th Cir. 9/18/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212798.pdf

REVOCATION OF RIGHT SELF-REPRESENTATION: Court may revoke a defendant's right of self-representation and to dispense with a lawyer's help where a defendant deliberately engages in serious and obstructionist misconduct such as frequently interrupting and insulting the court, walking out of hearings, refusing to attend other proceedings, and threatening not to show up at the trial itself. An "attorney with the combined skill of John Adams, Clarence Darrow, and Louis Brandeis could not have satisfied Mr. Butler." Cooperation and respect in the courtroom are not mere formalities. They are necessary components of the judicial process. USA v. Butler, No. 22-12798 (11TH Cir. 9/18/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212798.pdf

YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: For youthful offender sentencing for crimes committed before October 1, 2024, Defendant must have been under 21 at the time of sentencing. His age at the time of the offense under the statute then in effect is irrelevant. The amendment to the statute making YO sentencing available for defendants who were under 21 at the time of the offense is not retroactive. Hutchinson v. State, 1D2022-2988 (9/18/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440781/opinion/Opinion_2022-2988.pdf

COSTS: For second degree murder, Court improperly imposed the $3 cost under §318.13(11)(b)(2) and the $2 cost under §938.15. Hutchinson v. State, 1D2022-2988 (9/18/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440781/opinion/Opinion_202

2-2988.pdf

COSTS: Defendant cannot challenge for the first time on appeal the written waiver of the required oral pronouncement of discretionary costs. Issue must first be raised in the trial court. Hutchinson v. State, 1D2022-2988 (9/18/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440781/opinion/Opinion_2022-2988.pdf

COMPETENCY: Where psych evals were ordered and reports prepared, but no hearing is held, Court must make a retroactive finding of competency or grant a new trial. Davis v. State, 1D2022-385 (9/18/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440783/opinion/Opinion_2022-3857.pdf

RIGHT TO TESTIFY: Defendant is not deprived of his right to testify where 3 times he declined to testify, then changed his mind during the reading of jury instructions Thomas v. State, 1D2023-1856 (9/18/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440782/opinion/Opinion_2023-1856.pdf

MOTION TO WITHDRAW PLEA: Defendant is not entitled to withdraw a plea more than 30 days after its original imposition but fewer than 30 days after its correction. The striking of the mandatory condition of a sentence already served for technical reasons while the defendant is serving much longer concurrent sentences is an act ministerial in nature that does not rise to the level of a sentence rendition re-starting the deadlines in R. 3.170(l). Sanchez v. State, 3D22-0817 (9/18/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440891/opinion/Opinion_2022-0817.pdf

MOTION TO WITHDRAW PLEA: Once a sentence has been imposed, a defendant must demonstrate manifest injustice or prejudice in order to withdraw a guilty plea. "[W]e find no manifest injustice in the denial of his request to withdraw his plea twenty-six years later." Sanchez v. State, 3D22-0817 (9/18/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440891/opinion/Opinion_2022-0817.pdf

PHOTO LINEUP: "[W]e reiterate the unremarkable adage that a photographic identification procedure is not suggestive 'solely because the display [does] not depict persons of the same race or ethnic group, although displaying persons of markedly different race or ethnicity may be unduly suggestive." Sukhwa v. State, 3D23-1051 (9/18/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440864/opinion/Opinion_2023-1051.pdf

JUROR-CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE: Juror who indicated he had strong feelings about theft cases because several of his family members were robbery victims, and that "I don't know how it would affect my opinion on this. I don't think it would, but just going through that. . .I can't say for sure I wouldn't think of it. But I would try not to" should have been removed for cause. When a juror's last response indicates that the juror is potentially prejudiced, and the response is not retracted or modified, the juror must be stricken for cause. Sciallo v. State, 3D23-2078 (9/18/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440872/opinion/Opinion_2023-2078.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Officers do not have qualified immunity for detaining in handcuffs a driver on a no-flight list. Qualified immunity shields public officials from liability for civil damages when their conduct does not violate a constitutional right that was clearly established at the time of the challenged conduct, but the right not to be unlawfully detained like this was clearly established. Meshal v. Commissioner, Georgia Dep't of Public Safety, (No. 23-10128 (11th Cir. 9/16/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310128.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROLONGED DETENTION: Temporary detention of individuals during the stop of an automobile, even if only for a brief period and for a limited purpose, constitutes a Fourth Amendment seizure. Calling the FBI during a routine traffic stop to see if detainee is on the no-fly list is not reasonably related to the mission of writing a ticket or warning. "But even assuming [it were], the call extended Meshal's detention beyond what the Fourth Amendment allows. . .The officers maintain that the length of the detention was dictated by the timing of the FBI's response and therefore justified. But what if the FBI had taken two hours to respond? Or six hours? Or a whole day? It cannot be that any length of detention was permissible until the officers received an all-clear from the FBI. . .The logical implication of the officers' argument is that individuals on the No Fly List can be subjected to prolonged detention any time they travel to or from a public place. We cannot countenance that result." Meshal v. Commissioner, Georgia Dep't of Public Safety, (No. 23-10128 (11th Cir. 9/16/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310128.pdf

SUPERSEDEAS BOND: In considering superseas bond, Court must consider the following factors: (1) whether the appeal is taken for delay or in good faith on grounds not frivolous but fairly debatable; (2) the habits of the individual regarding respect for the law; (3) local attachments to the community by way of family ties, business or investment; (4) the severity of the sentence imposed, and circumstances relevant to the question of whether the defendant would remove himself from the jurisdiction of the court. Conclusory findings unsupported by the record or a mere verbatim recital of the considerations are insufficient. Torolopez v. State, 3D23-2255 (9/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440672/opinion/Opinion_2023-2255.pdf

SIGHS: Defendant's "sighs at trial during witness testimony. . .do not support the trial court's finding of lack of respect for the justice system." Torolopez v. State, 3D23-2255 (9/16/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440672/opinion/Opinion_2023-2255.pdf

APPEAL: Defendant may not raise on appeal arguments that differ from those raised in the trial court. Walker v. State, 4D2022-3397 (9/18/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440876/opinion/Opinion_2022-3397.pdf

TESTIMONY-FEDERAL OFFICIAL (J. WARNER, CONCURRING): Deputy serving on U.S. Marshals Service Fugitive Task Force cannot be compelled to testify for defendant on a motion to suppress as to whether cell phone illegally used to arrest him. 28 C.F.R. § 16.22(a) provides that in any case where the United States is not a party, no employee or former employee of Department of Justice shall, in response to a demand disclose any information or produce any material acquired as part of the performance of that person's official duties or because of that person's official status without prior approval of the proper Department official. Nevertheless, the Justice Department's refusal to allow this witness to testify to whether he used CSLI to locate appellant and whether he secured a warrant does not seem to comport with its own regulations. "What one gleans from this record is an effort to hide the fact that the deputy acted without a warrant, thus making the search for appellant illegal. Although the officer may not be held in contempt for following the directions of his superiors, that does not preclude the superior from being held in civil contempt." Walker v. State, 4D2022-3397 (9/18/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440876/opinion/Opinion_2022-3397.pdf

MOTION TO CORRECT-APPEAL: If an appeal is pending, a defendant may file in the trial court a motion to correct a sentencing error. Sawyer v. State, 4D2023-2555 (9/18/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440875/opinion/Opinion_2023-2555.pdf

JUROR MISCONDUCT: Where Defendant moved for a new trial, and while that was pending received a report of potential juror misconduct but did not seek to amend his original motion, but instead later filed a second motion for new trial, the second motion was untimely. Karcewski v. State, 2D2021-3443 (9/13/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440395/opinion/Opinion_2021-3443.pdf

COST OF INVESTIGATION: $50 cost of investigation stricken because it was not orally pronounced nor requested by the State. Lamie v. State, 5D2023-2530 (9/13/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440389/opinion/Opinion_2023-2530.pdf

JURY-READ BACK: When the jury requests transcripts of testimony, the court must advise the jury of its right to request a read-back. New trial required. McDermott v. State, 5D2023-3013 (9/13/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440390/opinion/Opinion_2023-3013.pdf

APPEAL-JURY-READ BACK: Appellate counsel was ineffective for not raising the issue of the trial court not advising the jury of its right to request a read-back of testimony. McDermott v. State, 5D2023-3013 (9/13/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440390/opinion/Opinion_2023-3013.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Police may conduct a traffic stop when a person stops or parks in a designated handicapped parking space without a displayed permit. State v. Diaz, 6D2023-3742 (9/13/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440421/opinion/Opinion_2023-3742.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-COSTS OF DEFENSE: A trial court=s decision to deny a motion for funds for a PET scan and travel expenses for mitigation specialist in preparation for the penalty phase of a death case will be upheld absent an abuse of discretion. Sexton v. State, SC2023-0079 (9/12/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440351/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0079.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-COURT WITNESS: Court erred by calling the defense mitigation specialist as a court witness, but error is harmless. Sexton v. State, SC2023-0079 (9/12/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440351/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0079.pdf

JUDGE DISQUALIFICATION: Court need not be disqualified for ordering defense counsel not to persist in heated language (A[P]erhaps. . .we should just go out to the nearest tree and hang Mr. Sexton.@). Sexton v. State, SC2023-0079 (9/12/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440351/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0079.pdf

JUDGE DISQUALIFICATION (J. LABARGA, CONCURRING): AThe trial court=s response to defense counsel=s improper comment was insufficient to demonstrate the requisite bias for granting a motion to disqualify. However, I must note that considering the trial court=s strong response to defense counsel=s comment, the court did not offer a sufficient response to improper prosecutorial comments that preceded those made by defense counsel. . .[R]eferring to certain court proceedings as >a racket,= questioning the legitimacy of experts, and accusing those experts of >fleec[ing] the public=Cin a death penalty case, no lessCwere also deserving of the trial court=s rebuke.@ Sexton v. State, SC2023-0079 (9/12/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440351/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0079.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is not entitled to postconviction relief in DUI manslaughter case for counsel=s alleged failure to adequately object to some of the prosecutor=s comments in closing argument, failure to seek a mistrial concerning a sustained golden rule objection, and failure to object to the voluntary intoxication instruction for general intent crimes. To prove ineffective assistance of counsel, a defendant must demonstrate a reasonable probability that, but for counsel=s errors, the result of the proceeding would have been different. Weber v. State, 1D2022-1734 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440235/opinion/Opinion_2022-1734.pdf

WITHDRAWAL OF PLEA: Where, before sentencing, Defendant filed a pro se motion to withdraw his guilty plea, alleging that trial counsel had not visited Appellant in a year, had not deposed certain witnesses, and had not raised other challenges to the charges, he is entitled to conflict-free counsel. Counsel=s statement that he did not agree that the motion to withdraw plea had any merit sufficiently demonstrated an adversarial relationship between Appellant and his trial counsel. Morrow v. State, 1D2022-2947 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440233/opinion/Opinion_2022-2947.pdf

APPEAL-POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant may not raise for the first time on appeal from the denial of a motion for postconviction relief that her life sentence was disproportionate in light of her co-defendants= term-of-years sentences. There is no manifest injustice exception to the rules for preservation of issues for appeal. Vowell v. State, 1D2022-3840 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440243/opinion/Opinion_2022-3840.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to prepare Defendant to testify at the proffer and trial where he had told her to be honest in her proffer, warned her that half-truths would be discovered, and told her to try not to get upset, but she had disregarded this advice. AGiven the >cocktail of pills= she was continually ingesting, the postconviction court reasonably questioned what amount of preparation would have been sufficient to overcome her own behavior.@ Vowell v. State, 1D2022-3840 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440243/opinion/Opinion_2022-3840.pdf

DISCHARGE OF ATTORNEY: A Nelson hearing is required (1) when the defendant makes a clear and unequivocal statement that he wishes to discharge appointed counsel; (2) the reason for the requested discharge is a claim of incompetence; and (3) the alleged ineffectiveness arises from the current representation by counsel, not past indiscretions. The fact that the pro se motion for appointment of substitute counsel did not contain a completed certificate of service is not dispositive. Hoskins v. State, 1D2023-0422 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440257/opinion/Opinion_2023-0422.pdf

HEARSAY: A text message, sent before the shooting, from the victim to a third party noting that Defendant had a firearm is not hearsay where it was offered into evidence not for the truth of the matter asserted but to show the victim=s state of mind to explain the victim=s actions before the shooting. McGowan v. State, 1D2023-0578 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440256/opinion/Opinion_2023-0578.pdf

MOTION/APPEAL: Where Defendant simultaneously files both a timely motion to withdraw plea with the trial court and a notice of appeal, the appeal, not the motion, must be held in abeyance. Brown v. State, 1D2023-0888 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440267/opinion/Opinion_2023-0888.pdf

JOA-LEWD AND LASCIVIOUS MOLESTATION: Defendant touching A[n]ear [her] vagina@ and A[n]ot far above it@ is sufficient to convict for lewd and lascivious molestation. The version of '800.04 in effect on the date of the offense did not define Agenital area@ or Agenitals.@ Because the legislature has not defined lewd or lascivious behavior, whether the defendant=s behavior violated the statute is a question of fact that must be decided by the jury. White v. State, 1D2023-0966 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440266/opinion/Opinion_2023-0966.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION: When an appellant=s counsel has requested the instruction challenged on appeal, that instruction cannot constitute fundamental error, because any error in the instruction was invited. Johnson v. State, 1D2023-1266 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440273/opinion/Opinion_2023-1266.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: The Fourth Amendment allows a K-9 officer arriving midway through a lawful traffic stop to command the driver to exit the vehicle for officer safety before conducting a lawful vehicle sweep. Davis v. State, 1D2023-2399 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440275/opinion/Opinion_2023-2399.pdf

SELF-REPRESENTATION: A Faretta hearing is unnecessary when a defendant makes an ambiguous statement about self-representation rather than an unequivocal request for self-representation. Taylor v. State, 1D2023-2490 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440276/opinion/Opinion_2023-2490.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: A claim that the trial court misunderstood its sentencing options is not cognizable under R. 3.800(a). Martinez v. State, 1D2024-0451 (9/11/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440281/opinion/Opinion_2024-0451.pdf

APPEAL: Trial court has the authority to reconsider an order granting a new trial, deny it, and reinstate the original sentence. A motion for a new trial (R. 3.800) falls under the portion of the rules governing the trial, and conceptually occurs before the postconviction proceedings. An order granting a new trial is not considered a final order. AIt would create an absurd result if we were to read into the law a prohibition on the trial court=s inherent ability to set aside an order that was rendered incorrect based on a subsequent change in law.@ Kinley v. State, 3D20-1725 (9/11/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440230/opinion/Opinion_2020-1725.pdf

APPEAL-MOTION TO MITIGATE: An order denying a motion to mitigate sentence under R. 3.800(c) is not an appealable order. Viera v. State, 3D24-1197 (9/11/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440251/opinion/Opinion_2024-1197.pdf

COST OF INVESTIGATION: State may not request investigative costs on the agency=s behalf without the agency=s request. Woods v. State, 4D2023-1647 (9/11/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440262/opinion/Opinion_2023-1647.pdf

COURT COSTS: Court costs imposed must be broken down. A[C]ertain of the costs were required. . .But an additional $70 in court costs remains for which we are unsure as to the statutory basis.@ Remanded for evidentiary hearing. Woods v. State, 4D2023-1647 (9/11/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440262/opinion/Opinion_2023-1647.pdf

EVIDENCE-EXPERT-PTSD: Expert testimony that Defendant suffered from PTSD in support of his self-defense claim is inadmissible. The peculiarity of a defendant=s mental state is not germane to the question of whether a reasonably cautious and prudent person under the same circumstances would have believed that the danger could be avoided only through the use of that force. The self-defense test is not a subjective one, and it does not follow that a defendant=s misperceptionsChis misunderstanding of reality as altered by a disorder such as PTSDCare relevant. Conflict certified. Cowins v. State, 4D2023-2364 (9/11/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440270/opinion/Opinion_2023-2564.pdf

SENTENCE-CORRECTION: Although R. 3.800(a)=s plain language does not expressly prohibit defendants from seeking to correct unlawfully lenient sentences, they are not entitled to such relief under the rule absent a showing of prejudice. Careaga v. State, 4D 023-2728 (9/11/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440271/opinion/Opinion_2023-2728.pdf

COMPETENCY: A Defendant can have a mental illness and still be competent to stand trial. Mental illness alone isn't enough to be incompetent; the key is a defendant's ability to assist counsel and understand the charges. USA v. Wall, No. 20-10730 (11th Cir. 9/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202010730.pdf

RICO: To establish a RICO conspiracy, the government must prove that the defendants objectively manifested, through words or actions, an agreement to participate in the conduct of the affairs of the enterprise through the commission of two or more predicate crimes. Agreement to participate in a RICO conspiracy can be proven in one of two ways: (1) by showing an agreement on an overall objective or (2) by showing that a defendant agreed personally to commit two predicate acts. An agreement on an overall objective may be proven by circumstantial evidence showing that each defendant must necessarily have known that others were also conspiring to participate in the same enterprise through a pattern of racketeering activity. USA v. Wall, No. 20-10730 (11th Cir. 9/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202010730.pdf

RICO-JURY INSTRUCTION: The general statutory maximum sentence under the RICO is twenty years, but if the violation is based on a racketeering activity for which the maximum penalty includes life imprisonment, life imprisonment may be imposed. Where the Court instructed the jury to consider whether the defendants had engaged in "acts involving murder," defined to "include[] murder, attempted murder, and/or conspiracy to murder"—and the special verdict form contained the language "involve[d] murder," the instruction does not imply that attempted murder (a non-life-sentence offence) applies. Critically, the district court specifically defined "murder" to include only actual murder under Georgia law, which is "a racketeering activity for which the maximum penalty includes life imprisonment." The verdict form asked whether the conspiracy involved "murder," not "acts involving murder." USA v. Wall, No. 20-10730 (11th Cir. 9/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202010730.pdf

RICO-JURY INSTRUCTION: The jury instruction that in order to find RICO "you must unanimously decide whether the Defendant joined or remained in the RICO conspiracy knowing that the enterprise engaged in this type of racketeering activity" did not mirror the substantive conspiracy element instruction, but any Apprendi error is harmless. It is clear beyond a reasonable doubt that a rational jury would have found the facts necessary for the enhanced sentencing provision to apply to the defendants, absent the alleged knowledge-versus-intent error. USA v. Wall, No. 20-10730 (11th Cir. 9/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202010730.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-RICO LESSER INCLUDED: Defendant is not entitled to a lesser included voluntary manslaughter finding in the special verdict form. Lesser-included-offense instructions for predicate crimes are not applicable in the context of a RICO conspiracy. USA v. Wall, No. 20-10730 (11th Cir. 9/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202010730.pdf

EVIDENCE: Any error in admitting evidence of guilty pleas and convictions for the limited purpose of explaining why certain individuals were not part of the trial was harmless because it was merely cumulative. Several Gangster Disciples witnesses testified that they had pleaded guilty, and the knowledge that a few more people had been convicted would not have appreciably changed the jury's assessment of the evidence. USA v. Wall, No. 20-10730 (11th Cir. 9/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202010730.pdf

EVIDENCE-OPINION: An agent presented as an expert may not interpret or speculate about the meaning of unambiguous conversations. But an agent who is not presented as an expert may. A lay witness may offer an opinion that is (1) rationally based on the witness's perception, (2) helpful to the jury, and (3) not founded on scientific or expert knowledge A lay witness also may offer "opinion testimony based on his professional experiences. USA v. Wall, No. 20-10730 (11th Cir. 9/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202010730.pdf

VOP-JURISDICTION: Court's order that "[i]f no written objection is received by March 21, 2022, the Court will grant the motion [for early termination of probation] on without further notice" is not an order termination probation. Where a day before the deadline Defendant committed a new crime, and a month later a VOP affidavit was filed,

Court retains jurisdiction to revoke probation. The earlier order was not self-executing. Hart v. State, 2D2022-3992 (9/6/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440076/opinion/Opinion_2022-3992.pdf

FINE: A discretionary fine must be orally pronounced. Where Court orally imposed imposed only "a one thousand dollar fine," and "all mandatory court costs," the written fee order which included a $4,500 fine must be stricken.

COSTS-WEIRD: In DUI Manslaughter/Vehicular Homicide case, Court erred in assessing recording costs of $9 and $10 pursuant to §28.24(12), which deals with "examining, certifying, and recording plats and . . . recording condominium exhibits larger than 14 inches by 8 ½ inches." Mattice v. State, 2D2022-4166 (9/6/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440082/opinion/Opinion_2022-4166.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Court in the county properly dismissed Petitioner's petition for writ of habeas filed in the county of his conviction, not the county where he is serving a life sentence. The circuit court of the county in which a defendant is incarcerated has jurisdiction to consider a petition for writ of habeas corpus when the claims raised in the petition concern issues. But to the extent that the petition also included a claim that the life sentence was illegal because it exceeded the applicable statutory maximum, the court of conviction and sentence should have considered the petition as a mislabeled motion for relief under R. 3.800(a), and denied it on the merits. Mollica v. State, 2D2023-2433 (9/6/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440086/opinion/Opinion_2023-2433.pdf

WITHHELD ADJUDICATION: Adjudication of guilt may not be withheld on second degree felonies unless the state attorney so requests in writing or the court makes written findings that the withholding of adjudication is reasonably justified based on the same statutory criteria for a downward departure sentence. State v. Coney, 5D2024-0223 (9/6/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440080/opinion/Opinion_2024-0223.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Court may not assess costs of excess of $100 in the absence of a request and evidence. Golphin v. State, 6D2023-0775 (9/7/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440079/opinion/Opinion_2023-0775.pdf

COSTS OF SUPERVISION: Defendant who received a life sentence and did not receive a sentence of probation or community control may not be assessed costs supervision. Golphin v. State, 6D2023-0775 (9/7/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440079/opinion/Opinion_2023-0775.pdf

PRIOR PANEL PRECEDENT RULE: "Our prior-precedent rule requires us to follow Eleventh Circuit precedent—even if we disagree with it or think that prior panels have overlooked important arguments—unless and until the Supreme Court or our court sitting en banc abrogates the precedent." USA v. Deleon, No. 23-10478 (9/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310478.pdf

GUIDELINES-ENHANCEMENT-PHYSICAL RESTRAINT: Where Defendant walked into a store, pointed a gun at the cashier while demanding money from the register, received the money, and then left, all within about one minute, he is subject to the two-level enhancement for physically restraining the victim. Defendant's argument that pointing a gun is not a physical restraint may have merit, but "our precedent binds us to conclude that the enhancement applies to conduct like Deleon's, and 'we have categorically rejected an overlooked reason or argument exception to the prior-panel-precedent rule.'. . .End of story." But en banc review suggested. USA v. Deleon, No. 23-10478 (9/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310478.pdf

PHYSICAL RESTRAINT ENHANCEMENT-DOUBLE COUNTING: Imposing the two-level enhancement for physical restraint during a robbery is not impermissible double counting. USA v. Deleon, No. 23-10478 (9/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310478.pdf

GUIDELINES-ENHANCEMENT-PHYSICAL RESTRAINT (J. ROSENBAUM CONCURRING): "The issue in this case is ripe for en banc review. . . Quite simply, a plain reading of the text of section 2B3.1(b)(4)(B) does not support our precedent's standard or application of that guideline here." A restraint that is solely mental or psychological in nature should not qualify under section 2B3.1(b)(4)(B)'s plain text. Not only does a non-physical restraint fail to comport with the definition of "physically," but construing "physically restrained" to include non-physical restraints—no matter how intimidating a non-physical restraint may be—makes "physically" meaningless in the guideline. USA v. Deleon, No. 23-10478 (9/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310478.pdf

STARE DECISIS (J. ROSENBAUM CONCURRING): Appellate court must reconcile prior panel decisions whenever possible. Only the holdings of prior decisions are binding; legal principles set forth outside of the decision's holding do not. USA v. Deleon, No. 23-10478 (9/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310478.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE (J. NEWSOM, CONCURRING): "Those, like me, who believe that 'ordinary meaning' is the foundational rule for the evaluation of legal texts should consider—consider—whether and how AI-powered large language models like OpenAI's ChatGPT, Google's Gemini, and Anthropic's Claude might—might—inform the interpretive analysis." USA v. Deleon, No. 23-10478 (9/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310478.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE (J. NEWSOM, CONCURRING): Statutory interpretation of a composite, multi-word phrase poses a challenge because the entire phrase—"physically restrained"—isn't defined in any reputable dictionary, the tool to which plain-language interpreters typically turn. Sometimes a phrase really is just the sum of its parts, but that's not uniformly true. "In those instances where a phrase is more than the sum of its component parts, I think that LLMs [Large Language Models] may well help to fill the gaps left by word-centric dictionaries." USA v. Deleon, No. 23-10478 (9/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310478.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE (J. NEWSOM, CONCURRING): "I continue to believe—perhaps more so with each interaction—that LLMs have something to contribute to the ordinary meaning endeavor. . . [I]t would be myopic to ignore them. . .No one should mistake my missives for a suggestion that AI can bring scientific certainty to the interpretive enterprise. . .I'm not advocating that we give up on traditional interpretive tools—dictionaries, semantic canons, etc. But I do think—and increasingly so—that LLMs may well serve a valuable auxiliary role as we aim to triangulate ordinary meaning.

Again, just my two cents. I remain happy to be shouted down." USA v. Deleon, No. 23-10478 (9/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310478.pdf

CHILD PORN: Statute prohibiting visual depiction -- including a drawing or cartoon -- of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct is not overly broad or vague. USA v. Ostrander, No. 22-14160 (11th Cir. 9/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214160.pdf

CHILD PORN: Obscene material is not protected by the First Amendment, but the First and Fourteenth Amendments prohibit making mere private possession of obscene material a crime. The First Amendment does not include a right to possess child pornography, even in the privacy of one's home. USA v. Ostrander, No. 22-14160 (11th Cir. 9/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214160.pdf

CHILD PORN: The First Amendment does not protect the distribution or transportation of obscene material, but the mere possession of obscene material in a private home cannot be criminalized. This does not extend to the possession of obscene material involving real children, because of the state's powerful interest in protecting children victimized by obscenity. But this exception does not apply to virtual child pornography because there are no children victimized by these images. The First Amendment protects the private possession in one's own home of obscene material depicting virtual minors, so long as no real children are victimized. Defendant is properly convicted where he possessed the pornographic cartoon images in a public place. And perhaps the acquisition of the cartoon child porn is not protected even in one's home. USA v. Ostrander, No. 22-14160 (11th Cir. 9/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214160.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-ATTORNEYS: Rules governing attorney discipline and suspension tweaked. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Chapter 3, No. SC2024-0029 (9/5/2024)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440038/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0029.pdf

AMENDMENTS-RULES-CRIMINAL-COMPETENCY: The hearing on a motion to determine if a defendant is competent to proceed is to be held within 45 days of the motion, rather than 20 days. Status hearing(s) must be held no later than 20 days after the motion date and as otherwise necessary to ensure prompt resolution, and absent good cause, a final hearing conducted no later than 45 days from the motion date. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.210, SC2024-0147 (9/5/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440039/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0147.pdf

AMENDMENTS-RULES-JUVENILE-SUBPOENAS: Rules amended to allow digital delivery of items subpoenaed. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Juvenile Procedure 8.245, No. SC2024-0382 (9/5/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440040/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0382.pdf

MISTRIAL: Even when a prosecutor makes an improper comment on a defendant's right to remain silent, a trial court does not abuse its discretion in denying a mistrial where the comment was not so prejudicial as to vitiate the entire trial. Trotman v, State, 1D2022-1604 (9/4/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439969/opinion/Opinion_2022-1604.pdf

SENTENCING-DELINQUENCY: A juvenile court is not required to articulate an understanding of the respective characteristics of the opposing restrictiveness levels and logically and persuasively explain why one level is better suited before sentencing a Child to non-secure commitment. D.D.G. v. State, 1D2023-2254 (9/4/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2440000/opinion/Opinion_2023-2254.pdf

CHILD HEARSAY: Abuse of discretion review is applied to a trial court's determination of the reliability and admissibility of child hearsay statements. Martinez-Urbina v. State, 3D22-1668 (9/4/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439987/opinion/Opinion_2022-1668.pdf

HEARSAY-BUSINESS RECORD: In order to lay a foundation for the business record exception to the hearsay rule, it is not necessary to call the person who actually prepared the document. The record custodian or any qualified witness who has the requisite knowledge to testify as to how the record was made can lay the necessary foundation. Martinez-Urbina v. State, 3D22-1668 (9/4/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439987/opinion/Opinion_2022-1668.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Strategic decisions do not constitute ineffective assistance of counsel if alternative courses have been considered and rejected and counsel's decision was reasonable under the norms of professional conduct. Barnes v. State, 3D2300839 (9/4/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439994/opinion/Opinion_2023-0839.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Once a prima facie claim of self-defense immunity from criminal prosecution has been raised by the defendant at a pretrial SYG Immunity hearing, the burden of proof by clear and convincing evidence is on the party seeking to overcome the immunity. Where the trial court was diligent in weighing and assessing the evidence, its ruling is clothed with a presumption of correctness. Gazapo Figueroa v. State, 3D23-2215 (9/4/24)

CONCURRENT SENTENCE: Concurrent sentences do not necessarily begin at the same time, and unless they are ordered to be coterminous, they will expire on different dates. Toussant v, State, 3D24-0059 (9/4/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439992/opinion/Opinion_2024-0059.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel is not deficient in failing to call witnesses who refuse to cooperate with the defense and are therefore unavailable for trial. Barnes v. State, 3D23-0839 (9/4/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439994/opinion/Opinion_2023-0839.pdf

JUVENILE OFFENDER-SENTENCE REVIEW: A juvenile offender convicted for first degree murder with a firearm and attempted first-degree murder with a firearm and sentenced to life imprisonment is entitled to sentence review. A juvenile offender sentenced to a term of more than 15 years under is entitled to a review of his or her sentence after 15 years. Williams v. State, 4D2023-0987 (9/4/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439945/opinion/Opinion_2023-0987.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: Court may not impose investigation costs of $50 because the State did not request them. Sosa v. State, 4D2023-1133 (9/4/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439946/opinion/Opinion_2023-1133.pdf

RESTITUTION: Court may not award $3,416.36 as the alleged cost of repairing deputy's vehicle because the state had not presented any evidence during the restitution hearing that the vehicle for which the state had sought restitution was the vehicle which the defendant had damaged. The State presented witness testimony, but failed to call any of the officers to the stand to testify that the unit damaged in the incident involving the defendant was the vehicle repaired. Perez v. State, 4D2023-1252 (9/4/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439956/opinion/Opinion_2023-1252.pdf

AUGUST 2024

JURY SELECTION-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-PRESERVATION: The three-step process for handling race-based objections to the use of peremptory challenges: A party objecting to the other side's use of a peremptory challenge on racial grounds must: a) make a timely objection on that basis, b) show that the venireperson is a member of a distinct racial group, and c) request that the court ask the striking party its reason for the strike. If these initial requirements are met (step 1), the court must ask the proponent of the strike to explain the reason for the strike. At this point, the burden of production shifts to the proponent of the strike to come forward with a raceneutral explanation (step 2). If the explanation is facially race-neutral and the court believes that, given all the circumstances surrounding the strike, the explanation is not a pretext, the strike will be sustained (step 3). Richardson v. State, 5D2023-0411 (8/30/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439813/opinion/Opinion_2023-0411.pdf

JURY SELECTION-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-RESERVATION: To preserve its Melbourne challenge for appellate review, the objecting party must affirmatively challenge and obtain adverse rulings on the race-neutrality and genuineness of the reason given by the proponent for the strike. Where State strikes a jury for a facially race neutral reason (the juror wore torn shorts and a hat), Defendant must object that the reason is pretextual and seek a ruling on the genuineness of the reason. Richardson v. State, 5D2023-0411 (8/30/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439813/opinion/Opinion_2023-0411.pdf

FINE: Court may not impose a fine for capital sex battery. §775.083(1) provides that "[a] person who has been convicted of an offense other than a capital felony may be sentenced to pay a fine." [emphasis added]. Carroll v. State, 5D2023-0820 (8/30/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439818/opinion/Opinion_2023-0820.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION: In order for an issue to be preserved for appellate review, it must be presented to the lower court and the specific legal argument or ground to be argued on appeal must be part of that presentation. The issue raised on appeal–that there was not a factual basis to find him to be a VFOSC–is different from the issue raised below of the Court's failure to make written findings. Booker v. State, 5D2023-1024 (8/30/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439828/opinion/Opinion_2023-1024.pdf

DANGEROUSNESS FINDING: The holding in Brown that a jury must make a finding of dangerousness, or defendant must admit to it, for a defendant with a non-forcible third-degree felony and 22 points or fewer to be sentenced to prison applies to a resentencing that occurs after the revocation of a defendant's original probationary sentence. Klick v. State, 6D2023-0825 (8/30/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439836/opinion/Opinion_2023-0825.pdf

DANGEROUSNESS FINDING: The correct dangerousness finding is whether sentencing Defendant to a nonstate prison sentence could present a danger to the public, not whether the defendant himself is a danger to the public. The two are not the same. Klick v. State, 6D2023-0825 (8/30/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439836/opinion/Opinion_2023-0825.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY-RETROACTIVITY: Death is not a constitutionally suitable punishment for a mentally retarded criminal. But Hall, clarifying the standards for determining mental retardation and requiring them to be applied retroactively, was later overturned. Even though Defendant's case was remanded for a hearing on competency to be executed before Hall was overturned by Phillips, he is not entitled to a hearing. The rule that once a mandate requiring a hearing is issued the hearing must be held does not apply. Phillips was an intervening change in the law, so no hearing is required. Defendant is procedurally barred. Foster v. State, SC2023-0831 (8/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439769/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0831.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-TRANSLATORS-PRO SE LITIGANTS: Rules revised for pro se litigants and interpreters. in Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of General Practice and Judicial Administration, No. SC2023-1321 (8/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439770/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1321.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-ENDORSEMENTS: Rules tweaked on celebrity

endorsements and artificial intelligence. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Chapter 4, SC2024-0032 (8/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439771/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0032.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-LEGAL INTERNS: Rules amended to allow a client to orally consent to representation by a certified legal intern on the record at a hearing and for the intern to be remotely supervised. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Rules 11-1.2 and 11-1.3, SC2024-0236 (8/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439772/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0236.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-CRIMINAL: Child pornography cannot be copied. Other tweaks. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Criminal Procedure – 2024 Legislation, No. SC2024-1044 (8/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439774/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1044.pdf

\AEDPA: The Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act gives a state prisoner one chance to bring a federal habeas challenge to his conviction, but disallows a second or successive application unless he shows that a claim has not been raised before and that it is either based on a new rule of constitutional law or newly discovered evidence proving factual innocence, and then only after obtaining approval from the federal court of appeals. When a federal habeas petitioner files a motion to amend a petition while an appeal from the denial or dismissal of it is pending, even when based on evidence adduced at the hearing, the motion is properly characterized as second or successive. Boyd v. Secretary, D.OC., No 22-10299 (8/28/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210299.pdf

COSTS-FIRST STEP: Condition in probation order that Defendant pay $1 per month to First Step stricken where it was not orally imposed. A form listing costs signed by Defendant's attorney with an unchecked box for First Step is not sufficient. Addison v. State, 1D2022-3068 (8/28/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439701/opinion/Opinion_2022-3068.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: Defendant's claim that appellate counsel was ineffective for filing an Anders Brief is legally insufficient where it merely claimed he should be allowed "a reasonable period of time in which to file a pro se brief." Perry v. State, 1D2023-2475 (8/28/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439699/opinion/Opinion_2023-2475.pdf

VFOSC: For a violent felony offender of special concern, the trial court must make written findings articulating that he poses a danger to the community. Gonzalez v. State, 3D21-1445 (8/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439726/opinion/Opinion_2021-1445.pdf

COLLATERAL CRIMES EVIDENCE: In attempted second-degree murder case, Court erred by admitting into evidence a prior uncharged sexual assault involving the same victim because it was necessary to establish the entire context from which the charged crimes arose and to explain his motive for shooting the victim. Barnes v. State, 3D22-0115 (8/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439723/opinion/Opinion_2022-0115.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Defendant is not entitled to a new trial based on newly discovered evidence unless it is of such a nature that it would probably produce an acquittal on retrial. Wimblery v. State, 3D23-0038 (8/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439728/opinion/Opinion_2023-0038.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-FWC: The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission has authority to stop boats to inspect licenses, registration, and safety resource equipment. Spot checks of motorboats are not unreasonable under the Fourth Amendment. A person's expectation of privacy in a motorboat is less than the same expectation of privacy in an automobile. State v. Vinokurov, 3D23-1930 (8/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439748/opinion/Opinion_2023-1930.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Habeas corpus is not a vehicle for obtaining additional appeals of issues which were raised or should have been raised on direct appeal, or which could have been, should have been, or were raised in post-conviction proceedings. Wilson v. State, 3D24-1413 (8/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439725/opinion/Opinion_2024-1413.pdf

PRETRIAL DETENTION: §907.041(5)(d), which requires pretrial detention If a defendant is arrested for a dangerous crime that is a capital felony, a life felony, or a felony of the first degree, and the court determines there is a substantial probability that he committed the offense and no conditions of release or bail will be adequate, is constitutional. Thorough discussion. Armstrong v. State, 6D2024-1093 (8/26/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439592/opinion/Opinion_2024-1093.pdf

PRETRIAL DETENTION: Court errs in ordering pretrial detention under §907.041(5)(d) where its order did not contain both findings of fact and conclusions of law to support it. The judge who heard and granted the motion for pretrial detention did not make any findings of fact and a second judge who heard and denied Defendant's related motion for pretrial release merely referred to his predecessor's ruling without making any findings based upon the evidence presented to him at the subsequent hearing over which he presided. Armstrong v. State, 6D2024-1093 (8/26/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439592/opinion/Opinion_2024-1093.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Florida's recently acknowledged atrocities at the Dozier School for Boys combined with Defendant's recently recovered repressed memories of abuse he suffered and witnessed there do not constitute recently discovered mitigation evidence in a death penalty case. Cole v. State, SC2024-1170 (8/23/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439558/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1170.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's claim of postconviction neglect and mistreatment in prison as an Eighth Amendment violation warranting relief of the death penalty is untimely filed, and even if it were, it would not provide a basis for relief. Cole v. State, SC2024-1170 (8/23/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439558/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1170.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-LETHAL INJECTION: Defendant's Parkinson's disease, which may make placing the intravenous lines necessary to carry out lethal injection difficult or painful, does not make imposition of the death penalty cruel and unusual punishment. Being pricked numerous times in the course of having an IV inserted is not cruel and unusual punishment, however uncomfortable it may be. Cole v. State, SC2024-1170 (8/23/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439558/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1170.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Denial of Defendant's requests for records related to lethal injection protocol is not an abuse of discretion because the constitutionality of Florida's current lethal injection protocol had been upheld, and the records therefore were unlikely to lead to a colorable claim for postconviction relief. Cole v. State, SC2024-1170 (8/23/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439558/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-1170.pdf

VOP-VFOSC: Court must make written findings as to whether Defendant is a danger to the community before sentencing him as a Violent Felony Offender of Special Concern. Brock v. State, 5D2023-1905 (8/23/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439520/opinion/Opinion_2023-1905.pdf

SUSPENDED SENTENCE: Before imposing a previously suspended prison sentence Court must allow the defendant an opportunity to present evidence and argument regarding the sentence. A trial court's refusal to hear evidence and argument regarding a sentence constitutes a denial of due process and is fundamental error. Alston v. State, 5D2023 (8/23/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439532/opinion/Opinion_2023-3696.pdf

RULES-JUVENILE-AMENDMENT: Rules amended to provide that a motion for rehearing must be filed with the trial court to preserve for appeal a claim that the trial court failed to make the required findings of fact in the final order. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Juvenile Procedure 8.265, No. SC2024-0127 (8/22/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439476/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0127.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-FLORIDA BAR: Rules modified for board certification and re-certification. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Rules 6-3.5 and 6-3.6, SC2024-0237 (8/22/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439483/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0237.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Sixth Amendment does not require a lawyer to make arguments based on predictions of how the law may develop. Counsel was not ineffective for failing to advise Defendant that in order to have been "used" within the meaning of § 2251(a), a child must have actually engaged in sexually explicit conduct, rather than merely present, where case law so holding did not yet exist at the time of her plea. Ritchie v. USA, No. 22-12117 (11th Cir. 8/21/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212117.pdf

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL: Court did not abuse its discretion in finding that conflicts in Victim's statements and testimony, and conflicting testimony from the defense's witnesses were not sufficient to undermine other evidence presented. McBride v. State, 1D2022-3231 (8/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439393/opinion/Opinion_2022-3231.pdf

APPEAL AFTER PLEA: Failure of a plea colloquy to comport with Rule 3.172 is not an authorized ground for appeal. A defendant cannot complain about an insufficient plea colloquy unless it rendered the plea involuntary. "Evans maintains that he must make a claim that is prohibited from being raised on direct appeal by the rules of procedure, or he will be barred from making the same claim in a procedurally correct manner by postconviction motion. Thankfully, no such rule of law exists." Evans v. State, 1D2023-0916 (8/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439401/opinion/Opinion_2023-0916.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Convictions for both lewd or lascivious exhibition and indecent exposure do not violate double jeopardy. Harvill v. State, 1D2023-1355 (8/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439419/opinion/Opinion_2023-1355.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Defendant can be convicted of multiple counts of lewd or lascivious exhibition arising out of a single incident. The allowable unit of prosecution is the number of victims, not the number of lewd acts. But Defendant cannot be convicted of multiple counts of indecent exposure arising out of a single incident. For indecent exposure, the allowable unit of prosecution is the number of lewd acts, not the number of victims. Harvill v. State, 1D2023-1355 (8/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439419/opinion/Opinion_2023-1355.pdf

EVIDENCE-IDENTIFICATION: Officer's testimony that he is familiar with the Defendant as the resident of a neighborhood the officer patrols does not, by itself, imply the resident committed a prior bad act. "I knew it was you, Maurice. I knew it was you." is properly admitted as a statement of identification. Struggs v. State, 1D2023-1738 (8/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439411/opinion/Opinion_2023-1738.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS: For obstruction, officers may testify that they pursued Defendant because "We had probable cause to make an arrest for multiple – for cases" and "We were there for a previous case, so –." Testimony is admissible because the lawfulness of the arrest was an element of resisting an officer without violence. Martinez v. State, 3D22-2145 (8/21/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439407/opinion/Opinion_2022-2145.pdf

SIX-PERSON JURY: Florida's use of six-member jury in non-capital cases does not violate the Sixth Amendment right to trial by jury. Kain v. State, 3D23-1189 (8/21/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439443/opinion/Opinion_2023-1189.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel is not ineffective for not moving to disqualify judge because of the Judge's expressions of impatience, dissatisfaction, annoyance, and even anger, which are within the bounds of what imperfect men and women sometimes display. Mitchell v. State, 2D23-1755 (8/21/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439447/opinion/Opinion_2023-1755.pdf

APPEAL-EXTENSION OF TIME: Denial of a motion for extension of time to file a R. 3.850 motion for postconviction relief is not an appealable final order. Kovacs v. State, (8/21/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439436/opinion/Opinion_2023-2983.pdf

FIREARM-MANDATORY MINIMUM: A dripping wet gun under a dry bed in Defendant's efficiency apartment is sufficient to establish Defendant, a felon, possessed it, but is insufficient to establish actual possession. Mandatory minimum vacated. Rock v. State, 4D2023-2996 (8/21/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439437/opinion/Opinion_2023-2996.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Probable cause for a traffic stop does not turn on whether a traffic violation occurred, but rather whether, whether viewed under an objective lens, the totality of the facts known to the officer at the time would cause a reasonable person to believe that an offense has been committed. A finding of probable cause does not require absolute certitude. A patrol officer who observed a vehicle in a turn-only lane cut in front of a line of traffic when the stoplight turned green has probable cause to stop the vehicle for careless driving. Staten v. Crume, 6D2023-2304 (8/21/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439460/opinion/Opinion_2023-2304.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: "[T]here is no separate written order entered by the trial court. Rather, the trial court 'checked' one of the boxes on the guidelines scoresheet . . and no separate order was entered by the trial court. To be clear, . . .Florida trial courts must enter a written order. . .when imposing a departure sentence." State v. Hauter, 5D2022-2997 (8/19/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439226/opinion/Opinion_2022-2997.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Neither Defendant's emotional stability not being the greatest, his thirteen months of abiding by the rules of pretrial release, nor the 39 months of a life sentence he had previously served are valid grounds for a downward departure. State v. Hauter, 5D2022-2997 (8/19/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439226/opinion/Opinion_2022-2997.pdf

IMPEACHMENT-HEARSAY: Where Defendant introduces his exculpatory hearsay statements through another witness, his prior convictions are admissible as impeachment. But Defendant's statement, adduced through another witness, that their wives were in the bathroom and that they intended to leave were offered to prove that Defendant was trying to diffuse the situation, and therefore were not hearsay. Impeachment by prior convictions was improper. Fernandez v, State, 2D2022-1630 (8/16/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439159/opinion/Opinion_2022-1630.pdf

VFOSC: A violent felony offender of special concern is a probationer who has committed an enumerated offense. Court may not dismiss a VFOSC VOP without a hearing and must make written findings as to whether or not he poses a danger to the community. Jackson v. State, 2D2023-2441 (8/16/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439160/opinion/Opinion_2023-2441.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-ADVISE: Defendant, a VFOSC, is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for not learning that Defendant had had a new offense that had been dismissed on technical grounds and not warning him that the Judge would likely find him to be a danger to the community because of it. Jackson v. State, 2D2023-2441 (8/16/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439160/opinion/Opinion_2023-2441.pdf

JOA-UNLAWFUL INTERCEPTION OF ORAL COMMUNICATION: Defendant cannot be convicted of interception of oral communication by secretly recording phone calls with police officers. Officers do not have an actual subjective expectation of privacy, along with a societal recognition that the expectation is reasonable, in official phone calls. Waite v. State, 5D2023-1354 (8/16/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439154/opinion/Opinion_2023-1354.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE-PRESERVATION: Where Defendant failed to appear for sentencing and when caught was sentenced to more than the original agreement, he may not argue on appeal that he FTA'ed because he was in the hospital but at the trial level he merely asked for leniency (he's just "a kid" who "made a stupid, stupid decision not to show.".) To be preserved for appeal, the specific legal ground upon which a claim is based must be raised at trial and a claim different than that will not be heard. Jones v. State, 5D2023-2204 (8/16/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439178/opinion/Opinion_2023-2204.pdf

QUARTERMAN AGREEMENT (J. MAKAR, CONCURRING): Beyond the preservation issue, the lessons learned in this case are fourfold. First, criminal defendants must assiduously adhere to the terms of a Quarterman agreement, particularly the requirement that they timely appear for sentencing or risk drastic results, such as here, where a five-year sentence . . .was transformed into a twenty-four-year sentence. . .Second, the law erects a high hurdle for voiding a Quarterman agreement: proof that a defendant willfully failed to show up at sentencing. This standard isn't met when a defendant had a reason beyond his control for non-appearance. . .Third, if the State seeks to void a Quarterman agreement it should formally move to do so and demonstrate that the defendant's non-appearance was willful. . .Fourth, the State should shoulder the evidentiary burden of proving a breach. Jones v. State, 5D2023-2204 (8/16/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439178/opinion/Opinion_2023-2204.pdf

INCARCERATION COSTS: According to D.O.C., it costs an average of $84.61 per day to house an inmate in Florida. Jones v. State, 5D2023-2204 (8/16/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439178/opinion/Opinion_2023-2204.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: Court may not impose $100 of investigation costs because that were neither part of the plea agreement nor requested by the State. Streeter v. State, 5D2023-3211 (8/16/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439186/opinion/Opinion_2023-3211.pdf

JURISDICTION DURING APPEAL-MODIFICATION: Trial court lacks jurisdiction to correct sentence by adding statutorily required no contact condition while appeal is pending. While the State may move to correct sentence during a defendant's appeal, its scope is limited to correcting errors benefitting the defendant or scrivener's errors. Dixon v, State, 6D2023-0708 (8/16/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439216/opinion/Opinion_2023-0708.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER/HABITUAL FELONY OFFENDER: For a third degree felony, a ten-year HFO sentence running concurrently with a five-year PRR sentence would be legal, but Court cannot impose consecutive PRR and HFO sentences for a single offense. A sentence of five years as a PRR followed by five years as an HFO is illegal. Lovett v. State, 6D2023-2137 (8/16/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439175/opinion/Opinion_2023-2137.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER/HABITUAL FELONY OFFENDER: Court can impose both PRR and HFO sentences for a single offense, but it cannot impose equal PRR and HFO sentences if it runs them concurrently; the PRR sentence must be longer. A sentence of five years as a PRR followed by five years as an HFO is illegal. Lovett v. State, 6D2023-2137 (8/16/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439175/opinion/Opinion_2023-2137.pdf

FRAUD: Foreign currency vendors who deceived investors about a core attribute of the Iraqui dinar--the odds of its appreciation, leaving them to believe that it would imminently skyrocket in value, are properly convicted of fraud. A deception need not have a calculable price difference or result in a different tangible good or service being received to constitute fraud. "We have never held that the federal fraud statutes are categorically inapplicable to fraudulent inducement schemes." USA v. Bell, No. 22-12750 (11th Cir. 8/14/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212750.pdf

FALSE STATEMENT: One cannot be convicted of perjury based on an ambiguous question because of the unfairness when the questions forming the basis of the charge are vaguely and inarticulately phrased by the interrogator. But the distinction between ambiguous questions and ambiguous answers is crucial: a criminal defendant cannot wriggle out of the same charge through an evasive answer. USA v. Bell, No. 22-12750 (11th Cir. 8/14/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212750.pdf

EVIDENCE: News reports and press releases known to Defendant that dinar sales were a scam are admissible to prove that the sellers were on notice of the wrongfulness of their conduct. Evidence admitted to prove the listener's state of mind is not hearsay. USA v. Bell, No. 22-12750 (11th Cir. 8/14/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212750.pdf

EVIDENCE: Court did not abuse its discretion by permitting witnesses to read from exhibits about which they had no personal knowledge.

Anyone can state what a document says or read from it if it has been admitted into evidence. USA v. Bell, No. 22-12750 (11th Cir. 8/14/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212750.pdf

SENTENCING-ENHANCEMENT-OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE: Court may apply the two level obstruction-of-justice enhancement based on Defendant's false testimony during a suppression hearing. USA v. Bell, No. 22-12750 (11th Cir. 8/14/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212750.pdf

SENTENCING-ENHANCEMENT-EX POST FACTO: The Ex Post Facto Clause bars a defendant from being sentenced under a version of the guidelines that would provide a higher sentencing range than the version in place at the time of his criminal conduct. But applying the six-level enhancement for causing substantial financial hardship to 25 or more victims here is not plain error because the earlier version allowed for the same enhancement where there 250 or more victims. Although Government highlighted only 32 of the over 600 victims, Defendant would likely have qualified for the six-level enhancement available under the earlier version. USA v. Bell, No. 22-12750 (11th Cir. 8/14/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212750.pdf

MURDER-YOUTH: "EIghteen is the dividing line between adult privileges and responsibilities and the privileges and responsibilities of children. We decline the invitation to treat this adult murderer as a child." Stoddard v. State, 1D2023-2017 (8/14/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439067/opinion/Opinion_2023-2017.pdf

ORGANIZED FRAUD: Any person who engages in a scheme to defraud and obtains property thereby is guilty of organized fraud. Vento v. State, 3D23-0120 (8/14/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439058/opinion/Opinion_2023-0120.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-PLEA: Where Defendant alleges ineffective assistance in advising client as to a plea, Defendant must demonstrate a reasonable probability, defined as a probability sufficient to undermine confidence in the outcome, that (1) he or she would have accepted the offer had counsel advised the defendant correctly, (2) the prosecutor would not have withdrawn the offer, (3) the court would have accepted the offer, and (4) the conviction or sentence, or both, under the offer's terms would have been less severe than under the judgment and sentence that in fact were imposed. Rivera v. State, 3D23-0723 (8/14/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439065/opinion/Opinion_2023-0723.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS: Defendant is not entitled to a continuance charged to the State and a speedy trial discharge where State filed an amended information correcting the defendant's name and modifying the language of the charge after the Defendant filed a notice of expiration of speedy trial but within the recapture period. Restating and clarifying the same battery charge contained in the initial information does not allege a new charge. A defendant is not prejudiced by an amended information that clarifies an already existing charge and does not substantively change the elements of the charged offense. State v. Beach, 3D23-1444 (8/14/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439029/opinion/Opinion_2023-1444.pdf

CYBER STALKING: Cyber stalking can include communications with third parties, including social media postings that are not sent directly to an individual but may nonetheless be directed at an individual in a number of ways. Hollis v. State, 3D23-1530 (8/14/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439064/opinion/Opinion_2023-1530.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Judge may not be disqualified for being married to the executive director of the State Attorney's Office with supervisory capacity over non-attorney staff, but not over any assistant state attorney. When a trial judge's spouse or immediate family member is employed by a government entity such as the State Attorney's Office in the same judicial circuit where the trial judge is presiding over criminal cases and the spouse or immediate family member does not have supervisory authority over prosecutors appearing before the judge, recusal of the trial judge is not required. Laurence v. State, 3D24-0657 (8/14/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439045/opinion/Opinion_2024-0675.pdf

ARGUMENT: Prosecutor's repeated argument that the defendant did not seize the opportunity to dispel the officers' suspicions that he was driving while impaired improperly shifted the burden of proof. Sheely v.State, 4D2023-2171 (8/14/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439019/opinion/Opinion_2023-2171.pdf

RECORD: Appellant has the vital obligation of demonstrating error, and this obligation necessarily includes the burden of making, preserving, and presenting an adequate record for appellate review. "Unfortunately, some of what the parties said at sidebar during trial was unintelligible and could not be transcribed by the court reporter. . .Consequently, we decline to find the trial court erred in admitting the body camera recording into evidence." Sheely v.State, 4D2023-2171 (8/14/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2439019/opinion/Opinion_2023-2171.pdf

CONSPIRACY-HOBBS ACT ROBBERY: §924(c) imposes a mandatory minimum consecutive sentence for possession of a firearm for Carrying a Firearm During a Drug Trafficking Crime or a Crime of Violence. Its residual clause (a felony that by its nature, involves a substantial risk that physical force against the person or property of another may be used in the course of committing the offense) is unconstitutionally void for vagueness. Neither Conspiracy to Commit not Attempting to Commit Hobbs Act Robbery are predicate crimes of violence under the residual clause. Fernandez v. USA, No. 21-12915 (11th Cir. 8/13/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112915.pdf

CONSPIRACY-HOBBS ACT ROBBERY: Conspiracy or Attempt to commit Hobbs Act robbery is not a "crime of violence" under the elements clause, either. Fernandez v. USA, No. 21-12915 (11th Cir. 8/13/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112915.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Petitioner, who had been convicted of conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act Robbery and Possession of a Firearm in Furtherance of a Crime of Violence (§924(c)) must prove by contemporaneous precedent from when the conviction occurred that his §924(c) conviction rested solely on §924(c)'s residual clause to obtain habeas corpus relief from hIs required consecutive sentence. Because the district court could have—wrongly—believed that attempted Hobbs Act robbery was a valid predicate under the elements clause, and because the appellate court is bound by the prior panel precedent rule, even if convinced that its precedent is also wrong, Petitioner is not entitled to relief. Fernandez v. USA, No. 21-12915 (11th Cir. 8/13/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112915.pdf

CRIME OF VIOLENCE: For § 924(c), neither conspiracy to commit Hobbs Act robbery nor attempted Hobbs Act robbery qualify as a "crime of violence" under the elements clause. Fernandez v. USA, No. 21-12915 (11th Cir. 8/13/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112915.pdf

PRIOR PRECEDENT RULE (J. ROSENBAUM, CONCURRING): "Luis Fernandez stands convicted of and will spend twenty five years in prison for something that Congress did not make a crime. That is so even though Congress enacted a mechanism by which we can correct this error—28 U.S.C. § 2255. We must affirm this result because. . .our prior-precedent rule. . .requires us to deny Fernandez's habeas petition. . . .Beeman demands that we set our legal flux capacitors to the moment of the petitioner's conviction and place ourselves in the legal landscape as it existed then. And if we misunderstood the law at the time of the petitioner's conviction to authorize that conviction, we must leave that conviction in place. We must do that even if the Supreme Court has since found our understanding of the law to be wrong and has held that the statute of conviction does not now and has not ever covered the petitioner's conduct." Fernandez v. USA, No. 21-12915 (11th Cir. 8/13/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112915.pdf

DEFINITION-"CONTAIN: "Contain" meant "comprise" or "include." Fernandez v. USA, No. 21-12915 (11th Cir. 8/13/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112915.pdf

AEDPA: For habeas claims resolved in state court, appellate court reviews the last state-court adjudication on the merits. Guardado v. Secretary, D.O.C., No. 22-10957 (11th Cir. 8/12/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210957.pdf

AEDPA: AEDPA requires that the state-court decision be given the benefit of the doubt and precludes federal habeas relief unless the state court's adjudication of the claim resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court. A prisoner must show far more than that the state court's decision was merely wrong or even clear error, but rather that the state court's decision was so obviously wrong that its error lies beyond any possibility for fairminded disagreement. Guardado v. Secretary, D.O.C., No. 22-10957 (11th Cir. 8/12/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210957.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL: In penalty phase of death case, Defendant failed to show prejudice by counsel's failure to present cumulative or background information by lay witness testimony and letters. Guardado v. Secretary, D.O.C., No. 22-10957 (11th Cir. 8/12/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210957.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-DEATH PENALTY: Mental health experts' different characterizations of Defendant's diagnoses do not warrant habeas corpus relief from the death penalty where "the circumstances described were largely the same—Guardado decided to murder while suffering from emotional stress and under the influence of crack cocaine." Guardado v. Secretary, D.O.C., No. 22-10957 (11th Cir. 8/12/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210957.pdf

AEDPA-PREJUDICE: To be entitled to AEDPA deference, the state court must apply the correct standard for ineffective assistance of counsel as set out in Strickland. Court applied an incorrect standard for prejudice in exercising juror challenges–actual bias rather than a reasonable probability that, absent counsel's errors the result would have been different. Strickland's prejudice standard applies to a habeas claim that counsel failed to challenge for cause or strike a juror. Guardado v. Secretary, D.O.C., No. 22-10957 (11th Cir. 8/12/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210957.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES CALCULATION-CATEGORICAL APPROACH: §2K2.1(a)(1) requires a base-offense level of 26 if defendant committed any part of the instant offense subsequent to sustaining at least two felony convictions for a crime of violence. Under the categorical approach, which looks to 'the elements of the statute of conviction' and determines if the least of the acts criminalized qualifies as a crime of violence, armed robbery would not be a crime if violence because it includes sudden snatching, which can be non-violent. But because robbery is a "divisible" statute--one which has multiple, alternative elements, and so effectively creates 'several different crimes in one provision--the modified categorical approach applies and a limited class of documents may be looked at, These Shepard documents show the predicate robberies were crimes if violence. USA v. Brooks, No. 22-11456 8/9/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211456.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES-RELEVANT CONDUCT-FIREARM: Defendant is subject to a two-level enhancement under U.S.S.G. §2K2.1(b)(4)(A) because his relevant conduct included possessing another stolen pistol three months later. USA v. Brooks, No. 22-11456 8/9/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211456.pdf

SENTENCING GUIDELINES--FIREARM-IN CONNECTION WITH: Defendant convicted of possession of a firearm by a felon who was found with a different, stolen, firearm three months later is subject to a four-level increase under §2K2.1(b)(6)(B) for use of a firearm in connection with another felony offense. A felon possesses a firearm "in connection with" theft by receiving the stolen firearm itself. USA v. Brooks, No. 22-11456 8/9/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211456.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-EX POST FACTO: §921.141(2)(c), which became effective April 2023, requires the jury to recommend a sentence of death if eight or more jurors determine that death is the appropriate sentence. Retroactive application of the amended statute does not violate the Ex Post Facto Clauses of the United States and Florida Constitutions. The amendment to §921.141 is a quintessentially procedural change that has no substantive effect. Lyons v. State, 2D2023-2358 (8/9/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438819/opinion/Opinion_2023-2358.pdf

BINDING PRECEDENT: The decisions of the district courts of appeal represent the law of Florida. The proper hierarchy of decisional holdings demands that in the event the only case on point on a district level is from a district other than the one in which the trial court is located, the trial court is required to follow that decision. That a decision of the district court of appeal is not yet final when a trial court rules on an issue does not affect the binding nature of the appellate decision. Lyons v. State, 2D2023-2358 (8/9/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438819/opinion/Opinion_2023-2358.pdf

ESCAPE-MENS REA-DURESS: Court improperly instructed jury that §751(a) required Governmnent to prove that Defendant knew he was not allowed to leave the facility without permission but intentionally left the facility anyway, and not that he did not know leaving the facility, even without permission. Instruction failed to account for willfulness. "Although the instruction stated that Bush had to have known that he was 'not allowed' to leave Keeton 'without permission,' it didn't specify that he had to have acted 'unlawfully,' or with an intent to do something 'that the law forbids.' In fact, it said just the opposite." USA v. Bush, No. 22-13867 (8/8/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213867.pdf

DEFINITION-"WILLFULLY": The term "knowingly" merely requires proof of knowledge of the facts that constitute the offense whereas the term "willfully" requires proof of "knowledge that the conduct was unlawful. USA v. Bush, No. 22-13867 (8/8/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213867.pdf

MENS REA: "It's difficult to imagine an issue more central to a finding of criminal responsibility than mens rea. If the government can't prove that the defendant acted with the requisite state of mind, the defendant is entitled to an acquittal." USA v. Bush, No. 22-13867 (8/8/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213867.pdf

DENATURALIZATION: Where Defendant was granted citizenship by falsely swearing that he had never sold narcotics and was later convicted for having done so before becoming a citizen, he may be denaturalized and deported, but he is not estopped from challenging the factual basis. USA v. Munoz, No 22-11574 (11th Cir. 8/7/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211574.pdf

COLLATERAL ESTOPPEL: Collateral estoppel forecloses relitigation of an issue of fact or law that has been litigated and decided in a prior suit. Collateral estoppel is not available unless four conditions are met: (1) the relevant issue must be identical to the issue involved in the prior proceeding, (2) the issue must have been actually litigated in the prior proceeding, (3) the issue's determination must have been a critical and necessary part of the prior proceeding, i.e. the final outcome hinges on it, and (4) the party against whom the earlier decision is asserted must have had a full and fair opportunity to litigate the issue in the prior proceeding. USA v. Munoz, No 22-11574 (11th Cir. 8/7/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211574.pdf

DENATURALIZATION-COLLATERAL ESTOPPEL: The Defendant's stipulation in the factual basis of his plea to the date he sold narcotics does not collaterally estop him in his denaturalization case because the starting date was unnecessary to the conspiracy conviction. Subject may litigate whether his participation in the conspiracy began after he became a citizen. USA v. Munoz, No 22-11574 (11th Cir. 8/7/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211574.pdf

JUDICIAL ESTOPPEL: Judicial Estoppel prevents the perversion of the judicial process and protects its integrity by prohibiting parties from deliberately changing positions according to the exigencies of the moment. For judicial estoppel, a party prove 1) that the other party's position was clearly inconsistent with his earlier position, 2) the adverse party succeeded in persuading a court to accept his earlier position, so that judicial acceptance of an inconsistent position in a later proceeding would create the perception that either the first or the second court was misled, and 3) the adverse party would derive an unfair advantage or impose an unfair detriment if not estopped. USA v. Munoz, No 22-11574 (11th Cir. 8/7/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211574.pdf

DENATURALIZATION-JUDICIAL ESTOPPEL: The Defendant's stipulation in the factual basis of his plea to the date he sold narcotics does not judicially estop him in his denaturalization case. Subject may litigate whether his participation in the conspiracy began after he became a citizen. USA v. Munoz, No 22-11574 (11th Cir. 8/7/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211574.pdf

RENEWAL OF OFFER OF COUNSEL: Where Defendant dismissed appointed counsel and proceeded to trial pro se, Court erred in failing to renew the offer of counsel before hearing his motion for new trial. After a trial court finds that a defendant has waived his right to counsel, the offer of assistance of counsel shall be renewed by the court at each subsequent crucial stage of the proceedings, which includes any stage that may significantly affect the outcome of the proceedings. Bryan v. State, 1D2022-0957 (8/7/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438737/opinion/Opinion_2022-0957.pdf

CONSECUTIVE HFO SENTENCES: When multiple sentences for offenses committed during a single criminal episode have been enhanced under the Habitual Felony Offender statute, the total penalty cannot be further increased by imposing consecutive sentences, absent specific legislative authority. Bryan v. State, 1D2022-0957 (8/7/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438737/opinion/Opinion_2022-0957.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Inadmissible hearsay cannot establish the value of the damage. Trial counsel was deficient in failing to object to based on an estimate she was given. Cooper v. State, 1D2022-4074 (8/7/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438739/opinion/Opinion_2022-4074.pdf

FAILURE TO REGISTER-JOA:. A prerequisite to finding a violation of §943.0435(4)(b)1--failing to establish or maintain a residence or failing to report a change in residences—is that the sexual offender establish one of the three types of statutorily-defined residences in the first place. Where State established only that Defendant never lived at the address that he registered but failed to present any evidence that he ever established a permanent, temporary, or transient residence and thereafter changed his residence or vacated his residence without establishing another permanent, temporary, or transient residence, JOA is required. Dennis v. State, 1D2023-0866 (8/7/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438743/opinion/Opinion_2023-0886.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Court did not err in finding that trial counsel was not ineffective for failing to properly cross-examine child sex abuse victim on inconsistencies, i.e. never saw his penis vs. it had freckles on it, because counsel did not want to risk inflaming the jury. Wendell v. State, 1D2023-2478 (8/7/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438744/opinion/Opinion_2023-2478.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for not asking the trial court to order the victim to undergo a medical examination where Defendant cited no authority that would have authorized the trial court to order such an examination and the victim did not report the abuse until months afterward. Wendell v. State, 1D2023-2478 (8/7/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438744/opinion/Opinion_2023-2478.pdf

BELATED APPEAL: Access to a prison law library is not necessary to prepare and transmit a simple notice of appeal and lack of that access did not demonstrate a right to a belated appeal. Greene v. State, 1D2023-3354 (8/7/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438747/opinion/Opinion_2023-3354.pdf

TWELVE-PERSON JURY-CAPITAL SEX BATTERY: Although sexual battery of a child is labeled a "capital" offense, it is not a "capital case" requiring a twelve-person jury. Death was not a permissible penalty at the time of the offenses. Recent legislation now permits imposition of the death penalty for capital sexual battery of a child committed on or after October 1, 2023. Serrano-Delgado v. State, 2D2023-1086 (8/7/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438682/opinion/Opinion_2023-1086.pdf

TWELVE-PERSON JURY: Florida's use of a six-person jury does not violate the Sixth or Fourteenth Amendment. U.S. Supreme Court has denied cert on this issue over Justice Gorsuch's dissent ("If there are not yet four votes on this Court to take up the question whether Williams should be overruled, I can only hope someday there will be."). "With all due respect, Justice Gorsuch is but one voice on the Supreme Court. We are bound by precedent, not by what one Supreme Court Justice wishes." Serrano-Delgado v. State, 2D2023-1086 (8/7/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438682/opinion/Opinion_2023-1086.pdf

DISCOVERY: Even if the State committed a discovery violation by failing to disclose the two vulgar words the juvenile yelled at his mother while threatening to kill her, charging at her, and brandishing a metal pipe. Child was not materially hindered in his defense. C.H., a Juvenile v. State, 3D22-1713 (8/7/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438716/opinion/Opinion_2022-1713.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: When an inmate seeks immediate release from custody, he should seek a writ of habeas corpus from the circuit court in the county where his institution is located. Mane v. State, 3D24-0116 (8/7/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438710/opinion/Opinion_2024-0116.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: The mere incantation of the words "manifest injustice" does not make it so. Jones v. State, 3D24-0484 (8/7/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438711/opinion/Opinion_2024-0484.pdf

DEADLY WEAPON: The question of whether a particular weapon is to be classed as "deadly" is a factual question to be resolved by the jury, based upon evidence or reasonable inferences therefrom of the likelihood to produce death or great bodily injury. The jury may consider the character of the assault and the way the weapon is used. Jones v. State, 3D24-0484 (8/7/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438711/opinion/Opinion_2024-0484.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: The mere incantation of the words "manifest injustice" does not make it so. Fuentes v. State, 3D24-0638 (8/7/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438715/opinion/Opinion_2024-0638.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-REASONABLE DOUBT: The omission of Standard Jury Instruction 3.7, including its instruction on reasonable doubt, missed by the prosecutor, defense counsel, and the trial judge, is fundamental error. "We find no support for the State's argument that giving instructions on the presumption of innocence and reasonable doubt during jury selection in combination with similar instructions given sporadically throughout the course of the trial is a proper substitute for giving the complete instructions during the final charge to the jury." Ramirez v. State, 4D2023-0508 (8/7/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438718/opinion/Opinion_2023-0508.pdf

PRR-FLEEING AND ELUDING: Fleeing or eluding does not qualify for PRR sentencing. Ramirez v. State, 4D2023-0508 (8/7/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438718/opinion/Opinion_2023-0508.pdf

BILL OF PARTICULARS: Where the State charged ongoing sexual abuse of a child over an eight month period, no error existed in having charged the incidents as having occurred on one or more occasions as long as each charge contained only a single ongoing offense against the child. State may charge one count for each type of sexual act, where the victim had been continually abused and could not remember specific dates or narrow the time period. Gracia v. State, 4D2023-0750 (8/7/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438729/opinion/Opinion_2023-0750.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: Disclosure on day of trial of photos of the RV where the child sex abuse occurred is a discovery violation but is not prejudicial. Gracia v. State, 4D2023-0750 (8/7/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438729/opinion/Opinion_2023-0750.pdf

SUPERSEDEAS BOND: In considering supersedeas bond, Court must consider (1) whether the appeal is taken for delay or in good faith on grounds not frivolous but fairly debatable; (2) the habits of the individual regarding respect for the law; (3) local attachments to the community by way of family ties, business or investment; (4) the severity of the sentence imposed, and circumstances relevant to the question of whether the defendant would remove himself from the jurisdiction of the court. Court must state in writing its reasons for the denial. Torolopez v. State, 3D23-2255 (8/6/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438631/opinion/Opinion_2023-2255.pdf

SUPERSEDEAS BOND: The fact that Defendant is an immigrant from Cuba should not be a reason to deny a suprsedeas bond. Torolopez v. State, 3D23-2255 (8/6/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438631/opinion/Opinion_2023-2255.pdf

SUPERSEDEAS BOND: Court may not analyze whether appeal is likely ti be successful in considering whether it is taken in good faith. Good faith does not mean there is probable cause to believe the judgment will be reversed, but simply that the appeal is not vexatious and the defendant has assigned errors that are open to debate and about which reasonable questions exist. The good-faith requirement establishes a relatively low threshold. "The fact that Torolopez can make a colorable argument. . .renders the merits of the appeal 'fairly debatable.'" Torolopez v. State, 3D23-2255 (8/6/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438631/opinion/Opinion_2023-2255.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR OF MARIJUANA: Because the "plain smell" of cannabis is no longer clearly indicative of criminal activity, it alone cannot provide reasonable suspicion to support an investigatory detention. A potentially lawful activity cannot be the sole basis for a detention. If this were allowed, the Fourth Amendment would be eviscerated. "The incremental legalization of certain types of cannabis at both the federal and state level has reached the point that its plain smell does not immediately indicate the presence of an illegal substance. As a result, the smell of cannabis cannot on its own support a detention." Conflict certified. Baxter v. State, 5D2023-0118 (8/2/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438575/opinion/Opinion_2023-0118.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR OF MARIJUANA: Asking Defendanr after he was detained whether he had a marijuana card (he did not) is too late to cure the unlawful detention. Baxter v. State, 5D2023-0118 (8/2/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438575/opinion/Opinion_2023-0118.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE (J. EISNAUGLE, CONCURRING): There are three elements of a properly preserved argument. First, the party must make a timely, contemporaneous objection at the time of the alleged error. Second, the party must state a legal ground for that objection. Third, argument on appeal must be the specific contention asserted as legal ground below. Although this case was "hardly a model of preservation," the " rule on preservation does not require an eloquent presentation. Baxter v. State, 5D2023-0118 (8/2/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438575/opinion/Opinion_2023-0118.pdf

NEOLOGISM-"ENBANCWORTHINESS": "Assuming that Baxter's supplemental memorandum meets the minimum bar for preservation, however, the convolution and tardiness in his presentation of the issue both weigh against enbancworthiness. Baxter v. State, 5D2023-0118 (8/2/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438575/opinion/Opinion_2023-0118.pdf

CONTEMPT: Courtt erred in finding Defendant in contempt of court 22 days after he allegedly "yelled" at the court. Court's failure to scrupulously follow the requirements of R. 3.830 constitutes fundamental error. Beyond a perfunctory request whether there was just cause not to hold Petitioner in contempt, the trial court did not provide Petitioner with the opportunity to present evidence of excusing or mitigating circumstances. This is fundamental error. Gillespie v. State, 5D2023-0888 (8/2/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438536/opinion/Opinion_2023-0888.pdf

SENTENCING-ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT: Written order for $150 in restitution to be paid to the Division of Victim Services in a child porn case must be stricken where not orally pronounced. Where a conflict exists between the oral pronouncement of entence and written sentencing documents, the oral pronouncement controls. Vavra v. State, 5D2023-2240 (8/2/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438540/opinion/Opinion_202

3-2240.pdf

COST OF INVESTIGATION: $50 cost of investigation that was not part of the plea agreement, requested by the State, or orally pronounced must be stricken. Sanders v. State, 5D2023-3472 (8/2/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438543/opinion/Opinion_2023-3472.pdf

JULY 2024

CHILD HEARSAY: Sheriff's policy against recording child sexual abuse victims does not violate due process. There is no statutory or common law duty to record these interviews. Oliver v. State, 2D2022-1085 (7/31/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438391/opinion/Opinion_2022-1085.pdf

RESTITUTION: Mechanical damage and the depreciation in value of a stolen vehicle may be factored into the restitution calculation. Quintero v. State, 3D23-1153 (7/31/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438432/opinion/Opinion_2023-1153.pdf

ODOR OF MARIJUANA: Even if smoking marijuana were legal altogether, the officers would have had probable cause based on the fact that Defendant was operating a car. The possibility that a driver might be a medical marijuana user does not automatically defeat probable cause. Rosales v. State, 3D23-1857 (7/31/34)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438418/opinion/Opinion_2023-1857.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: Miranda warnings are not required where co-Defendant willingly and at his own suggestion assists officers in eliciting incriminating and secretly recorded statements by Defendant. Miranda warnings are not required when the suspect is unaware that he is speaking to a law enforcement officer and gives a voluntary statement. Miranda forbids coercion, not mere strategic deception by taking advantage of a suspect's misplaced trust in one he supposes to be a fellow prisoner. A casual conversation is not the functional equivalent of interrogation. Marotta v. State, 4D2023-0448 (7/31/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438426/opinion/Opinion_2023-0448.pdf

BRIBERY-GRATUITIES: Government official who steered a contract to a company which gave her $10,000, a diamond ring, free landscaping, and, later, a new job is properly convicted of bribery. The key difference between a gratuity and a bribe is whether the official and the payer agreed to a payment for the official act. The timing of the agreement, not of the payment, is the key. Defendant is not entitled to a jury instruction that a payment received after the act is a gratuity, not a bribe. USA v. Macrina, No. 23-10734 (7/30/24) x USA v. Macrina, No. 23-10734 (7/30/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310734.pdf

RULE OF COMPLETENESS: The Rule of Completeness (R.106) provides that when a party introduces only part of a writing or recorded statement, the opposing party may introduce other portions of that in fairness ought to be considered at the same time, regardless of the kind of writings or recorded statements. It is not limited to custodial statements. But the objecting party must point to the specific portions she wants admitted. USA v. Macrina, No. 23-10734 (7/30/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310734.pdf

EVIDENCE-BRIBERY: The city Code of Ethics is admissible in a bribery case to show corrupt intent. USA v. Macrina, No. 23-10734 (7/30/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310734.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-STANDING-GEOFENCE WARRANT: A geofence warrant is a specific type of warrant used to collect information on the presence of a cell phone or other device within a specific area during a set time frame. Defendant lacks Fourth Amendment standing to challenge a geofence warrant identifying his girlfriend's phone in the vicinity of robberies because he had no privacy interest in the search of his girlfriend's phone or her daughter's Google account. Even if a person has a privacy interest in the data on his own phone, he does not have that interest in the data on someone else's phone. USA v. Davis, No. 23-10184 (11th Cir. 7/30/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310184.pdf

NEOLOGISMS: "anonymized" and "deanonymized" USA v. Davis, No. 23-10184 (11th Cir. 7/30/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310184.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT: Defendant's right to presentment in federal court does not vest until he is arrested for the federal crime, even when he is arrested for state charges which are likely to be converted to federal charges. USA v. Davis, No. 23-10184 (11th Cir. 7/30/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310184.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: "Until now, neither we nor the Supreme Court has explicitly defined the standard for strip searches of a free person visiting a jail or prison. We now hold that correctional officers must have at least reasonable suspicion that a visitor is concealing contraband (e.g., drugs or weapons) before they may strip-search that visitor." But Prison officials had qualified immunity from suit for highly intrusive strip search of prison visitors because their Fourth Amendment right to be free from strip searches without reasonable suspicion was not clearly established at the time of the search. "[W]e do not look to persuasive authority—even a 'robust consensus' of it—to determine whether the law was 'clearly established.'" Gilmore v. Georgia D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11TH Cir. 7/29/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.pdf
SEARCH AND SEIZURE-QUALIFIED IMMUNITY (J. ROSENBAUM, CONCURRING): "For more than a quarter of a century, the Supreme Court has repeatedly directed that 'a robust 'consensus of cases of persuasive authority' can 'clearly establish' a constitutional violation for qualified-immunity purposes. . .Yet we have consistently dodged that directive. It's time to bring our precedent into the twenty-first century." Gilmore v. Georgia D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11TH Cir. 7/29/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.pdf

PRIOR PANEL PRECEDENT RULE-QUALIFIED IMMUNITY (J. NEWSOM, CONCURRING): "[I]f a court concludes that a defendant's conduct violated the Constitution, but then goes on to hold that the law wasn't clearly established at the time he acted and that he is therefore entitled to qualified immunity, its merits holding is effectively dictum." "It's just weird. . .It may be that. . .the time is coming (has come?). . .,for [the Supreme] Court to consider a major league reassessment of its qualified-immunity jurisprudence." Gilmore v. Georgia D.O.C., No. 23-10343 (11TH Cir. 7/29/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310343.pdf

SENTENCING-UNREASONABLENESS: Miscalculation of Criminal History Category and upward variance from guidelines recommended range does not render the sentence substantively nor procedurally unreasonable where Court's comments show it would have varied upward regardless of the miscalculations. USA v. Thomas, No. 22-14119 (7/29/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202214119.pdf

JIMMY RYCE: Petitioner fails to show probable cause that he is no longer a dangerous sex offender, and thus to be entitled to a trial on continued commitment, where his personality disorder continues to drive his actions and he continues to resist treatment. Donovan v. State, 5D2022-2978 (7/26/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438173/opinion/Opinion_2022-2978.pdf

SELF-INCRIMINATION: Defendant's hesitation before giving a DNA sample does not constitute exercising his right to remain silent. Testimony about it is not improper. "While he may have initially 'balked' in response to one question—in the context of consenting to the buccal swab—that did not transform his willing cooperation with Detective Caswell into the exercise of his right to remain silent. . .[H]esitating before speaking is not the same as staying quiet." Newman v. State, 5D2023-2639 (7/26/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438179/opinion/Opinion_2023-2639.pdf

FLEEING OR ELUDING: Courts are without legal prerogative to withhold adjudication of guilt on fleeing or attempting to elude. State v. Hanberry, 5D2023-3322 (7/26/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438180/opinion/Opinion_2023-3322.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION-SUPPRESSION: Where Defendant's pretrial motion to suppress his confession was denied, and his counsel said "no objection" when the State sought to admit it at trial, he failed to preserve the issue for appeal. §90.104(1) says that when a "court has made a definitive ruling on the record admitting or excluding evidence, either at or before trial, a party need not renew an objection or offer of proof to preserve a claim of error for appeal." But the Florida Supreme Court has held otherwise. Under §90.104(1), "Xolo seemingly preserved for appeal a challenge to the admission of his confession at trial. But under the precedent, he did not." Xolo v. State, 6D2023-0846 (7/26/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438188/opinion/Opinion_2023-0846.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION-CONUNDRUM: "To be sure, someone in. . .Xolo's position faces a conundrum. . [W]hat should the response be when the court again asks whether there is any objection? A party either objects or does not. If the response is yes, then the party has necessarily renewed the objection. But that is what section 90.104(1) states is unnecessary to preserve the claim of error. If the response is no, then under Carr the objection is abandoned and not preserved even though—once again—the statute explicitly says that 'a party need not renew an objection to preserve a claim of error for appeal.' . . .Qualifying the response with "pursuant to my prior objection" or "subject to my prior objection" does not resolve this conundrum." "The most we can do here is flag the tension between the statute and the precedent for another look by the Florida Supreme Court." Xolo v. State, 6D2023-0846 (7/26/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438188/opinion/Opinion_2023-0846.pdf

APPEAL: Motions filed under rule 3.800(b)(1) (correction of jail time credit) toll rendition of the final order for purposes of appeal. Brannon v.

State, 6D2023-2765 (7/26/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438187/opinion/Opinion_2023-2765.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: When a motion to withdraw plea is filed by an unrepresented defendant, trial courts are obligated to renew the offer of counsel prior to addressing the merits of the motion Court must inform the Defendant of his right to the assistance of counsel in preparing and presenting a motion to withdraw plea. A motion to withdraw plea filed pursuant to rule 3.170(l) is a critical stage of the proceedings. Brannon v. State, 6D2023-2765 (7/26/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438187/opinion/Opinion_2023-2765.pdf

WIRETAP-STATEWIDE PROSECUTOR: The Federal Wiretap Act only authorizes the (1) the "principal prosecuting attorney of any State" or (2) the "principal prosecuting attorney of any political subdivision to apply to state courts for wiretaps. It preempts the field of wiretapping and electronic surveillance and limits a state's authority to legislate in this area. Fla. Stat. §934.07 grants the statewide prosecutor power to apply for a search warrant, but the Statewide prosecutor is not the "principal prosecuting attorney of any political subdivision" so it may not request a wiretap under that provision. The issue of whether the Statewide prosecutor is authorized under the "principal prosecuting attorney of any State" provision is a "more interesting issue" but was not properly raised nor preserved. State v. Rogers, 1D2023-0506 (7/24/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438095/opinion/Opinion_2023-0506.pdf

WIRETAPS-STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: "The State argues that reading the statute the way the Defendant does would lead to an absurd result, noting it would basically brush aside almost 40 years of practice. There was no testimony regarding how long the Statewide Prosecutor has been authorizing wiretaps, but the Court cannot see how it would matter. Interpreting a federal law clearly designed to preempt state laws, having been held to preempt state laws, and having been applied to override portions of Florida's law to again override the state law is not an absurd result. Instead, the State is simply arguing that a result contrary to its view is absurd." State v. Rogers, 1D2023-0506 (7/24/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438095/opinion/Opinion_2023-0506.pdf

OBSTRUCTION: The element of lawful execution of a legal duty is satisfied if an officer has either a founded suspicion to stop the person or probable cause to make a warrantless arrest. McNeill v. State, 3D23-0106 (7/24/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438063/opinion/Opinion_2023-0106.pdf

DNA TESTING: In order to be entitled to postconviction DNA testing, a defendant's motion must lay out with specificity how the DNA testing of each item requested to be tested would give rise to a reasonable probability of acquittal or a lesser sentence. Rodriguez v. State, 3D24-0951 (7/24/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438073/opinion/Opinion_2024-0951.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-SEXUAL BATTERY: Court erred in instructing the jury with the 2022 amended, expanded definition ("genital female penetration" rather than the earlier definition ("vaginal penetration"). Flores v. State, 4D2023-1837 (7/24/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438092/opinion/Opinion_2023-1837.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION-FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: A tactical decision to stand mute regarding an erroneous instruction will not support fundamental error. "[W]e caution that parties will not be rewarded for standing mute and permitting an erroneous instruction to go to the jury because of counsel's tactical inaction." Flores v. State, 4D2023-1837 (7/24/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438092/opinion/Opinion_2023-1837.pdf

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR-TRIPARTITE DUTY: "A tripartite duty exists within the judicial system to ensure a defendant receives due process within the framework of a fair trial. Regrettably, the State, defense counsel, and the trial court did not meet their responsibility in this regard. The State injected fundamental error into the trial by requesting a jury instruction it either knew or should have known was based on the incorrect version of the statute. . .This obvious error was then compounded by the ineffective assistance of defense counsel, whose failure to object. . .allowed the jury to be charged under a less stringent standard. . . Finally, the trial court had the ultimate responsibility as the backstop to ensure the correct jury instruction was given. . .This lack of due attention by all these participants will now require a new trial, which was entirely preventable." Flores v. State, 4D2023-1837 (7/24/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2438092/opinion/Opinion_2023-1837.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Before filing a second or successive §2254 petition in the district court, a state prisoner must move in the court of appeals for an order authorizing the district court to consider the application. A second-in-time §2254 petition raising Brady and Giglio claims is a second or successive petition, even though Petitioner had not known of the grounds at the time of the original petition. Jennings v. Florida, DOC, 20-12555 (11th Cir. 7/22/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202012555.pdf

PRIOR-PANEL-PRECEDENT RULE: Under the prior-panel-precedent Rule, a holding is binding on all subsequent panels unless and until it is overruled or undermined to the point of abrogation by the Supreme Court or by the appellate court sitting en banc. For a Supreme Court decision to abrogate a panel precedent it must be clearly on point and clearly contrary to the panel precedent. Jennings v. Florida, DOC, 20-12555 (11th Cir. 7/22/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202012555.pdf

RESTITUTION-KICKBACKS: Restitution must be based on actual loss, not on the total amount of kickbacks paid. The purpose of restitution is not to provide a windfall for crime victims, nor to punish the defendant, but rather to ensure that victims, to the greatest extent possible, are made whole for their losses. "So barring a very good reason not to construe the statute to mean what it says, we must conclude that the government bears the burden of showing loss. Government cannot show loss without also establishing that the prescriptions were not medically necessary or were fraudulently obtained." USA v. Young, No. 20-13091 (7/22/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202013091.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-LOITERING AND PROWLING: The Fourth Amendment does not require a misdemeanor to occur in an officer's presence to conduct a warrantless arrest. A common law rule is not a constitutional rule. USA v. Grandia Gonzalez, No. 23-10578 (11th Cir. 7/19/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310578.pdf

FIREARMS: The 2011 amendment to the Joe Carlucci Uniform Firearms Act (§790.33) preempted all agency regulation regarding firearms. "For lack of a better term, we characterize the 2011 amendments to the statute as 'un-delegating' (rather than preempting) some of the regulatory power previously provided [to FDLE]". The 2011 amendments withdrew all legislative authority for future firearms or ammunition regulations when such regulations are based only on the general language of an agency's enabling statute. FDLE's implementation of the three-day waiting period for firearms purchases may be challenged under the preemption statute. Pretzer v. Swearingen, 1D2022-1863 (7/19/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437878/opinion/Opinion_2022-1863.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: An officer need not know, for sure, that the item is contraband in order to seize it. White powder in a sandwich bag is identifiable as contraband. Ferrell v. State, 2D2023-0521 (7/19/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437879/opinion/Opinion_2023-0521.pdf

WEAPON: A pocketknife constitutes a "dangerous weapon." Ferrell v. State, 2D2023-0521 (7/19/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437879/opinion/Opinion_2023-0521.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE: Defendant is entitled to have the jury instructed on his or her theory of defense if there is any evidence to support this theory, so long as the theory is recognized as valid under the law of the state, no matter how weak or flimsy. A Defendant is entitled to a justifiable use of deadly force instruction where he thought the Victim had a gun regardless of whether he actually did. "Although the evidence that Cabrera was armed with a deadly weapon as he approached Greenlee's vehicle was slight, it was sufficient under Florida law to obligate the trial court to include. . .the jury instruction on the justifiable use of deadly force." Espichan v. State, 6D2023-0921 (7/19/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437884/opinion/Opinion_2023-0921.pdf

COMPETENCY: Where a trial court authorizes a competency evaluation, and the evaluation report determines a criminal defendant is competent to stand trial, there is no legal error, much less fundamental error, where a further hearing on the report is not conducted, no evidence or argument is presented that the defendant is not competent, and the trial record reveals no indication raising any reasonable doubt of the defendant's competency. Hicks v. State, 1D2022-0701 (7/17/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437353/opinion/Opinion_2022-0701.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Convictions for burglary with battery and a separate conviction for simple battery violate Double Jeopardy. Smith v. State, 1D2022-1259 (7/17/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437354/opinion/Opinion_2022-1259.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: A citizen tip may provide a basis for approaching a person dozing in a car, but if the officer's initial investigation reveals no medical emergency or drug use, there is no reasonable suspicion to hold Defendant for an additional 10 minutes to wait for the K-9 to arrive. There is no de minimis exception to an unlawful detention. Ridgeway v. State, 1D2022-275 (7/17/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437358/opinion/Opinion_2022-2275.pdf

APPEAL: The absence of any objection at the time of disposition followed by the failure to file a motion to correct a disposition error precludes consideration even of fundamental disposition errors on direct appeal. M.P., a child v. State, 2D2022-4209 (7/17/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437347/opinion/Opinion_2022-4209.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ABANDONED PROPERTY: Abandoned property does not fall under the aegis of the Fourth Amendment. Defendant who left his car with the door open and the engine running when he fled the scene of a shootout abandoned the car, allowing the police to find the drugs inside it. Muhammad v. State, 2D2023-0502 (7/17/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437346/opinion/Opinion_2023-0502.pdf

VOTER FRAUD-STATEWIDE PROSECUTOR: Defendant filled out a voter registration Dade County and voted there, but the registration was transmitted to the Secretary of State in Leon County for approval. Registering to vote in Dade County and subsequently voting in Dade County invokes the jurisdiction of the Office of Statewide Prosecution. Statewide Prosecutor has authority to bring charges of voter fraud because the alleged acts occurred in two or her more judicial circuits as part of a related transaction. While Defendant himself acted only in one jurisdiction, the chain of events that led to the consummation of the crime necessarily occurred in two or more jurisdictions. State v. Miller, 3D2022-2180 (7/17/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437386/opinion/Opinion_2022-2180.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR OF MARIJUANA: Regardless of whether the smell of marijuana is indistinguishable from that of hemp, the smell of marijuana emanating from a vehicle provides probable cause for a warrantless search of a vehicle. Aldama v. State, 3D22-2189 (7/17/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437391/opinion/Opinion_2022-2189.pdf

EVIDENCE-INEXTRICABLY INTERTWINED: Evidence is inextricably intertwined if the evidence is necessary to (1) adequately describe the deed; (2) provide an intelligent account of the crime(s) charged; (3) establish the entire context out of which the charged crime(s) arose; or (4) adequately describe the events leading up to the charged crime(s). Almaguer v. State, 3D23-0555 (7/17/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437369/opinion/Opinion_2023-0555.pdf

JUDGE-WITNESS: A judge may advise a witness of his or her rights when the witness is potentially exposing himself of herself to criminal liability such as perjury. However, the judge may not threaten or effectively drive the witness off the stand. Almaguer v. State, 3D23-0555 (7/17/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437369/opinion/Opinion_2023-0555.pdf

ARGUMENT: A prosecutor may comment to a jury during closing arguments on the absence of evidence on a particular issue. Galmadez v. State, 3D23-0908 (7/17/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437370/opinion/Opinion_2023-0908.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A defendant may not claim a sentence is illegal based on an alleged discrepancy between an oral pronouncement and a written sentence without a transcript of the sentencing hearing or other indisputable evidence of record to support the claim. Lopez v. State, 3D24-0927 (7/17/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437377/opinion/Opinion_2024-0927.pdf

FIREARM-MANDATORY MINIMUM: Vicarious liability will not substitute for actual possession or discharge of the firearm for imposition of the 25-year mandatory minimum. Roberts v. State, 4D2022-0689 (7/17/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437373/opinion/Opinion_2022-0689.pdf

COMPETENCY: Once a trial court has reasonable grounds to believe that a criminal defendant is not competent to proceed, the trial court has no choice but to conduct a competency hearing. Perkins v. State, 4D2022-3276 (7/17/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437375/opinion/Opinion_2022-3276.pdf

VOTER FRAUD-STATEWIDE PROSECUTOR: The participation in Leon County by the Secretary of State in the approval process of a Florida voter application in Broward County and the later certification of the vote makes unlawful registration to vote and voting a multi-county offense, thereby conferring jurisdiction on the Office of Statewide Prosecution. Submitting a fraudulent voter registration in Broward County is an act which requires subsequent involvement of the Secretary of State in Leon County. So too does voting in an election in Broward County. Hubbard v. State, 4D2022-3429 (717/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437380/opinion/Opinion_2022-3429.pdf

VOTING LAW: 2023 Amendment to the voting law expanding the jurisdiction of the Office of Statewide Prosecution applies retroactively. Hubbard v. State, 4D2022-3429 (7/17/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437380/opinion/Opinion_2022-3429.pdf

OFFICE OF STATEWIDE PROSECUTION (J. MAY, DISSENTING): "During the incubation period of the constitutional and statutory authority for the OSP, there were expressed concerns that the OSP 'could be used to harass political enemies and centralize prosecutorial authority away from local elected state attorneys.' . . . For this very reason, the Commission and the legislature narrowly tailored the OSP's jurisdiction. . .Yet, the OSP now seeks to extend its reach into the local discretion afforded the Office of the State Attorney for single judicial circuit crimes.

The OSP is not some Marvel superhero that can magically extend its long arm of the law into a single judicial circuit and steamroll over the local state attorney. In short, this is a stretch the majority is willing to condone, but I am not." Hubbard v. State, 4D2022-3429 (717/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437380/opinion/Opinion_2022-3429.pdf

OFFICE OF STATEWIDE PROSECUTION (J. MAY, DISSENTING): "One need only follow a simple logical syllogism: (1) The OSP was created to prosecute multi-judicial circuit crimes. (2) The Information does not allege a multi-judicial circuit crime. (3) The OSP does not have jurisdiction to prosecute the defendant for these charges." Hubbard v. State, 4D2022-3429 (717/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437380/opinion/Opinion_2022-3429.pdf

COLLATERAL CRIME EVIDENCE: Evidence of Defendant's fraudulent transfer of property shield it from creditors in a bankruptcy case is not admissible in a theft case. Evidence of a collateral crime is inherently prejudicial because it creates the risk that a conviction will be based on the defendant's bad character or propensity to commit crimes, rather than on proof the defendant committed the charged offense. The improper admission of Williams rule evidence is presumed to be harmful error, especially, but not only, when the State relies on the improper evidence in its closing argument. Soto Gutierrez v. State, 4D2023-0106 (7/17/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437381/opinion/Opinion_2023-0106.pdf

TWELVE-PERSON JURY: The Sixth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution do not require a twelve person jury. Harris v. State, 4D2023-0869 (7/17/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437387/opinion/Opinion_2023-0860.pdf

SENTENCING CONSIDERATIONS: In sentencing, the Court erred by considering the injuries a victim sustained at the hands of a co-defendant despite the Defendant being acquitted of causing the injuries. It is a violation of due process for the court to rely on conduct of which the defendant has actually been acquitted when imposing a sentence. Harris v. State, 4D2023-0869 (7/17/240

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437387/opinion/Opinion_2023-0860.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-KIDNAPPING: Kidnapping is not a capital felony for which the defendant would be ineligible for consideration of a downward departure. Harris v. State, 4D2023-0869 (7/17/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437387/opinion/Opinion_2023-0860.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Court may not impose a $746 prosecution cost exceeding where the state had not presented any evidence to impose such costs in excess of $100. Harris v. State, 4D2023-0869 (7/17/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437387/opinion/Opinion_2023-0860.pdf

VICTIM-DOMESTIC VIOLENCE: Under §741.28, a person cannot be considered a current domestic violence victim, or have an objectively reasonable fear of becoming one, based on actions that are too remote in time and therefore stale. Thomas v. Linglong LI, 4D2023-1437 (7/17/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437388/opinion/Opinion_2023-1437.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: To determine whether a downward departure sentence is appropriate, the trial court follows a two-step process. First, the court must determine whether there is a valid legal ground for the departure sentence, set forth in statute or case law, supported by facts proven by a preponderance of the evidence. The second step requires the trial court to determine whether the departure is the best sentencing option for the defendant. Henderson v. State, 4D2023-1593 (7/17/23)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437393/opinion/Opinion_2023-1593.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE-COOPERATION: Where police were already aware of the defendant's crimes at the time they questioned him, his cooperation is not grounds for a downward departure. Henderson v. State, 4D2023-1593 (7/17/23)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437393/opinion/Opinion_2023-1593.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS: Court''s gratuitous comments regarding the effect which other child pornography cases had upon the circuit court's views and/or feelings towards that crime are inappropriate but did not warrant resentencing. "We. . .caution the circuit court—and other courts throughout our district and the state—that generalized comments such as those which the circuit court voiced here as part of its gratuitous second-step analysis, undermine the appearance that the defendant is being sentenced by an impartial judge who will consider only the evidence presented to the court within that case." Henderson v. State, 4D2023-1593 (7/17/23)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437393/opinion/Opinion_2023-1593.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Court abuses its discretion when it has determined the initial R. 3.850 motion to be legally insufficient but then fails to allow the defendant at least one opportunity to amend. Loveland

v. State, 6D2023-0057 (7/17/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437419/opinion/Opinion_2023-0057.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Under the "mailbox rule, a petition, notice, or motion from a pro se inmate is deemed filed at the moment in time when the inmate loses control over the document by entrusting its further delivery or processing to agents of the state. Loveland v. State, 6D2023-0057 (7/17/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437419/opinion/Opinion_2023-0057.pdf

SENTENCING-REASONS: When a defendant does not object to a district court's failure to explain its sentence in violation of §3553(c), plain error review applies on appeal, not automatic reversal. USA v. Steiger, No. 22-10742 (7/16/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210742.op2.pdf

SENTENCING-PROCEDURAL REASONABLENESS: A district court commits a significant procedural error in imposing a sentence if it fails to calculate the guidelines range, calculates the range incorrectly, or fails to consider the §3553(a) factors. However, the district court is not required to state on the record that it has explicitly considered each of the §3553(a) factors or to discuss each of them. USA v. Steiger, No. 22-10742 (7/16/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210742.op2.pdf

SENTENCING-SUBSTANTIVE REASONABLENESS: Although there is no proportionality principle in sentencing, a major variance does require a more significant justification than a minor one. A twenty-year sentence on the VOP, concurrent with the state court sentence of life imprisonment, for defendant who planned and carried out the murder of his girlfriend on her child's first birthday and in the child's presence and stashed her body in a barrel for months is substantively reasonable. USA v. Steiger, No. 22-10742 (7/16/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210742.op2.pdf

INVESTIGATIVE COSTS: $50 investigative may not be imposed if not orally pronounced. Piechota v. State, 5D2023-0448 (7/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437127/opinion/Opinion_2023-0448.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: State is not required to request $100 in costs of prosecution before the sentencing court assesses them. Issue is pending before the Supreme Court. Catledge v. State, 5D2023-3020 (7/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437138/opinion/Opinion_2023-3020.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: Costs of prosecution are mandatory at a minimum of $100 per case for felony cases and need not be requested. Williams v. State, 5D2024-0093 (7/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437140/opinion/Opinion_2024-0093.pdf

MURDER FOR HIRE-JURY INSTRUCTION: The federal offense of murder for hire, which requires "intent that a murder be committed in violation of the laws of any State," does not require that the jury be instructed on excusable or justifiable homicide when neither is supported by evidence. There is no need to prove an actual state law crime as an essential element of the federal murder for trial charge. The gravamen of a federal murder-for-hire prosecution is the violation of federal law, not state law. USA v. Buselli, No. 23-10272 (11th Cir. 7/11/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310272.pdf

RULES-APPELLATE-AMENDMENT: Orders in death penalty postconviction proceedings must be served on the judge who issued the order to be reviewed, rather than a copy of the petition simply being furnished to the judge. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Appellate Procedure 9.142 and 9.210, No. SC2024-0750 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437091/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0750.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-APPELLATE: Rule amended to add a limit of 20,000 words to the 75-page limitation for initial and answer briefs and a limit of 6,500 words to the 25-page limitation for reply briefs. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Appellate Procedure 9.142 and 9.210, No. SC2024-0750 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437091/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0750.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-MITIGATION: The nonstatutory mitigator of "early signs of dementia" implies progressive dementia. Static dementia may properly be rejected as a mitigating factor. Cox v. State, No. SC2022-1553 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437072/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1553.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-ARGUMENT: A prosecutor's argument that recommending death would be the easy thing to do, if error, is not fundamental. Executing certain defendants with brain damage does not violate the Eighth Amendment. Cox v. State, No. SC2022-1553 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437072/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1553.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Florida's death penalty scheme does not risk arbitrary and capricious application of the death penalty in violation of the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments. Cox v. State, No. SC2022-1553 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437072/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1553.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: The death penalty does not categorically violate evolving standards of human decency under the Eighth Amendment. Cox v. State, No. SC2022-1553 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437072/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1553.pdf

EVIDENCE-INTERROGATION: A jury may hear an interrogating detective's statements about a crime when they provoke a relevant response from the defendant being questioned. Questions during interrogation highlighting contradictions in the Defendant's version are admissible. Johnson v. State, SC2023-0055 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437080/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0055.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: Where State made sure that witness (who had testified in death penalty phase that Defendant had not been abused as a child) "was aware of the risk of criminal liability if he elected to change his earlier sworn testimony," Defendant may not raise on appeal the claim that the threat of perjury for recanting the earlier testimony violated the Fourteenth or Eighth Amendments To be preserved for appeal, the specific legal ground upon which a claim is based must be raised at trial and a claim different than that will not be heard on appeal. Defendant's motion for new trial never mentioned the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments or the "threat" of perjury. Johnson v. State, SC2023-0055 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437080/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0055.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-MITIGATOR-"IMPAIRED CAPACITY": Court did not err in assigning little weight to Defendant's impairment of his ability to conform his conduct to the requirements of the law because of his lack of prior criminal history and his years of military service and work at various jobs. Johnson v. State, SC2023-0055 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437080/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0055.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-MITIGATOR-"NO SIGNIFICANT HISTORY": A trial court may not factor a contemporaneous conviction for the other murder into the "no significant history" mitigator and give it only moderate weight. But error is harmless. Johnson v. State, SC2023-0055 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437080/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0055.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER CRIMES: Court did not abuse its discretion when it denied Defendant's mistrial motion after officer speculated that a $100 bill in Defendant's wallet was counterfeit. The spontaneous, non-responsive statement was objectionable, but in context was not "so prejudicial as to vitiate the entire trial. Johnson v. State, SC2023-0055 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437080/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0055.pdf

DICTA: Language in earlier cases that irrelevant evidence of a crime not charged is "presumed harmful error" is dicta. Johnson v. State, SC2023-0055 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437080/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0055.pdf

PRESERVED ISSUE-MISLEADING ARGUMENT: State's closing argument that Defendant failed to prove diminished capacity ("But you have not heard a mental health defense. You have not heard insanity. There's been no doctor who's. . .told you that he was insane...") Is misleading because diminished capacity is not a viable defense. But the issue was not preserved and is not fundamental error. Johnson v. State, SC2023-0055 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437080/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0055.pdf

VICTIM IMPACT: Court did not abuse its discretion by allowing the State to show a victim impact video of the child victim that included the voice of his mother, the other victim. Florida's statutory scheme for victim impact evidence is not facially unconstitutional. Johnson v. State, SC2023-0055 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437080/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0055.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-COMPARATIVE PROPORTIONALITY: Comparative proportionality review is not mandated by the Eighth Amendment. Johnson v. State, SC2023-0055 (7/11/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437080/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0055.pdf

EIGHTH AMENDMENT-DELIBERATE INDIFFERENCE: The Cruel and Unusual Punishments Clause prohibits government officials from exhibiting deliberate indifference to the serious medical needs of prisoners. A deliberate-indifference plaintiff must prove that the defendant acted with subjective recklessness, i.e. that the defendant/prison official actually knew of a substantial risk of serious harm, not just that he should have known. Plaintiff must show that the defendant was subjectively aware that his own conduct put the plaintiff at substantial risk of serious harm—with the caveat that, in any event, a defendant who responds reasonably to a risk, even a known risk, cannot be found liable under the Eighth Amendment. Wade v. McDade, No. 21-14275 (11th Cir. 7/10/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114275.enb.pdf

MEA CULPA: "We lost our way—and bollixed our caselaw—by straying from Farmer. [W]e should scrap our confusing negligence-based formulations—whether 'more than mere' or 'more than gross'— in favor of a return to Farmer's criminal-recklessness benchmark." Wade v. McDade, No. 21-14275 (11th Cir. 7/10/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202114275.enb.pdf

COMPETENCY: Defense counsel, when raising concerns about a defendant's competency, must be conscientious in bringing an issue of competency before the trial court and preserving the issue for appeal. Awolowo v. State, 1D2022-2062 (7/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437043/opinion/Opinion_2022-2062.pdf

COMPETENCY: A trial court's decision to order a psychological evaluation does not create a constitutional entitlement to a competency hearing, regardless of whether the information available to the trial court met the evidentiary threshold for invoking the R. 3.210 competency procedures in the first place. Failure to hold a competency hearing in such circumstances is not fundamental error. Question certified. Awolowo v. State, 1D2022-2062 (7/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437043/opinion/Opinion_2022-2062.pdf

COMPETENCY: A motion for competency motion stating, "The undersigned Counsel has a good faith belief that the Defendant suffers from mental illness or disability and as a result he/she may be incompetent to proceed" is legally insufficient. Awolowo v. State, 1D2022-2062 (7/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437043/opinion/Opinion_2022-2062.pdf

COSTS: $2 cost under §318.18(11)(d) may not be imposed for a non-traffic infraction. Farris v. State, 1D2022-2360 (1/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437003/opinion/Opinion_2022-2360.pdf

COSTS PER COUNT: §938.05 allows imposition of court costs per case, not per count. Court may not impose a $100 misdemeanor cost and a $225 felony cost under that provision. Farris v. State, 1D2022-2360 (1/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437003/opinion/Opinion_2022-2360.pdf

COSTS: Court my not impose a $201 domestic violence trust fund cost and a $151 rape crisis fund cost for armed kidnapping because neither of those costs are authorized for that crime. Smith v. State, 1D2023-0626 (7/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437026/opinion/Opinion_2023-0626.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that trial counsel was ineffective. Court attaching only excerpts of trial testimony it deemed sufficient to overcome the prejudice prong is insufficient where other relevant portions of the trial and suppression hearing transcripts are omitted. Thomason v. State, 1D2023-1339 (7/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437028/opinion/Opinion_2023-1339.pdf

RESTITUTION: Where Defendant was charged with dealing in stolen property (jewelry), not with burglary or theft, the $2.500 taken from Victim's jug should not have been included in the restitution order. "[N]o mention of the $2,500 in cash contained in the stolen jug appears in the affidavits or the information, and it does not appear in the record at all until the restitution hearing itself." Error was fundamental. Franklin v. State, 2D2023-0710 (7/10/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436951/opinion/Opinion_2023-0710.pdf

RESTITUTION: Victim's testimony regarding the amount of cash that was taken is sufficient to support a restitution award. It is not speculative. Franklin v. State, 2D2023-0710 (7/10/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436951/opinion/Opinion_2023-0710.pdf

RESTITUTION-DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Where at the sentencing hearing State said there was no restitution, Double Jeopardy precludes the court from ordering restitution days later. Once the court has entered an order setting the amount of restitution, jeopardy attaches, notwithstanding that its entry was the result of faulty information. "It is clear from the record that Lopez's sentence was not incomplete. The trial court inquired about restitution, the State effectively waived it, and the court imposed Lopez's sentence without further addressing the issue." Lopez v. State, 2D2023-0809 (7/10/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436952/opinion/Opinion_2023-0809.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF-APPEAL: After an evidentiary hearing on a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel, the deficiency and prejudice prongs as are reviewed as mixed questions of law and fact subject to a de novo review standard but the trial court's factual findings are to be given deference. Fernandez v. State, 3D22-0594 (7/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436990/opinion/Opinion_2022-0594.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Since no evidentiary hearing is allowed under R. 3.800(a), a claim of error that the petitioner can establish only by relying on facts that are not evident on the face of the record is a claim that cannot be adjudicated under that rule provision. Jules v. State, 3D23-0605 (7/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437001/opinion/Opinion_2023-0605.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Modification of a sentence after it has begun to be served does not violate double jeopardy where the defendant agreed to the modification. Jules v. State, 3D23-0605 (7/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437001/opinion/Opinion_2023-0605.pdf

VOP: A probationer may not validly invoke a Fifth Amendment privilege to refuse to answer questions at a probation violation hearing regarding non-criminal conduct alleged to constitute the violation of probation, and the trial court may infer a probationer's silence, or refusal to answer questions, as evidence of noncompliance with the terms of his probation. Defendant was properly compelled to testify about his absconsion; he was not questioned about the attempted homicide allegation. Simmons v. State, 3D23-0666 (7/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437018/opinion/Opinion_2023-0666.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: Where a defendant fails to contemporaneously object to the written revocation order or fails to file a motion to correct sentence, the order will not be reversed on appeal (absent fundamental error) but is subject to an appropriately filed postconviction motion. Simmons v. State, 3D23-0666 (7/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437018/opinion/Opinion_2023-0666.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: In determining whether a reasonable probability exist that the defendant would have insisted on going to trial, a court should consider the totality of the circumstances surrounding the plea, including factors such as whether a particular defense was likely to succeed at trial, the colloquy between the defendant and the trial court at the time of the plea, and the difference between the sentence imposed under the plea and the maximum possible sentence the defendant faced at trial. State v. Beliziare, 3D23-117 (7/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437002/opinion/Opinion_2023-1717.pdf

DNA TESTING: In order to be entitled to postconviction DNA testing, a defendant's motion must 1) include a description of the physical evidence containing DNA to be tested and, if known, the present location or last known location of the evidence and how it originally was obtained, 2) allege that the evidence was not previously tested or that the results of such testing were inconclusive and 3) explain how the DNA testing will exonerate the defendant or mitigate the sentence. Toirac-Aguilera v. State, 3D24-0857 (7/11/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437007/opinion/Opinion_2024-0857.pdf

MISTRIAL-OPENING STATEMENT: Defendant is not entitled to mistrial based on State's assertion in opening statement that Defendant's B.A.L. was .17 based on retrograde extrapolation where the testimony of the State's expert witness was less conclusive and more nuanced. The statement was not so prejudicial as to vitiate the entire trial. Surit-Garcias v. State, 4D2022-3368 (7/10/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437012/opinion/Opinion_2022-3368.pdf

VICTIM INJURY-VAGUENESS: The Portions of the Criminal Punishment Code describing victim injury as "Severe," "Moderate," and "Slight" are not unconstitutionally vague. To be void for vagueness, a statute must be impermissibly vague in all of its applications. Surit-Garcias v. State, 4D2022-3368 (7/10/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437012/opinion/Opinion_2022-3368.pdf

VICTIM INJURY-RULE OF LENITY: "Severe," "moderate," and "slight" victim injury are not defined by the Criminal Punishment Code, but are defined by Merriam-Webster's dictionaries. Any uncertainty as to the application of these terms is resolved in favor of the defendant. Surit-Garcias v. State, 4D2022-3368 (7/10/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2437012/opinion/Opinion_2022-3368.pdf

SENTENCE STACKING-FIRST STEP ACT: The First Step Act, §403(a), prohibits district courts from engaging in sentence "stacking" (for a §924(c) conviction, 5-year and 20-year consecutive mandatory sentences), but §403(b) provides that the modified stacking rule does not apply if a sentence for the offense had already been imposed as of the date of enactment of the First Step Act. A criminal sentence that was pronounced before the First Step Act's effective date but was later vacated counts as "a sentence" that "has … been imposed." "We hold that. . . a sentence that was pronounced pre-Act but thereafter vacated does qualify as "a sentence" that "has … been imposed" for § 403(b) purposes. If that's not the result that Congress intended, it is of course free to amend the statute. We are not." USA v. Hernandez, No. 22-13311 (11th Cir. 7/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213311.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-"SENTENCE": A "sentence" is the judgment that a court formally pronounces after finding a criminal defendant guilty." That "definition fits Hernandez's original sentence to a T. . .Had Congress wanted to specify the sorts of 'sentence[s]' to which §403(b) applies or otherwise limit that term's reach, it could have done so in any number of ways—for instance, by referring to 'a final sentence' or 'a valid sentence'" or perhaps even to 'the sentence.' Conspicuously, it did none of those things." USA v. Hernandez, No. 22-13311 (11th Cir. 7/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213311.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-"HAS NOT BEEN": "Next up, 'has not been.' For reasons we'll explain, . . .that phrase is best read to refer to a completed act. . .Here, though, Hernandez and the government . . .insist that Congress's use of the phrase "has not been" rather than "had not been". . .indicates that it meant to refer to a sentence that 'continues up to the present'—i.e., one that has continuing validity. . .We disagree." USA v. Hernandez, No. 22-13311 (11th Cir. 7/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213311.pdf

EVANESCING: "The construction pressed by Hernandez and the government envisions that a criminal sentence can pass into and out of existence. On that view, the target is always moving—and always capable of evanescing. But that's tough to square with the concrete, point-in-time benchmark denoted by §403(b)'s 'date of enactment" language, in that it provides no way of knowing in real time, as of the 'date of enactment,' whether or not 'a sentence has … been imposed.'" USA v. Hernandez, No. 22-13311 (11th Cir. 7/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213311.pdf

DEFINITION-"IMPOSED": When used in reference to a criminal sentence, the term "imposed" in §403(b) refers to the historical fact of pronouncement. "[Precedent dictates that a sentence is 'imposed,' somewhat unsurprisingly, when the district court imposes it. . .Needless to say, the pronouncement of a sentence is something that occurs at a particular point in time and space: A district judge enters a courtroom, faces the defendant and his lawyer, and orally delivers remarks that constitute the criminal sentence. That oral pronouncement. . .is a historical fact. For better or worse, it happened, and nothing—not even the sentence's later vacatur—can erase the historical record." USA v. Hernandez, No. 22-13311 (11th Cir. 7/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213311.pdf

VACATUR (J. ROSENBAUM, DISSENTING): Sentence vacatur happens. When it does, we have been very clear about any effect the original sentence might have: zero, zilch, nada. . .[A]s far as the law recognizes, upon sentence vacatur, no sentence has ever been imposed. . .So the question is, for purposes of §403(b), has 'a sentence' been "imposed" if it is later vacated? The answer is no. And no amount of textual parsing can change that." USA v. Hernandez, No. 22-13311 (11th Cir. 7/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213311.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION-"SENTENCE" (J. ROSENBAUM, DISSENTING): "Everyone understands that 'touchdowns' that are called back legally don't count. And that's precisely how we also understand 'sentences' that have been vacated: they don't count." USA v. Hernandez, No. 22-13311 (11th Cir. 7/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213311.pdf

TEXTUALISM (J. ROSENBAUM, DISSENTING): "[T]he Majority Opinion never explains why our 'plain and ordinary meaning' understanding of 'sentence' doesn't apply to the First Step Act. Instead, it woodenly parrots Black's Law Dictionary's definition of 'sentence' and then assumes that definition includes a vacated sentence, even though we've said that vacated sentences are nullities. The Majority Opinion never engages with our jurisprudence that vacated sentences are void from the outset and wipe the slate clean. . . Textualism is not so one-dimensional." USA v. Hernandez, No. 22-13311 (11th Cir. 7/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213311.pdf

BILLY PRESTON (J. ROSENBAUM, DISSENTING): "And 'the juxtaposition of [nothing] alongside [nothing] and [nothing]' is nothing." USA v. Hernandez, No. 22-13311 (11th Cir. 7/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213311.pdf

SENTENCE STACKING-FIRST STEP ACT (J. ROSENBAUM, DISSENTING): "The question before this Court is whether Section 401 applies where a prior sentence has been vacated and the case remanded for plenary resentencing. The answer, unequivocally, is yes. . .§403(a)'s non-stacking rule should be applied at all sentencings that occur after enactment of the First Step Act—regardless of whether those are initial sentencings or resentencings because a pre-Act sentencing was vacated. Any other reading abandons the Act's text, purpose, and common sense." USA v. Hernandez, No. 22-13311 (11th Cir. 7/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213311.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: Where during questioning Defendant asked for an attorney, but then said, "Hold on, hold on. If I get an attorney do I gotta wait?" followed by "I don't want an attorney," his statements are admissible. When a suspect unequivocally invokes the Miranda right to counsel, the officers must immediately stop questioning. But if the suspect reinitiates contact with the police; and then knowingly and voluntarily waives his earlier-invoked Miranda rights, interrogation can proceed. Herard v. State, No. SC2015-0391(7/3/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436822/opinion/Opinion_SC2015-0391.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: Miranda warnings are not required unless the defendant is both in custody and under interrogation. Entirely spontaneous and unprompted statements are not the product of interrogation. Herard v. State, No. SC2015-0391(7/3/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436822/opinion/Opinion_SC2015-0391.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT-VOLUNTARINESS: When the voluntariness of a confession is in dispute, it is the State's burden to prove voluntariness by a preponderance of the evidence. Interrogation over twelve hours is not coercive where he was fed, was allowed to take at least three naps totalling 3.5 hours, with at least two bathroom breaks. "While this Court found it unsettling that Defendant urinated twice in his McDonald's cup, he was in fact afforded bathroom breaks." Herard v. State, No. SC2015-0391(7/3/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436822/opinion/Opinion_SC2015-0391.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT-RIGHT TO COUNSEL: Executing a "Notice of Defendant's Invocation of His/Her Right to Remain Silent and Right to Counsel" at first appearance does not prevent police questioning him anout a different crime. A claim of rights form is ineffective to invoke a suspect's Miranda right to counsel if signed before custodial interrogation has begun or is imminent. Sixth Amendment right to counsel is offense-specific. Herard v. State, No. SC2015-0391(7/3/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436822/opinion/Opinion_SC2015-0391.pdf

EVIDENCE: Notebooks containing information about Defendant's gang membership is admissible to support the racketeering and gang-related charges in the indictment. Herard v. State, No. SC2015-0391(7/3/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436822/opinion/Opinion_SC2015-0391.pdf

EXPERT INTERROGATION: Court did not abuse its discretion in excluding expert testimony about false confessions and related inherent problems with the "Reid Technique" where the expert was unprepared to testify reliably to the interrogation techniques—including any safeguards against false confessions—used in this case. "[W]e need not decide whether expert testimony about the phenomenon or prevalence of false confessions could ever be admissible." Herard v. State, No. SC2015-0391(7/3/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436822/opinion/Opinion_SC2015-0391.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Proof of contemporaneous and prior violent felony convictions amply satisfied the Sixth Amendment] requirement that a jury unanimously find a statutory aggravating circumstance beyond a reasonable doubt. Herard v. State, No. SC2015-0391(7/3/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436822/opinion/Opinion_SC2015-0391.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Under the law of principals, it is not necessary for the State to prove that Defendant was the actual shooter for him to be eligible for the death penalty. Herard v. State, No. SC2015-0391(7/3/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436822/opinion/Opinion_SC2015-0391.pdf

JURY DISMISSAL-ATTORNEY AVAILABILITY: Court properly dismissed entire panel mid-jury selection when penalty phase co-counsel was called away to deal with a death warrant in another case. Herard v. State, No. SC2015-0391 (7/3/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436822/opinion/Opinion_SC2015-0391.pdf

AMENDMENT-RULES-BAR: No member of the Bar is excused from having an e-mail address and internet services. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Rule 1-3.3, No. SC2024-0493 (7/3/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436833/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0493.pdf

ANDERS BRIEF: An Anders brief is deficient if it fails to refer to every legal point in the record that might support an appeal. An Anders brief is not compliant simply because it states an appeal would be frivolous. The brief may not say that the appellate Court "should determine whether the trial court erred when it denied Appellant's motion for judgment of acquittal." "This Court has an obligation to independently review the record, . . . but only after appointed counsel has complied with her obligations under Anders, its progeny, and rule 9.140(g)(2)(A)." Blackmon v. State, 1D2022-2943 (7/3/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436747/opinion/Opinion_2022-2943.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose cost of $151 pursuant to §938.085 because first-degree murder is not one of the enumerated qualifying offenses. Burns v. State, 1D2023-0257 (7/3/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436760/opinion/Opinion_2023-0257.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Absent a valid reason for departure a trial court should impose—at a minimum—the LPS. Neither testimony that Defendant is a model citizen nor about his harsh childhood, the trauma of his father's suicide, and the abuse he suffered from his biological family support a downward departure. State v. Gibson, 1D2023-0617 (7/3/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436759/opinion/Opinion_2023-0617.pdf

WRIT OF CERTIORARI: Unlike other writs, certiorari must be filed within 30 days. A motion for rehearing does not toll the deadline. Nor is a motion for rehearing of a non-final order a tolling motion under the appellate rules. Martin v. State, 1D2024-1609 (7/3/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436810/opinion/Opinion_2024-1609.pdf

HEARSAY-EXCITED UTTERANCE: The essential elements necessary to fall within the excited utterance exception are that (1) there must be an event startling enough to cause nervous excitement; (2) the statement must have been made before there was time to contrive or misrepresent; and (3) the statement must be made while the person is under the stress of excitement caused by the event. Arcamone v. State, 3D23-1836 (7/3/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436762/opinion/Opinion_2022-1836.pdf

COST OF SUPERVISION: A monthly probation supervision fee in excess of §948.09(1)(b)'s forty-dollar fee without any accompanying oral pronouncement explaining the deviation is unlawful. Arcamone v. State, 3D23-1836 (7/3/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436762/opinion/Opinion_2022-1836.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-ILLEGAL SENTENCE: A claim that the charging document did not allege the facts necessary to support the enhanced sentence (actual possession of a firearm) is not cognizable in a rule 3.800(a) motion. Louis v. State, 3D23-2021 (7/3/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436753/opinion/Opinion_2023-2021.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: R. 3.800(a) is designed for judges to correct an improperly imposed sentence. It is not intended to remedy later errors by the agencies charged with administering the sentence imposed. If the agency incorrectly administers a sentence legally imposed so that the prisoner spends more time in prison than the sentence provides, his remedy is within the agency first and, if not corrected by the agency, on judicial review by extraordinary writ." Smith v. State, 3D24-0171 (7/3/240

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436754/opinion/Opinion_2024-0171.pdf

MOTION TO DISMISS: On a R. 3.190(c)(4) motion to dismiss, the state is not only entitled to receive the most favorable construction of the evidence but also to have all inferences resolved against the defendant. In considering whether driving at the speed at issue constitutes recklessness, each case turns on its specific facts. A vehicle travelling 100 miles per hour on an interstate highway does not pose the same level of wanton conduct as does a vehicle travelling ninety miles an hour on a street with various side streets, driveways entering the street, and overall additional congestion. The rate of speed of a vehicle can be firmly shown by the evidence to be so excessive under the circumstances that to travel that fast under the conditions is by itself a reckless disregard for human life or the safety of persons exposed to the speed. Jackson v. State, 4D2023-1567 (7/3/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436788/opinion/Opinion_2023-1567.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY: "The President is not above the law. But. . ." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY: President has absolute immunity from criminal prosecution for actions performed within the outer perimeter of his official responsibilities. The nature of Presidential power requires that a former President have some immunity from criminal prosecution for official acts during his tenure in office. In the exercise of his core constitutional powers, this immunity must be absolute. As for his remaining official actions, he is also entitled to immunity. "[W]e need not and do not decide whether that immunity must be absolute, or instead whether a presumptive immunity is sufficient." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY: In dividing official from unofficial conduct, courts may not inquire into the President's motives. Nor may courts deem an action unofficial merely because it violates a generally applicable law. Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY: Seeking to overturn the legitimate results of a presidential election, conspiring to obstruct the congressional counting of electoral votes, and attempting to leverage the Justice Department's power and authority to convince certain States to replace their legitimate electors with fraudulent slates of electors fall within the scope of presidential immunity. When a president attempts to pressure the Vice President to throw out legitimate electoral votes, he is at least presumptively immune from prosecution. Exhorting supporters to storm the Capitol falls within the President's power of the "bully pulpit." "[M]ost of a President's public communications are likely to fall comfortably within the outer perimeter of his official responsibilities." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY: Presidential immunity extends to all official discussions between the President and his Attorney General. Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. THOMAS, CONCURRING): "In this case, there has been much discussion about ensuring that a President 'is not above the law.' But. . .the President's immunity from prosecution for his official acts is the law." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. BARRETT, CONCURRING): "Properly conceived, the President's constitutional protection from prosecution is narrow. . .Though I agree that a President cannot be held criminally liable for conduct within his 'conclusive and preclusive. authority and closely related acts, . . .the Constitution does not vest every exercise of executive power in the President's sole discretion. . .Congress. . .may sometimes use [its] authority to regulate the President's official conduct, including by criminal statute. Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. BARRETT, CONCURRING): "[T]he indictment alleges that the President 'asked the Arizona House Speaker to call the legislature into session to hold a hearing' about election fraud claims. . .The President has no authority over state legislatures or their leadership, so it is hard to see how prosecuting him for crimes committed when dealing with the Arizona House Speaker would unconstitutionally intrude on executive power." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR): Today's decision. . .makes a mockery of the principle, foundational to our Constitution and system of Government, that no man is above the law. . . Because our Constitution does not shield a former President from answering for criminal and treasonous acts, I dissent." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "The Court now confronts a question it has never had to answer in the Nation's history: Whether a former President enjoys immunity from federal criminal prosecution. The majority thinks he should, and so it invents an atextual, ahistorical, and unjustifiable immunity that puts the President above the law.". . .Whether described as presumptive or absolute, under the majority's rule, a President's use of any official power for any purpose, even the most corrupt, is immune from prosecution. That is just as bad as it sounds, and it is baseless." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "[T]his majority's project will have disastrous consequences for the Presidency and for our democracy. . .The main takeaway of today's decision is that all of a President's official acts, defined without regard to motive or intent, are entitled to immunity that is 'at least. . . presumptive,' and quite possibly 'absolute.' . . .Whenever the President wields the enormous power of his office, the majority says, the criminal law (at least presumptively) cannot touch him. . .No matter how you look at it, the majority's official-acts immunity is utterly indefensible." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY-TEXTUALISM (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "The majority calls for a 'careful assessment of the scope of Presidential power under the Constitution.'. . . For the majority, that 'careful assessment' does not involve the Constitution's text. I would start there. The Constitution's text contains no provision for immunity from criminal prosecution for former Presidents." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "Alexander Hamilton wrote that former Presidents would be 'liable to prosecution and punishment in the ordinary course of law. . .For Hamilton, that was an important distinction between 'the king of Great Britain,' who was 'sacred and inviolable,' and the 'President of the United States,' who 'would be amenable to personal punishment and disgrace.'" Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "In sum, the majority today endorses an expansive vision of Presidential immunity that was never recognized by the Founders, any sitting President, the Executive Branch, or even President Trump's lawyers, until now. Settled understandings of the Constitution are of little use to the majority in this case, and so it ignores them." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "There is a twisted irony in saying, as the majority does, that the person charged with 'tak[ing] Care that the Laws be faithfully executed' can break them with impunity." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "Not content simply to invent an expansive criminal immunity for former Presidents, the majority goes a dramatic and unprecedented step further. It says that acts for which the President is immune must be redacted from the narrative of even wholly private crimes committed while in office. They must play no role in proceedings regarding private criminal acts. Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): Even though the majority's immunity analysis purports to leave unofficial acts open to prosecution, its draconian approach to official-acts evidence deprives these prosecutions of any teeth. If the former President cannot be held criminally liable for his official acts, those acts should still be admissible to prove knowledge or intent in criminal prosecutions of unofficial acts.". . .Imagine a President states in an official speech that he intends to stop a political rival from passing legislation that he opposes, no matter what it takes to do so (official act). He then hires a private hitman to murder that political rival (unofficial act). Under the majority's rule, the murder indictment could include no allegation of the President's public admission of premeditated intent to support the mens rea of murder." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): Today's decision to grant former Presidents immunity for their official acts is deeply wrong. . . First, the majority declares all of the conduct involving the Justice Department and the Vice President to be official conduct, . . .Second, the majority designates certain conduct immune while refusing to recognize anything as prosecutable. . .Remarkably, the majority goes further and declines to deny immunity even for the allegations that Trump organized fraudulent elector slates, pressured States to subvert the legitimate election results, and exploited violence at the Capitol to influence the certification proceedings." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "The Court effectively creates a law-free zone around the President, upsetting the status quo that has existed since the Founding. This new official-acts immunity now 'lies about like a loaded weapon' for any President that wishes to place his own interests, his own political survival, or his own financial gain, above the interests of the Nation. . .Orders the Navy's Seal Team 6 to assassinate a political rival? Immune. Organizes a military coup to hold onto power? Immune. Takes a bribe in exchange for a pardon? Immune. Immune, immune, immune. Let the President violate the law, let him exploit the trappings of his office for personal gain, let him use his official power for evil ends. . .That is the majority's message today." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "With fear for our democracy, I dissent." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

PRESIDENTIAL IMMUNITY (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "[T]he seeds of absolute power for Presidents have been planted. And, without a doubt, absolute power corrupts absolutely. . .I worry that, after today's ruling, our Nation will reap what this Court has sown." Trump v. United States, No. 23–939 (U.S. S. Ct. 7/1/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-939_e2pg.pdf

JUNE 2024

HOMELESSNESS-CRUEL AND UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT: A public camping ordinance outlawing using streets, sidewalks, parks, or public places for camping does not violate the Cruel and Unusual Punishments Clause. The Cruel and Unusual Punishments Clause focuses on the question what method or kind of punishment a government may impose after a criminal conviction, not on whether a government may criminalize particular behavior in the first place or how it may go about securing a conviction for that offense. None of the sanctions qualifies as cruel because none is designed to superadd terror, pain, or disgrace, nor are they unusual. City of Grants Pass, Oregon v. Johnson, No. 23–175 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/28/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-175_19m2.pdf

EIGHTH AMENDMENT (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "Sleep is a biological necessity, not a crime. For some people, sleeping outside is their only option. The City of Grants Pass jails and fines those people for sleeping anywhere in public at any time, including in their cars, if they use as little as a blanket to keep warm or a rolled-up shirt as a pillow. For people with no access to shelter, that punishes them for being homeless. That is unconscionable and unconstitutional. Punishing people for their status is 'cruel and unusual' under the Eighth Amendment." City of Grants Pass, Oregon v. Johnson, No. 23–175 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/28/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-175_19m2.pdf

EIGHTH AMENDMENT (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "Under the majority's logic, cities cannot criminalize the status of being homeless, but they can criminalize the conduct that defines that status. The Constitution cannot be evaded by such formalistic distinctions." City of Grants Pass, Oregon v. Johnson, No. 23–175 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/28/24) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-175_19m2.pdf

EIGHTH AMENDMENT (J. SOTOMAYOR, DISSENTING): "The majority countenances the criminalization of status as long as the City tacks on an essential bodily function—blinking, sleeping, eating, or breathing. That is just another way to ban the person." City of Grants Pass, Oregon v. Johnson, No. 23–175 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/28/24) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-175_19m2.pdf

OBSTRUCTION OF OFFICIAL PROCEEDING: 18 U. S. C. §§1512(c)(1) and (2), which impose criminal liability on anyone who corruptly alters, destroys, mutilates, or conceals a record, document, or other object, or attempts to do so, with the intent to impair the object's integrity or availability for use in an official proceeding and on anyone who "otherwise obstructs, influences, or impedes any official proceeding, or attempts to do so" does not prohibit rioters from storming the Capitol to prevent the certification of the presidential election. Fischer v. United States, No. 23–5572 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/26/24) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-5572_l6hn.pdf

OBSTRUCTION OF OFFICIAL PROCEEDING: To prove a violation of Section 1512(c)(2), the Government must establish that the defendant impaired the availability or integrity for use in an official proceeding of records, documents, objects, or other things used in the proceeding, or attempted to do so." January 6th rioter cannot be convicted of violating §1512(c)(2). Fischer v. United States, No. 23–5572 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/26/24) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-5572_l6hn.pdf

DEFINITION-"OTHERWISE": The "otherwise" clause should be read in light of the limited reach of the specific provision that precedes it. "[W]e should not give this 'otherwise' provision the broadest possible meaning. . . Although the Government's all-encompassing interpretation may be literally permissible, it defies the most plausible understanding of why

(c)(1) and (c)(2) are conjoined, and it renders an unnerving amount of statutory text mere surplusage." Fischer v. United States, No. 23–5572 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/26/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-5572_l6hn.pdf

OBSTRUCTION OF OFFICIAL PROCEEDING (J. BARRETT, DISSENTING): "Fischer allegedly joined a mob of rioters that breached the Capitol on January 6, 2021. At the time, Congress was meeting in a joint session to certify the Electoral College results. . .The Court does not dispute that Congress's joint session qualifies as an 'official proceeding'; that rioters delayed the proceeding; or even that Fischer's alleged conduct. . .was part of a successful effort to forcibly halt the certification of the election results. Given these premises, the case that Fischer can be tried for 'obstructing, influencing, or impeding an official proceeding' seems open and shut. So why does the Court hold otherwise? Because it simply cannot believe that Congress meant what it said. . .The Court. . .does textual backflips to find some way—any way—to narrow the reach of subsection (c)(2)." Fischer v. United States, No. 23–5572 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/26/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-5572_l6hn.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION (J. BARRETT, DISSENTING): The noscitur a sociis and ejusdem generis canons "are valuable tools. But applying either to (c)(2) is like using a hammer to pound in a screw—it looks like it might work, but using it botches the job." Fischer v. United States, No. 23–5572 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/26/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-5572_l6hn.pdf

CHEVRON RULE: The Chevron doctrine–that courts must defer to an agency's interpretation of statutes administered by it if it is based on a permissible construction of the statute–is abolished. Courts, not agencies, decide legal questions by applying their own judgment, even those involving ambiguous laws, and are directed to set aside any action inconsistent with the law as they interpret it. Agency interpretations of the law are not entitled to deference. Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: "Presumptions have their place in statutory interpretation, but only to the extent that they approximate reality." Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: "It. . .makes no sense to speak of a 'permissible' interpretation that is not the one the court. . .concludes is best. In the business of statutory interpretation, if it is not the best, it is not permissible." Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

STARE DECISIS: "The only question left is whether stare decisis, the doctrine governing judicial adherence to precedent, requires us to persist in the Chevron project. It does not. Stare decisis is not an 'inexorable command.'" Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

CHEVRON: "Because Chevron in its original, two-step form was so indeterminate and sweeping, we have instead been forced to clarify the doctrine again and again. Our attempts to do so have only added to Chevron's unworkability, transforming the original two-step into a dizzying breakdance." Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

STARE DECISIS (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "Today, the phrase 'common law judge' may call to mind a judicial titan of the past who brilliantly devised new legal rules on his own. The phrase 'stare decisis' might conjure up a sense that judges who come later in time are strictly bound to follow the work of their predecessors. But neither of those intuitions fairly describes the traditional common-law understanding of the judge's role or the doctrine of stare decisis." Historical roots of stare decisis discussed. Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

STARE DECISIS (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "I see at least three lessons about the doctrine of stare decisis. . .Each concerns a form of judicial humility. First, a past decision. . .provides this Court no authority in future cases to depart from what the Constitution or laws of the United States ordain. . .Second, . . .[w]hile judicial decisions may not supersede or revise the Constitution or federal statutory law, they merit our 'respect as embodying the considered views of those who have come before.' . . .Third, it would be a mistake to read judicial opinions like statutes. . ." Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

STARE DECISIS (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "Stare decisis's true lesson today is not that we are bound to respect Chevron's 'startling development,' but bound to inter it." Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

CHEVRON (J. KAGAN, DISSENTING): The majority gives courts the power to make all manner of scientific and technical judgments. It gives courts the power to make all manner of policy calls. It puts courts at the apex of the administrative process as to every conceivable subject. Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

CHEVRON (J. KAGAN, DISSENTING): Under Chevron, a court uses all its normal interpretive tools to determine whether Congress has spoken to an issue. If the court finds Congress has done so, that is the end of the matter. . . But if. . .Congress has left an ambiguity or gap, then a choice must be made. Who should give content to a statute when Congress's instructions have run out? Should it be a court? Or should it be the agency Congress has charged with administering the statute? The answer Chevron gives is that it should usually be the agency, within the bounds of reasonableness. That rule has formed the backdrop against which. . .all have operated for decades. . .It has become part of the warp and woof of modern government, supporting regulatory efforts of all kinds—to name a few, keeping air and water clean, food and drugs safe, and financial markets honest. And the rule is right. . .Today, the Court flips the script: It is now 'the courts (rather than the agency)' that will wield power when Congress has left an area of interpretive discretion. A rule of judicial humility gives way to a rule of judicial hubris." Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

STARE DECISIS (J. KAGAN, DISSENTING): "Just my own defenses of stare decisis—my own dissents to this Court's reversals of settled law—by now fill a small volume." Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

AMBIGUITY (J. KAGAN, DISSENTING): "There are ambiguity triggers all over the law. Somehow everyone seems to get by." Loper Bright Enterprises v. Raimondo, No. 22–451 (U.S. S.Ct., 6/28/24) https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-451_7m58.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: A trial court's decision whether to depart from the guidelines is a two-part process. First, the court must determine whether it can depart, i.e., whether there is a valid legal ground and adequate factual support for that ground. Second, the trial court further must determine whether departure is indeed the best sentencing option. The decision to depart is a judgment call within the sound discretion of the court. District courts of appeal have divided over their authority to review a trial court's discretionary decision to deny a downward-departure request; the issue is pending before the Florida Supreme Court. Nelson v. State, 5D2022-0703 (6/28/24) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436563/opinion/Opinion_2022-0703.pdf

SENTENCING-CONSIDERATIONS-FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: Trial court's consideration of unsubstantiated allegations of misconduct in sentencing constitutes a due process violation. Where State at sentencing presented photos of firearms found in Defendant's home, alluded to unrelated homicides in the area and the Court stated that this factor was "what hurts you the most," the Court probably considered an improper factor ("We can think of few more direct ways to indicate that a factor motivated a sentence than to say. . .that the factor is what hurts the defendant the most."). But error is not fundamental because the sentence was at the bottom of the sentencing guidelines range. Nelson v. State, 5D2022-0703 (6/28/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436563/opinion/Opinion_2022-0703.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Trial court's initial failure to apply the correct standard in SYG hearing is cured by the jury's guilty verdict. State v. Boutiette, 5D2022-1598 (6/28/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436568/opinion/Opinion_2022-1598.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ODOR OF MARIJUANA: The smell of marijuana emanating from a vehicle continues to provide probable cause for a warrantless search of a vehicle. No recent case law has affirmatively held that marijuana odor alone is insufficient to establish probable cause. Hoehaver v. State, 5D2023-1188 (6/28/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436573/opinion/Opinion_2023-1188.pdf

APPEAL: §924.051(3) precludes appellate review of unpreserved claims of ineffective assistance of trial counsel on direct appeal. Gary v. State, 6D23-2452 (6/28/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436559/opinion/Opinion_2023-2452.pdf

BRIBERY: Federal bribery statute does not make it a crime for state and local officials to accept commonplace gratuities that may be given as a token of appreciation after the official act. A $13,000 check to a mayor is a gratuity. 18 U. S. C. §666 is a bribery statute and not a gratuities statute. §666 requires a corrupt state of mind and the intent to be influenced in the official act. Snyder v. United States, No. 23–108 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/26/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-108_8n5a.pdf

BRIBERY: "In sum, . . .[a] state or local official can violate §666 when he accepts an up-front payment for a future official act or agrees to a future reward for a future official act. . . But a state or local official does not violate §666 if the official has taken the official act before any reward is agreed to, much less given." Snyder v. United States, No. 23–108 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/26/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-108_8n5a.pdf

RULE OF LENITY (J. GORSUCH CONCURRING): "Lenity may sometimes, as it does today, go unnamed. It may be deployed under other guises, too. 'Fair notice' or 'fair warning" are especially familiar masks. . .But make no mistake: Whatever the label, lenity is what's at work behind today's decision, just as it is in so many others. Rightly so. I am pleased to join." Snyder v. United States, No. 23–108 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/26/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-108_8n5a.pdf

BRIBERY (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "James Snyder, a former Indiana mayor, was convicted by a jury of violating §666 after he steered more than $1 million in city contracts to a local truck dealership, which turned around and cut him a $13,000 check. He asks us to decide whether the language of §666 criminalizes both bribes and gratuities, or just bribes. And he says the answer matters because bribes require an upfront agreement to take official actions for payment, and he never agreed beforehand to be paid the $13,000 from the dealership. Snyder's absurd and atextual reading of the statute is one only today's Court could love." Snyder v. United States, No. 23–108 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/26/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-108_8n5a.pdf

FREE SPEECH-STANDING: States and social media users lack standing to seek to enjoin government from pressuring or encouraging social media companies (Facebook, Twitter, and YouTube) from disseminating disinformation (COVID, election fraud propaganda). A federal court cannot redress injury that results from the independent action of some third party not before the court. Murthy v. Missouri, No. 23-411 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/26/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-411_3dq3.pdf

TRUTH-STANDING: "[T]he plaintiff cannot rest on 'mere allegations,' but must instead point to factual evidence. . .The primary weakness in the record of past restrictions is the lack of specific causation findings with respect to any discrete instance of content moderation. "[T]he plaintiffs. . .have not pointed to any past restrictions likely traceable to the Government defendants. . . These plaintiffs. . .are thus particularly ill suited to the task of establishing their standing." Murthy v. Missouri, No. 23-411 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/26/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-411_3dq3.pdf

STANDING-FREE SPEECH: "The plaintiffs, without any concrete link between their injuries and the defendants' conduct, ask us to conduct a review of the years-long communications between dozens of federal officials, across different agencies, with different social-media platforms, about different topics. This Court's standing doctrine prevents us from 'exercis[ing such] general legal oversight' of the other branches of Government." Murthy v. Missouri, No. 23-411 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/26/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-411_3dq3.pdf

VERDICT-LEGAL INCONSISTENCY: Convictions for assault on two adults and child abuse (Defendant had shot into a home) are not legally inconsistent because the child abuse offenses are not dependent upon the jury's finding that Appellant shot into the home or committed aggravated assault with a firearm on either of the adults. A true inconsistent verdict requires more than just factual or logical inconsistency. Instead, in a "true" inconsistent verdict an acquittal on one count negates a necessary element for conviction on another count. Wodford v. State, 1D 2022-3949 (6/26/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436406/opinion/Opinion_2022-3949.pdf

APPEAL: An issue is dispositive only if, regardless of whether the appellate court affirms or reverses the lower court's decision, there will be no trial of the case. Jackson v. State, 1D2023-0065 (6/26/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436411/opinion/Opinion_2023-0065.pdf

APPEAL-PLEA WITHDRAWAL: An appeal following a plea should never be a substitute for a motion to withdraw a plea. If the record raises issues concerning the voluntary or intelligent character of the plea, that issue should first be presented to the trial court as a motion to withdraw that plea, and if the trial court denies the motion, then it would be subject to review on direct appeal. Jackson v. State, 1D2023-0065 (6/26/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436411/opinion/Opinion_2023-0065.pdf

CONTINUANCE: Court does not abuse its discretion in denying a motion to continue the hearing for postconviction relief where a witness had not been personally subpoenaed to appear at the hearing. Williams v. State, 3D22-1753 (6/26/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436454/opinion/Opinion_2022-1753.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: Where Defendant said, "I think I should have a lawyer," officers said "If at any point you think we're being mean to you or anything like that, then you can just tell us you don't want to talk to us anymore, okay?", and Defendant then asked, "[i]f I want a lawyer later on, can I get one?" and the interrogation continued, the confession is admissible. In context with his subsequent questions about getting a lawyer "later on," Defendant's "I think I should have a lawyer" statement constituted, at best, an equivocal statement. Police are not required to stop a custodial interrogation unless the suspect has made an unequivocal and unambiguous request for counsel. State v. Myers, 3D22-2019 (6/26/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436460/opinion/Opinion_2022-2019.pdf

APPEAL-EVIDENCE-STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT: Appellate court's applies a less deferential standard to factual findings made by the trial court where the Appellate court has the video. When findings are based mainly on review of a videotape, the trial court has no superior vantage point from that of the appellate court. Whether Defendant made an unequivocal request to invoke his right to counsel is not a factual determination, credibility determination, weighing of the evidence, or the like. Trial court did not perform a fact-finding function, but rather a legal function. Review is de novo. State v. Myers, 3D22-2019 (6/26/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436460/opinion/Opinion_2022-2019.pdf

ATTORNEY-NELSON: Whether a trial court conducted an adequate Nelson ‘s review for harmless error. Where Defendant proceeded to trial with his court-appointed counsel, and made no additional attempt to dismiss counsel or request self-representation, and there is no evidence in the record of any conflict or lack of communication during the trial. Any error in the Nelson inquiry is harmless. Wilson v. State, 3D23-0089 (6/26/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436429/opinion/Opinion_2023-0089.pdf

EVIDENCE-INEXTRICABLY INTERTWINED: Evidence of uncharged crimes which are inseparable from the crime charged, or evidence which is inextricably intertwined with the crime charged, is admissible under §90.402 because ‘it is a relevant and inseparable part of the act which is in issue Evidence is inextricably intertwined if the evidence is necessary to (1) adequately describe the deed, (2) provide an intelligent account of the crime(s) charged; (3) establish the entire context out of which the charged crime(s) arose; or (4) adequately describe the events leading up to the charged crime(s).” L.X.A., a Juvenile v. State, 3D23-1566 (6/26/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436437/opinion/Opinion_2023-1566.pdf

RESENTENCING-PRESENCE OF DEFENDANT: Where resentencing does not involve the consideration of any additional evidence, and where the trial court does not have any discretion in the new sentence it imposes, resentencing is a ministerial act. Resentencing a defendant in his absence will be harmless where it involves only a ministerial act. Bernard v. State, 3D23-2132 (6/26/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436436/opinion/Opinion_2023-2132.pdf

COSTS OF SUPERVISION: Monthly costs of supervision are statutorily mandated by §948.09 and need not be orally pronounced. However, because no statutory authority sets that cost amount, an evidentiary hearing on the proper amount is required. Frank v. State, 4D2022-1339 (6/26/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436433/opinion/Opinion_2022-1339.pdf

JURY-RECIDIVISM STATUTE-ACCA: For the purposes of ACCA sentencing, the Fifth and Sixth Amendments require that the issue of whether predicate offenses occurred on different occasions or during a single criminal episode must be decided by a unanimous jury beyond a reasonable doubt or freely admitted in a guilty plea. Judges may not assume the jury's factfinding function for themselves, let alone purport to perform it using a mere preponderance-of-the-evidence standard. "Really, this case is as nearly on all fours with Apprendi and Alleyne as any we might imagine." Erlinger v. United States, No. 23–370 (U.S. S/ Ct. 6/21/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-370_i4dj.pdf

5TH/6th AMENDMENT: "There is no efficiency exception to the Fifth and Sixth Amendments." The Fifth and Sixth Amendments' jury trial rights provide a defendant with entirely complementary protections at a different stage of the proceedings by ensuring that, once a jury is lawfully empaneled, the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt to a unanimous jury the facts necessary to sustain the punishment it seeks. Erlinger v. United States, No. 23–370 (U.S. S/ Ct. 6/21/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-370_i4dj.pdf

JURY-RECIDIVISM STATUTE-ACCA (J. JACKSON): "Today, the Court concludes that. . .under Apprendi, for sentencing purposes, facts that relate to a defendant's prior crimes cannot be determined by judges but instead must be found by juries. I disagree for several reasons, including my overarching view that Apprendi was wrongly decided. . .I recognize, of course, that Apprendi is a binding precedent of this Court. . .[and] untangling the knots Apprendi has tied is probably infeasible at this point in our Court's jurisprudential journey. But. . .I cannot join today's effort to further extend Apprendi's holding." Erlinger v. United States, No. 23–370 (U.S. S/ Ct. 6/21/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-370_i4dj.pdf

HEARSAY-CONFRONTATION: The Confrontation Clause applies to forensic reports. Use of a "substitute expert"—who had not participated in any of the relevant drug testing—violates the Confrontation Clause. State may not introduce the testimonial out-of-court statements of a forensic analyst at trial through a surrogate analyst who did not participate in their creation. And nothing changes if the surrogate presents the out-of-court statements as the basis for his expert opinion. A defendant has the right to cross-examine the person who made them. Smith v. Arizona, No. 22–899. (U.S. S. Ct. 6/21/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-899_97be.pdf

CONFRONTATION CLAUSE (J. THOMAS, CONCURRING): "I continue to adhere to my view that 'the Confrontation Clause is implicated by extrajudicial statements only insofar as they are contained in formalized testimonial materials, such as affidavits, depositions, prior testimony, or confessions.'" Smith v. Arizona, No. 22–899. (U.S. S. Ct. 6/21/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-899_97be.pdf

SECOND AMENDMENT: Statute prohibiting a person subject to a domestic violence restraining order from possessing a firearm does not violate the Second Amendment. When an individual poses a clear threat of physical violence to another, the threatening individual may be disarmed. United States v. Rahimi, No. 22-915 (6/21/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-915_8o6b.pdf

SECOND AMENDMENT (J. SOTOMAYOR, CONCURRING): "In short, the Court's interpretation permits a historical inquiry calibrated to reveal something useful and transferable to the present day, while the dissent would make the historical inquiry so exacting as to be useless, a too-sensitive alarm that sounds whenever a regulation did not exist in an essentially identical form at the founding." United States v. Rahimi, No. 22-915 (6/21/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-915_8o6b.pdf

CONSTITUTIONAL INTERPRETATION (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "Discerning what the original meaning of the Constitution requires in this or that case may sometimes be difficult. Asking that question, however, at least keeps judges in their proper lane, seeking to honor the supreme law the people have ordained rather than substituting our will for theirs. And whatever indeterminacy may be associated with seeking to honor the Constitution's original meaning in modern disputes, that path offers surer footing than any other this Court has attempted from time to time. Come to this Court with arguments from text and history, and we are bound to reason through them as best we can. . .Allow judges to reign unbounded by those materials, or permit them to extrapolate their own broad new principles from those sources, and no one can have any idea how they might rule. . .Faithful adherence to the Constitution's original meaning may be an imperfect guide, but I can think of no more perfect one for us to follow." United States v. Rahimi, No. 22-915 (6/21/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-915_8o6b.pdf

ORIGINALISM (J. BARRETT, CONCURRING): "[I]t is worth pausing to identify the basic premises of originalism. The theory is built on two core principles: that the meaning of constitutional text is fixed at the time of its ratification and that the 'discoverable historical meaning . . . has legal significance and is authoritative in most circumstances.'" United States v. Rahimi, No. 22-915 (6/21/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-915_8o6b.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-TERRY STOP: Officer may not perform a Terry stop of a person for wearing an inside-the-waist firearm holster. Neither carrying a concealed weapon nor ignoring the officer's questions are sufficient to permit involuntary detention. Approaching suspect and commanding him to keep his hands away from his waist is a seizure. To warrant an investigatory stop, the law requires not just a mere suspicion of criminal activity, but a reasonable, well-founded one. Carrying a concealed firearm is not sufficient, without more, to justify a Terry stop. Carter v. State, 2D2022-3275 (6/21/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436280/opinion/Opinion_2022-3275.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-TERRY STOP: In the absence of a reasonable suspicion of criminal activity or probable cause to arrest, an individual asked questions by an officer has a right to ignore the police and go about his business. "Any other rule would make a mockery of the reasonable suspicion and probable cause requirements, as well as the consent doctrine." Carter v. State, 2D2022-3275 (6/21/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436280/opinion/Opinion_2022-3275.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-TERRY STOP: Neither possession of a concealed firearm nor presence in a high crime area nor ignoring officer inquiries are sufficient, standing alone or in combination, establish a reasonable suspicion justifying a Terry stop. Carter v. State, 2D2022-3275 (6/21/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436280/opinion/Opinion_2022-3275.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: The Court's administrative order extending speedy trial due to a hurricane closure is effective, even if it was issued after the Child's right to discharge had vested. D.W. v. State, 2022-3494 (6/21/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436274/opinion/Opinion_2022-3494.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: Where state provided a police report describing the existence of several photographs, but not the photographs themselves (except for a noticed that "Photograph(s) is furnished via Evidence.com"), Child is entitled to a full Richardson hearing. Although the State had noticed the report, it never disclosed that it intended to rely upon the photographs mentioned—but not included—therein. The failure to give pretrial notice of its intent to rely on these photographs at trial was a violation of the plain language of rule 8.060(a)(2)(K). D.W. v. State, 2022-3494 (6/21/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436274/opinion/Opinion_2022-3494.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Dismissal of a motion for postconviction relief for failure to comply with an order to acknowledge the postconviction court's warnings is not authorized by R. 3.850. While nothing prohibits a postconviction court from advising a movant of the ramifications of a successful postconviction motion or warning a movant of the postconviction court's authority to impose sanctions, the rule simply does not allow for dismissal, let alone dismissal with prejudice, should a movant not expressly acknowledge that there may be adverse consequences to prevailing on his motion. There is no requirement that a defendant verify or otherwise certify anything other than the initial motion itself. Zuniga-Mejia v. State, 2D2023-1001 (6/21/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436275/opinion/Opinion_2023-1001.pdf

RETALIATORY ARREST CLAIM: As a general rule, a plaintiff bringing a retaliatory-arrest claim must plead and prove the absence of probable cause for the arrest. But if she produces objective evidence that she was arrested when similarly situated individuals not engaged in the same sort of protected speech had not been, the suit may go forward. Gonzalez v. Trevino, No. 22-1025 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-1025_1a72.pdf

RETALIATORY ARREST CLAIM: Candidate for office who was arrested for intentionally removing a government record–a petition to remove the city manager from office for misfeasance of office– is entitled to pursue her suit for retaliatory arrest where she showed that the anti-tampering statute had never before been used in the county to criminally charge someone for trying to steal a nonbinding or expressive document. Plaintiff is not required to proffer comparative evidence of similarly situated individuals who engaged in the same criminal conduct but were not arrested. The only express limit on the sort of evidence a plaintiff may present for that purpose is that it must be objective. Gonzalez v. Trevino, No. 22-1025 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-1025_1a72.pdf

RETALIATORY ARREST CLAIM (J.THOMAS, DISSENTING): "I . . .remain 'skeptical that 42 U. S. C. §1983 recognizes a claim for retaliatory arrests under the First Amendment.'" Gonzalez v. Trevino, No. 22-1025 (U.S. S.Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-1025_1a72.pdf

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION: To succeed on a Fourth Amendment malicious-prosecution claim under 42 U. S. C. §1983, a plaintiff must show that a government official charged him without probable cause, leading to an unreasonable seizure of his person. When the official brings multiple charges, only one of which lacks probable cause, the valid charges do not insulate the official from a Fourth Amendment malicious-prosecution claim relating to the invalid charge. The valid charges do not create a categorical bar. Chiaverini v. City of Napoleon, No. 23–50 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-50new_2co3.pdf

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION (J. THOMAS, DISSENTING): "I continue to adhere to my belief that a 'malicious prosecution claim cannot be based on the Fourth Amendment. . .' [A]n unreasonable seizure under the Fourth Amendment requires a seizure; a malicious-prosecution claim does not." Chiaverini v. City of Napoleon, No. 23–50 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-50new_2co3.pdf

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "Section 1983 performs vital work by permitting individuals to vindicate their constitutional rights in federal court. But it does not authorize this Court to expound new rights of its own creation. . .§1983 does not turn the Constitution into a 'font of tort law.'. . Despite that settled rule, the Court today doubles down on a new tort of its own recent invention—what it calls a 'Fourth Amendment malicious-prosecution' cause of action. . .Respectfully, it is hard to know where this tort comes from. Stare for as long as you like at the Fourth Amendment and you won't see anything about prosecutions, malicious or otherwise." Chiaverini v. City of Napoleon, No. 23–50 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-50new_2co3.pdf

EXPERT-ULTIMATE ISSUE: Agent may testify that most couriers know that they are transporting drugs, provided he does not testify that the defendant on trial knew. An expert's conclusion that "most people" in a group have a particular mental state is not an opinion about the defendant" and thus does not violate Rule 704(b). Diaz v. United States, No. 23–14 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-14_d1o2.pdf

ULTIMATE ISSUE: An opinion is not objectionable just because it embraces an ultimate issue, except that in a criminal case, an expert witness must not state an opinion about whether the defendant did or did not have a mental state or condition that constitutes an element of the crime charged or of a defense. "Although the ultimate-issue rule's exact origins are unclear, legal scholars agree that several States had adopted it by the late 1800s. . .'The mist the gods drew about them on the battlefield before Troy was no more dense than the one enshrouding the origins of the [ultimate-issue] rule.'"). Diaz v. United States, No. 23–14 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-14_d1o2.pdf

ULTIMATE ISSUE (J. JACKSON CONCURRING): "I write separately to emphasize that. . .Rule 704(b) is party agnostic. Neither the Government nor the defense can call an expert to offer her opinion about whether the defendant had or did not have a particular mental state at the time of the offense. . .But a corollary is also true. Both the Government and the defense are permitted. . .to elicit expert testimony 'on the likelihood' that the defendant had a particular mental state, 'based on the defendant's membership in a particular group.'" Diaz v. United States, No. 23–14 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-14_d1o2.pdf

ULTIMATE ISSUE (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "There's no Rule 704(b) problem, the Court holds, as long as the government's expert limits himself to testifying that most people like the defendant have the mental state required to secure a conviction. The upshot? The government comes away with a powerful new tool in its pocket. Prosecutors can now put an expert on the stand—someone who apparently has the convenient ability to read minds—and let him hold forth on what 'most' people like the defendant think when they commit a legally proscribed act. Then, the government need do no more than urge the jury to find that the defendant is like 'most' people and convict. What authority exists for allowing that kind of charade in federal criminal trials is anybody's guess." Diaz v. United States, No. 23–14 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-14_d1o2.pdf

JUNK SCIENCE (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "The problem of junk science in the courtroom is real and well documented. . . And perhaps no 'science' is more junky than mental telepathy. Diaz v. United States, No. 23–14 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-14_d1o2.pdf

ULTIMATE ISSUE (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "No one, at least outside the fortuneteller's den, can yet claim the power to conjure reliably another's past thoughts." Diaz v. United States, No. 23–14 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-14_d1o2.pdf

ULTIMATE ISSUE (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "Observe, as well, where today's tiptoeing around the Rule promises to lead. The Court adopts the government's muddled view that an expert cannot offer a probabilistic opinion about the mental state of the defendant explicitly but can offer a probabilistic opinion about the mental state of a group that includes the defendant. So what happens next?. . .We will draw some as-yet unknown line and say an expert's probabilistic testimony went too far. Or we will hold anything goes and eviscerate Rule 704(b) in the process. Rather than face either of those prospects, how much easier it would be to follow where the Rule's text leads." Diaz v. United States, No. 23–14 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-14_d1o2.pdf

MENS REA (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "Why does our law generally insist not just on a bad act but also a culpable state of mind? A significant part of it has to do with respect for the individual and his liberty in a free society." Diaz v. United States, No. 23–14 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-14_d1o2.pdf

DEFINITION-"ABOUT" (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): The word "about" means "concerning, regarding, with regard to, in reference to; in the matter of." Diaz v. United States, No. 23–14 (U.S. S. Ct. 6/20/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/23-14_d1o2.pdf

CONSPIRACY-EVIDENCE: Evidence of multiple firearms and almost two kilograms of heroin found in Defendant's home more than two years after the end of the charged drug-dealing conspiracy is inadmissible as evidence of the conspiracy itself. It is admissible as 404(b) evidence, but only with a limiting instruction. USA v. Harding, No 23-10479 (11th Cir. 6/20/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310479.pdf

FREE SPEECH-PROHIBITING RIOT: A person does no commit the crime of riot (§870.01(2)) if he attends a protest and the protest comes to involve a violent public disturbance, but the person does not engage in, or intend to assist others in engaging in, violent and disorderly conduct. To obtain a conviction, the State must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant intended to engage or assist two or more other persons in violent and disorderly conduct. DeSantis v. Dream Defenders, SC2023-0053 (6/20/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436202/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0053.pdf

RIOT: "Riot" is generally understood as a crime against the public peace and not necessarily against a specific victim or victims. A riot often, but not always, had a point. Crucially, violence is intrinsic to a riot. To protest passionately, without more, is not to "riot" in the historic sense of the term. DeSantis v. Dream Defenders, SC2023-0053 (6/20/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436202/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0053.pdf

DEFINITION-"INVOLVING": "Involving" connotes not a smaller component of a larger thing, but a necessary feature of the thing described, to have as a necessary feature or consequence. DeSantis v. Dream Defenders, SC2023-0053 (6/20/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436202/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0053.pdf

DEFINITION-"VIOLENT PUBLIC DISTURBANCE": A "violent public disturbance" is "a tumultuous disturbance of the peace" that is carried out in "a violent and turbulent manner" and "involving an assembly of three or more persons, acting with a common intent to assist each other in violent and disorderly conduct." DeSantis v. Dream Defenders, SC2023-0053 (6/20/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436202/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0053.pdf

DEFINITION-"PARTICIPATE": "Participate" means "to take part in something." DeSantis v. Dream Defenders, SC2023-0053 (6/20/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436202/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0053.pdf

DEFINITION-"WILLFULLY": "Willfully," like many words, in law as in life, means different things when it appears in different places. DeSantis v. Dream Defenders, SC2023-0053 (6/20/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436202/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0053.pdf

AMBIGUITY: "Where lawyers seek ambiguity, there often is it found." DeSantis v. Dream Defenders, SC2023-0053 (6/20/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436202/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0053.pdf

JUDGE-DISCIPLINE: Referring to oneself as "conservative" in a judicial election campaign does not violate Canon 7's prohibition on partisanship. The statement "I am a conservative" is not partisan, either inherently or (when made during an election campaign in a predominantly Republican community. Inquiry Concerning a Judge, NO. 2023-029 (6/20/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436203/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1706.pdf

VOP: In probation revocation proceedings for failure to pay a monetary obligation, the trial court must find that the defendant's failure to pay was willful—i.e., that he had the ability to pay the obligation and purposefully did not do so. Defendant who spent $70,605 on various things, including restaurants, bars, clothing, Uber, Lyft, Amazon, and liquor had the ability to pay more than $1,1535 in restitution over six years. Noel v. State, 4D2021-2552 (6/20/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436209/opinion/Opinion_2021-2552.pdf

PLEA-WITHDRAWAL: Defendant is entitled to orally withdraw his guilty plea before sentencing. The motion need not be in writing. Hasbrouk v. State, 4D2023-2791 (6/20/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436216/opinion/Opinion_2023-2791.pdf

JOA-AGGRAVATED STALKING: Defendant who was subject to an injunction for protection is entitled to a judgment of acquittal for leaving a series of voice mails from prison to a former teacher whose feet he had begun to fixate on.. Evidence of substantial emotional distress is required, Being "very concerned" and "worried" is not enough. Ford v. State, 1D2022-0102 (6/19/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436110/opinion/Opinion_2022-0102.pdf

SUBSTANTIAL EMOTIONAL DISTRESS: To be substantial, the emotional distress must be greater than just an ordinary feeling of distress. A reasonable person does not suffer substantial emotional distress easily. Ford v. State, 1D2022-0102 (6/19/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436110/opinion/Opinion_2022-0102.pdf

TOO WEIRD: "To be fair, . . Ford has a documented foot fetish and an extensive history of calling 911 to ask female dispatch officers about their feet. He eventually racked up over one hundred and eighty misdemeanor convictions, mostly related to 911 misuse." Ford v. State, 1D2022-0102 (6/19/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436110/opinion/Opinion_2022-0102.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy bars dual convictions for both detainee battery and simple felony battery based on a prior conviction. Richardson v. State, 1D2022-0617 (6/19/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436111/opinion/Opinion_2022-0617.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: A double jeopardy violation is fundamental error that may be addressed for the first time on appeal. Richardson v. State, 1D2022-0617 (6/19/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436111/opinion/Opinion_2022-0617.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: The scope of the Double Jeopardy Clause is the same in both the federal and Florida Constitutions. Richardson v. State, 1D2022-0617 (6/19/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436111/opinion/Opinion_2022-0617.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: When both counts involve felonies of the same degree, the proper remedy for a double jeopardy violation is to vacate the count with the lower scoresheet level. Richardson v. State, 1D2022-0617 (6/19/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436111/opinion/Opinion_2022-0617.pdf

POUTING JUDGE (J. KELSEY, DISSENTING): "To hasten disposition of this case, I will not belabor my dissent, which after all is of no real legal effect." Richardson v. State, 1D2022-0617 (6/19/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436111/opinion/Opinion_2022-0617.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Although Defendant may have been engaged in a crime and may have been in a place where he did not have a right to be, that just means that he had a duty to retreat—if he reasonably could—before he could use deadly force to defend himself. But since he was huddled in a corner of the motel room behind the inward-opening door, shielding himself from the deceased's repeated punches, he had exhausted all reasonable means of escape before shooting his assailant

8 times, and therefore has SYG immunity. Decedent was beating him up to take away his gun because Defendant had talked about shooting his cheating girl. Smith v. State, 1D2022-3034 (6/19/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436123/opinion/Opinion_2022-3034.pdf

WILLIAMS RULE-CAPITAL SEX BATTERY: Williams Rule evidence of sexual abuse on a different child similar in age, with shared similar experiences, and the occurring at the same location is admissible. When a defendant is charged with child molestation, relevant evidence of the defendant's commission of other crimes, wrongs, or acts of child molestation is admissible if the trial court first finds that the State proved the prior acts by clear and convincing evidence, i.e., the evidence is credible; the facts distinctly remembered; and the testimony precise and explicit. The child witness responding "yes" to several of the State's specific questions about the sexual conduct is sufficient. Simmons v. State, 1D2022-3059 (6/19/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436112/opinion/Opinion_2022-3059.pdf

LEADING QUESTION: A question is not leading simply because it calls for a yes or no answer. Instead, a question is leading when it points out the desired answer. A question which suggests only the answer yes is leading; a question which suggests only the answer no is leading; but a question which may be answered either yes or no, and suggests neither answer as the correct one, is not leading. Simmons v. State, 1D2022-3059 (6/19/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436112/opinion/Opinion_2022-3059.pdf

WILLIAMS RULE-CAPITAL SEX BATTERY: Similar-act evidence is admissible notwithstanding that the State nolle prossed the criminal charges related to the other child victim. Florida law is clear that even when the State nolle prosses charges, the facts supporting the dismissed charges may be admissible. This is because unlike an acquittal, the State's decision to nolle pros charges is not necessarily related to the strength of the evidence. Simmons v. State, 1D2022-3059 (6/19/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436112/opinion/Opinion_2022-3059.pdf

HAPPY FAMILY: "Webb then saw Heath shooting an AR-15 out of the back window of the truck. Johnson was jumping up and down with excitement saying, "shoot, daddy, shoot." Heath v. State, 1D2022-4126 (6/19/20)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436113/opinion/Opinion_2022-4126.pdf

CONTINUANCE: Court did not abuse its discretion in denying a continuance in a 16 month old murder case. When ruling on a motion to continue based on an assertion of insufficient time to prepare for trial, a trial court should consider the McKay factors: 1) the time available for preparation, 2) the likelihood of prejudice from the denial, 3) the defendant's role in shortening preparation time, 4) the complexity of the case, 5) the availability of discovery, 6) the adequacy of counsel actually provided and 7) the skill and experience of chosen counsel and his pre-retention experience with either the defendant or the alleged crime. Heath v. State, 1D2022-4126 (6/19/20)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436113/opinion/Opinion_2022-4126.pdf

COLLATERAL CRIME EVIDENCE: Past incidents of abuse or violence between Defendant and co-Defendant in a love triangle homicide are admissible as inextricably intertwined with the charged offenses. The testimony about domestic violence between the two provided context for the events leading to the shooting and explained her involuntary participation in the shooting. Heath v. State, 1D2022-4126 (6/19/20)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436113/opinion/Opinion_2022-4126.pdf

COLLATERAL CRIME EVIDENCE: There are two categories of admissible evidence of uncharged crimes: similar fact evidence and dissimilar fact evidence. Similar fact evidence is governed by the requirements and limitations of §90.404, and dissimilar fact evidence is governed by the general rule of relevancy in §90.402. Dissimilar fact evidence is admissible to establish the relevant context in which the charged criminal acts occurred, including evidence of uncharged crimes which are inseparable from the crime charged, or evidence which is inextricably intertwined with the crime charged. The State is allowed to admit dissimilar fact evidence that paints an accurate picture of the events surrounding the crimes charged. Heath v. State, 1D2022-4126 (6/19/20)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436113/opinion/Opinion_2022-4126.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: Court improperly struck Defendant's notice of expiration of speedy trial based on its mistaken belief that he had waived his speedy trial rights during earlier hearings. The Clerk's minutes contained check boxes reflecting a speedy trial waiver, but review of the transcripts establishes that Defendant did not waive them. Defendant is entitled to discharge. Gonzalez-Hernandez v. State, 3D22-1124 (6/19/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2436130/opinion/Opinion_2022-1124.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PROBATION: A warrantless search of a probationer's home, based on reasonable suspicion and a probation condition allowing warrantless searches is reasonable under the Fourth Amendment, and is not rendered unreasonable because the home was occupied by another person (a girlfriend) who knew about the probation. The reasonable expectation of privacy inside the probationer's home is similar to what it would be if the home was not occupied by another person—it is diminished. USA v. Harden, No. 20-14004 (11th Cir. 6/18/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202014004.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Judge's effort in his order to refute some of the facts alleged in the motion to disqualify him compels disqualification. "To be clear, we specifically take no position as to whether the motion [itself] was legally sufficient. . .for the disqualification of the trial judge." Holt v. Nelson, 6D24-966 (6/17/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435963/opinion/Opinion_2024-0966.pdf

FELONIES CLAUSE-MDLEA-EEZ: The Maritime Drug Law Enforcement Act ("MDLEA") makes it a crime to engage in drug trafficking on board a vessel subject to the jurisdiction of the United States. It is a valid exercise of Congress's power under the Felonies Clause of of the Constitution (Article I, §8, Clause 10), not limited by international law. Any stateless vessel on the high seas may be boarded by the United States under the Felonies Clause. A nation's Exclusive Economic Zone ("EEZ") is part of the "high seas." The modern recognition of the EEZ in the twentieth century has no bearing on the original meaning of "high seas" in the Felonies Clause. USA v. Alfonso, No 22-10576 (11th Cir. 6/14/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210576.pdf

EEZ: An Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ) is the area of water just beyond a nation's territorial waters but within 200 miles of the coastal baseline where coastal nations have certain rights to natural resources and jurisdiction over marine research and protection of the marine environment. But "[a]ny allocation of economic rights. . .is a far cry from conferring on a nation the exclusive authority. . .to define and punish criminal violations." USA v. Alfonso, No 22-10576 (11th Cir. 6/14/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210576.pdf

HIGH SEAS-CANNON SHOT RULE: In the eighteenth century, the concept took root that a nation could exercise sovereignty over waters within the range of its on-shore artillery , between 1 to 3 miles (the "Cannon Shot Rule"). Thomas Jefferson considered the utmost range of a cannon ball to be 3 miles (a league). USA v. Alfonso, No 22-10576 (11th Cir. 6/14/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210576.pdf

MINIMUM FINE-CRIMINAL ENTERPRISE-MODIFICATION: Court may not amend the sentence imposed a year earlier to add the omitted $500,000 minimum fine for engaging in a criminal entrprise. The omission of the fine did not result in an "illegal sentence" under R. 3.800(a), so it is not correctable. The trial court lacked authority to add the $500,000 fine more than a year after issuing his original judgment and sentence. Further, the imposition of the $500,000 fine is discretionary §893.20(2). Generally, a trial court has no authority to modify a sentence after a defendant has begun serving it. Islaam v. State, 2D2023-0419 (6/14/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435897/opinion/Opinion_2023-0419.pdf

MINIMUM FINE-CRIMINAL ENTERPRISE-CRIMINAL ENTERPRISE-MODIFICATION: "The State did not cite any provision of rule 3.800—or, indeed, any legal authority—in its motion to correct Mr. Islaam's sentence or at the hearing that followed. . . The motion seemed to sound in the key of rule 3.800(b), asking the court to 'correct' a sentence that the State described merely as 'incomplete.' But the correction the State sought would have neither fixed a mere scrivener's error nor benefitted Mr. Islaam, so rule 3.800(b) would have been inapplicable." Islaam v. State, 2D2023-0419 (6/14/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435897/opinion/Opinion_2023-0419.pdf

MINIMUM FINE-CRIMINAL ENTERPRISE-MODIFICATION: §893.20 provides that a person who commits the offense of engaging in a continuing criminal enterprise is guilty of a life felony, punishable by a fine of $500,000. "Punishable by" does not mean "punished in every case by"; it means "able to be punished by." Islaam v. State, 2D2023-0419 (6/14/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435897/opinion/Opinion_2023-0419.pdf

NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Where Defendant filed a successful motion to suppress under the substantive case one month after his VOP hearing, suppression of the same evidence that was used to revoke his probation constitutes newly discovered evidence. Revocation vacated pending further proceedings. Edwards v. State, 5D2022-1479 (6/14/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435888/opinion/Opinion_2022-1479.pdf

COSTS: $100 cost for the FDLE Operating Trust Fund vacated where it was not orally pronounced, but may be re-imposed as a civil final judgment on remand. Brown v. State, 2023-1178 (6/14/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435891/opinion/Opinion_2023-1178.pdf

DUI-BREATH TEST-COLOR OF OFFICE: Outside his or her territorial jurisdiction, a municipal officer may not assert official authority to gather evidence not otherwise obtainable by a private citizen. City police officer outside city limits at the county jail may not request/procure a DUI breath test. Courts cannot grant extraterritorial police power to municipalities. Conflict certified. State v. Repple, 6D23-1448 (6/14/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435916/opinion/Opinion_2023-1448.pdf

COLOR OF OFFICE: When an officer obtains evidence by using the appearance of official power, in a jurisdiction where the officer has no power, the officer is said to act under the "color of office." The first known use of this expression comes from a thirteenth century English statute prohibiting King Edward's sheriffs from acting without authority. State v. Repple, 6D23-1448 (6/14/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435916/opinion/Opinion_2023-1448.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Postconviction claims under R. 3.851 are legally insufficient or procedurally barred if filed more than a year after the judgment and sentence became final. When a newly discovered evidence claim is brought as a successive claim, the defendant must demonstrate an exception to the rule's time limitations, of which there are 3: (A) the facts on which the claim is predicated were unknown and could not have been ascertained with due diligence, or (B) the fundamental constitutional right asserted was not established within 1 year after the judgment and sentence became final and has been held to apply retroactively, or (C) postconviction counsel, through neglect, failed to file the motion. Sparre v. State, SC2023-0163 (6/13/14)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435848/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0163.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's claim that PSI omitted important facts is procedurally barred as untimely filed as newly discovered evidence where filed more than a year after his conviction becomes final. Sparre v. State, SC2023-0163 (6/13/14)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435848/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0163.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-ENHANCEMENT: Whether a defendant convicted of a permissive lesser included offense, which was not properly charged in the information is not an issue of sentencing enhancement and therefore does is not present a sentencing error that can be raised under R. 3.800(b). Melton v. State, 1D2022-0574 (6/12/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435754/opinion/Opinion_2022-0574.pdf

BURGLARY-ENHANCEMENT: Burglary of an occupied structure is a not a sentencing enhancement to the crime of burglary of a structure. An alleged error regarding the existence or propriety of one of the elements of burglary, as set forth in §810.02, is not an alleged sentencing error pursuant to Rule 3.800(b). Melton v. State, 1D2022-0574 (6/12/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435754/opinion/Opinion_2022-0574.pdf

MARSY'S LAW: "Marsy's Law" is a colloquial reference to a Florida constitutional amendment that provides crime victims with meaningful and enforceable rights and protections. Marsy's Law applies to VOP sentencing. At VOP sentencing hearing, Court may consider Victim's sworn statement to police as a victim impact statement under Marsy's Law. Camel v. State, 1D2022-2267 (6/12/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435754/opinion/Opinion_2022-0574.pdf

ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT: Where Court orally pronounced that "you'll get credit for 129 days on each of those counts" but the written judgment only awarded the credit on the first count, the oral pronouncement controls. Whipple v. State, 1D202204117 (6/12/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435757/opinion/Opinion_2022-4117.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: The $100 cost for the state attorney is a mandatory minimum cost and is not an investigative' cost incurred by an agency, which can only be imposed if requested by the agency. Roberts v. State, 1D2023-0464 (6/12/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435778/opinion/Opinion_2023-0464.pdf

STATEMENT OF DEFENDANT-RIGHT TO REMAIN SILENT: Police must stop a custodial interrogation if the suspect unequivocally invokes any Miranda rights during the interrogation, but need not stop the interview or ask any clarifying questions if a defendant makes only an equivocal or ambiguous request to terminate an interrogation after having validly waived his Miranda rights. Defendant softly uttering "Listen man, 'cause it don't matter, shit, 'cause I feel like I'm being tricked into it. I just don't want to say nothing, you feel me?" is an equivocal invocation of the right to remain silent. Officers were nor required to seek clarification and were entitled to continue the interrogation. "Mr. Denson did not make the statement at the beginning of the substantive questioning or when being asked about whether he wished to talk. . .Mr. Denson did not make repeated statements or clear desires to stop the discussion entirely." State v. Denson, 1D2023-0919 (6/12/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435779/opinion/Opinion_2023-0919.pdf

EVIDENCE-REPUTATION FOR PEACEFULNESS: Court did not abuse its discretion in denying the defense motion to present the testimony about Defendant's general reputation for peacefulness where he threatened to kill the victim, admitted to the act itself and multiple witnesses saw it. "On these facts, 'general reputation' was worthless as a defense against guilt; and even if it had been error to exclude the evidence, it would be harmless." Atkins v. State, 1D202-1007 (6/12/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435789/opinion/Opinion_2023-1007.pdf

RESTITUTION: Court may not award lost-wages restitution to the victim corresponding to the loss of illicit work. N.C.D., A Child, 1D2023-1255 (6/12/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435798/opinion/Opinion_2023-1255.pdf

RESTITUTION: Court may not award lost-wages restitution to the victim corresponding to the loss of work from an illegal cosmetology practice. K.R., A Child, 1D2023-1257 (6/12/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435805/opinion/Opinion_2023-1257.pdf

POST-CONVICTION RELIEF: Court erred in finding that Counsel was ineffective and defendant entitled to a new trial where Counsel had failed to object to the witness's allusion to Defendant's release from prison, in violation of an order in limine, where it was unclear whether the witness was alluding to himself or the defendant and the witness had not been speaking loudly or clearly. Had trial counsel moved for a mistrial, it is not apparent that the court would have granted it. It cannot be said that trial counsel's decision not to object or move for a mistrial was unreasonable or that no competent trial attorney would have made the decision that counsel made here. State v. Jenkins, 2D2022-3623 (6/12/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435749/opinion/Opinion_2022-3623.pdf

HARMLESS ERROR: The harmless error test requires the State to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the error complained of did not contribute to the verdict or, alternatively stated, that there is no reasonable possibility that the error contributed to the conviction. The overwhelming evidence of a defendant's guilt may be considered in the harmless-error analysis. Rivera v. State, 3D22-1307 (6/12/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435787/opinion/Opinion_2022-1307.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-VOP: Defendant is entitled to receive credit for the time he spent in the Florida county jail prior to the original sentence. But the term "county jail" in §921.161 does not apply to various places of incarceration in other jurisdictions, such as Louisiana. Adams v, State, 3D23-737 (6/12/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435823/opinion/Opinion_2023-0737.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: The standard to obtain a new trial based on newly discovered evidence includes the requirement that defendant or his counsel could not have known of it by the use of diligence. Profete v. State, 3D23-1199 (6/12/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435792/opinion/Opinion_2023-1199.pdf

ARGUMENT: A suggestion that the defendant suborned perjury or that a defense witness manufactured evidence, without a foundation in the record, is completely improper. Johnson v. State, 3D23-1578 (6/12/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435791/opinion/Opinion_2023-1578.pdf

EXPERTS: Experts may not comment on the credibility of other witnesses. Johnson v. State, 3D23-1578 (6/12/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435791/opinion/Opinion_2023-1578.pdf

MARCHMAN ACT: Upon the filing of a petition under Florida's Marchman Act, one of the qualified professionals who executed the involuntary services certificate must be a witness. As such, it is reversable error for the trial court to grant a petition without the testimony of a qualified professional who executed the involuntary services certificate. C.W.R.K., v. SMA, 5D2024-0354 (6/12/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435829/opinion/Opinion_2024-0354.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Where Defendant claimed in her motion for post-conviction relief under R.3.800 that the Court had sentenced her to 120 days but the Clerk erroneously entered a judgment that she serve 220 days, the Court should treat the motion as one filed under R. 3.850. George v. State, 2D2024-0384 (6/7/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435567/opinion/Opinion_2024-0384.pdf

VOP-JUDGMENT: The trial judge must specify, in the written order or judgment, which conditions of probation or community control have been violated. Collins v. State, 5D2023-0299 (6/7/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435596/opinion/Opinion_2023-0299.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Where a defendant files a pro se motion to withdraw a plea which contains specific allegations that give rise to an adversarial relationship, such as misadvise, affirmative misrepresentations, or coercion that led to the entry of a plea, the trial court must hold a limited hearing to determine whether an adversarial relationship exists between the defendant and defense counsel that would entitle the defendant to appointment of conflict-free counsel. If an adversarial relationship exists, it must appoint conflict-free counsel to represent the defendant on his motion to withdraw plea. Where Defendant's motion is insufficient, but he supplements it with allegations of misadvise, counsel must be appointed. Mathis v. State. 5D2023-1980 (6/7/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435615/opinion/Opinion_2023-1980.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A rule 3.850 motion cannot be used to go behind representations the defendant made to the trial court, and the court may summarily deny post-conviction claims that are refuted by such representations. Post-conviction movants are bound by the statements they make under oath in plea colloquies. Hastings v. State, 5D2023-3296 (6/7/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435617/opinion/Opinion_2023-3296.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy principles bar dual convictions for possessing a drug and possessing that same drug with the intent to sell it, but double jeopardy is not implicated by dual convictions for possessing a drug and selling it. Hastings v. State, 5D2023-3296 (6/7/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435617/opinion/Opinion_2023-3296.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: All judges in a county need not be disqualified where Defendant is charged with threatening one of them. The fact that the victim had been a judge in the county does not mean that all judges in that county have to be disqualified. Watkins v. State, 5D2023-3374 (6/7/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435616/opinion/Opinion_2023-3374.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his claim that counsel was ineffective for advising him to plead notwithstanding his claim that the threatening letter he allegedly sent to the judge was a forgery. The Motion is timely notwithstanding that Defendant did not file it until after he had been arrested for violating probation. "Although Appellant is challenging the underlying conviction, not the revocation proceedings, the motion is nonetheless timely from both judgments." Watkins v. State, 5D2023-3374 (6/7/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435616/opinion/Opinion_2023-3374.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his claim that his plea was involuntary because he was never informed that he could be sentenced up to the statutory maximum and he was also unaware he would later be designated a violent felony offender of special concern. Watkins v. State, 5D2023-3374 (6/7/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435616/opinion/Opinion_2023-3374.pdf

PROBATION-TOLLING: Probation is tolled of Defendant's warrantless arrest for violation of probation and the filing of an affidavit alleging a violation of her probation and the issuance of a warrant thereon, But Defendant cannot be found in violation of probation for any expired terms. Nealy v. State, 2023-0745 (6/7/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435573/opinion/Opinion_202

3-0745.pdf

QUO WARRANTO-STATE ATTORNEY-SUSPENSION: Governor may suspend the elected State Attorney for being "clearly and fundamentally derelict as to constitute both neglect of duty and incompetence" by "permitt[ing] violent offenders, drug traffickers, serious juvenile offenders, and pedophiles to evade incarceration when otherwise warranted under Florida law." The Governor's Executive Order only needs to show that it "contains allegations that bear some reasonable relation to the charge made" against the State Attorney. Where the executive order of suspension contains factual allegations relating to an enumerated ground for suspension, the Constitution prohibits the courts from examining or determining the sufficiency of the evidence supporting those facts. Worrell v. DeSantis, SC2023-1246 (6/6/24) https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435518/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1246.pdf

DEMOCRACY (J. LABARGA, DISSENTING): "Where the suspension involves an elected official not subject to impeachment, such as Worrell, the Florida Constitution in effect authorizes the governor to override the will of the majority of voters who elected the official and to appoint a replacement of the governor's choosing. Because the bedrock of our democracy is the right to elect our public officials in fair and open elections, the suspension of a duly elected constitutional officer must be viewed as an enormous undertaking that requires clear justification. At the very least, the allegations must be confined to the specific grounds permitted by article IV, section 7(a), and the official in question should be apprised of the specific allegations giving rise to the suspension to ensure an opportunity to mount a meaningful defense. . .An executive order which presents only general or conclusory allegations will not suffice. This is not a demanding standard, but it is nonetheless a substantive requirement imposed by the Florida Constitution, and this Court is obligated to vacate any suspension which does not satisfy it." Worrell v. DeSantis, SC2023-1246 (6/6/24) https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435518/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1246.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Officers do not have qualified immunity for tasing then shooting someone's dog. An official clearly violates the Fourth Amendment when he uses deadly force against a dog that is incapacitated and incapable of harming anyone. "We have never addressed the specific question whether shooting a domestic animal constitutes a seizure under the Fourth Amendment. Now, we join with almost every other circuit in holding that it does." Plowright v. Miami Dade County, No. 23-10425 (11th Cir. 6/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310425.pdf

DOGS: "Even as living creatures—and often, beloved members of the family—domestic animals qualify as 'effects' for the purposes of the Fourth Amendment. An officer may not use deadly force against a domestic animal unless that officer reasonably believes that the animal poses an imminent threat to himself or others. Plowright v. Miami Dade County, No. 23-10425 (11th Cir. 6/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310425.pdf

DOGS: "Although Niles was barking when the officers approached the residence, and he 'sensed [the officers'] aggressive tone,' he was 'wagging his tail' when Rondon tased him and was 'incapacitated' by the taser and 'incapable of harming anyone' when Cordova fired the fatal shots. . .[T]he fact that a dog is barking and unrestrained is hardly enough by itself to convince a reasonable officer that he is in imminent danger. "[N]o reasonable officer could ever believe that it was appropriate to shoot an incapacitated, non-threatening domestic animal during a 911 investigation." Plowright v. Miami Dade County, No. 23-10425 (11th Cir. 6/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310425.pdf

INTENTIONAL INFLICTION OF EMOTIONAL DISTRESS: To state a valid claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress, a plaintiff must plausibly allege that the defendant's conduct was outrageous, beyond all bounds of decency, and odious and utterly intolerable in a civilized community. Whether conduct is outrageous enough is a question of law, defined as the sort of thing that would make an average member of the community to exclaim, 'Outrageous!'" Like shooting an incapacitated pet. Plowright v. Miami Dade County, No. 23-10425 (11th Cir. 6/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310425.pdf

RESENTENCING-SCORESHEET ERRORS: Defendant is not entitled to resentencing because he received an unlawful downward departure based on an improperly calculated scoresheet and the errors all benefitted him. Boyd v. State, 1D2022-0351 (6/5/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435467/opinion/Opinion_2022-0351.pdf

LAWYERS DO MATH[11]-SCORESHEET ERRORS: The parties thought there was an error of .15 months for an improperly included prior misdemeanor (24 months vs. 24.15 months). Actually, Defendant should have scored 159 months. Errors included listing the wrong primary offense, scoring it as a Level 6 instead of 7, not including 40 Victim Injury points for Sexual Contact, and omitting the enhancement for an"Adult-on-Minor Sex Offense." Boyd v. State, 1D2022-0351 (6/5/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435467/opinion/Opinion_2022-0351.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-LACK OF KNOWLEDGE: Knowledge of the illicit nature of a controlled substance is not an element of trafficking in methamphetamine or heroin. But it is an affirmative defense. Absent Defendant's testimony or other evidence of lack of knowledge of the nature of the substance, an instruction that Defendant did not know what the drug was is not warranted. Goldsby v. State, 1D2022-3133 (6/5/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435469/opinion/Opinion_2022-3133.pdf

---

[11] See Richard Pryor in The Bingo Long Traveling All-Stars & Motor Kings: "We'll start with something easy, like batting averages. See, you take the number of times a man been at bat, and you divide that by the number of times a man got a hit. Like me, I been at bat a hundred times, I got twenty-five hits. That's simple, right? Twenty-five go into a hundred four times. Gives me a batting average of four! That's wrong. That ain't no way to do that. What you gotta do is the number of times a man's been at bat and got a hit. Divide that by the number of times he swung. See I been at bat a lot, and I swung a lot! Let me see, seventy-five into a hundred... no. That would give me a batting average of two! Couldn't have a batting average of two! Nobody could have a batting average that bad. Could they?"

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Costs of prosecution may be imposed regardless of whether the State requests them. Hepburn v. State, 1D2022-3810 (6/5/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435470/opinion/Opinion_2022-3810.pdf

WRIT OF PROHIBITION: Prohibition may only be granted when it is shown that a lower court is without jurisdiction or attempting to act in excess of jurisdiction. Frazier v. State, 1D2024-1288 (6/5/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435477/opinion/Opinion_2024-1288.pdf

WRIT OF PROHIBITION: Prohibition may only be granted when it is shown that a lower court is without jurisdiction or attempting to act in excess of jurisdiction. Case v. State, 1D2024-1289 (6/5/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435478/opinion/Opinion_2024-1289.pdf

ILLEGAL SENTENCE-ESTOPPEL: Where a defendant has already served his sentence and he has reaped the benefit of an illegal sentence, he is estopped from challenging the sentence, especially in the context of a negotiated plea. Hamilton v. State, 3D23-1878 (6/5/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435437/opinion/Opinion_2023-1878.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND-WRIT: Prohibition does not lie where a defendant claims that the trial court applied the wrong procedure, rather than asserting on the merits that a defendant is entitled to immunity against further prosecution. Rather, a petition for writ of certiorari would be the remedy. But the appellate court lacks jurisdiction to consider a petition for writ of certiorari when it was filed more than thirty days after rendition of the trial court's order. Bembridge v. State, 3D23-2050 (6/5/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435445/opinion/Opinion_2023-2050.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: A traditional double jeopardy challenge attacks both the conviction and, by default, the sentence, while R. 3.800(a) is limited to claims that a sentence itself is illegal, without regard to the underlying conviction. Fleurimond v. State, 3D23-2181 (6/5/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435438/opinion/Opinion_2023-2181.pdf

HFO/PRR-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES: Court lawfully sentenced Defendant to an enhanced ten-year sentence as an HFO for Resisting with Violence with the first five years as a PRR, and to five years for Battery on a LEO consecutively, non-enhanced, for an aggregate sentence of fifteen years. The trial court is not authorized to both enhance the defendant's sentence as a habitual offender and make each of the enhanced habitual offender sentences consecutive, but the second count is not enhanced, so it may be imposed consecutively. Toombs v. State, 4D2022-2978 (6/5/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435449/opinion/Opinion_2022-2978.pdf

HFO/PRR-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES (J. WARNER, CONCURRING): "I concur because I believe, under Cotto, the sentences imposed are legal. But I think. . .Cotto has gutted Hale's holding in cases such as this, where even though the trial court finds a defendant an HFO, a court can sentence some charges with the HFO enhancement but not apply that same enhancement to others, so that the unenhanced sentence can run consecutive to the HFO sentence. . .I do not understand how a court could consider that the HFO designation was appropriate for some charges within a single criminal episode but not others. If the court could, it would have to find that an HFO sentence was not necessary for one charge but was necessary for others, which makes no sense. . .[But] Cotto appears to allow this, and I must concur with the affirmance of the sentences in this case." Toombs v. State, 4D2022-2978 (6/5/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435449/opinion/Opinion_2022-2978.pdf

HFO/PRR-CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES: Court lawfully sentenced Defendant as both a Habitual Felony Offender and Prison Releasee Reoffender to 25 years for robbery, but must designate that only the first fifteen years are to be served as a PRR. Pollock v. State, 4D2023-1310 (6/5/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435455/opinion/Opinion_2023-1310.pdf

RE-CROSS-DNA: Court did not abuse discretion in disallowing re-cross of State's DNA expert on Defendant's father where the original cross had already covered the Defendant's hypothetical brother. "Here, the trial court did not abuse its discretion because the questions the defendant wanted to ask raised a new matter. Namely, the defendant wanted to ask about the defendant's father. All prior questioning concerned the defendant's brothers—not his father." Lange v. State, 4D2023-1717 (6/5/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435458/opinion/Opinion_2023-1717.pdf

JUDGMENT-VOP: Duplicative adjudications of guilt after revocation of probation or community control are superfluous, are unauthorized, and can cause undue confusion in future proceedings. McCrae v. State, 4D2023-2029 (6/5/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435459/opinion/Opinion_2023-2029.pdf

ANIMAL ABANDONMENT: Simply knowing that an animal is confined with an insufficient quantity of good and wholesome food and water, or is in an enclosure without wholesome exercise and change of air does not make one guilty of animal abandonment. The statute requires one's participation in the confining or keeping of an animal in an enclosure in violation of the statute. Defendant is entitled to a JOA where there is no evidence that the outside dogs were even owned by her and the evidence was undisputed that her husband was responsible for their care. Moore v. State, 4D2023-2151 (6/5/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435462/opinion/Opinion_2023-2151.pdf

ANIMAL ABANDONMENT-ARGUMENT: State's argument that "Ms. Moore . . .knew it was wrong for these dogs to be in these cages, but she did nothing about it." and "[S]he wasn't legally obligated to do so, except she was because this was not okay" misstates the law. Moore v. State, 4D2023-2151 (6/5/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435462/opinion/Opinion_2023-2151.pdf

DEFINITION-"WHOEVER": "Whoever" means "whatever person." Moore v. State, 4D2023-2151 (6/5/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435462/opinion/Opinion_2023-2151.pdf

DEFINITION-"CONFINE": "Confine" means "to hold within a location." Moore v. State, 4D2023-2151 (6/5/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435462/opinion/Opinion_2023-2151.pdf

DEFINITION- "IMPOUND": "Impound" means "to shut up in or as if in a pound." Moore v. State, 4D2023-2151 (6/5/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435462/opinion/Opinion_2023-2151.pdf

DEFINITION-"KEEP": "Keep" means "to retain in one's possession or power." Moore v. State, 4D2023-2151 (6/5/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435462/opinion/Opinion_2023-2151.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: No cause of action is available for continuing to shoot a detainee well after he is unconscious and unresponsive after the initial flurry of shots. Recognizing a cause of action for money damages against a federal task force member could impact cooperation among law enforcement agencies and the operation of these task forces, and allowing such claims could chill recruitment for the task forces. Mother of decedent should submit a grievance by filling out an online form or file a complaint with DOJ Office of Inspector General. Robinson v. Sauls, No. 23-10719 (11th Cir. 6/4/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310719.pdf

IMPERSONATING AN OFFICER: For impersonating an officer, evidence is sufficient to convict if it shows that the defendant falsely assumed and pretended to be a federal officer and committed any overt act in keeping with that assumed character. Presenting a fake badge and claiming to be a senior air marshal to get out of a speeding ticket is sufficient. USA v. Diamond, No. 21-13528 (11th Cir. 6/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113528.pdf

IMPERSONATING AN OFFICER: The Defendant is not entitled to a special jury instruction that "acts as such" means ""committed some overt act involving an assertion of claimed authority derived from the office he pretended to hold." The proposed instruction is superfluous and questionable; it seems to require some separate or distinct secondary act to be taken that was derived from the impersonated office a defendant pretended to hold. But there is no such derivative second-act requirement. USA v. Diamond, No. 21-13528 (11th Cir. 6/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113528.pdf

EVIDENCE-OTHER BAD ACTS: When intent is a material issue, prior bad act evidence may be admissible to prove intent, but it must be established by sufficient proof and] the probative value of the evidence must not be substantially outweighed by its undue prejudice. Defendant's prior impersonation of a federal officer, attested to by his wife, is admissible to show that Defendant impersonated a senior air marshal to get out of a speeding ticket. USA v. Diamond, No. 21-13528 (11th Cir. 6/4/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113528.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED: An elements test is used for evaluating whether one offense is a lesser-included offense of another offense. For an offense to be a lesser-included offense of a parent offense, its elements must be contained within the elements of the parent offense. Possessing a false official ID is not a lesser included of Impersonating an officer. §912 does not require that a defendant possess any type of badge at all as part of his impersonation. USA v. Diamond, No. 21-13528 (11th Cir. 6/4/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202113528.pdf

MAY 2024

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: In deviating from the statutorily enumerated mitigating factors, the trial court cannot rely on a non-statutory factor when that factor is encompassed within a listed statutory factor. A finding that Defendant was substantially impaired because of the combination of his upbringing, the poor environment in which he was raised, the abuse he has suffered, and his prior addictions is a finding of diminished capacity. But evidence in the form of letters from his family do not prove a diminished capacity. Caulkins v. State, 2D2023-0152 (5/31/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435258/opinion/Opinion_2023-0152.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: The parameters of nonstatutory mitigation are largely undefined, but potentially valid nonstatutory mitigators include enticement, sentencing manipulation, sentencing entrapment, and a lower sentence of an equally or more culpable codefendant. Caulkins v. State, 2D2023-0152 (5/31/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435258/opinion/Opinion_2023-0152.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: A defendant is not required to offer expert medical testimony to establish a lack of capacity, but such testimony is often critical in making that showing. Caulkins v. State, 2D2023-0152 (5/31/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435258/opinion/Opinion_2023-0152.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: The trial court's personal observations that Defendant appeared overwhelmed or confused in court are not sufficient alone to constitute competent substantial evidence of Mr. Caulkins' diminished capacity and ability to conform his conduct to the requirements of the law. Caulkins v. State, 2D2023-0152 (5/31/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435258/opinion/Opinion_2023-0152.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE:

Summary denial of a motion for postconviction relief is rarely appropriate if the trial court needs to assess the credibility of the new testimony. A newly discovered evidence inquiry typically requires an evidentiary hearing. The mere fact that an affidavit is contradicted by trial testimony is not necessarily grounds for a summary denial. Harold v. State, 5D2023-2891 (5/31/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435259/opinion/Opinion_2023-2891.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE PRESERVATION-WRITTEN THREAT: Whether §836.10 is a specific, intent crime–Child had sent a text with a gun emoji and "ima run from 22" to a classmate who had called his girlfriend "cute"--is not preserved for appeal, notwithstanding State's concession that it is. I.R. v. State, 6D23-966 (5/31/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435277/opinion/Opinion_2023-0966.pdf

EX POST FACTO-DEATH PENALTY-TRIAL PROCEDURE: Amended statute concerning jury's recommendation as to imposition of the death penalty–a super majority of 8-12 rather than unanimity is enough, and the Court must enter a written order explaining its decision–does not violate the ex post facto clause. New statute applies. Trial court's ruling that it does not is quashed. State v. Lobato, 6D23-3201 (5/31/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435280/opinion/Opinion_2023-3201.pdf

EX POST FACTO-DEATH PENALTY-TRIAL PROCEDURE (J. WHITE, DISSENTING): The trial court ruled that the new statute "would violate the ex post facto clause of the United States Constitution and the ex post facto clause of the Florida Constitution." Neither State's petition for certiorari nor the majority opinion addressed the ex post facto clause of the Florida constitution, only that of the U.S. constitution. The State fails to cite the Florida Ex Post Facto Clause or point to a single binding decision interpreting the Florida Ex Post Facto Clause that the trial court departed from when it rendered the challenged order. Without such controlling precedent, we cannot conclude that the court violated a clearly established principle of law. State v. Lobato, 6D23-3201

(5/31/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435280/opinion/Opinion_2023-3201.pdf

COMPETENCY-INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY: The only way a trial court may stave off dismissal of the case of a Defendant who has remained incompetent for more than two years because of intellectual disability is if its order specifies its reasons for believing that the defendant will become competent to proceed within the foreseeable future and specifies the time within which the defendant is expected to become so. Reina v. State, 6D23-3738 (5/31/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435281/opinion/Opinion_2023-3738.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: In death penalty case, where federal Court of Appeals downplayed the serious aggravating factors and overstated the strength of mitigating evidence that differed very little from the evidence presented at sentencing, it erred in reversing the District Court's decision denying habeas relief. Thornell v. Jones, No. 22–982 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/30/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-982_bq7d.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: When an ineffective-assistance-of-counsel claim is based on counsel's performance at the sentencing phase of a capital case, a defendant is prejudiced only if there is a reasonable probability that, absent counsel's errors, the sentencer would have concluded that the balance of aggravating and mitigating circumstances did not warrant death. There must be a substantial, not just conceivable, likelihood of a different result. Court must take into account any weighty aggravating circumstances and must assess the relative strength of expert witness testimony. Thornell v. Jones, No. 22–982 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/30/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-982_bq7d.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY: Defendant's mental illness, mental impairment, or claim of childhood abuse are not weighty mitigating evidence when no causal connection between these factors and his conduct on the night of the murders is shown. Evidence of causation is required before these can be considered to be significant mitigating factors. Thornell v. Jones, No. 22–982 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/30/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-982_bq7d.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DEATH PENALTY (J. JACKSON, DISSENTING): "In its search for legal error in this capital habeas case, the Court makes many mistakes of its own. . .To be sure, the Ninth Circuit's discussion of the aggravating factors was concise. But there is no benchmark length for any such discussion. Indeed, this Court has granted habeas relief after similarly succinct evaluations of aggravating factors. . .We can hardly fault the Ninth Circuit for using the same approach that this Court itself has previously used. Thus, to me, the Court's claim that the Ninth Circuit 'all but ignored' the aggravators. . .rings hollow. . .[W]e are not the right tribunal to parse the extensive factual record in this case." Thornell v. Jones, No. 22–982 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/30/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-982_bq7d.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-JUVENILE PROCEDURE: New Spanish forms for juvenile procedure created. Still working on the Creole translations. "[W]e ask that the Committee. . .file a report proposing accurate Creole translations." In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of Juvenile Procedure, SC2023-1707 (5/30/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435226/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1707.pdf

APPEAL-MOOTNESS: Where one is challenging the legality of a sentence or seeking jail credit against that sentence, and he has completed the sentence during the pendency of the appeal, the appeal may be dismissed as moot. Davis v. State, 1D2023-2247 (5/29/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435120/opinion/Opinion_2023-2247.pdf

APPEAL: An appeal in a criminal case outside of the time permitted in R. 9.110(b) may be pursued only by a petition for belated appeal. Murphy v. State, 1D2023-2731 (5/29/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435128/opinion/Opinion_2023-2731.pdf

VOP-PLEA AGREEMENT: Where the original plea agreement expressly provided that if the trial court found he violated probation again, Defendant could be sentenced to thirty years with a twenty-five year minimum mandatory sentence for the underlying conviction, he had notice of the potential sentence and was subject to it once probation was revoked. Balbin v. State, 3D21-1770 (5/29/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435174/opinion/Opinion_2021-1770.pdf

VOP: The standard of review for the trial court's decision to revoke probation is abuse of discretion. If reasonable persons could differ as to the propriety of the action taken by the trial court, then the action is not unreasonable and there can be no finding of an abuse of discretion. Balbin v. State, 3D21-2343 (5/29/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435160/opinion/Opinion_2021-2343.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: Failure to make contemporaneous objections to trial judge's comments or to seek disqualification) prevents appellate review. Gray v. State, 3D22-1664 (5/29/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435184/opinion/Opinion_2022-1664.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Court's decision to decline to sentence Defendant as a Youthful Offender does not make the sentence illegal. Lee v. State, 3D24-0003 (5/29/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435199/opinion/Opinion_2024-0003.pdf

JUROR-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE: When a party challenges the opponent's exercise of a peremptory strike, the trial court must follow the three-step Melbourne procedure:

•Step 1--A party objecting to the other side's use of a peremptory challenge on racial grounds must: a) make a timely objection on that basis, b) show that the venire person is a member of a distinct racial group, and c) request that the court ask the striking party its reason for the strike. If these initial requirements are met, the court must ask the proponent of the strike to explain the reason for the strike.

•Step 2--At this point, the burden of production shifts to the proponent of the strike to come forward with a raceneutral explanation.

•Step 3--If the explanation is facially race-neutral and the court believes that, given all the circumstances surrounding the strike, the explanation is not a pretext, the strike will be sustained. Hastings v. State, 4D2023-0379 (5/29/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435148/opinion/Opinion_2023-0379.pdf

JUROR-PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE: Defense counsel's explanation for its use of a peremptory challenge on an Indian-American–the juror considers police to be generally trustworthy and he likes to watch CSI–is race neutral. Court improperly relieved the State of its burden to show that the proffered reasons were not genuine. No record was made of the collective failure at the trial level to make a sufficient record of factors relevant to genuineness, such as the racial make-up of the venire, prior strikes exercised against the racial group of the challenged juror, or whether the reason proffered for the strike was equally applicable to unchallenged jurors. Hastings v. State, 4D2023-0379 (5/29/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435148/opinion/Opinion_2023-0379.pdf

FIRST-DEGREE MURDER-PREMEDITATION: Premeditation is a fully formed conscious purpose to kill that may be formed in a moment and need only exist for such time as will allow the accused to be conscious of the nature of the act about to be committed and the possible result of that act. Whether a premeditated design to kill was formed prior to a killing is a question of fact for the jury that may be established by circumstantial evidence. Defendant's admission that he did not like his daughter's abusive boyfriend, told her to leave him, wore a hoodie with the hood upon a very hot day, and told the victim "I promise you to the death, you will not hurt my child again" before shooting him show premeditation, as does his flight from the scene afterwards. Hamilton v. State, 4D2023-0870 (5/29/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435151/opinion/Opinion_2023-0870.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE: Defendant's objection to the standard jury instruction on the justifiable use of deadly force for including the phrase "necessarily done" fails. The standard jury instructions, viewed as a whole, fairly state the applicable law. Hamilton v. State, 4D2023-0870 (5/29/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435151/opinion/Opinion_2023-0870.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE: Jury instruction 7.2 is adequate. Its omission of the definition of premeditation as a "settled and fixed purpose to take the life of a human being" does not render it inadequate. Hamilton v. State, 4D2023-0870 (5/29/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435151/opinion/Opinion_2023-0870.pdf

SPECIAL JURY INSTRUCTION: Defendant is not entitled to special additional instructions on intent that "Extremely reckless behavior is an insufficient basis from which to infer any premeditation. Moreover, an impulsive overreaction to an attack or injury is itself insufficient to prove premeditation." (First degree murder) or "Extremely reckless behavior is an insufficient basis from which to infer any malice. Moreover, an impulsive overreaction to an attack or injury is itself insufficient to prove ill will, hatred, spite or evil intent." (Second degree murder). Hamilton v. State, 4D2023-0870 (5/29/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435151/opinion/Opinion_2023-0870.pdf

COMPETENCY HEARING: Once an issue of competency is raised, a hearing is required. On remand, if the court is able to make a nunc pro tunc finding as to competency based upon evaluations performed contemporaneously with trial and without relying solely on a cold record, and can do so in a manner which abides by due process guarantees, it should do so. Jones v. State, 4D2023-1226 (5/29/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435152/opinion/Opinion_2023-1226.pdf

COSTS OF INCARCERATION: DOC is entitled to liquidated damages for Defendant's incarceration costs, notwithstanding that the restitution lien was not imposed at sentencing. Court retains continuing jurisdiction over the convicted offender for the sole purpose of entering civil restitution lien orders for the duration of the sentence and up to 5 years from release from incarceration or supervision, whichever occurs later. A civil restitution judgment is not a component of criminal punishment and therefore does not violate equal protection or substantive due process when imposed by the court after sentencing. Florida D.O.C. v. De La Paz, 4D2023-2244 (5/29/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435150/opinion/Opinion_2023-2244.pdf

PEREMPTORY CHALLENGE-BACKSTRIKE: Before the jury is sworn, a trial judge has no authority to infringe upon a party's right to challenge any juror, either peremptorily or for cause. Where a defendant has accepted the jury panel but has not exhausted his peremptory strikes, the trial court abuses its discretion when it refuses to entertain a peremptory challenge before the jury is sworn (defense counsel noticed that a juror who he thought had been dismissed had not). The right to challenge any juror before the jury is sworn includes the right to retract acceptance of the panel and backstrike a prospective juror using an available peremptory challenge. Frederick v. State, 4D2023-2526 (5/29/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435157/opinion/Opinion_2023-2526.pdf

CERTIFICATE OF APPEALABILITY: A party who seeks to appeal the denial of a motion for relief from a judgment denying habeas relief must obtain a certificate of appealability, which may be issued only if the applicant has made a substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right. The applicant must establish that jurists of reason could disagree with the resolution of his constitutional claims or that jurists could conclude that the issues presented are adequate to deserve encouragement to proceed further. Mills v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 24-11661 (11th Cir. 5/28/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411661.Ord.pdf

CERTIFICATE OF APPEALABILITY-DEATH PENALTY: A motion for a certificate of appealability must be made no more than a year after the entry of the judgment or order from which the movant seeks relief. Three-and-a-half years is "more than a year." The "fraud on the court" exception to the one-year time limit requires that the alleged fraud be

"highly probable." Mills v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 24-11661 (11th Cir. 5/28/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411661.Ord.pdf

CERTIFICATE OF APPEALABILITY-DEATH PENALTY: Where Defendant obtained an affidavit from the co-Defendant's trial attorney that the State had falsely affirmed that it did not offer the flipping co-defendant a promise or hint that she would receive a favorable plea should she testify, and circumstances support that such a deal existed, he is not entitled to a C.O.A. years after the trial. Mills v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 24-11661 (5/28/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411661.Ord.pdf

CERTIFICATE OF APPEALABILITY-DEATH PENALTY (J. ABUDU, CONCURRING): "Unfortunately, even when a petitioner's life hangs in the balance, our case law does not extend sufficient procedural and substantive due process protections." Mills v. Commissioner, Alabama D.O.C., No. 24-11661 (5/28/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411661.Ord.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-ACCESS TO COURT: Strapping a condemned prisoner to the gurney in the execution chamber for an undue length without access to counsel does not violate his right to access to the courts. Mills v. Hamm, No. 24-11689 (11th Cir. 5/28/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411689.Ord.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-STAY OF EXECUTION: A court may grant a stay of execution only if the movant establishes that he is substantially likely to succeed on the merits, he will suffer irreparable injury absent the stay, and the stay would not substantially harm the opposing party or the public interest. Mills v. Hamm, No. 24-11689 (11th Cir. 5/28/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411689.Ord.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-STAY OF EXECUTION: Condemned prisoner should not move for a stay of execution "on the cusp of a three-day-holiday weekend. A reasonably diligent plaintiff would have sought a stay much sooner." Mills v. Hamm, No. 24-11689 (11th Cir. 5/28/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411689.Ord.pdf

SIXTH AMENDMENT: The Sixth Amendment right to assistance of counsel in all does not extend beyond the first appeal. The right to counsel during execution does not exist. Mills v. Hamm, No. 24-11689 (11th Cir. 5/28/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202411689.Ord.pdf

COSTS OF INVESTIGATION: $50 cost of investigation may not be imposed where it is not part of the plea agreement, requested by the State, or orally pronounced. Gandy v. State, 5D2023-3132 (5/24/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434986/opinion/Opinion_2023-3132.pdf

APPEAL: If the trial court does not file an order ruling on a motion to correct sentence within 60 days, the motion shall be deemed denied and may be appealed. Thompson v. State, 6D23-2376 (5/24/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2435005/opinion/Opinion_2023-2376.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT-SERIOUS DRUG OFFENSE: A state drug conviction counts as an ACCA predicate if it involved a drug on the federal schedules at the time of that conviction. A prior cocaine conviction, notwithstanding the removal of ioflupane from the federal statutory definition of cocaine, remains a predicate offense. ACCA requires sentencing courts to examine the law as it was when the defendant violated it, even if that law is subsequently amended. Brown v. United States, No. 22–6389 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/23/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-6389_6537.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT- SERIOUS DRUG OFFENSE: A state crime constitutes a "serious drug offense" if it involved a drug that was on the federal schedules when the defendant possessed or trafficked in it but was later removed. The fact that the federal cannabis statute was amended in 2018–hemp was removed from the definition–and no longer matched the state definition does not mean that the Defendant's prior possession of cannabis with intent to sell does not qualify as a predicate offense. Brown v. United States, No. 22–6389 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/23/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-6389_6537.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT-CATEGORICAL APPROACH: ACCA imposes a 15-year mandatory minimum sentence on defendants who are convicted of the illegal possession of a firearm and have a criminal history that is thought to demonstrate a propensity for violence. ACCA requires an enhanced penalty if, among other things, they have three previous convictions for a serious drug offense, i.e. an offense carrying a maximum sentence of at least 10 years' imprisonment and involving a controlled substance. Brown v. United States, No. 22–6389 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/23/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-6389_6537.pdf

ARMED CAREER CRIMINAL ACT- SERIOUS DRUG OFFENSE (J. JACKSON, CONCURRING): ACCA's "serious drug offense" definition necessarily directs sentencing courts to consult the current federal drug schedules, rather than some earlier version of those lists. "When it comes time to interpret a statute, courts typically plug the referenced provision. . .into the statutory text. . .[But] [t]he Government rejects the foregoing description of how statutory cross-references operate. . .The Government insists that, instead of merely calling for insertion of the referenced law, the appearance of a cross-reference in a statute can have 'different temporal branches depending on context.'. . .That cannot be right. We have never viewed statutory cross-references as a gateway to the multiverse." Brown v. United States, No. 22–6389 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/23/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-6389_6537.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION (J. JACKSON, CONCURRING): The majority "has taken a strange and unwarranted departure from this Court's ordinary interpretive practices. Before today, we have consistently used all aspects of a statute's text to ascertain its meaning, including the verbs that Congress chooses. . .Any other approach risks chaos." Brown v. United States, No. 22–6389 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/23/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-6389_6537.pdf

PROFFER LETTER: If the government breaches a proffer agreement at sentencing, the defendant must either be resentenced by a new judge or allowed to withdraw his plea, regardless of whether the judge was influenced. USA v. Guerra Blanco, No. 22-10419 (11th Cir. 5/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210419.pdf

PROFFER LETTER: The government's use of a video threatening the assassination of a Spanish judge—with English subtitles inserted by Defendant--did not constitute a breach of the proffer agreement. Statements concerning violent acts, or violence in any form, were excluded from the proffer agreement not to use information derived from the proffer. Threatening the assassination of a Spanish judge falls squarely within the violence exclusion. USA v. Guerra Blanco, No. 22-10419 (11th Cir. 5/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210419.pdf

DEFINITION-"IN ANY SHAPE OR FORM": "In any shape or form" means "of any kind" or "in any manner." USA v. Guerra Blanco, No. 22-10419 (11th Cir. 5/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210419.pdf

ENHANCEMENT-STANDARD OF PROOF: The preponderance of the evidence standard is sufficient to establish the predicate facts for a sentencing adjustment or enhancement. USA v. Guerra Blanco, No. 22-10419 (11th Cir. 5/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210419.pdf

ENHANCEMENT-TERRORISM: Specific intent to influence, affect, or retaliate against government conduct is not required for the promoting terrorism enhancement. "Mr. Guerra's conduct places him a long ways away from being a mere translator. USA v. Guerra Blanco, No. 22-10419 (11th Cir. 5/23/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210419.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: Once a driver has been lawfully stopped for a traffic violation, police officers may order the driver out of the vehicle for officer safety reasons without violating the Fourth Amendment's prohibition of unreasonable searches and seizures. A K-9 officer who arrives midway through a lawful traffic stop to perform a dog sniff sweep of a vehicle's exterior may order occupants to get out of the car for officer safety reasons. State v. Crelier, SC2022-0524 (5/23/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434943/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0524.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE (LABARGA, DISSENTING): "Creller's right to personal security carries more weight than the majority affords it. An exit order is not an innocuous request. While police search the vehicle, the driver must stand on the side of the road in view of all passersby. The implications heighten when. . . the scene involves two or more police cars with lights glaring and with an active K-9 unit. . .The stigma associated with the exit order jeopardizes the driver's reputation in the community. This is especially the case in our contemporary social media environment in which videos are constantly uploaded with little or no context given. A driver forced to exit the vehicle for a K-9 sweep may be viewed not only by passersby, but also by anyone around the world." State v. Crelier, SC2022-0524 (5/23/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434943/opinion/Opi

nion_SC2022-0524.pdf

SUPERVISED RELEASE-CONDITION: Defendant on supervised release for threatening a magistrate may be ordered to stay away from the courthouse. Condition does not infringe on Defendant's right to access to the courts. USA v. Etienne, No. 23-10266 (11th Cir. 5/22/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310266.pdf

SUPERVISED RELEASE-CONDITION: Court may order as a condition of supervised release that Defendant make a financial disclosure statement. USA v. Etienne, No. 23-10266 (11th Cir. 5/22/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310266.pdf

COMPETENCY: A trial court's decision to order a psychological evaluation does not create a constitutional entitlement to a subsequent competency hearing if the information available to the trial court did not meet the evidentiary threshold for invoking R. 3.210 competency procedures. It is the violation of the right not to be tried when there are reasonable grounds to question the defendant's competency—not the right to have a hearing and competency determination—that deprives a defendant of due process. Awolowo v. State, 1D2022-2062 (5/22/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434832/opinion/Opinion_2022-2062.pdf

COMPETENCY: "Failure to hold a competency hearing is not fundamental error. And so, when the record does not show reasonable grounds for the trial court to have believed that the defendant was incompetent to proceed, the trial court does not fundamentally err by failing to hold a competency hearing and failing to enter a written order on the defendants' competency. This is so even if the trial court has ordered an expert evaluation of the defendant's competency." Prior precedents receded from. Awolowo v. State, 1D2022-2062 (5/22/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434832/opinion/Opinion_202

2-2062.pdf

COMPETENCY: Defense counsel must recite facts in the motion for competency evaluation that would support counsel's belief that there are reasonable grounds to doubt the defendant's competency. A boilerplate motion "good faith belief that the Defendant suffer[ed] from mental illness or disability and that as a result he/she may be incompetent to proceed" is not nearly enough. Awolowo v. State, 1D2022-2062 (5/22/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434832/opinion/Opinion_2022-2062.pdf

COMPETENCY: "We remind counsel that when a trial court has ordered a competency evaluation of the defendant, as an officer of the court, counsel has a duty to bring to the trial court's attention the need for a competency hearing and determination. . .Defense counsel, when raising concerns about a defendant's competency, must be conscientious in bringing an issue of competency before the trial court and preserving the issue for appeal. Awolowo v. State, 1D2022-2062 (5/22/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434832/opinion/Opinion_2022-2062.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-FINDINGS: Court must provide sufficient factual findings to support its ruling on motion to suppress. Conclusory findings--"[a]fter hearing testimony of the witnesses, argument of the attorneys, this Court finds that the State has not met its burden"--fail to provide an adequate record for appellate review. State v. Dennard, 1D2023-0083 (5/22/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434856/opinion/Opinion_2023-0083.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Court has discretion to award jail credit against each term of consecutive prison sentences on multiple charges.

Coffin v. State, 1D2023-1287 (5/22/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434869/opinion/Opinion_2023-1287.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-CORRECTION: Court may not sua sponte eliminate the jail credit originally applied to each term of consecutive prison sentences on multiple charges. A trial court has inherent authority to sua sponte correct sentencing documents that overreport the amount of jail time served by a defendant, but only within the framework and time limits of and in compliance with rule 3.800(b), and only if the errors constituted scrivener's errors. Coffin v. State, 1D2023-1287 (5/22/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434869/opinion/Opinion_2023-1287.pdf

FALSE IMPRISONMENT: A civil suit for false imprisonment cannot survive a finding of probable cause for the arrest. Kimbrel v. Clark, 1D2023-1901 (5/22/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434874/opinion/Opinion_2023-1901.pdf

EXCESSIVE FORCE: A police officer may be liable for the use of excessive force for committing battery while effectuating a lawful arrest, but officers are only liable for damage where the force used is clearly excessive. Kimbrel v. Clark, 1D2023-1901 (5/22/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434874/opinion/Opinion_2023-1901.pdf

APPEAL: A motion to correct an illegal sentence dismissed without prejudice is not a final, appealable order. Griffin v. State, 1D2023-2271

(5/22/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434873/opinion/Opinion_2023-2271.pdf

VOIR DIRE: No fundamental error occurs when trial court offers "prosecution-friendly" hypotheticals during voir dire. However, the trial judge should rely upon, and seldom stray from, Florida's Standard Jury Instructions. Caldevilla v. State, 3D22-0881 (5/22/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434831/opinion/Opinion_2022-0881.pdf

VOP: Hearsay evidence that would be inadmissible during a trial is admissible in a probation revocation hearing to prove a violation of probation, but may not form the sole basis for revocation. The hearsay evidence must be supported by non-hearsay evidence. Probation improperly revoked on the allegation of a new robbery where no eyewitnesses testified. Bryant v. State, 3D23-183 (5/22/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434885/opinion/Opinion_2023-0183.pdf

VOP: Probation improperly revoked for failing to pay drug testing fees, failing to complete an anger management course and failing to complete a firearm safety course where Defendant still had time to complete these conditions. Bryant v. State, 3D23-183 (5/22/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434885/opinion/Opinion_2023-0183.pdf

APPEAL-MOTION TO CORRECT: As a defendant has thirty days to file a notice of appeal of a judgment and sentence, chronologically, a R. 3.800(a)(1) motion cannot be filed within the first 30 days of sentencing. Motion to Correct an Illegal sentence filed 3 days after re-sentencing is premature. Bryant v. State, 3D23-183 (5/22/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434885/opinion/Opinion_2023-0183.pdf

DISMISSAL: Court may not dismiss charges due to difficulties in getting witness–a retired officer now residing out of state–to sit for a deposition to perpetuate testimony where State did not cause the problem and less drastic remedies existed. State v. Cerulia, 4D2022-1941 (5/22/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434853/opinion/Opinion_2022-1941.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DNA TESTING: Defendant is entitled to post conviction DNA testing of the victim's dress and underwear. Merritt v. State, 4D2023-2459 (5/22/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434860/opinion/Opinion_2023-2459.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: Court may deny a SYG motion without a hearing where the motion fails to allege sufficient facts that affirmatively show or tend to show that Defendant had a reasonable belief that his show of force was necessary to defend himself against some imminent use of unlawful force. Maslo v. State, 3D24-0562 (5/21/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434783/opinion/Opinion_2024-0562.pdf

APPEAL-MOTION TO CORRECT: Defendant may not file a pro se R. 3.800(a) motion to correct before counsel withdraws. A defendant does not have a constitutional right to "hybrid" representation, to be represented by both counsel and by himself. Such a motion is a nullity. Crandall v. State, 5D2024-078 (5/21/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434798/opinion/Opinion_2024-0798.pdf

DEPORTATION-LEWD AND LASCIVIOUS-CATEGORICAL APPROACH: A Florida conviction for lewd and lascivious battery under the 2008 version of Fla. Stat. §800.04(4)--statutory rape–does not constitutes the sexual abuse of a minor, and is therefore not an aggravated felony under the INA. The generic federal definition of "sexual abuse of a minor," requires an age difference of at least one year between the perpetrator and the victim. Applying the categorical approach, the least culpable conduct under the statute is consensual sexual activity between adolescents who are 12 to 15 years old, with no minimum age required for the perpetrator and no age differential between the participants. The statute therefore sweeps more broadly than the generic federal definition of "sexual abuse of a minor. Leger v. US Attorney General, (11th Cir. 5/20/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210971.pdf

DEPORTATION-CATEGORICAL APPROACH: "We realize that this short summary may be unintelligible to those who are unversed in the intricacies of immigration law and unfamiliar with the Supreme Court's categorical approach for determining which state offenses constitute aggravated felonies—and maybe even to those who profess some expertise. In the pages that follow, we'll do our best to explain." Leger v. US Attorney General, (11th Cir 5/20/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210971.pdf

CATEGORICAL APPROACH: Under the categorical approach, courts ask whether the state statute defining the crime of conviction categorically fits within the generic federal definition of a corresponding aggravated felony. Courts must presume that the state conviction rested upon the least of the acts criminalized by the statute, and then determine whether that conduct would fall within the federal definition of the crime.

The Defendant's actual conduct is not considered. Leger v. US Attorney General, (11th Cir 5/20/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210971.pdf

SEXUAL ABUSE: "The generic federal offense of sexual abuse of a minor requires some age differential between the perpetrator and the victim. . . [W]e do not go as far as. . .declaring that the age differential must be at least four years. Instead, we hold only that the age differential must be at least one year, and leave for another day whether the required age differential is any more than that." Leger v. US Attorney General, (11th Cir 5/20/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210971.pdf

DEPORTATION-MARIJUANA: A conviction for marijuana possession does not constitute a controlled substance offense under the INA. Not all substances that §893.02(3) proscribes are federally controlled." Because §893.02(3) includes all parts of the marijuana plant, while 21 U.S.C. § 802(16) does not, a Florida conviction for possession of marijuana is not a controlled substance offense as defined under federal law. Leger v. US Attorney General, (5/20/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210971.pdf

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION-QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: Officers have qualified immunity for procuring an arrest warrant for the person who they wrongly identify as the man in the surveillance video using a stolen debit card. "None of us is perfect. . . [T]he Fourth Amendment does not require a perfect investigation before an arrest is made or a charge is brought. What it requires is a reasonable investigation within the bounds of what can be expected of imperfect people." Harris v. Hixson, No. 22-12493 (11th Cir. 5/17/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212493.pdf

DEFINITION-"PROBABLE CAUSE": Probable cause does not require proof beyond a reasonable doubt or even proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the person arrested for a crime is guilty. Probable cause only requires substantial chance of criminal activity. Sufficient probability, not certainty, is the touchstone of reasonableness under the Fourth Amendment. Harris v. Hixson, No. 22-12493 (11th Cir. 5/17/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212493.pdf

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION/FALSE ARREST: There are differences between a §1983 malicious prosecution claim arising from a warrant-based arrest and a §1983 false arrest claim arising from a warrantless arrest. Warrantless arrests concern whether the facts known to the arresting officer establish probable cause. Warrant-based arrests, by contrast, concern whether the judicial officer who approved the seizure had sufficient information to find probable cause. In most, but not all, circumstances if the arrest affidavit doesn't independently establish probable cause, it cannot be rehabilitated by relying on information that the officer had but didn't disclose to the judicial officer when he sought the warrant. But if the period of detention after arrest is brief, information known to the officers but not communicated to the judicial officer may be considered to uphold the seizure. Harris v. Hixson, No. 22-12493 (11th Cir. 5/17/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212493.pdf

CONTEMPT-INDIRECT: Court erred in finding that subject violated the order entered in a dependency case that he treat "everyone in the System" with respect by spraying disinfectant on a mirror of a transport van. Indirect criminal contempt must be based on an affidavit of a person having personal knowledge of the facts. A community care provider's report is not an affidavit, and the witness testified that she had no personal knowledge of the relevant facts in the report, A.N.W. v. State, 2D2023-1300 (5/17/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434656/opinion/Opinion_2023-1300.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose an unrequested and unannounced $100 cost of investigation. Davis v. State, 5D2022-1817 (5/17/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434646/opinion/Opinion_2022-1817.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ERROR: Acquiescing to an incorrect instruction constitutes a failure of preservation that does not preclude fundamental-error review. It is not necessarily invited error. Cooper v. State, 1D2022-2143 (5/15/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434512/opinion/Opinion_2022-2143.pdf

JURY-DEADLOCK: Any error in Court giving an Allen charge when jury did not declare itself deadlocked but rather asked to re-convene in the morning was not fundamental error. Without an objection to an Allen charge being given to a jury that is not deadlocked, there can be no reversible error. Cooper v. State, 1D2022-2143 (5/15/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434512/opinion/Opinion_2022-2143.pdf

JURY-DISCHARGE: The trial judge did not err by bringing back the jurors, after they had been discharged, to re-poll them once the judge realized that he had made a mistake in his reading of the verdict form to the jurors in connection with the first poll. While a discharged jury cannot be recalled, a trial court does not err by doing so after it simply uses the term "discharged." A jury may remain undischarged and retain its functions, though the word "discharge" may have been spoken by the court, if, after such announcement, it remains an undispersed unit, within control of the court, with no opportunity to mingle with or discuss the case with other. Cooper v. State, 1D2022-2143 (5/15/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434512/opinion/Opinion_2022-2143.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Habeas corpus may not be used as a means to seek a second appeal or to litigate issues that could have been or were raised in a motion under R. 3.850. Lowe v. State, 1D2023-1351 (5/15/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434518/opinion/Opinion_2023-1351.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-RIGHT TO TESTIFY: Counsel was not ineffective for advising client not to testify where he intended to say some other dude did it and he was not even there when he had earlier told his attorney that he was there and was the shooter. Trial counsel properly advised Defendant that he should not testify because he was not going to allow him to lie on the stand. Parks v. State, 2D2022-0987 (5/15/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434498/opinion/Opinion_2022-0987.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: An argument on appeal which differs from the argument in the postconviction court is not preserved. Parks v. State, 2D2022-0987 (5/15/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434498/opinion/Opinion_2022-0987.pdf

FALSE TESTIMONY (LaROSE, CONCURRING): Regardless of the client's wishes, defense counsel must refuse to aid the defendant in giving perjured testimony and also refuse to present testimony that he knows is fabricated. "Trial counsel was truly stuck in the 'worst dilemma,' facing a legal and ethical Catch-22. Trial counsel handled this tricky situation with aplomb, and. . .was not deficient for advising Mr. Parks not to testify at trial." Parks v. State, 2D2022-0987 (5/15/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434498/opinion/Opinion_2022-0987.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT: The statement in the affidavit for the search warrant that Defendant showed pornographic Disney videos to a child was not false or misleading. The chid's omitted statement attributing the videos popping up due to a "glitch" was not a material fact that would create substantial possibility that, if aware of the fact, the magistrate would not have issued the search warrant. The omitted facts are only material if there is a substantial possibility that had the magistrate been aware of the omission he would not have found probable cause. Andrews v. State, 2D2022-1981 (5/15/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434499/opinion/Opinion_2022-1981.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: For appellate review, an issue can only be preserved if the objection is sufficiently precise. On appeal, Defendant may not argue that the admittance of 7,119 URLs related to porn sited is improper character evidence or unduly cumulative where those grounds were not sufficiently articulated as the basid for the objection. An objection on relevance grounds only will not preserve an argument of unfair prejudice on appeal. "We will not entertain a modified claim of prejudice based on the apparent salacious nature of the URLs." Andrews v. State, 2D2022-1981 (5/15/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434499/opinion/Opinion_2022-1981.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: Defendant is not entitled to a JOA for showing pornography to a child when the girl said it "popped up" due to a "glitch" where Defendant then asked to girl to perform the acts shown on him. Andrews v. State, 2D2022-1981 (5/15/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434499/opinion/Opinion_2022-1981.pdf

ARGUMENT: Prosecutor stating that his personal belief that Defendant was "guilty of all counts" is improper, but is not fundamental error.__

Andrews v. State, 2D2022-1981 (5/15/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434499/opinion/Opinion_2022-1981.pdf

ARGUMENT: State's closing arguments emphasizing the leading questions nature of the cross-examination did not improperly denigrate the defense. The prosecutor did not imply that defense counsel's cross-examination was improper or attack defense counsel for asking leading questions, but merely highlighted that the child was vulnerable to shutting down on cross-examination. Andrews v. State, 2D2022-1981 (5/15/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434499/opinion/Opinion_2022-1981.pdf

POSTCONVICTION RELIEF: Generally, defense counsel is obligated to advise the defendant of all pertinent matters bearing on the choice of which plea to enter, including the strength of the case brought by the State against the defendant. However, an erroneous strategic prediction about the outcome of a trial is not necessarily deficient performance. Cobb v. State, 3D22-1140 (5/15/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434533/opinion/Opinion_2022-1140.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-ISSUES-REMAND: On appellate remand, Court may not consider new issues beyond the scope of the mandate. A trial court does not have discretionary power to alter or modify the mandate of an appellate court in any way, shape or form. Cobb v. State, 3D22-1140 (5/15/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434533/opinion/Opinion_2022-1140.pdf

DISMISSAL: Court may not sua sponte dismiss a case based on the prosecutor's absence from the first appearance hearing. City of Miami Beach v. Guyton, 3D22-1875 (3/15/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434535/opinion/Opinion_2022-1875.pdf

RESTITUTION: Court may not impose restitution to the Sexual Assault Treatment Center (SATC) because the SATC is not a victim of a crime within the statutory definition. To get restitution, a government agency must be both a "direct victim" of a crime and not be merely providing public services in response to the crime. Lucas v. State, 4D2022-2497 (5/15/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434526/opinion/Opinion_2022-2497.pdf

TWELVE PERSON JURY: The Constitution does not require a twelve person jury. Lucas v. State, 4D2022-2497 (5/15/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434526/opinion/Opinion_2022-2497.pdf

EVIDENCE: Detective testified that a mark on the victim's back looked like it came from an iron; an iron with blood on it was found on the scene. The detective's testimony that the "markings on the decedent that would be consistent with an iron" would have been within the permissible range of lay observation and ordinary police experience. Moore-Bryant v. State, 4D2023-0855 (5/15/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434538/opinion/Opinion_2023-0855.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: Where Court consolidated a homicide case with the possession of a firearm by a felon case, both based on the same incident but separate informations, and Defendant thereafter moved to continue the consolidated case, Defendant is not entitled to a speedy trial discharge on latter count (he had not been charged with possession of a firearm until 520 days after the homicide arrest). A continuance motion filed after the 175-day speedy trial period constitutes an ongoing waiver to all charges arising out of the same criminal episode forming the continued case, except where that continuance is a nullity. And the continuance was not a nullity because Defendant was not entitled to an automatic discharge. A motion for discharge is not a substitute for a notice of expiration, which provides the State a 15-day recapture period to fix any delays. State v. Jenkins, 4D2023-1745 (5/15/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434557/opinion/Opinion_2023-1745.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: Issues not properly raised in the lower tribunal are typically waived on appeal. State v. Major, 4D2023-1923 (5/15/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434567/opinion/Opinion_2023-1923.pdf

ABSENCE FROM TRIAL: Argumentative defendant who refuses to remain in the courtroom during trial is not entitled to a warning that he could return to the courtroom if he agreed to behave. A defendant may lose his right to be present at trial by disruptive behavior, express waiver, or voluntarily absenting himself from trial by leaving the trial or failing to appear. Seay v. State, 2D2-2022-3757 (5/10/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434277/opinion/Opinion_2022-3757.pdf

PRISON RELEASEE REOFFENDER: In designating Defendant a PRR, Court may not take judicial notice of records that the State used in a different case to establish his PRR Status without including them in the court file for the case at issue. Dupree v. State, 2D2023-1114 (5/10/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434280/opinion/Opinion_2023-1114.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to claim stand-your-ground immunity, notwithstanding that his theory of defense at trial was that he was not the shooter. Carver v. State, 5D2023-1877 (5/10/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434287/opinion/Opinion_2023-1877.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to interview and then call at trial available witnesses who would have established that one of the victims had stalked him and done certain violent things to him and his belongings. Carver v. State, 5D2023-1877 (5/10/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434287/opinion/Opinion_2023-1877.pdf

FORFEITURE: In civil forfeiture cases, the Due Process Clause requires a timely forfeiture hearing, but does not require a separate preliminary hearing. Government may hold seized cars until the final forfeiture hearing. Culley v. Marshall, No. 22–585 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/9/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-585_k5fm.pdf

FORFEITURE (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "Why does a Nation so jealous of its liberties tolerate expansive new civil forfeiture practices that have 'led to egregious and well-chronicled abuses'? . . .Perhaps it has something to do with the relative lack of power of those on whom the system preys. Perhaps government agencies' increasing dependence on forfeiture as a source of revenue is an important piece of the puzzle." Culley v. Marshall, No. 22–585 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/9/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-585_k5fm.pdf

FORFEITURE (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "In this Nation, the right to a jury trial before the government may take life, liberty, or property has always been the rule. Yes, some exceptions exist. But perhaps it is past time for this Court to examine more fully whether and to what degree contemporary civil forfeiture practices align with that rule and those exceptions." Culley v. Marshall, No. 22–585 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/9/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-585_k5fm.pdf

FORFEITURE (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING): "[I]n future cases, with the benefit of full briefing, I hope we might begin the task of assessing how well the profound changes in civil forfeiture practices we have witnessed in recent decades comport with the Constitution's enduring guarantee that '[n]o person shall . . . be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law.'" Culley v. Marshall, No. 22–585 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/9/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-585_k5fm.pdf

WORD OF THE DAY-"DEODAND" (J. GORSUCH, CONCURRING: T]he archaic common-law deodand. . . required the forfeiture of any object esponsible for a death—say, a knife, cart, or horse—to the Crown. . .Today, the idea seems much the same even if the practice now sweeps more broadly, requiring almost any object involved in almost any serious offense to be surrendered to the government in amends. The hardships deodands often imposed seem more than faintly familiar, too. . . Not infrequently, the practice left impoverished families without the means to support themselves. . .[H]as something not wholly unlike it gradually reemerged in our own lifetimes?" Culley v. Marshall, No. 22–585 (U.S. S.Ct. 5/9/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-585_k5fm.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT: R. 3.116(c) is created, requiring a judge to grant a request to use communication technology for a nonevidentiary pretrial conference scheduled for 30 minutes or less unless the judge determines that good cause exists to deny the request. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.116. No. SC2023-0803 (5/9/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434155/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0803.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT: Rules amended to provide that only members of the Bar in good standing may elect inactive status, and that the Bar can waive or extend continuing legal education or basic skills course requirements upon a showing of hardship. Bar members must practice under their official Bar names and must notify the Bar of any other states where they are licensed to practice. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Miscellaneous Petition, SC2024-0030 (5/9/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434156/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0030.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT: Graduates of an ABA-approved law school who has received an initial clearance letter from the Florida Board of Bar Examiners may appear for the maximum term of certification of 18 months from graduation for the same entities and under the same restrictions that apply to students in law school practice programs. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar – Miscellaneous Petition, SC2024-0030 (5/9/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434156/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0030.pdf

CHILD HEARSAY: R. 90.803(23), which renders admissible reliable hearsay statements of a "child victim," can be used to introduce evidence to prove a collateral sex offense. The child victim need not be the victim of the charged offense. A victim is a victim regardless of any charging document. Had the child been merely a witness to the assault on the named victim, her hearsay statements would be inadmissible. But as the child witness was herself a victim, and she was the victim of the sexual assault that was recounted in her out-of-court statements, the child hearsay was admissible. Aboagye v. State, 1D2021-3953 (5/8/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434127/opinion/Opinion_2021-3953.pdf

SECOND-DEGREE MURDER-DEPRAVED MIND: Defendant initiating an altercation with his girlfriend's ex-boyfriend and killing by a gunshot to the back of the head is suffcient evidence of ill will, malice, hatred, spite, or evil intent to sustain a conviction for second-degree murder. Ford v. State, 1D2022-1409 (5/8/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434109/opinion/Opinion_2022-1409.pdf

SECOND-DEGREE MURDER-DEPRAVED MIND: "[W]e write to discuss the difficulty posed by the elements necessitated to show 'depraved mind," as required to convict for second-degree murder." Defendant who shot victim because he "got under [his] skin" and later performed an original rap song about the shooting is sufficient to show a depraved mind. "Depraved mind" is not limited to ill will, hatred, or evil intent; it includes an inherent deficiency of moral sense and rectitude, or a wicked and corrupt disregard of the lives and safety of others, a failure to appreciate social duty. Porter v. State, 1D2022-2132 (5/8/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434110/opinion/Opinion_2022-2132.pdf

TRESPASS: A teacher lacks authority to issue a trespass warning to the visiting team's head coach after his ejection from the game and refusal to leave the field. But as a reserve deputy, he does, if the principal had authorized him to do so. The warning person's status as a law enforcement officer or school security guard is not enough. But "although Deputy Rimes' testimony was ambiguous, the jury could infer that his authority was authorized by the Union High School principal." Rollins v. State, 1D2022-3288 (5/8/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434115/opinion/Opinion_2022-3288.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: The $100 cost for the state attorney is a minimum cost that need not be requested. Wood v. State, 1D2023-0276 (5/8/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434116/opinion/Opinion_2023-0276.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was ineffective for failure to contact a witness supplied to him, but there is no prejudice where there is no showing that the outcome of the trial would have been different had he testified. Given the lack of evidence that the witness's trial testimony would have contradicted the prosecution's theory of the case, Defendant suffered no prejudice. Lofton v. State, 1D2023-0571 (5/8/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434117/opinion/Opinion_2023-0571

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failure to include in his motion for a new trial--based on an allegation that a juror had overheard witnesses discussing whether to give exculpatory evidence--the name of the juror or an affidavit from him where, despite reasonable attempts, defense counsel did not have that information available to include in his motion. Davidson v. State, 1D2023-0797 (5/8/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434118/opinion/Opinion_2023-0797.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-FALSE AFFIDAVIT: Where officer makes false statements in the warrant affidavit, but the false statements are not necessary to the finding of probable cause, the Fourth Amendment does not require suppression. If the affidavit's false material are set to one side, and the affidavit's remaining content is sufficient to establish probable cause, the search warrant is lawful. "[W]e need not analyze every statement in detail to parse all of the accuracies from falsehoods, or dissect and piece back together a Frankenstein-like version of the affidavit, in order to [find]. . . that the trial court erred by excluding the multitude of files containing child pornography." State v. Domenech, 2D2022-3005 (5/8/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434034/opinion/Opinion_2022-3005.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-FALSE AFFIDAVIT: "While the temptation to advance the prophylactic purpose of the exclusionary rule by disincentivizing heedless and irresponsible law enforcement conduct may be understandable, in this case the falsities in the affidavit do not negate a finding of probable cause." State v. Domenech, 2D2022-3005 (5/8/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434034/opinion/Opinion_2022-3005.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim counsel had rendered ineffective assistance by failing to advise him that the victim denied during the forensic interview that anyone had touched her inappropriately. In determining whether a reasonable probability exists that the defendant would have insisted on going to trial, a court should consider the totality of the circumstances surrounding the plea. Jenkins v. State, 2D2023-1547 (5/8/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434035/opinion/Opinion_2023-1547.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-PLEA: Two part test for ineffective assistance of counsel requires a showing of material errors and that such deficient performance prejudiced the defense amounting to a deprivation of the right to a fair trial. To show prejudice after Defendant pleas, he must demonstrate a reasonable probability that (1) he or she would have accepted the plea offer had counsel advised the defendant correctly, (2) the prosecutor would not have withdrawn the offer, (3) the court would have accepted the offer, and (4) the conviction or sentence, or both, under the offer's terms would have been less severe than under the judgment and sentence that in fact were imposed. Davis v. State, 3D22-2035 (5/8/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434074/opinion/Opinion_2022-2035.pdf

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF-TRANSFERRED INTENT: The criminal mischief statute requires that when a defendant acts with malice toward another person, rather than toward property, that malice does not transfer to the property. The doctrine of transferred intent does not satisfy the requirement of scienter. Silva v. State, 3D22-2140 (5/8/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434079/opinion/Opinion_2022-2140.pdf

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF: In escalating road rage episode, in which 70-year old Dr. Silva, the defendant, threatened to "defile" the 86 year old's mother, and then tried to hit him with a golf club but instead hit his car, he may be convicted of criminal mischief. "Silva persuasively argues that he first struck the vehicle while unsuccessfully attempting to hit Martin. . . But. . .Silva [struck] the vehicle three times. Because the first swing made contact, it was reasonable for the trial court to infer that Silva intended to achieve the same result with each successive swing. . .even though Martin retreated after the first swing." Silva v. State, 3D22-2140 (5/8/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434079/opinion/Opinion_2022-2140.pdf

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF: Criminal mischief is a general intent crime, notwithstanding that the injury or damage must be done willfully and maliciously. "Willfully" means "intentionally, knowingly, and purposely." "Maliciously" means "wrongfully, intentionally, without legal justification or excuse, and with the knowledge that injury or damage will or may be caused to another person or the property of another person." Silva v. State, 3D22-2140 (5/8/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434079/opinion/Opinion_2022-2140.pdf

JUDGE-NEUTRALITY: While it bears reminding that every trial judge owes a duty of neutrality, he has broad discretion afforded to the court to manage and regulate the course of the trial. A.L.M., a Juvenile, v. State, 3D23-0937 (5/8/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434089/opinion/Opinion_2023-0937.pdf

CONCEALED FIREARM: A firearm need not be absolutely invisible in order to be concealed, so long as the weapon was concealed from the casual and ordinary observation of another in the normal associations of life, and the weapon was physically on the person or readily accessible to its bearer. A.L.M., a Juvenile, v. State, 3D23-0937 (5/8/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434089/opinion/Opinion_2023-0937.pdf

ATTORNEY'S FEES-CONFLICT ATTORNEY: Court may not order hourly attorney fees to conflict attorney at the rate of $100 per hour rather than $75 per hour in this non-capital case. The rate is statutorily and contractually limited to $75 per hour where State did not file a notice of intent to seek the death penalty. The JAC Registry Contract clearly and unambiguously defines a capital death case as one requiring the State to file a notice of intent to seek death. The JAC Registry Contract is an enforceable contract. Justice Administrative Comm'n v. Wahid, 3D23-2209 (5/8/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434088/opinion/Opinion_2023-2209.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-JURISDICTION: Trial court lacks jurisdiction to adjudicate a post-conviction motion for relief while the defendant's direct appeal is pending. Drayton v. State, 3D24-0165 (5/8/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434095/opinion/Opinion_2024-0165.pdf

TAMPERING WITH EVIDENCE-SPECIFIC INTENT: Defendant merely taking the knife from the homicide scene, without any evidence that his purpose in doing so was to impair the knife's availability for a criminal trial or investigation, is insufficient to establish the crime of tampering with physical evidence, regardless of the fact that the police never recovered the knife. Evidence tampering is a specific intent crime. Magneson v. State, 4D2022-3409 (5/8/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434065/opinion/Opinion_2022-3409.pdf

SEVERANCE-SEX CRIMES: Defendant is entitled to severance of charges relating to sexual abuse involving 2 victims at different times over a three-to-four-year period. The rules do not warrant joinder of criminal charges based on similar but separate episodes, separated in time, which are connected only by similar circumstances and the accused's alleged guilt in both or all instances. Trader v. State, 4D2023-0538 (5/8/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2434066/opinion/Opinion_2023-0538.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to investigate and impeach eye witness/victim of shooting, who claimed to know Defendant from middle school and to have had a sexual relationship with him, which Defendant disputes. Her positive identification of him as the shooter may have carried more weight with the jury based on their prior history than if the two had never met. The reliability of her testimony may have been adversely impacted if her stated basis of knowing him since middle school had been impeached for being untrue. Dennis v. State, 5D2025-2570 (5/3/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2431334/opinion/Opinion_2023-2570.pdf

STARE DECISIS: "[W]e now recede from Shelly's categorical remind-or-readvise requirement." State v. Penna, SC2022-0458 (5/2/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2427776/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0458.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA: When a defendant voluntarily reinitiates contact with law enforcement, there is no per se requirement that an officer remind or readvise an accused of his Miranda rights. Contrary precedent overruled. But "[a]s best as we can tell, Shelly based its categorical rule on the federal constitution. For his part, Penna has not asked us to consider whether a higher standard should be adopted as a matter of Florida constitutional law." State v. Penna, SC2022-0458 (5/2/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2427776/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0458.pdf

STATEMENTS OF DEFENDANT-MIRANDA (J. LABARGA, DISSENTING): Our state constitution provides protection against self incrimination and states that '[n]o person shall . . . be compelled in any criminal matter to be a witness against oneself.' . . .Notwithstanding the majority's conclusion that this Court's interpretation in Shelly constitutes an 'improper[] expan[sion]' of decisions from the United States Supreme Court and this Court, . . .state courts are absolutely free to interpret state constitutional provisions to accord greater protection to individual rights than do similar provisions of the United States Constitution. . .Because the majority has not chosen to do so, I respectfully dissent." State v. Penna, SC2022-0458 (5/2/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2427776/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0458.pdf

HEARSAY: The hearsay rule does not prevent a witness from testifying as to what he has heard; it is rather a restriction on the proof of fact through extrajudicial statements. The hearsay objection is unavailing when the inquiry is not directed to the truth of the words spoken, but, rather, to whether they were in fact spoken. Jones v. State, 1D2023-0496 (5/1/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425774/opinion/Opinion_2023-0496.pdf

HEARSAY-IMPEACHMENT: A party generally cannot call a witness solely for the purpose of impeaching that witness with inconsistent prior statements. But in a case where a witness gives both favorable and unfavorable testimony, the party calling the witness should usually be permitted to impeach the witness with a prior inconsistent statement. Jones v. State, 1D2023-0496 (5/1/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425774/opinion/Opinion_2023-0496.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE OF COUNSEL: Defendant is not entitled to relief on claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to object to hearsay that a different suspect was not the shooter because he gave a post-Mirandized statement where he admitted to shooting the victim. As a result, the alleged ineffectiveness of counsel did not prejudice him. Jones v. State, 1D2023-0496 (5/1/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425774/opinion/Opinion_2023-0496.pdf

MANDAMUS-PAROLE REVIEW: Ordinarily, for a court to issue a writ of mandamus, a plaintiff must establish that he has a clear legal right to the performance of a clear legal duty by a public officer and that he has no other legal remedies available to him. Although in limited circumstances mandamus may be used as a tool of judicial review of the constitutional sufficiency of a quasi-judicial prison or parole commission proceeding, a petition seeking an order directing the Commission to conduct a new parole interview is a request for traditional mandamus relief. Only the legal sufficiency of the petition's allegations are reviewable. Coto v. Florida Commission on Offender Review, 1D 2023-0798 (5/1/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425776/opinion/Opinion_2023-0798.pdf

DISCOVERY VIOLATION: Where discovery included a police report which directed the reader to "see supplement" in reference to the confession, but there was no supplement attached or provided, a mid-trial Richardson hearing is required. T.M. v. State, 2D2023-0025 (5/1/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425694/opinion/Opinion_2023-0025.pdf

VOP-BASIS: The fact that Defendant was acquitted of the substantive charge by a jury does not mean that his probation cannot be revoked based on the same facts. Johnson v. State, 2D2023-1482 (5/1/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425695/opinion/Opinion_2023-1482.pdf

VOP-HEARING: In the absence of stipulation or consent, the trial of the criminal case should not be construed as a probation revocation hearing but can be treated as such upon stipulation or consent made before or after the trial. Johnson v. State, 2D2023-1482 (5/1/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425695/opinion/Opinion_2023-1482.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Claims of trial court error are not cognizable in a R 3.850 motion. Johnson v. State, 2D2023-1482 (5/1/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425695/opinion/Opinion_2023-1482.pdf

OFFICIAL MISCONDUCT: In order to establish a prima facie case of official misconduct, the State must present evidence sufficient to establish that Defendant/police officer falsified an official record or document. Officer's description in the arrest affidavit "painted with too broad a brush" but did not rise to the level of knowing or intentional falsification. No objective, concrete facts were patently false or inaccurate. Whether the loud and argumentative tone and other actions of the ironically named lady he arrested constituted "causing a scene" and "disruptive behavior" is a matter of degree and perception. [Editor's note: It is lawful to use an adjective instead of an adverb–"Ms. Loving began acting belligerent"–but it shouldn't be.] Giraldo v. State, 3D22-1276 (5/1/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425765/opinion/Opinion_2022-1276.pdf

DWLS: For driving while license suspended, the element of knowledge is satisfied if the person has been previously cited, admits to knowledge of the cancellation, suspension, or revocation, or received notice. There is a rebuttable presumption that the knowledge requirement is satisfied if a judgment or order appears in the department's records for any case except for one involving a suspension for failure to pay a traffic fine or for a financial responsibility violation. A driving record showing a license suspension is sufficient to prove that a defendant had notice that his or her license was suspended. Ramirez v. State, 3D22-2192 (5/1/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425770/opinion/Opinion_2022-2192.pdf

JIMMY RYCE-APPEAL: in a Jimmy Ryce case, the appellate court lacks jurisdiction to hear an appeal of the denial of the Detainee's motion challenging probable cause and the Court's failure to conduct an adversarial probable cause hearing. Because Jimmy Ryce Act proceedings are civil in nature, appeals are limited to final orders that end judicial labor in the case. The trial court's order's language that detainee had thirty days to appeal does not confer jurisdiction. Irizarry v. State, 3D23-1418 (5/1/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425783/opinion/Opinion_2023-1418.pdf

PRIVACY-CELL PHONE: The right to privacy is implicated by the production of a broad sweep of cell phone records. Requiring the imaging and production of the entire contents of one's cell phone cannot be justified merely because it is the quickest and most efficient method to obtain the discovery sought. "Requiring that the entire contents of a cellphone be imaged by a forensic expert (consisting of every photo, video, text, email, note, download, and all data and metadata, including every deleted item) and requiring disclosure of it to Roque's own attorney, is simply insufficient, without more, to protect Roque's privacy rights and ensure that she is not compelled to disclose to anyone the entirety of her life's experiences and innermost thoughts as captured, created, uploaded or stored on her cell phone." Roque v. Swezy, 3D23-1836 (5/1/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425789/opinion/Opinion_2023-1836.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A motion under R. 3.850 cannot be used for a second appeal to consider issues that either were raised in the initial appeal or could have been raised in that appeal. Real v. State, 3D23-2284 (5/1/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425760/opinion/Opinion_2023-2284.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for Medicaid Provider Fraud, with a value of $50,000 or more and Grand Theft with a value of $100,000 violate Double Jeopardy. A defendant is placed in double jeopardy when, based upon the same conduct, the defendant is convicted of two offenses, each of which does not require proof of a different element. The crime of Medicaid Provider Fraud requires specific intent to submit a false claim for payment thereby depriving another of money. Although worded differently, the statutory elements of Grand Theft are included in the offense of Medicaid Provider Fraud. State v. Courts, 4D2022-2855 (5/1/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2427364/opinion/Opinion_2022-2855.pdf

BURGLARY: State established prima facie evidence of intent to commit a crime where Defendant made an unconsented early morning entry into the victim's home, stood over her bed with his hand inside his pants, and appeared to masturbate, notwithstanding that she did not see his penis when she woke up, nor had he committed any other crime before he jumped out of the bedroom window. Ford v. State, 4D2023-0208 (5/1/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425749/opinion/Opinion_2023-0208.pdf

TWELVE-PERSON JURY: The Sixth and Fourteenth do not entitle one to a twelve-person jury. Ford v. State, 4D2023-0208 (5/1/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425749/opinion/Opinion_2023-0208.pdf

COSTS: Court may not impose a $5,000 public defender fee, where the defendant had received the assistance of a private conflict attorney, but the Court had not given the defendant the defendant an opportunity to contest the fee, nor had the private conflict attorney made a showing of sufficient proof of the higher fees incurred or the Court made factual findings warranting the higher fees. The private conflict attorney's statement at sentencing that "$5,000…is the flat fee," and the Court's response "[I]f that's [the] fixed amount…I will assess $5,000" do not justify the fee in excess of $100. Ford v. State, 4D2023-0208 (5/1/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2425749/opinion/Opinion_2023-0208.pdf

APRIL 2024

ACCA-VIOLENT FELONY: ACCA's definition of "violent felony" requires that the offense involves the use, or attempted use, or threatened use of physical force against another. "Use" requires active employment of physical force, which means violent force, i.e. force capable of causing physical pain or injury. A prior Georgia conviction for threatening physical harm to a witness qualifies as a "violent felony." USA v. Ferguson, No. 22-12013 (11th Cir. 4/30/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212013.pdf

GUIDELINES-CRIME OF VIOLENCE: A prior Georgia conviction for aggravated assault with a deadly weapon qualifies as a crime of violence when calculating the total offense level. Aggravated assault with a deadly weapon qualifies as a crime of violence under the enumerated offenses clause because it has substantially the same elements as generic aggravated assault. USA v. Ferguson, No. 22-12013 (11th Cir. 4/30/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212013.pdf

CATEGORICAL APPROACH: Under the categorical approach, a court must ask whether the least of the acts criminalized by the statute of conviction has an element requiring the use, attempted use, or threatened use of physical force. A court must look only to the elements of the statute of conviction rather than the specific conduct of a particular offender. If the offense is divisible–one which lists multiple, alternative elements, and thus creates several different crimes--courts apply the modified categorical approach. Under the modified categorical approach, the court looks beyond the elements enumerated in the statute to Shepard documents—the indictment, jury instructions, plea agreement, and plea colloquy—to determine which specific crime the defendant committed. USA v. Ferguson, No. 22-12013 (11th Cir. 4/30/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212013.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Defendant's mere presence at a drug deal is insufficient to sustain a conviction. But evidence that he engaged in frequent and suspicious communications before the deal, then drove the car with a briefcase full of narcotics to the site and stood watchfully across the parking lot while his associate dealt with the CI is enough to show his knowing participation. USA v. Morley, No. 22-12988 (11th Cir. 4/30/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212988.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-AUTOMOBILE EXCEPTION: Officers may search Defendant's car and seize the cocaine inside it after he drove to a drug deal and loitered some distance away while his associate and the CI did the deal. The automobile exception to the Fourth Amendment's warrant requirement allows law enforcement to conduct a warrantless search of a vehicle if the vehicle is readily mobile and law enforcement has probable cause, i.e., a fair probability that evidence of a crime will be found. USA v. Morley, No. 22-12988 (11th Cir. 4/30/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212988.pdf

SAFETY VALVE: Safety valve eligibility has a three-prong test: (A) no more than four criminal history points, excluding any points from one-point offenses, (B) no prior three-point offense, and (C) no prior two-point violent offense. Any prior three-point offense disqualifies a defendant from safety valve relief, regardless of whether he qualifies under the other two prongs. The trial court would have been in error in denying Defendant's eligibility, but Pulsifer, a later Supreme Court decision, overruled previous precedents. USA v. Morley, No. 22-12988 (11th Cir. 4/30/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212988.pdf

PRIOR PANEL PRECEDENT RULE: A prior panel's holding binds subsequent panels unless and until it is overruled or undermined to the point of abrogation by the Supreme Court or by this court sitting en banc. There is no overlooked reason or argument, or a perceived defect in the prior panel's reasoning or analysis, exception to the prior-panel-precedent rule. USA v. Hicks, No. 23-10280 (11th Cir. 4/30/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310280.pdf

SENTENCE-REASONS: Court must articulate its reasons for imposing a particular sentence. But a district court's failure to explain its reasons for the chosen sentence does not affect the defendant's substantial rights. The failure to explicitly state the reasons for an upward variance is not plain error where the reasons are apparent on the face of the record. The reasons for an upward variance to twenty years in prison are apparent where on his baby's first birthday, two months after being placed on federal probation for wire fraud, Defendant strangled his girlfriend with their baby in her arms then stashed her body in a 55-gallon barrel. The 11th Circuit's previous per se rule of reversal for failure to explain the reasons for a sentence is overruled. USA v. Steiger, No. 22-10742 (11th Cir. 4/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210742.enb.pdf

SENTENCE-REASONS: Where one strangles one's girlfriend with one's baby in her arms then hides her body in a big barrel out of fear of losing custody if it were found, the Court's failure to explain its reason for an upward variance is harmless error. If someone can understand the reasons for the sentence imposed, then a district court's technical violation does not warrant reversal. "A remand in this circumstance would be a wasteful formality for the district court to state on the record what everyone already knows." USA v. Steiger, No. 22-10742 (11th Cir. 4/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210742.enb.pdf

EASY CASES-BAD LAW (J. JORDAN, CONCURRING): "Justice Holmes once remarked that 'hard cases' can 'make bad law.'...But easy cases sometimes bring difficulties of their own. . . I doubt very much that many cases in the future will be this cut and dry.". . .[A] really easy case like this one can make it difficult to provide broad guidance for the future. USA v. Steiger, No. 22-10742 (11th Cir. 4/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210742.enb.pdf

EQUAL JUSTICE: The notion that '[n]o man is above the law and no man is below it' is fundamental to our democratic republic's continuing viability." USA v. Hill, No. 23-10934 (11th Cir. 4/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310934.pdf

EIGHTH AMENDMENT: In any custodial setting, officials may not use gratuitous force against a prisoner who has already been subdued or incapacitated. Force, including passive restraints, is excessive if it is not rationally related to a legitimate nonpunitive governmental purpose. Restraint chairs are "force." USA v. Hill, No. 23-10934 (11th Cir. 4/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310934.pdf

EIGHTH AMENDMENT: Sheriff is properly convicted of willfully depriving detainees of their constitutional right to be free from excessive force where multiple times he had ordered nonviolent detainees into a restraint chair with their hands cuffed behind their backs for hours, causing open and bleeding wounds, lasting scars, and nerve damage (When one detainee asked for a lawyer. Sheriff replied, "You think you're a big badass. . .Put his ass in the chair."). Such use of force was clearly established as constitutionally excessive. USA v. Hill, No. 23-10934 (11th Cir. 4/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310934.pdf

JUROR: Court did not err either in twice questioning a juror during deliberations and leaving him on jury, nor in requiring further deliberations, after the foreperson complained that the juror was inarticulate or crazy, could not recall a large chunk of testimony, was having difficulty construing sentences, exhibited the inability to understand the court's instructions, displayed general confusion with basic words, altered meanings of words to conform with personal opinion, and stated that the Sheriff and the President are above the law and are not required to follow the Constitution. J. Marcus, concurring:

"[Q]uestioning a juror repeatedly is not a path that should be taken lightly or without meticulous care. The terrain is dangerous and the traveler must proceed with great caution." USA v. Hill, No. 23-10934 (11th Cir. 4/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202310934.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-BOND: Rule amended to clarify that a first appearance judge can revoke pretrial release on a case not assigned to that judge in accordance with §903.047. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.131, SC2023-1294 (4/25/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2422886/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1294.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-HABITUAL OFFENDER-NOTICE: Failure by the State to serve written notice of intent to habitualize does not result in an illegal sentence; a claim based on such a failure is not cognizable under R. 3.800(a). Williams v. State, 1D2023-1797 (4/24/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2418843/opinion/Opinion_2023-1797.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Strategic decisions of counsel rarely rise to the level of ineffective assistance. Valdes v. State, 3D23-1028 (4/24/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2418903/opinion/Opinion_2023-1028.pdf

MOTION TO MITIGATE: Because a trial court's adjudication of a criminal defendant's motion seeking to mitigate a sentence is purely discretionary, orders denying such motions are not subject to appeal. Gonzalez v. State, 3D23-2188 (4/24/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2418855/opinion/Opinion_2023-2188.pdf

COST OF SUPERVISION: Court may not impose a cost of supervision in excess of $40, the amount authorized by section §948.09(1)(b) Mobley v. State, 4D2022-3208 (4/24/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2418766/opinion/Opinion_2022-3208.pdf

JURY TRIAL: To obtain a valid oral waiver of a defendant's right to jury trial, the trial court must conduct a colloquy that focuses a defendant's attention on the value of a jury trial and makes a defendant aware of the likely consequences of the waiver. Defense counsel's statement to the court that the defendant has agreed to a non-jury trial is not a valid oral waiver in the absence of the court's requisite inquiry, even if the statement is made in the defendant's presence and with the defendant's oral confirmation. Error is fundamental. Baker v. State, 2023-2642 (4/24/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2418769/opinion/Opinion_2023-2642.pdf

COSTS: A written order imposing court costs must cite the statute authorizing each cost regardless of whether it is mandatory or discretionary. Court may not order lump sum fines and court costs. Lombardi v. State, 2D2023-0552 (4/19/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2408718/opinion/Opinion_2023-0552.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Disbelief in the witness's testimony, as evidenced by a trial judge's discomforting inquiry, are ordinarily no basis for disqualification. Disqualifying a judge because his examination of a witness on relevant matters gives a clue as to how he may be inclined to rule at the end of the evidence would wreak administrative havoc by inviting mid-hearing motions for recusal. Martinez v. State, 3D24-0629 (4/19/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2409777/opinion/Opinion_2024-0629.pdf

SECOND-DEGREE MURDER: Defendant is not entitled to a judgment of acquittal for second-degree murder when he was found just off his front porch with a bloody butcher knife in his hand and a a body at his feet in a pool of blood. Gonzalez v. State, 6D23-509 (4/19/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2409333/opinion/Opinion_2023-0509.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE: Defendant is entitled to a full jury instruction on self-defense based on his statement to police that the drunk victim grabbed him by the throat and and punched him in the jaw. Court erred by not giving Instruction 3.6(f) ("The use of deadly force is justifiable if defendant reasonably believed that the force was necessary to prevent imminent death or great bodily harm to himself while resisting any attempt to commit [applicable felony]). Instruction 7.1 alone is insufficient. Gonzalez v. State, 6D23-509 (4/19/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2409333/opinion/Opinion_2023-0509.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE: In most cases, a person in a fist fight lacks a sufficient justification to use deadly force, but the question of self-defense is one of fact and is one for the jury to decide where the facts are disputed. Gonzalez v. State, 6D23-509 (4/19/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2409333/opinion/Opinion_2023-0509.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE: Defendant's statement to the police is evidence warranting a self-defense instruction regardless whether Defendant testifies at trial or otherwise introduces evidence. Gonzalez v. State, 6D23-509 (4/19/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2409333/opinion/Opinion_2023-0509.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE (J. MIZE, CONCURRING): A defendant is entitled to a jury instruction on self-defense as a matter of right if there is any evidence at all to support the instruction, no matter how weak or flimsy. A defendant is not required to testify at trial to receive a jury instruction on self-defense. Gonzalez v. State, 6D23-509 (4/19/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2409333/opinion/Opinion_2023-0509.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE (J. MIZE, CONCURRING): Standard Jury Instruction 7.1 is not a substitute for a trial court giving the entirety of all applicable portions of Standard Jury Instruction 3.6(f). Gonzalez v. State, 6D23-509 (4/19/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2409333/opinion/Opinion_2023-0509.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION-SELF-DEFENSE (J. MIZE, CONCURRING): Defendant is not forfeit his right to self-defense by leaving his house to confront a trespasser with a butcher knife. Gonzalez v. State, 6D23-509 (4/19/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2409333/opinion/Opinion_2023-0509.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-ABANDONMENT: Defendant abandoned the backpack he threw into someone's parked car in his flight from the checkpoint set up in response to a residential burglary. A person who voluntarily abandons property lacks standing to challenge its search and seizure. A defendant's subjective intent as to the property does not play a dominant role; whether abandonment occurred is determined using an objective test. Hargrove v. State, 6D23-1787 (4/19/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2409335/opinion/Opinion_2023-1787.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE: A law enforcement officer's subjective intent in stopping a driver is irrelevant to the determination of whether probable cause existed to support the stop. An apparent window tint violation alone provided probable cause for a stop. Probable cause exists where an officer trained in narcotics surveillance, sees an apparent drug buy. State v. Hall, 6D23-2396 (4/19/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2409337/opinion/Opinion_2023-2396.pdf

FORFEITURE: Failure to enter a preliminary order of forfeiture does not bar a judge from ordering forfeiture at sentencing. R. 32.2(b)(2)(B), which requires a preliminary order in advance of sentencing, is a time-related directive, rather than a jurisdictional deadline or a mandatory claim-processing rule. If missed, it does not deprive the judge of her power to order forfeiture against the defendant. McIntosh v. United States, No. 22–7386. (U.S. S.Ct. 4/17/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-7386_10n2.pdf

TAMPERING WITH EVIDENCE: Defendant who from jail gave his Google account password to his wife and asked her to "crash that shit so the cops can't go through my shit" is guilty of Conspiracy to Tamper with Evidence. Cruz v. State, 3D22-0815 (4/17/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2400510/opinion/Opinion_2022-0815.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Recantation by a witness called on behalf of the prosecution does not necessarily entitle a defendant to a new trial, but usually requires an evidentiary hearing. Victim's affidavit may be materially inconsistent with his trial testimony, but "this is the very nature of a recantation, and it would be circular reasoning to suggest that summary denial is appropriate simply because a witness' recantation is inconsistent with his trial testimony." Defendant is entitled to an evidentiary hearing. Palmer v. State, 3D22-0693 (4/17/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2400511/opinion/Opinion_2023-0134.pdf

CORPUS DELICTI-CONFESSION (J. ATKINSON, DISSENTING): §92.565, which creates a bright-line exception to the corpus delicti rule for victims under the age of twelve, requires the State to prove that there is sufficient corroborating evidence that tends to establish the trustworthiness of the statement made by the defendant for it to be admissible. The memorialized confession or admission cannot corroborate itself, but the corroborating evidence can take the form of other statements made by the defendant, which themselves might be confessional in nature or constitute admissions to crimes. "More simply put, not every statement made by the defendant constitutes a 'memorialized confession or admission' subject to the trustworthiness analysis." Defendant's Facebook and controlled call statements were sufficient corroboration. State v. Jackson, 2D23-0212 (4/12/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382319/opinion/Opinion_23-0212.pdf

VOP-SENTENCING: Defendant is entitled to resentencing where Court sentenced him to prison under the misconception that it was required to impose the full term of the suspended sentence originally imposed. Court could have revoked, modified, or continued probation. Lawrence v. State, 2D 23-2045 (4/12/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382324/opinion/Opinion_23-2045.pdf

PRETRIAL RELEASE-REVOCATION: First appearance judge may not revoke the bond from an earlier case at the request of the judge presiding over it. Rule only provides for the judge who initially set bail to authorize the first appearance judge to modify or set conditions of release; it says nothing about the assigned trial judge authorizing the first appearance judge in a subsequent case involving the defendant to revoke bail in the defendant's prior, assigned case. Sarac v. Gualtieri, Sheriff, 2D24-0338 (4/12/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382339/opinion/Opinion_24-0338.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: A defendant's self-report of a mental disorder (here,PTSD and depression) does not constitute competent, substantial evidence supporting a downward departure. A psychological report that ppears to recite Defendant's own self-reporting and does not specify the source of the information, cites no documentation of past diagnoses, and does not state that the psychologist made any full, formal diagnoses herself is insufficient. State v. Avery, 5D22-1603 (4/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382873/opinion/Opinion_22-1603.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-PORCH: An enclosed porch—encased with opaque black vinyl and furnished and used like an interior room—is a constitutionally protected area of the home for which a warrant (or warrant exception) is required to enter. The Fourth Amendment's protection against unreasonable searches and seizures includes a home and its curtilage. A front porch permanently attached to a home—whether enclosed or open air—is normally within the home's curtilage. Rudolph v. State, 5D22-2108 (4/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382951/opinion/Opinion_22-2108.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-CURTILAGE: Four factors that relate to curtilage: the proximity of the area claimed to be curtilage to the home, whether the area is included within an enclosure surrounding the home, the nature of the uses to which the area is put, and the steps taken by the resident to protect the area from observation by people passing by. Rudolph v. State, 5D22-2108 (4/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382951/opinion/Opinion_22-2108.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE- FLASHLIGHT- CURTILAGE: Officers conducting a neighborhood canvas in investigating a homicide, violated Defendant's 4th Amendment rights by using a flashlight to look inside his enclosed front porch where they observed him with the murder weapon on his lap. Rudolph v. State, 5D22-2108 (4/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382951/opinion/Opinion_22-2108.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: When an ineffective assistance of counsel claim is raised on direct appeal and the appellant's conviction and sentence are affirmed without a written opinion, the law of the case does not establish that the claim was rejected on the merits. Lafortune v. State, 5D22-2281 (4/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382874/opinion/Opinion_22-2281.pdf

WIRETAPPING: Under Florida's wiretapping statute, it is unlawful for any person to intentionally intercept or endeavor to intercept any wire, oral, or electronic communication. The statute does not apply to citizens recording telephone conversations with police officers acting in their official capacities. There is a First Amendment right to record police officers conducting their official duties in public. It cannot be said that any of the deputies exhibited a reasonable expectation of privacy that society is willing to recognize. All conversations concerned matters of public business, occurred while the deputies were on duty, and involved phones utilized for work purposes. Deputies do not have a reasonable expectation of privacy when talking to a citizen over the phone in their official capacities as law enforcement officers regarding public business; such recordings do not fall within the definition of "oral communication" in §934.02(2). Waite v. State, 5D23-1354 (4/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382881/opinion/Opinion_23-1354.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: When a defendant files a facially insufficient motion, he is entitled to one opportunity to amend the motion. Claim that trial counsel was ineffective for advising him to enter the plea when he had a defense to the requires a hearing, if Defendant properly alleges prejudice. McCorvey v. State, 5D23-2658 (4/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382884/opinion/Opinion_23-2658.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant's motion for postconviction relief alleging the violation of a plea agreement was improperly filed under R. 3.800, and if filed now under R.3.850 would be untimely. But Court should have treated the motion as filed under R.350, and accordingly must afford Defendant a hearing or attach records showing no entitlement to relief. Sanchez v. State, 5D23-3268 (4/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382886/opinion/Opinion_23-3268.pdf

COMPETENCY-CERTIORARI: Court's conclusion that the Defendant is competent to proceed may be raised on direct appeal, not by certiorari. Fleming v. State, 5D23-3328 (4/12/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382887/opinion/Opinion_23-3328.pdf

VOP-PLEA: An admission to an alleged probation violation is not formally a "plea." "Confusion arises when courts persist in the loose use of the term 'plea' in the context of VOP proceedings. There simply is no such thing as a plea to a charged VOP." Pleas do not occur after disposition in a criminal case. "To say that a trial court took a plea from a defendant after disposition of a criminal case. . .makes no sense." Maxwell v. State, 1D2022-0478 (4/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2384575/opinion/Opinion_2022-0478.pdf

APPEAL-TIMELINESS- PLEA WITHDRAWAL-VOP: Because the admission of the violation of probation is not technically a "plea," the motion to withdraw the "plea" did not toll the rendition date of the revocation and sentencing orders. Ergo, the notice of appeal was untimely. Maxwell v. State, 1D2022-0478 (4/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2384575/opinion/Opinion_2022-0478.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-KNOCK AND ANNOUNCE: Where officers knock, announce their authority and purpose, and then enter with such haste that the occupant does not have a reasonable opportunity to respond, the search violates §933.09. State v. Times, 1D2022-0887 (4/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2384413/opinion/Opinion_2022-0887.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-KNOCK AND ANNOUNCE: "In his final announcement before entry, an officer stated: 'police department, search warrant, step away from the door to avoid injury.' Whether the phrase 'police department' landed on the sixth or seventh second of time before the entry, or whether the phrase 'search warrant' landed on the sixth or seventh second of time before the entry,. . .neither Times nor other occupants had time to respond to the door is supportable by the evidence." State v. Times, 1D2022-0887 (4/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2384413/opinion/Opinion_2022-0887.pdf

SEARCH WARRANT-KNOCK AND ANNOUNCE: Nobody is required to answer their door just because somebody knocks on it. There's no requirement to answer the door just because the police officers are at the door. State v. Times, 1D2022-0887 (4/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2384413/opinion/Opinion_2022-0887.pdf

EXCLUSIONARY RULE-SEARCH WARRANT-KNOCK AND ANNOUNCE: The exclusionary rule continues to apply to violations of the knock-and-announce statute. Question certified. State v. Times, 1D2022-0887 (4/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2384413/opinion/Opinion_2022-0887.pdf

STARE DECISIS (J. NORDBY, CONCURRING): "[W]e are wary of any invocation of multi-factor stare decisis tests or frameworks. . .They are malleable and do not lend themselves to objective, consistent, and predictable application. They can distract us from the merits of a legal question and encourage us to think more like a legislature than a court. And they can lead us to decide cases on the basis of guesses about the consequences of our decisions, which in turn can make those decisions less principled. We believe that the proper approach to stare decisis is much more straightforward. In a case where we are bound by a higher legal authority—whether it be a constitutional provision, a statute, or a decision of the Supreme Court—our job is to apply that law correctly to the case before us. When we are convinced that a precedent clearly conflicts with the law we are sworn to uphold, precedent normally must yield." State v. Times, 1D2022-0887 (4/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2384413/opinion/Opinion_2022-0887.pdf

12 PERSON JURY-FIRST PBL: There is no right to a 12 person jury for a first-degree felony punishable by life. "[T]he Sixth Amendment's drafters removed language in the initial draft specifying that the jury-trial right in the Sixth Amendment must include its 'accustomed requisites,'—language which likely would have eliminated any grounds for deviating from a twelve-member jury." Salmon v. State, 1D2022-1135 (4/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2384577/opinion/Opinion_2022-1135.pdf

CONFESSION-COERCION: The confession by Defendant/school administrator that she had participated with her daughter in a fake elector Homecoming Queen election scheme is not suppressible on grounds of being coerced. For immunity for incriminatory statements provided to her employer, she must show she was threatened with an adverse employment action if she failed to answer her employer's questions. The threat of an adverse employment action may be direct or implied, but defendant's subjective fear is not enough. The belief has to be objectively reasonable. Carroll v. State, 1D2022-3114 (4/10/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2383788/opinion/Opinion_2022-3114.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUES: An issue not raised in the initial or amended initial brief is deemed waived or abandoned. Schock v. State, 2D23-661 (4/10/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2364306/opinion/Opinion_23-0661.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION: Failure to give a jury instruction on a foreign language recording translation is not fundamental error because such an instruction would not go to an essential element of the offenses charged. Buddoo v. State, 3D22-1587 (4/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2378069/opinion/Opinion_2022-1587.pdf

DISCOVERY-RICHARDSON: Court erred in mid-trial because the State failed too provide a discovery a one-page supplemental report containing almost nothing, and certainly nothing contradictory, from the reports already provided. State v. Denninghoff, 3D23-0464 (4/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2374702/opinion/Opinion_2023-0464.pdf

APPEAL: Arguments raised for first time in reply brief are waived. Kopp v, State, 3D23-1337 (4/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2374707/opinion/Opinion_2023-1337.pdf

EVIDENCE: It is not fatal to the prosecution if the state does not introduce the weapon into evidence where the direct evidence and the circumstantial evidence support conviction. Kopp v, State, 3D23-1337 (4/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2374707/opinion/Opinion_2023-1337.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: If the State fails to file formal charges against the defendant within the 90-day (or, for a felony, 175-day) period, the defendant can seek final discharge without first filing the Notice of Expiration, but the uniform traffic citation constitutes a formal charge. (Note: a pending proposed rule change would change this). Patino v. State, 3D23-1702 (4/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382346/opinion/Opinion_2023-1702.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-WRIT OF PROHIBITION-DELAY: A petition for writ of prohibition (filed following the denial of Defendant's 1st motion for speedy trial discharge) does not delay the trial. Where Defendant later files a notice of speedy trial expiration, even while the first petition for writ of prohibition remains pending, Defendant must be brought to trial within 15 days or be discharged. "Because this court did not issue an order to show cause or otherwise impose a stay of the trial court proceedings during the pendency of the petition, and because the trial court retained jurisdiction to proceed, the petition for writ of prohibition did not delay Patino's trial and the speedy trial period continued to run during the pendency of the prohibition proceeding in this court." Patino v. State, 3D23-1702 (4/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382346/opinion/Opinion_2023-1702.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-WRIT OF PROHIBITION-APPEAL: "More recent opinions. . .have called our decisions [that a petition for writ of prohibition does not constitute an appeal] into question. . .In any event, we need not reach the question. . ., since, as explained, it is undisputed that Patino's trial was not delayed by the earlier prohibition proceeding in this court. We therefore leave this separate question for another day. Patino v. State, 3D23-1702 (4/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382346/opinion/Opinion_2023-1702.pdf

STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION: A fundamental canon of statutory construction is that courts must endeavor to give meaning to each word and phrase contained in a statute or rule, and courts should avoid readings that would render part of a statute meaningless. Words cannot be meaningless, else they would not have been used. If possible, every word and every provision is to be given effect (verba cum effectu sunt accipienda). Patino v. State, 3D23-1702 (4/10/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2382346/opinion/Opinion_202

3-1702.pdf

COSTS Of INVESTIGATION: Court may not impose costs investigation where there is no agency requests or evidence of the amount. Costs may not be reimposed on remand. Pannier v. State, 4D2022-1361 (4/10/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2373431/opinion/Opinion_2022-1361.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: Costs of prosecution may not exceed $100 absent request and sufficient proof. Pannier v. State, 4D2022-1361 (4/10/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2373431/opinion/Opinion_2022-1361.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Once a sentence has been imposed and the person begins to serve the sentence, that sentence may not be increased without running afoul of double jeopardy principles. But where the trial court's pronouncements at the original sentencing hearing were unclear and inconsistent, clarification is permitted. State v. Coello, 4D2022-1699 (4/10/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2373433/opinion/Opinion_2022-1699.pdf

RESENTENCING- PRESENCE OF DEFENDANT: Where the trial court had no discretion but to impose his original sentence of life with the possibility of parole for juvenile offender, based upon the decisional law at the time of resentencing, Defendant's presence is not required. A full resentencing hearing is not necessary when the resentencing is a ministerial act. McCoggle v. State, 4D2023-1267 (4/10/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2373444/opinion/Opinion_2023-1267.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE-JUVENILE OFFENDER: Juvenile offenders sentenced to life with possibility of parole after twenty-five years are not entitled to resentencing under Miller and the 2014 amendments. Juvenile offenders' sentences of life with the possibility of parole after 25 years under Florida's parole system do not violate Graham's requirement that juveniles have a meaningful opportunity to receive parole. McCoggle v. State, 4D2023-1267 (4/10/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2373444/opinion/Opinion_2023-1267.pdf

INVITED ERROR: The invited error doctrine precludes appellate review of an argument that a party expressly disclaimed before the district court. USA v. Boone, No. 22-11153 (11th Cir. 4/9/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211153.pdf

PATTERN OF ACTIVITY ENHANCEMENT: Where Defendant did not object to the procedural reasonableness the sentencing hearing he can prevail on appeal only by showing plain error. Plain error requires clear statutory language or controlling precedent establishing that an error has occurred. USA v. Boone, No. 22-11153 (11th Cir. 4/9/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211153.pdf

PATTERN OF ACTIVITY ENHANCEMENT: Pattern of activity enhancement applies if the defendant engages in prohibited sexual conduct on at least two separate occasions, regardless of whether the crimes were committed against the same victim or different victims. "Separate occasions" does not require two events that are unrelated. It requires only events that are independent and distinguishable from each other. USA v. Boone, No. 22-11153 (11th Cir. 4/9/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211153.pdf

SENTENCE-SUBSTANTIVELY UNREASONABLE: 840-month sentence for recording and distributing his extreme sexual abuse of his 4-year-old daughter is not substantively unreasonable. A sentence within the advisory guidelines sentence is presumed to be reasonable. USA v. Boone, No. 22-11153 (11th Cir. 4/9/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211153.pdf

SENTENCE-SUBSTANTIVELY UNREASONABLE: the fact that a sentence is longer than the Defendant's life expectancy does not render it substantively unreasonable. "Given the nature of Boone's offense—specifically, the fact that it involved planning and chatting about, engaging in, and recording the sexual abuse of his four-year-old child—the fact that Boone is not likely to outlive his sentence does not mean the sentence was substantively unreasonable." USA v. Boone, No. 22-11153 (11th Cir. 4/9/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211153.pdf

SENTENCING-MILITARY SERVICE: Military service may be a mitigating factor, but it also may be an aggravating factor as a violation of a position of trust and authority. USA v. Boone, No. 22-11153 (11th Cir. 4/9/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211153.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to call a police officer to impeach the victim. Duff-Porter v. State, 5D22-1055 (4/9/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2356923/opinion/Opinion_22-1055.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY: To defeat a qualified immunity defense on a motion to dismiss, the operative complaint must plausibly plead that the defendant violated the plaintiff's clearly established federal rights. Jackson v. City of Atlanta, No. 22-12946 (11th Cir 4/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212946.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: Officer lacked reasonable suspicion to detain a lady who have moved a barricade a few feet so that she could leave a mall parking lot. Moving a barricade does not violate the law. "And it is no wonder why it doesn't. Presumably barricades are used to stop people from getting into private or otherwise restricted locations. Here, Jackson was moving the barricade so that she could get out of a private or otherwise restricted area." Jackson v. City of Atlanta, No. 22-12946 (11th Cir 4/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212946.pdf

QUALIFIED IMMUNITY-SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION: Officer who told plaintiff to "[g]et out of the fucking car." called her stupid, pulled a gun on her, body slammed her into the pavement, and broke her clavicle is not entitled to sovereign immunity. But his partner is. Jackson v. City of Atlanta, No. 22-12946 (11th Cir 4/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212946.pdf

JUDGMENT OF ACQUITTAL: Circumstantial evidence is sufficient to sustain a conviction for attempted smuggling of weapons into Iraq where Defendant failed to disclose the firearms on his bill of lading and is seen loading the container with the hidden guns. It is not necessary that the evidence exclude every reasonable hypothesis of innocence. USA v. Al Jaberi, No. 22-12852 (4/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212852.pdf

APPELLATE BRIEF: Brief which omits a distinct statement of facts section and fails to explain how the evidence is insufficient is inadequate. Appellate judges are not like pigs, hunting for truffles buried in briefs. USA v. Al Jaberi, No. 22-12852 (4/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212852.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Dual convictions for attempted smuggling charge and failure to notify a common carrier and submitting a false or misleading export information charge do not violate Double Jeopardy/Blockburger. USA v. Al Jaberi, No. 22-12852 (4/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212852.pdf

IMPROPER ARGUMENT: Misstating the caliber of a firearm the defendant was convicted of smuggling does not constitute prosecutorial misconduct, much less violate due process. USA v. Al Jaberi, No. 22-12852 (4/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212852.pdf

IMPROPER ARGUMENT: Prosecutorial misconduct justifies a new trial only if the remarks in question were both (a) improper and (b) prejudicial to the defendant's substantial rights. Statements logically inferred from supporting evidence are proper. USA v. Al Jaberi, No. 22-12852 (4/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212852.pdf

SENTENCE-SUBSTANTIVELY UNREASONABLE: A district court's failure to specifically mention certain mitigating factors does not compel the conclusion that the sentence was substantively unreasonable. A sentence imposed well below the statutory maximum penalty is an indicator of a reasonable sentence. A 94-month sentence within the Guidelines' range and i26 months below the statutory maximum is reasonable. USA v. Al Jaberi, No. 22-12852 (4/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212852.pdf

SENTENCE-PROCEDURALLY UNREASONABLE: A district court commits a procedural sentencing error when it imposes a sentence based on clearly erroneous facts, fails to calculate (or improperly calculates) the Guidelines range, fails to consider the §3553(a) factors, treats the Guidelines as mandatory, or fails to explain the chosen sentence. USA v. Al Jaberi, No. 22-12852 (4/5/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212852.pdf

RAPE SHIELD STATUTE-CROSS-EXAMINATION: The rape statute, by its express terms, only bars evidence of specific instances of prior consensual activity between the victim and any person other than the offender in sexual battery cases. Non-consensual molestation of the minor victim is not covered by the rape shield statute. Moreover, the rape shield statute does not exclude evidence that would otherwise be admissible. The fact that the Victim, in disclosing other instances of being sexually abused by Defendant's sister's boyfriend two other people, denied that anyone else had molested her is a fair subject of cross-examination to show bias against him. Lydecker v. State, 2D22-2489 (4/5/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2302143/opinion/Opinion_22-2489.pdf

COLLATERAL CRIMES EVIDENCE: The collateral crimes evidence instruction may be given where it pertains to acts charged in other counts of the information. The instruction is not limited to uncharged counts. Lydecker v. State, 2D22-2489 (4/5/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2302143/opinion/Opinion_22-2489.pdf

COSTS: Courts may only impose an amount higher than $100 for the cost of prosecution and the cost of the public defender upon showing of sufficient proof of higher fees or costs incurred. Brooks v. State, 5D22-1385 (4/5/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2302286/opinion/Opinion_22-1385.pdf

WILLIAMS RULE: Collateral-crime evidence of a sexual offense is admissible even if offered to show propensity, but the State must still demonstrate that the probative value of the evidence is not substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice, confusion of issues, misleading the jury, or needless presentation of cumulative evidence. Evidence of Defendant's earlier, similar sexual battery is admissible in his rape/murdertrial. The time lapse between the different crimes is important, but not so much when Defendant was in prison for 13 of the intervening years. Jackson v. State, 5D23-1169 (4/5/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2302290/opinion/Opinion_23-1169.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: A habeas petition attacking the validity of a conviction and asserting issues related to the trial court proceedings, must be brought in the circuit court of the county that rendered the judgment of conviction. Trammell v. State, 5D23-3421 (4/5/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2302300/opinion/Opinion_23-3421.pdf

SENTENCE: Where there is a discrepancy between the oral pronouncement and the written sentence, the written sentence must be corrected to conform to the oral pronouncement. Rowan v. State, 6D23-590 (4/5/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2302823/opinion/Opinion_23-0590.pdf

VOP: Negligence or ineptitude does not support a finding of a willful and substantial violation. A defendant's failure to comply with a probation condition is not willful where his conduct shows a reasonable, good faith attempt to comply and factors beyond his control, rather than a deliberate act of misconduct, caused his noncompliance. Bean v. State, 6D23-786 (4/5/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2302825/opinion/Opinion_23-0786.pdf

VOP: A trial court is not permitted to revoke probation on conduct not charged in the affidavit of revocation. Bean v. State, 6D23-786 (4/5/24) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2302825/opinion/Opinion_23-0786.pdf

VOP: Probation is improperly revoked where Defendant testified without contradiction that, Bean testified that he did not have the $55 for the psychological evaluation that was required for the anger management course and for this reason, the administrators told him not to come. Bean v. State, 6D23-786 (4/5/24) https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2302825/opinion/Opinion_23-0786.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: Compassionate release allows a court to reduce a defendant's term of imprisonment upon motion of the defendant after the defendant has fully exhausted all administrative rights, where the court has considered the §3553(a) factors, and found that extraordinary and compelling reasons warrant such a reduction. To award compassionate release, the court must also find the defendant not be a danger to the safety of any other person or to the community. USA v. Handlon, No. 22-13699 (11th Cir. 4/3/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213699.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: There are four categories of "extraordinary and compelling" reasons that could make a movant eligible for a sentence reduction: (1) the defendant's medical condition, (2) the defendant's age, (3) the defendant's status as the only potential caregiver for a minor child or spouse, or the incapacitation of the defendant's parent when the defendant would be the only available caregiver for the parent and (4) "other reasons" as determined by the Director of the Bureau of Prisons. That last "catch-all" category does not grant discretion to courts to develop other reasons. USA v. Handlon, No. 22-13699 (11th Cir. 4/3/24) https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213699.pdf

COMPASSIONATE RELEASE: The "extraordinary and compelling" reason of the incapacitation of the inmate's parent did not exist at the time of the filing of the motion for compassionate release and the amendment does not apply retroactively. However, inmate may file a new motion and start over. USA v. Handlon, No. 22-13699 (11th Cir. 4/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213699.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: A 35-month delay between indictment and arrest does not violate the Sixth Amendment right to a speedy trial where Defendant was not prejudiced by the delay and there were reasons for the delay, including COVID: USA v. Vargas, No. 22-10604 (11th Cir. 4/3/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210604.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: The analysis for whether the delay between indictment and arrest violates Speedy Trial starts by asking if the length of the delay has been long enough--typically about a year--to trigger a full-fledged constitutional analysis. If it is, the court then must decide whether a consideration of (1) the length of the delay, (2) the reason for the delay and (3) the defendant's assertion of his speedy-trial right weighs heavily against the government. If these factors uniformly do so, prejudice is presumed; if not, the defendant must establish actual prejudice from the delay in order to prevail. For a defendant to avoid making a showing of actual prejudice, all three factors must weigh heavily against the government. USA v. Vargas, No. 22-10604 (11th Cir. 4/3/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210604.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-HISTORY: The right to a speedy trial dates back to as early as the Magna Carta of 1215. USA v. Vargas, No. 22-10604 (11th Cir. 4/3/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210604.pdf

DEFINITION-"HEAVILY": "Heavily" is defined as "ponderously, massively; burdensomely, oppressively." USA v. Vargas, No. 22-10604 (11th Cir. 4/3/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210604.pdf

DEFINITION-"DILIGENCE": "Diligence" means a "persevering effort to accomplish something undertaken." USA v. Vargas, No. 22-10604 (11th Cir. 4/3/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210604.pdf

ISSUE PRESERVATION: Defendant's objection to recording which included cross-talk between officers can not be raised on appeal where there was no contemporaneous objection. Byrd v. State, 1D 2022-1460 (4/3/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2295374/opinion/Opinion_2022-1460.pdf

EVIDENCE: No legal principle excludes statements or conduct of a party solely on the ground that such statements or conduct is self-serving. It would be the rare instance indeed, and a pointless act, when a party offers evidence which did not serve that party. Byrd v. State, 1D 2022-1460 (4/3/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2295374/opinion/Opinion_2022-1460.pdf

MISTRIAL: A declaration of mistrial is an act of last resort. A mistrial is appropriate only where the error is so prejudicial as to vitiate the entire trial and should be exercised only in cases of absolute necessity. Byrd v. State, 1D 2022-1460 (4/3/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2295374/opinion/Opinion_2022-1460.pdf

APPEAL-JURISDICTION: Timeliness of an appeal is jurisdictional. An order of dismissal of the petition for writ of prohibition is a final order. Appellate court lacks jurisdiction to hear appeal of the order filed more than 30 days after its rendition. When a notice of appeal has been untimely filed, dismissal is the only course of action. Peek v. Florida Commission on Offender Review, 1D2023-2258 (4/3/24))
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2295378/opinion/Opinion_2023-2258.pdf

RESENTENCING: Defendant is entitled to be present when his sentence is increased by imposition of a nondiscretionary fine because a sentencing proceeding in which a sentence is increased is a critical stage of trial at which the defendant's presence would contribute to the fairness of the procedure. Foster v. State, 2D22-2966 (4/3/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2289621/opinion/Opinion_22-2966.pdf

RESENTENCING (J. LaROSE, CONCURRING): "With hesitation, I join the court's opinion. . . Of course, we know how the story will end. The trial court will impose a nondiscretionary fine. . .This strikes me as 'make-work.'. . .Nothing will be gained by Mr. Foster's attendance at the hearing. The trial court's hands are tied. Foster v. State, 2D22-2966 (4/3/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2289621/opinion/Opinio_or n_22-2966.pdf

DEFINITION-"MAKE-WORK": "Make-work" is "work assigned or done chiefly to keep one busy." Foster v. State, 2D22-2966 (4/3/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2289621/opinion/Opinion_22-2966.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL-JURISDICTION: Where defendant files a pro se motion to withdraw plea after filing a notice of appeal, the trial court lacks jurisdiction and must dismiss rather than deny it. Navarro v. State, 2D23-974 (4/3/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2289635/opinion/Opinion_23-0974.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-INVOLUNTARY COMMITMENT: A habeas petition challenging an involuntary commitment to a State mental treatment facility may be brought by the forensic client herself or a party acting on behalf of the client. Court improperly dismissed the petition on the grounds that the Defendant was represented by counsel on the underlying charge. Wood v. State, 2D23-1927 (4/3/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2289646/opinion/Opinion_23-1927.pdf

HEARSAY: Many courts have concluded that a hearsay statement made in a 911 call is not testimonial, because the statement is not made in response to police questioning, and because the purpose of the call is to obtain assistance, not to make a record against someone. Cordovi v. State, 3D22-1393 (4/3/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2295984/opinion/Opinion_2022-1393.pdf

JUDGMENT-DISQUALIFICATION: Allegation that judge refused to allow the presence of a court reporter at a hearing is legally sufficient to compel disqualification. Pimienta v. Rosenfeld, 3D23-0858 (4/3/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2294258/opinion/Opinion_2023-0858.pdf

PRR/HFO: Because the prison releasee reoffender statute only authorizes the court to deviate from Its sentencing scheme to impose a greater sentence of incarceration, a trial court is without authority to sentence a defendant to an equal sentence under the Habitual Felony Offender statute, even where such sentence is imposed concurrently with the PRR sentence. Jefferson v. State, 4D2022-1104 (4/3/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2294674/opinion/Opinion_2022-1104.pdf

VOUCHING: Testimony and argument that CI would not be used or his services would be discontinued if he were unreliable is improper vouching. Improper vouching or bolstering of witness testimony occurs when the State places the prestige of the government behind the witness. Goldsmith v. State, 4D2022-1632 (4/3/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2297562/opinion/Opinion_2022-1632.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: To set a higher amount than the story minimum, the state attorney must demonstrate the amount spent on prosecuting the defendant and the trial court must consider the defendant's financial resources. Goldsmith v. State, 4D2022-1632 (4/3/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2297562/opinion/Opinion_2022-1632.pdf

COSTS-INVESTIGATION: A defendant must pay investigation costs only if theagency which incurs that cost requests it. Prosecutors are not authorized to request costs on behalf of an agency without that agency's request. Goldsmith v. State, 4D2022-1632 (4/3/24) https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2297562/opinion/Opinion_2022-1632.pdf

COMPETENCY: District courts have authority to order more than one competency evaluation and commitment order. §4241 places no limits on when or how often a participant in the case may seek competency proceedings for the defendant. USA v. Alhindi, No. 23-11349 (4/1/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311349.pdf

COMPETENCY: The four-month limitation for commitment for incompetence begins with the defendant's hospitalization and applies to the hospitalization period only. Procedures for determining mental competency to stand trial explained. USA v. Alhindi, No. 23-11349 (4/1/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311349.pdf

DEFINITION-"ANY TIME": The phrase "any time" means "at whatever time." § 4241 places no limits on when or how often a participant in the case may seek competency proceedings for the defendant. USA v. Alhindi, No. 23-11349 (4/1/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311349.pdf

COMPETENCY: Mental competency can be fluid during criminal proceedings, and courts must always be alert to changes in competency to ensure against trying incompetent defendants. USA v. Alhindi, No. 23-11349 (4/1/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311349.pdf

COMPETENCY: "[W]e take a moment to emphasize the importance of district courts' continued close supervision of competency proceedings. Alhindi has been stuck in competency limbo for over twenty months, less than nine of which have been for hospital treatment. . .Adherence to Congress's enumerated procedures is critical to ensure that defendants whose trial proceedings are delayed because of competency issues are receiving the help they need so timely trial proceedings may occur." USA v. Alhindi, No. 23-11349 (4/1/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311349.pdf

COMPETENCY (J. ROSENBAUM, CONCURRING): "[Wh]ile we hold that the four-month time limit that §4241(d) expressly mandates applies to only the hospitalization period, it is equally clear that the statute does not authorize unreasonable prehospitalization wait times. USA v. Alhindi, No. 23-11349 (4/1/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202311349.pdf

RIGHT TO PRIVACY-ABORTION: There is no right to abortion in the Privacy Clause. Statute outlawing abortion if the gestational age of the fetus is more than 15 weeks[1], subject to certain exceptions, does not violate the Privacy Clause of the Florida Constitution. Planned Parenthood of Southwest and Central Florida v. State, SC2022-1050 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285280/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1050%20&%20SC2022-1127.pdf

STARE DECISIS: "[W]e recede from our prior decisions in which. . .we held that the Privacy Clause guaranteed the right to receive an abortion through the end of the second trimester." Planned Parenthood of Southwest and Central Florida v. State, SC2022-1050 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285280/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1050%20&%20SC2022-1127.pdf

RIGHT OF PRIVACY: Prior Supreme Court pronouncement on the Right of Privacy in abortion context "was flawed in several respects. . .T.W. did not look to dictionaries, contextual clues, or historical sources bearing on the text's meaning. . .Compounding these errors, the T.W. majority failed to apply longstanding principles of judicial deference to legislative enactments and failed to analyze whether the statute should be given the benefit of a presumption of constitutionality." Planned Parenthood of Southwest and Central Florida v. State, SC2022-1050 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285280/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1050%20&%20SC2022-1127.pdf

PRIVACY: The word "private" carries the idea of being secluded from the sight, presence, or intrusion of others, the chief example being "a private bathroom." An abortion does not involve privacy. "The decision to have an abortion may have been made in solitude, but the procedure itself included medical intervention and required both the presence and intrusion of others."
Planned Parenthood of Southwest and Central Florida v. State, SC2022-1050 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285280/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1050%20&%20SC2022-1127.pdf

PRIVACY-THE RIGHT TO BE LET ALONE: The right to be let alone has little to do with the autonomy of an individual to make decisions free from government control. Planned Parenthood of Southwest and Central Florida v. State, SC2022-1050 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285280/opinion/Opi nion_SC2022-1050%20&%20SC2022-1127.pdf

STANDING (J. SASSO, CONCURRING): Court should reconsider its standing precedent. We need to clarify the scope of any standing requirements, such as whether parties may assert both legal and factual injuries or whether only a legal injury will suffice, whether standing requirements are truly subject to waiver, or instead whether they are jurisdictional in nature, and we need to provide a principled methodology to help litigants understand which tests to apply when. Planned Parenthood of Southwest and Central Florida v. State, SC2022-1050 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285280/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1050%20&%20SC2022-1127.pdf

STANDING (J. SASSO, CONCURRING): The Florida Constitution does not contain an explicit cases and controversies clause, yet courts sometimes adopt the federal test for standing. Standing standards in Florida have been "somewhat logically inconsistent." Planned Parenthood of Southwest and Central Florida v. State, SC2022-1050 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285280/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1050%20&%20SC2022-1127.pdf

RIGHT OF PRIVACY (J. LABARGA, DISSENTING): "The decision is an affront to this state's tradition of embracing a broad scope of the right of privacy. Planned Parenthood of Southwest and Central Florida v. State, SC2022-1050 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285280/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1050%20&%20SC2022-1127.pdf

RIGHT OF PRIVACY (J. LABARGA, DISSENTING): "I lament that what the majority has done today supplants Florida voters' understanding—then and now—that the right of privacy includes the right to an abortion. The majority concludes that the public understanding of the right of privacy did not encompass the right to an abortion. However, the dominance of Roe in the public discourse makes it inconceivable that in 1980, Florida voters did not associate abortion with the right of privacy. Because of this, and with deep dismay at the action the majority takes today, I dissent." Planned Parenthood of Southwest and Central Florida v. State, SC2022-1050 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285280/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-1050%20&%20SC2022-1127.pdf

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT-BALLOT-ABORTION: Ballot initiative to create a right to abortion before viability is approved. The proposed amendment embraces but one subject—limiting government interference with abortion—and matter directly connected therewith. It does not violate the single-subject provision of Florida's Constitution. Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Limiting Government Interference with Abortion, SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285282/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1392.pdf

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT-BALLOT-SUMMARY: "And we see no basis in law or common sense to require a ballot summary to announce, as if in a warning label, 'caution: this amendment contains terms with contestable meanings or applications.' Voters can see and decide for themselves how the specificity of the proposal's terms relates to the proposal's merits." Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Limiting Government Interference with Abortion, SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285282/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1392.pdf

QUOTE-AMBIGUITY: "Lawyers are adept at finding ambiguity. Show me the text and I'll show you the ambiguity. The predominant reasoning in the dissents would set this Court up as the master of the constitution with unfettered discretion to find a proposed amendment ambiguous and then to deprive the people of the right to be the judges of the merits of the proposal. It would open up a playground for motivated reasoning and judicial willfulness. . .We decline to encroach on the prerogative to amend their constitution that the people have reserved to themselves. Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Limiting Government Interference with Abortion, SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285282/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1392.pdf

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT-BALLOT-SUMMARY (J. GROSSHANS, DISSENTING): "[O]ur statutory duty requires more than simply inspecting the summary for technical compliance. Instead, we determine if the summary clearly explains the chief purpose of the amendment. This will, at times, require the summary do more than simply echo the amendment's text. . .I disagree with the majority's suggestion that if the summary is an 'almost verbatim recitation of the text of the proposed amendment" it cannot be misleading. Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Limiting Government Interference with Abortion, SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285282/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1392.pdf

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT-BALLOT-SUMMARY (J. FRANCIS, DISSENTING): "[T]he issue of abortion—far from the people settling the matter—will continue to be decided by each iteration of this Court. And the summary hides the ball as to the chief purpose of the proposed amendment: which, ultimately, is to—for the first time in Florida history—grant an almost unrestricted right to abortion. Because the summary only parrots the language of the proposed amendment, it explains nothing, and does not disclose its chief purpose. . . It is my view that while the constitution enshrines the reserved right of the people to amend their constitution, this Court also has a role in ensuring the people can exercise that right free of anything that would mislead them or present them with ambiguity. Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Limiting Government Interference with Abortion, SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285282/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1392.pdf

MARIJUANA-RECREATIONAL-BALLOT PROPOSAL: The "Adult Personal Use of Marijuana" initiative to modify Article X, §29 of the Florida Constitution, which would legalize personal use of marijuana by adults, may appear on the ballot. The amendment will immediately allow a Medical Marijuana Treatment Center (MMTC)—an entity already licensed to sell medical marijuana—to distribute cannabis for personal use. Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Adult Personal Use of Marijuana, No. SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285281/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0682.pdf

DEFINITION-"ALLOW" (J. MUÑIZ, CONCURRING): To "allow" means to "permit the presence of" or to "let happen." Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Adult Personal Use of Marijuana, No. SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285281/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0682.pdf

DEFINITION-"ONE" (J. MUÑIZ, CONCURRING): The word "one" means "being a single unit or entire being or thing and no more," or "existing alone in a specified sphere." Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Adult Personal Use of Marijuana, No. SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285281/opinion/Opi

nion_SC2023-0682.pdf

DEFINITION-"DIRECTLY" (J. MUÑIZ, CONCURRING): "Directly" means "straight on along a definite course without deflection or slackening . . . purposefully or decidedly and straight to the mark . . . in a straightforward manner without hesitation, circumlocution, or equivocation." Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Adult Personal Use of Marijuana, No. SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285281/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0682.pdf

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT-SINGLE SUBJECT-HUH? (J. MUÑIZ, CONCURRING): "A narrow reading, I believe, best protects the people's right to self-governance by replacing the Court's nebulous 'oneness of purpose' analysis with a straightforward, analytical framework for examining these proposed amendments. By eliminating the malleable standard associated with 'oneness of purpose"—the definition of which can change depending on the makeup of the Court, and under which many subjects can be construed as one—we both guard electoral integrity, and shift power back to the voters by ensuring they are presented with a proposal that is not 'radically defective.'" Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Adult Personal Use of Marijuana, No. SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285281/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0682.pdf

ONENESS (J. MUÑIZ, CONCURRING): "What may be 'oneness' to one person might seem a crazy quilt of disparate topics to another. 'Oneness,' like beauty, is in the eye of the beholder." Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Adult Personal Use of Marijuana, No. SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285281/opinion/Opi

nion_SC2023-0682.pdf

LEGALIZED MARIJUANA (J. SASSO, DISSENTING): Ballot initiative for legalized marijuana is deceptive for falsely claiming that it allows recreational marijuana use. A state has no power to authorize its residents to participate in conduct that would constitute a federal crime. Consequently, this initiative does not "allow" anything. Instead, whether Floridians are "allowed" to possess marijuana for recreational use will depend on the federal government. A marijuana user in Florida would remain exposed to potential prosecution under federal law. Advisory Opinion to the Attorney General Re: Adult Personal Use of Marijuana, No. SC2023-0682 (4/1/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2285281/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0682.pdf

MARCH 2024

PHOTO LINE UP: "This is the person that shot and robbed me. . .Get that mother f---ker," is an unambiguous identification. USA v. Daniels, No. 22-13590 (11th Cir. 3/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213590.pdf

EVIDENCE-OPINION-IDENTIFICATION: Expert testimony on eyewitness identification is generally disfavored. A district court does not abuse its discretion when it excludes it. USA v. Daniels, No. 13590 (11th Cir. 3/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213590.pdf

PHOTO LINE UP: Whether a photo line up identification is reliable depends on (1) the witness's opportunity to view the accused; (2) the witness's degree of attention; (3) the accuracy of the witness's description; (4) the witness's level of certainty; and (5) the length of time between the crime and the identification. Photo line up of people in civilian clothes is not unduly suggestive. USA v. Daniels, No. 13590 (11th Cir. 3/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213590.pdf

EVIDENCE-IDENTIFICATION-VIDEO: Officer may offer his lay opinion on the identity of the suspect based on the surveillance ideo where the officer had a high enough level of familiarity with the defendant's appearance. USA v. Daniels, No. 13590 (11th Cir. 3/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213590.pdf

VOP: A willful and substantial violation of probation must be supported by competent, substantial evidence. Wilmore v. State, 5D23-0400 (3/28/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2262683/opinion/Opinion_23-0400.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Court must dismiss, rather than deny, a petition for writ of habeas corpus challenging a conviction and sentence. Burns v. State, 5D23-2972 (3/28/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2262686/opinion/Opinion_23-2972.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED: Defendant, charged with burglary of a structure with assault or battery but convicted of burglary of an occupied structure may not challenge the conviction pursuant to R. 3.800(b) on the ground that the lesser was not properly pled. It may appear at first glance that a finding that a structure is occupied is an enhancement to the crime of burglary of an unoccupied structure, but it isn't. Error, if any, is not fundamental. Melton v. State, 1D2022-0574 (3/27/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2263716/opinion/Opinion_2022-0574.pdf

DISCOVERY: No discovery violation occurred where State provided discovery to appointed counsel prior to Defendant choosing to proceed pro se, and even though it did not timely respond to his later discovery request. Even if the State violated the rules of discovery, dismissal of a case due to a discovery violation is a drastic remedy which should only be used sparingly and in extreme situations. Melton v. State, 1D2022-0574 (3/27/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2257515/opinion/Opinion_2022-0574.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: "Habeas corpus is not a vehicle for obtaining additional appeals of issues which were raised or should have been raised on direct appeal, or which could have been, should have been, or were raised in post-conviction proceedings. Dortley v. State, 1D2022-1650 (3/27/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2261543/opinion/Opinion_2022-1650.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF (J. WETHERELL, CONCURRING: "The postconviction process and the appellate courts do not exist simply to give prisoners something to do while they serve their sentences, and there comes a point in every criminal case that the defendant needs to accept the finality of his judgment and sentence and just do his time." Dortley v. State, 1D2022-1650 (3/27/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2261543/opinion/Opinion_2022-1650.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: The $100 cost of prosecution is a minimum cost, and thus need not by requested by State. Rhodes v. State,

1D2022-1945 (3/27/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2253045/opinion/Opinion_2022-1945.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-TIMELINESS: Defendant is not entitled to file a belated R. 3.850 motion for post-conviction relief more than two years later where he had not filed the motion based on counsel's affirmative misadvice that a pending R. 3.800 motion would toll the time to file the R. 3.850. Defendant could have discovered that his counsel misadvised him about the timeliness of his first 3.850. Davis v. State, 1D2022-3617 (3/27/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2261557/opinion/Opinion_2022-3617.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE-APPELLATE COUNSEL: Ineffective assistance of appellate counsel cannot be argued where the issue was not preserved for appeal. Parker v. State, 1D2022-4057 (3/27/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2253365/opinion/Opinion_2022-4057.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy is not implicated in the context of a resentencing following an appeal of a sentencing issue. Bruce v. State, 1D2023-2730 (3/27/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2257607/opinion/Opinion_2023-2730.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: A prematurely filed motion for postconviction relief should be dismissed by a trial court and may be refiled after the direct appeal is final. Moreno Mujica v. State, 2D23-2594 (3/27/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2251706/opinion/Opinion_23-2594.pdf

JURY INSTRUCTION: Appellate courts review the denial of a criminal defendant's request for a special jury instruction under an abuse of discretion standard. Defendant must establish (1) the special instruction was supported by the evidence; (2) the standard instruction did not adequately cover the theory of defense; and (3) the special instruction was a correct statement of the law and not misleading or confusing. Thomas v. State, 3D22-0785 (3/27/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2251747/opinion/Opinion_2022-0785.pdf

EVIDENCE: Court did not err in excluding evidence that Defendant appeared disoriented during the crime and that the victim had met with the State's attorney prior to the trial. Ray v. State, 3D2022-3250 (3/27/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2254590/opinion/Opinion_2022-3250.pdf

PROBATION-CONDITIONS: Where the oral pronouncement is silent with regard to the terms and, more specifically, does not specify either a payment schedule or a time limit for paying costs, Defendant has the entire term of supervision to do so. Ray v. State, 3D2022-3250 (3/27/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2254590/opinion/Opinion_2022-3250.pdf

PROBATION-CONDITIONS: A court's oral pronouncement of sentence controls over the written document. The oral announcement of conditions of probation--Defendant must "enroll" in a batterer's intervention program–controls over the written order--Defendant must "complete" a batterer's intervention program. Ray v. State, 3D2022-3250 (3/27/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2254590/opinion/Opinion_2022-3250.pdf

COSTS: Prosecution cost above the $100 minimum absent evidence supporting it. A request is not enough. Ray v. State, 3D2022-3250 (3/27/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2254590/opinion/Opinion_2022-3250.pdf

RESENTENCING-MANDATE: Where appellate court issued a mandate requiring re-sentencing, the circuit court may not revive the original sentence unless the appellate court recalls the mandate, which it cannot do more than 120 days after it was issued. Intervening Supreme Court change to the law does not matter. Re-sentencing is required. German v. State, 4D2023-0118 (3/27/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2253553/opinion/Opinion_2023-0118.pdf

COMPETENCY: Defendant is entitled to appointment of counsel in hearing for retroactive determination of competency. A nunc pro tunc competency hearing is a crucial stage of the proceedings. Ball v. State, 5D23-0617 (3/22/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2187946/opinion/Opinion_23-0617.pdf

CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES-MANDATORY MINIMUM: 25 year mandatory minimum for aggravated assault with a firearm (discharge) and 5 years with a 3 year mandatiry minimum consecutive for possession of a firearm by a felon is unlawful. Sentences under §775.087(2) must be concurrent where the two crimes were committed during a single criminal episode where there was one victim and with a single shot being discharged that did not strike the victim. There is no authority for imposition of a consecutive sentence for the conviction of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon in the course of the single criminal episode. Gullo v. State, 5D23-2434 (3/22/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2187951/opinion/Opinion_23-2434.pdf

CONSECUTIVE SENTENCES-MANDATORY MINIMUM (J. LAMBERT, CONCURRING): "I concur with the majority opinion because the cited binding precedent requires as much. My view, however, is that the text of section 775.087(2) permits Gullo's consecutive sentences, although I concede that the application of this statute to various factual scenarios has, at times, led appellate courts to conflicting views." Gullo v. State, 5D23-2434 (3/22/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2187951/opinion/Opinion_23-2434.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant must be given an opportunity to amend a R. 3.850 motion to allege the requisite prejudice. Reyburn v. State, 5D23-2943 (3/22/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2187954/opinion/Opinion_23-2943.pdf

HFO-LIFE SENTENCE: Life sentences for sexual battery (2nd degree) and robbery (2nd degree) as a habitual felony offender are unlawful, The maximums are 30 years. Gonzalez Santiago v. State, 6D23-394 (3/22/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2093613/opinion/Opinion_23-0394.pdf

HEARSAY: Where Defendant is charged, along with her sisters, with the ambush shooting of the victim to thwart child visitation, her statement that she owned an AR rifle is not hearsay and is admissible as an admission by a party opponent (Rule 801(d)(2)(A)) Admissions of a party opponent may be introduced as nonhearsay. USA v. Mapson, No. 22-11159 (11th Cir. 3/21/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211159.pdf

ALPR: Court and lower court rulings have failed to directly address ALPR technology (camera systems that capture still photographs of the license plate numbers of vehicles traveling on the road) and whether aggregation of one's public travels implicates Fourth Amendment rights. USA v. Mapson, No. 22-11159 (11th Cir. 3/21/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211159.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-GOOD FAITH EXCEPTION-ALPR: There is very little in the caselaw and academic literature about whether the acquisition of ALPR data constitutes a Fourth Amendment search that requires a warrant. But evidence obtained during a search conducted in reasonable reliance on binding precedent is not subject to the exclusionary rule. "We need not decide whether Carpenter requires a search warrant for ALPR data because the good-faith exception to the exclusionary rule applies." Carpenter was fortuitously decided the day after the ALPR inquiries on Defendant's vehicle were conducted. USA v. Mapson, No. 22-11159 (11th Cir. 3/21/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211159.pdf

EXPERT: Officer need not be an expert to testify about ALPR technology. A lay witness may offer opinion testimony if the testimony is

(a) rationally based on the witness's perception; (b) helpful to clearly understanding the witness's testimony or to determining a fact in issue; and (c) not based on scientific, technical, or other specialized knowledge. Testimony regarding ALPR data does not require expertise or specialized knowledge beyond that of a lay person. It's just a camera taking pictures. USA v. Mapson, No. 22-11159 (11th Cir. 3/21/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211159.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE-CONSPIRACY: Participation in a criminal conspiracy need not be proved by direct evidence; a common purpose and plan may be inferred from a development and collocation of circumstances. USA v. Mapson, No. 22-11159 (11th Cir. 3/21/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211159.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE-DISCHARGE OF FIREARM: Circumstantial evidence is sufficient to convict Defendant Charis of shooting the victim. She was the only Mapson sister who, as a former Marine had trained snipers and had once owned an AR rifle, and had the ability to shoot the victim from 200 yards away. USA v. Mapson, No. 22-11159 (11th Cir. 3/21/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211159.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Circumstantial evidence is sufficient to place Defendant at the scene of the sniper shooting where her truck was captured on the ALPR data; a similar vehicle was seen near the hill from which the shooting happened; her truck contained wig caps, gloves, earplugs, and a handgun; she had purchased two pairs of binoculars and sent a text referring to herself as "Halo," a video game assassin. USA v. Mapson, No. 22-11159 (11th Cir. 3/21/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211159.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Motive, communications with her homicidal sister on the day of the shooting, lying to the victim to keep him at the planned ambush site, and her elaborate and shifting statements to the authorities support conviction. "And fourth, there is common sense." USA v. Mapson, No. 22-11159 (11th Cir. 3/21/24):

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211159.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENTS-GENERAL PRACTICE: Under a new subdivision of R. 2.215, a party may prompt a judge to rule on a matter that has been pending for more than 60 days by filing a notice with the clerk and serving a copy on the judge. Other minor tweaks. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rules of General Practice and Judicial Administration, SC2023-0837 (3/21/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/2175428/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-0837.pdf

SENTENCING-UPWARD VARIANCE-PROCEDURAL REASONABLENESS: Court may impose an upward variance sentence of 120 months rather than the 60 month recommended sentence from the plea-bargain for possession of a firearm in furtherance of a drug trafficking crime where Defendant continued to deal in drugs, leading to at least one death, while in jail following his arrest. USA v. Owens, No. 22-11799 (3/20/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211799.pdf

SENTENCING-UPWARD VARIANCE-PROCEDURAL REASONABLENESS: The district court abuses its discretion if the factual findings it uses in a sentencing enhancement are clearly erroneous. But a decision to vary upward from the Sentencing Guidelines' recommendation based on uncharged conduct can be based on evidence presented at the sentencing hearing and reasonable inferences therefrom. Court may conclude that the strips with which the Defendant was caught in jail was Suboxone without the production of a toxicology report. Where the government presents unrebutted, credible firsthand testimony and the defendant presents no evidence at all, the government has proved its version of events is more likely true than not. USA v. Owens, No. 22-11799 (3/20/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211799.pdf

SCORESHEET-VICTIM INJURY: Victim injury points may not be assessed where jury specifically found that appellant had not intentionally caused bodily harm to another. Jones v. State, 4D2022-3184 (3/20/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2162155/opinion/Opinion_2022-3184.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-MARIJUANA-ODOR: The odor of fresh marijuana, fresh or burnt, and the officer's visual observations of marijuana establish probable cause to search a vehicle. §381.986(14)(a) requires that medical marijuana must remain in its original packaging. State v. Fortin, 4D2023-1460 (3/20/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2162148/opinion/Opinion_2023-1460.pdf

DURESS: A defendant's self-serving assertion, which is not supported by any other evidence, will not support reversal of a trial court's discretionary decision not to give the duress instruction. Stallworth v. State, 1D 1D2022-2030 (3/20/23)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2176170/opinion/Opinion_2022-2030.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was ineffective for eliciting, and not objecting to, evidence of other, uncharged sexual acts. Johnson v. State, 1D2022-2298 (3/20/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2165513/opinion/Opinion_2022-2298.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was ineffective for asking detective whether he had obtained or tried to obtain a statement from Defendant, opening the door to Defendant exercising his Miranda rights. Johnson v. State, 1D2022-2298 (3/20/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2165513/opinion/Opinion_2022-2298.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: The trial court's denial of a downward departure sentence is only appropriate when the trial court misapprehends its discretion to depart or refuses to exercise that discretion as a matter of policy. Baker v. State, 1D2022-3570 (3/20/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2167344/opinion/Opinion_2022-3570.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED: Defendant is not entitled to credit for time spent on bail subject to electronic monitoring. Baker v. State, 1D2022-3570 (3/20/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2167344/opinion/Opinion_2022-3570.pdf

RESTITUTION: Victim is not entitled to restitution for lost wages corresponding to appointments lost in her illicit, unlicensed cosmetologist practice after Defendant stole her occupational supplies. "The expected income from the victim's illicit cosmetology appointments cannot serve as the basis for establishing a fair market value-based restitution award." S.L.L., a Child v. State, 1D2023-1253 (3/20/24)

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-OOPS: After a lengthy, seven-claim, hand-written motion seeking to vacate his convictions and sentence, a "notice of inquiry," a "motion to hear and rule," a petition seeking a writ to compel, an amended motion and an emergency motion to expedite a ruling on his sentencing scoresheet claim, a supplement to that motion, another notice of inquiry, a petition for writ of habeas corpus, and another notice of inquiry, Defendant loses. "Mr. Morris, unfortunately, soon will learn that the sentencing scoresheet claim—which he is spending the most time needling the trial court about—is procedurally barred as an issue he could have raised on direct appeal." Morris v. State. 1D2023-1253 (3/20/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2162171/opinion/Opinion_2023-1253.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Alleged failure to impeach a testimony on a minor detail does nit warrant a new trial where client had confessed during a controlled call and there was a cell phone recording of he and the victim engaging in unlawful sexual activity on the morning in question. Taluy v. State, 2D23-1213 (3/20/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2161275/opinion/Opinion_23-1213.pdf

MOOTNESS-NO FLY LIST: Voluntary cessation of a challenged practice moots a case only if the defendant can show that the practice cannot reasonably be expected to recur. Removing the Plaintiff from a No Fly List does not render the case moot because he may be relisted. The Government's declaration that the plaintiff "will not be placed on the No Fly List in the future based on the currently available information" is not enough. A live case or controversy cannot be so easily disguised, and a federal court's constitutional authority cannot be so readily manipulated. "Put simply, the government's sparse declaration falls short of demonstrating that it cannot reasonably be expected to do again in the future what it is alleged to have done in the past." FBI v. Fikre, No. 22–1178 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/19/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-1178_p8k0.pdf

PLEA: Defendant is not entitled to withdraw his plea for taking pornographic images of the sleeping minor girl on the rounds that the Court failing to advise him that the child needed to have volitionally participated in the sexual act. The statute (18 U.S.C. §2251(a)) does not so require. USA v. Wright, No. 22-12338 (11th Cir. 3/19/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212338.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: A petition for writ of habeas corpus is the appropriate vehicle for challenging an order denying pretrial release. The court may, on its own motion, revoke pretrial release and order pretrial detention if the court finds probable cause to believe that the defendant committed a new crime while on pretrial release, even if the new charge is No Info'ed. The statute contains no requirement that the State prosecute the new crime. Irizarry v. State, 6D24-27 (3/18/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2136886/opinion/Opinion_24-0027.pdf

SENTENCING-SAFETY VALVE-CRIMINAL HISTORY: To qualify for safety-valve relief, a defendant must not have more than 4 criminal history points, a 3-point offense, and a 2-point violent offense. A person fails to meet the requirement (and so cannot get relief) if he has any one of the three. A prior 3-point offense (a sentence exceeding 13 months) makes one ineligible for safety valve. Pulsifer v. United States, No. 22–340 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/15/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-340_3e04.pdf

"AND": "'And,' in grammatical terms, is of course a conjunction—a word whose function is to connect specified items. Both parties here agree with that elementary proposition. . . The word 'and,' each might say, means . . . well, and. . . 'And,' they recite in concert, means 'along with or together with.' . . .Where things get more complicated is in figuring out what goes along or together with what." Pulsifer v. United States, No. 22–340 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/15/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-340_3e04.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: "[G]rammar is not the primary determinant of meaning." Pulsifer v. United States, No. 22–340 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/15/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-340_3e04.pdf

STATUTORY INTERPRETATION: "[W]e do not demand (or in truth expect) that Congress draft in the most translucent way possible." Pulsifer v. United States, No. 22–340 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/15/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-340_3e04.pdf

SENTENCING-SAFETY VALVE-CRIMINAL HISTORY (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "Adopting the government's preferred interpretation guarantees that thousands more people in the federal criminal justice system will be denied a chance—just a chance—at an individualized sentence. For them, the First Step Act offers no hope. Nor, it seems, is there any rule of statutory interpretation the government won't set aside to reach that result. Ordinary meaning is its first victim. Contextual clues follow. Our traditional practice of construing penal laws strictly falls by the wayside too. Replacing all that are policy concerns we have no business considering. Respectfully, I would not indulge any of these moves." Pulsifer v. United States, No. 22–340 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/15/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-340_3e04.pdf

"AND" (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "At the heart of today's dispute lies no specialized term but perhaps the most ordinary of words: Everything turns on what work the word "and" performs." Pulsifer v.

United States, No. 22–340 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/15/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-340_3e04.pdf

CANONS (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "Without question, the canon against superfluity can be a useful tool when seeking the meaning of a statute. It rests on the same principle as the canon of meaningful variation: the presumption that Congress is a careful drafter and each word it chooses 'is there for a reason.'. . .But that fact also makes the government's choice to rest its case on the superfluity canon a curious one. . . Sometimes, it seems, we are supposed to assume Congress was sloppy, other times careful. The only common thread seems to be what benefits the government in the moment." Pulsifer v. United States, No. 22–340 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/15/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-340_3e04.pdf

RULE OF LENITY (J. GORSUCH, DISSENTING): "[A] free nation operates against a background presumption of individual liberty." Pulsifer v. United States, No. 22–340 (U.S. S. Ct. 3/15/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-340_3e04.pdf

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS: Where information was filed within the three years statute of limitations, but never executed until after its expiration, Defendant is entitled to discharge unless the delay can be justified. The term "executed" means completion of service on the defendant, and the filing of a detainer–Defendant was serving a separate prison sentence-- is not the equivalent of the process contemplated by §775.15. Morreale v. State, 5D23-607 (3/15/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2092762/opinion/Opinion_23-0697.pdf

DISCOVERY-MEDICAL RECORDS : Government did not violate Brady by failing to disclose confidential medical records held by other medical service providers which were not in the possession of the Government. Although Brady requires the government to tender to the defense all exculpatory evidence in its possession, it establishes no obligation on the government to seek out such evidence. "In other words, the Due Process Clause. . .does not require the prosecution to conduct fishing expeditions for the defense." USA v. Markovich, No. 22-10978 (11th Cir. 3/14/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210978.pdf

EXPERT TESTIMONY: Government witness is permitted to testify —based on her unquestioned experience and education in substance-abuse treatment and her in-depth review of a sample of patients' records—about specific instances of misconduct at the Defendants' in pill mill clinic. USA v. Markovich, No. 22-10978 (11th Cir. 3/14/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210978.pdf

EVIDENCE-SUMMARY TESTIMONY: Summary evidence is admissible to prove the contents of voluminous records that cannot be conveniently examined in court, provided that they are supported by evidence in the record. Summary testimony may be based on a subset of the records. USA v. Markovich, No. 22-10978 (11th Cir. 3/14/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210978.pdf

APPEAL-FORFEITED ISSUE: An appellant forfeits an issue when he raises it in a perfunctory manner without supporting arguments and authority. USA v. Markovich, No. 22-10978 (11th Cir. 3/14/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210978.pdf

NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Evidence that witness had been taken to a hospital surely before the trial is not newly discovered evidence to impeach the witness's testimony that he had not used drugs for several months. Even if that were the case, it would be cumulative.

USA v. Markovich, No. 22-10978 (11th Cir. 3/14/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210978.pdf

ADVERSARY PRELIMINARY HEARING-CHILD HEARSAY: Inadmissible child hearsay may not be used to establish probable cause in a 21-day adversary preliminary hearing. Hearsay testimony (not falling within some exception to the rule excluding hearsay) does not, by itself, meet the state's burden at an adversary preliminary hearing under R. 3.133(b). The proper question is not whether the evidence offered is hearsay or nonhearsay, but whether it is admissible or inadmissible hearsay. Larioszambrno v. State, 3D23-0331 (3/14/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2085736/opinion/Opinion_2024-0331.pdf

COST OF PROSECUTION: State is not required to request the mandatory court costs of prosecution of $50 for a misdemeanor or $100 for a felony. Brown v. State, 1D2022-3371 (3/13/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2081883/opinion/Opinion_2022-3371.pdf

APPEAL: A defendant may appeal an issue following a no contest or guilty plea only when the issue is expressly reserved and legally dispositive, or if based on an asserted involuntariness of the plea if the Appellant first sought to withdraw the plea in the trial court. Leija Moreno v. State, 1D2023-1189 (3/13/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2083766/opinion/Opinion_2023-1180.pdf

MOOTNESS: A case is “moot” when it presents no actual controversy or when the issues have ceased to exist. A moot case generally will be dismissed. Appellate court may dismiss an appeal on its own motion if it appears that under no circumstances can the relief prayed be made effective. Granville v. State, 1D2023-2518 (3/13/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2074353/opinion/Opinion_2023-2518.pdf

EVIDENCE-RELEVANCE-GUN: A different gun than the one used in a crime is not relevant. Johnson v, State, 2D23-15 (3/13/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2070312/opinion/Opinion_23-0015.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on his claim that counsel was ineffective for failing to object to the admission of the firearm because the State had failed to establish a connection between the firearm and the crime, rendering it irrelevant and inadmissible. Johnson v, State, 2D23-15 (3/13/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2070312/opinion/Opinion_23-0015.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: For postconviction claims for newly discovered evidence relating to guilty plea, first, the evidence must not have been known by the trial court, the party, or counsel at the time of the plea, and it must appear that the defendant or defense counsel could not have known of it by the use of diligence. Second, the defendant must demonstrate a reasonable probability that, but for the newly discovered evidence, the defendant would not have pleaded guilty and would have insisted on going to trial. Williams v. State, 3D22-1727 (3/13/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2078273/opinion/Opinion_2022-1727.pdf

JUVENILE OFFENDER: In conducting a sentencing hearing pursuant to related §921.1401, the trial court is not required to make factual findings of any statutory factor not relevant nor considered by the court, only that it must make specific findings on the record that all relevant factors have been reviewed and considered prior to imposing a sentence of life imprisonment or its functional equivalent. Morgan v. State, 3D22-1828 (3/13/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2080756/opinion/Opinion_2022-1828.pdf

JIMMY RYCE: Where, by the plain and unambiguous terms of the plea agreement, the State agreed to suspend civil commitment in exchange for the fulfillment of certain delineated requirements, and Defendant did not fulfill them, he is subject to involuntary civil commitment as a sex offender. A plea agreement is a contract and the rules of contract law are applicable to plea agreements. Rogers v. State, 3D22-2047 (3/13/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2078276/opinion/Opinion_2022-2047.pdf

EVIDENCE-IMPEACHMENT-PRIORS-OPENING THE DOOR: Where witness, impeached by prior felonies, said "none . . . were violent for real," the door is not opened to further testimony about the underlying facts. Facey v. State, 3D23-1323 (3/13/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2070874/opinion/Opinion_2023-1323.pdf

SIX-PERSON JURY: A six-person jury Is constitutional. Lee v. State, 4D2022-1806 (3/13/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2084592/opinion/Opinion_2022-1806.pdf

HVFO/PRR: Court, rather than a jury, may make the factual finding that Defendant committed his offense within three years of his release from prison for purposes of classifying him as a Habitual Violent Felony Offender and a Prison Release Reoffender. But stay tuned for Erlinger, now pending before the U. S. Supreme Court. Lee v. State, 4D2022-

1806 (3/13/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2084592/opinion/Opinion_2022-1806.pdf

SCORESHEET-PRIOR RECORD: A "prior record" is "a conviction for a crime committed by the offender prior to the time of the primary offense. The only offenses that may be included under 'prior record' are those committed by the offender prior to the commission of the primary offense. Offenses which occurred after the Defender's primary offense should not be included on the scoresheet as a "prior record. Offenses committed while in custody awaiting trial on the instant offenses are not prior offenses. Quarles v. State, 4D2022-2265 (3/13/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2084594/opinion/Opinion_2022-2265.pdf

INVESTIGATIVE COSTS: Before a trial court can impose investigative costs, the investigative agency must request them. State cannot request investigative costs on remand. Cadejuste v. State, 4D2023-0224 (3/13/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2086375/opinion/Opinion_2023-0224.pdf

SENTENCING-DOWNWARD DEPARTURE: Court's failure to impose a downward departure sentence is not an illegal sentence subject to a R. 3.800(b)(2) challenge. Defendant cannot raise a new ground for downward departure by way of R. 3.800(b)(2). R. 3.800(b)(2) does not allow a defendant a second bite at the apple. Ocean v. State, 4D2023-0705 (3/13/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2086376/opinion/Opinion_2023-0705.pdf

TWELVE PERSON JURY: Nope. Just six. Ocean v. State, 4D2023-0705 (3/13/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2086376/opinion/Opinion_2023-0705.pdf

ARREST WARRANT-AFFIDAVIT: Officer who wrote affidavit for arrest warrant which omitted material exculpatory facts (dash cams, security cameras, and cell phone location data confirming the suspect's alibi) violates the 14th Amendment. Officer who provides a probable cause affidavit which intentionally or recklessly makes misstatements or omissions necessary to support the warrant is civilly liable for malicious prosecution. Sylvester v. Fulton County Jail, No, 22-13258 (11th Cir. 3/11/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213258.pdf

LIFE SENTENCE-JUVENILE OFFENDER: For two murders committed as a juvenile, two consecutive life sentences, each with the possibility of parole after 25 years, do not violate the Eighth Amendment. Homicides and non-homicides distinguished. Garner v. State, 2D22-866 (3/8/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2022975/opinion/Opinion_22-0866.pdf

SENTENCING: A conflict between the trial court's oral pronouncement and its written order of probation should be resolved in favor of the oral pronouncement. Campbell v. State, 6D23-303 (3/8/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2023305/opinion/Opinion_23-0393.pdf

DEPORTATION-AGGRAVATED FELONY: Domestic violence battery is an aggravated felony under the INA, which makes one removable and statutorily ineligible for both cancellation of removal and asylum. Edwards v. US Attorney General, (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201915077.op2.pdf

DEPORTATION-AGGRAVATED FELONY: An "aggravated felony" is a crime of violence for which the term of imprisonment is at least one year. An original sentence of 12 months confinement allowed to be served on probation is a term of imprisonment of at least one year, even if Defendant is permitted to serve part or all of that sentence on probation and even if the sentence is later reduced to under one year, unless the modification was because of a defect such as a violation of a constitutional right. Edwards v. US Attorney General, (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201915077.op2.pdf

DEPORTATION-INA: A "term of imprisonment" under the Immigration and Naturalization Act includes all parts of a sentence of imprisonment from which the sentencing court excuses the defendant, even if the court itself describes the excuse with a word other than "suspend." Edwards v. US Attorney General, (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201915077.op2.pdf

PRIOR PANEL PRECEDENT RULE: Each succeeding panel is bound by the holding of the first panel to address an issue of law, unless and until that holding is overruled en banc, or by the Supreme Court. Under the prior panel precedent rule, Court has a duty to reconcile, where possible, prior precedents that appear to be in tension and to distill from apparently conflicting prior panel decisions a basis of reconciliation and to apply that reconciled rule. Edwards v. US Attorney General, (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201915077.op2.pdf

JURISPRUDENCE: "Relying on and agreeing with a decision is not an all or nothing proposition. If it were, opinions concurring in part and dissenting in part would not exist, yet opinions that do exactly that are abundant in the reporters. We have all written them." Edwards v. US Attorney General, (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/201915077.op2.pdf

INDICTMENT: An indictment need not allege in detail the factual proof that will be relied upon to support the charges. An indictment which lists the essential elements of the offense, specifies the date, and the kind of controlled substance distributed is legally sufficient. An indictment does not need to lay out the Government's theory of the case. USA v. Gbenedio, No. 22-12044 (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212044.pdf

EVIDENCE: Testimony about other companies implicated in pill mill operations, offered to show how the investigation led to the Defendant, was admissible and not unfairly prejudicial where Defendant had raised the issue. The introduction of evidence about other people's convictions was not only invited by defense counsel; it was introduced by him. USA v. Gbenedio, No. 22-12044 (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212044.pdf

OPINION EVIDENCE: Lay opinion must be rationally based on the witness's perception; helpful to clearly understanding the witness's testimony or to determining a fact in issue; and not based on scientific, technical, or other specialized knowledge. Lay opinion testimony cannot provide specialized explanations or interpretations that an untrained layman could not make if perceiving the same events. Expert opinion, by contrast, is opinion testimony based on scientific, technical, or other specialized knowledge. The distinction sometimes blurs when testimony is based on professional work. USA v. Gbenedio, No. 22-12044 (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212044.pdf

OPINION-LAY OPINION: Officer's testimony about how pill mill's work is admissible lay opinion, not expert opinion. USA v. Gbenedio, No. 22-12044 (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212044.pdf

IMPEACHMENT: Court did not err in excluding extrinsic evidence to impeach witness's testimony that he had not been arrested where ultimately the witness admitted that he had been. USA v. Gbenedio, No. 22-12044 (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212044.pdf

IMPEACHMENT: Rule 608(b) prohibits extrinsic evidence for the purpose of attacking a witness's "character for truthfulness," not "credibility." The absolute prohibition on extrinsic evidence applies only when the sole reason for proffering that evidence is to attack or support the witness's character for truthfulness. Put differently, the absolute prohibition applies only when extrinsic evidence is offered to prove that a witness is a liar in general. But it does not bar extrinsic evidence offered to prove that a witness lied on the stand. USA v. Gbenedio, No. 22-12044 (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212044.pdf

FINE: A $200,000 fine is lawful where Defendant failed to prove inability to pay, in part by failing to cooperate with the probation officer's requests for financial information. When a defendant is not forthcoming about his financial circumstances, the district court may find that he has not carried his burden of proving inability to pay. USA v. Gbenedio, No. 22-12044 (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212044.pdf

PRE-SENTENCE REPORT: Failure to object to allegations of fact in a PSRadmits those facts for sentencing purposes. USA v. Gbenedio, No. 22-12044 (11th Cir. 3/6/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212044.pdf

CHILD HEARSAY: Child hearsay alone (the CPT interview) is sufficient to support a conviction for child molestation where the Child's trial testimony is that she did not remember some of the acts. Failing to remember is distinguishable from recantation. Scott v. State, 1D2021-3118 (3/6/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2019278/opinion/Opinion_2021-3118.pdf

EVIDENCE-INFERENCE (J. TANENBAUM, CONCURRING): When a witness testifies as to a fact based not on personal observation, but on his or her own inference from personal observation, the testimony is of questionable competence to prove the fact. A witness's testimony about his own conclusion from what he observed can be said to prove nothing. Scott v. State, 1D2021-3118 (3/6/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2019278/opinion/Opinion_2021-3118.pdf

CREDIT FOR TIME SERVED-VOP: Where defendant's sentences were originally all running concurrently to each other, he is entitled to credit on each count for prior time served and sentenced to consecutive time on violation of probation. Brown v. State, 1D2022-0609 (3/6/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2015992/opinion/Opinion_2022-0609.pdf

SENTENCE-JUVENILE OFFENDER: Mandatory without parole life or the functional equivalent of life sentences for juvenile homicide offenders violates the 8th Amendment. Two consecutive 30-year sentences, to be served at the conclusion of his life-with-parole (after 25 years) sentence is not the functional equivalent of life, at the least when gain time is figured in. Ingraham v. State, 2D23-0025 (3/6/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2014942/opinion/Opinion_2023-0025.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: When the trial court fails to make the appropriate factual findings regarding prosecution costs above the statutory minimum, costs will be reduced to the mandatory minimum amount ($100). Kee v. State, 4D2002-0416 (3/6/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2018469/opinion/Opinion_2022-0416.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel was not ineffective for failing to move in limine to exclude an image of Defendant brandishing a gun on a different occasion when it was undisputed that he had shot the victim. State v. Morris, 4D2023-0117 (3/6/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2015522/opinion/Opinion_2023-0117.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Where trial counsel are experienced, they are entitled to a presumption that he acted reasonably. State v. Morris, 4D2023-0117 (3/6/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2015522/opinion/Opinion_2023-0117.pdf

SEARCH AND SEIZURE-REASONABLE SUSPICION-DUI: Defendant speeding, driving in the left lane, hitting the right-side lane marker once, and then drifting at least a couple of inches into the right lane justifies the stop. Tyson v. State, 4D2023-1104 (3/6/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/2015524/opinion/Opinion_2023-1104.pdf

SECOND AMENDMENT: Second Amendment does not permit felons to possess a firearm. The right to possess a firearm extends only to law-abiding, responsible citizens. Felons are unqualified as a class because they are not law-abiding citizens. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 3/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.pdf

PRIOR PANEL PRECEDENT RULE: The prior-panel-precedent rule provides that 'a prior panel's holding is binding on all subsequent panels unless and until it is overruled or undermined to the point of abrogation by the Supreme Court or by the appellate court sitting en banc. An intervening Supreme Court decision abrogates our precedent only if the intervening decision is both clearly on point and clearly contrary to the earlier decision. To abrogate a prior-panel precedent, the later Supreme Court decision must demolish and eviscerate each of its fundamental props. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 3/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.pdf

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE: Fake names, addresses, and phone numbers for both himself and the recipient; the fact that Defendant falsely certified that this information was accurate; and that he paid for the transaction in cash are legally sufficient evidence that the Defendant had shipped the package contained firearms. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 3/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE: A marijuana conviction is a predicate controlled substance offense under the Sentencing Guidelines. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 3/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE: A drug regulated by state law is a "controlled substance" for state predicate offenses, even if federal law does not regulate that drug. More precisely, state law defines which drugs qualify as a "controlled substance" if the prior conviction was under state law, and federal law defines which drugs qualify as a "controlled substance" if the prior conviction was under federal law. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 3/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE-CATEGORICAL APPROACH: The categorical approach requires the appellate court to compare the guideline definition of "controlled substance offense" with the state statute of conviction. Unless the least culpable conduct prohibited under the state law qualifies as a predicate controlled substance offense, the defendant's state conviction cannot be the basis of an enhancement under the guidelines, regardless of the actual conduct underlying the conviction. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 3/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.pdf

CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE: A "controlled substance" under §4B1.2(b)'s definition of "controlled substance offense" is, for prior state offenses, a drug regulated by state law at the time of the conviction, even if it is not federally regulated, and even if it is no longer regulated by the state at the time of federal sentencing. "We adopt a time-of-state-conviction rule: the term "controlled substance" . . . means a substance regulated by state law when the defendant was convicted of the state drug offense, even if it is no longer regulated when the defendant is sentenced for the federal firearm offense. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 3/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.pdf

SENTENCING-GUIDELINES-STOLEN GUN ENHANCEMENT: The two-level stolen-gun enhancement does not require proof that the defendant knew that the gun was stolen. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 3/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.pdf

PRIOR PANEL PRECEDENT RULE-EARLIEST CASE RULE: Under the earliest case rule, when prior panel precedents conflict, the earlier case controls. A later panel is bound by the reasoning of the first panel's ruling. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 3/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.pdf

FINE: The guidelines require the district court to impose a fine in every case, unless the defendant establishes that he is presently unable to pay a fine and will not likely become able to pay one in the future. If the defendant did not object to the fine at sentencing, the sentencing court is not required to make specific findings of fact with respect to the Sentencing Guideline factors. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 3/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.pdf

FINE: Defendant must specifically and clearly object to any disputed facts listed in the presentence investigation report; otherwise, those facts are deemed admitted. A vague, general objection to a fine and sentence as "substantively unreasonable is insufficient. USA v. Dubois, No. 22-10829 (11th Cir. 3/5/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210829.pdf

FREE SPEECH: Florida companies may not be prohibited from holding mandatory meetings highlighting diversity, equity, and inclusion issues. Florida's Individual Freedom Act ("Stop W.O.K.E. Act) violates the First Amendment. "We. . .reject this latest attempt to control speech by recharacterizing it as conduct. Florida may be exactly right about the nature of the ideas it targets. Or it may not. Either way, the merits of these views will be decided in the clanging marketplace of ideas rather than a codebook or a courtroom." Honeyfund.com, Inc. v. Governor, State of Florida, No. 22-13135 (1th Cir. 3/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213135.pdf

FREE SPEECH: "By limiting its restrictions to a list of ideas designated as offensive, the Act targets speech based on its content. And by barring only speech that endorses any of those ideas, it penalizes certain viewpoints—the greatest First Amendment sin." Honeyfund.com, Inc. v. Governor, State of Florida, No. 22-13135 (1th Cir. 3/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213135.pdf

FREE SPEECH: "The only way to discern which mandatory trainings are prohibited is to find out whether the speaker disagrees with Florida. That is a classic—and disallowed—regulation of speech." Honeyfund.com, Inc. v. Governor, State of Florida, No. 22-13135 (1th Cir. 3/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213135.pdf

FREE SPEECH: Florida's attempt to defend the Individual Freedom Act as a restriction on the conduct of holding the mandatory meeting, not a restriction on the speech that takes place at that meeting "reflects a clever framing,. . "[b]ut the fact that only mandatory meetings that convey a particular message and viewpoint are prohibited makes quick work of Florida's conduct-not-speech defense. . .In short, the disfavored "conduct" cannot be identified apart from the disfavored speech. That duality makes the Act a textbook regulation of core speech protected by the First Amendment." Honeyfund.com, Inc. v. Governor, State of Florida, No. 22-13135 (1th Cir. 3/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213135.pdf

FREE SPEECH: 'Florida proposes. . .that even if speech defines the contours of the prohibition, so long as the resulting burden is on the conduct, that conduct is all the state is regulating. That, in turn, means the law does not regulate speech. Remarkable. Under Florida's proposed standard, a government could ban riding on a parade float if it did not agree with the message on the banner. The government could ban pulling chairs into a circle for book clubs discussing disfavored books. And so on. The First Amendment is not so easily neutered." Honeyfund.com, Inc. v. Governor, State of Florida, No. 22-13135 (1th Cir. 3/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213135.pdf

FREE SPEECH: "Banning speech on a wide variety of political topics is bad; banning speech on a wide variety of political viewpoints is worse." "No matter how hard Florida tries to get around it,. . .the answer is clear: Florida's law exceeds the bounds of the First Amendment. . . No matter how controversial the ideas, allowing the government to set the terms of the debate is poison, not antidote." Honeyfund.com, Inc. v. Governor, State of Florida, No. 22-13135 (1th Cir. 3/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213135.pdf

FREE SPEECH: "This is not the first era in which Americans have held widely divergent views on important areas of morality, ethics, law, and public policy. And it is not the first time that these disagreements have seemed so important, and their airing so dangerous, that something had to be done. But now, as before, the First Amendment keeps the government from putting its thumb on the scale." Honeyfund.com, Inc. v. Governor, State of Florida, No. 22-13135 (1th Cir. 3/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213135.pdf

FREE SPEECH: "Intellectual and cultural tumult do not last forever, and our Constitution is unique in its commitment to letting the people, rather than the government, find the right equilibrium. Because the Individual Freedom Act's mandatory-meeting provision. . ., it must be enjoined. Honeyfund.com, Inc. v. Governor, State of Florida, No. 22-13135 (1th Cir. 3/4/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213135.pdf

APPEAL-JURISDICTION: State may appeal an order dismissing a petition for delinquency. "But the order on review did not dismiss the State's petition; it simply granted A.M.C.'s motion to dismiss. In the civil context, such an order is nonfinal and nonappealable. . .In criminal cases, however, other districts have found similar orders appealable. . .. . .We agree with the reasoning of our sister courts and conclude that we have jurisdiction to review the order granting A.M.C.'s motion to dismiss. Affirmed." State v. A.M.C., 2D505 (3/1/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1974325/opinion/Opinion_23-0505.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: In denying motion for postconviction relief, the court must attach portions of the record showing no entitlement to relief addressing all, not some, of the claims raised. Council v. State, 5D23-0488 (3/1/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1974903/opinion/Opinion_23-0488.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-TIMELINESS: The date of the mandate from the appeal, not the date of the entry of the judgment, starts the two-year filing window under R 3.850. Royal v. State, 5D23-2819 (3/1/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1974915/opinion/Opinion_23-2819.pdf

PROBATION-CONDITION- NO CONTACT: Where a condition of probation directed Defendant to have no contact with his ex-wife, Defendant does not violate it by taking their son to her home to pick up a few items before school, parking in the street, and waiting in the car. Cruz v. State, 6D23-919 (3/1/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1975923/opinion/Opinion_23-0919.pdf

FEBRUARY 2024

APPEAL WAIVER: An appeal waiver does not bar a defendant's claim that the government breached the very plea agreement which purports to bar him from appealing. USA v. Tripodis, No. 22-12826 (11th Cir. 2/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212826.pdf

PLEA AGREEMENT: When the plea agreement language is ambiguous, it is construed against the government because a plea agreement is a waiver of substantial constitutional rights requiring that the defendant be adequately warned of the consequences of it. USA v. Tripodis, No. 22-12826 (11th Cir. 2/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212826.pdf

PLEA AGREEMENT: A plea agreement in which the Government promised to recommend a total custodial sentence of 60 months does not preclude the Government recommending consecutive supervised release, where the plea colloquy show that the Defendant understood supervised release was possible. "We pause to note that, in the future, the government should make it clear in these circumstances what it is promising—and what it is not—to the defendant. . .As the government is the drafter of the plea agreement, it should dispel any alleged ambiguities by clearly indicating whether it intends to recommend supervised release." USA v. Tripodis, No. 22-12826 (11th Cir. 2/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212826.pdf

PLEA AGREEMENT: Court does not impermissibly modify the plea agreement by adding a term of supervised release. USA v. Tripodis, No. 22-12826 (11th Cir. 2/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202212826.pdf

KNOWLEDGE OF SUBSTANCE: For conspiracy to transport methamphetamine, the Government is required to prove that the Defendant knew that the unlawful purpose of the plan was distribution of a controlled substance, not that he knew the substance was methamphetamine. All that listing methamphetamine in the indictment did was provide an element of an enhanced penalty under §841(b)—which does not carry a knowledge requirement. Gray v. State, No. 22-13516 (11th Cir. 2/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213516.pdf

JOA: A motion for judgment of acquittal may be renewed either at the conclusion of the evidence, after the jury's discharge, or within fourteen days after a guilty verdict. Gray v. State, No. 22-13516 (11th Cir. 2/29/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213516.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Evidence of Defendant's anti-white and pro-Moorish sovereign beliefs did not improperly inject race, politics and religion into the penalty phase. Evidence tended to establish an all-encompassing motive for the murders of two police officers and . Allowing the State to show that Defendant acted on his hatred of law enforcement contextualized the murders and was not unfairly prejudicial. Miller v. State, SC2022-0745 (2/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1968694/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0745.pdf

APPEAL-ISSUE-PRESERVATION: A general objection to expert testimony ("I object to that as well") does not preserve the new argument on appeal that content analysis lacks sufficient scientific reliability. Miller v. State, SC2022-0745 (2/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1968694/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0745.pdf

MURDER-PREMEDITATION-DIMINISHED CAPACITY: Although a defendant is free to argue that premeditation is lacking, a defendant may not present "evidence of diminished mental capacity to negate the specific intent required to convict of first-degree premeditated murder. Argument that Defendant was mentally unwell and thus did not—or could not—form the specific intent to commit premeditated first-degree murder is not permitted. Miller v. State, SC2022-0745 (2/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1968694/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0745.pdf

DEATH PENALTY: Changes in the law–elimination of proportionality review, elimination of the reasonable hypothesis of innocence standard, and "aggravator creep"–do not unconstitutionally increase the risk of arbitrary infliction of death sentences. Miller v. State, SC2022-0745 (2/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1968694/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0745.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-MERCY INSTRUCTION: In death penalty case, Defendant is not entitled to a jury instruction on mercy. Miller v. State, SC2022-0745 (2/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1968694/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0745.pdf

DEATH PENALTY-VICTIM IMPACT: Introduction of victim impact videos-8 minute photo montage without music played in rebuttal just before jury deliberations--is not an abuse of discretion. There does not appear to be any authority for the proposition that victim impact information can only be presented in the State's case-in-chief. Miller v. State, SC2022-0745 (2/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1968694/opinion/Opinion_SC2022-0745.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT-CONTINUING LEGAL EDUCATION: The Rules Regulating The Florida Bar are amended to reduce the required number of required CLE credit hours from 33 to 30. In Re: Amendments to Rules Regulating the Florida Bar - Continuing Legal Education, SC2023-1412 (2/29/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1968695/opinion/Opinion_SC2023-1412.pdf

PAROLE: Good cause in exceptional circumstances may be used as a stand-alone basis for extending a Presumptive Parole Release Date (PPRD). Kolb v. Florida Commission on Offender Review, 1D2021-3587 (2/28/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965909/opinion/Opinion_2021-3587.pdf

COSTS OF PROSECUTION: A cost of prosecution under §938.27(8) is mandatory, is not an investigative cost, and need not be requested. Hartfield v. State, 1D2022-2194 (2/28/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1966308/opinion/Opinion_2022-2194.pdf

COSTS-PUBLIC DEFENDER: $300 public defender fee is excessive without the requisite findings. Should be $100. Hartfield v. State, 1D2022-2194 (2/28/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1966308/opinion/Opinion_2022-2194.pdf

COSTS-FDLE FEE: $100 FDLE fee under §938.055 is discretionary and may not be imposed without affording the defendant notice and an opportunity to be heard. Hartfield v. State, 1D2022-2194 (2/28/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1966308/opinion/Opinion_2022-2194.pdf

SECOND AMENDMENT: Florida's statute prohibiting felons from possessing firearms is constitutional. Gulley v. State, 1D 2022-2356 (2/28/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1966011/opinion/Opinion_2022-2356.pdf

SECOND AMENDMENT (J. TANENBAUM, CONCURRING): Only law-abiding citizens have the right to bear firearms under the Second Amendment. A convicted felon, by definition, is not a law-abiding citizen. Upon being convicted of a felony, a citizen's legal status changes. With this adjudicated change in status, the citizen automatically loses several liberties, including the liberty to possess a firearm. Gulley v. State, 1D 2022-2356 (2/28/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1966011/opinion/Opinion_2022-2356.pdf

VOP: If a trial court revokes a defendant's probation, the court is required to render a written order noting the specific conditions of probation that were violated. Johnson v. State, 3D22-937 (2/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965113/opinion/Opinion_2022-0937.pdf

EVIDENCE-COLLATERAL CRIME: Evidence of a broken car window helped establish the entire context out of which the charged crime, violation of a domestic violence injunction, occurred and further helped to describe the events leading up to the violation. Aviles v. State, 3D22-1593 (2/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965320/opinion/Opinion_2022-1593.pdf

JUDGE-ADMONISHMENT: Although the better practice is to excuse the jury before admonishing an attorney in open court, reproving defense counsel in the jury's presence does not, in itself, constitute reversible error. Region v. State, 3D22-0685 (2/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965111/opinion/Opinion_2022-0685.pdf

JURY SELECTION: A venire member's expression of an opinion before the entire panel is not normally considered sufficient to taint the remainder of the panel. Moise v. State, 3D22-1610 (2/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1967933/opinion/Opinion_2022-1610.pdf

CONTINUANCE: The general rule is that the granting or denial of a motion for continuance is within the discretion of the trial court. Moise v. State, 3D22-1610 (2/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1967933/opinion/Opinion_2022-1610.pdf

APPEAL-PLEA: Appellate court lacks jurisdiction to hear appeal challenging the voluntariness of a plea where Appellant failed to file a motion to withdraw his plea in the trial court. There is no fundamental-error exception to the preservation requirement of R. 9.140(b)(2)(A)(ii)(c). Martinez-Ruiz v. State, 3D23-1178 (2/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1966679/opinion/Opinion_2023-1178.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: If the State fails to file formal charges against the defendant within the 90-day (or, for a felony, 175-day) period, the defendant can seek final discharge without first filing the Notice of Expiration, but the uniform traffic citation constitutes a formal charge. (Note: a pending proposed rule change would change this). Patino v. State, 3D23-1702 (2/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965917/opinion/Opinion_2023-1702.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-WRIT OF PROHIBITION-DELAY: A petition for writ of prohibition (filed following the denial of Defendant's 1st motion for speedy trial discharge) does not delay the trial. Where Defendant later files a notice of speedy trial expiration, even while the first petition for writ of prohibition remains pending, Defendant must be brought to trial within 15 days or be discharged. "Because this court did not issue an order to show cause or otherwise impose a stay of the trial court proceedings during the pendency of the petition, and because the trial court retained jurisdiction to proceed, the petition for writ of prohibition did not delay Patino's trial and the speedy trial period continued to run during the pendency of the prohibition proceeding in this court." Patino v. State,

3D23-1702 (2/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965917/opinion/Opinion_2023-1702.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL-WRIT OF PROHIBITION-APPEAL: "More recent opinions. . .have called our decisions [that a petition for writ of prohibition does not constitute an appeal] into question. . .In any event, we need not reach the question. . ., since, as explained, it is undisputed that Patino's trial was not delayed by the earlier prohibition proceeding in this court. We therefore leave this separate question for another day." Patino v. State, 3D23-1702 (2/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965917/opinion/Opinion_2023-1702.pdf

STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION: A fundamental canon of statutory construction is that courts must endeavor to give meaning to each word and phrase contained in a statute or rule, and courts should avoid readings that would render part of a statute meaningless. Words cannot be meaningless, else they would not have been used. If possible, every word and every provision is to be given effect (verba cum effectu sunt accipienda). Patino v. State, 3D23-1702 (2/28/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965917/opinion/Opinion_2023-1702.pdf

RECLASSIFICATION: Under the 10-20-Life statute, aggravated battery is reclassified to a first-degree felony when a weapon or firearm is used in committing the felony, except a felony in which the use of a weapon or firearm is an essential element. Aggravated battery is properly reclassified to a first-degree felony because firearm possession is not an essential element of the crime. In order to support the enhancement, the jury must be given the option of finding the defendant guilty of aggravated battery with great bodily harm without also finding the defendant guilty of aggravated battery with a deadly weapon. Garnes v.

State, 4D2021-3219 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965920/opinion/Opinion_2021-3219.pdf

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT-MANDTORY MINIMUM: Aggravated assault is no longer subject to a mandatory minimum sentence under §775.087. The maximum sentence is five years. Garnes v. State, 4D2021-3219 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965920/opinion/Opinion_2021-3219.pdf

10-20-LIFE-MANDATORY MINIMUM: Under the 10-20-Life statute, where defendant discharged a firearm causing great bodily harm, he is subject to a minimum term of imprisonment of not less than 25 years and not more than life in prison, even if that mandatory minimum exceeds the statutory maximum. But in order to exceed the statutory maximum, the entire sentence must be a mandatory minimum. Garnes v. State, 4D2021-3219 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965920/opinion/Opinion_2021-3219.pdf

RETROACTIVITY-AMENDED STATUTE: Savings Clause of the Florida Constitution allows amendments to criminal statutes to be applied retroactively to pending prosecutions or sentences. This means that, where Defendant's offense occurred prior to the amendment to the 10-20-Life statute, since he was sentenced after the amendment, he must be sentenced under the amended version of the statute, which omitted th4 mndatory minimum for aggravated assault. Garnes v. State, 4D2021-3219 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965920/opinion/Opinion_2021-3219.pdf

SENTENCE-ORAL PRONOUNCEMENT. No contact orders are a part of sentencing and must be orally pronounced. Garnes v. State, 4D2021-3219 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965920/opinion/Opinion_2021-3219.pdf

PRR-HFO: Court may impose a single sentence pursuant to both the Prison Releasee Reoffender and the habitual felony offender statutes, but the HFO portion of the sentence must be longer than the PRR portion of the sentence. Court must divide the portion of the sentence designated as Prison Releasee Reoffender from the habitual felony offender sentence. Roberson v. State, 4D2022-2931 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965931/opinion/Opinion_2022-2931.pdf

APPEAL: "[A]n appellate court is not required to wear blinders in addressing a properly preserved argument that lacks citation to legal authority." Paise v. State, 4D2023-1103 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965962/opinion/Opinion_2023-1103.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND-CONDO: Condo owner has SYG immunity for throwing a roll of duct tape at the property manager and a code inspector, and swatting the cell phone out of the victim's hand, after they opened the private elevator door to her unit's foyer to take a picture. The men were not legally entitled to use a master key fob to override Defendant's exclusive access to her private home, nor were they legally entitled to hold the elevator door open so that the code inspector could continue to intrude on her privacy by taking photographs of its interior. Paese v. State, 4D2023-1103 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965962/opinion/Opinion_202

3-1103.pdf

DISSENSION ON THE COURT: "[T]he dissent accuses the majority of departing from neutrality by reaching the very issue argued by her in this appeal. We have unquestionably determined this appeal in a neutral and detached manner with fidelity to the law." Paese v. State, 4D2023-1103 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965962/opinion/Opinion_2023-1103.pdf

DISSENSION ON THE COURT-TIPSY COACHMAN: "The dissent also incorrectly asserts that we have improperly used the tipsy coachman rule to grant relief. We have not. The tipsy coachman rule provides that 'if a trial court reaches the right result, but for the wrong reasons, it will be upheld if there is any basis which would support the judgment in the record.'. . .We do not conclude that the trial court reached the 'right result.' To the contrary, we conclude that the trial court reached the wrong result." Paese v. State, 4D2023-1103 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965962/opinion/Opinion_2023-1103.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND: SYG law (776.031(1)) does not include any requirement of a threat of "physical harm" before a person is justified in using or threatening to use non-deadly force in defense of personal property. Paese v. State, 4D2023-1103 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965962/opinion/Opinion_2023-1103.pdf

STAND YOUR GROUND (J. FORST, CONCURRING): "Paese. . .threw a roll of duct tape into the elevator, and she 'struck' the phone from the purported victim's hand. . .[She] used a minimal level of force, with no indication of an intent to cause pain or harm. She did not swing a bat or any other object, nor did she punch or bite or kick anybody. There is no claim that she threw the duct tape with the intent or ability to harm anybody (the defendant is named Paese, not Nolan Ryan or Sandy Koufax), or that her striking the hand of the individual taking photos/video had the force of a karate practitioner. . .This minimal force employed here was proportionate and reasonable." Paese v. State, 4D2023-1103 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965962/opinion/Opinion_2023-1103.pdf

DISSENSION ON THE COURT (J. GROSS, DISSENTING): "The majority opinion departs from hundreds of years of settled law. . .The majority opinion mischaracterizes the facts and misapplies the law.. . .This is not a case where brigands were at the door of hearth and home, bent on pillage and plunder." Paese v. State, 4D2023-1103 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965962/opinion/Opinion_2023-1103.pdf

COMMON LAW-TAKING PICTURES INSIDE CONDOS: "In a result-oriented exercise of jurisprudence, the majority opinion holds that the defendant was reasonably using non-deadly force to prevent or terminate the. . .victim's conduct of taking photographs of the interior of the defendant's home. . .The majority's analysis represents a sea change in. . .600 years of the common law." Paise v. State, 4D2023-1103 (2/28/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1965962/opinion/Opinion_2023-1103.pdf

HEARSAY/NON-HEARSAY: A witness's out-of-court statement to a police officer may be admissible if offered for a relevant non-hearsay purpose—such as the effect a statement had on a listener—and the probative value of the evidence's non-hearsay purpose is not substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice. USA v. Kent,

No. 22-13068 (11th Cir. 2/26/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213068.pdf

HEARSAY/NON-HEARSAY: In a RICO case involving the predicate acts of murdering a cooperating witness and an earlier attempted murder, officer's testimony from a preliminary hearing that the cooperating witness had said that Defendant had been involved in the earlier attempted murder is admissible to show motive for the murder of the witness by other gang members, who had heard the testimony. The testimony was not hearsay because it was offered for the effect it had on the listeners–it is why they murdered the witness--and not for the truth of the matter asserted. USA v. Kent, 93 F.4th 1213 (11th Cir. 2024). https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202213068.pdf

VOP-HEARSAY: Hearsay evidence that Defendant was discharged from a sex offender treatment program is insufficient to sustain a violation. While hearsay is admissible in a revocation proceeding, it may not be the sole basis for the revocation. But a new revocation proceeding is not required where, as here, it is clear that the Court have imposed the same sentence for other proven allegations. Gibson v. State, 2D22-2305 (2/23/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1913252/opinion/Opinion_22-2305.pdf

JUVENILE OFFENDER- LIFE SENTENCE: Attempted felony murder with a firearm requires a mandatory life sentence for a Prison Releasee Reoffender (PRR), but under the"10-20-Life" law, the trial court has discretion to sentence Defendant to anything between twenty-five years and life imprisonment day-for-day. The 8th amendment requires that a juvenile offender–including a P.R.R.-- may not be sentenced to a minimum mandatory life sentence for a nonhomicide crime without any possibility of release. Graham trumps the P.R.R. staute. Resentencing required. "Because we reverse for a full resentencing, we need not determine whether it is possible to harmonize the statutory prohibition against a defendant ever being released from a PRR life sentence and Graham's specific prohibition against imposing that very sentence for a nonhomicide offense committed by a juvenile." Battle v. State, 2D22-2763 (2/23/24)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1913260/opinion/Opinion_22-2763.pdf

JOA-THEFT-VALUE: JOA is required where there is insufficient evidence to prove the value necessary for first-degree petit theft. Second-degree petit theft judgment to be entered. J.R. v. State, 2D22-3946 (2/23/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1913264/opinion/Opinion_22-3946.pdf

DISMISSAL-SEVERED OFFENSES: R. 3.151(c) requires dismissal of severed Possession of Cocaine and Resisting without Violence counts following Defendant's trial and acquittal on the Possession of a Firearm by a Felon count. All counts were charged in the same information, triable in the same court, and were connected episodically, temporally and geographically. James v. State, 5D23-221 (2/23/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1914141/opinion/Opinion_23-0221.pdf

COSTS-VOP: On VOP, Court may not reassesses the $100 cost of prosecution, $100 cost of indigency defense, and $50 public defender's application fee previously imposed when Defendant was first sentenced. Anderson v. State, 5D22-2734 (2/23/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1914144/opinion/Opinion_23-2734.pdf

HABITUAL TRAFFIC OFFENDER: Defendant who proves compliance with §318.14(10)(b) is entitled to removal of the Habitual Traffic Offender designation. The clerk of court shall submit an amended disposition to remove the habitual traffic offender designation" if proof of compliance is provided. The clerk of courts is a ministerial officer of the court and, as such, is not endowed with any discretion. Strickland v. State, 5D23-2914 (2/23/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1914145/opinion/Opinion_23-2914.pdf

APPEAL-HABITUAL TRAFFIC OFFENDER: Defendant may appeal Court's denial of a motion to remove the HTO designation imposed after a final judgment and finding of guilt have been entered. R. 9.140(b)(1)(D) allows appeals from orders entered after final judgment or a finding of guilt. Strickland v. State, 5D23-2914 (2/23/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1914145/opinion/Opinion_23-2914.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy bars court from setting aside the verdicts as logically inconsistent and ordering a retrial. where Defendant was found "not guilty by reason of insanity" with respect to a malice-murder count, but "guilty but mentally ill" for felony murder and aggravated assault. all based on one underlying homicide. McElrath v. Georgia, No. 22–721 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/21/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-721_kjfl.pdf

ACQUITTAL-DEFINITION: "An acquittal is an acquittal." McElrath v. Georgia, No. 22–721 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/21/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-721_kjfl.pdf

ACQUITTAL-DEFINITION: An acquittal encompasses any ruling that the prosecution's proof is insufficient to establish criminal liability for an offense. Once rendered, a jury's verdict of acquittal is inviolate. An acquittal might reflect a jury's determination that the defendant is innocent of the crime charged, or be the result of compromise, compassion, lenity, or misunderstanding of the governing law. Whatever the basis, the Double Jeopardy Clause prohibits second-guessing the reason for a jury's acquittal. The jury holds an unreviewable power to return a verdict of not guilty even for impermissible reasons. McElrath v. Georgia, No. 22–721 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/21/24)
https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-721_kjfl.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY (J. ALITO, CONCURRING): "[T]he situation here is different from one in which a trial judge refuses to accept inconsistent verdicts and thus sends the jury back to deliberate further. Some States follow this practice, and our decision does not address it. . .Nothing that we say today should be understood to express any view about whether a not-guilty verdict that is inconsistent with a verdict on another count and is not accepted by the trial judge constitutes an 'acquittal' for double jeopardy purposes. McElrath v. Georgia, No. 22–721 (U.S. S.Ct. 2/21/24)

https://www.supremecourt.gov/opinions/23pdf/22-721_kjfl.pdf

SEX OFFENDER REGISTRATION–JURY INSTRUCTIONS: Homeless offenders must report to the local Sheriff's office; Sexual offenders who have moved must report to the DMV. Where the information cites the statute number for homeless sexual offenders (§943.0435(4)(b)1.), but the language in the information mentions a failure to update an address (which suggests a violation of §943.0435(4)(a)), and the actual jury instruction was a hybrid which fit neither statute, error is not fundamental. Nava v. State, 1D2022-1820 (2/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1903566/opinion/Opinion_2022-1820.pdf

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: Failing to instruct on an element of the crime over which the record reflects there was no dispute is not fundamental error. If the jury instruction incorrectly defines an element in a manner that makes it easier for the State to obtain a conviction, no fundamental error occurs if the defendant does not dispute that element at trial. Defendant argued that he never changed his residence at all, and never disputed where he was required to report. Nava v. State, 1D2022-1820 (2/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1903566/opinion/Opinion_2022-1820.pdf

FUNDAMENTAL ERROR: Appellate courts should find fundamental error in only the rarest of cases. To allow broad direct review of a criminal trial on the basis of fundamental error supplies no motivation whatsoever to a defense attorney to object when various errors occur throughout a trial in order to keep a "hip-pocket" appeal. Nava v. State, 1D2022-1820 (2/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1903566/opinion/Opinion_2022-1820.pdf

SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY: D.O.C. employees have sovereign immunity against claims that the destroyed Plaintiff's boxes of legal documentsp intentionally and in retaliation. The state is immune from tort claims that are based on an employee acting in bad faith or with a malicious purpose. Dixon v. Scott, 1D2022-2620 (2/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1894578/opinion/Opinion_2022-2620.pdf

HEARING-TESTIMONY-ADMISSIBILITY: Generally speaking, a defendant's testimony at a pretrial /hearing is admissible in evidence at later proceedings. State v. Lincoln, 1D2022-2868 (2/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1894582/opinion/Opinion_2022-2868.pdf

MOTION IN LIMINE-SYG TESTIMONY: Where Defendant had testified at his Stand Your Ground hearing (believing he had the burden of proof), his testimony from that hearing is admissible at trial. "Although with hindsight the court and counsel's burden-of-proof mistake might have prompted Appellee to testify earlier than he wanted, nothing indicates that it was coerced or unintelligent as a constitutional matter." Without his testimony, Defendant surely would have lost the SYG hearing anyway; he had shot at an unarmed five-foot three woman 3 times while she was at least ten feet away from him and on the other side of a counter. State v. Lincoln, 1D2022-2868 (2/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1894582/opinion/Opinion_2022-2868.pdf

TESTIMONY-PRETRIAL HEARING-SYG: The rule that a defendant may not be required to surrender one constitutional right to assert another right does not extend to self-defense immunity decisions involving a defendant's pursuit of pretrial immunity. Self-defense immunity is entirely a creature of state statute. State v. Lincoln, 1D2022-2868 (2/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1894582/opinion/Opinion_2022-2868.pdf

NELSON HEARING: When a defendant moves to discharge counsel, a trial court is not automatically required to inform the defendant about his right of self-representation. Shaw v, State, 1D2022-3301 (2/21/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1894620/opinion/Opinion_2022-3301.pdf

JOA: Defendant is not entitled to a judgment of acquittal, notwithstanding that in his recorded trial testimony, the 97-year-old victim described the intruder as a stocky white male with short, brownish hair but in the 911 call described him as a black male with dreadlocks, weighing around 250 pounds, driving a red pickup truck, where other evidence–including DNA–implicated Defendant. Shaw v, State, 1D2022-3301 (2/21/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1894620/opinion/Opinion_2022-3301.pdf

VOP-HEARSAY: A probation officer's hearsay testimony, by itself, that another person told him or her the probationer no longer lived at the residence is insufficient to support a change of residence violation, even coupled with the probationer's absence when the officer visited. Hand v. State, 1D 2023-0256 (2/21/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1903788/opinion/Opinion_2023-0256.pdf

INEFFECTIVE ASSISTANCE- APPELLATE COUNSEL: Defendant may not claim ineffective assistance of appellate counsel for missing an issue in filing an Anders brief. "There simply cannot be a cognizable claim for ineffective assistance of appellate counsel in this situation because the panel in the underlying appeal presumably conducted its own 'full and independent review of the record to discover any arguable issues.'. . .[A]n affirmance by the appellate court in essence is the court's determination that the appellant has received his constitutionally guaranteed right to effective assistance from counsel." Mack v. State, 1D2023-0414 (2/21/24) https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1895287/opinion/Opinion_2023-0414.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-DISCOVERY: An order of the court deciding that Appellant is not entitled to postconviction discovery is not among the class of orders independently appealable by a defendant pursuant to F.R.App.Pr. 9.140(b)(1). Daniels v, State, 1D2023-1889 (2/21/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1898357/opinion/Opinion_2023-1889.pdf

VIDEO-SILENT WITNESS: Video footage derived from a residential surveillance system, properly authenticated, is admissible under the "silent witness" theory. R.V. a Juvenile v. State, 3D22-1697 (2/21/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1915645/opinion/Opinion_2022-1697.pdf

EVIDENCE-AUTHENTICATION-SILENT WITNESS: Authentication is a relatively low bar. It only requires evidence sufficient to support a finding that the matter in question is what its proponent claims. To overcome concerns regarding manipulation of photographic evidence, typically, the proponent of the evidence invokes a traditional foundation, commonly referred to as the "pictorial testimony" theory: "Does this photograph fairly and accurately depict [the subject]?" But under the "silent witness" method, a photograph may be admitted upon a showing of the reliability of the production process. R.V. a Juvenile v. State, 3D22-1697 (2/21/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1915645/opinion/Opinion_2022-1697.pdf

EVIDENCE-AUTHENTICATION-SILENT WITNESS: Florida courts have developed a non-exhaustive list of guiding factors for use in determining the reliability of the production process. Relevant factors include: (1) whether the evidence establishes the date and time the image was captured; (2) evidence of image manipulation; (3) the condition and capability of the equipment that produced the image; (4) procedural consideration relating to the preparation, testing, operation, and security of the equipment involved; and (5) testimony identifying any participants depicted in the image. R.V. a Juvenile v. State, 3D22-1697 (2/21/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1915645/opinion/Opinion_2022-1697.pdf

VOP-ASSOCIATING WITH CRIMINALS: Defendant properly found to be in violation of probation for associating with people engaged in criminal activity sitting in an alley with a guy smoking cocaine. Association exists if a defendant spends a reasonably long time with someone and the defendant is comfortable around the other person. For an association to be willful, a defendant needs to be aware that the individual he is associating with is engaged in criminal activity during the association. Orta v. State, 3D22-2024 (2/21/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1917775/opinion/Opinion_2022-2024.pdf

VOP: Where parties resolved a violation of community control by announcing that Defendant would serve 364 days in jail, to be mitigated by enrolling and successfully completing boot camp, failure to complete boot camp is not a violation of supervision. The terms of the plea agreement did not include any such requirement. Golfin v, State, 3D23-0286 (2/21/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1915651/opinion/Opinion_2023-0286.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Convictions for both grand theft and defrauding a financial institution violate double jeopardy principles. Grand theft is a lesser included offense of organized fraud for double jeopardy purposes. Koerber v. State, 4D2022-3025 (2/21/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1918175/opinion/Opinion_2022-3025.pdf

EVIDENCE-VIDEOS-SILENT WITNESS: Bank manager may authenticate video. Photographs and videos from unmanned cameras are tested for admissibility under the "silent witness" theory, which provides that photographic evidence may be admitted upon proof of the reliability of the process which produced it. Five factors for admissibility under the "silent witness" theory: (1) evidence establishing the time and date of the photographic evidence; (2) any evidence of editing or tampering; (3) the operating condition and capability of the equipment producing the photographic evidence as it relates to the accuracy and reliability of the photographic product; (4) the procedure employed as it relates to the preparation, testing, operation, and security of the equipment used to produce the photographic product, including the security of the product itself; and (5) testimony identifying the relevant participants depicted in the photographic evidence. Koerber v. State, 4D2022-3025 (2/21/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1918175/opinion/Opinion_2022-3025.pdf

COST OF SUPERVISION: $50 monthly cost of supervision as a condition of probation, unless orally pronounced, is unlawful. The appropriate costs supervision is $40 per month. Abernathy v. State, 4D2-2022-3318 (2/21/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1916288/opinion/Opinion_2022-3318.pdf

SCORESHEET-VICTIM INJURY POINTS: Law in effect in 1988 permitted addition of victim injury points only once per victim per criminal episode.. Sentencing guidelines were later amended to require penetration points for each offense. Huston v. State, 4D2023-2221 (2/21/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1918201/opinion/Opinion_2023-2221.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-MANIFEST INJUSTICE: Collateral estoppel does not bar relitigation where failure to correct illegal life sentences would be manifestly unjust. Sentencing errors that depend upon the number of criminal episodes and result in an illegal sentence may be raised in a rule 3.800(a) motion if the number of episodes can be determined from the face of the record. Huston v. State, 4D2023-2221 (2/21/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1918201/opinion/Opinion_2023-2221.pdf

RE-SENTENCING-NON-STATE PRISON: Where Court improperly sentenced Defendant (who scored non-state prison) to prison, upon remand the Court must impose a non-state prison sanction or, if requested by the State, empanel a jury to make the needed factual determinations. Manago v. State, 5D20-632 (2/16/24)

https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1845152/opinion/Opinion_20-0632.pdf

VOP: Court must enter a written order stating the conditions that had been violated. Hevia v. State, 5D22-0915 (2/16/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1845153/opinion/Opinion_22-0915.pdf

VOP: Court must enter a written order stating the conditions that had been violated. Veltman v. State, 2D22-2838 (2/16/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1845154/opinion/Opinion_22-2838.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double jeopardy precludes convictions on both grand theft of a motor vehicle and grand theft of the contents (the gun in the center console) when there is one act of taking (of the car and its contents) with no geographic or temporal separation between two acts of taking. Arroyo v. State, 6D23-0653 (2/16/24)
https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1842504/opinion/Opinion_23-0653.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-AEDPA: Under AEDPA, a federal court may not grant habeas relief to a state prisoner with respect to any claim that was adjudicated on the merits in State court, unless the adjudication (1) was contrary to, or unreasonably applied, clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court, or (2) resulted in a decision that was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts. A state-court adjudication involves an "unreasonable application of" clearly established federal law only if the decision was so obviously wrong that its error lies beyond any possibility for fairminded disagreement. AEDPA constrains federal-court authority to correct all but the most obvious state-court errors. Bowen v. Sec'y, Florida DOC, No. 22-11744 (11th Cir. 2/15/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211744.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-AEDPA: State court's determination that placing two juvenile co-defendants in a bugged room to record admissions while they talked to each other did not violate the Fifth Amendment is not so obviously wrong as to permit federal relief. Bowen v. Sec'y, Florida DOC, No. 22-11744 (11th Cir. 2/15/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211744.pdf

FIFTH AMENDMENT-JUVENILE (J. WILSON, CONCURRING): "[W]hat I do find troubling is how Bowen's age interplays with the voluntariness of his confession. . . I do not contend that age should be dispositive. I do however . . .contend that the 'greatest care' should be exercised to ensure that a juvenile's statements were voluntarily and freely given." Bowen v. Sec'y, Florida DOC, No. 22-11744 (11th Cir. 2/15/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211744.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-AEDPA: Where Defendant was convicted of felony murder based on the death of his passenger after a pursuing officer performed a 110 M.P.H. pit maneuver (Counsel did not request a proximate cause instruction, although Georgia law requires proximate cause), he is not entitled to federal habeas corpus relief. Because the Georgia Supreme Court held that the PIT maneuver and the manner in which it was performed was not an intervening cause, that is the final answer. What the Supreme Court of Georgia says is Georgia law is Georgia law. Calhoun v. Warden, Calhoun State Prison, No 22-10313 (11TH Cir 2/15/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210313.pdf

HUH? WHAT? HUH?: "The proper prejudice standard [for ineffective assistance of counsel claims] is not preponderance. . .Instead of a probability of a different result, there need be only a 'reasonable probability' of a different result. The difference is whether it is more likely than not the result would have been different under the preponderance standard compared to whether there is enough possibility that there would have been a different result that the reviewing court's confidence in the outcome is undermined." Calhoun v. Warden, Calhoun State Prison, No 22-10313 (11TH Cir 2/15/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210313.pdf

ARTICULATED NON-FLUBBERY: "A word of caution, or actually a full paragraph of it, is appropriate here: The Supreme Court's decision in Williams and our decision today should not be misread to mean that a state court decision isn't entitled to AEDPA deference unless the opinion quotes with precision, without shorthand references, and with flawless consistency the proper federal standard of reasonable probability of a different result. . .[A] perfectly articulated, non-flub, ambiguity-free discussion of the prejudice component is not required in a state court opinion for AEDPA deference to be due." Calhoun v. Warden, Calhoun State Prison, No 22-10313 (11TH Cir 2/15/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210313.pdf

BAR: Rules amended to allow certified legal interns to practice up to 18 months after law school graduation, and to have up to three chances to pass the bar exam. In Re: Amendments to Rule Regulating The Florida Bar 11-1.8, SC2024-0053 (2/15/24)

J. LABARGA, J., DISSENTING IN PART: "I again dissent to the Court's adoption of this amendment on its own motion. . . Even where, as here, a rule change is unlikely to be controversial, I think the better practice in all but the most urgent instances is for this Court to publish proposed rule amendments for comment before adoption." In Re: Amendments to Rule Regulating The Florida Bar 11-1.8, SC2024-0053 (2/15/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1833656/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0053.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: Trial court may dismiss, rather than transfer, a habeas petition when the petitioner seeks relief that "(1) would be untimely if considered as a motion for postconviction relief under rule 3.850, (2) raise claims that could have been raised at trial or, if properly preserved, on direct appeal of the judgment and sentence, or (3) would be considered a second or successive motion under R. 3.850 that either fails to allege new or different grounds for relief that were known or should have been known at the time the first motion was filed. Rogers v. Dixon, 1D2023-0388 (2/14/24)

https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1826703/opinion/Opinion_2023-0388.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: In order to vacate a conviction after a plea based on newly discovered evidence, Movant must show that he would have reasonably withdrawn from his plea agreement and proceeded to trial. A court should consider the totality of the circumstances surrounding the plea, including such factors as whether a particular defense was likely to succeed at trial. Daise v. State, 1D2022-2955 (2/14/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1826693/opinion/Opinion_2022-2955.pdf

JUDGE-DISQUALIFICATION: Judge may not be disqualified for exercising his discretion to reject a plea offer which waived PRR. A judge retains authority to alter a prior plea arrangement up until the time sentence is imposed, so long as the trial court provides the defendant an opportunity to withdraw any plea that was entered in reliance on the promised sentence. Frazier v. State, 3D22-1298 (2/14/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1835573/opinion/Opinion_2022-1298.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVED ISSUE: Defendant may not raise on appeal a conflict between an oral pronouncement and the written finding of a violation of probation absent a quantitative effect on the sentence without a contemporaneous objection or a motion to correct sentence. Frazier v. State, 3D22-1298 (2/14/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1835573/opinion/Opinion_2022-1298.pdf

ANTI-SHOPLIFTING DEVICE-POCKETKNIFE: "Because the undisputed facts failed to establish that he used or attempted to use the pocketknife recovered from his person, let alone that the instrument itself satisfied the plain and unambiguous statutory definition of 'any item or device which is designed, manufactured, modified, or altered to defeat any antishoplifting or inventory control device,' we are constrained to reverse and remand with instructions to dismiss the challenged charge." Mocombe v. State, 3D23-184 (2/14/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1826170/opinion/Opinion_2023-0184.pdf

MINOR OFFENDER: A defendant may be sentenced to life without parole for one homicide offense, consecutively followed by two concurrent life-without-parole sentences for related non-homicide offenses, because the defendant has an opportunity for a meaningful review after each (up to fifty years later). A State is not required to guarantee eventual freedom to a juvenile offender convicted of a non-homicide crime. Conflict certified. Johnson v. State, 4D2022-0876 (2/14/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1823103/opinion/Opinion_2022-0876.pdf

SECOND AMENDMENT-FIREARM: Statute prohibiting possession of a firearm by a convicted felon is constitutional. Paul v. State, 4D2022-1455 (2/14/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1824660/opinion/Opinion_2022-1455.pdf

PATIENT BROKERING: The allowable unit of prosecution for patient brokering (receiving payment for patient referrals) is each transaction, not the general arrangement between health care providers. Payments to different entities for referrals of the same patients on the same days can be charged as different violations of the Patient Brokering Act because the correct unit of prosecution is each payment made to induce the referral of patients or patronage. State v. DeSimone, 4D2022-2104 (2/14/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1827267/opinion/Opinion_202

2-2104.pdf

MOTION TO DISMISS: As a general rule, Court may not hold an evidentiary hearing on a R. 3.190(d) motion to dismiss based on disputed issues of fact (here, the unit of prosecution). Exceptions to the rule include motions to dismiss based on immunity, Stand Your Ground immunity, and prosecutorial misconduct. State v. DeSimone, 4D2022-2104 (2/14/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1827267/opinion/Opinion_2022-2104.pdf

SENTENCING-NON STATE PRISON: Where Defendant scores non-state prison (under 22 points), one year in the county jail, to be followed by two years' community control is lawful. Nothing in §775.082(10) restricts the aggregate duration of all nonstate prison sanctions to one year. "[W]e are mindful that if the defendant was to violate his community control or probation, any resulting sentence to a state correctional facility, beyond the one year which the defendant will have already served in the county jail, raises the issue of whether such further incarceration would be illegally excessive. . .However, that issue is not ripe for consideration." Pozos v. State, 4D2023-0248 (2/14/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1827275/opinion/Opinion_2023-0248.pdf

RESISTING WITHOUT VIOLENCE-NON-UNANIMOUS VERDICT: Where the State does not affirmatively advise the jury that it can convict using any number of acts as the essential element of the crime, the possibility of a non-unanimous verdict does not constitute fundamental error. Lee v. State, 4D2023-1156 (2/14/24)

https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1823124/opinion/Opinion_2023-1156.pdf

APPEAL WAIVER: Serial bomber whose plea agreement for multiple life sentences included an appeal waiver may not collaterally attack the sentences for not being for crimes of violence under the categorical approach. Rudolph v. USA, No. 21-12828 (11th Cir. 2/12/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112828.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS: §2255 habeas actions are vehicles for attacking sentences, not convictions. §2255 cannot be used to challenge convictions, only sentences. "There may be mechanisms by which Rudolph can collaterally challenge his convictions, but 2255 is not one of them." Rudolph v. USA, No. 21-12828 (11th Cir. 2/12/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112828.pdf

DICTA: As a rule, a statement that neither constitutes the holding of a case, nor arises from a part of the opinion that is necessary to the holding of the case is dicta. And dicta is not binding on anyone for any purpose. "Both of these points are crucial . . to avoiding the risk that stray language will take on importance in a new context that its drafters could not have anticipated." Rudolph v. USA, No. 21-12828 (11th Cir. 2/12/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112828.pdf

APPEAL WAIVERS: There is no miscarriage of justice exception to the general rule that appeal waivers are enforceable. Even if there were, Rudolph would not qualify for relief for any number of reasons. Rudolph v. USA, No. 21-12828 (11th Cir. 2/12/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202112828.pdf

RISK PROTECTION ORDER: Court may not deny a petition for a Risk Protection Order without a hearing. "Simply put, section 790.401(3)(a) does not provide a trial court with discretion regarding whether a final hearing should be held on a petition for risk protection order." Polk County Sheriff's Office v. A.C,N, A Minor, 6D23-2558 (2/12/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1806307/opinion/Opinion_23-2558.pdf

RELINQUISHMENT OF JURISDICTION: If Child is eligible to have his probation terminated pursuant to §985.435(7), appellate court may relinquish jurisdiction to the trial court. R. M. A., a juvenile v. State, 3D23-1110 (2/9/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1773385/opinion/Opinion_2023-1110.pdf

CONFESSION-VOLUNTARINESS: "it's okay, sweetie, I'm just here to talk to you" and informed S.G. she was not in trouble. Detective's statements to child ("it's okay, sweetie, I'm just here to talk to you" and informing her that she was not in trouble) did not amount to an implied promise of leniency or coercion. State v. S.G., 6D23-520 (2/9/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1772791/opinion/Opinion_23-0520.pdf

HEARSAY-CO-CONSPIRATOR STATEMENTS: When a conspiracy is established, everything said, written, or done by any of the conspirators in execution furtherance of the common purpose is deemed to have been said, done, or written by every one of them and may be proved against each, but only if the conspiracy itself has been established by independent evidence, i.e., not adduced from the hearsay testimony. The requirement of independent evidence is a condition of admissibility. The Child's admissions can constitute that independent evidence. State v. S.G., 6D23-520 (2/9/24)

https://6dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1772791/opinion/Opinion_23-0520.pdf

PLEA-PRESERVATION-STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS: A defendant

waives the right to appeal a court's decision on a pretrial motion by entering a guilty plea. An unconditional guilty plea waives all non-jurisdictional defects, including a statute of limitations defense. USA v. Sanfilippo, No. 22-11175 (11th Cir 2/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211175.pdf

PLEA-PRESERVATION-STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS Government's comment at the end of the sentencing hearing that it would probably allow Defendant's to withdraw his guilty plea and dismiss the charges if a pending appeal in a different, similar case established that the statute of limitations barred a conviction is not sufficient evidence that the issue was preserved. USA v. Sanfilippo, No. 22-11175 (11th Cir 2/8/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211175.pdf

PLEA-PRESERVATION-STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS (JORDAN, CONCURRING): A district court has limited jurisdiction to set aside or modify a federal defendant's conviction or sentence, and it does not possess inherent authority to take such action. "I am therefore not sure how it is that the parties believe that they will be able, months or years from now, to go back to the district court and request that Mr. Sanfilippo be allowed to withdraw his guilty plea in a closed case." USA v. Sanfilippo, No. 22-11175 (11th Cir 2/8/24)
https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202211175.pdf

DEFINITION-"UNO ICTI": "Uno icti" means "with one blow." Offenses that are continuous in character and offenses that can be committed by a singular act are called "uno icti." with one blow. Trappman v. State, SC2021-1479 (2/8/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1762873/opinion/Opinion_SC2021-1479.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: Double Jeopardy does not preclude separate convictions for shoving an officer and siccing a pit bull on him. The touchstone of Double Jeopardy analysis must be whether there were successive impulses. Defendant's conduct in shoving the officer and subsequently siccing the dog on the officer involved two distinct acts flowing from two separate impulses. Trappman v. State, SC2021-1479 (2/8/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1762873/opinion/Opinion_SC2021-1479.pdf

DOUBLE JEOPARDY: "We need not and do not hold that when an offense, such as battery, may be committed by a single blow, that each additional blow laid on results in an additional offense. The test is not whether there are successive blows but whether there are successive impulses. We do not suggest that multiple blows may not spring from a single impulse." Contrary precedents disapproved. Trappman v. State, SC2021-1479 (2/8/24)

https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1762873/opinion/Opinion_SC2021-1479.pdf

RULES-AMENDMENT: Petitions, pleadings, and related documents filed for human trafficking victim expunction under §943.0583 must be maintained by the clerk of court as confidential information. In Re: Amendments to Florida Rule of General Practice and Judicial Administration 2.420, SC2024-0059 (2/8/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1762874/opinion/Opinion_SC2024-0059.pdf

DEPORTATION-DERIVATIVE CITIZENSHIP: Under earlier statute, foreign born resident cannot obtain derivative citizenship through his unmarried father, only through his unmarried mother. The Child Citizenship Act of 2000 is not retroactive. Previous opinion vacated and replaced. Lodge v. US Attorney General, No. 22-10416 (11th Cir. 2/7/24)

https://media.ca11.uscourts.gov/opinions/pub/files/202210416.op2.pdf

REPRESENTED DEFENDANT: A pro se writ of prohibition to recuse the trial judge where Petitioner is represented the underlying case must be dismissed. Pro se extraordinary writ petitions filed while a defendant is simultaneously being represented by counsel in ongoing criminal proceedings in either the trial or appellate court are not permitted. Ware v. State, 3D23-1110 (2/7/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1784169/opinion/Opinion_2023-1912.pdf

HABEAS CORPUS-BOND-DOMESTIC VIOLENCE: Defendant who has been released from custody during the pendency of his habeas corpus not challenge the statute which prohibits monetary release domestic violence cases before first appearance. Hernandez v. State, 3D24-0063 (2/7/24)
https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1777125/opinion/Opinion_2024-0063.pdf

PUBLIC DEFENDER FEE: Court may not impose a $500 lien for the public defender's fee without hearing any evidence in support of the amount assessed. Smart v. State, 4D2022-2375 (2/7/24)
https://4dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1772764/opinion/Opinion_2022-2375.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Defendant is entitled to hearing on motion to withdraw plea where he alleges that all cases were to be resolved, including a misdemeanor, and he was to be released. A defendant's guilty plea is considered involuntary if it is induced by a defense counsel's promise which is not kept. "[I]f Mr. Gillette is correct, the manifest injustice he suffered is the very act of not receiving the bargain to which he agreed." Gillette v. State, 2D22-191 (2/7/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1751052/opinion/Opinion_22-0191.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: Counsel's obligation of representation to his client does not end upon the rendition of a judgment of conviction and sentence, but continues thereafter until either a notice of appeal is filed, the time for filing the notice has passed, or good cause is shown upon written motion. Gillette v. State, 2D22-191 (2/7/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1751052/opinion/Opinion_22-0191.pdf

PLEA WITHDRAWAL: A limited exception to the rule of striking pro se pleadings as nullities exists where a defendant files a pro se motion to withdraw a plea which contains specific allegations that give rise to an adversarial relationship, such as misadvice, affirmative misrepresentations, or coercion that led to the entry of the plea. Gillette v. State, 2D22-191 (2/7/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1751052/opinion/Opinion_22-0191.pdf

PHRASE OF THE DAY: "[T]imeliness is a stickier wicket.]" Gillette v. State, 2D22-191 (2/7/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1751052/opinion/Opinion_22-0191.pdf

QUOTATION: "Even a slight deprivation [of liberty] is anathema to our concept of ordered government." Letter from John Adams to Abigail Adams (July 7, 1775). Gillette v. State, 2D22-191 (2/7/24) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1751052/opinion/Opinion_22-0191.pdf

MARCHMAN ACT: Petition for Marchman Act commitment is legally insufficient where, rather than focusing on substance abuse, it alleges that the subject is worshipping the Mexican devil, doing witchcraft, going to a grave site, talking to the devil, and not making sense. There is no context or detail . . .such that a reader could conclude there is a good faith reason to believe the conduct—even presuming it is unorthodox--constitutes 'socially dysfunctional behavior' or exhibits 'mental, emotional, or physical problems.'" D.H. v. K.J.R., 2D22-3523 (2/7/23) https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1751061/opinion/Opinion_22-3523.pdf

MARCHMAN ACT: "Especially in a society in which the right to freely exercise one's religion is guaranteed. . .a petitioner's perception of a respondent's spiritual practices as peculiar cannot be sufficient to curtail the latter's physical liberty. . . What K.J.R. considers nonsensical could merely be notions misaligned with common sense." D.H. v. K.J.R., 2D22-3523 (2/7/23)

https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1751061/opinion/Opinion_22-3523.pdf

MARCHMAN ACT: "We are not the first. . .to recognize the inconsistency between a person's. . .right to counsel in an involuntary Marchman Act proceeding and the Act's provision for an ex parte procedure." D.H. v. K.J.R., 2D22-3523 (2/7/23)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1751061/opinion/Opinion_22-3523.pdf

POST CONVICTION RELIEF: Defendant is entitled to a hearing on claim that counsel misadvised him regarding the use of prior convictions as impeachment and that he opted not to testify at trial because of that misadvice. Jenkins v. State, 2D23-1237 (2/2/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1699852/opinion/Opinion_23-1237.pdf

LESSER INCLUDED: Omitting instruction on lesser included offense is harmless where the lesser offense is two or more steps removed from the offense of conviction. Gibson v. State, 5D22-0490 (2/2/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1700269/opinion/Opinion_22-0490.pdf

ENHANCEMENT: The degree of an offense may not be enhanced on the basis of a prior record where the information does not allege the priors. Gibson v. State, 5D22-0490 (2/2/24)
https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1700269/opinion/Opinion_22-0490.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: Postponing prosecution of the charges for which a defendant is initially arrested does not stop the speedy trial clock. Defendant is entitled to a Speedy Trial discharge where Defendant is arrested (but never booked) on an out-of-county warrant for attempted murder, then he is arrested, charged, and convicted for narcotics found on him at the time of that arrest and the attempted murder case stayed on the back burner for years. Robinson v. State, 5D23-0330 (2/2/24) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1700271/opinion/Opinion_23-0330.pdf

SPEEDY TRIAL: Certified Question: Whether the holding in State v. Williams--that the recapture period is not available to the State if it fails to file charges until after the 175 days has lapsed--should be modified to clarify that R. 3.191 does not establish the right to automatic discharge after expiration of the rule's prescribed time period. Robinson v. State, 5D23-0330 (2/2/24) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1700271/opinion/Opinion_23-0330.pdf

DEFINITION-"ARREST": "Whether an arrest has occurred for purposes of Florida's speedy trial rule is not as clear as it could be. The word 'arrest' means different things in different circumstances. . .The potential for confusion is exacerbated rather than mitigated by the supreme court's use of adjectives to refer to a 'technical arrest' or a 'formal arrest' as neither term is used in rule 3.191. . .To further complicate matters, the definition of "arrest" in Florida speedy trial jurisprudence differs from the federal speedy trial rule even though both are grounded in the same Sixth Amendment right." Robinson v. State, 5D23-0330 (2/2/24) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1700271/opinion/Opinion_23-0330.pdf

DEFINITION-"ARREST": It is uniformly held that an arrest, in the technical and restricted sense of the criminal law, is the apprehension or taking into custody of an alleged offender in order that he or she may be brought into the proper court to answer for a crime. It involves the following elements: (1) A purpose or intention to effect an arrest under a real or pretended authority; (2) An actual or constructive seizure or detention of the person to be arrested by a person having present power to control the person arrested; (3) A communication by arresting officer to the person whose arrest is sought, of an intention or purpose then and there to effect an arrest; and (4) An understanding by the person whose arrest is sought that it is the intention of the arresting officer then and there to arrest and detain him. Robinson v. State, 5D23-0330 (2/2/24) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1700271/opinion/Opinion_23-0330.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT: State's arguments, including that "[W]e see this stuff all the time. We see how these houses are run. We see how the defendants try to outschool the police. Now you see it," is improper. Prosecutor may not give a personal opinion as to the guilt of the accused, nor may he suggest that the government has special knowledge of evidence not presented to jury. Stafford v. State, 5D23-0485 (2/2/24) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1700272/opinion/Opinion_23-0485.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT: "[T]he most egregious of the State's improper comments was a blatant misuse of the otherwise properly admitted Williams rule evidence. . . Despite the trial court's directive, the prosecutors made repeated improper references to the 2019 case during closing argument, not to show knowledge but rather to convince the jury that Stafford was guilty of the same crime a year earlier," such as he 'got away with it in 2019. Don't let him get away with it in 2020.'" Comments were so egregious as to constitute fundamental error. Stafford v. State, 5D23-0485 (2/2/24) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1700272/opinion/Opinion_23-0485.pdf

PROSECUTORIAL MISCONDUCT-ARGUMENT: "We find the State's reliance on the strength of the evidence presented at trial unpersuasive because the most egregious statements in closing argument inexcusably distorted the State's most powerful evidence of guilt—the Williams rule evidence. While defense counsel's failure to object to any of thesestatements is incomprehensible, prosecutors are nevertheless required to 'refrain from engaging in inflammatory and abusive arguments, to maintain their objectivity, and to behave in a professional manner.'" Stafford v. State, 5D23-0485 (2/2/24) https://5dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1700272/opinion/Opinion_23-0485.pdf

CHANGE OF VENUE: Pretrial publicity is normal and expected in certain kinds of cases, and that fact standing alone will not require a change of venue. Davis v. Dixon, SC2021-1778 (2/1/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1689878/opinion/Opinion_SC2021-1778%20&%20SC2022-0882.pdf

POST-CONVICTION RELIEF-CHANGE OF VENUE: In order to show that counsel was ineffective for failing to move for a change of venue, Defendant must show a probability that a change of venue motion would have been granted. Davis v. Dixon, SC2021-1778 (2/1/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1689878/opinion/Opinion_SC2021-1778%20&%20SC2022-0882.pdf

POST-CONVICTION RELIEF: Counsel is not ineffective for failing to ask certain questions based on the ABA's jury selection guidelines. The ABA Guidelines are not a set of rules constitutionally mandated under the Sixth Amendment. Davis v. Dixon, SC2021-1778 (2/1/24)
https://supremecourt.flcourts.gov/content/download/1689878/opinion/Opinion_SC2021-1778%20&%20SC2022-0882.pdf

COSTS: Court erred In imposing a lump sum of $2,765 in court costs. Discretionary costs must be orally pronounced at sentencing because such costs may not be imposed without affording the defendant notice and an opportunity to be heard. Martina v. State, 1D20-3776 (2/1/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1682470/opinion/Opinion_2020-3776.pdf

APPEAL-PRESERVATION: A defendant who pleads nolo contendere with no express reservation of the right to appeal a legally dispositive issue, shall have no right to appeal. There is no fundamental-error exception to the preservation requirement. Brown v. State, 1D21-3233 (2/1/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1677305/opinion/Opinion_2021-3233.pdf

CONFLICT-ATTORNEY-APPEAL: Public Defender may not withdraw from appeal absent an allegation that the witness at the trial is a current client. A criminal appeal is a different proceeding, and an imputable conflict present at a criminal trial that justifies withdrawal there does not necessarily translate to an imputable conflict that supports withdrawal in the ensuing appeal. Operation of the conflict rule (R. 4-1.9), governing conlicts of interest relating to a former client, is from the perspective of the former client, the witness. Even if the public defender were currently representing the witness, the motion must explain how representation of the Appellant would be directly adverse to the present representation of the witness and/or created a substantial risk that the representation of the Appellant would be materially limited by the responsibilities to the witness. Farmer v. State, 1D22-3273 (2/1/24)

https://scholar.google.com/scholar_case?case=18019934788871765472&hl=en&as_sdt=40006

BOND-MODIFICATION: Court may not impose a new bond or increase the bond based only on the State filing more severe charges than those on which the Defendant had already bonded out. Where there is a substantial increase in the possible penalties a defendant faces based on new charges, the Court may consider altering the conditions of release, but this does not vitiate a defendant's constitutional right to have a neutral magistrate make an initial probable cause determination as to the charges against him. SalgadoMartinez v. Reyes, 3D24-155 (2/1/24) https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1691501/opinion/Opinion_2024-0155.pdf

BOND-MODIFICATION: The prosecutor's assessment of probable cause, standing alone, does not meet the requirements of the Fourth Amendment and is insufficient to justify restraint of liberty pending trial. The filing of an information cannot itself provide probable cause. SalgadoMartinez v. Reyes, 3D24-155 (2/1/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1691501/opinion/Opinion_2024-0155.pdf

JANUARY 2024

VOP-YOUTHFUL OFFENDER: A youthful offender who commits a substantive violation of probation–a new law offense–may be sentenced to more than six years. Youthful offender on probation for a sex offense found while wearing nothing but boxer shorts while in bed with a fourteen-year-old girl commits a substantive violation of probation. The affidavit need notallege a Condition 5 violation for the offense to be a subtantive violation. The State need not charge and convict a defendant of a new crime to establish a substantive violation of youthful offender probation, so long as the commission of aseparate criminal offense is alleged and shown during revocation proceedings. Nolan v. State, 1D2021-3690 (1/31/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1704335/opinion/Opinion_2021-3609.pdf

APPEAL: Failure to introduce an alibi witness constitutes a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel which cannot be raised on direct appeal unless the appellant demonstrates that fundamental error occurred. Carmack v. State, 1D2021-3718 (1/31/24)
https://1dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1700426/opinion/Opinion_2021-3718.pdf

CLERGY-PENITENT: The clergy-penitent privilege does not apply where Defendant confesses to a large group of specially convened church members The clergy-penitent privilege does not apply where Defendant's admission to accusations of sexual abuse of a minor was initiated for disciplinary reasons and not for spiritual counseling. "[W]e reject the argument that a communication which occurs in a church setting and involves seeking forgiveness automatically qualifies it as having been made 'for the purpose of seeking spiritual counsel and advice' and that it therefore becomes privileged." Asking for forgiveness before a pastor and other church leaders does not mean that the party making the communication was seeking spiritual counsel and advice. State v. Martin Gonzalez, 2D22-3707 (1/31/24)
https://2dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1679381/opinion/Opinion_22-3707.pdf

COMPETENCY: Court must enter a written order consistent with its oral pronouncement of competency. Losada v. State, 3D22-0588 (1/31/24)

https://3dca.flcourts.gov/content/download/1681077/opinion/Opinion_2022-0588.pdf

POST-CONVICTION RELIEF-NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: Witness's newly discovered evidence, deemed not credible by the Court, that she did not see the Defendant at the scene of the crime did not weaken the case to the extent to give rise to reasonable doubt as to his culpability. LaFlippe v. State, 3D22-1173 (1/31/24)
